Ad valorem bills are en route to local taxpayers

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

Tax time once again is looming.

Starting today, Midland taxpayers will begin receiving their ad valorem (property) tax bills on about 125,000 parcels from Midland Central Appraisal District's Chief Appraiser Ron Stegall and Midland County Tax Assessor-Collector Kathy Reeves.

The notices are to generate about $110 million in revenue for the six taxing entities in Midland County.

Ms. Reeves expects to "collect, probably, 97 to 98 percent of our 1999 levy with the remaining 2 to 3 percent coming from our delinquency (collections). So we generate about 100 percent or more of the 1999 levy."

Stegall's collections are similar.

Ms. Reeves collects taxes for Midland County, which has an $11.785 million levy for 1999, and for the Greenwood Independent School District, which has a $2.432 million levy. Last year, Midland County's levy was $10.661 million, and Greenwood ISD's levy was $3.264 million, which included funds to pay off indebtedness.

By MCAD contract, Stegall collects taxes for four taxing entities: the city of Midland, $20.9 million in 1999 and $20.32 million in 1998; Midland ISD, $60.36 million in 1999 and $60.404 million in 1998; Midland College, $7.289 million in 1999 and $7.418 million in 1998, and the Midland County Hospital District, $7.148 million in 1999 and $7.124 million in 1998.

Taxes become delinquent after Jan. 31, Stegall and Ms. Reeves noted.

However, Stegall said that he would "encourage taxpayers to pay as soon as possible" after receiving the tax bills.

On proper notice, half payment toward tax bills must be paid by or postmarked by Nov. 30, Stegall and Ms.

June rainfall brings drop in water use from last year

By Ian Heald
Staff Writer

The city of Midland has used 815 million gallons less water this year than the previous year, and city officials point to June's rainfall as one reason why.

Total use for fiscal year 1999 — which ended on Sept. 30 — was 8.81 billion gallons as opposed to 9.62 billion gallons a year ago.

"The amount of water we use is dependent on the amount of rainfall and which month it rains," said Midland's Director of Utilities Ken Jones.

The rainfall in June — 2.87 inches — was a major factor in reducing water use this year.

"We got quite a bit of rain in June. That helped get the lawns in shape and kept us from using as much water as last year. And we didn't have nearly as many days over 100 degrees as last year and that helps us to conserve water," Jones said.

Lawn maintenance companies, however, haven't experienced any unforseen change in business because of decreased water usage.

"People backed off on their sprinklers because we've had rain throughout the summer," said Karen Schneider, a manager at Alldredge Gardens.

With the final four months of 1999 still to go, Midland has already beaten last year's rainfall total. September rainfall totals aren't in yet, said Jones, because it takes the National Weather Service six weeks for the government's printing office to get the numbers finalized.

Last year's total of 5.12 inches was one of the lowest in Midland history.

So far this year the city has enjoyed 6.37 inches with a year-end projection at 9.56 inches. The yearly average since 1948 is 14.1 inches.

"You're in a drought any time you fall below the average rainfall total,'' Jones said. "In my opinion we've been in a drought since '94. It's been very hard on farmers and ranchers. There was a seven-year drought in the 1950s. This is the worst drought since the 1950s."

After last year's drought, Lake J.B. Thomas — one of three fresh water sources for the city — has increased in water supply this year by 400 percent. In June, the town of Gail received more than six inches of rain, which has accounted for the majority of that lake's increase.

The other two lakes (E.V. Spence Reservoir and O.H. Ivie Reservoir) experienced less rainfall and actually decreased in water levels from last year.

Jones said he hasn't been able to identify a trend or cycle in year-to-year rainfall.

"I've got it plotted back into the '40s but there doesn't seem to be a cycle."

He was pleased by the rains in June "because it makes the whole city look better when residents can stop watering their lawns."

While water use went down, sewage levels increased 9 percent over last year.

The reason for the increase in sewage, said Jones, is because the sewer line is located at the lowest point where rain runoff can collect. The drainage pipes are old and they leak, thus mixing rain water with sewer water.

"When it rains the water leaks into the sewer line," said Jones. "It's cheaper to treat that than to go back and make the lines perfectly tight."

The reason for that, said Jones, was because the extra runoff from the rain seeped into the sew-

Riggan case in judge's hands after attorney files response

By Jeff Stevens
Staff Writer

> 'The law is you don't have the same rights in the same situations. But the law also says a student's rights to free speech cannot be arbitrarily dismissed unless there is a substantial interference with the activities or discipline of the school.'
> — Brian Carney, attorney for Casey Riggan

The tennis-like action continued Friday in the Casey Riggan saga as Riggan attorney Brian Carney filed his response to MISD's summary judgment motion.

The district filed a motion for summary judgment Oct. 1, which essentially asked U.S. District Judge Royal Furgeson to dismiss the case. Friday's filing by Carney represents his arguments as to why the case is valid.

The response reasserts Riggan's claims that his first amendment rights were violated as were his rights to due process and other state and federal rights.

"I think it (the case) raises factual issues a jury would be entitled to hear," said Carney.

Rick Strange, one of the attorney's for MISD and Midland High School Principal and co-defendant Neil Richmond, said he still feels the district has a good case.

"I don't think anything has changed. There's no federal cause of action there," said Strange.

Strange, of Cotton, Bledsoe and Tighe, has argued in previous motions that students do not have constitutional rights while in school. The basis for his contention is in loco parentis, which states that the school district serves as the parent while a child is in school.

"That's not the law," said Carney. "The law is you don't have the same rights in the same situations. But the law also says a student's rights to free speech cannot be arbitrarily dismissed unless there is a substantial interference with the activities or discipline of the school."

Carney also argued in the motion that Riggan has a right to due process, despite the opinion of opposing lawyers.

The next move in this bout is out of the hands of the players for the time being. Furgeson will either have to rule on the motions or call for a hearing in which both sides would present their arguments. At either stage, the judge could set a trial date or deem the case doesn't merit further consideration.

At this point, Strange still thinks the case doesn't merit a trial and Carney does.

The case first gained public attention in May. Riggan sued the district in May after the school board upheld a disciplinary decision to suspend the student for three days, place him in AEP for five days and require him to write two letters of apology. Riggan also was prevented from walking across the stage at graduation.

Riggan was reportedly punished for retaliation, because he possessed photos of Richmond's Suburban parked on a public street outside a female teacher's home.

Autopsy inconclusive in death of Howard County inmate

By Rick McLaughlin
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — The mystery in the death of 40-year-old Kendal Ruffin, who was found suffering from seizures in his Howard County Jail cell Aug. 24, grows even more puzzling.

A toxicology autopsy report released Thursday by Precinct 1 Justice of the Peace Marilyn Carson concludes there is no indication of foul play or suicide. The cause of death in the report was described as "sudden death, probably due to … cardiac arrhythmia … with dehydration contributing."

Ruffin's death drew some suspicion originally because he died only hours after he had been placed under a suicide watch after his 99-year sentence was returned by a jury in 118th District Court. Jailers were checking his cell every five minutes, according to members of the district attorney's office . It was common knowledge that Ruffin had said on numerous occasions that he was not going back to prison.

Comments in the autopsy noted that Ruffin was found in his cell having seizures. Full body X-rays were negative, the report noted. A mild enlargement of the heart was reported, but "no assault-type lethal injuries."

In addition, tests for drug abuse, chlorine and heavy metals proved negative, said Ms. Carson. Not finding any chlorine in his body was important because an early theory about his death was that he has secreted plastic bags of cleaning supply chlorine in the drain of his cell.

No one from the sheriff's office or district attorney's office were available for comment Friday.

Ms. Carson was the justice of the peace called to the emergency room at Scenic Mountain Medical Center after jailers discovered the inmate having convulsions in his cell. A pulse was found by paramedics who transported him to the hospital where Ms. Carson pronounced him dead.

She had received a preliminary autopsy report from Pathology Associates in Lubbock, but that report was inconclusive as to the cause of death.

The next step was to submit additional tissue samples for a complete toxicology scan that proved to be negative for every test, Carson said.

The inquest is still open, Carson said Friday, and still being investigated by Sgt. Robert Bullock of the Midland office of the Texas Rangers, Texas Department of Public Safety. Ms. Carson said she will meet with Bullock Monday and with pathologist Rodney F. Tucan late next week.

Assistant District Attorney Dale Dupree conducted the prosecution in the trial involving an aggravated sexual assault of a 15-year-old Big Spring girl. The defendant was found guilty and the jury came back with as 99-year sentence and a $10,000 fine in the punishment phase of the trial.

He was found not guilty in a separate incident of sexual assault of a 14-year-old Howard County girl.

Twenty-two cases of dengue fever confirmed in Texas

HARLINGEN (AP) — The Texas Department of Health says it had confirmed 22 cases of dengue fever as of July 1.

Numbers released Friday show that 15 cases have been confirmed in Webb County, two in Willacy County, two in Hidalgo County, one in Galveston County, one in Nueces County, and one in Tarrant County.

Five of the cases were contracted in Texas and the rest were travel-related, according to TDH.

Dengue fever is a viral illness spread by the Aedes aegypti mosquito. Symptoms include high fever, severe headaches, joint and muscle pain, nausea, vomiting and skin rash. The disease usually lasts about two weeks and is not fatal. A more severe form called dengue hemorrhagic fever can be deadly.

Health officials say long sleeves, long pants and insect repellant can help prevent mosquito bites. There is no vaccine or cure for dengue fever.

Group says majority of Texans support childproofing handguns

By Mike Crissey
Associated Press

AUSTIN — A majority of Texans surveyed, whether owning guns or not, favor childproofing handguns, a Texas safety group said Friday.

In a statewide telephone survey of 995 Texans, 76 percent of those identifying themselves as gun owners and 87 percent of those without guns agreed that new handguns sold should be childproof.

Fifty-seven percent of gun owners and 75 percent of non-gun owners said the government should strengthen safety regulations for the design of firearms. Forty-nine percent of those interviewed said they owned a gun of some type.

The survey had a margin of error of plus or minus three percentage points. It was conducted by the office of Survey Research at the University of Texas for the South Texas Injury Prevention and Research Center, a nonprofit San Antonio organization dedicated to reducing deaths and disabilities in South Texas.

The survey did not define for respondents the terms childproofing or safety regulations.

"Gun owners and those not owning a gun are in strong agreement on the issue of making handguns safer," said Dr. Ronald Stewart, a gun-owning trauma surgeon at the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio.

"This is clearly common ground for a consensus on the gun debate," he said.

National Rifle Association spokeswoman Trish Hylton said Texans' desire for gun safety was in line with the NRA, which every year trains 750,000 people in gun safety, including use of trigger locks.

"It seems to me that Texans agree with what the NRA says," Ms. Hylton said.

But the NRA opposes more legislation, she said.

"The firearms industry is already one of the most heavily regulated industries in the nation, there are hundreds of thousands of laws on the books already," Ms. Hylton said. "We should enforce the laws that are already there."

An official of the Texas State Rifle Association said gun owners agree with the survey's sentiment, but noted that it failed to define childproofing or safety regulations.

"We want safety and safe design," said Randy Gibson, executive director of the association. "But I would be reluctant to put my life or my child's life on the line based on the latest gizmo on the market. If there was truly some way to childproof them without endangering their function, gun owners would go for it," he said.

Childproofing devices on the market today, such as trigger locks, are unreliable and don't prevent accidental discharges, Gibson said.

Nina Butts, a director of the Texans Against Gun Violence, said the survey shows a difference between how members of the public and the government view gun safety.

"The gun lobby, although maintaining a stranglehold on the Texas Legislature and the Texas governor, has no hold on the hearts and minds of the people of Texas," Ms. Butts said.

She said the Legislature and Gov. George W. Bush didn't do enough last session to make guns in Texas safer.

"That's ridiculous," responded Bush spokeswoman Mindy Tucker. "He has consistently supported tough penalties for those who commit crimes with guns and efforts to keeps guns out of the hands of juveniles and criminals."

WATER: Excess rain may cause lines to overflow

(From 1A)

er draws underground.

"It rained more this year, more storm water ran into the system. The sewers are underground and a lot are in draws that are here. The water can leak in if there's a lot of pressure from the outside."

Could an excess rain overflow the sewer lines?

"It could happen," said assistant director of utilities Kay Snyder. "It would overflow at the manholes. But, most (of the draws) that we have in low areas are water tight."

Mother of Columbine victim kills self in pawn shop

By Colleen Slevin
Associated Press

LITTLETON, Colo. — The mother of a student wounded in the Columbine High School massacre walked into a suburban pawn shop Friday, asked to see a handgun, loaded it and killed herself with a shot to the head.

Carla June Hochhalter's suicide occurred about six months after her 17-year-old daughter, Anne Marie, was critically wounded in the April 20 tragedy and left partially paralyzed.

She left a note, but authorities did not reveal the contents.

"I thought she was better, especially when Anne Marie moved her legs for the first time last week. There was something finally something to look forward to. There were finally happier times," said Connie Michalik, who became friends with Mrs. Hochhalter while her wounded son, Richard Castaldo, and Anne Marie went through painful rehabilitation.

Harriet Hall, a psychologist in charge of a counseling program for Columbine victims, said, "We've heard that the six-month anniversary is hard. Now we know it's true."

Authorities said Ms. Hochhalter, 48, entered the Alpha Pawn Shop in nearby Englewood alone about 10 a.m. Friday and asked to see a .38-caliber handgun.

When a clerk turned around to fill out paperwork, Ms. Hochhalter loaded the weapon with her own ammunition, then fired one round that hit the wall and a second round into her head, Englewood police spokeswoman Leticia Castillo said.

The suicide was the latest shock for students and families in the Littleton area. Jefferson County School District officials planned to have grief counselors available this weekend to help deal with any trauma.

A student was arrested this week for allegedly threatening "to finish the job" begun by two student gunmen at Columbine.

In addition, CBS-TV was criticized by some in the community for broadcasting a snippet of the security camera videotape that was taken in the school cafeteria as the massacre unfolded.

"I'm absolutely horrified," said Steve Cohn, parent of a 15-year-old Columbine student who survived the assault. "We've been under a lot of stress recently but what do you do?"

Carrying several weapons and setting off homemade bombs, Eric Harris, 18, and 17-year-old Dylan Klebold killed 12 students and a teacher and wounded about 26 others before they took their own lives.

Anne Marie suffered injuries to her spinal cord, back and chest when the gunmen fired at her in the parking lot. She moved her legs for the first time last week.

Now a senior, she is taking a physics class at Columbine while a tutor teaches the rest of her courses at home.

Disco fire in Austria injures up to 74 people

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — A fire swept through a disco filled with plastic foam packaging material, injuring up to 74 people, some seriously, Austrian media reported Saturday.

The fire broke out at the Joy Disco in St. Agatha village near Bad Goisern, 120 miles west of Vienna, during a party in which supposedly fireproof particles of plastic foam were strewn ankle-deep on the dance floor, the Austria Press Agency reported.

Austrian radio quoted rescuers as saying the blaze, which immediately engulfed the building, was apparently caused by a burning cigarette.

According to the broadcast, the 200 teen-agers and young adults stormed to the emergency exit, trampling several people.

"There was panic. People crawled on top of each other," one of the rescuers told Austrian radio without giving his name. "I tried to pull people out from underneath."

Estimates of the number of injured varied. Police put the figure at between 40 and 50. But Red Cross worker Ewald Ebner said 74 people were injured, including eight to 10 who were seriously hurt. Most of the injuries were smoke-related with a few people burned.

About 100 rescuers rushed to the scene. Fifteen physicians helped those suffering from burns and smoke poisoning.

Austrian radio said the party was organized to mark the takeover of the disco by a new manager.

Blackwell post office robbers may be locals

By Rick McLaughlin
Staff Writer

Two men suspected of robbing the U.S. Post Office at Blackwell Oct. 13 may have been from Midland, Odessa or Abilene, said a postal inspector from Fort Worth at a Midland press conference Friday.

Kenny Smith, postal inspector and public information officer with the Postal Service, would not disclose what information ties the suspects to this part of West Texas, and only said "there is some evidence."

There is a "substantial reward" of $50,000 being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the suspects, Smith added. One suspect is black and the other white, he said. The black suspect is about 5 feet 10 inches tall with dreadlocks and severe acne.

The white suspect was described as being in his early 20s, 5 feet eight inches to 5 feet 9 inches tall, with blond hair , and weighing about 160-170 pounds.

The suspects were last seen traveling south from the post office in a late model red extended cab pickup with damage on the driver's side door.

The Blackwell postmaster suffered minor injuries when she was beaten Oct. 13 by the two suspects about 9:30 a.m. "without any provocation," Smith said.

Blackwell is a small ranching community of about 300 people about 30 miles south of Sweetwater on Highway 70, said Stan Partain, Midland postmaster.

Robbing a post office is a federal crime punishable by up to 25 years in federal penitentiary.

Postal inspectors, the Nolan County Sheriff's Office and the Texas Rangers are investigating the incident.

Anyone having any information about the robbery or the suspects is asked to call the postal inspector's office at 1-817 -317-3435. Smith emphasized that anyone knowing of the suspects should not attempt to apprehend them as they are considered armed and dangerous.

Smith said to report them to 911 and call the postal inspector.

TAXES: Half payment must be received by Nov. 30

(From 1A)

Reeves said, and the balance may be paid as late as June 30 without the taxpayers being penalized.

Senior citizens over age 65, Ms. Reeves said, "can take a quarterly-payment option on their homestead." The first quarterly payment is due before Feb. 1, she said. But both she and Stegall must be given "some kind of notice that they are going to exercise that option."

Walt Holton, chairman of the MCAD board of directors, noted that the district is mandated to fairly appraise property.

Holton quoted Judge Bill Ahders, the late Midland County judge who appointed him to the board in 1981.

" 'Walt, I'm going to turn you loose because I have complete faith in you,' " Ahders had told Holton. " 'And just make sure that everything you do is fair, and everything you vote for is fair. And if there is some question in your mind, come in and see me, and we'll talk it over. And together, we'll decide whether it is fair or not.' "

Mexican flooding could worsen after dam opens; prisoners riot

VILLAHERMOSA, Mexico (AP) — Waters rose even higher in this flooded state capital Friday as more rain pounded inundated neighborhoods. Inmates staged a bloody riot and took control of the flooded prison.

Meanwhile, authorities planned to open the gates of an overloaded dam upstream, which would pour even more water into the city. Large parts of Villahermosa, a city of 470,000 people in southeastern Mexico, has been underwater for more than two weeks now.

Hundreds of rioting inmates took over the Center for Social Readaptation to protest increasingly dangerous flooding and food shortages in the prison.

Armed with pipes, clubs and machetes, the prisoners tried to break through a wall but were turned back by police. They then turned on one another, authorities said. At least six prisoners were killed and two were seriously wounded.

The prison normally holds about 1,400 inmates, nearly double its capacity. Authorities on Thursday evacuated 600 prisoners by boat, but 800 remained in the prison Friday.

Water that was already up to 2 meters (6.6 feet) high was still rising when the prisoners staged their riot. Authorities said the prisoners had taken control of the facility, and they could not enter to continue the evacuations.

Meanwhile, overcrowded and overwhelmed shelters in Villahermosa began raffling packets of donated food among the 3,000 evacuees who fled widespread flooding provoked by weeks of relentless rain.

In what authorities say is the worst flooding Tabasco state has ever seen, six major rivers have overflowed, wiping out houses and highways and forcing the evacuation of 161,000 people.

Since Wednesday, 8 inches of rain have fallen in the Carrizal, Samaria, Usumacinta and Grijalva rivers, pushing them more than 3.28 feet above their normal levels.

The flooding was almost certain to worsen on Saturday morning, when authorities planned to release more water from the overcapacity Penitas dam upstream in the neighboring state of Chiapas.

"I know what I'm saying isn't pleasant. I know this is tough. But I want to make clear that we've done everything we can," the director of the National Water Commission, Guillermo Guerrero Villalobos, said in announcing the opening of the flood gates.

He acknowledged that the move would increase the water levels in Villahermosa, but said it was necessary for the safety of the hydroelectric generating equipment in the dam.

Just to the north in Frontera, Mayor Romero Garcia said the city of 70,000 was almost entirely underwater Friday. The city, 44 miles (70 kms) north of Villahermosa, stands where the two most powerful rivers empty into the Gulf of Mexico.

"This is incredible," Frontera resident Ramon Hipolito said by telephone. "Some people are clinging to trees, pregnant women are screaming for help from the roofs of their houses and only three streets are above-water."

Roads to Frontera were cut by the flooding and there was no way to reach the city.

In Villahermosa, shelter residents who lost nearly everything in the floods found themselves without food. Authorities were raffling off donated aid packages, saying there weren't enough to go around.

"The only thing they are giving us are sardines, sardines and more sardines," said 35-year-old Juventina Lopea. She entered a raffle but lost.

Those who couldn't fit into shelters began camping out on highways.

Earthquake rocks southern Taiwan, injures 230

CHIAYI, Taiwan (AP) — Spared by last month's devastating quake, this southern Taiwanese city's luck ran out when a strong tremor struck Friday, damaging several homes and injuring more than 200 people. No deaths were reported.

The damage from the 6.4 magnitude quake was minor compared to the destruction caused by the powerful temblor that killed more than 2,300 in central Taiwan one month ago. The two quakes were unrelated, seismologists said.

Still, officials said Friday's quake was strong enough to seriously damage 16 homes and three schools near the epicenter northwest of Chiayi, an industrial city with a population of 263,000 about 180 miles south of Taipei.

About 230 people were injured, but there were no deaths, according to the military, which set up a disaster unit in Chiayi.

Lin Mao-yuan, 57, an herbalist, said he tried to flee his three-story building when the quake hit.

"I tried to run out but couldn't. The entire building was swaying. I couldn't even stand still and had to hold on to a pillar," Lin said.

The 10:19 a.m. quake was felt in Taipei, and China's state-run Xinhua news agency said it was also detected in coastal provinces of Fujian, Guangdong, Zhejiang and Jiangsu.

Sections of the bottom floor of a two-story school in Chiayi caved in, leaving a ripple on the building's roof. Eight students were injured while crawling or running out of the building, school officials said.

The quake's rattling spilled chemicals in a laboratory at Chungcheng University in Chiayi, causing an explosion and a fire. Students evacuated the building safely.

About 90,000 homes lost power, but most had electricity again by late afternoon.

In 1906, a quake of magnitude 7.1 hit near Chiayi, killing 1,258 people. Another quake of 7.1 magnitude killed 358 in the city in 1941.

Taiwan has felt the ground rumble frequently since the Sept. 21 quake.

Cohen oversees war games in Egypt, lashes out at Saddam

EL-OMAYED, Egypt (AP) — Egyptian, British and Dutch troops jumped out of inflatable rafts Friday and charged up a Mediterranean beach. American warplanes screeched overhead while U.S., Italian and Greek troops trudged through whirling sand whipped up by helicopters.

The biannual Bright Star war games brought together 11 nations in a show of force that has been a tradition since 1981. U.S. Defense Secretary William Cohen, who watched the troops storm the beach, said Iraq should take notice.

"One country that is not represented here today should pay very close attention to what Bright Star represents," Cohen told reporters after proclaiming the drill a success. "(Iraqi President) Saddam Hussein remains an outlaw in his own neighborhood."

In a clear reference to Saddam, Cohen said the nations taking part in the maneuvers are "building prosperity for their people and not palaces for their cronies."

The amphibious assault exercises are intended to improve the ability of troops from the United States, Europe and the Middle East to work together in times of war. The maneuvers, which will finish Nov. 2, began 18 years ago as an U.S.-Egyptian training exercise and have grown to include nearly 70,000 troops, including 18,000 Americans from all branches of the military.

Jordan, Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates, France and Germany have joined this year's drills, the largest coalition since the 1991 Gulf War against Iraq .

At El-Omayed, 50 miles west of the port city of Alexandria, British hovercrafts glided ashore. Egyptian soldiers jumped out on the sand, raced up the beach and shouted "Allahu Akbar!" — "God is Great!" — at an invisible enemy.

Cohen watched the landing from stands on the beach along with his Egyptian counterpart, Field Marshal Hussein Tantawi, British Defense Minister Geoffrey Hoon and the man in charge of U.S. forces in the Gulf, Gen. Anthony Zinni.

The deputy commander of the U.S. Central Command, Lt. Gen. Michael Dodson, said he was pleased with the maneuvers given their complexity and language barriers.

"This certainly gives everyone confidence," Dodson said. "We don't all have to have the exact same equipment, but we have to know what each other's procedures are so that we can work together."

Cohen said the United States was not only keeping an eye on Iraq but also on Iran. U.S.-Iranian relations have improved slightly in recent years, but Cohen said the United States would continue to watch Iran closely.

"We will cooperate and work with all of our partners and allies in the region to make sure that no country would seek to undermine the peace," he said.

Earlier Friday, Cohen held talks with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak on the Middle East peace process and regional defense issues such as cooperation in the face of attacks with biological or chemical weapons.

Cohen, who is touring nine Middle East countries, was expected to leave Egypt Saturday for Kuwait and then make stops in Oman, Jordan and Israel. He has already visited Bahrain, Qatar, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates.

S. Korea to citizens: Go ahead, watch N. Korean television

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — For decades, South Korea has zealously shielded its people from the propaganda of communist North Korea. But on Friday, the Seoul government lightened up a little.

The Ministry of National Unification told South Koreans they could watch newly available North Korean satellite TV programs if they wish — and draw their own conclusions.

It remains to be seen whether South Koreans will tune into news programming featuring phrases like "the greatest genius mankind has ever known, Comrade Kim Jong Il" — a reference to North Korea's leader, also known as "Our lodestar, Comrade Kim."

Government-run news outlets in North Korea also have snappy tags for enemies, including: "U.S. imperialist war maniacs."

Under South Korea's strict national security law, it is a serious crime to "manufacture, import, copy, possess or distribute data that can benefit, eulogize or encourage the enemy."

Previously, South Korean television stations could only broadcast North Korean programs provided by Seoul's state intelligence agency.

Now, South Koreans with satellite dishes can tune into North Korea's Central TV, which began its first satellite broadcast Oct. 10.

"We based our decision on the firm confidence that our system is superior to the impoverished, communist system," said unification ministry spokesman Shin Eun-sang.

South Korean fears of North Korean propaganda have subsided in recent years since the North's economy collapsed, triggering widespread hunger and forcing Pyongyang to appeal for aid.

Seoul still jams radio broadcasts from Pyongyang. But millions of South Koreans can visit pro-North Korean Web sites on the Internet, despite government appeals to stay away.

Most Web sites offer articles from the North's foreign news outlet, KCNA. Seoul allows South Koreans to visit pro-North Korean Web sites, but bans them from sending e-mails or becoming Web site members without government permission.

However, the government has made no arrests and acknowledges the ban is difficult to enforce.

An armistice was signed at the end of the 1950-53 Korean War. Tensions remain high, with the two Koreas sharing the most heavily militarized border in the world.

Bush-bashing biographer had a secret of his own

NEW YORK (AP) — The biographer who accused GOP presidential front-runner George W. Bush of burying a cocaine arrest apparently had a secret of his own: a 1988 conviction for plotting to murder a co-worker.

The disclosure about James Howard Hatfield prompted his publisher on Thursday to suspend sales, shipment and promotion of the new book, "Fortunate Son: George W. Bush and the Making of an American President." The publisher also recalled 70,000 copies of the book already in stores.

Hatfield was still on parole from a 15-year prison term while writing his book on the Texas governor, and also did time for embezzlement, authorities said.

Attempts to reach Hatfield through his Manhattan publisher, St. Martin's Press, were unsuccessful. The publisher had no immediate comment on the flap Friday, said spokeswoman Kristen McGuiness.

The Bush campaign has its legal staff reviewing the matter for possible libel implications, spokeswoman Karen Hughes said.

Hatfield alleged that Bush was arrested in 1972 for cocaine possession but did only community service after his father, former President Bush, intervened. The arrest record was later expunged at the request of the elder Bush, the book alleged. Hatfield cited three anonymous sources.

"It's obvious (the book) was not checked," Ms. Hughes said Friday. The Texas governor previously ripped the book as "science fiction."

The book was due out in January 2000 but was released early after the manuscript arrived with the cocaine story.

Both Barnes & Noble and Amazon.com initially said they would keep selling the book despite the flap, though Amazon.com later said it would stop its sales. The book was already in Amazon's top 50 best sellers.

The Dallas Morning News first reported Hatfield's criminal background on Thursday. Hatfield, 41, told the newspaper it was a case of mistaken identity.

But on Friday, a Dallas lawyer, Norman L. "Happy" Nelson Jr., said that the author and the convict are one and the same.

Nelson, who knew Hatfield for about nine years before the 1988 conviction, said he was stunned to see Hatfield's picture in the newspaper as the Bush biographer.

"The picture in the paper was the picture of the bomber," Nelson said. "That was him. I quite frankly didn't like him denying that he had a record, when I knew he did."

Glen Castlebury, spokesman for the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, confirmed that a James Howard Hatfield was arrested in 1987 for solicitation of murder — hiring a hit man to plant a bomb under a co-worker's car.

After he was found guilty, Hatfield went to prison in 1988 and spent the next five years there. Upon his release, Hatfield was turned over to federal authorities; he wound up doing a short stretch in El Reno, Okla., for embezzling nearly $35,000.

While prison authorities would not provide details, Nelson said that Hatfield had tried to kill a coworker when she suspected him of embezzling federal Housing and Urban Development funds. The woman later testified against Hatfield in the embezzlement case, Nelson said.

A bomb planted beneath the coworker's car only partially detonated, and she escaped serious injury, Nelson said.

Hatfield, who moved to Arkansas with the approval of Texas authorities, remains on parole through April 15, 2003, Castlebury said.

Researchers find enzyme with a possible role in Alzheimer's disease

WASHINGTON (AP) — An enzyme that is thought to be part of the Alzheimer's disease process may have been isolated by California researchers, a discovery that could lead to new drugs for the brain-destroying disease.

Researchers report Friday in the journal Science that they have found an enzyme called beta-secretase that has been linked to the formation of beta-amyloid, a protein that kills neurons in the brains of Alzheimer's patients.

The enzyme works by cutting beta-amyloid from another compound called amyloid precursor protein, or APP.

Researchers believe that identifying the correct enzyme could lead to drugs that would block beta-amyloid formation. But even if drugs are found to inhibit the buildup of beta-amyloid, experts said they are still uncertain if this alone will slow or halt Alzheimer's disease.

Alzheimer's disease is a lethal disorder that gradually destroys the brain. Its most prominent feature is the slow loss of memory and the ability to reason. Eventually even the brain functions vital to life are destroyed.

Ever since the beta-secretase enzyme was identified as part of the disease process, many laboratories have attempted to isolate it. At least a dozen research teams have claimed to have made the discovery, but the findings have been disputed by others.

For Social Security's sake, GOP would cut federal agency spending by 1.4 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican leaders embraced a 1.4 percent across-the-board cut in federal agency budgets Friday to keep spending bills from eating into Social Security surpluses.

Meanwhile, White House officials used budget talks with lawmakers to propose a new savings plan of their own: a tax on tobacco companies triggered if teenage smoking rises, said participants who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The across-the-board cut, opposed by President Clinton, adds one more point of contention to the fight between the White House and Congress as the two sides struggle over unfinished spending measures for the new fiscal year.

GOP leaders said that under their plan, aimed at saving $4.5 billion this year, agency heads would be asked to weed out waste, fraud and abuse from their budgets. No programs covered by the 13 annual spending bills would be exempted, they said.

"The president is going to probably complain we're going to hurt all these vulnerable people," said House Budget Committee Chairman John Kasich, R-Ohio, one of the plan's proponents. "But this is a great opportunity for us ... to begin to root out the duplication and wasteful programs."

House Majority Leader Dick Armey, R-Texas, said that under the proposal, when Pentagon officials testify before Congress, "instead of having two colonels hold your paper, you'll have only one major."

Not affected would be the salaries of members of Congress. Since 1981, the money for their pay comes from a part of the federal budget not controlled by the spending bills. The rest of Congress' budget, such as office expenses, would be subject to the cut.

Lawmakers voted themselves a 3.4 percent pay raise this year. That $4,600 increase will boost their salaries to $141,300 beginning in January.

The government's payroll would be affected, but individual federal workers' salaries could not be cut because they are set by law. Payroll savings could be achieved by not filling positions of civil servants who quit or retire.

Also not affected would be Social Security, Medicare and other benefits paid by the federal government.

It would be up to agency officials to decide where the reductions would come from.

Last week, Clinton threatened to veto legislation making across-the-board reductions.

White House officials and Democrats say the cut would damage programs covering education, the environment and other areas while not achieving the GOP's goal of leaving Social Security surpluses alone. Citing Congressional Budget Office analyses, they say Republican spending plans dip into Social Security surpluses by at least $13 billion more than the GOP admits.

"It's a bad idea that is unacceptable," said White House budget office spokeswoman Linda Ricci.

Using Social Security surpluses for other spending has been done by both parties for decades, and has no effect on the government's ability to pay Social Security benefits. Protecting those surpluses also does nothing to revamp the program, which many experts say is needed to prepare it for baby boomers' approaching retirements.

Nonetheless, both parties have latched onto the issue as they position themselves as guardians of the giant pension program for next year's elections.

Senate panel weighs foreign threat to canal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conservatives pressed their claim Friday that China is moving to gain authority over the Panama Canal. But a top U.S. general said environmental damage and terrorism may pose bigger threats to the waterway.

Marine Gen. Charles E. Wilhelm, chief of the Southern Command, told a Senate hearing there is no evidence China has designs on the canal through Hutchison Whampoa Ltd., a Hong Kong-based shipping company.

Wilhelm told the Senate Armed Services Committee, however, that "the canal must always be regarded as a potential target" given its strategic location and importance for world commerce. And he said that vulnerability will increase when the United States leaves for good Dec. 31.

"The Panama Canal is not endangered," Alberto Aleman Zubieta, the canal's Panamanian administrator, told the panel. "Its operation shall not be interrupted for any reason whatsoever."

The committee is looking into worries by conservatives including Majority Leader Trent Lott, R-Miss., that China is becoming an increasingly menacing presence at the canal.

At issue is Panama's 1997 award to Hutchison Whampoa of a long-term contract to operate terminals for container ships on the canal's Atlantic and Pacific entrances.

The company is a publicly traded multinational corporation with major offices in Hong Kong and Featherstone, England. Its major shareholder, billionaire Li Ka-shing, has ties with the Chinese government, according to critics of the arrangement.

"These Chinese companies do what the government tells them," said Lott, who participated in Friday's hearing.

Sen. Bob Smith, a conservative independent from New Hampshire, likened the presence of Hutchison Whampoa at either end of the canal to "having the Chinese army in Williamsburg" and saying it would have no effect on ship movements in nearby Norfolk, Va.

Lino Gutierrez, deputy assistant secretary of state for Western Hemispheric affairs, told the panel "we have found no information to substantiate" allegations that Hutchison Whampoa has ties to Beijing.

In any event, the company will have no control or authority over passage of ships through the canal, Gutierrez said.

Wilhelm said the threat of terrorism remains a major problem.

"It's hard to figure out when they might strike, or who they might be," the Marine general testified. He said Panama needs to strengthen its ability to defend the canal and suggested U.S. help in that effort.

He cited "environmental degradation" as potentially the biggest threat to the canal.

"Deforestation of the canal through clear-cutting, grazing or development could threaten the watershed or lead to increased silting, ultimately jeopardizing canal operations," Wilhelm said.

Caspar Weinberger, secretary of defense in the Reagan administration, told the panel the United States needs to negotiate with Panama precise terms under which the U.S. military might intervene to open the canal if it were blocked.

The Panama Canal treaties, ratified by the Senate in 1978, give the United States the right to intervene militarily should the canal be closed or traffic through it hindered.

"It would be catastrophic if there were any attempts to interfere with the operation of the canal," Weinberger said.

World Bank investigating former Russian official

WASHINGTON (AP) — The World Bank is investigating allegations one of its former Washington-based Russian officials passed along inside information to a Russian bank that lost its license last year.

The former official, Leonid Grigoriev, has been placed on administrative leave by the Bureau of Economic Analysis in Moscow, a Moscow-based policy analysis institute he now heads, the bank said Friday. The institute is supported by a World Bank loan and the action against him was requested by the Russian government, the bank said in a statement.

Allegations against Grigoriev, appointed by Russia to its World Bank mission from 1992 to 1997, were reported Friday in The Wall Street Journal. Bank spokesman Jan Pakulsky said the matter was brought to the bank's attention by the Journal when it asked for comment on the allegations.

The Journal report cited documents indicating that Grigoriev provided Moscow-based Inkombank with tips on debt-marketing investments and acted as its liaison in Washington.

Inkombank, one of Russia's largest banks until it lost its license last year, has surfaced in U.S. investigators' examination of the Bank of New York, through which the Russian mob is believed to have funneled $10 billion.

Last year, Russian banking authorities issued an audit linking Inkombank to criminal activity and recommending that its business be curtailed. The bank folded a year ago, claiming $1.5 billion in losses.

The Journal reported that Grigoriev acknowledges assisting Inkombank while in Washington but denies providing confidential information or receiving regular payments.

While at the World Bank, Grigoriev served as alternative executive director for the Russian Federation office and later as an adviser to the executive director.

"In view of the recent chargers brought to the World Bank's attention, the bank has launched a full investigation as a matter of urgency" to determine whether any action is warranted, the bank said.

It said the bank had hired a law firm, Venable, Baetjer, Howard & Ciovilette, to help with the inquiry. The Russian office at the bank and the Russian government also were cooperating fully, it said.

Parachutist dies while jumping off El Capitan in protest of ban

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP) — A 60-year-old parachutist plunged to her death when her chute failed to open while jumping off El Capitan Friday during a protest of park rules banning such jumps.

Jan Davis was the fourth of five jumpers off Yosemite's most forbidding peak, a protest organized in response to the June 9 death of a jumper who successfully parachuted off El Capitan, only to drown in the river below while trying to flee rangers.

"The first three were beautiful. And then she jumped. Everybody thought it was OK, and then people said 'Open up! Open up!' Then we heard a splat and the whole place turned quiet," said Paul Sakuma, an Associated Press photographer.

The protest was meant to demonstrate that such jumps can be made safely.

Davis, of Santa Barbara, Calif., fell to the base of the 3,200-foot El Capitan and park rangers quickly cordoned off the area.

Davis' husband, photographer Tom Sanders, who was among the spectators, slumped onto his camera after she fell.

The danger of the extreme sport of jumping off cliffs, buildings and other stationary objects led the National Park Service to ban such jumps. Nationwide, an estimated 21 people have died jumping this way in the last 20 years.

Called BASE jumping, the acronym comes from "Building, Antenna, Span, Earth."

BASE jumping was legal in the park for a trial period in 1980, but restrictions on when people could jump and the number of jumps per day were routinely violated, so the activity was banned.

In the past, rangers have arrested anyone they catch jumping off El Capitan and other cliffs in the park, seized their equipment and put them in the local jail.

Both sides have tried to reach an accommodation after rangers who staked out a landing area on an informant's tip tried to capture Frank Gambalie III on June 9. Gambalie, 28, tried to flee, and drowned in the runoff-swollen Merced River.

Friday, Gambalie's mother joined about 150 people, including the five jumpers' families and friends, in what was supposed to be a carefully staged demonstration.

Park officials had allowed the protest to go forward.

"They agreed ahead of time to land in a designated area, allow themselves to be arrested, forfeit their equipment. We give them a citation for illegal air delivery and the U.S. magistrate sets the fine, traditionally about $2,000, said Scott Gediman, a spokesman for the park.

Clinton criticizes GOP farm aid policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton signed a record $8.7 billion bailout of the farm economy Friday, saying it showed Congress needs to overhaul a Republican-authored program that was supposed to wean growers from government programs.

"While these additional funds have been absolutely critical, the very fact that we've needed them points out the underlying flaws in the 1996 farm bill," Clinton said.

Clinton also criticized the makeup of the aid package, saying it provides too little assistance for farmers who lost crops to drought or flooding, while providing money to other growers who don't need it.

Most of the money in the measure, about $6 billion, is intended to help grain, cotton and soybean farmers cope with a second year of low commodity prices. The first checks should get to farmers by Thanksgiving.

About $1.4 billion is targeted for growers with weather-related crop failures and livestock producers who were hurt by this summer's drought. North Carolina alone needs $751 million to recover from the damage that Hurricane Floyd did to the state's farms in September, according to the Agriculture Department, and is seeking a supplemental appropriation from Congress.

Clinton said he decided to sign the measure "because our farmers are facing a true emergency and can't wait."

"This infusion of assistance may mean the difference between farmers quitting and staying in business another year," said Leland Swenson, president of the National Farmers Union.

The legislation also includes $400 million for crop-insurance discounts, $328 million to compensate tobacco producers for falling cigarette sales and $125 million in subsidies for dairy producers.

Additionally, it extends the government's price-support program for dairy products through next year and requires meatpackers to start reporting the prices they pay for cattle and hogs. Livestock producers say that will make it easier for them to bargain with meat processors.

Jury only gives man probation for killing his wife; Judge issues four-month term

FORT WORTH — A man who found his wife with a lover and shot her six times was sentenced to four months in prison Friday, a day after jurors recommended a 10-year probated sentence for the murder.

The 120 days in prison was about the most punitive measure District Judge Robert Gill could take under the law, given the jury's findings, according to defense attorneys.

Jurors found Jimmy Watkins, 34, guilty Monday of murder.

According to testimony and a written confession, Watkins shot his wife, Nancy, and her lover before leaving the scene and returning to shoot the woman five more times while she talked to a 911 dispatcher.

Jurors took only one hour to convict Watkins of murder and then deliberated 21 hours over three days on punishment before determining that Watkins had acted with "sudden passion" when he found his wife and her lover, Keith Fontenot, at the Watkins' home near Eagle Mountain Lake last Dec. 22.

Jurors indicated Thursday that their recommendation for a probated sentence came because they didn't think Watkins could be rehabilitated in prison.

"We feel for the family, but Jimmy needs help. The prison system just won't give him help," juror Alex Davis told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Another juror, James Laurie, e-mailed the newspaper Thursday night, saying he hoped Watkins would take advantage of his second chance.

"I pray Jimmy will use the break that we gave him to turn his life back in the right direction," Laurie said. "He has a long way to go. I pray for all the family members that were affected."

Watkins was described by his attorneys as a hard-working, clean-cut, religious man.

"He was a good person who'd never been in trouble in his life and who had done everything to help people," defense attorney Lisa Mullen said Friday.

"The punishment that he is giving himself is harder than any punishment anybody could give him," Ms. Mullen said. She also pointed to psychiatric evidence presented at trial that because of Watkins' remorse, he is considered a suicide risk.

Mullen said she was concerned that Watkins might pass out as his 11-year-old son, who witnessed the crime, testified against him.

Prosecutors also noticed that Watkins seemed distressed throughout the trial but described it as a tactic to influence jurors.

"He sat there with his head between his hands and cried off and on during the whole trial," said prosecutor James Cook. "He wasn't going to testify. That's his way of testifying without having to be cross-examined."

Prosecutors said they would take Watkins to trial again for shooting Fontenot.

"If we had wanted him to have probation we would have offered probation," Cook said. "There were just some people in that jury who were not going to send him to prison. They wore down the people who thought this was a serious offense."

Cook seemed especially perplexed by the jury's apparent reluctance to consider stronger punishment.

According to his confession, Watkins shot his wife once and Fontenot twice. Then he chased Fontenot from the house and put a gun to the man's head. When the gun failed to fire, Watkins drove away in his truck but returned after finding that there were still bullets in his weapon.

Mrs. Watkins was calling 911 for help when her husband returned. She was shot five more times.

Branch Davidian trial date set for May 15

WACO (AP) — The sweeping civil lawsuit filed by Branch Davidians that accuses the federal government of using excessive force during the 1993 Waco siege will go to trial beginning in mid-May, a federal judge said in an order issued Friday.

In his three-page order, U.S. District Judge Walter Smith set jury selection to begin May 15 in the case against FBI sharpshooter Lon Horiuchi, who was in charge of the sniper post outside the Davidians' compound near Waco.

Horiuchi, who killed the wife of white separatist Randy Weaver during a 1992 standoff in Ruby Ridge, Idaho, has denied firing any shots during the Waco standoff. But Smith refused earlier this year to drop him from the case, leaving him as the only individual defendant in the massive lawsuit.

Under the trial schedule set by Smith, the remaining claims against the government filed by Branch Davidian survivors and relatives of the dead will be heard in a non-jury trial at the conclusion of Horiuchi's case.

Smith initially had set the trial for Oct. 18. but postponed it last month to give the government more time to surrender to his court all evidence related to the deadly standoff.

Some 80 Branch Davidians died April 19, 1993 when their retreat erupted in flames after the FBI initiated a tear-gas assault designed to bring the 51-day siege to an end. The government has long denied that its actions were responsible for the fire or the Davidians' deaths.

The judge indicated willingness to re-examine the question of whether to reinstate some of the Davidian plaintiffs he had earlier dismissed from the case, giving the lawyers 30 days to provide additional information.

Former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark, who represents several Davidians dismissed from the civil case, could not be reached for comment Friday.

The judge also gave the lawyers until Feb. 1 to file additional motions seeking to reinstate defendants he had dropped from the lawsuit. In a July order, Smith had dismissed as defendants Attorney General Janet Reno, former Texas Gov. Ann Richards and top officials of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms and the FBI, including then-Director William Sessions.

The plaintiffs' lead lawyer welcomed the judge's order.

"In light of the recent disclosures concerning the failure of the FBI to make certain evidence available to Congress, to the criminal defendants and to us, I think Judge Smith is clearly willing to at least reconsider ... the dismissal of some individual defendants," said Houston attorney Michael Caddell, who represents most of the plaintiffs.

Caddell added: "This is a very fair schedule for both sides."

Bulldogs end years of frustration vs. Mojo

Midland High running back Jimmy Smith carries an Odessa Permian defender for a few more of his 213 rushing yards during the Bulldogs' 35-3 win Friday in Ratliff Stadium.

ODESSA — Demons were purged at Ratliff Stadium Friday night.

Midland High went into a District 4-5A game with Odessa Permian having lost 25 consecutive times to old Mojo. But frustration is no more.

MIDLAND HIGH 35, odessa permian 3.

The Bulldogs didn't just chase away the ghosts of ages past, but literally kicked Casper out of his bed.

MHS dominated the Panthers as tailback Jimmy Smith ran for 213 yards and four touchdowns as the Bulldogs went to a one-back set and just said Jimmy right and Jimmy left some 35 times. Twenty-five previous demons then died.

"Right now, this is the best I've felt in a long time," said MHS coach David Browning. "This is a great chapter to add to the new book we are writing at Midland High. We no longer live in the past, or have to talk about the past. I'm going to enjoy this about eight hours and then start thinking about Abilene High."

MHS eliminated Permian from any state playoff hopes as Mojo fell to 3-5 for the season and 0-3 in 4-5A play. MHS climbs to 7-1 and 2-1 to stay in the thick of the playoff hunt, another demon that has eluded the Bulldogs since 1951. Midland High is hoping that this is a year of Demon Killing and this was a huge step forward.

The Bulldogs held Permian without a touchdown. It was the second week in a row that Permian has not scored a TD. MHS also held PHS to a meager 99 yards of total offense.

"This game means a lot to us," said linebacker Mike Neu, who was a thorn in the Permian side all night. "This shows that we have grown as a team. We're not worried about the past anymore. This was a win, but our focus now is on Abilene High."

The Bulldogs dominated early, driving 77 yards on nine plays the first time they touched the ball for a quick 7-0 lead. Smith carried on eight of the nine plays while quarterback Laynce Nix hit Lamar Hickey for 33 yards on the other play. It was the beginning of a long night for the durable Smith.

"I knew coming into the game that I was going to play some on both sides of the ball, so I was geared for a tough night," Smith said. "I wasn't even born the last time we beat them, so that makes it even more special to be a part of that."

Smith has now scored in all eight Bulldog games this season and is becoming a true workhorse. He

No. 1 Rebels take control of 4-5A

Third-quarter surge lifts Lee over Cooper, into first place in District

By Stewart Doreen
Assistant Sports Editor

When you are ranked No. 1 in the state and nation, it is expected that you make plays when needed. The Midland Lee Rebels are, and Friday night they did.

The Rebels broke open their District 4-5A game with Abilene Cooper, scoring 16 third-quarter points en route to a 30-15 victory at Memorial Stadium.

"Their drives and our lack of drives in the third quarter were the difference," Cooper coach Randy Quisenberry said. "I told the kids we didn't make the plays and they (the Rebels) did. That was the key."

It was the 18th straight win for Lee, which is ranked No. 1 in the state by just about everyone and No. 1 in the nation by USA Today. It also leaves Lee as the only undefeated team in 4-5A. Lee is 8-0 overall and 3-0 in district. Cooper falls to 4-3 and 2-1. The Cougars are tied with Midland High and Abilene High for second in district.

The win also gives Lee some redemption for the 21-14 loss to Cooper last year. The 1998 loss at Abilene's Shotwell Stadium is Lee's lone defeat in the last 24 games.

"It was a tough 4-5A game," Lee coach John Parchman said. "We thought it would be and it was."

And as is the case in 4-5A, the tough games are usually decided by the team that makes the plays.

Leading 14-9 in the third quarter, the Rebels capped a six-play, 62-yard drive with a 36-yard strike from Jon Rogers to Andy Greenleaf. It was the second catch for Greenleaf on the drive. The other was a pass for 17 yards.

"We thought that they would stack the line and we tried to open things up," said Rogers. "Things worked out."

Warrick Returns

Peter Warrick, left, will rejoin Florida State and coach Bobby Bowden, right, in time for Saturday's game at Clemson after agreeing to deal in which he will serve no jail time on a theft charge. The settlement met FSU's standard for allowing him to play.

Star receiver rejoins Seminoles for subplot-filled football game

CLEMSON, S.C. — As if the Bowden vs. Bowden showdown needed more twists.

A big one came Friday on the eve of the Florida State-Clemson game — star receiver Peter Warrick struck a deal that allows him to avoid jail and resume playing for the top-ranked Seminoles.

''It's been a lot of distraction for all of us, a lot of sadness for my part and the other guys' part,'' said Bowden, who faces his son Tommy Bowden, the Clemson coach, as he goes for the milestone victory. ''I think the players probably handle it better than I do.''

The Heisman Trophy contender pleaded guilty to misdemeanor petty theft for his role in a department store scam. University president Sandy D'Alemberte had said Warrick would have had to serve any jail time before he could return.

Andrews stays in playoff hunt by handing Steers another loss

By Lee Passmore
Sports Writer

ANDREWS — Oh, how football fortunes have reversed in District 5-4A.

Two weeks ago, Andrews and Big Spring appeared headed in different directions after their 5-4A openers. After Friday night's game at the Mustang Bowl, they were still headed in different directions, but in opposite ways from two weeks ago.

Andrews took advantage of every Big Spring miscue and reduced the Steers, ranked No. 10 in the state as recently as nine days ago, into a team suddenly lacking in direction and confidence in a 31-6 victory. Now the Mustangs (6-2 overall, 2-1 in district), who lost to Snyder by 31 in their district opener, are on the verge of claiming a playoff spot while the Steers will likely have to win both of their final two games to even claw back into contention.

What the two teams shared in common heading into Friday's game was a loss to Snyder, which defeated Sweetwater, 34-14, to claim the inside track toward a district title. But whereas Big Spring (6-2, 1-2) didn't appear as if it had recovered from the previous week's 21-19 heartbreaker against the Tigers. Snyder's 39-8 win over Andrews two weeks ago seemed like a motivator for the Mustangs, who laid a similar beating on Big Spring.

"It surprised me without a doubt," said Andrews coach Mike Lebby of his team's lopsided win. "To go back two weeks ago we were flat bad against Snyder. The kids knew what they had to do and they responded."

That's the position the Steers now find themselves in with two games left and their once sparkling season losing its fizz quicker than a week-old open can of 7-Up. They appeared to still be suffering a hangover of losing their perfect record to Snyder a week earlier.

"We were overwhelmed by a better team," said Big Spring coach Dwight Butler. "We didn't have our people very well prepared. Last week's game took a lot more out of us than we thought."

In a game of statistical oddities, Andrews generally had the advantages across the board, but the Steers didn't lose — at least not early in the game — because they were simply overwhelmed. Big Spring committed four crucial penalties for 40 yards in the first half, three of which helped sustain Andrews drives.

Trailing 17-0 late in the first half, Big Spring drove into Andrews territory for the third time after miss-

Trinity lifts Homecoming curse

By Aaron Gutierrez
MRT Correspondent

For the Trinity Chargers, the horror of homecoming rolls around like every year like a yearly visit to the dentist. Friday night, however, the Chargers lifted the monkey off their backs by winning their first ever homecoming game by trampling the Marathon Mustangs, 59-13.

"We have never won a homecoming game here before," said Trinity head coach Karl Kitto. "Our goal was to win this game and get it over with."

Trinity (4-4) never let the outcome of Friday's game come into question as they forced the Mustangs into submission by way of the 45-point mercy rule. The game was called with 6:19 remaining in the third quarter after a 4-yard touchdown plunge by sophomore running back, Scott Panthaky. This game was also the first game using the new Coombes Field stadium lights.

"Our offense is really clicking right now and with our defense coming along, we are looking much better," said Jeehoun Yi, a Charger freshman tailback.

Yi, along with junior Clint Kitto, electrified the capacity crowd with extraordinary special teams play as both returned kicks for touchdowns. Yi scored on a 51-yard punt return while Kitto ran back a Marathon kickoff 64 yards to paydirt.

Along with the special teams play, Yi had a 60-yard touchdown run to open the game while Kitto scampered 36 yards to end the first half.

Trinity junior running back Nathan Pirtle also added a 27-yard touchdown run in the second quarter as the SAN ANTONIO — No. 10 Midland Christian had a huge night offensively in its Texas Association of Private and Parochial Schools District 3-4A opener, scoring 33 unanswered points to hold off a St. Gerard rally in a 53-24 victory Friday night.

It was a game of streaks, as St. Gerard put the first points on the board with a 27-yard field goal by Anthony Castillo. Kurt Corley and Jamie Beeghley paced the Midland Christian offense from that point on, as Corley ran for three touchdowns and Beeghley threw for three and ran for another.

Corley's 14-yard run in the first quarter gave the Mustangs the lead for good while Beeghley accounted for two scores in the second quarter with a six-yard pass to Tim Philbeck and a 1-yard run giving Midland Christian a 20-3 halftime lead.

St. Gerard cut the lead to 20-17 in the third quarter on a 34-yard run by Andre Christian and an 80-yard run by Brandon Kyle, but it was all Mustangs the rest of the way.

Corley ran for 88 yards on 15 carries while Beeghley completed 6-of-9 passes for 179 yards. The Mustangs are now 5-3 overall and 1-0 in district.

LEE: Rebels improve record to 8-0

(From 1B)

As they did on the next drive when Rogers hit Jerad Calobreves on a third down for 30 yards to set up a 3-yard scoring run by Cedric Benson.

"Greenleaf stepped up tonight, and Jerad Calobreves stepped up at the tight end spot with a big catch in a critical situation," Parchman said.

Those plays spearheaded two drives which put Lee up 30-9. The two scores also switched the momentum in the game.

Cooper had hit a field goal with no time left in the first half to close within 14-9. However, after two three-and-outs offensive drives, the Cougars found themselves in a 21-point hole they couldn't crawl out of.

"Lee is too good to let them move the ball drive after drive," Quisenberry said. "We had some crucial situations and couldn't convert offensively."

It wasn't until the fourth quarter that Cooper scored for the last time as Tremaine Diles took the ball in from one yard out. After that, Cooper's next three plays ended in a fumble and two interceptions.

"We weren't focused at what we needed to do for the whole game, but we stopped them when we needed to," Lee defensive lineman Dwight Washington said.

For Lee, Benson was again huge, rushing for 234 yards and three first downs. Benson, a junior, has totaled 770 yards and 10 touchdowns on the ground in three district games. His overall total rises to 1,705 yards and 19 TDs in eight games this season.

Overall, Lee gained 257 yards rushing and 100 through the air. Cooper had 108 rushing and 199 passing. The Cougars got another 100-yard rushing night from Diles, who had 120 yards on 28 carries. Receiver Casey Fields added 117 yards receiving.

For Lee, Greenleaf's 70 receiving yards were the most by a Lee wide receiver this year. Defensively, Lee's Kody Matthews and T.J. Glover had interceptions. Mathews also recovered a fumble caused by Joe Norman.

But this win between two undefeated teams in district ended with Lee making the play when it needed to.

Rebel Notes: Lee leads the series with Cooper 19-17-3... The win was Lee's 18th in a row, the fourth best streak in the state... Benson has rushed for 100 or more yards in 13 straight games. He has also has scored in every game this season, one of two players (Midland High's Jimmy Smith is the other) to do so...The three field goals kicked by Jared Peel tied a 4-5A record for field goals in a game. It has been done a number of times, including two other times this season...

MHS: Bulldogs end losing streak vs. Mojo even got a sack while playing some defense as if toting the ball 35 times wasn't enough work.

Senior tight end Randy Gardner is another Bulldog to play both ways and he got a sack for his efforts. However, Gardner's memory can't fathom last winning in 1973. His memory is much shorter, but that didn't make the victory any less sweet.

"This is great for the team and the seniors. I never dreamed this," Gardner said. "They've been beating us since I was in the seventh grade. This is terrific. Now we just have to focus on Abilene and Lee."

MHS' junior Colter Lange again came up with a big night. He returned a punt 33 yards in the first quarter to set up a two-play Smith drive for a 14-0 lead. He also intercepted his sixth pass of the year and converted it into a 62-yard search-for-a-hole scamper that weaved its way through the Permian defense.

"I can't explain how this feels," Lange said. "We knew we could beat them. They played us hard, but we just had everything going our way. It was that kind of night."

Permian had nine players who didn't suit out for the game, including star receiver Roy Williams, who is suffering from turf toe. And the Bulldogs held Permian's other star receiver, Desmond Hill, to just one catch for 12 yards. Justin Donaldson was Permian's leading rusher with only 43 yards.

Permian now faces the prospect of missing the state playoffs and have to face 8-0 Midland Lee next week at Ratliff Stadium.

One will just have to wonder about the true feelings of MHS assistant coach Larry Currie. He is a former assistant coach at Permian and now has been part of two record breaking streaks. He was at Odessa High two years ago when the Bronchos broke its long losing skid against Permian. And now he has this one at MHS against Permian.

"It was a good win, but it was just a win," Currie said. "I would rather not comment for the record about the personal side."

It was a time for gloating, but that didn't seem to happen after this game.

ABILENE — Arturo "Sneezy" Beltran rushed for 121 yards and three tocuhdowns as the Abilene High Eagles defeated Odessa High 28-0 in a District 4-5A game Friday night at Shotwell Stadium.

AHS moves to 2-1 in district and 6-2 overall. This win also sets up what should be a critical district contest with Midland High next Friday at Midland Memorial Stadium. AHS, MHS and Abilene Cooper are tied for second in 4-5A at 2-1. Midland Lee leads the district at 3-0.

For Odessa High, it was another troubling loss. The Bronchos are 0-3 in district and have to make the trip back to Shotwell next Friday to battle Cooper. The Cougars are coached by former OHS coach Randy Quisenberry.

In addition to Beltran's accomplishments, AHS quarterback Kevin Goodman hit Eddie Hyer for a 40-yard score. Goodman had 170 yards passing. Hyer was the Eagles' leading receiver with four catches for 74 yards.

For OHS, James Curry rushed for 145 yards and quarterback Danny Vasquez threw for 123.

Hamed decisions Soto

DETROIT — Both sides agreed it was a rough and tumble fight. What they couldn't agree upon was where to put the blame.

Flamboyant WBO featherweight champion Prince Naseem Hamed said he would win by knockout. Instead, he used a series of body slams and takedowns worthy of the WWF and won a unanimous decision over WBC titleholder Cesar Soto in their 12-round unification bout Friday night.

"He's a paper champion," Soto said through an interpreter. "I know in my heart that I'm the real champion because I came to fight. He came to wrestle.

"I don't know if I was fighting a fighter or Hulk Hogan."

Bob Arum, who runs Top Rank Boxing and promotes Soto, called it the worst fight he had ever seen.

"It made me puke," Arum said. "That wasn't boxing. That was wrestling."

Hamed said it was Soto, the Mexican warrior who has never been knocked out, who started the rough stuff.

"Bob Arum was watching a totally different fight," Hamed said. "He just didn't want his guy to get beat."

Irish tailback suspended

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Notre Dame tailback Tony Driver has been suspended for the rest of the season by the university's Office of Student Affairs, coach Bob Davie said Friday.

Davie would not elaborate why the junior was suspended by the board, which enforces the university's student handbook that covers student conduct issues ranging from cheating to dorm room visits from members of the opposite sex.

Davie said Driver is still on scholarship and in school. He is expected to rejoin the team for spring practice.

"It's a Student Affairs decision. I feel bad for a lot of people, but most of all Tony Driver," Davie said. "It's unfortunate, but that's what it is."

Expansion Cotton Kings defeat Jacks

Staff Report

ODESSA — The Odessa Jackalopes dropped their third straight game Friday as the Lubbock Cotton Kings rolled to a 7-4 victory at the Jack Shack.

Odessa lost despite outshooting Lubbock 41-36 in the contest. The Cotton Kings came into the game averaging 48 points per contest.

Lubbock put three goals into the net before Odessa answered with an Eric Perricone goal 17:09 into the second period.

Odessa had a big opportunity to answer earlier as Mark Smith took a shot at the goal with Lubbock goalie Cory Cadden down on the ground. Cadden denied Smith the goal as he stopped the puck from going into the net.

Just 90 seconds later Arturs Kupaks scored as Karson Kaebel gave away the puck in the slot for the third Lubbock goal of the evening.

Kupaks ended the night with a goal plus two assists. Mark Green, who came into the game second in the WPHL in scoring, added two goals for the Cotton Kings in the third period.

John Bossio and Mike Vandenberghe also scored for the Jacks.

Odessa next hosts 0-5 Abilene at 7:11 tonight in what has to be a must-win game for the Jackalopes.

WARRICK: Seminoles star will return

(From 1B)

his status created all sorts of uncertainty leading to Saturday when the Seminoles (7-0, 5-0 Atlantic Coast Conference) face Clemson (3-3, 3-1).

Now, with Warrick back, quarterback Chris Weinke regains his favorite target.

''There's obviously a lot of excitement, a lot of media hype following this game,'' Weinke said. ''But my job from a player's perspective is to get the X's and O's ready to go and get the other players ready to go.''

Bobby Bowden can become the sport's fifth Division I-A coach to reach 300 wins.

Weinke, a 27-year-old junior, says the players haven't worried about any of that.

''To be honest with you, when players are talking about this game, we're talking about a stepping stone to get to where we want to get to, and that's, of course, to the national championship,'' he said. ''Everyone else takes care of the outside distraction.''

Bowden is glad to have his quarterback's calm approach for a game such as this. No one in major college football has ever coached against his son, let alone before more than 87,000 fans and a milestone on the line.

''The thing he brings to the field is his maturity level,'' Bowden said. ''If he makes a mistake, he doesn't get rattled.''

Tommy Bowden has said all week the pressure was on his dad, and he and Clemson could enjoy the historic moment.

He bounced through town Friday morning, waving to passing cars that honked at him, He ran about 45 minutes and got a haircut.

''Now, I'm going to take my wife to lunch,'' he said, looking as calm and happy as he sounded.

There could be an additional 10,000 to 15,000 people on campus Saturday who don't have tickets but want to listen outside the stadium.

Students painted College Avenue windows with scenes and slogans commemorating the game.

One said, ''This won't be Father's Day.'' Another had a chunky looking Warrick in his Florida State uniform behind bars with a department store shopping bag at his feet.

''We haven't had to play in that type of environment yet this year,'' Weinke said. ''That's something that we're going to have to deal with.''

Weinke passed up a Florida State scholarship out of high school to sign with the Toronto Blue Jays, but returned as a 25-year-old freshman two years ago.

TRINITY: Chargers romp

(From 1B)

Chargers pulled away.

But where the Chargers were most impressive was on the defensive side of the ball. Trinity's defense held Marathon to one offensive touchdown and a mere three first downs — one of which came on a Trinity penalty.

"Our defense struggled last week and we knew we had to play better in order for us to win this game," said Charger cornerback Dustin Truitt, who made several key defensive plays in the game.

One of the keys for Trinity was to stop Marathon running back, Johnny Samudio. The Chargers corralled Samudio, the star Mustang tailback and held him as well the rest of the Marathon runners to minus 2 yards on the ground.

"He (Samudio) is a great back and it was nice for us to shut him down tonight." said coach Kitto.

The next hurdle for Trinity is district foe Wichita Falls Episcopal next Saturday at 1 p.m. at Coombes Field.

"We are playing heads up football right now," said senior Mike Midkiff. "If we stick to what we are doing, and work together like we can, I don't think there is anyone that can stop us."

'Horns, 'Huskers put rivalry on hold

By Jim Vertuno
AP Sports Writer

AUSTIN — In many ways, Nebraska-Texas is the hot new rivalry in college football even if only for a little while.

It has everything: revenge, respect (and disrespect), two ranked teams and two victories by underdog Texas in the past three years that ended Nebraska streaks.

"I don't think either team thinks this is (just) another game," Texas coach Mack Brown said as the 18th-ranked Longhorns (5-2, 2-1 Big 12) prepared to meet No. 3 Nebraska (6-0, 3-0) Saturday.

"It's huge," Longhorns cornerback Ahmad Brooks said. "It's a game for Texas to gain national attention and find itself. This game is about more than the Big 12. It's about traditions."

The only problem is the series goes on hold after Saturday. Because of the split between the Big 12 North and South divisions, the teams aren't scheduled to meet again during the regular season until 2002.

More Sports/8B

They could play each other in the conference title game during the off years and possibly even meet again at the end of this season. Both teams are tied for first in their respective conference divisions.

It seems logical that these tradition-rich programs would have played each more than just six times. The rivalry didn't spark until the Big 8 and Southwest conferences merged.

Then Texas surprisingly beat Nebraska twice.

Texas' victory in the 1996 conference title game ended the Huskers' run for a third consecutive national title. The Longhorns won again at Lincoln last year, breaking Nebraska's 47-game home winning streak.

Texas and Florida State (1992-93) are the only teams to beat Nebraska twice during the '90s.

Nebraska coach Frank Solich said his team doesn't think about those games anymore.

"What happened last season is well behind us," Solich said. "We try not to hang on to things. That's not a factor as far as our players are concerned."

Perhaps Solich misjudged his players.

"I hate Texas. We want to beat them in the worst way," Nebraska center Dominic Raiola said.

"They are talking some big trash," Texas wide receiver Kwame Cavil said. "The pressure is on them. They have expectations of a national title and they still haven't beaten us."

The biggest pressure will likely come at Texas quarterback Major Applewhite, who passed for 269 yards and two touchdowns against Nebraska last year. He is averaging 298.7 yards per game.

Nebraska has the stingiest defense in the Big 12, giving up 230.8 total yards and allowing only 9.7 points per game.

The Longhorns expect Nebraska to mimic Kansas State's blitzing game plan that produced a 35-17 Wildcats victory three weeks ago. K-State converted six Applewhite turnovers into 26 points.

Applewhite seems ready to take a pounding Saturday.

"I wish that last year's victory gave me more confidence about this week's game," he said. "But we are a different Texas team this year."

ANDREWS: Big Spring suffers 2nd straight loss

(From 1B)

ing field goals on its first two positions. Steers fullback Jose Carnero gained eight yards to the Andrews 30-yard line for an apparent first down, but fumbled. Mustang free safety Chris McCain recovered, and Big Spring's spirit appeared to sag for the remainder of the game.

"Big Spring didn't play as well as they could have," said Lebby. "They made a couple of critical errors and we cashed in. We made plays and we've got guys who can make plays."

In making plays, Andrews might have done some damage to its reputation. With the remarkable Shaud Williams for four seasons and Geremy Woods (who had 149 yards on 27 carries and a touchdown reception against the Steers) carrying the load at tailback, throwing the ball seemed like an afterthought.

That was before Scott Kello permanently assumed the starting quarterback job prior to last week's 44-0 win over San Angelo Lake View. It was Kello, not Woods, who was the offensive star on this night for the Mustangs, completing 8-of-14 for 173 yards and throwing for all four Andrews touchdowns.

Andrews' superiority through the air was by design, not accident.

"Coach (Lebby) told us at the beginning of the week we were going to throw a lot more tonight," said Kello, who threw a pair of first half touchdowns to fullback Chris Nunez covering 28 and 16 yards. "I knew for sure on Monday and we'd been working on it all week."

Perhaps the first Andrews possession of the game foretold that throwing the ball might be sound strategy. After three carries by Woods failed to yield a first down, McCain came on to punt, but after his boot got away, he was hit by Big Spring's Jason Woodruff, drawing a 15-yard penalty and giving the Mustangs a first down.

That put the ball at Big Spring's 43, and the Mustangs appeared to stick to their standard running attack, but on a second-and-8 at the 28, Kello flipped a pass in the flat to Nunez, who went down the left sideline relatively uncontested to give the Mustangs a 7-0 lead. The two hooked up on a similar play from 16 yards out which stretched the lead to 17-0.

"We worked on the flair routes to the fullback a lot more last week than we had been," said Kello, who also threw touchdown passes to Woods and McCain in the second half. "That was working so well against Lake View that we figured it could work again tonight."

That second touchdown by Nunez was set up by another penalty against Big Spring as Andrews was set to punt. The Steers had 12 men on the field to give Andrews a first down.

Big Spring got the ball to open the second half and opted to gamble on a fourth-and-1 from its own 45. Tailback Colby Ford, who was held to 64 yards on 17 carries, was stopped by Andrews' Jayme Jackson for no gain and signal the death of Big Spring's running attack for the game.

"If we don't regroup emotionally we've got a long, hard haul," Butler said. "We're not playing the way we're capable of but Andrews had a lot to do with that."

The game didn't resemble a West Texas game in the final yardage numbers. Both teams threw for more yards than they ran for, and all five scores came through the air.

Big Spring's Lance Brock completed 12-of-16 for 220 yards, and connected with Blair Nutting for a 15-yard score in the third quarter for the Steers' only points.

Rocker draws attention

By Paul Newberry
AP Sports Writer

ATLANTA — In the winter of 1997, John Rocker was an obscure minor-leaguer sent away to harness his considerable skills in remote Puerto Rico.

He was still in the infant stage of his career as a reliever, but he finally felt comfortable with his place in life. No longer did he have to wait four days between starts. No longer did he have to conserve his energy for the late innings.

One night, Rocker was throwing in the bullpen when the call went out for a new pitcher in the eighth inning. His eyes quickly shifted to the man waiting at the plate.

Ivan Rodriguez.

"He was the first big-name hitter I had ever faced,'' Rocker recalled Friday, standing on the field after the Atlanta Braves worked out for Game 1 of the World Series against the New York Yankees. "I had nothing to lose if he took me deep. I wanted to go out there with a no-holds-barred attitude.''

As if to drive that point home, he charged to the mound like a mad bull in search of a red cape. After striking out Rodriguez — or so he says; the Texas catcher was unavailable to rebut the story — the furious, 100-yard dash from the bullpen would be the trademark of a Rocker appearance.

"Maybe it's a sign of immaturity,'' he said, certain to get no argument from New Yorkers. "But I just have an intense will to win. I'm a perfectionist at whatever I do.''

At age 25, nearing the end of his first season as the Braves' closer, Rocker has left an indelible impression on the postseason with a pattern of conduct totally out of character for his team.

While the Braves have been criticized for being too businesslike about their eight straight playoff appearances, Rocker picked a fight with Mets fans prior to the NL Championship Series by calling them "stupid.''

When he came on the field for Game 3 at Shea Stadium, he hardly ran away from the spotlight. Instead, Rocker walked slowly toward the outfield, soaking in the boos with an sarcastic smile and tip of the cap. He even stopped to sign autographs for a couple of kids wearing Mets jerseys.

As the Braves left New York, Rocker described Mets fans as "subhuman.'' After totaling his sports car in a wreck the day before Game 6 — escaping without a scratch — he pitched two scoreless innings in the 10-9 victory that sent the Braves to the World Series.

Rocker says now that his seemingly rash actions were a well-conceived plan to motivate himself and rattle the Mets.

"It's not something where I just shot my mouth off,'' Rocker said. "It was sort of a motivational tool. It worked out just like I thought it would.''

Many of his teammates simply shake their heads when discussing the 6-foot-4, 210-pound left-hander.

"I've been here a very long time and, yeah, there's things I've wanted to say, but I knew I didn't have the right to say them,'' John Smoltz said, squirming a bit against his locker. "He seems to be thriving on that. The guys are just leaving him alone.''

Rocker is clearly in his element in the World Series, where every comment is scrutinized, every action is analyzed. Cheer him, boo him, it doesn't matter. Just make sure you notice him.

"I'd much rather pitch in front of a large crowd,'' he said.

Rocker's competitiveness is unquestioned. Some of his actions could also be interpreted as selfish, however.

He shot off at his teammates last month when Eddie Perez's throwing error after a strikeout cost the Braves a victory — and Rocker a save. In the division series against Houston, Rocker escaped a bases-loaded, no-outs situation in the 10th inning of Game 3 — then said afterward that he felt no pressure when he came in because the runners wouldn't go on his pitching line.

But Rocker has been a dominating presence in the postseason, carrying the Braves to the World Series for the first time since 1996. He has one win and three saves, allowing only three hits and no earned runs in 10 innings.

From the Braves point of view, he can keep on talking.

"Have you seen how big he is?'' Chipper Jones quipped. "Who's going to say anything to him? Not me. He'd pound me in the ground. There would probably be a problem if he said things and then didn't perform on the field. But he's backing it up. If it's not broke, don't fix it.''

Glavine, Braves know they might be running out of Series chances

By Ben Walker
AP Baseball Writer

ATLANTA — The signs of age are starting to show.

John Smoltz is taking a daily pill to treat his hair loss. Greg Maddux sports a bit more of a paunch. And there are crow's feet crinkling at the corners of Tom Glavine's eyes.

These Atlanta Braves know they might be running out of time.

"You have to wonder how many more chances you're going to get,'' Glavine said Friday. "The law of averages are starting to go against you.''

The Braves get one more opportunity to make up for lost time, starting Saturday night in the World Series against the defending champion New York Yankees. Glavine will oppose Orlando "El Duque'' Hernandez in Game 1.

"This will be our fifth trip,'' Atlanta manager Bobby Cox said. "We'd like to have a couple out of it.''

Atlanta and the Dodgers of the 1950s are the only NL teams to make five Series appearances in a decade. But to many, the perception of the Braves is more defined by their October failures — some call them the Buffalo Bills of baseball — than by their eight straight playoff appearances.

There's the image of Lonnie Smith getting lost on the bases and Atlanta losing 1-0 in 10 innings to Jack Morris in Game 7 in 1991. Or old Dave Winfield driving home the winning run against them in 1992. Or Mark Wohlers serving up Jim Leyritz's home run in 1996.

To Yankees manager Joe Torre, that's not fair.

"Bobby, obviously, so much is made — and you look at (John) Elway and Jim Kelly — he keeps getting criticized every year just because he only won one World Series,'' he said. "That's not the easiest thing in the world to win.''

Of course, Torre and the Yankees can talk with confidence. They're trying to win their third Series title in four year and become baseball's first repeat champion since Toronto in 1992-93.

"Let's admit it — you work for George Steinbrenner, just getting to postseason play is not enough,'' Torre said. "He's promised the people of New York a lot more than that. And fortunately, we've been able to deliver.''

Steinbrenner, however, was upset with commissioner Bud Selig on the eve of Game 1. At issue was backup infielder Luis Sojo, whose father died Thursday.

The Yankees had sought permission to remove Sojo, projected as a late defensive replacement for second baseman Chuck Knoblauch, from the roster for the first two games and then add him for the rest of the Series.

Baseball rules do not permit any roster changes once a postseason round has started. Steinbrenner said Selig rejected the request made by Yankees general manager Brian Cashman.

Annual thanksgiving celebration brings community together

By Johnnye Montgomery

What started nine years ago as a Golf Course Road Church of Christ event of thanksgiving and has grown to encompass people across county, ethnic and denominational lines, will be presented again Sunday.

Kyle McGraw, Golf Course Road Church of Christ deacon for special events, said the Community Thanksgiving Celebration began in 1990, when the church invited author Max Lucado as keynote speaker for an event "... that was seen as primarily an event that our local people, mainly in our own congregation would come to, but with the same mission that we have today: To tear down walls and build bridges within our Christian community, to be thankful and give praise to God with a unified voice."

Attendance has grown every year, and with it, the participation of churches throughout the community. Last year there were more than 3,000 in attendance, with registered attendees coming from 19 different cities and 112 different churches.

"We had people from Abilene, Andrews, Ballinger, Big Spring, Crane, Fort Stockton, San Angelo, Seminole, Snyder, Monahans and one from Canada. Since we didn't publicize the event in Canada, I can only say that this must have been someone visiting the Permian Basin," he said, joking.

This year's event will be at Chaparral Center, with the praise service starting at 6 p.m.

Mayor Bobby Burns and Todd Brown of Midland Christian School will lead off the celebration with welcoming addresses, followed by five-minute devotional speeches by Patrick Payton of Stonegate (United Methodist) Fellowship, Robert Walter of Our Savior Lutheran and Bill Kenan of Faith Temple Church of God in Christ

There will be singing led by Ken Young, Golf Course Road Church of Christ minister of music, the Hallal Singers and the Community Grand Chorus, a community-wide chorus of singers from churches throughout the city.

A bilingual prayer, led by Dick Spencer and Louis Caraveo of Cornerstone Christian Fellowship, will end the service.

It will be followed at 7:30 by a concert by the Katinas, nationally known spiritual singers from American Samoa.

The five Katina brothers have performed together since 1977 at youth conventions, high schools and churches. In

'Faith on Trial'

Attorney applies rules of evidence to resurrection, concludes that it really occurred

By Cecile S. Holmes
Hearst News Service

HOUSTON — Pamela Binnings Ewen was a true child of the '60s.

She read Ayn Rand, author of "The Fountainhead." She hung out with people who argued philosophies with names like objectivism and existentialism. She remembers the famous Time magazine cover in the early 1960s that asked: ''Is God Dead?''

Try as she might, she couldn't hold on to her childhood faith. No one could answer her burning question: Why should I believe Jesus lived, died and rose from the dead?

So she called herself an agnostic, defining it as a ''person who doesn't know if there's a God or not, someone who doesn't have the answers.''

Over the next 20 years, she rarely attended church. But her question remained. Then about 10 years ago, she began searching in earnest.

''Faith is a wonderful gift, but it was not given to me,'' she said. ''At the point when one begins to wonder what life is really all about and when the music will stop, this becomes an unacceptable state of affairs.''

Her question then became: If the testimony of the Gospels were held to the same standards as any other testimony within an American court of law, could a jury accept the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ as fact?

While that might be an odd approach for most people on a spiritual quest, it was not so strange for Ms. Ewen, now a partner with the law firm of Baker & Botts. She practices corporate law, brokering the legal side of financial deals between large companies.

The result of her 10 years of research and religious questing is "Faith On Trial: An Attorney Analyzes the Evidence for the Death and Resurrection of Jesus" (Broadman and Holman, $16.99).

The book treats the four Gospels of the New Testament as eyewitness testimony of Jesus Christ's life, ministry, crucifixion and resurrection.

Would those accounts ''stand up in court,'' she asks in the book?

Ms. Ewen places the reader in the jury box and explores the reliability of that testimony in light of the Federal Rules of Evidence (legal standards applied by attorneys) and common-law principles. She assumes the burden of proof.

Author asks readers to be the jury

By Johnnye Montgomery

In her recently published book, "Faith On Trial: An Attorney Analyzes the Evidence for the Death and Resurrection of Jesus," Houston attorney Pamela Binnings Ewen presents the testimony of the Gospels from a legal point of view, asking readers to be the jury.

She argues that the accounts of Jesus' life would be admissible today in a U.S. court of law.

In the preface she states that the book is written "for those on the outside looking in - those who seek the comfort that religion has to offer but need a rational foundation for belief."

She also reveals that her strong belief came after "a 15 year search for truth, which I began as an agnostic."

She introduces the issue and the standard of proof by citing the case of Darlie Routier, who in 1996 was convicted of murder in her young sons' deaths based solely on circumstantial evidence.

She states that Ms. Routier's family still believes in her innocence, a belief that Ms. Ewen says would surely be abandoned if even one credible witness could be found to say "I saw her kill them. I watched as she raised the knife over and over and stabbed each one with it."

Yet the truth of the facts of Jesus' life, death and resurrection, Ms. Ewen asserts in her book, are supported by evidence stronger than the circumstantial evidence presented in the Routier case, which sent the woman to death row.

In her examination of the credibility of the Gospel writers, Ms. Ewen presents evidence that would meet standards used in today's courtrooms. Some of that evidence is referred to as the Federal Rules of Evidence; the rest is referred to as

Commentary:

Local judges, others think Gospels prove that resurrection was factual

In response to the conclusions reached by Pamela Binnings Ewen in "Faith On Trial," the Midland Reporter-Telegram invited local clergy and Midland's district judges to comment on the legal aspects of the trial itself.

Judge Jody Gilles, 142nd District Court:

"I did a Lenten presentation at my church in 1994 or 1995 from the standpoint of the judicial proceedings at the trial of Jesus. Such presentation was based on research I did and my interpretation of the events recorded in the Gospels ...

"In this, as with any other trial, if we look just at the courtroom proceeding itself, we would deprive ourselves of the rich tapestry which has been woven prior to the trial. However, this presentation starts at the Garden of Gethsemane.

"From the time Jesus is approached by soldiers in the garden and arrested, which is described in Matthew 26:57, Mark 14:53, Luke 22:54 and John 18:12, to the time he was led away for crucifixion, there are a number of irregularities that would not be tolerated in a court of law today, and in fact, were illegal under Mosaic law applicable at the time.

"The Gospels talk about a multitude of soldiers, and one account states that a cohort — defined in the dictionary as between 300 and 600 — of Roman soldiers was present at the arrest, when Jesus was led away. Obviously, no 'Miranda' warnings were given to Jesus.

"Matthew, Mark and Luke say that Jesus was taken directly to Caiaphas. John's Gospel records that Jesus is taken first to the house of Annas, the former high priest, that night, and then to the house of Caiaphas, the high priest.

"Throughout the evening, Jesus is in custody and is tormented by those who are guarding him.

"Luke 22:66 states that the trial began at daybreak the next day. The other three Gospels say the trial started that night — a clear violation of Mosaic law, which was applicable at that point in time. The trial appears to have taken place at the home of Caiaphas.

"One scholar indicated that the trial itself would have been properly held before a gathering of the elders, the teachers of the law, the scribes and the priests in a meeting, which would have been referred to as the Great Council, or the Great Sanhèdrin. Such council was instituted by Moses and would have been the highest court within the Jewish nation.

"Under the law," Gilles continues, "the only place the tribunal could hold court was the temple in Jerusalem. In my research, a sentence of guilty could not be pronounced until the third day after the finding of guilt, and a second vote of the court.

"One scholar indicated that there would have been a jury of 12 formed, representing the equivalent of an appellate court that would have held exclusive jurisdiction over capital crimes, which was what Jesus had been accused of.

"It took an 11-1 majority to determine that the defendant was guilty. The high priest, a member of such court, represented the presence of God in the proceeding. This I find interesting, too: If the vote was guilty, the high priest washed his hands to symbolize the innocence of the court and the guilt of the defendant, and after-

The Good Book: James
(Part 59 of 66)

Overview:
The letter of James is a collection of wisdom teachings concerning life in the community of the church. These teachings address the issues of faith and works; uses and abuses of wealth; relations between the poor and the rich; the destructive power of the tongue; endurance during tribulation. James offers practical guidance on all these issues. In fact, this little book may be considered the most "practical" of all the books of the New Testament because it emphasizes putting faith into action.

Theme Passage: 1:22-25
"But be doers of the word, and not merely hearers who deceive themselves. For if any are hearers of the word and not doers, they are like those who look at themselves in a mirror; for they look at themselves and, on going away, immediately forget what they were like. But those who look into the perfect law, the law of liberty, and persevere, being not hearers who forget but doers who act — they will be blessed in their doing."

Balancing work, family, spiritual growth is challenge

Kituku

A story is taught of a man who devoted his energy to working long hours, even over weekends and holidays. He was a work-alcoholic. No family time, vacations or anything that would interfere with his business. He became very rich and was able to provide his family with their needs and wants.

However, a time came when his business was not doing so well and he could not provide his family with most of the things they were used to. He started arriving home early for dinner. One day, while playing with his adolescent daughter, he noticed she wanted to say something, but she was somewhat shy.

He asked her what was the matter and she said, "Daddy, please don't get rich again. When you were rich I never played with you."

This scenario gives us the opportunity to view labor from two extremes. Those who do nothing and those who overdo it, both of which are detrimental to not only oneself but also to loved ones.

Laziness is discouraged in many cultures. In the culture of the Kamba community of Kenya, it was not unusual for a would-be spouse not to be accepted in marriage if it was found he or she was lazy. The Bible compares a lazy person with a door turning around the hinges, "As the door turneth upon his hinges, so doth the slothful upon his bed," (Proverbs 26:14).

Working, to provide for the needs of ones family, is a measure of commitment to one's faith. We read, "But if any provide not for his own, and specially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel." (1 Timothy 5:8).

The Bible also admonishes us to work so that we can help those (besides our family) in need. "...Working with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have to give to him that needeth. (Ephesians 4:28).

While the above scriptures emphasize

FAITH: Attorney uses many sources to conclude that resurrection was real

(From 1C)

To examine the credibility of the evangelists Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, Ms. Ewen uses standards first outlined by Simon Greenleaf, famous in the 19th century as a professor of evidence at Harvard University. She concludes that the four evangelists were honest men with honest motives who offered reliable testimonies about Jesus. Her ultimate conclusion is that the resurrection actually occurred.

Her approach, Ms. Ewen said, comes naturally to a trained attorney, even one whose professional life today involves more behind-the-scenes negotiating than courtroom work.

''You change your way of thinking when you go through law school,'' she said. ''The process is sort of like if you're going to build a house and you have somebody dump a lot of bricks and mortar and a whole lot of wood and cement on your property ... It's just a pile of bricks and mortar and cement.

''But if you have an architect and a plan and you build a foundation and then you build a frame and then you pile one brick on top of another, pretty soon you step back and you see a house.

''This is like that. It's the cumulative effect of the information. It's not any one thing here or one thing there, which is probably why I couldn't get an answer when I (first) asked the question.''

Written mainly for lay people like herself, the book is thoroughly footnoted and examines current archaeological, scientific and scholarly material. ''You really don't find all the information in one place,'' Ms. Ewen said of her searching. ''I suppose biblical scholars do, but people like me don't have that in front of them.''

Her sources are wide-ranging, from a scientific text on molecular evolution to scholarly speculation on the impact of the culture of the ancient city of Sepphoris on Jesus' ministry. In the excavated city, which traditionally is believed to be the birthplace of the Virgin Mary, archaeologists have uncovered a beautiful theater. Scholars speculate that exposure to the theater and Greek ideas associated with it may have shaped Jesus into the sort of teacher who used theatrical imagery in his sermons.

''She made a very, very convincing case to me,'' said her husband, research chemist John Ewen. His own dealings with the legal system came in a two-month defamation trial against Exxon Chemical Co. and Fina Oil & Chemical Co. in 1995. He won a major settlement after jurors found the firms had defamed their former employee in a dispute over the invention of an advanced plastic.

Until he read her book, Ewen said, he didn't realize there are many points in the Bible that he ''had prejudices about.''

''Reading her book and reading some of the references she had, they were real eye-openers. Probably one of the most interesting things I read was about the book by Robert Shapiro. (Shapiro, a chemist and authority on the origins of life, wrote "Origins: A Skeptic's Guide to the Creation of Life," published in 1986.)

''There were a lot of things (in his book) about the origins of life that I didn't know. I was fascinated by the historical information that she took up. Shapiro says God was probably a synthetic chemist, but had to be an absolutely incredible one. I thought that was a great point because it had a parallel to my life.''

Ms. Ewen's pastor, the Rev. Walter Ellis of St. Christopher Episcopal Church in League City, said the book ''speaks for itself. To me, it gives the lawyer, the professional type, a good logical approach.''

Ms. Ewen, who talks about her book as a rational laywoman's exploration of faith, spoke recently to an adult Sunday School class at St. Luke's United Methodist Church in Houston. The invitation came through her law partner, Charles Szalkowski.

''My particular class at St. Luke's has been studying the historical Jesus,'' he said. ''We've had a number of people come and talk about different aspects.''

The book's rational approach, based in legal procedure, piqued Szalkowski's interest.

''In some ways, law is the religion of America these days,'' he said. ''I think that's probably why this book strikes a chord. We're used to hearing about lawyers — and even though they're denigrated so often — we're used to hearing that the law is what protects the rights that we have and helps us resolve disputes,'' he said. ''It's very interesting to see it applied'' in a less easily defined area such as religion.

In an interview, Ms. Ewen talked about the book and her faith journey, which began in her childhood as an Episcopalian in New Orleans.

''I had a very religious upbringing,'' Ms. Ewen recalled, perched on the crisp linenlike white couch of her law office. Her navy suit with white cuffs and white buttons is understated. So are the framed photographs — of Venice and other places she has visited — on her walls.

The impression is of dignified professionalism — a long road from the days 25 years ago when she commuted every week from Corpus Christi (where John had a job) to earn her law degree at the University of Houston. Her son, Scott, then in grammar school, either stayed home in John's care or went to class with his mother.

''My budget — for everything, including food and gas — was $13 a week,'' Ms. Ewen said. ''So every semester, I'd throw a few cans of ravioli in the trunk of my Volkswagen bug.''

One semester she even begged a place to sleep three nights a week on the living room sofa of a departmental dean's secretary.

She worked and studied hard. But she didn't pray much.

Only now, after the years of painstaking research, has she returned to church. Only now, in her 50s, is she comfortable calling herself a Christian. Her faith is something she cherishes. But she respects other peoples' religions, and the constant questioning of so many would-be Christians in her own age group.

Let them search, she writes, ''for the truth of the Gospels rests upon knowable facts.''

Then, let the evidence speak for itself.

COMMENTARY: Jesus' trial has 'lots of elements of a bad movie'

(From 1C)

ward, the soldiers would take the defendant to his execution.

"Under Jewish law, a person could only be convicted of a capital offense upon the testimony of two witnesses. In the case of Jesus' trial, there were a lot of elements that remind me of a bad movie, where someone said, 'Let's go out and round up the usual witnesses and get this over with.'

"Two Gospel accounts say that two false witnesses were found to testify against Christ before Caiaphas. There's talk about Jesus' comments concerning the destruction of the temple and its being rebuilt in three days. Caiaphas asks him directly, 'Are you the Christ?' In Mark's Gospel, he says he is. The other accounts state that he replies, 'You say that I am.'

"At that time, the high priest's response is, 'What do we need of witnesses when we have blasphemy.'

"In other words, there's a sweeping away of the law in order to achieve the desired result. Jesus never claimed to be God (blasphemy), but to be the son of God, hence there may be another error in the trial.

"Jesus, having been found guilty, is bound over and transported to Pilate, for the Jewish people are not allowed to carry out executions. In his trial before Pilate, different charges are used. He is charged with inciting rebellion, telling people not to pay their taxes and claiming that he was the Messiah — in essence, their king — a crime, since they could have no king but Caesar.

"Pilate says he finds no crime against Jesus, turns him over to Herod, and Herod conducts his own trial. Jesus remains silent, and Herod sends him back to Pilate. At this final hearing, Pilate tries to bargain with the crowd, offering to release a prisoner and giving them the choice between Barabbas, a notorious criminal, and Jesus. The crowd chooses to release Barabbas.

"Pilate gives in, and in the famous scene washes his hands, signifying his innocence, and delivers Christ over to be crucified.

"Three separate trials. A trial at night. False testimony. Abuse and torture of a prisoner. Caiaphas, in declaring Jesus guilty of blasphemy, didn't call for votes of guilt or innocence, and the sentence was pronounced immediately. The list of errors goes on.

"From a standpoint of modern law — and from the standpoint of Mosaic law — this is an execution that never should have happened," Gilles concludes."

Judge John Hyde, 238th District Court:

"Perhaps in some respects, the trial of Christ serves as a model of injustice, the very type of trial that we want never to have in the United States. It was unjust in its procedures, and it was unjust in its result.

"What Americans like to refer to as due process was completely absent from the trial of Jesus Christ, when comparing it to a trial in the United States. There were no written charges filed against him, against which he could have prepared a defense. There was no preparation time to allow him to prepare for trial. He was arrested and immediately taken before the Sanhedrin. He was held incommunicado. He was not permitted to confer with a representative, nor to have a spokesman speak on his behalf at the trial.

"Under our own law today, such procedures would have resulted in a reversal of the condition and a new trial, even for a person who had committed a crime, but Christ, who was innocent, was given none of the amenities that we have in our own legal system.

"So I return to my initial statement: The entire trial, the entire process, serves as a model of injustice that we would like to avoid in this country."

The Rev. Stockton Williams, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity and a former attorney:

"In terms of the resurrection, Nicky Gumble (a priest with the Church of England) quotes the former Chief Justice of England, Lord Darling: 'In its favor as the living truth there exists such overwhelming evidence, positive and negative, factual and circumstantial, that no intelligent jury in the world could fail to bring in a verdict that the resurrection story is true.'

"One of the major proofs of the resurrection itself is simply the fact that the scared, demoralized band of disciples who ran away from the cross, denied Jesus and hid, suddenly became willing to die as martyrs for the truth of the resurrection (which they all did, except for John, who was spared a martyr's death, caring for Mary at Jesus' request).

"The existence of the church is proof, considering the church's founder died a criminal's death, and ruling over nothing. Contrast Mohammed, for example, who died triumphantly, victor and conqueror over hundreds of thousands of square miles of land.

"The New Testament witness is trustworthy, and so much more so than other ancient documents. No classical scholars doubt the authenticity of such works as Herodotus' "History" and Thucydides' "History," though only eight manuscripts exist, and with a gap of some 1,300 years between the events and the oldest manuscripts.

"In contrast, the interval between the dates of the original composition and the earliest writings in the New Testament is almost negligible, and there are something like 24,300 ancient manuscripts of it."

Also providing insight is Richard Jenkins, president of Sacramernto, Calif.-based K-LOVE Radio Network, which is heard locally on 99.1 FM:

"I have a similar story to Pamela Binnings Ewen. After being raised in a religious environment and taken to church every week — from birth to high school — in college, I rejected my parents' belief in God and began to wonder if Jesus Christ was a myth.

"Then in my mid-20s, I began to try to disprove the resurrection of Christ. For me, this is the central issue of all Christianity. If Christ did not rise from the grave and overcome death, then the Christian faith simply becomes a story on par with 'Jack and the Beanstalk.'

"However, as I began to study Roman and Jewish historians (who had no wish to promote Jesus Christ), I read where they also reported 'Christ was seen by thousands after his crucifixion and the resurrection which followed. And how people were transformed after Christ's resurrection, 'ready and willing to die rather than refute their newfound faith in Christ.'

"Yet, the point of revelation for me was when I learned that when Jesus was taken down from the cross, Caesar put his seal on the grave of Jesus. For anyone to break the seal meant death, and for a Roman soldier to sleep on guard duty under Caesar's orders also meant death to all the soldiers in that squad.

"Therefore," Jenkins concludes, "the only way that stone could be rolled away and the body removed was by a resurrected Christ.

"Unlike the teachings of Buddha, Mohammed, Confucius, Mary Baker Eddy, Joseph Smith, L. Ron Hubbard or anyone else, only Jesus claimed to be the Son of God and proved it by overcoming death."

"common law principles."

The book begins with an examination of handwritten manuscripts containing the earliest dated copies of the complete Gospels and fragments written on papyrus. Ms. Ewen, as an attorney assuming the burden of proof, then takes the reader from point to point.

Throughout the book she cites Simon Greenleaf, a renowned 19th century professor of evidence at Harvard.

She carefully sticks to the rules and traditions of the law, yet without slipping into obtuse language or legalese, and continually keeps the presentation in context while bringing in arcane elements such as the archeological examination in 1986 of an ancient fishing vessel found in the Sea of Galilee and determined by radiocarbon dating to have been used between A.D. 20 and A.D. 40.

In an explanation of the Luke 22:44 account of the agony in the Garden of Gethsemane in which Jesus sweated drops of blood, Ms. Ewen writes, "Medical experts today know that this apparent sweating of blood resembles a medical condition triggered by extreme stress called hematidrosis, which causes subcutaneous blood vessels to rupture into the exocrine sweat glands."

Like any good attorney, Ms. Ewen sums up her case eloquently, saying, "If you, the juror, are able to set aside preconceptions and look to the evidence, bypassing speculation and theory, you may find the truth for yourself. It is written in the Gospels.

"... Think of the beauty in the world, and what it may mean. Look to the starry, starry nights and observe the order and design of nature. Listen to the whisper of the wind, the music of Mozart, and then listen to the message of the Gospels. The message of the Gospels is that love is the ultimate measure of good. If you listen with discernment, you may hear the full melody."

the importance of working and the spiritual implications, family ties have suffered when work is given priority before relationships. When we become addicted to earning and craving for power, working may become the demise for relationship with God, family and associates. Fewer parents take time to attend to their children's activities and spouses have limited or no time for one another. Some marriages have ended in divorce because work came first.

Is there a middle ground? We read, "And whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as unto the Lord, and not unto men." (Colossians 3:23).

THANKSGIVING: Katinas brothers to perform after celebration recent years, they've toured with such artists as R. Kelly, CeCe Winans, Michael Bolton, Amy Grant, Wynnona and Jasmine Guy. In 1998 the group toured the country with E.R.A.C.E. (Eliminating Racism and Creating Equality).

(From 1C)

McGraw said that although the Katinas are certain to be a big draw for music lovers, the entire evening will be uplifting and joyous.

"The creative artist behind our end is Ken Young," he said. "Last year there were (singers from) between 20 and 30 churches participating in the Grand Chorus, and it was a wonderful, inspiring sound. They have already had two rehearsals, but anyone who would like to join is welcome to come to the rehearsal at 3 p.m. on Sunday, and sing with the chorus on Sunday night."

McGraw added that a number of churches are not having Sunday night services in order to allow their congregations to attend the celebration.

Although the event is free, there will be a love offering taken to defray the cost of bringing the Katinas to town, he said.

McGraw said that from the beginning, the thanksgiving event has seemed to add up to more than its separate parts.

"Our goal is to do something as a city that is interdenominational — to come together and celebrate all that we agree on."

WORK: Relationships should be invested in and treasured with their school and extracurricular activities? Is it allowing you time to spend with your spouse?

(From 1C)

Balancing work, family and spiritual growth is a challenge we all face. One thing to remember is, retirement is coming. Families and other essential relationships can't wait. There is need to treasure and invest in what we will need beyond retirement — relationships.

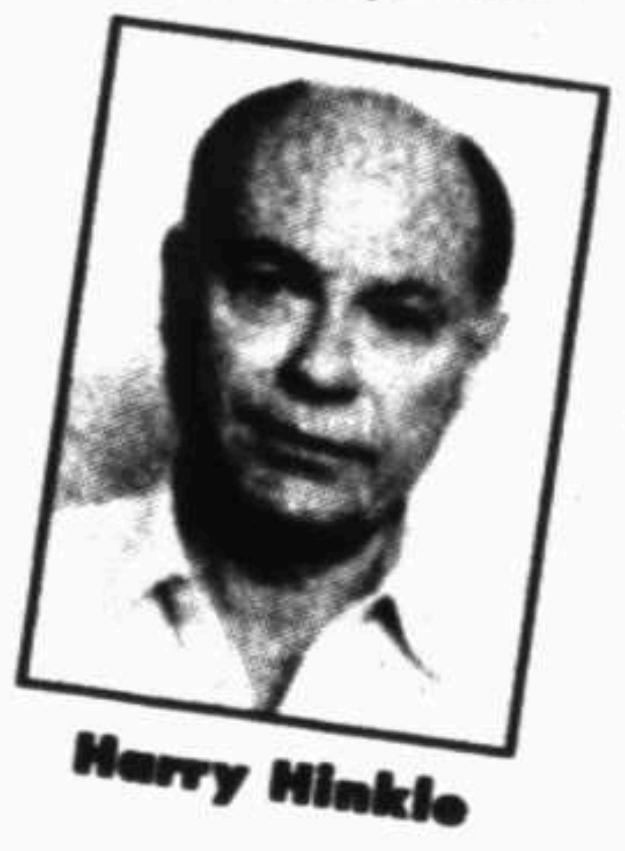
CASA DE AMIGOS
35th Anniversary

My acquaintance with Casa began in 1977 when my wife Mary assumed the position of director of Casa de Amigos. At first Casa was only the reason that supper was late: it took up many of her hours after the usual 8 to 5. Despite its demands, Mary loved the job. But it was more than a job; her association with Casa's clients, staff, and volunteers was the real reward for her and she gained a love and respect for them that carried through even after the job was over.



Harry Hinkle

Shortly before her death in 1986 she, together with her father, Turner Wynn, decided to establish an endowment for Casa. The gifts to the Mary Wynn Hinkle Casa de Amigos Endowment were the nucleus of a fund that has grown to be a significant asset for Casa. Now under the auspices of the Permian Basin Area Foundation, the fund is one of many administered by the Foundation that contribute income to our city's non-profit and charitable organizations.

Soon after this time I became active as a Casa board member. By then Casa was in its location on Garden Lane, in a building that had been built during Mary's tenure as director and which had been considered the ultimate home for Casa following its origin in much more modest structures. But by 1986 Casa was again bursting at the seams and one of the priorities of the board was to search out bigger and better accommodations. The search began under the leadership of Jim Henry as president and several alternatives were considered. Our options finally narrowed to a plan to stay in the same location, acquire more land, and expand the existing facilities. As always, cost was the obstacle. This was finally overcome with a grant from the Mabee Foundation which funded the project. The new and remodeled facilities were the realization of our dream and allowed us to serve more clients and offer additional programs.

Jim Henry and Rick Farias had been at the forefront during the transition period and by the time it was my turn to head Casa, in 1991, we were over the hump and back to the mundane, perennial challenges and opportunities of non-profit organizations. Looking back on all that transpired I, too, find my reward in my association with Casa's clients, staff, and volunteers.

Casa has always been blessed by an exceptional staff. Lael Cordes-Pitts has been our director almost fifteen years and we couldn't be luckier. She and the good people she has brought on board have made Casa what it is today, an example of what such an institution can be and should be. Congratulations on 35 years of good works and may there be many more!

JACQUELINE BIGAR'S STARS

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Oct. 23, 1999:
Count on this to be a most unusual year. You find that opportunities come to you through partners, work and those who play parts in your day-to-day life. Extremes punctuate your life; at times, you could feel quite down, but you bounce back quickly. Too many good things are happening to stay down for long! If you are single, never fear; you will have plenty of choices. In fact, two romantic possibilities you encounter this year will be excellent ones! If attached, your relationship takes on an exciting tone. You'll enjoy each other more. ARIES makes a good companion.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ Jupiter dances into your sign once again, encouraging you to go for what you want. An unexpected opportunity comes through a friendship. Don't hesitate to aim for the loftiest goals; you're sure to hit the bull's-eye. In the next few weeks, focus on working more closely with others. Tonight: Beam in what you want.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★★ Take a back seat today. Don't let others push you into doing anything you don't want to do. Your sense of humor comes through and helps you make light of a difficult person in your life. Tonight: Let another make the overture.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★★ You get what you want, but in a most unexpected manner. Listen to a friend who is enthusiastic and has come through for you many times. Your sense of humor emerges when challenged by someone at a distance. Tonight: So many opportunities!

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ Others look to you for advice and feedback. Your prestige grows in your immediate social circle; new friends seek you out. Be careful when dealing with a partner about money. You could be in for a jolt! Tonight: Leader of the gang.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★★ Take off ASAP, before another can change his mind or toss a boomerang into your plans. Good news comes from those at a distance. An invitation is too good to resist. Tonight: Use that wonderful imagination of yours.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★ Your nerves are frayed, but a loved one is only too happy to help you relax. Relating to a good friend gives you another perspective on a domestic matter. Good luck comes to you through others. Tonight: Togetherness counts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ Build on established ground; don't let another inhibit you or throw a monkey wrench into your plans. You find that good will flows between you and another. A child could surprise you. If single, love takes an interesting twist. Tonight: Say yes to another's request.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★★ Get into a project that could involve a family member. Team up together, and you'll forget some of your grievances. Be willing to spend a little in order to get more out of your life or work. Your instincts go against prevailing tendencies. Tonight: Get plenty of R and R.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★★ Allow yourself and a loved one greater freedom. You'll enjoy watching a child frolic. If you are single, a new flirtation could make you sizzle. You have many choices; the question is which way to go. Tonight: Go with a spontaneous idea.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★ Take time for your family. You might want to renovate your home, make a residential move or paint a room to make it look like new. Your instincts help you with family. An unexpected bonus helps you indulge those close to you. Tonight: The party is at your place.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★★ Your unpredictability jolts others once again. You feel great with another. Get ready to take risks and handle a personal matter differently. Your buoyancy draws others to your way of thinking. Tonight: You don't have to go far to have a good time.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★ Intuition helps you follow through on a key decision. Your financial savvy is helped along by a stroke of good luck. Still, don't spend money before you receive it. Remember, there can always be a snafu. Do needed research; check out experts before making an investment. Tonight: Your treat.

Knight to be cited for shooting

SPOONER, Wis. — Indiana basketball coach Bobby Knight will be cited for failing to report that he accidentally shot a companion while bird hunting, Wisconsin authorities said.

The injuries were not life-threatening.

Knight will be cited for not reporting the accident and for hunting without a license in 1998 and 1999, the state Department of Natural Resources said Thursday. The fine for each of the three infractions is $165.

Knight, Thomas Mikunda and two other men were hunting Oct. 12 when Knight's finger slipped off his shotgun's safety and hit the trigger, said Dave Zeug of the state Department of Natural Resources.

Pellets struck Mikunda in the back and upper shoulder, causing wounds that required medical treatment, Zeug said.

Knight is "feeling bad that it happened and feels deeply concerned over the victim and is willing to pay any penalty," DNR warden Gerald Carow said.

Indiana University said in a statement it was confident Knight will "respond appropriately" to the incident.

Zeug said he did not know how authorities learned of the accident.

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. — Alfred Hitchcock may have frightened millions of filmgoers, but Tippi Hedren says he was a cutup on the set.

"He'd tell a limerick and very often it would be something dirty," the actress said Thursday at Hofstra University, which was honoring the 100th anniversary of Hitchcock's birth this summer.

Hedren's first starring role was in "The Birds," and Hitchcock evidently thought her relative inexperience was an advantage.

"He often said it was really wonderful because I had nothing to unlearn," she said.

OVIEDO, Spain — Nobel laureate Gunter Grass says the enormity of crimes committed by Nazi Germany have given other countries a bogus excuse for ignoring their own troubled histories.

"The worst crimes of this century were committed by the Germans, and as Germans we are never going to be able to stop worrying about this," Grass, 71, said Friday in this northern Spanish city where he received a literature award.

But Grass, the author of "The Tin Drum," said Germany was not the only country where attempts to bury "sins of the past" could have negative consequences.

"The former colonial powers must also face up to their colonial history, that they have felt able to forget about because of the German shadow," he said.

LOUISVILLE, Ky — The Del McCoury Band has been named best entertainer by the International Bluegrass Music Association for the third straight year.

Ronnie Bowman won three awards Thursday, including his second straight for best male vocalist. His "Three Rusty Nails" was named best song and gospel recorded performance.

Ralph Stanley won two awards for his album of duets, "Clinch Valley Country" — best album and best recorded event. Stanley shared the latter award with more than 30 collaborators, including his son, Ralph Stanley II, and Bob Dylan.

1998 winner Lynn Morris again won best female vocalist, while Ricky Skaggs and Kentucky Thunder was named best instrumental group for the second consecutive year.

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP, Mich. — Benson Ford Jr. is donating a rare Torah created about 500 years ago to a Jewish congregation in suburban Detroit.

Ford is the great-grandson of auto tycoon Henry Ford, who published the anti-Semitic book "The International Jew" and regularly attacked Jews in his newspaper, the Dearborn Independent, during the 1920s and '30s.

Benson Ford paid an undisclosed price for the Torah, a handwritten copy on parchment of the first five books of the Bible, and had it restored as a wedding gift for his wife, Francee.

They were married July 11 by Rabbi Dannel Schwartz of Congregation Shir Shalom, which was to dedicate the Torah in a ceremony Friday night.

"This was a secret Torah — a Torah that was written in hiding between about 1492 and 1560 in Spain or Portugal," where it was illegal to practice Judaism, said Elliot Kaplan, a friend who helped Ford obtain the scroll.

Ford, 50, declined to elaborate on the gift, calling it a private matter.

To The People of Midland

Because the month of October has been designated CLERGY APPRECIATION MONTH, we encourage you to express your gratitude and admiration to those who serve our city as spiritual leaders.

To the Ministers and Pastors of Midland

Thank you. Thank you for serving Christ by serving us. Thank you for loving us. The full extent of your contribution to the spiritual welfare of our city will only be known in eternity. May God richly bless you for being faithful to your calling. May you continue to be drawn to the Lord Jesus Christ and anointed with the power of the Holy Spirit to serve the Kingdom of God in Midland. Thank you.

GENERAL INFORMATION:

To ensure the integrity of our newspaper, for the benefit of our readers and advertisers, the Midland Reporter-Telegram reserves the right the revise, reclassify, edit or refuse any advertising. PLACING AN AD:

Call 682-6222,
Monday through Friday,
from 8a.m. – 6p.m.

A friendly Advertising Consultant will help you word and schedule your ad for best results.

HOW TO WRITE A CLASSIFIED AD THAT WORKS!

➊ Promote Your Merchandise - The more descriptive you are the more likely your merchandise will appeal to someone.
➋ Check The Market Value - The most common mistake that occurs is over or under pricing your goods.
➌ Always Include The Price - People are more likely to respond when they know the price range.
➍ Keyword Your Ad - Begin each ad with the name of the item, such as "Stove" or "Guitar" rather than "Kenmore" or "Gibson", "Ford 1997" instead of "1997 Ford", or by its key reference point, such as location or area in real estate ads.

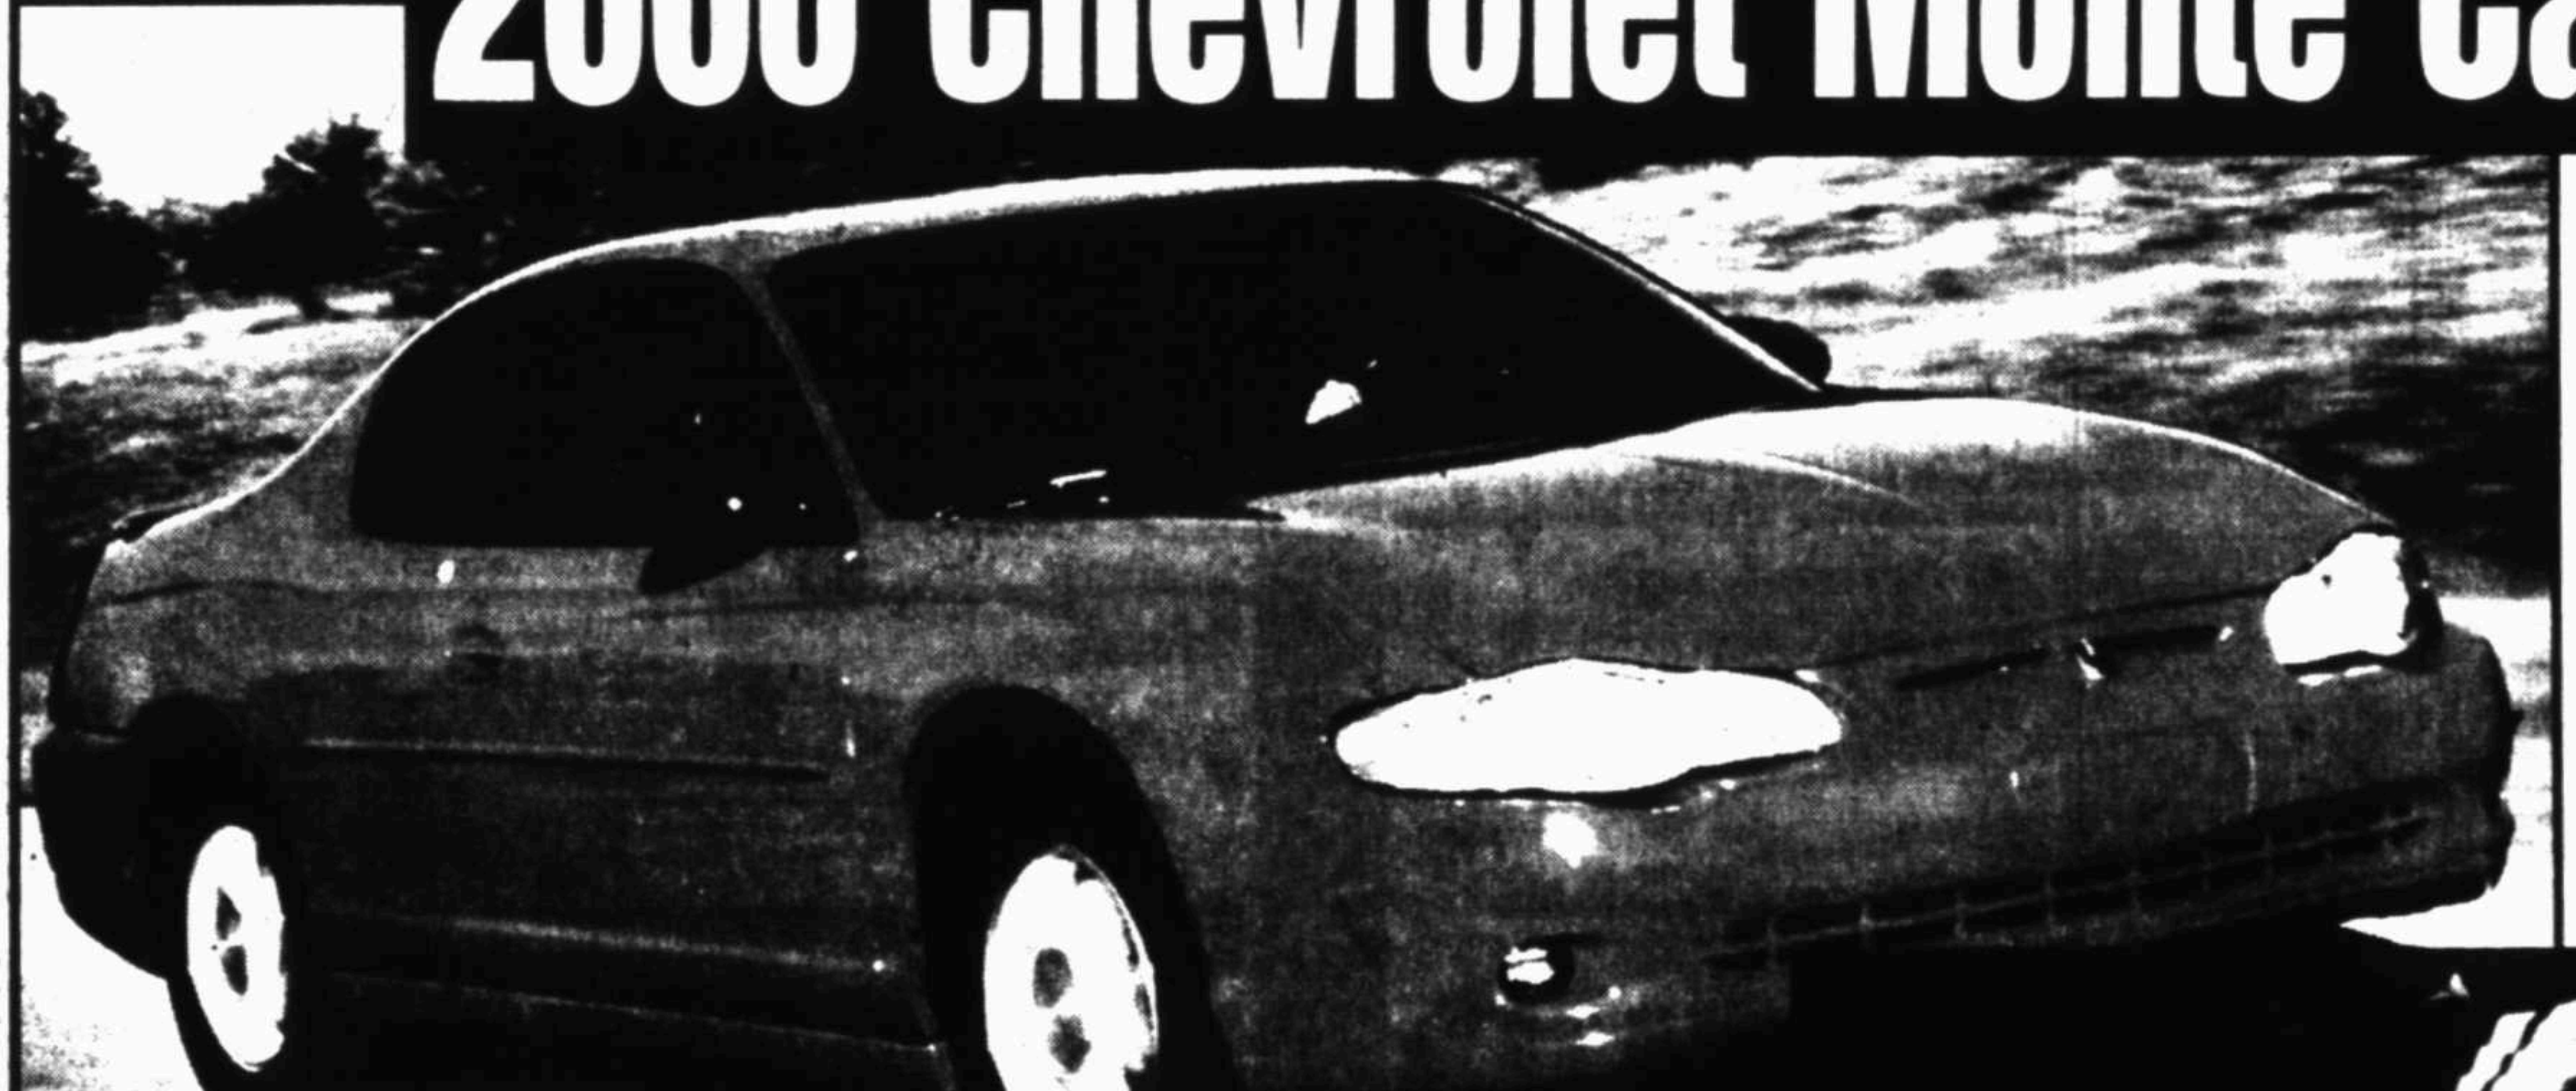
2000 Chevrolet Monte Carlo Coupe



RoadWorthy!

By Ken Chester, Jr.

The folks at Chevrolet gave the Monte Carlo something very special this year for its 30th birthday, a complete makeover. To the Chevrolet faithful, the "Monte" as it is affectionately called, is a readily recognized resident on the NASCAR circuit – the most successful nameplate in the organization's history.

As a mid-coupe market leader, it is a survivor that has outlived many other venerable nameplates fielded from the Big Three during that time period. Now entering the new millennium totally redesigned and updated, it is being positioned in the marketplace as a coupe with "an air of sophistication and the bloodlines of a real NASCAR racer." Or as the bowtie folks say, "classy with a wild streak."

Built at the automaker's Oshawa, Ontario, Canada facility, the build quality of the new Monte Carlo benefits from improvements in the processes and procedures at the plant, refined over the course of the last generation coupe (1995 through 1999 model year). Available in the standard LS and up-level SS performance models, the Chevrolet coupe can be mild or wild to suit the driver's fancy. Drivers can choose between the 3400 V-6 standard in the LS and the award-winning 3800 Series II V-6 that powers the SS model. Both powerplants are mated to the smooth shifting 4T65-E Hydramatic electronically controlled four-speed automatic transaxle.

"Monte" as it is affectionately called, is a readily recognized resident on the NASCAR circuit -- the most successful nameplate in the organization's history.

On the road enhanced structural rigidity, dimensional integrity and an aluminum engine cradle which provides a solid foundation for the powertrain, front suspension, steering and front sheet metal work together to provide a sophisticated, performance oriented driving environment.

A magnesium beam spans the width of the vehicle to support the instrument panel and add body stiffness, reducing vibration in the dashboard. P225/60R16 Goodyear Eagle GA all-season touring tires keep the LS on the ground while the more aggressive P225/60R16 Goodyear Eagle RS-A performance tires perform the duties for the SS coupe.

Inside the cabin, Chevrolet engineers developed the Four-Point Driver Interface system in order to add to both performance and comfort by absorbing the driver into the driving environment and creating an ideal connection between the driver, vehicle and road. Those four critical interface points are: optimized, ergonomically placed controls, seating technology, visibility and chassis to cabin harmony.

By the numbers

Engine performance numbers for the Monte Carlo are: 3400 (LA1) V-6 - 180 hp at 5,200 rpm and 205 lb/ft of torque at 4,000 rpm; 3800 (L36) V-6 - 200 hp at 5,200 rpm and 225 lb/ft of torque at 4,000 rpm. EPA fuel economy figures are 20 city/32 highway for the 3400 and 20 city/29 highway for the 3800. Both motors use regular unleaded gasoline.

Standard safety features include dual front airbags, power door locks, Passlock II Theft Deterrent system, automatic daytime running lamps, trap resistant trunk system and four-wheel anti-lock brakes. The SS model adds remote keyless entry, foglamps and electronic traction control.

The Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price (MSRP) for the Chevrolet Monte Carlo coupe starts at $19,290 for the LS and $21,735 for the SS. Destination charge adds $560. Dealers are beginning to receive increased shipments of the new coupe, so patience should be the order of the day while attempting to secure one.
