Raging River Reported At Highest Peak

Evacuation Of Town Threatened As Red River Hits All-Time High; Levee Is Breaking

(By The Associated Press)

FULTON, Ark., Feb. 23—Raging waters of the Red river today threatened to force evacuation of this little southwest Arkansas town, where more than a century ago French and Spanish traders bartered to the Indians goods brought upstream from New Orleans.

A few townspeople departed last night but most remained, hopeful that the giant protecting levee again would perform the task for which it was built more than 30 years ago.

Stream Above Town

The stream, at an all-time high of 35.7 feet, was several feet higher than the town itself, snuggling behind the dike, and lapped within a few inches of the top of the levee. The previous high stage, in 1927, was 35.6.

Why the majority of the 593 inhabitants did not flee was summed up by Ben A. Wilson, a resident for the past 29 years:

"Most of the people have lived here so long they are not afraid — they just can't believe that the levee won't hold."

A levee break three miles east of here aggravated Fulton's situation. Water pouring through the break started backing up toward the town. Two hundred and fifty WPA workers and scores of volunteers threw up an emergency levee in an attempt to halt the backwater.

Land Is Inundated

Two other breaks to the west inundated thousands of acres of rich farm lands and caused closing at Index of the trunk line highway through western Arkansas from Texarkana to Fort Smith.

In the adjacent flooded lowlands, operators of patrol boats expressed belief that all refugees had been brought to safety.

Tension eased in central and eastern Arkansas, where the Arkansas, White, Cache and Black rivers had driven hundreds from their homes in the past week. Workers apparent-

McCraw Declares Holbrook And Hill Took One Step Too Far And Violated Laws Of Decency

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—Attorney General William McCraw of Texas described today the "dragging of my wife" into the special state senate investigation at Dallas as a violation of the laws "of common decency."

McCraw yesterday authorized Chairman T. J. Holbrook of the committee to inspect the bank accounts of both himself and his wife, after Holbrook had issued subpoenas directing that the accounts be produced in evidence at the investigation.

McGraw issued the following statement today regarding the situation:

"When Senator Holbrook declared that my natural resentment which he termed 'venom' displayed ill-thoughtedness toward the great lily-white purpose of his investigation of my wife's little personal checking account, and extended his and Senator Joe Hill's campaign of filthy innuendo to her, and then declared in the true braggart style which characterizes him and Joe Hill—'he whom the gods would destroy they first make mad,' I indulged in a good laugh.

"In other words, Holbrook, in effect, even compared himself and Joe Hill to the political gods.

"For the past year and a half they have done all they could to destroy me, and I never said a word; but they went one step too far when they dragged my wife in. That was a step across the line of common decency and fair play.

"Those who stoop so low as to drag the women into political warfare in Texas couldn't destroy anybody, for they are too cowardly."

German Foreign Minister Is Reported To Be Planning A London Trip In Near Future

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Feb. 23—Political circles forecast today an early British approach to Germany along the lines of Prime Minister Chamberlain's "realistic" bid for the friendship of Italy's Premier Mussolini.

Joachim Von Ribbentrop, Reichsfuehrer Hitler's new foreign minister and retiring ambassador to Britain, was reported in unofficial German circles to be coming to London shortly.

Have Useful Exchanges

Ostensibly this would be to say his formal farewell to King George, but with Anthony Eden out of the way as foreign secretary it was believed he would have "useful exchanges of views" with British leaders.

French Ambassador Charles Corbin called at the foreign office with what was believed to be assurance that Premier Camille Chautemps would continue in office at least for the present and was prepared to give Britain's new orientation full support.

As Chamberlain moved to give effect to his policy organizations representing the opposition labor party, trade unions and League of Nations peace associations arranged for further demonstrations like that in the house of commons yesterday.

Backing Given Eden

The opposition backed the idealism of Anthony Eden, who resigned the foreign secretaryship rather than pursue Italian friendship talks under circumstances which he held would indicate Britain was yielding to pressure from the fascist Premier Mussolini.

Chamberlain, who held it his duty to seek peace with Mussolini and Germany's Hitler and avoid "the frightful question" of war, was reassured in his policy of practical dealings by a 330 to 168 vote of confidence from the house of commons.

The conservative party premier planned to confer tomorrow with Viscount Halifax, acting as temporary foreign secretary, and with the Earl of Perth, British ambassador to Rome who was called back to London for instructions on the Italian talks.

To Open Negotiations

Lord Perth was expected to return to Rome immediately after seeing his chief and at once to open negotiations with the Italian foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano.

McNutt 'Boom' For President Starts

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Indiana Democratic leaders, disdaining halfway measures, went into society on a grand scale today to give a "coming out" party for Paul V. McNutt, their 1940 presidential hope.

They took over a good share of the Mayflower hotel for a spectacular reception late this afternoon.

DENIES BEING CANDIDATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Paul V. McNutt, high commissioner to the Philippines, said today of reports that he aspired to the 1940 Democratic presidential nomination "I am not a candidate for any public office."

Invitations went to 2,700 federal officials and other Washingtonians —"everybody who is anybody," commented one enthusiastic Indianan.

Prepare For 4,000

It was hinted broadly, however, that gatecrashers wouldn't be refused a chance to shake hands with the tall, white-haired high commissioner to the Philippines. As a result the hotel chefs prepared teatime tidbits for 4,000.

The Indiana visitors, who preceded McNutt to the capital, bustled in and out of their 38 suites, greeting acquaintances and holding impromptu conferences. They would not comment on the 46-year old McNutt's own aspirations, but Frank McHale, Indiana Democratic committeeman, said:

"His friends are ambitious for him."

The Indianans made it plain that no formal campaign was being started at this time, but with winks and knowing looks, they expressed the opinion this was a good opportunity to put their candidate in the spotlight.

PAUL V. McNUTT

Proposal For Huge Sum Is Made Public

Grants Of $855,000,000 For States In Next Six Years Asked After Long Study

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—President Roosevelt transmitted to congress today a report of the advisory committee on education recommending new federal grants of $855,000,000 to states during the next six years to improve their public schools.

The grants, to begin a year hence at $70,000,000, would be increased approximately $30,000,000 each of the two following years and $20,000,000 each year thereafter until they reach $199,000,000 in 1944-45.

The report said the recommendations were based on "more than a year of exhaustive study."

In its general conclusions, the committee found:

"The public school system in the United States greatly needs improvement. Glaring inequalities characterize educational opportunities and expenditures for schools throughout the nation."

The committee proposed division of the new grants into six major categories, as follows, the first sum being for the starting year of 1939-40 and the second for the maximum in 1944-45:

Divisions Proposed

1—General aid to elementary and secondary education, $40,000,000—$140,000,000.

2—Improved preparation of teachers, $2,000,00—$6,000,000.

3—Construction of school buildings to facilitate district reorganization, $20,000,000—$30,000,000.

4—Administration of state departments of education, $1,000,000—$2,000,000.

5—Educational service for adults, $5,000,000—$15,000,000.

6—Library service for rural areas, $2,000,000—$6,000,000.

Island Colony Is Raided By China Ships

(By The Associated Press)

TOKYO, Feb. 23.—Seven Chinese warplanes raided Japan's island colony of Formosa today, inflicting "numerous casualties," Domei (Japanese news agency) reported.

It was the first time since 1864, when a British-French-Dutch fleet bombarded Shimonoseki, that territory of the Japanese empire had been subjected to hostile foreign bombardment. It was the empire's first air raid.

Ten Bombs Dropped

An hour before noon, the raiders swung over the Japanese air base on the outskirts of Taihoku, Formosan capital, and dropped ten bombs. A city of 276,000, Taihoku is near the northern tip of the island.

The raiders then bombarded points in Shinchiku province, on the western coast of the island.

An army communique charged that the Chinese planes killed or wounded women and children at Taikoku and Shinchiku city.

Guns Ineffective

It said that "an obscure number" of planes appeared over the colonial capital, flying at such an altitude that anti-aircraft guns were unable to reach them. "Consequently the bombs landed far from the local airdrome, hitting private houses and causing several casualties among women and children. There was no serious damage."

The communique said Shinchiku was bombed in the same manner an hour later.

A general air alarm was sounded throughout the island, and the "all clear" signal was not given until 3:42 p. m.

Life In Mansion Is Thrilling While It Lasts But Whisky Proves To Be His Undoing

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 23—James Bleaing, 28, found life in a mansion thrilling while it lasted.

There was no response when he knocked at the door of the Schwinn mansion Monday in search of a handout. Ignaz Schwinn, wealthy manufacturer, his family and servants were in Florida on vacation.

Bleaing entered—through a window. A well stocked larder helped him get through a meal quite satisfactorily. Scented soaps and expensive toilet waters proved welcome adjuncts to a bath. A pair of Mr. Schwinn's silk pajamas fit pretty well, too.

This might have gone on until the Schwinns returned were it not for a bottle of whisky.

"That was my downfall," Bleaing moaned at a police station last night. "I got stiff and really thought I was a millionaire. So when two carpenters came to fix the window, I yelled to them to quit the racket; they were disturbing me. If I had kept my mouth shut—"

Baby Held For Board Bill Now Back In Arms Of Mother As Court Refuses Human Lien

(By The Associated Press)

CARLISLE, Pa., Feb. 23—A "board bill baby" who spent five of his eight months in the home of neighbors—held as security for his own keep—cooed contentedly today in his mother's arms.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McCalister, farm folk from the South mountains, brought him back to his own crib in their simple five-room home after a court ruled against a "lien on flesh and blood."

McCalister, 40, a World war veteran, told Judge Fred S. Reese he left the baby at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Miller five months ago when Mrs. McCalister was in a Carlisle hospital.

"Two months later," he related, "when I went to get the baby, Miller told me he wanted some money for keeping it. I had never promised him any, but I thought he ought to have something."

McCalister said Miller demanded $2 a week.

Three Royal Balkan Beauties To Seek American Husbands

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—With names curiously reminiscent of Eugene Field's fabled Wynken, Blynken and Nod, who also set forth to sea, three royal Balkan beauties—maiden sisters of King Zog I of Albania—were on the high seas today en route to the United States.

Bound on a broadly-hinted quest for American husbands, the three princesses from the so-called "powder keg kingdom" of Europe are Myseyn, 28, Ruhije, 27, and Maxhide, 26.

They are to arrive in New York next Monday on the Italian liner Conte Di Savoia.

Court's Ruling Against State

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 23.—The state lost finally in the supreme court today an effort to have 500 acres of valuable land in Gregg county declared a vacancy between surveys and therefore public property.

The court made final, by overruling a motion for re-hearing, its previous action denying the state's appeal from adverse lower court holdings in a suit against the Atlantic Oil Producing company and others.

In addition to the land, the state had asked damages of $7,800,000 in oil taken out.

The chief question was whether the Sabine river constituted the south boundary of the Francis W. Johnson survey. The property is about 12 miles southwest of Longview.

"Peeping Tom" Is Persistent So Woman Talks With Him

A window peeper became so consistent a caller at the home of a woman on Fourteenth street that she had a talk with him, and learned he "had a right to come around there", she told police.

He was an officer, she quoted him as saying. She said he had frequented her premises a week.

Police officials hastened to defense of the police force—and to investigate report of the frequent caller.

Gib Jackson, Former Resident Of Lubbock, Taken By Death

Gib Jackson, 63, West Texas lumberman for many years and a former Lubbock resident, died in Amarillo early today after he had undergone two operations in the last two weeks.

He came here to oppose before a congressional committee a bill to place submerged coastal lands under government control.

Spring Upturn For Oil Industry Seen

Life Sentence Is Affirmed

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 23—The court of criminal appeals today affirmed a life sentence assessed Mrs. L. Dansby of Jones county for the poison-lemonade murder of Mrs. J. T. King, her landlady.

The court disagreed with defense complaints the trial judge erred when he refused to sustain a motion for an instructed verdict of not guilty.

She based her motion on claims evidence failed to show she mixed poison with the lemonade or caused Mrs. King to swallow it.

Spread Poison On Lemon

Evidence showed Mrs. Dansby obtained poison under an assumed name and spread it on half a lemon which she gave Mrs. King who was visiting the house Mrs. Dansby occupied, the court said.

The court sustained a 25-year sentence given R. B. Norwood of Burnet county for fatally shooting Calvin Word, jr., on the streets of Burnet, and refused and remanded, because of failure to charge the jury on self defense, a similar sentence for H. Y. Broussard of Orange county for conviction of killing Albert Theriot.

OLD TIMER DIES

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 23. (AP)—Mortimer M. (Mert) Hackett, 77, former oldtime Boston National league ball player, died at his home today.

(By The Associated Press)

TULSA, Feb. 23—It was hard to put your finger on the exact reason, but there was a distinctly better feeling today among those whose business fortunes are linked to the petroleum industry.

Some called it the first harbinger of the long-awaited spring upturn; one of the more humorous executives suggested, "well, things must look better, they couldn't look much worse than they have."

Motor Fuel Stronger

Marketings reported a firmer tone in motor fuel. This was heartening because through the current recession the difficulties of the industry had been centered, most authorities agreed, in the weakness of gasoline.

The strengthening was noted in spite of the fact that stocks of finished gasoline had reached an all-time high. An improved inquiry for gasoline at the week-end led to hints that the entire refined structure might be due for an upturn.

Eastern reports of slight upturns in many lines of business were scanned eagerly by oil company executives. Of particular interest were first reports of better buying in the automobile trade.

Quickening Of Demand

Oil trade reports were that the widespread shut-down of small refineries had cut off the flow of distressed motor fuel. Plants now operating reported a quickening of the demand for their product.

The stability of the crude oil structure seemed assured through the cooperation of state authorities in holding down production allowables and there was no present indication of a loosening of the check on the output of the wells.

It was observed that through the entire winter's slump prices for mid-continent crude had held steady for the most part, a healthy sign for the industry.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—The house naval committee inquired today into the cost of providing 1,000 more airplanes for the navy.

Members said they expected to obtain the estimates from Rear Admiral Arthur B. Cook, chief of the navy's aeronautics bureau, after completion of testimony by Rear Admiral William G. Dubose, head of the bureau of construction and repair.

To Get 2,000 More

The navy already is authorized to acquire about 2,000 planes—the number considered vital for a fleet built up to the limits of the abandoned Washington and London arms treaties.

The administration proposes to give the navy 1,000 extra sky fighters, which would raise the cost of the bigger-navy program to well over $1,000,000,000.

Dubose already has estimated the government would have to spend $877,000,000 for the 47 combatant vessels and 22 auxiliaries proposed in a bill by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the naval committee.

Cost Would Be Heavy

Should additional auxiliaries be built in line with recommendations of Admiral William Leahy, chief of naval operations, Dubose said the shipbuilding program alone would cost $1,050,000,000.

Some members of congress have indicated they might attempt to obtain an authorization for fewer battleships and more aircraft.

Battle Of Teruel Is Over But Pitiful Sights Greet The Eye

TERUEL, Spain, Feb. 23—A seven-year-old girl can't find her father and mother.

A tired, white-haired man, wounded in the shoulder, is glad the fighting is over. One day he came home and found his wife shot dead.

He stayed through weeks of siege and says he won't leave home now.

Two boys sing when they see the food trucks. They had been eating mule meat.

Except for a cleanup of snipers which victorious insurgents think may be hidden in the ruins of caves underneath this once-proud Aragon city, the battle of Teruel is ended.

Last night pack mules of the insurgent sanitary corps plodded through the streets, carrying dead and wounded. Squads of insurgent soldiers pushed over tottering walls and cleared away debris.

Shell-splintered trees littered roads leading into the city. Most of the buildings which had

As an antidote to what harsh, soapy solutions do to your hands, use Chamberlain's Lotion, the lotion that satinizes. A few drops when you have had your hands in water, does help prevent roughness, irritation, keep your hands smooth. Because it is not sticky, greasy, gummy nor "messy," it dries with convenient quickness. At all toilet goods counters.

Patriotic Motif Is Used At Luncheon

In celebration of Washington's birthday, seventy-eight women attended a luncheon Tuesday in the north ballroom of the Hilton hotel sponsored by the Nancy Anderson chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

The tables were decorated with casters, suggesting a colonial motif, small standards with flags of the United States, and bowls of spring flowers. Flags were draped on the walls. A menu including corn pones and creamed chicken further illustrated a southern motif.

Guests were greeted at the door to the ballroom by little Virginia Dee Knapp and Richard Allen, dressed as Martha and George Washington.

Miss Sycily Roberts, Lubbock representative in a state D. A. R. contest, was a special guest.

These On Program

The meeting was opened with invocation by Mrs. Roscoe Wilson, chaplain, followed with a salute to the flag. Mrs. Bradford Knapp, regent, presided. Miss Margaret Turner, program chairman for the occasion, introduced the program numbers which included: Tap dance, Jimmy Johnson, accompanied by Billy Nation, dancing teacher; minuet followed by "The Big Apple," danced by six students at Texas Technological college, accompanied by Mr. Nation, head of the Hollywood School of the Dance. MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties. BUT, if you are cross, lifeless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls.

Watch baby's feeding and be particular with your own diet too, because improper feeding is the most frequent cause of diarrhea, or loose bowels. TEETHINA has been successfully used for many years to relieve diarrhea caused by wrong diet. It gently moves waste from the little bowels without irritation. TEETHINA is also recommended for temporary constipation and colic due to gas or sour stomach. It is sold by druggists, contains no opiates, and costs but 30 cents for 12 pleasant-tasting powders. Children's Colds

Relieve Their Misery This Proved Way

WHEN your child comes down with a cold, you can't afford to take needless risks. Use the treatment that has been doubly proved for you—Vicks VapoRub.

It has been proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind—further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (Full details in every VapoRub package.) Only Vicks give you proof like this.

Vicks VapoRub is direct external treatment. There's no dosing—no risk of spoiling appetite, or disturbing a delicate digestion. VapoRub can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child.

You simply massage VapoRub on throat, chest, and back (as illustrated). Then—to make its long-continued double action last even longer—spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth.

No Long Waiting for Relief to begin...

Almost before you finish rubbing, the youngster begins to feel warm and comfortable as VapoRub goes to work direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation and coughing—helps break up local congestion. And long after the little one relaxes into restful sleep, VapoRub keeps right on working—hour after hour. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

American Wife Is Officer In Spain

(By NEA Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—She's wide-eyed, young, debutante-vivacious, Paris-stylish, and as pertly pretty as a soubrette.

But her looks belie her experiences.

She has dodged screaming shells, seen her husband bloodied and torn, and presumes to tell generals how NOT to fight a war.

She's Marion Stone Merriman, University of Nevada '32, wife of 29-year-old Major Robert Merriman, ex-professor of economics at the University of California, now chief of staff of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade. He leads 1500 Americans fighting for the Spanish loyalists and is the highest ranking American in Spain. She is an enlisted, uniformed member of the brigade staff, officer in charge of personnel.

Mrs. Merriman is home on leave, to tell American women that their countrymen in Spain need the munitions of mercy — medical supplies, sweaters, socks and cigarettes.

Shelling Stiffens Morale

She first dodged shells in Madrid. From her experience and observation there Mrs. Merriman presumes to tell generals: "Don't shell civilians!"

Strafing civilians is a commonplace of the new-fangled wars, but Mrs. Merriman says the effect is the reverse of the desired intimidation.

"After your first shock, it makes you white-hot with indignation that such cruel terrorization of non-combatant women and children should be carried on," she declares. "I was terribly scared, but a Spanish girl put her arm around me and said, 'Don't be frightened; it will soon pass.'

"And it did. If the rebels only knew it, their attacks on defenseless civilians cement resistance rather than create panic."

Mrs. Merriman became as inured to the periodic strafing as were the Madrilenos themselves. "It's like a rainstorm — everyone runs to shelter, and when it's over, they come out," she shrugged.

She brings a message of gratitude from the women of Spain for the heroic work done by American girls serving as volunteer nurses in the battle zones. The American volunteer medical unit numbers about 100, half of them nurses.

They are invaluable in getting the eager but ignorant Spanish women organized, she said. The war-time efforts of Spanish women were strait-jacketed by ancient traditions of submission and seclusion. They knew nothing of medication, sanitation, or industry. Now they are fairly well organized and have even established training schools with intensive courses in industrial production, so that male factory workers are released for the front.

Mrs. Merriman is certain that the loyalists will win, and that their victory will help keep the world safe from Fascism.

Emphatic and enthusiastic in her espousal of the Spanish loyalist cause, Mrs. Marion Stone Herriman cuts a pretty figure in her uniform as personnel officer of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade.

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Tariff Repeal Being Asked

DES MOINES, Feb. 23 (AP)—Col. Frank Knox of Chicago proposed last night that the Republican party return to "the plain folks of America" by sponsoring repeal of the "excessively high tariff subsidy" to industry and halting crop control payments to the farmer.

"I do not favor government subsidies for anyone," he said in an address prepared for delivery before the Iowa Republican Washington's day dinner here. "That is not what governments are created for. Certainly I am opposed to subsidizing one class of business and refusing subsidy to another."

Stand Is Reiterated

The Chicago newspaper publisher, who was the 1936 G. O. P. vice presidential nominee, reiterated his stand of a month ago when he recommended the Republican party abandon its traditional high tariff principles.

"It is sheer political suicide," he said, "for the Republican party to continue to sponsor and support a system of indirect subsidies to industry — which is exactly what a system of excessively high tariffs is —and at the same time deny to the farmer his demand for a compensating subsidy to his business."

He asserted a tariff to compensate for the "wide difference in wage standards between the United States and other countries is justifiable, but beyond this we should not go."

Disputing President Roosevelt's Jackson day dinner statements on protecting the "morals of democracy," Col. Knox said "a careful estimate showed the total expenditures of the . . . administration during the campaign year of 1936, for publicity purposes, was in excess of $5,000,000 of public funds."

These expenditures, he said, violated a federal law forbidding spending money for publicity purposes "unless specifically appropriated for that purpose." He added 300 men and women are employed "in Washington alone" as governmental publicity experts.

Refugees In Oklahoma Receive Relief As Waters Recede

IDABEL, Okla., Feb. 23 (AP) — Warmer weather and ebbing flood waters of the Red river eased the situation for an estimated 1,000 refugees in this area today and the Red Cross began vaccinations against typhoid and smallpox.

Several of the 500 refugees housed here were suffering from pneumonia. Miss Marjorie Wright, St. Louis, Mo., Red Cross nurse, arrived last night to direct the fight against disease in the wake of the flood.

Motor boats continued to ply the back waters of the Red river looking for marooned farmers. Several were brought out last night. The stream dropped four inches near Tom and was receding more rapidly to the west.

Fair and continued cold tonight and fair tomorrow was the forecast.

Peace Pact

indicated former cooperation with government policies would be changed to constant attacks in parliament with questions like:

"Is Mussolini delivering the goods?"

Chamberlain, fighting a vote of censure in a hectic parliamentary session, avowed his wish that Britain "stay in the league because I have faith that it will be reconstituted."

Security Not Provided

But, he warned, "we must not try to delude ourselves, and still more we must not try to delude small, weak nations that they will be protected by the league against aggression. We know that nothing of the kind can be expected. The league is unable to provide collective security for anybody."

The United States was injected briefly into the debate by Winston Churchill, former cabinet minister, who said "millions of people there who are our enemies have been armed with the means to mock the sincerity of British idealism . . ."

Likewise, he asserted, Americans "working for closer cooperation of the two countries on parallel lines are downcast, baffled and bewildered."

Daily Markets . . .

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 23 (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady here today and showed advances of 5 to 7 points due to better cables and favorable reports from domestic cotton goods markets.

March opened at 9.33, May 9.42, July 9.49, Oct. 9.59, Dec. 9.61 and Jan. 9.62. Prices moved within a narrow range and at the end of the first half hour were at or near the opening figures.

Liverpool cabled that the market there felt scattered buying on firm eastern advances and improvement in textiles. Trade calling met light profit taking, liquidation and hedging.

Cotton goods markets were extremely active Monday and the rise in values uncovered considerable demand for print cloth, sheeting and drills.

Trading was active and near mid-session prices had advanced a few additional points. March sold at 9.36, May at 9.42, July 9.51, Oct. 9.60 and Dec. at 9.59, or 5 to 10 points above the previous close.

Buying orders apparently piled up over the Washington's birthday holiday and there was a steady demand with contracts scarce. Foreign and domestic commission house buying was evident.

The turnover Monday was 61,300 bales and open commitments 429,900 bales, a decrease of 4,300 bales from the previous market day.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—Buying forces boosted stock market leaders today as tension in Europe lessened through England's move toward agreement with Italy.

Near the fourth hour many shares had added fractions to two points or more and prices were near their best for the day. Profit-selling, which appeared from time to time, was well absorbed.

Brokers were encouraged by an increase in volume on the rise. Throughout the morning blocks of 1,000 and 2,000 shares were snapped up quickly.

Steel, farm implement, rubber and copper issues were favored, and a flurry in aircrafts sent this division vigorously ahead. Rails and utilities were able to add fractions only in most cases.

Prominent in the extension of Monday's rally were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Cerro De Pasco, American Smelting, International Nickel, J. I. Case, International Harvester, American Can, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Johns-Manville, Allis Chalmers, Union Carbide, Sears Roebuck, Philip Morris and National Supply.

been Teruel's pride before the civil war were in ruins.

Although damaged, the tower of the famous cathedral still was standing. The Aragon hotel, the seminary convent and the military barracks virtually were destroyed.

Insurgents marched into the city yesterday, shouting, singing, and confident that they were protected by rings of troops in the outskirts. They occupied Teruel, which government forces had captured last December, after the trapped government garrison of 1,000 men raised a white flag over the seminary ruins.

Defendants Can Parley Vous All They Like In Court

VILLE PLATTE, La., Feb. 23. (AP) —This is one place in the United States where a Frenchman, yanked into court, can speak his piece in his own tongue as fast as he likes without anyone saying "Whoa."

Almost all misdemeanors are tried in French and an interpreter is used only in one of those rare cases when perhaps one member of the jury understands English alone.

Eighty per cent of the 28,000 residents of Evangeline parish, which constitutes the judicial district, speak French fluently. Nearly all of them are of French or Acadian descent.

French speaking too are Judge J. Cleveland Fruge and the other court and law-enforcement officials, as well as the lawyers. The pleadings and court records are in English and Court Stenographer Mrs. John B. L. Fontenot, Judge Fruge explains, "merely translates in her own mind from French to English and puts it down in the latter language on her pad."

Cattle Market Is Reported To Be A Little Stronger

The cattle market is a little stronger now than in recent months and cattle feeders are more hopeful, W. S. Carter, Amarillo, livestock agent of the Panhandle and Santa Fe railroad, said this morning.

Feeders are finding the Fort Worth market a little better for purpose of South Plains feeders than other markets, he said. There is an increasing number of feeders who are going to Fort Worth with their stock.

Carter said he had been told that more farmers were feeding small bunches of cattle since the first of the year, than before.

Market Reservation List Increased

Continued requests for display space reservations and for attendance at a dinner dance opening night of Western Wholesale Market association, to be conducted at Lubbock hotel March 31 to April 3, are being received.

The chamber of commerce announced further expansion of plans. All the second, third, and fourth floors of the hotel will be utilized, as well as "elevator corridors" of the fifth and sixth floors, and the east ballroom. Last year's show, known as West-Tex New-Mex Wholesale Clothing Market association, employed only the second through the fifth floors and did not use the ballroom.

Reservations for the dinner dance included Cobb's Department store at Littlefield and Speer's Variety store at Spur, said officials.

association, whose members felt the recession perhaps more than any other branch of the business, noted "encouragement and the possibility of relief" from President Roosevelt's recent statement recommending price increases in certain commodities.

The president's statement: "A price rise should take place in and should be mainly confined to classes of commodities whose prices are too low. These include finished products which are produced and sold under highly competitive condition," brought an observation from one small refiner that the president "could not have described conditions in the refiners' market more accurately."

Wintry weather in the mid-continent was an effective check on new drilling. In Oklahoma, however, there were encouraging developments which included the state's second largest gasser ever drilled, a 203,500,000-cubic-footer in Caddo county; a wildcat strike in Garfield county near Enid and the bringing in of a potential 15,000-barrel offset to the discovery well in the new Ramsey pool near Stillwater in Payne county.

Animal Week In New York Subways Still Going Strong; Pets Make Appearance

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—Animal week in the New York subways was still going strong today.

It started promptly, as a week should start, on Monday, with a stray monkey in a rush hour crowd in Brooklyn. No one knew how the monkey got down on the subway tracks, but there he was turning handsprings.

A policeman held out a lump of sugar. The monkey grabbed it, along with the policeman's hand. The crowd on the platform cheered.

The A. S. P. C. A. was still hunting the owner of the monkey today when another subway guest appeared.

A wild duck suddenly flapped out from under the feet of a man and a woman sitting side by side on a train speeding under lower Manhattan.

The bird hit its stride just over the passengers' heads and fled back and forth in frantic search of exit. The passengers ducked and screamed until somebody got up his nerve and grabbed at the flying feathers.

Has Good Reason

Whereas the monkey had no sane reason for being on the subway tracks, people saw some sense in the wild duck's flight. Spring was coming, and the train was going north. The duck got off at 34th street, with a passenger who wanted a duck.

A bird dog got on another subway train somewhere north of Columbia university a few hours later, but he didn't seem to be hunting a duck. He was lying under a seat, making less noise than the gum-chewers above him, until two children found him and patted his head. He was apparently studying something and didn't want to be disturbed. He waited until the next stop — 72nd street on the west side —and walked off the train, up the platform toward the stairs and the street.

Short Course Assured Here

Third annual short course for cleaners and dyers has been assured for Lubbock on a scale bigger than ever before, according to announcement Tuesday afternoon by John A. Stinson, vice president of the Texas State association of Cleaners and Dyers.

The event here, he added, will be the last and the most important of four to be held in Texas. Dates and scenes of the courses will be Dallas, June 13 and 14; Houston, June 16 and 17; San Antonio, June 20 and 21; and Lubbock, June 23 and 24.

Assurance that the short courses can be held on the most elaborate scale attempted in this part of the United States, Stinson said, followed a conference in Austin from which he returned Tuesday.

Attending the conference were officials of the state vocational education department of the extension service and a committee representing the state cleaners and dyers association. Members of that committee were Earl Heard, head professor of the textile engineering department of Texas Technological college, Pat French of San Antonio, president of the state cleaners and dyers association, Seth Haynes of Tyler, secretary of the association, Kelly Smith of Austin, and Stinson.

Well Attended Last Year

The second annual short course for Lubbock held here last year was attended by more than 130 cleaners and dyers. Many of the sessions were held at the Scientific School of Cleaning and Dying of which Stinson is head.

Speakers will include, Stinson said, the foremost experts in the work in the United States.

Announcement that the course is assured was made by Stinson as he prepared for his departure by airplane tonight for Detroit to be one of the principal speakers at the annual convention of the Michigan state association opening Feb. 27.

He also has been invited to be a speaker at the McCleary short course in Memphis, Tenn., opening March 20. The Memphis course, he said, is the largest of its kind in the United States.

Birth Of George Washington Is Commemorated In City

Yellowhouse Masonic lodge and Lubbock chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star joined with Masonic and Eastern Star bodies of the nation over Tuesday night in commemorating the birth of George Washington, first president and an early leader of their fraternity in the Western hemisphere. The two groups and guests attended a program in the lodge room atop the Citizens National bank building.

Approximately 125 persons heard a namesake of the revolutionary hero, George W. Dupree, Lubbock attorney, deliver the evening's principal address and applauded it, along with other speeches and musical numbers. Guy Casey, captain of the 19th street fire company and worshipful master of the lodge, presided.

Heading the program for the Eastern Star chapter was Mrs. France Baker, worthy matron. Other leaders of her organization who spoke briefly were Mesdames Lillian Barnard and Hinda Nabors.

One of the evening's high points was a series of piano numbers by chubby, four-year-old Ned Hardin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hardin.

Mrs. Lottie Boles Hilton, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Frank Barclay, gave two vocal numbers and a mixed quartet, composed of Mesdames Barclay and Ethridge Eagan, and Elton Plowman and Edgar Inmon, also gave several numbers, followed by a duet by Mesdames Barclay and Eagan. Mrs. Grady Bownds, presented a humorous reading.

Rev. C. E. Hereford, pastor of First Baptist church and former chaplain of the Texas Grand lodge, offered invocation and benediction, after which a plate supper was served. Announcements were made by Burton S. Burks and Hugh McClellan.

The Liberty bell cracked in 1835.

Handling It With Gloves

By Collier Parris

Having proved to the fans last Wednesday night that he can wrestle with the best of 'em, Dandy Dick Sampson hopes to satisfy the customers' appetite for the rougher side of ring warfare tonight against Bulldog Bill Venable. It isn't likely they'll go three falls without striking a few blows.

FROM THE STATE Golden Gloves tournament we came home yesterday, we three chauffeurs—Weldon Chapman, Harold Gregory and your reporter—with our cargo of boxers but no championship belts. And no serious regrets.

We felt that at least one of our district champions should have fared better at the hands of the judges down at Fort Worth Monday night, and a lot of other people thought so, too. Best we could do, however, was bring home a couple of second place medals, beautiful little emblems now being cherished by Heavyweight Babe Ritchie and Middleweight John Buck.

And so——

Some Golden Gloves impressions and recollections: Babe Ritchie was easily the outstanding heavyweight of the field. . . Bob Ritchie, to our way of thinking, should have won his semi-final light heavyweight bout. . . which would have put him against a "set-up" in the final . . . But John Buck's final opponent, Carl Hilger of Dallas, defending his title, was best boxer in tournament. . . .

Tommy Coats, likeable kid from Seagraves, spoke for the rest of the Lubbock district crew, the light boys: "Nobody should be sore at us. Gosh, we wouldn't hurt anybody." . . . But they did their best. . . . the state tournament is TOUGH . . . and we mean tough, brother!

Orchids to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram crew for putting on a swell tournament. . . . No less interested in the progress of the thing than Sports Editor Flem Hall, the tournament "papa" was the paper's popular managing editor, James Record, who bustled about like a mother hen, directing photographers, hoping the crowd would be pleased. . . and what a crowd Monday night! . . . The Will Rogers Memorial coliseum, in case you haven't seen it, is almost large enough to accommodate a football game—it does accommodate midget auto racing—and it was well nigh full, 7,000 people. . . . Every night would have been nearly the same had weather been better Thursday and Friday. . . . The Fort Worth paper did a great job of handling the joust, and the boys who worked are due a lot of credit. . . Golden Gloves will be a big thing in Texas.

In sending three men to the Monday night finals, Lubbock was one of five district centers. . . . Fourteen districts had men in the finals. . . . Only Galveston, Austin, Wichita Falls and Fort Worth, besides Lubbock, had as many as three boxers to pass the first two rounds. . . . And one of Fort Worth's men, John Bray, supposed to fight Babe Ritchie in the semi-finals, failed to report. . . . which was no surprise to Lubbock folks. . . .

Referees—there were four of them—performed well at the state tourney, but no better, not as good, we think, as Bo Sexton. . . . John Galiana, inspector for the state labor commission, was best of the quartet. . . . he ducked a professional job at Dallas to work in the Golden Gloves. . . Judges added to the intensity of the entertainment. . . . and the suspense . . . . you'd never know. . . . Judging amateur fights is most technical work. . . . we'd hate to be one. . . . Cy Leland, former Lubbock boy, now big shot with WBAP, did good job at public address microphone. . . Ross McAlister of KFYO could pinch hit for him, though, any time. . . .

Visiting sports scribes—and there were lots of 'em—were treated like Important People. . . . and should be duly grateful. . . this one is. . . . First two rows ringside on two sides of ring were reserved for press and photographers. . . . with nice work benches. . . . Other things reserved, too. . . . Among scribes present: Jerry (Lou) Malin, Amarillo; Weldon Hart, Austin; Bruce Layer, Houston; Red Webster, Dallas; Hank Hart, Big Spring, and correspondents from Galveston, Brownwood, Wichita Falls, Tyler, Lubbock and San Antonio, not to mention the host scribes, Hall, Amie Melton, Bill Van Fleet, Frank Tolbert, Lorin McMullin and Tommy Dillard, the demon photographer. . . .

The tournament's two-ring circus was the Colbert duo, father and son, from Houston. . . When Billy Colbert, ultimate light heavyweight champ, fought, it was hard not to watch Jack Colbert, the papa and second . . . Never did a second work harder than Mr. Jack, a graying veteran of the ring, who weaved and bobbed, feinted and jabbed, dodged and ducked, crossed and hooked more than his capable 16-year-old son, the guy who decisioned (?) Bob Ritchie in the semi-finals. . . . Jack seconded all the Houston fighters, but was really on the job when son Billy was in the ring. . . . Photographers stopped "shooting" the action in the ring to train cameras on Papa Jack, squatted on his stool outside the ring. . .

Great fighting, fine aggressiveness in the Golden Gloves. . . . But if you want a winner there, among the kids—and few of 'em are over 21—teach him how to use his left hand. . . Give us eight right handed scrappers, such as those this district sent to Fort Worth, who can use their left hands, and we'll bring back eight championships. . . The boxers should take lessons from golf professionals. . . Charles Akey will be one of our instructors next winter. . . .

A SIDE TRIP to Dallas, a visit to 424 Republic Bank building, and: Milton Price, secretary of the Texas league, president of the West Texas-New Mexico league, running the Texas league office while Prexy Alvin Gardner keeps up with his oil interests in West Texas. . . . "All set," says Price. "Josh Billings is going out to Clovis and help 'em get started. He's already got the job of running the club. It's a cinch, our six-club league. Harry Faulkner plans to come out to Lubbock this week to meet a few people and talk over a few things. We'll have another meeting soon, adopt a schedule and settle other things. And the season'll probably open on April 27."

Harry Faulkner, who can't miss getting along with local people, concurred. He concurred again Monday night at the fights. Planned to come here today. Haven't heard from him, but he'll be here any time. When he comes, let's give him a big hand and a nice audience. It isn't often that a town gets a break like Lubbock is getting in baseball.

Bob Tarleton, big boss of the Dallas Steers and the Chicago White Sox farm system, still is enthusiastic over his latest accomplishment—settling a team in Lubbock. The team will come from Longview, where the Steers and all the southern farms of the White Sox train, and they'll be ready to play ball when they get here.

Sampson Gets Call Tonight

The boy from Boston, Dick Sampson, who claims Denton, Texas, as his home, evidently made a hit with the customers, and the promoter, last week. A loser in the main spot last Wednesday night, Sampson comes back tonight for the same spot while the winner last week moves down to the supporting card.

Sampson presents himself tonight as a fighter, in all probability, whereas he did some nifty wrestling last week against one of the "gentlemen" of the ring, Otis Clingman of Amarillo. Tonight he meets Bulldog Bill Venable, the Tuscaloosa Terror, and things may happen.

Clingman, one of the most adept wrestlers at turning apparent defeat into victory, pulled another of his famous rallies last Wednesday night to take the third and decisive fall, but Sampson showed plenty of artistry in his first main event here.

No Cream-Puff Match

Against Venable, Sampson probably will alter his usual clean tactics to take care of the emergency the roughish Venable may create. Venable, a conscientious grappler but with leanings toward the villainish side, is expected to prove a worthy foe for the pro gridder from Denton and Boston.

The supporting card boasts main eventers in both events. Clingman will attempt to uphold the honor of Amarillo grapplers by taking on the Gorilla, Pogi from South America, in the curtain raiser. Pogi, returning last week after a long absence, was not extended in beating young Art Belcher of Amarillo. Clingman, if he can geep Pogi inside the ring, will make things a lot tougher for the hairy apeman.

Bob Cummings, the California cowboy, hits the league again after pursuing his career in other circuits. His opponent, slugging Sailor Moran, may find Bounding Bob an elusive target for his body punch, but the Arkansas tar is favored.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—Anything, or practically nothing, can happen at Madison Square Garden tonight, when Joe Louis exposes his heavyweight title for a maximum of 15 rounds against Nat Mann, a rugged, resolute young fighter from Connecticut.

A good right-hand puncher, Mann might possibly lay one on the big negro's chin and pick up the marbles. On the other hand, the betting is about 3 to 1 that the affair will run true to form, that Louis either will knock Natie kicking or slice him up like a Virginia ham.

With the house scaled from a $16.50 top, prospects were for a near-sellout with gross receipts of better than $100,000. Louis always draws 'em, and 4,000 were reported on route from New Haven on special trains to watch their Mann take his cut at the championship.

It is, in some respects, one of the strangest heavyweight title bouts on record. Mike Jacobs announced the match somewhat casually a couple months ago, but nobody appeared to take much notice until the last few days. All of a sudden it seems to have dawned that Louis actually is risking his crown against one of the better young fighters.

There has been little ballyhoo, partly because of a brooding uncertainty in the minds of the fight writers. The story first went around that Louis would "loan" his championship to Mann for a time, thus relieving himself of the necessity of fighting Max Schmeling next June. But it's been decided now that that wouldn't make sense, because who is Mike Jacobs to kick a million-dollar gate out the window?

No, the best belief now is that they are going at it dead on the level tonight, and that if Mann does score an improbable victory he will have to do it the hard way. He looks like a pretty tough one for Louis to be taking on this close to the Schmeling engagement, but Joe's managers declare the champ insisted he didn't want a set-up.

"Honest, he told us if he couldn't lick Mann or anybody else around this country he wouldn't have any business fighting Schmeling," said Julian Black. Louis has given the same answer to anybody who asked him about it in training camp.

Mann, who is about three inches under the bomber's six feet, two inches and weighs a dozen pounds less, will carry a good record into the ring tonight. He hasn't dropped a fight in 18 months, his most notable win in that period having been a 10-round decision over Bob Pastor.

Tech's Season In Basketball Reaches End

Texas Tech's basketball team ended its 1938 schedule last night by edging out a favored Lumberjack five from Arizona State Teachers college of Flagstaff, 31 to 28, in a nip and tuck contest.

The long range shooting of Frank "Butch" Sachse, the sophomore sensation introduced recently by Coach Ber. Huffman, afforded the Raiders a nice victory, a sweep of the series and an even break against Border conference foes for the season.

Sachse, starting slowly, found the range and dropped 'em in from all over the court for 16 points, running his total for the season to 201.

Stymied under the basket by the towering Bob Sneed, Lumberjack guard who had that special assignment, Sachse drew back and fired over Sneed's head, around his arms and between his legs to pull Tech out of the fire and square the double series with the Jacks. Once not long ago in Flag, the Raiders dropped a whole series.

Aker Is Second

Rex Williams arched in a couple of honeys and sank a free shot for second scoring honors for Tech, although Gov Aker, Lumberjack forward, was second in point-making with five field goals. Jimmy Dunbar and Bob Hitt assisted in the scoring.

The game, played to a half-filled house, was rapid-fire in action, contrasting with Monday night's slow contest, and reasonably clean. Only five personals were called against the Red Raiders. The Lumberjacks were penalized eleven times, but the contest was free of "rough stuff."

Fast floor work, fine defensive maneuvers and quick breaking made up for occasional sloppy passes and interceptions. The teams guarded each other closely under the baskets, and very few "crip" shots were made.

Tech held the ball most of the time, but was slow getting started, although John Henderson's field goal in the first minute opened the show.

Sneed made a free toss for the visitors, Rex Williams a field goal for Tech before Arizona counted its first goal from the floor, Aker sinking a beauty. Webb made a free shot for Tech, but Dunbar's field goal tied the score at 5-all. The visitors drew ahead then on Aker's field goal. Tech took a 8-7 lead on Williams' free shot and Webb's looper, but the lead changed swiftly as Hitt made a field goal, followed with another before Henderson's free shot.

Sachse Gets Going

Goals by Dunbar and Hitt gave Arizona a 15-11 advantage just before the half ended, but three fast field goals in a row by Sachse, who had scored Tech's 10th and 11th points a few plays earlier, gave Tech a 17-15 lead at halftime.

Arizona knotted the count on Aker's field goal as the second half opened, and Sachse made another. Dunbar tied it up and Sachse made another. Aker's goal tied the score at 21-all, then Williams made a nice one for Tech, Sachse followed with a long looper and Dudley Akins caught a pass nicely, pivoted for a field goal that gave Tech a 27-21 lead. The Raiders were never behind after that, although Aker brought the score to 28-29 a minute before the game ended. Tarbox made one free shot in two tries, and Akins sank another to help the lead.

The contest ended Tech's basketball season of 14 conference and two non-conference games, not including the tournament activity at Oklahoma City. For the 16 games, Tech won eight, lost 8.

Preceding the main event last night, the Tech freshman charges of Coach Paul Morris dropped a 21-28 decision to Bob Cox's tall Buffalo freshmen from West Texas State Teachers college.

Golden Gloves Duel For Texas And Oklahoma Being Cancelled

FORT WORTH, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Texas-Oklahoma Golden Gloves duel scheduled here Friday night has been cancelled, tournament officials announced last night.

Several Texas champions asked to be excused from participating in the event and the Star-Telegram, Texas Golden Gloves sponsor, did not wish to go ahead without a full team composed of all champions and runnersup, as advertised.

The new Texas champions, most of whom are in school, were back home today catching up with their work and getting ready for the week's trip to Chicago where they will compete in the Tournament of Champions. The complete Texas "traveling squad" will be agreed upon tomorrow at noon.

The Texas team will assemble in Fort Worth Saturday and leave by train at 2 o'clock that afternoon. The party will have a private car which will be routed straight through to Chicago.

The Texas tournament which ran three nights, drew a total of 14,284 fans.

National Stars In Houston Tourney

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON, Feb. 23 — Only 32 championship flight places awaited one of the sharpest bands of amateur golfers ever grouped together in Texas as the 18-hole qualifying round got under way today in the twenty-fourth annual Houston country club tourney.

Par shooters were as common as highway billboards as the first threesome teed off on a course made heavy by rains that caused tournament officials to temporarily shorten the distance of one hole. A rain-swollen bayou on the par-four eighth hole cut it down to a par three from a temporary tee.

National Amateur Champion Johnny Goodman of Omaha, Neb., readying for an invasion of England with the Yankee Walker cup team, got top billing, but a varied assortment of champions were in the field.

Goodman, once National Open king, and now planning a shot at the British amateur, had two days of practice behind him. Two trips around the course netted 75's on the par 35-35—70 course. Par was cut a stroke by the altering of the eighth hole.

Two times winner of the title, Johnny Dawson, the California amateur who long has ranked as one of the nation's best, was listed among the strong favorites with Goodman; Reynolds Smith, Texas titlist and Walker cup player; Don Schumacher of Dallas, Trans-Mississippi champion; David (Spec) Goldman, former National Amateur finalist, and Edwin McClure, handsome defending champion of Shreveport, La.

Four Walker Cuppers

Four former Walker cup players, including the veteran George Rotan of Houston, member of the first American amateur team, were entrants. Walter Emery of Houston, runner-up for the American Amateur in 1935; Ed White, also former national intercollegiate champion and young Bobby Riegel, former Southern champion, now bidding for a comeback.

Officials received last-minute messages from Charlie Yates of Atlanta and Freddie Hass, jr., of New Orleans, members of the current cup team, that they would be unable to attend.

Texans also liked the chances of Jack Munger, Dallas' former Southern champion; rangy Harry Todd, former state title-holder; Bill Welch, winner of the Southwest conference title in 1936 and '37; blond Lonnie Wendland of San Antonio, former state municipal king; Billy Bob Coffey, runner-up for the state title last year and now a student at Louisiana State university.

Speed of the field gave assurance that the first round would develop into a "sudden death" affair for many stars.

Crucial Tests To Be Faced This Week

(By The Associated Press)

The top-ranking Arkansas Razorbacks clash with the Southern Methodist Mustangs in a two-game series Friday and Saturday at Fayetteville. The Mustangs, losers to the University of Texas Longhorns 25-23 last night, are back in third place. Baylor, victors over Texas Christian university last night, moved into second place.

The Methodists whose defense of their cage title was upset by the Texas university Longhorns last night, has four more games to play; Baylor has three more, and Arkansas, two.

While Arkansas and Southern Methodist university are battling it out Friday night, Rice will play TCU, and Saturday night Rice will play Baylor.

Must Win Both

The Arkansas Razorbacks, just returned from Waco where they had to split a pair with the Baylor Bears, have only two days in which to prepare for the tussle with SMU. They must win both games to take the pennant. A split would tie Arkansas with the winner of the SMU-Baylor game provided these teams win their other games.

The Methodists found the Texas defense too tight last night for their usual scoring spree. At the half the score was 10-10. Moore, Longhorn guard, scored 12 points.

Baylor stayed in the fight for conference honors by virtue of a second-half rally last night that spelled defeat for TCU. The Baylor Bears trailed 18 to 19 at the intermission as TCU's Jack Reedy sank a field goal just before the gun. TCU kept the pace with Baylor until about middle of the second half when the Bears began drawing away on well-aimed shots by Gernand and Shahan, that gave Baylor a 43 to 37 victory.

Howard Stable Will Seek Another Win

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23 (AP) — Winner of the $50,000 Santa Anita derby, the Maxwell Howard racing stable, run by turfdom's famous Earl Sande, set quietly about the task today of trying to ring up a victory in Santa Anita's other rich event — the $100,000 handicap.

The Earl, once America's premier jockey and now trainer for the wealthy Dayton, O. paper manufacturer, saddled Stagehand for his smashing triumph in the derby yesterday — a race that saw Dauber run second, Sun Egret third, Legal Light fourth and such big names as Tiger, Sir Raleigh and Can't Wait finish out of the money.

Now Sande has Sceneshifter, full brother of the flashy black Stagehand, groomed to shoot into the handicap March 5. Stagehand was nominated for the mile and one quarter grind, but Sande indicated he may give the colt a rest before getting him ready for a fling at the Kentucky derby later this spring.

Old Age Defied In Fast Ring Battle

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23 (AP) — San Francisco's biggest boxing upset in many years today left Young Corbett, veteran Fresno southpaw, a 10-round victor over Fred Apostoli, uncrowned middleweight king who was a 2 1-2 to 1 favorite to wallop his aging conqueror.

Corbett, who won and lost the world's welterweight title before Apostoli started professional fighting, took five rounds of yesterday's outdoor battle, Apostoli battered his way to a pair, and three were even.

Is Awarded Decision

The Fresnan, his right eye closed and his mouth and nose battered, appeared nearing the end of his resistance at the close of a punishing tenth round when Referee Toby Irwin awarded him the decision.

A holiday crowd of 15,000 persons paid an estimated $25,000 to see the battle in Seals baseball stadium, the first outdoor fight here in three years.

Apostoli, nine years younger than Corbett and recent winner over Marcel Thil of France and Middleweight Champion Freddie Steele in a non-title bout, was virtually unscathed by the leather barrage in which he took the seventh and eighth rounds with jolting head punches.

Corbett, who at 33 has had 17 years of ring experience, presented a left-handed offense that Apostoli, former bellhop, could not master. He won the first five rounds.

Apostoli, former national amateur middleweight champion, found the range with punishing blows in the seventh and eighth when most of the damage was done to Corbett's face.

The sixth, ninth and tenth rounds were even, and both fighters were slugging furiously at the final bell in a closing rush that had the spectators standing on their feet cheering.

Corbett (Ralph Giordiana) considered the victory over his fellow Italian the first step in an attempted comeback as a middleweight. He weighed 160 pounds to 159 1-2 for Apostoli.

Contracts Are Causing Bill Terry Worry

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 23. (AP) —Bill Terry came up today with the 1938 contracts of Catcher Harry Danning and Outfielder Henry Leiber and indicated annoyance at the silence of Pitcher Clydell Castleman and pitching Coach Adolf Luque.

"I'm giving Castleman until today to report here and I'm going to fine him $25 for every day he fails to show up," the New York Giants manager fumed. "I haven't heard a word from Luque. I'm giving him two more days and then I'm making other arrangements."

Given Salary Boost

Danning received a salary boost over his 1937 pay, but there was no official comment on the amount of the stipend.

Some observers guessed Danning signed for approximately $10,000 and Leiber for a thousand less.

Castleman suffered a back injury last year and some doubt had been expressed as to whether he would be in shape to pitch this season.

The Giants' boss said he had received applications for Luque's place from Otto Miller, Watty Clark and Jimmy Ring, all former Brooklyn stars, and that they were "good boys but were not being considered."

FIGHTERS TAPER OFF

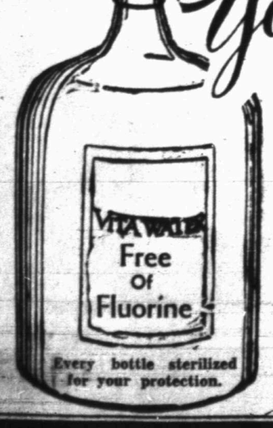

CHICAGO, Feb. 23 (AP)—Featherweight Champion Henry Armstrong and Everette Rightmire of Sioux City, Ia., began tapering off today for their 10-round non-title bout here Friday night.

Mammoth Aquarium Brings Ocean Ashore

An innovation in aquarium construction, the huge under-water studios nearing completion at Marineland, Fla., will create natural ocean conditions for study and photography of marine life through portholes in the walls of the tanks. Instead of segregation as in most aquaria, each of the huge tanks shown in the artist's visualization above will house a multitude of species, just as in the open ocean.

Tech Men To Speak At Dallas Meef

Conference to discuss better ginning methods at Dallas Thursday will be led by Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Technological college.

The meeting was called by Burris C. Jackson of Hillsboro, chairman of the State Cotton committee and chairman of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce cotton laboratory committee, and will have as its prime objective gaining of one of four regional research laboratories designated by congress in a recent $4,000,000 farm crop control bill.

"Can Not Waste Time"

"The time for Texans to start their work to get this laboratory is now. The hour has struck. We can not waste time, because we have worked hard in the past two years to make the cotton research laboratory a reality," Jackson said.

Assisting Dr. Knapp in the ginning discussion will be M. E. Heard, head professor of textile engineering at Texas Tech, and F. E. Lichte, cotton ginning specialist of Texas A. and M. college.

To Discuss Improvement

In addition to talks by prominent leaders on new uses for cotton and consideration of means to bring the laboratory to Texas, farmers, agricultural leaders and business men will discuss cotton improvement at the meeting.

Results of the One-Variety-Cotton Community contest will be told by Elmore Torn, agricultural director of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce. Other talks will be given by Lamar Fleming, jr., of Houston; Roy Saunders, agronomist of the United States Department of Agriculture, and H. H. Williamson, director of Texas extension service.

A. M. Goldstein, president of the Waco Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the cotton laboratory section, has urged Texans to join the Texas delegation in congress impressing the secretary of agriculture with the fact that Texas is the logical site for a research laboratory.

The meeting, open to the public, will begin at 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning. Chairman Jackson will preside.

Call For Election On April 2 Given

Formal call for an election April 2 to elect two trustees for Lubbock independent school district was issued by members of the board of education at their monthly meeting in the office of Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, board president, at Lubbock sanitarium Tuesday night.

Date for the election is set by law.

Dr. Hutchinson and Dr. Allen T. Stewart, board members whose terms expire, both announced they will be candidates for reelection.

Members of the board attending were Dr. Hutchinson, Dr. Stewart, W. G. Alderson, R. F. Bayless, W. B. Atkins, and Maple Wilson.

Persons who want their names placed on the ballot must file notice at least 10 days prior to the election, it was pointed out by school officials.

Election judges will be W. E. Ballew, R. Bush Smith, and George W. Foster.

Trustees voted to make Good Friday, April 15, a holiday in public schools.

The board confirmed the appointment of Mrs. Pansye Harris as an instructor in the Lubbock Junior High school.

There's a right and wrong way TO SHOVE WITH YOUR CAR!

YOUR MILEAGE MERCHANT ADVISES...

Try to have the two cars slightly "staggered"—not exactly in line with each other. This often helps if bumpers lock, especially when the car with its bumper below can reach a drain or similar depression. Another way is for the car with its bumper on top to get up on a curb or "hump." All of that is "just in case."

Now ask the poor fellow who wants your help to get into HIGH. Tell him to keep his clutch pedal down, letting it come back gradually only after you get his car under way.

Do your pushing with your LOW gear. That's easiest on your car...for half a block. Then if the other fellow's car hasn't started, have him get into neutral and push him up to a nearby Mileage Merchant for Special Winter Blend Conoco Bronze like yours. That can't help but get him started... (the Mileage Merchant will know what to do if the battery has entirely given up the ghost). And then the rightest way to dodge further battery trouble, dangerous oil dilution—and embarrassment—is to make a point of getting sure-starting Conoco Bronze all winter! Continental Oil Co.

That Girl on Broadway says some of our gay young blades spend so much time patting their foot on the gas that they never have time to put their shoulder to the wheel.

Heh-heh. Nobody would waste time patting himself on the back if he knew what a lot of other people were saying behind it!

THAT Mother-In-Law Day set in Amarillo for March 9 is going to make one of the biggest blowouts in the history of this part of the country.

If the weather man gives it a break, around 100,000 people will flock in to see the parade and to hear the accompanying program.

One of the great radio chains is going to give a full hour's description to the event, several movie news companies are going to film it and the big news agencies will all staff it.

It is a walloping idea and Gene Howe, publisher of the Globe-News, again has proven that he is one of the country's crack promoters and most original promoters.

Incidentally, the Texas Tech and Lubbock High bands will both be in the parade. The Tech tooters will lead the parade and also have been designated as Mrs. Roosevelt's official band for the occasion.

It's a wonderful opportunity for both bands to appear at their best before a whale of a lot of folks.

AND by the way, Gene Howe has dropped The Plainsman a note telling him that some Lubbock and South Plains mothers-in-law can get places on the big float—the longest float the world has ever seen and which will carry 500 mothers-in-law.

"Places in the float are free," he writes, "but may only be had by advance reservations. Mothers-in-law who wish to ride on that float and pass in review before Mrs. Roosevelt may make reservations by writing Miss Louise Evans, at the Amarillo Globe-News, who is in charge. They'd better make their reservations early, however, since the space will go fast. Also on the big float will be, in places of honor, the oldest and the youngest mothers-in-law in the Southwest. They will be located by various Southwestern papers."

The Plainsman hasn't been commissioned to find the oldest and youngest mother-in-law in this area, but he thinks it would be swell if one, the other, or both happened to be found on the South Plains, or in Eastern New Mexico.

If those in this section will send in the names and ages of the youngest and oldest mothers-in-law, we'll see that they get to Gene Howe.

Our guess is that mothers-in-law of 90 to 95 will be in the running for oldest honors, and those of from 32 to 34 will come fairly close to copping youngest laurels.

If you know any mothers-in-law in those age brackets, send their names, ages and addresses to The Plainsman right away.

ELLIOTT Roosevelt, who likely will be in Lubbock with his mother on March 8 and then go on to Amarillo with her for mothers-in-law day, told The Plainsman recently that he is hearing wherever he goes of the big bouquet of roses to be presented his mother at the parade reviewing stand.

This bouquet will be so large, will have so many roses and will necessarily be wrapped by so much wire, that it will be swung into place at the foot of the reviewing stand by a crane. The Plainsman doesn't remember the exact figures of this—history's largest—bouquet, but as he recalls it will have 5,000 flowers and, with the wire, will run about 1,800 pounds in weight.

And that's lots of bouquet!

That Man on Avenue Q says from all reports, Russia is an unhealthy country where if they shoot you at sunrise it's always daylight savings time.

Somebody sent this in:

Once upon a time a man driving a truck-load of junk into town gave a lift to a tramp. As they reached the outskirts of the town and stopped at a traffic light, a policeman sauntered over.

"What have you got in that truck?" the cop asked.

"A load of junk and a tramp," was the reply.

A few blocks further on, they encountered another suspicious cop.

"Watcha got in that truck?" he demanded.

"A load of junk and a tramp," was the reply.

As they drove off the tramp turned wistfully to the driver.

"Next time," he asked hopefully, "please mention me first!"

Every human being is egotistical to a certain point.

All of us want to be well thought-of, to be placed in as good a light as possible.

And that fact is something for all of us to remember as we go about our daily lives, mixing and mingling with other humans. We'll do better if we give the other fellow every available break.

MISS Margaret Turner, The Avalanche-Journal's beaming, buxom and altogether lovable women's editor, came in the office the other day wearing some of the new lisle hose.

It seems Miss Turner, like a lot of other earnest young people, has decided that if women will quit wearing silk socks the war in China will stop and thus they will have a part in ending needless and brutal slaughter.

Anyhow, some of the other young ladies put the razz on Miss Turner something terrible. They even accused her of coming from the Piney Woods!

But here's something they didn't know.

Lisle hose are going great guns in Florida, where the idle rich are at present idling, and in New York where thousands of young women will wear anything under the sun from garters to ear-rings, providing the top crust is wearing the same thing.

The current issue of the New Yorker, that sophisticated and smart-elick publication of the Big Town, bears a full page advertisement of Peck and Peck—one of the ritzier Gotham bazaars—and which features nothing but "Country Cousin" lisle hose for women.

Incidentally, lisle hose of the same quality can be brought in Lubbock at less than advertised by Peck and Peck and a lot of women are buying them. They don't look like the old lisles which your best girl used to wear along with her pigtails and which wrinkled disturbingly over the long underwear. While The Plainsman doesn't believe anything better than silk will ever be discovered to set forth a fetching ankle and calf, the lisle stockings look very well and for a fad probably will be popular for quite a spell.

HERE AND THERE: The persistent story about G. Washington's having been a hard drinker and gambler again was trotted out upon his birthday Tuesday . . . But what those stories fail to add is that in Washington's time practically all men were double-fisted guzzlers and all those who could afford it—as he could— likewise gambled . . . In other words, our No. 1 hero was not unusual in those regards . . . Speaking of gambling, if The Plainsman were a betting man he'd lay a little on the line, at the right odds, that Governor Allred WILL be a third term candidate . . . Lubbock's 1938 building records thus far show the year to be running 2-to-1 over last year and last year's was a humdinger. . . . Permits for homes are accounting for more than half of the total, as they did throughout 1937. . . . Although New York City is this country's chief melting pot of nationalities and religions, there is probably more racial and religious animosity there than any other city . . . Stories about the Big Town's "liberality" are largely hokum, as difficulties behind the scenes in politics invariably show.

CHAPTER XXIV

Spring had indeed come to the valley, and to the blue-green hills. Connie knew that in no other spot in the world could it have awakened more beautifully. She knew that this, his own beloved country, was where Bret would come. Hadn't he said that no matter how far he roamed, always he must return here? And she had wondered if Bret's country might come to have the same influence over her.

She knew now, back in the old brick house with its ivy covered walls and stately elms, that this had come to pass; she would find peace here. Whether she again found happiness would depend upon Bret, and Bret alone.

Mrs. Parsons and Eloise had welcomed her, as though she had come "home," as indeed she felt she had. What was more rare, and understanding, they had welcomed her without question or comment. It was natural, they seemed to say—and the sleepy little town and the valley with its haze of tender green and its guarding sentinels of high hills all seemed to say it, too—that she should return to them. She knew now that no matter how far she should roam, she, too, could come back to this serene haven to be born anew.

Connie helped Eloize and her mother about the big house, opening shutters, airing the high-ceilinged rooms; she dug in the garden, loosening the hard earth for young seeds that soon would point tiny green sprouts towards the sun. She helped in the huge kitchen, learning to bake biscuits and corn bread almost as good as "Aunt Bertha's"; she took long tramps over Bret's bridge, up into the hills. The days were full to overflowing, though they were a time of waiting. And then one day the waiting was ended; Connie went to the door to open it to find Bret standing there.

Her heart skipped a beat, turned over, stood still. But her smile was steady and unsurprised, her eyes direct and unwavering.

"Hello," she said, as though they had parted but yesterday, instead of weeks ago, and in friendliness, instead of in anger and hatred. "Won't you come in, Bret?" She held wide the door.

He said, "What are you doing here?" That tiny line was etched about his mouth; a dark flush under his skin; his eyes were guarded, somber. Perhaps they could not believe what they saw, this girl in a simple blue frock, hair blowing and curling about her face, blue eyes clear and untroubled and serene.

"You didn't expect to find me?" she asked. It seemed to her he should have known she would be waiting here.

"Hardly!" His laugh was harsh. "I supposed you were sailing somewhere on azure seas. With Rodney Brandon. Why didn't you go with him?"

"I'll tell you why," Connie answered quietly. "But I can't tell you here. Aren't you coming in Bret? Or no . . . wait! Will you walk with me—up our hill?"

"I didn't suppose you remembered that we had a 'hill,'" he said gruffly. There was no yielding in his dark eyes. "I can't see what's the use of your telling me, after all. I suppose you simply changed your mind again—on another impulse. As you probably will do time and again without end."

"You hate me, don't you, Bret?" Her voice was soft, but her lips quivered. "Not that I blame you. I deserved that. I deserve anything you care to say to me, or think against me. But, please—if I fetch my wrap, before you come in, will you walk up the hill?"

"As you like. . ." His manner said that it did not matter. He would remain as he was; stoic, impersonal, defenses furled.

She caught up an old sweater, pulled it on, closed the door behind her. Without saying anything more they fell into step side by side. They walked in silence, but with their accustomed swinging rhythm, for Connie's step matched his long stride, until they had reached the top of their hill.

The little white church still smiled down upon them; the kingdom that Bret had said belonged to her, still stretched below. In the east night clouds gathered; in the west the sun was a round ball of golden fire.

"Shall we sit down?" Connie asked, and waited for Bret to spread his handkerchief on the log.

He did that for her, but he did not sit down. He stood looking out on that wide panorama of wild, untrammeled majesty, feasting his eyes, and his soul.

"It's my country, too, now, Bret," Connie said. "I believe I love it almost as much as you do. I believe I'll always come back to it. I know it will never disappoint me, or fail me, but like nowhere else in the world, will make me 'new' once more."

"I'm glad—it means that to you," he said; but with that same reserve and stiff formality. "Naturally, I love it; it is part of me. Not only of me, but of all my people who lived here before me. Plain people. Pioneers. My great-grandfather was granted his plot of land from General Washington."

He had pride in his people, as he had in his land; more than pride, respect and reverence. She understood why; it was the pride of ancestry, of blood; it had nothing to do with fame or money or material things.

"You think I will change again," she said, searching for words to break down the barriers between them; the pride, the hurt, the force of his will. "But I shan't. I am sure of that. Surer than I ever was of anything. I've grown up, Bret. I suppose you think it is about time! It was a painful process. I had to hurt not only myself, but others, too. Rodney for one. You, perhaps most of all. Or maybe myself—if you won't try to understand and forgive me."

"There is nothing to forgive," he said. Still he stood, staring out at the hills on the horizon, watching the sun sinking slowly behind them, the sky turning into a glory of scarlet and gold, blue and violet. "I am as much at fault as you; there is as much in me to forgive. I let you change me; I thought I could change you. Each of us is what each has always been."

"You're wrong," Connie protested.

Hold Everything!

"Th' price is three cents an' no less—th' government ain't gonna interfere with MY business!"

Today's Journal Editorial . . .

MR. EDEN IS NOT "WASHED UP" YET!

Young Anthony Eden may be in eclipse temporarily in the affairs of the British Empire, but likely not for long. It is the quiet opinion of many world observers that he inevitably is headed for a "comeback," so to speak, which will find him stronger than ever and perhaps the head of the British government.

Despite his youth, Eden has been an outstanding figure in world affairs long enough to demonstrate he is no flash-in-the-pan. Not since the younger Pitt, who as prime minister at the age of 25 years held almost dictatorial control of his cabinet, has anyone flared in the political affairs of the island nation so spectacularly as the young man who has just resigned as foreign minister. Many are convinced there is sufficient substance behind the flare to make of his career an unquenchable blaze.

Eden's attitude perhaps more than any other statesman of the day, has represented the tradition of British empire. He is opposed to the policy of the cabinet from which he resigned because of its virtual capitulation to Mussolini and fascism. He is opposed to any suggestion that the empire surrender any of its territory or any of its rights to any other power. In that fact he doubtless has the support of a people who never have surrendered, voluntarily, one inch of territory over which the British flag has flown.

News concerning the activities of Mr. Eden may be scant the next few days, few weeks, or few months. But don't be surprised if suddenly you discover more frequent repetitions of his name than of any other individual in British public life.

A Thought . .

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of six stories on the Hollywood importation of foreign actresses, who place accent on glamor.)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 23 — The wholesale buying of European glamor doesn't represent any particular extravagance on the part of Hollywood. Exotic foreign actresses are a mere million dollars a dozen.

This is quite a modest sum, considering that most of the newcomers are bringing with them the devotion and support of millions of foreign fans. Franciska Gaal, for example, will attract audiences wherever German-language films have been shown during the past few years, for she starred in nine important pictures. Also she's an idol of the Hungarian stage.

It used to be a Hollywood custom to bring over beauties of no great dramatic distinction and spend a lot of money cramming them down the throats of the American public. Samuel Goldwyn started it with his hoopla introduction of Anna Sten. Ketti Gallian received a similarly ill-starred build-up about five years ago. More recently came Simone Simon. Merely a promising young player in France, she was working there for approximately $85 a week when she was signed by 20th-Fox. The studio then spent $50,000 on Simon ballyhoo, which seemed scarcely justified by her subsequent pouty histrionics.

Strange, New Modesty

Talkietown's foreign policy has been reversed now. Actresses with established European followings are being hired. But they are introduced in the United States without fanfare, and even with a strange new modesty and restraint.

Miss Gaal (pronounced "Gall") is one who will not be a victim of overselling. She came here 15 months ago and settled quietly into an intensive routine of training in English. She had few interviews, few photographs.

Although she is an actress of such ability that Ferenc Molnar wrote two plays especially for her, the studio chose to bring her out in the somewhat-less-than-starring role of the little Dutch cutie in "Zucchini."

It was a good role, though, for providing glimpses of the actress' varied talents. She is winning a lot of praise for it, and hereafter she will be starred.

Paramount has three pictures for her—"Never Say Die," "Paris Honeymoon" (with Bing Crosby) and "Soubrette." "I do not know which will be 'first,'" said Miss Gaal. "I have learned that in Hollywood all that is certain is that nothing is certain."

Can Sing And Dance

She's full of little epigrams like that. Speaking of contracts she said: "They are written only for the parts-of-the-first-part which is the studio. An actor has his choice of two things — he can stick to his contract, or he can get on an airplane and go home." Miss Gaal's husband, Francis Dajkovich, is a lawyer.

Like most of the new glamor immigrees she has progressed astonishingly with her English. Actresses have a good ear for sounds, a good memory for words, plus the incentive to work hard and long at their lessons. Miss Gaal retains quite a lot of accent but can control it in rehearsed speeches before the camera.

Magyar, the staggeringly difficult language of Hungary, has no "th" or "w" sounds, and Miss Gaal's having a time with them. When she first came to America and heard people saying such things as "through thick and thin" she thought we were a nation of congenital lispers.

She can sing. Some of her stage shows and pictures were musicals. "Here, though, I would be worried to sing," she said. "And I would not dare to dance. In this country everybody seems to be born wearing tap shoes. The whole country seem so happy and sing so beautifully and dance so nicely. In Europe when anybody is gay you say, 'Ah, the poor fellow is trying to forget his troubles'."

Deaf to her shrieks of protest, the studio has bleached her brown hair to a near-blond. Her eyes are hazel, her complexion very fair, and she weighs 115 pounds in a four-ounce playsuit.

Fired From Drama School

Franciska Gaal was the youngest of 13 children. Everybody shushed her. The family's patronizing attitude toward "the baby" was what fixed her determination to become an actress; she wanted to be noticed, listened to.

At the age of 14 she enrolled in the State Academy of Drama. Her parents thought she was attending a girl's school every day, and there was the devil to pay when they finally learned the truth. They learned the truth because in three months the academy dismissed her as a hopeless pupil without talent.

Angrily determined, she took to hanging around a theater where a play was in rehearsal. They wouldn't give her an audition, but she was permitted to look on.

Just before opening night, the ingenue became ill. In the best storybook tradition, Miss Gaal announced that she knew the role and triumphantly stepped into it.

It was smooth sailing after that. Plays in Budapest. Pictures, all in the German language, but filmed all over Europe. It seemed to be smooth sailing in Hollywood, too. She likes it here — the food, the friends she has made, and especially the game of rummy.

Man To Fill Robert Jackson's Shoes Will Be Hard To Find; What To Do Is The Question

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. — Because in these days one can never be quite sure what the administration is going to do next, there is only one prospective signpost which will point to whatever road Roosevelt means to take in the up-until-recently flourishing anti-monopoly attack.

Someone will have to be appointed to replace Robert H. Jackson when he steps from the assistant attorney generalship in charge of anti-trust cases into the office of solicitor general. Mr. Jackson displayed an uncommon amount of interest in strengthening and enforcing the anti-trust laws, although hampered in the latter effort by lack of funds and court-weakened statutes.

Rodney Dutcher

If Jackson's place is filled by a man whose interest in breaking up illegal business combinations is doubtful, the New Deal anti-monopoly crusade may be considered to have withered and died. General Counsel James L. Fly of TVA is the man receiving the most vigorous backing of the New Deal's would-be trust-busters.

Meanwhile, search behind the scenes makes it plain that no one has yet lifted a finger toward formulation of such an anti-monopoly program as has long been promised by Roosevelt.

Calling Mr. Roper

Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper limped home in the wake of the "little business men's" conference and soon was answering the telephone to take a call from Milwaukee. A voice on the other end begged for a few words as to the results of the conference. Roper spoke in glowing terms and at some length.

"And now," he concluded, "I want to congratulate you. It is indeed encouraging to find someone sufficiently interested in this important meeting to telephone all the way from Milwaukee."

"That's very nice of you, Mr. Secretary," said the other fellow, "but to tell you the truth there were half a dozen of us fellows here at the club playing poker and I was trying to show that you fellows in Washington were easy to get to. I just bet these guys I could reach you by telephone. You've just helped me win a hundred dollars. Thanks!"

Irked By Jibes

The sharp barbs in the Lincoln Day speech of Governor George Aiken of Vermont before the ultra-conservative National Republican Club in New York were not welcomed at G. O. P. national committee headquarters in Washington. The leadership of the party machine leans far toward the conservative side and does not agree with Aiken's assertion that Lincoln would be ashamed of the leadership if he were alive today.

The Committee machinery is now operated by Chairman John D. M. Hamilton and three assistants to the chairman: Former Undersecretary of State William R. Castle; William Hard, former newspaperman and Hoover medicine ball playmate; and Olin Glenn Saxon, who headed the celebrated Republican "brain trust" in the last presidential campaign.

Enters Senatorial Campaign in Kansas

Reed

CLYDE M. REED, Parsons, Kan., publisher, has formally announced that he will seek the U. S. Senate seat now held by George McGill, Wichita Democrat. Reed is a Republican, recognized rate authority and a former governor of his state.

Richest Girl

She got to her feet, stood beside him. She could not bear his cold indifference; it was a knife thrust into her heart. If he no longer loved her, if he thought she had not changed, how could she hope to make him believe in her again, give her another chance, try together, once more, to rebuild their lives and their marriage?

"You're terribly wrong," she said again. "Not that I blame you for thinking of me as you do. I did try to change you, Bret. I'm glad I didn't succeed. I loved you because you were different from other men. Because you were as you are. . . ."

"And I love a girl named Katie Blyn." His tone was bitter; he turned on her, for a moment only. "You're not trying to tell me you are that girl again!"

She shook her head, caught her lip between her teeth; tears pressed so close behind her eyelids, a choking in her throat. "No, not that girl. But not Constance Corby either. Maybe you will believe me, Bret—and believe in me—when I tell you what I have decided to do."

If he did not, then nothing ever could make him. She would know that he never would love her again. That her plan, though she would carry it throught, alone, if necessary, would not bring him back to her.

"What have you decided to do?" Bret asked her.

She said, "I have decided to give away all my millions."

more than anyone else in recent years to improve the party's press relations in Washington and to make its publicity policies more shrewd. Casey, a former New York newspaperman, was a native of Aiken's state of Vermont. Differences with other Hamilton assistants led to his resignation.

The length of Hamilton's tenure is doubtful. He has had a hard time raising funds to meet the party deficit and now faces the need of some new funds for the 1938 congressional campaigns. Meanwhile, Hamilton is certain about one thing. That is that blasts like Aiken's do not appeal to the rich men in the party who could afford to contribute heavily if they would.

19—Livestock For Sale

SPAN of mules for sale cheap. G. P. Wright. Wolfforth, Texas.

Auction Sale
TUESDAY AND FRIDAY

Due to bad weather this week, we could not supply the demand for cattle. Plenty of buyers from Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, and we did not have cattle for them. If you have cattle for sale get them in for Tuesday's sale. We are sure that you will be pleased with the sale we can make for you.

The outlook for cattle looks better, with slight advance on all grades.

We have standing orders for stocker cattle, steers, heifer, and cows, and the demand for car load lots is great.

GET IT, EENY By HAMLIN

Life Of Doctor Is Not Easy But Some Funny Incidents In Everyday Practice Are Found

BY CLAUDE TUCKER

A physician is regarded by some patients as a big, savage brute who delights in thrusting a thermometer down patients' throats, doing fancy hemstitching of cuts, or prescribing medicine solely because it has an offensive odor or a repugnant taste.

College students are no exception.

The fear of physicians or of entering doctors' offices, might have been caused by "doctoring" of children at the hands of parents, such as holding their noses—as well as their hands and feet—to make them swallow an oversized dose of castor oil.

Students Are Scared

Students, more boys than girls, taking the physical examination Texas Technological college requires often are so scared they scarcely can talk. Instead of relaxing, they become more rigid and strained. When the doctor touches them they begin trembling, and when told to breathe deeply they merely gasp.

One college boy burst out crying when having his blood count taken.

Many patients differ in their reaction to treatment. A young man entered a doctor's office with his hand badly cut, blood running down to his elbow. He calmly looked on with no evidence of pain while the physician cleaned the wound, sewed it up and bandaged it.

Faints After It's Over

When suturing was finished, he fainted.

Many students tell the doctor they want their throats swabbed, but often it is almost necessary to hem them in a corner to administer the cimple and almost painless treatment.

A college girl came in to have treated a small sore on her chin. While the hardened surface was being softened preparatory to removal, she swooned.

Sometimes the cause of the injury is more interesting than the hurt itself.

Defeated His Opponent

A young man received treatment after a fight. In the battle he had broken his shoulder, but with a left uppercut he had defeated his opponent.

One student realized he had the "flu." In order to receive treatment as quickly as possible, he got in his car and rushed for the doctor's office. On the way, however, he wrecked the car, and he had to be "patched up" before being treated for his original ailment.

Frequently patients arrive in the middle of the night with a finger split from trying to open a can of sardines or weiners for a midnight supper. Young men doing their own cooking are treated for burns caused by grabbing hot skillets or pans of bread.

Performs Experiment

A science student performed an experiment. He placed match heads in a test tube and heated them until they exploded. Result—the tube burst and he made a trip to the doctor's office.

A student cutting meat in the practice laboratory mistook his finger for a piece of beef.

A young man thoughtlessly scratched his ear with the point of a pencil. The lead broke off and it was necessary for a physician to remove it.

One afternoon three patients came in not 15 minutes apart for treatment of bruises suffered when trying to ride scooters on the newly-graveled drives of the campus.

Young Women Treated

Several young women taking horseback riding were treated for bruises. The horses stopped, the riders didn't, so they went to see a doctor—but not on the horses.

Doctors receive more college patients cutting wisdom teeth than from other population groups, they say.

The life of any doctor is not easy. Consider these factors: A patient calls in the middle of the night. If he spells his name, he perhaps is so jittery he is incoherent. Or he gives directions by which the doctor is supposed to find his way—"come three miles west, jog a half mile at the first windmill, take the next lane to the right and follow it to the third tank, then cross the draw to your left and come down the cow trail. The house will be just over the saddle."

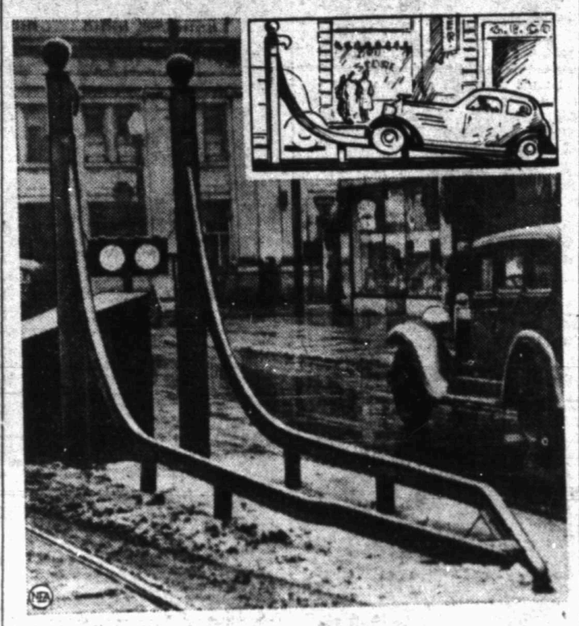

By the time the doctor has digested that, if he has been able to digest it, the person has hung up. The doctor, not knowing the man's name, because he spelled it too fast, or not knowing whether the fellow called from his residence or from that of a neighbor miles away, is confronted with another problem. "Is this a case of smallpox? Is it a maternity case? Does a child have measles?"

The doctor loads a semblance of everything he has into his coupe—surgical instruments and medicine—and heads for the place where he will turn "three miles west, a jog at the windmill," and the rest—.

Safety Zone "Cow-Catcher"

This strange semi-streamlined set of sturdy iron rails raising to the perpendicular at the end of an important safety zone in Hamtramck, a Detroit suburb, is a fool-proof contraption. Speeding, out of control autos merely slide up on the rails and stop, thus saving pedestrians, the driver, the car and even the zone posts. It is credited with having saved at least 24 lives. Not a sing' fatal accident has been recorded at the zone since its erection, cars stopping as shown in the sketch above.

Frozen Body Found By Rescue Party

QUINCY, Calif., Feb. 23 (AP)—The frozen body of Mrs. Winona Ferris, 40, was found by searchers Tuesday, six days after she left her snowbound cabin in search of food. Her husband who left previously, has not been found.

"I pray I have strength to get to human habitation," the woman wrote in a note left in her cabin as she started the perilous search for sustenance. Her husband, Harry Ferris, 45, departed several days before in hope he could find food for the two.

The Fresno couple's prospecting cabin in the Sierras was covered by 16 feet of snow, and trails were blocked.

Frank Cochran, leader of a searching party, said Mrs. Ferris apparently was caught in a snowslide, fell 50 feet, and then struggled 60 feet to a tree under which she was found dead. Her dog was keeping watch.

New Mexico Man Breaks His Self-Imposed Diet In Jail

LOS LUNAS, N. M., Feb. 23 (AP)—W. B. Cassady broke his self-imposed "liquid diet fast" in Valencia county jail today after he was given two photographs of Rose Garcia, the girl he is accused of slaying.

Deputy Sheriff E. Gallegos said the 43-year-old Socorro, N. M., laundryman ate two slices of toast and a cup of cocoa for lunch and dined last night on soup, crackers, sandwiches and coffee. He had eaten no solid food for 23 days.

Negro Jailed After Attack

GALVESTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — Jim Charles, 21-year-old negro hitchhiker was in the Galveston county jail today following his arrest on a charge of robbery by assault in connection with an attack on G. T. Tucker, Port Arthur beer truck driver, and the theft of the truck and 200 cases of beer while it was en route from here to Port Arthur.

Deputy Sheriff George Gilmore said he arrested Charles as the negro was nearing Anahuac with the truck load of beer. Tucker was attacked at noon yesterday about three miles west of High island, where he was pushed from the truck.

Attacked With Tire Tool

Tucker, picked up by a passing motorist and taken to High island, said he was attacked with a tire tool. He was cut and bruised about the face and legs. Tucker said he picked up the negro hitchhiker on the Galveston-Bolivar ferry.

Constable John Peyton of High island advised officers at Beaumont and Anahuac by telephone to be on the lookout for the truck, and roads into both places were watched.

Examining trial for Charles is slated before Justice of the Peace Andrew Johnson, Port Bolivar, Friday.

Photo Process Turns Plywood To Mahogany

SEATTLE, Feb. 23 (AP)—Architects who favor tailor-made light and ventilation may take windows away from Americans of the future. But the windowless householder still can have any view he desires.

Landscapes or seascapes can be made part of his wall by a new photo-mural process at the price of ordinary wall finishes. If he doesn't want pictures, he can transform his walls of inexpensive wood so they will look like costly walnut or mahogany. He can even make the wood look like gaily colored tiles.

From Australia

The process, which one of its sponsors describes as an "electro-chemical-photographic process with heating and chilling in it, too" was invented by Herbert C. Wilson, an Australian. It is said to have been in use in Australia for five years. English markets are reported receiving 50,000 to 60,000 square feet of treated wood from there a week.

Three brothers from New York—Ernest F., Frank R. and Charles P. Chester, are introducing the process here, one of the country's largest plywood producing areas.

Secret as much of the process is, it appears like simple photography, using highly sensitized plywood surface for the print. It's a matter of 58 seconds making such a print and handing out a finished copy, which may be, for example, a 2-by 3-foot picture of Mount Rainier.

The cost? About the same as giving a surface a good paint finish. American walnut paneling, costing about 50 cents a foot, can be copied for about eight cents.

Samples of such finishes put on Australian dead wood, exposed to all weather for four and a half years, have changed a shade, it is said. The finish is also described as dampness, acid and fire-resisting, and in demonstration an inflammable fluid was poured onto a piece and burned, without leaving a mark.

Ladle Once Owned By George Feature Of Marshall Display

MARSHALL, Feb. 23 (AP) — A sterling silver soup ladle once owned by George Washington was featured in an exhibit here Wednesday by the City Federation of Women's clubs.

The ladle, engraved "G. W.," is the property of Mrs. Douglas Mackenzie of Marshall, and has been in her family since it was bought by her great-great grandfather, Capt. Jack Scott. The captain had gone to an auction intending to buy fine cattle being sold by Washington's mother.

Magnificent Mlle. Mireille

Mireille Balin was just a lonely immigrant girl who came to Hollywood with 28 trunks and a staff of servants. The film colony hasn't seen much of Mireille yet, but scouts report that when she appeared on the beach at Cannes the gendarmes had to throw a guard around her.

Monthly Court Of Honor For Southeast District Staged

TAHOKA, Feb. 23 (Special)—The regular monthly court of honor for the southeastern district of the South Plains Boy Scout council was conducted here last night in the auditorium of the grade school building.

W. G. Barrett, district court of honor chairman, presided. First honors went to troop 21 of Tahoka, master of which is R. G. Reddell. The troop is sponsored by the Rotary club. First place on the ladder, the attendance pennant, and the mothers' banner went to that troop.

Inspection of troop 21 followed the court of honor and refreshment were served.

The session was closed with a meeting of the troop committee.

"ARE CAMELS REALLY DIFFERENT FROM OTHER CIGARETTES?"...a question of interest to every smoker

A FRIEND DROPS IN to see how Bill is coming with his model racing sloop. Daly passes the Camels and answers a natural question about smoking. "That all-cigarettes-are-alike talk doesn't square with my experience. Believe me, steady smoking is the test that shows Camels in a class by themselves."

...When H. W. DALY, 34, rayon salesman, says "Yes, Camels are really different," millions of other smokers stand ready to back him up. And that explains why Camels are preferred by the largest body of smokers ever known.

A KISS FROM MARITA (Mrs. Daly) and Bill is off to catch the 7:55 on which he commutes to his job in the city. The Dalys agree about most things. Among them, Camels. Mrs. Daly smoked them first, soon noticed a difference. "Now we find that Camels agree better with both of us," she says.

MARITA'S PLANNING a grand feed. "We enjoy entertaining," Marita says. "I like to have plenty of Camels at the table. Camels certainly help to cheer up one's digestion."

ON WEEK-ENDS, Bill goes in for photography. Week days he "pounds the streets." "I get plenty tired," he says, "but when energy fails I get a quick 'lift' with a Camel."
