No Reports From German Aviators Since Taking Off

Plane Is Due to Cruise Over New Foundland Early Today; Rainy Gale Blows From The West.

NARROW ESCAPE HAD IN STARTING JAUNT

Only Skillful Manipulation Of Pilot Averted Disaster at Start of Latest Attempt In Crossing Ocean.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., April 12.—Midnight, Atlantic time, 10:30 p. m., Eastern Standard time, brought no word of the German Transatlantic fliers from the lighthouses, wireless stations and telegraph stations along the coast tonight. A report, heavily discounted, was received from Shoal Harbor in Trinity Bay that two persons there heard a plane at 8:30 Eastern standard time, but saw nothing owing to thick weather.

With a rainy gale blowing toward its path from the west, the monoplane Bremen, which left Ireland early yesterday morning with a three man German crew was due to fly over the North American coast in the hours before dawn today.

After waiting two weeks in Ireland for favorable weather the Bremen took off at 12:38 o'clock eastern standard time yesterday morning and headed for New York undaunted by the fact that it has fallen every previous attempt to fly the North Atlantic from east to west in an airplane. Three other planes have made the attempt but none succeeded and the bodies of the seven members of their crews, See NO REPORTS, Page 3

Tech Scholarship Society Has Meet

Half of Presidents Key Phi Beta Kappa Key, Says Dr. O. H. Cooper, The Chief Speaker.

It was the first annual meeting for the local chapter.

Dr. Cooper's subject was "The Importance of Scholarships in Our Nation." He first outlined the five essentials necessary to scholarship and then presented statistics which expressed in a convincing manner the place scholarships have played in our national life.

King Of Italy Has Narrow Escape When Bomb Bursts On Rome Street; 15 Killed

Spraying Iron Meted Death to Soldiers, Women, Children

(By Associated Press) MILAN, April 12.—Terrorists placed a powerful bomb in the base of one of the electric light lampposts lining the Piazza Giulio Cesare, and it exploded with terrific force this morning killing at least 15 persons and injuring 40 or more about the time King Victor Emmanuel was due to pass the spot. Thousands had gathered to salute the king on his way to the fair grounds to inaugurate an exposition.

The explosion tore the lamppost to pieces and sent huge chunks of iron in all directions. King Narrowly Escapes. The king, who had arrived at Milan half an hour before, was somewhat delayed in proceeding to the fair grounds. The enthusiastic populace crowded the streets and the squares. It was due to the slowness of the royal procession that the king escaped being in the very midst of the disaster. The first automobile containing the sovereign, the members of his suite and accompanying municipal authorities were still moving slowly along the Corso Venezia, before anything was known of the calamity, and then ambulances and litters were seen at the scene.

Contradicting testimony of witnesses called by the ex-klanman, whose suit to place the order in reversion to this state was dismissed by the court, a score of klanmen denied that the members of the organization carried arms or instigated ill feeling among citizens when meetings were held.

Courts Of Inquiry Ordered By Navy To Investigate Finding Stowaway Girls

Four Were Discovered Aboard Destroyers of South Atlantic Fleet, Reports to Navy Headquarters Aver—Only One Similar Case On Record

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, April 12.—Courts of inquiry have been ordered as a result of the discovery yesterday of four girl stowaways on board vessels of the South Atlantic fleet.

Naval authorities here declared they were informed that only four girls were found, but a report from Key West announced that four girls were landed there and St. Petersburg, Fla., police said they had information that Alberta Pool, a 15-year-old high school girl of St. Petersburg, had been put off the destroyer Billingsley, at Mayport, Fla.

The names of the four girls landed at Key West were given in the reports from that place, as Billy Lacer, Rose McGuire, Floesia Rice and Ramilda Avary. Naval authorities said the girls landed in Key West were from New Orleans.

Ships Were Searched. A telegram to Rear Admiral Frank K. Clark, commanding the scouting fleet destroyer force, that a St. Petersburg girl was aboard the destroyer Billingsley, led to a search of that ship. Miss Pool was found, the Billingsley, was ordered to put into Mayport and the rest.

Fall's Russian Trip As Agent for Oil Magnate Expected to Be Taken Up Friday.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, April 12.—Accelerating its previous rapid pace, the government took testimony from ten witnesses and read the previous testimony from three others today, as it turned into the home stretch of its case against Harry F. Sinclair on the charge that he conspired with Albert B. Fall to lease Teapot Dome.

Owen J. Roberts, special counsel, then, announced that tomorrow might see the winding up of the prosecution, with a likelihood that the defense would begin by Monday. While the central theme today dealt with the alleged secrecy which shrouded the Teapot Dome negotiations, testimony tomorrow is expected to take up Fall's famous Russian trip as Sinclair's agent.

This followed information from Kistler's physician in New York that the oil operator was unable to appear and that he was willing to come here and testify to that effect if required. Roberts had said

Watch Your Step This Is Another of "Black Fridays"

The day of double doom when the superstitious regarding Friday and the number 13 as symbols of bad luck, is with us for the second time this year, the first Friday the thirteenth occurring last January. There will be a third "Black Friday" in July.

Friday the Thirteenth has become commonly known as "Black Friday," an erroneous nomenclature. "Black Friday" was first applied to the Friday of December 6, 1745, when Charles Edward had arrived at Derby, created a terrible panic in London.

Later the term was applied to the Friday of May 11, 1866, when the failure of the firm of Overend, Gurney and company of London was followed by widespread financial ruin.

In America the term is usually applied to the Friday of September 24, 1869, when the attempt of Jay Gould and James Fisk Jr. to create a corner in the gold market by buying all the gold in the New York banks, amounting to $15,000,000, culminated.

For several days the value of gold had risen steadily and men became insane, and everywhere the wildest excitement raged. Excitement ceased when Secretary of the Treasury Boutwell had thrown on the market $4,000,000, leaving Gould and Fisk winners by $11,000,000.

Father and Three Children Dead In Chireno Shooting

Witnesses Say Parent Was Despondent and Shot the Children, Then Turning Gun On Himself.

(By Associated Press) CHIRENO, April 12.—A father and his three children were dead here as a result of despondency on the part of the father who shot the children and then killed himself in the same room.

George A. (Abbie) Stubblefield, 63, who had been in ill health and who had not been able to work for some time, today killed his children as they lay in bed, ill of the measles. Then he went to a chair nearby, sat down, placed the butt of a shotgun on a heater and pulled the trigger, discharging the gun into his abdomen.

The children, two girls and a boy, were George Jr., five, Josephine, seven and Webster, nine. Stubblefield had told friends and neighbors for some time that he would be better off dead. He reiterated that remark yesterday to Tom Clegg, a neighbor, adding that when he "went" his children would "go with" him.

Only four shots were fired from the shotgun, and these in rapid succession, a negro washwoman, who was in the yard at the time, said. Mrs. Stubblefield was in a small pasture near the house.

Funeral services for the four probably will be held tomorrow. Sheriff Tom Lambert said he thought an inquest would be unnecessary as "Suicide is clearly evident."

Measure Tending To Help Farmer Is Passed By Vote of 53 to 23, Bigger Majority Than Was Cast Last Year

Ballots Sufficient To Over-ride Veto of Coolidge If None of Members Altered (Their Stand.)

COOLIDGE KNOWN TO BE YET UNSATISFIED

Measure Still Contains Controversial Equalization Fee Provision And Other Objected Points.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, April 12.—The McNary-Haugen farm relief bill carrying features which caused President Coolidge to veto it a year ago, was passed tonight by the senate and sent to the house, which also is expected to approve it at an early date.

The vote was 53 to 23, as compared to the 47 to 39 vote at the last session. While this is more than the two-thirds majority which would be required to override a veto it was regarded as doubtful that with the full membership present a two-thirds majority could be obtained.

Coolidge Not Satisfied. President Coolidge has left no doubt in the minds of congressional leaders that the bill still carries features objectionable to him, particularly the equalization fee by which it is proposed to raise funds to take care of the surplus crops so as to maintain prices of farm products at a higher level.

A direct showdown of senate sentiment on the equalization fee was provided by an amendment by Senator Sackett, republican, Kentucky, proposing elimination of that provision of the bill. The proposal was rejected, 48 to 31, after two hours of vigorous debate during which Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, in charge of the bill made an elo-

House Will Fight For Tax Cut Limit

Changes By Senate In Bill To Be Fought In House Where Present Reduction Measure Stated.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP)—With the tax reduction bill still at committee hearings stage in the senate, a move was made in the House today to strengthen its stand against any revision of its $200,000,000 measure which the senate might make in favor of the $201,000,000 plan of Secretary Mellon.

Representative Garner of Texas, leader of the Democratic forces in tax matters, obtained an agreement from Chairman Hawley of ways and means committee on the floor of the house that he would have the house vote on any major change in the bill which the senate might make. This vote would be taken prior to acceptance by conferees of the senate and house of any major change in the house bill.

A statement by Representative Treadway of Massachusetts, one of the administration stalwarts who would be one of the house conferees on the tax bill, that he would endorse a $200,000,000 reduction plan brought forth Garner's request.

Resolutions Passed by P. T. A.

Various Legislation Boosted, Many Topics Considered in Committee Report

Be it resolved by the P. T. A. of the eighth district in convention assembled:

That the convention go on record as favoring a national legislative program, including world peace, outlawing of war, reduction of armament by international agreement, the establishment of a world court, and some lasting organization among the nations of the world.

2. We favor the proper observance of and enforcement of laws, and the insertion by the major political parties of the state and nation of a plank in their platform, demanding a strict enforcement of such laws, and that we are opposed to the modification or repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, or Volstead Act; that we favor the nomination by the major political parties of candidates, whose records show that they are in harmony with such platforms, and urge all good citizens everywhere to support such candidates, regardless of their former political affiliations.

3. We favor a constitutional amendment that shall give to congress the right to pass a uniform marriage and divorce law for the nation.

4. We favor active education in regard to the ratification of the National Child Labor Union, including when necessary, the betterment of existing child labor laws.

5. We favor the enactment of laws securing protection against opium, and similar drugs, and maintaining our present narcotic laws, and cooperating in all reasonable international movements against the traffic in drugs.

6. We recommend that our present "Bureau of Education" at Washington be replaced by a "Department of Education," which shall have a secretary, who shall be a member of the president's cabinet. Resolved that:

(1). Careful and earnest study be and supports the Children's code now being formulated by the legislative committee.

It is resolved:

That the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher association believes there is urgent need of organized instruction in modern health and physical education in the public schools of the state and therefore resolves to support the physical education bill and to include it in its legislative program. Further,

Must Assume Appropriation.

We believe that the benefits to the mothers and babies of Texas under the provisions of the maternity and infancy act, popularly known as the Shepard-Towner act, have been sufficiently important as to call for the continuance of the work in no lessened degree under the guidance of the bureau of child hygiene of the state department of health.

In order to carry on the work as it has been during past five years there must be no cut in the appropriations for the bureau of child hygiene. Since federal aid to the state may no longer be available after June 30, 1928, to accomplish 50 basis is derived from the federal government, a condition which has caused the only serious opposition to the measure, and an opposition based upon the assumption of interference by the federal government in the affairs of the individual citizen and an infringement upon the Jeffersonian principle of state rights.

Therefore, be it resolved, by the Texas congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher association that we exert every effort to secure a minimum of $77,901.94 for the administration of the maternity and infancy work in Texas, by securing the pledge of each candidate for the legislature and for governor to vote for an appropriation not less than the amount stated above.

Whereas, the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher association has endorsed and supported the program of the extension service in farm and home demonstration work, and

Whereas, there is much need of increased appropriations from the federal government to carry out the purposes of the Smith-Lever law.

Be it resolved that this convention endorse the Capper-Ketcham bill as passed by the United States house of representatives, March 1, 1927, and ask our senators and congressmen to again support this bill.

Whereas, we as a district have always endeavored to carry out the policies of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations.

Be it resolved that this convention endorse the policies of the present administration and pledge its loyalty to our state president.

Whereas, the entertainment of the delegates and visitors to the convention assembled in Lubbock, April 10-11-12, 1928, has been exceedingly pleasant and happy.

Therefore, be it resolved that we express to the people of Lubbock, to the local chamber of commerce, the local Parent-Teacher association, to the various citizens for their homes and cars, to the Super-Service station for use of its typewriter, to Mrs. P. C. Broyles for opening their home to the convention, to the florist for its flowers, and to any and all others that have contributed in any way to our entertainment, our sincere thanks and appreciation, and to the pages we wish especially to express our sincere thanks.

Resolved that we express our sincere appreciation to the several speakers and musicians that have brought us information and inspiration; to Dr. and Mrs. Horn for opening their home to the convention; and to the officials of Texas Technological college for their courtesies in showing us through the various plants of that institution.

Mrs. J. M. Bull, Mrs. M. C. Overton, Mrs. T. H. Bernard, Mrs. H. T. Cropper, Mrs. W. E. Floyd, committee.

Resolved that:

The state organization endorses

MAMA WON'T BUY.

And I wonder just how many of the most modern mothers imaginable will buy such dolls for their female children, no matter how loudly said I. c. how for them. I have noted that the very mothers who smoke cigars fast and furiously when the children are around never put much to sag in the presence of their offspring.

THOSE TORNYTES!

The loves and lives of the fascinating Forsyte family are being revived, thanks to John Galsworthy, who in his "Swan Song" now appearing in a monthly woman's magazine and to be published in book form early in the summer, takes up again the loves of Fleur and Michael, Jon and Anne, with side-lights on Soames and Irene and Annetta and all the family are destined to know so well in the Forsyte Saga, "White Monkey" and "Silver Spoon."

"TWO INTERLUDES."

If, by the way, you missed the two magazine short stories which told how Jen met and fell in love with Anne Wilmet, which appeared between "White Monkey" and "Silver Spoon," and the story of the chance meeting of Soames with Irene and Jon and his wife and brother-in-law, Francis Wilmet, and his frantic attempt to keep Fleur from seeing them, which appeared after "Silver Spoon" and before the new serial, you can buy for 50 cents a little half-hour book called "Two Forsyte Interludes," and be all set for the new developments which rather promise to be a rekindling of the old love twist Fleur and Jon.

CAUTY FEMALES.

Men have suffered at what they call the cattiness and pettiness of woman for a long time. They especially love jokes on cheb and various public women who get mad and won't speak. But the male kingdom has several nice little examples of its own. There are too many male "not-speakers" in political Washington to start listing them.

The latest outstanding example was the little "run-in" between former Mayor E. Dever of Chicago and present mayor W. K. Harrison William Hale Thompson. It happened at a funeral too. "Big Bill" wanted to shake hands—at least he pretended he did—but the other Bill wouldn't. He added a speech to his refusal, explaining just why he wouldn't shake hands, even at a funeral, with such a low-down.

Remember this story, ladies, the next time you are subjected to a male oration on female pettiness and grudge-holding!

No Reports From German Aviators Since Taking Off

Plane Is Due to Cruise Over New Foundland Early Today; Rainy Gale Blows From The West.

Five men and two women, have never been found.
 The Bremen flew across Ireland at 90 miles an hour, its most effective cruising speed, and was seen to head westward toward its distant goal. The day passed without word of any ship having sighted the plane. This caused no anxiety as it was remembered that the planes which made successful flights in the other direction last summer were seen but rarely after they left the land behind them.

The weather was reported excellent over the first part of the oceanic journey, but St. Johns, N. F., reported last night that although the weather there had been perfect all day, an easterly gale with rain was forecast by the weather bureau. There was a feeling in some quarters that the Bremen crew, although starting for New York very likely might land in New Foundland, content with having achieved the western passage. St. Johns reported, however, that even should the pilots wish to alight they would have a most difficult time doing so at night. No landing lights are installed on the field at Harbor Grace, and the field itself is broken by frow.

Squalls Due to End Sometime Early Today

(By Associated Press)

Fair weather was forecast for early today at the Western end of the long route the German monoplane Bremen, bound for "Mitchell Field or heaven," traveled if all went well with the big ship during the night.

Rain squalls and low-hanging clouds off New Foundland gave way late last night to clear skies. A fog off Halifax had lifted and the plane, after bucking adverse winds on the last lap of her flight from Ireland, should pass Newfoundland in fairly favorable weather.

Officials at Mitchell Field, where the Bremen took off at 3:30 a. m. Irish time, on Thursday figures that the ship should sight Newfoundland by 12:30 a. m., eastern standard time today barring mishap.

Catastrophe Courted As Plane Started Out

BALDONNEL, Irish Free State, April 12. (AP)—After courting catastrophe by a delayed takeoff, the German-Irish venture to conquer the Atlantic from east to west had an auspicious start from Baldonnel field at 5:38 o'clock this morning (12:38 a. m. Eastern Standard Time).

When last seen, the Bremen was out over the Atlantic, having passed over Coastal on the Galway coast at 7:38. In her cockpit, where there are dual controls, sat Captain Herman Koehl, the German pilot, and the co-pilot, Colonel James Fitzmaurice, head of the Irish Free State air service, and behind them in the roomy fuselage cabin, was Baron Gunther von Hoenesfeld, promoter of the flight. Colonel Fitzmaurice, who joined the expedition at the Germans' invitation, carried a letter from President Cosgrave to President Coolidge.

2656 Miles That Way

The airplane is following the North Atlantic, or great circle, route. "It is only 2656 miles to St. Johns that way," Fitzmaurice gaily told the Associated Press correspondent before he started.

Just how near the Bremen was to disaster during the first mad rush to lift its 5 tons of deadweight into the air, perhaps only Captain Koehl can tell. Gasps of horror, changing quickly into cries of joyful relief, burst from the few score of spectators far out on the runway when the Bremen, with her 500 gallons of explosive fuel, seemingly refused to take the air at the pilots' first attempt, and careened onward what would have been a certain crash if the plane had not slowly lifted, steadied and skimmed around the fresh green foothills of the Dublin mountains, and disappeared into the west.

Med Perilous Mile Past

The most perilous mile of all those 3,000 and odd between here and New York was safely past, and the name of Koehl, cool and impassive German, was on the lips of all who realized the great hazards and danger in the Bremen's takeoff.

The slightest hitch in the operation of the two wheeled truck under the Bremen's tail might send the plane over on her nose, and a spark would transform her into a flaming metal furnace, in which the fliers were encased.

The Bremen carries no life-saving apparatus, and has neither life buoys nor wireless aboard. The plane has no pontoons, and should it descend to the sea, experts say that as the metal construction provides practically no buoyancy, its whole fate rests on the roaring motor.

Colonel Fitzmaurice, however, said to the Associated Press correspondent: "We are not afraid to come back again. I don't go in for this do or die stuff. We will fight storms, but if we can't get through we will come home."

President Cosgrave, General Owen O'Duffy, chief of the civic guard and General Dan Hogan, chief of staff of the army, were among the group of Sacral officials who from the point far out on the runway experienced the tense seconds of the Bremen's takeoff.

Little ceremony marked the start of the plane, but there was one poignant moment as Colonel Fitzmaurice, just before climbing into the plane, stepped over to a group of women and kissed his young wife good bye. They embraced and she turned from him in tears.

 "I feel as did Woodrow Wilson about scholarship," declared Dr. Paul W. Horn in another address. "Scholarship is the main show of the college circus and other features are merely side-shows."
 In a short business session, H. B. Carrol, president of the Tech chapter, expressed appreciation to Dr. Horn for the interest he has shown in scholarship and for the great amount of assistance he has given the local chapter.
 About seventy-five were in attendance. A vocal solo was given by Edgar Shelton, with Miss Margaret Halsell playing a violin solo. Accompaniment for both was furnished by Miss Mary Hope Westbrook.
 Miss Ruth Horn was elected to membership.

quent plea for enactment of the bill in the form the representatives of farmers' organizations had requested.

Substitute Rejected
 Before coming to the final vote on the bill itself, the senate rejected, 64 to 5, a substitute by Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, which would have provided for a direct government subsidy up to $600,000,000 to meet losses incurred by farmers in marketing their crops.

The five supporting this measure were Blaine, Borah and Brookhart, republicans, and Bayard and Bleasie democrats. This vote came while a number of senators were absent from the chamber and as they came stragling in several voted for the Brookhart proposal only to change their votes later after they discovered their error. This caused laughter in the chamber and gallery and led Senator Borah to arise and announce that he did not change his vote.

Candidate's Attitude
 Since congressional action on the McNary-Haugen bill admittedly is playing its part in the pre-convention presidential campaigns, the chief point of interest for political observers was how the presidential candidates lined up on the issue. The republican candidates split three and two. Curtis, of Kansas; Watson, of Indiana, and Norris, of Nebraska, voting for the bill, and Borah, of Idaho, and Coffey, of West Virginia, voting against it. That was the way they lined up a year ago.

Crowd of 13,880 Jams The Steer Stadium to Watch Team Inaugurate At-Home With Victory.

(By Associated Press)
 DALLAS, Texas, April 12.—A big fifth inning in which the Steers scored four runs gave Dallas a 4 to 1 decision over Fort Worth in the opening game of the season here Thursday. A crowd semi-officially announced at 13,880 jammed the stands.

HOUSTON, April 12. (AP)—The clouting Cubs Thursday socked out an 8 to 5 victory over Houston, but the result of the ball game is insignificant, for in the seventh Homer Peel, brilliant Buff left fielder, and Felix Vigare, stellar third sacker of the Waco Cubs, suffered injuries that may keep them out of the game for the season.

WICHITA FALLS, Texas, April 12. (AP)—The Spudders batter Homer Blankenship hard today and accounted Joe Kiefer excellent support to take the second of the series from the Sports, 5 to 1. Kieffer kept Shreveport's eight hits well scattered, and in only on inning did the Sports get more than one blow. Timely clouting and loose fielding of the Sports contributed to the champions' run-getting. Ziggy Sears was the batting leader of the day with three hits, including a double.

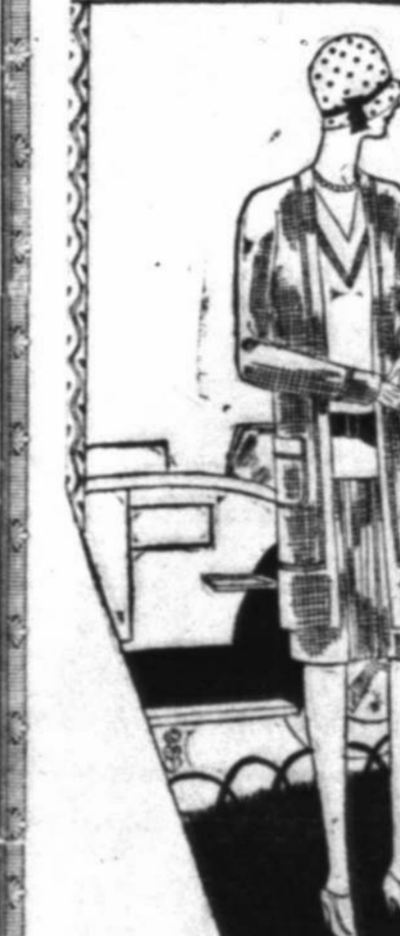

SAN ANTONIO, April 12. (AP)—After the Exporters started scoring in the opening round on a couple of two baggers they were unable to hit Jack Robertson with runners on the bases in any of the succeeding innings while the Bears worked on three pitchers to win the second game of the series Thursday, 10 to 1. Bases on balls, coupled with a costly error and opportune hitting netted the Bears' runs. Ray Flack-ampner led the hitting with a couple of triplets after he had beaten out a bunt and taken a walk. He came through with a three bagger in the eighth with two runners on the bases.

Naval officers of long experience could today recall but one other stowaway case in the navy. A girl completed the journey on board the battleship Arizona, from New York to Panama in 1923. Twelve epileptic men received prison sentences as a result.

Secretary Wilbur said today that the court of inquiry have been ordered held at the ports where the vessels got the girls ashore.

POLITICIANS ARE UNEASY

It would seem that there are many politicians who are on the uneasy seat these days. So many scandal stories are being hatched up that it is almost unbelievable just what is going to be the results.

For the past three weeks principal occupation of the senate has been an effort to fix the guilt upon some other party, the political leaders evidently taking the view that a barrage of the oil scandal muck could be used as a smoke screen to prevent the public from placing the blame where the blame belongs.

Senator Nye started the senatorial fireworks when he brought the name of the late President Warren G. Harding into the limelight, intimating that the sale of Harding's Marion Star might account for some of the missing bonds.

Nye was determined to find a victim, and ascertaining that Sinclair had been appointed on the New York racing commission eight years ago, immediately turned his barrage of innuendo upon Gov. Alfred Smith, who in turn treated the senator to a verbal castigation that should have been sufficient to quiet him.

While Nye was endeavoring to stage a solo performance, Senator Robinson of Indiana rushed to the battle front with the news that five one-time members of the Wilson cabinet had later entered the employ of Sinclair and Doheny.

In the meantime the public is daily becoming more disgusted. The senate investigation has proved the corruption that existed, and all the bickering and quarreling in the senate only serves to accentuate the national shame.

When the chairman of the Republican state committee of Texas says "Hoover will carry Texas if the democrats nominate Al Smith," it is rather sure indication that the republicans, at least, do not want Al Smith nominated.

GREAT RECORDS FOR THE UNITED STATES NAVY

Praise is due the officers and crew of the battleship New Mexico for a remarkable double triumph. Their craft has been awarded the navy's highest annual honor, the battle efficiency pennant, and they also set a world record in long range target practice.

The New Mexico displaces 32,000 tons and carries 12 14-inch guns in main battery, and the same number of five-inch pieces. She throws 17,556 pounds of metal in a single broadside and makes 21 knots an hour.

Ever since Capt. John Paul Jones' day, warships flying the Stars and Stripes have come to grips with a foe at short range when opportunity offered. No. 2 turret crew on the West Virginia, which carries eight 16-inch guns in main battery, has just set a world record for close-range work.

The West Virginia displaces 32,600 tons, can make 21 knots an hour, and throw a broadside weighing 17,556 pounds. Her 16-inch guns' maximum range is 34,500 yards when elevated to 20 degrees.

Many officers contend that elevating the turret guns on the 13 older battleships in the United States navy would not violate the Washington treaty (1922), which forbids alterations.

GAINS AND LOSSES FROM THE MISBEHAVING WEATHER

"God tempers the wind to the shorn lamb." Laurence Sterne wrote two centuries ago, paraphrasing a though long proverbial. It is a pretty sentiment, from which human beings draw consolation in times of adversity; but to interpret it literally is to err grievously.

To Angora goat-breeders on the Edwards Plateau that truth has just been brought home by the loss of several thousand valuable pure-bred animals—frozen to death in the belated snow storm which immediately followed in the wake of the shearing season.

Could the ranchmen have foreseen even the possibility of such a phenomenon, of course they would have deferred shearing, thereby averting heavy loss.

Dr. C. G. Abbot of the Smithsonian institution, and his assistants, have been working on this problem for years. They are seeking—through minute observations over long periods—to reduce the sun's radiation to a science, and thus supply the meteorologist with data upon which to predetermine whether winter will be mild or severe, spring early or late, summer moderate or extremely hot.

The incidental rainfall was highly welcome to farmers all over South Texas, where the total winter precipitation was rather below the average.

The average "flapper" is not worse than her grandmother was at her age. Brisbane says, "don't sell short," but suppose a fellow is "short," and has to sell?

The talk, "draft Coolidge," has about subsided, and the republican leaders are looking for the next best.

Nobody ever believed or ever will believe that Al Smith took a cent contribution from Sinclair or any of his gang.

OUT OUR WAY—

WHY MOTHERS GET GRAY.

SO THINK WE

We think the straw hats for men are having a hard time to gather enough courage to get out of the show window.

We think the Republicans are possibly more interested in paying back the money they borrowed during the last campaign so they can borrow some more, rather than because they want to keep it a secret about the loan.

We think it will probably take congress about as long to prepare against floods as it did Noah, and then we doubt if they will make things quite so secure against damage.

We think the political pot will begin to boil soon. The fires of battle are being kindled and there is going to be plenty of fuel, as much as it seems to be oil, there will be a real hot fire under the old pot which should certainly assure a real boiling over by the time the primary election rolls around.

We think that the state spent a lot more money on trying to prosecute crime, than they do on education on how many flowers and bouquets will be handed them after their eyes are forever closed and after their pen has been dipped into the ink for the last time.

We think that nearly every town has a better newspaper than the support given it will justify, and that is the reason that so many newspapers are never well-to-do financially and have to vision on how many flowers and bouquets will be handed them after their eyes are forever closed and after their pen has been dipped into the ink for the last time.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHER

It is generally known that persons living in the regions of the Great Lakes are likely to suffer more with simple goiter than those in the other parts of the United States, particularly near the coast.

Soft Götter Leads. One hundred and sixty-two of the 168 women had the soft, rather large, goiter that resembled the Norwegian and Viennese type.

OPINIONS

IT'S THEIR STORY. The Senate, and particularly the democratic members of the body, insisted upon a report from the Department of Labor regarding unemployment in the United States.

Care in Treatment. One of the points emphasized particularly by Dr. De Takats and Gray, who studied these girls, is that many of them were taking iodine without control and stimulating goiter to dangerous conditions.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that the leaders of the P. T. A. have discovered the trouble with the rising generation. The thing now is to discover some way by which it can be corrected.

It is reported that Lubbock is going to have a much better street lighting system in the near future. It has not been installed before it was needed, but we are glad that it is to be even now.

It is reported that there are those who do not yet seem to think that the electric signal system was intended for them. We see people every day walk across the street in direct violation to the signal lights.

It is reported that Abernathy will vote bonds soon for putting in a water system that will give them more protection in case of a fire.

It is reported that some folks had not even yet learned to appreciate their mother-in-law.

It is reported that some folks have to be used for breach of promise of personal damages before they really know how much they are worth.

It is reported that some women can take the concert out of a man but in doing so, they usually become affected with it themselves.

It is reported that one man said that half the world did not know how the other half lives, but he said he had his suspicions about it.

It is reported that many of the Lubbock county roads are rather bumpy and rough, but they are about as good as any roads can be made of the material at hand.

LAUGHS

Sweet Lady. Helen got awful mad when I spilled the perfume on her dress.

Surgeon (to attendant): "Go and get the name of the accident victim so that we can inform his mother." Attendant (three minutes later): "Here's his mother, knows his name."

The Grandmothers. "And were you good children?" we asked them, for they had spent the holiday with their grandmother. "We were little angels," said Doris modestly. "Do you know what Grandmother does? Every time a child calls her a dumbbell the child has to go to bed."

Stop thief! shouted a woman. The man dropped all the articles he had stolen and fled along the aisles. At once the store detective and everyone else gave chase. At the same time all the exits were guarded by plain clothes men and police.

Believe it or not, he answered, "I'm waiting for a patrol wagon."

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING

The egg producers of Amherst will have a meeting Thursday, April 12th, at 2 p. m. at the High school building. There will also be a meeting of the Littlefield producers April 12th at 7:30 p. m.

The Plains Poultry Association has passed its minimum contracted hens. There are signed at the present time around 80,000 hens in six counties. It is the intention of those concerned to reach 100,000 which will reduce the marketing cost per member.

The contract is for 1928, but any one who is not satisfied can withdraw between October 1st and 15th of each year. The association will publish a poultry bulletin each week for the members.

There will be a marketing charge of three cents per dozen, two cents of which will be for trucking and grading, and one cent will go into a sinking fund to provide permanent equipment.

This association is not intended for those who are satisfied with their methods of poultry production and marketing conditions.

Let us cooperate with our neighboring communities by signing up our poultry, and getting sufficient volume that the association can send truckers through our territory to get our eggs.

Attend one of the meetings mentioned above and learn what is to be done with an industry that involves every farm home—Susan News.

Chauncey N. Depew, the world's greatest orator for more than two decades is dead—dead at 94 years of age.

He was able to make speeches in the campaign when Lincoln was elected, and although unknown to fame at that time, his oratory became then to be felt in political circles.

He was a great man in that he ruled himself—he could eat at banquets when others gorged, and not over-eat, he could drink what any "toddy" but later he only "took a little wine for the stomach's sake," but became a total abstainer 10 years ago.

Chauncey Depew was a business success as well as a famous orator, and it was Cornelius Vanderbilt who convinced him to take up railroading and forego politics when he was just a young man, and when he died Depew was head of the greatest railroad company in the world.

What a long and splendid life he lived—born just after independence of the country was fully established, he was an associate of Dana, and Greeley and U. S. Grant and Samuel J. Tilden, and all of those who made this country great.

Those old heroes are passing into the shadows and even the youngest soldier of the civil war is now well past the four score mark, starting there are great men in the world today—great men in this country, but we do not believe any of those now on the stage of action will measure up in history with those who made the history of this country from 1850 to 1900.

Bad Roads and Delayed Mails

BAD ROADS AND DELAYED MAILS

Good roads afford the foundation for rural delivery service throughout the country. In many communities the routes have been lengthened to where it is impossible or impracticable to make deliveries other than by motor vehicle, and whereas the rural mail carrier used to make his daily rounds on horseback with a small bundle of letters and a few papers in a pack sack, the mail has become so heavy now that it takes trucks to carry the heavy loads.

On some stretches of road here and there throughout the country conditions are so bad that the delivery of the mails is being delayed. The postoffice department has undertaken to remedy these conditions in fact, an ultimatum has been sent out by Fourth Assistant Postmaster General H. H. Billany for the repair of these roads—with failure to do so to be met with discontinuance of service on the sections affected.

This policy on the part of the government is not unreasonable and it is not likely that the threat will have to be put into effect in many places. On one of the routes out of Temple there was a particularly bad stretch of road, but the farmers along the route wanted it fixed up just as much as the mail carrier. Work on repairing the road has been under way for some time, the fence has been set back on all farms with the exception of two, it will be set back there soon and then the road will be graded. Everybody seems willing to co-operate in the improvement.

Of interest to patrons of rural routes, specially those that live on bad stretches of road, will be the official statement of General Billany. It follows: "It has come to the attention of the department that there are many rural routes throughout the country where there is a short stretch of bad road which makes it impossible for the rural carrier to expedite the delivery of mail on the greater part of the year. If this short stretch of road were improved or eliminated it would be possible for the rural carrier to use a motor conveyance for a much greater period and thereby render greater service to the rural public in expediting the delivery of mail over the entire route. Postmasters are urged to take up with local road officials and others responsible for the matter of improving bad stretches of road, particularly short stretches, the improvement of which would have the effect of permitting carriers to use motor conveyance for a greater part of the year.

"Carriers will bring such bad stretches to the attention of postmasters.

"The department will also be glad to help in obtaining the improvement of roads where postmasters and rural carriers after proper endeavor are unsuccessful.

"The department will further consider the amendment of a route to avoid a short stretch of bad road where only a few families are impacted and where the elimination of the short stretch of bad road would make it possible for the carrier to use a motor conveyance for a longer period during the year and thus permitting an earlier delivery of the mail to his patrons.

Recommendations for such changes will be submitted to the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Rural Mails.

1743—Thomas Jefferson born. 1815—Construction of the Erie road from Albany, N. Y., to Lake Erie ordered.

1893—Rich gold deposits discovered in the Grand Canyon of Arizona.

Today's Poems

PRAYER FOR THE DAY.

Grant us, O Lord, the strength today For every task which we shall face. Teach us the kinder word we say. Which lifts us from the common-Place. And let us in some little way With thoughtfulness our journey grace.

The constant press of earthly needs. Teach us to use the gift of life. For something more than selfish deeds. Strengthen our faith against despair. Renew us will to play the friend. Increase our love of what is fair. Let graciousness our speech attend. Help us to play the man and bear Our burden still this day shall end. —Edgar A. Guest.

Hurler Trying Out With Hubbers Made Good Mark in Texas Valley League Last Season.

Bennie Brownlow was greeted with the appearance of Red Hill, pitcher, who reported to the Hubber quarters yesterday morning. Hill comes from the Texas Valley league, where he was with the Laredo club last season, leading the Valley circuit in pitching with a record of 12 wins and four losses and a 1.00 percentage of .750.

A fast hitting and fielding drill was given the Hubbers yesterday afternoon and as the day nears for the opening battle the skipper of the local recruits will continue to crack the whip a little harder and hopes to have the candidates in good shape for the opening fire.

The directors of the local entry of the West Texas loop are making plans for a campaign in Lubbock to take the league laurels in attendance. To win the attendance distinction we must compete with San Angelo, Abilene, Midland, Coleman and Hamlin, for they are all vying toward the same goal." S. D. Hunter, president of the local club, said yesterday.

Work is being rushed on the repairing and remodeling of the "Red Hill" park stands and playing field and by the time the Midland Colts arrive here April 27, which will be opening day in Lubbock, everything will be in great shape.

GIRL ALONE

BY ANNE AUSTIN

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Sally Ford is "famed out" to Clem Carson the summer she is 16 and leaves the state orphanage, the only home she has known since she was four. At the farm she meets David Nash, athlete and student who is working during the summer. When Carson makes insulting remarks about David's friendship with Sally, David strikes the farmer a crushing blow.

David and Sally run away and join a carnival, David as cook's helper and Sally in a sideshow labelled as "Princess Lalla," crystal gazer.

Nita, the Hula dancer, becomes infatuated with David and threatens Sally with exposure to the police if she doesn't give David up.

Sally tells Mrs. Bybee, wife of the carnival owner that her mother once lived in Stanton, the town where the carnival is now showing, and the showman's wife agrees to investigate. She learns that the woman who placed Sally in the Home was not her mother, but a maid hired to take the baby from the real mother in New York and disappear.

Sally is paralyzed to learn the carnival is next going to the capital city, where she spent so many years in the orphan home.

Knowing that the police are after them and believing they will be recognized, she hurries to tell David they must run away again. He comforts her and tells her he will meet her that night after the train is loaded and they can talk their plight over then. She waits excitedly that night for his promised whistle beneath her car window.

When it comes, she hurries happily toward the door, but she notices that Nita's berth is vacant.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIII

The night was eerie with voices from unseen bodies, or bodies half-revealed in the glare of gasoline torches, as the business of loading the carnival proceeded. Soft, rich voices from black men's throats blended with the velvet softness of the late-June night.

"Oh, if Ah had wings like an angel, Over these prison walls Ah would fly! Ah would fly to the arms of my poah dahlin'."

An' theah Ah'd be willin' to die!"

A lonesome, heart-breaking plaint, Sally shivered. Except for David and Pop Bybee and Dan, the Barker, she and David might have been behind prison bars tonight, learning the shame and misery that had created that song.

A white roustabout said something evil to her out of the corner of his mouth as she brushed past him on her way to join David. But she scarcely noticed, for there was David, his shoulders looming, immensely broad in the dark coat he had donned in her honor. Her hands were out to him before he had reached her, and when he took them both and laid them softly against his breast so that her leaping blood caught the rhythm of his strongly beating heart, she could scarcely restrain herself from raising her small body on tiptoe and lifting her face for his kiss.

They were shy at first, as they drifted away from the show train across the vacant lot where the carnival had so recently yanked trickery and truth, freaks and fakes, color and light and noise and music. They walked softly and slowly, Sally having the absurd feeling that if the grass stubble were tender, tiny flowers, her joy-light feet would not have crushed them. Her fingers were intertwined with David's and the electric thrill of that contact seemed to be the motor force which propelled her body. Without a word as to direction, they drifted, completely in accord, toward a clump of trees, which would some day when Stanton had become beauty-conscious, form the nucleus of a park.

Sally felt that she was in a spell woven of the beauty and breathlessness of the night and of her inarticulate poah so, still without speaking, David took off his coat and spread it upon the ground that sloped gently from the sturdy trunk of an oak tree. As he was stooping to spread the coat her hand hovered over his head, aching to touch the dead, waving crispness of his hair, yet not daring. But when he straightened more suddenly than she had expected, his head fitted into the cup of her hovering hand before she could snatch it away.

He whirled upon her, sweeping her slight body to his breast with such fierceness and suddenness that her head swam.

"Sally! Sally!" Just that hoarse cry, muted, exultant.

Her hands crept slowly up his breast, so loving every inch of the dear body whose warmth came through the cloth of his shirt that they abandoned it reluctantly. When her hands were on his shoulders, clinging there, she threw her head back upon the curve of his right arm, and smiled up into his face. Her lips parted slowly to let out a little gasping sigh of joy.

In the silvery sheen with which the moon joyously and approvingly bathed them their eyes, wide, dark, luminous, clung for an aeon of time, reckoned in the history of love. Then David, knowing that his unspoken question had been gloriously answered, bent his head until his lips touched hers.

He must have felt the slight stiffening of her body, the ardent in her small hands as they clung more fiercely to his shoulders. For he flung up his head, then turned it sharply away for a moment, as if ashamed for her to see the passion in his eyes. She took a drunken, uncertain step away from him, and his arms fell laxly from her body.

"What is it, David?" she asked in a small, quavering voice, scarcely more than a whisper.

"I shouldn't have done that!" David reproached himself with boyish bitterness.

"But David," Sally pleaded, in that small quaver, "don't you—don't you love me—at all? I thought—I—" Her hands fluttered toward him, then dropped hopelessly as he still stood sharply turned away from her.

"The devil of it," David groaned from the shelter of his arm. "I love you so much I can't think of anything else, not even of our danger."

She crept closer to him, stroked timidly the clenched fist which hung at his side. "Then—why, David? I—love you, too. You with all my heart." She stooped swiftly and laid her lips against his knuckles, which shone white as marble in the moonlight.

"Don't!" he cried sharply. He lowered the arm that had sheltered his shamed, passionate eyes and looked at her humbly, his whole body drooping. "Don't you see, darling—no, I mustn't call you that!—don't you see, Sally, that your—caring—only makes it worse? I wish I were the only one held back strangely, while her face went ghastly white and old in the moonlight.

"I—I forgot to tell you my news," she said dully, tonelessly, as her hands flattened against her breast.

"Mrs. Bybee found out something about—about my mother, about me."

Eerasta was wiped from David's face, leaving it hurt and bewildered. "So you're going to find her? Go back to her? I—I suppose I'm glad."

"No," she shook her head drearily. "I can't marry you or—anyone, David. My mother was not Mrs. Nora Ford, I don't know who she was. I don't even know what my name really is—if I have a name! Whoever my mother was she was ashamed I'd been born, she said Mrs. Ford to take me away when I was an infant, away from New York, so—so I wouldn't disgrace her. I'm the ugly name Nita called me today. I'm—I'm—"

"You're my Sally," David said gently, his arms gathering her in holding her comfortably against his breast, in a passionless embrace of utter tenderness. "Do you think I would let that make any difference at all? If anything could, it would make me love you more. But I love you now with every bit of me. And we'll be married, Sally. What do I care about being a scientific farmer?" But there was a note of bravado, of regret in his voice that did not escape her love-attuned ears.

"No, David," she whispered, her hands straying over his face as if memorizing every dear line of it. "But I'm damned if I can see how I'm to get back! David burst out. "We are both trapped in this second-rate carnival—and a first-rate one would be bad enough."

"We won't have to stay after we get to New York," Sally interrupted reasonably. "We can start life again. This trouble will blow over. You might even learn some other profession in the east."

"I don't want to learn anything else, live anywhere else but in the middle west. It's my land, I love it. I want to serve it. But, oh, Sally, let's not torture ourselves any more. I know I mustn't marry you now, under this cloud, but let's be happy for a few minutes before we go back to the show train. No, don't darling!"—as she lifted her arms. "Just sit there on my coat and let me look at you. You're the most beautiful thing in the world. Lovely Sally!"

They sat side by side, hands not touching but hearts reaching toward each other, and the minutes slipped silently away as David drank in her moon-silvered young beauty, and she fed her love-hunger upon his Viking-like handsomeness and strength. They were silently agreeing to go when a sharp metallic voice materialized suddenly out of the hush of the darkness.

"No monkey-business now, Steve! I'm warning you! If you double-cross me I'll cut your heart out! Fifty-fifty and—"

The rest was lost as the couple passed on, walking swiftly, two shadows that seemed like one. The voice was Nita's.

I DARE YOU!

By Harold Weatherby

Columbus took a chance. So did Steve Brodie. And Amundsen. How about you?

I dare you to drop in and see me and expose yourself to my policy of doing business.

There's really nothing to be afraid of. My story is simply the finest tires, properly serviced, and sold at fair prices based on actual cost.

You buy clothes that way. And shoes. And almost every other sort of merchandise. Why not tires? Come on in—I dare you!

More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind. There's only one reason for that. It's because the quality in Goodyear Tires gives the cheapest mileage. You want that. I want to sell it to you. Then we'll both be happy.

with a deficiency of rainfall over most of the western half of the state. Temperatures ranged from below freezing in various sections to as high as 102 degrees in the extreme south. Truck crops and some early-blooming fruit were frosted. Only the eastern half has a good sub-soil season elsewhere, the scant surface moisture suffered even further reduction from the frequent high winds. Rains beginning on April 3 fell mainly where not so urgently needed, but the western dry areas received enough to be of at least temporary benefit.

Considerable wheat acreage has been abandoned in the northwest as a result of cold and deficient moisture. While most of the fall oats were winter-killed, they have been largely replaced by spring sown which are doing well. Corn planting is practically completed. Planting of cotton has been retarded by cold and winds, but will soon become general. Improved seed is in demand. The condition of cattle, sheep and goats has been holding up well notwithstanding the dry ranges. Calves, lambs, and kids, generally are thriving especially where the mothers are being fed. Mohair shearing is over and the wool clip is beginning.

Some Fields of Cotton
There are fields of cotton up from the south to as far north as Red river, but planting will not become general until after the middle of April. The soil has been unusually well prepared and is in good condition for planting notably throughout most of the east half of the state. West of the 25 inch rainfall line, which curves southeastward from near the lower corner of the Panhandle down to the vicinity of Kingsville, more moisture is needed. Deficiency of winter rainfall has left the subsoil there in a dry condition. These western and southern counties now needing a better underground season made 1-4 million bales of cotton last year on somewhat over 4,000,000 acres. Boll weevil survival in Texas and in other states has been unusually heavy and farmers should by all means, consider the liberal use of poison this year.

The condition of wheat declined in all districts during March and on April 1 was reported as 74 per cent of normal, an increase of 1 point over December 1. Little or no rain over most of the northwest and west-center during March, together with high drying winds, detracted materially from earlier prospects. Yet considering the unfavorable conditions prevailing in these districts, the crop has held up fairly well. The early sown wheat has stood well; the late is thin. Abandonment in this western section already ranges from 5 to 20 per cent in localities. Recent rains and snow have at least temporarily retarded the deterioration of the crop. The increased acreage in the north district is making good progress; that in the central counties was held back by the dry winds. There has been some winter-killing, also damage from greenbugs.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Scott, 2201 13th street, left this morning for a tour which will carry them to Wichita Falls, Dallas and Waco. They will arrive in Waco in time for the birthday of Mr. Scott's mother, and will visit there with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Q. Scott.

The Will Hogg Prayer Meeting group is to meet with Mrs. D. P. Peek, at her home, 1806 10th street, this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

GARNER TO FIGHT

Serves Notice He Will Uphold House Bill

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—Even before the senate has taken action, Representative Garner of Texas, a democratic spokesman on taxation, today served notice on congress that he proposed to fight for the tax reduction bill as originally passed by the house.

At the same time, the Texan during an exchange on the house floor obtained an agreement with Representative Hawley of Oregon, the new chairman of the ways and means committee, which drafted the measure, to bring back to the house for a record vote any major changes that might be sought by the senate. A speech by Representative Treadway of Massachusetts, ranking republican on the ways and means committee, outlining a $202,000,000 tax cut which included reduction of the corporation tax from 13 1/2 percent to the treasury figure of 12 percent instead of the 11 1/2 percent voted by the house, precipitated the debate.
