BOLTERS TO COME BACK UNSCATHED

Demo Party Bolter In No Danger of Rebuke for Backing Ma.

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Record News Staff.

AUSTIN, Texas, June. 28.—A noted politician of Texas, speaking of the meeting of the state committee in the city of Waco, said to the writer:

"Pat does not know the value of real publicity; Jim does. Jim went before the committee and made this declaration, 'There were no professional windjammers in this legislature.. The man who talked just to hear his head rattle soon found out he wasn't appreciated. By cutting down the state expenses, $8,000,000 and taking up $2,000,000 in deficit from the preceding administration. the legislature has saved Texas $10,000,000 and has shown that state taxes can be reduced and held within [illegible]. This shows that Jim knows the value of publicity." Old Ben Butler of Massachusetts was the cleverest politician of his time. He said to a reporter, while a fierce campaign was on, 'just so my enemies do not call me a damn fool I don't care what they say. There is something in his attitude.'"

So much for Pat; so much for Jim. Jim was resting in the shade of the highway from the public picture [illegible]. A Chicago reporter dragged Well to the limelight, false or true, screams received more publicity in a way than has been handed to Philadelphia he returned to private life. Never ever in the lime light; he knows how to get there.

CICERO LEWELYN of Dallas is a member of the state committee He spotlights with painful regularity and has been spotlighting for years. He dearly loves a row and he has the courage of his own conviction. He asked that the state committee "should pass a resolution rebuking those who deserted the party at the last election" He said:

"I feel strongly on the question of party regularity and solidarity and I [illegible] those who would thrust [illegible] their party's bosom and [illegible] of the ticket as so many [illegible]. I went to the polls at [illegible] general election and voted for every ku klux nominee, although I knew that they were knifing the nominee for governor.'

Cicero's plea fell on deaf ears. It is ignored. More than 200,000 men and women who call themselves democrats voted against the nominee for governor. Now what of the future! Are they to be rebuked If so, what's the harm of a slap on the wrist? Are they to be barred? If so, how will it be done?

In the pro campaign of 1887 according to the history of the Texas democracy, the pros were defeated. Then the victors who were antis declared that a pro could not be a democrat, and a heart of oak platform to this effect was demanded.

It failed to work. Now the pros are seated on the top of the world, and the issue is a dead issue.

THEN came the Hogg-Clark bolt. Thousands of democrats, including most of the leaders and all the big newspapers with one exception, bolted the nomination of Hogg. Hogg won, and the more radical of his followers demanded that the Clark bolters should be read out of the party. Time rolled on. A great harmony meeting was held. Hogg and Clark embraced. Their lieutenants embraced. Many of the followers of the rival cheiftains celebrated the event by punishing hugh quantities of red licker. This happened at the Oriental hotel in the city of Dallas. Then came the populists and 150,000 bolted the regular democratic nominees, not in one election but in two or three elections. Were they barred by the faithful? Not much. Their leaders returned to the democratic party and the sheep came back with the leaders.

Gore went to Oklahoma and became a United States senator; Cyclone Davis remained in Texas and was elected to congress; C. H. Jinkins became a high court judge. They all came back. It was the same in the Free Silver campaign. It was the same in the farmers alliance campaign. It was the same in the farm-labor campaign.

NOW what's going to happen next year? Will it be an olive branch or a club. Cicero calls for a rebuke: there are others who are calling for political ostracism, the sinners to go away back in the amen corner until they can show that they have thoroughly repented their transgressions.

This is near the approach of the dog day. This is an off year. There will be a meeting of the state committee in the city of Wichita Falls late in the coming fall. Mother Neffs park will be dedicated in July. No doubt it will be a very harmless affair. Medicine mixers will be there, not in great numbers, it is predicted.

SPEAKING of parks, they are good things Speaking of Pat Neff, Neff, he should be praised for his efforts to give the people of Texas a chain of state parks from the Gulf to the mountains and from the Red to the Rio Grande rivers. Speaking of Pat Neff again, there should have been an appropriation made by the 39th legislature for the maintenance of parks that the Neff effort had given to the commonwealth.

This at least is the view or opinion of the writer who believes that the day will come when the people will demand state parks, the lawmakers will bow to the demand and then the landowners will be paid fancy prices for the contemplated pleasure spots as well as beauty spots of the Lone Star state.

This is the conclusion of "the smoke 'em out" series of political skits forthe edification of the people as well as their amusement called forth by the adventures of a former governor while in the city of Chicago in

Two New York Ministers To Be Invited As Witnesses

MORE PROMISED

Malone Off to New York To Add Clergymen To List

CHICAGO, June 28.—(AP)—Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick and Rev. Percy Stickney Grant were discussed today as additional prospective witnesses in the Scopes trial.

While positive announcement that the two New York churchmen, both of whom are noted for their liberal interpretation of the scriptures will testify was withheld by Clarence Darrow and Dudley Field Malone, assistant counsel for the Tennessee school teacher, after their conference here today, it was revealed that the final decision in the matter of their appearance at Dayton next month rested with the ministers, rather than with the defense attorneys.

Malone to New York.

Mr. Malone will leave for New York tomorrow evening to submit the matter to the clergymen, and if they accept two theologians from the front ranks of the liberal forces will be added to the list of defense witnesses.

A number of others prominent in the realm of theology and of science were considered at today's conference and a tentative program of the defense action outlined preparatory for a final consideration of arrangements tomorrow at a conference in which Darrow and Malone will be joined by Dr. John R. Neal, senior counsel for the defense. Mr. Neal arrived in Chicago this evening but was unable to get in touch with his colleagues in time to participate in the Sunday conference.

"We are planning tentatively to add to our list of witnesses, perhaps as many names as have already been published," Mr. Darrow said after today's conversation with Mr. Malone. "But we are not yet in a position to say who may be called. We try always to first get in touch with the man we are considering."

Two Questions.

The defense attorneys are proceeding on the assumption that their case will be directed to bring about a judicial consideration of two distinct questions which they hold to be at issue in the case of Mr. Scopes—first, whether the state has the constitutional power to decree what shall or shall not be taught in the public institutions of learning, and secondly, whether, if the state is held to have such regulatory power, it may decree instruction imparting knowledge or conclusions in philosophy which may be adjudged by qualified scholars to be not in harmony with contemporary thought.

Weather Man Puts On Hotest Fire For City Sunday

Super-heated streets that were blazing, blistering expanses of hot concrete; a dry, parching atmosphere; winds that scorched and blistered; a steaming, sweating populace and a thermometer that registered an unofficial 105—that is a composite picture of Wichita Falls Sunday.

That it was easily the warmest day of the year was the opinion of those who put in a lazy day under electric fans and with brimming pitchers of ice water close at hand. The reading of the government weather bureau maintained by the Wichita Falls Electric company was not available, but the thermometer at Arts and one at a local cafe both reached a fraction above 105 at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

LYRICS OF LIFE
By Douglas Malloch
I Do Not Know.

I DO not know, I am not sure,
But still my loved ones come to me,
When I have something to endure,
Some cold inhospitality.
When some unkindness makes me weep,
When wearily I fall asleep,
They come, the loved of long ago,
Or so it seems—I do not know.

I am not sure; but I have crept
Heart-hungry to my bed at night,
And it has seemed that while I slept
They came with footsteps swift and light
And stood beside, me, that I heard
Beloved voice, familiar word.
It seemed my loved ones came to cure
The day's sharp wounds—I am not sure.

I am not sure. Returning day
Brings morning breeze and morning gleam,
And those about me smile, and say
"They did not come, you did but dream."
"And yet I saw them—who were these?"
"These were but tender memories,
They were but dreams." It may be so:
I am not sure—I do not know.

It is the purpose of the finance corporation to foster the organization of the railway company and secure subscriptions to $3,000,000 worth of preferred stock and the same amount in bonds. Lola N. Carroll, 48, Is Fatally Wounded In Drink Stand

LIVES FIVE HOURS

Shooting Follows Altercation Sunday At Noon; Police Move Girl

Lola N. Carroll, a brakeman employed by the Fort Worth and Denver railway, was shot and fatally wounded at 11:30 Sunday morning following a scuffle in the O. C. Williams cold drink stand, a negro establishment just east of the railroad and at the south end of the Denver yards. Carroll died in the general hospital at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Negress Charged.

Ella McJunkin, an 18-year-old negro girl faces a formal charge of murder as a result of the shooting. She and her brother, Sam, were arrested immediately after the affair and taken to the city police station. A few minutes later, however, both were turned over to Sheriff Fred K. Smith and after being questioned by District Attorney James V. Allred were removed from the county. Officers declined to say where the two prisoners had been taken but asserted they were "moved from Wichita Falls merely as a precautionary measure."

The shooting came, officials were told, during an altercation involving the negress, her brother and Carroll. The latter is said to have gone into the store and purchased a bottle of cold soda water to obtain relief from the severe heat. A controversy started that led to words between Carroll and the negro man, and while this was in progress the shooting occurred.

Shot Through Head.

When officers arrived in response to excited calls they found Carroll lying on the floor in a pool of blood, a bullet wound in the right side of the head, near the back of the skull, and another on the left side, nearer the front, where the same shot passed out. He had been shot squarely through the brain and physicians expressed surprise that he was able to live as long as he did.

Carroll, whose home was at 1607 Elizabeth street, was 48 years of age. He had lived in Wichita Falls a number of years and was also a veteran employe of the Denver. Among fellow workmen he was known as quiet and dependable, a man well liked and well respected.

He leaves as a survivor his widow, Mrs. Mae Carroll, an employe of The Parisian store. He had no children.

The remains were removed to the Merkle funeral parlors and prepared for burial. Funeral services will be held at 6 o'clock Monday evening from the residence with members of his union attending in a body. Burial will follow in Rosemont burial park.

German Embassy Is Cause of Criticism

BERLIN, June 28.—Clara Mende, member of the Reichstag and German delegate to the recent international congress of women in Washington, is disgusted with the condition of the German embassy building in the American capital and with what she characterizes as the penurious attitude of the German foreign office toward Ambassador Baron von Maltzan. Writing in Dr. Gustav Stresemann's organ Die Zeit, Frau Mende describes how humiliated the German delegates to the women's congress felt over the fact that the ambassador was unable to entertain more than six people at one time; at the dilapidated appearance of the embassy; at the "shabby" pictures sent to it for decoration, and at the "impossible" chandeliers that disfigure the reception room.

"In America," she writes, "where much importance is attached to outward things, especially social matters, it is nothing short of a crime toward our whole work as a nation to pay representatives so poorly that they cannot compete socially with their colleagues."

"Scopes Trial Just a Legal Test," Judge P. A. Martin Declares

RAPS "CRANKS" AS HE APPEARS FOR JUDGE KAY

Evolution Dispute One For Settlement Of Court

The Scopes evolution trial in Dayton, Ohio, next week is just to be an interpretation of legal questions, Judge P. A. Martin told members of the Kay Bible class Sunday morning when he spoke at the Strand theatre in place of Judge John C. Kay.

Judge Martin asserted a belief in miracles and assailed "the cranks" who are making a big racket over a supposed controversy between science and religion.

His address was as follows:

"It would be impossible for me, as it would be impossible for any other man that I know, to take the place of your wonderful teacher of this class. I have known John C. Kay for ever 35 years, perhaps, longer than anyone in this house. I have enjoyed his friendship without a rift or without a cloud for over 35 years. I know his heart. I know the kind of a man he is, and I want to congratulate you upon your wonderful teacher. He is a man whose heart is in the right place and a man whose mind is beyond all compare; the most brilliant mind that I know of. So, I say, I am not here to take his place; I could not do it and no one else could do it.

A Miracle Again.

"Your lesson this morning is the story of a miracle, and just now, the question of miracles comes to the front again. Oh, it has been bobbing up and bobbing up all these years down in the history of this old world. It comes to the front again, just at this particular time, by reason of the fact that there is a gathering in one of our southern states, around a little county seat town of people who deny miracles on one side, and people who believe in miracles on the other. They are brought there because of the fact that there is a trial to be held; a trial that involves the teaching of Darwinian evolution in the public schools in the state of Tennessee, and cranks of all kinds on both sides of that question are gathering from all four corners of the earth in that little town, and I notice in the latest papers that the police department have decided to guard the public water works of that town to see that no violence happens to the people by the water being poisoned, and that the people of that little town are permitted to live over it. I hope they do live over it. However, it would be a fortunate thing, I expect, for the world at large, if some of the cranks who have gathered there on both sides of this question, should happen to get ahold of a little poisoned water and not get back to their home town and scatter the poisonous propaganda.

A Legal Question.

"It is simply a legal question, whether or not this particular statute of the state is constitutional, according to the state of Tennessee, and that is all there is to it. It is a question for the court and lawyers to determine, and not for the religionists and anti-religionists to determine Nevertheless, they are going there from all parts of the country, and we may expect the press to be brimful of news from that little Tennessee town. I believe in miracles, but that would be immaterial over there, what my belief would be. In fact, it is immaterial, in that case, what anybody's belief would be.

"I believe in miracles. I believe that the miracle which we have recorded here today occurred just as the Bible says it. "There came unto Him one that was a leper, and knelt down before Him, and said: 'Lord, if Thou wilt, Thou canst make me clean'." Leprosy was supposed to be an incurable disease, and is yet supposed to be an incurable disease. It requires the power of Almighty God to cure a leper. It always did require the power of Almighty God to cure a leper, and that's why leprosy is a type of sin. It requires the power of God to cure sin, to cleanse the human heart, and to make it new. "Ye must be born again," saith the Moster. "Ye must have a new heart," saith the Master. He performed these physical miracles for a purpose, and the purpose was, as He, Himself, expressed it, "that ye may know that the Son of Man hath power to forgive sin." "I say unto you, arise, take up thy bed and walk." He said, when they were doubting His power to forgive sin, He performed a physical miracle to prove that He had all power, that He was in deed and in truth the Son of God, as well as the Son of Man. These poor lepers, lost without the intervention of God, required to live outside the pales of civilization, required to go outside the walls of the city, or the confines of the village in which they may have lived; required to cover the face down to the lower lip with a cloth; required to cry out "Unclean! Unclean!" to all the world, to prevent people coming in contact with them.

Had Compassion.

"The most pitiable objects on the face of the earth. No wonder the Savior had compassion upon him, as He expressed his faith in Him as He said: "Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean." He touched him, cleansed him, and then, like the Savior that he was, obedient to all laws and respecting all laws and all authority, He said: "Go and show yourself to the priest. Go obey the law of Moses. Show yourself to the priest, and make the offering that the law of Moses commands you make. Tell no man about this and go on. Go, first of all, and obey the law." And, the man went on his way rejoicing and spread the news to everybody, just like everybody has done throughout the history of the ages, who has come in touch with the hand of the Man of Galilee.

"I am reminded here of a miracle. I say it is a miracle, that I myself heard on the 15th day of last December. A modern miracle. I was over in this state of Tennessee, in the city of Nashville, and happened to drop into a meeting being held there by Billy Sunday. Many of you have heard him preach. I heard his wonderful sermon and saw hundreds and hundreds of them "hit the saw dust trail," as Billy calls it, and go up and profess religion. As I walked away through the crowd, I just casually remarked to a couple of men who were walking along beside me, who seemed to be artisans or laboring man, judging from their appearance: "That is a wonderful man and he seems to be doing a lot of good." One of the men turned around to me and he said: "stranger, I want to say to you, you don't know anything about what a wonderful man that is. Up to three weeks ago, I was drinking a quart of moonshine whiskey every day, until I come under the influence of this meeting, and got in touch with the wonderful power of the saving grace of Jesus Christ and, since that time, I haven't touched a drop, and my wife and my children, for the first time in years and years, are happy and contented, have got plenty to wear and plenty to eat and so help me God, I'll never touch another drop of it." I say to you, my friend, that a miracle was performed by this same Savior right there, when that man, among the other hundreds and thousands came in touch with the Savior of men.

All About It.

"Miracles? They are all about us. They are all around us, and we only have to go back in our own experience to dig up miracle after miracle, if we will. Why should we argue about this kind of a thing? Why should there be any discussion Those who believe stand on vastly different ground from those who do not. Except a man come in touch with the spiritual, he cannot understand the spiritual any more than a fish down yonder in the water can understand why the mocking bird is singing up here in the tree, or why the eagle is soaring in his flight between the sun and the mountain cliff; no more can the man, who has never tasted of the good things of a spiritual life, understand it, than can the serpent that crawls through the grass understand the maneuvers of the aeroplane up yonder in the skies. They both occupy a vastly different sphere; a sphere on which one does not understand the other and, consequently, I am not surprised, and we need not be surprised that there are hundreds and thousands of people who think, and vainly think, that they may be able to thrash out this kind of a subject over there in this little town in Tennessee, during the trial of this little, petty misdemeanor case on trial over there. There are people who think, and vainly think, that science may furnish the solution of the problem of human life. There are people who think, and vainly think, that by argument you can change those who believe that science furnished the solution to the problem, to a belief that the Bible, alone, furnished the solution. Oh, what an idle thing it is for men to doubt the miracles of God. If He wanted men to descend from a monkey, if that was His divine plan, of course, he could do it that way.

"That reminds me of another little thing I will tell you. I was traveling one day with two eminent geologists. You all know, perhaps, what I am talking about when I speak of "eminent geologists." They were having a wonderful argument about what this crude oil was, being produced out of the ground here, that is adding wealth every hour and every minute to our country. One of them said it is an animal oil. He stated it was created away back yonder in prehistoric times when the water dried off of the face of the earth and the great fish and animals they had in that day and time all died, and it was an awful hot time in this old world, and the oil was baked out of them and fried out of them and got covered up with geological strata during the millions of years that followed. And, when we drill down and pass what was at that time the bottom of the desert, the frying pan, as it was, of the world—when the drill goes down and strikes that, what you really bring us is animal oil.

"The other man said, 'you are dead wrong about that. This is a vegetable oil. It is not a mineral oil. The vegetable comes from trees, and grass, and shrubbery, and flowers; the great growth of the tropical country at that age of the world, fell down and the oil pressed out of it and accumulated by the dust of the ages, and rocks encrusted over it and, when the drill goes down it strikes vegetable oil, instead of mineral oil.' The argument became quite warm, and finally one of them turned to me and said: 'Stranger, what do you think about it' I said: 'If the great Master wanted to make oil that way, He could do it either way that you have arranged for Him to do it. So far as I am individually concerned, it is immaterial to me whether it is mineral oil or vegetable oil or animal oil. The beauty of it is, that God has arranged to place it there for you and for me, telling this old world just at the time when we needed something like that for fuel, for locomotion and other things in this world, and God did it. And, it is utterly immaterial to me. He had a perfect right and had power to distill it out of trees or fish, so why argue about something that doesn't make any difference. He simply made it, and put the strata over it, for mankind to use, and nobody can prove the theory.'

A Helpless Soldier.

"Miracles Yes. One other little miracle and I will close. In this old trouble of life, about three weeks ago, I visited an old-time soldier of the cross, a man who had been, for 30 or 40 years, a minister of the gospel of the church that I belong to, a man who died here in our city. I had known him for nearly 40 years and, in his old age, he was helpless for weeks and weeks. I went and sat down by his bedside, just three weeks ago today, and I talked with him about the kind of life that he had been leading, and the number of souls that had been saved during his ministry. I said: 'My brother, it must be that you feel perfectly satisfied with the life that you have spent and ready and willing to meet your Master, for I am sure that when you meet Him, He is going to say: 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant.'' He said: 'Yes, Bro, Martin, as I lie here on my back and look up toward the skies, I sometimes feel that I can almost see those pearly gates swinging wide, and almost hear the angels' voices inviting me to come in. I know that my Redeemer liveth. I know that He is there and, before many days, I shall see Him face to face. And, Thank God, Bro. Martin, I am going to meet, also, that companion of my life that you knew so well, who went with me throughout northwest Texas as a circuit rider, faithfully, for years and years, but who left me just a few years ago and went on up there. I shall see my Savior first, and my good wife, second. Yes, it won't be long.' And, it wasn't long. He is now buried and his spirit up yonder. Thank God, men, for a faith like that and a comfort like that. Let me live the life of the righteous, and let my last end be right there. You can't disturb my faith."

PASTOR DEFENDS EVOLUTION

Waco Church Crowded During the Sermon

WACO, June 28.—A crowded church including many prominent leaders in other denominations this morning heard Rev. W. P. Witsell, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, defend the theory of evolution and declare it a pity that "such light and inspiration should become darkness and a source of confusion by the operation of inherited prejudices an unwillingness to face the facts."

Referring to evolution, "not as any particular theory such as Darwinism, but as the general principle of progressive life and development," Mr. Witsell said that so far from contradicting evolution, the Bible itself "strongly indicates and intelligently prepares the believer for evolution in some form."

Quoting Genesis, to the effect that "God created man from dust of the earth." Dr. Witsell called attention to the fact that in no place did the Bible say how long it took God to create man from the dust, and that it was after this creation that God breathed "His spirit into man."

THREE PRISONERS ESCAPE

Military Prisoners Row Away from Pen

NEW YORK, June 28.—(AP)—Three military prisoners yesterday escaped from Governor's Island in a flat boat which had been tied up at the dock on which they were working. The fugitives rowed to the Brooklyn shore. A general alarm was broadcast.

The prisoners are Michael F. Sullivan of Palmer, Mass., serving a one-year sentence for desertion; James McNorton of Manhattan, serving a three-year sentence for absence without leave, and Charles A. Moody of Brooklyn, who was serving a five-year sentence for desertion.

REAL COMEDY AND DRAMA

All Theatres Offer Unusually Good Shows for First of Week

Real comedy, comedy of the sort that stays on Broadway for record runs, is the offering of the Olympic theatre this week in Florence Vidor's "Marry Me."

The story is the tale of an egg, inscribed with a name and a date, the tale of one of 90,000 John Smiths in the United States, and one Hetty Gandy, a beautiful country school teacher, whose faithfulness throughout five years to a childhood sweetheart is the basis for a corking good moving picture show.

Writes Date On Egg

Hetty Gandy is in love with John Smith, and John Smith with her. He asks her to name the date, and in a spirit of playfulness she inscribes her name and a date on an egg. The egg never reaches the impatient suitor, and he leaves the scene. The years pass and Hetty has grown to have the reputation of an old maid. A break comes when her egg is served as "fresh" to an aspiring young lawyer of New York, who finds its date and name the means of winning a case against the cold storage trust. The complications that arise from the egg, from the name "John Smith" and the humorous rustic background makes a good comedy. It is an adaptation of a stage play that had quite a run in New York.

The Strand offers a story of marriage and the divorce courts in "Love of Women." Robert Herrick marries Cynthia Redfield against the wishes of her family. He is an author: when five years later he has published his "Marital Monotony" a one-time suitor of his wife takes an opportunity to "frame" him into an affair with a Greenwich Village beauty. The letters of the affair, through the working of the plot that the former suitor of his wife has formulated, are divided in half—one-half to his wife, and the other as evidence for a breach of promise suit in the state courts. Divorce and estrangement follow the nublicity and it takes a serious accident to the child of the union to bring the two back together, just on the eve of the signing of the final divorce decree between them.

"Lilies of Streets"

A screen portrayal of the drama of the city streets, and the tragedy of the betrayal of thousands of unknown girls is offered at the Mission in "Lilies of the Field." The story is of a rich man's daughter, whose parents are too concerned with their own affairs to bother much with those of their daughter. There is an awakening when the police sergeant calls them up and tells them that their daughter is being held for murder. There is a satisfactory end to the story, however. The whole tale is based on the actual experiences of New York's famous policewoman and is unbelievably real and lifelike.

A real wild west picture, "The Sign of the Cactus," starring Jack Hoxie will be shown for the last time at the Garden today.

HINDENBURG NOW A KING

He Is Crowned "King of Sharpshooters" At Recent Festival.

BERLIN, June 28.—President Von Hindenburg recently added the title of "king" to the one he holds as chief executive of the German republic. His monarchy, however, is only one of sharpshooters.

At the annual sharpshooting festival at Leer, Prussia, the retiring president of the sharpshooters, as customary fired three shots in honor of the head of the nation. One of these hit the center of the target in what is called the "King's Disc." According to tradition this means that upon the nation's head is conferred the title of "Schuetzenkofig" or "King of Sharpshooters." President von Hindenburg has accepted the honor.

The last time the bull's eye was hit was in 1903 when Emperor William thereby became the sharpshooter's "king."

NEW YORK STOCK REVIEW

NEW YORK, June 28.—(AP)—Heavy demands upon the supply of surplus funds from the interior and for stock market purposes restricted bond trading last week and prices drifted irregularly lower. With few attractive yields available in the bond list, there were growing indications that the usual July reinvestment demand would be supplied largely by the stock market.

Establishment of record high prices by United States government obligations was the most significant development of the week. In view of the steady reduction in the government's debs, the long term treasury and liberty bonds were in demand and because of their dwindling floating supply little difficulty was experienced in pushing them to new high levels.

Corporation issues moved within narrow limits. Some of the western railroad liens showed a tendency to follow the upward trend of the granger stocks, which was based on the hopeful attitude toward freight rate increases and improvement in the May earnings of these carriers. Alternate rallies and declines marked trading in oil bonds, most of which scored gains for the week.

Fluctuations of foreign obligations were correspondingly limited. Revolutionary disturbances in China and Greece unsettled the bonds of these governments and Japanese issues also felt the effects of uneasiness over the situation. French loans, however, were little disturbed.

KLANSMAN'S TRIAL JULY 6

Monday Officially set for Assault Case

NOBLESVILLE, Ind., June 28.—(AP)—Trial of D. C. Stephenson and two co-defendants on a charge of murdering Miss Madge Oberholtzer of Indianapolis, was set for Monday, July 6, by Judge Fred E. Hines of Hamilton circuit court today.

HIGHWAY BOARD SECRETARY HAS WORK A-PLENTY

Eugene Smith Does More Than His Share Of Work

AUSTIN, June 28.—(AP)—Twice a month the Texas highway commission meets for action. The members give and get it because Eugene Smith, the secretary handles the situation. Incidently, he meets hundreds of visitors from all parts of the state and the United States. They seek everything from a petty job to highway building contracts. It is Mr. Smith's duty to sift the chaff from the wheat, no small matter in itself and politics play an important part.

Exercise Tact.

A man in Secretary Smith's position must exercise tact and diplomacy. He must protect his government from fraud, carry out the policy of the administration, see tha the law is held inviolate, fulfill the desires of the citizenry as far as possible, and act as emissary between the three commissioners. He must appreciate the responsibility of his position for it is an important factor in handling 10,000 miles of highway, valued at millions of dollars, and handling one of three greatest highway building programs in America. He must be capable of absorbing all the punishment of an axis, without becoming sour on the world.

When asked by the Associated Press for a story on the vicissitudes of a secretary's life, Mr. Smith said. "Well, you know that the axis of the world is an imaginary one."

But the axis of the highway commission is anything but imaginary. His is one of the most material positions in Texas government, as the highway department has as much business financially as the remainder of the departments combined. Especially is this true since the change in the law effective June 18, brought maintenance of county highways under state care and made all county highway inspectors, state employes.

In addition to numerous delegations, the new law brings all contractors, county judges and county engineers to Austin for any contract letting. Hearings must be arranged and data gathered. Numerous complications in arranging contracts must be eliminated. Salesmen constantly pass through the secretary's office seeking information. Others seek road building machinery and bridge contracts. Piles of letters of inquiry about major and remote projects are received each day and on the semi-monthly commission meeting days, there are more visitors in Secretary Smith's office than there are in a week at the governor's office.

Does Secretarial Work.

Mr. Smith does the secretarial work for three commissioners. It is his job to keep things running without friction and with a corps of efficient assistants he has been able to keep things revolving around his desk without a squeak.

Ask If All of Booze Evidence Presented

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The judge advocate general of the navy has been asked by Secretary Wilbur whether the prosecution presented all available evidence in the recent court martial here of two women navy nurses on charges of bringing liquor into the United States. The secretary said today he was under the impression that certain written "confessions" had not been offered in evidence. The defendants were promptly acquitted.

Pending a report on the subject Mr. Wilbur is considering the general desirability of recommending reversal of an order issued by President Wilson under which the secretary of the navy can not order a new trial in case of an acquittal.

GIVEN HABEAS CORPUS WRIT

San Antonio Man Released for Contempt of Court.

AUSTIN, June 28.—(AP)—Henry Castro of San Antonio was granted a writ of habeas corpus by the supreme court yesterday and was discharged for contempt of court when his second marriage was held legal by the court. Castro's first wife, Marie Castro, sought dissolution of Castro's second marriage because he married within a year after she obtained a divorce for alleged cruel treatment, in disobedience to instructions given by the trial court. The supreme court held that the second mortgage was not void and the instructions of the court were not according to law.

Dallas Fair Books Broadway Company

DALLAS, Texas, June 28.—Booking a Broadway musical company of 108 artists headed by a star for a state fair is considered in the show world as somewhat of a departure from things in general. It has been accomplished by the managers of the Texas State Fair, which opens in Dallas, October 10.

"Sky High," a Broadway musical show considered of the first class, has been secured to open the new half million dollar auditorium now under construction on the fair grounds, according to A. A. Jackson, president, and W. H. Stratton, secretary of the fair board.

The show is headed by the comedian, Willie Howard. He will have a company of 108 persons, it is announced. They will play here 16 days, two performances daily.

BOY KILLED BY SWING.

DALLAS, June 28.—A playground tragedy occurred here today in the death of John Lee Wright, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lee Wright, who fell from a swing in a Dallas park, receiving a fractured skull which resulted in death three hours later. The boy was at play with a number of other children. The body was sent to Galveston, where the funeral will be held.

More Truth Than Poetry

AN EXAMPLE WORTH FOLLOWING

A French deputy spends three-quarters of his time driving a taxi.

Must statesmen who say that the pay which they get
Is quite too distingustingly small.
Look forward to nothing but trouble and debt
As the years roll around? Not at all.
Why listen long hours to wearisome gab—
With moth eaten phrases replete,
When there's plenty of money in driving a cab
And picking up fares on the street?

As soon as a solon unburdens his chest
Of a fine and impassioned oration,
And has left the dear public profoundly impressed
That he's bent upon saving the nation,
He need not remain in the chambers of state,
But his hat he can hastily grab—
And soon on the handiest street corner wait,
Calling lustily: "Taxi, sir? Cab?"

If all our lawmakers followed this course
It would keep them in excellent health,
And doubtless would phove an immediate source
Of peace and enjoyment and wealth.
And with rates what they are for each sixth of a mile—
Should the populace hark to their call—
They would prosper so famously after a while
That we'd not need to pay them at all.

TEXAS SONS OF SAINT PATRICK.

This is an human interest editorial and deals with the Texas sons of St. Patrick. Texas has the only St. Patrick county to be found on the map of the United States. There is a colonel on the staff of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson who has a family tree. It was planted in Texas soil in 1828, almost a hundred years ago. His name? Walter Timon, of the Alamo City, but a native of Neuces county, at one time a noted district judge and for years a leader of the democrats of the Magic Valley and coast country.

Mrs. R. A. Arnold is responsible for a very holding story of San Patricio county and its early settlers.. San Patrico county has forged to the front among the agricultural counties of the state. It has been transformed from a cattle range to a farming community. John McMullin and Patrick McGolin, two sons of Ireland, landed with their colony in the wilderness nearly a century ago, and were the first white men and women to invade the territory. In memory of the land of their birth, McMullin and McGolin named their new home San Patricio.

On June 11, 1828, James Power and James Hewitson received a grant from the government of Mexico to settle two hundred families on Arkansas Bay, in what is now Refugio county. It is said that the first families of the colony settled at the old town of San Patricio near the banks of the Neuces river. They drove out the Indians and the roving bands of Mexicans. Andrew Timon was the first sheriff of San Patricio county. They conquered the wild beast and the wild men and reduced a wilderness to a proud state of civilization.

When the war with Mexico came they were on the firing line. When the war between the states came, they were on the firing line for the sword of Lee and the flag of the planters republic. It was not until 1870 that the builders of an empire began the fencing of the ranges and the real cultivation of the soil. Mrs. Arnold, in her chatty paper, says many of these descendents of the pioneers of 1828 are still living in the county of San Patricio and continguous counties and are proud of the men who in the long ago pioneered the way for the Texas of today.

In closing she pays the pioneers this tribute: "And yet we must not forget that the old settlers who composed that brave, adventurous old San Patricio colony have long since passed over the great divide. They are path finders in another world as they were in this. Texas is and should be proud of them and of the indominatable courage."

It is a matter of history that the first declaration of independence was written and signed by some of the men responsible for San Patricio and its place on the map of Texas.

Colonel Walter Timon of the staff of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson should celebrate the coming of the centennial of the Timon family in the year 1928. History has been made since Andrew Timon became the first sheriff of San Patricio county.

MUSCLE SHOALS.

What is to become of Muscle Shoals? Samuel S. Wyer at the annual meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, threw it into the discard. He says the Muscle Shoals project for the two now practically worthless nitrate plants, costing $79,000,000 and the over estimated Wilson dam costing $49,000,000, is largely a war loss, and this war loss should be placed at once and written off, and of course, the tax payers must pay for this loss.

After this is done, Samuel S. says, the Wilson dam could be leased to the highest bidder on the basis of making the relatively small amount of electric power that can be generated available to the citizens on the basis of the greatest good to the greatest number. Samuel S. has a very poor opinion of the possibilities of Muscle Shoals. He says that the number one nitrate plant was an experimental synthetic amonia plant, never operated and is a total loss.

As for the number two nitrate plant, it is constructed to operate on the cynamid process. This process, Samuel S. says, is now obsolete, due to rapid changes in the art which makes the cost of pure hydrogen and not power the controling factor. Furthermore he says, the Wilsan dam affords practically no storage, it was started November 9, 1918, two days before the signing of the Armistice, and is to be completed by January 1, 1926.

If Muscle Shoals is worthless, if it is a war loss, if it has no possibilities, why didn't the congress turn it over to Henry Ford when he made his bid and permit the Michigan wizzard to go the limit?

Why did the representatives of the great power and light companies of America fight the proposal of the wizzard to a successful finish?

CARRIER PIGEONS AS DOPE DEALERS

There are clever crooks the world over. A London correspondent says carrier pigeons are being used to bring cocaine into Great Britain from the continent.

Chinese handlers of the drug invented the method. They are the trainers of the pigeons, and the master mind of the gang is a power in the China town of London.

Chief among the agents of the master mind are smartly dressed women of the Caucasian tribe of crooks who are the distributors of narcotics in the great city of London.

There is money, rich pickings in the smuggling of narcotics, and some of the shrewdest crooks in the world are engaged in the business.

Is it possible that carrier pigeons cross the Mexican border into Texas with the prohibited drugs?

WHAT COOLIDGE EXPECTS TO DO.

President Coolidge expects the new congress to make a $400,000,000.00 tax cut in the next year as the revenue grows. He wants the national lawmakers to pass the full benefit of the incressing surplus back to the people. Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee, hopes to have the bill pass congress before the coming of Christmas.

These republican leaders are not only good business men, but they are wise politicians. This time they will have the backing of Senators Underwood and Glass and their followers. A year ago Senators Underwood and Glass wanted to take the play away from the republicans, but the secalled radical democrats balked. Now they may be willing to mend their ways

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

UNREST.

The word "unrest" in the newspaper headlines sends a shudder down the spines of the timid.

It may mean almost anything, labor strikes, uprisings, rebellions clashes of ideas that may in time lead to clashes of arms.

We have seen a great and terrible war. Nobody wants to see another one.

"Unrest" we say causes all the trouble in the world. Possibly. But what causes the "unrest."

The answer may be "rest."

For it is sitting supine. Without thought, without action in all circumstances, being satisfied with what is, and never seeking for a change, that too often dams the tide of human emotion till it bursts forth and spreads over a nation.

Satan may find mischief for idle hands to do, but he finds more mischief for idle brains to get into.

We cannot rest and think at the same time, for thinking is hard work.

Mental "unrest" is the best possible preventative of the "unrest" that so alarms us when we see it hinted at in the newspapers.

In all civilized countries the people have in their hands the machinery to better conditions without violence, without trouble of any kind.

There is no need of overturning constitutions or changing any form of government.

There is no need of even talking about revolts and rebellions.

The only need is enough physicl work to keep the country prosperous, and enough mental work to enable its citizens to understand its problem and to learn as much as possible about the way to solve them.

Give a nation plenty of unresting men and women, who are willing to use the minds that the Creator, gave them to work out their own salvation, and that country will have little worry for its future.

Let its population be lethargic, willing to let conditions, whatever they may be, go on as they are, rather than make the effort to better them, and its

Calm contentment is the dream of the poet, but future may be filled with trouble.

it is extremely bad for other people.

And even were the poet content with the first poetical idea that came into his head he would never put anybody to the expense of trying to get his name into the Hall of Fame.

Active minds are never at rest save when they are asleep.

Nations are never at rest if their people take enough interest in them to seek to make the slow and imperceptible changes for the better which are necessary to stave off stagnation and ruin.

Let us not be afraid when we read that there is "unrest" in this or that part of the world. It means that the people are thinking, and if they think hard enough they will better themselves and their countries without any bombs and without any bloodshed.

MAYOR HYLAN AND HIS BACKING.

Mayor John F. Hylan of New York having served eight years is ambitious to serve twelve. Dr. Royal S. Copeland is the democratic senator from New York. He is a writer for the Hearst papers. He was health commissioner of the City of New York before he became a senator. Mayor Hylan made him health commissioner.

Senator Copeland picks up $30,000 a year as a writer on health topics. He picks up $10,000 a year as United States senator. Value of his health product jumped amazingly when he became a United States senator.

Dr. Copeland is not a ingrate. He is for Hylan for a third term, he says Hylan will be re-nominated and re-elected and that he will carry the democratic standard in the city of New York this fall and carry it to victory.

Dr. Copeland says Governor Al Smith who doesn't want Hylan for a third term, is a great democrat and one of the great men of his party, and that if Governor Al falls in line Mayor Hylan and William Randolph Hearst who are men of a most forgiving nature, may do something for him in 1928.

Dr. Copeland advises that it will be a great mistake for Governor Al to go to the United States senate next year, as a new beginner in the senate finds himself wholly lost and his seasoned colleagues show him scant respect.

He advises further that Governor Al go after the governorship next year for a fourth term in order to be ready for the great battle of 1928.

"Will you step into my parlor," said the spider to the fly.

DARROW ON EVOLUTION

Clarence Darrow has been in the public picture gallery a long time. He is engaged in the defense of John T. Scopes. His latest on the theory of evolution in no way conflicts with the divine creation of man as related in the Bible nor repudiates the Biblical story of creation.

His contention is if evolution is contrary to the teaching of the Bible as to origin of man, then astronomy and geology are likewise in conflict, and these also should be barred from the public schools.

He says that should it be a crime to teach evolution, that it should be a crime the same whether in public or private schools; whether on the platform or in newspapers or books.

He believes that if the theory of evolution is wrong, that free discussion and investigation will show it, and that it will likewise show that it is not inconsistent with any real religion.

All the time and lastly he believes that the business of public schools should be to educate pupils. Clarence Darrow had been invited to address the Tennessee Bar association. That invitation was recalled.

It was not in the nature of a snub, but because the officers of the Tennessee Bar association did not care to be drawn into the Dayton conflict where John P. Scopes appears in the play as the chief headliner.

LABOR AND WAGES.

An official bulletin says more unskilled laborers left the United States than were admitted during the first ten months of the operation of the new 2 per cent immigration law. This same bulletin says 242,966 aliens entered during the ten months compared with 637,602 admitted during the similar ten months period the year before.

While the ultimate effect of the new quota law at this time cannot be determined, according to the conference board, the scaling down of immigration to about a fifth of what it was before the world war, has had the immediate effect of stabilizing the growth of our population, it is pointed out, with the attending result of a sustained high wage level.

Actual money wages in industry today are cited as averaging 116 per cent above what they were before the war. Allowing for the decline in the purchasing power of the dollar and assuming that the same standard of living prevails as existed in 1914, the wage earner today is bout 30 per cent better off as regards real wag

What Today Means to You

Today's planetary aspects are, until late in the evening, drab and negative. It is an undesirable occasion for attempting to launch any new enterprise, or try out any new idea, as there will be lacking that urge to "go-get-it" that is so essential to success. It is advisable today to curb your ambitions, and do only those things that fall within the category of routine work. It is necessary to check your impulses, as they will, in all probability, lead you to commit errors that may, later on, be the cause of regrets. In the evening, the conditions show a slight improvement, and the vibrations denote happiness and contentment.

A boy born today will be robust and healthy, and suffer little, if any, from the usual ailments of childhood. A girl, however, will not be so fortunate, and will reveal signs of weakness, which only regulated nutrition and exceptionally careful attention will overcome. In disposition and temperament, they will both be very similar. They will be bright and cheerful, and possess keen minds and active intelligences. The signs indicate that, at times, they may be more forceful than polite, but this will only be when their emotions are deeply stirred. They will be ambitious and eager for success, more disposed to work and study than to participate in sports and outdoor recreations.

You, if today is your birthday, are a very forceful character, and more adapted to lead and command, than to follow and work in a subordinate capacity. You possess a remarkably strong will and it is impossible to make you budge from any line of action that you have mapped out for yourself. Stubbornness is not responsible for this attitude. It is based on your sincere conviction that your way is the right way. Although not dull or boresome, you do not derive much pleasure from the light amenities of social life, but are a deep thinker, somewhat of a philosopher, and your judgment is generally good. You are neither talkative nor communicative, and your greatest drawback is a quick temper, which is rather violent when you give way to it. Your true happiness consists in finding a mate, who will be a companion, and on whom you can lavish that boundless affection of which you are capable.

HOW IT STARTED

"Jack Robinson."

Opinion differs as to the proper duration of a social call. "Anywhere from ten minutes to a half hour," says the woman who has a social secretary and whose daily job is "calling," to the tune of tea and wafers. "All afternoon," says the bourgeoisie, who takes along her knitting and sits down to coffee and cake. "And then," say some, "it all depends upon the call. On some occasions and with different peoeple we stay longer than others."

But Jack Robinson was a man whose calls never varied. He never stayed long enough to wear out his welcome. In fact, hradly had he been announced, hardly had the servant who admitted him spoken aloud his name than he was gone.

So, as you see, "before you can say minium" evolved the now well the time it takes to say it. "As long as you can see Jack Robinson" would be more in order with its origin and significance.

Irrigation

SOME GOVERNMENT PROJECT COSTS COMPARED TO OURS.

Within the last year or so there have been submitted to the government irrigation officials a number of projects which it was thought should be constructed. In fact a number of those mentioned below have since been authorized.

It is of interest to the people here to compare the amount per acre which it is estimated these projects are going to cost, with ours. Remember that the cost of our water here is only $35 per acre payable in 34 years on an amortized basis, while the settlers on the projects below will probably have to pay out on straight payments in twenty years.

It is estimated that the future settlers on the Baker project in Oregon will have to pay at least $147.33 per acre for the water they will get from the government.

The Kittitas project in Washington is even a little higher with a cost of $148.75.

The Vale project is another one located in Oregon. The price for water on this project varies from $117.42 to $126 per acre.

The Owyhee project located in Idaho and Oregon is one that has been contemplated for a long time. When it is completed the farmers will have to pay back to the government at the rate of $139 per acre for each acre of land irrigated.

The above figures are only the estimated costs. The actual costs will probably be somewhat higher. Preliminary estimates and final costs have a habit of not agreeing.

It is likely that some of these projects will be built soon. All of them will be built eventually. Settlers will come in and take up the land. Many of them will be successful and pay out. How much easier it would be for them to make a success here.

Landmark of Wagon Train Days Burns

WELLINGTON, June 28.—Another of the old landmarks in Collingsworth county and one that has stood for years was lost this week in a fire that swept the old Ellison ranch house, burning it to the ground.

The house at the time was occupied by J. Griffith who was absent from his home, and Mrs. Griffith was unable to stop the spread of the flames.

The house is well known in this part of the state, being one of the best known landmarks in the plains in the days of the wagon trains. Distances would be measured by so many this side or so many miles that side of the Ellison house.

LAND'S END

-By William Almon Wolff

"You certainly are not! And that's that. How's Denny?"

"Better. But he can't go out till tomorrow. I'm sorry he was so horrid Saturday, Pete, I don't think he means to be—"

"Oh, that's all right! He doesn't like me. I wouldnt' either, if I were he.'

She decided not to pursue that line.

"Pete!" she said, in a voice that brought him to attention.

"Yes"

"How much was your legacy?"

CHAPTER XIV
The Hidden Voice

The trip down was glorious. Motorcycle policemen must rest sometime; Pete chose to assume, and seemed justified in doing so, that a Tuesday morning was a good time to find them off duty. There was no traffic to speak of, except in the heart of the towns through which he passed. He sneaked through Amagansett just as he had planned to do, and never saw Morgan at all; assumed, accordingly, as we all do in such cases, that Morgan couldn't have seen him.

There was something wildly thrilling for him about the country once Amagansett was left behind. It was perhaps, the contrast of the turbulent waste of sand and ocean beach after the smooth lawns and the villas of the Hamptons. Here was a world as elemental as wind and sea. The sun could do its work here; bleach and purify. You had to come to grips with things here. The neat coast guard station was in itself a reminder of something as far from neat as it could be—a winter Atlantic gale, with its toll of wreck.

A figure standing before him in the road didn't seem to concern him and his progress at all, at first. He saw it; sounded his horn, instinctively; expected it to stand aside. It didn't, and he slowed angrily, heeding a waving arm. He saw a boy with yellow hair, dressed like a fisherman, in blue jersey and sailor's trousers.

"Your name Ashe?" the boy asked.

"Yes."

"Got a note for you. Here it is," He held out an envelope; turned away. But Pete hailed him.

"Wait a minute!" He tore open the envelope; wasn't surprised, really, by what he read on the half-sheet of paper it contained.

"Go home," he read. "Don't be a bigger fool than God made you."

"Who gave you this?" Pete asked.

"Man."

"What sort of man?"

"None of your business. Better do like it says."

"What do you know about all this nonsense?"

"More'n you do, I guess. Beat it."

"Suppose I don't?"

"More fool you!"

"What do you mean?"

"Guess you'll find out."

Furious, Pete drove on. As well talk to one of the sand hills! He didn't know what he expected to see when he reached the house. He had his automatic in the seat beside him—and he told himself he wouldn't hesitate to use it either. People who acted like this needn't be considered; they had only them selves to blame for whatever happened to them.

But his arrival was rather disappointing, wholly uneventful. There was no sound except the steady beating of the surf below, and the cry of a gull, sometimes, above. Nor were there signs that any one had been about since Saturday. He had to experiment among the keys Crocker had given him but he found the right one at last, opened it. Leaning against the wall was a sheet of cardboard. On it another warning was smeared in green paint.

"Keep out!" it ran. "Go back where you came from!"

He laughed angrily, and put his foot through the placard. But he was conscious of a certain nervousness as he went through the house. It was a queer sort of business; squeaks, groans. But he knew how noisy an empty house can be; these sounds, he was sure, had no significance.

Every room contained a new warning. Sometimes it was written on the back of an envelope; sometimes on a great piece of cardboard like the one he had found in the entrance hall. And he realized as he went on that whoever had left the warnings was something of an expert in applied psychology. The silly things had a queer disconcerting, cumulative effect. They made him jumpy and nervous, or at least, helped to do so.

Every time he opened a door he expected, almost to find some one in the room. And here was more psychology. On Saturday most of the doors had been open. Now every one was closed. Some one had calculated, rather cleverly, the effect of that upon his nerves. After a while a new refinement of annoyance appeared. Not only were the doors closed, but things had been put against them. inside, so that when he opened them there was a crash of falling objects. The first time that happened he jumped back, pistol in hand, ready to fire. Then he went on, and saw only a pile of fire wood.

He was a good deal shaken when he went down stairs, after a complete inspection of the upper part of the house. He hated himself for it, but his hand was trembling as he worked to adjust the key to the door that led down to the cellar and it took all the resolution and stubbornness he had to make him go down the steep, narrow stairs into the darkness. He had a flashlight, though, and he made himself go on.

The cellar looked all right. There was a big, white furnace; he could see the openings of the great oil tank—obviously the main reservoir was outside. The cellar was spotlessly clean; it was also absolutely dry. It had a cement floor, and the walls were bricked and whitewashed. In one corner were some tools—gardening things, trowels, a rake, a pair of shovels, a hose, looped about a carrier. But the cellar was barren of clues as to the meaning of the warnings as the rest of the house had been. Then, suddenly, as if in his very ear, a deep, sepulchral voice called his name.

"Ashe! Is that you, Ashe? Go away!"

He spun around, amazed. His back was to the furnace; he felt—and he knew he must look—like a man at bay.

"Who's that," he cried. Where are you."

"Where you can't find me," said the voice. It was an amazing voice hoarse and rumbling; it sounded like the voice of the dragon in "Seigfried"—as if, that is, some one were speaking through a huge megaphone.

CHAPTER XIII
Pete's Avowal

"I've forgotten — exactly," Pete spoke. "Forty-seven thousand dollars and some loose change."

He never lied to Elizabeth. It wasn't any use as he long since found out. She stared at him now.

"Pete! and you paid forty-five thousand for that place; Practically every cent you inherited "

"Oh, it took all there was left of that!" he said airily. "I used some for the car, you know, and paying bills, and all that sort of thing."

"Then—you're broke again!"

"I am not! I've got about eight hundred in the bank and a lot of checks coming. I've done more work since I got that money than I ever did in six months before. Don't know why—just felt like it. I don't know; it seems as if I couldn't get down to work when I needed money. But as soon as I've got plenty I'd rather work than eat."

She paid no attention to that—although, perhaps it sank in, and was filed for future reference.

"Pete," she said. "Why did you spend all your money on that place?"

"Well—you liked it," he said defensively.

"But, Pete—you can't—I couldn't your absurd! I don't know how to talk to you even—"

"Look here," he said. "Let's get this settled once and for all. Don't you interrupt—let me finish saying something, just once, before you butt in!

"I'm in love with you. I always have been. I guess I always will be. Nothing seems to make any difference to that. God knows Denny doesn't! I don't know why you're engaged to him—you're not any more in love with him than with the traffic cop at Ninth street. Wait a minute—you're not to interrupt!

"Maybe you're going to marry Denny. I don't know. I won't believe it till I see you coming out of the church—but there it is. You may. All right. You like this house. I've got some money I didn't expect to have. I can get more fun out of using it to buy this house and give it to you than any way I can think of. And you can't stop me. That's all there is to it."

"Elizabeth's reply was characteristic although those who had only a superficial knowledge of her not have known that.

"I am so in love with Denny!" she said. "I'm crazy about him. You've no business to say I'm not. And Pete—oh, Pete—you're perfectly adorable about the house! But can't you see? How could I let you do such a thing?"

"I don't see why you can't. It was my money wasn't it? And I can tell you no one ever got more fun out of spending money than I did out of this. Lord, Bet—to be able to give you something you really wanted!"

"You ought to have saved it—invested it—had an income—"

Three thousand a year!" he scoffed. I can make twice that even when I loaf half the time. And another thing: You haven't married Denny yet. Suppose you don't. Suppose you change your mind, and marry me instead. Wouldn't the house come in handy then?"

She gave it up. Every one always said, of course, that you couldn't argue with Pete; that it was like trying to flatten an India-rubber ball.

"Anyway," she said, "I'm going down with you tomorrow. What time will you come for me?"

"I'm not coming," he said. "Once and for all—no, Bet. Not till I find out what's going on down there. The chances are it's some one's idea of a joke, but I want to be sure. Be reasonable."

She considered him with puckered brows and tight lips.

"All right," she said at last. "I suppose I can't make you take me."

"I couldn't Bet," he said, pleadingly. Can't you use that? I'd never forgive myself if I did, and something happened."

"I hate to have you go down there alone," she said. "It's awfully creepy, Pete. Perhaps you'd better wait awhile before you go yourself—"

The shook his head.

"I will not," he said. I got a complete set of keys from Crocker today. If there's any funny business that chap Morgan's mixed up in it, so I'm not taking any chances with him. I'm going to try to get through Amagansett without his seeing me. There's a back road, over by the beach, that I can ntake, I thing, and avoid the main street altogether."

"Why don't you bet Bill Ramsay to go with you?"

He shook his head.

"Rather see it through by myself. I don't want to get anyone else mixed up in it, if it should turn out to be anything serious. But it won't. Don't you worry, Bet. I'll be all right. This is the twentieth century."

"Not down there. I wish I had seen that man who looked out of the window. I'd known then whether he was the one who telephoned."

"How?" Pete asked amazed.

"I don't know, but I would. Oh, well! Telephone me as soon as you know anything tomorrow, Pete. Have you any idea where the nearest phone is?"

"Montauk, I suppose. That isn't much of a village, I guess, but they must have a phone in the railway station."

"I don't like it," she said. "And I hate to be out of anything! But I suppose you're right not to take me, Pete."

"Of course I am, Bet. And everything'll be all right. I'll call you up the first minute I can. You'll be home tomorrow night, won't you?"

"If I'm not I'll see that you know where to reach me. You'd better go now, Pete. It's getting late."

The American Refinery club of the Twilight league kept up its winning streak of the last half of the split season by defeating Norwood's Wichita Falls Electric company, 11 to 9 Sunday afternoon on the Twilight diamond. Ronie Glidewell was stingy in the pinches and held his opponents well in hand with men on the bases, although he was badly hit throughout the game.

Jack Thurman led the hitters with two singles, a double, and a three-bagger in five trips to the plate. Whatley and Ramsey each collected a trio of bingles for the Electrics. Andree and Medford hit safely three times for the winners.

Gleason Flashes

Gleason, Electric company outfielder, turned in the best catch of the season on the Twilight diamond when he speared Tank Horton's long drive and turned a complete summersault after the catch. Gleason was running with the ball and leaped up and took it with one hand.

Ronie Glidewell also pulled in a scorching liner off George Ramsey's bat in the fourth inning. The American Refiners pulled two double killings.

The Refiners broke into a big lead in the second inning. Skeen singled and Windham walked. On a fielders' choice all hands were safe, filling the bases. Horton squeezed Skeen over the pan. Glidewell's single, a double by Andree, and Christian's double scored four more. Christian went to third on Cannon's infield out and scored on Thurman's error.

Medford's infield hit, a wild pitch, a walk, Andree's single, a stolen base, and Blue's error netted a pair in the third for the Refiners.

Norwood singled in the third. On a passed ball Norwood went to second and continued on to third when Horton's peg went through Francis. Thurman singled to left scoring Norwood.

Kollman knocked down Cannon's line drive and threw him out at first in the fourth. Francis skied to center. Singles by Skeen and Windham followed by Medford's double scored another pair.

The Electric company got to Glidewell in the fifth and scored five counters. A single by Thurman, an infield out and Blue's single scored one. A walk to Whatley and Riley's Texas leaguer back of third filled the bases. Kollman crashed a single to center and four runs crossed the pan when the ball got away from Andree.

Thurman doubled to center and went to third on Andree's error. An error in right and singles by Whatley and Riley shoved another over the pan.

A walk to Norwood and Thurman's triple scored for the Electrics in the seventh. Andree beat out an infield hit. Christian walked, and Cannon filled the bases with his infield hit. Andree scored on Coyal Francis' long fly to Ramsey.

SOUTH CLUBS FLARE UP AT NORTHERNERS

Going in Texas Race Was Decidedly Mottled Past Week

DALLAS, Texas, June 28.—(AP) —South Texas teams, after humbly bowing before their North Texas rivals week before last, gained sweet revenge when the North Texans began their second southern invasion last week.

Even the lordly Panthers, whose monarchy of the league no one had been able to successfully dispute fell before the typhoon which swept the gulf regions and dropped four games in a row on southern soil. The Buffaloes won three of these, sweeping the series, and then tossed the suddenly impotent Cats into Magnolia Park nearby where the Exporters proceeded to continue the work of Cat killing. But traditionally gifted with nine lives, Jakie Atz's cohorts were able to withstand this ill-treatment and Saturday night they still led the procession by seven and one-half games.

The Panther reverse was the outstanding event of the week, and had it come earlier in the season it might have stifled any suggestion of a split season. But the Panthers still have a lead so commanding as to detract much from interest in the race and there is a strong probability a split season will be considered by club owners this week, although President Doak Roberts said no one has yet officially broached the matter.

Spudders Stand Up.

Wichita Falls was the only northern team able to hold its own in South Texas. The Spudders won three games and dropped two. Nevertheless they finished the week in the red as they lost two encounters in North Texas before heading south.

Houston, despite their unprecedented feat of taking three straight from the Panthers, improved their standing but little during the week. They found the Spudders a tougher foe than the Panthers and lost two games to Buddy Tanner's crew, after having lost a game to Waco earlier in the week. They chalked up four victories as against three defeats. The Panther series gave them 6 out of 7 games played with the champions this season. No other team can boast an edge on the Panthers.

San Antonio for the first time in three weeks turned in more victories than losses. Despite their double setback at the hands of Shreveport last Sunday—their fourth duplex defeat of the year—they finished the week with four victories and three defeats. Enlarging of Bear Park seemed to have but a slight deterrent effect on the heavy hitting for which the park is noted. There were several slug fests there during the week.

Steer Menace Flops.

Dallas, after threatening for a time to displace the Spudders from the first division, found the going rough and finished the week on the debit side of the ledger, three games to four. The Steers seemed unable to win on foreign territory with the same regularity as they did at home. They dropped two out of three at San Antonio after winning seven in a row. Lindsey, cut adrift by the Steers early in the season, defeated the former teammates for the third time.

The Waco Cubs, aided by good pitching, won five games out of seven, easily the best record made by any club during the week. Oscar Tuero, veteran Cuban spitballer, turned in the first no-hit- no-run game of the year, with Shreveport as the victim. The Cubs are again hard on the heels of the Steers in the contest for the leadership of the second division.

Beaumont, likewise, had an exceptionally good week, winning three of their five games, including victories over Wichita Falls and Ft. Worth. The batting of Leach was the outstanding feature of the Exporters' play, his club being especially effective against Panther twirling.

Shreveport started the week well with a double victory over the Bears, but they lost ground when they took the road, finishing the week with only three victories out of eight starts.

CATS 4; WACO 2

FORT WORTH, June 28.—(AP)—Lefty Augustus Johns stepped out on the hill today when Paul Wachtel suddenly lost control in the second inning and blanked the Waco Cubs for the rest of the distance, the Cats handing the central Texans a 4 to 2 drubbing. It was the first victory scored by the Cats in the past six days. Mullen's home run in the first, with one man on base, was offset in the second inning when Wachtel walked three men in succession and the fourth man singled. Johns took over the job, and let the Cubs down with three hits for the rest of the game, while the Cats managed to chase around two more at odd times to win. The score:

LOOP LEADERS BATTERED BUT STILL UPRIGHT

Athletics and Giant Craft Weather Turbulent Squall

NEW YORK, June 28.—(AP)— Leaders in the major league pennant races tonight had beaten their way through the worst baseball squall of the 1925 season, slightly battered, but still upright, after a turbulent week.

For three days the Giant craft, once so far ahead of the fleet that National league pilots were barely able to hold the trail of the backwash, was tossed dangerously close to the shoals. During the same period, Connie Mack and his Philadelphia crew, were blown hither and yon with the swift-speeding Senators driving down upon them. But steady hands on the tillers guided the two outfits safely past every threat and tonight both clubs held the pace-making course only to find in the offing signs of further testing.

Unexpected breaks first drew the Giants temporarily out of first place and then tossed them back again in the closing games of the week. The Boston Braves, used as a step for the Philadelphia Quakers to climb from seventh to sixth place earlier in the week, unexpectedly jolted the champions for an 8 to 3 defeat yesterday afternoon while the Pirates nosed out the Reds, 3 to 2, in the first section of a double header.

This defeat for Cincinnati marked their fifth straight reverse for the week, but here the Reds turned on their foes and beat off the Corsairs, 6 to 2, boosting the New York club back into the loft. The upset left the Pittsburgh team within two percentage points of the leaders and set the stage for a crucial series between the rivals here starting July 7.

The Athletics were little better off than the Giants. Coming out of a clean sweep against the Red Sox, the American league leaders dropped the first game of their series with Washington to the veteran, Walter Johnson, only to have Slim Harriss recover the lost margin Saturday and rescue the Philadelphia club from danger. The triumph gave the Mackian entry four wins in six starts and increased their margin to two and one-half games, a half game more than they had enjoyed at the close of the previous week.

While the two leaders were wrestling for grips on the upper berth, trouble was brewing in the west. Both Chicago and Detroit took advantage of the situation to close in on the peak clubs, the former with six straight wins and the latter with four.

Cleaning up a series with the demoralized Red Sox, the Tigers lashed out at the St. Louis Browns with such determination that Cobbs' men were able to hurl the Sisler tenants out of fourth place and step into the vacancy themselves on a nine-game winning streak.

Faber, Cvengros, Lyons and Robertson pitched championship ball for the White Sox, toppling Cleveland and New York, but the Yankees selected the popular Red Sox for week-end revenge which carried them past the Indians into sixth place.

The Cincinnati Reds in spite of a slump during which they lost five games were able to hold third place in the National because Brooklyn made scarcely any better progress.

Philadelphia uncorked one of its periodic spurts and squeezed by Chicago into sixth place. St. Louis and Boston, in fifth and last positions, were satisfied with the pegs on which they finished the week before.

ELECTRA, June 28. — Pierpont Hagan, aged 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hagen, of 104 West Wharton avenue, was painfully injured about noon Saturday when the motorcycle on which he was riding ran into a loaded wagon which was engaged in doing repair work on the north pavement. Fear Farmer Falling Down on Hopper War

FREDERICK, Okla., June 28.— Slight fear that the farmers of Tillman county are beginning to lay down on the proposition just as a victory against the grasshopper pest is in sight, was expressed by L. H. Beaty, county agent, this week. Many farmers expect to apply the poison bran mash in the morning and be rid of their hoppers by noon. This is impossible, says Beaty, and farmers will have to go about their work systematically and consistently if they expect to save this year's crop.

CANYON WHEAT IS BAD

CANYON, June 28. — J. M. Birkhalter, a farmer living 20 miles southeast of Canyon, reports that his wheat is making ten bushels to the acre. Schaeffer Bros., in the same neighborhood, will make fifteen. Rudolph Friemel, of Umbarger, a village 10 miles west of Canyon, is making 20 bushels of wheat to the acre on his farm.

Cotton and row crops are in much better condition than at this time last year, and farmers over this country are well pleased with the prospects.

Spudder Infielder Takes Up Chunking Chores In Ninth

SAN ANTONIO, June 28.—Buddy Tanner was in a fair way toward solving the pitching problem when he called on Infielder George Distel, hitting in a pinch, to take the mound with the score tied at 6-all in the ninth inning Sunday, and he probably would have put it over but for a balk committed by Distel in the 10th, bringing in Booe from third to score the winning run for the Bears, 7 to 6. The game was run into extra innings when Red Patterson threw low on Distel's grounder, allowing Golvin to score with the tying run in the ninth. Chief Nason's home run drive in the seventh was the feature. It was the longest drive yet made on enlarged Bear field, the ball clearing the fence in deep left, scoring Rosenthal ahead of him. In the fourth Bodie dropped an easy fly off Warwick's bat, costing two runs and the lead, but Ping made up for this at the bat by driving in two runs.

U. S. HOPES FOR FISCAL POLICY TO PLEASE ALL

Treasury Department Working On New Scheme

BARHARBOR, Maine, June 28. — (AP)—The treasury is endeavoring to establish a fiscal policy that will sta[illegible] as a model for other governments in the avoidance of friction with and disturbance to business, Under Secretary Winston declared here tonight in an address before the Bankers Association of Maine.

The treasury official explained the operation of the policy for dealing with the gigantic public debt a legacy of the war and sought to show how the vast refunding was done without upsets in the money market. It was possible he believed to handle all government finances with the same freedom and on that basis urged the bankers to support what he regarded as the next step—reform in taxation.

"The future policy by adoption of which," Mr. Winston said, "we can obtain less friction in government's relation to its people, and, therefore, better government is that of reform in taxation. Taxation is the power of the state to raise money that the state may live today and every day. The purpose of taxation is, not only to acquire a revenue this year, but to keep the fields of revenue fertilized and plowed so that we may have assurance of crops of revenue in years to come."

Those Dreadful Bromides

Do you know what a bromide is? Sounds like a medicine, doesn't it?

But the species of bromide I'm about to discuss is nothing more nor less than the sort of remark that everybody's been using for ages, and which has grown so stale and time-worn that it's really a shame to use it again.

For instance, there was a time when "I should worry" was a clever and original thing to say. That was of course ages ago when the world was very young.

Now, however, the person who says "I should worry" sounds silly and rather ancient.

In the same way hundreds of other expressions which some clever fellow thought up have been used so much by the great public that they're now quite inevcusable in the dumbest Dora.

There are awful people who still go around remarking apropos of nothing; "Yes, we have no bananas today."

That is supposed to be a rare jest, but as a matter of fact it's a sign of age and great lack of originality.

There have been clever lines used on the stage by great comedians which have amused people hearing them for the first time, and which have come to annoy the same people horribly after they've heard them for the hundredth time from some of their friends.

Bright lines are only funny the first time they're said. After that they become boring ,and they earn for their perpetrators a decided reputation of being stupid and uninteresting.

There are so many girls who, hearing a clever line, embrace it as their own, and from that time forth introduce it into their conversation, whenever possible.

I know a benighted damsel who heard Ethel Barrymore recite her immortal line; "That's all there is—there isn't any more," and the poor girl never got over it.

No matter what she was discussing—no matter how she had to struggle to get it in—she invariably finished up most of her discourses with the undying line.

And of course people get exthemely fed up with it, and in time came to dread hearing those oft repeated words.

In the same way, some rather prosy little maidens will repeat over and over such moth eaten phrases as: "How time flies! What a small world it is after all. All's well that ends well. It's an ill wind that blows nobody any good." Etc. Etc.

These are all very well in their way the first hundred years of so. But after that they're rather apt to cause the best of your friends to ridicule you, and that's not very pleasant.

Try not to get into the habit of repeating the same line over and over.

It's so much better to impress people with the originality of your own thoughts, and not depend on somebody else's ancient sayings.

Mrs. J. I. Kendrick, president of the eighth district has been in Canyon making arrangements for the five-day meeting.

Local arrangements are in the hands of the Canyon P-T-A with Mrs. R. McGee, president, and Mrs. T. V. Beevers, of the public service bureau of the Canyon Teachers college.

In 1924 the P-T-A conference held at Canyon under the direction of Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs, then state president, was the most largely attended meeting of the state. Indications are that the meeting this year will surpass that of last year.

MADE HENS YOUNG AGAIN

Perpetual Egg Laying Guaranteed By Scientist.

LONDON, June 28.—Old hens for pot boiling purposes may disappear from the markets, now that Dr. F. A. E. Crew, of Edinburgh university, has assured scientists that by administering thyroid to chickens he can make hens lay eggs as long as they are able to cackle.

At the British poultry clubs' summer conference at the Wembley exhibition recently, Dr. Crew declared thyroid gland was administered successfully to old hens months ago with the result that some hens which had laid well over 100 eggs during the year they were favored with thyroid treatment.

The Edinburgh scientist also stated there is reason to believe that the exposure of hens to X-ray treatment was followed by a significant increase in the percentage of female chicks. This indicates Dr. Crew believes, that scientists of the future will be able to determine sex.

HERRIN BUILDS PEACE IN OLD STORM CENTER

City Follows Way of the Golden Rule and Ends Wars

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., June 28. — (AP)—The city of Herrin, long storm center of Williamson county's bloody community strike and angry feuds has abandoned old ways for new and is building peace on the foundation of the golden rule.

Members of a legislative committee which visited Herrin this week during a tour of the area devasted by the tornado which swept southern Illinois last March found the population happy and peaceable, the old grudges forgotten and the old hatreds buried in a spirit of reconciliation engendered in daily noonday prayer meetings in the city's largest downtown theatre. The committee arrived in Herrin before noon and found every store closed.

Few persons were seen on the streets and business was at a standstill while proprietors, clerks and salespeople attended the services.

At the meeting legislators found men who could pray only in a foreign tongue standing shoulder to shoulder with the townsfolk who once were armed against them. The legislators are convinced the city has returned to the ways of peace, that the golden rule has replaced the blue steel pistol as the arbiter of honor.

Much credit for the success for the reconciliation enterprise is given to Rev. Howard S. Williams, a layman-evangelist, who inaugurated the daily meetings in May. Every pastor in the community is cooperating and as many as 1,000 persons have been brought into the daily services.

WHEN IS WALES TO WED?

LONDON, June 28.—A good many of Britons never tire of asking themselves when the Prince of Wales is to marry. In connection with the celegration of the prnce's thirty-first birthday last Tuesday it has been recalled that his royal father married at the age of 28 and that his grandfather, the late King Edward, was only 22 when he married the beautiful "sea king's daughter from over the sea," Alexandra, who survives him.

While there are many in England who are of the opinion that the British heir never will marry, and admitting that he has not centered his attentions upon any particular girl of late, nevertheless there is increasing beliefe among the know-it-alls that upon the completion of his African and South American tour, the prince will turn his thoughts toward matrimony.

When the prince does marry, it has come to be one of the accepted sayings, it will be a real love match, having nothing to do with diplomacy as in the olden days, when a royal marriage was an affair of high politics.

Writers in the press seem to agree that after the prince's present tour with its broadening experience, it would be nothing more than natural for the future king to see fit to bring his bachelor days to an end and lead an English girl to the altar.

which a newspaper writer of Chicago shot him into the center of the Texas stage of action and the last word of the former governor was to the effect that the Chicago interview was false in every particular.

Let it go at that. It is the duty of former governors and all other live Americans to contribute to the gaiety of their fellows in order to make life worth living.

AWAIT MINISTER'S ANSWER

CROWELL, June 28.—No word has been received as yet from Rev. E. C. McDonald of San Antonio who has been called by the congregation of the First Baptist church of Crowell. Rev. McDonald has held several pastorates in West Texas before.

Radio To Play Big Part In New Air Mail Service From New York To Chicago

CHICAGO, June 28—(AP)—Radio will figure prominently in the opening Wednesday of the first New York-Chicago overnight mail service, postal officials announced tonight following conferences here.

The five main fields on the route, Hadley, at New Brunswick, N. J., Bellefonte, Penn., Cleveland and Bryan, Ohio, and the Maywood field near Chicago are equipped with radio masts and all ships of the air mail service are dispatched in and out by radio. Formal service orders are handled in the same fashion. An experimental radio set has been carried for some time on one of the planes operating out of Omaha, but it is not known yet whether the Chicago-New York planes will be similarly equipped in the near future.

Each emergency field is connected by direct telephone wire with the nearest terminal field. Should it become necessary to warn a pilot or call him down from one of the emergency fields, he will be signaled brilliant red magnesium flares; two flares meaning "alright and wait further instructions," one means "bad weather ahead, exercise caution."

Through A Woman's Eyes

That Word "Like."

"Eat your soup."

"No. I don't want it. More crackers please." And the oysters were again shoved his way.

"You know soup is good for you. Charlie."

"I don't like soup." And the untouched plate was taken away.

"Ah, beamed the timorously enthusiastic mother. "Here's a nice dinner for you now. Chops, and spinach, and a nice baked potato."

"Baked potato?" as he pushed it away. "Don't like it. Gimme the chops."

"Well, eat your spinach then, Charlie."

"Don't like spinach," as he ignored it.

"He won't eat anything but meat," complained the angry helpless mother to the other woman at the table, whom resort luck had given a front seat at the performance.

"I like meat," complacntly interposed Charlie, as he looked down at the two naked bones, and around the table for more.

"But," strategically remarked the stranger. "One should have a more balanced diet particularly a growing boy like you. Meat ins't enough."

"But I like meat."

"Of course," added the stranger, who had not yet ceased to feel sorry for the ineffective mother. You are only twelve now. When you are eighteen you will have biology and something of dietetics, and then you will learn why you need the potato and vegetable even more than the meat."

"I have had biology," he answered calmly. "But I don't like potatoes and don't you want that chop?" He eyed his mother's service plate with its left-over chop.

"No, take it," she said wearily.

"Sure you won't eat it?"

"No, I'll have your potato," as she helped him to the chop.

The third chop dispatched he said, "I'm still hungry."

"Of course, you didn't eat anything. Have your spinach."

"No. I don't like spinach. Can I order some more chops?"

"Oh, all right," the mother said sor[illegible] of over her left shoulder, and turning to the politely unhearing spectator si[illegible] explained with emphasized helplessness. "He's got to eat something."

The waiters came and the boy ordered "more chops, please." Two chops were brought and he asked Lord knows, why. "Can I have both?"

"Oh, alright," again over the left shoulder. Then, to the other woman at the table, she shook her head ominously. "Nothing but meat." And with perfect equanamity came the answer from the boy, who had made a meal of five lamb chops.—"

"I like meat."

It has been said of the best of us, that if the world knew our thoughts. God help us. It was good for the other woman at that table that no Freudian could read her thoughts at the moment. I was the other woman at the table, and I was thinking of other things that that boy of perfectly normal impulses, but an ineffective mother might "like" later on, and never having been told anything about the answer to that word "like"—I didn't want to think any further.

CREDIT OFFERED TEXAS FARMERS BY INSURANCE CO

Southland Life Congratulated on New Policy It Adopts

A flood of congratulations is being received by the Southland Life Insurance company of Dallas as a result of the recently announced policy of loaning money to farmers on their lands at 6 per cent, without amortization and without legal or brokerage fees.

The long established policy of the Southland Life Insurance company has been to encourage building and agriculture in Texas, practically all of the company's funds being loaned out in this state. There has been a great cry, however, that cheap money has not been available to Texas farmers.

Indictment Past.

"There was a time," said Vice President and Treasurer Clarence E. Linz, "when Texas farmers in general might have been accused of being shiftless, of not properly caring for their land and not proprely housing their implements. That time, however, is past and now in the place of these men are hundreds of thrifty and intelligent young men who are making the most of their opportunities. They live in pretty little cottages, take good care of their modern implements and have learned to rotate crops and save their lands. It is these men we are trying to encourage, for many of them need financial assistance at a rate and at terms they can afford to have."

Do Much Good.

"Farm land banks have been loaning money to Texas farmers for some time on the gradual reduction basis and this has done a great deal of good. Our plan, of course, is to loan them money for long periods without gradual reduction and we believe this will dovetail into the Farm Land bank plan and aid materially in the development of the state as the greatest agricultural empire in America."

A representative of the Southland Life Insurance company, this fall will visit practically every rural county in Texas and make loans directly to farmers after a proper investigation, thus eliminating brokerage and legal fees.

Austrian Royalty Wins Chicago Girl

NEW YORK, June 28.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. C. Bai Lihme, formerly of Chicago, today announced the engagement of their daughter, Anita Lihme, to Prince Edward John Lebkowicz, son of the late Prince August Lebkowicz of Bohemia. Prince Lemkowicz, son of the Countess Palewry of Vienna, bears one of the oldest titles in Europe.

The wedding will be held at the summer home of the Lihmes in Watchill, L. I., Prince Iebkowicz returned to America on the Aquitania yesterday with the Lihmes who had been his guests during part of their stay in Europe.

Few Immigrants Are Expected On July 1

NEW YORK, June 28.—(AP)—Immigration Commissioner Curran said today that only three ships bearing about 500 Scotchmen, Swedes and Norwegians are scheduled to arrive on July 1 with the start of the new immigration year. Two years ago in contrast a dozen ships, their steerages filled with aliens, raced into the harbor to land their passengers first.

Explaining why the new immigration regulations prevent any rush of aliens Commissioner Curran said:

"Every immigrant must have a consul's vise and no consul may issue in one month more than 10 per cent of the quota for the year."

Woman Dressed Like Man And Posing As Wounded Vet Lures Men From Homes

SUMMIT, N. J., June 28.—(AP)—The story of a six-foot tall, 175 pound woman who dressed as a man and posed as a wounded A. E. F. veteran and who made it her business to lure young men away from home with tales of fictitious fortune was told today by Rene Humbert, an automobile salesman, who returned today from a trip he made at her suggestion.

Humbert said he had become acquainted with a "Frank O'Brien," a prospective customer, who told him of a farm he owned near Sultana, Ind., and promised to fix him for life if he would run the place. They went west together in Humbert's car to look at the farm.

At Indianapolis, Humbert learned that "O'Brien" was a woman, that the farm did not exist, and that there was no such Indiana town as "Sultana." Meanwhile the six-footer had disappeared.

Humbert said he had learned that "O'Brien" was a penniless adventuress who had obtained the army papers of a man by that name—or possibly had actually served in the army herself—and who had worked once as a Western Union lineman. She was much stronger than most men, Humbert said, and always carried an army automatic with her.

In a near accident on their way to the mythical Sultana, "O'Brien" screamed and burst into tears. It was this which had first made him suspicious, Humbert said. Meetings with various victims confirmed his suspicions, he said.

Belated Honeymoon Due to Children Is Taken 20 Yrs. Late

NEW YORK, June 28.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Mutrux of St. Louis and their 12 children sailed today on the French liner Paris for their belated honeymoon. The family will tour the continent in two automobiles.

Twenty years ago Mutrux, an architect, planned to spend his honeymoon in Europe, but the Mutrux budget could not stand the expense so the trip was postponed for a time Then Edward Mutrux now 17, appeared and the trip was postponed for a year, each year there was another child and another postponement. The youngest child is now seven months old.

DALLAS, June 28.—Application of the Colorado and Southern, a Burlington subsidiary, to operate motor busses between Denver and Boulder, Colo., has been filed with the Colorado railroad commission, it was announced here Saturday. Drouth Has Effect On Business, Report

DALLAS, June 28.—Drouth conditions prevailing in the San Antonio and Waco districts affected business conditions adversely the past week Texas correspondents of Bradstreet's reported. At Dallas jobbing business had little snap and retailing was lagging. Fort Worth retailers were holding sales to stimulate business, the reports said.

Light showers of the past week in the Waco territory were said to have been of little value to crops and even building operations were retarded by the drouth.

OUR MISTAKE

In the advertisement of the Wichita Falls Building & Loan Association published in The Record News Sunday, June 28, there appeared this line: "Electra, Iowa Park, Burkburnett, Archer City, Holliday," which was not contained in the original copy and should not have appeared in the advertisement. This line belongs to the advertisement of Marcus Brothers India Tire showing the different towns they have branch dealers.

Negroes Have Too Good a Time; Jail Ends Knife Fight

Blood and tears mingled at the city hall Saturday night as the cops locked up a trio of dusky derelicts whose week-end celebration in an Elizabeth street servant's house led to knife fights, spilt gore, complaints from white neighbors and ultimate oblivion in the inner recesses of a jail cell.

One of the blacks appeared at the station clad only in a pair of blood-soaked trousers and with a nasty gash on the left side of his head. He said he got it when another negro hit him with a beer bottle. A second negro man and two women completed the party. Both men and one woman were jailed, the latter protesting valuably with shrieks that filled the city hall and attracted a crowd of nearly a hundred curiosity seekers.

Officers returning with the disturbers exhibited a long bladed knife they said one of the negro men was attempting to open when the business end of a six-shooter disuaded him.

"About three of you niggers can thank your stars you're able to go to jail," one cop remarked.

FORT WORTH, June 28.—Hearing on a mandamus petition filed by Mrs. Mattie Cook to compel a district court to set a case she filed against the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary for trial was ordered Saturday by the court of civil appeals for October 5.

BUILDING AT FREDERICK IS SHOWING RISE

Half Million Dollars Total So Far This Year

FREDERICK, Okla., June 28.—Building and improvement expenditures in the city of Frederick for the first six months of the year 1925 totals $415,505, which does not include the new Presbyterian church edifice planned at an approximate cost of $15,000. This amount, which nears the half million mark for a six months period, is almost entirely new buildings and residences and includes only a few remodeled homes.

There has been approximately 40 homes built and about 25 remodeled homes. New construction includes two cotton compresses, three cotton gins, several store buildings, a hospital and an ice cream factory. All construction work is of the substantial type, contractors say.

Highest in the list of builders jobs come the two cotton compresses. The Frederick compress is building at an outlay of between $85,000 and $90,000. The Traders company will expend between $65,000 and $70,000 for a like structure.

Three cotton gins near completion, the Simmons gin at a cost of $30,000, the Farmers Cooperative Grain and Cotton company at a cost of $25,000 and the Mitchell gin at a cost of $23,000.

ing represents an investment of more

The Allbright-Brunk garage building than $30,000 and will be open to the public soon. The Cochran Ice Cream company was built at a cost of $4,750.

The Frederick hospital represents an investment of $15,000, and the addition to the Frederick cotton mill will cost $20,000. Filling stations, smaller businesses and residences report improvements totaling several thousand dollars.

CAPTURE LAUNCH IN GULF

Vessel Contains No Liquor, Has a Wireless.

GALVESTON, June 28—The motor launch MPB-4382 and three men are being held by the United States custom service on a charge of evading arrest, following her capture Saturday morning by the United States coast guard cutter Comanche. The launch was about fifteen miles out of Galveston, when the Comanche sighted her and fired a shot across her bow, this failed to stop the launch and a second shot was fired, bringing the launch to a stop, according to Lieut. Commander J. E. Whitbeck of the Comanche.

The launch did not contain any liquor and the men declared they were out fishing, Commander Whitbeck said. It is equipped with a radio set with a low wave length.

If you are now a reader of The Record News or will subscribe, we will issue you one of The Record News' reader service Inter-Ocean Casualty Company Accident Insurance Policies for $1,000.00 that will protect your time and in case of death will pay your loved ones the full amount of the policy.

If In An Automobile Accident

The insurance we are offering you FREE, will pay you $10.00 per week for thirteen weeks. If it results in death the company will pay your loved ones $1,000.00. If you are a pedestrian and are hit by auto or truck, the company will pay you $7.50 per week for seven consecutive weeks.

Hospitals and doctors take a lot of money, an accident may wipe out the savings of years. And you may be in a position where your pay will stop when you stop working so that everything will be going out and nothing coming in.

Wouldn't a regular weekly check during this time help out a whole lot? We'll say it would. And this is not saying anything about how your family would suffer for want of money if you died. Think of yourself, then of them, and take advantage of The Record News' offer.

The Record News made arrangements with one of the big accident insurance companies for insurance for every one of it's subscribers. The Record News has arranged to carry this insurance for every old and new subscriber who wants it. And the policy does not cost you anything, it is FREE.

In view of this great offer can you afford to pass by this chance to protect your family and yourself.
