Pecos Draws Clearfork Gas Zone Opener

George H. Mitchell, Kermit, has completed No. 2 Sidlo, Pecos County re-entry operation, as a Clearfork gas discovery in North Pecos, in the Abell multipay area.

Calculated, absolute open flow was for 3.8 million cubic feet of dry gas per day, producing through perforations at 3,220-3,225 feet, which had been acidized with 250 gallons.

Total depth is 6,393 feet, where 5 1/2-inch casing is seated, and the plugged-back depth is 3,240 feet.

It is a former Glorieta gas well in the Dameron field.

Location is 2,805 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 18, block 3, H&TC survey, two miles northeast of Imperial.

West Texas Areas Draw Probe Sites

Exploration has been scheduled for Winkler, Concho, and Runnels counties.

N. B. Hunt of Dallas filed application to re-enter and plug back to 15,100 feet; at No. 1-11-1 University, Winkler wildcat failure, nine miles west of Wink, and 1/4 mile north of the depleted one-well Block 20 (Delaware) oil field.

Location is 1,320 feet from north and west lines of section 11, block 20, ULS.

It originally was drilled by Sinclair Oil & Gas as No. 1-11-1 University Unit, and plugged and abandoned in July, 1967, at 20,101 feet.

Fisher-Webb, Inc. of Abilene, will drill No. 1 Stansberry, a 3,000-foot venture in Concho, five miles north of Eden.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 8, block 72, T&NO survey, one mile north of the Hall Ranch (Canyon "D") field, and surrounded by failures.

J. D. Tompkins Operating Account, Inc., Abilene, intends to re-enter and deepen to wildcat depth of 4,000 feet at the former Keith D. Graham, et al., No. 1 W. A. Ashton, Runnels County failure, eight miles northeast of Ballinger.

It was plugged and abandoned June 21, 1964, at 2,505 feet.

Location is 2,260 feet from south and 2,400 feet from east lines of section 148, ETRR survey, one location east of the depleted Beddo, East (Serratt sand) field.

Confirmer Finals In Glasscock Pool

Amoco Production Co. has completed its No. 1-C E. L. Powell as a second well and 1/4-mile southeast extension to the Blacklock Lake, South (Wolfcamp) field of Glasscock, 12 miles northwest of Garden City.

It gauged a daily, flowing potential of 190 barrels of 50.4 gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio (Continued On Page 9B)

SHUTTLE ACROSS COUNTRY—

Longview Couple Reviews Textbooks

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Gabler think George Washington played a more significant role in American history than Marilyn Monroe. And they think textbooks should show it.

So the self-proclaimed critics of American history texts gave a good dressing down to a publisher whose latest edition devoted six pages to the blonde bombshell of the 1950s and only one paragraph to the father of our country.

"We look for only one thing — undesirable content," said Gabler, who retired as an oil company clerk last year to devote full time to textbook reviews. "The books are reviewed as a parent, not as teachers. We try to relate to parents."

The Gablers shuttle across the country almost continually to urge education groups to support traditional textbooks jammed with hard facts rather than discussions of so-called relevant modern sociology.

"We've probably read more than a thousand textbooks in the last 14 years," Mrs. Gabler said. She concedes neither she nor her husband has any special schooling in the field but says, "I figure I know enough to be a Ph.D."

They said they got into textbook reviewing when their high school son asked for help on an assignment and they found that the U.S. Constitution had been changed in the book.

Their efforts have turned the Gablers' home in Longview, Tex., into something of a modern textbook library. They said they have spent thousands of hours and thousands of dollars carrying their message to parents in other states.

They addressed a meeting of public school teachers here Thursday.

Turkey Premier Says Country Could Compensate NATO For Gaps Caused By Greece's Withdrawal

NEW YORK (AP) — Premier Bulent Ecevit of Turkey says his nation could compensate the North Atlantic Treaty Organization for gaps in Mediterranean defenses caused by Greece's military withdrawal from the alliance, the New York Times reported today.

The Times quoted Ecevit as saying in an interview: "Even though Greek withdrawal from the military structure of NATO would inevitably cause some damage to the eastern flank of NATO, I think we would be in a position to compensate this to a large extent."

Asked if Turkey would provide port facilities for the U.S. 6th Fleet if Greece withdraws her ports, now provided for under a bilateral U.S.-Greek agreement, Ecevit was quoted as saying: "I don't want to go into details in that direction because I might sound as if I were trying to take something away from under the feet of the Greeks, but I have indicated enough by saying that we should be able to compensate for any weakness that ensues as a result of Greek withdrawal."

Ecevit also praised Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in the interview and said "the mistakes of the past were not repeated" during the current Cyprus crisis. He drew a contrast with U.S. action in 1964, when then-President Lyndon B. Johnson had said the United States would not defend Turkey against Soviet attack if Turkey sent troops to fight Greeks on Cyprus.

Club Women Claim Lawmaker Delays Big Thicket Park

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs today accused U.S. Rep. Charles Wilson of Lufkin of deliberately delaying compromise efforts on the Big Thicket.

Hariette Willford Whatley of Fairfield, in Wilson's district, released her letter to news organizations.

Federal action to preserve the Big Thicket is part of the federation's legislative program.

"It is with great perturbation that I have learned the House has not yet asked that a conference committee be appointed to reconcile the House and Senate version of the Big Thicket bill. This can only be interpreted in one way—you do not want the Big Thicket bill," Mrs. Whatley told Wilson, a Democrat.

"Since you represent that area of the state, I feel you should be held responsible should these bills be allowed to die due to your negligence," she told Wilson it was "time

Portugal Denies Receiving Arab Offer On Refusing Airbase Rights To U.S.

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The Portuguese government today denied it had received an Arab offer of $400 million and restored oil supplies in return for a refusal to renew U.S. airbase rights in the Azores.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said persistent reports of the offer were untrue.

The American Embassy in Lisbon declined to comment.

U.S. intelligence sources and Lisbon informants said the offer, in which Saudi Arabia was said to be a main participant, was made to Portugal's military government two weeks ago.

It was said to include the prospect of ending the Arab oil embargo against Portugal, imposed after Lisbon allowed the United States to use the Azores base in the Atlantic as a staging post to supply Israel with arms during last October's Middle East war.

While U.S. intelligence sources said the Arabs were ready to put up $400 million to deny the United States continued use of the Lajes base on Terceira Island, one Lisbon informant said the Arabs were in fact prepared to match any American offer.

Current U.S. rights to the base expired Aug. 4 but continue automatically until either party notifies it wants to cancel.

Negotiations on renewal are due to begin in Washington on Sept. 3.

Portugal has no diplomatic relations with either Israel or Arab countries but the new government has said it wants to establish closer ties with the Arab world.

The Arabs are said to be anxious to ensure that in the event of another war with Israel, the United States would not be able to use the Azores again as a staging post to resupply the Israelis.

Waco Bomb Hoax Forces Patients To Spend Night Away From Hospital

WACO, Tex. (AP) — A bomb hoax forced 170 patients to spend night away from Providence Hospital.

Discovery of a taped message threatening the place would be blown up unless $50,000 was handed over by midnight Thursday caused officials to evacuate the hospital. All the patients were moved by around 7:30 p.m.

A hospital spokesman reported a search failed to turn up any explosive device and the deadline passed uneventfully.

He said patients spend the night in other hospitals. To keep their rest from being disturbed, they did not start moving back into Providence until this morning.

Viola Roberson, a switchboard operator at the hospital, said a man, probably in his 20s or 30s, telephoned at 9:30 a.m. and directed her to a taped message on a cigarette machine on the second floor.

The message warned the bomb would go off at midnight.

The tape said the man wanted $50,000, to be delivered to an unspecified location by a man riding a motorcycle, wearing shorts, a white shirt and tennis shoes.

The tape said the man would call back but he did not.

Waco police, FBI agents and bomb squads from Dallas and Ft. Hood searched the hospital, without finding anything.

Patients were transferred to other hospitals in Waco and nearby communities during a heavy rain.

Garcia Convicted In Knife Assault

ODESSA — A 70th District Court jury here Thursday found Florentino B. Garcia, 28, of Fort Stockton guilty of assault with intent to commit murder.

Garcia was charged with an assault here on Apolinar Franco, 28, of Crane, Dec. 2, 1972. Judge C. V. Milburn probably will set the punishment today, according to Jimmy Edwards, assistant district attorney.

Franco received three knife wounds during a fight in an Odessa bar.

'Earned Re-Entry' (?)

President Gerald Ford, riding the crest of a popularity wave after assuming the presidency, wasted little time in speaking out on a controversial matter which did not meet with all-out citizen favor.

Addressing the national convention of Veterans of Foreign Wars at Chicago, Ill., Ford offered leniency to Vietnam-era war evaders, thousands of whom now are residing in Canada.

He said of those who fled the country rather than serve in Vietnam, "I want them to come home, if they want to work their way back..." These young Americans should have a second chance.

"So I am throwing the weight of my presidency into the scales of justice on the side of leniency," the President declared. "I foresee their earned re-entry into a new atmosphere of hope, hard work and mutual trust."

It was not surprising that Ford's convention statements were greeted with a wave of silence. After all, the VFW and other servicemen's organizations have expressed opposition to amnesty or any form of leniency for the draft dodgers.

On the other hand, one has to give the President credit for his courage in expressing his views personally and directly to the VFW convention. He knew what the reaction would be, yet he went right ahead.

This newspaper has spoken out against blanket amnesty on several occasions. Its policy has not been altered. It will, however, be interested in seeing the President's "work their way back" proposal when it is spelled out.

Neither can servicemen be blamed for desiring to hold fully accountable those who did not choose to serve their country in Vietnam.

The really surprising element is the fact that the draft evaders and deserters residing in Canada responded coolly to President Ford's "earned re-entry" offer. A leader of the group said the President's offer "was no way to establish a reconciliation."

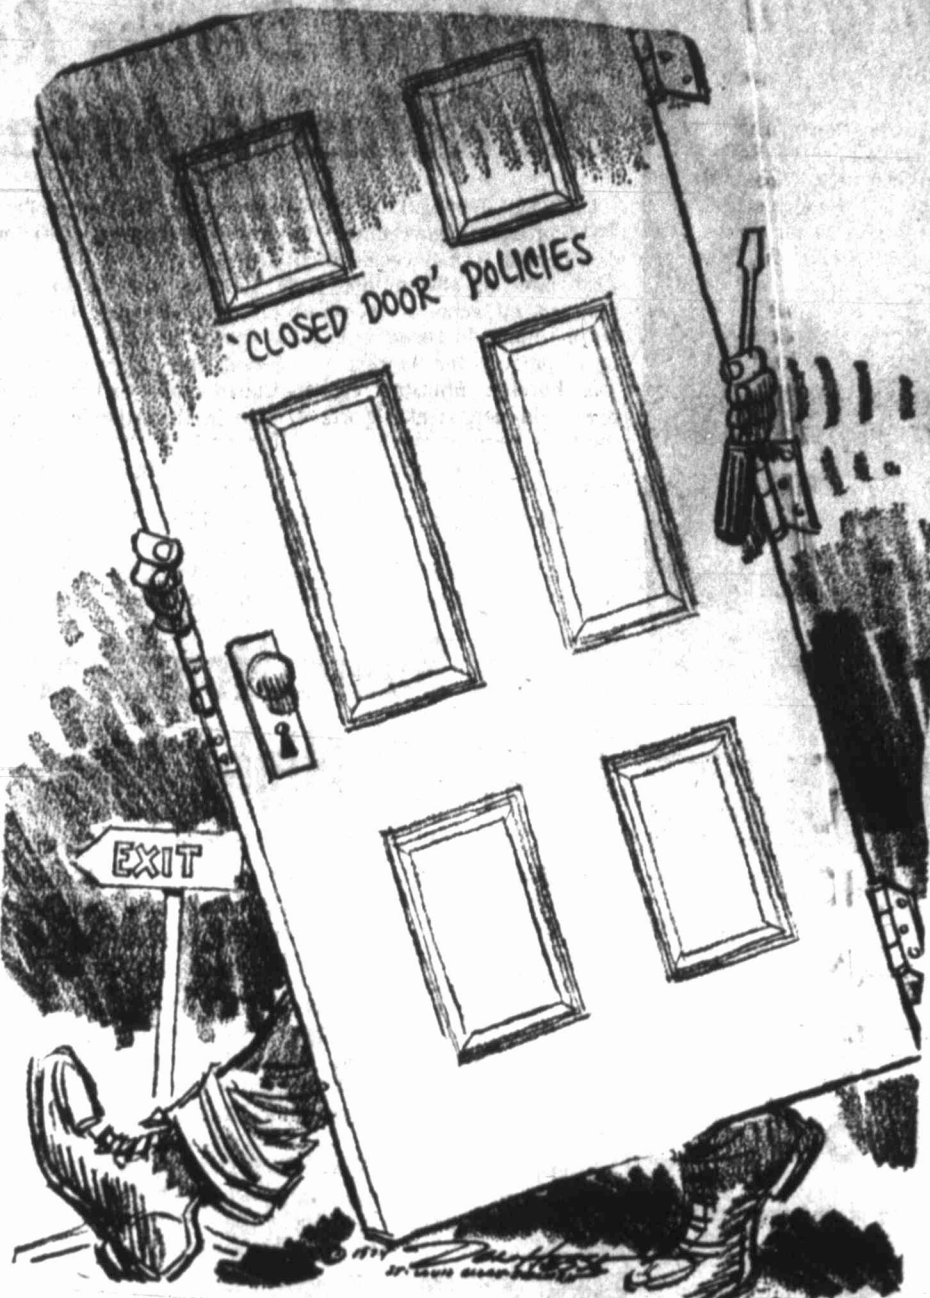

It could be that many of them prefer to remain in voluntary exile.

Nevertheless, Ford has instructed the Justice and Defense departments to develop proposals for allowing the deserters and draft dodgers to earn their freedom from criminal charges. He has rejected blanket amnesty, but says he also rejects revenge.

Attorney Gen. William Saxbe said it is doubtful that military deserters and draft dodgers will be asked to join the armed forces, the Peace Corps or Vista as a condition for amnesty. He said it is possible that the Ford administration could choose to require only a request for repatriation as a condition for amnesty.

Meanwhile, how about the 1,300 servicemen missing in action in Southeast Asia?

White House Renovation

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson and Les Whitten Say: Hill was ready for Rocky probe.

WASHINGTON—Even before President Ford revealed his choice of Nelson Rockefeller as vice president, the House and Senate had put the constitutional machinery in motion for his confirmation.

A half-hour before the dramatic oval office announcement, Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., whose Senate Rules Committee skillfully handled Ford's own vice-presidential hearings, was called by White House aide Tom Koriogios and told Rockefeller was the one.

Within minutes, Cannon's aides were drafting a letter to the Library of Congress requesting information on Rockefeller. The Rules Committee chairman also began drawing up a list of how many General Accounting Office and Senate staffs he would have to borrow for the investigation.

Even with this help and massive FBI assistance, Cannon expects it will still take weeks to look into Rockefeller's complex financial interests in the United States and abroad. Ironically, Cannon had just wound up work on the unneeded procedures for an impeachment trial and now he must devote almost full time to the Rockefeller nomination.

"It's going to be a lot more pleasant than a trial would have been," Cannon's administrative assistant, Chet Sobsey, told us. "But it's not going to be much less work."

In the House, Judiciary Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., laid aside his own clean-up work on impeachment to set up a meeting last week between his staff and top Library of Congress aides. With the selection still unknown, the two sides worked out a channel for getting a steady flow of data on Rockefeller to the committee.

Only 10 minutes after the announcement, the Library of Congress called Rodino's staff to advise them the flow of Rockefeller data would begin that afternoon. It will come in on a daily basis until the investigation is complete.

Rodino's men also met before the announcement with GAO officials to arrange to borrow accountants. The GAO is an arm of Congress, while the FBI, which contacted more than 1,000 people on Ford and compiled finished notes totaling 1,400 pages, works under the Executive Branch.

OPTIONAL SAFETY: A House-passed prohibition on the new seat belts which must be hitched before the car will start could cost 85,000 lives and 5.4 million injuries in the next decade, according to a House Commerce staff memo.

The ban, sponsored by Rep. Louis Wyman, R-N.H., was passed by a panicky House because of voter complaints about the "interlock" seat belts in all 1974 models. Wyman's legislation also would make air bags scheduled for 1977 models optional instead of mandatory.

In bitter opposition to the Wyman measures, the House Commerce staff memo predicts an average of 8,500 lives now meeting, says the memo, he turned to a key aide and remarked, "We are in trouble on the air bag."

"This was just before the 1972 campaign," the document goes on, and the White House hoped that Henry Ford "might play a role on behalf of Nixon's reelection."

Sure enough, following the Ehrlichman meeting, orders were handed down by the White House to institute the "interlock," according to the memos. Their aim: to delay or kill the air bag concept just as Henry Ford had proposed. Ford, as it turns out, contributed $49,766 to the Nixon campaign.

Now, unless Senate conferees balk at the House measure, both the "interlock" and the air bags will be junked by the automakers, and the only restraint will be the old buzzsaw of 1972.

PLUTOCRATIC PARKS: The trinkets tourists buy in National Parks financed a Washington party complete with strolling violinists and 600 guests, including Lady Bird Johnson, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Zsa Zsa Gabor.

Decorative shrubbery was brought from a National Parks greenhouse and the guests dined on steamship beef and steelhead salmon. The spring extravaganza took six weeks of planning and $9,000. This is time and money that conservationists say the National Parks Service should have spent on improving their services to vacationers.

RAY CROMLEY Capitol's Sores Need Some Legislative Salve

WASHINGTON (NEA)—With all the subtlety of a typhoon, Watergate has demonstrated the dangerous concentration of power in Washington.

Ironically, this disaster proves Mr. Nixon right in insisting on the return of more authority to states, counties and cities.

The revelations of the impeachment inquiry prove the need for regular rigorous checks by Congress on the agencies of government—especially those with huge amounts of cash to spend, those with power to monitor U.S. citizens and those with authority to regulate and set price supports or otherwise affect the incomes or borrowing power of companies, unions, farmers and individual citizens.

This may require multiplying the size, and drastically increasing the investigating power, of the Government Accounting Office. Also to be considered should be the creation of a new supervisory agency directly responsible to Congress or a hefty increase in what is called the oversight function of congressional committees. It also would be desirable to increase the research functions of the Library of Congress. These proposals would involve a significant increase in the workload of senators, congressmen and their staffs.

There has been much talk of the need for tighter watchdog supervision over the Internal Revenue Service, the Central Intelligence Agency and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. But even more important is the need for a close watch over the anti-trust division of the Justice Department, the procurement activities of Defense, the loans and grants of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and actions of those agencies monitoring securities, price supports, broadcast licensing, freight rates and tariffs.

Some way must be found to more clearly state on the record the significance of the day-to-day government actions in these areas. What relationships exist (accidental or intentional) between those ordering the actions and those groups or individuals profiting from the orders?

All requests for Internal Revenue Service documents, including income tax returns, by the White House or other agencies should be put into a record available to Congress and the press. The same should hold true for requests for FBI reports, including "routine" requests for derogatory information made as a prelude to securing clearances for men in line for government posts. While House requests for IRS or FBI action on any individual or group should be available to Senate and House watchdog committees.

We need laws to define precisely how FBI and IRS files may be used and precisely who can have access to those files and under what circumstances. We need a clear cut statement of what internal surveillance is allowable in the name of national security and a precise definition of what national Experienced mailers have known this for a long time, and can't claim they actually have been gyped by the implication of speedier service for 3 cents extra.

Instead, they have used the airmail stamp as a cheap way of impressing the addressee with the momentousness of the message when it does get to him.

DON OAKLEY We May Not Be So Lucky The Next Time

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Early in the first act of English playwright J. B. Priestley's 1930s "time loop" drama, "Dangerous Corner," a character makes a seemingly innocent statement during a pause in the chatter at a cocktail party. His remark is picked up by someone else, one question leads to another and like links in a chain, revelation follows revelation until at the end, scandals are exposed, reputations ruined and marriages destroyed.

Then unexpectedly Priestley returns his characters to the beginning of the play. The same innocent remark is made, but this time it goes unnoticed and the curtain falls on a group of people making idle conversation, unaware of the "dangerous corner" they had just safely negotiated.

A "dangerous corner" in America's history came last summer when presidential assistant Alexander Butterfield, testifying before the Senate Watergate Committee, almost casually stated that conversations in the President's office had been tape recorded. The chain of events set in motion by that revelation is hard to believe even now.

Had there been no presidential tapes, there would have been no attempt by special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox to obtain them, and hence no "Saturday Night Massacre" of which he was the chief victim. Had there been no "massacre," the House of Representatives would in all probability never have voted to authorize the Committee on the Judiciary to undertake preliminary impeachment investigations.

Had there been no tapes, Cox's successor, Leon Jaworski, would not have brought suit against the President, and there would have been no historic Supreme Court ruling on executive privilege. There would have been no White House transcripts, which fatally damaged Mr. Nixon's image. And, of course, there would never have been the conclusive proof of his role in the Watergate coverup.

When we pause in congratulating ourselves on how well our Democratic system works, we might reflect that it worked this time only because there was eventually such an accumulation of evidence against the President that even the faintest of Congress no longer could close their eyes to it.

The fact is inescapable that had there been no Watergate tapes, Richard Milhouse Nixon still would be sitting in the White House.

Thus what his resignation really may have proved is not that "the system works" but that no future president will ever be impeached, for surely no future president will ever be so arrogant or so foolish or so stupid as to preserve the evidence that could convict him, as Mr. Nixon did.

What the Nixon case further shows is that, in the popular mind, impeachment is tantamount to regicide.

As for the Supreme Court's decision of last month, what it established is only that a chief executive may not withhold material evidence needed in a criminal trial—and provided that it does not involve diplomatic or military secrets or "national security."

But not even the Supreme Court can compel a president to testify under oath, before it or before any other body. For all practical purposes, a president is immune to ordinary law. He need not ever appear at his own impeachment trial.

We may hope that the guardian angels that watch over the United States will ensure that henceforth none but honorable men dwell in the White House, as its first First Lady occupant, Abigail Adams, prayed. But it hardly would betray a want of faith if this notion were to devise some means short of "regicide" for bringing an obstreperous or morally suspect president to account.

The next "dangerous corner" may not turn out so luckily for the Republic, and unlike the characters in Priestley's play, what we wouldn't know could hurt us very much.

When we pause in congratulating ourselves on how well our Democratic system works, we might reflect that it worked this time only because there was eventually such an accumulation of evidence against the President that even the faintest of Congress no longer could close their eyes to it.

The fact is inescapable that

Eclipse Windmill May Become Prized Attraction At Smithsonian

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — An Eclipse windmill found in its original crate in an old mercantile store about 150 miles west of Amarillo may become a prized attraction in a Smithsonian Institution display of the Old West.

J.B. Buchanan, who farms at the north edge of Hutchinson County, said recently that the Smithsonian was interested in another Eclipse which he rebuild.

Gene Ostroff of the Smithsonian inspected Buchanan's windmills recently as well as several others in the area. Ostroff then headed farther West looking for more items.

"I found the Eclipse still in its crate in an old mercantile store near Santa Rosa, N.M., in 1965," said Buchanan.

"The son said his father had bought the windmill and the crate had been in the store ever since he could remember. The son has since died."

Buchanan erected the windmill with its 12-foot wheel on a tower he moved from near Slinn.

Patents on the Eclipse expired in 1920, Buchanan said, so he estimates the windmill was manufactured about 1900.

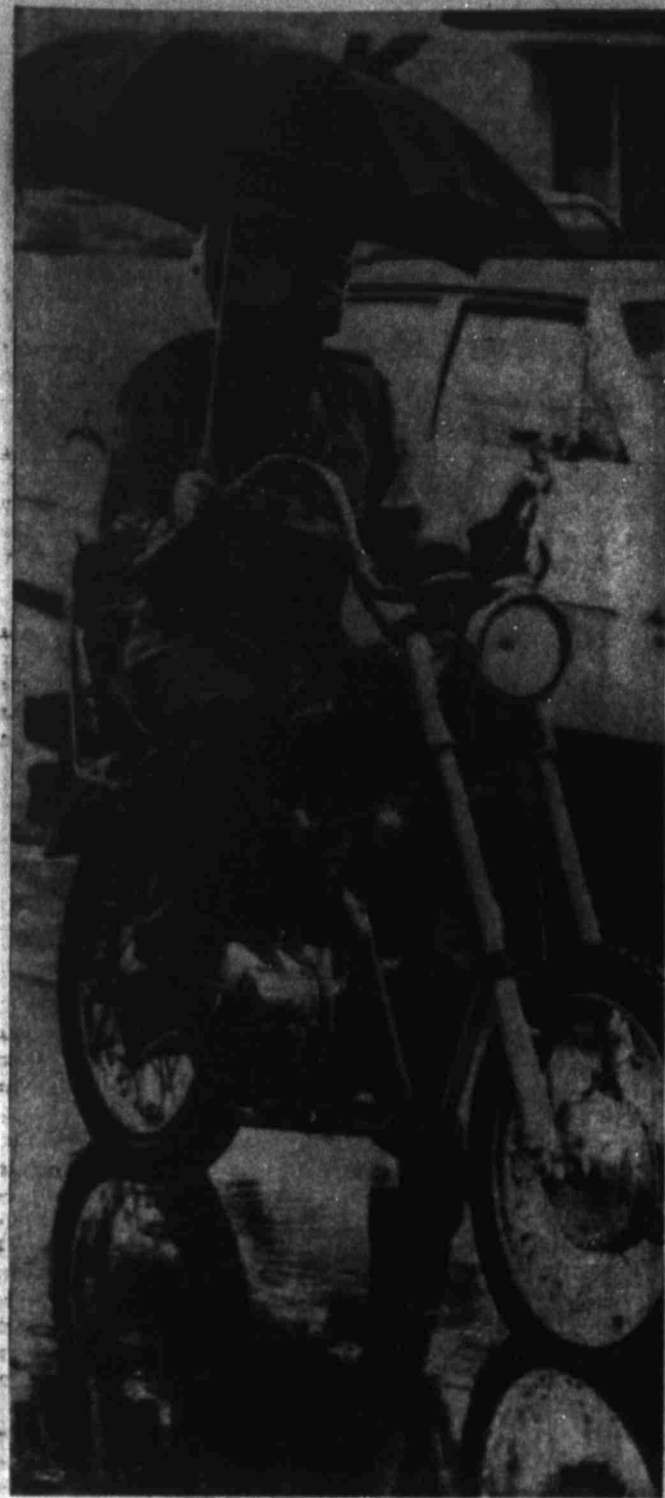

The other Eclipse in his collection, Buchanan said he believes, originally was operated on the XIT Ranch, one of the truly big spreads in Texas.

"But I had to rebuild that one," Buchanan said of the machine which has a wheel 18 feet in diameter. It is located atop a 60-foot tower.

Buchanan, 66, is a native of this Panhandle country.

"If it hadn't been for the windmill, this country wouldn't be settled yet," Buchanan said in an earlier interview. "Settlers without a windmill didn't last long."

He recalled that "There were 102 gates from Spearman to Amarillo back before the days of the highways. We had to cross the Blivins and Sneed ranches to get there."

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, Aug. 23, the 235th day of 1974. There are 130 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1775, King George the Third of England proclaimed there was open rebellion in the American colonies.

On this date: In 1500, Christopher Columbus was accused of mistreating natives in Haiti. He was arrested and ordered sent back to Spain in chains.

In 1869, followers of Mary Baker Eddy obtained a charter to organize the Church of Christ Scientist.

In 1914, Japan declared war on Germany in the first World War.

In 1937, Japanese military forces landed at Shanghai.

In 1944, allied troops fighting in France in World War II captured the port of Marseille.

In 1947, 15,000 persons at the Hollywood bowl heard President Harry Truman's daughter Margaret give her first public concert.

Ten years ago, a footbridge collapsed over a river gorge in Venezuela and 29 persons plunged to their deaths in the rapids below.

Five years ago, Gen. Tran Thiem Khiem was appointed South Vietnam's premier by his old friend, President Thieu.

One year ago, former FBI officials confirmed that for more than 15 years the bureau engaged in limited burglaries to gain foreign intelligence. But they denied President Nixon's contention that the burglaries were comparable to the Ellsberg break-in.

Today's birthdays: Dancer Gene Kelly is 62. Singer Tex Williams is 57.

Thought for today: Idealism is the noble toga that political gentlemen drape over their will to power—Novelist Aldous Huxley, 1894-1963.

Both President, GM Win Price Rollback

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford won. And so did General Motors. Ford asked GM to reconsider its $500 increase on 1975 models. GM did so, "rolling back" its price increase to "only" $446.

Both scored public relations victories in the battle against inflation. Ford symbolically demonstrated his power to obtain cooperation. GM gave token evidence of its willingness to sacrifice, to do its part, for the good of the nation.

But did the American people win? It is difficult to say they did when the net result is a difference of 1 per cent — that is, an increase of 9 per cent instead of 10 per cent.

And neither the public nor the President can be certain that this is a rollback at all. It might be just a delay. GM made clear it was retaining its option to raise prices later.

Imitation Leather
Creates A Real Job

By BETTY CANARY
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — Is there a reliable paint that could be used on a brown imitation leather (naugahyde) settee and chair that I would like to paint white? Unfortunately I bought, by mistake, a paint that gives a leather-look to furniture. — PATRICIA

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the GREAT number of things on many store shelves, counters and racks that have no prices on them. Many of us have limited shopping time and none to spare while an unknown price is looked up. — GEN.

DEAR POLLY — I am

answering T.V.B. who has a daughter in Germany. She wants to know how her friends over there can make liquid vanilla so they can make their own ice cream. The answer is to do as the Germans do and use vanilla sugar that can be bought in most any German grocery store. — MR. R.G.C.

DEAR POLLY — I am answering T.V.B. who wanted to know how to make vanilla flavoring with vanilla beans. On a recent trip to Tahiti our guide said his native wife kept a jar of sugar with a couple of vanilla beans in it. When she needed both sugar and vanilla in a recipe this was used. — LIBBY.

DEAR GIRLS — If the vanilla beans are cut, more of the flavor will be absorbed by the sugar. A bit of experimenting might be necessary to get as much flavor as desired. More beans can be added to make it stronger. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Our young son wanted to learn how to fish with a rod and reel. We had an old but fairly good rod but it was minus a couple of eyelets. Not wanting to spend the money for a new rod we retrieved a few rings that came off of soda pop cans and my husband lashed them to the rod with fishing line. We did buy an inexpensive beginner's reel and then he was all ready to fish. If I win a Polly Dollar for this it will join the one I won many years ago that I have in a frame. — AUDREY.

DEAR POLLY — A few years ago while we were away on vacation someone pulled the plug to our deep freeze and all the contents were spoiled. The odor was terrible. After trying everything I could think of I thought we would have to buy a new one until a friend told me to get some pieces of cedar at a lumber yard and put them inside the freezer. The cedar was left there a week or so. After that I was able to start filling it again. I still keep a piece or two of cedar there since it absorbs any odors. Hope this helps someone who may be having the same trouble. — MRS. H.P.

Mrs. James Finley announced the association will present Dr. Arnyl S. Paul of The University of Texas-El Paso in a one-day workshop Sept. 14.

The program chairman, Mrs. C. J. George, introduced the "Duet Repertoire" program, a preview performance by teachers of new duet materials. Those performing were Mrs. Roy Koonce, Mrs. Tom Minihan, Mrs. Maitland, Mrs. H. A. Rowack, Mrs. Benton Howell and Mrs. Hermann Williams. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Chappelle for the social hour were Mrs. Laura Ellis and Mrs. Finley.

Deadline Given For Publishing Wedding Stories

Thinking about having accounts of your engagement and wedding published in The Reporter-Telegram?

If the answer is in the affirmative, brides-to-be should visit the Women's Department of the newspaper and obtain information sheets and wedding forms in order to comply with the R-T policies on wedding stories, photographs and deadlines.

One of the new policy changes requires that wedding or engagement forms must be submitted before 5 p.m. Wednesday for publication in a Sunday paper.

Another important policy to be aware of is that wedding stories submitted more than five days after the wedding will not be published.

Party Courtesy For Dellen Kite

Dellen Lee Kite, who will be married Saturday in the First Baptist Church to Michael Ray Gibson, was honored Thursday with a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Jim Worley, 1802 Ward St.

Housewife Is Now Working In The Construction Business

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — If there are any last-minute changes Mary Sue Mitchell wants in her new home under construction in a suburban area, she's right on hand to see that they're done.

She's working as a carpenter's helper on the job, at $2 an hour. And her boss, Harold Wright, says he'd hire her for his next job, too.

Mary Sue and her husband Jim, an appraiser for a logistics contractor, hired Wright last October to build the house. It wasn't long before Mary Sue asked Wright for a job.

Wright had watched Mary Sue search for, and then dig the dirt out of, an old well that had been filled in years ago. He was impressed with her determination and stamina as she shoveled dirt for three days, so he hired her.

Mrs. Mitchell, an attractive 35-year-old housewife, hadn't worked since she quit a clerical job in 1960. But Wright expected her to keep up with carpenter Bud Robinson.

She worked beside Robinson as they raised the walls, installed the vacuum system and laid bricks. Then they started her shingling the roof.

It was her aptitude for shingling that finally won Mary Sue the accolade as "one of the boys," she believes.

Her size — slightly over five feet tall and 100 pounds — proved a problem at first in carrying the heavy bundles of wooden shingles up to the roof. But she devised a slide for them.

Wright said she is a good director.

me he thought I had made myself into a carpenter — and a good one," she said. "He finally got so he could tell people and let them laugh. Now, he's proud of me."

The most noticeable reaction, though, has come from delivery men and subcontractors on the job, Mary Sue said.

She said she was on the roof shingling one day while a delivery man stood on the ground and watched for a long time. Finally he asked, "Are you a boy or a girl?"

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

He Treats His Folks Like Tramps

DEAR ABBY: Last year, our eldest son moved out of state and got married. Eventually he called and invited us to visit him in his new, three-bedroom, air-conditioned home. After traveling over 500 miles, we arrived hot and weary, and were shown to our "room" — a windowless garage, with a cast-off mattress on the floor! No pillows, no appliances and no explanations.

His father and I felt like two vagrants who had come for a handout.

We estimated that in over 20 years, we have provided more than 7,000 clean beds and 20,000 nutritious meals to this ingrate, not to mention the scores of friends he brought home, who always got the best welcome we could offer.

After two mornings of eating breakfast out (while he and his wife slept late), and after buying everyone's lunch and dinner and providing baby-sitting services, we made an excuse to leave rather than to stay, or tell them how hurt we were. Are we too thin-skinned? Or is the part of the new, casual lifestyle of the young?

DISENCHANTED
DEAR DIS: Please don't blame the new, casual lifestyle of the young for your son and his wife's laziness, rudeness and inconsiderate treatment. (P.S. Alas! Not all twigs grow the way they are bent. Mother.)

DEAR ABBY: What do you do when your wife always corrects you in public?

PUT DOWN
DEAR PUT: Tell her (in private) that you'd appreciate it if she'd cut it out. And if she doesn't — then tell her in public.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl who is pre-engaged to an 18-year-old guy. He wants to get married and so do I, but my parents refuse to sign for me. We have even considered eloping because we are very much in love and can't wait.

We can't get married for at least three years, but we are so much in love that we can't control our emotions. If you know what I mean, we only want all the way a few times, but I know it will keep on happening because our love is so strong.

My mother never told me anything, everything I know, I picked up on the street, and I'm really not even sure of my facts. How can I be sure I know everything I should? Can you recommend a booklet? I can't sign my name, but I'll be looking for your answer in the paper. Thank you.

IN LOVE
DEAR IN: I don't know what responsibilities go with being "pre-engaged" — but you are sure to wind up "post-pregnant" if you don't stop the intimacies and/or learn the facts.

The Planned Parenthood people have some excellent literature for mothers who can't talk to their daughters. Ask your mother to contact them, and good luck.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CON-
NIE: Being "Number 2" is no better than being "Number 99" as long as "Number One" is still in the picture.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Seven-County Air Quality Proposal Draws Opposition

HOUSTON (AP) — Large business and scientific-engineering interests have opposed a proposed Environmental Protection Agency plan for a seven-county air quality maintenance area.

Only three of 13 speakers supported the proposal at a Thursday hearing. The rest either opposed all or part of the proposal.

The EPA has proposed lumping the counties of Harris, Galveston, Brazoria, Fort Bend, Liberty, Montgomery and Waller into air quality maintenance area (AQMA) for the control and maintenance of particulate matter, sulphur dioxide and photochemical oxidants.

The Houston Chamber of Commerce, chemical engineers and the Texas Air Quality Control Board criticized either the whole EPA plan or parts of it.

Louie Welch, chamber president and former Houston mayor, said there is neither necessity or justification for including all seven counties in an AQMA to maintain air quality because of the permit programs of the Air Control Board.

Ed Griffith, representing the South Texas Section of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, said he was surprised the issue was brought up again at this time.

"We see no evidence that the present program (by the state) cannot do what is expected of it," Griffith said.

"We deplore the fact that the EPA does not seem willing to give the Texas Implementation Plan the opportunity to do the job without resorting to premature tinkering."

136 Private Clubs, Public Bars Protest Mixed Drinks Tax

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A group of 136 public bars and private clubs has gone to court to protest a mixed drinks tax which should bring in an estimated $30 million a year to cities, counties and the state this year.

If the suit to declare the gross receipts tax unconstitutional is successful, it will reduce the price of mixed drinks in Texas, but probably not by 10 per cent, said B. D. Horton, owner of the Embury Club in Corpus Christi.

Horton told a news conference that "out-of-state visitors are constantly ordering our products as compared to those in most other states, and it is difficult to explain."

The class action suit, filed in state district court here, was originated by the Embury and Penthouse Clubs of Corpus Christi; the Flying Tiger Club of Galveston; and the Arabian Club of Nacogdoches. Attorneys said 130 other clubs and lounges that are members of Associated Clubs and Lounges of Texas helped finance the suit.

The tax has been in effect since April 1971 when Gov. Preston Smith signed into law the liquor-by-the-drink proposal.

Of the total revenue from the gross receipts tax on mixed drinks, 70 per cent goes to the state, 15 per cent to the county where the club or bar is located and 15 per cent to the city.

Midlanders Listed On Engineering Honor Roll

AUSTIN — Nine Midland residents are listed among approximately 600 University of Texas engineering students recognized as honor students for the 1974 spring semester.

They are Dennis Byron Conley, 3604 Imperial St.; Dale Allen Emanuel, 4516 Pasadena St.; John Kevin Fortin, 2619 Marmon St.; Mark Mabry Howard, 2415 Culpepper St.; Ray Howard Lane, 2400 W. Wadley St.; John Robert McLaughlin, 2103 Whitney St.; William Dean Raman, 2305 Stanolind St.; John William Rhea IV, 2310 Neely St.; and John Edwin Scherer, 2205 Neely St.

Bebe Bruce, a representative of the Greater Houston Civic Council, supported the EPA plan.

"We do not conclude that citizens or local officials input should be interpreted as allowing states to pollute existing clean air right down to nationwide standards for the sake of industrial and economic growth," she said.

Galveston County Judge Ray Holbrook urged the separation of his county from any AQMA that includes Houston. Brazoria County area representatives also said they wanted their area separated from any AQMA with Houston and that their pollution problems were different than the rest of the area.

No decisions were expected to be reached for at least five weeks and an EPA spokesman said those decisions about the 10-year plan probably will be amended later.

Judge Orders Plumbers Return To Work

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Plumbing and air conditioning pipe work could begin today at a reported 88 construction sites in Central Texas after a federal judge ordered a union to quit its work stoppage in a potentially complicated dispute over wages.

U.S. District Court Judge D. W. Suttle issued a 10-day temporary restraining order against Local 286 of the Plumbers and Pipefitters Union headquartered in Austin.

The restraining order was sought by the Mechanical Contractors Association of Austin. A hearing on a temporary injunction was tentatively set here for Sept. 3.

Gene Thornton, one of the contractors, said there would be places today for plumbers and pipefitters at sites where his company is contracted to do work but he anticipated the workers would not return until Monday.

At issue in the dispute is whether mechanical contractors should pay $8.50 an hour, as the union claims, or the $8.30 an hour the contractors are now paying.

Contractors' attorney Philip Pfeiffer of Houston said the plumbers and pipefitters did not appear for work Tuesday.

One-Time Vesco Associate's Plane Seized; Owner Denies Gun Running

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A one-time associate of fugitive financier Robert Vesco denies he has violated any federal laws as his executive jet remains in custody of the U.S. Customs Service in a gun running probe.

The denial of Los Angeles stockbroker Thomas P. Richardson came Thursday through his attorney, Mack Apsburn of San Antonio.

"My client's attitude is simple," Apsburn told The Associated Press. "It is that he has not violated any law against the United States, that he is not going to run and that he is going to fight for his rights."

The twin-engine Lear Jet, with gold stripes was confiscated Wednesday, according to Apsburn, who said he was told four or five cars with customs agents stopped the aircraft as it was taxiing at the San Antonio International Airport.

"I think it's highly unusual. I think it is incredible," said Apsburn of the seizure. He said the agents had no court order, he claimed, did they have probable cause.

Jim Lindsey, special Customs agent, said the seizure was made under a federal statute which "has to do with illegal exportation of munitions from this country to a foreign country."

Apsburn confirmed he was told by a Customs agent the foreign country involved was Costa Rica. Vesco, accused in connection with a secret $200,000 contribution to former President Nixon's re-election campaign, currently is in Costa Rica.

Vesco has denied gun running allegations. On July 29, Washington sources reported investigators obtained information that weapons and call girls were smuggled out of this country to Vesco.

U.S. Atty. William Sessions said Thursday, "I was told it was a Vesco-connected airplane." He declined further comment on the investigation, which primarily is centered in Los Angeles.

Returns To Los Angeles Richardson, who was awaiting completion of repairs on the plane here, has returned to Los Angeles, said Apsburn. He said the inspection of the plane by Customs agents turned up "absolutely nothing."

The San Antonio Light quoted an unnamed mechanic at the firm doing the repairs as saying reverse thrusters were installed on the aircraft. The mechanic explained the thrusters would enable the aircraft to land on shorter runways than normal.

Apsburn said the plane's reverse thrusters apparently averted a collision with one of the agents' cars. He said the test pilot threw on the reverse thrusters to halt the aircraft since its brakes were disconnected at the time.

Richardson once appeared before a Senate investigation committee, testifying he arranged with former federal narcotics agents to search Vesco properties for electronic surveillance devices. He said he was repaid by Vesco in gambling chips.

Apsburn said Richardson denies being a former employee of Vesco, but "I don't think he would deny knowing Vesco."

Carrasco's Widow May Be In Mexico

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The mysterious widow of slain convict Fred Gomez Carrasco may have crossed the border into Mexico after a Hidalgo County deputy sheriff helped her with a flat tire.

Mrs. Carrasco, 27, is being sought on charges alleging she helped obtain the guns used by her husband and two other inmates in the prison holdout in Huntsville.

The San Antonio Light Thursday reported the following:

Deputy Sheriff Dan Parker said a check with the National Crime Information Center indicated the woman he assisted Tuesday on a rural road, near the Mexican border may have been the elusive Rosa Carrasco.

Parker said that while patrolling a far western portion of Hidalgo, he saw a station wagon parked along a remote roadway of the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

The road leads from U.S. 83 to the tiny border town of Los Ebanos, Tex., where a two-car, hand-pulled ferry can be used to cross to San Miguel, Mexico.

Asked for identification, the woman gave a Panamanian passport identifying her as Rosa Copado Leyva, Parker said, Rosa Leyva is Mrs. Carrasco's maiden name.

"This is my passport," she told the officer, "but the date is wrong." She told Parker she was born on Aug. 10, 1947, Rosa's birth date according to San Antonio police and Rosa's school records.

Parker said he was unable to check out the identification because his car-mounted sheriff's frequency radio was too weak to reach Edinburg, the county seat.

After helping the woman change the flat tire, he drove his car to higher ground and checked with headquarters. The automobile and license information showed that Parker had assisted Rosa Carrasco, according to a check through crime information center computers.

Parker said the woman had a young boy asleep in the car who awakened while he was talking with her.

According to Parker, the woman's physical appearance matched that of Rosa Carrasco, except her hair may have been dyed blonde.

According to a peace justice's ruling, Carrasco and an inmate companion killed themselves and two of their hostages during an Aug. 3 prison shoot-out.

Haldeman Gives Court Deposition In Damage Suit

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman has given a court-ordered deposition in connection with a $840,000 damage suit filed by 14 young people.

The plaintiffs claim they were prevented from attending a speech by former President Richard M. Nixon at a 1971 rally. Defendants in the suit are Haldeman, two former White House advance men, the Charlotte police department, the Secret Service and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Haldeman, also a defendant in the upcoming Watergate cover-up trial, declined to comment publicly on the suit. He was met at the airport on Thursday by five hecklers but ignored them.

Association Resolution Lauds Prison Officials

HOUSTON (AP) — The American Correctional Association has passed a resolution praising Texas prison officials for their conduct in a recent escape attempt in Huntsville.

Two convicts and two hostages died in the Aug. 3 shoot-out which ended an 11-day siege of the prison library.

Three resolutions approved by the 150 delegates at the final session of the ACA convention Thursday cited the courage and fortitude of prison officials, Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe and the hostages.

The resolutions also praised Huntsville Radio Station KSAM for its cooperation in handling the news during the escape attempt. The station voluntarily censored some of its newscast to keep from giving information to the prisoners who were listening.

The delegates also resolved support for "the Texas Department of Corrections in their stand against violence in institutions" and specifically commends Director W. J. Estelle and Warden Hal Husband.

They had first considered commending Estelle and Husband for their conduct during the crisis but the resolution was changed after Gary Hill, a criminal justice consultant and a delegate from Iowa, told the group that its policy is to avoid commenting on specific actions until all facts are in.

An investigation of the incident currently is being conducted by both the Texas Department of Public Safety and a grand jury in Huntsville.

Rocky Gives Capitol Hill Taste Of Political Style

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller has given Capitol Hill its first taste of his political style, turning a series of courtesy calls on key members of Congress into a campaign tour complete with handshaking and kisses.

"It was perfectly natural. That's the way I always am," he told the pack of reporters that trailed him Thursday through the Capitol and five Senate and House Office Buildings.

Nominated for the vice presidency by President Ford just two days earlier, Rockefeller was laying the groundwork for his confirmation hearings by visiting all members of the Senate Rules Committee and a few key members of the House Judiciary Committee.

The two panels already have launched preliminary probes into Rockefeller's background, and it is likely to be at least mid-September before formal confirmation hearings can start.

At the day's last Capitol Hill stop, House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes said he thinks the House and Senate can approve the Rockefeller nomination in time to adjourn for the year on Oct. 15.

Rockefeller then sped off to the State Department for a visit with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who once worked for him, before attending a White House dinner with President Ford. Later he flew on his private plane back to his Seal Harbor, Maine, vacation retreat.

Aides said Rockefeller plans to remain there until after Labor Day.

Starting with a 9:30 a.m. meeting with Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., the Senate's presiding officer until a new vice president is approved, Rockefeller rarely rested until the late afternoon session with Rhodes.

"This is a great way to start the day," he declared, as two secretaries kissed him in the doorway of Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

When a girl asked for a vice presidential autograph, Rockefeller replied, "I'll sign it as a nominee for vice president."

He repeatedly told well-wishers, "I'm keeping my fingers crossed."

In the morning, he usually signed "Nelson Rockefeller." By afternoon, it had been shortened to "Rocky."

His reception seemed equally warm from Democrats as from Republicans. Two New York Democratic congressmen, Reps. Charles B. Rangel of Manhattan and Benjamin S. Rosenthal of Queens, greeted him enthusiastically.

"It's like Alice in Wonderland," exclaimed Rockefeller to Rosenthal, who teased, "The FBI was in to see me about you. I told them everything."

Rangel, leader of the congressional Black Caucus, told Rockefeller he was "surprised and amazed" by the good reception the group received Wednesday from Ford.

One cloud on the generally sunny Rockefeller day came when Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., his old presidential rival who said Tuesday many conservatives would be unhappy with the nomination, declined to pose for pictures with the former New York governor. Goldwater vanished after their meeting without making any comment.

Rains Drench West Texas

90s, with tonight's low in the middle 60s. A high in the low 90s is predicted for Saturday.

Several funnel clouds were sighted during the night near Lubbock, which got its heaviest rains in two years. Pea-sized hail peppered part of that area. Two inches of rain fell there in a six-hour period early today.

One-half inch of rain fell late Thursday at Levelland. And, before dawn Thursday Levelland reported 2.50 inches of rain.

In Big Bend National Park, more than 1½ inches of rain created lowland flooding in the western half of the park and stranded some visitors in their cars for short periods.

Park Supt. Joe Carrithers said the Rio Grande went up eight feet to the 10-foot mark, but did not go over its banks.

The park stopped issuing permits to float the river because it was running "extremely swift and hazardous," said Carrithers. "But we welcome the rain because it wasn't damaging. It eased the drought condition in this area considerably."

Violent electrical storms accompanied the deluges in many places, reaching as deep into the state as the Beaumont-Port Arthur-Orange industrial complex in Southeast Texas.

Pierce winds ripped the roof off a home in the Dallas suburb of Duncanville. Lightning set fire to at least two rooftops elsewhere in Dallas County and wind damaged still others.

Outside the rainy sections, skies were mostly clear by morning over much of Central and East Texas.

Temperatures sagged behind the cool front, easing down to 60 degrees at Dalhart and Marfa, 61 at El Paso and 63 at Amarillo and Lubbock in early morning. At the same hour the reading was 82 at Galveston on the coast. Thursday's top marks went as high as 101 at Waco. The Associated Press reported.

While continuing showers and overcast skies promised to keep temperatures down over West Texas, official forecasters looked for bright sunshine to send the mercury climbing again in the central and east parts of the state. Scattered showers were expected to spread into other sections by evening.

Grandmother Irene Horton's Title Dreams End In Splash

PINE MOUNTAIN, Ga. (AP) — Irene Horton's hopes of winning a national water ski trophy ended with a splash as she dived near the first buoy at Callaway Gardens.

She captured no prize Thursday but she won the hearts of the crowd. Mrs. Horton is 71.

The Arcadia, Calif., grandmother has had her share of spills, but she philosophized, "It's better to take a few bumps than to stay at home out of trouble."

It hasn't been all bumps. She won three third-place trophies this year in Denver and took a second-place cup in Kansas City for her slalom skills. She placed third in the Western Regionals in Seattle in July and was picked up a master's rating at Newberry Springs, Calif., this summer.

The trim, gray-haired woman, who first put on skis 16 years ago, brought the whole family to Callaway Gardens for the 32nd National Water Ski Championships.

Crane Woman Released After Arraignment

Marilyn Jane Bryan, 30, of Crane surrendered to FBI agents here Thursday.

She was arraigned before the U.S. magistrate on a federal charge of writing insufficient funds checks at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. She was released on a personal recognizance bond of $2,000.

Monahans Area Three-Car Crash Leaves Two Dead

MONAHANS — Two persons were killed and two others injured in a three-vehicle collision on a county road 13 miles southwest of here early today.

Dead are Jesus M. Gonzales and Reynaldo Cornado, both of Monahans. Ruben Martinez, who is listed in guarded condition at Odessa Medical Center Hospital with head injuries, was with Gonzales and Cornado. All three were standing alongside their pickup truck on the county road during a light rain when the accident occurred.

Department of Public Safety investigator Keith Morris said that two other vehicles, driven by Fernando Sotelo, also of Monahans, and Roberto Abila of Monahans, were in collision with the parked vehicle.

Sotelo is listed in serious condition in Odessa Medical Center Hospital from injuries suffered in the collision.

Funeral services for Gonzales and Cornado are pending at Wilson Funeral Home at Monahans.

Three Area Cities Get New Industries

AUSTIN — Lamesa, Colorado City and Abilene were three of the Texas communities to welcome new industries during July, according to the Texas Industrial Commission and the Bureau of Business Research.

The new West Texas industries are Martin, Sprocket and Gear, Inc., in Abilene; Iron Star Pottery in Colorado City; and Feather Fabrics, Inc., in Lamesa.

The Industrial Commission said the 15 new companies are expected to have an economic impact of $112 million yearly.

The new industries are also expected to directly create almost 2,500 new jobs and be responsible, indirectly for another 1,843.

Five Persons Hurt In Area Collision

Five persons were treated and released from Midland Memorial Hospital Thursday afternoon after suffering minor injuries in a car-truck accident one mile west of Midkiff Street on Interstate 20.

Department of Public Safety investigator David Hancock said a car driven by Armeta Ward of California and a tractor-trailer truck driven by Carl L. Clayton of California were in collision.

The injured were Armeta Ward, 41; Jerselda Blackwell, 16; Evelyn Cooper, 43; Jessie Waller, 40; and Jesse Waller, 42. All of the injured were in the Ward vehicle, and all were from California.

Texas Toll Road Traffic Improves

FORT WORTH (AP) — Traffic on Texas' two toll roads showed signs during July of returning to levels before the energy crisis, a report by the Texas Turnpike Authority said today.

Authority Chairman DEE Kelly said July traffic on both the Dallas-Fort Worth Turnpike and the Dallas North Tollway is still below figures for last year, but the gap is closing.

The Turnpike averaged 94,186 vehicle trips per day in July, down 5.2 per cent from July 1973. The average daily traffic on the Tollway in July was 46,991, a decrease of 5.8 per cent compared to the same time last year.

Congress May Face Post-Election Tasks

But the unfinished items also include some likely to provoke pointed questions by voters and campaign opponents.

Congress has been promising for years to close tax loopholes and ease the burden on those with middle and low incomes. A new element entered this year: A demand to recoup for the general treasury some of the windfall profits energy companies reaped from the oil crisis.

The House Ways and Means Committee has nearly finished work on a tax bill. Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., reported determined to push it through the House.

The prospect of a national health plan protecting families against crushing costs of serious illness also has dangled for years before the public. Compiling pressures on the extent, shape and financing of the bill appeared this week to have killed the chances for agreement within the Ways and Means committee this year, although President Ford has cited a health plan as one of his first priorities.

A lame duck session could provide time to salvage health legislation, at least in stripped-down form that could be expanded later. Ford and Mills met privately last week amid reports the President again asked for health legislation and the chairman told him there is a chance for passage if the administration pushes hard for Republican votes.

There were these developments in Congress on the last day before the recess:

—The House trimmed $200 million from a $1.4 billion bill increasing veterans' education and vocational training payments in hopes of avoiding a veto. The bill goes back to the Senate.

—A $21.2 billion appropriations bill for housing programs, the Veterans Administration and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration was also dropped.

Operator Cancels Limousine Service

The Midland Regional Air Terminal's Air Line Limousine Service has been shut down by franchise holder Gordon Casbeer, but taxi cabs are filling in at the airport on an emergency basis.

Casbeer noted, however, that his G&D Freight Service is continuing to operate from the Air Terminal.

In a letter to City Manager James Brown earlier this week, Casbeer said that high overhead and low profits were the cause of discontinuing the limousine service.

The city manager said that temporary transportation to and from the Air Terminal was being handled by letting taxis come into the parking area in front of the terminal building on a free basis. They are usually held to entrance only on specific calls.

Educator Dies

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Lesley A. Holmes, 71, former president of Northern Illinois University, died Wednesday of a heart attack. During Holmes' presidency—from 1947 until he retired in 1967—the school expanded from 1,600 to 18,000 students.

European Farmers Demanding Action On Falling Prices And Rising Costs

By PAUL TREUTHARDT

PARIS (AP) — French and German farmers dump tons of liquid manure outside government offices.

Belgian farmers block main roads around Brussels with tractors.

French pig farmers prevent a ship from unloading 1,200 tons of Chinese pork.

Dutch farmers isolate two harbor towns, blocking all freight movements.

Europe's millions of small farmers, often cultivating only a few acres, are taking to the roads demanding that their governments and the Common Market take radical action.

Gross overproduction has pushed the prices paid the farmers for their beef, pork, wine, fruits and vegetables down while the cost of fuel, fertilizer, feed and credit have shot up 15 to 30 per cent.

Retail prices do not reflect the drop in farm income. The farmers charge that the governments have taken only limited steps to give them direct aid and meanwhile have done little or nothing to control the booming profits they claim the middlemen are amassing.

The Common Market's Common Agricultural Policy—CAP—is supposed to harmonize farm prices and conditions throughout the nine member nations. But it is largely ignored by various governments that adopt policies to meet their own problems.

West German Agriculture Minister Josef Ertl warned last week the CAP was in danger of disintegrating completely.

Ertl blamed the crisis on exchange rate fluctuations which mean invoking complicated border taxes.

However, 30,000 Bavarian farmers thought their government was to blame and marched on Munich to protest against a 10 per cent drop in farm prices.

City Of Midland Slates Garage Auction Tuesday

The City of Midland will hold an auction at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the city garage at the corner of Carver and South streets.

The auction, to be conducted by the Rene Bates Auctioneers of McKinney, will include 27 automobiles owned by the city, and a number of other items.

The automobiles, all models between 1965 and 1973, includes Pontiacs, Chevrolets, Dodges, Fords, Plymouths, Darts, Rebels and pickups.

Among the other items to be sold by the city are a government issue 2-ton, 4-wheel trailer; 2 1967 Dodge 500 trucks, cabs and chassis; 70 scrap meters and two lots of scrap brass, and a 1973 Larkin-Jobber, 3-wheel truckster.

City officials point out that all sales will be for cash and advise potential purchasers to be at the auction site by 6 p.m. to register and examine the items to be sold. The auction will get under way promptly at 7:30 p.m.

The vehicles to be sold are not abandoned vehicles, the auctioneer said, but units owned and used by various departments of the City of Midland.

County Grand Jury No-Bills Taylor On Murder Charge

The Midland County Grand Jury heard 42 cases this week and returned 28 indictments, passed 12 cases to the fall session and no billed two cases.

One of the no-bills was a capital murder case against Maurice Taylor which dropped charges against the defendant following a hearing in 142nd District Court on a writ of habeas corpus. Taylor's attorney brought one of the state's witnesses to the stand in that hearing and heard testimony from the witness that statements made to police connecting Taylor to the capital murder were false.

The other no-bill by the grand jury concerned an aggravated robbery with a deadly weapon charge filed against Rudolf Whitley. Those charges were also dropped.

Primary Expense Under Estimates

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — This year's primary elections cost the state slightly more than half what the legislature estimated, and Secretary of State Mark White returned $1.8 million to the treasury.

White said today that the primaries cost $2 million, compared with the $3.8 million appropriated by the 1973 legislature to pay for them.

The three political parties holding primaries—Democrats, Republicans and La Raza Unida—collected $638,651 to partially defray the costs of the elections.

White said the Democratic primary attracted 1,521,306 voters, the GOP primary 62,945 and the La Raza Unida primary 5,627 voters.

Man Holds Up Odessa Store, Assaults Clerk

ODESSA — Odessa police issued an all-points bulletin early this morning following the robbery at knife point of a 7-Eleven store and a sexual assault on the store clerk.

Police said the female store clerk was forced to empty the cash registers at knife point around 4 a.m. The victim was then forced to leave the store with a man in what police said was a stolen pickup truck.

The pickup was apparently taken from the American Music Co. on Eighth Street earlier in the evening Thursday.

The woman told police the man was in his mid-20s, wearing blue jeans, not quite six feet tall and weighed about 170 pounds.

After abducting the woman from the store, the man drove approximately five miles north of the city toward Andrews, stopped the pickup and sexually assaulted the woman. He then drove further north and left the woman stranded beside the highway about 13 miles out of the city.

The 1968 model white pickup truck was last seen heading north.

Goals Announced For Economic Summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's economic summit conference in late September will have five major goals and be preceded by a series of preliminary meetings.

In announcing some details on Thursday, a White House spokesman said Ford would conduct three meetings next week to get the study project under way. They will involve his Cabinet, academic, labor and business economists and labor leaders.

Rep. John T. McFall, D-Calif., one of the planners, said tentative plans also call for a meeting Sept. 5 with a group of economists and on Sept. 9 with labor representatives.

McFall said the appropriate Cabinet members would serve as chairmen of meetings on specific topics such as housing and transportation and some of these sessions may be held outside Washington.

No precise date have been set for the twoday summit meeting, which Ford proposed Aug. 12. He said he would preside at it.

The White House spokesman said the nine-member planning committee agreed on these goals for the conference:

- Clarify the nation's economic condition.
- Study causes of the present economic situation.
- Define areas of hardship requiring immediate attention.
- Develop a consensus on basic policies to be followed to combat inflation.

—Explore new, realistic approaches to deal with inflation.

The conference planners expect 25 to 50 participants at each of the public summit meetings, representing such interests as business, labor, regulatory agencies, banking, finance, state and local government, agriculture, economics, citizen action and consumerism.

Kenneth Rush, economic counselor to Ford, was named chairman of the steering committee, and L. William Seidman, a longtime Ford adviser from Grand Rapids, Mich., was appointed executive director.

The other members are Roy L. Ash, director of the White House Office of Management and Budget; Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers; Treasury Secretary William E. Simon; Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and John Tower, R-Tex.; and Reps. Barber B. Conable, R-N.Y., and McFall.

U.S. Attorneys Lose Bid To Control Crime Strike Forces

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. attorneys have lost their campaign to gain control of the Justice Department's 16 organized crime strike forces.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe has decided that the strike forces should continue to operate under the direct supervision of the department and Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen, head of the criminal division, department officials said.

U.S. attorneys have campaigned for at least a year to win direct control of the specialized teams of lawyers and accountants assigned to attack big-city syndicated crime.

Saxbe has decided to "keep the strike forces intact, with a continuing review by the criminal division," William Hoiles, administrative aide to the attorney general, said on Thursday.

Hoiles said Saxbe followed the recommendation of an internal committee which said the department should "keep the strike force concept as is."

The committee recommendation was delivered to Saxbe on July 3. U.S. attorneys and strike force officials were told of Saxbe's decision a few weeks ago, Hoiles said.

"We're disappointed that he didn't accept our recommendation," said U.S. Atty. Dean C. Smith of Spokane, Wash., chairman of a 16-member advisory committee of federal prosecutors.

"I think there's disagreement, but I don't think there's any deep sense of loss," he said in a telephone interview.

The prosecutors committee, appointed by former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson in an effort to involve the U.S. attorneys in departmental policy-making, had urged that the strike forces be phased out and the 150 strike force jobs be transferred to the prosecutors.

In some cities where strike forces operate, full-blown rivalry has developed between the resident prosecutor and the semipermanent strike force team.

"We think they would operate better and more efficiently" under the U.S. attorneys' supervision, Smith said. But he added, "Maybe this is a parochial view."

The strike force system, Petersen's brainchild, was set up first in Buffalo, N.Y., in 1966 and since has been expanded to include teams in Brooklyn, New York, Newark, Boston, Chicago, New Orleans, Detroit, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Miami, Cleveland, Kansas City, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Washington.

The strike forces, which Petersen describes as "semi-permanent units," operate alongside the resident U.S. attorneys who deal with a broader range of crime. The U.S. attorneys are part of the Department of Justice although they operate with great independence in most cases.

AGAINST FEMALE EMPLOYEES—

Sears Official Denies Discrimination

CHICAGO (AP) — Sears, Roebuck & Co., one of the nation's biggest mail order houses, has been accused of discriminating against female employees.

A company official says the problem is "deeply rooted in the whole fabric of American society."

Testifying before the federal Commission on Civil Rights, Charles F. Bacon, vice president of personnel, denied the discrimination charges Thursday and said Sears is committed to equal employment.

Earlier, the commission, which is conducting hearings on women and poverty, heard from clerks employed by Sears. The women noted that most Sears clerical employees are women and most executives are men. They also said that women are denied promotions and that typing tests are required only of female applicants.

In addition, the women clerks said they are asked to get coffee and cigarettes and empty ash trays, while male employees are not. They work in Sears' national headquarters in Chicago.

Bacon told the commission that the place of women in society, "is not only a product of the American business system but of schools, churches, social clubs, government and labor unions as well."

While Sears accepts "its share" of the responsibility for the problem, he said, "we have already made considerable progress in addressing that responsibility."

But Sears refused to release personnel data to the commission. Bacon said the company feared its chief competitor, Montgomery Ward & Co., would try to hire away outstanding Sears female and minority employees if they were made public.

"We've been known to do the same occasionally," Bacon added.

Other testimony came from Anne Ladky, president of the Chicago chapter of the National Organization of Women and coordinator of NOW's committee on Sears, and Darlene Stille, chairman of Women Employed.

The NOW official charged that women are "ghettoized into certain jobs and certain industries, earning 58 per cent of what men earned for similar work."

Bombing Suspect Is Remaining Silent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Yugoslav immigrant accused of terrorizing this city as the "phabet bomber" remained mute today after his arraignment on murder charges.

Authorities said they will press the death penalty.

Muharem Kurbegovic, 34, was ordered held without bail Thursday on request of prosecutor Stephen Trot, who said he will seek execution under the state's capital punishment law, permitting the death penalty in cases involving multiple slayings.

Kurbegovic, who has not entered a word to authorities since his arrest Tuesday, is charged in an Aug. 6 bombing that killed three persons at Los Angeles International Airport.

Municipal Court Judge Sheldon Sloane ordered a plea of innocent for Kurbegovic Thursday when public defender Gen. and Chaleff did not enter a for mal plea for his client.

Sloane granted a request by Chaleff for a pretrial gag order prohibiting statements by principals in the case. Chaleff argued there was "reasonable likelihood" that such statements would be prejudicial to Kurbegovic.

He is charged with three counts of murder for the three persons killed in the airport bombing. In addition, Kurbegovic was charged with four counts of arson, four of violations of the dangerous weapons control law and one each of attempted murder and willful and malicious burning of personal property.

The arson counts relate to firebombings last year at the homes of police commissioners and a judge against whom Kurbegovic allegedly held grudges.

The defendant was dubbed the alphabet bomber for his alleged threat to spell out the name of his purported organization—Aliens of America—by bombing sites related to letters in the group's name.

How embarrassing to recognize a person's face but be unable to recall his name! It happens to most of us occasionally.

God always knows us. His eye is always open to see us. His ear is always open to hear us. We can enjoy His acquaintance daily.

We can enjoy the Presence of God in a special way when we attend church. When we turn our attention fully upon Him, when we devote our thinking to those matters which hold eternal value, God speaks in the warmest of tones.

Yes, God knows us. He calls us by name. He never forgets.

Workmen begin task of demolishing Old Sanctuary of First United Methodist Church

Old Sanctuary Coming Down

The historic Old Sanctuary of the First United Methodist Church is being demolished. Some parts of the building have already been salvaged, and demolition will begin shortly. Among materials removed and saved are pews, cushions, choir seating, chancel rail, altar table, chairs, pulpit, signs, plaques, speakers and the sound system. Church officials have announced the hymnals are for sale. They said the pews and possibly some of the other furniture will be reused. The clay tile roof and some light fixtures also have been removed and stored for reuse.

The organ was sold to the highest bidder. The remaining structure also has been sold to the highest bidder, with the stipulation that he deliver to the church the bell, cornerstone and contents, and the concrete seats surrounding the wishing well.

"I ride not just for pleasure but for the visitation of my church members in their homes," he said. "It makes me

Woodstock's End Means Demise Of Swinging Jesuits

By JOHN LEO

NEW YORK (NEA) — Woodstock College means something to Catholics.

It is the oldest and most prestigious Jesuit theology school in America. It lived in isolation for a hundred years in Maryland before moving to New York City in 1969, amid great publicity, to show the world how the new post-Vatican Council Jesuits could operate in the middle of the urban culture.

Now it is dying.

Many think it was a successful experiment, brought to an end because the Pope himself was appalled by the publicity about Woodstock's swinging Jesuits — the near-total freedom, casual dress and easy tolerance of female guests for coffee or dinner.

Others think the experiment was a failure, that Jesuits today are too confused by the rapid changes in the Church to make any contribution to the teeming city.

A few things are known for certain. Two of the five American Jesuit theology schools had to be closed. Vacations have fallen off drastically in recent years, and there are not enough Jesuits to fill them.

And it is known that conservatives, inside and outside the order, maneuvered with Rome to make sure that Woodstock would be one of the two closed. The announcement came some months ago. Woodstock is shutting down gradually and will close fully by next summer, though some Jesuits will remain as a loose West Side community with an uncertain future.

Bob is a 33-year-old Woodstock Jesuit from Scranton. He has been a Jesuit for 15 years, but has not been ordained a priest — which means he has passed up ordination twice.

He is about to do it again, taking one more year to think about the decision and plans to take an undemanding job, perhaps in a library somewhere, to support himself.

Like so many Jesuits, he has reported to his superior that he finds celibacy destructive — it saps energy that should go into meaningful work.

But sex is not the real problem. He wonders if the person he is becoming would or should fit in the Jesuit order. He spent a year in India, and was outraged when people called him a missionary. "I felt like shouting: 'I'm not an operative, not a cog in a machine, I'm me, and I'm here because I feel called on to help.'"

His only regular roommate in a sprawling seven-bedroom apartment, once filled with Jesuits, is Sam, a 35-year-old Chicano from El Paso. Sam knows where he's going. He is developing an expertise in urban affairs and heading back home to help his fellow Mexican Americans. He talks passionately about the illiteracy and mortality rates of his people in Texas, and what he plans to do in the local settlement house and Pentecostal movement to advance their struggle.

He is at peace with himself and with the Jesuits but he thinks Woodstock may have been run too loosely — the sudden and near-complete freedom has been a burden to many men who have been taught to do without it.

"I entered the order late — at 26," he says, "and I know who I am. Many of these guys don't and they can't cope. They need more structure."

Some of the Woodstock men are working hard on their studies. Other are just putting in time, or pouring their energies into outside projects. Some are preparing to fit themselves into the old scholastic grooves — teaching in Jesuit high schools or colleges — either because it is less threatening than a broader project, or because it is the career they really want.

One man, a leftist activist, was prominent in the antiwar movement. Another is deep into the New York music world. A third, who recently moved elsewhere, has been helping organize New York Filipinos to call attention to the plight of the Philippines under U.S. economic domination.

Questions of identity mingle with deep problems with the classic Jesuit vows — poverty, chastity, obedience and the vow of special fealty to the Pope.

In 1969, many felt that the Woodstock experiment, however it turned out, would indicate the future of the Jesuits in America. Now the college is closing with no clear lessons learned.

Bob, the man who is passing up ordination for the third time, feels positively about what happened to the Jesuit community here.

"The experiment has been made," he says, "and it has left its mark."

chosen work has created more personal problems. Some who take jobs in the outside world feel stretched between their Jesuit identity and their jobs, which they feel they could fill just as adequately without Jesuit credentials. Some are asking: Why be a Jesuit at all?

Fort Worth Man To Serve As Unitarian Co-Minister

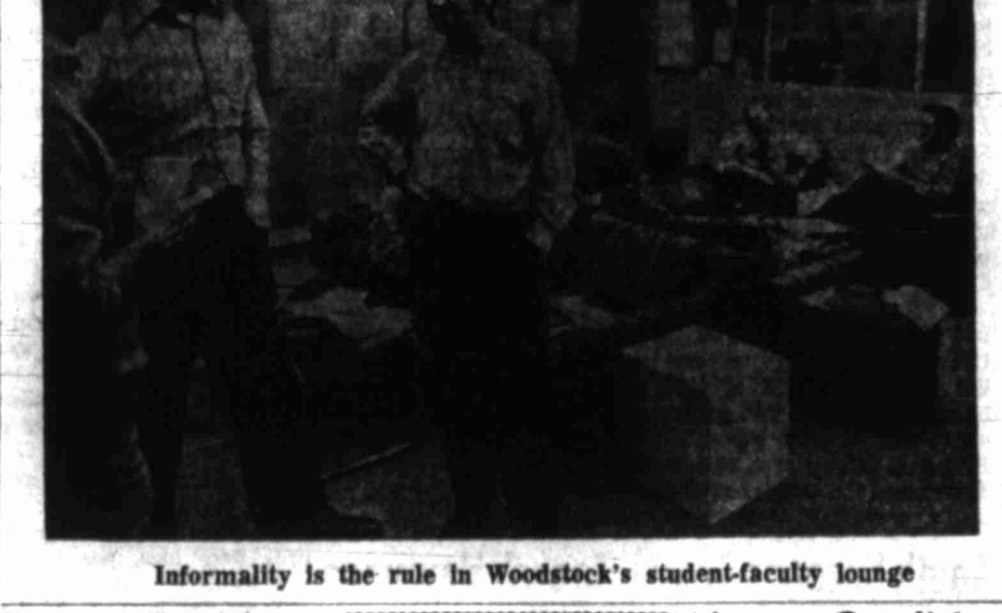

The Rev. Robert T. Latham of Fort Worth will conduct services in 10:35 a.m. Sunday in the Unitarian Church of Midland, 4300 N. A St. His topic will be "The Role of Fool and Foolishness in the Religious Experience."

Mr. Latham will be in Midland for five visits in the next nine months, constituting a co-ministry with the Midland church. The concept was established to strengthen the church organization and provide the benefits of a minister on a limited basis.

Each of his visits will include social contacts with church members and friends, workshops in problem areas, counseling, meetings with prospective members and performing church services.

Mr. Latham has been a Unitarian minister for 4½ years and presently is with the Jefferson Unitarian-Universalist Church in Fort Worth.

The public is invited to the services Sunday. Coffee will be served at 10:15 a.m.

Religious Faith In Conflict With 'Secular World View'

By GEORGE CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — Religious faith today is engaged in a head-on conflict in America with a "secularistic, humanistic world view" which rejects transcendent beliefs and absolute moral values, say U.S. Roman Catholic bishops.

In a review of current trends in this country, they add that the key question now is whether church members still get their "fundamental beliefs and attitudes" from Christianity or from surrounding secular values of society.

General indications now are that "for a large number of Catholics, the influence of secular society — and all that implies for good as well as ill — counts more heavily than the influence of the Church," the bishops say.

They summed up their views of tendencies in this country in a paper prepared for the international Synod of Bishops, which meets at the Vatican in Rome beginning Sept. 27.

While some bishops optimistically see the current uncertainties about basic values as the birth pangs of a more conscientious purposefulness, the report says, others say the situation "reflects decadence and portends collapse."

Whatever the case, "it is generally recognized that the positive influence of organized religion on public policy and public morality has declined sharply in the United States in recent years," the bishops say.

Historically, the document notes, American Catholics until recent years "lived in a certain isolation from attitudes and values which prevailed in the larger society," emphasizing distinctive beliefs and practices.

The bishops say the situation now points up the central issue of whether Church members are to take their basic guidance from the Church or secular society.

REVIVAL SET — The Rev. Garry Wills, pastor of the Temple Baptist Church in Stamford, will conduct a revival at Cornith Baptist Church Sunday through Wednesday. Services begin at 6:30 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 p.m. the other days.

Most people at Woodstock are bitter about that Wills article, citing it as a heavy factor in Rome's decision to close the place. But many now agree with the Wills quote above.

Ed, a young activist priest, says, "It was unrealistic to think that our Jesuits, so concerned with emerging into personal freedom, would have much impact on New York. The actions were bound to be individualistic, isolated and swallowed up by the society at large."

But Jack, another Jesuit here, argues that most journalists have missed the point: "We didn't move here to save the city; we moved here because the city could help make us better Jesuits, and in that sense the experiment succeeded."

Missionary's World Not Just Preaching Now

DALLAS — Stack-sack housing, roof-top ministry and land communities for boat squatters. All are part of the world of the Rev. Kenneth B. McIntosh.

With degrees from Texas A&M, SMU and Yale, the minister is currently director of the United Methodist Church's regional eight-state mission. Advance program headquarters are in Dallas.

"I'm strictly a missionary, and that's it," Mr. McIntosh said. For 10 years, his mission field has been Hong Kong and Southeast Asia.

In Hong Kong, where "space is at a premium," he and missionaries of other denominations have looked to the rooftops of high rise city buildings for space to educate hundreds of thousands of children and adults.

Mr. McIntosh said his group constructed inexpensive facilities surrounded by tall hurricane fences for recreation and school by day and chapels or adult literacy classes at night.

Mrs. McIntosh, who recently set up the curriculum and wrote the syllabus for teaching Chinese in the Dallas public schools and began the department of Chinese at SMU, developed a system of teaching English while in Hong Kong.

And at night, Chinese hairstylists put down their tools and the barber and beauty shop would become classroom.

"We saw a need to help people," Mr. McIntosh said. "Not just through rooftop ministry to the whole person, feeding the body, mind and spirit."

They introduced production of 50,000 pounds of noodles per month. "Fourteen refugees made the noodles and we distributed them, five-pound lots to a family."

To provide quick, inexpensive housing and facilities for the Chinese, Mr. McIntosh and an associate developed a method of constructing prefabricated cement panels in such a way that two coolies could handle the job.

Now, stack-sack construction, a method developed by a Dallas building contractor, is being used.

Soaking reinforced cement mixture filled gas with water, the method consists of stacking the wet sacks brick-style on a cement foundation.

While damp, the sack walls are reinforced with metal rods and set with windows and doors. He said this "Third World" house can be built for $350 with volunteer labor and roofed with wood, concrete or thatch.

"You can build one of these in two days," he explained.

"With the curing of it—concrete cures with age—families are moving in just a few weeks."

The contractor, who sold the franchise for his method to the United Methodist Church, was motivated by the idea that "you ought to be able to house people—they ought to have a roof over their heads. This is what he came up with."

Three hundred of these stack-sack houses have been built in earthquake-ravaged Nicaragua. Other are under construction in Africa, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Indochina and the Middle East.

The missionaries also initiated community-type programs for 5,000 boat squatters living in rotted out sampans.

Formerly, these persons had no base on land, there was no place to leave expectant mothers or old people.

The government donated land for one- and two-story buildings to house families.

The missionaries made available educational provision and personnel for health care.

Mr. McIntosh admitted the facilities have required some adjustments. For squatters who are used to "dipping water on side and dumping refuse on the other," he said they must learn that "you don't throw garbage over the veranda on someone else's head."

At first, he said, the primarily Buddhist and Taoist persons were suspicious of their motives. "They were almost like people waiting for the other shoe to drop. They wondered why we were doing this."

But the people began "asking for doctors, they made space available for them." And finally came the request of the elders, "Perhaps it is too late for us, but maybe you can teach this to our children. Share with us your faith."

Commenting about the changing role of missionaries, Mr. McIntosh said, "A few years ago, everyone who went out was ordained. Now we have social workers, doctors, broadcasters—people who are living their faiths. There are a lot of ways you preach."

U.S. Studying Soviet Proposal For Meeting Charting Cyprus Future

By The Associated Press
Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says the United States government is studying the Soviet proposal for an 18-nation conference to chart the future of Cyprus.

But Western diplomats at the United Nations dismissed the Russian move as a propaganda maneuver.

"It doesn't seem to be anything that will get off the ground," one said.

A Soviet government statement on Thursday said attempts by members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to settle the Cyprus crisis have failed. It cited the "special responsibilities" for the maintenance of peace of the five permanent members of the Security Council—including the Soviet Union—and said the time was right for a conference made up of the 15 council members plus Greece, Turkey and Cyprus.

"We'll study it," Kissinger told newsmen who asked about U.S. reaction to the proposal. But a U.S. diplomat at U.N. headquarters said his government was strongly supporting British efforts to get Greece, Turkey and the Greek and Turkish Cypriots back to the peace conference table in Geneva.

"This initiative ought to be given a chance to come to fruition," he said.

The cease-fire in Cyprus continued to hold. But a U.N. spokesman said the Turkish army refused to allow U.N. troops in Famagusta to deliver food, water and medicine to the thousands of Greek Cypriot refugees around the captured port city.

One U.N. officer said the refugees' situation was desperate, and food stocks were almost exhausted in two areas.

"There is enough food on the island to feed the population, but the Turks have captured vast areas, and the Turkish army has those supplies," the officer said.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim was flying to Cyprus during the weekend to confer with President Glafcos Clerides, the leader of the Greek Cypriots, and Vice President Rauf Denktaş, the head of the Turkish Cypriot minority.

Clerides was flying to Athens today to confer with the Greek government. He and Denktaş also were expected to meet during the weekend to discuss such humanitarian issues as the exchange of prisoners and the plight of the refugees.

South Koreans Detain, Search Newsmen

TOKYO (AP) — An American Newsweek reporter in its Aug. 26 issue reported today that South Korean police searched him and questioned him for five hours in an unsuccessful effort to obtain names of dissident South Korean army officers.

Paul Brinkley-Rogers, of Newsweek's Tokyo bureau said they were joined later by the police were looking for a six others, and for five hours letter he had received from 29 they searched him and his young army officers. The letter accused President Chung Hee Park of "poisoning the nation" with repressive measures and said, "On the appropriate day, young men like us will act."

SAYS TAX REVISION MAY BE ON THE WAY—

Mills Trying To Spread Cheer Along Wall Street

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, is trying to spread some cheer along a gloomy Wall Street with a reminder that tax revision may be on the way.

After the stock market closed Thursday at its lowest since July 14, 1970, Mills' office released a statement that noted the sagging market.

It said the tax revision bill to "be given final consideration by the committee beginning Sept. 11 will include a number of provisions in the area of capital gains and losses, which should be of material benefit to taxpayers and investors across the nation."

Among these provisions will be a reduction in the capital gains tax for assets held more than five years so that no more than 30 per cent of the gain on the sale of the assets would be subject to tax.

The bill also would give all homeowners the relief now afforded to taxpayers over 65 on the sale of a personal residence. If enacted, the amendment would allow any gain on the sales price of a residence up to $35,000 to escape taxation. On amounts above that, a pro rata reduction would be provided.

Mills also said the bill would increase the investment tax credit—from 4 per cent to 7 per cent—for property used mainly for supplying electricity or gas to local distribution systems. That would put it at the level already available for other industries.

He said he expects his committee "to resume work promptly on the final draft of tax legislation" on Sept. 11 and to swiftly send a bill to the House, where "I believe that (it) will be passed promptly ... in time for the Senate to act favorably on it before adjournment."

The bill also contains a new start of this year. There also would be a new temporary excise tax on windfall profits of the petroleum industry. But tied to this would be a plan giving energy-seeking oilmen a way to escape paying much of this new levy.

Average taxpayers also would find a boost in the maximum standard deduction used by those who do not itemize, rising from $2,000 to $2,500. There also would be a hike in the minimum standard deduction that helps low-income taxpayers, increasing from $1,300 to $1,400 for singles and $1,500 for couples filing jointly.

Oilmen would see their 22 per cent depletion allowance, which saves them between $2 billion and $3 billion annually in federal taxes, phased out over three years, with the first cut going into effect retroactively to the start of this year. There also would be a new temporary excise tax on windfall profits of the petroleum industry. But tied to this would be a plan giving energy-seeking oilmen a way to escape paying much of this new levy.

United Mine Workers Chief Warns Government, Industry Full-Blown Strike May Be In Near Future

By The Associated Press
United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller says the impact of this week's national coal mine shutdown will be insignificant compared with the possibility of a full-blown strike later this year.

Government and industry "shouldn't worry about five days," Miller told some 3,000 coal miners and union supporters at a rally Thursday in Harlan, Ky. "If they don't do something before Nov. 12, they'll have a lot more than five days to worry about."

The five-day "memorial period" which ends today was called by the UMW to commemorate the thousands who have died in mine accidents.

But the shutdown comes at a time when the union and industry are set to begin negotiating a new three-year contract and when industry stockpiles of coal are dwindling. The present national contract expires Nov. 12.

Thursday's gathering at Harlan, where the union has been engaged in a 13-month organizing strike against the Duke Power Co., served as a focal point for a week of marches, memorial services and rallies. Led by a purple and black banner reading, "Pray for the Dead—And Fight Like Hell for the Living," thousands of miners and supporters marched through the small Kentucky coal town.

Out-of-state miners had begun arriving in Harlan Wednesday night for the march and rally.

Later in the afternoon, Miller told a rally that the union is taking a new hard line in achieving its goals.

"I want to put those who object to our way on notice that our tolerance is gone," he said. "Things have changed—and as far as the mining industry is concerned, the change is for the better," Miller said.

The UMW president promised that "coal will be mined safely or not at all."

An estimated 115,000 of the nation's coal miners in a dozen states have been affected by the week-long shutdown.

The work stoppage will cost the nation about nine million tons of badly needed coal, according to estimates by the Bituminous Coal Operators' Association, the industry group that negotiates with the UMW. It said the miners will lose about $25 million in wages.

Man Pleads For Life But Thugs Kill Him Anyway

NEW YORK (AP) — Anthony Chiarantano, 39-year-old father of six, told four knife-wielding thugs who dragged him from his car that they could have his money if they spared his life. They took his seven dollars and killed him anyway, police said.

Chiarantano, a telephone company foreman, had just returned home from a family vacation and was driving a rented car alone on a dark street in Brooklyn's Brownsville slum, a mile and a half from his home.

Police said he apparently was on his way to return the car.

The four young thugs stopped the car somehow, dragged Chiarantano from it and marched him into a darkened alleyway at about 1:20 a.m. Thursday, police said.

There they stabbed him eight times in the neck, chest and stomach. Police said several knives were used. Chiarantano's screams roused neighbors, who told police they heard him urge his assailants to spare his life but "take my money."

At least one neighbor called police, but it was too late. Witnesses told police the culprits were four men in their late teens or early 20s. A 19-year-old who lives nearby, Leon Harris, was arrested on murder and robbery charges.

Chiarantano, president of his neighborhood block association in Flatbush, was described by one neighbor, Salvatore Simon, as "a friendly guy and a damn good father."

One project he was working on was an attempt to get an empty lot converted into a baseball diamond.

"We need more people like him to take an interest in kids and see that they go straight," said another friend.

Newspaper Takes Milder Approach

YORBA LINDA, Calif. (AP) — The newspaper in former President Richard M. Nixon's hometown has decided to compromise and use the slogan "Birthplace of our 37th President," dropping Nixon's name.

Publisher Ed Kelly said he had received hundreds of complaints after announcing that he was removing the previous slogan, "The Birthplace of President Nixon," from his Yorba Linda Star.

"A lot of the comments were pretty objective, and brought up a good point," Kelly said on Thursday. "They felt that we were putting down the community as well as Nixon."

"We thought about that quite a bit and agree that we didn't want to do anything like that. So we decided on the slogan as sort of a middle-of-the-road approach."

CRMWD Water Deliveries Up 24.39 Per Cent

BIG SPRING — Through July, water deliveries by the Colorado River Municipal Water District were up 24.39 per cent, but revenues were up by less than four per cent.
—The July revenue statement of the district shows 12,006,838 gallons delivered to all customers for the first seven months of the year, up 2,352,000,000 gallons.
Revenues for the seven months totaled $3,093,119 up $118,000 from a year ago.
Part of the story is told in revenues from municipal customers who get the cheapest water while using the most. Municipalities paid $1,880,462, up $165,677 over the previous year, but their consumption of 7,712,279 gallons was 22.50 per cent or 1,461,283,000 gallons for the period.
Oil and industrial customers, which pay a substantially higher price for water, used less and as a consequence, the $1,167,673 they paid for the seven months was down by $62,000.
Recreational facilities revenues produced $43,165 through July, up $13,000 from a year ago.
Under the rate formula, member cities of the district pay a monthly fixed charge, plus six cents per thousand gallons.

The museum is open from 2-5 p.m. on Sundays and from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. all other days.

Public Tv's New Season Set Oct. 6

By JAY SHARBUIT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The three tv networks start their 1974-75 season Sept. 9 with a flamboyant exercise called "premiere week," when they roll out their smash movies, new series and new episodes of returning series.
Not so with Public Tv. Its new season won't start until Oct. 6, according to Public Broadcasting Service officials.
A major reason for the traditionally delayed start, says John Montgomery, PBS' vice president for programming, is that in September the bulk of the tv audience always is tuned in to see what the networks are offering.
When PBS' new season does start, you might not even realize it.
Unlike the networks' frantic, go-for-rich first week, the PBS season tends to stagger in without much urgency, with a handful of brand-new shows on the opening week's bill and others arriving as late as April.
But if Montgomery had his druthers, would he prefer to start the season with a solid block of new shows instead of stringing their premieres out over a period of months?
"Well, I guess there's a lot to be said for establishing viewer habits," Montgomery said. "I'd say yes, if it was a series that was worthy of that kind of continuity."

"But when you consider that a great many of our programs have limited interest at best, such as 'Burglar-Proofing' — a new six-part series on how to foil thieves — then you have to raise the question whether they warrant that kind of continuity."
In the new PBS national program cooperative, stations are for the first time helping pay for national shows they once received free. Montgomery said they've helped pay for more than 60 per cent of this season's shows, putting $4 million "of station money into national programming we would not otherwise have."
And, he said, "in the past we used to build our schedule in three-month segments. This time, we can lay it out rather completely for nine months."

Fish, Chips Shops Closing In London

LONDON (AP) — Seven hundred of Britain's 12,000 fish and chip shops are closing every year because of the soaring price of fish and competition from American and Chinese take-away food parlors, says a market survey ordered by the fish and chip trade.

Presidential Aide Says Gas Tax Hike Only Under Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration is considering a 10-cent-per-gallon boost in the federal excise tax on gasoline as a possible anti-inflation move, officials say.

"This is one of those proposals under consideration along with many, many others," White House Press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst told reporters Thursday in confirming published reports about a possible tax boost.

The excise tax is currently 4 cents a gallon, and nationwide surveys show that the average cost of gasoline now is 55.8 cents a gallon.

No Immediate Plans

TerHorst and Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said President Ford has no immediate plans to ask Congress for a tax increase now. And Capitol Hill sources also said it was unlikely that Congress would enact such a tax boost in an election year.

TerHorst was asked to comment on a Los Angeles Times report that Ford may seek the gasoline-tax increase to fight inflation and conserve energy.

"The President and his economic advisers are reviewing a whole range of possible ideas and recommendations," he said. "This is one of those proposals under study."

Simon said a gasoline tax boost has been discussed periodically since February 1973, "but it's only been one of many issues that's been discussed in the area of tax policy."

Sources reported that a detailed study of such a boost is still in the preliminary stage at the sub-Cabinet level.

The Times quoted unidentified administration officials as saying that higher gasoline taxes could reduce consumption by as much as 5 per cent, thus

Soldier No-Billed In Alleged Threat On Life Of Nixon

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Allen Lee Schwulst, 23, of Milwaukee, Wis., was released from the Bexar County jail Thursday after federal charges of threatening the life of former President Nixon were dismissed.

Schwulst, who was arrested and charged in March, was no-billed by a federal grand jury and the U.S. attorney, apparently acting in response to the grand jury action, requested U.S. Magistrate Frank Baskin to dismiss the charges.

Schwulst had been accused of giving an oral and written statement in the presence of a U.S. Secret Service agent in which he threatened Nixon.

According to federal officials, Schwulst was absent without leave from an Oregon Army post when he was arrested at the San Antonio International Airport.

Veterans Urged To Pre-Register At Midland College

Area veterans are reminded they may still pre-register for classes at Midland College and apply for Veterans Administration benefits, according to Mrs. Terry Nabl, MC's veterans' affairs director.

She said although it is too late to make an application for advance payment, veterans may apply now and expect their checks within a month.

Mrs. Nabl also reminded of extended benefits provided by legislation passed in recent months. Veterans who were discharged between January 1955 and May 1966 have had their benefits extended through May 1975, thus providing an additional two years.

Veterans discharged after May 1966 are eligible as a result of the legislation, for benefits for 10 years.

The VA office on campus will remain open by appointment until 7 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday "to discuss educational benefits with prospective new applicants and re-entering students."

Apartment Fire

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — It took firemen more than an hour to control flames which broke out about 10 p.m. in the La Fiesta Apartments on San Antonio's north side. District Fire Chief A. L. Herrera estimated the damage at $10,000. There were no injuries.

Pension Reform Measure Sent To President Ford

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill giving much stronger protection to members of private pension plans has been sent to President Ford, climaxing years of work by Congress.

The Senate on Thursday passed the compromise version 85-0. The House had cleared it on Tuesday 407-2.

Ford has indicated he will sign the bill when a ceremony can be arranged for the congressional sponsors to attend.

The bill seeks to guarantee that 35 million to 40 million persons covered by the plans get the retirement benefits they had expected.

Congressional studies showed most plans worked satisfactorily but that thousands of persons never received promised benefits.

Self-Employed Persons — The measure also provides new tax incentives to self-employed persons to improve their own pension programs and for employees to set up individual programs when their companies do not have a plan.

Sponsors said it was a major step in improving the pension system but conceded they would like to see further progress.

Some critics have said the measure is inadequate because it would not require firms to set up pension plans or raise present payments.

East Dallas Bank Robber Escapes With $3,000 Plus

DALLAS (AP) — Three women-tellers handed over more than $3,000 to a gun-pointing robber Thursday at the East Dallas Bank, police reported.

Witnesses told officers the bandit, wearing dark glasses, strode into the bank during the noon hour while the lobby was nearly empty and forced his victims to put the money in a paper sack.

Police said a stolen car used in the stickup was found in a nearby alley soon afterward. The bank is in the Casa View shopping center.

About half the U.S. work force now is covered by plans. The average payment is approximately $141 a month.

Major provisions of the bill: Eligibility — All employees would have to be admitted to a pension plan, if the company has one, at age 25 and after one year of service.

Vesting (an employee's guaranteed right to a pension after a specified period of service) — The company would have to adopt one of three alternatives under which the employee would have 100 per cent vested rights after being on the payroll no longer than 15 years.

Funding — Employers would have to put sufficient amounts into pension funds in the future to meet pension liabilities incurred each year. To make up for any deficits for past service, employers would have to make annual payments so that full funding would be achieved in 30 years, or 40 years in a few cases.

Portability — A voluntary portability plan would be set up under which an employee changing jobs could have his vested credits transferred to his new employer. Alternatively, the plans credits could be transferred to a new government corporation which would establish separate accounts for individual workers.

Plan Termination Insurance — A new government corporation would be set up to pay benefits when a company went out of business and its pension fund lacked sufficient assets or when a fund in a going concern could not meet its obligations.

Payments would be limited to 100 per cent of the average monthly wage in a recipient's five highest-paid years or $750 a month, whichever is lower.

Initial financing would be from a $1 per participant annual tax for most employers.

Self-employed Persons — Doctors, lawyers and other self-employed persons would be allowed to put up to 15 per cent of income, up to a maximum of $7,500 a year, in tax-exempt funds into their own pension plans. Presently, they are limited to 10 per cent or $2,500.

Tax incentives for individual employees not in private pension plans would permit the employing jobs could have his vested credits transferred to his new tax-exempt funds into their own employer. Alternatively, the plans

Call For Conference Seen As Soviet Influence Ploy

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
(An AP News Analysis)

Moscow's proposal for an 18-nation conference on Cyprus is a Soviet ploy to get a foot in the door.

The Soviet statement cited the "special responsibility for the maintenance of international peace and security" of the five permanent members of the United Nations Security Council. The Soviet Union, of course, is one of those, with the United States, China, France and Britain.

The Soviet problem is that the United States is all too prominent in the search for a solution and there seems no room for the Russians. The problem involves two American allies, members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Greece and Turkey, plus Britain as a guarantor with Greece and Turkey of the 1960 Cyprus treaty that made the island at least nominally independent.

Soviet diplomacy seems to regard Cyprus as an important part in a much bigger picture that involves the whole Middle East. The Soviet press has been complaining that there would have been no Cyprus problem had not NATO plotted to impinge on the island's independence to insure the future of two British nuclear bases there.

Obviously, if possible, the Russians would like to bring about a situation wherein those bases were untenable. After all, Cyprus is only 100 or so miles off the Syrian-Lebanese coast and only a short distance from Egypt and the Suez Canal, and thus its geography involves it in Soviet strategic thinking.

What had existed on Cyprus had been satisfactory for the time being to Moscow, which could regard the "presidential rule" of Archbishop Makarios as neutral and perhaps even leaning East a bit.

The Archbishop was overthrown in a coup which would have joined Cyprus to a Greece ruled by a military dictatorship. But that backfired in July and toppled the Greek general's junta. Turkey invaded Cyprus to protect the Turkish minority.

At first Moscow encouraged the Turks to feel they could call on the Russians for help if needed. But with the fall of the generals, Moscow seemed to see a chance for gain on two sides of the fence and turned extremely cautious, blaming neither Greeks nor Turks and confining itself to belaboring NATO as the real villain.

But, to Moscow's annoyance, its participation is not needed in the Cyprus peace quest any more than is a big power conference. The guarantor powers can reach a settlement if they have the will.

It seems clear that the conference the Russians seek would accomplish little but to muscle Moscow's way into the negotiations and perhaps hinder more than help them.

Can modern man do without religion?

Not if religion is "... the conviction that ... between the way one ought to live and the way things really are, there is an unbreakable interconnection." (Clifford Geertz). For when this interconnection is broken, there is a break at the innermost core of our being.

Members of the Unitarian Universalist religious community are dedicated to healing that breach. It is, they believe, an effort each must make for him or herself ... but which is more likely to succeed—and far less lonely—when it is made in the company of others who share these hopes.

NEW CURRICULUM — It may be called just a letter of understanding, but it opens the way for a merger of Midland College and the American Institute of Banking in creating an associate degree in banking and finance. Robert Southerland, seated, AIB chapter president, studies the form along with Dr. Raymond Yell, MC associate academic dean, left, and Wayne Holcomb, director of the mid-management program.

MC, American Institute Of Banking To Offer Associate Degree Program

Robert D. SHORTHAND CLASSES—

College Considers Income Tax Course

Fannie Reeves, chairman of the Business Administration department at Midland College, announced today that she is considering offering a class in income tax accounting for students who wish to build their skills in this area.

Reeves said the class would be offered beginning Tuesday for interested students. She said the class in income tax accounting would be created by combining shorthand skills with typing skills and transcription demonstrated by Gary Brummer, a student who has been employed by the college.

SIMULATED EMERGENCY— Communications Drill Slated Here Saturday

Midland City-County Emergency Operations Center in Austin announced today that a simulated emergency communications drill will be held here Saturday.

The drill will include several problems dealing with communications between the Midland and Odessa Emergency Operations Centers. The Midland center is located in the police department headquarters while the Odessa facility is housed in the Odessa City Hall.

Meurer said that several light aircraft will be put into the air to work as spotting units during the drill. Their direct communications will be channeled through the Odessa emergency center and passed along the communications line to the Midland base by radio.

The purpose of the drill is to examine air-to-ground and base-to-base operating procedures in case of major failures in other West Texas systems in times of emergency.

The Texas RACES network has been assigned the mission of providing back up communications between three Civil Air Patrol search and air rescue bases located in Odessa, Waco and Conroe along with the State Department of the Permian Basin Chapter of the American Institute of Banking (AIB), and students will receive instruction from Dr. Marshall Box, Midland College occupational and technical dean, have announced the signing of a letter of understanding to affiliate the two organizations in offering an associate degree in banking and finance through the college.

Although the program begins with the fall semester it is not listed in the catalogue since approval from the Texas Education Agency (TEA) came after the book went to press.

The MIC-AIB agreement insures that the college will award credit hours for the successful completion of the course of study, while AIB will retain the right to select course offerings, classroom location and instructor selection.

Currently more than 200 "letters of understanding" such as the one with MC are in effect throughout the United States. Traditionally, the AIB student receives only AIB credit for work completed.

New Curriculum Due to the MC-AIB affiliation, the college has established a new curriculum which offers English courses to provide more effective communications at all levels, management courses to use effectively the human resources within the bank, economics, accounting and secretarial courses.

Liberal arts classes will be held at MC, taught by college instructors. Specific bank courses, however, such as bank investments, installment lending, analyzing financial statements, principles of bank operation and other allied courses will be taught by qualified bank personnel accredited by MC and TEA.

Fall Instructors Listed as instructors for the fall semester are Larry Melton, Wayne Merritt, Richard Monroe and Robert Southerland. Classes will meet in the Midland banks until permanent college facilities are complete.

Members of the Advisory Committee are Southerland, Commercial Bank and Trust Co., Gordon Hogue, Wanza Sands and Judy Gully, The Midland National Bank; Larry Melton and Jody Hale, The First National Bank; Charles Danley, Western State Bank, and Wayne Holcomb, Midland College.

A special registration for banking employees is slated for 2-5 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday at First National Bank.

Regular registration will be run from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m., 4807 Andrews Hwy. Late registration, for which a late fee is charged, is Sept. 4-18.

Contact Mrs. Nabi Further information may be obtained through Southerland or Camal C. Dakil, MC dean of students. Persons desiring information about veterans benefits are urged to contact Mrs. Terry Nabi, also at the college.

Southerland, who is vice president of Commercial Bank and Trust Co. as well as AIB chapter president, said the affiliation with MC coincides with the Permian Basin Chapter's commemoration of the 75th anniversary of AIB's founding.

The objective of the anniversary celebration, Southerland said, "is to build better banking understanding and appreciation for the AIB as an educational division of the American Bankers Association."

Last year 158 members of the Permian Basin area AIB enrolled in classroom study.

Rangers Clip Orioles, 6-2

By The Associated Press
Billy Martin, the fiery and sometimes feisty manager of the Texas Rangers, isn't ready yet to talk about next year.

After the Rangers beat the Baltimore Orioles 6-2 Thursday night and moved two games over the .500 mark, Martin was asked how much the Rangers needed to become contenders.

Martin started to answer, but then cut himself short. "We can make a run at the pennant this year," he said. "We've seven games behind, and we have seven games left with Oakland. We can beat them, too."

"Nobody believed me last spring when I said we'd be contenders," Martin recalled. "They all laughed. Maybe they'll listen next time."

In the only other American League baseball game Thursday, the Kansas City Royals dropped the Cleveland Indians 3-1. No National League teams were scheduled.

Texas, which Martin took over last Sept. 1 after being released by the Detroit Tigers, finished last in the Western Division with a 57-105 record.

The team finally seems to have shaken its losing feeling.

Pitcher Ferguson Jenkins, new to the American League this season, won his 18th game with two innings of relief from Steve Foucault.

Toby Harrah slammed a three-run homer during a five-run rally in the fourth inning which chased Jim Palmer.

Royals 2, Indians 1

At Cleveland, Kansas City pitcher Paul Splittorff had a shutout going into the ninth inning, but the Indians' Joe Lis spoiled it with a solo homer.

Splittorff, now 13-12, said he was just happy that the Royals got the win, because it puts them only four-and-a-half games behind the American League's Western Division-leading Oakland A's.

The Royals scored two runs in the fourth on Amos Otis' two-run homer. It was his 12th of the season. Vada Pinson preceded the shot with a single.

Hal McRae added another roundtripper off loser Jim Perry, 18-9, in the ninth.

SIX OFFENSIVE STARTERS BACK—

Rankin Loaded For 'Bear'

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
R-T Sports Writer

RANKIN Dave Campbell's respected "Texas Football" magazine probably doesn't sell very well in Rankin. It seems that Campbell is stuck on the Baltimore Bears again this year, but if the Red Devils don't win the District 6-A title for the third year in a row, there will be some turning of heads.

Baltimore went into the final as always optimistic about his game of the year with Rankin team's chances has special last season with a perfect 9-0 mark in what was supposed to be a battle for the district crown starters and four defensive and a high state ranking on stalwarts back from that same line. The Bears came away regional championship squad, with a humiliating 41-6 loss to Most coaches would be turning the Devils and Rankin was cartwheels, and Turner is no different—he has the market cornered.

The main reason for optimism comes from a pair of highly touted backs that have already proven their worth in playoff and district competition.

Fullback Donnie Cole (176, Jr.) is probably one of the hardest runners in Class A football and sprinkle in quarterback Eric Fitzhugh (174, Sr.) and there is reason to smile. Fitzhugh had the signal calling job a year ago and proved to be a master of the pass as well as running.

Turner's explosive Split-T formation.

But depth in the backfield doesn't stop there, however, because halfback Ernest Black (153, Sr.) was great in the playoffs last year and owns speed and better size than a year ago. The newcomer in the backfield will be wingback Randy Schmitz (151, Sr.) and he promises to fill in nicely.

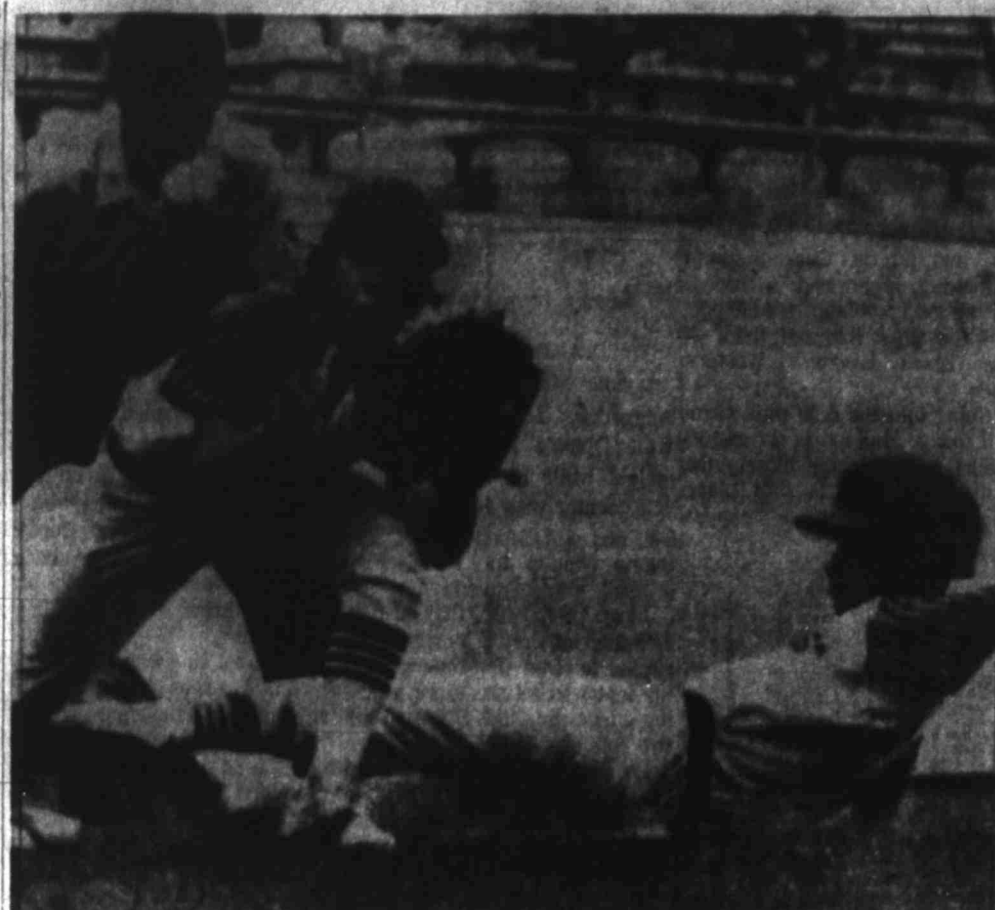

Split end Freddy Plagens (154, Sr.) will be back to latch on to some Fitzhugh aeriels and Gary Dupriest (151, Sr.) will be at the other end slot.

The tackles will be very strong with Alan Speed (220, Sr.) and Mark Parker (166, Sr.) returning, and the guards should be steady with the aggressive Curtis Copeland (151, Sr.) and Richard Loftin (156, Sr.) in the lineup. Mark Russom (164, Sr.) will replace all-district center Asa Rhodes, who was a mainstay at center for two years at Rankin.

Safety Black, defensive end Speed, linebacker David Turner and guard Copeland return to the defense to give strength in virtually all areas of play. Clarke Turner (141, Soph.) will join Black in the backfield while Hilton Luckie (167, Soph.) and Kevin Vickers (162, Soph.) will give aid to David Turner at the linebacker positions.

The corners will be manned by Plagens and Bobby Johnson (152, Sr.) while Loftin will double at guard. Speed and David Wilkerson (162, Sr.) will be the defensive ends.

The defense may not be as strong as last year. The Devils gave up only 63 points in the first 10 games, but Turner says his offense will be better than a year ago. Rankin amassed 320 points over the first 10 games last year with 260 points coming in district play. If the

Palmer In Westchester Race

By BOB GREEN

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — A two-foot putt that wouldn't drop—followed immediately by an 18-inch putt that missed—kept Arnold Palmer from sole possession of first place in the $250,000 Westchester Golf Classic.

The 44-year-old Palmer, who has won but one individual title since taking the Westchester title in 1971, three-putted from two feet in Thursday's first round, but still got out with a 68.

That's four under par on the 6,614-yard Westchester Country Club course and just one shot back of the group of four tied for the lead at 67. They were former Tommy Aaron, Miller Barber, Dale Douglass, and Larry Ziegler.

"I was not happy," said a grim-faced Palmer after his almost incredible three-putt that cost him a double bogey on his sixth hole.

He came up short with his approach shot, then chipped up to two feet.

SWC To Hit Field

By The Associated Press
There's a little extra fervor in Texas Tech's conditioning drills in sweat suits and helmets because Coach Jim Carlen says the Red Raiders face the toughest opener they've had since he has been in Lubbock.

Carlen says of Iowa State, "They're a good Big Eight team... real physical and as big as anybody we'll play this year. It's our toughest opener."

Tech hosts Iowa State Sept. 14.

Carlen says the Red Raiders will strap on full battle gear Monday and get with it because "We've lost more football players than we've ever lost since we've been here. We lost more than any two teams together in the league."

Carlen says the Red Raiders have been holding mid-day workouts because "We play Texas at 12:50 p.m. in Lubbock and we play Texas A&M at 3 p.m. in College Station."

Texas Christian Coach Jim Shofner greeted 127 candidates Thursday and said the squad was in excellent shape overall.

"I feel that they (the players) are as excited as our coaching staff about trying to prove all those pre-season polls wrong," Shofner said.

"Needless to say we don't have a lot of depth but I feel that by the time the season opens we'll be able to challenge anyone we play."

TCU has generally been relegated to the cellar in pre-season polls.

Shofner announced that junior college transfer Jim Gillespie, the No. 2 quarterback in spring training behind Lee Cook, had flunked out. A third quarterback, Steve Vest, has a head injury from a summer accident and can't practice for six weeks.

Aces, Caps Split Pair

By The Associated Press

Shreveport's Captains and the Alexandria Aces split a Texas League doubleheader Thursday night, with Shreveport taking the first game 1-0 and Alexandria the second 5-4.

The only run of the first game came when the leadoff batter in the fifth inning singled, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Sammy Mejias' single.

In the nightcap a solo homer of Rick Oliver led off the second inning, but the Aces scored on a second inning double by Bill Almon and an error by Shreveport right fielder Kent Jacobsen. Two more runs came on a fifth inning double by Bob Pollock. Then Marc Rhea and Jerry Turner both singled.

Elsewhere in the league, Amarillo and San Antonio remained tied for second in the West Division due to a postponement. Victoria sneaked past Arkansas 4-3 in 10 innings while Midland swept a doubleheader with El Paso 4-0 and 2-1.

Victoria beat Arkansas on a couple of wild pitches by losing pitcher Mike Proby. Ron Diggle scored the Toros' winning run by doubling and after two walks crossing the plate on a sixth inning wild pitch.

Travelers pitcher Harry Rasmussen had a no-hitter going for five innings until a two-run homer by Carlos Sagredo and a solo shot by Ron Diggle.

Tonight it's San Antonio at Amarillo, El Paso at Midland, Arkansas at Victoria and Alexandria at Shreveport.

Two 1973 lettermen were missing—defensive end David Gregg, a junior from Houston who is scholastically ineligible, and Ronnie Webb, a senior from Baytown, who passed up his final year.

The Texas Longhorns opened with two-day workouts scheduled.

Coach Darrell Royal said it was "a typical first-day workout. Everybody was enthusiastic. They were rusty in spots. It will take several days to get the rust off and get sore."

Texas A&M football coach Emory Bellard was pleased with the first two fall practices of the 1974 season as 110 players reported.

"I thought we had a real good first day," Bellard said. "It's just a pleasure to start with a group of players who know what they are doing. We took up right where we left off last spring. We're not the finished product yet, but the players can practice what they know instead of spending all the time learning."

SMU began fall football workouts Thursday and Mustang Coach Dave Smith said his team looked like they hadn't missed a day since spring training ended.

"It was a very excellent first practice," said the second year SMU coach. "The team was prepared mentally and it was very apparent they were prepared physically. We had a great spring and it looks like the momentum has carried over into our fall workouts."

Exhibition Slate

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

More than a few paychecks will be on the line in this weekend's National Football League exhibition games.

With only three weekends of exhibition action left until the regular season begins, coaches around the league will soon have to do some wholesale rostering—and this weekend's action will go a long way in determining just who gets pared.

Many veterans will get their first extensive game action since reporting to camp under the NFL Players Association's two-week cooling-off period Aug. 14. Most were used sparingly last week.

For the rookies and free agents who held the fort until the veterans arrived, this could be one last chance to show what they can do. The 14-day strike cooling off period ends Tuesday, but if the veterans do not leave camp then, some of the rookies will have to.

Joe Namath is expected to make his debut tonight when the New York Jets visit St. Louis to face the Cardinals.

Three games will be nationally televised: Miami, 2-1, at Los Angeles, 2-1, Saturday on NBC; Buffalo, 2-2, at Minnesota, 0-2, Sunday on CBS, and Detroit, 1-2, at Cincinnati, 3-0, Monday on ABC.

Saturday night's other games have the New York Giants, 2-1, at Pittsburgh, 3-0; Philadelphia, 0-3, at Oakland, 3-0; Denver, 2-1, at Green Bay, 3-0; Dallas, 2-1, at New Orleans, 0-3; New England, 2-1, at San Diego, 2-1; Washington, 0-3, at Cleveland, 1-2, and San Francisco, 0-3, at Kansas City, 1-2.

Two other games will be played Monday night: Chicago, 0-3, at Baltimore, 1-1, and Atlanta, 1-3, at Houston, 2-1.

Jets Coach Charley Winner will get a chance to beat the team which let him go in tonight's game. He coached the Cardinals from 1966 through 1970.

Although Dennis Shaw threw for two touchdowns and Gary Keithley one in last week's 46-14 romp over San Diego, veteran Jim Hart is expected to start at quarterback for St. Louis.

The Rams are coming off a very impressive 58-16 thrashing of Kansas City in which they rolled up 517 yards of total offense, including 357 on the ground. Veteran quarterback stars Bob Griese of Miami and John Hadl of Los Angeles will start.

Veteran quarterback Greg Landry is expected to see his first action of the year for Detroit Monday night, against the Bengals.

Financial Troubles Confront Colorado's First Black Mayor

FAIRPLAY, Colo. (AP) — The first elected black mayor in Colorado's history says his biggest challenge is to get the streets paved in this tiny mountain town, founded a century ago by gold miners.

"You can't imagine how many shoes you wear out just walking across the streets," said Ada Evans.

An eight-year resident, Mrs. Evans and her family are the only blacks among the population of 500, many of whom work for the county or state governments.

She won a three-way race for the unsalaried job last April. She said she figured that even though she had attended only one town meeting previously, "if I did win, I'd work to improve things here."

Among her goals, in addition to getting the dusty streets paved, are planning for limited growth, attracting some light industry, possibly annexing some nearby acreage and adding recreational facilities.

But money is the major stumbling block.

"With the economy the way it is, I don't see increasing taxes or putting on any new ones. I know my own personal budget can't take it," she says.

She says she's seeking federal revenue-sharing and other money.

And for her own office in city hall, she'd like to do a little painting and renovating "and see about getting some grass over here in front instead of this gravel."

Gravel is one item Fairplay has plenty of.

Tucked in a valley about 60 miles southwest of Denver, Fairplay nestles about a half-mile below the 14,000-foot peaks of the Rocky Mountains. It was founded a few summers after gold was discovered nine miles to the west in 1862. Now it's the seat of Park County and the site of a restored ghost town.

Mrs. Evans says just because it's tiny doesn't mean the town is insignificant.

"It angers me when people put Fairplay down because it isn't big," she said. "I think that people think that just because a town isn't big it isn't worthwhile, and they want to know what's wrong with you because you live there. Fairplay is very worthwhile."

The mayor, her husband, Ray, and their daughters, Cheryl, 13, and Rachelle, 11, moved here after Evans took a job as music teacher in the school system.

The Evans enjoy the slow-paced life of Fairplay. Both Mrs. Evans and her husband were raised in small Southern towns and have lived in large cities.

"Los Angeles was miserable," the mayor recalls.

There was no immediate word from the White House who might come in to examine the documents.

The former aides are seeking access to the materials in connection with their defense in the Watergate cover-up trial scheduled to begin Sept. 30.

The new policy came after review by White House counsel Philip Buchen.

Buchen was named to that job last week shortly after his predecessor, J. Fred Buzhardt, had joined in issuing an opinion that White House tape recordings and papers belonged to former President Richard M. Nixon.

The cover-up trial had been scheduled for Sept. 9 but on Thursday it was postponed for three weeks.

In seeking a delay, Ehrlichman had claimed in a court filing that his access to his papers at the White House had been cut off by Buchen.

The Taberner Agency in Birmingham suspended operations Thursday pending an inquiry into its finances. The agency operated Solair Holidays, which sold low-priced trips to Vancouver and Toronto via Monarch Airlines.

The line said it would not operate any more flights for the agency, and Taberner said this stranded about 800 Britons in North America. The British Travel Agents Association said it would arrange to get them home at no extra cost.

Last week the association had to make arrangements for more than 50,000 Britons stranded abroad when the giant Court Line package-tour enterprise collapsed after months of financial troubles. Another 150,000 who paid for Court tours they didn't get are demanding their money back.

But the New Democrats, the chief opposition party, called for abandonment of two other decrees that the president issued between January and April of this year. The smaller Democratic Unification party urged amnesty for the 171 persons convicted under the canceled decrees and the release from custody of those awaiting trial.

Presidential spokesman Kim Seong-jin said repeal of the decrees will not affect cases that are still pending.

At this time the FAA has said that $4 million is available, but that money has not been definitely given to us yet. If the money does not come through, city officials noted.

Earlier this week, engineering specialists from the FAA were at the air facility to check out the possibility of cutting various items from the proposal, but according to city officials the FAA saw first hand that the paving proposals had already been trimmed as far as possible.

The FAA people agreed that all items included in the paving project had to remain, and also said that if the projects did not start soon we are going to lose the whole thing (runways), city officials noted.

Justice of the Peace J. A. Purdy held an inquiry, withholding a ruling pending the results of an autopsy. Which later indicated death from natural causes.

White House Files Open To Former Nixon Aides

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House will permit former top aides to President Nixon to examine their White House files beginning this afternoon, a spokesman said.

Access to the papers by such former top White House aides as John D. Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman had been cut off in the waning days of the Nixon administration.

The Taberner Agency in Birmingham suspended operations Thursday pending an inquiry into its finances. The agency operated Solair Holidays, which sold low-priced trips to Vancouver and Toronto via Monarch Airlines.

The line said it would not operate any more flights for the agency, and Taberner said this stranded about 800 Britons in North America. The British Travel Agents Association said it would arrange to get them home at no extra cost.

Last week the association had to make arrangements for more than 50,000 Britons stranded abroad when the giant Court Line package-tour enterprise collapsed after months of financial troubles. Another 150,000 who paid for Court tours they didn't get are demanding their money back.

But the New Democrats, the chief opposition party, called for abandonment of two other decrees that the president issued between January and April of this year. The smaller Democratic Unification party urged amnesty for the 171 persons convicted under the canceled decrees and the release from custody of those awaiting trial.

Presidential spokesman Kim Seong-jin said repeal of the decrees will not affect cases that are still pending.

At this time the FAA has said that $4 million is available, but that money has not been definitely given to us yet. If the money does not come through, city officials noted.

Earlier this week, engineering specialists from the FAA were at the air facility to check out the possibility of cutting various items from the proposal, but according to city officials the FAA saw first hand that the paving proposals had already been trimmed as far as possible.

The FAA people agreed that all items included in the paving project had to remain, and also said that if the projects did not start soon we are going to lose the whole thing (runways), city officials noted.

Ford's Transition Team Wants Open Administration

By STAN BENJAMIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's transition team has urged him to downgrade the Office of Management and Budget and enlarge his circle of domestic advisers, trading in Richard M. Nixon's tight policy circle for a more open administration.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton, a member of the four-man transition team, said in an interview on Thursday that it recommended:

—Stripping OMB of its policy-making role, leaving its budget-managing functions on a par with the functions and influence of other agencies and departments.

—Expanding to about six the number of top presidential advisers, to include Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger plus advisers on budget, domestic policy, economics, personnel and the President's legal counsel. This enlarged circle could include a place for the vice president, Morton suggested.

—Reducing the size of the White House staff, although no specific target was established.

—Making the secretary of the Treasury the "dominant spokesman" on economic matters and assigning to the Council of Economic Advisers a role more limited to economic analysis.

Morton said he believed Ford probably would want to review cabinet and agency assignments and might make some changes by the end of October, but he said the transition team made no recommendations concerning appointments to top jobs.

On Ford's transition team with Morton were former Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, White House aide John O. Marsh and NATO Ambassador Donald Rumsfeld.

During the Nixon administration, domestic policy issues were largely settled by, or at least filtered through, OMB director Roy L. Ash, presidential domestic adviser John D. Ehrlichman and White House staff chief H. R. Haldeman.

Ehrlichman and Haldeman resigned last year as a result of the Watergate scandal. Ash remained as the head of OMB but is rumored to be marked for eventual replacement by someone of Ford's choosing.

In the Nixon administration there were reports that cabinet members and agency heads felt cut off from policy making.

As Morton explained the transition team's recommendations to Ford, the team felt that OMB was "maybe not sufficiently challenged."

"A better balance between the OMB and the domestic advisers is essential if you're going to have the openness and cabinet participation that the President (Ford) expressed a desire to have."

Morton said the President "needs to know that (policy) options have been fully challenged from every point of view... to make sure that you just have not got a one-man sort of rule over the whole thing, and that one man being the director of one agency, like the OMB."

He said the changes recommended would provide "a little broader-based input that I think will better fit Mr. Ford's style as President."

Cotton Stocks May Be Tight In Fall, Agriculture Unit Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cotton

stocks may be tight this fall, the Agriculture Department says. Its new situation report shows beginning stocks, production and especially demand all down for the 1974-75 cotton year.

Total supply was placed at about 16.3 million bales in the report issued Thursday by the Outlook and Situation Board. The total is down slightly from last season's 17.2 million.

Based on estimates Aug. 1, at the start of the season, the crop should total about 12.75 million bales, slightly below the year before, but about 1 million bales above the average of the last five years.

Wet weather in the northern Mississippi River Delta and severe drought on the Texas High Plains cut into the crop prospects, the board said.

About 2.8 million of the 3.5 million bales carried over three weeks ago have already been sold for export, the board said, leaving only 2.7 million for domestic mills until the new crop is available in significant quantity.

Sluggish demand both in this country and abroad should mean less cotton use in the coming year than in 1973-74, when it was the greatest in seven years.

Most of the drop is expected in export sales, however, with domestic mill consumption expected to remain in the 7 million to 7.5 million range.

Exports last season were about 6.3 million bales and are expected to drop to between 4.75 million and 5.25 million bales, the board said. Large inventories abroad and larger new foreign supplies are the cause, it said.

The carryover from 1973-74 was 4.1 million bales.

In the fields, the report continued, almost 10 per cent of the cotton plantings have been abandoned. The 14.25 million acres planted already were 5 per cent below March intentions.

That leaves 13 million acres for harvest, 9 per cent above last season.

Yields are also down by 30 pounds an acre to an indicated national average of 470 pounds, the board said.

Sections Of Plains Hit By Wind, Hail And Rain

By The Associated Press

Wind, hail and rain pounded parts of the Plains today as scattered thundershowers hit much of the nation.

Winds gusted at more than 70 miles per hour in Chadron, Neb., where hail covered the ground.

Two inches of rain fell in dry Lubbock, Tex., in six hours—the most in two years. Low areas in Texas' Big Bend National Park were flooded.

Oelrichs, S.D., sloshed in 4 inches of rain Thursday night and inch-thick hail hit Rapid City.

Heavy rains also soaked Amarillo, Tex.; Columbia, Mo.; and Cape Hatteras, N.C.

Thundershowers stretched from the Rockies to the Mississippi Valley and along the Gulf and Atlantic coasts.

Fog overhung the Pacific Coast, parts of New England and the Ohio Valley.

But clear skies favored most of the country west of the Rockies.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 42 at Grand Forks, N.D., to 90 at Blythe and Needles, Calif.
