By Associated Press. Little Rock, Ark., February 7.—The slowness with which the Mississippi river is rising may be the salvation of Arkansas City and Lake Village, as well as smaller towns and settlements between the two important centers.

Men who poured into Lake Village and Arkansas City when overflow waters from the swollen Arkansas rushed down from breaks in levees at Cummins and Pendleton found refuge only on top of the Mississippi levees where they were put to work.

Twenty-five hundred men are raising and strengthening the levees in front of Lake Village.

HEALTH OFFICIALS MEET IN CHICAGO

Medical Congress Which Begins Today to Consider Many Questions

By Associated Press. Chicago, Feb. 7.—Hundreds of physicians and surgeons and public health officials and leaders in medical instruction were here today for the annual congress on medical education, public health and medical licensure. The gathering, which began this morning and will last through tomorrow, is made up of representatives of the Federation of State Medical Boards of the United States, the Association of American Medical Colleges and Council on Medical Education, and of the Health and Public Instruction of the American Medical Association.

Each of the four organizations is to hold its own meetings but there will also be several joint gatherings. In the latter class the Federation of State Medical Boards will play a prominent part as much of the program for this year's congress calls for consideration of the tests which should be enforced to insure a high standard of professional efficiency among practitioners.

The first meeting of the congress was the twelfth annual conference of the Council of Medical Education. Dr. Arthur Dean Haven of Chicago, chairman of the council, called it to order and Dr. N. P. Colwell, Chicago, presented his report as secretary. The rest of the morning was taken up discussing a symposium on "Relation of the Laboratory Courses to the Work of the Clinical Years." The subject was presented by Dr. Lyon, dean of the medical school of the University of Minnesota; Barker of Johns Hopkins University; James Ewing of Cornell University Medical College, New York City; and Lee of Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons.

ASCENSION LESSON IS SERMON SUBJECT

Rev. T. E. Cannedy Discusses This Theme at Fourth Street Baptist Church

Lessons that are to be drawn from the ascension of Christ formed the theme of the sermon Sunday by Rev. T. E. Cannedy, pastor of the Fourth Street Baptist Church. The sermon in part follows:

The lessons of the ascension story are many and varied. The meaning of this mystic story is taught us in the Master's own words. He himself has interpreted the ascension as a three-fold lesson of spirituality, of labor, and of hope.

His visible presence, local and limited, must now give place to His invisible influence, spiritual and universal. Said He: "It is expedient for you that I go away, for if I do not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will send him unto you." Hitherto only the few in Nazareth and Capernaum in Bethany and Jerusalem, might see His face and hear His voice. But now all men from Jerusalem, Judea, and Samaria, and unto the uttermost parts of the earth, until the last years of time, should feel His presence, enjoy His comfort, and share His salvation. And not only does the ascension thus extend His fellowship beyond those narrow limits of space and occasion, but raises it to higher values and to loftier regions of experience.

The ascending Savior draws His people after Him, and though they ascend less swiftly than He into the heavenly sublimities, yet it is no less surely. And thus by the ascension they find in Him an ever greater and ever better Christ, and He in them a more spiritual, a more heavenly, a more Christ-like people.

This incident will show how much it meant to the disciples to have an ascended Christ. Just a little while before He was taken from them, perhaps but a moment before, we hear them asking, "Lord, will thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel?" They had not yet fully comprehended Christ's mission. That question at most, means that the visible Christ, even after death and resurrection, signifies to them one who should subvert the Roman Empire and establish a Jewish Empire instead. But after the ascension we never hear them ask such questions again.

The ascension had answered their question and corrected their error. They now understood that Christ's throne was to be at God's right hand, and that His kingdom was to be righteous, peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost unto all people.

When we consider why Christ came in the flesh we will see more plainly why He could not remain in the flesh; and why being taken from us in the body, He is more really ours in the Spirit. Christ came in the flesh to reveal God unto men. John says, "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us."

The ascension became at once the effectual remedy for the gross misapprehensions of the "unspiritual" mind, and still remains a sovereign refuge to those who would have their lives saved. There are those who still look in Christ and His gospel for the answer to their earthly problems rather than the things of the higher life.

The ascension stands for the great fact that Jesus is still living, and that He shall come back again. Without the ascension the doctrine of the resurrection would be incomplete. To the ascension the Apostles were witnesses as they were to the other facts. All others could only know that Jesus was never again seen in the flesh upon earth. These men could tell the story of how Jesus disappeared and in doing so their own preaching was made more powerful. "And they went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them, and confirming the words with the signs following."

A second lesson from the ascension story is that of labor, or service. The Savior taught the lesson of labor when He declared: "He that believeth in me, the works that I do, shall he also do; and greater works than these shall he do because I go to my Father." In His last discourse we hear Him saying: "All authority hath been given unto me in heaven and on earth. Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I command you; and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." On the day of His parting Christ strategically promised to be with His disciples everywhere and forever. He has a work for them to do, and while they are about it He will be present, though invisibly, to give them the needed strength for accomplishing the appointed task.

Not only were the disciples to witness by their lives, but went everywhere preaching the word. The Great Commission was their Magna Charter. Four things were especially emphasized. "Go ye." They were to go in all life there must be a moving. "As the Father hath sent men even so have I sent you." Paul was a chosen vessel to bear the gospel for henceforth he is a "gentile." We are vessels and should be vessels fit for the Master's use.

"As ye go, preach." Or make disciples. "By preaching and teaching. What were they to preach? The gospel and the life. The disciples, as well as the prophets of old, were given the message to be delivered. The ascension is made unto us also a lesson of hope. "I go to prepare a place for you, and if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also." Thus the unknown world becomes home-like and heaven is made near and dear. This promise received by faith and vitally appropriated, exactly meets and completely defeats our dread of death. Men dread to die not so much because they are loathe to give up the delights of this life, nor because they shrink from the mortal pain of the last hour, but chiefly because of the utter strangeness of the awful plunge into the un-

A London correspondent states that Germany has offered to extend the Serbian boundaries in the direction of Bosnia and Herzegovina and re-establish the kingdom under Austro-German suzerainty with Prince Eitel Frederick, Emperor William's second son, on the Serbian throne. Prince Eitel Frederick, gene known as Prince Eitel, was born in 1883 and was married in 1906 to Princess Sophie Charlotte of Oldenburg. The couple have no children. Prince Eitel has performed much service in the war and has been wounded.

Thus the unknown world becomes home-like and heaven is made near and dear. This promise received by faith and vitally appropriated, exactly meets and completely defeats our dread of death. Men dread to die not so much because they are loathe to give up the delights of this life, nor because they shrink from the mortal pain of the last hour, but chiefly because of the utter strangeness of the awful plunge into the unknown. This dreadful strangeness of death is two-fold: it is an unknown journey; it is finally an unknown destination. Our souls are to be hurled away by an unknown storm; they are to be buried at last upon an unknown shore.

And yet for millions all this dreadful fulness has been done away. They have heard and believed the words of Christ. The last journey will not be desolate nor lonely, for He "will come again and receive you." The eternal destination will no longer be strange and dreadful, for He is gone to prepare a place for you, and says, "where I am, there ye may be also. We are not to be swept away as by a strange storm, but to drift out on a summer sea.

Sunset and evening star, And one clear call for me, And may there be no meaning of the bar, When I put out to sea.

For the from out our bourne of time and place, The tide may bear me far, I hope to see my Pilot face to face, When I have crossed the bar."

Nor are we to be cast naked and unready on an unknown shore. But our bark will softly rest on golden sands, and while angelic voices sing the welcome song our Pilot will gently lead us into the soul's familiar home. Beautiful are these words of Phillips Brooks: "Heaven is not only real because His humanity is there, not merely glorious because His creature is there. It is dear because His love is there." And beautiful too are the dying words of Charles Kingsley: "It is not darkness I am going to, for God is light. It is not lonely for Christ is with me. It is not an unknown country, for Christ is there."

SOME NEW AND INTERESTING CHAPTERS IN EARLY HISTORY OF TEXAS ARE GIVEN IN WORK BY FORMER TEXAS PROFESSOR

To Professor Herbert E. Bolton, Nueces River came to be regarded as the boundary. On the north, Texas was generally regarded by Spanish explorers as extending to the Red River. During all the period of the country was the province of Texas and of the San Antonio district was not considered a part of Texas. Speaking broadly, the province of Texas was the territory between the Colorado and the Red River, but at later dates the boundaries were variously extended to the San Antonio River settlements and to Matagorda Bay, and then westward to the Medina River. SEVERE PUNISHMENT

Of Mrs. Chappell, of Five Years' Standing, Relieved by Cardui.

Mt. Airy, N. C.—Mrs. Sarah M. Chappell of this town, says: "I suffered for five years with womanly troubles, also stomach troubles, and my punishment was more than any one could tell. I tried most every kind of medicine, but none did me any good. I read one day about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I decided to try it. I had not taken but about six bottles until I was almost cured. It did me more good than all the other medicines I had tried, put together. My friends began asking me why I looked so well, and I told them about Cardui. Several are now taking it. Do you, lady reader, suffer from any of the ailments due to womanly trouble, such as headache, backache, sideache, sleeplessness, and that everlasting tired feeling? If so, let us urge you to give Cardui a trial. We feel confident it will help you, just as it has a million other women in the past half century. Begin taking Cardui to-day. You won't regret it. 1911, when he was offered the chair of American history in the University of California, with which institution he is still connected. During his connection with the University of Texas Professor Bolton spent his summers in the investigation of Mexican archives, and the results of these years are nearly embodied in the present volume.

"The assembling of these materials," says Professor Bolton, "has been the greater part of my task during thirteen years. My quest has been as romantic as the search for the Golden Fleece. I have delved in the dust of the archives of church and State in Mexico City, in a dozen Mexican State capitals, in Natchitoches, La., and in numerous places in Texas. The distance traveled in pursuit of documents would carry the weary traveler, I have traveled with the peddlers to ruinous old mountain towns, all of the way, villages in the mountains of Mexico. I count among the treasures of my personal archive the letters of introduction from ambassadors, secretaries of state and government, cardinals, archbishops, bishops, and parish priests, who have smoothed my way. My researchers have taken me out into hundreds of foreign archives in quest of records, but also over hundreds of miles of old trails in Texas, Louisiana and other parts of the Southwest in search of topographical and archeological data. I have ridden by team long distances over the old San Antonio road, where no railroads run, and on horseback, in mud-flooding deep, over the historic trail from Natchitoches, the old French outpost of Louisiana, to San Antonio, the Spanish outpost of Texas. In a successful search for the lost San Saba mine, I have ridden and tramped in the hills of the Llano and Colorado. To examine the ruins and map out the sites of the forgotten missions near Itaska, I have swam and forded rivers, and tramped back and forth, up and down, the valleys of the San Gabriel.

Numerous important discoveries made by Professor Bolton are disclosed for the first time in these special studies. On the Gageitas River, near the shores of Lavaca Bay, he identified the location of La Salle's fort. He has shown that the San Xavier River is the same as the old San Xavier River, and hence has been able to locate authoritatively the Franciscan missions of San Xavier, which even Bartolome de Alvarado, who drove the Spaniards from the Gulf, had even dared guess the identity of the San Xavier River, on which the missions are known to have been established; and even farther west, in his conjecture, saying that the river was a branch of the Colorado, of the Brazos, or of the Colorado, giving considerable latitude, since these streams are from fifty to seventy-five miles apart in their middle courses.

Besides these discoveries, Professor Bolton has given in his book a detailed account of the troubles of the French and Spanish missionaries and soldiers with the Indians, their clashes with each other and among themselves. It is the conviction of the author that it is only through the detailed study of such episodes that we shall be able to determine the true character of the Spanish colonial government and its consideration but had been given full space to administrative as well as a narrative history.

Well illustrated. The volume is well illustrated with maps and facsimiles. While the material here presented is treated historically, the studies contain much interest to the ethnologist, and the student of Spanish colonial government will also find much material here illustrative of the Spanish methods of administration.

Professor Bolton's work is not to be rated with the more or less excellent and pseudo historical volumes with which the market is flooded. Taking up a period which has been generally regarded, even by authorities, as unimportant and uninteresting, he has, by the sheer force of his own research, proved the very opposite to be the case, and has not only in this book a standard volume of reference which will perhaps not

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR LITTLE MISS COHEN

An exceptionally pretty Valentine party was given Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Lazarus Cohen of Kemp Court to celebrate the eighth birthday of her daughter, Lila Miriam. The Valentine idea was carried out in everything including the room decorations, the games and contests and the refreshment service, the color motif being red and white with hearts and other Valentine symbols used in profusion. Two prizes were given in an interesting contest, the girl's prize being won by Anna Ruth Kalm while the boys' went to Master Aaron Kruger. The prizes were books and each guest was presented with a dainty Valentine as a souvenir of the happy occasion. Late in the afternoon the little folks, a number of whom were accompanied by their mothers, were ushered into the dining room which was also prettily decorated in red and white hearts. The table was centered with a large cut glass vase filled with red roses and near by the birthday cake occupied a place of honor, the white-frosted top being ornamented with the red candles, one for each year of the honoree's age. Brick ice cream in red and white and cake with candles were served. The guests included: Odessa Katz, Aaron Kruger, Rose Marion Art, Virginia Robertson, Virginia Herron, Margabe Brown, Rotta Bernard, Anna Ruth Kalm, Darrell Kalm, Nathalie Lebeson, Albert Cohen, Billy Hood, Daniel Cohen, Janice Gerhard, Byron Wright, Phoebe Thompson, Elsie Cohen, Harry Cohen, Dorothy Ziskind, Gertrude Sween, Isabella Hartsough. The grown ups who were present included: Mesdames P. Kleinman, J. L. Art, Harry Katz, Sam Kruger, Sid Bernstein, Louis Cohen, Lebeson, J. Cohen, Green of Electra, Miss Rose Reisenberg of Sherman and Miss Madeline Kalm of Dallas.

MANY FIELDS AND FOIBLES NOTED IN STYLE SUGGESTION FOR THIS SEASON

New York, Feb. 5.—The dress up fashion seems to have taken a strong hold on us, one and all. Our show windows present wonderful changes each day, and our avenue has become a veritable kaleidoscope of attractively gowned and hatted women. Perhaps it is the opening of the new season with its suggestion of coming spring, although the frost and snap of old winter still lingers, which causes us to look with more appreciative eyes than usual on the new offerings in frocks, suits and hats. But leaving aside these flattering flatterments, there is really more of beauty and smartness in this season's styles than we have had for many a year.

Ostrich Trimming on Frocks. Fur is still the smart trimming for all garments, and it promises to re-colors in millinery are, generally speaking, black, which is quite as strong as ever, geranium pink, abstin- the polished gold, mint green and baby chick, the last a charmingly suggestive title.

Among the attractive millinery notions being displayed in the shops, and worn at the southern resorts, are main in favor well into the spring. There is already a hint here and there, however, that designers and manufacturers are tentatively reaching out for an attractive successor. In one of the smart shops the other morning, a most attractive afternoon dress was displayed. It was made in Russian effect, was very simple and sprightly ornamented, the only trimming, in fact, being bands of ostrich in the same shade of blue as the dress, edging the high, standing collar, the cuffs and the lower edge of the blouse-peplum. The effect was pleasing and perfectly appropriate for the warmer weather.

Trimnings for Spring Hats.

Whether ostrich as trimming for hats will be favored to any great degree, is still a question; that it will be used considerably, as in the past season or two, for fancies, odd little effects, on the chic small hats which are being introduced as first models for spring, has already been confirmed. Many handmade hats are being shown this season. The new braids are mostly shiny; glaze effects will predominate, although one sees some effective dull finished hems and tails. A new glaze braid from Paris resembles nothing so much as the scales of a fish and it is appropriately named fish scale straw. Some flowers will be used on the new hats and quantities of ribbon. The new

GOVERNMENT'S FARM WORK IN OKLAHOMA VALUABLE

The traffic department of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern has issued the following: Much has been said and written about intensified farming and the wonderful results it is possible to obtain by exercising care in the selection of seeds, the time of planting, the preparation of the soil, and the cultivation and gathering of the crops. The following information would indicate the wisdom and necessity of adopting better methods of farming. We are greatly interested in the yield per acre on the farms along our line of railway, since we have been advised by the grain dealers of Oklahoma that our railway reaches the best producing section of the state.

For the past several years the Federal Government has been organizing boys and girls into clubs for the purpose of interesting them in scientific farming and stock raising. In 1915 there was a total club membership in Oklahoma of 12,500, of which 6,000 were boys and 6,500 were girls. Prizes were offered by the government for the best results in the various departments. In the corn growing contest 4,500 boys and girls participated and the high yield of 117.7 bushels per acre was the result, with an average yield of 48 bushels per acre for 4,500 entries. In the kafir corn contest about the same number of youths participated. The high yield per acre was 89 bushels and the average was 48 bushels. In the cotton growing contest still more remarkable results were obtained. Two-acre tracts were used, instead of one, for the experiments. The high yield on a two-acre tract was 5693 pounds. The average yield was 1218 pounds.

When it is taken into consideration that the average yield of corn in Oklahoma for 1915 was approximately 25 bushels and the yield of kafir corn was only 20 bushels per

Placed in Full Control of Charities Work By Ministerial Alliance

The appointment of Capt. H. G. Robb as dispenser of the funds of the United Charities of this city for the ensuing year and a hearty endorsement of the work he has accomplished at this post the past year was the feature of the Ministerial Alliance meeting this morning.

There has been some misunderstanding in the past year of the work of the Charity Association, it not being generally understood that Captain Robb had charge of the charity work for all the churches as well as that of the Army and in some cases the churches have received some criticism for their seeming lack of interest and activity.

OIL CONTRACTS AT $1.70 BARREL ARE BEING MADE

PIPE LINES BUYING PRODUCTION FOR YEAR IN ADVANCE AT 40 CENTS BONUS OVER PRESENT MARKET PRICE

COMPETITION CAUSE

Efforts of Small Refineries to Get Production Results in Higher Quotations—Producers Tied Up at Lower Figures

Contracts for oil production at 20 to 40 cents over the current market price of $1.30 per barrel are being made in Wichita County by the big pipe line companies, whose needs are in excess of their supply at present.

Still Higher in Oklahoma. Just which of the big companies are making the $1.70 contracts is not ascertained definitely, local officials professing ignorance on the subject, but the Magnolia and Pierce-Fordyce companies are understood to be closing for production on that basis.

While the high price results in considerable additional money being paid for oil in this country, the situation is not without its unfavorable features. The action of the pipe lines works a hardship on the independent refiners, some of which are said to be having trouble in getting crude, as the $1.70 contracts are somewhat above the 20 and 25 cents bonus paid by the small refiners.

Small Refineries Are Factor. It is not likely, in view of the present conditions, that there will be any further advance in the posted price. The only effect of an advance would be to force the independent refiners to pay higher prices for their crude, and the producers who sell to the pipe line companies would not be benefited.

In addition to the Wichita Valley and Panhandle refining companies there are several other independent concerns that are factors in the oil market in this country. The Dixie Refining company of San Antonio has contracted for the rental oil on the Swagener lease, one of the most productive leases in the field, at 20 cents over the market price.

Market Report

Fort Worth Livestock, Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 7.—Cattle receipts 2600, steady. Deeves $6 to $8. Hog receipts 6000, five cents lower. Bulk $7.75 to $7.95, Sheep receipts 200 active and steady. Lambs $8.50 to $10.

New York Cotton, New York, Feb. 7.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of three to four points today in response to relatively steady cables. May contracts selling at 12.05 and July at 12.45 on the call. There appeared to be a more optimistic feeling over international politics which was promoted by the strong opening of the stock market but there appeared to be no aggressive demand around the initial prices. The market soon eased back to 12 cents for May and 12.14 for July. Washington advices indicated a favorable prospect for settlement of the Lusitania dispute late in the forenoon. Cotton closed steady with March 11.84, May 12.04, July 12.16, October 12.20, December 12.33.

Chicago Grain, Chicago, Feb. 7.—Free selling in leading houses brought about a material decline today in wheat. Holders appeared discouraged by the uncertain outlook of export business owing to adlogers from German raiders in the Atlantic and because of centralizing of foreign government control of European buying. Opening prices which ranged from 1/2 lower to 1-8 advance were followed by a decided general break and then a moderate rally. First quotations were 1.33 to 1.35 1/2 for May. Talk of larger receipts led to a severe break later. Wheat closed weak 3 7/8 and 4 to 5 cents net lower, with May at 1.27 7/8 and July at 1.20 7/8 to 1.21. Corn and oats were similarly affected.

By Associated Press. Clarinda, Iowa, February 7.—Colonel William P. Hepburn former member of congress from this district, died today after a long illness. Colonel William P. Hepburn, although twenty years in congress became best known throughout the country during the Roosevelt administration. It was he who framed what later was called the Hepburn law, prohibiting rebates and discrimination of railroads. As chairman of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce in the first session of the fifty-ninth congress he was the author of three acts out of five which the President Roosevelt afterward declared would cause the cause of its constructive legislation. Of the five acts, four came from Col. Hepburn's committee and three of them, the Hepburn law, the pure food act, and the public health act, were framed by Col. Hepburn himself. Mr. Hepburn represented the Eighth Iowa district. He also was an efficient soldier and a lawyer of high reputation. He was a product of the early pioneer days in Iowa and got what little schooling he had in three winters at an academy near Iowa City. He was born in Columbiana County, Ohio, November 4, 1852.

By Associated Press. FATHER WAS RIGHT

YOU'LL always be right if you tie to "Tux," because that's the right tobacco, all right! Get a tin right away. Then it'll be smoke-up and cheer-up without a let-up seven days in the week and fifty-two weeks in the year. A pipeful of "Tux" gives you that money-in-the-bank feeling, like finding a ten-dollar bill in the vest pocket of last season's suit.

The original "Tuxedo Process" brings out the unsurpassed mildness, delicate fragrance and mellow flavor of the leaf in a way that has never been successfully imitated. At the same time it refines the tobacco until every trace of harshness and "bite" disappears. You will find in Tuxedo a smoke that is wholesome and in every way beneficial to both mind and body. Tuxedo is a mild, temperate tobacco that soothes and comforts with every whiff. Smoke all you like of Tuxedo!

R. L. GOLDBERG Famous Cartoonist-Creator "Foolish Questions" and "I'm the Guy," etc. "I find in Tuxedo a good tobacco. Its fragrance and flavor are fine. I use it regularly and endorse it highly to all my friends." R. L. Goldberg one army that actually is suffering from the want of tobacco. The 200,000 soldiers who are stubbornly holding to the last few miles of their country must look outside help for this solace and comfort.

A well organized movement for supplying tobacco to these soldiers has just been launched in the United States and a fund is being raised for the purpose. Hon. Joseph H. Special to The Times. New York, February 7.—One of the surprises of the European war is the realization that tobacco, instead of being a luxury or the evil that many good people have thought of to be actually a necessity in modern warfare. Soldiers who were smokers, but have no means of procuring tobacco while at war, have suffered much misery, added to their other hardships, for the want of it.

It happens that the Belgian is the one army that actually is suffering from the want of tobacco. The 200,000 soldiers who are stubbornly holding to the last few miles of their country must look outside help for this solace and comfort.

PERSONAL SERVICE!

Is it not a convenience to be in personal touch with the man that roasts your coffee? Then if it don't suit your individual taste you can explain just what you want and get it. Our blends are the result of a quarter of a century of painstaking research and experiment. Every pound of coffee is tested in the cup before purchase and every blend is put together with as much care as your druggist uses in filling a prescription—and best of all they are FRESH ROASTED.
