GM, UAW strike talks are in recess

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers and General Motors Corp. bargained for 19 hours before recessing contract talks this morning to take a one-day break, with the union reporting progress but saying that "significant" differences remain.

Twelve UAW locals, 11 of them at final-assembly plants, remained on strike today over local issues. GM officials feared the strikes would leave parts plants with nowhere to ship their products.

The union issued a statement at 5 a.m. saying "significant differences remain between the parties on the principal issues." Chief among those are job security and wages.

The local strikes put 62,000 workers on the street in nine states at midnight Friday. That number fell to 58,000 Sunday when a California plant settled its strike.

The lengthy bargaining session — which began about 10 a.m. Sunday and ran through the night with only a few breaks for meals — suggested the two sides were making progress toward a tentative agreement covering 350,000 UAW workers at GM.

The union statement, issued by UAW President Owen Bieber and chief bargainer Donald Ephlin, said "We made some progress during that period."

A source close to the negotiations said much still was unresolved on job security — the UAW's demand that its workers jobs be protected from GM moves to shift production of components and cars to non-union or foreign shops.

A tentative national agreement would go to union members for ratification after approval by the UAW's 300-member GM Council. The national contract would replace one that expired Friday.

The UAW has agreed to keep working without a contract during negotiations, except for strikes over local issues.

The union says any national settlement at GM would serve as a model in negotiations with Ford Motor Co., whose 115,000 UAW workers' contract also expired Friday.

One of 13 strikes by UAW members over local issues was settled Sunday.

Local family needs 60-plus blood pints

Blood donors are sought here Tuesday from 1 until 8 p.m. in the Scurry County Senior Citizen's Center.

The event — co-sponsored by the local advisory committee for United Blood Services of Lubbock and the auxiliary for Cogdell Memorial Hospital — will also aid the family of Pat Brumley, who passed away July 17.

During the registration phase, donors may specify they are giving to the Pat Brumley fund. Her family must repay some 60 pints of blood used during her illness.

In addition, drive sponsors note a particular need for O-negative blood Tuesday.

As an incentive for new donors, all those giving for the first time will be given a plastic mug courtesy of United Blood Services.

Also, all persons giving blood will receive a coupon courtesy of Whataburger and a free six-pack of Dr. Pepper will be given to every fifth donor courtesy of the Dr. Pepper bottling plant in Sweetwater.

Snyder Cub Scouts will be assisting with the cleanup at the center once the drive is over also.

Space on outdoor signs has again been donated to advertise the event. Those donating space include Westside Phillips 66 Sta-

Drug compatability free exam offered

Activities are planned Tuesday and for the remainder of this week in connection with Cogdell Memorial Hospital's observance of Emergency Medicine Week

The service offered Tuesday will be a drug compatability screening by John Johnson, head of the hospital's pharmacy department. County residents may bring all medications to be checked to insure they are compatable together. They will be advised also if further consultation with a physician is needed.

Local youth are invited also to pick up materials for the hospital-sponsored poster contest. Posters should have an emergency medicine theme.

Entries must be submitted no later than Friday at 3 p.m. The poster supplies are available at the ER desk.

Other health-related medical exams to be offered free of charge for the remainder of the week include testing for sight problems and blood pressure. A repeat session is planned also for the compatablity of prescription drugs.

In addition, hospital staffers Thursday and Friday will offer classes in life-saving training which will enable class members to become certified in CPR.

A mock disaster drill is planned Wednesday also.

Locals wishing more information about any of the week's activities should contact Elissa Clay, a registered nurse and the

VISITS BRAZIL — Shana Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hart of Snyder, enjoyed a 2½ month stay in Brazil this summer arranged through the local American Field Service chapter. She is pictured with three mementoes of her trip, a doll her Brazilian "brother" gave her and two rings her mother and older sister gave her. The rings are a sign of special affection. Shana plans a return trip to Brazil next summer. (SDN Staff Photo by Shirley A. Gorman)

Snyder senior visits Brazil thanks to local AFS Chapter

By Shirley A. Gorman
SDN News Editor

Ever since Shana Hart hosted a Brazilian American Field Service student during Snyder's annual Jamboree two years ago, she had always wanted to visit Brazil.

Her wish came true this summer as the Snyder High senior spent 2½ months with a family in Colatina, a small city by Brazilian standards but still larger than Snyder.

She says her first trip abroad proved to be quite a success story. From the moment she arrived at her new home in Colatina and was greeted with signs saying, "Shana we want you to be happy," she had a wonderful time.

"I was part of the family," she said. "They made me feel special."

Shana, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hart, lived with a family of five including her AFS "parents," a 19-year-old "sister," a 14-year-old "sister" and a 21-year-old "brother."

Shana plans a return trip to Brazil next summer so that she may attend a special celebration in honor of her younger sister's 15th birthday.

"In Brazil that is a very special time for young girls. It's like a wedding."

Besides the celebration, the young girls are also given initialed rings which they keep until they decide to give them to someone. Bestowing the ring is a sign of great affection, Shana said.

During her trip, Shana's mother and older sister both gave her their initialed rings and the younger girl plans to give Shana her ring next summer.

Her brother gave her a doll which she also cherishes.

Colatina's economy is centered around the fabric business and Shana's family — who were considered wealthy by Brazilian standards — owned their own fabric factory.

"We didn't care about the family's financial position at all," Mrs. Hart said. "Our concern was that Shana would be with a family that really wanted her and that is what happened. After talking to them a couple of times on the telephone before Shana left, we were convinced that they really wanted her and that is all that mattered to us."

One humorous note about the experience Shana remembers is that due to her dark hair and coloring, the Brazilian people found it hard to believe that she was from the United States. They expected her to be blonde.

She also dressed "wrong" for many occasions and said her family would have her redress

Cannot change system alone

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Widespread changes in the Texas prison system will come only with the support of corrections officials at all levels, Texas corrections chief Ray Procunier says.

"It's not my (prison) system," he told about 250 people attending the annual convention of Citizens United for the Rehabilitation of Errants. "I'm just a hired gun they brought in here.

"If there are going to be any permanent and lasting changes in the Texas system it's not going to be just because I want it. It's going to be because every warden, every guard, every prison worker wants it," said Procunier, who took over running Texas prisons in May.

"There are some really fine people in the department," he said at the Saturday convention. "And they don't even know it. I end up being a cheerleader."

Procunier said he is not disturbed at the amount of violence in Texas prisons, where 13 inmates have died and scores more have been stabbed this year.

"I don't like to see it," he said, "but I'm not alarmed at the amount of violence we have. What I'm worried about is what caused a stabbing.

"People getting in fights for normal things in prison don't bother me," he said.

"I would prefer they don't use weapons," he said. "I want to get the weapons out of there. We are going to get more staff and I think it's going to be reduced."

Asked by one conferee how so many weapons make their way into prisons, Procunier said, "The materials are there.

"Looking out in the audience now I can see at least 50 (potential) weapons," he said.

Procunier, in a lengthy question-and-answer session with members of the inmate advocacy group, said he thinks a newly proposed prisoner classification system will reduce violence.

"We're going to try to get those who are going to hurt somebody where they belong," he said. "If you've got all the same type people together you've got a lot less violence."

The prison system has proposed grouping inmates according to size and tendency to violence, with the most belligerent housed in six facilities.

The proposal has yet to be approved by attorneys and federal officials monitoring court-ordered supervision of Texas prisons.

Currently, inmates are classified by age and if they are repeat offenders.

Procunier, who came to Texas from the California corrections department, said the classification of inmates should reduce homosexual rapes in prisons.

Britain's newest royal heir is six pound, 14 ounce boy

LONDON (AP) — Prince Henry Charles Albert David, at two days the newest member of Britain's thousand-year-old royal family, today was the toast of a nation delighted by a Buckingham Palace announcement that he will be called Harry.

Henry was the name of eight crowned kings of England, more than any other, but the last was long ago — Henry VIII, the excommunicated monarch who died in 1547.

"Hurrah for Harry!" yelled the crowds on Sunday as Princess Diana, the baby's mother, left St. Mary's Hospital and carried 6-pound, 14-ounce Henry, wrapped in a white shawl, to his first night home in Kensington Palace. Henry, or Harry, made his first public appearance at age 22 hours, launching his lifetime in the limelight.

"The baby is fine! My wife is even better!" Prince Charles shouted to the crowd after a three-hour visit on Saturday, when the child was born. Charles watched the delivery of his son, the palace said.

Charles said that watching the birth of his first son, William, was a "marvelous experience." William turned 2 in June.

Watched by more than 1,000 people crowding the sidewalks, the happy father took William on Sunday to see his mother and new brother. "There was lots and lots of laughter — William was very excited about seeing his new brother," a nurse said.

Henry is third in line for the crown, behind his father and brother. He was born at 4:20 p.m. Saturday at St. Mary's Hospital in west London's shabby Paddington district, in the same room as William.

The selection of the name Henry surprised Britons but quickly caught their fancy.

"We didn't take a single penny on Henry, which was a 50-1 outsider," said Graham Sharp of the country's biggest bookmakers, William Hill.

"George was 6-4 favorite but most money was on Philip at 5-2. I think most people thought Henry was too old-fashioned," Sharp said.

"Wild About Harry" was the favorite headline in today's London newspapers, and celebrated namesakes saluted the choice.

"It's a knockout of a name — he won't go far wrong being called that," said former British heavyweight boxing champion Henry Cooper.

Your Birthday

Sept. 18, 1984

More opportunities than you can comfortably handle may be dumped into your lap this coming year. Your best judgment will be required to separate the wheat from the chaff.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today, do not bank too heavily upon what other people can do for you, rather than what you can do for yourself. There's no substitute for self-reliance. Major changes are in store for Virgos in the coming year. Send for your year-ahead predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Important goals are reachable today, but they must not be taken as a foregone conclusion. If you let down at the last minute, victory will elude you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you are more interested in listening to the sound of your own voice than what others have to say today, valuable information could escape you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be extremely selective today as to whom you let manage a situation for you that could cost you money. If it goes wrong, you will pay, not the other guy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) When making important decisions today, don't predicate your judgment upon the way you'd like things to be. Base them upon conditions as they actually exist.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Take your duties and responsibilities seriously today. Trying to rationalize them away or palm them off on others will make matters worse.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Things will be more pleasant for you today if you surround yourself with old friends with whom you have much in common. Strangers could make you feel uneasy.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you are hazy about your goals today, there's a strong possibility you may let opportunities slip past you unnoticed. Be ever-watchful.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In your eagerness to promote your plans today, you could make hasty moves without fully weighing their consequences. Don't trip yourself up.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Just to be on the safe side today, look gift horses in the mouth. Offerings that appear to be too good to be true probably are.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Self-confidence is essential if you hope to succeed today. Don't enter into situations thinking the other guy holds all the aces.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Do not be lax about sensible health habits today. Eat and drink moderately and involve yourself in stimulating activities that exercise your mind and body.

We had it made — almost.

Modern medical science, improved nutrition and improved sanitation had totally defeated some ancient enemies:

Diptheria, measles, mumps, rubella, tetanus, polio, malaria, whooping cough.

Medical schools were discontinuing teaching the symptoms of several former childhood diseases; we were that convinced they had been eradicated forever.

Even the cancer cure rate was up to 50 percent.

Within 10 years we had accomplished a dramatic 25 percent reduction in fatal heart attacks.

We really had it made! Life expectancy for the average American increased in our lifetime from 47 years to 74.5 and was headed for a hundred.

The United States, whatever its residual problems and despite our continuing excesses involving smoking, drinking, drugs and promiscuity...

Despite the worst we could do to ourselves, United States of Americans had become the healthiest people in the world.

Until this year.

This year our island paradise was invaded by parasites.

Parasitic diseases are the most widespread of all mankind's diseases, historically diseases mostly of Asia, Africa, South America and the Caribbean.

Now with millions of tourists going back and forth from there to here...

With immigration, legal and other, virtually out of control...

Parasitic diseases are here now: Schistosomiasis, Trypanosomiasis, Filariasis, Onchocerciasis, Leishmaniasis — and malaria again.

Lepprosy is an increasing stateside menace.

And TB and foot-long intestial worms.

Parasitic diseases already infect or affect 130 million Americans.

For Leishmaniasis, an infection in which the nose and mouth are eaten away, there is no known treatment.

Schistosomiasis causes irreversible damage to liver and kidneys.

Mosquito-transmitted Dengue Fever is entering the United States from Latin America and the Caribbean.

And new strains of hepatitis.

Among each 100,000 Indochinese refugees, 68,000 have TB, 140 have leprosy.

If Americans cannot stop the bugs at the border, at the very least our health officials must more rigidly police food-handling.

Dallas seen as likely center for transplants

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas could become a center for liver transplant in the coming years, says a surgeon who trained under the pioneer liver transplant surgeon.

Most liver transplants are performed in Pittsburgh, Minneapolis and Memphis, Tenn.

But Dr. Walter Andrews, head of the transplant team at the University of Texas Health Science Center, said other facilities are developing their own programs.

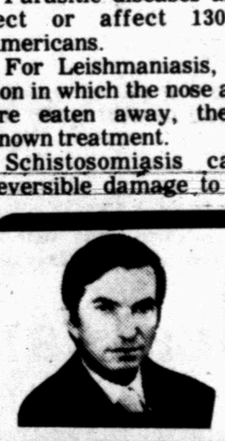

He said he will perform liver transplants at Children's Medical Center before the year is out and expects as many as 20 liver transplants to be performed at the facility next year.

"We have everything in place. We will be able to operate as fast as we have a patient requiring transplant and the available liver to transplant," Andrews told the Dallas Times Herald.

Andrews — who trained with Dr. Thomas Starzl, the Pittsburgh surgeon who pioneered liver transplants — said that Dallas' Methodist Hospital also has a liver transplant program, and Baylor University Medical Center is developing one.

Andrews said that the Baylor transplant program will perform kidney, liver and heart transplants and is on schedule to perform its first transplant, probably a kidney transplant, by next summer.

A spokesman for Methodist Hospital said at least one patient has already been evaluated and approved for a liver transplant there.

Problem may be fear of failure

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a rather embarrassing problem. Recently, my fiancee and I decided it was time for us to have sex. During our pre-sex fooling around, I maintain an erection. However, just prior to having intercourse, I lose the erection, and it is difficult to revive.

I am 22, not a virgin and didn't have this problem in the past. It has been several years since I last had sex, but I'm not shy. Do you have any ideas or suggestions? I hope you can provide assistance.

DEAR READER — You may be the victim of a lack of confidence. Just because a man has been sexually active before does not mean he can't lose his confidence. It is often called a "fear of failure."

How do you overcome that? One way is: Don't force yourself to have sex. Instead, enjoy a close, intimate, loving situation, with the understanding that it is not going to lead to sex at that time. As you get used to loving and being loved, your confidence may be restored, and eventually, when you are ready, Nature will do the rest.

If that doesn't work, then you might consider seeing a doctor. Just because you are young doesn't mean you couldn't have a medical problem causing impotence. The fact that you have normal early responses does suggest that you have all the normal mechanisms and that you really have a psychological basis for impotence.

I have discussed some of the psychological aspects of impotence in The Health Leter 18-6, Help for Impotence, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspapers, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 32 and basically in good health. I was 10 pounds overweight so I enrolled in a very strenuous aerobic program. I have been going for two months and have lost the 10 pounds and then some. The exercise is doing wonders for me, but I have a bad lower back and neck that hurt after every exercise. My doctor told me not to give up, but to try and pinpoint those exercises that were causing me discomfort. I really think my problem is due to all of the exercises.

I have really firmed up and feel great. I have put up with the discomfort in my back and neck because I don't want to be flabby anymore. I would appreciate your suggestions.

DEAR READER — Congratulations on your success. Exercise is a very important way to help lose unwanted body fat and improve your health, but it can also be harmful if not done properly. Some individuals have problems that dictate what kind of exercise they can do.

Once you have developed a satisfactory level of muscle size and strength, you can maintain it with much less exercise than it required to train to that level.

I would suggest you see a specialist in physical medicine. You may need a set of exercises that will help you to maintain your level of fitness without aggravating your neck and back. The exercise program will depend entirely on what is wrong.

Chronicler of the rich

THE BOOK CLASS. By Louis Auchincloss. Houghton Mifflin. 212 Pages. $14.95.

A novel by Louis Auchincloss is always a joy to read.

This chronicler of the doings of elegant men and women who move in a social circle well removed from that of most Americans is superbly consistent: his novels and short stories simply grow better and better as they emerge from his prolific pen.

"The Book Class" is Auchincloss' 27th book of fiction, and it is excellent. In it, Auchincloss reveals the inner lives of most of a dozen society women who meet once a month — starting in 1908 and continuing for 64 years — to discuss a book.

They call themselves the "Book Class," and their stories are told by the son of one of the members, Christopher Gates. Gates, sharp-witted and often sharp-tongued, is quick to point out that his subjects are "the wives and daughters of the managers of money and industry in New York City, what is sometimes called 'society'."

These women move in a rarefied social circle that may be described in general by Gates' description of his father as a man who "simply believed, with a shrug of his shoulders, that outside of a handful of New York, Boston and Philadelphia families who dated back to the Revolution, the human race was a harmless but ridiculous institution."

But while they hold themselves above the crowd, the women Gates discusses in these pages often are involved in the same situations that happen to lesser mortals: adultery, jealousy, rabid desire for social advancement, perjury, and the like.

Which is what makes Auchincloss' book so eminently readable — they may have more money but they have the faults common to all.

ELENE KOLB'S FINNISH SAUCE

Medium-size (about 6 ounces) tart apple (quartered, cored and peeled)
½ cup mayonnaise, preferably homemade
½ cup sour cream
½ teaspoon cider vinegar
1 teaspoon finely chopped fresh chives
¼ cup prepared white horseradish
1½ tablespoons finely chopped pickled beets
½ cup heavy sweet cream
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste

Coarsely chop apple; reserve. In a 1 to 1½-quart bowl whisk together mayonnaise, sour cream and vinegar to blend. Add chives, horseradish, beets and reserved apple; stir well. Whip sweet cream and fold in with salt and pepper. Makes about 2¾ cups. Adapted from "The Pleasures of Cooking" (July-August 1984 issue).

A battle of blunders

By James Jacoby

The average rubber bridge game is filled with errors on both sides, so look at what happened in today's deal. Declarer won the opening lead with the queen of hearts and immediately finessed his jack of clubs. East won the king and returned a heart, won by South's ace. Now the high clubs were played and a club given up to the 10. Declarer took three clubs and six other top tricks to fulfill his contract.

You alert readers have certainly noticed that defender East was too eager to grab his king of clubs. Suppose East refuses to win the first club. Declarer will now return to his hand to try a second finesse, which will lose. But the sadder consequence is that declarer will not be able to enjoy the third club trick necessary to make his game bid.

In rubber bridge, declarer's main objective is to guarantee the contract, even if it means giving up the chance for overtricks. If South follows this principle and takes a safety play, East's stratagem of holding up the king will be foiled. The proper play at trick two is to finesse the nine of clubs, not the jack. As the cards lie, this finesse forces East to win the 10 while there is still adequate transportation to dummy for declarer to make the club tricks needed for his contract.

Moores wins Snyder Country Club crown

Howard Moores shot back-to-back 72s to win the 1984 Snyder Country Club club championship over the weekend here.

Moores won the 36-hole tournament by five strokes. R. J. "Pop" Kidd was leading the eventual champ by one stroke after Saturday's round, but shot a 78 on Sunday to slide to a 149 total. Moores turned in a 144.

Except for some cool winds on Saturday, the tournament was played under almost ideal conditions.

Dutch Stehly came up with a 133 to win the handicap division, by four strokes.

Bob Jones and Gary Smith tied for second with a 137 each while John Reed and Don Sealy turned in 138s for fourth place.

Thirty-four entered the tournament.

Jim Patrick was the defending champion.

Pell booted at Florida

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) - Less than 24 hours after telling reporters he planned to finish the season as Florida's head football coach, Charley Pell was relieved of his coaching duties by University President Marshall Criser.

The announcement Sunday came five days after the National Collegiate Athletic Association informed the university of 107 violations turned up in a 21-month investigation of the Gator football program.

Criser, saying "the program must rid itself of its manifest imperfections," dismissed Pell and named Offensive Coordinator Galen Hall as the interim head coach until the end of the season.

Pell, 43, whose Gators beat Tulane 63-21 Saturday, had offered his resignation Aug. 26, but asked that he be allowed to remain as head coach through the end of the season.

"I fully intend to be here (for the rest of the season)," Pell said after the game Saturday. "I have made a commitment to the players."

Pell said the firing came as "kind of a a surprise," though he said was not surprised that Hall was named his successor. "He does an outstanding job," said Pell.

Despite the problems, Criser praised Pell, who has taken the Gators to four straight bowl games and a 33-26-3 record in five-plus seasons.

Flea-flicker helps Cowboys defeat Philadelphia Eagles

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Dallas Coach Tom Landry will take 'em any way he can get 'em.

The cunning fox of 25 National Football League seasons dusted off one of his favorite trick plays Sunday to ambush the Philadelphia Eagles.

It took a 49-yard pass from flanker Mike Renfro to split end Doug Donley on a third period "flea-flicker" to put away the Eagles 23-17.

Renfro, obtained from Houston in an off-season trade for Butch Johnson, took a lateral pass from quarterback Gary Hogeboom before he launched the wobbly, but on target, scoring strike.

It was his first NFL pass.

Drew Pearson used to run the play to perfection but retired after a near-fatal automobile accident this spring. His target was always Tony Hill, who is currently on the disabled list with a shoulder separation.

"I felt we had to try to open up our offense," said Landry. "It was tight. So I decided to try everything I could to get some points on the board.

"It's a play we used with Drew Pearson before he retired. It was setup good. Drew used to throw that pass good."

Eagles Coach Marion Campbell said, "Needless to say it was a tough way to take a loss. Dallas made some big plays but that pass by Renfro really hurt."

Renfro said, "We worked on it in practice but I wasn't expecting Coach Landry to call it today."

Cowboy players praised the play as keeping them fired up in the game.

Offensive lineman Howard Richards said, "If you can keep a team off balance it will wreck a defense. We need those kind of plays. I think they spark us."

With Dallas ahead 16-10, Hogeboom, making his first start in Texas Stadium, lateraled the ball across the field to Renfro, who saw Donley running clear behind the Eagle secondary.

Donley caught the ball in stride at the Eagle 5 and scored untouched for a 23-10 Dallas lead.

Eagle quarterback Ron Jaworski, who threw two touchdown passes to Mike Quick, grudgingly praised Landry.

"Coach Landry always seems to find a way to have one trick play that ends up being the difference in the game," said Jaworski, who was intercepted three times.

The Cowboys improved their record to 2-1 and are tied with the New York Giants atop the National Conference Eastern Division while Philadelphia dropped to 1-2.

Dallas' Rafael Septien kicked field goals of 47, 51, and 30 yards, but missed a 28 yarder while Hogeboom completed a 25-yard scoring pass to Ron Springs.

Rookie Paul McFadden kicked a 39-yard field goal but the Eagles had trouble getting their offense going.

"Dallas made some big plays, more than just the pass by Renfro," said Campbell. "We've got to get more offense."

For Dallas, it was an error-free game. The Cowboys had nine turnovers in their first two games before Sunday's game.

"We played pretty good and Donley and Renfro were outstanding," said Landry. "We just need to run the ball better."

Philadelphia held Dallas to only 95 yards rushing.

NFL roundup...

San Diego crushes Houston

by The Associated Press

After a six-day "retirement," Kellen Winslow returned in extraordinary style, while Week Three of the National Football League season found surprising stars coming off the bench and two high-priced running backs still looking for daylight.

Winslow caught 10 passes for 146 yards to help lead the San Diego Chargers to a 31-14 victory over Houston, handing the Oilers an NFL record 19th consecutive road defeat.

"It felt good out there today; one week isn't a long time to be away," said Winslow, who returned to the team last week after renegotiating an extension of his contract that reportedly will pay him $3.5 million through 1988.

The Chargers also found a surprise in Earnest Jackson, who filled in for Chuck Muncie and ran for three touchdowns.

"I get nervous before every game, but last night I was awake all night, turning in bed," said Jackson, who rushed 21 times for a career-high 97 yards and scored on runs of 3, 1 and 6 yards. "I didn't know it would be like this."

While the Chargers were stomping on Houston, Minnesota defeated Atlanta 27-20, Chicago nipped Green Bay 9-7, the New York Jets clobbered Cincinnati 43-23, St. Louis edged Indianapolis 34-33, New England downed Seattle 38-23, Tampa Bay stopped Detroit 21-17, Pittsburgh toppled the Los Angeles Rams 24-14, San Francisco came from behind to beat New Orleans 30-20, Denver downed Cleveland 24-14, Dallas defeated Philadelphia 23-17, and two teams fell from the ranks of the unbeaten with Washington clubbing the New York Giants 30-14 and the Los Angeles Raiders nipping Kansas City 22-20.

In tonight's nationally televised contest, Miami will be at Buffalo.

San Diego Coach Don Coryell called on Jackson to fill in for Muncie, who earlier in the week was traded to the Miami Dolphins, only to fail a urinalysis test and, for all practical purposes, be suspended by Commissioner Pete Roselle.

And Jackson did the job as Coryell became the first coach to record 100 victories at both the college and professional levels.

The Charger defense did the job on Earl Campbell, Houston's leading rusher this season. Campbell was held to just eight yards on seven carries in the first half and killed an Oiler drive when he fumbled on the San Diego one-yard line shortly before halftime. He didn't play in the second half.

Redskins 30, Giants 14

Seeking their third consecutive Super Bowl berth, the Washington Redskins shook up their lineup after opening the season with two straight losses. It apparently worked.

Vernon Dean, starting at cornerback for the first time this season, intercepted three passes, returning one for a touchdown, and Curtis Jordan, playing for an injured Mark Murphy, raced 29 yards with a Giant fumble to salt away the Redskin victory.

"I was just in the right place at the right time," said Dean, who later had an end-zone interception that killed a late Giant drive.

Steelers 24, Rams 14

Pittsburgh's defense, looking like the "Steel Curtain" of old, shut down Los Angeles' powerful running game and David Woodley passed for two touchdowns to lead the Steeler victory.

Western to stage intramural rodeo

Western Texas College will stage an intramural rodeo here Tuesday evening at the old rodeo grounds, Coach Bob Doty has announced.

The performance is scheduled for 8 o'clock and no admission will be charged.

The show will give local fans a chance to see the rodeo team in action. WTC begins the rodeo season Thursday in Portales, N.M.

Tuesday's rodeo, for any WTC student who wishes to enter, will include regular events as well as chute dogging, calf tying, calf dressing, novice bull riding, girl's steer riding and men's goat tying. Regular events include calf roping, team roping, bareback riding, steer wrestling, bull riding, saddle bronc riding, goat tying, breakaway roping and barrel racing.

CARD OF THANKS 060

THE FAMILY of Margaret Costa wish to thank our many friends for their prayers and kindnesses. Special thanks are extended to Rev. Ken Branam for his words of comfort and to Bell-Seale for their willingness to follow our wishes. There are no words to express our gratitude to Dr. Neil Gibson and Cogdell Home Health Care. They were always there when needed and they cared for our loved one with professionalism and compassion, love and gentleness. God bless you all.
Marge, John, Lori
& Leah Sealy
Russell Miller

WE WOULD like to thank everyone who sent cards, brought food, gave words of comfort and prayer during the illness and passing away of our darling Fuzzy. Thanks to the ladies of the Nazarene Church for the dinner, to Rev. Buck Hatfield, Dr. Burleson, the nurses at Hendricks Hospital and a special thanks to Rev. Steve Coutouzis for his attendance and concern until the Lord called our loved one home. May God bless each one of you in a special way.

Traveling seller serves the richest

HOUSTON (AP) — Almost 50 years ago, Fred Harb came to the United States from his native Lebanon and took a job selling table cloths for $1 apiece.

Today, Harb stills sells table cloths — lace and linen ones that sell anywhere from $200 to $27,000 each.

Harb came to the United States in the mid-1930s — when he was 19 — and lived with a cousin in Waco. Then, Harb said, he knew only one English word.

"I would knock on the door, hold up my merchandise and say, 'Cheap, cheap,'" he said.

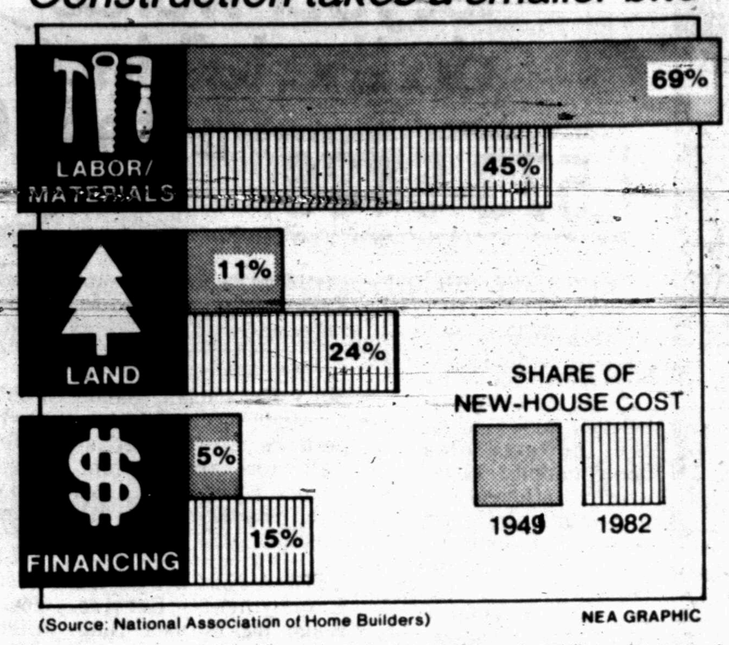

In 1941, he joined the Texas National Guard, which was the 36th Infantry Division in World War II. During the war, he became a U.S. citizen.

Harb said he came to the South after the war and took up his line of sales "because they like that kind of merchandise. They all had maids and butlers and they understood quality."

Now, the 68-year-old salesman comes to River Oaks twice a year from his home in Huntington Beach, Calif., to sell his wares in Houston's exclusive River Oaks neighborhood. He and his wife, Miriam, travel to Belgium, Italy, Portugal and Switzerland buying fine lace and linen to sell to Houston's wealthiest residents.

HOUSING COSTS

Construction takes a smaller bite

(Source: National Association of Home Builders) NEA GRAPHIC

Why has the cost of buying a home skyrocketed? Land and financing — not labor and materials — are the major reasons. The costs of land and financing make up nearly 40 percent of a home's total price — up from only 16 percent in 1949.

Restauranteur specializes in barbecue, steaks

GLEN ROSE, Texas (AP) — Maurice Pylant, who owns the Western Kitchen here, serves steaks so massive he should be forced to get building permits for them.

His 12-ounce K.C. sirloin strip, he says, adds up to 16 ounces if you count the fat. The same phenomenon holds true with his 16-ouncer, which is really 25 or 26 ounces. If you want to envision what these slabs look like, try to recall the blunt instrument which served as the murder weapon in dozens of Perry Mason episodes.

The steaks are, fortunately, as tender as they are huge. Pylant says he has no secrets; he just cooks them the way they are supposed to be cooked. The truly astonishing thing about these culinary wonders, however, is that he does not regard them as his specialty.

"I like steaks, but barbecue is what I do best," he said. "My favorite is sliced beef."

Pylant has been indulging tastebuds — and widening waistlines — here since 1979. Through word-of-mouth advertising, he has served customers from as far away as Germany and Australia, most of them cattle people who come to visit the big ranches in the area. Once, trying to communicate with some Europeans who could not speak English, he prepared them a sampling of every item on the menu — just to be sure they would get what they wanted.

"I get a lot of people from the NRC (Nuclear Regulatory Commission) who come to inspect the Comanche Peak Power Plant," he said. "One time, these two boys came from Philadelphia. That was the year Philadelphia was in the World Series. They asked me, 'Could you make us some barbecue? We gotta go to the World Series.' Well, I made them sandwiches, and they went to the airport, flew to Philadelphia and ate their sandwiches at the ball game. And you know what? They came back for more barbecue the next day."

Natives of this quiet town, he and his wife returned here from Houston, where they had owned a take-out place called the Barbecue Center. The pace is less frentic and chaotic now. In the world according to Pylant, the bigger the volume, the less the quality. And he will not sacrifice quality.

"I don't know who my competition is," he said. "I don't even care. I think the competition should worry about you, not you worry about them."

A husky man who claims steak is the best diet food — "It's lean and high in protein," he proclaims — Pylant said he does not do a "helluvalot" of work. For someone whose schedule leaves a lot of room for relaxing, however, he is supremely conscientious, waking up three or four times a night to check his pit.

Five years ago, his nocturnal work habits proved to be an enormous burden. Driving from his duplex to the restaurant, returning home, driving back to the restaurant, then repeating this exercise two or three times a night, he was on the road more than a truck driver in a country and Western song. Then the couple hit on an idea — they converted the "beer joint" adjoining the diner into a house. The barbecue pit is now only a few feet from their bedroom.

Pylant served his apprenticeship as, of all things, a sales representative for a manufacturer of automoble parts. Based in Houston, he traveled a region that stretched from West Texas to Louisiana, eating in countless restaurants along the way. He picked up enough tips to feel comfortable about opening his own place.

His diner — open from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays — is so small that customers at one table can converse with customers at another, and often do. Contrast with the rural atmosphere of the restaurant.

Pylant practices an endearing form of nepotism. While his wife does the books, an assortment of relatives works in the diner — daughters, granddaughters and grandsons. He also has two great-grandchildren, but he is not sure if they will ever work for him.

"I'm 62 years old," he said. "And I don't know if I'll have this place long enough for them to help out. But I will tell you this: I wake up in the morning, and I am READY to go. I am full of energy and enthusiasm. I love this business. I know what happens to people who don't have that enthusiasm, who lost it somewhere along the line — they just collapse. The day that happens to me is the day I get out of this business."

Magazine rates various actors

NEW YORK (AP) — Raquel's divine, Bo's dreary, Gerry's dowdy, Michael Jackson gets thumbs-up on his single sequined glove and Jeremy Irons is the essence of casual snazziness, according to one published fashion yardstick.

Irons' affinity for "casual chic" makes the British actor one of the style winners in People magazine's best dressed-worst dressed selections, appearing in the Sept. 24 issue.

Raquel Welch was cited for "high dramatic fashion and drop-dead chic," Bo Derek was warned to keep away from sweatsuits and Rep. Geraldine Ferraro, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, was admonished for being "too democratic" in her dress. The magazine urged her to get a fashion consultant to do away with "the wrinkled raincoat, the print dresses, the mix and match."

Singer Cyndi Lauper drew praise for her "tulle head wraps and junk gems" and Duran Duran lead singer Simon Le Bon's "defiance dressing" was the cat's p.j.'s, according to People.

Goldie Hawn's jungle prints were a fashion no-no, as were Kurt Russell's macho threads and Bill Murray's "style buster" duds.

"Leave the one-shouldered togas to Nancy, dearest," was the advice for President Reagan's daughter Patti Davis.

Princess Diana, Pia Zadora, Jerry Hall and Nastassja Kinski were mentioned for the way they carried themselves during pregnancy — although Ms. Zadora "plays the pouty sexpot to the end."

Clothing reported stolen said spotted on suspect

Snyder police investigated and cleared a misdemeanor theft of clothing reported at a local laundry Saturday.

Robert Byron called officers at 6:28 p.m. Saturday to report someone had stolen about $188 worth of his clothing from the Speed Queen Laundry on 26th St. earlier in the afternoon.

Byron called police again at 6:30 p.m. Sunday and told investigators that he had seen a woman wearing one of his shirts at the Kiddie Park in Towle Park.

Officer followed up on the lead and arrested two women — one age 31 and the other 19 — on a misdemeanor theft charge.

All of Byron's missing clothes were recovered with the arrest.

City officers were also called to a reported gunfight at a residence near the intersection of 19th St. and Ave. I at 1:01 p.m. Sunday.

Police responsed to the call, but no arrests were noted from the incident.

In other weekend action, city officers jailed four persons for DWI, four for public intoxication, one for disorderly conduct and three on traffic warrants.

Court grants line request

County commissioners Monday granted a right-of-way request submitted by Lone Star Gas Co., allowing them to lay a gas line across property in Pct. 2.

The action came during the regular weekly session for commissioners. At 11 a.m. Monday, the court was to open bids for a motorgrader fo Pct. 1 also.

Also on the agenda for Monday was a request by County Attorney Gary Terrell regarding a maintenance agreement for the computer used by the county attorney's office.

During discussion Monday, commissioners considered also implementing paperwork procedures which would allow the county to be reimbursed for travel and handling expenses related to the commodity food distribution program here.

It was estimated some $300 might be reimbursed on a monthly basis. Steps to secure this reimbursement, however, involve considerable "redtape," noted County Commissioner Bernhard Bartels, Pct. 4.

How to "split" the reimbursement was discussed also, since the county employees and staffers with the Scurry County Senior Citizens Center are involved.

Leadership class plans first session

The first session for the newly formed second class of Century II: Leadership Scurry County will be Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. at the Dodson House.

Members of the new class were announced Saturday. The program was expanded to 17 members this year from last year's membership of 15. The additional two were added in case some program participants are required to drop out during the year.

The nine-month program is designed to familiarize class members with all major areas of Scurry County: health care, law enforcement, agriculture, economic, social, governmental and voluntary organizations.

ER supervisor, at 573-6374.

The following is a complete schedule of events planned during the week.

—Tuesday: A drug compatability screening by John Johnson, head of the hospital's pharmacy department. County residents may bring all medications to be checked to insure they are compatable together. They will be advised also if further consultation with a physician is needed.

—Wednesday: A mock disaster drill is planned to illustrate the recent advances in emergency care. Residents are asked not to become alarmed as a realistic scenario is acted out. Emergency vehicles will be in operation.

—Thursday: A basic CPR life-saving class will be offered free of charge from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. It will be taught by in-service director Yvette Sickler, a registered nurse. Class enrollment will be limited to 10. Certification for taking the course will be given. Persons or groups interested should contact Sickler at 573-6374, ext. 288; or Elissa Clay at ext. 225. Also Thursday, local firemen will demonstrate the "jaws of life" extrication device at the Kmart parking lot at 4 p.m.

Friday: the basic CPR life saving classes will repeat Friday. Times will be the same with a class size limitation of 20. In addition, a free blood pressure screening clinic will be offered at the emergency room from noon until 3 p.m. Also, the drug compatability screening will be repeated from 11:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. in the ER waiting room.

—Saturday: Free eye examinations will be offered in the ER lobby from 8 a.m. until noon.

Samuel Langhorne Clemens, who wrote under the name Mark Twain, was born in 1835.

Dear Abby

Reader's Good Deed Turns Her Philanthropy Into Misanthropy

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: The letter about finding a suitcase with no identification in the middle of the road reminded me of something I will never forget.

Several years ago, my husband, a cross-country truck driver, saw a small suitcase in the middle of the highway, so he pulled off and got it before it was run over. It had no identification, but it contained some pictures of a beautiful little boy, from the time of his birth until approximately 6 years old. On some large colored pictures was the name of a photographer's studio in a small Wyoming town, so we called the studio (we live in Oklahoma) and described the pictures. We were told the pictures belonged to the John Brown family (made-up name), and they gave us the family's address and phone number in Wyoming.

We called their home and were told the little boy and his parents had gone to visit the grandparents in Colorado, and they gave us their number. I called the grandparents and told them about the suitcase. They thanked me nicely, said the Browns had not arrived yet and asked me to please send the suitcase to them in Colorado.

I packed up the suitcase, insured it and sent it to Colorado with my name and address.

I heard nothing for three months. Then a letter from Mrs. Brown came, accusing me of finding a second suitcase that was lost at the same time! She said it contained some expensive jewelry, and she practically called me a thief! That ungrateful woman never even thanked me for shipping the suitcase with those precious pictures. Nor did she offer to reimburse me for the phone calls and postage.

That sure taught me a lesson!

MARY C., OKLAHOMA CITY

DEAR MARY: And what was the "lesson"? I hope it didn't sour you on the whole human race. Don't stop doing good deeds for strangers; for every lemon like Mrs. Brown, there are 100 peaches like you, Mary C.

DEAR ABBY: Since when, and who gave you permission to change God's law? A woman is still supposed to be pure at marriage, and a white wedding gown is, was and always will be a symbol of that purity.

When you say that a woman has the right to wear a white wedding gown if it is her first wedding, are you saying that she can have two or three kids, shack up or sleep around, but she is still entitled to a church wedding in a white gown?

If that's true, why should a woman want to save her virginity for marriage?

To have a church wedding is a mockery, and I dare you to print this to see how many out there will agree with me.

CELESTE, TEXAS

DEAR CELESTE: No one can change God's law. True, a woman is supposed to be a virgin until she marries. But nowhere in the Bible does it state that only virgins may wear white and be married in church.

DEAR ABBY: I've seen many references in your column concerning how doctors, dentists and their nurses should address elderly patients. (Many resent being called by their first names.)

I am a physician, and in 20 years of primarily a geriatric practice (urology), I have never called a patient by his first name unless requested to do so.

My patients, in turn, are welcome to call me "Doctor Pat" if they wish, but call me "Doc" and my blood boils at this uncouth familiarity. Wyatt Earp is dead!

R.R.P. (M.D.)

Girl visits Brazil through AFS

with fashions they provided.

"We shopped before Shana left and bought several things like our previous Brazilian visitor had worn, but what we didn't realize then was that she had bought those clothes after she came to America not before," Mrs. Hart said.

Shana said she was also surprised at how class conscious the people in Brazil were. She points to the custom of wealthier families having a young girl live on their estate (but not in the same house) and perform certain duties in exchange for being given a home and educationl opportunities.

While in Brazil, Shana said she began to learn Portuguese, the native tongue, and that her mother began taking English lessons. Her sisters spoke English. Since everyone in Brazil usually speaks a little English, Shana said she had no trouble communicating.

Shana accompanied the family on their vacation, visiting several places of historical importance. They also visited the beach frequently.

In Brazil it was winter time in July and sometimes it got quite cold. Yet it wasn't as cold as Shana was used to because she could continue swimming long after her family had given up.

Shana said she found the Brazilian people to be "more advancd than she had expected in some ways and less advanced in other days."

"The people were also a lot friendlier than I was used to. They would give you anything they had."

Shana was one of 125 Americans visiting Brazil this summer as part of the AFS program. She also encountered another AFS student who was staying with a family across the street from her. This was quite unusual as AFS usually doesn't send two students to the same city, she said.

"I learned a lot about myself. I learned about other people and their attitudes and about the extra privileges we have," Shana said.

"I missed little things like hot showers since in Brazil all the bathing water is lukewarm. The children also don't seem to have as much freedom as we have over here."

According to Shana, Brazilians seem to think of Americans as "fast, easy people who drink a lot."

She also said she expected them to wear Mexican style clothing, but instead they wore fashions from Europe.

Because of her trip, she had to miss the first week of school. This kept her busy "catching up" on missed assignments, but she said the experience was worth the extra work.

"I wanted it to be something that I would always remember and that is just what happened."

Sheriff's personnel investigate burglaries

Two reported burglary incidents are now under investigation by Scurry County sheriff's office personnel.

Lanny Wadleigh of 4503 Crockett Ave. filed a burglary report at 3:30 p.m. Friday.

He told investigators that jewelry and two guns had been taken from his residence. Value of the missing items was estimated at several thousand dollars.

Officers say the burglars apparently gained entry to the residence by jimmying a back door.

The incident is thought to have occurred sometime between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Thursday.

Weldon Loyd called county authorities Saturday morning to report the burglary of his barn some two miles west of Dermott in northwest Scurry County.

An exact time for the burglary was not known. Loyd reported discovering about $1,000 worth of miscellaneous power and hand tools missing from the building.

Pedestrian is struck, injuries called minor

A Snyder woman reportedly suffered minor injuries when she was struck by a pickup truck Saturday evening.

Alica Ivarra of 1103 30th St. was taken from the Latin American Center on 13th St. to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by units of Aid Ambulance-Snyder around 6:29 p.m.

She was struck by a 1968 Ford pickup driven by Maria Lopez Flores of 416 34th St.

City police were also called to investigate two minor traffic mishaps Sunday afternoon.

Involved in the day's first mishap in the 1200 Block of 24th St. were a 1978 Chevrolet driven by Leonard D. Harber of 600 N Ave. U and a 1972 Chevrolet driven by Carl E. Scott of 418 29th St.

Sunday's second accident was reported at 4:53 p.m. at the intersection of 24th St. and College Ave.

Involved in it were a 1977 Pontiac driven by Truman Leon Franks of Snyder and a 1977 Chrysler driven by Luisa Suarez of 2810 Ave. J.

Mobile home fire damage extensive

Snyder firemen extinguished a mobile home fire west of town early Saturday morning.

Firefighters were called to the Circle D Trailer Park, just east of Union on U.S. Highway 180, at 3:25 a.m. Saturday.

Extensive damage was said caused to the mobile home owned by Preston Johnson. No injuries were reported.

At 8:35 a.m. Monday, city firemen were called to a reported car fire at the drive-in window of the Snyder National Bank in the 1700 Block of 24th St.

Firemen discovered that steam from a broken radiator hose on the vehicle had prompted the fire call.

Local's death said accident

A ruling of accidental death was reached Monday in the case involving Snyder man Ronnie Gemes, 26.

Gemes was found dead in his residence around 10 p.m. last Monday. Services for him were conducted Thursday.

Justice of the Peace Dan Callaway ruled the death accidental. The ruling had been held up pending Callaway's return from a justice of the peace training seminar last week.

Births

A baby boy weighing 9 lbs. and 10 ozs. was born to Ricky and Janice Beard of Snyder on Sept. 16 at 6:27 p.m. in Malone and Hogan Hospital in Big Spring. Named Neal Tanner, he is welcomed home by a sister, Lexie Shae. His grandparents are Lois and Frank Posey of Seminole and Jeral and Doris Beard of Snyder. Mr. and Mrs. Ennis Floyd of Snyder are the baby's great grandparents.

Stock market trends explained

The recent downward trend in the stock market is normal behavior as continued economic recovery paves the way for a fantastic bull market, according to Jack McCarthy, co-managing partner of Lord Abbett and Company.

A complete video tape of McCarthy's comments is available for viewing at the office of Tim Riggan and Gayle Morgeson, the Edward D. Jones and Company representatives in Snyder.

Judge expected to rule on contempt charge

HOUSTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge James DeAnda said he plans to rule today on whether to dismiss a contempt of court charge against two parents who have refused to testify in their son's murder case.

Bernard and Odette Port, who have been in jail since Wednesday in the latest series of contempt hearings, will find out from DeAnda on their Judaic faith as the reason for not testifying in the case against their 17-year-old son David, accused in the June 8 murder of postal worker Debora Sue Schatz.

David Port is free on a $20,000 bond.

Pemex director says prices won't increase until '86

HOUSTON (AP) — Mexico does not plan to change its prices for exported oil to compete with Canada's near deregulation of crude prices, an executive with Mexico's national oil company said.

"The price of gas in Mexico is fairly low. Prices are now at a level we feel is appropriate for the level of production we have achieved now," Mario Ramon Beteta, general director of the Pemex oil company, said Saturday.

Canada recently initiated a system that will allow oil buyers and sellers to negotiate prices for national gas exported to the United States, the only buyer of Mexico's natural gas.

Mexico, which is the United States' largest foreign crude supplier, exported an average of 720,000 barrels of oil per day to the U.S., or 13.3 percent of Mexico's daily imports.

The United States, which is Mexico's largest single customer, receives almost half of Mexico's daily oil exports.

Beteta said Pemex plans to keep producing oil at its current level of 2.75 million barrels a day — a level it has maintained for almost two years.

"That's important not only for us but for the entire world market, whose stability is extremely important," said Beteta, who was in Houston for Fiestas Patrias, the local celebration of Mexico's independence.

Clark says he expects more off-shore plans

HUMBLE, Texas (AP) — Off-shore oil production will increase during the years ahead, especially in the Gulf of Mexico, U.S. Interior Secretary William Clark says.

Clark told officials at an oil-well equipment manufacturing facility that off-shore areas provide 80 percent of the oil reserves in the United States.

"We can certainly discuss the probabilities of the future, and certainly the Gulf (of Mexico) where 90 percent of our off-shore oil comes from," Clark told officers of Brown Services Co. Inc.

U.S. Rep. Jack Fields, R-Texas, who accompanied Clark, said plans are being considered to conduct informational meetings in early 1985 in coastal cities to promote the benefits of developing off-shore oil facilities.

"For every job you create off shore, 3.7 more are created elsewhere," Fields said.

Eighty percent of the nation's oil reserves come from off-shore areas, Clark said.
