This week is Fire Prevention Week. Perhaps you think such special weeks do no good, but since this special week was inaugurated loss by fire has become appreciably less proportionately, though the loss each year in the nation is still staggering.

It must be a terrible feeling to see one's home or business destroyed by fire. Even though a part of the loss is covered by insurance there are some things that insurance cannot replace.

The loss of life in fires is also staggering each year. What could be more tragic than for a loved one to be burned to death?

Every week in the year and every day of every week should be observed by all of us as fire prevention week. Perhaps we could not prevent all fires but we could cut the total way down by remedying every fire hazard we have around our place.

VA Waives Good Health Requirements For GI Insurance

World War 2 veterans with service-connected disabilities are reminded by Veterans Administration today of an important deadline in connection with their entitlement to National Service Life Insurance.

Prior to January 1, 1950, such disabilities actually incurred in service between October 8, 1940, and September 2, 1945, if less than total in degree, are disregarded in determining eligibility under the health requirements for National Service Life Insurance purposes.

This means that veterans who might not otherwise qualify for life insurance for health reasons may reinstate lapsed National Service Life Insurance or buy new or additional insurance up to the $10,000 maximum if they apply before the end of the year.

A physical examination is required, however, for all insurance applied for under this special provision. Such examinations are made by Veterans Administration without cost to the veteran.

Building Permits Prove Lorraine Is Growing

That Lorraine is growing is revealed in building permits issued by City Secretary Homer Hart. These permits also reveal that 1949 up to the present time has outstripped any other year in building, at least since building permits have been required by the city.

During the entire year of 1948 a total of 16 permits were issued for a total value of $18,750. During the first nine months of 1949 a total of 37 permits were issued for a total value of $112,315.00.

Buffaloes Stampede Trample Bulldogs

The Stanton Buffaloes stampeded here Friday night and trampled the Lorraine Bulldogs to the tune of 45 to 7 to take the first conference game of the season from the Bulldogs.

The first half was a real ball game ending scoreless for both teams and first downs five for Stanton and four for Lorraine. In the third period, however, the Buffaloes turned on the steam, scoring twice and making one extra point. The fourth period was wild. It looked like everything the Bulldogs did turned out to be the wrong thing for them and the right thing for the Buffaloes. The Buffaloes turned two intercepted passes into two touchdowns, did a little passing of their own for a touchdown and ran a kickoff back 80 yards for another and when the quarter ended they had made five touchdowns and two extra points.

In the final period the Bulldogs connected with three out of ten passes one of which carried for 60 yards and their lone touchdown of the game. The pass was from Bennett to Don Martin.

The Bulldogs go to Moran this week end for a non conference game.

The most outstanding player for the Bulldogs was Kenneth Merket.

Weekly Swing of SOUTHWEST FARM MARKETS

Some southwest farm products brought higher prices during the past week, while many others declined to lower values, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration reports.

More eggs came on the market this week, as cooler weather stimulated flocks and as more pullets started laying. Prices eased in spots. Most markets quoted young chickens a cent or two lower. Hens also weakened slightly. A few turkeys went to market at 30 to 35 cents a pound for turkey hens and 24 to 30 for toms.

More cattle and calves went to market in the Corn Belt last week than the week before, but less calves arrived in the Southwest. Beef and veal sold steady to higher for the week, but calf meat weakened. Slaughter calves and some stocker cattle sold lower Monday than a week earlier, but other cattle ruled steady to higher. Good and choice killing calves sold from $18 to $22 in Texas.

Increased hog marketings and lower dressed meat prices resulted in weaker hog markets. Butchers lost $1 to $1.50 in Texas and Oklahoma, and sows around $1. Sheep sales held up to the previous week's numbers, but fell far below last year. Dressed lamb and mutton advanced during the week.

Sorghums advanced 6 to 8 cents a hundred pounds during the week, as most other grains netted slight declines.

Cotton showed little net change for the week.

Fifteen Years Ago In Lorraine

(Taken from files of the Mitchell County News October 11, 1934)

In one respect Lorraine is the most progressive town in West Texas. More new buildings have been built here the past three years than in any other town in this section. In fact Lorraine is about the only town in these parts where any building has been done for several years.

Merchants of Lorraine will give away four prizes amounting to $25 each Saturday afternoon. The $25 will be divided into four prizes of $10, 7.50, 5.00 and 2.50. Merchants cooperating in giving the prizes will give buyers a chance to register for the prizes with a 50 cent purchase.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist Church Monday for H. J. Askins, retired dry goods merchant.

7,085 bales of cotton had been ginned in Mitchell County up to October 1, 1934.

U.S. Revamps Planning, Policy
For Defense on Red A-Bomb Tip;
Truman Says Critics Antedated

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the writer and not necessarily of this newspaper.

THESE ADD UP TO HOUSING HEADACHE... Across the nation, if there was any relief from the housing shortage, it was spotty, inadequate. The twins (above) born to her in Brooklyn's women's hospital made the housing doubly acute for Mrs. William Buckley. She and her husband, together with another child, add up to five people who must share one-room apartment. Mrs. Buckley wondered where she'd park the twins when she left the hospital.

THE BOMB:

Do Reds Have it?

Does Russia really have the atomic bomb?

President Harry Truman said they did; and for once, there was no presidential contradiction when Columnist Drew Pearson said they did.

But whether they have it or not, the Truman announcement stirred up a nest of jitters everywhere.

DEFENSE CHIEFS backed up for a new look at the world situation. Congress reacted as might have been expected. The arms-to-Europe program hailed the announcement as added proof of the correctness of their stand. Other congressmen blamed laxity over the past few years in our state department and defense setup for Russia's having the bomb now—if she does have it.

A noted atomic scientist declared that for Russia to contend it had the bomb in 1947 was fantastic, that the date was "one pulled out of a hat." But he said the Soviets might well have the weapon.

Most tangible result in congress of the President's statement that there had been an "atomic explosion" inside Soviet Russia was agreement by house and senate conferees on the 1.33 billion-dollar appropriation for arms to Europe. The legislators got together very quickly on the view that to cut the appropriation, as had been first planned, would be an unwise move.

IN THE UNITED NATIONS, British foreign secretary, Ernest Bevin, lashed out with a furious tirade against the Russians, charging them with stalling efforts to control atomic energy. Like Russia, Bevin said, England wants the atomic bomb banned, but the British want effective control first.

Skeptics of the idea that the Reds have the bomb were asking why Russia wanted to outlaw such a potent weapon, if she really had it—or did she think the western world suckers enough to outlaw and forego use of the bomb and thus give the edge to any ethics-lacking nation who might have the bomb and would drop it without warning?

TITO:

Get Out!

Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito ordered nine Hungarian diplomats expelled and accused Russia and her Cominform satellites of "ratting their arms" along the Yugoslav border.

HE STATED that his Cominform enemies were "digging trenches in Hungary and Romania."

Apparently, the fiery dictator of Yugoslavia was not frightened, still ready to wage war with Moscow, verbally or otherwise. "We will permit no one to impose their will upon us," he thundered.

Despite the dramatic atmosphere surrounding expulsion of the Hungarians, Tito's action was a retaliatory one, since it followed within 24 hours a similar action against 10 members of the Yugoslav legation in Budapest.

TITO CLAIMED the Russians were plotting to stage a revolution in Yugoslavia in order to supplant his government with a regime servile to Moscow.

Whether or not the Russians had the atomic bomb, as has been reported, Tito didn't seem to be any less disposed to quarrel with the Kremlin.

EFFECTIVE KILLER

Navy Discovers Potent Remedy for Colds

The United States navy was manifesting its efficiency again—but in an entirely different field. Veering away from its military side for the moment, the navy found a "cold-killer" pill that was reported 90 per cent effective.

The fight to control the common cold has been one of the longest, most difficult in all medical history. A great majority of physi-

Cripps Gets Tough

Sir Stafford Cripps, British finance boss, lost no time in bringing home to the people the import of devaluation of the pound sterling as an effort toward the country's financial problems.

His labor government raised the tax on business profits and threatened to restrict dividends by law in defending the devaluation move at an emergency session of parliament.

At the same time, the government rejected any pay raise proposals declaring this must be done to prevent an inflationary spiral. Cripps made these moves as he opened the cabinet's appeal for a vote of confidence from the parliament.

TRUMAN:

Way Ahead

President Harry Truman was still battling vigorously for his domestic program in congress. With his usual expansive attack on critics, he charged present detractors with being "160 years behind the times."

NEVERTHELESS, the President was making a strategic approach to the congressional races next year in a drive for women recruits to the Democratic party.

In a White House radio address, beamed at the women of the nation, Mr. Truman pointed to "certain people" who denounce his "fair deal" policies as alien or dangerous.

THEY'RE NOTHING of the kind, declared the President. In fact he asserted, "Our program consists of measures which have come up from the grassroots. Our program is as American as the soil we walk on. It is a program unshakably founded on the principle that the power of the government should be used to promote the general welfare."

Disidents might go along with such items of the program as public housing and expanded social security benefits—but on the subjects of farm price supports, as advocated by the administration, and socialized medicine, there would be some arguments about these being of "grassroots" origin.

TOSSING A BOUQUET to woman's intelligence, the President declared that women are not misled by political slogans, added: "They look beneath the labels to see the facts."

ROCKETS: For Targets

Just before the end of World War II, the Germans reported experimenting with rockets that could span oceans. Now, according to information emanating from the Soviet zone of Berlin, German scientists are producing such rockets for the Russians.

The informants, who were said to have access to the offices of the Soviet-packed east German police, said the mammoth underground munitions plant at Penemuende on the Baltic coast was turning out rockets at full speed.

Allied intelligence officers conceded they knew of "certain activity" at Penemuende, but declined to elaborate. One of them explained:

"If Russia is making munitions in Germany, it's a high level matter and not for discussion here."

AMERICA:

The Big Story

The Advertising Council, Inc., has just issued its revised booklet, "The Miracle of America," which tells why Americans live better, how machines make jobs, and why freedom and security go together.

THE BOOKLET should be prescribed reading for that fast-growing element among the people's officials which seems to think everyone should apologize for America, rather than be proud of it.

Approved by representatives of both labor and management, "The Miracle of America" tells in interesting, readable prose why America is great and why every American should be proud of his country.

In the booklet the mythical Uncle Sam asks questions about America which might be posed by any typical American family.

EXCERPT: "Freedom and security go together." Uncle Sam asserted. "Men follow two great impulses—to be politically free and to be economically secure. In America we have won freedom and we are winning economic security. Dictators promise security if the people will give up their freedom. But experience shows that freedom and economic security must grow together. The history of the United States proves it."

Americans may have a copy of "The Miracle of America" free of charge. Just write to: Dept. N, The Advertising Council, Inc., 25 W. 45th St., New York 19, N.Y.

BEST SELLER:

Bible Perennial

The Bible has always had a significant place in the lives of Americans. Acknowledgement of and homage to a Supreme Being is inherent in the American government setup, with American trust in God declared on the nation's coins.

Therefore, National Bible Week, October 17-23, will be observed throughout the nation, with mayors and governors in the 48 states joining in proclamations urging the people to support the observance.

OUTLINING the purpose of National Bible Week, Rear Admiral Reginald R. Belknap (USN, Retired), who is chairman, declared: "National Bible Week is used to stimulate people in all walks of life to be Bible conscious and to turn to the Bible in these times of national and personal moral confusion."

"WE NOW SEE a proud, powerful nation, whose people the world over were looked up to and respected for their sense of righteousness, fair play, charity and resourcefulness, decayed to the point where they are not shocked at... glaring examples of moral decay."

While Chairman Belknap didn't say it in words, his examples of "moral decay" pointed at none other than Soviet Russia.

INCOME TAX:

Up & Up & Up

Total income taxes collected in the United States show an increase of over 1,100 per cent in 10 years, from two and one-quarter billion dollars in 1939 to just under 31 billion dollars in the fiscal year of 1949, with individuals paying 60 per cent of this total, says an analysis by the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

NUMBER of persons hit by income taxes has increased proportionately, the bureau finds. There were 3.9 million individual income taxpayers in 1939; in 1948 there were 41.8 million. Although that number will be reduced for 1949 by the elimination of several million small taxpayers from the rolls due to increased exemptions and other changes made by congress in 1948, the list should still run somewhere around 36 million individual income taxpayers in 1949, the bureau estimates.

'Sweet Sorrow'

Parting was such sweet sorrow for John M. Crawford and his five monkey charges, one of whom he is shown caressing. He kept the five monkeys in his New York home. Neighbors objected. The court ordered Crawford to get rid of the monkeys, declaring he was violating the city's sanitary code.

PAYOFF:

'Unto Caesar'

"Render unto Caesar, the things that are Caesar's" was a Biblical line that stuck in the mind of Pastor Eugene M. Austin of the Baptist Temple in Charleston, W. Va. Confronted with the pastor's statement that "Caesar" meant the government, the pastor set an amazing precedent: He voluntarily went to the courthouse and had his personal property assessment increased sixfold. He announced the action to his congregation.

A book by Jean Burton on Lydia Pinkham brings back memories of a day when the prim face of that lady stared from billboard, magazine and newspaper. That was away back when Old Mr. Munyon, Father Duffy, Bigelow & Healy's Kickapoo Indian Sagwa, Cascarets, Alcott's Kidney Plasters, Payne's Celery Compound and Sloane's Liniment were apt to be in every medicine chest.

Mother Still's Seasickness Pills, Swampfoot, Frog-in-Your-Throat and Glover's Hair Restorer were in every drug store, too. It was the era when they were pioneer advertisers. Back when the "Bear" in the "Bear bia's "Tokyo Joe." And by the way, don't leap from your seats when you see a 24 by 18 feet cricket filling the screen in that picture. Just an ordinary cricket, it was magnified 26,184 times to fill the screen, to herald "menace" scenes between Bogart and Hayakawa.

Eleanor Parker, who lost some five pounds worrying about Bogart in "Chain Lightning," and another four as a convict in Warners' "Locked In," then headed for a ranch to sleep for weeks and weeks, she said.

"Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" added the words "doodler" and "pikilated" to every-day vocabularies. In "Return of October" Terry Moore called Glenn Ford a "schnookle," and it caught on. Now Columbia has done it again. In "Miss Grant Takes Richmond," Lucille Ball coins the word "doofer"—a stenographic symbol that will "doofer" symbols she can't remember.

Barbara Stanwyck has made it a policy not to make screen tests with other actors, but broke her rule for the first time in 10 years to test opposite Lyle Bettger. He got the contract; they're teamed in Paramount's "The Lie."

Montgomery Clift, of "Red River" and "The Heiress," is the No. 1 Star of Tomorrow, according to Motion Picture Herald's annual poll of theatre operators. Kirk Douglas came in second, Betty Garrett third.

The Fiction Corner
ON PROPOSING

By Richard H. Wilkinson

VIDA knew all the tricks. You see, she read a lot. Books on every conceivable subject.

Unfortunately Vida's facial beauty was next to nil. When, at the age of 18, she came to a full realization of this, and an understanding of its possible consequences, she was at first unhappy.

But being a sensible person, sensible enough to look at the thing squarely, she sought for other means to achieve her end. The end was a man: love, romance.

The other means presented themselves in the form of books, learning how to put yourself across when you weren't particularly attractive; resorting to devices and technique that good looking girls didn't have to employ.

The results were exceedingly gratifying. Even now, at the age of 22, the man of her dreams was practically within her grasp. Give her another month, two at the most, and he would speak the words that would make her happiness and triumph complete.

The man's name was Glen Lamphier. He was one of those fine, good looking, upstanding specimens of young manhood. Intelligent, gracious, and with a promising career ahead of him. The type who appealed by exerting only a minimum of effort. Vida had aimed high when selecting him as the object of her acquired charms, but the thought of failure had never once entered her head.

She had aroused his interest by heeding the dictates of her fiction heroines. And Glen had seen the light. He had come to realize that behind the plain features of this girl were quality, intelligence, breeding.

In a word, Vida had been successful in her enterprise—up to a point. Unhappily, it appeared now as if that point might prove a stumbling block, an unsurmountable obstacle.

Coming into the living room one evening she found him waiting for her, comfortably ensconced before the fireplace, a volume of Oscar Wilde open in his lap. The fact that her entrance did not distract his attention, piqued her no end. She hesitated a moment before making known her presence, and in that moment the feeling of being piqued gave way to torment. Suddenly she realized that something had happened, that she was losing her hold, that Glen's interest was on the wane. Always before, he had awaited her coming with eager anticipation glowing in his eyes.

The thought made Vida unhappy. A WEEK LATER, sitting before the living room fire, Vida aban-

In Mind" slogan made an old-time cereal famous, when the Winchester calendars were a must in thousands of homes and when the folks went for stick licorice, Old Battleaxe cut plug, snake oil, bay rum, Sweet Caporal cigarettes, snuff and flaxseed poultices. It was the period when mom gave the kids pumpkin seeds for "worms," tied an old sock around their necks for sore throat and put an "onion bag" on their chests for croup.

The age of medical specialists hadn't set in. Doctors were general practice boys who did everything for $2, win, lose or draw. But $2 could be an extravagance in those days if the patient was still conscious, and the folks depended a lot on herbs, potions, oils and patent medicines. As a child we got rubbed with so many things before the doctor was called that we were limit-logged when he got there.

Lydia Pinkham was for the womenfolk. But we remember it in the advertisements and on the labels. It seemed the only medicine nobody rubbed or dosed us with. We often wondered about Lydia. There were songs about her. One ran: Feeling low and wanna feel giddy? Lady, take a slug of Lydia!

Lydia Pinkham, the new book recalls, was a Lynn, Mass., gal, beautiful and with a perfect figure in the hour-glass mode. She was one of the pioneers in the equal-rights-and-votes-for-women campaign. She was a student of medicine and for years gave her compound free. It was not until her husband went broke that she decided to sell it.

Her four children peddled it from door to door first, and it didn't bring home the bacon until one son put a $60 ad on the first page of a Boston paper. From that time Lydia Pinkham's Remedy became one of the greatest newspaper advertisers in history. And what a believer in advertising Lydia was!

Out of $3,800,000 gross for years she poured $3,000,000 back into advertising.

Jean Burton gives the recipe for the compound, telling how the various herbs and powders were "percolated in fine spirits," giving an 18 per cent alcoholic content to the "remedy." A few shots of the compound and any woman felt better.

They were all familiar up around New England in our boyhood. We could still in fancy catch the aroma of Kickapoo Indian Sagwa, Florida Water, Witch Hazel (still going strong from a base at Essex, Conn.), Porto Rico Bay Rum, Burghomest, Payne's Celery Compound and Sloane's Liniment, "good for man or beast."

ODE FOR SEPTEMBER

September time is here anew—I'll take a bowl of oyster stew; Again I'll ask and ask, "How do The crackers always seem so few?"

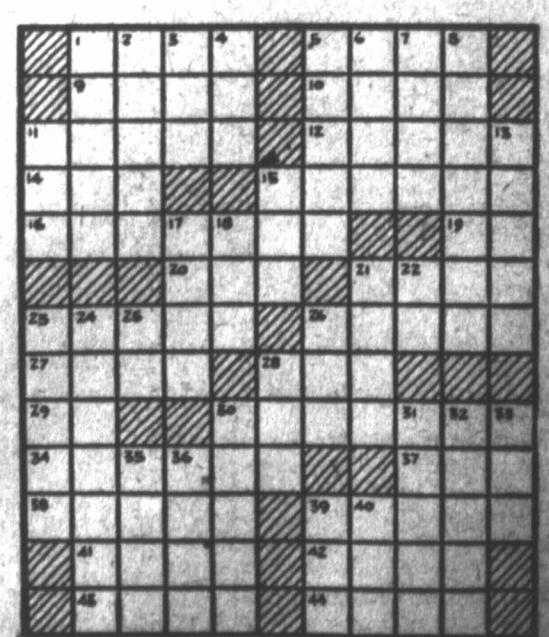

It has been a perfect summer for oysters, the oystermen report. It seems that they thrive in a season when there are few storms and little rough water. Still, we are firm believers in environment, and we think a summer like this has cost the oysters considerable character. We prefer an oyster with a rugged upbringing and with a suggestion of defiance in its nature. These 1949 bivalves may be such sissies it will seem cruel to squirt lemon on 'em.

A Japanese industrialist has been arrested for picking pockets. He explained that collections had been slow and that he had to meet a payroll. A lot of American businessmen, knowing how it is, think he may just be a little ahead of his time.

PUZZLE NO. 30

Rocky Graziano's Future

THESE ARE SEVERAL things you can say about Rocky Graziano after his Fusari party. One is that having a 12-pound advantage, he was running behind before the tenth round.

But the main point is that Graziano, ring rusty, wilder than a timber wolf, apparently badly beaten, came back to win against long odds.

It must be admitted that Charley Fusari, physically, looks less like a fighter than a punch and Judy.

Fusari is a pale carbon copy of complete fulfillment. But he can box—he can move around—he can take a punch. Fusari is dead game but he is not a champion.

Graziano threw enough punches to knock out Dempsey, Tunney, Jeffries, Johnson and Louis. But 99 per cent of them merely cut the balm September air. Some of them missed by two feet. Some by only a foot.

But, after all, Graziano hadn't had a fight, a real fight since Tony Zale nailed him back in the early summer of 1948. In the meanwhile, Rocky had suffered any number of cerebral hemorrhages or explosions of the conning tower.

Considering all this, Rocky didn't do a bad job. His victory down the stretch, as cheap as it was in spots, can't be ignored. It was a good fighting job. When you have been badly outpointed in seven of nine rounds with only one round to go—and still move in swinging with all you have—no one can label you a punk.

There is much disagreement about the margin Fusari had after the 9th round. No one can question the fact that Fusari was far in front as the final round arrived. Fusari must have nailed Rocky with 150 right-hand punches. Rocky will admit just as well have used a feather duster.

Rocky Graziano's victory is worth at least $200,000 to the I. B. C., which Jim Norris deserves, but doesn't need. Only don't let Rocky wander in the same inclosure with Ray Robinson. Or any good middleweight. Rocky is still dangerous—but he isn't the Rocky of old. But, as Dizzy Dean once said—"Whoinel is?"

The Calumet Clean-up

It is a September custom to begin making the annual award to Calumet in the way of racing honors.

First, Calumet has the horse of the year in Coalton—maybe the horse of many years.

Second, Calumet has the top three-year-old of 1949 in Ponder, the unknown two weeks before the Derby.

Third, Calumet has now passed the $950,000 total earning mark for 1949 and the year has more than three months of racing left, including autumn and early winter. This means well over a million dollars will drop into the Calumet coffers.

There is one hornet in the honey, however. Citation hasn't run since last December and is still a pretty fair chunk of cash in back of Stylemie, the Hirsch Jacobs' family steed.

Citation, at this time last fall, was supposed to move far beyond the million mark. But the popped omelet proved to be more damaging than an exploding bomb. The horse, rated beyond all rivals since Man o' War, possibly better than Man o' War, has been as idle as a "painted ship upon a painted ocean" for the last eight months.

Just about this time last year, the two best two-year-olds were Young Peter and Mr. Busher. Mr. Busher was practically wrecked in a Chicago race and then Young Peter had to step aside and leave the field open to Ponder, Capot, etc.

I happened to be at the track the afternoon Maxie Hirsch sent a two-year-old known as Middleground against a good field. Middleground ran away from the same and practically disappeared. He did the same thing at Saratoga. Then it was discovered he wasn't the soundest colt in the world so he won't run again until 1950.

The King Ranch horse is probably the fastest two-year-old alive today. But that doesn't mean he will be the fastest seven or eight months from now. Serious contention may come from Christopher T. Chenery's Hill Prince, which set a new record for six and a half furlongs in the Cowdin Stakes.

This doesn't mean Middleground or Hill Prince will win the Derby or the triple crown next year. Under the direction of a trainer such as Max Hirsch it would be a wonderful thing to see Middleground in top shape to run.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Children Need Clothes that 'Belong'

SELECTING AND SEWING clothes for children can be lots of fun. When dressed properly and admired by all who see them, mothers feel that the reward is worth all the time consumed.

More important even than having people admire your children is the sense of grooming, poise and well-being that is being developed in your youngsters as you choose clothes for them which meet that standard of fashion rightness.

True, you don't have to worry about hemlines on little girl's dresses as about your own, or about the extent of the cuff on a little boy's trousers as your husband is concerned about his, but still there's a certain amount of fashion which needs consideration.

Certain styles may be better on your little girl than others, for they do have small individual figure problems. Then, too, colors can be as important to them as they are to adults. Some do more for them than others, as you can easily find out just by trying on a few things.

Your little boy and girl can probably look just as adorable as some you've just pictured even though their clothes budget is limited and mother does the sewing. Tasteful selection of colors and fabrics and late daddy and big brother as much as possible with good tailoring. Pants are full enough to drape or to have well pressed pleats. Shirts are sewed carefully so they can look tailored and correct in even small details.

It's discouraging to see children outgrowing clothes so rapidly, and for this reason many mothers like to make clothing a bit on the large side so the youngster can grow into it. There's no better way to start an inferiority complex in the young Children develop grooming sense... proper styling are the keys to clothing children attractively.

An armload of cheap fabrics that fade and thin with each laundering, skimpy styles or too large clothes and hit-and-miss sewing without regard to what's good on the lot will do nothing more than cover him. Good fabrics chosen with a keen eye as to what's right in style and color, sewed with care will make of the youngsters angels even when they're not!

If you start early to instill an appreciation of quality, workmanship and styling in your youngsters, you'll have given them qualities hard to duplicate.

Take Tips From Top Designers

Any mother who sews for her children would do well to copy some of the trade tricks to top children's designers. For one thing, good quality dresses, trousers and other articles of clothing are never skimpy. You'll find skirt fullness because designers take the required two widths to make them perky. Deep hems are employed because they make skirts fluff out, not because you will want material for lengthening.

Collars should be appropriately narrow, and tiny, well puffed sleeves are essential for chic. In boy's clothing, the trend is to simu-

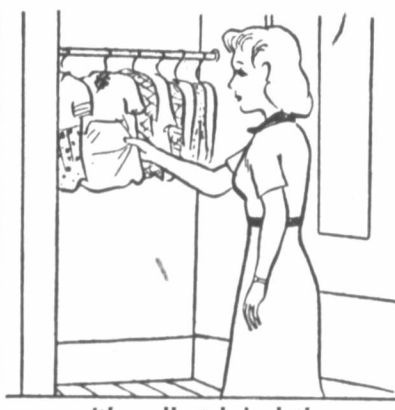

For Rough Wear

This young gentleman is well dressed for school or play in his smart two-button jacket made of an all-rayon worsted type fabric. The fabric, woven from Avicco yarns, is color-fast and completely washable, and will withstand all sorts of rough and tumble wear. There's a liberal sleeve and seam allowance to let the clothing grow with the boy.

late daddy and big brother as much as possible with good tailoring. Pants are full enough to drape or to have well pressed pleats. Shirts are sewed carefully so they can look tailored and correct in even small details.

It's discouraging to see children outgrowing clothes so rapidly, and for this reason many mothers like to make clothing a bit on the large side so the youngster can grow into it. There's no better way to start an inferiority complex in the young than to have them improperly fitted. Whether they tell you or not, they are aware of how people look at them, and how their friends react to their clothes.

Clothes often lose their style because they are practical, and it's far more satisfying to have them fun to wear and be admired, than to shy away from putting them on. It's easier to spend the few extra hours doing more sewing than to undo damage to the spirit.

It's better, too, to have a few carefully sewed clothes than a closet full of hastily thrown together garments. The latter never wash well, they're in constant need of mending, and the style is impaired unless proper sewing techniques are used.

Select Fabrics, Fasteners For Washing Ease

New designs and colors are available in fabrics every season, but there is little change in actual fabrics to use for children's clothing. Novelty fabrics are for adults, be they men or women, but the more conservative materials look better on the youngsters.

For play clothes, select the sturdy materials which wash easily, and are sunfast: corduroy, broadcloth, duck, denim, gingham, poplin, percale, calico, rayon, seersucker and cotton gabardine. In dress clothes, linen, chambray, pique, dotted swiss, organdie, sheer cottons, fine lawn and muslin may be employed.

Although some textured materials, such as corduroy, are favored for play clothes, the smooth fabrics are much more popular for dress. The smooth surfaces mean easy ironing and less opportunity for picking up dirt while being worn. All fabrics chosen should be sturdy enough to hold buttons, fasteners and such essentials. Don't be afraid to experiment on the different types of fasteners being shown even though you may never have seen them used on tot's clothing.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

Don't Lose Happy Middle Years

"WE ARE IN A RUT, and it's getting on our nerves. Lee isn't as kind to me as he used to be. I bore him. He seems tired and quiet all the time. If I start a subject he may say wearily, 'Let's not talk about it.' Sometimes he says, 'Please don't use that word.' Often he hardly seems to hear me."

"We are run-of-the-mill people," continues the letter of Mildred Miller, of New York City. "Lee's salary is $100 a week. We pay $85 rent for five rooms in the West Sixties. Lee is 52, I am 47. We lost our one son in 1945, and his widow has remarried and lives with our grandson in Los Angeles. Our daughter died as a baby, so we have weathered two great sorrows. But until now I always felt that while Lee needed me I had reason for living. Now there isn't any question that he feels himself tied to a woman who means nothing to him."

Security isn't enough. "I am a good cook, I keep the house going. We've never been in debt. We have a good nest-egg in government bonds, and insurance—all that. But that isn't enough, is it, if one's heart is restless and unsatisfied, and life has grown duller and quieter day by day? There is no other woman in the case, I know, although Lee is at the age when men sometimes fall for flattery and interest. And physically, we are both well, sleep and eat like the normal human animals we are, and feel bewildered at this apathy that has fallen upon us."

"As for amusements, Lee has a cocker he adores. He works on the window garden which is quite a success. He likes walking, bridge, and a few special movies. I like movies, am taking a weekly lesson in interior decoration, and love, to fuss with curtains and flower arrangements. "I want to save our marriage. I want to go into the fifties busy, happy and useful. Thousands of persons live as we do, on less money, and seem content. Neither Lee nor I had any religious training when young, but we both believe in God, and sometimes go to church."

Mysterious Element This is an ordinary enough story, and yet it has one mysterious element. Why is it, one asks, that what makes certain couples absolutely content, with a nice home, adequate income, health, companionship, isn't enough for other couples?

Well, the answer is that one couple has found what it wants, and the other one hasn't. The very fact that Mildred considers herself and Lee to be in a rut, shows that she doesn't belong there. That reaching out for interests, his fussing with window boxes, her patient attention while professional decorators lecture to her, shows that both are unsatisfied.

Has it occurred to Mildred and Lee to move out of the city? The rent they are paying would more than cover the monthly payments on a small farm within—well, not an hour of the city, but an hour and 20 minutes. Wouldn't buying a small neglected farm somewhere

Be Smart!

The beautiful simplicity of the necklines of the new wool dresses and the smartness of the many new types of upstanding collars combine to give a perfect foil for ornate necklaces. Setting the pace are the long strands which are looped as you desire. Equally good for the jewel necklace or a collared dress is the choker, usually highlighted with a pendant or pin-like cluster. Earrings and pins repeat the motifs as desired. Typical examples are sketched, the choker of jade and pearl, with a pendant of jade, coral, pearl and rhinestones on gold filigree. The long necklace has opals with pearls, rhinestones and a touch of green.

GLEANNERS ENTERTAINED

IN NEW BENNETT HOME

The Gleaners Sunday School class of the Methodist Church met Tuesday, October 11, at 3 P. M. in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Bennett with Mrs. Joe Bennett and Mrs. Cora Hall co-hostesses.

The meeting began by singing the "Mass Song, Bless Be the Tie That Binds." Prayer by Mrs. J. D. McDonald. The president, Mrs. C. C. Hamilton, directed the business meeting. Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Frank Beights. Treasurers report was given by Miss Annie Jarratt. Dues were collected. Mrs. J. B. Mahon gave a report on Social Service Work. The class voted to serve Thanksgiving luncheon and six o'clock dinner on Saturday, November 19. The two meals will consist of turkey with all the trimmings and will be $1.00 per plate. Proceeds will go to the church building fund. The class will also sponsor a bake sale on Saturday, October 22, at the Lions building, the proceeds to be used for the building fund.

Mrs. J. G. Bruce led the class in discussion of the first four chapters of Matthew, which was very interesting. Mrs. Roy Edwards led the group in the Lord's Prayer at the close of the lesson.

The hostesses served a refreshment plate of sandwiches, potato chips, pickles, cookies and lemonade.

Those present were Mmes J. G. Bruce, G. A. Hutchins, E. P. Kuck, T. C. Wilson, J. B. Mahon, J. D. McDonald, E. M. Bruce, Jim Johnson, Frank Beights, Frank Johnson, C. C. Hamilton, F. M. Richey, W. S. Thomas, Roy Edwards, and Miss Annie Jarratt, and one visitor Sandra Mantooth.

INTRODUCING A SENIOR

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Boyd became the proud parents of a little brown haired girl of June 14, 1932, who they named Dorothy Marie. Dorothy had blue eyes, is about 5ft. 3in. tall, and weighs 105 lbs.

Dorothy has been a member of the Home Ec. Club for years, on the basketball team for two years, and as assistant typist on the annual staff this year.

A few of Dorothy's favorites are: dish, banana-nut ice cream and chocolate cake; day Saturday; actor, Cary Cooper; actress, Gail Russell; Movie, "Streets of Laredo"; sport, basketball; her favorite boyfriend is 5' 9" tall, has black hair, green eyes, and lives in Colorado City.

Dorothy's ambition is to be a secretary.

Senior news

There were a few more Seniors present this morning than usual. R. C. Noel is back with us today. The seniors don't seem to be so happy this morning. Could it be because they have six week tests this week?

We have just discovered a new talent among the Seniors. Patsy is the champion cotton puller. (Just think, 99 pounds).

It seems as if one of our girls had a good time over the week end. How about that Faye?

Junior Look Forward To Fair

Keith Laseter is back with us this morning after being absent last week. We are very glad to have him back.

The Juniors have ordered their play books. We can hardly wait for them to come in. We're sure it will be the best play ever presented at L. H. S.

The main subject in the Junior Class now is the State Fair. Most of us are planning to go this week-end. Some of us have even pulled a little cotton in the afternoon after school in order to go.

The H. E. girls' garments are coming along very well. We're hoping to finish them in time for the Football Banquet.

This week is test week. It does not seem possible that we've been going to school six weeks.

GRADE SEVEN ORGANIZES

The seventh grade of Lorraine School met and elected officers on October 7. The following officers were elected: President, Richey Cary, Secretary, Erma Hayes, Treasurer, Joyce Coldey, Class reporter, Jimmy Hall. We hope that we will have a good school term this year.

National Guard Part First Line Defense

"Of the citizen Army, the National Guard is the first category of importance. It must be healthy and strong, ready to take its place in first line of defense in the first weeks of emergency."

Thus General George C. Marshall, then Chief of Staff, U. S. Army, stated the objective and the new mission of the post-war National Guard—a far greater responsibility than it had before World War 1 and World War 11. Before seeing action in those two conflicts, the National Guard needed more equipment and training in order to take offensive action. For the most part, Guard divisions were used as cadres. The ranks of the Guard divisions were filled with new men requiring complete training.

Here in Mitchell County Bat. "C" 648th Armored Field Artillery Battalion is a part of the Nation's M-Day Force which is training to take its place in our country's first line of defense.

Actually the M-Day (Mobilization Day) Mission of the National Guard is not new but is older than the Nation itself. It goes back to the Militia regiment of the 17th Century which were the forerunners of the National Guard as we know it today. Then the Colonists laid down their plows and tools and took up their muskets for the immediate defense of their homes. Today, that spirit again prevails but with a modern organization, vastly expanded, and equipped with the latest in weapons and equipment.

In order to accomplish this mission, the new National Guard was authorized to expand from 19 divisions it had in World War 11 to 25 Infantry Divisions, two Armored Divisions, 21 separate Regimental Combat Teams and 43 Anti-Aircraft and Artillery Groups (97 battalions).

In addition, there are numerous non-divisional combat support units including Field Artillery, Armored Cavalry, Engineer, Quartermaster, Signal Corps, Ordnance, Military Police and Transportation units. The Air National Guard has 12 Air Wings of 72 Fighter Squadrons, 12 Light Bombardment Squadrons, 36 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadrons, and supporting units.

Organizations of the new National Guard began in 1946, and today is virtually completed with a strength of more than 355,000 in more than 5,000 units. Army units totaled more than 4,500 with a strength of 315,000. The Air National Guard has completed organization of its allotted 514 units and has a strength of 41,000 men.

The National Guard's service to the country is not limited to the training for and the fighting of wars, however. Guardsmen battled the raging forest fires in Maine in the fall of 1947, and are credited with saving several communities. They worked tirelessly on the ground during "Operation Haylift" when the blizzards of 1948-49 swept the western States. The Columbia River floods in Oregon, The Texas City disaster in Texas, and the hurricanes that hit Florida and Louisiana in 1948 necessitated calls for the National Guard. And the Guard responded in the same tradition as it did at the San Francisco earthquake in 1906 and again in the Ohio and Mississippi Valley Floods of 1936.

Today's Guardsmen are associating themselves with traditions older than the Nation itself but as modern as the newest tank off the assembly line. They have the opportunity of training with the latest of Army equipment and methods. They augment their civilian income, earn credit towards retirement and receive promotions as they increase their proficiency.

Some of the vacancies now existing in the local Guard unit are: Gun Crewman which trains on the 155 MM Howitzer; Truck driver; agent; instrument Pfc.; scouts; field linesman; operator radio telephone; operator switchboard; artillery mechanic; operator instrument computer; artillery recorder; cook; tractor mechanic; bugler; and auto mechanic. Training is conducted on the above positions each Thursday night at 7:30 at the City-County building in Colorado City. All young men from the ages of 17

CRAZY WATER CRYSTALS

Cool Weather Provides Excellent Opportunity For Baking, Desserts

THOSE COOL, much longed for days are here again, and many homemakers are happy to see they've arrived if only for the simple reason that they may bake all those glamorous desserts that have to be shelved during hot weather.

If the oven's been on for baking meat, potatoes and vegetables, there's no simpler way of solving the dessert problem than popping in dessert to be baked, too. Or, if it's only a pastry shell to be baked, it helps to have the oven on for something else, so heat is not wasted.

THE CHOCOLATE CRUNCH topping for this cake is easily prepared, and the cake may be baked along with any dinner prepared in a moderate oven.

Snow Cake with Chocolate Crunch
(Makes 2 8-inch layers)
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs, separated
1 1/2 cup sifted cake flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup milk
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract

Add orange rind to shortening and work until creamy. Add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks, beaten until light and lemon-colored.

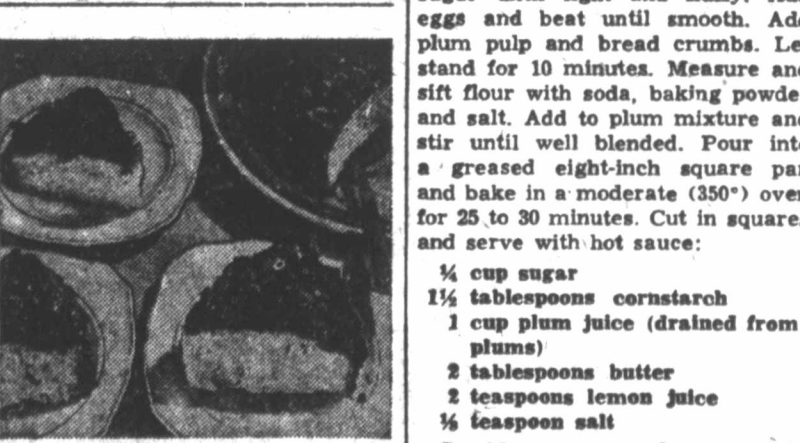

Fold in some of the sifted dry ingredients, then milk. Alternate remaining dry ingredients with milk, ending and beating well after each addition.

Fold in vanilla extract and stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour batter into two greased eight-inch layer cake pans. Bake in a moderately hot (375°) oven for 25-30 minutes. While cake is still warm, spread chocolate crunch between layers and over top.

Chocolate Crunch
1 6-ounce package semi-sweet chocolate bits
1 cup oven-popped rice cereal
Melt chocolate bits in top part of double boiler. Add cereal and stir until well-coated with the chocolate. Spread on cake.

Molasses Chiffon Pie
(Makes 1 8-inch pie)
1 8-inch pie shell, baked
1/2 cup pure dark molasses
1/2 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons ground chocolate
3 eggs
1/2 cup milk
1 tablespoon plain gelatin
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon salt

Place molasses, milk sugar, chocolate, spices and slightly beaten egg yolks in top part of double boiler and cook for 15 minutes. Add gelatin which has been soaked in 1/4

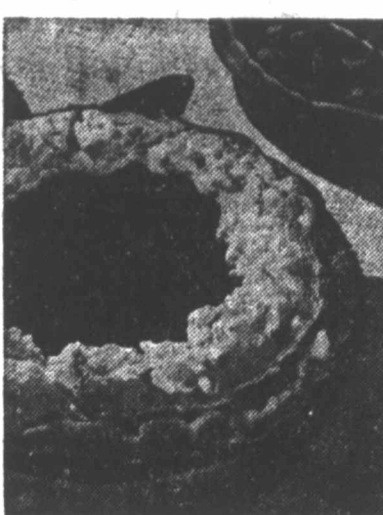

A simple-to-make, fluffy cake has interesting flavor from the orange rind used in the cake mixture and the novel chocolate-cereal topping used in place of frosting. Here's a truly easy cake that will make a hit with family or guests.

LYNN SAYS:
Know these Food Facts Before you Start Cooking

Shrimp should be simmered slowly so they do not lose their tenderness. The fresh shrimp may be cooked in water to which has been added a few sprigs of parsley, lemon slices, salt, pepper, celery leaves and bay leaf. If more flavor is desired.

Oysters are gentle things and should be cooked only until their edges curl slightly. Then they're done; otherwise, they get tough.

If you've always thought of molasses as a pudding, cake or cookie ingredient, you'll be interested in knowing that it can also make a glamorous pie. This one uses a gelatin base, eggs and milk, as well as nourishing, iron-rich molasses. For that glamorous look, spoon velvety mounds of sweetened whipped cream around the edge.

cup cold water for five minutes. When gelatin is dissolved, remove from range and chill until as thick as jelly. Fold the jellied mixture carefully into stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into the baked pie shell and chill until firm. Serve garnished with whipped cream.

QUICK DESSERTS which you'll like to serve often especially when days have been full of brisk fall activities may be used to fill in light meals and also to add touches of variety.

Toasted Peaches
(Serves 6)
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup lemon juice
12 peach halves
1/2 cup melted butter
2 cups corn flakes, crushed

Add rind and sugar to lemon juice and dip peach halves in this mixture. Then dip peach halves, cut side down in melted fat and roll in corn flakes. Arrange cut side down in a shallow pan (7x11 inches). Bake in a slow to moderate oven (325°) for one hour.

Baked Plum Pudding
(Serves 6-8)
1 No. 2 1/2 size can plums
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup dried bread crumbs
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon salt

Drain plums, reserving liquid for sauce. Press plums through fine sieve to give 1 cup plum pulp. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat until smooth. Add plum pulp and bread crumbs. Let stand for 10 minutes. Measure and sift flour with soda, baking powder and salt. Add to plum mixture and stir until well blended. Pour into a greased eight-inch square pan and bake in a moderate (350°) oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Cut in squares and serve with hot sauce:

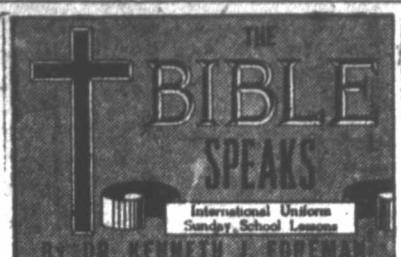

1/4 cup sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup plum juice (drained from plums)
2 tablespoons butter
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt

Combine sugar and cornstarch. Bring plum juice to a boil and add slowly the sugar-cornstarch mixture, stirring constantly. Cook and stir until thick and clear. Remove from heat and add remaining ingredients. Serve over plum pudding. Top with hard sauce or whipped cream, if desired.

Toasted bread cubes for soup need not be made in the oven unless you're using it for something. Toast the bread in the skillet with a bit of butter.

Grated Swiss cheese may be used to replace American cheese in many dishes if you prefer the flavor. Use with eggs, chicken and asparagus especially.

Make soured milk in a hurry at home if you need it for a recipe by adding lemon juice to fresh or evaporated milk. Let stand for 5 minutes.

God and Nations

Lesson for October 16, 1949

WHEN the Spanish fleet was about to invade England, back in Queen Elizabeth's time, nothing the English had could stop them. But when the Armada arrived, that vast fleet had been blown to bits by a storm, and the English neatly mopped up what was left. How do you account for that? The English always said God was with them. When the Nazis had overrun France in 1940, it would have been Dr. Foreman simple for them to invade England. There was next to nothing to stop them. But Hitler delayed from summer till fall . . . and by that time the British were able to mount an invincible defense. How do you account for that? Over and over again in history the unexpected, the unexpected, the "miraculous," has happened. Some call it chance; but others call it God.

God In History

BUT GOD does not always or usually operate in spectacular ways. God works in history as he works in nature, out of sight, visible to the eye of faith but seldom if ever otherwise. History, from the Christian point of view, is the working-out of the purposes of God.

The pattern is not entirely clear to us, because we cannot see enough of it at once. But looking back through history, we can see signs that God has been there. This is the message of the prophets of Israel, especially of the great Isaiah.

In a troubled era, when everything seemed to be in most complete confusion, Isaiah gave out some clear and plain truths from God, and helped men then and now read the pattern of God's design.

The Life Of A Nation

ONE TRUTH is that justice is a nation's life and sin is a nation's death. God being the God of justice, his purpose is to set justice in the earth. God plays no favorites among nations. Any nation that lives by God's laws, lives; the nation that defies God has signed its own death warrant. There are no peoples who can "get by" with what they please, if what they please is not the will of God. There are people now who do not believe that. They would say, Look at Russia! In Isaiah's time there were those who would say to Isaiah: You must be wrong—look at Assyria! There is a nation that does not know God, and yet grows every year stronger and stronger.

God's Ax

ISAIAH has a startling answer to that objection. (Chap. 10.) Assyria is a tool in God's hand, no more. He admits that Assyria has no standard but force, she worships only sheer Power. But there are other nations, wicked ones, which God intends to punish; one of these is the nation of Israel.

Assyria was destined to destroy Israel once and for all, and to damage Judah so severely she never would recover. All this, Isaiah says, is in God's plan.

God does not punish an evil nation with legions of angels; he punishes it with invasions and defeats in war. Assyria was an ax in the hand of God, cutting down the rotting trees of selfish and unjust nations.

Return To God!

PEOPLE in Isaiah's time were putting their trust, just as we do nowadays, in alliances, pacts, international combinations of all kinds. Isaiah warns ominously that this will not do, by itself. Not that all alliances are bad; in chapter 19 he actually pictures Assyria, Egypt and Israel as brothers-in-arms.

But he does not hold out any political scheme or combination as the best hope of a nation. Return to God! is the prophet's call. So in our time, whether it be a general MacArthur or a theologian, Bruner.

Many of our ablest men are warning us even now, that humanity is facing an alternative: Either go on the way of selfishness and war down to destruction, or else go back to the Source of justice, truth and love, the God in whom alone is salvation.

SWIM SCHOOL FOR SAFETY

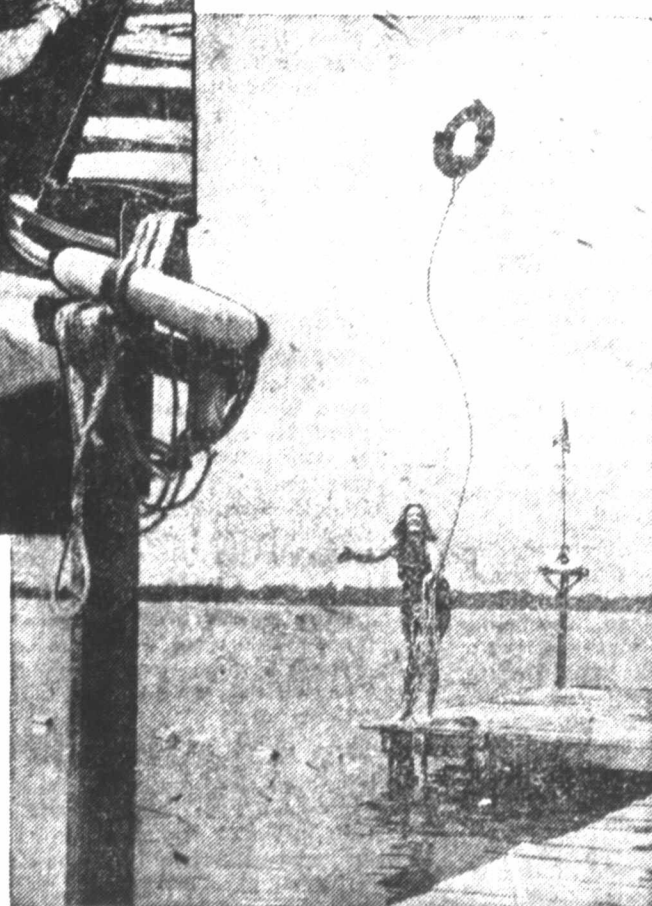

During the past summer, 38 aquatic schools with a record enrollment of more than 3,000 were conducted under the Red Cross program of instruction for swimming safety. Above, Barbara Mooney (left) and Jean Morrow, both of Pennsylvania, demonstrate the proper position for a two-person carry for an ill or injured person, with the carry in process in the background. The technique in the photo at right demonstrates the chin pull as directed by Joe Cooper, of Canton, Ohio, shows the approved method of "leveling off" the body of a person being towed to safety.

Attending the summer session of the swimming-safety school at LaGrange, Ind., Mary Margaret Barnett demonstrates how to toss a ring buoy (at right) to effect a rescue. A faculty member of the school, she teaches swimming during the winter months.

With the help of an eager student who doesn't mind staying half-under (above) Red Cross safety services director Donald Northey of Cleveland demonstrates one step in a paddle-board rescue. This is just one phase of the all-around instruction in swimming safety offered annually by the Red Cross aquatic schools in an effort to make water safety as widespread as possible.
