Better Arms Shipped West Berlin Forces

Yanks Back On French Soil Again

CHERBOURG, France (UPI)—The Yanks returned to France today.
Two thousand serious-faced American soldiers arrived at this historic port through which passed tens of thousands of Doughboys of World War I and GI Joes of World War II.
They were the vanguard of 40,000 troops President Kennedy has ordered to beef up America's five battle-ready divisions facing the Red army in Germany and the vital communications lines that support them.
Five hundred of them came ashore from the transport Gen. Simon Buckner when it docked at Cherbourg's maritime station. The ship was due to leave later in the day taking the other 1,500 to Bremerhaven, Germany.
The soldiers—first from America to land at Cherbourg since 1945—lined the rails as the gray-painted transport eased slowly into the dock. A French band played "The Star Spangled Banner" and the "Marseillaise."
Many of the soldiers, who had been laughing and kidding, became suddenly serious. The anemones seemed to bring home to them that this was not a pleasure cruise, not a junket but something that could be deadly serious—the real thing.
There were no flags on the dock, no large cheering crowds. Just a small waiting official delegation and perhaps a couple of score of spectators.

Police Transfer Plan Protested By German Reds

BERLIN (UPI)—The United States today stockpiled semi-automatic MI rifles for West Berlin border guards despite Communist protests against strengthening this isolated city's military defenses.
U.S. officials said shipments of the weapons to Berlin have been sent for several weeks. The move was taken following heavy pressure from both the West Berlin press and police officials here for better armed border guards.
West Berlin's 12,500 policemen have been carrying only pistols on patrol of the divided city's borders. Communist patrols are equipped with sub-machineguns and other automatic weapons.
Informed sources said the U.S. government would prefer to have West Berlin police patrol the borders and felt they would be able to handle any incidents if they were properly equipped for the job.
One source said the main mission U.S. forces have here is to counter any Soviet or other Communist military threats and not worry about handling water fights and tear-gas grenade attacks by Communist police.
The East German Communist regime Tuesday protested to the Allies against the planned transfer here of West German traffic police.
"The (East German) government points out that the plan to transfer West German police troops to West Berlin is an act of aggression, which the German Democratic Republic will oppose in the interest of security and peace," the protest note said.

U.S., Reds Deadlocked On UN Post

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The United States and the Soviet Union were deadlocked today on the question of a successor to the late Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. There were no arrangements for further talks on the issue by the two powers.
Soviet insistence on the Kremlin's "troika" plan for three assistant secretaries general to act in concert with an interim U.N. chief led to the breakdown of U.S.-Russian consultations late Tuesday.
The United States, which originally supported proposals that the veto-free General Assembly appoint an interim successor to Hammarskjold, planned to continue close consultations with a small-power group of uncommitted countries seeking a way out of the stalemate.
"There was no progress," a U.S. spokesman said after a two-hour, 20-minute meeting involving Soviet Ambassador Valerian A. Zorin, and U.S. Ambassadors Adlai E. Stevenson and Charles W. Yost. "We are disappointed. We appear to have fallen back a little bit."
Both the United States and Russia have found Burma's U Thant "acceptable" for appointment as acting secretary general until April, 1963, when Hammarskjold's term would have expired.

FIREMEN STAGE DOWNTOWN "RESCUE" — Emphasis was placed on Fire Prevention Week this forenoon when Pampa firemen rushed their trucks to the six-story Combs-Worley Bldg. and "rescued" an "injured" man from atop the structure. Shown here being lowered from the "burning" building is Fire Truck Driver A. B. Clark. He had been strapped to a stretcher and was lowered by rope and extension ladder to the sidewalk where he was placed in a fire department emergency truck and taken to the "hospital." The simulated fire and rescue attracted many downtown office workers and shoppers.

Russia Will Seek Berlin Peace Plan, British Told

LONDON (UPI)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko flew off to Moscow today with a pledge that his government will do its best to find a peaceful Berlin solution.
British Foreign Secretary Lord Home said in a speech shortly afterward he believed Gromyko has been convinced that a war over Berlin "must not be allowed to arise."
Despite the optimistic statement, British officials indicated there had been no concrete progress toward a definite solution but that both sides had agreed to keep trying.
Lord Home, speaking to the Conservative party's annual convention in Brighton, made it plain the West will not back down.
The Russian diplomat added that the Soviet Union's "number one choice" was the conclusion of a German peace treaty together with the Western powers.
"Only in the case that there is no agreement" will Russia sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany, he said.
"We do not think an interim settlement would be good. We think a peace treaty must be concluded and signed."

Upswing In Flu Cases Forecast

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Public Health Service is expecting an "upswing" in flu cases this fall and winter.
But a spokesman said today there is no present indication that it will be anything like as severe as the great epidemic that hit this country in 1957.
Accordingly, the Public Health Service is not urging mass vaccination programs for the vast majority of Americans who enjoy ordinary good health.
But it does strongly recommend that flu shots be given as soon as possible to three groups who are particularly vulnerable: persons over 65; pregnant women; and those with heart or lung ailments, diabetes or other chronic diseases.

Rayburn Sinks Into Coma

'Mr Sam' Now Has Pneumonia

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—Cancer-stricken House Speaker Sam Rayburn, 79, developed pneumonia today. The chaplain at Baylor University Medical Center said he is in a coma.
His condition is now considered critical. Physicians, trying to prolong the life of the speaker with a new, experimental drug, had said earlier that they feared a sudden infection.
"Mr. Sam Rayburn's immediate condition has grown more serious during the night," a bulletin issued by his doctors at 10 a.m. said. "He has developed left lobar pneumonia with pleural effusion." His lungs were filling with fluid and draining.
"This diagnosis was made from X-ray examinations completed at 9:30 this morning," the bulletin added. Because of this, his condition is now considered critical.
The change was sudden for Rayburn, though doctors had never doubted that his cancer could be fatal. They had hoped, however, that the new drug being given to him, "5-Fluorouracil," might slow the progress of his malignancy and extend his life for weeks or months.
Physicians were talking hopefully Tuesday of being able to improve his condition sufficiently with the new drug to enable him to spend his last days at his Bonham, Tex., home.
Rayburn has been ailing about a year. Three months ago his back began hurting him severely. He had to leave Congress in session in Washington and return to his Bonham home. He thought he had lumbago.
But suddenly on Oct. 2, his Bonham physician ordered him to Baylor Hospital for exhaustive medical tests.
Last Thursday, examination of a lymph gland taken from his groin showed that he had a far-advanced cancer, probably in his pancreas, and that it had spread through half his body.
Physicians were able to strengthen him sufficiently to eat full meals and sit up in bed to watch the Yankees win the World Series on television.
They used cortisone, which stimulated him and helped prevent the accumulation of poisons. He took three doses of the new drug without side-effects. Then he developed pneumonia.

Space Adventure Will Cost Lives, Scientist Says

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sooner or later an American astronaut will be killed in space. The nation's entire space program could die with him—in a wave of angry public reaction.
The salvation for space exploration at this critical moment, say two U.S. scientists, would be the people's acceptance that men "after all, have been killed in every new development to date."
M. W. Hunter and Eugene B. Konecki of Douglas Aircraft Co. brought up the tough subject of space deaths to about 15,000 fellow engineers and scientists Tuesday at the American Rocket Society's week-long annual convention.
"If we of the U.S.A. permit ourselves to be slowed by the first casualty, it should cause our first real case of panic," Hunter said.
"For it will then be obvious that we have completely lost the pioneering spirit of ancient America, and it will be time to willingly stand aside and let other people take over the leadership of the space adventure."

Republican Club Meets Thursday

The Gray County Republican Club will hold an organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the County Courtroom of the Gray County Courthouse.

Richard Brooks, Amarillo, district chairman of the Young Republicans Club of Texas, will attend the meeting and show a film, "Wake Up America."
Representatives of Republican clubs from Perryton, Borger and Amarillo have been invited. The business session will be followed by a coffee and social hour.
Chairman Norton said today any persons interested in assisting in the organization of the club is invited to the Thursday night meeting.

Draft Board Call Proved Real Worry

BELTSVILLE, Md. (UPI)—Alie Libert Brown of Beltsville fell to worrying Sunday night about how he could make sure to be on time for his draft board physical at 7 a.m. the next day in nearby Hyattsville.
Brown doesn't wake up so easy, and neither does his mother.
He got so worried about it that he went to the Hyattsville jail and asked if he could spend the night, with particular instructions to be awakened early.
They told him that he couldn't stay there unless he was arrested.
Brown started worrying again, but had a splendid idea. He walked over to the draft board and went to sleep on the doorstep.
A policeman came along thought he was drunk and took him back to the jail.
Sure enough, he was up at 7 a.m., but it was 4 p.m. before his case came up in court. Judge George J. O'Hara let him go after Brown explained he was just trying to be punctual.
Now the worrying has started all over again. The draft board said it would make another appointment for Brown, but it would still be at 7 a.m.

Bullet Spat Out By Dallas Woman

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Mrs. Helen Hall, 28, was shot in the face Tuesday night and spat out the bullet with a tooth imbedded in the lead slug.
Police said the bullet, from an old-fashioned 44-40 caliber revolver, struck her between the upper lip and nose.
Her husband, 35, was held in connection with the shooting.

Hike In Police Force Delayed

Police Chief Jim Conner's request to the City Commission Tuesday for at least three more city patrolmen and two additional police cars was tabled for further study. Pampa has 28 police department employees.
Chief Conner's request, which came near the end of the commission's lengthy session, followed a letter to the commission several weeks ago in which five more patrolmen were sought.
Conner told the commission yesterday he would like to have five more employees, but possibly could get along with three. He cited the city's population growth as basis for the request for the additional patrolmen.

Wintery Chill Hits In Area

By United Press International
Flash floods, a tornado and near-cloudbursts struck Texas Tuesday. At least two deaths were blamed on the turbulent weather.
Scattered, light rains fell across Texas today and wintry weather hit the Panhandle. Temperatures dropped to near-freezing levels at some points in the Panhandle. Dense fog blanketed Wichita Falls.
A tornado funnel was sighted in turbulent weather near San Antonio Tuesday by meteorologist Orin Edrington. He said it did not touch ground.
Rising water chased several families from their homes at Gatesville in Central Texas, where the Leon River moved seven feet above flood stage. Rains totaling up to 10 inches in two days were reported on the San Saba River near Menard.
The Austin Weather Bureau said two to five inch rains in the area caused moderate rises in the Pecan Bayou in the Brownwood area and on the middle Colorado and San Saba rivers.
Early today a weak, stationary front was south of Wichita Falls and near Abilene southwestward into the Big Bend country. Along and south of the front skies were partly cloudy to cloudy while to the northwest skies were clear. Fog covered Wichita Falls and some parts of Southeastern Texas. Radar indicated a few thunderstorms along the Red River.
Forecasts called for clear to cloudy weather with no important temperature changes through Thursday.

THE PAMPA MILK FUND

United Fund Agency Serves In Many Ways
EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the sixth in a series of articles dealing with activities of United Fund participating agencies in Pampa. The general drive opens Oct. 24.
The Pampa Milk Fund spends only a small part of your United Fund dollar, but it spends it wisely and well. All of the money received by the Milk Fund is spent for milk. Because of the voluntary help of several people, the overhead for the Milk Fund is absolutely zero. There are no salaries, no office expense, no expense of any kind.
The Milk Fund was first sponsored by the late Ivey E. Duncan, who saw the need for supplementing the diets of hungry children by providing them with at least one pint of milk daily as long as needed. About $2,000 yearly is provided through the United Fund. Memorials and other direct donations supplement the fund from time to time.
Any needy family may apply for milk for their children by contacting the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, or the County Welfare Officer. Upon recommendation of any of these three, (See FUND, Page 3)

Once Mink-Shy Capital Greet $250,000 Show

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Possibly you haven't noticed anything special about this week, but political historians of the future may regard it as being fraught with significance.

They can mark it down that this was the week that the Kennedy administration rehabilitated the mink coat.

Yes, sir, folks, it appears that mink has been restored to good standing in the U. S. capital, which for a number of years probably ranked as the most mink-shy city in the world.

I base this statement on the fact that the Commerce Department this week made its lobby available for an exhibit by the Mutation Mink Breeders Association.

The association set up a display of $250,000 worth of mink coats, jackets, stoles and other wraps, plus several cages containing live minks, whose value was not announced.

Apparently, the Commerce Department does not feel at all uneasy about having minks in its lobby, and that shows how things have changed around here in recent years.

There was a time—remember, Harry?—when the department wouldn't have let a mink within a mile of its premises. Neither would any other government agency for that matter.

During the period of the so-called "influence peddling investigations," government officials and their wives suddenly developed a wholesale aversion to mink coats, even at wholesale.

It took a long time to conquer this outbreak of furphobia, but gradually minks began to come out of storage and now, seemingly, have completely recovered their good name.

They suffered a mild setback last year when Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy let it be known that she didn't much care for mink. But she has kept mum about it since moving into the White House, so no permanent harm was done.

A young woman who helped arrange the mink exhibit told me that a week after Mrs. Kennedy's anti-mink sentiments were published in a magazine, another magazine carried a picture of her wearing one.

My informant said the coat did not appear to fit very well and may not have belonged to Mrs. Kennedy. It is difficult, however, for me to believe that our First Lady ever went out in a borrowed coat.

Be that as it may, the exhibit, apart from its political significance, is filled with fascinating information about minks in both live and coated form.

Plane Hijacker Wants Trial In Another Country

EL PASO (UPI) — Leon Bearden, 38, accused of trying to hijack a jet airliner and flying it to Cuba, said most Americans are so prejudiced and such hypocrites that he cannot get a fair trial and asked that it be moved to a foreign neutral country.

Federal Judge R. E. Thomson said he would rule on Bearden's motion, believed to be the first of its kind ever filed in a United States court, next Monday.

Bearden and his son, Cody, 16, are scheduled to go on trial next Monday for hijacking a Continental Airlines Boeing 707 airliner en route from Phoenix, Ariz., to El Paso, on Aug. 3. The pilot told Bearden he could not fly to Cuba without landing for more fuel. When Bearden and the boy tried to force the pilot to take off again, FBI agents and border patrolmen shot out the tires and one of the engines with rifle and machine gun fire.

Dear Abby...

Decency Is Still Asset, Not Liability

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: When I was young I had to walk home more than once. I am now a widow of 50, and I have found that men are still the same. Whether they are 18 or 80, if they take a woman out to dinner and a show, they think they have rented her for twelve hours. I have been from California to Boston, and down to Texas, and they are all the same all over. The first thing they think of is to make up for everything the poor woman has missed since her husband died. But they aren't interested in marriage. What does a decent woman do? I am my dishes didn't match, so he sent me a new set which must have cost him forty dollars. He met our children, and took them all downtown and bought them new clothes. We had a few bills, and he paid those. He is staying with us, and hands me fifty dollars a week. He buys us turkeys, steaks and chops. I personally think he's off his rocker, but you can't argue with him as he says he has heart trouble. He says he's divorced, and his family doesn't care for him... that he's not a millionaire, but he wants to spend what money he has his own way. He'll go broke, I fear. How should we stop him?

VERY WORRIED
DEAR VERY: Find out something about his background. Your local sheriff or police can help you, if he is just a generous old gent, you are in luck. If he is, indeed, "off his rocker," you could be accused of taking advantage of his condition.

PLAIN DISGUSTED
DEAR PLAIN: She keeps herself busy doing decent things with decent people. She volunteers to help at church, in hospitals, or in politics in her spare time. And she might even attempt to broaden her horizons by taking some courses with other adults. Decency is still an asset, not a liability.

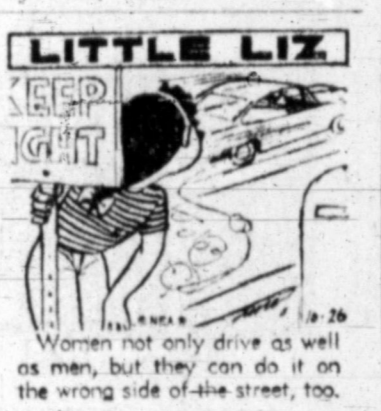

DEAR ABBY: I've got a guy who loves to bowl. He has a reputation for being a very good bowler, but whenever I come to watch him bowl, he is terrible. Now he has started calling me "Jinx." I know he means it as a joke, but I wonder if maybe I am really bad luck to him?

DEAR "JINX": When you are near, he obviously is unable to concentrate on his bowling. But that is probably because he likes you, which is good luck, all the way around.

DEAR ABBY: An elderly man, who claims he knew my husband many years ago, turned up in our town. My husband barely remembers him. Anyway, this man said my husband was his favorite when he was a small boy. I had him to dinner and he saw

Achievement Day Noted By Clubs

Gray County Home Demonstration Clubs observed Achievement Day with exhibits on Oct. 3 in the social room of the Courthouse Annex.

Between the hours of one and 3:30 p.m., women of the county viewed the results of training offered by Miss Lou Ella Patterson, Home Demonstration agent.

"Through the years, home demonstration work has changed with the times," Miss Patterson stated, "and much of their work cannot be displayed. Women are taught how to manage budgets, family finances, how to buy various articles of furniture, carpeting, machinery, appliances and other items, which are tangible only in economics of county, state and national affairs."

The exhibits included displays of food, clothing, bedding, floral arrangements, interior decorating, filing systems, handcraft and recreation.

Refreshments were served throughout the afternoon from a table appointed with a brown cloth centered with an arrangement of marigolds.

Clubs participating were Bell, Goodwill, Lefors, Merten and Worthwhile. Approximately 75 guests attended during the afternoon.

Area B&PW Receives Nat'l Safety Honor

CHICAGO —The Business and Professional Women's Club of Wellington, Tex., has received the first place award in a nationwide traffic safety program, the National Safety Council announced today.

The Wellington Women's Club was awarded first place in the 1951 Carol Lane Awards for Traffic Safety, the only national program honoring women for their work in this field. The program is administered by the National Safety Council through a grant of Shell Oil Co. and is named for Shell's award travel director.

The top award went to the Wellington Business and Professional Women's Club for spearheading the formation of the Collingsworth County Safety Council and working with that organization in a series of highly successful safety projects. Among these were crack-downs on minors driving without licenses and on others without valid licenses, which eliminated a serious safety problem in the area; successful programs for the installation of caution lights and safety islands; and a program of driver education in Wellington High School.

The Wellington Women's Club will receive a $1,000 Savings Bond from Shell and a bronze sculpture symbolizing "women's protective instinct." Mrs. John Coleman, president of the Wellington Business and Professional Women's Club, will accept the awards at a luncheon in Chicago Oct. 19 during the National Safety Congress.

The Carol Lane Awards are made annually to nine women or women's groups for outstanding achievements in traffic safety. Award judges are women leaders in safety, club activities, and public life. Three awards are made in each of three categories: rural areas and towns of less than 25,000; cities of 25,000 and over, and for statewide programs. The Wellington group won top award in the category of rural areas and towns of less than 25,000.

All the traffic safety activity of the Wellington Business and Professional Women's Club and the Collingsworth County Safety Council was carried out in a farming community of 3,200 people and in a county with a population of only 6,276 people.

From the time the County Safety Council was organized, the women's organization and the county group worked together harmoniously to provide greater safety for the city and county.

In addition to the projects already mentioned, the two groups also were responsible for sponsoring a county-wide driver's clinic, forming a Youth Traffic Safety Council in the local high school in cooperation with school officials, purchasing patrol belts for the school safety patrol, holding bicycle and traffic safety poster contests, distributing material on seat belts, conducting a Memorial Day weekend safety drive with "Slow Down and Live" as the slogan, and obtaining approval of the Chamber of Commerce for the Collingsworth County Safety Council to paint traffic safety slogans on two large signboards located on the approaches to Wellington.

Second and third place winners in the category of towns with less than 25,000 population are: Mrs. Helen Coughenour, 122 West 2nd Street, Spencer, Iowa, and Mrs. Stephen J. Schmidt, of 123 Forest Ave., Paramus, New Jersey.

Mrs. Coleman, local clubwomen will remember, was named "Club Woman of the Year" at the Top of Texas District convention of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs held in Pampa early this year.

Q - I'm having a party for a group of my friends (boys and girls, aged 14.) My mother insists that my 12-year-old sister should be allowed to come and to invite a few of her pals. They are so childish, I do not think they should attend. Is my mother right? How can I plan things?

A - Families should have fun! You wouldn't expect your sister to stay in her room while you and your friends enjoyed a party, would you? If your idea was to eliminate her entirely from your plans, that's not fair.

Look back and you'll realize that girls approaching 13 love the idea of a party. You will probably be amazed at how grownup they will try to be. You seem to think they are childish, but girls at this stage can miraculously change from tomboy-to young lady when the occasion demands it. (Please don't tease her about it.)

As to whether or not her friends should be invited, stop and think about it. Your sister won't have much in common with your friends. Two years is a wide gap here and she would probably feel self-conscious with the 14-year-olds. If her friends attend, they will stick together and make their own fun.

Plan your party as you think your friends would like it. Your sister and friends will adapt and enjoy it too. If a game you plan isn't appropriate for them, your mother could invite them to another room with the suggestion of a contest with prizes. Have fun!

Driver Of Camel Cart Will Visit Lyndon Johnson

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Bashir Ahmad is about to become the world's most famous camel-cart driver.

The turbaned, bare-footed Pakistani's rise to fame started last May 20 when Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson hopped out of a limousine in Karachi and started shaking hands with people along the road from the airport.

Bashir was one of thousands who were startled by Johnson's direct, Texas-style diplomacy at every stop along his Asian tour. But Bashir's cause was special. Johnson invited him to "come and visit my country," and Bashir accepted.

Then diplomatic and personal complications developed, delaying the trip.

Today Johnson's office reported that the visit is on, probably starting next weekend.

The vice president will greet Bashir; show him about the capital and probably take him to the Johnson ranch in Texas.

Cities and civic groups have flooded Johnson's office with offers to help show Bashir America. Private donations through the "people-to-people" friendship program will pay his plane fare, hotel and other expenses.

The complete schedule will be worked out as soon as his arrival date here is confirmed.

Johnson's office is considering the program carefully to try to avoid any publicity that might detract from the good-will gesture.

"We don't want this to turn into a publicity circus," an aide said. "This is a genuine effort of friendship between the vice president and a very nice man who extended his own friendship to America."

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI)—Purdue University's four-ton locomotive tender "Boilermaker Special" was hauled from a gravel pit Monday where it had been dumped by "unknown pranksters" Saturday.

Kansans Pleased By Hospitality Shown By Pampa

The City of Pampa today received an official letter from Paul Kitch, president of the Wichita, Kan., Chamber of Commerce, complimenting local businessmen for their hospitality at the recent joint meeting of the Pampa and Wichita Chambers of Commerce in Coronado Inn.

The Wichita businessmen stopped in Pampa for luncheon while on their annual Air Tour of the Southwest.

"This was a step," wrote Kitch, "in bringing our communities closer together. It was a cooperative regional approach which supplants the competitive attitude of the past and builds for general goodwill."

First U.S. hydroelectric plant was built in Wisconsin, on the rapids of the Fox River, in Appleton, in 1882.

4,500,000-Bale Cotton Harvest Seen For State

AUSTIN (UPI)—Texas cotton farmers nearly defeated Hurricane Carla's attack on their crop, leaving a Texas crop estimated at 4,500,000 bales, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said Monday.

The USDA said the estimate is only 50,000 bales below the Sept. 1 estimate for the 1961 crop.

The 1960 production of Texas cotton was 4,346,000 bales.

"Round-the-clock operations from the first warnings until wind or rain stopped harvests got more of storm-threatened cotton into bales or under cover than seemed possible," USDA statistician Douglas Blachy said.

The yield forecast for Texas cotton is 333 pounds per acre, four pounds above the 1960 figure and 73 pounds per acre above the 1950 average.

The overall crop forecast is 4 per cent above 1960's crop and 16 per cent above the average.

By areas, this is the outlook as

Northern High Plains — 550,000 bales, same as a month ago.	Plateau — 65,000, same.
Southern High Plains — 1,640,000, up 15,000.	South Central — 80,000, down 20,000 storm damage.
Northern Low Plains — 350,000, same.	Coastal Bend — 160,000 same, because the crop was out where the storm arrived.
Southern Low Plains — 40,000, same.	South Texas — 52,000, down 3,000 in an adjustment of early estimates.
Cross Timbers — 20,000, same.	Rio Grande Valley — 333,000 because of root rot and storm damage.
Northeast — 40,000, same.	down 2,000 in an adjustment.
Southeast — 60,000, down 5,000.

ARE YOU MAKING THE OCTANE MISTAKE?
Important News For Every Car Owner Who Wants
A Healthier Motor 5,000, 10,000, 20,000 Miles From Now!

An Octane rating measures only 2 of your motor's needs

A Megatane rating measures 21 of your motor's needs

The higher the Megatane rating the better your motor will run... and Mobil now brings you the highest Megatane rating of any leading gasoline!

Now for the first time you can choose gasoline realistically rated to make your car run stronger, last longer, keep younger!

The Octane Mistake. Yes, Octane rating measures only 2 of the things your car needs in a gasoline... 2 very important qualities dealing with anti-knock. The result is that many people make the Octane Mistake... buy gasoline high in Octane but lacking in many of the other brilliant advances made by science. These advances can truly give you a cleaner motor, quicker starting, less stalling, more mileage and power.

Megatane measures total performance. Recognizing this Octane Mistake, Mobil engineers now measure and express gasoline quality in a rating system which enables you to judge not just Octane but the total performance of your gasoline.

This new rating system is called Megatane. It includes Octane, of course, but goes far beyond Octane to measure not just 2, but all 21 of the qualities that Mobil engineers believe should be found in today's ideal gasoline.

Mobil gets highest Megatane ratings. Of course, the ideal Megatane rating of 21 has not yet been achieved by anyone... not even Mobil. But when you drive into your Mobil station, you will find new Mobil Premium that rates higher on the Megatane scale (19 out of 21) than any leading Premium. New Mobil Regular, with 16 out of 21, rates higher than any leading Regular gasoline.

At first, the difference may not be apparent to you. Your car will probably not leap like a gazelle from a standing start. But never forget this: Five, ten, twenty thousand miles from now, your motor will know the difference... in more mileage, less loss of power, less harmful deposits, easier starting, longer prime of life. For the higher the Megatane rating, the better your motor will run!

For details about the Megatane rating system, visit your Mobil dealer.

Mile after mile, your motor will know the difference when it's Mobil.

Next Few Weeks May Set Course In Laos Dispute

By RUTHERFORD POATS
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The next few weeks could tell the tale of deadlocked efforts to end the East-West tug of war over Laos. The brightest note in months was rounded this week when the three rival Laotian princes voted to accept neutralist Souvanna Phouma as premier of the tiny nation.

But major difficulties remain—such as selection of a coalition cabinet, and terms for policing the shaky cease-fire in Laos.

In the background, the United States and its Allies in the South-East Treaty Organization (SEATO) have studied the possibility of sending a "warning force" to block Communist drives in Southeast Asia.

Authoritative American sources say this plan still is up in the air. They also have termed immature reports implying that President Kennedy is considering sending American troops into the troubled area.

Officials say Kennedy is giving Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev another chance to keep his word on promoting a workable neutralization of Laos.

This, coupled with a conviction of U.S. determination to fight if necessary, was one of the messages American officials hoped Soviet Foreign Minister Andre Gromyko would take to Moscow from his talk with Kennedy Friday.

To demonstrate this willingness to make a stand in Southeast Asia is a big reason behind the long-standing contingency plan to base a relatively small SEATO force in northern Thailand.

During the unobserved cease-fire in Laos, the North Vietnamese Communists have built up forces in extreme southern Laos which they now are funneling into South Vietnam to the East and from which they also could strike into Thailand in the West.

Published speculation that American forces would go into South Vietnam at this stage of its war against the Viet Cong guerrillas was described as "nonsense" by a high U.S. official.

A Vietnamese diplomat agreed. President Ngo Dinh Diem does not want, has not asked for and does not need American fighting units unless the North Vietnamese or Chinese Communists invade in overwhelming force, the diplomat said.

South Vietnam's struggle against the Communist undercurrent of invasion still is as much a political and psychological battle as a shooting war.

Recently formed U.S.-South Vietnamese plans to win this war called for concentration on strengthening of economic and political defenses, as well as on reorganization and a small buildup of Diem's armed forces.

The Communists now appear to be concentrating their major effort in this high plateau area, near the Red pocket in southeastern Laos.

By getting even temporary cooperation from anti-Diem peasants and mountain people, they can pose a much bigger threat than the estimated 15,000-man Viet Cong fighting strength indicates.

U.S. Will Test Anti-Crash Suit For Astronauts
DALLAS (UPI)—Chance Vought aerospace engineers announce they have designed a foam-filled outfit that will protect America's astronauts like a "turtle in a shell" in case their rocket ship makes an otherwise fatal crash landing.

The outfit, officially called "restraint system," was developed under contract to the Air Force Systems Command's Aeronautical Systems Division at Dayton, Ohio.

During the next few months, the Air Force will test the new system in "drop tests" that will simulate hard crash landings. Dummies will be used at first, and then humans.

The idea of the suit is to protect astronauts not only in hard crash landings, but also in accelerations which might prove fatal.

Banks Offering New Innovation In Payroll Plan

NEW YORK (UPI)—Having substituted a can of dietary liquid for lunch and TV to watching for evening conversation, the social innovators now are trying to replace another great traditional institution—pay day.

Instead of bringing home a paycheck, father would just get a voucher showing his salary already was in his bank account. Whatever threat this may bear to such old payday activities as the weekly poker game or the check-cashing conviviality at a corner tavern, the American Bankers' Association reports it is a growing practice.

In most cases, the ABA said, the new payroll plan is being offered by banks already promoting a so-called "bank-at-work" program, which in essence allows the depositor to handle all major banking needs without leaving his place of work. However, a company can use the payroll plan without the other features of the "bank-at-work" program if desired.

In simplest terms, the "one-check payroll plan" lets a company handle payroll with a single check; employees have their pay automatically credited to their checking accounts, instead of getting cash or individual checks.

Some companies use the bank's payroll processing facilities at a fixed price. Others send a payroll check to the bank along with cards or lists of employees and other necessary information, and the bank credits the employees accounts without charge.

Banks promoting the new payroll-plan include such major institutions as the Bank of America, the National City Bank of Cleveland, the Mellon National Bank of Pittsburgh, and the Republic National Bank of Dallas.

Suit Challenges Reserve Gas Tax

AUSTIN (UPI)—Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Co. has sued the state challenging the state's new dedicated reserves gas tax as unconstitutional.

The firm, represented by Frank Denius of Austin, brought suit before 126th District Judge Jack Roberts, naming State Comptroller Robert S. Caffert, Atty. Gen. Will Wilson and State Treasurer Jesse James as defendants. The firm seeks return of $52,900 it has paid so far on the tax passed by the 57th Legislature.

Companion suits were filed by Panhandle, Eastern and Michigan Wisconsin Pipeline companies.

Denius said the firm bases its suit on the same grounds as those which succeeded in getting the state's old severance beneficiary tax thrown out in court—that the tax violates rights guaranteed by the constitution of Texas and the U. S.—and that it taxes interstate commerce.

The tax became effective Sept. 1. It was part of a tax package that cleared the 57th Legislature. The tax brings natural gas taxes up to a minimum of a penny per 1,000 cubic feet.

Colts Lean To Defense And Hurling

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Houston Colts concentrated on pitching strength and the New York Mets placed a heavy emphasis on long-ball hitters in selecting their first players from the National League grab bag.

Among the pitchers chosen by the Colts during Tuesday's special draft were Ken Johnson, who had a 6-2 record with the pennant-winning Cincinnati Reds this year; Dick Farrell (8-7) of the Los Angeles Dodgers; Bobby Shantz (6-3) of the Pittsburgh Pirates; and Sam Jones (8-8) of the San Francisco Giants.

Because the Mets will be forced to play their home games in the Polo Grounds during their initial season next year, they went into the meeting in search of power hitters and came out of the session with fair success.

Nobody was surprised when the Mets grabbed Gil Hodges of the Los Angeles Dodgers, still a home run threat at the age of 37 and a long-time hero of old Brooklyn fans.

However, the Mets also managed to latch onto such established left-handed hitters as Hobie Landrith of the Giants, Gus Belle of the Reds, and Ed Bouchee of the Chicago Cubs — all of whom will be aiming at the Polo Grounds' inviting 257-foot right field wall next season.

The statistics appear to bear out the feeling that the Mets wound up with more power than the Colts. The players chosen by New York from the eight other NL clubs hit a total of 53 homers to 22 for the Colts during the past season.

The new Houston pitchers, though, had an overall record of 30-25 in the majors this year while New York's hurlers had a composite 13-16 mark.

The Mets shelled out $1,800,000 for 22 players and the Colts spent $1,850,000 for 23 players.

Boston Fires Grid Mentor

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Patriots of the American Football League fired their head coach Tuesday night and promoted one of his assistants because they could not afford to hire a new coach.

The sudden change which made former Boston College Coach Mike Holovak the new pilot of the Boston entry in the AFL came only four hours after his predecessor, Lou Saban, ordered the latest in a series of squad changes.

Saban, hired to direct the Patriots before the start of their inaugural season last year, was given his release right in the middle of a three-year contract believed to total about $60,000. Earlier, it had been reported the 10 Patriots owners were unwilling to fire Saban because of the cost of hiring a new coach while paying the remainder of his contract. However, under the arrangement announced by President William Sullivan Tuesday night, the Patriots simply promoted Holovak to the head coaching job and did not appoint a backfield coach to take over Holovak's duties.

1-A Grid Games Head Schedule

By United Press International

Showdown district contests pitting Gruver against Stratford, Clyde against Albany and Kerens against Brownsboro highlight this week's Class A schoolboy football slate and are certain to pare the list of undefeated-untied teams.

The Gruver-Stratford contest won't necessarily settle things in District 1-A because the real battle for eventual leadership may be taking place at the same time between once-tied White Deer and once-beaten Stinnett, a pair of perennial state playoff contenders.

But, the Clyde-Albany and Korona-Brownsboro tilts for all intents and purposes should decide which team moves on into the championship eliminations next month although each still will have four district games ahead.

These six teams make up exactly one-third of the division's list of 18 perfect record survivors and are involved in the only games matching teams from this group.

Defending state champ Albany, which last week polished off previously unbeaten Class AA Anson, will be seeking its 20th win in a row at the expense of a Clyde team which is one of three teams that have yielded only one touchdown all season. The others are Pettus and Rio Hondo, both of which appears safe this week against Jourdan and Los Fresnos.

Pettus, like White Oak, is among six unbeaten but tied teams. The others are Sanderson, Eldorado, Midlothian and Tarkington.

In addition to the six previously named, other perfect record clubs include Springlake, Kress, Wink, Forney, Gaston, Garrison, Thrall, Hull-Daisetta, Anahuac, Walter, and Rio Hondo.

With district action slated in all but 32-A, all of the unbeaten teams except Midlothian, which faces Cedar Hill, and Rio Hondo, which meets Los Fresnos, are involved in title games.

Springlake plays Sudan, Kress meets Farwell, Sanderson plays Iraan, Wink hosts Fabens, Sonora is at Ozona, Eldorado plays Junction, Forney takes on Fannin, Gaston entertains Judson, Garrison meets Joquin, Thrall faces Thorndale, Hull-Daisetta is at Hardin, Anahuac at Orangefield, Tarkington meets Klein and Walter faces Tomball.

Action at home this week finds the Lee 8th grade Rebels hosting Berger Sam Houston at Harvester Park Thursday at 4 p.m. Lee 7th meets the Pampa 8th graders in a scrimmage tilt Thursday afternoon and the Reapers 7th play Berger Austin Friday.

The other teams take to the road with Thursday games pitting the Pampa Reapers at Dumas, Lee 8th at Berger Sam Houston and the Shockers at Lubbock. All games are scheduled at 4 p.m.

Senior fullback Curtis Fletcher and Lee's 8th grade halfback Lewis Meers were the standout scorers in last week's action. Fletcher romped for two markers on runs of 73 and 32 yards and Meers scored on dashes of 80 and 69 yards.

The standings of the teams are:

Team	W	L	T	Pts.	Opp.
Lee 8th	3	0	0	120	24
Lee 7th	3	0	0	70	28
Lee 9th	2	2	0	36	59
Pampa 7th	1	2	0	28	74
Shockers	1	3	1	46	144
Reapers	0	3	0	14	80

U.S. Ryder Team To Play England

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (UPI) — The United States Ryder Cup golf team settled down to serious business today as it sought to master the peculiarities of the course on which it will meet Britain this weekend.

Following their first round of practice over the 6,635-yard links Tuesday, the Yanks unanimously agreed that the course was "tough." However, they added hopefully, "we can lick it."

No official scores of the opening practice round were kept and most of the players responded with indirect answers when questioned about their scores. Most impressive among the U.S. team were Gene Littler, who was believed to have shot a 68, and Arnold Palmer, who hinted at a 69.

Jerry Barber, captain of the team, shot a two-over-par 72.

Yankees Planning Trades For Pitchers And Bench

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Yankees stand pat? Don't be silly. "We are eager to get another starting pitcher and we may need more bench strength," General Manager Roy Hamey said Tuesday after the Yankees arrived back in New York from Cincinnati, where they completed a five-game rout of the Reds in the World Series.

Hamey said he planned to sit down with Manager Ralph Houk within the next few days to discuss winter trades aimed at further strengthening the roster of the world champions.

The biggest problems facing the Yankees is whether the international situation may cause pitcher Elston Howard, second baseman Bobby Richardson, shortstop Tony Kubek, outfielders Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle and pitcher Whitey Ford, Howard received the votes of all 36 experts.

Others named to the team were first baseman Norm Cash of the Detroit Tigers, third baseman Ken Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals and outfielder Frank Robinson and pitcher Joey Jay of the National League champion Cincinnati Reds.

CHICAGO OPEN SITE

GOLF. Ill. (UPI) — The 1963 Open-championship will be played at the Beverly Country Club in Chicago, it was announced today by the Western Golf Association. Exact dates of the tourney will be decided later.

The 38-year-old Yogi, who broke nine records and equalled two in this year's series, was non-committal. However, his wife, Carmen, dropped a hint on Yogi's future plans when she remarked: "He'd never be happy out of baseball."

Berra's present salary presumably would preclude any retirement plans he might be considering. He received $55,000 for playing half a season in left field last season and is too good a businessman to pass up more than a grand-a-week for playing baseball.

Steers Prep For 1st Big Test Of Season

By United Press International

"I kinda wonder what kind of football team we have."

Believe it or not that is Darrell Royal talking about his Texas Longhorns. All his team has done in three games this fall, is out-score the opposition 111 to 25 and roll up more yards—1,512—than any Longhorn team at this stage of the season in history.

"We haven't been put to a real test so far," Royal said, eyeing this week's opponent Oklahoma.

"I don't know how our kids will do when the real pressure builds up. There's just no way to tell."

Royal is expecting that "real test" from Oklahoma in Dallas Saturday. As Royal puts it, "a member of our squad would have to be real simple-minded not to expect a tough physical contest."

The Longhorns, third-ranked nationally, ripped through a brisk drill stressing defense Tuesday. Injured wingback Jack Collins returned to practice and Royal said "we'll know more later in the week" about Collins playing against the Sooners, Collins has knee trouble.

Rice held a no-contact drill Tuesday. Coach Jess Neely expressed doubt that he could find a means of preparing for Florida's 136-pound quarterback Larry Libertore. The Owls play the 'Gators in Houston Saturday night.

Libertore, a candidate for the smallest college football player in the country, is a slick ball-handler and adept at passing.

Halfback Jim Murphy was moved to Texas A&M's first unit as the Aggies took to the field for their first workout of the week. The Cadets play Trinity in San Antonio Saturday.

Yanks Place Six Players On Stars

NEW YORK (UPI) — Six members of the world champion New York Yankees, including the only unanimous choice, were named to the 1961 major league all-star team today by the United Press International's board of baseball experts.

Selected from the Yankees by the 36-man board were catcher Elston Howard, second baseman Bobby Richardson, shortstop Tony Kubek, outfielders Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle and pitcher Whitey Ford. Howard received the votes of all 36 experts.

Others named to the team were first baseman Norm Cash of the Detroit Tigers, third baseman Ken Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals and outfielder Frank Robinson and pitcher Joey Jay of the National League champion Cincinnati Reds.

Crossland And Brown Return

Pampa's Harvesters went through a lengthy drill session Tuesday afternoon as Coach Weldon Trice's crew prepares for a Sandstorm — The Amarillo Sandies — Friday night.

The return of tackle John Brown and back Butch Crossland to full duties raised the hopes of the Harvesters for a win over an under-rated Amarillo eleven.

Crossland saw limited action against Monterey last Friday, but like Brown, this is his first time to go at full speed since Sept. 21. Both gridders were injured in the Dumas tilt.

Pampa grided on pass defense under the watchful eye of backfield coach Eural Ramsey. The Harvesters have been weak on passes as Monterey quarterback Byron Stovall picked up 78 yards passing last week on seven completions in nine attempts.

The backfield also went through a tough tackle scrimmage with gridders from the Shockers.

Blocking was the order of the day for the linemen. Coach Dwaine Lyon had his forward wall hitting the dummies as the Harvesters try to get some holes to run through for a score.

But all is not dreary. For the locals played a spirited, capable game against Monterey. That rugged line turned in its best performance of the season although the Plainsmen out-rushed Pampa on the ground. But the Harvesters tightened up once the Lubbock eleven threatened to score.

Jimmy Hoyle, James Webb, Dee Wright, Danny Mathus, Mike Stewart, Keith Reimer, Travis Tucker and Corky Godfrey were the defensive stalwarts for Pampa.

Kenny Hebert and Rickey Stewart, two good sophomore prospects, starred in the backfield with Hebert's fine break-a-way running and Stewart's neat ball handling.

But all Pampa dreams could come to an abrupt halt Friday night when the Sandstorm invades. Amarillo has split in four games. Coach Bum Phillips' crew used a field goal to top Odessa

3-0 and last Friday blasted hapless Plainview 45-0.

Amarillo's two defeats have come at the hands of undefeated AAAA teams, including the state's top club Wichita Falls. The Sandies also lost to Paschal. Both counts were 14-0.

Tackle Mike Dewlen spearheads the tough Amarillo defense. Ronnie Williams and Gordon Hunt, a pair of speedy backs, are the offensive guns. The Sandies average 160 pounds on offense and 163 on defense.

Pampa's cheerleaders and student body will have a bonfire and pep rally Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. at the football field. "Miss Flame" will be crowned at the rally.

It's Up To You

Under a New York dateline, the Los Angeles Examiner recently carried a story about Soviet Russia's spy ambassador, Konstantin K. Rodionov, who was sent home from his post as Russian ambassador to Sweden in 1956 after being involved in three of the biggest spy cases in the history of Sweden.

Posing as an expert on international problems, spy ambassador Konstantin K. Rodionov recently entered the United States traveling under a diplomatic passport issued to UN delegates.

Rodionov came here this time to meet at the UN with chiefs of police from all over the world. One of the objectives of the meeting was to better control the international dope traffic.

This Soviet ambassador spy has been in the United States on three previous occasions. He attended the Dumbarton Oaks Conference in 1944 and was present in San Francisco the following year when UN was set up.

Curiously enough, a record of espionage activity does not seem to disqualify Russian Communists from being accepted as bona fide diplomats in the western countries. Perhaps the most striking case is that of Ambassador Georgi Zarubin, Soviet ambassador to Canada at the time of the great espionage scandals that were made known there with the defection of Communist Gouzenko.

Part Time Socialism

Most people who profess to oppose socialism are actually socialists part of the time. They don't want to see any "new" socialism.

It's A Lonely Trade

Beware the newspaper reporter whom everybody loves and the editor who is buried with public honors.

This is not an inevitable rule, but it's as good a generalization about the newspaper business as you'll come across.

Well, what's wrong with a reporter who is the town pet and the editor who is one of the sweetest guys in Tinkertown?

Principally, it is not the nature of their trade, properly piled, to win popularity contests. The best of them frequently enjoys the affectionate regard of an exceedingly small group, but he doesn't give much of a damn either.

Reporting a stormy session of the school board, a bare-knuckle political campaign — reporting these things accurately is not going to win a newspaper man the affection of the principal contenders.

"My God, did I say that?" asks the shocked government official when he reads an account of last night's meeting in which he was a heated and noisy contender.

"I wish I hadn't," is his next sentiment. Then, "I don't think I could have said that."

Later, "I know I didn't say that." And eventually, "I was misquoted."

It is remarkable how a man, virtually in a frenzy of argument, can remember the next day, with such clarity, exactly what he didn't say. The reporter took notes, the principal actors ranted and raved. But we are to believe that the notes were less accurate than the recalled version of the angry participants, perhaps as much as 24 hours later.

The handiest device is to blame the reporter, of course; and he is no longer good old Sam.

Good reporting seems to exist almost entirely on the local level. The reporters in Washington become parties to all sorts of politics. The gross product of all these men is so similar it is stretching the imagination to think that they are being reporters. They rewrite handouts, they record the words at the press conference, they drink the booze and eat the hors d'oeuvres and if they write anything unpleasant they might not get invited back. And, even worse, they may show up their fellow practitioners.

eran-Washington correspondents (as they are almost invariably called) could cover a county courthouse to the satisfaction of a good editor.

Everybody in Washington loves these fellows, and why not? The rather insipid product they produce shouldn't get anybody angry. They simply write what they're invited to write by the politicians.

The editor who goes to his grave with a line of mourners from here to the Gulf of Mexico is a sorry reporter whose legs went bad.

He frequently is eulogized—often by his own successor—as having been part of every civic betterment project in the history of his town. These good works on analysis, most frequently turn out to have been forays on the state or federal treasuries. Chances are he was taken in, years ago, by some group of benevolent despots who ruled—his bailiwick somewhat ruthlessly, he did have to admit, but it was in the best interests of the stupid masses who must be driven to do the right thing, even if they lose an arm or leg in the process.

He belonged to almost everything he could get on his expense account. He never said anything startling that would set anyone to wondering if he might be a queer fish given to swimming against the current.

He was in favor of schools and clergy, both without critical examination. He wanted bigger parks for the kiddies and more books in the library (never mind which books) and more school rooms and higher pay for the firemen and strong zoning laws. But he also suggested, timidly to be sure, that taxes should not be allowed to go out of sight—no reflection on the city administration, mind you!

Everybody loved good old Joe Eyesshade, the friendly editor. But, strangely enough, when his fan club was pressed to explain exactly what Joe accomplished for his beloved town, they can't just put it into words. Well, he was a nice guy, you know. Keep things out of the paper—for the folks who really mattered.

A good Joe, you might say. But sometimes I did sort of wonder what really was going on in the,

INDEPENDENT FUND RAISING

Reprinted From the Bulletin of the National Society for Crippled Children

The following abridged letter to the editor was written by Abram Samuels and appeared in the Allentown, Pennsylvania, Call-Chronicle. In it, Mr. Samuels presents a candid appraisal of United Fund which has evolved not only through his experience as a crippled children's volunteer (he is president of the Pennsylvania Society), but also as a prominent businessman.

May one voice be raised to present another side to the question of a United Fund (U.F.) for Lehigh County? I write as a private citizen and have no "axe to grind" with regard to the acceptance or unacceptance of U.F. in our community. I serve as a director of the Lehigh County united community chest as well as the Crippled Children's Society and for a number of years was a member of the Chest budget committee.

One of the prime arguments for the establishment of U.F. is to eliminate the multiplicity of appeals to business, industry and their employees. As a local businessman, let me unhesitatingly state that I do not care how frequently I receive requests from charitable organizations, as long as I am given the prerogative to say "no" if I desire. Our country feels that it is sensible and proper to receive all appeals for funds in the same fashion that it listens to a salesman's "pitch." To us, it is as inconceivable to be solicited for a single all-purpose drive as to be solicited by one organization representing all of the salesmen who call on us, since each has something to sell.

Also, I don't think in-plant solicitations are fair to the employee who will most likely contribute to a payroll deduction plan or direct solicitation only to placate and maintain pleasant relations with "the boss." He should not be put in this position, but instead, contacted for a contribution at his home where he can give what he wants to give. Under U.F., tremendous pressure is, and has to be, exerted on business and industry to subscribe to payroll deduction plans. Too frequently when the employee is urged to "give once for all," he is compelled to give "once — or else!"

He has no control whatsoever over where his dollar for charity goes — in fact, he is a captive donor. Is this voluntary giving? The history of fund raising for the Heart Association, Cancer Society, and others indicates that far more money is raised when these groups conduct separate campaigns than when they are merged into one super drive. Independent appeals of this nature account for the battle won against polio, and will result in the prevention of cancer, heart disease, and various forms of crippling and debilitating conditions. One is better educated and understands the particular problem far better when he is asked to give for a specific purpose. He will give more, and also more willingly, when he knows his dollars will ultimately overcome these perils to our health.

With regard to the health organizations which might contemplate U.F. affiliation, I believe these groups would become captive agencies. They would tend to lose control over their budgets and programs because the individual U.F. agency's budget is determined by a U.F. budget committee. An agency is practically confined to a status quo existence because expansion programs are restricted.

Unfortunately, the primary concern in a federated fund drive is on the mechanics of money-raising, rather than the needs of the individual or specific appeal which needs help. Our interest should be not only in charts and budgets and financial campaigns, but in human beings and their needs. Federated campaigns reflect too much regimentation; they are without "heart." They tell YOU where your money should go. Shouldn't it be the other way around?

Membership of health groups in U.F. results in a "nothing to gain—something to lose" status. Their inclusion would act as a "crutch" to some organizations. We ask groups would benefit—the health agencies would not. Experience has shown us that there is a positive relationship between the capacity of an organization to raise its own funds and its capacity to do a job.

One of the most popular arguments proffered by U.S. adherents is that there is an increasing shortage of volunteers because of the number of drives currently being carried on. Actually, the opposite is probably true. I have found that there is far more "esprit de corps" involved in the drive of a health charity than in Community Chest, and I have worked with both. Enthusiasm pervades in a crippled children's campaign because of the "specific objective" at hand.

U.S., British Financial Guarantees for S.G.B. Called Reason Behind Tshombe Willingness To Negotiate

WASHINGTON — There's an intriguing story of financial power behind the surprise decision of President Moise Tshombe to begin negotiations which could bring secessionist Katanga back into the strife-ridden Congo.

Societe Generale de Belgique, one of the most powerful but least known holding companies in the world today, turned the trick last week when its officials got President Tshombe to end his opposition to the United Nations effort to unify the new African state.

The S.G.B., as it is known in financial circles, opposed Katanga's joining the central government until its officials were able to work out a secret agreement with major U.S. and British financial interests that they would all work together with their governments to see that the Belgium combine's vast holdings were not upset in a unified Congo.

The S.G.B. has a securities portfolio valued at more than $4 billion. In Katanga alone, the combine controls a chain of companies that mine uranium, manganese, cobalt, copper, tin, zinc, platinum, gold, diamonds, iron, bauxite, and silver. It also has interests in companies that produce palm oil, cotton, coffee, and electric power.

According to a U.S. intelligence report entitled "Money Interests in Africa," the unannounced "understanding" between the financial giants was worked out in London early in September.

Until the agreement was reached, the report reveals, S.G.B. officials were concerned that an effort would be made by a major U.S. and British financial interests to influence their governments, working through the U.N., to try to break up the tight control the combine has on the vast riches of the Congo.

The report states that the fears of the S.G.B. officials—reached their peak shortly after the U.N. sent its military forces into the Congo to keep Russian agents from taking over. At that time, the Rockefeller interests began immediately making sizable loans and grants to influential groups and universities in the Congo. S.G.B. officials took this action as a definite move by these U.S. interests to go after their vast holdings.

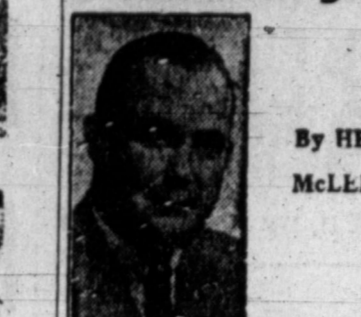

Note: S.G.B. has holdings in Belgium, France, Britain, Morocco, Malaya, Egypt, Argentina, Iraq, Holland, West Germany, and Colombia, as well as all of Africa.

HOUSE CLEANING — Fowler Hamilton, the new foreign aid chief, is being urged to clean house "even at the expense of hurting some employees who have done a good job."

This frank advice is being given the administrator for the new Agency for International Development by a group of Democratic legislators headed by Senator Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Humphrey, who personally delivered the message, told Hamilton that such drastic action is needed to weed out the incompetence and corruption that now exists in the foreign aid program. "During the Eisenhower administration, there were men brought into the program who were not sympathetic with foreign aid. Many were incompetent," Humphrey charged. "Little has been done to stamp out the growing corruption in the agency or on the part of countries receiving our aid. This corruption and incompetence should be rooted out, even at the expense of hurting someone who has done a fairly good job. There needs to be an upgrading of the activities of the agency."

Hankering

By HENRY McLEMORE

If I were asked what I missed most when living in Europe I believe I'd answer: American doctors.

Not that I'm ailing. Chicken pox was the last major disease I had, and that was back when a telephone call was a nickel. I shoe shine the same, and a fellow got his exercise by climbing in and out of rumble seats.

In my ten months in Europe I had occasion to call a doctor only once, but that one time was sufficient to make me realize that it's awfully tough for an American to trust a doctor who doesn't speak English, took his training in some such place as Bologna or Marseilles, and thumps chests in an entirely different manner than an American is accustomed to.

This doctor I called on (an Italian) looked like a doctor. Almost too much so. I suspected right off that he was an actor playing a doctor in his time off. He had a goatee, wore a sort of morning coat, and carried a handsome black valise or satchel.

My ailment was a heavy, heavy cold that kept getting worse, but he acted as if a cold was the last thing I had. He examined me in places where a cold never reaches, sang little snatches of arias as he poked and probed, and then wrote out a prescription that I didn't trust.

Why didn't I trust it? Largely because I am an American, and most Americans frust only what is made in America, and this drug turned out to have been made in a little town in northern Italy that I had never heard of. I didn't take it. Actually, I didn't even buy it. One look at the label and I said, "Thank you, no," to the pharmacist (a lady, by the way), and decided to let the cold cure itself.

I wish I weren't this way about America and felt that other countries had just as good men as we do, and just as good machines and products. But I don't. I like to fly on airplanes that were built in the U.S., are flown by American men, and serviced by Americans. I distrust beans canned in Europe, look down on the tuna fish (canned), and am suspicious even of foreign shoes, shirts, shorts, and gasoline.

I sort of hope that I get to feeling a little bit ill, now that I am back home. It will be good to see an American doctor, and talk baseball and football before he looks at me, and draw reassurance from his diploma on the wall, and the familiar fittings of his office, including back numbers of magazines I can read.

I feel the same way about foreign dentists, too. What do they know about filling a tooth, or pulling one? My last visit to one was in Paris and, before I go to him again, I'll jump off the Eiffel Tower to ease the pain. You won't believe it, but he didn't have a syringe handy to give me a shot of Novocain, so he asked me to run down to the corner druggist and get one.

I was glad to oblige — only I kept right on past the drugstore and kept running. I hope he isn't still standing by the chair waiting on me.

I guess I'm too red, white, and blue ever to become a true cosmopolite.

Pegler Says:

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Before the introduction of such terms as "hospitalized were" and "escapee", my trade often resorted to a rubber-stamp which alternated with "the police are baffled." This expression was "shrouded in mystery" and that is the best one at my command to describe a pixie of the old Broadway theatre who long ago took in vain the good name of George Spelvin.

Thus he set upon Spelvin's trail a posse of hot-eyed husbands athirst for his gore, indeed, his very life, and satisfaction for their honor. I have been told that this rascal's name was Oliver Cromwell Cruickshank, and that he was an all-around theatrical fellow, useful in wagon and boat shows and an excellent comedy butler with or without siphon and bottomless glass. He could wheedle a little more juice out of a dying Delco for the footlights at some dell in the Blue Ridge country or drive the livery stable charger on stage foaming with soap-suds in the rescue scene of The Still Alarm.

But he had a cynical humor and so it happened that in The Lambs, and in many saloons he ran a sly arm around the shoulder of this or that colleague in the trade of make-believe and, in a tone of consolation, remarked, "I'm terribly sorry to hear about your trouble with your wife."

What trouble? Dammit, Cruickshank, what are you talking about? "Oh, excuse me. Please think no more about it. I only wanted you to know that as your friend I sympathize with you."

This seems never to have caused Cruickshank any contusions and/or abrasions, although some husbands went to his lapels and yanked in anguish, demanding particulars. The particulars were a rumor that the victim's wife had been carrying on with a trap-drummer or other suitable rogue and that the scandal was "all over town."

"But who told you? I'll kill him." "But I can't get mixed up in this," Cruickshank now said. "Let's have a drink and forget it. I am glad it isn't true. Nobody could be happier to hear it isn't so. Wait till I see that damned Spelvin, spreading such an infamous lie."

Spelvin? George Spelvin? Who is he? What does he know about my private life? Where does he hang out? "Why, surely you know George Spelvin. Everybody knows him. Generally around the Astor Bar about five or Rector's or Bustanoby's at night. He gets around. I thought sure you must know him. He says he knows you. Says he has been at your house for dinner."

Repeated to numerous husbands, this mean prank enlivened the affairs of many haunts and it is probable, too, many domestic evenings in hotels where actors lived. For most of them did live in hotels then and the labels of The Astor, the Sherman House or the St. Francis on suitcase and trunk were evidence of opulence and celebrity. It might have been George Cohan who started the flight to New Rochelle, Great Neck, Bayside and thereafter to Stamford where Billy Gaxton found away-from-it-illness by a purring brook and a thunderous motor parkway.

It is a paradox but no mystery that actors now are debarré from hotels by economics. It is cheaper far to live in a ranch type manse, tailored into rocks and around fat elms in the suburbs, and stand off the taxes and instalments for the conventional minimum of three years than to risk all at the Waldorf. The Waldorf can throw you out for non-payment after one week and detain your duffle pending satisfaction. The aristocrats now are the sitting President of the United States, dignitaries of the United Nations and business executives attending conventions.

George Spelvin still stalks the boards of the living stage, sometimes on Broadway and frequently, in the haymows of the out-back. Spelvin is the ancient alias of the actor playing a walk-on as a second role in a play. I have never seen his name in the billing of a movie or teevy.

Although I have used his name for years and many ancients have tried to trace him to his origin, I believe his conception, like that of Cruickshank, will be, forever, as I said at first, "lost in mystery."

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Q — Our baby, which is our first, does not sleep for more than a few hours at a time. My mother says that her children used to sleep through the night without interruption. Our baby awakens almost as if by alarm clock at 11, 3 and 5. Do you think there's something wrong with her? We feed her regularly and keep her warm and dry. But it doesn't seem to make any difference.

A — You didn't give the age of your baby. But a recent study of the sleep habits of normal full-term infants, during the first days of life, showed that the longest period of sustained sleep was about 4 1/2 hours.

Unless your infant is more than six months old, you may consider the sleep pattern you describe as entirely normal.

In fact, if she continues this sleep pattern beyond the age of six months and is otherwise well and happy, you may dismiss the matter from your mind. It's rough on the parents but you'll survive. Q — Can you give me the name of the vitamin that is used for patients who have suffered strokes?

A — If you are referring to claims for vitamin P or the so-called bioflavonoids, you can save your money. The Journal of the American Medical Association states that "there is little or no merit in claims that these products are of value in preventing hemorrhage." And, since most strokes are due to clots within blood vessels (thrombosis) rather than hemorrhage due to breakage, it is wiser to concentrate attention on other methods of treatment.

The Almanac by United Press International. Today is Wednesday, Oct. 11, the 284th day of the year with 81 to follow in 1961. The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning star is Venus. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn. On this day in history: In 1932, the Democratic National Committee sponsored a television program emanating from New York, the first political telecast in the United States. In 1945, Chiang Kai-shek and Communist leader Mao Tse-tung issued a joint statement pledging their mutual desires for peace and unity. The pledge was short-lived however. Clashes between Nationalists and Communists caused a resumption of the civil war. Within a month, fighting between the two forces had spread into 11 provinces.
