City okays mayor's group, EDC funding

By ANDREA HOOTEN
Staff Writer

The Hereford City Commission agreed Monday night to join up to 48 other Panhandle cities to fund the new Panhandle League of Mayors, a group bent on unifying the Panhandle's voice before the state legislature.

The city voted to give $235 in membership dues, determined on a per capita basis, as part of the league's $5,000 budget.

"We're asking all 48 Panhandle cities to give at least $75 minimum as membership dues so we can have some seed money for mailings and that sort of thing," said Hereford Mayor Wes Fisher. "We don't know where this money will go exactly, but there will be no paid positions."

Fisher previously said that the league, which was formed April 21, may consider hiring a lobbyist to represent the region at Austin.

The commission also voted to forward $10,000 as seed money to the Economic Development Council. This money, along with $7,330 given in August for office furniture, office computers, telephone deposit, office manager's salary and incorporation fee, will be subtracted from the $48,000 the city budgeted to fund the council.

"We haven't asked the county or the school for any money yet, but we'll soon establish some method of cash flow from all three entities, probably through a contract basis," said Commissioner Tom LeGate, the commission's representative for the Economic Development Council.

The city commission elected to adopt an ordinance establishing the Hereford Area Tax Abatement Board and adopt the tax abatement zones and guidelines for offering tax abatement.

The county, city and school district must separately adopt these guidelines before any tax abatement may be given to prospective or expanding industry.

Tim Gearn, a representative of the Church of the Nazarene's building committee, requested that the commission allow the church to pave an extra strip of La Plata Street without having to pay $1,200 to form the radius curbs intersecting La Plata Street and Juniper Street nor the concrete gutter across Juniper Street.

Darwin McGill, city manager, said Subdivision Ordinance 840 states that street paving either must stop short of an intersection or go through an intersection, and the curbs and gutter are prerequisites for going through the intersection.

The commission, however, voted to allow the church to pave the remaining strip of La Plata Street without having to pay for construction the curbs and gutter.

On re-zoning requests, the commission denied the request of Glenda Keenan (a representative with the Benson estate) to change 207 Union Avenue from a two-family district to a restricted commercial retail district after an unfavorable recommendation from the Planning and Zoning Commission.

"I live across the street from 207 Union," said Sally Walker. "The buses and cars go down that street constantly and school kids use it all the time. It would be dangerous for the kids and for the business."

The commission did grant rezoning requests to change the northeast corner of Gracy and Main streets from a commercial district to a mobile home district and to change the southeast corner of 15th Street and U.S. Highway 385 from a multi-family district to a central business district at the request of Consumer's Fuel Co-op Association, Inc.

The commission met in closed session to discuss the city's pending litigation with Ed Wuerflein concerning his alleged violation of city building codes. The city did not take any action concerning the case.

The city also voted to accept a $4,044.50 bid from Arrow Sales, Inc. for a mower to be used by the Park Department.

Dunn, Hasie hold SBOE forum

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Dr. Paul Dunn of Levelland and Monte Hasie of Lubbock made their pitch for why they should be the West Texas representative to the State Board of Education at a candidates' forum held Monday night at the Hereford High School cafeteria.

A crowd of about 50 people, mostly teachers, administrators and educational support personnel, listened as Dunn, the incumbent who was appointed to the SBOE in 1984 by former Gov. Mark White, and Hasie, a former president of the Lubbock school board, agreed on many points but traded charges and accusations that revolved around White, H. Ross Perot and House Bill 72, the education reform package pushed through by White with Perot's backing.

"there's concern I'll cater to H. Ross Perot," Dunn said. "That is ludicrous. I don't know what he can tell us to do. Dunn admitted that he will be getting a contribution of about $5,000 from Texas First, a group founded by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and supported by Perot and others.

"The main issue is that they have tried to do away with the democratic process," Hasie said. "Perot is doing the financing on Texas First, and these are the people who fought against an elected board (the decision to make the SBOE an elected board was decided by Texas voters in a consitutional amendment election in 1987).

"There has been very little common sense in the implementation of programs by the SBOE in the last 3½ years," Hasie said. "If you like what has happened in the last four years, if you this H. Ross Perot should run Texas education, you don't need to vote for me.

"A vote for Paul Dunn is a vote for Mark White, an appointed board, and Ross Perot. A vote for me is a vote for you."

Dunn said he had worked publicly on three issues: retention of the teacher career ladder with full funding by the state; ending the TEAMS testing of first graders; and pay raises for teachers, administrators and support personnel.

DR. PAUL DUNN

"You need someone to work for a pay raise," Dunn said, pointing to the example of Levelland teacher Dennis cunningham who left teaching after several years to work for an oil company because he, as the sole breadwinner, could not adequately provide for his family with his teacher's salary.

"We have good teachers and a good system," Dunn said. "Teachers have exceeded the mandates placed on them by the state and put up with many extra demands. Why not compensate our teachers for this?"

Dunn said the career ladder, which provides bonuses for teachers based upon appraisals and experience, was not implemented in a "smooth, easy manner," and said a proposal to freeze teachers on Level Three on the career ladder and use a new, tougher appraisal instrument for teachers not at that level "isn't fair."

"Teachers strive to do what authorities say they should do," Dunn said. "The state said teachers should get a certain score on 45 to 50 things and they did it. I was the only one who voted not to raise the level on the scores for teachers. Level Three teachers shouldn't be penalized for doing what they were asked to do."

Hasie, who served on the Lubbock school board for 12 years including seven as the board's president, called for "common sense implementation of programs."

"I want to represent all areas of education, including the taxpayers," Hasie said. "An education is the best insurance we have for our kids. They can never take that away."

Hasie said he would fight for increased local controls over education, and said the appointed SBOE has "thrown your money, as a taxpayer, administrator and educator, at the problems. Many school districts and on the verge of bankruptcy."

Hasie said the state has avoided having to raise taxes or other funds to pay for programs by ordering new programs without state funding to implement the programs, and said that the SBOE, in the four years since the educational reforms of HB

We've had some inquiries about The Amarillo Daily News promotion which offers a contribution to the local United Way campaign in exchange for a subscription to the newspaper. We think it's great that the Amarillo paper chose to participate, even if it is linked to paid subscriptions. Some readers are still bitter about the paper's handling of news events in Hereford but it's apparent the newspaper is trying to change that image. If you subscribe to the Amarillo paper, this is a good time to pay up and get some of the dollars returned as part of the United Way drive.

Income tax rates were supposed to have been lower after the "tax reform" plan. Maybe they are if you compare them with some other countries. An investment firm notes that the top rate here is 33 percent, while many other industrial nations have a rate over 50 percent.

This means that while a one-income American family of four with income of $50,000 might be left with $43,451 this year, a similar family in Germany would take home only $36,779; an Australian family only $36,642; and a British family only $29,000.

We go through a lot of mail every day and much of it goes to the waste basket. However, we do pick up items which we think are of interest to our readers. One release we found this week had to do with water–leading off with the fact that the average American uses 110 gallons of water a day.

A dripping faucet will waste about 25 to 30 gallons a day, in case you've ever wondered. The average toilet flush uses 5 to 7 gallons. A 10-minute shower uses 25 to 30 gallons, while an average tub bath uses 36 gallons.

Hand-washing dishes with the water running uses about 30 gallons, and an automatic dishwasher uses only 10 gallons. Washing the car uses 180 gallons. A man who shaves with the water running can use about 20 gallons. Teeth brushing takes about 2 gallons. Now you know more about water usage!

Babbling Brooks

By JOHN BROOKS

If you want to place the blame for the Hereford Whitefaces not beating Lubbock Estacado last Thursday night, blame a shoeshine man who chose the wrong time to be gone from his stand last Thursday afternoon at South Plains Mall.

I went to Lubbock early last Thursday along with Speedy Nieman and Mauri Montgomery. Speedy wanted to spend a little time with his folks, and Mauri and I just wanted to get the heck outta Dodge for a few hours.

Plus we needed a ride, so we went early with Speedy.

Lubbock may be a big city, but there's not a whole lot to do for two hours on a weekday afternoon. So we walked around South Plains Mall.

Note to local merchants: We didn't buy anything. We just walked.

Anyway, we trod past a shoeshine stand. There was no one there.

That's when I told Mauri about the shoeshine superstition.

It started in 1982, just before the boys regional basketball tournament. We were killing time before Dimmitt played Denver City in the finals, and I got my shoes shined at the mall.

Three overtimes later, Dimmitt had defeated Denver City. A week later, Phil King made a last-second basket to give Dimmitt a state championship, capping off a 31-10 season when they had to have a playoff just to win district over Littlefield. You can look it up.

The next year, Dimmitt is back in the regional finals. I got my shoes shined. Dimmitt beat Abernathy in the regional finals, then won state again.

Dimmitt went 38-0 that year. For all I know now, they could have been 35-1, if it hadn't been for the shine.

By the time the 1984 basketball season rolled around, I had moved to Plainview. Dimmitt had back-doored into the playoffs, and sonuvagun if the Bobcats didn't make it to the regional finals.

There was a problem. I wasn't going to be able to make it to Saturday afternoon's finals, but I hung around in Lubbock long enough for that shoe shine before heading to Plainview and work.

Abernathy had beaten Dimmitt twice during the regular season, and the Antelopes were licking their chops waiting for Dimmitt in the regional finals.

Dwight McDonald hit a last-second 40-foot jumper for the Bobcats. They beat Abernathy and were headed for Austin.

I was headed for Lubbock to give that shoeshine man a tip.

I moved back to Dimmitt before the 1984-85 season began. Dimmitt found its way to region that year, and the next, and the next. Each year, I found that shoeshine man. Each year, I got an expense-paid trip to Austin to cover the Bobcats. It's a tough job, but I made myself do it.

Well, there we were in South Plains Mall last Thursday, looking for that durned old shoeshine man.

We circled around two or three times. He wasn't around.

He was probably an Estacado fan.

Golden Age chairmen

Homer Garrison and Helen Spinks are all smiles at Monday's first report meeting of the 1988 United Way of Deaf Smith County campaign. Garrison and Spinks are co-chairmen of the Golden Age Division, which has picked up $3,242 of its goal of $9,000.

Clements tours areas struck by tornadoes

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements, touring an area ravaged by tornadoes spawned by Hurricane Gilbert, expressed shock that the casualty toll was low and said federal emergency assistance is virtually assured.

While San Antonio officials worked to get a disaster designation, officials on the southern Texas Coast, already declared a disaster area, say the designation may have been premature.

At least 41 tornadoes struck Texas in the aftermath of Hurricane Gilbert, but only two San Antonio residents were killed, including a man whose house was crushed by a utility pole and a woman whose mobile was ripped apart by a twister.

The hurricane caused minimal damage to the Texas coast, but about a dozen tornadoes struck San Antonio, causing more than $35 million damage.

Clements declared Brownsville a disaster area on Saturday and toured the Rio Grande Valley and San Antonio on Monday.

Clements said he would wait for information from Bexar County officials before declaring it a disaster area. The declaration would pave the way for the county to receive assistance from the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

The designation would enable businesses to receive low-interest loans from the Small Business Adminstration and could ultimately help homeless residents with temporary housing for a certain period, officials said.

"It's amazing to me that no one was killed," Clements said as he climbed over bricks on a tour of The Lodge Apartments in San Antonio..

A twister that hit the complex early Saturday overturned cars, destroyed 120 residential units, damaged 260 units and left 300 people homeless.

"This is far worse than anything in Brownsville. There is no place anywhere that suffered this kind of damage," Clements said.

Clements was escorted on the tour by San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros and Bexar County Judge Tom Vickers.

Vickers said city and county officials are assessing the damage and would try to get a report to Clements later this week.

"The approval and certification of it being declared a disaster area can happen very quickly, but the individual payment will be slower than that," Clements said. "But the first step is to have it declared an emergency, and I don't think we'll have any problem doing that."

While San Antonio-area officials are discussing the disaster designation, their counterparts in the Rio Grande Valley say they may not need federal aid.

Harlingen Mayor Bill Card said his city suffered up to $800,000 in damage to mostly private property and said the federal assistance might not be needed.

A city-owned hangar leased to the Confederate Air Force suffered about $100,000 damage, Card said.

Brownsville Mayor Ygnacio Garza said the city spent thousands of dollars preparing and cleaning up after the storm.

"Whether it will meet the criteria for a true disaster, I don't think so, or I'm not sure and really we're not too upset about that," Garza said.

South Padre Island City Manager Eduardo Campriano said the storm caused about $100,000 in damage to city property, mostly road damage.

In Corpus Christi, Nueces County Commissioner J.P. Luby said two beach parks suffered about $100,000 damage and he was considering a request for federal aid.

But most of the damage was in San Antonio, which had set up shelters for Gulf Coast residents fleeing their homes.

Another tornado cut through Kelly Air Force Base, causing $3 million damage to 12 buildings and another $25 million to aircraft parts.

Another tornado struck the apartment buildings and several residential neighborhoods, causing at least $5 million damage.

The damage to the hospital air-conditioning system prompted Cisneros to issue an emergency declaration so that Texas Air National Guard aircraft could fly in equipment to repair the system and to avoid moving 700 patients.

"You can imagine it could have been 50 and 100 deaths," Cisneros told Clements."We are just very fortunate, and we're grafetul to you for your help."

SBOE

"We need to acquire, retain and compensate outstanding people and quit doing dumb things in Austin," Hasie said. "We shouldn't have had first grade TEAMS testing to begin with, and TECAT was the most expensive test ever. The SBOE stood up and said we were incompetent at the local level.

"The SBOE has criticized you time after time after time. I would like to see the SBOE say we have great people at the local level.

During an open question-answer session, both Dunn and Hasie said the no pass-no play penalty should be reduced from six weeks to three weeks and differed in their philosophy on bilingual education.

Dunn said students with a dominant language other than English should be assessed on an individual basis before moving into English-dominant courses.

"You have to look at it on a child-to-child basis," Dunn said.

Hasie said that students should spend no more than two years in non-English courses.

"You're doing the child a disservice if you keep them out of non-English classes for more than two years," Hasie said.

Hosting membership party

Approximately 160 guests attended The Circle of Friends membership party Saturday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Witherspoon, at left. Paula Gibson, the volunteer organization's president, and her husband, Lee, were among the special guests greeted by the host couple. All donations received from the fund-raiser will benefit cancer patients as well as help support the research and patient care programs at The Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center in Amarillo. Over 218 patients from Hereford have received care at the center and approximately 30 of these people have been assisted by the Circle of Friends.

'Trip to Hawaii' theme for club's meeting

As members arrived at the "airport", stewardesses Cindy Black, Elaine McNutt, Shannon Hagar, Diana Gerk, Kathy Carthell, Becky Reinaurt, Tonya Horrell, Tricia Workman, Nanette Ashby and Leisa Lewis checked tickets and assigned seats. Passengers were served Cokes and peanuts while they viewed an in-flight movie.

Upon arrival, members were divided into teams and given a list of items to gather. The teams then ran to their "taxis" and raced around town to find such items as lava rocks, ocean water, sand, sugar cane, and more.

As the teams returned, they were greeted with leis and a frozen drink from a "beach side hut" by hostesses in grass skits. A meal was served luau-style followed by hula lessons given by Ashby.

A short business meeting was held and yearbooks were distributed.

"Tourists" who enjoyed the evening included Kim Bigham, Patti Brown, Cindy Cole, Debbie Donaldson, Lori Hall, Karen Keeling, Brenda Koenig, Ange Lauderback, Sarah Lawson, Marylin Leasure, Pam Perrin, Nena Veazey, Camille Williamson and Marsha Winget.

Just a note.

On the occasion of their 35th

we congratulate H and R

Your friends

Junior parents to meet

All parents of Hereford High School freshmen are invited to attend a meeting at 6:30 p.m. today in the HHS auditorium.

The business to be discussed will be the freshmen class supper.

In 1939, the United States recognized the Franco government in Spain, following the end of the Spanish Civil War.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It annoys me to see lists of duties performed with price tags attached that "prove" a wife is worth $75,000 or more a year. The implication is that the husbands are getting a big bargain.

Next time you print that list, Ann, please accompany it with this list of what a husband/father is worth in terms of dollars and cents.

Escort...$125/night
Psychiatrist...$75,000/year
Handyman...$15/hr
Fishhook baiter...$40/day
Bodyguard...$50/hr
Tire changer...$15/hr
Garbage disposal unjammer...$40/call
Food taster...$150/day
Kissing your mom..no charge
Laughing at your dad's stale jokes...no amount of money could cover this
Back-scratcher and zipper puller...$50/week
Stud fee...$70,000 (This is what Secretariat gets.)

All kidding aside, Ann, the total value of a marriage is not only greater than the sum of its parts, it cannot be measured in money.–W.W., Palo Alto, Calif.

DEAR PAL: Thank$ for $aying it $o $uccinctly. You $ound like a $weet guy.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 20 pounds overweight but hide it quite nicely since I am 5-foot-8 and well-proportioned with good legs. I have been trying desperately to lose some weight and having limited success.

Several weeks ago a friend told me that she had cut out sugar and using NutraSweet in her coffee, on breakfat cereal, over fruit and even in baking. She claims it has made a big difference and she doesn't miss sugar at all.

My husband says I can't use an artificial sweetener because anything with chemicals has got to be harmful. "God made sugar," he said. "He didn't make NutraSweet."

Can you give me some information on this?–Alice in Delaware

DEAR ALICE: God made poison ivy, too, but that's another story.

NutraSweet is one of the most carefully investigated substances in the world. The Food and Drug Administration has given it the green light, also the American Medical Association, the World Health Organization and the American Diabetes Association.

Duke University scientists reported in the New England Journal of Medicine that NutraSweet does not cause headaches. And in a study conducted at the University of Minnesota, individuals drank the amount of NutraSweet contained in 26 cans of diet soda every day for six months, without any ill effects.

Seldom has a product under fire received such a glowing bill of health.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read in People magazine about a pocket-sized breath detector. A person exhales into the detector for three seconds. The words "good" or "pass" appear alongside a green light. A yellow light appears if the breath is marginal. The light is red if it's bad. Do you think it's worth it?–Mr. Ohio

DEAR MR.: It's cheaper to have a good friend who will tell you for nothing.

Taekwando gold hits close to home

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

She can't be claimed as one of Hereford's own, but when Arlene Limas won the United States' first gold medal of the 1988 Olympic Games in Seoul, South Korea, in last Friday's taekwando competition, there was plenty of celebrating in Hereford.

Limas, 21, lives in Chicago. Her dad, Arnold, lived here many years ago before moving to Illinois. Arlene's step-sister and brother, Janie Ramos and Jesse Andrade, and a cousin, Janie Nino, are still here.

And they're still excited about Arlene's gold. Their happiness isn't diminshed by the fact that Arlene's gold was unofficial: Taekwando is only an exhibition sport, but an Olympic gold medal is an Olympic gold medal.

"We found out about Arlene winning on Friday night," Nino said Monday. "Arlene's family had called Janie and Jesse, and they told us about it.

"I watched the TV all day Saturday, and they finally showed it at about 5 or 5:30 p.m. It was exciting to watch. It was real exciting to have a relative win the gold medal."

Arlene's prowess in taekwando has been exhibited several times in Hereford. Her brother, Marshall, had a martial arts studio in Hereford for several years, then taught martial arts at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA until he moved to Illinois in July.

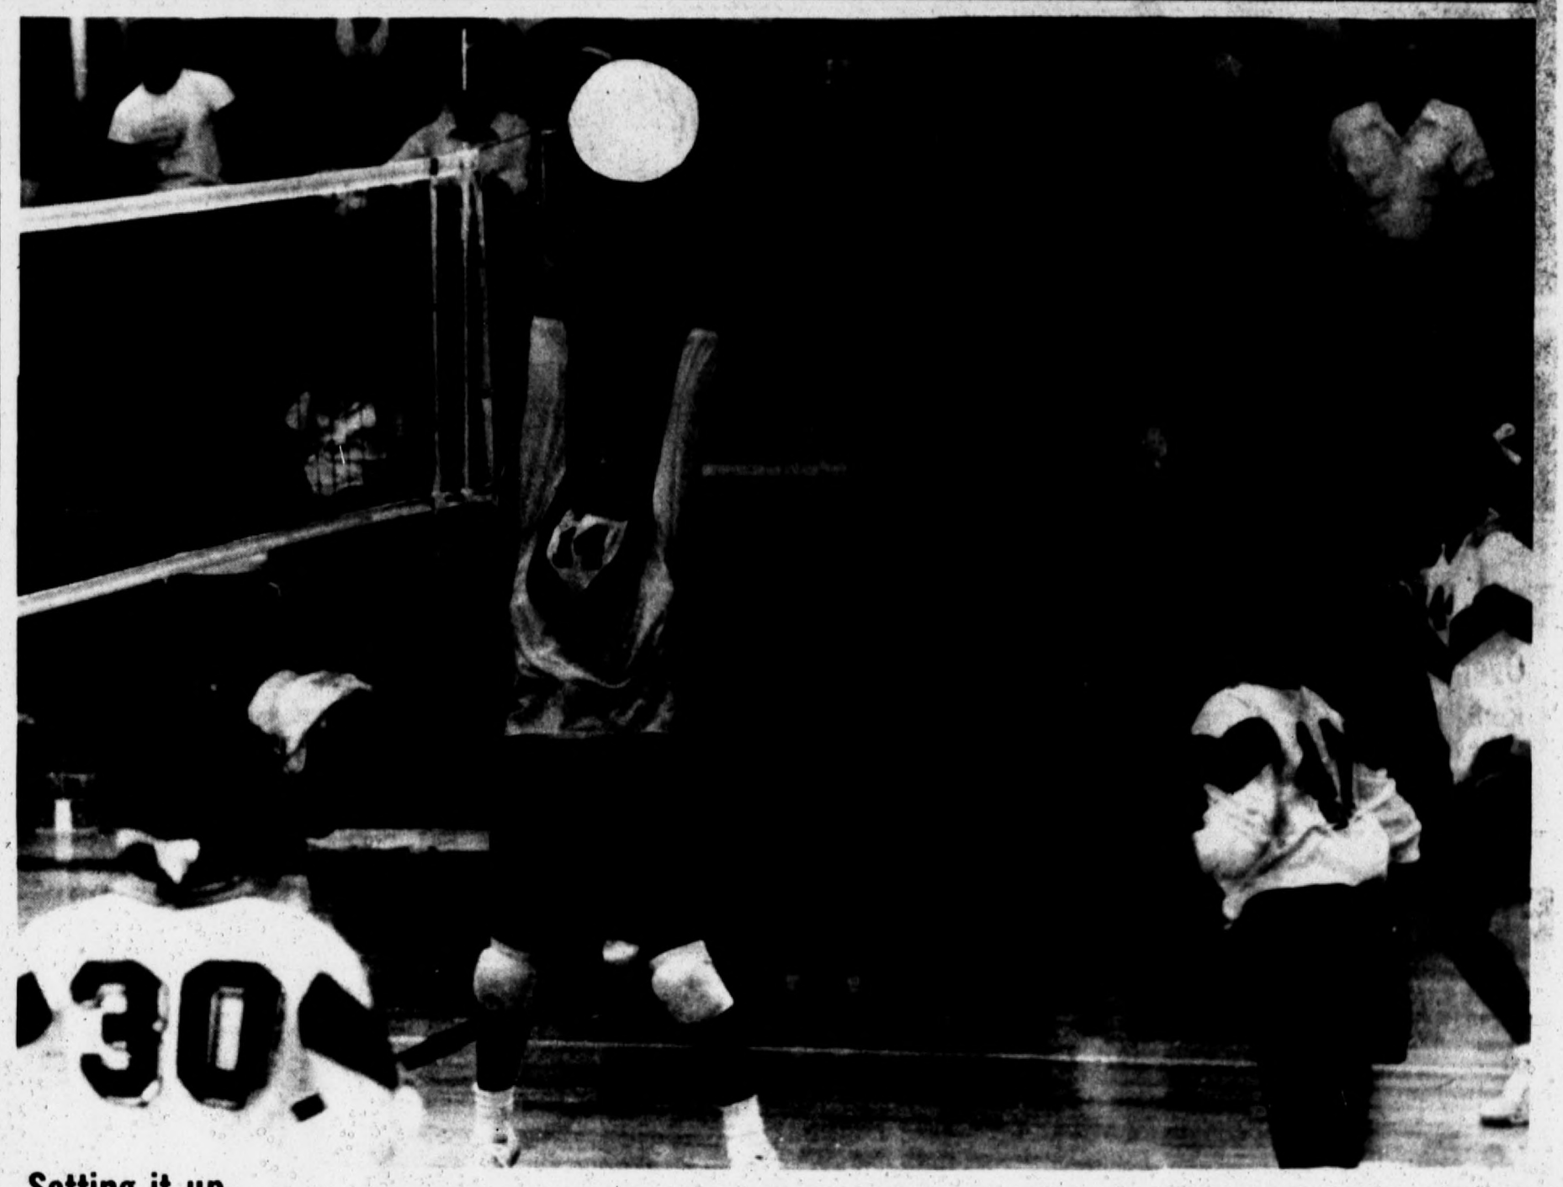

"Arlene's been here several times," Nino said. "When Marshall first opened his place here on Main Street, Arlene came and did an exhibition, and she did some exhibitions several times after that. A lot of people met her when she was here.

NBC televised only Arlene's final match, then had the medal ceremony, where Arlene had to lead the singing of the National Anthem.

"She had to sing the National Anthem because their record broke or something. She just started singing," Nino said. " They've shown that on NBC a couple of times. I was real proud of that.

"I've just tried to tell everyone I know about what Arlene did. I went to the grocery store, and I knew I'd run into a bunch of my friends and could tell them about it. I didn't see anyone I knew, so I just told everybody."

Setting it up

Spikers hope to rebound

The Hereford High School volleyball teams will try to rebound tonight at Lubbock Estacado after falling to Dumas on Saturday at the HHS gym.

The varsity Whitefaces lost to Dumas, 15-4, 15-12, dropping their District 1-4A record to 1-1 and their season slate to 8-5. The Hereford JV fell in three games to Dumas, 15-6, 10-15, 15-13.

The varsity squad had early leads in the first gme at 1-0 and 2-1, the last lead coming on a set over the net by Hereford's Poppy Richardson that Dumas couldn't field.

Dumas, with only two side-outs, reeled off nine points before a service error gave Hereford the serve again. Krystal Sims and Shantel Cornelius teamed up to block a Dumas spike to cut the lead to 10-3, but Dumas got the serve back and scored four more points before knocking the ball out of bounds on game points.

A kill by Libby Kosub cut the lead to 14-4, but Dumas got the serve back on the next play and took the first game.

In the second game, Dumas racked up an 11-1 lead as Cande Robbins, with a kill, scored Hereford's only point. When Hereford finally regained the serve, two kills by Kosub cut the margin to 11-4.

Dumas then added another point before a Hereford rally behind the serving of Nikki Self and a scoring block and a scoring dink by Shantel Cornelius cut the margin to 12-8.

Dumas cooled off the Whitefaces with a timeout and got the ball back, serving another winner for a 13-8 lead before a service error. Cornelius served two winners to slice the lead to 13-11 before Dumas earned a side-out.

The Demonettes could muster just one point before giving the ball back to Hereford. Jill West served a winner before a Hereford mis-play gave Dumas the ball back. The Demonettes scrambled to earn match point, 15-12.

In the JV match, Dumas coasted to an early 7-1 lead in the first game and cruised to a 15-6 win. In the second game, Hereford was up 9-5 before Dumas rallied to tie the game at 9-all and 10-all.

Annie Torres served the next two points to give Hereford a 12-10 lead. After a side-out, Robin White served the last three points of the game, with game point won on a kill by Jayme Moore for a 15-10 win to even the match at a game apiece.

In the third game, Hereford, led by kills by White and Lydia Flores behind the serving of Brooke Seiver, mounted a 5-1 lead before Dumas stormed back to grab a 7-5 advantage. Dumas lengthened its lead to 13-7 before a net error ended the Demon rally.

With White serving, Hereford sliced the lead to 13-11 as Dumas had four unforced errors. Dumas finally regained the serve and added a point, but a Traci Brush kill on the first match point gave the serve back to Hereford.

Kelli Thames served an ace, then a Brush kill on the next serve made it a 14-13 match, but Hereford was whistled for being in the net on the next play, and Dumas served a winner on match point to win 15-13.

Over it goes

Cross-country teams improve

The Hereford varsity girls' cross-country team finished second and the boys' varsity team placed seventh in the Plainview Cross-Country Meet held Saturday.

Hereford, with 70 points, was topped only by Coronado (34 points) in the meet's 4A-5A division. Pacing the Hereford girls were Alina Benitez, fifth, Yvonne Padilla, 10th, and Sally Garza, 12th.

The Hereford boys were led by Benny Carrasco's sixth-place finish.

"We competed better this week," said Coach Martha Emerson. "Alina was the top runner from out district and Benny was the second-place runner representing our district.

"The top four girls were close together and the No. 5 runner (Maria Rodriguez) was only 17 seconds behind the fourth runner (Lisa Zepeda). running together is what we will concentrate on more this week.

"The four boys behind Benny (Jimmy Leinen, Tim Stagner, Ricky Montelongo and Juan Martinez) were close together but we need to get closer to Benny.

"At this time, the girls are at the top of our district and the boys are third. But there are five more meets before district and a lot of things can change in that time. We must really concentrate our efforts on running close together and near the front."

This week, the Hereford runners will host a cross-country at Veterans' Park beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday.

The Hereford JV dropped a 20-19 decision Saturday to Lubbock Monterey at Whiteface Stadium.

Britt Confer caught a 43-yard pass from Chad Schroeder and Aaron Savage kicked the extra point to give Hereford a 7-6 halftime lead.

In the third quarter, Jim Hillwig scored on a one-yard run set up by two catches good for first downs by tight ends Jonathan Haney and Aaron Burns.

In the fourth quarter, fullback Greg Urbanczyk broke a 67-yard run for the final touchdown for Hereford.

"Urbanczyk had a great game at fullback for us," said Coach Stan Carter. "He had 150 yards and averaged about 12 yards a carry.

"This was a hard loss for us, but we are getting better."

Friday, the Hereford JV will travel to Farwell to take on the Class 2A Steers in an 8 o'clock ballgame.

"I think we'll be better prepared for this game than we were against the Vega varsity," Carter said. "We're looking forward to it."

DON'T MAKE IT HAZARDOUS!
Electricity is indispensable in rural areas in the production of food and fiber. This varied use for power, however, demands a more strict observance of the rules of safety.
The member-owned rural electric cooperative urges you to follow the safety guidelines when dealing with electric power. If it's a grain auger, look up before you move on.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

AUSTIN – The so-called oil bust of 1986 led many Texans to talk about economic diversification and the need to end this state's reliance on energy as its primary economic force.

No one doubts the wisdom of such notions, so long as we don't ignore the energy industry in our efforts to reduce our dependence on it. Energy no longer can be the mainstay of our economy, but it always must be a key part of our economy. To turn our back on such a valuable natural resource would be nothing short of stupid.

That's why we're gratified to see so many prominent Texans focusing their attentions on how best to revitalize the energy sector. One of the best examples is Railroad Commissioner John Sharp's recent series of "natural gas summits", which brought together Texas natural gas producers with potential buyers from other states.

One of the summits was conducted in Amarillo last week and featured several California businessmen and legislators. Nothing substantive can come from a single meeting, of course, but negotiations represented an important step in the right direction.

Opening new markets may well be the single-most important thing we can do for our natural gas producers. Our natural gas reserves are vast; the Panhandle, for example, is home to the largest gas reservoir in the nation. Yet, the demand for this vast supply has been stagnant for years.

Finally, we are seeing new opportunities opening for us. Consumers, especially those in the Upper Midwest and Northeastern portions of the country, are anxious to bring our clean-burning natural gas to their parts of the country.

The reason for this desire is simple. Residents of the Northeast and Upper Midwest are having environmental problems, and they see natural gas as a big part of the solution.

Many of the power plants in our nothern states are fueled by high-sulfur coal (unlike plants in this part of the country that burn a much cleaner coal). Evidence is mounting that suggests the sulfur from that coal is the single biggest cause of the acid rain problems in the north.

Additionally, many scientists blame that same coal for the deterioration in the ozone layer that may be responsible for the so-called "greenhouse effect".

Whether high-sulfur coal is completely to blame for these problems, we can't say, but it is certain that many Northerners feel they need a new source of energy. Natural gas is emerging as the source of choice, and that presents an opportunity we Texans can't afford to ignore.

Of course, selling gas to our neighbors to the north doesn't solve all our energy problems. We've got to take additional initiatives at the state level, and encourage the same from the federal government.

Commissioner Sharp, for instance, has proposed reducing the severance tax rate on oil or gas produced from wells engaged in enhanced recovery projects. This might be a viable solution, if the enhanced recovery projects produce enough additional fuels to guarantee the state doesn't actually lose any severance tax revenue.

The Legislature also could encourage Congress to offer federal tax breaks for producers who engage in enhanced recovery projects. Also, state lawmakers need to educate their federal colleagues on the damage caused in Texas by oppressive federal tax laws like the alternative minimum tax rule and the transfer rule.

Even if all the above mentioned proposals take effect, the energy industry might not regain the glory it knew in the 1970s. It would stabilize, though, and take its proper place as an important part of a newly diversified Texas economy. And that stability, more than anything else, is what Texas needs right now.

If you have additional questions about improving the energy industry, or other issues, please contact ust at P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas, 78711.

Observing special week

Members of the Constitution Week Committee of Los Ciboleros Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution have been distributing posters throughout Hereford in conjunction with the observance of Constitution Week which concludes Friday. Displaying one of the posters are (at left) Bettie Dickson, administrator of Hereford Day Care Center, Inc.; Mildred Drake, Constitution Week Committee member; and day care children, Edward Villarreal, Stephanie Jesko and Erica Liscano. Hereford High School Key Club members will post the United States Flag Wednesday in honor of the observance and St. Anthony's Catholic Church and First United Methodist Church will be ringing their chimes at 4 p.m. that day in recognition of the signing of the Constitution. All Hereford residents are encouraged to display the flag and participate in a simultaneous ringing of bells Wednesday which is designated as Constitution Day.

Club meets for 'Mad Hatter's Party'

"The Mad Hatter's Party" was the theme of the La Madre Mia Study Club's first meeting of the new club year held recently in the home of Georgia Sparks.

Serving breakfast at the gala were members of the yearbook committee: Sparks (chairman), Judy Williams, Bettye Owen, Marlene Watson and Tricia Sims.

Individual tables and the home were decorated with hats from the 1940-1950 era. In conjunction with the party theme, members wore hats of their choice.

Following the meal, President Gladys Merritt conducted a business meeting. Nancy Paetzold read the club's constitution and after the resignation of a member was read, Barbara Manning was voted in as a new member.

The club members also voted to make a donation to the United Way of Deaf Smith County. This year's goal has been set at $123,500 and money received will help fund 12 local agencies.

Betty Taylor, chairman of the club's annual fundraising event, The Christmas Tour of Homes, made committee assignments for the tour. One outstanding Hereford home has already been acquired for the tour. Proceeds each year are used for various community projects and programs.

Members also voted to sponsor one of the monthly birthday parties at King's Manor Retirement Home. Merritt appointed Mary Herring as chairman and other members will assist.

After the business session, gifts were distributed from secret pals and names revealed.

The next club meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 29 in the home of Susan Robbins.

Those attending included Carolyn Baxter, Francyne Bromlow, Merle Clark, Herring, Sharon Hodges, Betty Lady, Merritt, Lavon Nieman, Owen, Paetzold, Robbins, Lucy Rogers, Sims, Mysedia Smith, Sparks, Taylor, Watson, Mary Beth White and Williams.

Club meets

The Bud to Blossom Garden Club met Thursday morning at the Community Center. Roll call was answered with goals each member would like for the club to accomplish this year.

President Wilma Bryan gave a report of the last club meeting which was a tour and lunch of Casa Del Sol (House of Sun) at Crosbyton. Members observed wildflowers and grasses around the solar home.

Plans were made for the upcoming club year. Members reported on their summer activities and various gardening projects undertaken. It was also decided to begin each club meeting with the Pledge of Allegiance.

Degree conferred

Sherry Shylene Strain of Hereford, was among some 2,900 candidates for undergraduate degrees at Southern Illinois University-Carbondale's summer commencement Aug. 6.

Degrees were conferred during exercises at the SIU Arena.
