Snyder bypassed as 2nd prison site

From local, wire reports

Hopes for a second prison unit were dashed this morning when the Texas Department of Criminal Justice board bypassed Snyder in the selection process.

"I don't know what to say. We put our best foot forward and didn't get it," said Roy McQueen, publisher of the Snyder Daily News and a member of the prison task force.

Colorado City, Fort Stockton, Amarillo, Dalhart, Cuero and Rusk were awarded 1,000-bed units. The board also voted to build new maximum security units of 2,250 beds in Wichita Falls, Karnes County and New Boston, in Bowie County.

Lubbock will receive a 550-bed psychiatric prison unit, the board determined.

The board also approved an offer from the City of Pampa, which promised to buy a building to be used as a prison for about 300 inmates and give it to the state.

After heated discussion, the board also voted to purchase six current prison facilities built by the private company N-Group, Inc. for about $6 million each.

Breckenridge, Brownfield, Brownwood, El Paso, Hondo, Jasper, Dayton, Plainview, San Diego and Wood County were chosen as sites for 500-bed substance abuse communities.

Efforts to get a second prison unit in Snyder had concentrated on the cost savings of co-location, building prisons adjacent to each other.

In selecting the sites, the board apparently took that into consideration. Pampa, Beaumont, Jefferson County, Hondo, Dayton, Amarillo, Rusk all have units presently.

"We felt like if they came back to where they had a previous unit we would get it. We had some indication we'd be first on the list," said McQueen.

Snyder was first selected as a site for the Price Daniel unit in 1987. Snyder applied for a second unit in 1989, but did not make the short list.

Clean-up in Snyder promoted

Snyder residents are asked to join in "Keep Snyder Beautiful Week" by cleaning up their property over the next few days.

The event is being sponsored by the city and the chamber of commerce in recognition of "Keep Texas Beautiful Month."

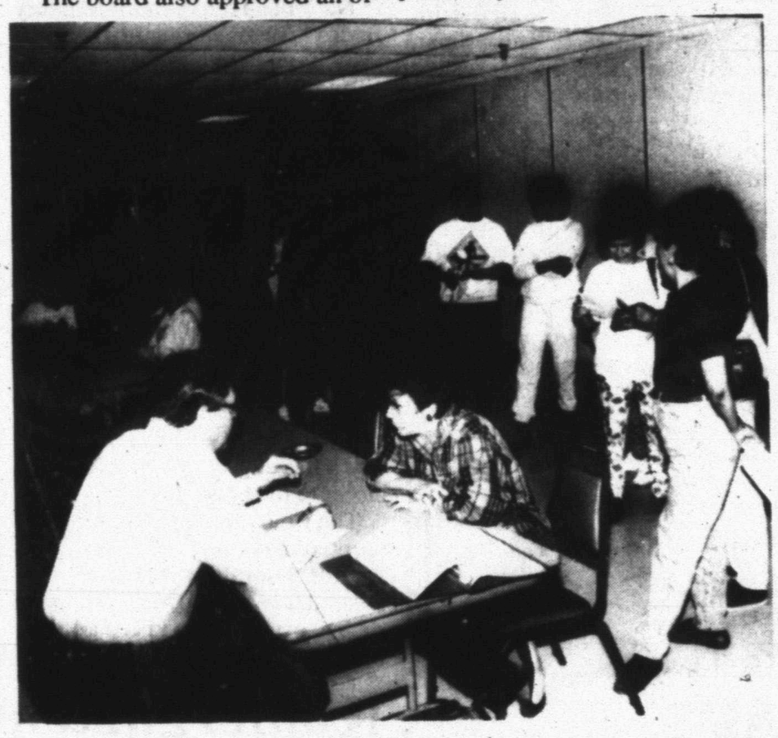
Beginning Saturday, sponsors are asking that residents pick up trash, mow, remove the weeds and clean their back alleys. A free dump truck service will be available to help make the job easier.

Businesses are also encouraged to participate. The city is being divided into four parts, intersected by Highway 180 and College Avenue. The business which does the best job of cleaning up in its quadrant will be awarded a prize by the chamber.

The city will have dump trucks and drivers available from 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Items to be picked up must be placed next to the curb, in the alley leaving access for traffic, or in an area that is accessible to the dump truck. Small items must be placed in bags. Tree limbs, lumber and other similar objects must be cut into pieces that can be easily handled by one person.

Citizens will need to call the utility department at 573-4960 to schedule dump truck pickups.

Special arrangements will be needed to pick up large items such as stoves, washers, dryers, water heaters, car hoods and pipe. Refrigerators cannot be accepted. To make these arrangements, call Carolyn House at 573-4969.



TREMENDOUS TURNOUT — Over 250 people filled out applications Thursday at Walls Industries, which is considering reopening its Snyder manufacturing plant. (SDN Staff Photo)

Over 250...
Walls flooded with applicants

Walls Industries officials haven't confirmed they'll re-open the garment factory here again, but said they were impressed with Thursday's response for applications.

"It looks very good at this time," said Ron Istre, senior vice president for the Cleburne-based company.

"By about 5 p.m. 60 percent of the ex-employees had come by. That was a good turnout," said Ricky Fritz, local chamber manager. "And there were over 200 that were potential new employees."

Officials said that more than 250 people showed up between 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. to fill out applications and be interviewed.

Walls Industries announced earlier this week that it was considering re-opening the plant, which has been closed since last July.

The plant employed about 106 workers with an annual payroll of $1.6 million. It was shut down due to rising worker's compensation costs, rising imports, and a poor market for insulated coveralls — the item manufactured at the plant.

However, new equipment has been developed which significantly decreases production costs, according to Istre.

Officials said that the plant's reopening would depend largely on an available of experienced workers.

Local officials said they have been told that a decision on whether to re-open the facility will likely be announced Monday.

If the plant is re-opened, it will start with 40 to 50 experienced workers, using equipment from other Walls factories, officials

Trustees accept roofing bid, okay half-dozen resignations

Snyder public schools trustees accepted a bid to re-roof Central Elementary and approved six resignations Thursday evening.

The board accepted the low bid of $74,877 from Lydick-Hooks Roofing of Abilene to re-roof Central. Lydick-Hooks' bid was almost $10,000 under the next lowest bid, submitted by Barr Roofing of Abilene. Clark Lumber of Snyder and Texas Roofing of Lubbock also submitted bids.

Administrators noted that $109,000 had been budgeted for the project, which will begin this summer and is to be completed by July 10.

Resignations accepted Thursday included those of North Elementary Principal Ray Courtney, East Elementary fifth grade teacher Betty Courtney, and high school choir director Bill Lyon, all of whom are retiring.

Trustees also accepted the resignations of junior high coach and

Wildflower Day set here Sunday

The annual Texas Wildflower Program will take place Sunday at Scurry County Museum on the campus of Western Texas College.

The museum will open from 1 to 4 p.m. for exhibits, entertainment and wildflower tours.

Displays will include live specimens of area wildflowers, an exhibit of flowers native to America when Columbus arrived 500 years ago, elementary school student's writing and art projects, the museum's annual photography contest and a slide show.

New events this year will include a choral presentation by WTC students under the direction of Brent Hardegree and a display of native insects which have a mutual and beneficial partnership with Texas.

A self-guided tour of the wildflower trail on the college campus will be available, with maps and markers identifying the flowers.

Canada, original organizer for Wild Flower Day, said there are at least 18 different flower varieties now identified on the wild flower trail. Other varieties are expected to blossom in the weeks ahead.

The SDN Column — By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Kindergarten kids near the SMU campus think the first three letters of the alphabet are BMW."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

Otis Francis, writing in the Sweetwater Reporter, says there's a sure-fire, but not necessarily easy, way to improve your vocabulary.

"You can impress friends, even if the friends know you been studying the dictionary one page at a time. Even if you use a word incorrectly, they will likely give you the benefit of the doubt."

Turning to the "P" section of the dictionary, one could memorize the following words: Parachutes, parablasts, parachors, paracletes, paradise, paradigms, paradox, parafins, paralegals, paralyze, paramount, parapets, parasites, parataxis.

Francis didn't tell us how we might work such as word as "Parablasts" into a typical conversation. The word describes the nutritive yolk of a meroblastic egg.

You might try this at a local cafe some morning: "Make my parablats sunny-side up." It may not be accurate and you could get tossed out, but we doubt if anyone will correct you.

O.G. Nieman, in the Hereford Brand, read where a Congressman was outraged over the putdown of the American worker by the Japanese.

The congressman called a news conference on the capitol steps and railed, "It stirs the rages in all of us who want to compete and show we're the best work force in the world."

After speaking, the congressman left for a three-hour lunch.

Larry Crabtree, in the Vernon Daily Record, says that loaning money to relatives means you'll never see them again.

"In some cases, this is a small price to pay for peace of mind."

U.S. House post office probe turns to drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury indictment reveals that the investigation of the House Post Office has been expanded from graft to drugs amid continuing congressional recriminations over Capitol Hill privileges.

Cocaine distribution charges were returned Thursday against a former stamp clerk, who previously was charged with embezzlement.

Three other former House Post Office employees have pleaded guilty to embezzlement.

The indictment charged that clerk Wendell Magruder sold crack cocaine, cocaine and marijuana to fellow House employees working in the chamber's post office.

Some of the drug purchasers then assisted Magruder "in concealing monetary shortages in his stamp drawer," the grand jury said. They did it by giving him stamps before postal officials conducted regular audits, the indictment said.

The drug purchasers were not named and identified only as unindicted co-conspirators.

Several House members cited the indictment as they debated legislation to overhaul the management structure of the chamber, including the post office.

"It's just symptomatic of the lousy administration that has gone on in this House of Representatives for oh so long," said Rep. Bob Livingston, R-La.

The House approved the overhaul, 269-81. The plan, which takes effect immediately, was approved even though Republicans called it inadequate. Sixty-four GOP lawmakers voted "present," meaning they took no position for or against it.

The action came in reaction to scandals that have plagued Congress, including the lawmakers' free overdrafts at the House bank and the House post office flap.

The post office is not only the focus of the criminal investigation, headed by U.S. Attorney Jay Stephens, but a House Administration Committee task force probing mismanagement.

The strains on Congress became even more evident Thursday when a rising GOP star in the House, Rep. Vin Weber of Minnesota, said he would not seek reelection. Weber, who acknowledged writing 125 bad checks on the House bank over 39 months, cited a "pretty sour" mood in Washington.

The House ethics committee reported Mrazek had 920 overdrafts, more than any other current member of Congress. He was among 22 current and former House members cited as the worst abusers of their House bank privileges.

The political pain will continue. The ethics committee, possibly next week, will release a list of more than 300 current and former members who wrote at least one bad check from their House bank accounts over 39 months.

Explosion claims second victim

BRENHAM, Texas (AP) — A gas pipeline explosion earlier this week claimed its second victim today with the death of a woman injured when her car was crushed and burned in the blast.

Gloria Diver, 46, died about 2 a.m. today from injuries she received in the explosion, said Lisa Lagrone, a spokeswoman for Houston's Hermann Hospital. Ms. Lagrone said the exact cause of death will not be known until an autopsy is completed.

Federal investigators have recovered parts of a pipeline valve they plan to study further in their efforts to determine what caused the deadly blast.

National Transportation Safety Board investigators said Thursday they have retrieved three valve connections that will be sent to Washington, D.C., for inspection. One was blown apart, another was cracked and the third remained on the pipe, officials said.

The NTSB said it has not determined what caused the explosion, which raged through the rural countryside early Tuesday, killing a 6-year-old boy and Ms. Diver and injuring 19 others, two critically.

Flames burning at a propane pipeline finally went out Thursday, allowing investigators to get closer to the blast site.

The Coastline Pipeline Co. line erupted into a wall of flame about six miles south of Brenham. Besides the two fatalities and injuries, livestock were killed and dozens of homes were damaged.

Preliminary estimates have put damage to property at $3 million.

The blast erupted near a liquid propane storage facility owned by Seminole Pipeline Co. of Tulsa, Okla. Several pipelines feed the facility, where fuel is stored in caverns inside underground salt domes.

At the time of the explosion, a cloud of propane apparently hung in a valley adjacent to the storage facility. Authorities are trying to determine if a car driving through the cloud set off the explosion.

Jane Meinen, whose 6-year-old son, Derrick, died in the blast, moments earlier had made a 911 call to report a horrible smell and a hissing noise outside.

Mrs. Meinen suffered severe injuries in the blast and remained in critical condition today at Hermann.

Two other people who were in the crushed and burned car with Ms. Diver also remained hospitalized at Hermann. Delores Medve, 27, Ms. Diver's daughter, remained in critical condition. Mrs. Medve's 3-year-old son, Travis, was listed in stable condition, Ms. Lagrone said.

The Red Cross opened a disaster assistance center Thursday at a Brenham church for the blast victims.

In addition, Gov. Ann Richards announced that the Texas Department of Transportation and the state Department of Housing and Community Affairs will assist those affected by the blast.

Dr., Gott

by Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: In a recent column you indicated you never used anti-depressants for the treatment of shingles. There is evidence that the tricyclic anti-depressants can provide modest relief for postherpetic neuralgia. While Zovirax is the most effective treatment for the acute phase of herpes zoster, it is uncertain whether it prevents postherpetic neuralgia. I applaud this woman's doctor for not wasting time by prescribing conventional analgesics which are uniformly ineffective. Sign me an RN from MI.

DEAR READER: Whoa! RN from MI.

I said I don't treat shingles with anti-depressants, nor do my neurological colleagues. However, treating post-herpetic neuralgia is another matter altogether. Let's separate the issues.

Shingles is an acute virus infection of the nerves in the skin, marked by painful crops of blisters. The preferred treatment is acyclovir (Zovirax) or — in some cases — cortisone, to reduce inflammation and prevent neuralgia, a dreaded complication. Occurring in about 10 percent of shingles patients (for no known reason), this consequence of the herpes infection causes chronic, severe bouts of stabbing pain, long after the shingles inflammation has ceased.

Successful treatment of post-herpetic neuralgia is woefully inconsistent. Among the methods used is anti-depressant medication, as you mentioned. However, in my experience, this type of neuralgia is one of the most serious challenges for both patient and doctor.

Using anti-depressants during the acute phase of shingles will not affect the course of the illness, nor will it prevent neuralgia. I believe the reader would have been better served if her doctor had prescribed Zovirax or cortisone.

To provide further information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Managing Chronic Pain." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I had my gallbladder removed recently and recovered well from surgery but am plagued by diarrhea. Will this problem eventually take care of itself, or is there some medical treatment I should be taking?

DEAR READER: Diarrhea can occasionally follow gallbladder surgery, but it usually clears up after a few weeks. Persistent diarrhea may reflect intestinal infection or disorders of the pancreas, leading to malabsorption of nutrients. I suggest that you bring this symptom to your surgeon's attention; you may need a stool culture and blood tests to discover the cause of your diarrhea.

First lottery ticket arrives, second shipment is coming

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Lottery is waiting on a second shipment of what officials say will total 300 million tickets for playing the state's first game.

Lottery Director Nora Linares said details of how the game will work will be announced at the end of the month, with sales planned to begin by June 1.

"We think Texans are going to be very pleased with our first game," Ms. Linares said.

The first 86 million tickets, shipped in six tractor-trailer rigs, arrived Thursday from Dittler Brothers Inc. of Atlanta, and another 64 million tickets are on the way.

Officials said the tickets were shipped in locked and sealed trailers. They will be stored at an Austin warehouse with round-the-clock guards. Company and lottery officials said security has been extremely tight surrounding the printing of the tickets to both protect the identity of winners and to make counterfeiting difficult.

The tickets are multicolored, foil-laminated and include computer bar codes to help thwart imitators.

Ms. Linares said she was like any lottery player in not knowing which of the 86 million tickets might be winners.

"I have no idea," she said.

The lottery director also said stealing unsold tickets won't do anyone any good, since a ticket must be validated by a retail merchant's lottery terminal before it can be redeemed for a prize.

If you are playing bridge against good opponents and something unusual happens, there is probably a logical explanation. As Sherlock Holmes said, "When you have eliminated the impossible, whatever remains, however improbable, must be the truth."

Take a proverbial puff on your imaginary meerschaum pipe and see if you can solve today's teaser. Cover the East-West cards in the diagram. You are playing against world champions. West leads the club king, which you duck. He continues with the club queen. You win with dummy's ace, play a spade to the ace and finesse the heart queen. East wins with the king and plays a club to West's 10. Back comes the heart jack. You win with dummy's ace and run the diamond queen: five, four, two. Next comes the diamond jack: seven, three, 10. How do you continue?

North opened one diamond, not one club, because he was using a strong-club system.

Why didn't East cover the diamond jack? Since you have no entry to dummy left, he could have trapped you in hand, so you would be unable to take the trump finesse.

East was Billy Eisenberg, and obviously he had defended this way for a reason. Declarer Bobby Wolff worked it out. If Eisenberg had covered the diamond jack, Wolff would have been unable to take the trump finesse. He would have had to cash the spade king. Clearly Eisenberg knew the queen was going to drop. So at trick nine Wolff led a trump from the dummy and put up the king. Down fell the queen, and declarer claimed.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) There could be something disturbing brewing among some friends today whom you'll be involved with socially. Be careful you're not forced into a position where you have to choose a side. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your probabilities for achieving an important objective today are only nominal; you might be inclined to use tactics that could defeat your own efforts. Don't trip over your own feet.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A friend of yours who is frequently afflicted with biased views could rub you the wrong way today. Instead of letting this person upset you, avoid this individual's company.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone you're rather chummy with, who is always running out of this or that, might try to borrow something from you today that you're reluctant to lend. Don't be afraid to say no.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Failing to get reasonable cooperation from companions today might be due to the fact you're a bit too insistent on doing things your way. Loosen up.

Campus Rape Is Old Story That Needs New Attention

By Abigail Van Buren

©1992 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Concerned Mother" whose letter about campus rape was published in your column.

In the first place, no one should be assigned to a coed dorm. Only those who request a coed dorm, and are mature enough to accept the responsibility, should be allowed in a coed dorm. In my opinion, only juniors and seniors who have proven themselves with good grades and respectable behavior should be in a coed dormitory.

The girl who was raped — and her parents — should have yelled bloody murder, and the student who raped her should have been taken to court, sentenced, and thrown out of school for good! However, this rarely happens. I work at a university and see this all the time.

The guy is usually an athlete. He's slapped on the wrist, and the girl and her family are convinced by campus police and the university lawyers that it would be in the girl's best interest to drop the case, because it will ruin her reputation, and she will have to prove that she didn't ask for it.

I'm afraid this practice will continue until the girls insist on filing charges and seeing the case through.

The suggestion was made that the student who raped the girl in her dorm should be moved to an all-male floor! The guy should have been moved to prison!

OUTRAGED

DEAR OUTRAGED: I agree with you 100 percent. Fortunately, more college girls are being briefed about the subject of campus rape. They now know that every case must be reported — not to the campus police, but to the city police.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of people who make a habit of recycling gifts? Someone gives Grandma some odd gift for Christmas, for example, a pair of lawn flamingos or a clay sheep that grows alfalfa sprouts. Then the next Christmas, Grandma rewraps it and sends it to Aunt Helen.

Grandma does this constantly. I could understand it if she were unable to buy something new, but she is very well off. I am very hurt to receive these obviously recycled gifts from Grandma every year. Am I being overly sensitive?

HURT

DEAR HURT: I see nothing wrong with recycling gifts that are (a) in mint condition and (b) useful. But those who make a practice of sending secondhand white elephants on gift-giving occasions are just plain cheap. You are not overly sensitive. Shame on Grandma.

DEAR ABBY: You occasionally run letters from readers asking if they should inform a friend of his or her spouse's infidelity, or some other unpleasant "truth." While helping my daughter with an English assignment, I came across this piece of philosophy by the English poet William Blake (1757-1827). It comes from his poem "Auguries of Innocence":

"A truth that's told with bad intent
"Beats all the lies you can invent."

I plan to have those words framed and placed on my bulletin board at work.

Student basketball star turns out to be AWOL sailor

LINGLEVILLE, Texas (AP) — A 21-year-old sailor absent without leave from a Virginia military base has been found in Texas, trying to pass himself off as a high school sophomore.

Fantasies about basketball glory were dashed this week for Lingleville High School as the 6-foot-5 Kevin Keith Osborne was arrested by sheriff's deputies. Osborne had enrolled at Lingleville High as 16-year-old Eric Slater.

He has been charged by U.S. Naval officials with being AWOL from the Little Creek, Va., Naval Amphibious Base. Osborne has been ordered held without bail at the Erath County jail in connection with auto theft at the base.

Navy officials will question Osborne after deciding where the sailor will be prosecuted, said Gary Hardgrove, special agent in charge of the investigation at the Naval Investigative Service in Little Creek.

"He had given us the story that his folks had split up and were going to move down here from Virginia, and he couldn't give us some records we needed from his old school," said Lingleville school Superintendent Garner Rice. "He kept forgetting them, and they finally got suspicious and called the sheriff's office."

In the four days he attended Lingleville High with its 50 other students, Osborne made quite an impression.

"He went out on the basketball court and just dunked the ball from all over the court," Rice said, laughing. "They thought, 'Here is our new player. He'll be a hero.'"

Rice called Osborne "a perfect actor. Everybody just fell in love with him."

He made the third-highest grade in the class on an English test he hadn't studied for and politely removed an earring when told it was against the school dress code, said Principal Jerry Brock.

Sheriff investigator Kevin Fincher said Osborne had apparently lived in nearby Stephenville, 10 miles west, as a child.

Congressmen introduces bill to end caps on state prisons

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas congressman wants to strip federal courts of their authority to regulate prison overcrowding, saying states shouldn't have to comply with standards the federal government doesn't meet.

The legislation introduced Thursday by Rep. Pete Geren would, if passed by Congress, immediately strike down federal prison restrictions in 28 states, including Texas.

The Texas prison system, which is operating under federal court supervision, cannot exceed 95 percent capacity in its facilities. Yet the federal prison system is allowed to operate at 165 percent capacity, said Geren, D-Fort Worth.

"These restrictions, imposed by federal district court consent decrees and court orders, have placed a 'revolving door' on the Texas prison system and 27 other states around the country," he said.

Geren's bill would remove prison capacity jurisdiction from federal district courts and restrict it to the state court systems. The Texas caps were set in an agreement approved by U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler.

Texas prisons have been under Justice's supervision since he ruled in 1980 that the penal system constituted cruel and unusual punishment.

Geren's legislation was introduced the day before the Texas Board of Criminal Justice was to vote on whether to grant early release to nearly 3,000 inmates to ease prison and county jail overcrowding.

"The authority that federal district courts have to restrict the bed capacity of state prisons is costing honest Texans dearly in both their tax dollars and in safety from dangerous criminals," Geren said.

Insufficient parking

PARIS (AP) — Disney's newest amusement park is expected to be popular — even too popular, in the opinion of some French officials.

Deputy Transport Minister Georges Sarre advised the public to skip the grand opening of the $4 billion theme park east of Paris.

He and the Paris police chief, Pierre Verbrugghe, said a government survey indicated up to 90,000 vehicles would head for the park Sunday, even though parking is available for only 11,500 cars and 500 buses.

Panthers to entertain Snyder in 2-4A battle

Coach Albert Lewis' Snyder Tigers baseball team dodged a bullet Tuesday with a 9-8 come-from-behind victory over Levelland and will attempt to make it two District 2-4A wins in a row today at Lubbock Dunbar.

The Tigers scored six runs in the decisive fifth inning against Levelland Tuesday to fight back from a 7-3 deficit.

Junior reliever Michael Fields came on to toss the seventh inning, striking out the last two batters with the winning run on third base.

Senior Chad Fox earned the win for SHS, pitching two innings in relief of starter Daniel Espinosa.

Either Espinosa or Fields will start this evening's contest against the Panthers.

Snyder's offense continues to be the strength of the team while defense has been a question mark.

The Tigers blasted nine hits against the Lobos Tuesday, pumping up their team batting average to .315 for the season.

Senior catcher Bobby Clinkinbeard led the barrage with his three-for-three performance at the plate with three RBI.

Defensively, Snyder has been giving away a load of unearned runs.

In their first two district contests, Snyder has committed a dozen errors, including at least one by every memeber of the Tigers' starting infield.

"They're not making bad plays, most of the time," said Lewis. "They're just not showing a lot of intensity. They're making a lot of mental mistakes."

On the season, SHS fielders have accounted for 52 errors.

Still, the powerful offense and an experienced pitching staff are keeping the Tigers, 13-6, 1-1, in every game they've played.

Dunbar sports a 2-15, overall record. The Panthers are 0-2 after Tuesday's 3-1 loss to 2-4A favorite Lamesa.

Game time is set for 6 p.m.

Other loop games this weekend include Lamesa at Estacado and Levelland hosting Frenship, both on Saturday.

The Masters...

Wadkins, Sluman share lead

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Lanny Wadkins' three consecutive birdies in Amen Corner were merely rare. Jeff Sluman's ace on No. 4 was historic.

The neat feats at an uncommonly tame Augusta National helped Wadkins and Sluman take a share of the first-round lead Thursday in the Masters.

Wadkins deftly negotiated the old course's most famous stretch, holes 11 through 13, on his way to a 7-under-par 65. Sluman matched that total and needed just one stroke at the 213-yard fourth hole.

Brandishing a 4-iron, Sluman's tee shot landed about 20 feet from the cup, crossed a ridge and rolled in.

"Like a 1-foot putt," he said. Through 55 previous Masters, No. 4 had never yielded an ace. That covers an estimated 11,000 drives.

Sluman and Wadkins held a three-shot lead going into today's second round. Tied at 68 were former PGA champion Wayne Grady, Players Championship winner Davis Love III, Mike Hulbert and Ted Schulz.

Leading money winner Fred Couples, six-time Masters champion Jack Nicklaus, defending champ Ian Woosnam and 49-year-old Ray Floyd were among 12 players shooting 69. Two-time champion Nick Faldo and Augusta rookie Long John Daly were in a group at 71.

Eighteen golfers broke 70, and 35 bettered par. Both figures were tournament records for the first round, as was the average score of 72.052 by the field of 83.

Augusta National was made inviting by a light wind and relatively slow greens softened by rain early in the week.

"The opportunity was there to shoot a good score if you put it in the right place," Sluman said.

Like in the hole off the tee. After his ace, Sluman pulled the ball out of the cup and handed it to his mother, who was in the gallery.

Wadkins gave away little. He said he hit just two bad shots, both off the tee, and each time he saved par.

He flew through the historic southwest corner of the course, making birdie putts of 12 feet on No. 11, 15 feet on No. 12 and 6 feet from No. 13.

The scorecard read 3-2-4.

"I feel like Amen Corner has kicked my butt so many times over the years, it probably owes me a little bit," Wadkins said.

Sluman and Wadkins rose to the top of the leader board while much of the gallery was focused on a couple of other Americans, rising stars Daly and Couples.

The crowd cheered each monstrous drive by Daly, including a 320-yard blast on the first hole, but three bogeys kept him back in the pack.

Couples birdied three par-5s but played the rest of the course at even par.

Rangers rip Mariners, 9-1

SEATTLE (AP) — The Texas Rangers, led by Ruben Sierra, Dean Palmer and rookie Monty Fariss, completed a four-game sweep of the Mariners with Thursday's 9-1 win.

Sierra had a three-run homer, Fariss a homer and three RBIs and Palmer had three hits, although none left the park.

Jeff Robinson (1-0) got all the support he needed when Texas scored six times in the second inning against rookie Dave Fleming (0-1).

Thinclads scatter to area gatherings

Girls at Seminole; boys at Big Spring

Snyder's high school track teams will head in different directions this weekend as the Lady Tigers travel to Seminole for the Indian Relays and the SHS boys journey to Big Spring for the Big Spring Invitational Track Meet.

Both events are scheduled for 9 a.m. starts Saturday.

The Lady Tigers are fresh from a seventh-place finish at the Levelland Invitational a week ago where sophomore Annie Ragland and senior Joellen King topped the 5-0 mark in the high jump for first and second place, respectivelly.

It was the fourth time in five 1992 meets that Ragland has copped top honors in the event.

Others placing in Levelland for the Snyder girls' team included Trina Thompson, who wound up with a 12.11 first-place clocking in the 100 meters, then took a 26.94 for second in the 200 meters; and Vicky Green, who came in third in the discus, with a 97-10 heave, and fifth in the shot put, with a 33-3 1/2 toss.

The Tigers, while scoring more points than at any previous meet this season, finished in sixth position at Levelland with 41 1/2 points.

"It was one of those weird days," said SHS boys' coach Tommy Doyle. "Everybody felt bad and nobody did as well as expected, but, at the same time, we scored more points than we have all season.

"It wasn't a good meet for us," he added, "but how do you call it a bad one?"

Snyder's Randy Fisk captured fourth in the 400 meters and sixth in the 100 meters with times of 54.70 and 11.56.

Teammate Eddie Martinez also placed in two events last week, earning fifth-place points in the long jump, for his 19-9 effort, and the 200 meters, with a time of 22.85.

This week's meets will be the final tuneups for both SHS squads as they host the District 2-4A meet at Tiger Stadium April 17-18.

C-City hosts Ira Bulldogs

The Ira Bulldogs, coming off an almost two-week layoff since their last outing, will travel to Colorado City to tangle with the Wolves JV in a non-district baseball tilt Saturday at 1 p.m.

The last appearance for the 'Dogs was a 9-8 come-from-behind win over the Coahoma junior varsity March 31.

Junior Mike Hughes claimed the win as Ira moved to 2-2 in its first-ever baseball season.

Coach Lynn Cauley is expected to send Jason Hartley to the mound against CHS.

District 3-A competition begins April 28 for the Bulldogs when they visit Wilson.

At NMJC Rodeo...

Whiteside's 70 good for first

HOBBS, N.M. — Western Texas College bareback rider Travis Whiteside provided a lift for the Westerners, on a night when little seemed to go right.

Whiteside, who captured second place at last week's Howard College Rodeo in Big Spring, moved into first place with a 70-point ride in the first performance of the New Mexico Junior College NIRA Rodeo Thursday.

Others out for coach Bob Doty's WTC squad included bareback rider Eric Mouton, who missed his spur-out for no score; Eddie Smerdon, who was bucked off in the bull-riding event; Dusty Bewes, who received a no-time in steer-wrestling; and team ropers Troy Cattoor and Jody Hart, who also had no time Thursday.

"Things will go better for us tonight," Doty said, then added, "They'll have to."

The NMJC Rodeo continues today and Saturday with 7 p.m. MDT performances. The top 10 qualifiers in each event in the long go will advance to Sunday's finals, scheduled to begin at 1 p.m.

The Majors will take on Lamesa No. 2 at 7:15 p.m. today.

Clint Williams led the Snyder Seniors with 17 points.

Ramsey Castillo put in 9, Patrick Jordan canned six, Page Patterson and L.S. McClain were good for four apiece and Wayne Braziel and Matt Parker each nailed a bucket.

Zeb Alexander, Matthew Fambro, Orlando Hernandez and Geoffrey Loper make up the rest of the squad. Coaches are Larry Braziel and Kenny Wayne Thompson.

The Seniors next outing at the tournament is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. today.

The tourney continues through Saturday at Lamesa Middle School.

Champions in each division will advance to the national tournament in Fairfield.

Houston falls in 13 innings

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's Greg Swindell held Houston to five hits as the Reds beat the Astros 6-5 Thursday. He struck out seven and walked none.

Swindell came out after the eighth and Scott Bankhead gave up a pair of singles to start the ninth. Norm Charlton relieved and Ken Caminiti hit the first pitch for a three-run homer that made it 5-4.

Caminiti led off the 13th with a single off Scott Ruskin (0-1), was sacrificed to second and scored on Candaele's single, beating Sanders' throw home from center.

Al Osuna (1-0) pitched the final inning and got the victory.

Richards appoints Lanny Haynes

AUSTIN (AP) — An oil company president from Vidor has been selected to the Lamar University System board of regents.

Gov. Ann Richards on Thursday appointed Lanny Haynes, president of Haynes Oil Co., to the board.

Haynes, 47, will fill the unexpired term of E. Linn Draper Jr. of Beaumont, who resigned. The term ends Oct. 4, 1995.

The appointment is subject to Senate confirmation. ———

As of January 1988, hospitals are required by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Health Care Organizations to have formal policies specifying when doctors and nurses can refrain from trying to resuscitate terminally ill patients.

Caterpillar-UAW talks resume

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Caterpillar Inc. and the United Auto Workers have agreed to resume negotiations, the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service said today.

Caterpillar did not immediately confirm the report. Company spokesmen were in a meeting and could not come to the phone, according to a secretary in their office.

A UAW spokesman confirmed there would be a meeting but refused to comment further.

Caterpillar, the world's largest manufacturer of earth-moving equipment, placed advertisements for replacement workers in local papers this week.

The company received 56,000 calls in a three-hour period Thursday morning, said Illinois Bell spokesman Jim Donnelly.

"We are getting calls from all over the country," Caterpillar spokesman Bill Lane said Thursday. "Our top priority is getting our own people back."

But about 13,000 UAW workers remained on strike Thursday, with thousands gathered at plant gates where some spit, yelled and threw eggs at other union members who returned to work.

And again today more than 3,300 pickets, including about 1,000 in Decatur, 750 in East Peoria and 800 in Aurora, walked the line at Caterpillar plants in scattered rain across Illinois, according to police and union estimates.

Speedier reviews

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government promises to speed up its review of publicly financed presidential candidates, hoping to prevent future audits from dragging on for nearly four years after elections.

House Democrats vote reform, however, the GOP wants more

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats pushed through a management overhaul of their scandal-tarnished institution, but President Bush is leading Republicans in demanding more.

The House on Thursday night approved, 269-81, a plan that would junk much of the old patronage system that has been blamed for the penalty-free overdrafts at the chamber's bank and embezzlement and alleged drug-dealing at its post office.

The inefficient and loosely supervised array of payroll, supply and other support services would be consolidated under a new director of non-legislative and financial services. Control of the post offices would be returned to the U.S. Postal Service.

An inspector general would oversee those operations. Both the services director and the auditor would be appointed jointly by Democrats and Republicans.

"This bill represents the most important reform measure taken up by this House in nearly two decades," said Rep. David Bonior, D-Mich., the House majority whip.

But Republicans refused to back the plan, some voting against it and 64 others simply voting "present." They said it was a hasty effort to address a political emergency and demanded that the majority party cede them more power, saying anything less was less than reform.

"At one time the Democratic majority could have reformed out of principle. Today, they are forced to reform out of panic," said Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill. "Unprecedented isn't enough."

Governor Richards touts plan to reform funding for schools

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislative leaders appear cautious about Gov. Ann Richards' school finance reform plan, which she touts as fair and responsible.

The plan includes taking business property out of local school districts' tax bases, instead taxing it and returning the money to schools on a statewide basis. School districts would continue taxing residential property locally.

Richards — at a Thursday news conference in the schoolhouse where she once taught social studies — said her plan would get the state "out of the lawsuit business" over equitable funding and allow it to concentrate on improving education.

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock said he appreciates Richards' work. But he said that his job is "to work with everyone toward finding a practical and equitable solution which can pass the Legislature."

"It is not my place to rubber stamp any plan until every idea is on the table and tested with full and open discussion and study," he said.

House Speaker Gib Lewis said, "I am eager to work with the governor, and I hope we can develop the necessary consensus for a solution that meets court muster."

Rep. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, said he is "open-minded" but opposed right now because so many school districts in his area rely on mineral wealth for their tax base. Richards' plan would tax minerals statewide.

"You've taken the rich and made them poor," said Rudd, who heads the budget-writing House Appropriations Committee.

Major posts victory as Labor Party's vote count falls short

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister John Major and his Conservatives were victors today after overcoming voter anger over hard-nosed economic policies and defying the doomsaying pollsters to extend their 13-year-old reign.

Major, who succeeded Margaret Thatcher 16 months ago, emerged strengthened by the personal mandate voters handed him Thursday.

"We've won tonight a magnificent victory, a victory that many people thought was beyond our grasp," Major told cheering election workers at party headquarters. The Conservatives were the first party this century to win four straight elections in Britain.

With 627 of 651 constituencies reporting, the Conservatives had won 326 seats, the majority they need to govern alone. Political analysts predicted the Tories would wind up with a 17 to 19 seat majority. The Conservatives had 369 seats before the election.

Labor won 270 seats and the Liberal Democrats 18.

"Now the Conservatives will continue with the decline," Labor Party leader Neil Kinnock said.

"The whole country deserves better and we will work to ensure that the day will come when, with a Labor government the country will get better in its spirit, in its soul, in its fortune, in the chances it gives to its children, the care it gives to its old and to its infirm," Kinnock said.

Noriega plans to appeal his drug-racketeering conviction

MIAMI (AP) — Manuel Noriega, the defiant dictator plucked from his country to stand trial in the United States, was convicted of turning Panama into a way station for drugs. And U.S. officials say the verdict contains a powerful message.

"I hope it sends a lesson to drug lords here and around the world they will pay a price if they continue to poison the lives of our kids in this country or anywhere else," President Bush said.

Noriega was convicted Thursday on eight of 10 drug and racketeering counts in the indictment that set the stage for the December 1989 invasion of Panama. The ousted Panamanian dictator faces up to 120 years in federal prison at his July 10 sentencing.

The trial marked the first time the United States has invaded a sovereign nation and brought back its leader for prosecution. Noriega is the first foreign head of state convicted by an American jury of criminal charges.

Defense attorney Frank Rubino said he will appeal on many grounds, including Noriega's claim that he is a prisoner of war.

After his sentencing, Noriega faces marijuana trafficking charges in Tampa federal court. He could receive up to 35 years if convicted in that case.

U.S. officials cheered the verdict.

"Manuel Noriega's conviction sends a powerful signal to our Latin American allies who support us in this fight against the trafficking of illicit drugs," said Bob Martinez, director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy.

Former Noriega prosecutor Mark Schnapp called the conviction "a tremendous vindication of U.S. drug efforts."

During the seven-month trial in U.S. District Court, the government described Noriega as "just another crooked cop."

Defense attorneys maintained Noriega was a victim of U.S. politics, saying the case "smelled all the way to Washington." They portrayed the government's witnesses — many of them confessed drug traffickers — as thugs seeking a "get-out-of-jail-free card."

Jurors deliberated for five days — and at one point declared themselves deadlocked by a holdout juror — before returning with the verdict.

said. New equipment will eventually be brought in and more workers added.

"We would like to get going in two to three weeks," Istre confirmed.

"There was a tremendous turnout of people," said Fritz. "I was real pleased. "Maybe this will be a signal for another manufacturer looking for a location. The workforce is here."

science teacher Mike Pappas and English/ESL teacher Tim Corfman, who are moving from the district, and from North Elementary pre-kindergarten teacher Marissa Jones, who is leaving to care for her family.

The board also accepted a request from Superintendent Dalton Moseley that he be allowed to look within the district to hire a principal for West Elementary. Under next year's elementary reorganization plan, Lee Presswood will be the principal at Northeast Elementary, Jim Rosson will be at Central Elementary, and Wayne Kennedy will be at East Elementary. Jim Erwin, who has announced he will retire at mid term next year, will assist Kennedy at East.

North Elementary will be closed under the reorganization plan.

In other business Thursday, the board approved a revision of election clerks, revised the local sick leave policy to read "an employee shall indicate whether state or local leave is to be charged for each day of absence," and okayed a waiver to give two credits for Algebra I and geometry.

Under communications, Peggy Kennedy questioned the policy of issuing parking tickets at the high school. She inquired about written guidelines of the policy and how the money collected was to be spent. Trustee Sam Robertson said that the information would be gathered and her questions would be answered.

The board also heard from Benjamin Felan, senior class president, who introduced other senior class officers and invited trustees to attend senior activities, including the steak supper, Powder Puff events, baccalaureate services and graduation.

Both Moseley and Gary Patterson, high school principal, praised the senior class.

In other information, East Elementary students Sharika Wofford, Pete Olivarez and Brady Collier gave a report on their campus.

Also, out-going board member Sam Robertson thanked the other trustees, SISD personnel and the community for their support during his years on the board. Robertson is the board president.

Trustees also approved payment of bills and previous minutes.

All board members were present, to include Robertson, Ann Walton, Luann Burleson, Geraldine Parker, Terry Martin, Glen Clarady and Billy Bob McMullan.

Heritage Singers set here Sunday

Heritage Singers from Howard Payne University in Brownwood will be in concert at 7 p.m. Sunday at Colonial Hill Baptist Church. There is no admission charge and a nursery will be provided.

Heritage Singers is a vocal ensemble of 12 singers who are auditioned on the basis of musical, spiritual, intellectual and leadership qualities.

Members of the group include Jana Newbury, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Don Newbury, former Snyder residents. Newbury, a former president of Western Texas College, is the president of HPU.

Other members include Shane Young, Toby Foreman, Trey Teel, Rickey Williams, Cody Woodfin, Jennifer Roecker, Kim Smithen, Amy Trees, Ann Dodson, Jenny Boyd and Laura Arcos. Sara Baker, associate professor of music, has directed the group since 1987.

Heritage Singers represent the university through their music ministry in churches. In addition, they conduct an annual mission trip. Last May, the group traveled to San Diego, Calif and Mexico where they distributed food and clothing to the needy, and served in evangelism with children and youth in Mexico.

During semester break Heritage Singers toured New Mexico where they ministered in small, pioneer Southern Baptist Churches. They are self-sustained through love offerings from the churches to which they minister.

Kay Coulter slated here this Sunday

North College Avenue Baptist Church will present Kay Coulter in concert during the 11 a.m. worship service on Sunday.

Her concert format in churches is a combination of traditional and contemporary Christian music as well as dramatic monologues. She has sung in churches, for organizations, for Christian women's club, on college campuses and retreats and on television.

Kay is frequently asked to serve as praise leader in the law renewal ministries and various women's meetings. She has appeared at concerts along with Cynthia Clawson, Ken Medena, Steve and Annie Chapman and Bob and Jan Salley.

She has also given benefit concerts for the World Hunger Relief, Inc. Profits from her album, "Singing Praise," are also dedicated to WHRI.

Kay lives in Temple with her husband, John, and two sons. She is an active member of the First Baptist Church in Belton.

She has sung in numerous churches and at various Christian gatherings throughout the South Central United States.

She has been chosen as a performing artist at Ridgemont Baptist Assembly and a featured artist at the 1991 Kentucky Baptist Convention meeting.

The public is invited.

Cameras against law in subway

NEW YORK (AP) — A quick list of things that are illegal to use in New York subways: Guns. Knives. Brass knuckles. Cameras.

That's right. Transit police, enforcing a little-known law, have busted a pair of flash photographers in the past week.

One of those charged was a legal secretary, Angela D'Urso, who took pictures to document the exposed wiring and peeling paint at her station in the Bronx.

"Whoever heard of this rule?" she said.

Transit police spokesman Al O'Leary said the rule was imposed for safety.

Super collider comes under fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a House oversight subcommittee says the Energy Department has engaged in "one of the most remarkable deceptions" in its management of the super collider.

Overseers of the $8.25 billion project ran into heavy questioning Thursday during the subcommittee hearing, at which were launched the first salvos in what is expected to be a difficult fight this year for federal funding.

The Texas project's managers "engage in the kind of creative bookkeeping that would put the House bank to shame," said Rep. Sherwood Boehlert, R-N.Y., a leading collider opponent.

But Energy Department officials vigorously defended their management of the giant atom smasher, denying allegations of mismanagement, cost overruns and abuses. They accused opponents of recycling old charges and using outdated information.

Rep. Howard Wolpe, the subcommittee's chairman, attacked the project's managers for failing to implement an adequate system to monitor costs and overruns.

"DOE and its contractors have been aware of trends indicating significant cost increases, yet they have never conveyed that information to the Congress or the public," said Wolpe, D-Mich.

"Unpublicized internal analyses already project overruns of hundreds of millions of dollars," he charged.

Construction overruns alone are expected to total between $73 million and $383 million, said Victor Rezendes, the General Accounting Office director overseeing super collider audits.

The GAO, at Wolpe's request, has had investigators at the collider's construction site south of Dallas for over a year — oversight characterized as a "fishing expedition" by Rep. Joe Barton, R-Ennis.

Rezendes testified Thursday of his concern that inadequate internal controls could swell the collider's costs and delay completion by as much as 13 months — adding another $400 million to the taxpayers' tab.

But Joseph Cipriano, the DOE's collider project manager, said the figures cited by Rezendes, obtained from a September 1991 report, were dated and superseded by a new analysis completed this week.

The new study prepared by the contractor shows construction costs could run up to $150 million over or under budget, Cipriano said.

Cantu indicted on charges of bilking the government

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A contractor and three others have been indicted on charges of fraudulently billing the government for more than $10 million in services and merchandise on Defense Department contracts.

A federal grand jury handed down a 71-count indictment on Thursday, alleging money laundering, bank fraud, conspiracy to defraud the United States government and making false claims to the Defense Department.

Edward P. Cantu, president of Corpus Christi-based Universal Unlimited, was indicted on all counts, while Ronald L. Smith and Isaac C. Anthony II were named in 60 counts. Jerome R. Payne of San Antonio was indicted on 14 counts.

If Cantu is convicted on all charges, he could face 645 years in prison and fines totaling $55.75 million.

The 102-page indictment, the culmination of a year-long investigation into Universal, says the company was awarded government contracts to produce military tents at a plant in Brownsville.

Cantu is accused of conspiring with Smith to set up a phony supply company that faked invoices for manufacturing materials Universal would never receive.

"As soon as he submits that claim, and the government pays him for those raw materials, those materials belong to the government," said government investigator Larry Bible. "If he never had the property, then the government is left holding the bag."

The alleged fake company, West Point Peperale of Metairie, La., issued invoices to Universal totaling more than $8.2 million between Oct. 1, 1988 and Aug. 27, 1990, according to the indictment.

Universal also is accused of ordering materials from legitimate suppliers, collecting government reimbursements and later canceling the orders.

Payne and Anthony are accused of helping launder illegally gained profits.

Anthony and Cantu on Thursday appeared before U.S. Magistrate Eduardo E. de Ases, who ordered them freed on a $50,000 unsecured appearance bond pending their arraignment on April 22.
