POUND SLASH CREATES UNREST

Labor Party Faces Crisis In England

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Britain's labor government faced a political crisis in its own ranks today. Trade unions threatened to revolt against higher prices resulting from money devaluation.

Outside Britain, repercussions of the drastic slash in the British pound's value continued to jolt the world's markets. Belgium became the 22nd nation to cheapen its money by slicing the Belgian franc's value 12 per cent.

The threat of a British political crisis was raised by the general council of the Trades Union Congress, whose eight million members are the backbone of the ruling labor party.

The TCU council—instead of endorsing government policy as it has in the past-decided last night it "could not pass on the necessity of devaluation." It called for assurances from economic chief Sir Stafford Cripps that the government would make every effort to limit price rises which will be sure to come from cheaper money.

Labor Split Seen

Observers regarded the TCU reluctance to take a positive stand on devaluation as evidence of a split in labor's own ranks.

TUC leaders so far have backed the government's wage-freeze policy against heavy pressure from their rank and file members who have been demanding higher wages. Trades unionists expect the cheaper money to result in a rise

Problems Of Cold War Main Issues Before Assembly

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—Secretary of State Acheson today reaffirmed his belief that east-west differences can be ended peacefully, but warned that a solution will not be quick or easy.

In a solemn American policy speech before the United Nations assembly, Acheson promised the 59 national delegations the United States is ready to do its part. As expected, his tone was conciliatory.

His declaration blamed Russia for the "profound sense of insecurity" which he said has enveloped large areas of the world and has led to such steps as the formation of the North Atlantic alliance.

U. S. Support Pledged

It is the main task of the assembly, he said, to try to solve the problems which lay behind the cold war.

"I pledge for the United States unreserved support and devotion to a concerted effort to this end," he said.

Acheson made no direct appeal to Russia for a general settlement, but did call for Soviet cooperation on several specific problems such as the Balkin dispute and Korea.

Acheson said this session of the assembly, comes at a time when the main postwar adjustments have been completed and it is possible to see with more clarity what the real problems are.

Major Issues Listed

Some of them, he said, "are of a terrible seriousness."

He added:

"They are too deeply rooted, in many instances, to be rapidly overcome by persuasion or compromise or by isolated diplomatic gestures.

"Any people, becoming aware of the depth of these problems, despair of their solution by peaceful means. We have never shared this feeling, and we do not share it today."

He listed the major issues as the Balkan problem, Korea, Palestine, Italy's African colonies, economic development of backward areas, violations of human rights in Communist-dominated countries, atomic control and arms regulations.

Vishinsky To Speak

"In the charter," he said, "we pledged ourselves to settle our problems by peaceful means, and to build up conditions essential for peace. Disregarding these obli-

Curbs On Atom Bombs Pledged

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 21. — Top United Nations officials from around the world were told last night that the western powers never will use their advances in military weapons to attack or destroy any nation.

The pledge came from British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, who spoke at a dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

The dinner was given by the city of New York in honor of delegates here for the newly-convened fourth general assembly of the U. N.

Must Find Antidote

Bevin said the western nations are determined to take every step to avoid using the destructive powers of atomic energy. Rather, he said, "we must find an antidote to destruction by establishing confidence among the nations of the world."

"We shall take care now that no nations shall be under any delusions that they can get so advanced that they can use their advanced position to destroy the world," he said. "On the other hand, we shall never use our advances to destroy them."

The dinner was attended by 1,000 persons, including about 50 top-ranking U. N. delegates and other government dignitaries. Seventeen foreign ministers occupied the dias at the front of the room, before a backdrop of flags

Leaders Hold Session Here To Map Plans

Business Meeting To Be Continued During Afternoon

By H. I. KIEFER
Journal Staff Writer

Confidence that obstacles to the approval of the $85,000,000 Canadian river water project can be overcome prevailed here today among the men who have taken the lead in supporting it.

This feeling was evident from their expressions during the morning session of an all-day conference attended by representatives of 10 Panhandle and South Plains cities, officials of the U. S. Reclamation service and Col. E. V. Spence, of Austin, Texas interstate compact commissioner.

Luncheon Is Held

After a forenoon session in the directors' room of the chamber of commerce, those attending were guests of the chamber at a luncheon in the Hilton hotel. Business discussions were resumed in the Hilton after lunch.

Important among the matters scheduled for attention was the proposal that a permanent Canadian river water conservation authority be formed to supplant the temporary organization which has been functioning under the chairmanship of Clarence Whiteside, Lubbock city commissioner. Whiteside presided at the meeting today.

Participants in the meeting received reassurance as to two prospects over which they were disturbed.

Agreement Necessary

They were uneasy, they said, as to the prospects of obtaining an agreement upon an interstate compact between New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma providing for the division of any waters which may be impounded on the Canadian. It was agreed that congressional approval of the Canadian project, and the appropriations to build it, cannot be obtained until such a compact is signed.

Colonel Spence's views as to the compact prospects were optimistic. He acknowledged that several high New Mexico officials, including Senators Anderson and Chavez of that state, have declared they would oppose approval of the project until the rights of their state are fully protected.

But Colonel Spence said he is confident that this protection can be provided in an agreement which will be satisfactory to Texas and Oklahoma. Many details will have to be worked out, he acknowledged. But he believes that can be done.

There was some expressed un-

MAJOR BILLS ARE PENDING

Session Of House Is Resumed Today

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. — House members return today from a month's vacation, with enough unfinished business on hand to keep them here the rest of the year.

They probably won't stay that long. "Around November 1" is the target date of congressional leaders for final adjournment.

Despite messages sent to Democratic members last week by party leaders, the House doesn't plan to transact any major business this week. Party spokesmen explained that the recall messages merely were intended to assure the presence of a quorum, 217 members.

Solons Are Notified

Republicans followed through with messages to their own members reminding them that the recess that started on August 26 ends at noon today and that Democrats had been told to be on hand at that time.

While a dozen or more major bills are pending, appropriation bills furnishing almost $20,000,000,000 will have top priority. They finance the military establishment, the interior department, the foreign economic recovery program and some miscellaneous federal agencies.

Pending final congressional action, those agencies are being financed on a temporary basis until October 1.

Still another appropriation bill may be forthcoming to finance the foreign arms-aid program already passed by the House and now being debated by the Senate, which took no summer recess except for a long Labor day weekend. The bill under debate in the Senate carries no funds for the

Suicide Plan Is A Failure

HOUSTON, Sept. 21 (U.P.) — City detectives today related the story of Mrs. Harriet O. Potter, 25-year-old mother who tried to kill herself and her baby yesterday by filling their small apartment with gas fumes.

Mrs. Potter was still in critical condition at a hospital. Lying in a bed nearby was 3-year-old Larry, scarcely hurt at all when an explosion demolished the walls and ceiling of the 3-room backyard apartment.

Clothes In Flames

Neighbors pulled Mrs. Potter from the debris-littered yard, her clothes flaming. Little Larry was pinned in his crib, but strangely protected by the heavy wooden beams that toppled across him.

A scorched note on the charred kitchen table told part of the story.

"I sure do make a mess of everything. There doesn't seem much that I can do right. I give up," it read.

Mrs. Potter, her body almost covered with burns, told the rest of the drama from her hospital bed.

It was early yesterday morning, before dawn, when she decided she and Larry had too many troubles. She arose, turned on three gas jets full blast and lay down again for her "last sleep."

But she awoke, she told Detectives F. E. Melder and J. J. O'-

Hijackers Get $120 On 'Job'

The sheriff's department was asked at midmorning to investigate a reported hijacking here.

Jessie F. Lee phoned from 710 College Ave. and said he, a chief petty officer in the Navy, had accompanied two men and a woman "to the country" about 2 a. m. "in their car."

He told Chief Dep. Sheriff Eubank they had robbed him of his purse, which he said contained $120, his Navy identification card, his Navy diver's card, and pictures of his wife and children.

Suspects Described

Lee explained that he was at a cafe in 1100-block College Ave., when he met the three. He said when they left the cafe they drove four or five miles from Lubbock on the Slaton highway.

He described the men as about 5 feet 5 inches tall. One he said was about 160 pounds, blond and well dressed. The other was said to be dark and from 23 to 24 years old. The woman was described as a brunette, "chunky," about 140 pounds, and about 5 feet 3 inches tall.

Burglary Reported

Lee said the men told him they were going to Big Spring this morning.

Burglary of the Super Dog stand at 355 Ave. H was accompanied by theft and vandalism, Quentin Brooks, manager, said. Four cartons of cigarets, two boxes of gum and 60 pennies were taken. Intruders mixed drinks and poured syrup over the floor and fixtures, the police were told.

An $8.85 electric iron was re-

Hopes Bright For Averting Steel Strike

Plan Considered In Auto Industry Drawing Interest

(By The Associated Press)

President Truman asked a new six-day extension of the steel strike truce today.

He also requested that the steelworkers and companies resume collective bargaining on their own, with federal conciliators standing by in case of need.

Meanwhile, Cyrus S. Ching, chief government mediator, said

REQUEST ACCEPTED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP) — United States Steel Corp. today accepted President Truman's request for a new six day strike truce and agreed to bargain with the CIO steelworkers union.

he was "smiling and hopeful" about the possibility of averting a strike.

Plan Is Considered

Reports circulated that conciliators working on the case were eyeing an employer-paid pension plan considered in the auto industry.

Meanwhile, the nation's coal strike continued a third day.

With 480,000 United Mine workers idle, John L. Lewis turned to contract talks with northern and western operators. He told southern operators he wouldn't bargain with them until they pay up their royalty contributions to the miners' health and welfare fund.

Ford Talks Progress

In Detroit, the Ford Motor company and CIO United Auto workers were reported only a few cents apart in their intensified bargaining talks on an hourly pension-welfare-health plan to be paid for by the employer. Details of the plan were not made public.

A union source said Ford, faced with a Sept. 29 strike deadline, is offering Ford's 115,000 production workers a new contract in line with recommendations made by a presidential fact-finding board in the steel dispute.

In Washington, federal labor conciliators eyed the Ford offer and its possible effect on the CIO steelworkers dispute.

The conciliators are trying to avert a steel strike, set for 12:01 a. m. Sunday, which would involve 1,000,000 workers.

Furnaces Closed Down

Some steel companies started closing down furnaces because of the steel strike threat.

And the coal shutdown was cutting into the nation's available fuel supplies at the rate of 1,000,000 tons a day, and forcing layoff

Palsy Center Started Here

A ground breaking ceremony for the new $42,000 Lubbock Cerebral Palsy Treatment center was held today with Rotary club. Pres. Guy C. Victory turning the sod as Dr. H. I. Robinson delivered the dedicatory message.

The new building, to be located at Thirty-fifth and Ave. N, is the culmination of 18 months of planning under the sponsorship of the Lubbock Rotary club.

As Victory broke the ground, Dr. Robinson read the dedication, "We break this dirt for a building of which service above self is the chief cornerstone; for a building that shall stand as a symbol of the spirit of Rotary; for a building that exalts not a religion of creed or of authority, but a religion of social service inspired by spiritual motive; a building with an open door for all children, rich or poor who need the help that can be rendered within its walls."

History Given

He then led a prayer for the success of the new center.

Joe H. Bryant, in charge of the ceremony introduced the speakers, Dr. Bill Gordon, Dr. Edward Driscoll of Plainview, and Walter Posey.

Dr. Gordon spoke on the progress of the center, giving a history of its inception, and the work that it has been doing. Dr. Dris-

Shakedown Racket Charged In Probe

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21 — Charges of a former Hollywood actors agent that "hundreds of thousands of dollars" have been wrung from its victims by "a ring of prostitute extortionists" were on file today in superior court.

A transcript of the testimony of Paul R. Behrmann, 41, was filed yesterday by District Attorney William E. Simpson in support of a motion that the witness be declared in contempt of court for refusal to answer questions before the grand jury.

Work Under Cohen

His allegations that the extortion ring had shaken down numerous "innocent victims" were made in a memorandum which Behrmann identified as his own and which Simpson read to the grand jury.

"There exists now and has for some two or three years past a ring of prostitute extortionists who work under the direction of Mickey Cohen and who derive their immunity from arrests and prosecution from the police and the district attorney's office," it said.

Gambler Mickey Cohen, now on trial in municipal court on a charge of disturbing the peace by cursing police officers who called at his home recently, commented on the testimony:

"Utterly ridiculous, stupid and not worth answering. Anyone who knows me knows that I never mix in anything of that kind."

Names Refused

Asked by Simpson for the names of the prostitutes who operated the shakedown racket, Behrmann refused to answer. He declined also to name the "innocent victims" of their operations, declaring he had turned the information over to "the federal government and the governor's crime commission."

Simpson named several women, including Lila Leeds and Vicki

Cold Front Is Due For Area

The official arrival of autumn will coincide closely with the arrival of a new cold front on the South Plains, the weather man said today.

The fall season will begin officially at 3:06 o'clock Friday morning, records show.

Meanwhile, the cold air mass from the Rocky mountains had reached down as far as Spearman, Clayton, N. M., and Gauge, Okla.

To Arrive Late Today

Harold Frost, chief meteorologist at the Weather bureau station a Municipal airport, expected it to arrive over Lubbock late this afternoon or early tonight.

The "norther" will be accompanied by a 10-degree drop in temperatures and some cloudiness, but no extreme effects, Frost said. Two previous cool spells already have brought the South Plains and much of Texas a preview of what is in store for the next several weeks. Heavy rains accompanied both previous cool fronts.

This morning's minimum temperature of 61 degrees followed a maximum Tuesday of 82 degrees. The mercury was expected to climb to 85 or 87 degrees this afternoon before arrival of the cold front.

Panhandle-South Plains Fair officials, making last-minute preparations for the next week's six-day event at the fairgrounds, were keeping an anxious eye on weather prospects.

FIRES IN CALIFORNIA

WILLITS, Calif., Sept. 21 (AP)—Brush and timber fires, including one which for a time threatened homes on the edge of Ukiah, were burning over a wide area of northern California today.

The Weather

WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy this afternoon, tonight and Thursday. A few showers and cooler in Panhandle this afternoon and in Panhandle and South Plains tonight and Thursday.

EAST TEXAS — Partly cloudy this afternoon, tonight and Thursday. Showers near the coast this afternoon and tonight and in south east portion Thursday. A little cooler in extreme northwest portion late tonight and Thursday. Fresh to strong northeast winds on the coast.

Casing Being Run On Important Oil Test

SNYDER, Sept. 21. (AP)—Casing was being run today in the Castleman and O'Neil No. 1 H. C. Huckabee, called one of the most important oil tests in North Snyder field. The test has penetrated 657 feet down into the Canyon reef pay formation.

Operators of the oil test said they entered the Canyon reef formation at a 6,174 feet level, 500 feet higher than a nearby well. It is the highest test well on the formation in Scurry county. It is situated 467 feet from the north and west lines of the northeast quarter of section 160, Houston and Great Northern Railroad company survey.

Bodies Of Two Persons Are Discovered

Suspect In Torture-Murder Of Wealthy Man Is Sought

(By The Associated Press)

GATLINBURG, Tenn., Sept 21—Police said today they believe a wealthy tourist court operator was tied to a chair and tortured before he and his housekeeper were murdered at their home near here.

Seventy-year-old Charles Perry was found in the kitchen of his home yesterday, his throat slashed and a woman's slip knotted around his neck.

Sheriff J. Roy Whaley said Perry's body was slashed 13 times and that his wrists had rope burns. This indicated Perry had been tortured before his assailant slashed his throat, the sheriff theorized.

In the bedroom officers found the housekeeper, 43-year-old Miss Josie Law. She had been stabbed in the heart twice.

Whaley said he believed the murderer evidently tried to torture Perry in the hope he would tell where his money was hidden. The sheriff said Perry was worth a lot of money, "perhaps over $100,-

Puerto Ricans Given Hurricane Warnings

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 21 (U.P.) — Hurricane warnings were ordered up in Puerto Rico today.

The San Juan Weather bureau ordered up the red-and-black hurricane flags in "advisory no. 1" on a storm near the Virgin islands which was building up rapidly to hurricane force.

The advisory located the storm 100 miles southeast of St. Croix in the Virgin islands.

Winds near the center were 60 miles per hour and were "believed to be increasing rapidly in intensity," the advisory said.

Town Backs Claim As "Coldest Spot"

BONDURANT, Wyo., Sept. 21. (U.P.)—The claim by residents that this little village is the coldest spot in the United States had some verification today.

FOOD BRICKS INJECTED INTO BLOOD

People Unable To Eat Soon Can Get Steak Through Shot

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Staff Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 21—Sick people who can't eat will soon be able to get meals of steaks and milk by needle injections.

The shots will supply the chemical bricks from which other proteins are made. The food bricks will be shot into the blood, to be used exactly like food taken by mouth.

This needle feeding can save the lives of people near death from starvation, or who can't eat because of cancer of the stomach or diseases that interfere with normal digestion.

Cost Reduced

A little of this needle feeding has been tried already. But the cost is terrific and only a small amount of the food bricks have been made.

Today, Dr. Jesse P. Greenstein, biochemist of the National Cancer institute, announced a cheap, simple method of mass producing these protein bricks, called amino acids.

The new method can produce all eight of the amino acids which the human body must get in food, he told the American Chemical society.

It produces them in a safe, pure form that won't cause bad reactions or shock. It can make them by the pounds, instead of fractions of ounces as by present methods, he added.

One of these food bricks, methionine, has been selling at $6.50 a gram, which is 1-28th of an ounce, he said. The new method made it for 30 cents a gram. A human needs at least several grams a day. Similar savings can be made in making all the other essential food bricks, he reported.

Research Will Benefit

The new method will be made available to commercial producers, since the cancer institute doesn't have facilities to make the materials in amounts needed by hospitals and doctors.

Research will also benefit, Dr. Greenstein said. The different amino acids can be tested for their effect on growth and to learn how much each one is needed in health and sickness. They may also aid in chemical studies of cancer.

Dr. Greenstein headed a biochemistry team consisting of Drs. Vincent E. Price, Paul J. Fodor, James B. Gilbert, Alton Meister, and Carl Baker. The cancer institute is one of the research arms of the U. S. Public Health service.

The new process breaks proteins down into their component parts, by pre-digesting them. Each amino acid comes in two forms, slightly different and resembling each other like a pair of gloves. Only one form, the left glove of the pair, can be injected into the blood safely. The other may cause bad reactions.

Problems of getting just the on form, without impurities, were solved in developing the process, Dr. Greenstein explained.

More Than 200 Tech Students Seek Work

Over 200 Texas Technological students who have applied with the college for part-time work were still unemployed Tuesday, according to Troy Enis and Virginia Keehan, assistants to the deans of men and women.

Students trained or experienced for jobs ranging from soda fountains to dairy barns are included in those still looking for work. The number is about evenly divided between men and women students.

"We have applicants that can fill almost any part-time position which may be open," Enis declared. He added that there are about three applicants for each job available.

Include Numerous Jobs

Students are seeking work baby sitting, jerking sodas, washing cars, driving busses, typing, bookkeeping, and even doing such specialized work as architectural drawing. Some of them want semi-professional jobs while others "just want work in order to stay in school."

The employment service was originally set up as a clearing house between businessmen who needed helpers and students who needed work. Enis disclosed that he placed or kept a record of 735 male students who worked on the side last spring. Average earnings was 74 cents per hour.

Employers may contact the employment service by phoning the college and asking for either Enis or Miss Keehan, depending upon whether they want male or female help.

Radioactive Calcium Used To Test Soaps

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 21. (AP)—Atomic energy is trying to make it easier to wash dishes and clothes.

Radioactive calcium made at Oak Ridge, Tenn., is doing some snooping to aid housewives this way, Dr. Joseph M. Lambert, of the General Aniline and Film Corp., Easton, Pa., reported today.

The radioactive atoms make it possible to trace how effective various soaps or detergents are, he said.

One task is to learn how much they penetrate into ingrained dirt or prespiration stains on clothing. It is calcium that makes water hard, and the washing job tougher.

Future Of Colony Of Cyrenaica Poses Ticklish Issue For UN

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

One of the ticklish problems with which the United Nations will have to deal in the immediate future is whether to continue the limited self-rule which has been tentatively established by the British in the former Italian Mediterranean colony of Cyrenaica.

This new government was inaugurated Sept. 16 by Britain as military occupation authority—apparently pursuing a course somewhat similar to that of the western powers in the matter of the German government at Bonn. The Cyrenaica regime is headed by Emir Sayid Mohammed Idris El Senussi, the princely personage who long has been both religious and temporal leader of his people. The Grand Senussi, as he generally is called, has been given direction of internal affairs, while Britain retains full control of defense and all external matters.

Move Is Criticized

There is a disposition in some U. N. quarters to criticise Britain for making such a positive move in advance of assembly consideration. The decision about Cyrenaica and the other Italian colonies, by the way, is the only legislative action which the assembly thus far has been authorized to make. Power to decide this important issue was conferred by the Italian peace treaty.

Of course, despite any argument over the timing of the event, it long has been expected that Cyrenaica (Mussolini's prize colonial development) would be turned over to the Senussi, who are a Moslem sect of Arabs. Britain promised them during the war that they never again would be returned to Italian rule. Moreover it was generally believed that the Grand Senussi would be ruler.

Britain's chief interest in Cyrenaica—and it is shared by America—is that this ex-colony is an important military base, dominating the main shipping route through the Mediterranean. The harbor of Tobruk—of evil war memoriesh—and the big island of Crete to the north, form a saddle right across the Mediterranean life-line from the strait of Gibraltar to the Suez canal.

Visited In Area

Back in 1942, when Montgomery had just driven Marshal Rommel out of Cyrenaica, I spent some time in that area and later was given the opportunity of meeting the Grand Senussi in Cairo. The prince had raised Arab troops during the early part of the war to fight the Italians, but at the time of my visit he was living in closely guarded seclusion in the Egyptian capital.

I was guided to him by two of his trusted lieutenants and had a long talk with him about his hopes. He certainly expected that Cyrenaica would be returned to his people and, while he expressed no personal ambitions, I had no doubt that he believed he would be their head.

The 61-year-old prince is all that the most romantic could wish an Arab shiek to be. He is tall, slim and handsome, with the customary beard and mustache. He reputedly is rich. Moreover he is a fine horseman, a fierce fighter and an inspiring leader. But, he is far more than that, for he is highly cultured man whose life has been devoted to his people.

Evicted By Italians

That name "Senussi," by the way, isn't the designation of a race or tribe. It properly refers to the religious sect or its followers. You and I could be Senussi if we adopted that faith—an order which subscribes to the simplicity of early Mohammedanism. The prince is a grandson of the founder of this Senussi sect.

There must be great rejoicing in Cyrenaica at this promise of independence. These simple folk, who had tilled the soil on the coast since the days when Cleopatra used to spend holidays there, were brutally evicted from their farms by Mussolini, who proceeded to settle Italian colonists on the land. Many of the Senussi died of terrible privation in the desert.

The survivors swarmed back to their farms, however, while the tracks of Rommel's retreat still were fresh. The Italian colonists fled with the German troops, and I found Senussi farmers again working their beloved soil within sight of the huge signs "Il Duce," which were painted across the front of all colonial farm houses.

MEET THE MANAGER—Ed White, manager of Dr. Wright's Foot Health shop, was born at Joliet, Ill., July 7, 1899. However, his family moved to St. Louis, Mo., and he was reared there. In 1923 he came to Texas and has been here ever since in various aspects of the shoe business, either selling, wholesale or retail, or manufacturing. He was in San Antonio in the shoe business for some years, then in Waco for 10 years, coming from there to Lubbock in June of this year. His hobby is baseball. He is a member of St. Elizabeth's Catholic church and Knights of Columbus. A widower, Mr. White has a 14-year-old daughter, Patricia. They live at 2317 Sixth street. (Staff photo.)

Alabama Klan Leader Freed

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 21. (AP)—Alabama klan leader William Hugh Morris has been released from the jail cell he has occupied for 67 days.

Morris got out of jail yesterday on a ruling by Circuit Judge Robert J. Wheeler that the 44-year-old roofing contractor had cleared himself of a contempt of court citation.

Refused List At First

He was committed July 7 for refusing to produce secret records of the white-robed order for a grand jury. The jury later indicated 18 men on flogging and related charges.

Morris gave a partial list to a new grand jury Monday. This list, which Morris said he compiled from memory, contained 28 names. The names were not disclosed.

The portly klan chief originally refused to give up the list, saying he would "let the jail rot down around me" before revealing the membership roster. Later he contended the official list was stolen from his home the night of July 20.

Alabama Coal Stock Adequate For Month

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 21 (AP)—The threatened nation-wide coal strike is expected to have little immediate effect on Birmingham industry.

Industrial sources said stockpiles in the district are sufficient to keep iron and steel production up for about a month.

Retail coal yards also reported they were in pretty fair shape. One dealer, however, said the domestic supplies could be "depleted by a scare."

Several hundred railroad men already have been furloughed in the district. Frisco lines announced 35 to 40 trainmen were being laid off on coal runs. Louisville and Nashville railroad announced previously about 200 men were furloughed. Most of the L. & N. employes laid off were shopmen.

Alabama's 200,000 union miners have joined in the nation-wide walkout.

Radio licenses costing $2,672 were bought at Newbury, England, after a "detector van" arrived.

Luncheons, Tea And Review Given In City Tuesday

The fall club season was opened for a number of study clubs Tuesday afternoon.

Other early week events included a tea given at the Lubbock Country club and a party for Miss Betty Jenkins, a bride-elect.

DALLAS GUEST IS REVIEWER AT TEA

Mrs. H. Fehleison presented Mrs. Charles White of Dallas in a review of Sterling North's book, "So Dear To My Heart," at a tea at the Lubbock Country club.

The reviewer was introduced by Mrs. N. B. Womble, a long time friend.

Assisting in hospitalities were Mesdames H. W. Stanton, Walker Stanton, Walter Stanton, W. T. Gaston, Arch Underwood, Harris Underwood, Raymond Shook, Lawrence Bacon, Wayne Prather, Jack Henry, Ira B. Taylor, Royce Fulton, Aubrey Tapp, J. H. Stiles and Cliff Dean.

The refreshment table was centered with yellow roses and lighted with green tapers.

MOTHER, DAUGHTER GIVE COKE PARTY

Mrs. Clarence Davis and her daughter, Mrs. John McLarty, entertained for Miss Betty Jenkins Tuesday afternoon in the Davis home, 2629 Twentieth, with a coke party.

Miss Jenkins and Dean Allam are to be married Thursday, Oct. 13. This was the second of a series of parties planned in her honor.

The marigolds and gladioli used to decorate carried out the bride-elect's chosen colors, yellow and green. She was presented a gift of crystal by the hostesses.

GUEST SPEAKS FOR GARDEN STUDY CLUB

Mrs. Grady Knight, a guest of Garden Study club Tuesday morning at a coffee, spoke on "Bulbs." The party and program were held in the home of Mrs. Reginald Rushing at 2905 Twenty-first. Mrs. W. A. Pettey was program leader.

Hostesses with Mrs. Rushing were Mrs. T. C. Ingram and Mrs. Pettey.

Attending were Mesdames W. T. Bradbury, W. M. Cauley, A. E. Dietering, M. W. Ewing, Aubrey Faulkner, R. H. Fulton, P. T. Glazner, Jack Griggs, Roy Grimes, C. J. Hollingsworth, Marshall Howard, Ingram, M. D. Lakey, J. W. Mallory, W. H. Melton, Pettey, D. B. Pope, jr., C. W. Ratliff, Rushing, Preston Smith and Alfred Crosby.

LUNCHEON HELD AT KATTMANN'S

The luncheon which opened the season for Lubbock Study club was held at Kattmann's Tuesday with the following attending:

Mesdames Harvey Austin, W. G. Alderson, John Duncan, L. L. Kelso, W. Howard Logan, Lewis Mills, Charles A. Ross, Lindsey Thompson and Agnew Wyatt.

A business session was conducted.

OCTOBER MEETING SCHEDULED BY CLUB

The social committee, composed of Mesdames O. A. Woody, Ben Eskridge, C. V. Sandlin, E. H. Armstrong and G. E. Dawson, was the hostess group at Sunshine Study club's luncheon Tuesday at Mrs. J. E. Hartley's, 1920 Thirty-first.

Mrs. Clyde Tatum presided for business and plans were made to meet Oct. 4 at 3:30 p. m. with Mrs. W. H. Chappell for a book review by Mrs. Joe Cobb.

Others at the luncheon were Mesdames J. H. Brock, Lewis Kittrell, A. D. Montgomery, C. W. Bartlett, J. T. Langford, Joe Baldridge, Chappell, E. B. McNeill, H. D. Delaney and J. D. Gammill. Guests were Mrs. H. L. Magee of Pecos and Mrs. Cobb.

Women's Council Has Voted To Disband; May Join AAUW

Tech Council of Women Graduates, at a recent luncheon meeting voted to disband as a group so that eligible graduates might become members of Lubbock branch, American Association of University Women.

The AAUW branch has extended a blanket invitation to the Tech women to a tea Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Hilton hotel ballroom. Graduates eligible to attend are those with A. B., B. S., B. S. in education, B. S. in home economics, and B.B.A. degrees and masters degrees in those mentioned.

Chairmen of various groups of the AAUW branch will explain their programs at the tea. Plans are being discussed at present to organize a new group composed of Tech graduates.

Mesdames Harvey Turnbough, Richard Sheehan, O. V. Adams, R. P. Miller, J. D. Saddler, Miss Mabel Erwin and Miss Martha Graves are taking reservations for the tea.

Advice From Mary Haworth

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I would like to obtain your viewpoint on petting. This has long been a problem to me. Some girls do; some girls never do. Is it really wrong? I am in my middle twenties and still wonder.

My upbringing has not been what you would call actually strict; and yet it has been drilled into me that any caressing below the shoulder is "taboo."

I am a perfectly normal girl with the usual desires and emotions and a high degree of intelligence. I am on the affectionate side, and I am not unattractive. The fellows I've dated all classify me as the "sweet" type; and because of this I seldom have any real difficulty in upholding my standards.

DOES PETTING LOSE THE MAN?

OF course we all agree it's wrong to allow liberties to every suitor; one must use discretion. But is it wholly wrong to allow petting if you like someone very much and he reciprocates the feeling? It doesn't necessarily mean you lose the man, does it? Isn't it possible rather to lose a man through refusal?

Marriage is the hope of most girls my age, and I can't help but believe that chances can be spoiled by being "too good." Incidentally, when I say "petting" I mean just that, nothing more.

Please don't give the obvious answer of making light of such questions or laughing them off. Petting situations are easily avoided, so that isn't the problem. My question is, should they always be avoided? I am earnestly awaiting your reply.

(Signed) E. B.

WE MAY AS WELL USE PLAIN WORDS

DEAR E. B.: We may as well call a spade a spade. What is petting but playing with passion; playing with fire, in other words; and playing with fire is apt to be dangerous, as everyone your age ought to know.

In all "civilized" social history prior to present times, the kind of thing you are asking about was the courtesan's specialty, her "come-on" in the pirate's game by which she made her living; and she bade goodbye to respectability, sensitivity of feeling, hope of experiencing sanctified love, etc., when she embarked upon that course of action.

Today the girl who pets isn't classed as a courtesan type, of course, unless she patently has no morals and no restraint; and it may be true that many misguided, love-hungry but withal essentially "nice" girls pet, either as a bid for affection, or because they think it's expected on a date, or because they count it a helpful approach to being popular or catching a husband.

THE LIBERAL "PET" IS ALWAYS LABELED

EVEN so I believe it is an incontrovertible fact that every girl who pets (except only with her fiance immediately prior to marriage), gets talked about because of it in her own community or circle of associates. That is, if she is ardently or accomodatingly "susceptible" to that type of behavior in relation to any date who "appeals" to her.

And who is it—which sex, I mean—that lets the cat out of the bag about her "obliging" inclinations? Occasionally it may be a gossipy girl, reporting the details of double-dating activities; but more often it is the man, or men, with whom she pets, who launch informative innuendos about the sort of date-partner she is. And the implication of their smug or smiling indulgent references to her charms doesn't breathe respect for her,—that is, if they sense she's no novice at the game.

Also I believe it's a fact that young married men are more censorious, unconsciously, more severe in their instinctive 'judgment" of a girl who pets liberally, than a man emotionally seasoned by marriage ever is. Thus if your most earnest ambition is to spark some lad's desire to marry you, I'd advise against "petting" as a supposed self-help device.

(Signed) M. H.

FROM ABROAD

James Pinson, Lubbockite who is touring Europe for the summer and fall writes from Pyla, France, that he is really enjoying the mountain drives through the country. A few paragraphs from a recent letter received from him read:

"There are a few drives that make you feel as if you are climbing almost straight up. One of these climbs is just out of Grenobler, where you first actually enter the Alps. However, these French cars can do a lot more than I had ever given them credit for, so mountain climbing isn't as difficult as I had imagined it would be.

"The drive through the area around Grasse, where so much perfume is made, is really something to see, as well as smell. The first valley we entered had lavender growing. (This is quite a popular fragrance here in France.) It made me feel as though there were thousands of bottles of Yardley's lavender perfume opened and hidden in the fields.

"Cannes and Juan Les Pin were the places I enjoyed most on the Riviera. To me they were the towns that had that slightly fabulous atmosphere which is characteristic of the Riviera. Nice and Monte Carlo are interesting, but their rock beaches did not appeal to me.

"In Cannes they were having the International Film festival while I was there. The movie industries of the world had almost taken over the town. You never knew who of fame in the movie world you would see on the street, or who would be sitting next to you in a restaurant."

Verdict In Tokyo Rose Trial Possible Before End Of Week

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The longest treason trial in the history of the United States is expected to conclude this week when jurors debate the fate of Mrs. Iva Toguri D'Aquino, charged as the wartime Tokyo Rose. The following dispatch summarises the long proceedings).

By DAVID J. LEONARD
United Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21 — Tokyo Rose may learn before the week is over whether she committed treason with her broadcasts to U. S. troops.

Defense and prosecution lawyers had almost run out of witnesses, evidence and words after 53 days of trial and a bulky transcript which ran about 6,000 pages or more than 1,500,000 words.

It was likely that the jury of six men and six women would get a chance to vote on the guilt or innocence of slim, dark-haired Mrs. Iva Toguri D'Aquino by Friday night.

To Complete Summary

The prosecution summarized its case yesterday and the defense was scheduled to complete its summary today.

The 33-year-old University of California graduate was remarkably calm during her 11-week ordeal in court. Only twice—while undergoing a rigorous cross-examination by Prosecutor Tom Dewolfe—did Tokyo Rose lose her Oriental stoicism.

Then she buried her head in her hands and sobbed.

All of the evidence was in. Only Judge Michall J. Roche's instructions to the jury stood in the way of the climax to the strange story of Tokyo Rose.

On almost every major point, the defense and prosecution were in complete disagreement. Both sides conceded that Mrs. D'Aquino went to Japan from Los Angeles shortly before Pearl Harbor to "visit relatives."

Caught By War

Opposing counsel agreed she was caught by the war and stayed in Tokyo for the duration and that she worked for Radio Tokyo as an announcer on "Zero Hour," an English-language program of jazz and a slangy commentary beamed to Allied troops in the Pacific.

But there, agreement between the government and defense attorney Wayne M. Collins ended—and the jury will have two distintly opposite stories to choose from.

The government claimed that Mrs. D'Aquino committed eight "overt acts" against the U. S. It asserted that she and other Radio Tokyo employees mapped a deliberate propaganda program designed to lower GI's morale; that she bradcast such statements "now your troop ships have been sunk, how are you going to get home?" and tantalized sweating soldiers in the hot Pacific jungles by reminding them of ice cream sodas, cold beer and "best of all—a long, cold drink of water."

The prosecution produced 51 witnesses. Many were Japanese officials and employees of Radio Tokyo. Some were American troops who listened to the Zero Hour broadcast. Others were FBI agents, army intelligence officers and newspaper correspondents.

The defense claimed that Mrs. D'Aquino was in a secret alliance with three Allied prisoners of war, who wrote the Zero Hour scripts to aid the Allied war effort and help other prisoners.

Collins produced 25 witnesses and 19 lengthy depositions to support his contention that Mrs. D'Aquino was only one of many women broadcasters who used the sobriquet "Tokyo Rose;" that she never broadcast any of the specific propaganda barbs named in the indictment; that she took food, medicine, tobacco and reading materials to Allied prisoners at great personal risk; that she was forced to broadcast because of "mental torture" from Japanese army officers and secret police.

Moreover, Collins claimed that Mrs. D'Aquino was a Portuguese citizen by virtue of her marriage to Felipe D'Aquino, acitizen of Portugal whom she married during the war.

From these conflicting claims, the jury of five housewives, a stenographer, a bookkeeper, accountant, plasterer, clerk and retired executives will decide her guilt or innocence.

Housing Needed For Approximately 400 Air Force Families

The gigantic task of finding homes for 800 Air Force families, including a total of 263 children, is approximately half accomplished, Lt. Reed T. Peters, off-base housing officer at Lubbock Air Force Base said today.

Two hundred thirty-one noncoms and their families are now living in quarters on the base and single men are housed in the barracks, along with the men who are now separated from their families.

Listings Are Received

"Many Lubbock citizens are cooperating in trying to find homes for these families," Peter said. "The housing office receives new listings each day but so far the supply has not kept pace with the demand. We are hoping that housing projects now under construction and under consideration will alleviate the situatior. for personnel arriving later, but meanwhile homes must be found for the families of men already here.

"We are still urging people who have rental house, apartments or rooms with kitchen privileges to list them with us."

The housing office telephone is No. 3-1951, extension 144. Calls will be taken day or night.

Lamb County Holds Suspect For Crosby

R. W. Stricklin, about 22, was held in Littlefield this afternoon for Crosby county, which wants to question him in connection with a check case, it was learned here a few minutes after a charge of theft by bailee of a 1949 heavy automobile had been filed against the man in the court of D. W. Robertson in Lubbock.

Robertson, justice of peace, said the complainant was B. J. Reynolds, who swore Stricklin had borrowed the car to "make some dalls" on farmers living on the Idalou highway. The complaint was filed by A. W. Salyars, assistant district attorney.

Officials at Lorenzo had informed the sheriff's department late Tuesday that a man answering Stricklin's description had passed a $20 check there at a cafe, using the name of Bob Strickland.

A deputy sheriff in Littlefield advised the sheriff's department here of the arrest. The car had no license plates on it, the informant, Deputy Cotton, said.

The suspect is a magazine salesman, the sheriff's office here said it had been informed.

Five-Buck Board Is In Operation At Lubbock Store

Followers of "Freckles and His Friends" on the comic page of the Evening Journal would be interested to know that a Lubbock version of the "buck board" has been in use in Lubbock for about three weeks.

Harold Alschuler, who operates Alschuler's Campus Toggery at 2422 Broadway, has a "five-buck board" for the benefit of Texas Tech students.

Repayment In Week

He has placed $75 in $5 bills on a board with clips and cards, and students may come in and borrow $5 by signing the card and turning the signature face down on the board. They are asked to repay it in a week.

The poster says: "Funds low? Need dough? Take $5, no interest, no questions, return in one week's time so that another student may be helped. Just sign attached card and face to rear."

So far only four students have taken advantage of the plan to borrow five dollars. Total losses to date: None.

Osteopaths Hear Law Explanation

"The new basic science law will in no way affect the osteopathic profession or any other school of medical practice that meets the high standards of medical education," Dr. Phil Russell of Fort Worth, executive secretary of the Texas Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, declared in a meeting of the South Plains Society of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons at the Hilton hotel Tuesday night.

"If properly and fairly administered, the basic science law would be another safeguard for Texas public health," he said. "The new law regarding premarital seriological examination; and pre-natal seriological examination, and other laws of particular benefit to the public of Texas have the support of the osteopathic profession."

In this regard, he explained particularly the ever-increasing standards for osteopathic hospitals, as set up by the Bureau of Hospitals of the American Osteopathic association and reviewed the recognition granted the osteopathic physician in relation to the Army, Navy, Veterans administration, U. S. Public Health Service, Civil Service and other agencies.

Decomposed Body Of Man Found By Police

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 21. (U.P.)—A grieving widow kept the body of her husband in the bed where he died at their home for fourth months, police said today.

When officials burst in yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Veith, they found Veith's decomposed body. His widow, Emma, 56, was sitting beside the corpse.

"Everything will be all right—the Lord will take care of everything," she said.

Farmers To Be Advised On Bond-Posting For Cotton Pickers By Federal Official

An agent of the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization service will be in Lubbock Thursday and Friday to assist South Plains cotton farmers in posting bonds to obtain pickers from Mexico.

This notification was received by the chamber of commerce this morning from A. S. Hudson, immigration official in El Paso.

The telegram read:

"Ralph Reed, of the Immigration and Naturalization service, will be in Lubbock Thursday and Friday at the office of the service, 1306½ Broadway, to start a program for farmers in posting bonds for importation or retention of agricultural workers.

"Employers may post bonds with negotiable treasury coupon bonds not assigned, or through approval surety companies.

"The posting of bonds will be no assurance that individual employers will be able to obtain the workers, as the contracting of the workers must be approved by the U. E. Employment service and a representative of the Mexican government. This should be made clear to employers.

"After bond is posted, this service notifies the U. S. Employment service, which notifies the employers when and where to appear for the actual contracting.

"It should be understood by all employers that approval from the Mexican government for individual employers must be obtained by the U. S. Employment service before notification will be given to the employer to recruit."

The development was the latest of a series in a cooperative effort to simplify and reduce the cost of obtaining labor from Mexico to pick cotton on the South Plains.

Chamber officials said the assignment of the immigration service agent to the South Plains will save much time and thousands of dollars in traveling expenses for farmers who now must go to El Paso to post the bonds required to obtain the Mexican labor.

Collie, Owned By Austin Man, Is Winner In All-Breed Show

An 80-pound tri-colored Collie took top honor in the first annual All-Breed Dog show at Lubbock Municipal airport Tuesday night and shortly afterward was surrounded by a throng of children and adults as the show came to an end.

"A bang-up show" was the description given by Mrs. Emma Loest of Kansas City, superintendent of the show.

Entries Exceed Expectations

Handlers came from across the nation to bring some of the most famous animals in dogdom to the show here and the show held in Amarillo Sunday. Entries have exceeded expectations in other shows to be conducted this week in the new West Texas circuit, said Mrs. Loest. Shows will be held in Odessa, Thursday; San Angelo, Saturday, and Abilene, Sunday, and many of the dogs shown here will be exhibited.

"It was a wonderful success," said W. C. Boyd, president of the Heart of the Plains Kennel club, which sponsored the all-breed show held Tuesday from 8 a.m. until selection of the best in show about 10:30 p. m.

Champion Carrico's Clipper, a brown, black and white Collie, owned and shown by Louis Carrico of Austin, was named best in show after the best in each of six groups were shown in the ring.

Boyd estimated that 1,000 to 1,200 persons saw the show Tuesday night. Others had attended during the day.

Other dogs judged for best in show after winning first place in their respective groups were:

Hound breeds—Champion Canyon Crest How About It, greyhound owned by Canyon Crest Kennels of Beverly Hills, Calif.

Working breeds — Champion Warrington Florate of Ar-For, wirehaired Fox Terrier owned by Rev. Joseph P. O'Sullivan of Houston.

Non-sporting breeds — Blakeen April Shower, miniature Poodle owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Pringle of Bovina.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Paschall gave a Sunray trophy for best in show and the presentation was made by Paschall.

Heart of the Plains Kennel club gave $50 cash and Perry's Flowers gave a $15 floral basket for best dog in show. Heart of the Plains Kennel club gave a rosette for the best American bred dog in show.

Other prizes included Sunray trophy, given by Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Rogers for best in sporting breeds, presented by Mrs. W. C. Boyd; Sunray trophy given by Animal hospital for best in hound breeds, presented by Mrs. Paschall; Sunray trophy given by Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Turley for best in working breeds, presented by Miss Carol Cobb; Sunray trophy given by Mr. and Mrs. Leete Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Leete Jackson, jr., for best in terrier breeds, presented by Mrs. Jackson, sr., Sunray trophy given by Southwestern Public Service for best in toy breeds, presented by Mrs. L. O. Sparks; Sunray trophy for best in non-sporting breeds, presented by Mrs. H. A. Allen; $10 in cash given by Heart of the Plains Kennel club for best in each of the six groups.

Lubbock Youngster Wins

Phillip Paschall, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Paschall, of Lubbock, won first place in the 10 to 16 years age group Tuesday night in the Children's Handling class. He showed Coleta's Little Sir Echo, owned by the Paschall family.

James Adams, jr., of Dallas won first in the 6 to 10 years age group, with Sharon Lynn Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Butler of 3010 Twenty-sixth in Lubbock, winning second place.

Crowd during the Children's Handling class and later judging was by far the largest during the day. Many persons stayed during the entire evening and others attended portions of the show.

Chris Shuttleworth of Sun Valley, Calif., and J. H. Johnson of Denver, Colo., judged dogs and T. A. Ayers of Odessa judged the Children's Handling class, in which judging was based on ability of the children to handle the dogs and not on quality of dogs.

Best in breed awards, with the owners name and address and dog's name listed, were:

SPORTING BREEDS

Pointers—Mark M. Bryant, Montgomeryville, Pa; Champion, Bryant's Moses.

Pointers (German short-haired)—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nussbaum, Salt Lake City; champion Flash von Windhausen.

Retrievers, (Labrador) — James A. Mohon, Roswell, N. M.; Pecos River Jackie.

Setters, (Orish) — Oscar and Odeta Swanson, Oceanside, Calif.; Thenderin Akimbo.

Spaniels, (Brittany) — R. J. Cramer, Lubbock; Cramer's Duke of Paradise.

Spaniels, (Cocker), Black—Simie Atler, Denver; Champion Heather's Mr. Chips.

Spaniels (Cocker), any solid color other than black—Helen Van Zalzah Considine, Bartlett, Ill.; Ch. Van Valzah's Cinnamon Bear.

IN HOLLYWOOD: BY ERSKINE JOHNSON

Actors Ask For New Deal On Income Tax; All Going Broke

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 21 (NEA)—Dana Andrews joins in the Hollywood chorus for a new deal on income taxes for actors, who can earn $250,000 one year, $10,000 the next and be washed up six months later.

Johnson

He told me:

"It took me nine years to become a star. I've been making a big salary for 10 years but if I had to quit acting today I couldn't afford to send my kids to college. I've been paying about 83 per cent income tax. One year I saved $20,000. My lawyer said,

"'How did you do it?' he was amazed.

"I haven't saved that much since and I think I spend less than any actor in Hollywood."

Hollywood's theory, a sound one, is that income taxes should be pro-rated over a seven-year period, the accepted "life" of a star.

Spike Jones and his musical depreciation crew are ready for television.

But is television ready?

"Not yet," said Spike. "I'll wait until I can put on a TV screen what I now put on the stage. Probably on film. Maybe in six months, maybe it will take a year."

But the red-head was bubbling about the new medium, which he figures in his dish. All those noises he puts on records and on the air can become visual gags, too.

Right In Tune

"Can't you just see us in an old beat-up automobile doing an imitation of the Ink Spots? Then the engine explodes and the fenders fall off in tempo?"

Spike has writers and an ex-film director working on TV routines, which are being filed away along with the necessary props and even camera setups. There's a Foreign Legion number—"We Can't Remember What We're Trying to Forget," and four new numbers he'll use on his fall tour—"Wild Bill Hiccup," the "Un-Original Amateur Hour," "Goose to the Ballet Roose," and "The Safecracker Suite."

"But we've got a problem." Spike said. "A closeup of a quartet looks good on a TV screen. The four heads come over fine. But with us its four guys and Eight heads."

Fox will do a sequel to "Letter to Three Wives" under the title, "Here's Addie." Addie was the gal always talked about but never seen . . . Joan Blondell and her little daughter, Ellen, want to do a stage play together . . . Telling about his trial, Bob Mitchum leads off with, "Well, the judge was sitting stage right and I came in stage left."

Here's the topper to all those gags about Bob Hope and Bing Crosby and their ad libbing before the cameras. They pulled this one on Don Hartman when he was writing their "road" pictures.

Hartman was called to the set to make a minor scene change and Bob and Bing ad libbed a five-minute scene complete with lights and camera. When Hartman screamed that the scene had nothing to do with the story and would ruin the picture, they confessed to the gag.

Hartman said he picked the locales for the "Road" films by throwing a piece of chewing gum at a map. "I can't remember," he said, "whether we ran out of chewing gum or maps."

The King Brothers will do a film story about Scotland Yard in England . . . Mel Ferrer's comedy performances in "Bed of Roses" has RKO calling for more. Mel started as a director but his career took a new turn following his acting in "Lost Boundaries." . . . Glad to see Jimmy McHugh being honored with a civic award for his successful four-year drive to make Los Angeles the swim center of the U. S. . . . Singer Fran Gregory has a date in Paris in September to renew that romance with ice-skating star Bobby Specht.

Luther Adler was knocked flat by Frank Lovejoy for a scene in "East of Java" and someone kidded him about the decline of a champ. Adler created the role of Golden Boy. "At Hollywood prices," cracked Adler, "I'm willing to take a dive."

An actress, Leo De Lyon reports, was being bawled out by the director for not showing enough emotion. "Feel it—feel it," he shouted. "But I do feel it inside," she protested.

"Well," said the director, "feel it outside too. This is a camera—not an X-ray machine."

Chipper Charlie's Death Thins Ranks Of "Boys In Blue"

LONG BEACH, Calif., Sept. 21. (INS)—The ranks of the "boys in blue" grew thinner today with the death of Charles L. Chappel, 102-year-old veteran of the Civil war.

Chappel, one of a handful of veterans who attended the Grand Army of the Republic's final encampment at Indianapolis last month, died at Long Beach naval hospital following a heart attack.

The former private of the Tenth New York volunteer infantry flew to the G.A.R. gathering at Indianapolis despite injuries suffered when he fell from a peach tree in the back yard of his home several weeks earlier.

Chappel was senior vice-commander of the veterans group and for the past six years had headed Stanton Post No. 55.

"Chipper Charlie," as he was fondly known to his Long Beach friends, was a familiar figure in the area. He frequently piloted his three-wheeled electric car at "breakneck" speed through heavy city traffic.

He loved to wear his blue uniform on special occasions. Normally bent with age, when he donned the uniform he became stiff and erect and proud.

The old soldier, who had lived at Long Beach for 34 years, failed to see his greatest wish come true. He had wanted to be grand commander of the G.A.R., but at the last encampment the few remaining members voted against holding another gathering.

But Chappel's feelings were soothed, while he was allowed to wield the gavel for 15 minutes before the Grand Army of the Republic disbanded forever.

He is survived in southern California by only two survivors of the war between the states. They are William Magee, 103, and Douglas Story, 104, both bed-ridden.

Gala House Opening Staged In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 21 (AP)—They finally got around to opening a new dog house with typical Hollywood fanfare. Even the mayor, the California attorney general, chief of police and sheriff turned out.

Earl Gilmore, owner of oil refineries, a midget auto racing stadium and an athletic field, was host at the affair last night.

Mayor Fletcher Bowron snipped a ribbon officially opening the new home of Gilmore's recently acquired scotch terrier, as the assembled dignitaries looked on. Afterward they all enjoyed a buffet dinner.

The scottie took it all very calmly. Gilmore paid the bills.

Film Hero Died After Violent Battle Against Heart Disease

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21 (AP)—A doctor described today how Richard Dix, square jawed two-fisted hero of 218 motion pictures, remained a fighter to the end.

Dix, who for 2' years personified the virile outdoorsman in daring stage and screen exploits, died of a chronic heart ailment yesterday in a Hollywood hospital. He was 54.

Dr. George O. Berg, who was present at the deathbed, said the actor was still fighting courageously in his last battle for life.

"His condition was grave, sometimes improving, sometimes regressing," Dr. Berg related. "At 9 a. m. he had a cardiac collapse.

"He was conscious to the last spasm, a gamester who wanted to live. He fought for life courageously but his reserves were too depleted. He smiled at Mrs. Dix and at 10:10 he passed away."

Dix, born Ernest Carlton Brimmer in St. Paul, Minn., was married twice. His first wife was Winifred Coe, a San Franciscan. They had a daughter, Mary Ellen, but were divorced in 1933. He married Virginia Webster in June, 1934. She once had been one of 600 applicants for the job of handling his fan mail.

Private funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at Forest Lawn Memorial park in nearby Glendale. Burial there will follow.

Dix saved his money in the days before high income taxes. He spent his later years on a lavish ranch with his wife and their three children, Richard jr., and Robert, 13, and Sarah Sue, 11, an adopted daughter. He refused to have a telephone.

In recent years he suffered several heart attacks, and had been on the critical list at Hollywood Presbyterian hospital for the past several days.

Dukes Pound Gold Sox, 16-4

Shone To Bid For Final Win

AMARILLO, Sept. 21. (Special)—It might be all over but the shouting in the West Texas-New Mexico League Shaughnessy playoffs, the Albuquerque Dukes taking their third triugph in the best four of seven games series last night 16 to 4.

Big Frank Shone, who won the first game of the series, will return to the mound tonight in an effort to terminate the play-offs for Albuquerque. Amarillo will use Ray Faust, the fireball right-hander, who lost the tough, 7-6, 13-inning, second game.

If Shone is in his usual top form, it may be one of the most brilliant battles of the series. Or Duke power may overwhelm the Gold Sox to conclude the playoffs.

Dukes Show Power

Last night it was Duke power combined with classy fielding and stellar pitching. Don Ferrarese, who rapidly is becoming the Duke mound ace, set the losers down on only four hits. Three of these went to Paul Halter, Sox clean up batter, who singled, doubled and homered in four trips.

Amarillo's Jim Reynolds was given a one-run lead in the first inning, but couldn't hold it. The Dukes combed the right-hander for 19 safeties, including five doubles and four home runs. Nine of their 16 runs came in the finale two innings. It was a humiliating defeated for some 3,929 fans.

Doug Lewis Scores

The Sox scored one more in the third on a wild pitch following a single by Crawford Howard and Halter's double. They ended their scoring in the fifth when Doug Lewis walked and scored on Halter's circuit clout.

All of the Duke's knocks came in bunches and Ferrarese supplied his share of the slugging, getting a double and three singles in five turns.

The big explosions were a grand-slam homer by Len Attyd in the Dukes six-run eighth and a three-run circuit smash by Dick Gyselman in the ninth.

Cliff McClain hit a homer in the second with Dick Dawson ahead for the third and fourth runs of that round. Allan Maul battered one over the rightfield wall in the third to lead the inning after which Les Mulcahy's double and singles by Ray Hamrick and Ferrarese added two more.

Open Golf Tourney Slated At Amarillo

AMARILLO, Sept. 21 (Special)—Ross Rogers Municipal Golf course will be the scene of the Fourth annual West Texas Open Golf tournament Sept. 29 through Oct. 2 and plans are being completed now for the event.

Professionals and amateurs appearing here in the tournament will be shooting for prizes totaling $2,000 in cash and merchandise. Play will be on medal basis.

There will be five divisions—the professional division and four amateur divisions designated as Classes A, B, C and D. Handicaps will apply in the amateur competition.

The low-scoring professional will receive $250 cash, with 14 other cash prizes ranging down to $25.

Amateur awards will be in the form of merchandise, with prizes going to the five low net scorers in each of the four simon pure divisions.

A pro-amateur best ball event is scheduled Sept. 29, with tournament play to begin the next day. The last two 18-hole rounds will be played the following Sunday.

The event, sponsored by the West Texas Pro-Amateur Golf association, has an entry fee of $10. All out-of-town golfers planning to compete are urged to make hotel reservations early, at either the Herring or Capitol hotels here.

ENDS GIVEN TOUGH WORKOUT

Contact Work Tops Red Raider Drill

Ends at Texas Tech know now what it's like to make mistakes.

They were singled out yesterday afternoon for some intensive work on defensive play and not even the normally offensive wingmen were spared. They were sent through a session that began soon after the Red Raiders squad hit the field until scrimmage was held around 6 p. m.

Coach Dell Morgan, making no bones about his displeasure in wing play so far this season, but showing great patience, went over mistakes that were obvious Saturday at Austin. He explained the fine points of end play, illustrated his remarks and then stepped back to watch the ends follow his instructions.

Squad Is Lashed

The Raider mentor was in no mood to tolerate short-comings and lashed his squad into better effort. He used an offensive line consisting of a center, two guards and two tackles against a defensive line of a center and two ends. Work primarily was with the ends, but when the offensive and defensive centers showed signs of taking it easy, the coaches wrath was turned to them.

It was a strenuous session in fundamentals of blocking, not only by the ends, but also by the guards, tackles and centers. And when it was over, there was noticeable improvement. There also was more seriousness on the field.

The remainder of the squad worked offensive plays at the other end of the field, with blocking dummies being used to sharpen the efforts of offensive blockers. It was arugged session for the varsity, one of the most intensive of the year.

Coach Morgan worked the varsity until almost 6 p.m. on blocking and then called over a freshman line for heavy scrimmage. Most of the scrimmage was designed to test the blocking ability of the Red Raiders and holes were being opened consistently in the first year men's defenses. All the players were given a chance to perform and there were some good showings.

Thompson Has Injury

The hospital list gradually is being shaved down. Tackles John Andrews and Rex Pinson took part in the scrimmage and blocking sessions yesterday. End Jack Davis, injured in the Texas game when he sprained his right ankle, was off crutches and hobbling around. Halfback Herman Bailey was runnig with an only slightly obvious limp, although he didn't get in the scrimmage.

Fullback J. W. Thompson probably is the only injured player at present not likely to make the San Antonio trip. Thompson will not be available until the West Texas State college game. Davis is hoping to be ready for Saturday's game, but Trainer Mason Gorby had grave doubts that the Littlefield offensive end would be ready.

Further work on defensive ends, another heavy scrimmage and drills against Texas A & M's attack are expected to occupy the Raiders' time this afternoon.

White Drills Frosh

Meanwhile, on the practice field, Coach Allie White was sending his freshman squad through a steady drill that included scrimmage. Coach White is attempting to whip the initial year men into shape for the first game of the year the night of Sept. 30, when West Texas State college's freshmen visit Lubbock.

Outstanding for the Picadors so far have been Don Seale of Idalou, probably the finest passer on the squad, along with Carl Madison of Albama and Ken Cochran of Fort Worth. All three are quarterbacks. Waldo Young, W. H. Barker, Ronnie Miller and Gene Doss, other backfield men, have been showing up well.

Several Good Performers

Along the line, Coach White has several fine performers. James Clark of Sundown, Alton Linnie of Monahans and Ned Wallace of Lubbock have sparked the ends. Marland Ribble, August Meynig and Joe Harris have been leading the tackles. Neil Rogers has looked good at guard, while Sam Jones of Temple has been doing a good job at center.

Center Jimmy Williams of Phillips, Class A all-stater last year who injured a knee last week, is coming along better than expected. Williams was feared lost for the season when first examinations indicated torn cartilages in a knees previously injured. But later examinations have shown the knee to be improving lately with the cartilage unaffected. He might start a week from Friday night.

Five Lubbock Grid Teams Slate Tilts

Lubbock comes in for lots of football this week, with local schools participating in five games, four of them in Lubbock and one in Lamesa.

Opening play Thursday are the Pioneers with a game at Meadow. In their only previous start, last Saturday, the Pioneers ripped Wolfforth for a 32-0 victory. Meadow, meanwhile, was downing Cooper, 32-7.

Friday's activity is highlighted by the clash between Lubbock's Westerners and North Side of Fort Worth. Lubbock defeated Childress 47-0, in its first game of the year, and North Side fell before a strong Reagan eleven of Houston, 12-25, but the Steers are rated as a tough team.

Littlefield meets O. L. Slaton Junior High school here Friday afternoon.

Saturday night the Cowhands go to Lamesa for a tilt with the Lamesa "B" team. In their first start the Cowhands dropped Plainview's Bees, 31-0.

In a Saturday night tilt here, Plainview Junior High school meets Carroll Thompson, the first game for either of the schools.

Fort Worth, Tulsa Open Final Series

(By The Associated Press)

Fort Worth and Tulsa open a best four out of seven game series tonight for the championship of the Class AA Texas baseball league.

John Bebber (8-5) will probably start on the mound for Tulsa. Joe Landrum, Fort Worth's 19-game winner, is expected to twirl for the Cats.

Tulsa gained the final round of the playoff last night with a 2-0 victory over Oklahoma City.

It was the fourth straight win for the Oilers, who came from behind after losing the first two games of the first round series.

Jim Avrea held Oklahoma City to three hits before 5,633 fans. George Zuverink gave up only four singles to Tulsa.

The Oilers scored one run in the third and another in the seventh.

Baylor, Houston U. Sign Grid Contract

HOUSTON, Sept. 21 (AP) — Baylor and the University of Houston have agreed to a home and home football series.

Houston will play in Waco next year in the first game in Baylor's new stadium.

Baylor will come here, probably in 1951, to aid Houston in dedicating a new stadium.

Dr. W. R. White, Baylor president, announced the series at a dinner launching a Houston campaign to raise funds for the Waco stadium.

It will be Houston's first football game with a Southwest conference school.

The Cougars played their first major intersectional game last Saturday and lost to William & Mary, 13-14.

Bowling Results

Medlock's, Hemphill-Wells and Walton's scored three points each last night to lead the way in the Major bowling league at Lubbock Bowling club.

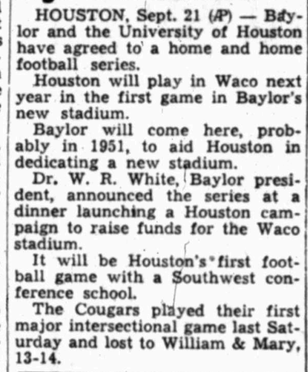

The losers in last night's team matches, each with one point, were McFarland-Malsen, Tate's and Hub clothiers.

Hemphill-Wells posted the high team series and single game totals, with 2,813 and 1,027, respectively.

Individual leaders, with single game and series totals, were Bill Nelms (Walton's), 215-626; Sam Carter (Hemphill-Wells), 214-608; Eddie Sawyer (Medlock's), 223-606; and Ben Brown (Hub), 224-571.

Medlock's now leads the league standings with six points, followed by McFarland-Malsen, five; Tate's and Walton's, four each; Hemphill-Wells, three, and Hub clothiers, two.

Between The Lines... by Joe Kelly

The Riding Poll, or the TCU News Service Poll conducted each year by the able Paul O. Ridings, has installed the Southern Methodist Mustangs as the pre-season favorites in the Southwest Conference again. Sports writers and radio sportscasters cast 55 ballots for the Ponies out of 105 men taking part in the survey. Remaining first place votes went to Rice (23), Texas (12), TCU (11½) and Baylor (3½). Neither Arkansas or Texas A. & M. received any votes for first or second place and were ranked last.

This is the first time since 1940, when SMU finished second, that the sports experts have made the Mustangs the favorites in the poll. Last year they were picked for second and in 1946 they were chosen third. Each year they won the title. Matty Bell probably is moaning about selection as the favorite, especially since the pollsters seldom ever have their choices come through. In fact, the record is three correct first place selections in 15 years. Every team in the poll received votes for sixth and seventh places except SMU, but two writers or radio men thought the Ponies would finish no better than fifth and four thought that they would wind up no better than fourth. Texas received more second place votes than anyone and more third place votes.

Neither Arkansas or the Aggies received a vote for first or second place, but two men thought the Razorbacks would finish third and one thought the Aggies would finish third. TCU received the most fourth place votes and Baylor the most fifth place votes. The final order of finish, as seen by the alleged experts, is as follows: 1, SMU; 2, Rice; 3, Texas; 4, TCU; 5, Baylor; 6, Aggies; 7, Arkansas. Most writers said that so long as the Mustangs had Doak Walker, they must be made favorites, or that they had to stick with the champion. One guy moaned that "how can you expect anyone to pick the 1949 race?" Now that the experts have been heard from, all the Southwest Conference teams have to do is follow the script. Wanna bet they don't?

Harry Faulkner, Hubber general manager, made an instant hit with many Lubbock baseball fans when he declared that it was a shame what George Schepps had done to the Hubbers this year. George wasn't fooling anyone this year. His chief interest was in building up Corpus Christi, where he believes his baseball future in Texas lies. He built up that club at the expense of both Lubbock and Greenville, But it was Lubbock that was hurt the most. Late in the season the Hubbers still had a fighting chance, provided some replacements were brought in. They never arrived. But Harry flatly stated that he had sent three players here that were good enough to lift the Hubbers into the first division, players who were shuttled off to Corpus.

Next year those players will be here, along with many more. Harry said in Austin that he had seen several boys who would make good hands with the Hubbers. He's been on a scouting trip, looking over players in various playoffs. He reported that Joe Wisniewski had been looking great with Corpus and that Bobby Barron was more than ready to play for the

Meet Features Strong Field

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. (AP)—A four-way battle is expected to highlight the fourth annual Women's National Open golf tourney which gets underway tomorrow at Prince Georges Country club.

Leading the star-sprinkled field will be defending champion Babe Didrikson ahanias, national amateur runner-up Dot Kielty, national girls titlist Marlene Bauer and in all probability the national amateur queen, Dot Germain Porter.

Porter May Compete

Mrs. Porter, a 25-year-old mother from Philadelphia and now only a week-end golfer, hopes to compete. She's not certain yet.

This meet, formerly known as the U. S. Women's Open, is the first sponsored by the newly-formed Ladies' PGA. Fred Corcoran, former men's PGA tourney director, says the feminine golf governing body was formed last week to bring the women's tourney circuit on a par with the men's.

First Of Line

Corcoran says this meet is the first in a line which will take the golfing girls from coast-to-coast on a summer and winter basis.

The remainder of the National Open field includes every major top woman pro and amateur champion in the U. S. and Britain.

From the pro ranks favored stars include:

Grid Drills Speeded

Lubbock Holds Hard Workout

Offensive and defensive workouts will be stressed the remainder of the week, with rather light body contact, as the Lubbock Westerners prep for Friday's 8 p. m. tilt with North Side of Fort Worth in a game to be played here at Jones stadium.

A drill under the lights at Chapman field was held last night, and the boys seemed to be in good mental and physical shape for the forthcoming encounter with the Steers, a team reported to be one of the strongest in Fort Worth although beaten in its first start.

TICKETS ON SALE

Preserved seat tickets for the Lubbock Westerner-North Side of Fort Worth non-conference grid tussle here Friday night at Jones stadium are now on sale at the Senior High school athletic office. The ducats are priced at $1.25, plus tax.

Team Is Impressive

Overcoming the usual Monday "off" day, the Westerners looked sharp in a 15-minute scrimmage Tuesday night under simulated game conditions, and a vast improvement was noticed.

The first team racked up three touchdowns in short order, two on the ground and one through the air. The second scoring drive carried 90 yards in two tries, with Charlie Williams breaking loose on a 60-yard gallop and Wayne Stroud going 30 yards for the tally. Bobby Brown passed to Billy Wright for the first score, and Williams scored the final touchdown from 10 yards out.

Sharp On Defense

The second team could not get started as the defensive linemen broke through to throw the ball carrier for losses, with Wright looking especially well from his left defensive end post and Garnet Reeves making good stops at right end.

Heads-up work in the backfield resulted in two pass interceptions which started touchdown drives, with Douglas Ross and Brown intercepting.

Stroud and Williams continued to sparkle on running plays for the first team, with Brown unleashing two nice passes to Wright, one on a play that carried 40 yards. For the second team Don Rawls made a couple of good gains, as did Tommy Fisher.

Strong Against Childress

In last week's Childress tilt, the Westerners displayed a crushing ground game which worked for 11 first downs and 414 net yards rushing. Not a single pass was thrown the entire game, and the Westerner passing attack is still a secret weapon in schoolboy circles.

It was interesting to note that no Lubbock first downs were made in the second quarter when two touchdowns were made, and only one was recorded in the last period when two scores were added.

Lubbock was forced to punt only once, that a 42-yard kick by Young which rolled dead, and the ball went over on downs one time—in the fourth quarter. Childress punts were returned 136 yards.

Eleven penalties cost the Westerners 120 yards which could easily mean the difference in victory in a close game.

Childress was unable to get started, ending with six net yards gained from scrimmage and 31 through the air. Lubbock defense was tight, especially at end, with Reeves doing yoeman service there, and Joe Brock was a tower of strength from his tackle position. Childress returned seven Lubbock kickoffs a total of 121 yards.

NEW BRAUNFELS IS IMPRESSIVE

Upsets Mark Play In Class A Chase

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer

With the 1949 season just starting, several teams expected to be standouts in the Texas Interscholastic league Class A have lost prestige.

Monahans and New Braunfels still looked good, but would-be challengers in several of the TIL's 32 Class A football districts already have made poor showings against lesser opposition.

Mesquite upset Grand Saline, 18 to 14, and Caldwell zipped through favored Cameron, 12 to 7. Phillips in the Panhandle had been expected to do better than the 33-14 tussle with Wellington.

Monahans Is Idle

Monahans, defending state Class A champion, was idle last week, but runnerup New Braunfels justified its advance publicity by thumping Hondo, 39 to 0.

Hereford stepped into the District 1-A picture alongside Phillips and the idle Dalhart Wolves by defeating a good Levelland team 6-0.

Memphis downed Canyon 19-13 but was hard pushed to keep its co-favorite role in 2-A alongside Lefors, 33-7 victor over White Deer.

Lockney, the 3-A favorite, edged by Sudan 20-19, while Floydada kept pace with a 13-6 win over Post.

Littlefield still appeared the best bet in 4-A after walloping Morton 39-6, but Sundown was in the running after a 20-0 win over O'Donnell.

Wink, Pecos Strong

Wink and Pecos continued to rank as stiff rivals for Monahans' 5-A aspirations by downing Denver City 48-6 and Andrews 26-13, respectively.

Throckmorton, early 6-A east favorite, lost to Newcastle 18-13 and Albany and Haskell stepped into the co-favorites' roles by defeating Winters 19-0 and Rochester 41-0. In the west half, Hamlin beat Spur 26-0 and Snyder nipped Stamford 13-6 to emerge as the standouts.

Ballinger, 46-13 winner over Roscoe, and Brady, 18-14 winner over Hamilton, continued to be standouts in 7-A, while Hamilton's stock in 8-A dipped a bit and Dublin began to look like a challenger.

Favored Holliday of 9-A took it on the chin from Decatur 13-8, but gets its big intra-district test this week when it opens the title play against chief challenger Crowell, which downed Paducah, 12-0. Burkburnett, 18-13 winner over Marlow, Okla., may be heard from later.

Bowie defeated Ranger 26-13 to hold its top spot in 10-A, but Decatur's win over Holliday and Newcastle's victory over Throckmorton boosted their stock.

Southland Gridders Meet Patton Springs

SOUTHLAND, Sept. 21 (Special)—Southland High school's six-man football team, which opens its season at 2:30 p. m. Friday at Patton Springs, has three open dates yet to be filled on its 1949 grid schedule.

Coach R. C. Green of Southland has announced that he is interested in matching games with either six-man or Class B football teams for Oct. 21, Nov. 18 and Nov. 25. He asks that any school interested in playing on these dates contact him at once.

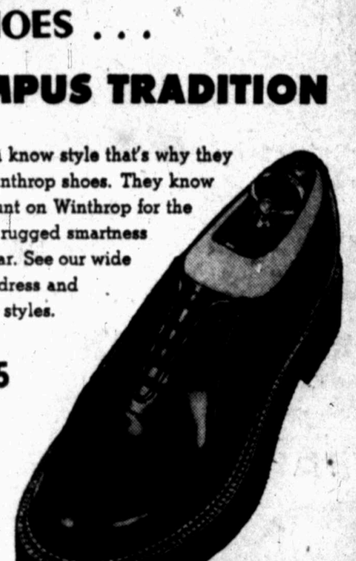

Games already on Southland's schedule include: Sept. 23, Southland at Patton Springs; Sept. 30, Roaring Springs at Southland; Oct. 7, Southland at McAdoo; Oct. 28, Wilson at Southland; Nov. 4, Southland at Flomot; Nov. 10, Guthrie at Southland.

Between The Lines... by Joe Kelly

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The knock down, drag out battle being waged by the St. Louis Cardinals and the Brooklyn Dodgers for the National league pennant comes to a head today. The arch rivals open a three-game series in St. Louis.

The pennant-hungry foes will clash twice today, once in the afternoon and again at night. The third game will be played under the lights tomorrow.

The combatants tuned up yesterday for their vital series with victories. The Cards knocked off the Philadelphia Phils, 7-5, and the Dodgers sacked the Chicago Cubs, 5-0, to remain a game and a half behind the Red Birds.

Yanks Beat Chicago

The important National league series takes the spotlight away from the American league where the New York Yanks lead by three games. The Yanks turned back Chicago, 3-1, yesterday while the runner-up Boston Red Sox eliminated Cleveland's defending champion Indians from contention, 5-2.

Big Don Newcombe (15-7) has been nominated to pitch the day game for Brooklyn against the Cards' Max Lanier (4-3). Preacher Roe (13-5) has been selected to work the night game for the challenging Dodgers against Harry (The Cat) Brecheen (13-9).

Lean Jack Banta pitched the Dodgers to victory over Chicago. He blanked the Cubs on five hits in besting Dodger-tamer Johnny Schmitz.

Brooklyn broke a scoreless tie with two out in the sixth on singles by Ed Miksis, Carl Furillo, walks to Jackie Robinson and Gil Hodges and a two-run single by Luis Olmo. The Dodgers added two more markers in the eighth, Robinson stealing home to climax the rally. Cut Catcher Mickey Owen vigorously protested Umpire Art Gore's decision on Robinson. Owen bumped Gore to the ground and was tossed out of the game along with Cub Manager Frankie Frisch.

Cards Score Win

The Cards ran up a 6-1 lead in five innings against Ken Heintzelman but the Phils roared back and cut the depicit to 6-5 in the seventh. The Cards picked up their final run in the bottom of the seventh and reliefer Gerry Staley kept the Phils away from home the rest of the way.

Stan Musial, star Card outfielder, pulled a leg muscle running out a triple during the Cards' three-run fifth and retired from the game. A club spokesman said that Musial is expected to play against the Dodgers today.

Allie Reynolds and Joe Page teamed up to pitch the Yanks to victory over the White Sox. Reynolds, who left for a pinch-hitter in the seventh, gained his 17th victory.

Parnell Notches Victory

Lefty Bob Kuzava allowed the Yanks only three hits but he walked ten and the free tickets cost him the game. The Yanks scored twice in the second on a single, double, ground out and wild pitch. Kuzava forced home the third run in the seventh when he walked Billy Johnson with the bases loaded.

Lefty Mel Parnell turned in his 24th victory in besting Bob Lemon, Celevanld's 20-game winner.

Lemon held the Red Sox hitless until the sixth, when Parnell started a five-run rally with a single. Parnell moved to second on a bunt and scored on a single by Johnny Pesky. Lemon then walked Ted Williams and Vern Stephens to load the bases. Bobby Doerr forced Pesky at the plate but Hubbers. In fact, Harry said he sent Barron here this year from Tyler just to help the Hubbers. Biggest problem facing the Hubbers next year will be in building their pitching staff. They lacked an outstanding hurler after Chris Haskins left and mound weakness left them crippled. Next year they'll have to have two outfielders, a first baseman and four pitchers. Barron probably will play short, Nelson Davis third, Jackie Sullivan second and Mike Dooley catcher. Ben Pardue had a fine year with Corpus and was a fancy dan at first base. Next spring will tell the story.

Albuquerque, after polishing off the Lamesa Loboes in a tight series, still remain our favorite to knock off Amarillo the defending champions. It's really only right that the Dukes win. They finished in first place last year with the best club in the league and they repeated this year, again with the best team. The Dukes have a smart manager in Hershel Martin. They have a balanced ball club, with fielding, batting and pitching on even terms, Amarillo, after a bad start, came on with a rush. They probably have the best outfield in the league, good infield play and a fine mound corps. Their infield, while not great, is better than average, even with Rookie Lyle Christianson playing shortstop. And by the way, Harry Faulkner said that he offered Al Carr to George Schepps for Lubbock as an outfielder, but that the offer was turned down!

Brief bits from The Sporting News: Lloyd Pearson was chosen as the most popular player at Corpus Christi recently . . . Binghamton closed out its home season with a 1-0 victory over Utica in 14 innings. The winning run was scored by Bob Marquis of Lubbock . . . Don Moore's batting average with Saginam slumped to .298 late in the season. Jack Cerin was hitting .292 for Flint and Ron Bowen, former Duke first baseman, was hitting .288. All were in the top 10 . . . Bill Macdonald was booted off the New Orleans bench recently during a rhubarb by teammates with the umpires . . . Manager Eddie Dyer says that the good ball player isn't bothered by what the official scorer decides on hits and errors . . . Paul Hinrichs ended up the 1949 season in Kansas City with a record of three victories, 10 defeats. His case baffles the New York Yankees, who paid a $40,000 bonus for him.

AGGIE PLAYER OUT

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 21 (AP)—Jerry Crossman, sophomore end on the Texas A. and M. football team, will be out the rest of the season. He underwent a knee operation, it was announced yesterday.

Al Zarilla and Billy Goodman followed with two run doubles to clinch the game.

The Philadelphia Athletics turned back the Detroit Tigers, 8-6, on Pete Suder's three-run eighth inning homer.

Rookie Roy Sievers drove in six runs to lead the St. Louis Browns to a 15-6 night game triumph over Washington.

The Boston Braves downed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2, in the National's only night game with a three-run rally in the ninth.

Vic Weber To Test O'Dowdy

Two old timers will meet in the ring at Sled Allen's arena tonight, with Vic Weber getting top billing with Pat O'Dowdy in the main event.

O'Dowdy and Weber, known by wrestling fans all over this area, have been appearing in the ring for many years and are always well-received everywhere they appear.

These two will follow a quartet of grapplers into the ring, a special Australian tag team match lifting the curtain on the night's activities. And a good match is anticipated, with O'Dowdy expected to bring his bag of surprises into the ring with him and Weber attempting to outsmart his opponent. O'Dowdy will be trying to avenge a defeat last week.

Appearing in the team match are Bill Brooks and Dory Detton against Rod Fenton and Gorilla Pogi, which promises to be a crowd pleaser.

Last week Brooks took care of Billy Sandow and looked impressive with his victory, demonstrating clearly his ability to take care of himself in tight places. Detton is a favorite with the arena wrestling fans and will give the set-to plenty of action.

Never worrying about the methods of winning, Fenton and Pogi believe that to win is the main reason for being in the ring, and these two will put up an attack worth watching.

Matches get underway at 8:30 p.m., and tickets will be on sale at the arena from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. today.

Gladewater Clashes With Hammond Club

(By The Associated Press)

Gladewater, champion of the East Texas league, and Hammond, La., titlist in the Evangeline league, open a seven game series tonight at Gladewater.

The Bears won the East Texas title last night by beating Kilgore, 6-4, for the fourth straight time in the championship series.

The first three games of the inter-league series will be at Gladewater. It will be completed at Hammond.

A. B. Cross' two-run error in the ninth inning on Lefty Loyko's bunt enabled Gladewater to score two runs and win the championship.

Both teams had three run innings.

Gladewater picked up three tallies on Bob Cullins' home run, two singles and a double in the fourth frame.

Kilgore used two walks, an error and two singles for three runs in the sixth.

Floydada Nine Beats Lubbock

LOCKNEY, Sept. 21 (Special)—The Builder's Mart nine of Floydada evened their series with The Avalanche-Journal softball team of Lubbock in a benefit game played here before between 150 and 200 persons.

And from the game the Lockney High school Band Parents Association realized $150. The organization sponsored the exhibition game, which saw the Builder's Mart win 2-0. Each team now has won one game.

The only scores in the game came in the bottom of the sixth inning when Earl Cooper, Builder's Mart catcher, slammed a long home run to left centerfield. Cooper chased a mate around the bases and easily beat the attempted throw to the plate.

The Avalanche-Journal team had won the opener in Floydada recently 1-0. As a result of tonight's victory, a third game between the two teams probably will be played.

Lindell Bailey almost scored for the Lubbock nine, but was caught at the plate on a fine throw. It was the closest the Hub City team came to scoring, although they had men on bases in several innings.

It was a real pitcher's duel from start to finish until Cooper broke up the game. Builder's Mart picked up only four hits off Albert Jones, while Lubbock was garnering only five off James Robinson. Each team committed a pair of errors.

The game was close all the way, with some spectacular ball being played. Both teams threw up a tight defense with men on the sacks and the crowd enjoyed the game, played on a cool night.

Willie Pep Blasts Compo For KO Win

WATERBURY, Conn., Sept. 21. (AP)—Offers poured in on featherweight champ Willie Pep today after his easy seven round kayo triumph over Eddie Mompo.

Unlike the savage scrap in which he recaptured the title from Sandy Saddler last February, Wily Willie emerged unmarked last night.

Al Weill, matchmaker of the International Boxing club of New York offered Pep three opponents for Madison Square Garden bouts, and Lou Viscusi, Pep's manager, said he was considering another for a title fight at St. Louis.

Weill wants Willie to fight either the winner of Friday's Terry Young-Enrique Bolanos scrap; Maxie Doucusen or Ray Famechon, the European champ from France who is due here soon. It would be a non-title fight on either Oct. 28 or Nov. 11.

The crown defense would be made against Charley Riley, St. Louis negro. Viscusi said he couldn't be any more definite than that right now.

Nothing was said about a third Pep - Saddler punchfest. That would be a real pay night.

For his victory over Compo, a former sparring partner whom Pep polished off in 41 seconds of the seventh, Willie scored financially, too. The uneven match drew a surprisingly large crowd of 10,722 for a gross of $39,931.

Compo, who weighed 124½ to 126 for the champ, just wasn't in Willie's league. The champ's bullet like punches nearly blinded Eddie early. Willie was in charge from the first punch, and by the end of the fifth round, both he and the crowd were urging Referee Billy Conway to halt the one-sided battle to save the challenger from further punishment.

The 21-year-old Compo, six years younger than Pep, hit the deck twice in the fifth for the count of nine and again in the seventh before the finish. It came with Goldie Goldfarb, Compo's chief second, waving a towel and yelling that the kid was through.

Record Attendance At Game Predicted

HALE CENTER, Sept. 21 (Special)—Hale Center will get to use its new $6,000 stadium at the R. A. Jefferies mmeorial athletic field Friday night of this week when the Friona Chiefs journey here to provide the Hale Center Owls their first Conference 3-B tussle. The Chiefs are expected to give the Owls another rough evening, comparable to last Friday night when the locals met Kress' Kangaroos on their home grounds and were defeated 6-0.

A record crowd is expected for this week's first home game, coach Ralph Huntington says. Besides the two new steel bleachers at the field, a $500 fence was finished this fall to completely encircle Jefferies field. The two improvements were paid for through public subscription and were carried to completion by Lions club committees with the aid of the American Legion post.

Machine To Check Children's Hearing Being Demonstrated

Two-day audiometer demonstrations conducted at Dupre schools will be concluded this afternoon by 12 school and county nurses and administrators of Lubbock Public schools and Ernest H. Rolston, health education consultant of the State Department of Health.

Rolston represents the Division of School Health Services of the state department.

Lubbock school nurses and administrators were mainly concerned with learning to use the new audiometer purchased last spring by the Lubbock schools. Lubbock's new equipment, described by Rolston as the best equipment known to test hearing, has 30 individual sets of ear phones, so that 30 children may be tested by nurses at once.

Tests Scheduled

According to Supt. R. W. Matthews every child in the Lubbock Public schools is to receive this test during the year, Rolston estimated that at least 500 of the 10,100 students now enrolled in the Lubbock schools would be to have some deficiency in hearing. He based his estimate on statistics of other places in the nation where tests of large groups of children have been made. After students at Dupre have been tested, Mrs. Laura Nell Guthrie, new school nurse in the Lubbock system, will go to Overton school and re-check students where a preliminary check was made last spring. From Overton she will go to other schools of Lubbock.

When students are found who have deficiencies in hearing a letter will be sent to parents recommending that the family physician be contacted, Matthews said. A second check with parents will be made in several weeks to see if corrections have been made. There will be no diagnosis or recommendations made, however, by the Lubbock schools. The purpose of new audiometer equipment is to detect hearing deficiencies early so that corrections may be made whenever possible, Matthews said.

Assistance Given

"Hearing conservation, or prevention of deafness is one of several phases of an integrated program for improving the health of the school child," Ralston explained. "The School Health Services division of the State Health department assists schools throughout Texas in organizing and carrying on such programs.

Rolston further explained that the pure-tone audiometer equipment with its 30 receivers would be used by the Lubbock schools according to a screening method recently developed and calidated by accurate work with many thousands of children. The first step, in hearing conservation that of conducting screening tests, is followed by an individual test for those children who are unable to pass the first test, the Health Department consultant said, and the magnitude of the child's difficulty is determined before parents are notified that the child is in need of medical advice and care.

Nurses receiving intensive training in use of the pure-tone audiometer are: Mrs. Era Ford, Mrs. Bennie Sanford, and Mrs. Guthrie, all Lubbock school nurses; Miss Ruth Daniels and Mrs. Laura Wells, Abilene Public schools; Mrs. Grayce Garrett, supervisor of Lubbock City and County nurses; Mrs. Gene Hitchcock, Lubbock County School nurse; Mrs. Donna Harris, Lubbock County School nurse; Miss Ouida Adams, City Health Department; Miss Anita Larson, Hale County School nurse; Miss Lena Bryles, Crosby County School nurse; and Mrs. C. Dozier, teacher in the Ralls Public Schools.

coll spoke on the progress of treatment of the cases that have been brought to the center. Posey talked on the value Rotarians receive in supporting such a project.

Expansion Possible

The new building will enable the center, now operated at 1317 Tenth, to expand its work with cerebral palsied children from a wide area, including a far as 500 miles south and as far as Colorado in the north. The present site was donated by Dr. Sam G. Dunn about a year ago, and was put under the direction of Dr. Esther Snell.

More than 200 children have received treatment at the present center during the past year.

The regular Rotary noon luncheon was held on the grounds directly south of the new W. W. clubhouse.

Out-of-town visitors were Ed McLaughlin of Ralls, Ed Hearn of Little Rock, Ark., Lewis Hollingsworth of Slaton, Lyman C. Veazy of Ardmore, Okla., J. M. Wilson of Floydada, Ray Pritchett of Plainview, Rud Swan of Abilene, W. B. Bowdry, jr., L. B. Adams, and Jene! Wagner, all of Dallas, and Ernest Joiner of Ralls.

Cotton Case Heard Bv Federal Court

A jury in U. S. District court here today was deliberating the case of the United States of America versus Raymond Grindstaff and others, involving 218 bales of cotton.

W. L. Bailey and Jack Henry, and J. P. Williams, Lubbock cotton men, are also involved in the suit, which seeks to recover the cotton which the government contends was disposed of prior to the burning of two cotton warehouses at Morton belonging to Grindstaff on April 6 and 8, 1941.

Presentation of testimony ended Tuesday afternoon and arguments were heard by Federal Judge Joseph B. Dooley this morning.

Trial of the case opened Monday.

Stock Market

GAINS ON MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP) — The stock market snapped out of yesterday's slump today and closed with gains of fractions to around 3 points.

Renewed hope that a steel strike might be averted was credited as the main factor behind the buying.

Steel, motor, utility, rubber, and radio & television stocks were among the strongest but buying spilled over into most other groups as well. Mail order issues held back.

Higher were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Studebaker, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Admiral Corp., Emerson Radio, Philco, Radio Corp., Coca-Cola, Phelps Dodge Copper, Union Carbide, International Paper, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, and Standard Oil (NJ).

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP) — Cotton futures were steady in slow dealings today. Trade buying for mill and export account featured the market which was also helped by the lack of hedge selling pressure, despite heavy sales of spot cotton. Mills were believed to be taking most of the cotton for immediate use to fill textile orders.

A spot firm reported that the weather in the eastern and central cotton belts was not too favorable during the first half of September, but said that those conditions did not materially hurt the crop. The crop deterioration in September has been light.

SCAP officials revealed that Japan is initiating a new cotton procurement program for approximately 12,000 bales for November shipment, with prices to be based on March, 1950, futures. It was stated that Japan will buy more substantial quantities later under a separate procurement.

Future closed unchanged to 60 cents a bale higher than the previous close.

British Crisis

in the cost of living of at least five per cent in the next six or eight months.

Now the TUC leaders are on the spot. Will they support the government in denying wages boosts and run the risk of being tossed out of office by their own union members? Or will they finally go along for higher wages?

Cripps has warned that wage boosts will largely nullify the benefits of devaluation which is aimed at selling goods at cheaper prices in the United States?

Many observers felt it was doubtful the TUC leaders could hold out against rank and file pressure much longer.

Cabinet Meeting Set

Prime Minister Attlee summoned his cabinet ministers to a meeting tomorrow to discuss the political crisis that has been piled on top of his government's economic crisis.

The independent London Times said editorially:

"The task which started the general council of the TUC in the face yesterday—and which stares ministers in the face all the time—is to prevent a calamity which could undo the program of national recovery at the very outset of a new chapter."

The coservative Daily Telegraph said the government "faces its sharpest crisis."

Concrete evidence of union dissatisfaction was a "go slow" movement scheduled to begin at midnight tonight by the 50,000 workers on the nationalized railways. The move was in protest against government denial of a $2 weekly wage boost demand.

Sheriff Ted Andrews of Hale county came here this morning to accept custody of a 21-year-old man who gave Lubbock route 2 as his address. The man is wanted in connection with a burglary investigation, the Hale county sheriff said. The Rowland company, at Plainview, was broken and entered and a radio and other property removed, he explained.

The man was arrested by B. F. Forrester and John Barnett, members of the sheriff's patrol.

Coach Says Saturday Game Will Be Battle

Dell Morgan, coach of the Texas Tech Red Raiders, today told the Exchange club that the Tech-A&M game at San Antonio Saturday "will be a battle."

Speaking at a luncheon meeting in Hotel Lubbock, the football mentor said "A&M believes we are the only team they will beat this year and we believe A&M is the only Southwest conference team we have a chance of beating."

He explained some of the pitfalls his team encountered Saturday at Austin, where the Red Raiders were beaten 43-0 by the University of Texas.

"Too much heat, too many injuries and too much Texas," he summed up.

Morgan was introduced by Joe Holmes, manager of the Sport Center and member of the South Plains Officials and Coaches association.

Bill Kennedy was a club guest. Warlick Carr gave the invocation and M. B. Hilburn, jr., presided.

House Session

arms program. It merely gives it congressional sanction.

Confer With Truman

What other legislation will be given preference during the rest of this session probably won't be determined until congressional leaders huddle with President Truman.

There is a chance that new labor legislation may be pushed in view of current developments in the coal and steel industries.

Much of the President's "must" legislation will be allowed to lie over until the second session of the 81st Congress, starting next January. But next year being a congressional election year, members don't want to leave too much legislation unfinished and be forced to stay in Washington next summer when they want to be home campaigning.

Still slated for consideration are these bills, in addition to the arms-aid and appropriation measures:

Bills Are Listed

An increase in the minimum wage in interstate industry; passed by both Chambers but not in the same form.

A new farm price support program; passed by the House.

A bill broadening social security coverage; not acted on by either chamber, but approved by the House ways and means committee.

Raises for military personnel and for top government executives; passed by the House.

Revision of the displaced persons law; passed by the House but tied up in the Senate judiciary committee.

Federal aid to education; passed by the Senate but stalemated in the House over a religious controversy. A compromise limiting the aid to direct education and not to related welfare programs, and providing funds for public schools only, may be worked out.

Shakedown

Evans, whom he did not identify, and asked the witness their reputations.

"Their reputations are that of prostitute extortionists," Behrmann replied.

He refused an answer to the district attorney's request for instances of the extortion ring's activities, saying he would not produce his notes "because the district attorney's office might steal them."

Rich Man Shaken Down

Simpson then read from Behrmann's memorandum:

"Mickey Cohen received 60 per cent of shakedown money received by his prostitute extortionists. They retain 40 per cent and divide it among those in on a particular shake. One very rich man was shaken down for $75,000 and thereafter for $500 a week."

It added that a sound recording was made of an incident in which the asserted victim participated, what purported to be the master recording was sold to him for $75,000 and the additional $500 a week was exacted when it developed that the women had retained the master recording.

Behrmann testified he had gathered his information in his efforts "to fight crime and to fight official corruption in the various law enforcement agencies."

Superior Judge Robert H. Scott said he will rule next Tuesday on whether Behrmann should be held in contempt. If he is, Simpson said, it "means Behrmann should be locked up until he performs."

000."

The murder apparently was done by a "professional," Whaley added, "someone who wore rubber gloves." He said he found part of a rubber glove clutched in Miss Law's hand.

A large safe in the house was untouched, Whaley said, but a cigar box where Perry reportedly kept large amounts of money was missing.

The sheriff said an unidentified man, carrying a small bundle, was seen leaving the Perry home soon after the crime.

Bookie Raid Saves Race Bettor $400

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21 (AP)—An unknown horse fancier is $400 to the good today because detectives raided his favorite bookmaker.

Detectives testified at a hearing before Magistrate Benjamin Schwartz yesterday that a telephone rang just as they raided a downtown betting establishment.

A detective took the call, listened as a man on the other end of the line placed a $400 bet.

"Save your money," the detective said and hung up.

The horse named finished out of the money a short time later.

Witnesses Tell How Urtado Was Slain

The state rested before noon in the murder trial of Ellias Garcia.

Pierced together from testimony of its witnesses, the state theory of the case was that Garcia, 22, shot Antonio Urtado, jr., the night of Aug. 8 after accusing Urtado of having attempted to break into a house.

Urtado attempted to push away the barrel of a shotgun levelled at him, and was shot, witnesses said.

The defense will present evidence this afternoon, before Judge G. V. Pardue and a 99th court jury. The firm of Berry and Ball is counsel for Garcia. District Attorney Lloyd Croslin and Roy Carpenter, special prosecutor, represent the state.

Canadian Dam

easiness also as to what the effect might be upon prospects for the Canadian project of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce support of the Baskin dam on the Double Mountain fork of the Brazos river in Haskell county.

The expressed fear was the WTCC stress upon the Baskin project, now in the initial stages, might detract attention from the Canadian undertaking, which already has been approved by the U. S. House of Representatives and now is awaiting action in the Senate.

Howard E. Robbins, of Amarillo, regional director of the reclamation service, said he does not believe that the support of one project will prejudice the prospects for the approval of the other. Both are meritorious and deserve the support of everyone interested in either project, he declared.

Support Is Sought

However, Whiteside said that efforts are being made to enlist the WTCC in a more active support of the Canadian undertaking.

In calling the conference to order, Whiteside stressed that the immediate hurdle is to try to get the Senate to approve the bill approving the Canadian dam, reservoir and pipelines to supply water to 11 interested Panhandle and Plains cities.

In this connection, he read a telegram from Lyndon Johnson, junior U. S. senator from Texas, that he is making every effort to get favorable action on the pending bill in that body.

Would Improve Chances

He also said that a permanent organization of those interested in the Canadian is needed so as to provide a contracting agency and thus improve the outlook for a speedier approval of the project.

This procedure, he continued, will involve the creation of one or more water districts.

Whiteside emphasized, however, that no district can be organized without an approving vote of the people residing in it. The project, as now proposed, would require the repayment of about $80,000,000 of the money advanced by the government for its construction from the sales of impounded water.

Those attending the conference here included:

Amarillo — Gene Klein, mayor; N. V. Moss, city manager, and Tommy Thompson, representing the Globe-News.

Borger — Joe Cooley, chamber of commerce manager; A. A. Meredith, city manager; R. V. Latimer, city commissioner; and Frits Thompson, county commissioner.

Lamesa — Sam Richardson, mayor; J. D. Willson, city manager; V. Z. Rodgers, chamber of commerce, and Carl Rountree, attorney.

Levelland—Kenneth Harper, mayor, and D. N. Bills, city councilman.

Littlefield — Ralph W. Douglas, city engineer, and Willard G. Street, jr., city attorney.

Pampa — Dick G. Pepin, city manager; R. F. Gordon, city attorney; Fred Thompson, chamber of commerce president; and F. H. Parente and Pinkey Vineyard.

Plainview — Ray Pritchett, city commissioner and president of the chamber of commerce; Frank R. Day, city attorney, and George Green.

Slaton — L. B. Wootton, mayor, and P. G. Meading, chamber of commerce manager.

Lubbock — W. H. Rodgers, mayor; E. K. Hufstedler, John Spikes, W. B. Price and Whiteside, city commissioners; Vaughn Wilson, city attorney; Steve Matthews, city manager, and Homer Grant, president, and A. B. Davis, manager, both of the chamber of commerce.

Reclamation service — Harry Burleigh, of Austin, state planning engineer for the service; Spencer L. Baird, of Amarillo, regional attorney; Garford Wilkinson, of Amarillo, director of information, and Robbins.

Henry A. McDougal Of Lubbock Claimed

Henry A. McDougal, 55, of 608 Ave. L, died at 3:30 a. m. today at Lubbock Memorial hospital after a long illness.

He had resided in Lubbock since 1920 and was associated with the Bluebonnet laundry for the past five years.

Survivors are his wife; three daughters, Mmes. Vincie Whitehead and Zella Malone and Miss Mary Faye McDougal, all of Lubbock; a son, Henry McDougal, jr., of Lubbock; his mother, Mrs. Effie McDougal of Freeport; three sisters, Mmes. of the 59 member nations of the U. N.

Outside, anti-British demonstrators were met by a barrage of tomatoes from windows of the fashionable hotel. Bevin is staying there. It was not known who threw the tomatoes.

The 200 demonstrators, members of the "American-Irish Minute Men of 1949," carried signs urging a boycott on British goods and removal of British troops from Northern Ireland.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky was invited to the dinner but sent his regrets. However, other eastern bloc representatives were present.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson told the assemblage that he is encouraged by recent efforts by western nations to solve economic and other problems.

He aimed a jab at those who lay claim to "a perfectly ordered society in which there is no struggle or effort."

"To us," he said, "struggle is the thing we live for. If we do not struggle, there is no purpose in life so far as we are concerned."

Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine delegate and newly-elected president of the assembly, declared that four years of work in the U. N. had taught him that the power for peace rests chiefly with the major countries.

"Until they come to terms," he said, "the world will continue to be subject to the dangerous tensions and pressures of political conflict."

New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said the U. N. today "stands stronger than ever, the only, the best, the last hope of organized peace."

"It holds not only the hope but the respect of the world," he said.

Congratulations to:

gations, a small group has persisted in policies threatening other members of the international community."

Acheson then called on the assembly to "make its contribution" to the solution of "the great problems pressing upon the nations of the world today."

"Let us proceed, he said, "with appreciation of the limits of what we can expect to accomplish at this time, with confidence in the long-term values of patience, and with reliance upon the power of common sense in international affairs. The public interest of the world community demands that we get on with out business."

Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky is choosing to make the general Soviet policy statement in the assembly in the next few days—after hearing the western powers.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said last night that the western powers were determined to see that atomic weapons were not used in destroying mankind. He spoke at a dinner given U. N. delegates by New York City officials.

When Mrs. Potter presumed the last fumes had left the house, she went to the kitchen to light a stove. Then came the blast that left the cottage in splinters.

Assistant Fire Marshal Lester Groce believed that Mrs. Potter and Larry were saved from asphyxiation because the gas rose to the top of the rooms, some of it escaping from the house.

--- NO ARREST REPORTED ---

PLAINVIEW, Sept. 21. (Special) —The Hale county sheriff's office said this afternoon no arrest had been made in connection with informal charges of a 16-year-old high school girl that she had been raped late Tuesday afternoon by two men.

Post Man Dies From Accident On Oil Rig

Harvey Cole Howard, 35, of Post, died at 3 a. m. today at West Texas hospital two hours after he had been struck on the back of the head by a mud hose that had become uncoupled on an oil rig near Post.

A Mason and Company Funeral home ambulance rushed him to the hospital here from the rig, which is owned by Reese Carter, jr., of Post.

Howard, a resident of Post since 1915, was a bachelor.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Howard of Post; two brothers, Elmer of Post and Riley Howard of Decatur, and three sisters, Mrs. Leatha Cederholm of Amarillo and Mrs. Lena Ferguson and Mrs. Opal Pennell of Southland.

Rev. D. W. Reed, assisted by Rev. P. D. Fulhingim, will conduct services at 4 p. m. Thursday at the First Baptist church of Post. Burial will take place in the Terrace cemetery there.

Labor Disputes

of at least 27,000 railroad workers.

At Buffalo, N. Y., Bell Aircraft corporation announced it had accepted a mediators' proposal to settle a bitter 14-week-old strike by 1,700 CIO United Auto workers. Details were not made public and the union did not comment. The union has made pension and wage demands.

At Cleveland, defeat loomed for a factional attempt to oust so-called left wing officers of the CIO United Electrical workers—third largest union in the CIO, with 600,00 0members.

Board Report Considered

In the steel talks, a major issue is the industry's insistence that steelworkers pay part of the pension-insurance plans urged by the fact-finders. The fact-finders said steel companies should pay the whole bill. CIO President Philip Murray took the board's view.

With this deadlock tying up attempts to prevent the steel strike set for Sunday, the Ford report looked like it might have some effect on the steel dispute.

Ford told the auto workers it was willing to discuss a pension plan and was looking at things 'in the light of the (steel) board's recommendations, and their inescapable national effect whether we agree with them or not."

The fact finding board's steel recommendations were that the steelworkers should get no fourth round postwar pay boost, but should get an employer-paid pension-insurance program costing steel firms about 10 cents an hour per worker.

In Detroit, one union source said the Ford proposal, plus pension benefits now available, would add up to the 10 cents an hour package recommended by the steel board.

Angela Lansbury Not Angry Toward Church Of England For Ban Against Her Wedding

By HOWARD C. HEYN
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 21—Angela Lansbury says she feels no ill will toward the church of England vicar who blocked her marriage in the church of her childhood.

Angela returned to London for the first time in eight years, to be wed in Bow street church. She was denied the privilege, as a divorcee.

"It was a disappointment, of course," admitted the baby-faced Angela. "But I don't blame him (the Rev. G. F. J. Ansell). He was only observing church policy."

It was quite a shock, Miss Lansbury said, to learn from reporters at the dock that venerable Bow church was closed to her. "I had not occurred to us that we might be turned down."

Angela and interior decorator Peter Shaw took more than two weeks to decide upon another church. They were finally married by a church of Scotland minister. Now back in Hollywood, she and Peter have set up housekeeping in her home.

Everyone Sympathetic

"Everyone was sympathetic," she related. "People would walk up to me on the street and say 'I hope everything works out for you.' Several newspapers expressed the opinion that church of England policy on marrying divorced persons should be liberalized."

Angela is the former wife of actor Richard Cromwell. About conditions in England she is reticent. "If I say they are bad," she explained, "I'll be accused of criticizing the labor government. If I say they are good, people will think the Marshall plan is making life too easy in England."

If being together as much as possible is any guage of domestic Audie Murphy should be all ready to deny the next rumor of their separation. Locationing at Cedar City, Utah, for "Sierra," Audie and his bride decided not to live in town with the rest of the company.

Staying In Mountains

They're staying at the mountain location site, Wanda explains, because Audie loves to fish in the nearby stream or go hunting in the woods after work. She says they sleep in the prop truck. The night watchman really likes the arrangement because he has company. Wanda isn't crazy about life in the rough, but she's going along with Audie's outdoor enthusiasms.

Cathy O'Donnell suddenly had to forego the lead in George Stevens' film "An American Tragedy." Instead she'll leave tomorrow for London, to play Mrs. Miniver's daughter in the Metro sequel.

When David O. Selznick loaned Cathy to MGM for "Side Street" Metro took an option on her for a second role. Nothing further happened, however, and Cathy thought she was clear for "An American Tragedy." Then, on Saturday, MGM exercised the option, which would have expired Sunday.

New Endurance Mark

Endurance record: Helen Constantine, 17-year-old Melbourne, Australia, fan, told Larry Parks in a letter that she had seen him 210 times in four pictures. She wanted to know when "Jolson Sings Again" will reach Melbourne.

"My girl friend and I are looking forward to it very much," wrote Helen, who works at Myer's Emporium, a department store. "We saw 'The Jolson Story' 73 times, 'Renegade' 40 times, 'Down To Earth' 47 and 'The Swordman' 50.'

Sands of time in Hollywood: First there was Valentino's "Blood and Sand," and now "Rope of Sand," "Sands of Iwo Jima" and "Quicksand." Oh, yes — just plain "Sand" is in release, too . . . Barbra Fuller, in her last four pictures at Republic, has had four shades of hair, ranging from platinuh to brunette. She's back to blonde again, appropriately, in "Blonde Bandit."

Drive Launched For New Legion Building

RICHMOND, Sept. 21 (U.P.) — A $20,000 drive has been launched here to build a new meeting hall for the American Legion.

Plans call for a concrete and tile building to be used by the entire community as well as the Legion, according to drive leader William F. Bogget.

The structure will be built on land owned by the Legion post.

Homicide, Suicide Verdict Returned

McKINNEY, Sept. 21 (AP) — A verdict of homicide and suicide was returned in the fatal shooting of Clifton Lynn and his divorced wife, both 45.

The shootings occurred yesterday in a cleaning shop where Mrs. Lynn worked.

New $65,000 Theater Slated To Open In O'Donnell Tonight

O'DONNELL, Sept. 21 — C. C. Caldwell announced Tuesday that his new $65,000 Rex theater will be opened to the public today at 7:30 p. m. A special crew of men have been working day and night to apply the finishing touches to have the building ready for its scheduled premiere.

The new Rex is entirely fireproof. It seats 635 in the main auditorium and 50 in the balcony. A special smoking section is designated on the left side of the theater where silent exhaust fans carry off the smoke.

Has Several Innovations

The theater has several innovations in addition to the smoking area. There is a "cry room" where seven mothers with crying infants can see and hear the show without disturbing the rest of the audience.

A special snack bar is an integral part of the theater. It is located to the right in the lobby.

Two large air conditioners run along the sides of the building and a third is located in the ceiling. Each is rated at 12,000 cubic feet of fresh air per minute. The theater is heated by a thermostatically controlled blower system.

Operates Other Theaters

All seats are of the folding type and the floors are carpeted to control sound effects. The screen measures 13 by 17 feet. Projectors are the latest type Simplex automatic switchovers. Sound equipment is Western Electric high fidelity.

Contractor for the masonry building was Waller and Allen, Lamesa. Harvey Allen, Lamesa, was the architect.

H. T. Gardenhire is the manager of the new Rex. He has been with Caldwell theaters at O'Donnell for 15 years, J. B. Stone is the assistant manager.

Charles Pierce will be projectionist. Glenn Harper will act as doorman and assistant projectionist. Mrs. Joe Kirkpatrick will manage the box office.

Caldwell also owns and operates theaters in Denver City, Texas; Jal and Eunice, New Mexico.

Premiere show for the Rex will be "It's A Great Life" with Dennis Morgan and Jack Carson.

Man To Lose Five Weekends In Jail

GENEVA, Ill., Sept. 21 (AP) —Edward Scoff has lost the next five weekends. He must spend them in jail.

Scoff, 43, a laborer of Aurora, Ill., was in a justice court yesterday on complaint of his wife, Elvira, 36.

She told Judge Walter G. Nurnberg that Scoff is a good husband during the week but is disorderly on weekends.

Scoff pleaded guilty to the disorderly conduct charge. The judge said he could either pay a $50 fine, or go free with the exception of from 7 a. m. Saturday until midnight Sunday for the next five weekends. During those periods he would be in Kane county jail.

Scoff chose losing the weekends instead of $50.

Texas Theaters To Cut Ticket Prices

AUSTIN, Sept. 21 (U.P.) — Interstate theaters has announced a price reduction affecting young theater-goers in more than 30 Texas cities.

The price reduction, to go into effect immediately, will establish a "junior price scale" for theater-goers between the ages of 12 and 17.

Youths within that age bracket who formerly paid an adult price now will be admitted at a junior price. Overall reductions range from 20 cents to 10 cents, depending on the theater.

For first-run, top-price theaters, the reduction will be from 60 cents to 40 cents.

CROSBYTON MEETS LUBBOCKITES—George Lemon, right, gets acquainted with Ted Karr of Crosbyton, owner of the City Drug store there, as another booster from Lubbock, Randolph Rampy, looks on. The stop at Crosbyton was one of 13 made by the Lubbock men Tuesday on the third trip boosting the Panhandle-South Plains fair, Sept. 26 to Oct. 1.

Children Turn Out To Greet Fair Boosters

Approximately 7,000 school children in five South Plains counties turned out Tuesday to greet members of the third Panhandle-South Plains fair booster tour.

A total of 20 boosters left Lubbock at 7:20 a. m. Tuesday, with large crates of balloons, rulers, free admission tickets, copies of a special fair newspaper, pencils and other favors, and were hard pressed to keep from running out before their last call at Idalou at 5:15 p. m.

Weather Mostly Fair

Skies were gray with a low overcast when the special bus pulled away from the Chamber of Commerce building, but began clearing before the boosters arrived at Plainview. From there, the tour was conducted in sunny weather until the boosters arrived home at 5:35 p. m. Only at Abernathy, first stop on the day's itinerary, was there any threat of rain. A heavy mist was settling there as the Lubbockites arrived at 7:40 a. m.

Plainview and Floydada both accorded the boosters a rousing welcome with police cars escorting them through the business sections of the towns.

On hand to greet them at Plainview were Ray Pritchett, president of the Chamber of commerce, Charles Signor, director, and Raymond Lee Johns, manager. After stopping at the junior high school and the high school, the boosters were escorted to town, and then out Highway 70 toward Floydada.

Stop At Schools

In Floydada, Guy Ginn, vice-president of the chamber of commerce, and Bob Crowell, manager, were among those who met the fair boosters at the city limits and escorted them through town.

In following the precedent set by the first two booster trips, which were plagued by bad weather, the main stop in most of the towns was made at the school, and a wild scramble for balloons, rulers, and other favors ensued in most places.

At the junior high school in Plainview, boosters had difficulty getting out of the bus, with the children packed up close and fighting for the balloons and pencils thrown from bus windows.

Souvenirs In Demand

At the Matador school, where the boosters stopped after lunch in Matador, the Plainview situation was reversed. The boosters had little difficulty getting off the bus, but when the balloons and other items began to appear, they were engulfed by the youngsters, and had difficulty returning to the bus before they had given away every souvenir they had.

School had dismissed when the Lubbock group arrived in Ralls at 4:25 p. m., but the youngsters

Mistake In Identity Costs Hunters $300

THURMONT, Md., Sept. 21. (AP)—Two Baltimore hunters are $300 poorer today because of a slight misunderstanding in the field.

Cecil D. Wiblin paid two $100 fines on charges of shooting a 35-pound fawn and possessing deer meat.

Conrad Roppelt was fined $100 on the possession charge.

Wiblin explained just how it happened: He mistook the fawn for a groundhog.

Judge Convenes Court On Front Porch So Elderly Woman Can Answer Charges

DETROIT, Sept. 21 (AP)—Mrs. Louise Arndt, who is 80 years old, was unable to go to traffic court yesterday to answer charges of harboring unlicensed dogs. The neighbors complained her five dogs ran loose and nipped at people.

So Judge John D. Watts went to her home to hold court. Mrs. Arndt greeted him on the front porch as the dogs inside the house yapped loudly. One yapped louder than the others.

"That's the saucy one," Mrs. Arndt told the judge. She said he would have to hold court on the porch.

Hurriedly, the judge placed her on a year's probation, ordered her to get dog licenses and keep the pooches on leash.

"Okay, sonny," Mrs. Arndt said as she waved the judge goodbye and retired into the house.

Court was adjourned.

Farmers Will Receive Help

A development expected to save South Plains cotton farmers many thousands of dollars as well as much time was announced here Tuesday.

Officials of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce advised by the U. S. Immigration service that a representative of that agency will be assigned temporarily to the South Plains to accept bonds from farmers who obtain cotton pickers from Mexico.

Such farmers now have to travel to El Paso or Chihuahua City Mexico, to sign such bonds. The assigning of an immigration agent to this area will save each farmer getting Mexican labor the time and expense of at least one round trip of 700 to 1,000 miles.

Farmers Should File

There were other developments Tuesday of importance to the cotton and labor prospects on the South Plains.

One was the suggestion by O. T. O'Connell, manager of the nine-county Lubbock area of the Texas Employment commission, that farmers wanting Mexicans to harvest their cotton should file their applications without delay. It usually takes a minimum of three weeks from the time the application is filed to get labor, he explained.

Another development was the report, still lacking official confirmation, that Dawson county, of which Lamesa is the county seat, has been removed from a blacklist which made farmers there ineligible for labor from Mexico.

Technicalities Involved

The blacklisting, according to information received in Lubbock, resulted from charges of discrimination against Spanish-speaking people in Dawson county.

The removal form the blacklist, according to reports Tuesday, followed an investigation by a representative of the Mexican government which either failed to sustain the charges or ascertained that the causes for them had been corrected.

Several technicalities are involved in trying to get labor from Mexico for the picking season.

The starting point, as explained by O'Connell, is the filing of an application with the Texas Em-

THE QUESTION

What is your solution to worry?

THE ANSWERS

HAL BURDETT, 1508 Twenty-fourth, policeman: "Look at bright side of everything. Most things have a bright side. Sit down and study your problem over and find the bright side, and then work on it from that standpoint."

MRS. BILL HUTSON, Hereford, housewife: "I really don't worry a lot. I stay so busy, and I believe that's the reason. I don't have time to worry."

MRS. A. L. KELLEY, 1311 Fifteenth, saleslady at Franklin's: "Take it easy. Remember 'easy does it'. I've found from my own experience that this is true. Live only 24 hours at a time. Yesterday's gone, and tomorrow isn't here."

MRS. JOHN TIMMONS, Tahoka, housewife: "Work. I read the Bible and pray and work at daily tasks. If you stay busy, you don't worry so much. Just keep busy at something. That's the best solution I have."

JOHN D. SMITH, 2217 Tenth, partner in McGuire's Drive-In: "I don't know a solution. I think a certain amount of worrying is good for anyone. My reason is that if you have something to worry about it keeps your mind occupied. 'An idle mind is the devil's workshop.'"

MRS. FLORENCE GILMORE, 708½ Thirteenth, waitress at Tower Cafe: "The west way not to worry is keep your mind off the things you have to worry about. Try to stay busy. I don't think you worry as much if you keep busy—if you have something else to occupy your mind and time."

Mrs. Tyrone Power Suffers Miscarriage

PARIS, Sept. 21 (INS)A spokesman for film star Tyrone Power said tonight that Mrs. Power, the former Linda Christian, has lost a premature baby and is undergoing treatment during a recuperation period.

He did not say when the miscarriage occurred and Mrs. Power said only that "I am very sorry for the loss of our baby."

The young, former film beauty left American hospital in Paris yesterday and is remaining in the French capital for a few days. Power is going to London shortly to complete a movie started this spring in Morocco.

The couple was married in Rome last winter.

BRITISH MONEY PROBLEM EXPLAINED

Exports Fell As Foreigners Placed Less Value On Pound

This is the first of two stories dealing with Britain's financial crisis and how she moved to meet it by devaluing the pound.

BY STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 — A country devalues its money because it has to.

In Britain's case, it was as simple as this: pounds would buy so little, as compared with dollars, that people didn't want pounds.

They were willing to pay a premium, in pounds, to get hold of dollars.

And as long as Britain insisted that a pound was worth $4.03, the many foreigners who thought otherwise didn't do business with Britain.

Now Britain says a pound is worth $2.80. A pair of British gloves that was marked one pound —or $4.03—can be bought for 30 per cent less.

Fixed Rate Explained

That is a more realistic price, by the standards of Americans and a lot of other people. Britain therefore should sell more gloves —and more of everything else she makes.

The question arises: why do countries have fixed, "official," rates at all? Why don't they just let currencies find their own level in the financial markets of New York or Paris or Switzerland, and let values fluctuate like wheat prices?

This is why:

A businessman who sells to foreigners must know the value of the money he will receive when his cargo reaches port. Otherwise he cannot safely quote a price, figure a profit, or be sure of avaiding loss.

And a businessman who places orders abroad for quantity deliveries over a long period of time must be sure that the foreign currency is stable enough to insure his getting his money's worth.

Postwar Inflation

Therefore, nations set great store by the stability of their currency. Otherwise they must cease to be trading nations. The Italians used to talk gravely of defending the lira "with 10,000,000 bayonets."

It takes more than bayonets to keep a currency stable.

In Britain, there was a wartime and postwar inflation. Britain was short of goods, her factories flattened. She couldn't export until she could feed and fuel and house her own people. She imported far more than she exported. She couldn't earn enough dollars by selling to America to pay for what she bought.

The "unfavorable balance of trade" became a chronic deficit and finally, a crisis, when the last remaining reserves of dollars ran desperately low.

Dollars Demanded

Meantime people in Britain had pounds. They were at work. They wanted goods and foodstuffs and comforts. They would get them from the United States but they had to have dollars to do so.

England clamped restrictions on the number of dollars it would give its people for pounds. As dollars got scarcer, people were willing to put an extra value on them.

The inflation made things worse. The Labor government had let wages rise. Its social welfare progroms, aside from questions of merit or demerit, imbedded taxes into the costs of production. A pound bought less and less, whether it was held by a Britisher or a foreigner. American prices went up, but not nearly so fast.

There were lot sof pounds floating around, but they didn't represent the goods that people wanted. Foreigners selling to Britain soon held more than they needed. They demanded dollars instad.

All the while Britain was making fine recovery — within the British isles. Production rose. Exports moved 50 per cent ahead of prewar.

But that wasn't enough. Last April the channels of trade became choked with pounds. British exports began to fall. Even with Marshall plan help, the gap between dollars owed and dollars earned began to widen.

(Tomorrow: Britain's growing financial troubles, and the prospect of recovery through devaluation of the pound).

Osaka Businessman Visits In America

Limited Future For Sale Of "Falsies" Seen By Japanese

BY HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—Sam, a cigar-smoking, saki-drinking big wheel from Osaka, thinks one American product has only a limited future in Japan.

The product is—falsies.

"If Japanese girl wear European dress," said Sam, "maybe falsies all right."

"But if she wear kimono—no!"

It seems the Japanese feminine ideal is a bumpless siuhouette.

"Sam"—a nickname he picked up here—is Isamu Saheki, 47, managing director of the Kinki Nippon railway, the largest independently owned railroad in the Orient.

Owns Hotel Chain

The railroad owns a chain of hotels, department stores and theaters, and Saheki is visiting America to drum up some tourist business for the land of cherry blossoms.

"Business bad now, better next spring," he said. "How's stock market doing?"

We had a long talk with Sam and the interpreter he leaned on when his own thoughts exceeded his English—George Alexander, Tokyo traffic manager for the North Airlines.

The Japanese Silk association asked him to find out why American women prefer nylon stockings, and Sam said:

"I feel that silk stockings are more flattering to women's legs than nylon."

Man Broad-Minded

Thoroughly broad-minded as well as keen-eyed, he gestured with his hands as if outlining a barrel, and remarked:

"American women beautiful—very shapely. All have originality in dressing."

Sam made a trip on the subway, but it failed to give him any new ideas on how to sardine more passengers onto his own railway. It already carries from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 commuters daily. He does plan, however, to put on some cute girl hostesses. They'll peddle tea.

He felt Japan could adopt a higher respect for women, a thing that struck him about the United States.

"In Japan woman walks behind," he said.

And what Japanese custom did he thinks America might follow to its advantage.

Sam thought and thought.

"Well, Japanese men very patient under bad luck," he said, and—his face became bland and innocent—

"Japanese women very, very faithful to their menfolks."

Water shortages and price uncertainty may cut Peru's rice crop by 20,000 bushels.

Man Is Electrocuted In New Jersey Hotel

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Sept. 21. (AP)—Police said a man took his own life in a hotel room here by standing on wet towels and clutching wires plugged into electric wall sockets.

A manager of the Hotel Plaza found the electrocuted body yesterday when he opened the door with a passkey. Police said the man had been dead about two days.

He was identified tentatively by police as William Taylor, 35. The only address available was "U. S. Army Transport General Taylor, Port of New York embarkation," police said.

Leaving their hats and umbrellas in the waiting rooms, businessmen going home on evening trains now get out at country stations around Birmingham, England, and put in an hour's gardening, as part of a drive to beautify the stations.

of labor 12, league 317, Parmer county school land survey. That makes it 15 miles southeast of Seminole.

Is Drilling Ahead

Cabot Carbon company, and associates' No. 2 Bice, northeast Gaines county wildcat, two miles northwest of the nearest production in the Welch field of northwest Dawson county, and 660 feet from south and east lines of section 2, block C-31, psl survey, had reached 4,642 feet in anhydrite and lime and is drilling ahead.

This prospector is slated to dig to 5,000 feet to try to develop production in the San Andres lime.

Operator has reported that the top of the anhydrite was at 2,140 feet; top of the Cowden anhydrite was at 2,740 feet; top of the Yates was at 3,000 feet and top of the Yoakum dolomite was picked at 4,000 feet.

Flowing Producer

Sinclair Oil & Gas company has completed its No. 5-1555 University as a flowing producer from the Ellenburger in the Shafter Lake field of north-central Andrews county.

It made a daily production of 800.71 barrels of 41.2-gravity oil, flowing through a three-quarters inch tubing choke. Gas-oil ratio of the new oil was 180-1. There was no formation water reported.

The production was through perforations in the 7-inch oil string between 11,725-790 feet after that zone had been treated with 2,000 gallons of acid. Total depth of the exploration was 11,850 feet in the Ellenburger.

This new source of oil is 555 feet from east and 765 feet from north lines of the southwest quarter of section 24, block 13, University lands.

Well Is Completed

Los Nietos company and Honolulu Oil Corporation No. 1-A M. S. Doss has been completed from the Clear Fork in the north Riley field of central-west Gaines county.

The new pumper made an initial daily production of 229.02 barrels of oil and no water. Gravity of the oil was 33.1 and the gas-oil ratio was 231-1.

Production was from open hole between the top of the pay at 6,613 feet and the total depth at 6,894 feet. That section was treated with 8,000 gallons of acid.

The new well is 660 feet from south and west lines of the lease in section 366, block G. CCSD& RGNG survey.

Lion Oil company has completed its No. 16 C. T. McLaughlin from the Canyon reef in the Diamond-M field of southwest Scurry county.

Flowing natural through a 16/64-inch tubing choke it made a daily production of 466 barrels of oil and no water in 24 hours. Gravity of the oil was 43.8 and the gas-oil ratio was 874-1.

The production was from perforated section between the top of the pay at 6,589 feet and the total depth at 6,721 feet.

Farm Aid

ployment commission.

Area offices where this may be done are at 1114 Tenth street Lubbock, Lamesa, Littlefield, Plainview and Childress.

These applications can be filed by a single farmer for his own needs, by a pool of farmers, or by ginners for the farmers they serve.

Plan Reduces Travel

The application finally gets to the Mexican government and, if approved there, the farmer signs a bond for the number of laborers allotted to him. Then he waits for notification that the labor is available and has to get the workers. Several days, at the least, elapse between the signing of bonds and the notification that the labor is ready.

Heretofore, South Plains farmers seeking such labor have had to make at least two trips to El Paso — the first to sign bonds and the second to get their workers.

Under the new arrangement, they will have to travel no further than Lubbock to sign bonds. But, presumably, they still will have to go to El Paso, or some other point on the U. S.-Mexican border, to get the laborers.

The new arrangement was announced after a good deal of fast work Tuesday afternoon. Cooperating were the Lubbock and Lamesa chambers of commerce, the employment commission and the immigration service.

A long distance call from Lubbock chamber to immigration service officials in El Paso obtained assurance that an immigration agent would be assigned here if enough farmers could qualify for Mexican labor. Another call ascertained that enough farmers — 10 to 20, at least — were qualified at Lamesa alone.

A third call to immigration authorities in El Paso with this information, brought the assurance that a man would be sent here.

It still is uncertain as to when he will arrive, but the expectation is that it will be late this week or early next.

Meanwhile, O'Connell said that approximately 100 area farmers have filed applications for about 6,000 Mexican workers. All of these applications now are "in the mill." Authorities here, of course, have no way of knowing how many of them will be approved.

But officials here agreed that several hundred other South Plains farmers could use many thousands of additional cotton pickers from Mexico.

If these farmers hope to get labor from that source, O'Connell said, they should file their applications at once.

The full details of the requirements which must be met to qualify for such workers are available at any of the commission offices, O'Connell added. But most farmers can comply with them either as individuals or by forming a pool with others needing pickers.

In a general way, the farmer must post a bond, starting at $25 a head, for each worker allotted to him. He, or his pool, also must be in position to guarantee a minimum of 90 days work.

Those unable to visit the commission office in person can obtain information by telephone, O'Connell said. The number of the Lubbock office is 4661.

Fair Boosters

waited for the boosters downtown.

Most sought after items by the majority of the youngsters were the pencils, with balloons a close second, and rulers and free tickets next in that order.

Other Towns Visited

Other school stops included Lockney at 9:40 a. m., Roaring Springs at 12:45 p. m., Dickens at 1:40 p. m., and Spur at 2:20 p. m. Stops in the business districts for distribution of window placards were made at Hale Center at 8:10 a. m., Crosbyton at 3:45 p. m., and Lorenzo at 4:50 p. m. in addition to those already mentioned.

Randolph Rampy and Jerry Brooks were co-chairmen for the trip, and George Bond, assistant manager of the Chamber of Commerce, was in charge of distribution of the favors.

The final good neighbor tour which will be made Thursday, is routed west to Levelland and Morton, and then south to Hobbs, N. M., after which the boosters will return to Lubbock. W. D. Rogers and Vernon Peters are co-chairmen for the Thursday tour.

95 Reservations Made

Bond said about 95 reservations have been made for the final trip, which includes 30 by the Lubbock county Sheriff's Posse. Itinerary for the trip follows: Leave Lubbock at 7:15 a. m.; Levelland, 8 to 8:20; Whiteface, 8:40 to 8:55; Morton, 9:15 to 9:35; Plains, 10:20 to 10:45; Tatum, 11:30 a. m. to 12:15 p. m.; Lovington for lunch, 12:50 to 2:20; Hobbs, 2:50 to 4:30; and return to Lubbock by 7:30 p. m.

Boosters who made the trip Tuesday were Travis F. Melton of the West Texas Gas company, Norman Montgomery of the Commercial Credit corporation, George S. Lemon of the Pioneer Cookie company, H. B. "Jack" Golding of the Santa Fe Railway company, Cliff Elliott of the Baldridge bakery, Thomas George of the Altee Shoe store, Lloyd Smith of the Lubbock Hardware and Supply company, Troy Bowers of the Nunn Electric Supply corporation, James Metts of the Burlington lines, Ted Waldrip of the Dryer and Lee Oil company, Jeff Pirtle of Hanna-Pope and company, Jim Bennett of the Bennett Auto Supply, Randolph Rampy of the Texas Roofing company, W. B. Sylvester of the Lindsey theater, E. B. McNeill of the Behrens Drug company, A. S. Meinecke of Meinecke Brothers, A. B. Hunt of T.N.M. and O. Coaches, Ernest Downing of the People's Finance and Guaranty company, and George A. Bond, assistant manager of the Chamber of Commerce. Buddy Hatton was driver of the chartered bus, and Lawrence Haynes drove the Baldridge bakery sound truck, which led the bus through the towns.

Damages Of $12,500 Is Okayed In Suit

A compromise agreement whereby plaintiffs receive $12,500 in damages was approved Tuesday afternoon by 99th District Judge G. V. Pardue in the case of Ray Melchor and others against United Geophysical company, a corporation, and others.

Judge Pardue acted for Judge Dan Blair, since the 72nd district judge was holding court in Cochran county.

The recovery was prorated between Melchor and his wife and four minor children, and to the plaintiffs' attorneys, the firm of Brummett and Brummett. A. W. Salyars was appointed guardian to represent the rights of the minors in the hearing.

The recovery was one of the largest in such cases here in years, court officials indicated.

The suit grew out of a June 19 accident 10 miles southeast of Post. A car driven by Oscar Balderrama and occupied by the plaintiffs was struck from the rear by a truck belonging to the geophysical company and driven by its employe John Henry Shaw of Snyder.

The plaintiffs all live in Garza county.

SIXTH DEFENDANT TO TAKE STAND

Robeson Testimony Blocked In Communist Conspiracy Trial

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP)—The sixth of 11 communist conspiracy trial defendants takes the witness stand today after singer Paul Robeson's vain effort to place on the record his views on communism versus capitalism.

Defendant Henry Winston, the communist party's organizational secretary, was called as a witness late yesterday but his preliminary testimony was interrupted by the overnight recess.

Winston has been in jail during off-court hours since June 3 when federal Judge Harold R. Medina sent him up for the duration on a contempt charge. Winston protested the court's treatment of another defendant.

Testimony Blocked

Robeson took the witness stand yesterday but most of his intended testimony was blocked.

The husky negro found himself once again under the thumb of his one-time university professor —none other than Judge Medina. Robeson once attended a class taught by Medina at Columbia university.

The defense did not introduce Robeson as a character witness. Instead, defense attorney George W. Crockett, jr., a negro, launched a series of questions about Robeson's background, his knowledge of the 11 communist leaders on trial and other subjects.

At one point, Crockett asked Robeson if he ever had appeared on the same speaking platform as Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"You must know perfectly well," said Judge Medina to Crockett, "that a question as to whether this witness was on the platform with the wife of former President Roosevelt has absolutely nothing to do with this case, and I don't think it is proper for you to continue a series of questions like that."

Robeson Cut Off

After a few more questions were blocked by government objections, Crockett said:

"In view of the court's ruling, I am convinced it will be impossible to bring before the court the testimony I had hoped."

"I don't think you should have called him (Robeson)," replied Medina.

When Robeson started to say something, the court turned to him and interrupted:

"No, Mr. Robeson, I don't want to hear any statement from you. I can't find from anything in these questions that you have any knowledge of the facts that are relevant in this case."

Shortly afterward, Crockett gave up his questioning and Robeson left the stand after the government declined to cross-examine him.

Treatment Protested

Mrs. Roosevelt, whose name was raised in the testimony, has said she would walk out on a Robeson concert if she found him speaking for communism.

Robeson talked to newsmen outside the courtroom and protested his treatment in court. The singer, central figure in the two recent anti-communist riots in Peekskill, said:

"They don't want the truth. I refuse to believe after today that the courts sit in a middle position.

"The communist party has played a magnificent role in fighting for freedom of the American negro."

A newsman asked:

"Are you a member of the communist party?"

"That question," replied Robeson, "is not relevant."

Brownfield Man Is Plane Crash Victim

McGEHEE, Ark., Sept. 21 (Spl.)—Hoyt B. Willingham, 33, Brownfield cotton duster, was killed instantly at 6:15 p. m. Tuesday when his plane hit the smoke stacks of the McGehee Hoop Mill company here and burst into flames.

Willingham has been a resident of Brownfield for the last 15 years. He was a member of the Baptist church, American Legion, Masonic lodge and Odd Fellows.

The body will arrive in Lubbock Thursday afternoon enroute to Brownfield. Funeral services, under direction of the Brownfield Funeral home, will probably be held Friday.

He is survived by the wife; four children, Fred, Joyce, Ralph and Phillip; his mother, Mrs. Ora Willingham of Brownfield; and a brother, R. A. of Austin.

FISH COMES TO DINNER

GREENVILLE, Miss. (U.P.)—Seaman Averin W. Cochran got tired of fishing and decided to take a night-time spin in his motor boat. Within ten minutes he returned with a 17-pound catfish. "It just jumped in the boat," Cochran explained.

Workers' Mistake Causes Fire Alarm

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 21 (AP)—There was a slight oversight on the part of workers who had put a new roof on the home of Mrs. Patsy Woodruff.

Mrs. Woodruff was startled yesterday to find smoke pouring from the attic shortly after she had lighted a stove in the front room. She called firemen, but they could find no fire.

District Fire Chief Karl Scheidler finally found the cause. The roofers had forgotten to put back the chimney and covered the hole with shingles, forcing all the smoke into the attic, Scheidler said.

Two Lubbock Wreck Victims "Improved"

W. M. Ryan and Frank Bass, Lubbock cotton brokers, are still confined to a Lamesa hospital but have shown "definite improvement" since they were admitted last Thursday following a two-car collision near O'Donnell, wives of the two reported Tuesday.

The brokers were injured late Thursday morning in a wreck which killed Rodney C. Strickland of Phillips when the latter apparently attempted to pass a truck. Ryan suffered chest injuries and Bass broken ribs in the wreck.

Mrs. Bass returned to Lubbock Tuesday and Mrs. Ryan was to arrive here today.

Road Group Formed At Littlefield Meet

LITTLEFIELD, Sept. 21 (Spl.)—A crowd of more than 200 persons packed the district court room of the court house here Tuesday night to complete plans for a local rural road association at a meeting called by Col. Joel I. McGregor, vice-president of the Texas Rural Road association.

The meeting, the sixth stop in the county-to-county campaign of Col. McGregor to improve Texas' farm roads, saw the election of George C. Brown of Olton as president of the newly-formed organization. Pat Boone of Littlefield was elected vice-president, Rudolph Shockley of Spade selected as secretary and County Attorney Bob Kirk chosen as treasurer of the county road group.

W. C. Foote, Petersburg rural mail carrier, and County Judge Otho Dent of Littlefield presided over the meeting.

The meeting here tonight was unique because for the first time in the area all plans for the organization were completed the first night.

Twelve directors were also elected tonight for the various districts in the county. They include Wallace Hackler, W. O. Watson, Frank Bozeman, E. C. Clayton, Sam Cearley, Jarvis Angley, Buck Friederickson, Curtis Lee, Mancil Hall, Hugh Vincent, Vic Diersing and Jack Yarbrough.

The Rural Road association seeks to improve the condition of the state's farm roads by using money gained from a severance tax on all natural resources for permanent improvements.

Col. McGregor plans to address county-wide meetings in Tahoka Wednesday night and Levelland Thursday night.

Bombay Province, India, will open three art schools.

UNCLE SAM, BOSS, WORKER IN PENSION BATTLE

Unions Charge Business Has Responsibility Of Caring For Depreciating Human Machines

By SAM DAWSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The battle for security is shifting. Who should provide for your old age—you, your government or your boss?

Some unions say it is up to your boss to provide for depreciating human machines. Some companies reply: "No one unwilling to contribute to his own old age requirements has a moral right to demand that others make that provision for him."

There are already some 12,000 security plans in effect in private industry, benefitting about 4½ million employes. In the battle to expland this the issue is becoming: Who is going to pay for the support of our growing army of the aged?

Top Brass Pensioned

Steel companies, under particular attack on the subject just now say many of them have had pension and welfare insurance plans in effect over a period of years. All, they say, are willing to discuss the matter with labor, but only if the employe also contributes to the pension fund. Such a fund, they add, is sounder, more equitable, and more easily held in check.

When labor concentrated its fight on getting higher wages, one of its arguments was that man should make enough to be able to put a little aside for his old age. This fall, labor is insisting that it is the boss who should put a little aside for the employe. Union labor reasons that as wages went up, so did prices, so that the worker still didn't have much put aside for old age.

The workers argue that corporations take care of pensions for the top brass—and for free in most instances. Why not the working man?

This issue—who pays for pensions—threatens crippling strikes in the steel, automobile, electrical appliance, coal and other industries.

Depreciation For People

This week the unions are aiming their arguments straight at the company bookkeeper. They quote the steel fact-finding board: "Social insurance and pensions should be considered a part of normal business costs to take care of temporary and permanent depreciation of the human machine, in much the same way as provision is made for depreciation and insurance of plant and machinery."

So far, few workers, if any, have risen to object to being called worn machines—possibly because every man realizes he isn't getting any younger. Also, he knows that there are now 11 million Americans 65 years old or older. And their number grows by leaps and bounds.

Back in 1900 there were only three million Americans that age. Then they made up four per cent of the total population. Now they are 7½ per cent of it.

Now old age and security are mass production items. It's taking more and more money to provide for the aged. The money comes from their own savings, from their families, from the government, from company pension plans.

Plans Non-Contributory

Of the 12,000 private security plans approved for tax purposes by the United States treasury, about 4,300 supported by both the boss and the worker, and 7,700 are supported entirely by the company.

Many of the latter were put into effect during the war. The companies were willing then because: first, insurance premiums could be deducted in computing income tax and cost less than the high wartime taxes would have; and, second, pensions were substitutes for wage hikes then curbed by government control. Three-fourths of the pension plans set up during the war years were non-contributory.

Management says this trend has been reversed since the war. The National Industrial Conference board compares two of its surveys. In 1945 only slightly more than half of the companies it studied required employes to contribute to pension funds. This summer a study of 261 group insurance plans showed that this had risen, so that now more than three-fourths of the companies require employe contributions.

Trend Toward Full Financing

But the steel fact-finding board apparently doesn't go along with this view. It finds "the recent trend in programs resulting from collective bargaining is toward complete financing of the plans by the employer, or toward lowering the employes' cost in existing contributory plans."

To the steel companies' it makes no difference if the company pays an additional 10 cents to a pension fund or 10 cents into the payroll. To a bookkeeper, 10 cents is 10 cents, and the companies are trying to hold down costs.

Also, management thinks security should be the primary responsibility of the individual and his government—not of the company. And they don't think humans should be classed with machines on their books, although labor depreciates too.

But the labor unions are working hard this week to get the non-contributory plans established as a charge on business.

And some observers think the next tack of the unions will be to try to get pensions plans set up so the worker can carry accumulated benefits from one job to another, just as he does his social security card.

Snyder Kiwanis Host To Lubbock Group

SNYDER, Sept. 21 (Special)—Twelve delegates from the Lubbock and Hub City Kiwanis clubs were guests here last night at the regular meeting at the country club of the newly-organized Snyder Kiwanis club. About 30 members and guests attended the meeting.

A special musical program under the direction of Clinton Lackey of Lubbock was presented by the Kiwanis Hot Shots band.

Seven-Ounce Bird Downs 8-Ton Plane

RENFREW, Scotland, Sept. 21 (AP) — A seven-ounce bird buzzed an eight-ton airplane today, and forced it down. The bird hit the windshield of a British European airways' passenger liner on its takeoff. The pilot, fearing cracked glass would be blown into the cabin, landed for repairs.

Knights Of Pythias Hold Business Meet

About 50 members of the Knights of Pythias attended a regular weekly business meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in their lodge at 1107½ Ave. K to witness Freeman Paschall receive the rank of Page in the organization. The rank was conferred by Frank French chancellor commander of the lodge.

Two other members, French said, were to receive the same rank at the meeting but were out of town. They will be given the rank at the next weekly meeting.

A special meeting was called for Wednesday, Sept. 28, due to the presence of Bryan E. Thomas of Electra, grand chancellor of the lodge, in Lubbock at that time.

CAMPUS LOVE TRIANGLE BARED

Iranian Accused Of Shooting College Wife To Stand Trial

BERKELEY, Cal., Sept. 21. (INS) —Parviz Daryoush, 27-year-old son of a wealthy Iranian merchant, was ordered today to stand trial for the attempted murder of the woman who turned him down in favor of her estranged husband in a bizarre campus love triangle.

The principals, Daryoush, dapper and wearing a neatly trimmed moustache, his victim, Mrs. Judith Sher, 26, and her husband Samuel Sher, 27, all students at the University of California, testified in Berkeley justice court.

Daryoush is accused of shooting the exotic young college wife last month as she and her husband removed her effects from an apartment her fiery suitor had rented for her near the campus.

He is specifically charged with assault with a/deadly weapon with intent to commit murder.

Justice of the Peace Oliver Youngs overruled defense attorney George T. Davis when he objected to Sher sitting beside his wife on the witness stand. The husband explained that she was suffering from loss of memory and difficulty of speech as a result of the near fatal bullet wound in her head.

Mrs. Sher took fully three minutes to identify the Iranian as he stood with dark, scowling face before her in the courtroom. After delaying her answers to three questions, she finally smilingly admitted she "remembered" him.

Several times during the proceedings Sher was worned by the court against prompting the brown haired beauty as she was asked about her romance with Daryoush.

Mrs. Sher said she couldn't remember Daryoush giving her $155 although she did recall his threat to jump off the Golden Gate bridge if she would not divorce her husband.

She also said she was unable to recall a plan whereby she and Daryoush were to have gone off together to Reno.

Daryoush himself said he did "plan to go to Nevada" with her. He declared he had "no intention of killing Judith" but that he had "made it clear to her" he would kill himself if she wouldn't marry him.

Later the Iranian said he had given her $155 and a jewel box because she needed money to go "away from her husband, away from me, to think things over."

Sher told defense attorney Davis he did not know anything abut the money Doryush said he gave his wife. Davis declared yesterday the Shers had attempted to get money from Daryoush in one version of "the old badger game."

Doctors found and removed it when he went to them complaining of toothache.

Russian's Book Is Criticized By Reds

MOSCOW, Sept. 21 (AP)—Writer I. Vsevolozhsky has been severely criticized in "Komsomol Pravda" for a book described as "rubbish."

"How could it happen," asked the critic, "that such a harmful book, such base hackwork which has obviously been written on the model of foreign boulevard literature could be published here in the Soviet Union, where the most progressive literature in the world highly artistic and highly ideological has been created, where the rank of author has been raised to unprecedented heights?"

Kansas Farmers Fly Ships To State Fair

HUTCHINSON, Kas., Sept. 21 (AP)—Kansas farmers have found a new way to get to the state fair —and return home in time to get the nightly chores done.

One hundred and sixty-five planes owned by flying farmers landed on a new airstrip at the Kansas state fairground yesterday. It's believed to be the first airstrip established at any state fair in the nation.

After the farmers looked over their fair, they took off late in the afternoon for their homes—in plenty of time to do the chores.

BRITISH PEOPLE ARE NOT GAY

Sharp Contrast Revealed By Life In England And France

(EDITOR'S NOTE: L. R. Blanchard is general executive editor of the 21 metropolitan papers—mostly in the East—in the Gannett chain. As one of the nation's most widely known and respected editors, Mr. Blanchard has often traveled the world for his papers, informing himself, first-hand, on what is going on. Recently he went to England to look at Socialism and the series of articles he wrote while on the trip are highly revealing. Because some politicians urge that the U. S. follow England in experimenting with Socialism. The Journal asked—and received—permission of the Gannett papers and Mr. Blanchard to present the series in Texas. We consider Mr. Blanchard's articles to be most significant, especially since Britain, largely supported by American tax dollars, will seek from us next month more aid to be used in carrying on socialistic aims.)

By L. R. BLANCHARD
Executive Editor, Gannett Newspapers

PARIS — England and France are separated by a mere 20 miles at one point.

That little stretch of boisterous water does not represent in the least the real gulf between the two countries.

In Paris are food and wine. There is gaiety and there is hope.

In London even the skies are slow to reflect the coming of day. London has food enough to keep men and women alive, but certain important foods are lacking. The diet is monotonous and unattractive The people are not gay. They are brave and determined, and not very happy.

The wide Avenue des Champs Elysees has a carnival atmosphere. New awnings shade the chairs and tables of open air cafes. Any afternoon and evening one finds thousands of strollers chatting, laughing—enjoying life.

People Can't Be Gay

Contrast the spirit with that in London. The embankment along the Thames is deserted, except for a few persons on business. Those few are muffled against the dank air that rises from the Thames and that settles down over the city in a prevailing mist. The downtown streets may be gayer now that lighting is permitted, but the people on them will not be so.

The people are tired and worn. Even a bright necktie looks like an insult to Englishmen, who find that life is real and life is earnest to the nth degree.

It has required these few days in Paris to straighten out one's thinking about England. One is affected in spite of himself by the attitudes of those around him. He, too, begins to think that the punishment meted out to Adam has caught up at last with the human race. He becomes depressed. He feels that disaster is just around the corner, and that until it lands squarely upon us we must prepare ourselves by suffering.

BRITAIN has settled down to the long pull. She suffers a sense of injustice in the fact that she has lost her place in the world. She is determined to regain that place. She is committed also to an extensive program of expensive social reforms. Thus she has a double load.

France has no apparent ambition to world leadership. She will be content if her people can live in peace and plenty. She is not minded to don a yoke or a hair shirt. If she has any mental reservation at the moment, it is perhaps a regret that her record in the war was not what she wishes it had been. A surprising number of Frenchmen will admit such a feeling.

Anyway, France has adopted a program opposite to that of Great Britain. She has revoked most controls. Because she is self-sufficient as to food, she could afford to do this. With the help of a great harvest last year, her people, in general are eating as well as ever—at little more cost. Wages have gone up 9 per cent, food costs about 20 per cent. But the prices are heading down.

France Has Gone A Long Way

France had adopted a great many social reforms in years past and retains them. She has not gone all out, as England did to provide every person, automatically with X-ray, hospitalization and free spectacles. But she has gone a long way, and feels that with a new prosperity she can go further in that field, without undue hardship.

The Englishman is a delightful companion, but there is no dodging the fact that, in general, he takes his pleasures rather grimly. He takes a pride in the fact that the British are never licked, that they enjoy a good helping of hardship. In fact he appears to get pleasure out of wearing a hair shirt. And if, with that, he wears a drab necktie and if the laundress has not been too careful with the ironing, he seems to draw added pleasure.

Here we have two choice examples of how to recover from the disasters of war—how to grow.

CERTAINLY the French method works faster. The people here are leading lives about up to the prewar standard. They look it. They are gay and their clothing reflects that spirit. The old French chic is back in design and color and, most important, there still remains the knowledge of how to carry such effects.

Streets are lighted, the theaters prosper and the avenues are lined with autos, big and little. Gasoline is supposed to be restricted but anyone taking his life in his hands by crossing a street here, will swear that there is no shortage.

Buildings are being cleaned and repaired. Hotels that were bleak and dismal two years ago are bright and shining now with new carpets, new drapes and decorations.

Above all one sees the change in diet. One has only to ask for meats and he gets them. No butcher stands over the housewife to dictate what shred of mutton or veal she shall have. The bread is whiter. Coffee tastes like coffee and not barley in masquerade.

Frenchmen Are Optimistic

Frenchmen feel they are over the hump. Many matters remain to be settled, but with the people regaining their happiness, there is no fear for the future. Communism lost ground as life turned brighter. Expdnents of that creed still are dangerous and more powerful than recent elections make them appear, but they definitely have lost any chance for an upper hand.

France lives in fear of a revived Germany. But she has lost some of her fear of Russia. It is believed here that the Atlantic Pact will convince the Soviets they'd better stay at home.

Britain is a land under the strictest of controls and with little hope that they will be lifted to any extent. So far as the average Englishman can see, he will be repressed for years in diet, in major comforts and in the conduct of his business.

MANY of them seem to prefer it that way. They believe that the program will win through, that Britain will regain her balance in commerce, be able to purchase all what she sells. The people have been sold all that in a strenuous and skilful advertising propaganda campaign.

A stranger can forsee a certain deterioration in British character. It shows in a great many business men, who would feel lost if the government is not there to direct sales, to fix prices, to find raw materials and to uncover and develop markets. Such men surely will be weaklings when allowed to return to directing their own affairs.

Still we have the two great examples — Britain and France. The one is glum and dispirited. The other is happy and optimistic. One is going ahead; the other lags under all sorts of pressures. Which is right?

It would be a terrible and fantistic joke on the British if the French are. Wouldn't it?

Tomorrow: The farmer is bossed, too.)

Pair Gets 200 Years On Liquor Robberies

DALLAS, Sept. 21. (AP)—Two Air Force enlisted men were sentenced to a total of 200 years in prison after pleading guilty to robbing five liquor stores.

The men were Pfc. Coley Vernon Cox, 22, and Corp. Dillard E. Henderson, 23.

Judge Henry King yesterday ruled all the sentences should be served together.

Fred Earl Langhorne, a Houston policeman who helped arrest the pair in that city last June, said they were under charges in Fort Worth, Texarkana, Austin, Houston and Waco, as well as Dallas.

They were stationed at Carswell Air Force base in Fort Worth.

DIES OF INJURIES

WACO, Sept. 21. (AP)—Staff Sgt. Charles Robert Brooks, 22, Columbus, Ga., died last night of injuries received in an automobile wreck Monday night near here.

Two other persons were injured.

DALLAS LADY LOSES 58 POUNDS

The following remarkable story shows conclusively that Barcentrate DOES take off fat.

It contains nothing harmful. In fact, it contains ingredients that make you feel better. No starvation diet—no weakness—no hunger. Barcentrate, the original grapefruit juice recipe, takes off fat quickly, safely and you can eat plenty.

Here is proof

"I want to tell you what weight I have lost in 2½ months by using Barcentrate. I weighed 262 pounds when I started. I now weigh 204. I am so proud I tried it. I was told that I could not live a year unless I lost some weight. You may use my name any way you wish."—Mrs. J. B. Moore, 1638 Mentor Street, Dallas, Texas.

At all druggists

If you are overweight and want to take off ugly fat, just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, safe way to take off weight, return the empty bottle for your money back.

German Leader Raps Russians

BONN, Germany, Sept. 21. (AP)—Konrad Adenauer, chancellor of the new west German republic, said yesterday that Germans must never forget the aid that the United States has given to them in their postwar reconstruction

At the same time, he rapped Poland and the Soviet Union for seizing territory in east Germany and continuing to hold German war prisoners.

Never, said Adenauer, had a victorious power rendered such help to a vanquished nation as the United States had to Germany since the war.

To Seek Territory

"The German people must never forget this," Adenauer said in his first official policy statement, "and they never will forget it."

But the tall, grey-haired Catholic conservative also told the lower house of parliament (the bundestag) that Germany would not forget the "one-sided severance" of eastern German territories by Russia and Poland.

"We will not cease to pursue, in a lawful manner, our demands on this territory," he said. He appealed to all nations to cooperate in obtaining the release of German prisoners held by the Russians.

That Girl on Broadway says a quiet day in the news is one during which none of the Roosevelts got married, or divorced.

A small town is a place where the only night spot is the movie theater and it closes at 10:30.

THE average middle-aged man may not recall the name, or the face of the girl with which he had his first date, and he probably doesn't remember, clearly, the first girl he ever kissed.

But when he hears the music to which he learned to dance, the odds are high that he'll immediately remember all about the girl who taught him.

The other day we heard an orchestra beating out the strains of "Hindustan," and our mind went back about 35 years, to a livingroom with the rugs rolled up on North Denver avenue, in Tulsa. There, with the phonograph—there were no "combinations" then—scratching away on "Hindustan," we painfully struggled at the shrine of Terpsicore.

Louise Frantz, daughter of a former governor of Oklahoma and three years our senior, has ever since been enshrined in our memory. Afternoon upon afternoon, she wrestled with us, and her brother Frank. Hour after hour, the phonograph ground away on "Hindustan," and two chunky little boys of 14 huffed, puffed and sweated to keep up.

Louise probably is a grandmother by now and we don't know where she is.

But wherever she is and whatever her status, we remain indebted to her for starting us on a career which since has covered at least a million miles in all sorts of places from Vienna to San Francisco and from Detroit to Mexico City.

We've never heard "Hindustan" since without mentally laying a wreath of roses at her feet!

We see by the papers that the real estate situation is leveling off and that $10,000 houses have dropped from $25,000 to $24,500.

WONDERFUL things are expected of a 14-year-old soprano in Cincinnati, as even the neighbors think she's good.

A citizen of London reports he has walked 9,500 miles in the last three years.

We can't help but wonder if the baby's still crying!

That Man on Avenue Q says middle age is that period of life during which a fellow gets badly scared over every pain he feels.

OVER the past decade and a half, a great many Americans not directly connected with either capital or labor have felt that the country eventually will be better off as a result of the "bloodless revolution" which, slowly but surely, has been bringing economic and other gains to workingmen and their families.

To be entirely honest about it, we have leaned toward that belief, ourself.

We have disapproved when officials for reasons purely political, have winked at laws which are supposed to safe-guard the rights of the public. We have disapproved of acts of violence and racketeering. We have disapproved of the passage of legislation clearly unfair to business, but giving labor czars almost carte blanche in carrying on their campaigns.

But over-all, we have believed and continue to believe—that eventually employer and employe will learn to work together for the common good, and that a fair share of business gains for the worker will result in a better country, a happier people and a more satisfactory average life over the nation.

To be sure, the nation still is a long way from a satisfactory peace on the labor-capital front.

To be sure, there still remain wrongs to be righted on both sides and there remain, too, inequalities in the law.

But every once-in-awhile, the sun breaks through the clouds and those with sharp eyes can discern a patch of blue. This blue indicates that those who expect eventual over-all improvement as the result of labor's gains have been sound in their long-range thinking.

TWO cases in point have cropped up recently. One had to do with a union of department store workers in Philadelphia.

Business was off in Wanamaker's great store in Philadelphia. The employes of the store noticed it. They decided to do something about it.

They went to the management, voluntarily, and said something like this:

"We know when business is bad for the owners of Wanamaker's, it's likely to get bad for us who work here, too. We like our jobs. We want to keep them. It is to our interests to help Wanamaker's do well. Therefore, we have taken $5,000 from our union funds to be used in advertising Wanamaker's; to advertise our interest in the welfare of Wanamaker's. Here's the $5,000."

Into the newspapers of Philadelphia went advertisements paid for and signed by Wanamaker's employes, urging the public to "come to see us." The ads also told the public the why and the wherefore of the ads—and Wanamaker's business stepped up. The people of Philadelphia, while surprised, decided that such co-operation deserved their support.

The other case is point was in New England.

A manufacturing plant had been hit hard. Its products were in less demand than they had been and something had to be done to keep the company from closing up. The story was told the workers, whose co-operation was requested for the good of the whole.

The union involved had a meeting. After discussion, the union voted its members an 11-cent-per hour cut in pay for the duration of the emergency, asking in return only that the wage cut be restored when and if economically sound. The owners of the plant accepted the favor with thanks and promised that the executive end of the enterprise would double its efforts in order that restoration of pay wouldn't be put off one hour longer than economically necessary.

THESE are only two examples of improvement on the labor-capital front. There are others—not too many others, but enough to indicate that a pattern may be under formation.

Other cheering signs include overwhelming opposition in unions to the Communists who set out to use American working men as their tools; gradual conclusion among workingmen and their sounder leaders that the strike is and should be a weapon of last resort; active participation by labor, individually and collectively, in worthwhile civic undertakings around the country as, in Lubbock, generous aid, in cash and work, on such projects as the orphans home, Girlstown, the tubercular clinic, the Boys club, etc., etc.

In every great movement throughout American history, there has been much huffing and puffing, much pulling and hauling as old orders underwent changes. Much of this huffing and puffing, pulling and hauling—as in the labor movement—has been unpleasant, even indefensible in spots.

But there are good grounds—better grounds than ever—for belief that the reshuffling in the labor-capital game eventually will bring forth a new, better era for all concerned.

After all, the American revolution, the War Between the States, the earlier battles over the 8-hour day and the essential passage of pure food laws did just that.

BY DREW PEARSON: EMPLOYER-PAID PENSIONS THREAT TO SOCIAL SECURITY INCREASE

Truman's Gentleness With Big Steel Irks Labor

WASHINGTON — Washington social security experts are worried about what the steel fact-finding board recommendations will do to the old-age pension and social security program now before Congress.

PEARSON

What they fear is a series of special old-age pension plans for certain industrial groups that have the strike power to get them. This might leave millions of less-organized workers who have less power to strike with inadequate old-age pensions and meagre social security protection.

Under the Doughton bill, now pending on the House calendar, nearly 50,000,000 employees would share contributions with employers to double present social security benefits. The steel board, however, favors a pension plan for the steel workers paid for entirely by employers, in addition to government social security.

What also worries the social security planners is this: Will the steel workers and other well-organized labor groups push as hard for higher social security benefits for which they pay part of the cost when they can get them from the employer for nothing?

CIO Secretary James B. Carey warned the House committee on ways and means in 1946 that if Congress failed to expand social security, "then labor organizations of the type of the United Mine workers will attempt to secure security for their workers in some other manner. The point that I am making is just a simple one," continued Carey, "that this program presented by John L. Lewis to the operators is a type of program that we say should be administered by the federal government."

Carey's prediction was right. Lewis put across his welfare fund—though it's now suspended—thus putting the miners in a favored position over other workers. Naturally the steel workers don't want to be outdone by the miners. And millions of other oldsters who don't belong to unions don't want to be outdone either. It would have been better if Congress had handled the entire problem in the first place.

Tito's Brand Of Communism

When a Yugoslav diplomat was transferred from Washington back to Belgrade, his wife confided to a Washington neighbor:

"I'm going to have to buy a whole new wardrobe."

"But why?" asked the neighbor. "Your things are lovely."

"That's just it," was the reply. "If I should wear these clothes in Belgrade, all my friends would say I had gone capitalist. I have to buy some very plain things."

Then in a still deeper tone of regret, the Yugoslav lady added:

"Another thing is I won't see much of the children any more. When we go back, they'll have to be put in a state school and we'll have them only at night."

MIFFED at Truman—CIO President Philip Murray and his top aides are not saying so publicly, but they feel that President Truman has fumbled the ball in averting a steel strike. The CIO thought it had Truman primed to give U. S. Steel a big tongue-lashing last week for refusing to negotiate on the basis of the President's own fact-finding board on steel. Instead, Truman was meek, mild, and condemned nobody—despite the fact that the steel workers accepted the principle of the report while the company has rejected it.

Deal with Bevin—Here is the inside story on an agreement between Secretary Acheson and Foreign Minister Bevin that was kept out of the official communique. Britain is going to get an extra Marshall plan allotment for expanding the production of manganese in her African territory of Northern Rhodesia. The deal is to counteract a Russian squeeze when they stopped shipping manganese to the United States last March because they thought it was being stockpiled for war against Russia.

Senators play hookey—So many senators have strayed off on vacations that leaders are having trouble rounding up votes on critical issues. GOP Leader Kenneth Wherry sent frantic telegrams to all absent Republicans to hurry back for the vote on reciprocal trade. GOP leaders moan that eight absent Republicans could have changed the final vote which gave the President a free hand to cut tariffs.

Japan gets respectable—General MacArthur has cabled the State department urging that Japan be included as a charter member in the proposed Far Eastern defense alliance. MacArthur believes that without Japan's manpower and industrial resources, any anti-Communist alliance in the Far East is doomed to failure. So he's asked the State department to try and convince Australia and New Zealand to let bygones be bygones and invite the Japanese to join.

Latin loans—Secretary of State Acheson is telling Latin American delegates to the United Nations who complain about not getting economic aid from the U. S. that the International Bank and Monetary fund has made 70 per cent of all its loans to Latin America. Acheson will disclose that the bank would make more loans if Latin Americans asked for more money. Every application has been processed.

Paratrooper Tells Truman

Master Sgt. Jim Hendrix, who fell 1,000 feet from an airplane and lived to tell about it, called at the White House for the second time the other day. On a previous visit, President Truman had pinned the congressional medal of honor on Hendrix after he had smashed a German machine-gun nest singlehanded, killing seven enemy soldiers and capturing 13 others.

The President hadn't forgotten this first meeting, and when he saw Hendrix the second time, he recalled:

"Among those who were decorated with you that day was a boy in a wheel chair who had lost both legs in battle. I'll never forget something he said. He remarked that he had but one life, but that he was still ready to give it for his country."

Truman questioned Sergeant Hendrix closely about his 1,000-foot plunge to earth when his parachute failed to open at Fort Benning, Ga.

"I know the good Lord saved me from death," related the paratrooper. "When I was about 500 feet from the ground, I screamed to him for help. Then I grabbed my feet so that I would strike the earth in a V-shape. When I hit the ground, I rolled. I was shaken up terribly, but had no serious injury.

"Things like that don't happen by accident," he added intently. "It was God's will that I be saved."

"I'm as sure of that as you are, son," said the President. "And he saved you for some good reason. He wanted you to live for some good cause."

Garbo Dodges Conference In Rome With Change Of Hotels

SEE You Next August, I Hope—This is the valedictory B & E daily column for 1949 . . . I've enjoyed knocking off the paragraphs for eight weeks. . . I've written a lot about relief chiselers and couldn't get around to half of what I found out about that. . . . I've composed staggered rhyme in ragged rhythm, my favorite form . . . I even ran one obstetrical item, breaking my rule for Nick Kenny's first grandson. . . I'm my own editor, so I have no one else to take the rap. . . My "All in the Family" will continue every Saturday, mostly reminiscenses, very little pro bono publico, perhaps nothing at all about Marxantonio.

One of my pleasant experiences was luncheon with the Fitzgeralds, Ed and Pegreen, the phenomenal inventors of the husband-and-wife breakfast broadcast, who read some of my stuff out loud, didn't agree with all of it, slapped it around in their informal, uninhibited mood. Ed is an old fan of mine from Chicago newspaper days. He was a reporter once, in Gary, Ind., and kept more clippings with my byline than I have. The Fitzgeralds are the freest spirits on the air. They have no editor, either. They talk from their Manhattan apartment or their Connecticut home, ad lib, no script, no notes. They own their program. Sometimes they open and read their mail, not knowing what that may say, giving the plugs with the gripes, commenting on the letters spontaneously, either of them or both at once. Their 40 cats purr, their seven dogs bark, even their maid, Elaine, butts in with any observations that she can't repress, as she brings some orange juice or coffee.

THE Fitzes originated this innovation. There have been hundreds of imitators. To my taste, none ever approached them. Their range is universal, no topic barred, from economics to good currant jelly, from international politics to the price of pickled pigs' feet. Nothing else so don't-give-a-hoot ever hit the air. It might by any husband and wife making talk before he catches at 8:18. But no other couple ever let the world in on so much humor, horse-sense and human heart.

But, above all, I love the Fitzgeralds for one reason, something so close to my heart: They have no press agent! . . . I usually wind up the Summer miscellany with a jeremiad against that tribe, the personal publicity puff promoters, who think columns like this one were born to get their clients' names in print. . . Instead, I will say it all when I give grateful appreciation to a team of professionals who shun such services. . . Who prove that merit needs no synthetic balderdash, no miserable puns charged to their good names, no phony romances or hints of domestic disagreements. . . They do their dog-fighting where millions can hear it, for Ed and Peg by nature, differ on almost every subject—yet they have lived together harmoniously for years. . . Even for television, which they're doing Wednesday and Thursday evenings, they haven't found it needful to hire a professional prevaricator, and that is the hottest competitive field in show business. . . They have an occasional guest on WJZ . . . I'll be one, free, proud and happy to be in such company.

When she arrived, a camera-conference had been set up at the Hotel Excelsior, so she went straight to the Hotel Hassler, Room 620. . . . The Italian metropolis is fed up on American actors, but Garbo is the most exciting person to invade it since Mussolini marched in. . . She has run Ingrid Bergman out of the papers. . . Bergman had dropped anyway, since she announced she aimed to be a director. Italians don't go for femmes who want to boss anybody. They don't quite understand it.

I have belatedly read Benjamin Gitlow's book, "The Whole of Their Lives." This ex-Communist, who ran for Vice President of the United States on their ticket, who worked with them here and in Moscow, but who became scared at what the Kremlin was doing and plans to do toward conquering his native country by diabolically-designed revolution, has given us the most comprehensive lowdown on the furious efficiency of the Moscow dictatorship toward this awful objective. He boldly gives names, dates, places. He would not dare to do so were he not sure of his facts, first-hand. His expose of the conspiracy, ruthlessly managed from the Kremlin, carried out here by Red-financed fanatics and dupes, is hair-raising. I have never met Gitlow, but I picture him a man of colossal courage. And whoever wrote the massive book is a craftsman. This is no amateur job.

What Chance Has A Little Guy?

BY ROBERT C. RUARK

Stand Against Most Southern Cooking Defended By Writer

ATLANTA, Sept. 21.—Mr. Ernest Rogers, a writing fellow who takes his eating seriously, has nurtured a grievance against your correspondent for some three years, since I tactlessly composed a tirade against that commodity the southerner holds even more sacred than womanhood—southern cooking.

RUARK

It was my opinion at the time—and it hasn't changed much, since—that the fare the luckless wonderer was able to dig up in the land of crinoline-type sandspurs was unfit for consumption by the average indicent billygoat. I am still sticking to the rule, although Mr. Rogers has provided the exception.

At his expense, I have just dined at the Magnolia hall, an ancient dwelling that was picked up bodily from the town and moved, piece by piece, to the suburbs. It is administered by a Miss Mariann Kidd, a genial lady whose shape is testimony to her table. By that I mean she is not thin, and you can see how the local courtesy is already invading my speech. A week ago I would have said she weighed 250 pounds or better.

Gets Good Food

Miss Mariann Kidd, regarding me as a carpetbagger to be coddled out of waywardness, refused to allow me to order. "We'll feed you," she said, firmly.

Said feed consisted, in this order, of biscuits about as big as half-a-buck, which were neither dry nor soggy; a mixed salad whose dressing would not have embarrassed a Frenchman; a heaping platter of chicken fried nearly as well as I can do it; some fine crisp country ham with no kinfolk in the shoe-trade; some whole preserved peaches; some fluffy rice with a choice of cream or red-eye gravy; some non-greasy stringbeans; some digestible candied yams; some creamed onions and some pecan pie. The coffee was excellent, which is very rare down here.

THIS repast was supposed to remodel my former stand, and it did not, since I hold that no stranger could even find the place; that it is away out of town, and public domain cooking as a whole still smells from Memphis to Mobile. Miss Mariann replied that this was because a lot of damned Yankees and assorted varmints had invaded the field, and were propagandizing against the Dixiecrats.

Miss Mariann's meal is the kind of excellent grub you get in quality folkses' houses, and has no bearing on the gastronomic insults you are handed in the average restaurant, diner or coffee shop. That is still sheer axle grease on everything; that is still the solid-clay biscuit and the evil-eyed egg on a slab of burnt rubber heel. That is still the gluey rice and the sodden greens, with the two-inch pasteboard crust on the shriveled shred of uncooked apple.

But in fairness to this particular city, some hint of Yankee culture is beginning to creep into the town itself. Four years ago a decent meal was unavailable to an outlander; now there are half-a-dozen restaurants which serve food instead of sermons on Sherman, washed down with soda bicarb. There are even a couple of good French joints here now, even to the tortured candles in wine bottles and a waitress with an accent.

Martini Is Available

So far has the town progressed since the war, although the sale of mixed liquors is forbidden by law, some of the more advanced spots have discovered a gimmick whereby an excellent martini is available, or a sup of scotch for a stranger parched with thirst.

This is a triumph in a city where the bottle stores stay open until 11 p. m., and social drinking has formerly been performed from the neck of the jug.

Despite Mr. Rogers' experiment in civilizing me up to a suth'n standard, I intend to cling to my original premise: by and large most of it's bad, and the only way to avoid ptomaine is to know somebody who can steer you to a safe one, like the prohibition cops used to direct a wistful stranger to a speakie where the liquid was reasonably free of creosote.

BY RUTH MILLETT: TO THE LADIES

The Feminine Viewpoint

"HE tells me he loves me, but he always has an appreciative eye for a pretty girl," says a young wife who has been married three years.

"But if he loves me, why is he always so quick to notice other girls?" she asks.

MILLETT

Get it out of your head that your husband is different from other men. That is just normal behavior for a man—and marriage doesn't change it.

Some husbands are better than others about not seeming to notice other women when their wives are with them. But that doesn't mean they aren't aware of every pretty girl who crosses their path.

Men enjoy looking at pretty girls, and there's nothing a wife can do to change a man's nature. During the war years the man who were stuck off in lonely places collected pin-up pictures as a substitute for the pretty girls they were used to seeing on every street and in almost every office in America.

HE'S ONLY LOOKING

IF you can make yourself regard the pretty girls who draw your husband's attention as just so many more pin-ups he likes to look at, you'll be happier.

After all, he probably hasn't the slightest intention of doing anything but looking.

And remember those pretty girls who draw his admiration have their own husbands or dates to think about. They probably aren't interested in your man, except perhaps momentarily.

If your husband is in love with you—and if he says he is you ought to take his word for it—he's perfectly safe.

A man's appreciation of pretty girls won't hurt his marriage. Not unless his wife makes something of it.

NATURE TAKES OVER

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (U.P.)—Mrs. Lloyd W. Wilkins is going to need a chimney sweep at her home before winter. Not only is the chimney full of birds and nests, but a tree is growing out of the top.

The greatest sin in some parts of the world is for a person to have possessions.

"Try And Stop Me"

FIELD'S in Chicago staged an impressive shindig to commemorate the publication of Marshall Field's Freedom Is More Than a Word. Annabelle Scoon noted one bobby-soxer in the audience who examined Mr. Field's autograph and exclaimed, "Isn't he cute! He's named himself after the store."

At a banquet in Washington, incidentally, Mr. Field was introduced as "the second most famous haberdasher in America."

JOHN POWERS, head of the famous models' agency, seemed unduly agitated when a 1938 World Almanac disappeared from his desk. "So what?" I asked. "It's out of date anyhow. This is 1949."

"You don't understand," said John. "That 1938 edition is just the proper weight for the girls in our posture class to balance on their heads."

Today's Journal Editorial

A WORTHWHILE SAFETY CLUB

The proposed organization of a motor scooters' club in Lubbock undoubtedly will be endorsed by the overwhelming majority of car drivers, most of whom have been involved in near-accidents, or worse, with the little vehicles at one time or another.

The primary purpose of the organization presumably will be to promote safety—chiefly the safety of the scooter riders. There's plenty of room for educating along this line. Another announced purpose will be to muffle some of the scooter noises, most of which reflect thoughtlessness rather than mischieviousness on the part of the riders.

An organization of the kind proposed can do much good under the proper direction and with the cooperation of the scooter riders. It deserves the encouragement of police, which is being given, and all others interested in the promotion of traffic safety in Lubbock.

Death Penalty Demanded For Ex-Communist Chief In Hungary Accused Of Spying For U. S.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Sept. 21 (AP)—The state today demanded the death penalty for Laszlo Rajk, Hungary's former communist police chief, and his seven co-defendants on trial for treason.

Chief prosecutor Gyula Alapi also denounced the United States and Yugoslavia as the trial neared an end.

Alapi accused the eight defendants of serving as spies for the U. S. as well as for Marshal Tito. He declared:

"Belgrade and Washington are together in the dock with these defendants."

Since seven of the defendants have pleaded guilty—and the eighth said he was "partly guilty"—the defense is not expected to call any witnesses.

Rajk, former foreign minister and former minister of the interior, was once regarded as Hungary's No. 2 communist. Last week he poured out a confession from the witness stand in which he declared he plotted with American and Yugoslav agents to overthrow the communist government.

He asserted that Alexander Rankovic, Yugoslav interior minister, was the brains behind the plot for assassination of Vice Premier Matyas Rakosi, Hungary's chief communist, and other government leaders.

(Yugoslav officials in Belgrade have denounced the testimony as fantastic and said the trial was engineered by Russia as part of its propaganda war against Premier Marshal Tito's regime in Yugoslavia).

Area Employers To Receive Letters In "Employ The Handicapped" Promotion

Employers in Lubbock and eight adjoining counties were scheduled to receive in their mail today a letter promoting National Employ the Physically Handicapped week.

The week will be observed October 2 through 8, with the purpose of helping the physically handicapped find employment.

Harrell Named Chairman

At a recent meeting Thomas O. Harrell was named chairman of the committee to make arrangements for observance of the week. Others on the committee are Ben Hicks, Raymond R. McWilliams, Fletcher Nesbitt, Jack Williamson, Bob Pugh, Sid Lowery, Easton Day, J. F. Reeves, Joel R. Gibson, J. B. Nichols, Carl G. Clifft, J. M. Crook, Warlick Carr, Gerald L. Schantz, J. M. Hall, Steve Matthews, Ollie Livingston and B. T. O'Connell.

Urged To Call

The letter scheduled to reach employers today points out that many of history's most outstanding personalities were physically handicapped.

Employers were urged to call the Texas Employment commission, phone 4661, and list any job openings for handicapped persons with Floyd C. Rector or Eddie Sawyer.

WANTED!

One and two-bedroom rental houses for military personnel and bedrooms with kitchen privileges.

Phone LAFB, 3-1951, Ext. 144. After 4:30 p. m., call Ext. 121.

Safecracking Burglars Muddle-Headed, As Vault Doors Set For Quick Opening

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 21 (AP)—New Jersey safecrackers don't seem to know their business very well—they fumbled the ball on two occasions yesterday.

In Great Meadows, burglars blew the door of a safe and picked up $60 in loot at the Morgan Brothers Lumber Co.

They didn't notice that the door was unlocked. A twist of the wrist would have opened it.

The safe's combination was written on the door.

Derrick Collision Is Fatal To Ducks

HALE CENTER, Sept. 21 (Special) — A flight of ducks crashed into the wildcat oil well test derrick, known as the Nick Alley No. 2, one night last week, killing several.

Drillers on the job reported they believed the ducks were attracted and blinded by the derrick's lights during a heavy mist. Dead ducks covered a large area about the derrick, located seven miles northwest of here, the drillers said.

U. S. History through the 19th century can be traced by the American glassware created by skilled craftsmen who depicted outstanding events on bottles, plates and other pieces.

LABOR DISPUTES SPOTLIGHT BILL

Social Security Expansion Is Sought By House Leader

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP) — Amid labor disputes over pensions, security and welfare, Rep. Doughton (D-NC) voiced hope today the House will pass fairly soon a bill vastly expanding the government's social security program.

However, because of a legislative logjam, there is little likelihood the Senate will act upon the measure before next spring.

The new social security bill, approved 22 to 3 on Aug. 5 by the ways and means committee headed by Doughton, would add approximately 11,000,000 employed persons to the 35,000,000 now covered by old age and survivors insurance.

Benefits Doubled

In the broadest expansion of the social security program in a decade, the legislation if finally approved also would provide:

1. An average increase of about 70 per cent in the insurance benefits received by about 2,600,000 persons already receiving such benefits. Persons who retire in the future would get benefits approximately double the average benefits payable now.

2. Disability insurance would be added to the old age and survivors insurance. This means that a worker who became totally and permanently disabled would receive benefits as if he had reached retirement age.

3. Payroll taxes would be boosted to finance the program, with workers and their employers equally sharing the cost. The tax, now 1 per cent each on employes' pay and employers' payrolls, would be increased to 1½ per cent on each in 1950, to 2 per cent in 1951, 2½ per cent in 1960; 3 per cent in 1965, and to 3¼ per cent on each in 1970.

Direct Relief Provided

Under the proposed legislation the first $3,600 of a workers pay would be taxed, whereas now the first $3,000 is subject to the payroll levy.

4. The bill also increases the federal government's share in the cost of the public assistance program. In this program the government maintains a matching program with the states for relief to needy aged persons, the blind and to dependent children. Under public assistance, a fourth category would be added—aid for totally and permanently disabled persons.

The public assistance program operates separately from the insurance program. In the insurance program the workers and their employers pay for the benefits the employe receives later. The public assistance is direct relief based on need.

This pending social security bill has been brought into sharp focus by the recent labor-management disputes on security and welfare programs outside the government's social security program. Some abor groups are insisting that management pay the whole cost of such programs.

Board Urges Insurance

A three-man fact-finding committee appointed by President Truman to study labor-management differences in the steel industry issued a report saying the concept of providing insurance and pensions in industry "has become an eccepted part of modern American thinking." It added that "unless government provides such insurance, in adequate amounts, industry should step in to fill the gap."

Experts estimate that the new social security bill, if passed, would mean to—say a miner or steel worker—these increases in old age benefits, if the worker was covered by the insurance all his working life:

If the worker earned an average of $50 a week, the benefit for him and his wife — when they grow old—would increase from $75 a month to $110; if the average weekly wage were $65, the increase would be from $84 to $120; if $75, the jump would be from the present $84 a month to $126.

It is not absolutely certain that the House will act on the bill before it adjourns. It may put off a vote until January.

Pupils of blue eyes contract more in bright light than do the pupils of dark eyes.
