Bolivia, Paraguay End Chaco Dispute

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 11 (AP) — Bolivia and Paraguay today put behind them their century-old conflict over the almost worthless Gran Chaco border area.

Formal conclusion of the dispute came last night when representatives of the two nations signed the award of an abitral commission which gave Paraguay more than three-fourths of the region which cost 100,000 lives in the Gran Chaco war of 1932-1935.

Bolivia was left without a navigable outlet to the sea on the Paraguay river. Despite the sacrifice, the Bolivian representative, Enrique Finot, declared his country extended the "hand of friendship" to Paraguay.

The settlement was obtained through the mediation of the six neutral countries.

Processing Tax Proposal Will Be Submitted

Plans Designed To Quiet Dissatisfaction Over Low Prices, High Surpluses

BY OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 —Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and his aides are completing a four-point program designed to quiet rumblings of dissatisfaction over heavy crop surpluses and low farm prices.

This program includes:

1. Continuation of the existing crop control law, with referenda on marketing quotas to keep next year's cotton, tobacco, rice and wheat crops in line with expected needs.

To Recommend Taxes

2. A recommendation to congress that it revive processing taxes invalidated by the supreme court in 1936. Funds raised by the taxes would supplement present farm subsidies.

3. Greater emphasis on expanding domestic markets for surplus farm products.

4. Reorganization of the agriculture department, announced a few days ago, for greater efficiency in serving farmers.

Would Fortify Administration

Assistants said Wallace believed this program would fortify the administration against any proposals at the next session of congress for outright fixing of farm prices at sharply increased levels.

The federal crop reporting board emphasized in its October report yesterday that abundant supplies of most food, feed, forage, tobacco and cotton crops are in prospect. The major crops facing excessive surpluses include cotton, wheat, and possibly corn and rice.

Sooner Youths Are Rescued

(By The Associated Press)

SULPHUR, Okla., Oct. 11. — Two specimen-hunting college students who clung lost and bewildered to a damp underground ledge for nearly 34 hours were rescued from a cave today by a group of daring young Arbuckle mountaineers.

Suffering from exposure, the students, T. K. Treadwell, jr., 18, and Hugh Glen Monroe, 17, both of East Central Teachers college, Ada, were ordered to bed.

Car Found Monday

They had gone into the cave some time late Sunday in their quest for specimens. When their car was found abandoned at Dougherty yesterday an alarm was sounded, bringing officers and volunteer searchers hurrying into the area.

Last night searchers came upon the clothing of the two students on the banks of an underground pool. A rope dangled in the water.

Two mountain boys who know the hills and the caves, Clifford Montgomery and Julius George, were

Shorter Week Is Sought By Auto Unions

Approximately 250,000 Of Industry's Workers Are To Be Affected By Results

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, Oct. 11 — Spokesmen for the United Auto Workers of America (CIO) and the Chrysler and General Motors corporations conferred today on the union's demand that a 32-hour week be maintained until all employes have been recalled.

Approximately 250,000 workers were affected by the negotiations.

The question came to the fore as automobile production was stepped up throughout the industry.

Buick Dispute Separate

Separate from the 32-hour week issue was a dispute involving Flint Buick plant workers, who claim seniority and wage matters are of more concern to them at the moment. A strike has been threatened in the Buick case.

The 32-hour week demand was brought to a head suddenly last week when 15,000 men were thrown out of work Friday because workers at the main plant of Plymouth division, Chrysler corporation, refused to go through the gates, having already worked 32 hours that week.

To Recall Men

Chevrolet division of General Motors in Flint was the center of a controversy briefly yesterday, but the management notified a union bargaining committee that it would recall 300 men a day until 11,400 had been employed. Theodore La Duke, chairman of the union com-

Bund Members Are Routed By Rocks

NEW MILFORD, N. J., Oct. 11. (AP)—A disturbance in which members of the German-American Volksbund were routed by rocks and other missiles and one man was dumped into a pond led authorities today to consider the advisability of legal steps to ban future meetings.

A crowd of several hundred men brushed through a cordon of police and firemen last night and stormed a bund meeting at the home of Adam Kunze, scene of previous clashes.

Rocks, rotten fruit and broken crockery were hurled through windows and several of the attackers seized Kunze and dumped him into a nearby pond. He crawled out unhurt.

Mayor George Mack asserted that the bund declined to call off the meeting and did not request police protection despite warnings that trouble might occur. He said he would confer with the borough attorney concerning the possibility of legally banning bund meetings in the borough.

"I'm glad it happened," said Mrs. Adam Kunze, "it was a demonstration of what is wrong with democracy."

Despite the melee and previous troubles, she declared, she would plan more rallies.

It's Ranger Captain Green!

Ohio born (like Wilbert Lee!) William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, has gone Texan in a big way since his organization opened its current convention in Houston. The five gallon hat he's trying on was a gift of Gov. James V. Allred, who also appointed the labor chieftain an honorary captain in the Texas rangers.

Greater Program Of Paving Is Mapped

Lubbock's most ambitious paving program for any one year will be brought to a close today.

Then, without loss of time, the city engineer's department will resume preparations for an even more extensive program of paving next spring, summer and fall.

When the last crushed rock is rolled and the last hot asphalt is poured on Seventh street before nightfall, it will mean that more than 10 miles of city streets have been surfaced since last spring.

Smith Supervises Work

This was the information given this morning by Marlin R. Smith, jr., city engineer, under whose supervision the work has been done.

Further surfacing work then must stop until warm weather returns because the hot asphalt binding materials cannot be poured when temperatures are low, the city engineer explained.

To Work During Winter

However, curbs and gutters will be constructed and streets will be based with caliche during the winter. Then, next spring they will be paved with crushed rock bound with asphalt.

This year's paving program, officials explained, was more than double in size that of any previous similar period in the history of Lubbock. More paving has been done this year, officials were further informed, than in any city in Texas up to double the size of Lubbock.

Accomplishments Cited

While the final report shows that paving has been laid in all parts of the city, some of the more important accomplishments have been:

The paving of Tenth street from

CIO Leader's Challenge Is Given Today

Action Might Pave Way For Labor Peace, Lewis Says; Raps Federal Commission

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 —John L. Lewis offered today to resign as chairman of the C. I. O. if William Green would resign as president of the American Federation of Labor to pave the way for peace between the two organizations.

Lewis told newsmen that the suggestion from the federation's Houston convention that Lewis withdraw from the C.I.O. was "manifestly not a un-lateral problem."

Think It Worth Trying

"Obviously it's bi-lateral," Lewis said, "and the same suggestion would apply to Mr. Green whose recent ferocity seems to know no bounds.

"In any event, I think it worth trying.

"I advise I'm willing to resign today or tomorrow or any day thereafter as chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization if Mr. Green is willing simultaneously to resign as president of the American Federation of Labor.

Peace May Be Effected

"It then may be possible for the remaining leaders of the federation and the C.I.O. to conclude a peace pact, in which event the contribution by Mr. Green and myself may be of some value."

DELEGATES TO ANSWER

HOUSTON, Oct. 11 (AP) — William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said today the delegates to the A. F. of L.'s annual convention would "answer" John L. Lewis' offer to resign as CIO chairman if Green would step out as federation president.

On his way to convention hall Green stopped in a crowded hotel lobby to read news dispatches from Washington setting forth Lewis' offer.

"I have no comment to make on that," he said. "The delegates will answer it before the convention adjourns."

Green will seek reelection as A. F. of L. president Friday. He has no opponent.

The convention adopted a report yesterday declaring there was no solution to the split in labor until Lewis either was deprived of his authority as head of the CIO or "voluntarily stepped aside."

Sheppard Has Been In Senate 36 Years

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP) — Thirty-six years ago today the first district of Texas elected to congress a slender, mild-mannered young lawyer to complete the unexpired term of his father who had died in office.

Sen. Sheppard

Now Senator Morris Sheppard (D-Tex) is the dean of congress by virtue of 36 years of unbroken service. He celebrated the anniversary today by working in his office, directing the activity of the senate campaign expenditures committee.

At 63, the small-statured, gray-haired senator said he is busier than ever—not excepting the four years before congress voted to submit his prohibition amendment to the states.

Intoxicated Pedestrian Is Put In Class With Drunken Driver

CHICAGO, Oct. 11. (AP)—The intoxicated pedestrian was given the stoplight today at the National Safety council's silver jubilee convention.

He was put in the same class of public enemies as the drinking driver —a traffic menace on the nation's streets and highways.

The council's committee on tests of intoxicants recommended that educational and enforcement methods be directed at drinking pedestrains. A specific program will be evolved after a special study to be undertaken by the committee.

In its seconod annual report, the committee said pedestrian deaths amount to 68 per cent of the total traffic death toll is cities, and that many of the fatalities may be attributed to drinking.

Broadway Darling Swings Her Best One, Reeling Jack Doyle

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. — "Boy, I hit him with everything I had!"

Pretty, hazel-eyed Elinore Troy, 22, former Hollywood movie actress and one-time "bubble dancer," thus described how she biffed Jack Doyle, prize-fighting romeo, sometimes called "the Irish thrush," in the Midnight Sun night club early today.

Miss Troy said she walked into the club after Doyle had broken a date with her—"and here we'd only been engaged for two days,"

—to find him sitting with Michi Taka, a Japanese dancer in the club's floor show.

"I probably hurt that pretty face of his," she said, "but he had it coming. I asked him if he remembered our date and he started to stammer and said, 'Yes, darling, but . . .' and then I let him have it, smack on the nose."

Miss Troy, a native of Washington, D. C., said she put every ounce of her 5 feet 11 1-2 inches behind the punch that

Houston Man Is Human Guinea Pig In Prison's Experiment

(By The Associated Press)

HUNTSVILLE, Oct. 11 — Thomas F. Whiteside, Houston attorney serving time for murdering his wife, is a human guinea pig on whose success or failure to some extent depends the treatment of 7,000 of his brother convicts.

Whiteside is now being given a chance to make good by the Texas prison board and the management of the prison system, and despite his recent escape from Harlem state prison farm, he seems to be on the upgrade.

The story began a year or so ago when an essay by Whiteside was submitted to the National Prison congress and won third place. This brought Whiteside, then classed as one of the Eastham state prison farm incorrigibles, to the notice of General Manager O. J. Ellingson, who decided, with the approval of the prison board, to try an experiment.

The ex-lawyer was shifted to the Harlem farm and given permission to write for pay. He has earned about $600, his latest and most remunerative sale

Troops Move Into Border Town Signifying Willingness Of Czech Officials To Negotiate For Return Of Land Lost After War To Hungary; Czechs Move Fresh Troops Into Border Area

BY LOUIS MATZHOLD
Associated Press Staff Writer

IPOLYSAG, On the Czechoslovak-Hungarian Border, Oct. 11—Hungarian troops occupied this Czechoslovak border town at 1:20 p. m. (7:20 a. m., E.S.T.) today in the first actual transfer of territory in Hungary's drive to regain part of the land she lost to Czechoslovakia after the World war.

More than 4,000 residents of Ipolysag, 50 miles north of Budapest, sang, danced and kissed the incoming Hungarian soldiers, whom they welcomed in the name of the approximately 1,000,000 Hungarians in territory Budapest is demanding from the dismembered Czechoslovak state.

Military bands played fiery Hungarian music. The day was celebrated as a Hungarian national holiday and acclaimed as ending 20 years of mourning for Hngarians in Czechoslovakia.

Dispatches from Komarom, the border town where Hungarian and Czechoslovak envoys are negotiating over the cession of territory, reported Hungarian troops also occupied the important railway junction of Satoralja Ujhely, across the frontier from the Hungarian town of that name and 150 miles northeast of Budapest.

Agreement was reached Sunday at Komarom that these two points would be occupied to symbolize Czechoslovakia's willingness in principle to meet Hungary's demands.

The company sought damages for injury to leather which rotted during the strike.

Urges Investigation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—A railroad labor witness charged today the demand for a 15 per cent wage reduction came from "a small inner group of so-called investment bankers symbolized and dominated by the private banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co."

W. Jett Lauck, economist for railroad brotherhoods, urged President Roosevelt's emergency fact-finding board to look into the financial history of railroads before deciding upon the wage reduction against which 1,000,000 workers have voted a protest strike.

"I'm so grateful for what Siler City School taught me about COLDS"

Says Mrs. J. B. WHITLEY

"Every winter Margaret used to come down with one cold after another," Mrs. Whitley says. "Then the clinic started at her school. Soon she was catching fewer colds, and getting over them quicker. It certainly opened my eyes. Since then our whole family has followed Vicks Plan—and colds don't worry us now like they used to."

17,353 VOLUNTEERS

Take Part In Great Colds-Clinic

Over 7,000 School Children Do Their Part

DURING four winter periods, a modern crusade against colds was waged in schools, factories, homes. Here's what happened:

Both the number and length of colds were drastically reduced . . . Sickness from colds was cut more than half (50.88%) . . . School absences due to colds were reduced even more (57.86%)!

These are actual figures—the average results of the four winter series of clinical tests in which 17,353 people (including 7,031 school children) took part. Thirty-seven doctors were on the supervisory staff. Over 500 teachers, nurses, and other trained workers assisted them.

A SIMPLE GUIDE. This great clinic proved the worth of Vicks Plan. Vicks Plan is a simple guide which emphasizes the importance of proper personal care and the use of two specialized medications—Vicks Va-tro-nol and Vicks VapoRub—for relief of symptoms in different types and stages of colds.

When colds threatened—at the first nasal irritation, sniffle, or sneeze—Va-tro-nol was used to help prevent the development of many colds. When a cold got by all precautions, its discomforts were relieved with VapoRub.

The results speak for themselves. Vicks Plan may do less for you—or it may do even more. But with such a record it certainly is worth a trial. It is simple and easy to follow in any home. You get the full directions in each package of Va-tro-nol or VapoRub.

Helps PREVENT COLDS

Va-tro-nol is specialized medication—expressly designed for the nose and upper throat, where most colds start. You feel this tingling, stimulating medication go right to work. Used at the first sniffle or sneeze—a few drops up each nostril—it helps to prevent many colds from developing. Keep it handy and use it early.

VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

RELIEVES misery of COLDS

VapoRub is a family standby for relieving misery of colds. Rubbed on throat, chest, and back, VapoRub acts two ways at once: (1) Direct through the skin like a poultice; (2) Direct on irritated air-passages with its medicated vapors. This double action loosens phlegm, clears air-passages, eases cough, relieves local congestion.

DALLAS, Oct. 11. (AP)—E. T. Fritz of the Atlantic Refining company announced the company had cut 15 cents from the price of its crude oil in the Greta-Refugio district of coastal Texas.

He said the cut was entirely local. The cut affected all gravity grades, bringing prices within a range of from $1.26 to 86 cents, as compared with $1.41 and $1.01 previously.

Bomb Blanks Cameraman's Mind---But He Gets Picture

These two pictures of a demonstration bombing attack at Chattanooga, Tenn., were snapped within a few seconds of each other but the cameraman remembers taking only the first one. Photographer William Davis of the Chattanooga News snapped the picture, left above, of Major Al Williams flying over the target building, quickly changed plates for the next "shot." Davis got the picture of Major Williams' direct hit, right, but he doesn't remember taking it. When the bomb exploded something snapped in his head. When his brain cleared, Davis found he had made the picture, pulled the plate holder from the camera and waded two creeks in a mad scramble to safety.

Total Of $130,638.97 Paid Out At Tech To Students For Work, Loans, Scholarships

Students of Texas Technological college received a total of $130,638.97 as payment for work on the campus, scholarships, and as loans, in the 1937-38 long session.

That information was given in a report from the college to the National Youth administration.

These figures were listed: NYA aid, $26,976.30; various institutional scholarships, $6,953; fellowships, $6,894.58; loans, $3,920.85; wages from college funds for student assistants and other student workers, $85,894.24.

Many of the scholarships, fellowships and loans are made possible through gifts of individuals and organizations. The NYA funds were paid to part-time student employes engaged in various types of work on the campus.

Many of the activities in which students paid with college funds are engaged are self-sustaining; for instance, the dining halls, dormitories, bookstore, college press, farms, and dairy manufacturing plant.

"The policy of the institution is to use capable students who need financial assistance to attend college for such part-time services as we can," said Dr. Harry L. Kent, director of administrative research and member of the executive committee. Careful supervision is maintained to see that no student works so many hours that he endangers his classroom standing, he added.

The figures listed do not include funds earned by students employed off the campus, or loans secured by students other than from loan funds supervised by the college.

New Park Is Recommended

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 11 — William J. Lawson, secretary of the state parks board, said today he would recommend to the board that an offer of J. G. Hunter of Abilene to deed the state about 1,280 acres of land in the Guadalupe mountains of Culberson county for a park be accepted.

Lawson had just returned from inspecting the site, which includes McKittrick canyon, and was highly enthusiastic. On the inspection tour he was accompanied by A. H. Dunlap, member of the state board of engineers, a landscape architect, a geologist and an engineer.

"It is beautiful," Lawson said. "We went deep into the canyon, walls of which rise 2,000 to 2,500 feet straight up. It is the only place in Texas where elk, mountain sheep and rainbow trout all are found. The location is about 40 miles south of Carlsbad cavern.

Soviet Charge Branded 'Lie'

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Lady Astor, Britain's Virginia-born M. P., today declared the London communist newspaper, The Daily Worker, was responsible for the story that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh criticized the Soviet air force at a dinner at her home.

"This emanates from the same source—The Daily Worker—which said we gave a dinner to Lindbergh and invented the story of the Cliveden set," thte viscountess said. "There is no truth in it."

"Cleveden Set" Opposed

For months some opposition newspapers have charged an aristocratic pro-German group centering about Lady Astor's home and known as the "Cliveden set" influenced Prime Minister Chamberlain in his dictator-appeasement policy.

Earlier the labor paper, Daily Herald, quoted Lady Astor as declaring the Lindbergh story a "complete lie."

"Col. Lindbergh has not dined with us since he returned from Russia and in fact I have never given a dinner party for him," the newspaper quoted her.

"It Is a Complete Lie"

"It is a complete lie, too, that Col. Lindberg has ever made any sort of pronouncement about the Russian air force or about anything else during a dinner party at my house or in my house at all."

Col. Lindbergh was denounced by Soviet airmen in a letter published in Moscow. They asserted he was a guest in Lady Astor's home when he made statements derogatory of Soviet aviation and may have encouraged influential conservative circles to urge Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to go ahead with his agreement to permit Adolf Hitler to dismember Czechoslovakia.

Lands At Rotterdam

Col. Lindbergh refused comment Monday afternoon when he landed in Rotterdam en route from Paris to Berlin.

With Mrs. Lindbergh he left Le Bourget airport, Paris, and landed at Waalhaven airport, Rotterdam, shortly before 5 p. m. noon e.s.t.).

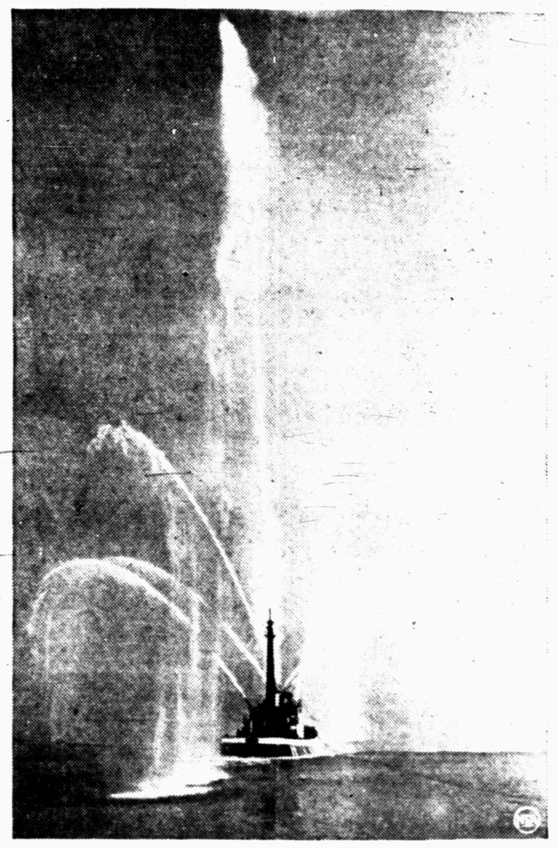

(A Berlin dispatch said bad weather prevented the pilot from getting through to Berlin where he was expected to attend the annual session of the Lilienthal Society for Aerial Research opening there Wednesday.)

His airplane had been at Le Bourget since Oct. 5. Friends said that just before that date he had stayed about a week in London before returning to France where the Lindberghs live on Illiec island.

Million-dollar Fire Extinguisher

With a stream of water rocketing 700 feet into the air from her 55-foot water tower and jets from her eight other nozzles presenting a paradoxical suggestion of fireworks, New York's new million-dollar fireboat, the Fire Fighter, is shown above on trial maneuvers in the Hudson River. Most powerful fireboat in the world, the Fire Fighter's two specially built 16-cylinder Diesel engines can pump 20,000 gallons of water a minute with 150 pounds a square inch pressure at each nozzle, and speed her along at 16 to 17 knots.

New Professor Is Added To Faculty

Dr. Waldo Sumner Glock of Tucson, Ariz., has been appointed a member of the department of geology and petroleum engineering at Texas Technological college, Dr. James M. Gordon, executive committee chairman, announced Monday afternoon. He will begin duties Saturday.

Dr. Glock received his bachelor's degree from the University of Iowa and his doctor of philosophy degree from Yale university. He served as geology instructor at Ohio State university from 1924 to 1931. Since 1931, he has been a research associate of the Carnegie institution of Washington, D. C.

He has worked in Tucson on a cooperative research project of the University of Arizona and Carnegie Institution, said Dr. Leroy T. Patton, head professor of geology and petroleum engineering. His research has been mainly in the field of paleoclimatology and physiography.

The appointment was one of several that have been made by the executive committee because of the increased enrollment this fall.

Years Of Health Troubles Ended After All Else Tried Had Failed; Like A Different Man Now

"Money could not buy what Gly-Cas has done for me," said Mr. F. M. Inmon, 810 West Monroe Street, Harlingen, Texas. "For five years my health had been a constant course of distress. My stomach would bloat terribly after every meal, gas would form in abundance regardless of my diet and I could never eat the foods I wished. It seemed what I liked the best would cause the most severe suffering. I was badly constipated too, simply could not gain in weight and was growing worse each day. I had that tired feeling continually and there was little I could do about it as everything I tried failed to make the least impression on my stubborn case . . . but Gly-Cas was wonderful.

"I am now on my second box of Gly-Cas and pleased to say that I am enjoying the best health I have had in years," continued Mr. Inmon. 'I eat the foods that had been forbidden me and am never troubled with gas, bloating or distress of any kind after meals. Even my bowels have been regulated, am gaining in weight and strength every day, sleep good the entire night through and arise in the morning full of strength and energy, ready for the day's work ahead. Gly-Cas gave the results that were claimed for it."

As one of the industries of Texas, your telephone company pays its share of the cost of government. It is a heavy share, too. In 1937 its local, state, and federal taxes in Texas totaled more than four million dollars . . . nearly $12,000 a day.

These telephone taxes were equal to more than a third of the company's entire payroll in the state. They amount to $9.25 for every telephone in service.

Where do they go, these taxes? To build and maintain the streets and highways over which you drive. To furnish you police and fire protection. To keep up your children's schools. To help pay for all the services government gives you.

Graham Names All-Star Team; Two Positions Provide Argument

First Base And Shortstop Are Tough Choices

By DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Feature Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. — It's simple to select an outfield but trouble comes when you start filling other slots on an All-Star major league baseball team for 1938.

DiMaggio, Medwick, Ott. There are your flychasers, and try to find any dissenters.

They can all run and throw—and how they can hit!

Joe DiMaggio of the Yanks ranks third in the major leagues in runs batted in with 138. Joe Medwick of the St. Louis Cardinals drove in 122 runs and Mel Ott of the New York Giants knocked in 117.

DiMaggio's batting average was .323, Medwick's was .322 and Ott's .310. Ott played third base most of the season but he still was tops as a right fielder when he took to the outer gardens.

From this corner the personnel of an All-Star club should look something like this:

First Base: Jimmy Foxx, Boston (A)
Second Base: Charles Gehringer, Detroit (A)
Third Base: Robert Rolfe, New York (A)
Shortstop: Joe Cronin, Boston (A)
Right Field: Mel Ott, New York (N) x
Left Field: Joe Medwick, St. Louis (N)
Center Field: Joe DiMaggio, New York (A)
Catcher: Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati (N)
Catcher: Bill Dickey, New York (A)
Pitcher: Bill Lee, Chicago (N)
Pitcher: Red Ruffing, New York (A)
Pitcher: Paul Derringer, Cincinnati (N)
Pitcher: Lefty Gomez, New York (A)
Pitcher: John Vander Meer, Cincinnati (N)

The hottest competition develops at shortstop and third base. Rolfe is our choice on all-round ability, although Stanley Hack of the Chicago Cubs outhit him and Harland Clift of the St. Louis Browns drove in far more runs.

Vaughn Liked At Short

There's fuel for debate at shortstop. Arky Vaughn, batting pacesetter for the Pittsburgh Pirates, is the No. 1 shortfielder in the National league. Joe Cronin and Cecil Travis of Washington are the American league leaders. Cronin gets our vote on hard-hitting and aggressiveness. Vaughn covers more ground.

Foxx, author of the grandest comeback in the game, batting champion and runs-batted-in leader, gets the first base call over Hank Greenberg, Johnny Mize and Frank McCormick. Foxx hit .349 and drove in 174 runs.

McCormick was perhaps the prize rookie of the year and a ranking hitter all season for Cincinnati. Mize of the Cardinals came along in the late weeks to overhaul him in the batting lists. Greenberg's bid to better Babe Ruth's home run record of 60 fell just two short as Hank held to a good batting average and trailed Foxx in runs batted in.

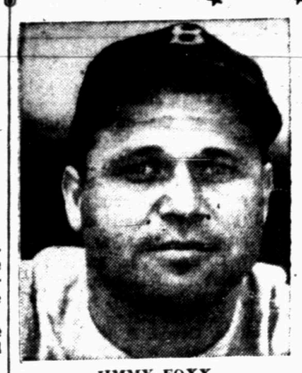

Gehringer, the old master, still is the peer of second sackers, outranking Pittsburgh's Pep Young, Chicago's Billy Herman and New York's Joe Gordon.

Dickey, Lombardi Standouts

Ernie Lombardi, a leading National league hitter, and Bill Dickey, big gun in the Yankee attack, take catching honors without much dispute.

Ruffing, Lee and Derringer, all with more than 20 triumphs, are simple All-Star selections. After a poor start Gomez rallied and finished as the top southpaw of the junior circuit. Johnny Vander Meer, the author of baseball's first "double no-hit" feat, warrants a spot.

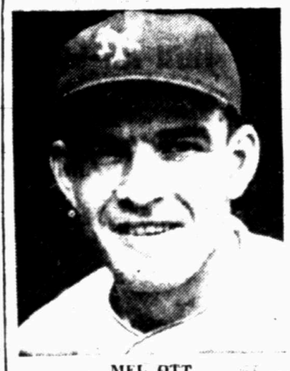

Others who should be considered include Clay Bryant of the Cubs, Buck Newsom of the St. Louis Browns, Johnny Allen of Cleveland and Monty Stratton of the Chicago White Sox.

Two Yankee Pitchers Are To Undergo Operations Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP) — Two of the World-champion New York Yankees' pitchers, Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler and Wesley Ferrell, were to enter St. Elizabeth's hospital today for operations on their pitching arms.

Dr. Robert E. Walsh, Yankee club physician, was to perform both operations for the removal of bone growths and splinters. Chandler, a "freshman" who won 14 games during the season, and Ferrell, a veteran picked up in mid season after he was released by Washington, were kept out of action in the World series by sore arms.

Phillies Are Going To Hold On To Best Talent, Prothro Says

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11 (AP) — The Phillies are going to keep their best baseball talent and start climbing out of the National league cellar, Dr. James Thompson Prothro, the new manager, declared today after a conference with Gerald Nugent, club president.

No longer will the club develop stars for sale to the highest bidder, the dentist-manager, said.

Football Fates Gentle To New Coaches This Fall; They May Be Saving Punches For Later

By DREW MIDDLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The football fates, usually as kindly as a cross cobra, have been exceedingly gentle this fall with most of the prominent new coaches and their teams, although it may be, with the season only three-weeks old, they are saving up their punches to pin the wizards' ears back in November.

"New" applies only in the sense the coaches are new to their material and school. Most of them are old hands at appeasing alumni, keeping the star halfback's mind off the blonde Chi Omega and building character.

Holding Their Own

A rapid glance around the football map finds George Munger of Penn, Tad Wieman of Princeton, Fritz Crisler of Michigan, Tex Oliver of Oregon, Bill Wood of Army, Joel Hunt of Georgia, Harry Mehre of Mississippi and Rex Enright of South Carolina of the new leaders alive and holding their own at this stage.

Munger is the current wonder boy of Eastern football. With what appeared to be ordinary material in September, he has licked Lafayette and Yale and pulled Penn out of the doldrums.

Wieman and Wood, the other major newcomers in the East, both failed their first big test but there were large chunks of hope in each case.

Sure To Be Dangerous

Princeton put up a magnificent fight against Dartmouth for a half. The work of a big, but green, line and a little sophomore back, Eddie McCormick, showed the Tigers not yet ready for serious business, but sure to be dangerous against Yale and Harvard.

Army, after knocking off Wichita and Virginia Tech in awesome fashion, started as though it would shove Columbia out of the ball park Saturday. Poor quarterbacking—forward passing after ground plays had brought the team almost the length of the field—hurt the Cadets. But the line is solid and durable and the blocking excellent. Wood should have a whale of a November team.

Better Than All Right

Chrisler has done better than all right thus far. Michigan trimmed Michigan State for the first time in five years in its opener and then went on to hand pitiful Chicago a thorough whipping in its Big Ten opener. The betting is against Crisler bringing the team through the Minnesota game inviolate but no one thinks the Gophers will have a snap Saturday.

Hunt, who replaced Mehre at Georgia, has won three in a row. The Bulldogs have licked the Citadel, South Carolina and Furman, the latter by a healthy 38-7 count. They face Mercer, Saturday, then head into heavy weather with Holy Cross.

May Surprise Vanderbilt

Mehre, snapped up by Mississippi also has taken three, a 20-7 licking of Louisiana State being the most impressive win. The odds are Harry will have a few surprises for Vanderbilt Saturday.

Enright, enlisted after the 1937 team lost six, tied one and won five, hasn't had as much success with South Carolina. The team beat Erskine and Xavier, lost to Georgia 7-6, and then beat Wake Forest.

Raiders Drill For Montana

Only Prince Scott, sophomore end, was on the injured list at roll call Monday afternoon as the Red Raiders started their "whooping and hollering" drills for Montana at Missoula Saturday.

Scott suffered a minor kidney injury Saturday night against Oklahoma City university, but will be able to play against the Grizzlies if necessary.

The varsity will get down to hard workouts today after taking it pretty easy Monday. Ineligibles and boys who are preserving their eligibility scrimmaged Coach Berl Huffman's freshmen.

Thirty players will make the Montana trip, Coach Pete Cawthon said. They will be out to avenge a defeat administered here last year.

TICKETS ON SALE

Tickets for the Texas Mines-Tech game in Odessa, Oct. 22, went on sale at Hub Clothiers today. Only 500 seats will be available for Lubbock fans and 500 student tickets. Athletic Manager Hugh Williams said today. Two hundred and sixty of the tickets were placed on sale today. Prices are $2.20 for reserved seats and 50 cents for student tickets. Student tickets must be obtained from Williams.

Lions Favored Over Lubbock

"They rate favorites, but remember that we can beat them if we work properly," Assistant Coach Goober Keyes told the Westerners Monday.

The Lions from Vernon were the "they" referred to. The Lions come here Friday night to play Lubbock at Texas Tech field.

Brisk sale of tickets for the contest was reported yesterday by Business Manager E. J. Lowrey. Ducats are on sale at Sam Rosenthal's Hub Clothiers, Lubbock Hotel drug, and Mark Halsey Drug No. 2.

Grandstand seats are priced at 75 cents with limited number of box seats available at one dollar. Latter seats are located between the 30-yard lines on both sides of the field.

Harder workouts are planned for the Westerners today and for a couple of more days. The boys rested last week and apparently it did them worlds of good.

Germany has 14,500 soccer clubs with 1,250,000 playing members, and it is not unusual to have 120,000 spectators at big games in this capital.

Davidson is the next opponent.

Tex Oliver at Oregon is riding high. Oregon tops the Pacific coast conference with two wins and has had two weeks to prepare for games with Stanford, Fordham and Southern California.

Aggies Back To Prepare For T. C. U. Frogs

The Texas Aggies rolled into College Station today and had scarcely shaken the dust of California from their feet before diving into intensive training for the big game of the week in Southwest conference football—their clash with the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs.

They made a lot of fuss out on the Coast Saturday as they battled Santa Clara all over the field only to drop a 7-0 decision to the Sugar Bowl champions, but that game was played for fun. The one with the Frogs next Saturday is for keeps.

Have One Grand Battle

The Aggies were already studying T.C.U. plays, airmailed to them from Aggie scouts, when they arrived home. Assistant Coach Marty Karow, who watched the Frogs blast Temple at Philadelphia Friday night, told them they had one grand battle on their hands.

At Fort Worth, Frog coaches checked up and found the Christians came through the Temple game unscathed and that only a few colds contracted in Pennsylvania were to be worried about—if there's any worrying to be done at all.

Thomsen Hunts Quarterback

At Fayetteville Coach Fred Thomsen of the Arkansas university Razorbacks began an intensive hunt for a skilled signal-caller, deciding his team needed a quarterback more than anything else for the conference battle with Texas at Little Rock Saturday.

At Austin Coach Dana Bible designated Roy Baines of Odessa, senior center, as captain of the Longhorns against Arkansas. Bible was pleased to note that none of his boys was injured sufficiently in the game with Oklahoma last week to be out of the battle with the Razorbacks.

Jennings Dissatisfied

Coach Morley Jennings of the Baylor Bears expressed dissatisfaction with his team in its 9-6 victory over Arkansas last week. He pointed out that the ground offensive of the Bruins was not so hot against the Razorbacks and that he needed more blocking.

Southern Methodist university returned to hard work though the Mustangs have no game this week. Coach Matty Bell didn't like the way the Ponies performed in taking a 7-0 defeat from Marquette and he was very pessimistic about the chances of S.M.U. against Pittsburgh next week. "We haven't a chance to beat them," he lamented.

The Rice Owls counted casualties as they prepared for their game Saturday against Tulane at New Orleans. End Don Hager and Halfback Bert Selman were injured in the 3-0 defeat at the hands of Louisiana State and Selman definitely is out of the Tulane tilt. Rice already had quite a lengthy list of injured.

Odds Favor Leo Durocher As Manager Of Brooklyn Team

NEW YORK Oct. 11. (AP) — While Larry MacPhail wouldn't give any hints as to his choice of a successor for Burleigh Grimes when he finally made the formal announcement that "Boiling Boily" wouldn't be retained as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, the odds favor Leo Durocher.

MacPhail listed the names of five candidates, Durocher, Jimmy Wilson, Charley Dressen, Frankie Frisch and Bill Killefer, then as the argument among newspapermen waxed hot, he began accepting wagers from them—with a 25-cent limit.

Durocher started at 9 to 5 in MacPhail's "book"; he used a tablecloth to record the bets—and wound up at 4 to 5. Dressen and Wilson opened at 8 to 5. Killifer at 5 to 1 and Frisch at 10 to 1.

The Old Question Again

By Collier Parris

Add football casualties: Line Coach Dutchy Smith of Tech . . . Suffered a chill during the Raider-Bug game, was abed with high fever all Sunday, abed minus fever yesterday . . . Says he'll be "in shape," however for the Montana trip, starting tomorrow . . . Prince Scott, left end replacement, suffered a kidney blow in the game that laid him up a couple of days . . . Somehow we have a hunch Captain Frank Guzick won't play any more football for Tech . . . and it's a pity . . . He is probably the best all-around player who ever enrolled at Tech. . .

The Sam Wests, of Washington baseball and Lubbock drug businesses, are home for the winter . . . And scouting for a residence . . . Happier than we've seen him in years, Sam makes no bones being glad to be off the Browns . . . Says he never enjoyed baseball life more than he did the Washington part of his 1938 season . . . Cutie Iturino of Cuba, leading jai-alai player in New York, explains his success thusly: "Why shouldn't I win? It is only natural. I am strong, so I play hard. Strategy is for women and babies". . . . The Detroit Tigers were the only major leaguers to play the full schedule of 154 games this season. . . .

Overheard in the Hilton coffee shop: First Out-Of-State Traveler (reading from the noospepper): "Good Heavens, this Texas Tech team beat Oklahoma City 60 to 0! Why under the sun aren't they in the Southwest conference?" . . . Second traveler: "They're afraid of Tech, that's why. Tech'd tear down their pretty playhouse."

All of which brings up a "Letter to the Editor" which the editor has turned over to this dept.

"Mr. Kyle Chrichton, writing for Collier's Magazine last week, points out that Rice Institute with its Ernie Lain . . . is heading for the Rose Bowl . . . In commenting upon Southwest conference football he remarks that the fight this year will be to keep Rice from winning two conference championships in a row, and timely observes that "one of the sad things of Texas football is that Texas Tech is not in the conference."

And so it is Mr. Chrichton, with others throughout the nation, has appraised the calibre of Southwest conference football. He places Texas Tech in its rightful place among the best, and a lot of people are wondering if he did not intend to say out loud that "Texas Tech is this year equal to Mr. Lain and Company of Rice, and if Tech had conference standing the Red Raiders might carry the Southwest conference banner into the Rose Bowl."

"Thanks to Mr. Chrichton. Thousands of Tech and conference alumni living in this section feel the same way about it. We have been trying to turn the knob to the conference door, but it seems like somebody on the inside is holding it tight.

"Have you ever wondered with me who it could be?"

(Signed)

"Grandstand Quarterback."

Thanks, Mr. G. Q., for the letter, the sentiments and implications. A lot of us feel the same way as you about the situation, yet it's hard to put the finger on the cause.

Public sentiment may one day force the issue and land the Raiders in their deserved slot, although the conference fathers always have been, and probably always will be, quite stubborn about being forced into something. They like to be the aggressors, the inviters. So someone, in a nice way, must prevail upon the conference moguls to "invite" Tech to join up with 'em.

The team and coaches at Tech are doing their parts, although handicapped by inability to line up first class schedules.

We have heard more kicks this season about Tech's schedule than we ever heard before. "Why don't we get a good schedule, even if we can't get in the conference?" is the query.

And it is regrettable that a team the size of Tech can't line up more big time games. The 1938 schedule is representative, we admit—from a geographical standpoint, but outside of three games, the card has no "names" on it. When one plays Duquesne, Marquette and Centenary, one has done something—for three weekends. But these should be "additional" or "intersectional" games plus a conference schedule.

There is wholesome reason for Tech's inability to attract the big fellows, including Southwest conference teams, for its schedule.

As long as Tech isn't affiliated with a major league, the major league teams aren't going to care much about playing the Raiders. A defeat by Tech would just about spoil the defeated team's season, to say nothing of morale. A victory over Tech by a major club would not be much to crow about, nor would it attract much attention. So, with everything to lose and nothing to gain, the big boys are shying away when approached for a booking.

It would seem, then, that Tech has to get into the conference in order to offer a good schedule, and that Tech has to play a good schedule to get in the conference. So what does that make Tech?

For next year, Tech has more or less definitely lined up games with Lovola of Los Angeles, Detroit university, Wyoming, Montana, Duquesne, Centenary, Marquette, Texas A. and M., Missouri, and Washington university of St. Louis. Which is a fairly tough schedule, one must admit, but which doesn't cut much ice with observers of big time football. Four games with Southwest conference teams would give Tech a higher rating than eight victories over teams like those named, with exception of the Aggies.

Incidentally, Tech plays its toughest game of the season Saturday afternoon at Missoula, Montana. A victory over Montana would not bring headlines in the nation's press; a defeat there still wouldn't bring headlines, but would materially injure Tech's standing, which at present is about 20th in the nation while Montana is about 75th, or something, according to the experts who handicap the teams from week to week.

Betty Jameson And Mrs. Hury Tie For Women's Medalist

FORT WORTH, Oct. 11 (AP) — Betty Jameson and Mrs. E. R. Hury, San Antonio stars who tied for medalist honors yesterday in the Texas Women's open, faced a couple of high scorers in first round match play today.

New Faces Will Be In Ranks Of Cubs, Hartnett Declares

CHICAGO, Oct. 11 (AP) — New faces, plenty of them, will be around when the Chicago Cubs take the field next year, says Manager Gabby Hartnett.

There is little doubt the Cubs would like to have Joe "Ducky" Medwick, a power in the St. Louis Cardinal attack and rumors already were out that the Cubs would make a serious bid for the slugging outfielder. And if trades or money will not bring Medwick, reports had the Cubs ready to shift to Johnny Mize, another Card power unit.

"Winning a pennant doesn't mean anything unless you can put a powerful club against the Yankees," said Hartnett as he returned from World series wars in which the Yanks riddled the Cubs in four straight games.

Hartnett wasn't sure of how or where he would get that power, but he was desperate enough after the Cubs' World series showing to cry "I'll trade anybody except Stan Hack, Bill Lee, Clay Bryant and Dizzy Dean."

"I'm keeping Dean," Hartnett said, "because I believe the big fellow can come back."

Rajah Still Tops With $10,000 Salary Near Nine Race Tracks

BALTIMORE, Oct. 11. (AP)—Rogers Hornsby, seven times batting champ of the National league, was still tops today—the reported $10,000 salary to be paid him for managing the Baltimore Orioles is the highest for any minor league manager.

General Manager Jack Ogden of the International league team announced last night Hornsby would return next year to Maryland and its nine race tracks. He will replace Bucky Crouse, manager during the 1938 season which saw the Orioles finish in last place.

Ogden's action was just as unexpected as the arrival of the football season. In August he said he would replace Crouse and there was a lot of talk as long ago as April, when Hornsby came to Baltimore as pinch-hitter and coach. After the talk, Hornsby left to manage the Chattanooga team of the Southern Association.

Ogden did not formally announce the terms of the deal, but the $15,000 figure was making the rounds. It tops the $9,000 reputedly received by Travis Jackson, pilot of the Jersey City International club.

The average American citizen spends one week annually in sick bed.

being on the stands now in the November issue of a "detective magazine. In the story, he discusses his trial, conviction, and incarceration.

Whiteside's record in prison has been spotted. A short time after he had been received behind the bars, he was known as a "shrewd" convict. He pursued some legitimate and a lot of illegitimate activities. Among the former were letter-writing activities for illiterates at 15 cents each. "Once I banged out 150 letters for an old man," he says. "They were addressed to his daughter, explaining his disappearance, and so written that she would understand, when she grew older, why he was sent to prison and not hate him for it. They were to be mailed at weekly intervals, boy, that was a job."

Less noble activities however, caused his removal to Eastham farm for incorrigibles.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT
NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP) — Stocks put on numerous quick-change acts in today's market and generally confounded the hand was faster than the eye as far as confusing trends were concerned.

Rises and rallies were so frequent that the customers no more than took a position on one side of the market than prices pointed in an entirely opposite direction.

While the business news picture retained its moderately bright aspect, the foreign affairs apparently were a neutral market element, the lengthy upturn of the list inspired additional profit taking at the expense of motor and steel leaders especially.

Aircrafts did rather well from the start but were not particularly buoyant. Low-priced issues were conspicuous. Utilities tried to repeat yesterday's uptwing, but met resistance. Electrical equipments exhibited strength. The rails did virtually nothing.

The ticker tape picked up momentum occasionally, but was content to jog for the most part. Transfers approximated 1,500,000 shares.

Lewis' Challenge

erate voice, said if the federation's convention wants to accept his suggestion he immediately upon such acceptance would file his own resignation with the C.I.O.

Has Suggestion

The C.I.O. chairman opened his remarks to newsmen by indirectly suggesting that the president's special commission which studied labor conditions in Great Britain and Sweden might well investigate the situation in the United States.

ELECTION BEING HELD
CHICAGO, Oct. 11 (AP) — The selection or rejection of a CIO union as the collective bargaining agent for 7,000 employes of Armour and company was the issue today in the largest labor election ever conducted in the Chicago area.

The union, local 347 of the United Packing House Workers, claimed it represented a majority of the employes. The latter were asked to vote specifically for or against the union.

"Our public commission has peered into the mind behind the British monocle and has psychoanalyzed our Swedish friends," he said, "it does seem there's an obligation to know and understand our own problems.

"I think there is a scriptural injunction to pick a mote out of your own eye before digging too far into your neighbor's optic.

"Perhaps such a commission could get the facts behind the allegations of Messrs. Green, Frey and Woll and their ilk at the Houston convention."

John P. Frey is president of the A. F. of L.'s metal trades department. Matthew Woll is an A. F. of L. vice president.

Lewis said the situation gives emphasis to a suggestion of Heywood Broun, American Newspaper Guild president, that President Roosevelt name a commission to make a factual study of the conflict between American Labor and industry. The newspaper guild is affiliated with the CIO.

"Makes Me Feel Bad"

"The hymn of hate chanted at Houston yesterday makes me feel very sad," Lewis said, "not because of the scurrilous epithets that were directed at me but because the whole incident brings further confusion and greater strife into the labor movement.

"The men and women who will really pay the price of this conflict are not at the Houston convention.

Have Been Led Astray

"Obviously, Mr. Green and federation leaders are misinformed on some subjects and doubtless have been led astray in their judgments."

Lewis said there might be some virtue in the suggestion of the federation convention that he personally retire from official participation in the labor conflict.

"Obviously," he said, "the CIO can function without the benefit of my services and conceivably with increased efficiency."

Lewis made his remarks in the presence of John Brophy, CIO director, and a half dozen of his close associates.

Tech's Application For Funds Approved

Application of Texas Technological college for $4,370 federal aid for teacher training in vocational agriculture was approved by the state board of education Monday, the Associated Press reported from Austin.

Before approving the aid for Tech and several other colleges, the board discussed a report by federal investigators tht showed sharp criticism of some Texas colleges approved for teacher training and that showed a surplus of teachers in vocational agriculture in Texas.

According to the investigators' report, the state plan calls for a minimum of 54 semester hours credit in technical agriculture and graduates of Texas A. and M. and Texas Tech averaged well over 70 hours last year, but study of transcripts of some persons said to have completed training at Stephen F. Austin college at Nacogdoches showed only 44.5 hours credit.

Dean Aids In Search

The students apparently became lost after swimming and wading about 300 feet across the underground pool," said Dean E. C. Wilson of East Central who came to aid in the search.

"They had taken a cord with them so they could find their way back in the darkness. They had staked the cord on the other side in shallow water and walked in from there to the ledge.

"Apparently they could not find the cord again in the darkness, and went back to the ledge to wait. Why they did not call out when the rescuers found their way to the underground lake I do not know.

Boys Deserve Credit

"These daring young boys reserve all the credit for the rescue. They waded and swam through the underground lake until they got to the other side. They could hear the breathing of the boys and figured they were unconscious.

"They came back for flashlights, placed them in buckets and banaged to ferry them across the water without getting them wet. When the boys saw the lights they stood up."

Montgomery and George then summoned searchers and directed removal of the two students.

IT WON'T be long now until the 1939 model automobiles will all be on display and it is nothing short of an earned compliment to the motor car industry to say that nearly all citizens are expecting vast improvements in all lines.

That doesn't mean that the present models are unsatisfactory.

Far from it.

No matter what kind of a car a guy buys, he gets his money's worth.

What it means is this: the automobile industry always—year after year—brings out new models which are greatly improved over those of the preceding season. And the public naturally has grown to expect it.

To The Plainsman, the automotive industry is the bellwether of all American industry simply because it refuses to be licked by economic exegencies.

Instead of weeping about "conditions," the men who man the motor factories hop all hurdles by bringing out a better buy—and by presenting a necessity which all but demands purchase.

If other captains of industry would follow the example of the automobile folks, things would be a lot better, economically speaking.

The motor makers are the worst customers the crying towel-manufacturers have!

EVEN a casual perusal of your Avalanche or Journal these days should be enough to prove to the most trustful soul that the time of year is here when we'll all do well to guard our homes and businesses against the burglar and the shoplifter and the bad check artist.

Fall is under way and this year, as in the preceding years as long as most of us can remember, will see a quota of break-ins, rubber checks, forgeries, hijackings and petty thievery.

Of course, there is no way we can put a stop to all such activities which annually take tolls of thousands of dollars.

There's bound to be a certain amount of that sort of thing during the "rush period" which lasts past the Christmas shopping rush.

But by being more careful about locking doors and windows; by the simple expedient of refusing to take checks without investigation; by staying off dark streets; and by seeing that all store employes keep on the lookout for shoplifters, Lubbock and South Plains people can save themselves a lot of loss and trouble.

EACH fall and winter bring to us in this section thousands of honest toilers; hundreds of seasonal traders and business people who are not crooked; scores of extra workers of all kinds. They are welcome and essential.

But each season also brings in scores, if not hundreds, of slickers, thieves and members of the light-fingered gentry who come for one reason—and one reason, alone: to "get something for nothing" and to take from rightful owners the fruits of their labors.

Let's make this season one of unusual watchfulness against the grifter and the grafter, so that the loss to honest citizens can be held to a minimum.

If everyone will join in such an effort it will not entail much trouble on the part of any one individual but the widespread results will be well worthwhile.

People who are so worried over the success of the New Deal administration and of the exaggerated ideas embraced today by such a large percentage of our people, will do well to remember that 10 years ago the economic and governmental pendulum was on the other end of the swing.

If we at present are hamstringing private enterprises too much in the interest of the masses, a decade ago private business was hamstringing the masses to too great a degree.

If we have fallen into the rut of electing to high office too many candidates on the basis of "they can't be any worse—what we've had," remember that a few years back we were electing too many men who too well knew how to favor the privileged few rather than the underprivileged many.

Sooner or later, whatever excesses we have gone to will be corrected by the majority of the people and the pendulum will stop swinging and will settle at the happy medium.

Things on this mundane sphere have a habi of turning out for the best.

Some of us who are here now may not live to enjoy the happy medium, but those who follow us will be here to enjoy it.

IN Colorado Spring a few weeks ago, The Plainsman noticed a beautiful sweep of lawn, sprinkled with sedate trees and fringed with handsome buildings.

In comfortable chairs and on benches on the lawn, we noticed a number of men basking in the pleasant sunshine.

It all looked like some sort of a restful country club, so when we saw a sign we paused to read. It said:

"Colorado State Psychopathic Hospital."

That, as you know, is the modern term for what we used to thoughtlessly call an "insane asylum."

At the time he ran across this peaceful, attractive scene The Plainsman—supposedly taking a rest from work-a-day duties—was straining every nerve and muscle to get to Denver by 4:30 p. m., for no other reason than that a person should be able to drive from Lubbock to Denver in 10 hours time.

We had no business in Denver.

There was no reason why we should get there at 4:30, any more than at 6.

But we'd made up our mind to get there at 4:30 and—to use an inelegant expression—were tearing our pants in an effort to do it.

AS we flexed our tired shoulder muscles, settled a little behind the wheel and fixed our eyes on the road we couldn't get the restful, inviting scene of the psychopathic institution out of our mind.

We couldn't forget that the people who were supposedly unbalanced had sense enough to rest, relax and enjoy the sunshine while we, at least legally sane, didn't.

"Who's crazy now?" The Plainsman asked himself—and hasn't yet answered the question to his own satisfaction!

You might recall these lines the next time you find yourself acting like a psychopathic case—which is something the sanest people sometimes do!

The Story So Far: Judith Goodloe has the code of an old Maryland family to support her. Reuben Oliver has only the ethics of his own making. Loving another man, Judith marries Reuben for his money to discover, after the wedding, that his fortune has been lost. Reuben loves Judith desperately, but offers to release her. Judith determines to stick to her bargain.

Chapter 20
Gentleman's Agreement

Reuben's failure was as complete as the darkness which follows the blowing out of a fuse in a high powered electric light. If he went whining to Clem—if he went like a whipped dog with his tail between his legs—but he wouldn't go. He'd stay here—pick up a chance!

At lunch time with a humility that sat strangely upon him he told Judith the worst. "The trip is off. I've got to stay and fight for my life." He took the envelope containing two long strips of tickets from his pocket. "I'm turning these in," purposely he avoided looking at her, "then I'm going down to the liner, there may be telegrams of importance."

"I'll go with you."

"Won't it make you feel terribly?"

"No."

"I'll take you everywhere some day."

She had never been on a big boat before. She was childishly delighted with everything she saw—The great wall of the ship's sides. Rushing stewards. Laughing, chatting groups of people.

The cabin that was to have been theirs was literally lined with flowers, candy, books. Belated wedding presents, that had been sent directly to the liner.

Hurriedly Judith read cards. At last she came to the one she searched for—"Oodles of love and good luck from Gary," the card read. It was attached to an Indian bracelet of beaten silver and set with amethysts—an inexpensiev, artistic trifle—"Oodles of love—"

Judith slipped the bracelet over her wrist and held it out for her husband's inspection; "From Gary"—a bit breathlessly.

Reuben glanced at it critically. "A cheap thing!"

"But pretty."

"Quite. A duplicate of the one Cissy wore at our wedding."

"I thought it had a familiar look." Judith achieved a lightness.

"Ready?" Reuben stuffed a letter in his pocket. "Gosh, did you ever see so much plunder!"

"How will we get it all away?"

"We'll let it stay!"

"Let it stay? Wedding presents—bon voyage gifts—I want them, every one."

The stuff filled four taxis beside the one they rode in.

The next day they moved from the elaborate suite to a room with bath. The gay baskets with their pert bows, the flowers, the boxes, left little space for Judith and Reuben. He had to remove long stemmed American Beauties from the bath tub before he could bathe. He tied his tie before a mirror almost obliterated with blooms.

Forty-eight hours in New York convinced Reuben that he could not come back without ready cash. A man with more background could undoubtedly have staved off dire poverty, but Reuben had flashed meteor like from nowhere. He was doomed to be swallowed up by obscurity just as quickly, unless—

'I Refuse To Stop'

He had one hope — one candle still unburnt. He told Judy about it that night.

"I can start again — make you comfortable, Judy, if—"

His spirit of courage deserted him. He sounded unconvincing even to himself.

"Well?"

He rushed on striving for casualness: "If you will lend me $100,000 of the money I gave you."

She was too surprised for speech. The silence was so prolonged it curdled as cream does under sudden summer lightning.

"I won't need it long." He was suppliant. He should have been dominant but it was impossible to feel anything but a worm under the scorn of her eyes.

She said: "All that was left from the debts I signed over to my grandmother."

"You can get it back."

"You're asking me to recall — a gift?" Another code rearing its serpent-like head between them. "What would Gran think?"

"What could she think except that I'm in a hole? Does what Gran thinks mean more to you than — my future—my very existence?"

"What Gran thinks of you means exactly nothing. What she thinks of me means a lot."

With effort he controlled his temper. If he could make her see with his eyes. "Judith—"

She hastened to defend herself. "The money means little to me — for myself. You know that."

"I wish it meant more."

"Perhaps it's just as well since things have turned out so badly."

"That's the point. You can turn the tide. Saving your husband", with a rush of rage, "should mean more than saving your pride."

"You mean saving you should mean more than saving my people."

"You can't grasp it. Listen—"

"I grasp it too well."

"I've struggled — I'm still floating. Are you going to let me be swept under when a little cash or," with sudden inspiration, "a mortgage on the boxwood—"

It was match to tinder. "Do you know what a gentleman's agreement is?"

"How should I know?" coldly.

They glared, two savages for the moment.

"You—refuse to help me?" Reuben could not quite believe it. He looked at her without seeing her. His mind went back to the days when all life was shared — willingly or by stealth. "You refuse?"

"I refuse to stoop to something I'd be ashamed to remember all my life."

"So that's it?"

"I married you, that's my part of the bond. I'll live up to it as best I can. The money was your part—now you want it back! Well," she raised defiant eyes to his, "you won't get it! I'm going to keep them—safe."

"Then go home and be safe with them," angrily.

A breathless moment ticked away. "I'll make all allowances for you, Reuben. You're worried." Her quiet scorn was more searing than any outburst. "What's poverty to fear?"

The Dark Side

He surveyed her slowly. From the decolletage of her black velvet gown, her neck and shoulders arose, ivory tinted, satin smooth. He felt a sudden pity for her, felt his anger oozing. "Sit down, Judith. I want to talk to you."

She sat on one of the twin beds. He sat on the other. He was wearing dinner jacket, a gardenia. Save for the bafflement in his bronze eyes he looked like a man who has the world in a sling. He said with a slight hesitance: "You know I have neither background nor influence, such as has surrounded you all your life?"

"I know."

"I have a few friends — darn good ones. I can borrow a little from each."

When she said nothing his resentment flared anew. "That doesn't shock you?"

"They're your friends," she reminded him.

He felt a savage desire to hit her, to hurt her. She was goading him too far.

"I have my own notions of what's white and what's yellow." He smiled crookedly. "I learned to discriminate in a hard school where you have to do your thinking quickly and straight."

Not quite meaning to he found himself telling her something of his early life.

Forests — beautiful. Cruel too. Cold. Hunger stalking with the wild beasts. The valiant effort of the 11 year old boy to act a man's part.

"To share with a buddy, take your medicine standing, fight for your rights, not to lie or cheat — that's about all I had to go on." Until now it had always been enough.

She was stirred by pity of the sort one feels for an ill used animal. Pity without the sympathy of kinship. Coarse men, dirty, ignorant, rough, were alein to her.

He felt something of this, but the floodgates were opened. "Even in those days with men cursing, fighting, killing, I think I knew there would some day be you, Judith. I had my dream of wife and home. It was for you I wanted

MONEY NEEDED FOR THE FIGHT

True to most meetings of its kind, delegates went into the recent convention of county judges and commissioners of Texas declaring in favor of greater economy in government.

They emerged from the final session after having adopted several resolutions proposing new and increased expenditures of tax money and without having approved any suggesting considerable reductions of government spending.

However, one suggestion which will meet with wide favor among thinking people is that more adequate provision be made for public health, and particularly for the war on social diseases.

The prevalence of such diseases is coming to be recognized as one of the great problems of our day. Yet it probably is a fact not to be questioned that less financial provision is made for coping with that problem than any other affecting the public well-being. We, of course, are not equipped to say how much money is needed to combat this menace. But whatever is needed should be provided with all possible haste.

Today's Thought

Honour thy father and thy mother, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee; that thy days may be prolonged, and that it may go well with thee, in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.—Deuteronomy 5:16.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 11—A world in confusion is changing the public's taste for motion pictures. A couple of years ago, when the likelihood of war was remote, smart comedies and problem dramas about divorce and such were popular. Today, film audiences are seeking escape in a Freudian dream of the past when men were men and there was no place like home.

Robert Lord, who is a writer and associate producer, and an Academy Award winner because he thinks about things like that, was telling me about the shift in entertainment values, and pointed to the demand for rip-roaring action pictures such as "Robin Hood," "Valley of the Giants," and "If I Were King," and the popularity of family films like "Four Daughters."

"As everything grows more complex these days," Lord said, "people like to think back wishfully to the world of their grandfathers—a world that now seems clean and exciting. They long for the good old days of tried-and-true values, and chivalry, and motives that seem easy to understand, and they want to relive those days in the movies."

If It Must Be War
It Must Be A Nice War

The list of big pictures now being made at Lord's own studio, Warner Brothers, shows how completely the cycle has swung.

"Dodge City," "The Oklahoma Kid," and "Juarez" all deal with the past. "The Desert Song" is a romantic dream. Just finished are "The Sisters," a story not only of the past, but of family life, and "Dawn Patrol," the story of a gentleman's war. Lord supervised the latter two.

The writer believes you couldn't make a "Dawn Patrol" about a 1938 war. "The last one wasn't all chivalry," he said, "but chivalry wasn't quite dead. In the air, especially, it was a scrap between gentlemen. The fans like war pictures with sportsmanship in them, but they don't like to be reminded that the idea behind the war spirit of today is to depopulate the earth."

They'll Think About Anything But Themselves

In times of prosperity and all-around good feeling, movie-goers are willing to accept some pretty grim tragedies and pictures about social problems. They're willing to think. But when people are uneasy anyway they don't want to see their jitters used as movie material. And when people have to dig pretty far down for theater admissions they don't want pictures which will send them out in still lower spirits.

"Take even the family pictures," Bob Lord said, "and you find that the most successful ones show an idealistic sort of home, without discord or vase-throwing or divorce. It seems to me that the new generation, whether it admits it or not, really looks back with longing to the sort of home life it believes existed in the past. The fans want to be reminded of the present only when the present is pleasant."

Of course the pictures of the past are not entirely accurate, because of the movie-makers overlook a lot of things which weren't so attractive in the days of Dodge City and the James boys. "The fans wouldn't find any escape in the theater if the past were pictured as unpleasant," Lord said. "They want to look back on a world without confusion. And seeing what's happening today, you can't blame them."

War Might Shoot Business To Pieces

All the executives in Hollywood have been in a dither about impending war. For every conference of Chamberlain, Hitler, Daladier, and other leaders, there has been a huddle of the rajahs of the movies, who must decide the territorial future of their own world of make-believe.

In the event of a general foreign war, Hollywood would take a huge loss on the big pictures now ready for release or nearing completion. Up to now, American films have brought in about $120,000,000 annually from abroad, and this income would slump enormously at first. Even domestic theater businessness would dwindle for a few months in the heat of war excitement.

As for future pictures, it has been agreed that their budgets would be slashed about 50 per cent so that they could return a profit from the United States and neutral countries.

The 4-Power Peace Plan At Home

Did Psychology Make An Angel Of Peace Out Of Hitler? Wallace Still Being Talked Of

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 — Can you conceive of Adolf Hitler as an exponent of peace on earth and good will to men?

Some of the State department masterminds had to stretch their imaginations considerably, but they did. At last, they imagined a Hitler who could so picture himself in moments of introspection.

Dutcher

This story is given only for what it's worth. But it's a fact that men who worked on President Roosevelt's second cablegram to Hitler actually tried a long-distance psychoanalysis of the Fuehrer.

Clearing their minds of personal prejudice, they checked closely with Foreign service men who thought they knew something of the Hitler character. The analysis produced, to be brief, a picture of a soldier with Nistzsche in his philosophical background—a man who considers himself godlike. A man with possibilities of philosophical genius which at best could blaze into fine idealism and at worst into sheer insanity.

Jekyll And Hyde?

In other words, the boys figured that there might be a side of the Hitler character that they could appeal to. What Mr. Roosevelt thought of it is not known to this writer. But it was the basis of a special appeal, evidenced especially by assurance to Hitler that a grateful world would rise up and call him blessed if he would only call off the dogs of war.

That no one has any great faith that Hitler is now a reformed character or that the second Roosevelt message appealed to his better nature is indicated by the way the Roseveltians soft-pedal earlier attempts to make F. D. R. the hero of the occasion. No one wants to take credit for what may prove to be a grave dug for democracy.

Wallace Boom!

Don't be surprised if Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace gets a tryout as the next New Deal fair-haired boy for the 1940 Democratic nomination. And don't be surprised if he doesn't. The less talk you hear about Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson and Harry Hopkins, both more or less ruled out when incipient booms to make first one and then the other governor of New York fizzled, the more you hear about Wallace.

Wallace has been in the White House doghouse since he failed to support Congressman Otha Wearin against Senator Guy Gillette in the Iowa primaries. But his attitude in that contest didn't injure has presidential possibilities. If he survives the present farm program storm you may find Roosevelt and Wallace getting chummier and chummier.

But Wallace hasn't a prayer for the 1940 nomination unless Roosevelt does get behind him.

"I'm not afraid of those things, Reuben. I'm sticking."

They moved to a smaller hotel. Judith gave the chambermaid the ornamented baskets. She stored the wedding presents in the closet, under the beds. She spent the days out of doors. Each evening when Reuben came home tired and discouraged, he found her waiting, defiantly cheerful, bubbling over with news of the day.

He found her chatter soothing. It helped him to forget — for a while; to gather courage to face another day.

Instead they went nonchalantly to theaters, to night clubs where they spent money they could not afford to spend. Throb of drums. Beat of saxophones. Haze of smoke. High-pitched laughter. Tinkle of glasses. Forgetfulness for an hour.

Before And After . . .

. . . Peace Dawned In Europe

Succinctly portraying human beings in the grip of war-fright and in a display of delight over sudden peace, these two photos form a striking study in contrasting human emotions. The picture at the top reveals the strained anxiety of a typical London crowd as it waited near No. 10 Downing Street during the days of tension in Europe, expecting momentarily to learn—the worst. Then, below, is another, and jubilant, crowd at the same spot after the news of the four-power Munich peace settlement had reached London.

HALE CENTER — Directors of the Hale Center Merchants club, at a meeting, voted not to make an assessment for October. Funds of the club were more than enough to meet expenses of the month. The club has been formed seven months. Joe Payne is president and Vic Lamb, secretary.

Tech's Deposit Club Is Proving Popular

Students of Texas Technological college have deposited well over $1,500 in the new Student Deposit club in the college bookstore since opening of the fall semester, said W. C. Cole, store manager.

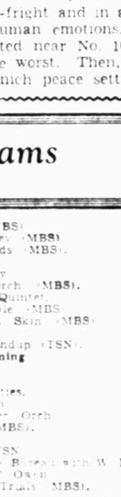

Largest amount on deposit at one time was $800 and an average of $500 remains on deposit.

The club has gained nationwide recognition in the November issue of College Store magazine, publication of the National Association of College Stores, issued in New York.

James G. Allen, dean of men, has mailed letters to 325 managers of boarding houses in which men students live asking that students be encouraged to make use of the new service.

Already, since opening of the fall semester, one student has reported loss of money, said Dean Allen. The principal purpose of the club is to prevent such losses.

Tech followed the lead of several institutions in establishing the club. The club is a college project, operated free of charge for benefit of students. Deposits are not in nature of checking accounts. Students must call personally to obtain money they have deposited.

Extensions To Be Discussed

Proposed extensions of power lines are to be discussed by directors of South Plains Rural Electric Cooperative, Inc., at a meeting with A. C. Hagan, REA engineer, and R. E. Mattison of Mattison-Wallack company, Oklahoma City contractors, in the REA offices in the courthouse tonight.

Signing of a construction loan contract, for $140,000, to provide for construction of approximately 155 miles of high line from the present system, to serve about 455 members will be considered. Mattison's firm did the construction work on the original system.

Energized at present are 137 miles of line, serving 316 customers. There are 428 members of the cooperative, but not all of them have had their houses wired or connected with high lines.

Present plans for the additional allocation call for extension of lines running west and northwest from Lubbock, north to County Line, on the Hale county line and from there north to Cotton Center, in western Hale county. A territory west and northwest of Abernathy would also be served.

Becton, in the northeastern part of the county, north of Idalou would also be served, as well as Estacado and some farms in western Crosby county east of Estacado. A line to Slide community also would be built.

Lynn county areas almost immediately south of Slaton and south of Union would be served.

It is planned to extend the present Hurlwood line west into Hockley county to serve Smyer and farms in the eastern part of the county.

The Lubbock county lines have been energized about a month and a half. Customers receiving their first bills, found the average about $2.85 per meter. Minimum bills are $2.50 a month.

Radios, refrigerators and washing machines are the electric equipment generally bought by farmers. Electric irons also are popular. Some farmers have bought other articles but the four seem to be the most popular.

W. M. Ross is chairman of the board and he is expected to preside at tonight's session. Harry N. Roberts is consulting engineer and he will be present also.

Apparently jumping at the chance to enter the United States, Gerda Gottlieb, above, comely Viennese athlete, is pictured as she arrived in New York on the liner Europa's first trip to this country since being recalled to Germany during the recent war crisis. Movement Of Foreign Prices Of Wool To Affect U. S. Prices

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—The bureau of agricultural economics predicted today domestic wool prices for the remainder of 1938 would be influenced to a greater extent than in recent months by the movement of foreign prices.

The bureau said the recent advance in domestic prices and the decline in foreign prices, in terms of United States dollars, had widened the spread between domestic and foreign prices.

The spread is now not much less than the tariff on wool, the report said.

The bureau said recent improvement in domestic mill consumption was expected to be fairly well maintained during the remainder of the year, adding the weekly average rate of mill consumption of apparel wool was 27 per cent higher in August than in July.

James C. Lucas Is Insane, His Attorneys Tell Federal Judge

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11 (AP)—James C. Lucas, 26-year-old Texas bank robber, facing trial for murder for the slaying of an Alcatraz prison guard, was described Monday by his attorney as insane.

Federal Judge Harold Louderback, on application of Lucas' attorney, appointed a psychiatrist to examine the Alcatraz prisoner.

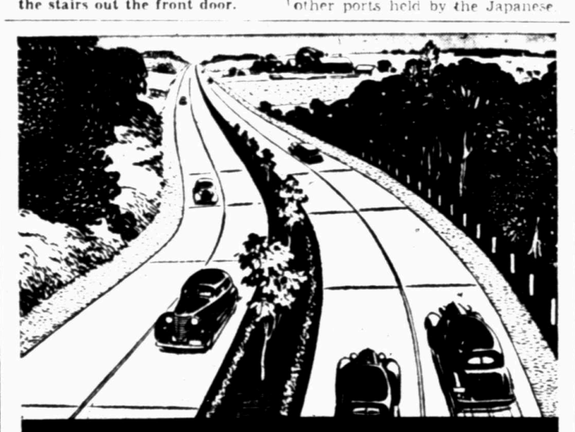

Harold C. Faulkner and Joseph Sweeney, counsel for Lucas, said he was mentally unbalanced and was hindering their defense preparations for his murder trial.

Lucas and Rufus Franklin, 25, are accused of murdering guard Royal C. Cline in an attempted break from Alcatraz May 23. A third convict, Thomas Limerick, 36, was killed in the abortive break.

SLATON GINNINGS

SLATON — More than 1,000 bales of 1938 cotton have been ginned here to date. Grade is middling or better but the staple length is said to be shorter, some going below 7-8 inch.

The bulk of China's trade is now moving through Japanese controlled ports in that country. Figures released in Tokyo show that in July, 6 per cent of China's total customs receipts came through Shanghai and other ports held by the Japanese.

Heaviest traffic today needs highways like this

TRAFFIC AND ECONOMIC STUDIES MAY SHOW NEED FOR BROAD DIVIDED-LANE PAVEMENTS

Your concrete highway system has served this state well, and will serve it for years to come. But wider, more modern roads are needed on some routes because traffic has outgrown the facilities provided many years ago.

Rational planning surveys are under way to determine—

The volume of traffic carried by various highways.

The order in which they should be improved.

Where divided-lane, by-pass or relief highways are needed.

Where grade separations and modernizing are required.

The next step in sound highway development is to act on the facts revealed by these surveys—concentrate funds and engineering skill on doing "first things first" for highway users.

More Units At Tech Sought

A resolution asking establishment of additional units of the Reserve Officers Training corps at Texas Technological college was adopted by Allen Bros. post of the American legion at a regular session at the legion hall Monday night. It will be presented to the war department.

It was pointed out in the resolution that since the college has enrolled more than 3,500 students and that many male students are barred from the engineers' unit at Tech because they are not enrolled in the engineering school, additional units should be "authorized and established" to allow the male students of the student body "to participate in and receive the benefits of military training."

Legionnaires "further resolved that the officers of the Allen Bros. post are authorized and directed to take such steps as are necessary in cooperation with all proper parties and organizations in furtherance of this resolution."

Mrs. Leonard Cole was in charge of an introductory musical program. Capt. W. W. Legge, commanding officer of this Texas Highway patrol division, spoke on safety and showed moving pictures.

O. B. Conley was appointed chairman of an arrangements committee for the observance of the post of Armistice Day. The American legion will join with the Lubbock post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in celebrating the holiday.

Fred Wendt, chairman of the committee in charge of the membership drive, announced more detailed plans would be made soon. It was indicated a committee meeting would be called soon to launch the membership campaign.

A program presented jointly by the legion and the auxiliary is scheduled for the night of Oct. 31.

Alex McDonald, mess officer, was in charge of serving refreshments.

It was announced a meeting of the Sons of the American legion would be conducted at the legion hall Wednesday night.

Neighbors Nearly Called The Police And Negro Physician Wishes They Had, Too

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—The neighbors of Gregory Nurse, negro physician, almost complained to the police when they heard the rythmic thumps of "the shag" coming from his office.

A nurse wishes they had called the police.

For the shag dancers were two negro bandits rifling the place.

A maid admitted them. They said they had to deliver the package personally to the doctor. When the physician entered, they unwrapped it, disclosing two revolvers which they waved threateningly.

They found $100 in cash in the room.

"Well, I'll cut a rug!" exclaimed one bandit, and went into a shag. The other bandit
