Series begins

Sex offenses are becoming the most talked about crimes of the '90s. With increased awareness, children and adults are dealing with the repercussions of sex abuse. Experts say the cycle of sex abuse will be broken only when all those involved seek therapy to change their behavior. The three-part series "Suffer the Children" examines problems and the hope for recovery of sex abuse victims, perpetrators and survivors. The series begins in Sunday's Reporter-Telegram.

Prozac lawsuit

A $45 million wrongful death lawsuit for the suicide death of an Odessa man against the company that manufactures the antidepressant drug Prozac has been moved to federal court in Midland from a state court in Ector County. The family of Vincent Paul McClinton claims the man committed suicide on Aug. 15, 1990, as a result of taking Prozac, or fluoxetine hydrochloride. McClinton had been prescribed the drug for depression. The change for court jurisdiction was filed in U.S. District Court by the defendant, Eli Lilly and Company, on Friday. The suit was originally filed in 244th District Court by Rhonda Jean McClinton, the man's wife; children, Beau Jerrod McClinton and Chase Parker McClinton; and Carolyn Vickers, mother of the deceased. Similar litigation is pending in the Southern District of Indiana.

Breakdown begins

HOUSTON — It took workers three weeks to convert the Astrodome into a red, white and blue Republican mecca, but in four days they must have it restored to a baseball stadium. The breakdown in the Astrodome began Thursday night even as thousands of balloons were still falling from the rafters of the Dome at the close of the GOP National Convention. /6C

Department officials reduce hit list for state parks

Big Spring park gains reprieve from cutbacks

By Michael Kashgarian
Staff writer

BIG SPRING — Big Spring State Park, which was slated to close as part of cutbacks by the state, will remain open.

"The staff is now recommending it remain open but subject to approval by the commission," said Tom Harvey, a spokesman for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Linda Roger, executive vice-president of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, expressed gratitude for the recent decision.

"We are very proud we have gotten this worked out ... and very glad the Parks and Wildlife Department is listening to Texans," said Ms. Roger, who was notified of the change by state Sen. John Montford.

Ms. Roger attributes the turnaround by the Parks Department to its willingness to listen to local sentiment.

"I tend to believe they are listening to the public, and we have some strength here," she said.

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas parks officials Friday acknowledged learning "a painful lesson" and reduced from 11 to seven a proposed list of state parks to be closed.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission will vote on the recommendation next week.

"In light of strong public support to save these facilities, we have carefully re-examined our original proposal," Parks and Wildlife Executive Director Andrew Sansom said.

The department's original announcement July 30 stunned state leaders and angered local communities affected by the cuts.

At the time, Gov. Ann Richards accused the department of "acting like a bull in a china shop." Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock described department staff as "a bunch of bungling bureaucrats lost in the woods obviously in need of a new compass."

Friday's development received a warmer reception. "I appreciate the effort the agency made to notify me, and I look forward to working with them in the future,"

Odessa sifts ashes, begins cleaning up

■ Champion Chemical Co. directs residents' questions to Crawford & Company.

By Darren J. Waggoner
Staff writer

ODESSA — Workers at Odessa's Champion Chemical Co. probed the ashen remains of chemical containers Friday and sprayed away a hodgepodge of spilled chemicals a day after a lightning strike triggered a series of explosions.

The toxic smoke emanating from the blaze prompted the evacuation of as many as 4,000 people in east Odessa.

Water runoff from the firefighters' hoses drained into a nearby lake and gullies near the adjacent railroad tracks.

A methanol-based corrosion inhibitor called RU189 and more than 400 blends of chemicals contained in 2,800 55-gallon drums were involved in the explosions, said Pam Reed, Texas Water Commissioner.

But environmental officials testing soil, water and air near the sight of the fire are downplaying the possibilities of contamination.

"Most of the chemicals possibly involved should not hurt humans or the environment," Ms. Reed said.

Results of the samples taken Thursday aren't due until next week.

Many residents near the plant complained of fallout, which was particularly noticeable on their cars.

Federal judges rule against new lines for general vote

AUSTIN (AP) — A federal three-judge panel Friday rejected Texas officials' plan to use different state Senate district boundaries for the November general election than the March primaries.

It was a victory for Republicans, who have expected to gain new Senate strength under the court-ordered redistricting map used in March. Democratic leaders have supported using different boundaries, which were drawn by the Legislature.

Under both plans, Midland County was moved from Senate District 25, represented by Sen. Bill Sims, D-San Angelo, into District 31, now served by Sen. Teel Bivins, R-Amarillo.

"Shame on the Democrats for their attempt to pervert the democratic process and abuse their state offices for selfish, partisan purposes," said state GOP Chairman Fred Meyer.

Oil executives to Bush: Don't take us for granted

By Thomas C. Hayes
N.Y. Times News Service

DALLAS — Texas oil executives provided a financial gusher for George Bush's 1988 bid for the White House. They counted the Republican candidate, who was a West Texas oilfield executive before he entered politics 30 years ago, as one of their own.

But now, with drilling in the nation's oil and gas fields depressed, 400,000 jobs lost during 12 years of Reagan and Bush administrations, and frustration with Washington's acceptance of big oil imports, many Texas oil executives insist that the Bush camp cannot take them for granted this time in

And child psychology experts, without judging guilt or innocence in the Allen-Mia Farrow imbroglio, say the number of false allegations is also increasing as a scheme to win custody.

The charge is known as "the ultimate weapon."

Wildfires race through western states

■ Fire season hits full throttle, taxes resources to limit.

Associated Press

ROUND MOUNTAIN, Calif. — A fire mushroomed to 12,000 acres Friday after devastating a small town, just as fire crews got the upper hand on a treacherous blaze 250 miles away that had raged out of control for six days.

The fire season was in full throttle, taxing firefighting resources to the limit. The two fires over rugged terrain in Northern California have driven some 16,000 people from their homes and caused millions of dollars in damage.

Firefighters also were at work in parts of Oregon, Utah and Southern California. In Idaho, where thousands of acres have burned this week, a historic mining town was being guarded against a major blaze.

Several smaller fires burned unchecked elsewhere in Northern California.

In Southern California, a fire that broke out around noon at a campground in Los Padres National Forest quickly blackened about 700 acres.

The fire was about 20 miles northwest of Santa Barbara and about 10 miles east of a ranch owned by singer Michael Jackson, but the ranch wasn't threatened, said U.S. Forest Service spokesman Erwin Ward.

In Northern California's Shasta County, almost 1,000 firefighters battled the 12,000-acre Fountain

Iraq refuses to let relief workers remain

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Just days before U.S.-led allies plan to bar Iraqi aircraft from the south, a senior U.N. official failed Friday to persuade Iraq to allow relief workers and armed guards to remain in the country.

U.N. officials said Jan Eliasson, who had held five days of talks in Baghdad, will leave today for London to brief Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali. Eliasson, a Swede, is the U.N. undersecretary general for humanitarian affairs.

Failure to resolve the dispute adds to the problems between Iraq and the United Nations. Those include Iraq's failure to cooperate fully with U.N. inspectors trying to eliminate its weapons of mass destruction weapons, and its mistreatment of Kurds in the north and Shiite Muslims in the south.

Iraq is expected to get an ultimatum early next week from the United States, Britain and France that it faces attack if it flies military aircraft in the southern marshlands.

On Friday, Russia added its support to the "no-fly zone" for Iraq. A diplomatic source, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the Russians joined a briefing for Boutros-Ghali on preparations for the zone and plan to join in delivering the warning to Iraq's U.N. ambassador in New York on Monday or Tuesday.

The Russian involvement is significant because the former Soviet Union had a friendship treaty with Iraq and supplied it with weapons. Arab nations, including Gulf War allies Syria and Egypt, have been leery of a renewed military confrontation with Iraq.

The Baghdad government has paralyzed relief operations by the United Nations and other groups in Iraq since a pact granting the aid workers visas and travel permits expired June 30. Eliasson arrived in Baghdad on Monday to try to renew the agreement.

The Iraqi government contends it can handle relief itself and has accused U.N. guards of spying. Several guards have been attacked in recent weeks.

WEATHER SUMMARY

Via Associated Press

Cloudy skies start day

Staff report

Today is to start off with early morning low-flying clouds and is expected to end up a sunny day.

Today's high temperature is to rise into the lower 90s, according to the weatherman at the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport. Winds are to be southerly at 10 to 20 mph.

Tonight's temperature is to drop into the upper 60s.

Like tonight, Sunday is to be a fair day. Sunday's high temperature is to be in the lower 90s.

Friday's high temperature was 87 degrees, and the overnight low was 64.

The record high temperature for Aug. 21 is 102 degrees in 1964, and the record low is 52 degrees in 1947.

STATE

Skies were mostly sunny across Texas Friday with only a few scattered showers, and similar conditions were expected for the weekend as temperatures creep back to normal.

A weak low-pressure system moving over the Gulf of Mexico set off some light and heavy showers in the late afternoon on Friday. Scattered showers also sprinkled the area north of Del Rio.

The rains didn't cool temperatures on Friday, with highs in the 90s along the Rio Grande region. The rest of South Texas was in the 80s.

NATION

Rain and storms were scattered across the Southeast and from the northern Rockies to the Great Lakes on Friday.

At midday, showers and thunderstorms, some associated with a stationary front curving through the Southeast, were scattered across the Gulf Coast states and Tennessee Valley to the southern Atlantic Coast.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

REMAP: Districts stand for November, judges say

(From 1A)

But the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, which said Hispanics would gain representation under the Legislature's redistricting plan, reacted angrily to the ruling.

"Let's talk about disgusting partisan ploys! Let's talk about fairness to voters! Let's talk about the minority community once again being robbed of their right to vote because the white boys still don't have enough power!" MALDEF said in a statement.

State Democratic Chairman Bob Slagle said his party would appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Texas Attorney General Dan Morales and Secretary of State John Hannah, the state's chief elections officer, said they were disappointed in the ruling. Both are Democrats.

Morales said his office would meet with state leaders over the weekend and decide a course of action by Monday.

The three-judge panel called "unlawful" Hannah's order that the Legislature's Senate map be used in November.

The map used in Texas' primaries was drawn by U.S. District Judge James Nowlin of Austin, in a lawsuit pushed by Republicans. Nowlin has since stepped down from the redistricting case, after being reprimanded by federal judges who said he violated judicial rules by getting secret help from a Republican lawmaker.

Assistant Attorney General Renea Hicks has contended the court-ordered map is "tainted."

The federal panel said Hannah's order may not be implemented because his directive has not been cleared under the Voting Rights Act. The panel includes Judges Will Garwood, Walter Smith Jr. and Harry Hudspeth, who replaced Nowlin.

Hannah's order is unlawful because it conflicts with the previous court orders setting out district lines for 1992, the judges said.

The judges said that for the court "to order a redistricting plan ... for the primaries only, and not for the next general election at which the officials would actually be selected, would be the height of futility and purposelessness."

They also said that the same-numbered Senate districts in the two plans "are each different geographical regions with different populations."

Hannah's plan would allow candidates nominated by their parties in the March primaries to be nominees for the same number Senate districts. The candidate could ask to be declared ineligible if he or she did not live in the district. That would allow replacements to be named. The Democratic Party has gone through the process of naming replacements for several districts, contingent on Hannah's plan being used.

In some 11 of the legislatively-drawn districts, the court said, less than half of the population is the same as the corresponding districts in the court-drawn plan. One district — 24 — is completely different in the two plans, the judges said.

Hannah, a Democrat, had directed that the Legislature's map be used for November after a federal three-judge panel in Washington approved it under the Voting Rights Act.

The secretary of state said then that he believed the law required him to take the action. And he said that the Washington panel found the Legislature's map superior in terms of minority representation. Republicans say the map used in the primaries is better for minorities.

If the court-drawn map is used for November, Hannah said, all 31 senators will have to run again in 1994 using the Legislature-drawn map. Karen Hughes, state GOP executive director, has said that depends on the outcome of an ongoing Republican challenge to the Legislature's plan.

REDUCE: State park officials slash reduction list

(From 1A)

Bullock said.

Sansom said the uproar caused by the initial announcement provided "a painful lesson." He added, "I take personal responsibility for this entire episode and have expressed that in my conversations with state and community leaders."

Parks originally proposed for closure that are now recommended to stay open at full service are Copper Breaks State Park in Hardeman County and Big Spring State Park.

Two other state parks originally proposed for closure will remain open at reduced service levels. Fannin Battleground will consolidate with Goliad State Park, and Jim Hogg State Historic Park will stay open on weekends only.

State parks originally proposed for reduced operations that are now recommended for full service are Monument Hill in Fayette County and Varner Hogg Plantation in Brazoria County.

The seven state parks still proposed for closure are Magoffin Home, El Paso County; Starr Family Home, Harrison County; Fort Lancaster, Grayson County; Eisenhower Birthplace, Grayson County; Cassells-Boykin, Angelina County; Confederate Reunion Grounds, Limestone County; Old Fort Parker, Limestone County.

Under the proposal, those seven parks will get a 90-day funding extension so that Parks and Wildlife staff can try to find alternative ways to keep them open, Sansom said.

"We have seen rural communities come forward to offer whatever they can," said Parks and Wildlife Commission Chairman Ygnacio Garza. "So we are hopeful that many of these sites will end up with alternative management plans."

Sansom said the closures, in addition to trimming administrative expenses by $440,000, will enable the department to redirect $1.1 million to other parks.

The original proposal called for cutting 42 positions, but that has been reduced with the new park closure list, he said.

The nine-member commission will hold a public hearing on the proposal Wednesday and is scheduled to vote on it Thursday.

BIG SPRING: Park to remain

(From 1A)

Harvey confirmed that stong public support led to the decision to keep the park open.

A group of concerned Big Spring leaders — armed with a petition — were prepared to travel to a public hearing on the park closures on Aug. 26 in Austin.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department planned to close the Big Spring State Park because of low visitation.

The 370-acre park was scheduled to shut down Aug. 31 "due to low visitation and revenue and (because) the same services are offered by the city of Big Spring," a spokesman for the Parks Department said.

Across the state, 11 state parks were slated to close and 18 others will be reduced or consolidated, pending a final vote by the Parks and Wildlife Commission on Aug. 27.

Closing the Big Spring park would have saved the state $50,000 a year and would have eliminated two jobs, according to the Parks Department.

During the 1991 fiscal year, revenue from the park totaled $13,531.

There were 73,474 visitors during that time with a cost of 50 cents per visitor to operate.

ODESSA: Champion begins clean-up efforts

(From 1A)

technical operations for Champion, urged people with questions about the incident to contact Crawford & Company at 333-1266.

Although Midland law enforcement workers were not needed in full force Thursday, the incident illustrated the need for cooperation between the cities, Odessa fire battalion chief J.C. Decker said.

All three local agencies — the fire, sheriff and police departments — offered their aid to the effort Thursday.

"I personally extended an offering of our resources, and I know they would do the same," Fire Chief James Roberts said. "They indicated they didn't need our help."

Several local sheriff's deputies helped Department of Public Safety troopers direct traffic on Highway 80 and Highway 191.

According to Roberts, Midland and Ector County also have a written agreement promising to render aid when needed.

Several other agencies also have made such pacts.

In June, the Midland and Odessa police departments signed a cooperative contract agreeing to help each other during an emergency situation or natural disaster.

"If their chief calls us and says 'I need a certain number of men and certain equipment' we will respond — and vice versa," Lt. John Urby said.

"It only makes sense. Combining forces will give us several hundred men and there is strength in numbers," he said.

Local police hope to arrange similar formal agreements with other surrounding agencies.

OIL: Executives express concerns with Bush

(From 1A)

the race against Gov. Bill Clinton.

"Texas oil people are extremely disappointed, especially the independent operators, with what the Reagan and Bush administrations have done," George P. Mitchell, chairman of the Mitchell Energy and Development Corp., a large independent producer, said Friday. ment Corp., a large independent producer, said Friday.

Fund-raisers for the president "can't raise money with oil people," he said. "Maybe he'll win some back in the next three months, but very few are helping him at this time."

Julian Martin, executive director of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners, a trade group of independent drillers, said the race for the White House was too close to call among drillers in Texas.

"The support for either candidate right now is fairly soft," he said. "Neither party has seen fit to project energy as a major issue in this campaign."

With reference to the president's acceptance speech Thursday, in which he attacked Congress for failing to enact his energy program, Martin said both Bush and Congress should share the blame.

"If the president had vigorously pursued, in the early stages of the bill, incentives for oil and gas, this would have saved some time. But that's the fault of both parties, not just the Democrats," he said.

The most vocal of the disgruntled oil executives are independent drillers like Mitchell, who for years have focused most of their search for oil and gas on the United States, while oil giants like Exxon, Mobil and Chevron now spend more than half of their exploration budgets abroad.

Drilling in the United States is more costly, partly because new oil fields are harder to find but also because of congressional drilling bans in many fields and stiff environmental rules. The Environmental Protection Agency, for instance, estimated that domestic producers of all sizes spent a total of $99 billion to meet environmental laws last year.

Some producers say they are angry that the president and Congress have still not passed laws to stimulate drilling and to pare the nation's reliance on imported oil.

The independent oil producers see a bias against them in the administration's decisions to restrict imports of autos, computer chips and steel, but not oil. Foreign oil accounted for 50.9 percent of total demand in July and contributes more than $50 billion yearly to the nation's trade deficit.

The Texas Independent Drillers Group has called for a Monroe Doctrine-style energy policy that would support trade within the Americas to develop and import oil, natural gas and other energy sources and reduce Persian Gulf imports.

"The development of the National Energy Strategy is a strong indication that the administration still counts on oil flow from the Middle East as the center point of energy supply," Martin said. "It's the cheapest source in the world and keeps prices down, but there are tremendous costs for defense and transportation. The closer to home energy is developed, the better."

Neal Anderson, executive vice president of a small Houston-based independent exploration concern, the Anderson Oil Co., said he was a registered Democrat who endorsed the Republican ticket in the last three elections. He is leaning toward Bush again this time, mainly because he thinks taxes would rise under Clinton, but, he said: "There was a lot more optimism four years ago about what could happen with George Bush in office than after four years of seeing George Bush in office."

"The attitude now with a lot of people is, 'We know you're not going to help us, but please don't hurt us anymore,'" he said. "If I had to pick now, it would probably be the devil I know rather than the one I don't."

A group of independent producers, oil-field service companies and others in the Southwest that calls itself People for an Energy Policy, has asked both parties to provide detailed views on energy by Sept. 1.

"I can't say I can support either one of them until I receive the facts," said Les Mallory, head of the group and chairman of an oil-spill cleanup concern, Serengeti International. "The administration doesn't have an energy policy in place. That concerns us." He, too, referred to the president's criticism of Congress for delays on the energy bill. "Bush should share the blame," he said.

Yet Bush has many loyalists. T. Boone Pickens, chairman of Mesa Inc., a major natural-gas producer, said the administration's embrace of the Clean Air Act of 1990 and the National Energy Strategy now before Congress would help reduce the nation's reliance on imported oil.

"A lot of producers blame the administration for what's happened to them, but I always ask, 'What could the administration have done differently?'" Pickens said. "The National Energy Strategy will bring a great deal of help. Bush has to get credit for that and the Clean Air Act."

Kenneth L. Lay, chairman of the nation's biggest natural-gas company, the Enron Corp., and head of the committee in Houston that was host to the Republican National Convention this week, said several positive steps by the administration on energy had been overlooked by many in the industry.

For example, he said, the energy bill now before a Senate-House conference committee would pare drilling costs by repealing taxes imposed by Congress in 1986; markets for natural gas will grow more rapidly because pipelines can be built faster with fewer regulations, and prices for natural gas and oil were decontrolled and the windfall-profits tax on oil was eliminated in the Reagan-Bush years.

"I'm a strong supporter of the president and his administration," Lay said. "As an industry, we've pretty much gotten what we felt we wanted 10 or 15 years ago."

He said some major gas drillers had much to do with the plunge in natural gas prices during the last five years because they let gas flow from their wells at maximum rates after prices were deregulated. Gas prices hit a 15-year low last February, but have recovered in recent months.

"I don't feel we should blame that on the administration when some not-too-smart decisions were made by some participants in our industry," Lay said.

Robert A. Mosbacher Jr., an energy executive in Houston who is the son of the former commerce secretary and Bush campaign adviser, Robert A. Mosbacher, said that one of the problems facing the Bush fund-raisers was that there are fewer oil executives and less money today than in past years.

But he said that when oil executives compared the Bush and Clinton positions on energy, most would probably line up behind the president.

"Most of what this president said he would do to help the energy industry, he has done," he said. "We have the burden of making our case as clearly as we can, and that's what we're about to do."

CALIFORNIA: Wildfires blaze throughout western states

(From 1A)

blaze, which sped northeastward after sweeping through Round Mountain, a town of 810 residents. Up to 60 structures in the town were destroyed.

"It looked like a combination of a jet engine and a hurricane," said Walt Caldwell, who saw the fire explode in dimension Thursday night.

On Friday, the fire was headed toward a lightly populated area of Shasta National Forest, although the small town of Montgomery Creek was ordered evacuated when the wind shifted in its direction.

Between 1,000 and 2,000 people fled Thursday from Round Mountain and scattered homes in the area, located in rugged country 30 miles northeast of Redding, said Al Owen of the California Department of Forestry.

Everything in Round Mountain was black except for a few patches of green.

At least one team fighting that blaze had come from the Old Gulch fire in Calaveras County, about 250 miles to the south, where firefighters had taken control of a 6-day-old fire in the historic Gold Rush area, said forestry department volunteer Kathy Russell.

About 3,650 firefighters still were assigned to that fire, down from a peak of 4,000 the day before, Russell said.

The fire was 80 percent contained and full control was expected by this evening. Temperatures were in the 90s, down from the 100-plus-degree heat of days past, and the National Weather Service said an air mass from the north would cool the area even more today.

Yeltsin assures people there will be no coup

MOSCOW (AP) — President Boris N. Yeltsin, speaking on the first anniversary of the failed Communist coup, told his compatriots Friday they face a hard winter but should not fear another attempt to topple the government.

"There will not be a putsch-2," he told a nationally televised news conference.

Opponents of reform, he said, do not have broad support among the people, who "want to revitalize Russia. They do not want to be downtrodden and humiliated, as they have been for decades."

The harvest this year is better than last, easing the pain of reform, Yeltsin said, and privatizing many factories and businesses will prove that progress has been made.

The Russian people "tell me that in spite of all the difficulties, I must go ahead with the reforms, that they will endure," he said.

In a wide-ranging, 90-minute news conference, Yeltsin said he:

— Will back a new constitution that would abolish the conservative Russian Congress of Peoples' Deputies, strengthen presidential power and guarantee farmers the right to own their land.

— Had cut state orders to arms factories by 68 percent.

— Will turn over the facilities of the newspaper Izvestia to its editors and employees.

U.S. begins first airlift to starving Somalia

MOMBASA, Kenya (AP) — The United States began airlifting food to the starving Horn of Africa on Friday after Kenya lifted a brief ban on use of its airspace by American military planes.

The new American push comes as officials warned that half of the children in Somalia risk death from starvation because of drought and war in the eastern African nation. Thousands of people, mostly the very young and old, are said to be dying daily in what has been described as the world's worst humanitarian crisis.

The United Nations says another 1.5 million to 2 million Somalis will die unless food reaches them soon, a catastrophe of a scale not seen since the Ethiopian famine of the mid-1980s.

But the drought has not respected borders, and tens of thousands of Kenyans living in the country's arid northeast are also suffering and dying.

The first C-130 Hercules cargo plane, carrying 10½ tons of split peas for both Kenyans and Somalis, lifted off from its temporary base at this Indian Ocean port city's international airport. It arrived later in the northeastern Kenyan town of Wajir, an administrative center for Kenya's border region.

The flight had been delayed several hours, first by Kenya's objections to what it called an uncoordinated, improper American effort, then by an unexplained problem in getting the food out of dockside warehouses of the World Food Program, a United Nations agency.

American servicemen raced against darkness to get the C-130 loaded for its flight to Wajir. When it finally lifted off, American cargo handlers on the airstrip cheered.

"One down and 2,000 to go," said one servicemen.

Kenya had accused the United States of flying its cargo planes into Mombasa without its permission and late Thursday withdrew flight clearances for the American aircraft. It also claimed in a statement that the United States was conducting an "uncoordinated" operation and planned to use American troops to distribute the food, bypassing Kenyan and international aid agencies.

U.S. Embassy spokesman T.J. Dowling denied each accusation.

Delegates jeopardize peace talks

JERUSALEM (NYT) — Plans to resume the Middle East peace talks Monday were jeopardized Friday when Palestinian delegates angrily postponed their trip to Washington, saying they had been "humiliated" by Israeli soldiers at the border crossing into Jordan.

An Israeli military spokesman denied the charge, and accused the Palestinians of creating "a provocative act."

While officials on both sides say they assume that they will eventually settle the dispute, which centers on Israel's travel-permit procedures for Palestinians, there is a question about whether it will be ironed out in time for the scheduled start of peace negotiations Monday morning in Washington.

All key participants — Israel, the Palestinians, Syria, Jordan and Lebanon —have expressed hope that, with a new and more flexible Israeli government in place, they can achieve real results in a process that has sputtered since getting under way last October.

There was no reason to assume that the Palestinians' balking Friday would amount to anything more than a temporary delay. Nonetheless, these sorts of disputes have persisted for months. And the questions of perceived honor and face-saving raise inevitable questions about how fast the talks will move once they get going.

The dispute Friday broke out at the Allenby Bridge, 20 miles east of Jerusalem, the main transit point from the Israeli-occupied West Bank to Jordan. In past rounds, Palestinian delegates have usually crossed the bridge, teamed up in Amman with their Jordanian counterparts, then flown on to Washington as the single group they technically are during the talks.

This time, the Jordanian team left on its own Friday for the United States. And this time, the Palestinians dug in their heels on Israeli procedures at the bridge that their spokeswoman, Hanan Ashrawi, angrily described as "harassment, humiliation and intimidation."

"Our delegation is at the mercy and the whim of the occupier," Mrs. Ashrawi said, adding that unless the delegation is assured of being treated "with respect and dignity," it will refuse to set out for Washington even if it means delaying the talks.

The Palestinian protest, made also to the U.S. Consul General in Jerusalem, Molly Williamson, came after Israeli soldiers had prevented four or five aides in the 28-member team from crossing into Jordan. The Israeli authorities said the aides, all under age 35, had not obtained special permission in advance to return home within a few weeks.

Mortar shells hit boulevard as people venture out for food

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — Three mortar shells slammed into Sarajevo's main boulevard Friday, killing at least six people trying to find bread and water after some of the heaviest shelling in weeks.

In the Yugoslav capital of Belgrade, Prime Minister Milan Panic renewed his efforts to get United Nations sanctions lifted, promising to cooperate with the world body. The sanctions were imposed nearly three months ago to punish Serbia for its role in fomenting violence in Bosnia.

"We will not spare any effort to achieve the victory of peace and democracy, the better understanding of our country abroad and the lifting of sanctions," Panic told an emergency session of Parliament.

Meanwhile, Britain's Foreign Office said Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic will attend next week's peace conference in London. Milosevic is a hard-liner accused of backing ethnic Serb rebels in Bosnia who want to remain linked to Serb-dominated Yugoslavia.

Also Friday, Tadeusz Mazowiecki, the head of a special U.N. human rights team, arrived in Zagreb, capital of Croatia, to investigate detention camps and allegations of human rights violations in former Yugoslav republics, especially Bosnia.

Mazowiecki, a former Polish prime minister, said he was accompanied by two experts on summary executions and arbitrary detention. An initial report by the team, sent by the U.N. Human Rights Commission, is due by Aug. 28.

The war in Bosnia, which broke out after Bosnia's majority Muslims and Croats voted on Feb. 29 for independence, has claimed at least 8,000 lives. Estimates by U.S. Senate investigators range up to 35,000 deaths.

About 1.3 million of a population of 4.3 million are refugees, including some forced from their homes to rid entire regions of ethnic groups. The Serbs have been primarily accused of such "ethnic cleansing."

On Friday, the Bosnian Ministry of Health reported 34 people were killed and 207 wounded across the republic in the previous 24 hours. That included the six in the shelling in downtown Sarajevo.

An unknown number of people, many seeking food and water, were injured in the half-hour, midmorning attack along a 150-yard section of Marshall Tito Boulevard, from the presidency building to an abandoned shopping center.

"There was smoke and bricks and metal flying everywhere," said Rikard Larma, a Sarajevo fashion reporter and photographer who was standing near the shopping center when a mortar shell landed about 50 yards away.

The Marshall Tito barracks, which houses Ukrainian peacekeepers, was bombarded for 40 minutes Thursday night during some of the heaviest overnight shelling of the Bosnian capital in weeks.

At least one shell hit the barracks and set it ablaze, and eight U.N. vehicles burned, U.N. spokesman Yusuf Khalef said. He said he believed the barracks were deliberately targeted.

On Thursday, a Ukrainian was killed by sniper fire at the barracks. He was the second peacekeeper to die of wounds in Sarajevo. More than a dozen of the 1,500 peacekeepers here have been injured. A sniper attack was reported early Friday, but no one was hurt.

Kosevo hospital, the Parliament and the presidential building also were hit overnight. Officials said at least 11 people in the hospital were injured, and the government buildings caught fire.

Newspapers publicize more duchess of York

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II's bare-breasted daughter-in-law was on view at newsstands throughout the nation Friday, with the latest snapshots of the Duchess of York frolicking with an American businessman.

"Queen Victoria wouldn't like it," said Labor Party legislator Clive Soley, one of few Britons who found a light side to the Daily Mirror's poolside pictures of the duchess' vacation in France last week with Texas businessman John Bryan and her daughters, Princesses Beatrice and Eugenie.

The 32-year-old duchess, the former Sarah Ferguson, is currently at the royal estate in Balmoral, Scotland with members of the royal family, including Prince Andrew, from whom she separated in March.

Program hopes to prepare students

By Ed Todd

Teaching children to read and to think in their early years is "just getting them ready for tomorrow," Clem Johnson reasoned.

Moments later on Friday, Johnson, vice president of the Midland Black Chamber of Entrepreneurs and a Mobil Oil Corp. representative, helped present 26 children, ages 3 to their teen-age years, with Excel Youth 1992 graduation T-shirts following their six-week reading-and-mathematics session sponsored by the chamber.

"All Children Can Learn," proclaimed the colorful, monogrammed T-shirts, which were designed by Brian Joseph, an Austin-based artist and a Trinidad native.

Joseph's message on the T-shirts was designed to encourage reading, thinking and literacy.

James Fuller, chamber co-founder and a Midland College instructor in English, told the children that their "continued reading and continued thinking" will help them create a positive attitude in their school years and in life.

"There's nothing that you cannot do ... if you learn and go to school," Fuller said in a brief commencement talk.

The Excel program was designed by Fuller and his wife, chamber co-founder Robbyne Fuller, "simply to motivate kids to want to learn, ... to continue to learn, ... and to motivate them and enhance their self-esteem," Fuller said later.

In teaching reading and computation skills, Excel is to help inspire the children and youth to compete in the business world and to develop a "good self-image in order to get out there and compete" effectively, Fuller said.

Excel volunteer Lois Brazell said the Excel summer program "keeps them (students) staying on target" between school terms and sharpens their critical-thinking skills.

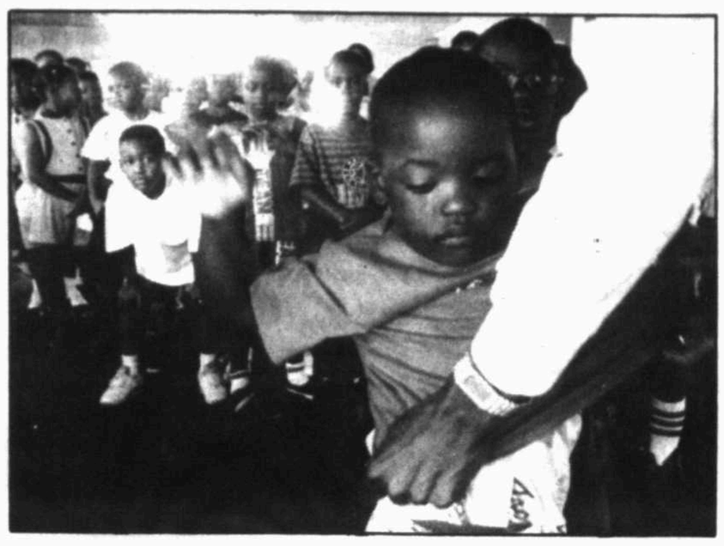

Joshua Lenz, 8, said reading for him "is fun." Studying mathematics helps him "learn better."

"I like to read, and I love math," Cara Cooks, 9, said. At home, she plays teacher. "I'm the teacher," Cara said, "and my brother and sister are classmates. Sometimes they get a little out of hand."

Midland bookseller Jim Blischke displayed an array of books for the children and their parents to peruse.

"Reading is the key to learning anything," Blischke said. "That's the most important thing" in, for example, preparing for careers.

"It is a wonderful way to explore what's going on in the world," he said, "or what doesn't go on in the world — all of this fantasy stuff."

Indicted pathologist ends his medical career

LUBBOCK (AP) — A top state health official on Friday said indicted West Texas pathologist Ralph Erdmann has given up his Texas medical license, closing the controversial doctor's 33-year career in the state.

Dr. Homer R. Goehrs, executive director of the State Board of Medical Examiners, said Erdmann abandoned his right to practice on Thursday, "in lieu of further disciplinary action hearings by this board."

Erdmann had faced an investigation by the medical examiners board, which reviews questionable medical procedures performed by practicing physicians, including autopsies by forensic pathologists.

"His surrendering his license says we don't have to have a hearing and delay getting him out of the practice of medicine," Goehrs told the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

The 65-year-old Erdmann, who had been licensed since 1959, could not be reached Friday by The Associated Press.

Erdmann is accused of tampering with a government record and committing theft in his October 1991 autopsy of 14-year-old Jesse Land of Spur.

In July, State District Judge John McFall ruled Erdmann may have violated several Texas laws in Lubbock County. He referred the case to a grand jury and appointed the Texas attorney general's office as special prosecutor.

Erdmann first was reviewed last year when a second autopsy of Terri Trosper found that she had died of asphyxiation from being smothered. Erdmann had ruled that she died of natural causes after choking on her own vomit.

In February, he was indicted in Hockley County on two counts relating to the Dec. 23 autopsy of Craig Newman, 41.

The next month, Erdmann invoked his Fifth Amendment rights against self-incrimination more than 200 times at an exhumation hearing surrounding his autopsy of murder victim Hilton R. Merriman.

Alton Stone

ANTON — Alton Lee Stone, 64, of Anton, father of a Midland woman, died Wednesday at his home.

Services were Friday at the First Baptist Church in Anton with the Rev. Syl Moore, pastor, officiating, assisted by Larry Bloskas, minister of the Lawrence Avenue Church of Christ. Burial was at the Anton Cemetery with Hammons Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

He was born Nov. 5, 1927, in Slaton.

Stone, a retired farmer, had been a lifelong resident of the Anton area and was a veteran of the Korean conflict. He was a member of the American Legion and the First Baptist Church of Anton.

Survivors include two sons, Craig Stone of Anton and Clark Stone of Tyler; one daughter, Dana Tuck of Midland; three brothers, J.W. Stone of Dimmitt, and Vernon Stone and Don Stone, both of Anton; and five grandchildren.

The family requests memorials be directed to the Anton Cemetery Fund.

Officials uncover roofing-services scam

By Michael Kashgarian
Staff writer

Two men were arrested on misdemeanor charges earlier this week after allegedly bilking a 72-year-old woman out of $120 for roofing services, sheriff's officials said.

"Two men were going around posing as professional paint contractors who had a product that would seal tops of trailer houses ... and would guarantee the product," Sheriff Gary Painter said.

"What it turned out to be was watered down house paint," he said.

"It didn't even come close to what it was supposed to do," Painter added.

Jim McFadden, a criminal investigator, handled the case after receiving a call from the elderly woman.

The men reportedly sold the woman — who resides on K Street near Carter Avenue — on the service with a brochure for a product they were not using. After the job was completed, the men gave the woman a written 8-year guarantee and receipt with phony names and telephone number, officials said.

McFadden watched the men perform the same service on eight trailers at Ponderosa Trailer park.

"With the rain we had yesterday, it completely washed off," McFadden said.

The two men have both were charged with deceptive business practices and released on $500 bonds each, McFadden said.

The men were only charged with the case involving the elderly woman since payment was never made at the trailer park, officials said.

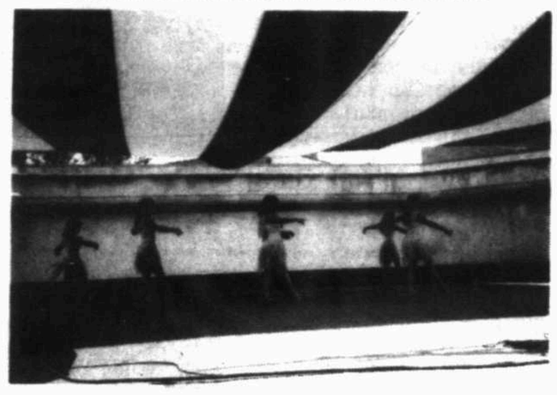

"We feel like there are going to be more" complaints, McFadden said.

"We hope with the news media helping us we can stop the scam. The main thing is to let the public know a scam is being operated," Painter added.

til proven innocent," said Dr. Ralph Underwager of the Institute for Psychological Therapies in Northfield, Minn.

"A charge of sex abuse is the most powerful thing you can do in a custody fight to destroy the person you're most angry at," he said. "It's been called the neutron bomb of custody fights."

Dr. Richard Gardner, professor of child psychiatry at Columbia University, said charges of sex abuse cannot be ignored because the crime is so horrible. But the number of false allegations has grown in the last 10 years, he said.

"It's reached the point of hysteria. It's a very convenient way for a woman to destroy her husband," said Gardner, author of a book titled "Sex Abuse Hysteria: Salem Witch Trials Revisited."

According to estimates, the charge is raised in 5 percent of child custody cases. A 1988 study by the Association of Family and Councilation Courts said the charges are probably false one-third of the time. A number of custody fights are settled before they reach a judge, and others are dropped before they are litigated.

"Clearly, in an adversarial situation of a custody dispute, raising a sex abuse allegation can be tool or strategy," said Judith Weiner, a divorce mediator in White Plains, N.Y.

In 1990, in a report to the American Psychological Association, Underwager said 75 percent of the accusers making charges of sex abuse in child custody cases have severe personality disorders.

"An angry partner can completely ruin someone's life," he said. "The system is so biased in favor of the accuser, the accused should simply take a bus to prison, walk to the gate and turn himself in.

"Woody Allen is going to be destroyed. No matter what he does, he's never going to recover. In effect, he's done."

The abuse allegation came in a sensational, week-long exchange of vicious charges and counter charges. It began when Allen, unable to reach agreement with his live-apart soul mate of 11 years, filed for custody of a biological son and two adopted children he shared with Miss Farrow.

"He's Humpty Dumpty now," said Dr. Melvin Guyer, professor of psychiatry at the University of Michigan and a practicing lawyer. "He's been pushed off the wall. You can't put Mr. Allen back together again. He'll never be able to persuade everyone he didn't do it."

Odessa man dies in truck collision

Staff report

ODESSA — A 56-year-old Odessa man, Lonnie Sisson, was killed and two others were injured late Friday afternoon in a two-pickup accident two miles west of Odessa.

Sisson, driving a one-ton 1986 pickup, died after a three-quarter-ton pickup driven by David William Adams, 21, of Odessa, struck Sisson's truck, as Sisson was leaving Interstate Highway 20 at its junction with Farm-to-Market Road 1936, law enforcement officials said.

Adams' truck was eastbound on the I-20 north service road and Sisson was exiting I-20 at FM 1936 when the accident occurred, officials said.

Injured in the accident were Adams, who suffered multiple abrasions and internal injuries, and his passenger, Naomi Garcia, 24, of Marathon.

Ms. Garcia was listed in stable but serious condition with internal injuries at Odessa's Medical Center Hospital. She was not wearing a seat belt at the time of the accident, a Department of Public Safety spokesman said.

Adams, who was wearing a seat belt, was listed in good condition in the hospital.

Sisson was wearing his seat belt, too, the DPS said.

DPS Trooper Harry Taylor of Odessa investigated the 6:40 p.m. accident.

Officials seize 270 pounds of marijuana

UPTON COUNTY — Four men were arrested and 270 pounds of marijuana was seized Wednesday night at a residence south of McCamey on Highway 191, Upton County Sheriff's Department officials said.

Arrested were Antonio Gallegos Juarez, 23, Martine Barrazo De Le Rosa, 38, Humberto Urias Venegas, 46, and Isidro Ortega, 25.

FBI agents transported the men Thursday to the Midland County jail. The men will be prosecuted in federal court for possession of the drug with intent to distribute, officials said.

Estimated street value of the marijuana is $243,000, officials said.

An investigation continues and additional arrests are anticipated.

Wednesday's arrests and seizure were the result of a joint investigation by the Texas Department of Public Safety narcotics division, the U.S. Border Patrol anti-smuggling division and the Upton County Sheriff's Department.

Tip leads to arrest of Big Spring man

BIG SPRING — A 19-year-old Big Spring man was charged with possession of 42 pounds of marijuana following his arrest by two Howard County Sheriff's Department deputies about 4 p.m. Friday.

The man's identification was not released.

The man, who was arrested by Sheriff's Criminal investigator Tony Chavez and Sgt. Barney Edens, was being held in the Howard County Jail late Friday night.

Justice of the Peace China Long set his bail at $75,000, according to Chavez.

The arrest in north Big Spring was sparked by a tip to the Sheriff's Office, Chavez said.

Midland Park Mall hosts fund-raiser

Staff report

Midland Park Mall is hosting a fund-raiser today for the United Way.

The American Putting Classic will get under way at 10:30 a.m. in the mall's Center Court.

Mall Marketing Director Sylvia Hernandez described the classic as nine putting mats around one hole. "You play 18 holes of golf," she said. "But you putt from 18 different spots."

The putter gets one stroke and receives a certain number of points for getting the ball in the hole and a higher number of points for missing the hole. The best actual score ever is 72 and the best possible score is 54, Hernandez said, adding "not even the pros can do that well."

Competition concludes around 3:30 p.m. with finals getting under way around 4 p.m.

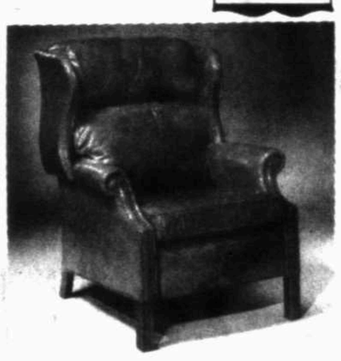

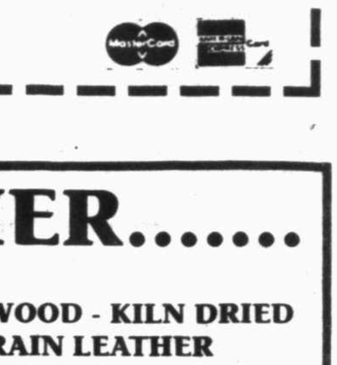

There is a $1 donation to participate, with proceeds going to the United Way of Midland campaign.

Forecasters expect storm to turn into hurricane

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical Storm Andrew could build into the first hurricane of the Atlantic season by this afternoon but it posed no immediate danger on its path far east of the Bahamas, forecasters said.

"There's no problem through the weekend as far as U.S. interests are concerned," said forecaster Max Mayfield at the National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables. "We're going to get through the weekend here with no problem."

Top winds were steady Friday at 60 mph after increasing from 50 mph Thursday, but forecasters said the swirling storm developed a distinct eye and a more classic shape as barometric pressure dropped.

The storm was moving west-northwest near 9 mph, which keeps it on track to eventually hit the United States.

Andrew should be somewhere northeast of the Bahamas in two days, and forecasters will be checking its steering late Sunday and Monday to see where the system is headed next, Mayfield said.

"It's kind of like a chess game," Mayfield said. "If I knew every move my opponent is going to make, I'd play a pretty good game."

Neighborhood support helps child with AIDS

LAKELAND, Fla. (NYT) — An outpouring of support helped overcome a barrage of bad feelings a day earlier, and a 7-year-old girl with AIDS plans to start second grade at Kathleen Elementary School after all.

Autum Aquino left a Tuesday night meeting in tears saying she wanted to go back to Maine "where it is safe to have AIDS." Three hours of heated discussion ended abruptly when her mother, Theresa Dannemiller, said she would take her daughter out of the school.

But Autum was smiling Wednesday morning when about 40 neighbors, classmates and her school principal visited her home offering support. They brought a school T-shirt, letters of friendship and an invitation to join a Brownie troop.

Later, supporters got together to make hundreds of red ribbons to hand out at the school as classes began on Thursday.

And the show of support made a difference.

The family soon announced that they will try again. But Autum won't go to class until Sept. 1, to give the school a chance to teach some AIDS education and to give parents who want their children out of Autum's class a chance to request transfers.

"We're not running. We're staying right here," said Tim Dannemiller, Autum's step-father. "The girls want to stay. We made the decision after people rallied and asked us to stay. That kind of caring and concern has showed us that it's not the majority who are negative."

Autum's 11-year-old sister, Ja'Nette Agosto, said: "We've had a lot of positive support and we really appreciate it." She will be a sixth-grader at Kathleen Middle School.

Ja'Nette does not have the disease.

Bush calls Clinton 'wishy-washy'; Democrat assails GOP pledge

Associated Press

President Bush, hurrying to the South to shore up his political base, derided Democrat Bill Clinton on Friday as a "wishy-washy" leader who was reluctant to support the Persian Gulf War. Clinton lashed back at Bush as "a great fearmonger" whose new promise of tax cuts was as hollow as the old no-new-tax pledge he broke.

One day after the close of the Republican National Convention, the candidates traded hard blows in a 74-day countdown to Election Day.

"Don't bet against us in November," Bush told thousands of cheering people in Gulfport, Miss., where gambling was recently legalized. "We are going to win this election."

Clinton accused Bush of lying about the Democrats' economic plan. "He scared the American people ... He's a great fearmonger," Clinton said. He dismissed Bush's new economic ideas as election-time gimmickry.

Bush, with momentum from the convention, had narrowed Clinton's lead to around 12 points in three new public opinion polls.

The president pressed his attack on Clinton's economic proposals.

Standing before a banner of the American flag at a rally in the Missouri Ozarks' community of Branson, Bush said Clinton seeks $220 billion in new government spending. The huge audience moaned at the thought. "That's true," Bush insisted. "And then $150 billion in new taxes, the largest tax increase in history, and he calls that investment."

Clinton's plan envisions $220 billion in spending on new public works programs, education and tax cuts for families by 1996, to be offset by almost $300 billion in spending cuts. His formula of spending cuts, improved productivity and higher economic growth would cut the federal deficit by $150 billion over that four-year period, Clinton argues.

On taxes, Clinton would raise the tax rate for the top 2 percent of wage earners and placing a surtax on $1 million-plus incomes.

Bush combined his attacks on Clinton with assaults on Democrats in Congress.

"Make no mistake about it, that Clinton-Gore ticket are locked, they're interlocked with the gridlock Congress and I'm not going to let the American people forget that," Bush said. "We've got to change the Congress and send Bill Clinton back to live happily ever after" in neighboring Arkansas.

Clinton, meanwhile, campaigned in Detroit before a weekend bus trip through Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York. "George Bush is a lot more interested in beating me than helping you," the Democratic nominee said.

Taking aim at Bush's call for across-the-board tax cuts next year, matched by equal cuts in federal spending, Clinton called them "A fool's gold of an across-the-board tax cut ... These promises, too, are false and they, too, will betray us," Clinton said in a speech to the Detroit Economic Club.

Bush, accompanied by Vice President Dan Quayle on a sweltering outdoor rally in Gulfport, did not even mention his tax-cut proposal, though he did later in Branson. Instead, he criticized Clinton's economic renewal program, calling it "Elvis economics" that would send Americans to the "Heartbreak Hotel."

In just two sentences, Bush talked about his plan that would allow taxpayers to check off a box on tax returns to mandate reductions in the national debt. The reductions would have to be matched by spending cuts.

Four months ago, however, the Bush administration opposed such a proposal, arguing that allowing taxpayers to decide how their taxes would be spent would result in "several competing governments ... trying to serve separate constituencies."

Terrill Hyde, tax legislative counsel for the Treasury Department, told a congressional committee in May that "no taxpayer ... should have a direct say over the way the government spends their tax dollars, as opposed to the influence they exert through the normal political processes and the ballot box."

Asked by reporters for details of his across-the-board tax cut, which he described in only a few sentences Thursday night, Bush said, "It's a very easy plan — what you do is tax people less and the government spends less."

Teachers threaten to strike

DETROIT (AP) — As about 170,000 students prepared to return to Detroit schools at the end of this month, their teachers prepared to strike, having failed to reach agreement on a contract during months of negotiations.

"A 99.9 percent chance of us not reporting for work Aug. 31 is true," John Elliott, president of the 10,500-member Detroit Federation of Teachers, said Friday.

As summer draws toward a close, the threat of strikes also looms over school districts in Los Angeles and other Michigan cities. Nearly 200 teachers in two Illinois school districts are already on strike.

In Detroit, union leaders and officials of the nation's seventh-largest school district haven't agreed on any of the 60 issues on the table after more than three months of negotiations, Elliott said.

One of the main issues is money, said Elliott and Superintendent Deborah McGriff, who spoke during a joint appearance before the city's religious leaders.

"We're competing with 85 other (area) school districts for teacher service, and we are in the bottom 20 percent of salaries," Elliott said.

McGriff said she wants to pay teachers more, but has to weigh that desire against balancing the district's budget and providing other services for students. "I never said teachers didn't deserve more money," she said.

Teacher salaries for the district weren't immediately available. Calls to union and district offices seeking that information rang unanswered late Friday.

In Los Angeles, the union representing 36,000 teachers in the nation's second-largest school district has threatened to call a strike in mid-September over proposed pay cuts.

To help close a $400 million budget deficit, the Board of Education has voted to cut $247 million in employee compensation. Under the plan, most teachers, along with other school district employees who make between $28,000 and $90,000, would take a 14 percent pay cut on top of a 3 percent cut last year.

A commission headed by former California Attorney General John Van de Kamp has been created to examine the budget crisis in hopes of averting a strike that would affect 630,000 students.

In Illinois, teachers in Bethany struck Friday, the first day of school, after six months of unresolved negotiations. The strike affected 33 teachers and 450 students.

RETIREES EXPLORE SECOND CAREER THROUGH H&R BLOCK INCOME TAX COURSE

Thousands of retirees take the first step toward a second career by enrolling in the H&R Block Income Tax Course. H&R Block, the world's largest income tax preparation firm, offers its Income Tax Course starting on Sept. 14th. Morning, and evening, classes are available.

The course provides excellent training for people who want to continue working after they retire or who are retired and want to go back to work. Deion antsy

ATLANTA — Deion Sanders is tired of unending negotiations and wants to come to an agreement this weekend with the Atlanta Falcons, his agent said Friday.

"I think Deion wants to get this done because he wants to focus on what is happening on the playing field," agent Eugene Parker said.

Sanders has continued to play baseball with the Atlanta Braves instead of reporting to the Falcons, who offered him a $1 million bonus to join the team in July. Sanders is an outfielder with the Braves and a cornerback with the Falcons.

"It would be possible to get something done by this weekend if all things come together," Parker said. "Certainly by Monday. Deion doesn't want this thing dragging on beyond next week."

Mavs hire Davis

DALLAS — The Dallas Mavericks have decided to help Brad Davis take his first step in life after basketball, offering him a job in the club's front office.

Davis, who retired at the end of the season, will be the Mavericks' public relations-marketing representative. He said the club also wants him to provide color commentary on radio broadcasts of home games.

"I'm really excited, especially since I'll be involved in several different aspects of the organization," said Davis, who has been with the Mavericks since their inaugural season.

Davis, 37, will start work next week.

Rebels scrimmage Clark in Sonora

■ Midland Lee's football team gets its first test against another squad in today's 10 a.m. scrimmage versus San Antonio Clark.

By Terry Williamson
Sports editor

Midland Lee head football coach Earl Miller is not exactly Santa Claus, but he has a list and is checking it twice as he prepares his Rebels for today's 10 a.m. scrimmage against San Antonio Clark in Sonora.

"I don't know if we are ready or not to scrimmage, but it's time that we do," Miller said Friday. "We need to see some things from our kids. Clark is a great team. They've been in the playoffs at least 10 straight years.

"Clark has an exceptional quarterback, a great running back and a huge line. Actually, Clark is about 10 pounds lighter per man on the offensive line than they were last year, but they averaged around 280 last year. They will be a great test for us and we are fortunate to have this kind of competition to compete against."

But Miller is quite direct in what he wants to see from this scrimmage. It's that check list.

"We've got five returning starters back on offense and we want to see what they can do offensively," Miller said. "We feel like we have some good backs, but our line is the question mark and we need to see how they respond against a big team."

Although the line is green with only two returning starters (guard Haseeb Rafeek and tight end Ryan Tucker), Miller said Tucker and center Chris Evans, both seniors, have shown good leadership during early workouts.

"I think this group works hard, but we need to see if they have what it takes," Miller said.

"We've also got to see if we can throw the football. That could be a key for our team. As a defensive person, I know the hardest thing to counter is when a team can spread out and throw and then come back and run right at you.

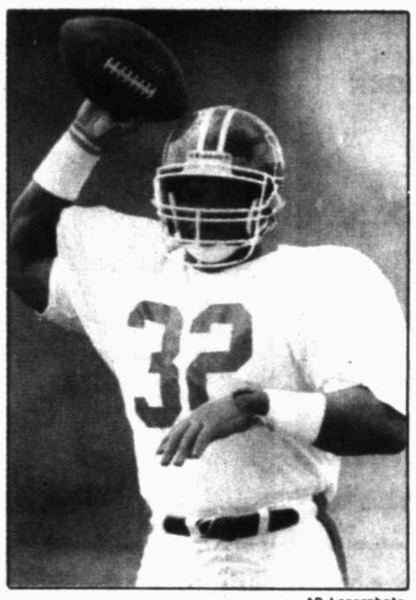

"Courtney Turner (quarterback) should be able to throw the ball and Ryan Tucker and Corodon Watson can catch the ball. Our backs have also caught the ball well out of the backfield."

Miller thinks his defense is strong, but woefully lacking in the depth department.

"We've got some good kids on defense, we think, but we can't have any injuries. We've got some kids playing on both offense and defense this year," Miller said.

Miller is pleased with the way things have gone during the first two weeks of practice, with one qualification.

"We're just not in good physical condition like we ought to be at this stage," Miller said, "but we've had some of the best workouts since I've been here. That's not to say that we are more talented than we have been in the past, but I do feel that this bunch is much more disciplined. They have great work habits and have been out here every day, working hard. It's been a good group to work with."

Dallas' Smith uninspired about tuneup

Associated Press

IRVING — Emmitt Smith will play against the Denver Broncos in tonight's NFL exhibition game (8 p.m. CDT, CBS), but don't look for the NFL's leading 1991 rusher to give it his best shot.

"I'm trying to prepare for the regular season and nothing more," Smith said. "The only preparation I'll be worried about will come on Sept. 7. Until then, my goal is to stay healthy. These games don't count."

Smith didn't play last week in the Dallas Cowboys' 17-16 loss to the Houston Oilers. He sat out with a tight hamstring.

He will play against the Broncos in what Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson calls a "dress rehearsal" for the season opener Sept. 7 against the defending Super Bowl champion Washington Redskins.

Other Cowboys may be missing as they nurse numerous bumps and bruises.

The Cowboys' training camp has left its toll as both quarterbacks Troy Aikman and Steve Beuerlein are nursing back injuries.

Oilers, Saints wired for game

Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS — The New Orleans Saints' and Houston Oilers' offenses will be wired today when they play each other in an NFL exhibition game (11:30 a.m. CDT, CBS).

Really.

It's part of an NFL experiment aimed at helping visiting teams overcome crowd noise. In their preseason matchup the quarterbacks and offensive linemen from both teams will be wearing transmitters and receivers that officials think will offset the roar of the fans in the Superdome.

"The premise is that even though there is a lot of noise the linemen will be able to hear the quarterback's signals," said Harvey Shuhard, whose company, Control Dynamics Corp, of Ivyland, Pa. is supplying the equipment. "It's just an experiment now, but it will work. Absolutely."

The devices are similar to those used in the World League, Shuhard said. Except there, the quarterback wore a receiver and the coach had the microphone, he said.

The experiment, recommended by the NFL competition committee, will wire the starting and backup quarterbacks

'Kats bear injuries

■ Despite injuries at quarterback, Garden City expects to make a run for a playoff spot in District 8-A.

By Joe Wyatt
Staff writer

GARDEN CITY — Can it be that the Bearkats will go into the 1992 football season with their starting fullback backing up a top tailback . . . at quarterback?

First-year head coach Dennis Bryant certainly hopes not, but preseason injuries have already taken Garden City's two-man quarterback corps out of action and the Bearkats are preparing to make whatever changes are necessary to put their best team on the field.

And chances are it will still be a pretty good team because the 'Kats are used to winning. And they are growing accustomed to change.

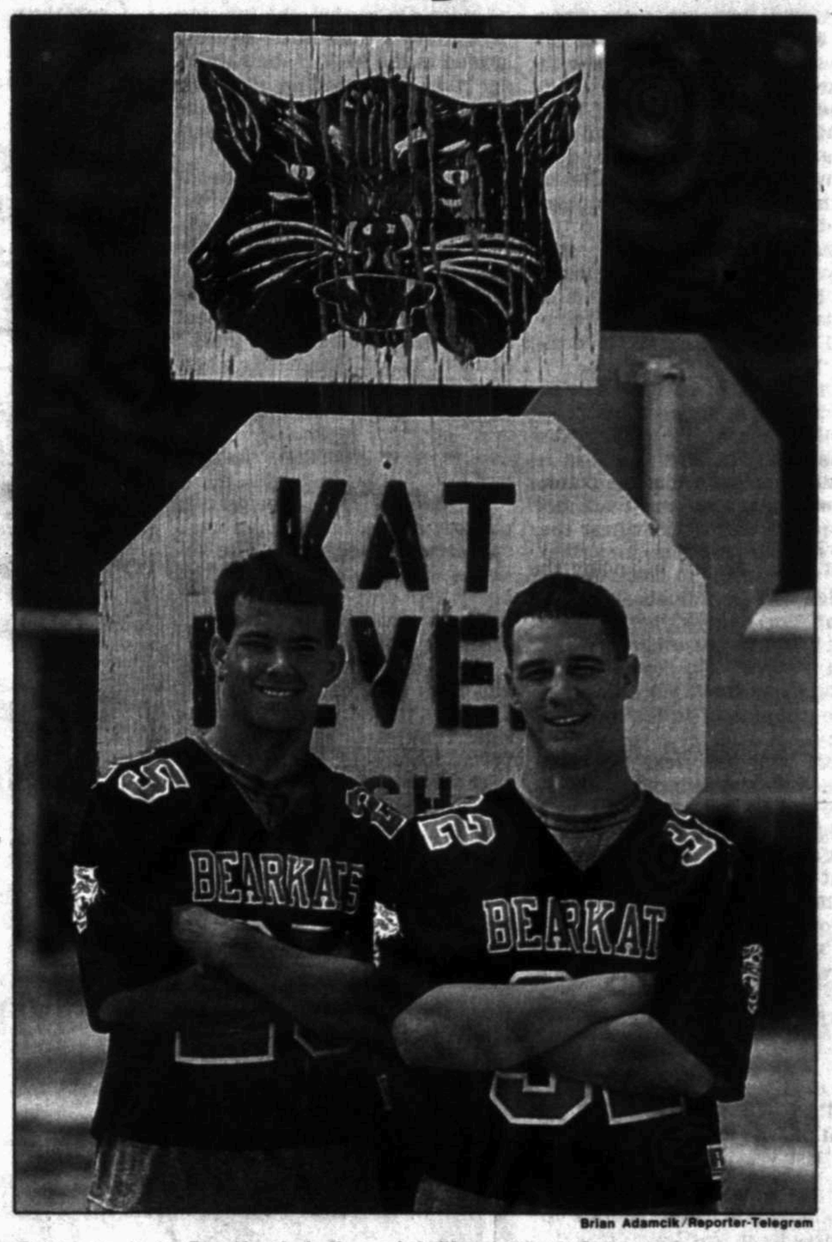

As a member of District 9-A, Garden City entered the 1991 season as the top-ranked Class A team in Texas. The 'Kats had first-team all-state players at four positions and reached the regional round of the state playoffs under the tutelage of head coach Sam Scott.

But Scott left following the 10-2 season to take over the District 8-A program in Wink. Then, after Bryant took over as head coach, Garden City was moved into 8-A, joining Wink, Rankin, Grandfalls-Royalty, Sanderson and Fort Davis.

More changes involved the loss of all the all-staters.

And as they worked around those departures, the Bearkats lost both their quarterbacks to injuries during two-a-days, forcing tailback Jody Bradford to take the snaps Friday night during the team's first scrimmage, while fullback Matt Seidenberger stepped into the backup quarterback role.

Please see BEARKATS/8B

Brian Adamcik/Reporter-Telegram

Tailback Jody Bradford, left, and fullback Matt Seidenberger should give the Bearkats an explosive backfield this fall. However, both could see action at quarterback until Garden City's ailing field generals recover from injuries.

8-A plays musical coaches

By Joe Wyatt
Staff writer

Game programs will be selling like griddle cakes when the District 8-A football season kicks off as spectators will quite naturally want to keep track of — who's coaching who.

Of the six teams soon to be embroiled in the 8-A tussle, five will have new head coaches.

Only 1991 league runner-up Sanderson opens this campaign under the same leadership it had a year ago. Gary Shackleford remains at that helm.

Yet despite the exodus of league leaders, most of the new 8-A masterminds should be familiar to area fans. With the exception of Curtis Pittman, who moves from Karnes City to take over at Fort Davis, the district newcomers did not have to travel far, if at all.

Just one short year ago, when top-ranked Garden City entertained No. 2 Rotan in District 9-A's marquee match-up, it was a battle of wits between Bearkat coach Sam Scott and Pat Ward, sideline boss of the Yellowhammers.

That pair is destined to clash again this season, but as 8-A antagonists. Scott, who led the Bearkats to the regional playoffs, takes over the 8-A program in Wink. And Ward, who tutored Rotan all the way to the state semifinals, recently accepted the head job at Grandfalls-Royalty, the tiniest 8-A school.

And not only did Scott leave his 9-A program for the western influence of District 8-A, so did his former team. The Bearkats are the newest 8-A members and Dennis Bryant, the first assistant coach under Scott, takes over as the 'Kats head coach.

Rankin continued its reign as district champion last year, but head coach Troy Kennedy resigned following the Red Devils' appearance in the state quarterfinals and assistant coach Raul Sanchez got the job.

Now, something has to give. All six of the 8-A head jobs are suddenly filled by men who experienced postseason play last year. Scott and Ward led 9-A playoff teams, and Bryant and Sanchez were playoff team assistants.

Shackleford led Sanderson to an area game, and Pittman was an assistant for Karnes City when the Badgers reached the Class 2A state semifinals.

If it sounds like a game of musical coaches, perhaps it's because four out of six will be singing the blues in '92.

Bono pulls another win out of helmet for San Francisco

Associated Press

SAN DIEGO — Another week, another dash of heroics for San Francisco's Steve Bono.

Bono threw a 15-yard pass to rookie Mark Seay with 3:43 left to pull the 49ers to 14-13, then rookie Amp Lee scored on a 3-yard run with 2 minutes left as the 49ers rallied for a 20-14 win over the San Diego Chargers Friday night.

Besides spoiling the home debut of new Chargers coach Bobby Ross, the win keeps San Francisco (4-0) on track for its second straight undefeated exhibition season. The 49ers close the exhibition season at home against Seattle next Friday. San Diego fell to 1-2.

Bono completed seven of eight passes for 64 yards on the 71-yard drive culminating with Seay's touchdown. The 49ers got the ball back on the Chargers 41 when John Kidd's punt went only 14 yards, and it took only four plays to score the winning touchdown. Bono hit Seay for 27 yards on the second play, and the 49ers gained an additional 6 on a roughness call against safety Delton Hall.

Bono, playing the second half in place of Steve Young, completed 14 of 21 passes for 155 yards and one touchdown. Young completed nine of 14 for 96 yards.

The 49ers were playing with only three full days of practice following a 17-15 win over the Washington Redskins in London on Sunday. In that game, Bono threw for two second-half touchdowns.

San Diego quarterback Bob Gagliano had a 20-yard scoring run in his second strong start and Ronnie Harmon added a 9-yard touchdown run as the Chargers took a 14-3 halftime lead.

Gagliano scored his first rushing TD as a Charger for a 7-3 lead 3:23 into the second quarter. Finding his receivers covered, he instead found a wide-open left side and ran untouched for the score.

Gagliano, playing only the first two possessions, completed eight of 13 passes for 87 yards. A week earlier, he completed seven of 11 for 123 yards in a 20-10 victory at New England.

Quarterback Stan Humphries, acquired in a trade with the Redskins on Aug. 13, led the Chargers 80 yards in 11 plays to a score in his second drive. Harmon scored on an inside trap with 41 seconds left in the half.

Weather slows International

Associated Press

CASTLE ROCK, Colo. — Dan Pohl held the lead when a lightning storm forced an overnight suspension of play Friday in the second round of the $1.2 million International golf tournament.

Under the peculiar format for this event, the lead at this stage of the proceedings has virtually no meaning.

The delay, on the other hand, was full of portent.

Again, because of the unusual format, the potential for a Monday finish became a possibility.

"Under this format," Duke Butler, tournament director for the PGA Tour, said, "I don't think we'd want to go to a three-round tournament."

After taking a look at the weather forecast, Larry Thiel, the tournament general manager, said a Monday finish was possible.

Seventy-one players were on the Castle Pines Golf Club course when play was halted at 2:07 p.m. MDT. About three hours later, with lightning continuing to strike in the area, play was called for the day.

Some late starters had as many as 16 holes to play — about four hours of playing time. Play is scheduled to resume at 8 a.m. MDT.

And this is where the tournament format creates an additional problem.

In this unique event, medal scores do not count, only points for the score on each hole:

Trio tied at LPGA Northgate

BROOKLYN PARK, Minn. (AP) — Nancy Lopez, Judy Dickinson and Barb Mucha each shot 5-under rounds of 67 Friday to share the first-round lead in the Northgate Computer Classic.

Dottie Mochrie, the leading money winner on the LPGA tour, parred the first seven holes on the par-72 Edinburgh USA course and then played 4-under the rest of the way to finish one shot behind the leaders.

Mary Murphy also was one shot back in the $425,000 event. Betsy King was among seven women who were two shots back.

Defending champion Cindy Rarick shot a 2-over 74 and was seven shots out of the lead. She shot a 75 in last year's opening round. Beth Daniel, who won the inaugural Northgate two years ago, shot 73.

Lopez, who didn't play the last two weeks and is making her first start in the 3-year-old Northgate, got hot on the backside with four birdies to tie Dickinson.

Crampton leads GTE senior tourney

KENMORE, Wash. (AP) — Bruce Crampton, with a 66, was the leader in Friday's first round of the $450,000 GTE Northwest Classic but he had to share the attention with Arnold Palmer's hole-in-one.

Crampton 6-under-par round on the 6,455-yard, par-72 Inglewood Country Club course put him one stroke ahead of Palmer, Miller Barber and Larry Laoretti in the Senior PGA Tour event.

The 62-year-old Palmer got the 16th hole-in-one of his career when he holed out with a 3-iron on the 193-yard eighth.

HOUSTON: NFL experiments

and tackles for each team. They will be used only when the offenses move inside the opponent's 20-yard line.

The NFL wants to know if Warren Moon can get the run-and-gun firing despite the clamor and if Bobby Hebert finds his offense clicking better with his tackles tuned in.

Noise levels run very high, especially in domed stadiums, Shuhard said. Readings he took in the Minnesota dome during a game registered between 110 and 115 decibels, he said.

"That's a lot of noise. A lot. It's like standing under a jet that's taking off and trying to make yourself heard," Shuhard said.

Teams complain that they're at a disadvantage on the road, because their tackles can't hear the snap count and lose an important edge when trying to block the defensive ends and linebackers.

Statistics compiled by the Saints don't bear that out, said coach Jim Mora. Pat Swilling, the NFL sack leader, had just two mores sacks in home games than on the road last year, Mora said.

Mora analyzed sacks his team made and surrendered both at home and on the road and found no significant difference, he said. In addition, the Saints scored at about the same rate once they got into the scoring zone both at home and on the road, Mora said.

"It's something the league wants to try," Mora said. "I don't object to it, but I'm not sure it will make a big difference."

Under the system, the quarterbacks have a transmitter housing located in the back of their shoulder pads. A transmitter slips into that housing and a small mike clips to the front of the players uniform, Shuhard said.

When the quarterback bends over to take the snap from the center, the body motion automatically directs the transmitter to begin operating, he said.

"That way the only time he is broadcasting is when he's bent over. It's not a continuous thing," Shuhart said. "It transmits whenever the quarterback bends over, actually. What we've found is that most of them bend over in the huddle, so it transmits then as well."

The tackles have receivers in the tops of their helmets and small speakers near their ears. The volume should be enough for them to hear their own quarterback, but not loud enough to broadcast it to others on the line, Shuhart said.

"They can only pick up the signals from their own quarterback. They can't listen in on the other side. They can't be jammed. It's pretty foolproof," Shuhart said.

The Saints tried to practice with the devices Thursday, but a thunderstorm forced them to yank the transmitter out of Hebert's pads.

"That's just because we haven't waterproofed it," Shuhart explained. "It wouldn't have electrocuted him or anything. We just didn't want it to get wet."

DALLAS: QB's ail slightly

(From 1B)

Both missed practice time during the week as the Cowboys prepared for the 8 p.m. exhibition game against the Broncos in Texas Stadium. Both teams are 1-2 in preseason.

Dallas and Denver are 1-2 in preseason games and oddsmakers rated the Cowboys a 4-point favorite. Denver defeated Dallas 24-21 in overtime in their last preseason meeting, in 1989.

Johnson has said he is more likely against Denver to play the lineup that will start against the Redskins than when the Cowboys wrap up their preseason Aug. 28 against Chicago at Texas Stadium.

Aikman had muscle problems in his back while Beuerlein got a back bruise in last week's game against Houston.

Backup tailback Curvin Richards has a lacerated kidney, which could keep him out of action for a week.

Dallas receivers Alvin Harper and Alexander Wright were nursing injuries during the week. Harper had slight knee problem and Wright also has a back problem. Both were listed as doubtful for the game.

The Cowboys also were counting on getting a look at placekicker Lin Elliott. He's still nursing a groin injury.

Johnson said "the injuries are nothing to be concerned about. It would be a concern if we were playing the Redskins this week."

Dallas fans won't be seeing former Cowboys quarterback Steve Pelluer, signed as a Plan B free agent from Kansas City as a possible backup to John Elway. The Broncos Pelluer early in the week, leaving second-year Shawn Moore and rookie Tommy Maddox as the only backup quarterbacks.

The Cowboys and Denver will play again in the regular season on Dec. 6 at Mile High Stadium.

BEN HOGAN
BEN HOGAN PERMIAN BASIN OPEN

Dear Friends,

The Ben Hogan Tour is coming to The Club at Mission Dorado August 24-30. The Permian Basin Open needs your help in the scoring aspects of our Tournament. The Tournament will benefit the Pediatric Intensive Care at Medical Center Hospital.

Scoring is the largest volunteer pool required in operations, fielding between 250 and 300 people. Various assignments are also available which include; walking scorers, greenside scorers, standard bearers, leaderboard and main scoreboard atendants, volunteer shifts are based on 4 hour rotations with Friday the 28th, Saturday the 29th and Sunday the 30th being the key days.

If you are interested in serving as a volunteer in our inaugural event, please contact Mim Gaddy, Scoring Chair at 570-5800 (office) or 570-8908 (home) or call the Golf Pro shop at 561-8811.

'Skins on track in exhibiton

Associated Press

The Washington Redskins were 1-3 in exhibitions last season, losing one game more than they would through the regular season, the playoffs and the Super Bowl.

They're right on track again this year — 0-3 going into tonight's game against the 0-2 Raiders at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

"I'd rather win every game I play than lose them," says Washington coach Joe Gibbs. "But if I have to lose, these are the games I'd prefer."

That's so for a lot of coaches, although with two weeks left in the preseason, it's time for teams to get serious. For players, too — the first cutdown (from 80 players to 60 players) comes next Tuesday.

NFL Preseason

The exhibition weekend, which features local battles in Florida and New York, began Friday with San Francisco playing at San Diego.

Today's other games include Houston at New Orleans; New England at Detroit; Indianapolis at Cincinnati; the New York Giants at the New York Jets; Tampa Bay at Miami; Denver at Dallas; Green Bay at the Los Angeles Rams, and Phoenix at Seattle.

Philadelphia is at Atlanta on Sunday afternoon and Pittsburgh is at Chicago Sunday night. On Monday, Minnesota plays at Cleveland and Buffalo is at Kansas City.

Gibbs' Redskins, with quarterback Mark Rypien back, still have three key holdouts — tackle Jim Lachey, cornerback Darrell Green and Desmond Howard, the Heisman Trophy-winning receiver and first-round draft choice.

Still, they haven't really played badly, losing three games by a total of four points. And in each of the last two games, the Washington defense shut out the opposition in the first half.

Ryan loses fourth straight decision, 8-6

Associated Press

CLEVELAND — Nolan Ryan gave up seven runs in less than five innings and lost his fourth consecutive decision as the Cleveland Indians beat the Texas Rangers 8-6 Friday night.

Albert Belle homered as Cleveland won its 57th game, equaling its total for all of last year. Juan Gonzalez hit his 32nd home run for Texas and Ruben Sierra and Dean Palmer also connected for the Rangers.

The 45-year-old Ryan (5-7) struck out only one batter in 4 1-3 innings, his lowest strikeout total in an appearance longer than two innings since April 1985. The seven runs — one of them unearned — matched the most he's allowed in a game in his three-plus seasons with Texas.

Ryan is 0-4 with a 6.43 ERA in five August starts. The losing streak is his worst since he dropped five straight decisions in 1988.

Twins 5, Blue Jays 1

MINNEAPOLIS — Kent Hrbek homered, singled and drove in three runs and Minnesota snapped a five-game losing streak.

The Twins won for only the eighth time in 24 games. The AL East-leading Blue Jays have been outscored 31-9 during a three-game losing streak.

American

Hrbek tied Tony Oliva for second place on Minnesota's all-time RBI list with 947, trailing only Harmon Killebrew's 1,325. Hrbek had been batting just .155 since the All-Star break.

Mariners 5, Red Sox 2

BOSTON — Randy Johnson fanned 11 for his third straight double-digit strikeout game, pitching four-hit ball for seven shutout innings to lead Seattle over Boston.

Johnson (10-12) moved into second place in the AL with 158 strikeouts, six behind Boston's Roger Clemens and one ahead of Melido Perez of the New York Yankees.

Boston, the second-worst hitting team in the AL, has lost four of five and hadn't scored in 20 innings before the ninth, when Eric Wedge hit his first major league home run, a two-run drive off Shawn Barton.

Brewers 3, Tigers 2

MILWAUKEE — Jaime Navarro beat Detroit for the fifth consecutive time as Milwaukee defeated the Tigers and closed within 3½ games of division-leading Toronto.

Navarro (14-8) is 5-0 in nine career starts against Detroit. He allowed both runs and seven hits in eight innings, struck out six and walked none before Doug Henry finished with a perfect ninth for his 24th save in 27 chances.

Angels 9, Yankees 5

NEW YORK — Luis Sojo and Luis Polonia had three hits each, and Shawn Hillegas was hit hard again as California took a six-run lead and hung on to beat New York.

Mike Butcher got the victory in his first big league decision, pitching 1 2-3 hitless innings. Tim Fortugno pitched three innings of one-hit relief for his first major league save.

Hillegas (1-8) was tagged for six runs and nine hits in 3 2-3 innings, and lost for the fifth time in six starts.

Orioles 4, Athletics 2

BALTIMORE — Brady Anderson and Leo Gomez homered and Mike Mussina allowed two runs in six innings as Baltimore beat Oakland.

The Athletics, leading the AL West by five games over Minnesota, lost first baseman Mark McGwire in the fourth inning with a strained right rib cage. McGwire's 38 home runs are the most in the majors, and the extent of his injury was not immediately known.

Royals 4, White Sox 3

CHICAGO — David Howard drove home the go-ahead run with an eighth-inning groundout as Kansas City beat Chicago for its fifth victory in six games.

Frank Thomas and George Bell hit consecutive home runs.

Astros get another road win, 6-1 at Philly

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Brian Williams pitched seven strong innings Friday night and the Houston Astros began the final series on their 26-game road trip with a 6-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Craig Biggio, Luis Gonzalez and Ed Taubensee each drove in two runs for Houston, now 10-14 on its 28-day swing.

Williams (5-4) gave up five hits, struck out seven and walked three. Andy Ashby (1-1) held Houston hitless for 4 2-3 innings, but gave up four runs in the fifth.

The Phillies took a 1-0 lead in the third. Juan Bell singled, Ruben Amaro walked and Stan Javier singled, loading the bases, and John Kruk had a sacrifice fly.

Taubensee singled on a check swing with two outs in the fifth and Williams beat out a bunt single. Biggio tripled home the runs and, after a walk to Steve Finley, Gonzalez hit a two-run single.

Taubensee hit a two-run single in the eighth, off Cliff Brantley.

Cardinals 5, Braves 2

ATLANTA — Felix Jose singled home the go-ahead run with two outs in the 10th inning and St. Louis went on to beat Atlanta for its third straight victory.

The Braves blew a chance to win in the ninth when Mark Lemke grounded into an inning-ending double play with the bases loaded. The Cardinals have won five of six, while NL West-leading Atlanta has lost two in a row.

Expos 6, Reds 3

MONTREAL — Moises Alou, who entered the game in the top of the eighth as a defensive replacement, hit a three-run homer in the bottom half of the inning Friday night, giving Montreal a victory over Cincinnati.

Alou, in a 12-for-66 slump, hit reliever Rob Dibble's first pitch for his sixth home run of the season. Marquis Grissom led off by drawing a walk from Tim Belcher (10-12) and Larry Walker singled before Alou homered into the left-field seats.

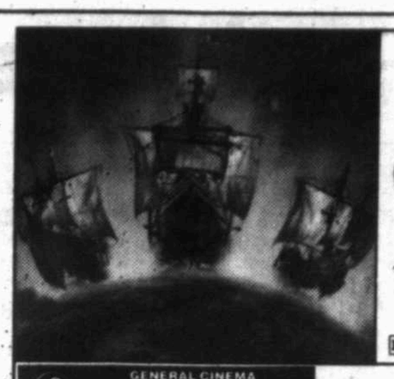

Giants 6, Pirates 5

SAN FRANCISCO — Robby Thompson's three-run homer capped a six-run fifth inning as San Francisco became the first team to solve rookie knuckleballer Tim Wakefield, beating Pittsburgh.

Wakefield (3-1) had not allowed more than two earned runs in any of his first four major league starts, and had pitched at least eight innings each time.

STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE

WHAT IS STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE?

Stockquote Hotline gives you the latest stock prices direct from the wires of the Associated Press. Over 9,000 stocks are listed from NYSE, AmEx, and OTC sources; all available 24 hours a day. You can receive up to 10 quotes with one easy phone call.

HOW TO USE STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE:

1) Call the Stockquote Hotline at 560-2400; enter the category number which is 9988.

2) You will be asked to enter your stock ticker symbol. These are based on industry-standard symbols, which can be found in a Standard & Poor's Ticker guide, or by calling your local stock broker.

3) Once you've entered the numerical code for the ticker symbol, press the Star Key (*) and you will hear the current price and net change from the last Associated Press update; which is a few minutes behind market activity.

4) After the stock is quoted, you will be asked to enter another ticker symbol. You now have 2 options:
- You may request a quote for another stock by repeating steps 2 & 3.
- You may request additional information on the stock just quoted by once more pressing the Star Key (*).

Now the volume, high and low will be given, and then you will be asked to enter another ticker code.
- You may enter up to 10 ticker symbols per call.

5) To exit Stockquote Hotline, simply hang up the phone.

Jeffreys wins RHCC Junior

Brian Jeffreys claimed first place in the top division of the Ranchland Hills Country Club Junior Golf Championship, posting a 36-hole score of 154 after Friday's final round.

J.J. Castillo placed second with a 159, while David Smith was third at 160.

Here are the final standings after Friday's round of the Ranchland Hills Country Club Junior Golf Championship:

Division I (two 18-hole rounds): 1. Brian Jeffreys, 154; 2. J.J. Castillo, 159; 3. David Smith, 160.

Division II (two 9-hole rounds): 1. Matt Gerhard, 87; 2. Jayson Nix, 88.

Frables medal

SPOKANE, Wash. — Norm and Kathy Frable of Midland each received medals for their efforts at the 1992 National Masters Track and Field Championships, where over 1,000 particpants gathered recently.

Norm, competing in the 45-age group, won a gold medal with a fourth-place finish in the men's 20K racewalk with a 1:49.45. He also took home a silver medal in the high jump with a 5-5 effort, and he earned bronze in the 5K racewalk.

Kathy finished 11th in a field of 75 women in the masters 10K and captured a bronze medal.

Beal, Leede 19th

Former Midlanders Barry Beal and Michael Leede finished 19th overall and first in their class in becoming the only North Americans to finish the nine-day, 6,500 kilometer PIAA Australian Safari, a FISA sanctioned cross country raid which began Aug. 8 in Sydney.

While 47 of the 103 starters failed to reach the finish line, Beal and Leede — rookie marathoners — guided their Nissan Pathfinder through nine days of tough competition for the finish.

Both drivers now live in Denver, Colo.

Compiled from Reporter-Telegram staff reports.

Becker ousts Connors at Hardcourts

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Jimmy Connors, willing of body and strong of spirit, had his shots fail him Friday in the U.S. Hardcourts tennis championships.

Connors committed costly errors in two crucial service games and lost to Boris Becker 6-4, 6-3 in a quarterfinal match.

Defending champion Pete Sampras defeated wild card Thomas Enqvist of Sweden 6-0, 7-6 (8-6), and second-year pro Todd Martin of Lansing, Mich., ousted sixth-seeded Francisco Clavet of Spain 6-1, 6-2.

Top seed Jim Courier advanced to the semifinals against Martin, his practice partner, with a 6-2, 6-3 victory over Brett Steven of New Zealand.

Steven, ranked 156th in the world, was broken in the first game. He blew a 40-love lead, then saved two break points in the seventh game before Courier won it to go up 5-2.

"I played very well tonight," Courier said. "As long as I have a positive attitude about it, I'll be happy with the way things go."

Steven reached a quarterfinal for the first time this year after two of his three previous opponents retired with injuries.

Ivanisevic advances to Volvo quarters

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Goran Ivanisevic overcame sloppy play and Marc Rosset's powerful serve Friday to advance to the Volvo International quarterfinals with a three-set victory.

Ivanisevic, the second seed, broke Rosset only once, but was broken only once in winning 3-6, 7-6 (7-5), 6-4 in 99 minutes.

Other high seeds advanced fairly easily as top seed Stefan Edberg beat 16th seed Paul Haarhuis 6-2, 6-4; No. 3 Michael Chang defeated No. 14 Andrei Cherkasov 6-2, 6-1; No. 4 Petr Korda won over Chuck Adams, 6-4, 6-7 (3-7), 6-4, and No. 5 Ivan Lendl beat Amos Mansdorf 6-2, 6-3.

Ninth-seed John McEnroe was beaten by eighth-seed MaliVai Washington 7-6 (7-0), 6-4 and No. 7 Guy Forget and unseeded Fabrice Santoro also advanced to the quarterfinals with straight-set victories.

Ivanisevic could hardly touch Rosset's first serve as the Olympic gold medalist had 17 aces and won the point on 46 of the 49 first serves he got in.

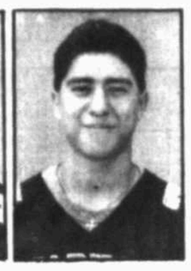

"It's tough to play a guy like him," said Ivanisevic, who leads the ATP in aces this year.

BEARKATS: Garden City boasts good size

(From 1B)

Blalock

Lopez

"There's a lot we can't do right now. Our offense is plain vanilla," said Bryant, who saw his No. 1 quarterback, Brent Seidenberger, suffer a disabling wrist injury the first day of fall practice, then watched backup Chris Braden twist a leg and go down earlier this week.

"Brent will have his wrist X-rayed on Tuesday to determine whether he'll be back right away or be out four to six weeks," Bryant said. "In the meantime, we can't afford to get anyone else hurt."

So the Bearkats will have to adjust. But unlike many Class A programs around the state, Garden City may have the horses to get the job done.

Bradford, a 175-pound senior, galloped for 740 yards in a part-time capacity last year and has earned state-wide respect three years running as a kicker. He should be able to run Garden City's offset I-formation offense if he has to.

Matt Seidenberger, an all-district linebacker last year, will stand in at fullback, weighing 195 pounds, and he's just one of eight Bearkats at 180 pounds or better.

"We have fairly decent size for a Class A program," Bryant said, "but I think our skill people are basically our strength right now.

"We're having to rebuild our offensive line. We only have three members of last year's line back, and one of them is playing a different position."

Senior David Blalock was an all-district tight end last year, and four more seniors stand ready to fill roles on the offensive line.

Chris Schraeder (180), Pete Talamantes (180), Warren Wills (230) and Derek Schraeder (228) bring both leadership and size to the guard and tackle slots. And junior center Rex Norton stands in to anchor the line at 251 pounds.

All-district defensive back Andy Lopez can line up as a wideout or in the backfield and Cody Braden, at 6-4, 170, will make a good target for whoever quarterbacks the 'Kats.

"We need to have some of the younger kids come in and fill some pretty big shoes," Bryant said. "It's not every year you lose all-state people at four positions. Our youngsters will have to step in and get the job done pretty quick because I think that everybody's pretty equal in this league."

Fourteen lettermen return in all for Garden City.

"Of course, we feel like we have as good a shot as anybody, but (defending champion) Rankin is always tough and Coach Scott is over at Wink now and he's a winner," Bryant said.

"But we've got winners here, too. If we can stay healthy from here on out then I think we can be competitive with anyone."

The Bearkats should be strong — if young — in the secondary, where senior Marty Pierce and Lopez will be joined by Bradford, junior Stuart Wilde and sophomore Vance Moore. And since both original QBs were expected to see action in the defensive backfield, freshmen Ryan Seidenberger and Eric Medrano could get in on the fun.

The 'Kats are deep at defensive end with Cody Braden, Josh Jones, Brandon Dieringer, Galen Schwartz, Kevin Hoelscher and Blalock holding down the early spots. And linebackers are plentiful with Buck Casino, Ross Norton, Gerald Salazar, Billy Rudloff, Tommy Dalton, Jesse Salazar, Juan Martinez and Bryan Harp all hoping to play along side Matt Seidenberger.

Listed as two-way tackles are Cody Cummings and Bill Lopez. And Michael Schraeder is a center/tackle.

Prep player dies of heat stroke

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A high school football player who collapsed and died after team practice during a searing hot spell died of heat stroke, an autopsy showed Friday.

Sergio Echevarria, 17, didn't regain consciousness and died early Thursday at Holy Cross Hospital in suburban Mission Hills two days after collapsing at nearby San Fernando High School.

"Hyperthermia and dehydration, which is heat stroke," killed the teen-ager, said Scott Carrier, spokesman for the coroner's office.

The temperature in the San Fernando Valley reached 105 degrees Tuesday, causing the team's practice to be cut short.

Texas opens fire in pepper feud

AUSTIN (AP) — Hot pepper promoters in Texas are preparing to launch a blistering attack against New Mexico in the war over which state produces the best chilis.

Next month, Texas chili peppers will be featured during the first National Chili Pepper Festival in Austin.

Although "National" is in the festival title, apparently New Mexico growers will be disqualified because their peppers are spelled "chiles."

Hill Rylander, chief of the Travis County Market and festival organizer, said, "Chili spelled with an 'e' is a country in South America. It's hard to believe they've created a billion-dollar industry on a misspelled word."

New Mexicans are not amused.

"Their festival shows they're jealous of us," said Jeanne Croft of the New Mexico Department of Agriculture.

Rylander said he will announce the Sept. 5-6 festival at a news conference next week in El Paso, where he hopes to fire salvos across the state line.

"We want them to know we're coming," he said.

Ms. Croft said, "If Texas wants a war over this, we'll give it to them."

Rylander complained that New Mexico's hot pepper reputation has grown by leaps and bounds, but that Texas' offers more variety.

He said the festival will give growers, processors, and aficionados a chance to brainstorm against their western neighbors.

There also will be judging contests for jalapenos, serranos, poblanos and fiery hot habaneros.

He said Texas soldiers in the pepper war will unveil a 4- to 6-foot tall statue of a chili sculpted in glass. "It will proclaim us as the chili pepper capital of the world," he said.

Ms. Croft laughed at Texas' grab for the title. "Just let them try," she said.

NAACP expects up to 1,500 for protest

TYLER (AP) — The head of this city's NAACP said Friday he expects as many 1,500 people to attend a weekend rally designed to draw attention to several incidents of alleged police brutality.

Saturday's demonstration was moved from the parking lot of a church located in a predominantly black neighborhood to the Harvey Convention Center near downtown.

The move came after the Ku Klux Klan announced it would hold a counterprotest earlier Saturday on the courthouse square in downtown Tyler.

"There was some concern mostly for security reasons," said Ernest Deckard, president of the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement for Colored People.

The NAACP rally is scheduled to start at 2:30 p.m.

Smith County Sheriff J.B. Smith and Tyler Police Chief Larry Robinson are urging people to ignore the Klan rally to avoid exposing themselves to potential violence.

Deckard, however, said Klan members have the right to voice their opinions.

"We're praying for that (a peaceful gathering)," he said. "'We're just going to leave that to God. But I told the sheriff to let them have their time and their say."

Smith, who has been sheriff for 16 years, said this is the first time the Klan has rallied in Tyler.

The shooting of 84-year-old Annie Rae Dixon during a botched drug sting in January is just one fatal incident involving police and blacks that NAACP officials want to highlight. Concern also has been raised over blacks who have died while in custody.

'We're praying for that (a peaceful gathering). We're just going to leave that to God. But I told the sheriff to let them have their time and their say.'

— Ernest Deckard

■ On Dec. 13, Michael Dewayne Rose died after being arrested during a drug raid. Tyler police said Rose, 35, appeared to suffer a seizure in Smith County Jail. He died later that night at East County Medical Center.

Justice of the Peace Mitch Shamburger ruled Jan. 27 that Rose's death was accidental, agreeing with a pathologist who said Rose died after swallowing a large amount of cocaine.

■ On Jan. 21, Demetrius Cortez Caddell, 19, died after suffering an asthma attack in the jail. Caddell had been in custody since June and had pleaded guilty Nov. 20 to engaging in organized criminal activity.

Two gang members sexually assaulted girl in initiation, investigators say

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Two youths have been accused of sexually assaulting a 10-year-old girl who police say was given the choice of being beaten by girl gang members or gang raped by boys as her initiation into the group.

The two boys, ages 13 and 14, chuckled as they told investigators "she rolled the dice" to make her choice, a police report said. Officers said the gang members boasted that the girl chose to be gang raped over being beaten up by members of the gang's female auxiliary.

The two youths were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Police said Thursday the girl's mother notified police shortly before 11 p.m. Wednesday that her daughter was being sexually assaulted at a house. As officers approached the house with the mother, they saw the girl and a gang member walking away, a police report said.

One of the officers noticed the girl had a bruise on her neck and asked if the boy with her had done it.

"No, one of the other guys did it," police quoted the girl as saying.

When the officer asked her whether the boys had done anything else to her, she answered, "They did everything to me," and started crying, according to the report.

Another officer questioned the girl and determined she had been sexually assaulted.

The girl said two of five youths in the house sexually assaulted her. She also identified one of the boys who had been with her who she said had tried to make the others stop.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

■ Richard Campbell to perform

Richard Campbell performs at 6 p.m. Sunday at Midland Bible Church, 2800 N. A St.

Campbell, a native of Matador, has recorded four gospel albums, including "The Sweet Sounds of Jesus," "In Remembrance," "I'm Changed" and "His Name is Jesus."

Campbell

Campbell, a 1972 graduate of Texas Tech University with a degree in physical education, was a member of the Red Raider football team. While at Tech, he was named to the All-Southwest Conference defensive team in 1968 and 1969.

He played in the Hula Bowl Classic. In June of the same year he played in the Coaches All-American Game in Lubbock. Prior to that game he sang the National Anthem becoming the first athlete to sing before a game that he would play.

Campbell has been in full-time evangelism for more than 14 years. He is married to the former Ann Butler of Odessa. They have four children.

The public is invited to hear Campbell.

■ Missionary to speak today

Missionary Bruce Turner will be speaking at Tall City Baptist Church, 3500 Anetta Drive, today and Sunday.

A native of British Columbia, Turner is a missionary in Comox Valley on Vancouver Island, British Columbia, Canada.

The first service will be at 7 p.m. today. Turner, who is sponsored in his mission by Tall City Baptist Church, also will speak at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday.

The public is invited to hear him speak.

■ Institute to begin classes

West Texas Bible Institute, 3500 Anetta Drive, begins classes at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

"West Texas Bible Institute offers full time students the same number of hours that are given at any other American Baptist Association school," said a release from the Rev. Bill Simpson, president of WTBI.

"The one full day schedule makes it possible for preachers, pastors or lay-workers to arrange a schedule that will enable them to take one day out of their week and attend seminary classes," Simpson said.

Registration is today. Those unable to register today are asked to visit the school Monday. For more information call 694-7515.

■ Annual city-wide revival set

The annual City-Wide Revival, sponsored by the Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance, is set for the Mt. Carmel Baptist Church, 1308 E. Pecan Ave., beginning at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

The revival, which continues through Friday, concludes at 3 p.m. Aug. 30.

The revival will be of an ecumenical format with local pastors serving as conductors and speakers. The Rev. Tony Williams, Alliance the president, invites the public to attend.

■ Annual Mission Day planned

Antioch Baptist Church, 1400 E. Golf Course Road, will have its annual Mission Day at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. L. Legyon, pastor of Goodwill Baptist Church.

The public is invited to attend.

■ Church announces services

The New Testament Baptist Church, 1308 S. Midkiff St., is announcing its opening services.

The Permian Basin's newest independent Baptist church, the New Testament Baptist Church has services set for 10 a.m. Sunday School, 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. services Sundays and 7:30 p.m. services Wednesdays.

For more information call Mike Mills, 683-9385.

■ Choir season registration set

St. Luke's United Methodist Church, 3011 W. Kansas Ave., is registering children, youth and adults for the 1992-93 choir season.

Registration will be ongoing through the week of Aug. 30 when rehearsals begin.

Choirs are available for those age 3 by Sept. 1 through adults. Each choir is involved in worship music as well as festivals and clinics.

Handbell choirs are available from the 4th-grade through adult. The handbell choirs meet on Sunday and Monday.

For a rehearsal schedule or more information on St. Luke's UMC's music program, call 694-2571 during working hours, or 684-4745 in the evening. The Rev. Jarrell H. Sharp is the senior minister for St. Luke's and Bert Bostic is the minister of music.

■ Fellowship plans last fling

The St. Luke's United Methodist Youth Fellowship is planning a last fling before school and the fall schedule of activities begin.

Youth are invited to the home of Keith and Joan Van Horn for a picnic and pool party Sunday. Those attending are asked to meet at the church at 4 p.m. where transportation will be provided to and from the Van Horn home. Parents are asked to pick up their youth at the church at 8 p.m.

Cost for the event is a can of food to be given to the Area Methodist Outreach service and a bag of chips for the picnic. For more information regarding the evening's activities, call Bert Bostic, 694-2571.

■ Green to be guest speaker

The Rev. Alfred Leon Green will be the guest speaker at Calvary Baptist Church, 1001 S. Main St., for the 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. services Sunday.

Green is pastor of Plainview Baptist Church, Colorado City. He has pastored churches in New Mexico and Texas for 22 years.

A "pot Luck" covered-dish luncheon will follow the morning service.

The public is invited to attend.

■ Rebirth, reincarnation forum set

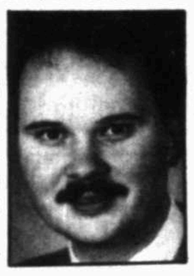

The Unitarian Universalist Church of Midland will present a forum entitled "Rebirth and Reincarnation" at 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

"This will be an introduction and discussion into the beliefs in rebirth and reincarnation of major world religions," said a release from the church.

The public is invited to attend. For more information call Dave Nelson, 686-5575.

■ Harper to minister at church

Mark Harper will be ministering at the Living Way Church, 415 Alta Ave., at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday.

Harper

Harper will be addressing parents and children's ministers during the morning service. That evening, Harper, assisted by his puppet Herman, will lead a Children's Crusade. Children as well as adults and youth are invited to the services.

Harper has been ministering to children for 13 years. A number of churches are using his "Super Church Curriculum Series."

This weekend, Living Way Church is hosting a Southwest Children's Worker's Conference that concludes today.

Harper is leading the conference assisted by Tim Lambert. The conference is for senior pastors, youth pastors, children's workers, and parents.

Workshop topics include: Children and the Holy Spirit, Effective Storytelling, Creative Object Lessons, Developing Your Preschool Ministry, How to Feed Kids the Word of God, and Power Packed Puppet Ministry.

For more information contact Living Way Church, 415 Alta Ave., 683-1750.

■ Church hosts 4-week course

"Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," a four-week course taught by the Rev. and Mrs. Al Moreau, is in its third week.

The course is based on their study in Israel both in 1983 and in July of 1992. It is being offered at 9:30 a.m. today and Aug. 30 at Trinity Presbyterian Church, 2800 W. Louisiana Ave.

Topics include the history of Israel, geography of Israel, politics and peace in Israel today, archaeology and the Dead Sea scrolls.

■ Extension program hosts class

The West Texas Extension Program of Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary will be offering the class "The Interpretation of the Psalms" here Sept. 8 through Dec. 1.

This course is a six-hour elective course for the master of divinity program at Austin Seminary. In this seminar, students study the Psalms as Hebrew literature and as confessions of the worshiping community.

The classes will meet at First Presbyterian Church, 800 W. Texas Ave., Tuesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Interested participants may take the course for full credit, as a special student of the seminary, or for audit.

For registration information contact A.J. Moreau, director of the program, at P.O. Box 5111, Midland, Texas 79704, or call 682-2514.

■ Leaders call for more effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of Roman Catholic, Protestant and Jewish organizations have called for greater international efforts to end assaults on Bosnia and Herzegovina in the former Yugoslavia.

"The savagery and injustice ... evokes moral revulsion in all of us," said the chairman of the U.S. Catholic bishops' international policy committee.

Archbishop John R. Roach of Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., said "much more concerned and sustained international action" is needed to relieve the "humanitarian disaster" and stop Serbian aggression.

GOP convention ends, Astros ready to play ball

HOUSTON (AP) — It took workers three weeks to convert the Astrodome into a red, white and blue Republican mecca, but in four days they must have it restored to a baseball stadium.

The breakdown in the Astrodome began Thursday night even as thousands of balloons were still falling from the rafters of the Dome at the close of the GOP National Convention.

"We had workers outside the gate waiting. As soon as the president and vice president moved out, they moved in," said Mike Miller, convention operations director.

By Friday morning, workers had ripped out most of the 100,000 square feet of red carpet where dignitaries and delegates had stepped. Some 4,942 folding chairs had been carted out. Most of the balloons and political signs were jammed in trash bags.

Outside, a chain link fence that surrounded the Dome and kept out most would-be infiltrators was the first to go, along with the green elephant topiary donated by a local florist. Metal detectors that had been stationed between the Astrohall and the Dome also were gone.

A man aboard a hydraulic lift removed the giant patriotic banners that had welcomed convention goers, while other workers lowered American and state flags at they stadium entry way.

As conventioneers moved out, the sticky humid August weather, suspended somehow during the gathering, moved in.

"I didn't want to come (to work)," Elvin Kirks said as sweat beaded on his face. "I was here building it ... I've been working out to keep in shape and be ready because the first day out here got to me."

Kirks, a laid off computer operator was hired to remove red wrapping from poles of a tented walkway around the Astrodome.

Police officers and security guards who had shielded the Astrodomain throughout the four-day convention were not in sight Friday, allowing anyone inside to roam the halls.

Giant tractor trailer rigs moved in an out of the parking lot while forklifts hummed across the stadium floor picking up the equipment.

Despite a stuffy heat inside, workers moved furiously across the stadium floor unscrewing steel scaffolding and prying apart plywood. The sounds of patriotic songs and rally cries from the previous night were replaced with the furious clatter of hammers, plywood and forklifts.

About 300 contract workers yanked down the props, miles of cables, lighting and media stands.

"It's hot, it's heavy and it's probably the hardest work I've ever done," Melissa Hightower of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees said as she stripped the stage of its electric cable and tried to untangle some of the 172 miles of cable used during the convention.

Removing the lighting grid was expected to take longer than most jobs since the television anchor booths had to come out first, Miller said. The two together could be a 24-hour job, he said.

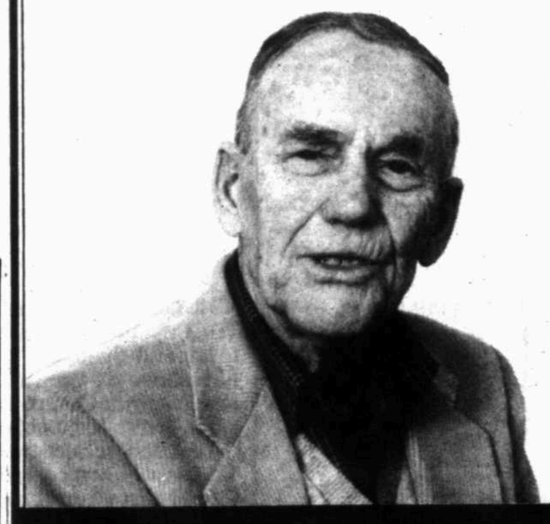

Across the street, a large field where protestors were delegated during the convention was as empty Friday as it had been during much of the convention. Workers removed orange barrels, barricades and yellow police tape that corralled the few who turned out.

Allen thinks Mia is turning his children against him

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Mia Farrow has kept Woody Allen from their children for weeks and he is afraid she has turned them against him, a spokeswoman for the actor-director said Friday.

"But he has continued to pay child support, as he feels any father should," said spokeswoman Leslee Dart.

Allen's younger sister, Letty Aronson, said one of her brother's two adopted children, 14-year-old Moses, refuses to speak to him.

Miss Farrow's alleged refusal to let Allen see the children follows news he is dating one of her adopted daughters, that he called her an unfit mother and sued for custody of his three children, and that he was accused of sexually molesting his adopted daughter, 7-year-old Dylan, an accusation he has denied.

Last week, Allen, 56, sued Miss Farrow, 47, for custody of Moses and Dylan, as well as his biological son, 4½-year-old Satchel. A custody hearing is scheduled Tuesday.

Moses, accompanied by the family nanny, said Thursday outside Miss Farrow's estate at Bridgewater, Conn., that he doesn't want to live with Allen.

He said Allen has torn their family apart with his romance with his adoptive sister, Soon-Yi Previn, and by the alleged abuse of Dylan, an accusation that Moses said he believes is true.

Allen first disclosed that Miss Farrow accused him of abusing the girl. Police have confirmed Allen is the subject of a criminal investigation, but refused to elaborate.

Dart said she believes Miss Farrow sent Moses to speak to the news media. "I don't believe for a moment these are Moses' ideas or words," she said.

Daisy Previn, 17, said she, too, believed Allen had molested her younger sister. "I believe he's sick and could do something like that," she said.

But talk show host Dick Cavett, a long-time friend of Allen's, said "not for one millisecond" does he believe the sex abuse allegations.

"If Woody Allen's a child molester, I will publicly kiss Pat Buchanan," he said. "Things like this don't suddenly erupt in middle-age men."

Cavett said he had a long conversation with Allen several days ago. "He sounds remarkably OK," considering the events of recent days, Cavett said.

Allen, meanwhile, stayed in his apartment on Manhattan's Fifth Avenue with Miss Previn Friday while news people camped outside.

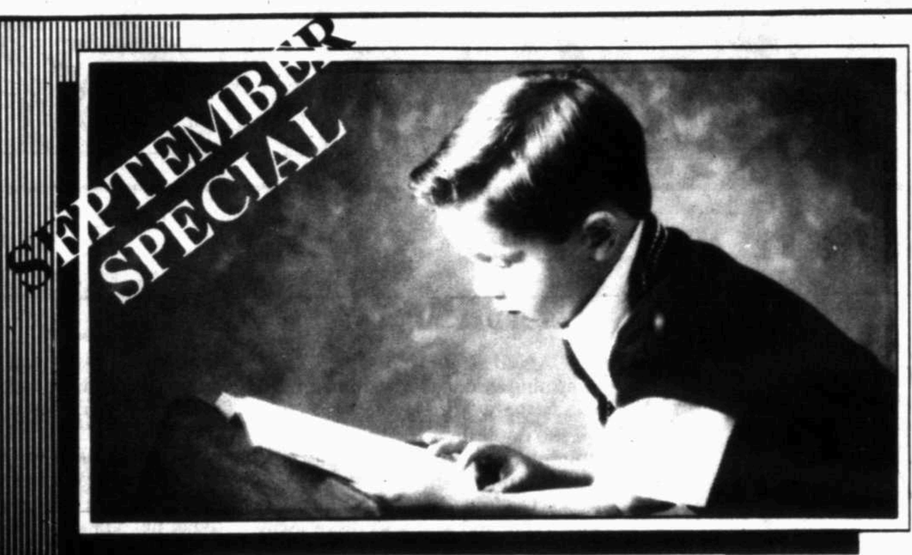

Miss Previn is the adopted daughter of Miss Farrow and her ex-husband, conductor Andre Previn. A Korean orphan, she has no birth certificate, and her age has been variously reported as somewhere between 19 and 21.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 22, 1992

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Challenging job responsibilities go hand-in-hand with fabulous financial rewards. Beginning in October, you will be able to do something you never thought possible. Going back to school could boost your earning potential. A romantic dalliance in December could lead to something long-lasting. Some of you will launch new businesses early next spring. A secret dream comes true when you show greater initiative.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: author Ray Bradbury, actresses Cindy Williams and Valerie Harper, slugger Carl Yastrzemski.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Step back from the spotlight. Your private moments with a loved one will reveal where your relationship is headed. Go through your entire wardrobe before planning any new purchases.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your talents are a beacon to ambitious people. Resist anyone who tries to use you. Shared business interests bring you closer to a member of the opposite sex.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Forget an important date and you will lose a golden opportunity. Cash is on the way. Face up to the seriousness of a family problem. A candid conversation helps.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A charming associate is waiting for you to say the word. Devote your energies to domestic life. An outrageous opinion could give you an idea you can turn into cash.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Take a test today and you will drive away with all the prizes. Discount shopping can help you look chic on a shoestring. Do not try to copy someone else's style; create your own!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Developments at a distance could electrify you. You have your whole future in your hands. A romantic alliance may not be exactly what you expected. Discuss your concerns.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Joint ventures and family enterprises are favored today. A private meeting brightens your afternoon. Clever ideas spring to mind. You feel much more creative than in the recent past.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Go ahead and enjoy your moment in the spotlight. Those of you who are short on funds could get a nice surprise. A friend tells you something in strictest confidence. Be discreet.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Take more responsibility for your life; you have the power to make dynamic changes! Spending time with a troubled teen-ager will let you see what is really important.

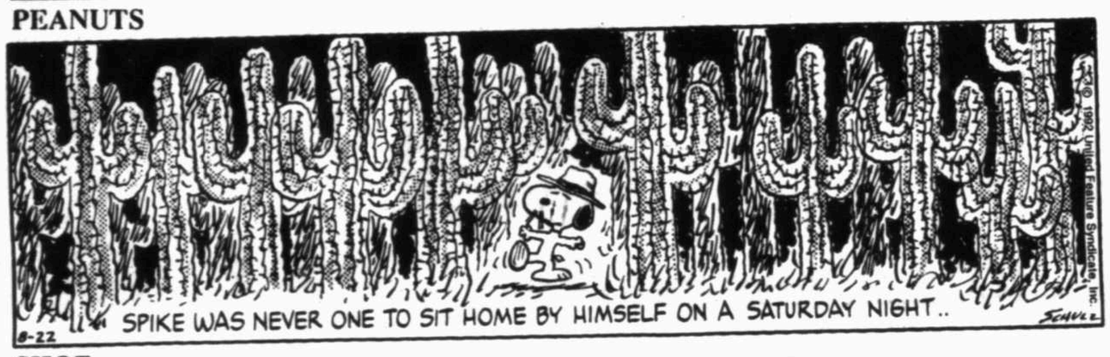

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Long-term projects and distant connections receive new attention. This is no time to get in a rut; your horizons are expanding. Enjoy a night on the town without going overboard.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Take a break from the rat race and spend the day communing with nature. The change of scenery does you a world of good. Do not return home until you feel completely refreshed.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Pull back — your intensity may be too much for others to handle. Give loved ones more space. A domestic problem can be nipped in the bud if you curb your temper.

TODAY'S CHILDREN like to think they can handle any situation on their own. Loving parents will point out that there are times when seeking a second opinion is very important. Secret worriers, these youngsters will find it especially difficult to confide any problems they may have at school. An occasional chat with their teachers could be the best way to find out what is going on. Hard-working and reliable, these Leos make model employees. They enjoy showing newcomers the ropes and make excellent mentors.

NBC fires 'Scud Stud' in dispute over contract

NEW YORK — NBC News fired foreign correspondent Arthur Kent on Friday, citing "repeated breaches" of his contract, but reinstated the producer who was suspended indefinitely with Kent, the network said.

"Despite what we believe have been extraordinary efforts on the part of NBC, it has become apparent that we are unable to reach an amicable resolution of our differences," NBC said in a statement.

"In light of Arthur's repeated breaches of his agreement with NBC, his employment has been terminated effective immediately," it said. "We truly regret this turn of events, but Arthur's course of conduct — not only in recent days, but over a lengthy period — has left us no alternative."

Kent's longtime producer, Joe Alicastro, was suspended with Kent on Aug. 12, after the two men had refused assignment to Zagreb, the Croatian capital. Alicastro will be reinstated as of Aug. 26, NBC News said.

During the Persian Gulf War, Kent's live reports on Iraqi Scud missile attacks on Saudi Arabia made him into a celebrity, especially with women, and earned him the nickname "Scud Stud."

Kent was away from his Los Angeles hotel Friday and his lawyer, Bruce Lilliston of Santa Monica, Calif., could not be reached at his office.

Kent and NBC have said the suspensions were part of a long-running contractual dispute, but Kent said NBC tried to smear him by announcing the suspensions on the same day ABC producer David Kaplan was killed in Sarajevo.

He was booked to appear Friday on NBC's "Tonight" show, but the network's West Coast legal department ordered him dropped from the program.

INDIANAPOLIS — Fans of Randy Travis are seeing more of him these days — 18 pounds more.

Travis

"In the last couple of years, I've really concentrated on trying to pick up some weight," said the country singer, who is scheduled to appear in concert Sunday at the Indiana State Fair.

He works out six days a week on a stair-climber, stationary bike and treadmill, plus he's training in martial arts to help him bulk up. But Travis, 33, said he has a high metabolism, "so it's hard for me to put on bulk."

"I'm one of the few people on the road who have to continually eat to maintain my weight," he said. "Most of our guys gain weight on the road and complain about that."

They don't have to worry about that as much these days. Travis and his band will perform 90 shows this year, a number that has decreased steadily over the years.

Now that he's married to longtime manager Lib Hatcher, he prefers to spend more time at home. That's paying off in having more time to concentrate on writing.

On his last studio album, "High Lonesome," released last year, Travis wrote five of the 10 songs. He expects the same ratio on his next album, due out next summer.

BUCHAREST, Romania — Michael Jackson will take his world tour to Romania next month in what is billed as the biggest performance ever by a Western pop star in the formerly Communist country, officials said Friday.

The concert is scheduled for Sept. 30 at the 62,000-seat National Stadium, once site of Communist military parades under Nicolae Ceausescu. The dictator's regime, which tried to isolated Romanians from the outside world, fell in 1989.

The 34-year-old pop star will arrive three days before the concert — on the scheduled date of presidential and parliamentary elections, said an agent, Fritz Rau.

PALM BEACH, Fla. — Donald Trump has hired scientists to study whether jet exhaust and noise have caused Mar-a-Lago's 15th-century tiles and imported Dorian stone to deteriorate.

Trump

Preliminary tests indicate a high level of hydrocarbon on the samples, said Linda Dark, a Trump consultant who hired University of North Carolina scientists to do the research. Testing began last month, and Dark said she hopes to have the final results by year's end.

In a July 7 letter to the Citizens Committee on Airport Noise, Dark contended that recent changes in air traffic patterns around Palm Beach airport caused an increase in noise and potential damage to "the many priceless works of art and rare architectural components" of the 17-acre estate.

Trump complains that his outdoor activities "are routinely curtailed" and phone conversations and sleep are interrupted, Dark wrote. He might seek damages in court if there are no changes, she warned.

The millionaire developer recently sued the town of Palm Beach for $50 million over its refusal to let him subdivide Mar-A-Lago.

Economist evaluates Bush's economy plan

N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — President Bush's speech before the Republican National Convention Thursday was wide-ranging, to be sure. But his campaign could well hinge on what voters believed, or didn't believe, about his plans for getting the long languishing economy in a higher gear. Cox national economic affairs correspondent Bob Deans asked John Lipsky, chief economist for Salomon Brothers Inc., the New York investment house, for his thoughts.

Q. The long-awaited recovery is gasping for air, with the economy growing at a 1.4-percent annual rate. Nearly 10 million Americans, or 7.7 percent of the workforce, can't find jobs, and the outlook is for continued anemic growth at best. On the other hand, we have the lowest interest rates in 29 years, inflation also is at its lowest level in a generation — well below 3 percent — and crude oil, arguably the economy's single most important commodity, is, in real terms, a steal at less than $22 a barrel. On balance, is this a painful enough picture for people that it would cause them to want to throw out their president?

A. Certainly the recovery is proving to be a protracted, sluggish one, unlike typical business cycles that we've experienced in the post-war period.

The problems, and the nature of the problems plaguing the economy are difficult and deep ones, not susceptible to easy solutions or quick fixes. I suspect that that realization is clear to most voters and they will be judging the candidates accordingly.

Q. So, it's a mixed picture, not only with respect to the economy, but with respect to credit and blame.

A. Yes indeed. The sources of the problems are, to a large extent, the costs and problems involved in a final eradication of the inflationary period beginning in the late '60s, extending through the '70s and into the early '80s.

Eliminating inflation turns out to be more difficult than had been hoped. It's created balance sheet problems for both households and corporations that leave a legacy of debt that hold back economic recovery but can't be solved by simple measures, or in a short span of time.

Q. In his speech, President Bush said that he would continue to fight government regulations and what he regards as excessive litigation. How would these measures help the economy?

A. Well, in as much as they reduce the cost of doing business, they would reduce some kind of a deadweight of inefficiency on the economy. They could enhance investments by limiting liabilities or other such effects. By and large, if successful, they could reduce the cost of doing business.

I would add a but, of course. We haven't seen any detailed proposals, so it's hard to judge if that will, in fact, be their impact.

Q. Another area that was thin on details last night was on taxes. The president promised an across-the-board tax reduction, whatever that might entail, matched by equivalent cuts in government spending. How would this help or hurt the economy?

A. Well, the devil is in the details, so it's hard to make sweeping judgments based on such broad descriptions. But lower taxes obviously would serve to spur activity, matched by the spending declines. What impact those might have on economic activity would very much depend on what nature of spending was involved.

If we're talking about so-called "entitlement programs" (such as Medicaid, Medicare or veterans' benefits) or transfer payments (welfare), or whether we're talking about government spending on goods and services, my suspicion is that to judge the net effect of any kind of spending with tax reduction policies, you'll definitely have to look into the details of what the spending priorities are that are being influenced.

Q. He also said that he wanted to increase the personal exemption, for income taxes, of course, and repeated his earlier pledge to do his best to get Congress to eliminate the capital gains tax. Who would benefit?

A. The immediate beneficiaries of the reduction in the exemption would be very broad based — essentially, all the taxpayers.

The reduction in the capital gains tax would likely benefit those who currently own assets in which there are unrealized capital gains. By and large those are going to be potentially broadly spread.

The real question in terms of who is to gain, is going to depend on whether they (capital gains tax cuts) serve as a spur to new investment. And that's a question that, in the current environment, is very difficult to predict confidently, because corporations are still struggling to reduce the debt on their balance sheets. They're not in a frame of mind for thinking in terms of aggressive expansion of new investment activity.

Shots kill U.S. marshal near fugitive's cabin

NAPLES, Idaho (AP) — A U.S. deputy marshal was shot to death Friday as he and five others kept watch on a federal fugitive's mountaintop cabin, authorities said.

Six deputy marshals came under fire as they were watching the fortress-like home where authorities say Randy Weaver, 44, has lived in self-imposed exile since February 1991 when he failed to appear for trial on a federal weapons charge.

Deputy U.S. Marshal William F. Degan, 42, from the marshals' Boston office, was killed, according to a statement from Henry Hudson, who heads the U.S. Marshals Service.

The other deputies weren't hurt but were pinned down on Ruby Ridge, 40 miles south of the Canadian border, the Marshals Service said. Federal, state and local law enforcement officials were being sent in to get them out.

About 30 residents were evacuated, said Boundary County sheriff's Deputy Lonnie Ekstrom. The remote area is about 70 miles north of Coeur D'Alene

Weaver, who federal agents have said has ties to the white supremacist organization Aryan Nations, was indicted in Boise in December 1990 on federal firearms charges. He was accused of selling sawed-off shotguns to an undercover agent.

He was arrested by Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agents, but authorities said he returned to his mountaintop cabin the following month after a federal magistrate released him on his own recognizance.

Man uses 9-year-old boy as shield against drug dealer's gunfire

Associated Press

ST. LOUIS — A man faces life in prison after being convicted of using a 9-year-old boy as a human shield when a suspected drug dealer shot at him.

Felton "Stretch" Granger, 35, was found guilty in Circuit Court on Thursday of voluntary manslaughter, second-degree assault and armed criminal action.

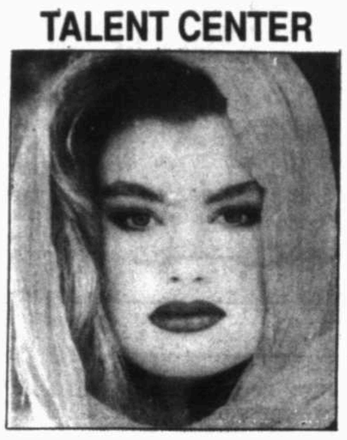

Christopher Harris was shot in the back outside Granger's home June 7, 1991. Prosecutors said Granger held the boy in front of him when another man fired several shots at Granger.

The alleged gunman, Marvel Jones, 25, has been charged with first-degree murder. Prosecutors plan to seek the death penalty against him when his trial begins in November.

Prosecutors described Granger and Jones as rival crack dealers.

A third man, Kirby McClendon, 25, is accused of planning the attack on Granger and is also awaiting trial on a charge of first-degree murder.

New research suggests investment in education will pay off

N.Y. Times News Service

Like cleaner air and safer streets, better education has become a must on every politician's wish list. But in an era of shallow pockets, when an extra dollar for schools may mean a dollar less to keep the bridges from falling down, would more spending really pay off?

Just-completed research by two Princeton econometricians confirms that it probably would — and handsomely. More years in school, Orley Ashenfelter and Alan Kreuger conclude, may well be the key to salvaging the declining prospects of unskilled workers.

The new study — unusual in that it compared data from identical twins to distinguish the impact of nature from that of nurture — estimates that, on average, each year of education at any stage, from grade school through graduate school, adds 16 percent to an individual's lifetime earnings.

"No ordinary investment is likely to produce anything close to this return," points out John Bishop, an economist at Cornell University.

The Princeton researchers' findings could prove manna from the ivory tower for Democratic presidential candidate Bill Clinton, who has anchored his economic program to a big federal investment in education. "This only strengthens my conviction that Americans' standard of living is uniquely connected to skills and training," said Robert Reich, a Harvard Business School professor and a leading economic strategist for the Clinton campaign.

While earlier studies on the relationship between schooling and income have used survey data collected for other purposes, the Princeton researchers decided to start fresh with what they call a "natural experiment."

They interviewed 298 people over the age of 18 who were identical twins, triplets or, in one case, quadruplets, who were attending the Twins Day Festival in Twinsburg, Ohio, last summer.

Each twin answered a series of questions on hisr or her years of education as well as marital status, race, military service, parents' income, work experience, profession and union membership — in short, anything that might have affected current earnings.

The same information could have been gathered with less fuss from unrelated individuals. But studying twins, Kreuger said, was uniquely useful in neutralizing suspected sources of bias that have dogged previous statistical studies.

Analysts have long worried that school attendance was closely correlated with unmeasured factors, like intelligence and social class, that were influential in determining a person's earning power later in life.

Thus, estimates excluding these unmeasured factors might leave the impression that schooling was a better investment than it really was. But by looking at the differences in earnings and education between genetically identical twins who grew up together, the researchers believe this "selection bias" has largely been cleansed from the estimates.

While interviewing twins could not completely eliminate misreporting by interviewees, the researchers corrected for that potential bias by asking each twin to report on the education of the other.

This cleverly constructed experiment has yielded what many analysts regard as the most trustworthy estimate of the current return on an investment in education — and what all regard as the most striking. If an extra year of high school or college education adds 16 percent to the average individuals' wage, a four-year college degree can be expected to increased an individual's earnings by almost two-thirds.

Paul Taubman, an economist at the University of Pennsylvania, cautions that the reported earnings gain attributable to schooling — roughly twice that found in his own study of World War II veterans during the 1970s — may be misleading. While he acknowledges that the age, education and earnings of the twins were close to national averages, Taubman worries that "there may be subtler differences" that make the sample unrepresentative of Americans in general.

Ted Nugent covers convention for MTV

Hearst News Service

'He's got a definitely different view on the convention from myself or, for that matter, any of the other reporters covering it.'

—Tabitha Soren
MTV correspondent

HOUSTON — It was the first night of the Republican National Convention, and wild-eyed rocker-turned-MTV-correspondent Ted Nugent was interviewing ABC newsman Ted Koppel on the Astrodome floor.

"You don't have the foggiest idea what you're asking me, do you?" Koppel said with a smirk in response to Nugent's query about the GOP's appeal to young people.

Nugent persisted, Koppel finally answered and minutes later Nugent — gonzo rocker, the Motor City Madman, the self-proclaimed "Whackmaster" of rock, roll and ammo — was shaking his head and off in search of more interviews.

"I really believe these guys think I'm supposed to be Ozzy Osborne or something," Nugent said, referring to the English heavy metal rocker most notorious for allegations (denied by Osborne) that he bit the head off a live bat in concert.

Nugent's reports are part of the rock video channel's aggressive "Choose or Lose" political coverage. Megadeth lead guitarist Dave Mustaine covered last month's Democratic Convention, and network officials wanted something different this time.

"He's got a definitely different view on the convention from myself or, for that matter, any of the other reporters covering it," said Tabitha Soren, MTV's political correspondent. "He thinks his own way. He's not afraid to talk to strangers. And he thinks well on his feet."

Nugent, wearing a plaid shirt without sleeves, jeans, moccasins and a brown Stetson atop his long hair, said: "Who better than I to provoke the MTV demographic into gutting their apathy?"

Nugent is best known for the '70s hit "Cat Scratch Fever." He is revered by legions of fans as rock's wild man for blown amplifiers and smashed guitars onstage, but this is no mumbling hippie dreg.

"I have reasonably articulated senses because I've never indulged in any drugs or any alcohol or any tobacco or any fog or any barbed wire suppositories or anything else that would hamper my sensory experience," he said.

Nugent proclaims allegiance to key issues, not to any party.

A big issue for him is gun control. An avid hunter, Nugent publishes his own bowhunting magazine. He and his family — wife Shemane and four kids, ranging in age from 2 to 22 — just returned from a safari. And he's got four hunting trips slated this fall before a December recording session.

Said Nugent: "I'm the 'N' in NRA."

Nugent's first night working at the convention got off to a rocky start when he noticed the metal detectors at the Astrodome gates. He hurriedly returned to MTV's work space to "remove tools" from his pocket and then made his way back to the entrance.

He declined to elaborate.

Many delegates Nugent interviewed were fans and had seen him in concert.

Nugent, focusing on MTV's target audience, asked his subjects about the GOP's internal fights over abortion and economic conditions.

Scott Fisher, 19, a delegate from Nugent's home state of Michigan wielding a "Buchanan's Brigade" banner, told Nugent he wanted Bush to fight more and discard all moderate political stands.

"So, you're looking for a hard-liner?" Nugent asked.

"Right!" came Fisher's answer.

Added Glenn Clark, another Michigan delegate:"I think a lot of young people are Democrats until they get out of college and they look for a job and have to pay taxes. Then they become Republicans."

Thousands rally for anniversary of coup's defeat

MOSCOW (AP) — A year ago, pensioner Pavel Grichok took his sugar ration to Russia's "White House" to share with Muscovites who rallied there against a hard-line coup. On Thursday, he returned to savor the sweetness of victory.

The 81-year-old with a chest full of World War II medals was among about 5,000 people who gathered outside the White House on the first anniversary of the coup's defeat.

They sang, danced, listened to speeches, and solemnly laid flowers at midnight on the site where three young men died in a clash with troops and armored vehicles on the night of Aug. 20, 1991.

For three days and two nights during the coup, tens of thousands of ordinary Russians formed a human shield around the 19-story Russian Parliament building, nicknamed the White House because of its white marble facade.

Inside, Russian President Boris Yeltsin led the opposition to the hard-line Communists who had put Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev under house arrest and seized power.

When KGB troops refused to storm the building, the coup fell apart. The Communist Party quickly collapsed, the Soviet Union was dissolved, and Yeltsin replaced Gorbachev as the country's leader.

"I was an old man, too old to stand at the barricades myself," Grichok recalled Thursday.

"I gathered up the last of my bread, my three kilograms of sugar, my coupons for cigarettes. . . . I brought it all here and gave it to my brothers, to help them through those terrible nights," he said. "To me, it was a very great event that took place here."

A white-red-and-blue striped banner, the colors of the Russian flag, hung from the White House at sunset Thursday, just as it did during the coup. A light rain fell, just as it did a year ago.

A man with an accordion played traditional Russian folk songs and a circle of dancers soon formed. Onlookers waved flags, and one raised and lowered a color photograph of Yeltsin in time to the music.

Government leaders, poets and authors addressed the crowd from the same third-floor balcony used by speakers during the coup. Police and organizers variously estimated the size of the gathering at 3,000 to 5,000.

Acting Prime Minister Yegor Gaidar, the architect of Yeltsin's free market reforms, told the crowd that "the trouble and the weakness of the people who pushed the country onto the threshold of catastrophe in August was that they always despised their own people."

The coup plotters, he said, "were deeply convinced that it would be enough to bang a fist on the table, give a shout, and everyone would agree to live in a concentration camp again, keep silent again."

Gaidar said the Communists saddled the country "with a ruined economy, without a penny of hard currency," but he assured the crowd that the reforms will work.

"We are convinced that we are not doomed to poverty, we are not doomed to be second-class, we are not doomed to be beggars. We can make our country rich and prosperous," he said.

In the year since the coup, soaring inflation has cut into the living standards of ordinary Russian families. Author Oles Adamovich warned the crowd against the temptation to remember the Communist past as a time of relative plenty.

Mardi Gras club drops out of parade due to discrimination

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Mardi Gras club that has marched in Carnival parades for 110 years on Tuesday joined a growing list of groups dropping out of the annual street celebrations to protest an anti-discrimination ordinance.

A historian said he sees the groups disbanding or moving to the suburbs.

"The fun and excitement are gone," the board of Proteus said in a statement announcing its decision "to join its cousins Venus, Momus and Comus and forgo its street pageant."

The group provided no other comment. But it was clear that the decision was tied to a months-long dispute over a law that bans the exclusive clubs from racially discriminating against potential members.

"We have lost three old-line organizations in Proteus, Momus and Comus and these were the ones that established tradition and the way things were done," said Errol Laborde, a Mardi Gras historian who's close to the groups. "They really clung to the tradition of non-commercialism."

For over a century, the clubs known as "krewes" have staged private balls, but are best known for their woolly street parades during which people beg for trinkets thrown by the masked, costumed members from the back of floats.

The parades are the backbone of a multimillion-dollar tourist boost for New Orleans in the late winter. Hotels are filled to capacity and restaurants and bars overflow with revelers who jam city streets to watch the festival.

In December, an ordinance made membership discrimination illegal and said clubs that continued discriminating would be banned from having parade permits. The law also called for jail terms for club leaders whose krewes discriminated.

After the 1992 Carnival season, the council passed a watered-down version that only requires krewes to swear that they are not practicing racial discrimination. The city recently said that the clubs would have to sign affidavits before the 1993 season, and many thought the provision would not go into effect until 1994.

We attempt whenever possible to promote from within. All of our current store managers, middle and upper management started with the company at the entry level. It is possible to move up quickly based on your experience and level of education.

Working in a convenience store is both exciting and challenging. You have to be outgoing and enjoy serving the public, while at the same time be a self-starter, as you receive very little on the job supervision.

If you are considering a career in the retail industry, give Kent Oil your consideration. Please apply (and be ready for interview) at the Kent Oil office Monday-Friday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. 3314 N. Loop 250 in Midland.

STARVED FOR SPACE???
Satisfy your appetite here...everything is spacious from the gloriously green lawn to the three living areas. There is so much to tell about this home on 2.2 Acres...We could not possibly fit it all in here. But, if a truly gracious, spacious home in the country is what you want, you need to see this before you buy. At this price you cannot find a comparable property...$120,000.
PICKY, PICKY, PICKY
...and you should be. A home is a big investment. But, this one will measure up. The kitchen sparkles in navy and white...with new vinyl and new carpet and new...new...new...everywhere. This is a three bedroom, two bath with a unique and very livable floor plan. If you want a fresh, new home, but do not want a "cookie cutter" version then you need to see this. Because you will be surprised when you walk in the door...Seller is offering a $1,000 Buyer Incentive...Call for details...$58,000.
DREAMING ON A SHOESTRING???
I'll bet that you would not believe that you could afford all of this...3 bedrooms, a pretty kitchen with built-ins, a formal dining area, a huge utility room, refrigerated air, pretty carpet...If you have $1,500, good credit and can afford $300 a month...You need to stop dreaming and start owning this really pretty home.
MORE THAN JUST ANOTHER PRETTY FACE
...this 3 bedroom charmer has personality. Nestled in a quiet established "Old Midland" neighborhood. Easy access to shopping, schools, churches and parks...very energy efficient...singles and retirees need to check into this "pretty face"...$39,500.
