Manhunt Intensified For Ex-Con Kidnaper

WATONGA, Okla. (AP) — A network of roadblocks was set up in Oklahoma today after a man identified as 26-year-old Delbert Garmon took a Blaine County family's car, leaving eight persons locked in a milk shed.

Garmon, an ex-convict from Texas, has been sought since Tuesday night when he abducted a Wichita Falls, Tex., couple and fled into Oklahoma with them. Officers have tracked down numerous leads as to his whereabouts since, but his trail grew cold after he was last definitely seen about noon Wednesday in El Reno, Okla., 32 miles southeast of here.

Conservatives Leading Election Held In Turkey

NAKARA, Turkey (AP) — A conservative government headed by Suleyman Demirel is in prospect for Turkey following National Assembly elections.

The Interior Ministry announced it did not expect to finish counting the votes from the election Sunday until late today. But officials of the various parties estimated Demirel's Justice party had won 260 or more of the 450 assembly seats.

The Justice party inherited the following of the late Premier Adnan Menderes, who was thrown by the army in 1960 and later executed on charges of corruption and murder.

Aged Ismet Inonu's Republican People's party was running second and winning an estimated 130-140 seats. The rest were apparently scattered among four minor parties.

Leaves Courtroom

James C. Cross Jr., charged in the deaths of Susan Rigby and Shirley Ann Stark, leaves 147th District Court in Austin Monday morning after his trial was postponed until Feb. 14, on a motion by defense attorneys. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Strike Stays At Petro-Tex

HOUSTON (AP) — A strike against Petro-Tex Chemical Co. by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union enters its fourth day today.

Federal Mediator Willis H. Ray scheduled new talks after negotiations Sunday failed to bring the company and union to terms.

Petro-Tex is the only firm still struck by the union. A nationwide agreement averted a strike involving about 40,000 workers last Friday. The union represents some 280 workers at Petro-Tex.

Trial Postponed In Coed Slayings

AUSTIN (AP)—Judge Mace Thurman, acting quickly and apparently 30 minutes ahead of schedule, granted a continuance today in the murder trial of James Cross Jr., setting the new trial date for Feb. 14. The judge told The Associated Press, however, "There was no effort to hold an early hearing in order to avoid newspaper reporters."

INITIAL TEST

The trial is expected to be the first test of statewide efforts to curb publication of pre-trial information.

Cross, a former University of Texas student charged with strangling two campus beauties—Susan Rigby and Shirley Ann Stark, both 21 and from Dallas—was due in court at 9 a.m. today for his trial.

Defense lawyers and Dist. Atty. Tom Blackwell had indicated, however, a plea for a continuance would be made and not opposed.

SET FOR 9 A.M.
The district attorney's office and defense lawyers said Friday the trial was set for 9 a.m. The sheriff's department reaffirmed this time early today.

The 120-word motion for continuance was filed at 8:30 a.m. The motion said defense lawyers "have made a diligent effort to prepare this case for trial, but due to extreme circumstances, the necessity for extensive investigation during the process of preparation, the attorneys have not had adequate time to thoroughly prepare for the trial on this date."

LBJ Talks World Issues Despite Pain

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson conferred for 45 minutes today with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey after spending what was described as his "most unpleasant night" since gall bladder surgery.

The unpleasant aspects were attributed by press secretary Bill D. Moyers to the fact Johnson took no sedatives before going to sleep. Moyers said doctors feel that at about this point, patients recovering from major abdominal surgery experience their greatest discomfort.

WORLD AFFAIRS

"He is uncomfortable this morning," Moyers reported.

The press secretary said Johnson's pain did not discourage him from covering a wide range of topics, foreign and domestic, with Humphrey.

Their conversation ranged from discussion of a possible American visit next month by West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard to current maneuverings in Congress.

Doctors reported Sunday night that the President had put in "another splendid day" and was making steady progress following last Friday's operation to remove his gall bladder and a stone that had formed in his kidney.

GETTING REST

Johnson, who normally pictures himself as enjoying the best of health and requiring only a minimum of sleep, confessed Sunday his stay at the Bethesda Naval Hospital in suburban Maryland offered a chance to get some rest.

"I have been rather tired for some time," Johnson told four newsmen invited to his third-floor bedroom. "So we're going to use this the best we can."

Johnson spoke softly but displayed plenty of conversational vitality.

"I'll be all right," said the President. But he admitted to being "a little sore on the side."

Later in the day, Johnson listened intently as his pastor, the Rev. Dr. George R. Davis of the National City Christian church, conducted a private communion service in the bedroom. When adjusting his position in a green leather reclining chair, Johnson seemed to grimace.

FEEDS SELF

The doctors let him begin feeding himself—consomme in the morning, strawberry gelatin in the afternoon. But a needle for intravenous feeding remained in place in a large vein of his right forearm—standard procedure after major abdominal surgery.

Johnson told the visiting newsmen he expected official visitors during the week—"not wholesale, but selective cases." And it was evident that the week would see more of the official business that Johnson laced into his first postoperative days.

Sunday, for example, he signed three more bills and announced plans to nominate four new ambassadors, two judges and several federal marshals. Fourteen other bills had been signed earlier, starting just 20 hours after the President came out of surgery.

Wife Wants Johnson To Get Long Hospital Rest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson says her husband is a realistic patient and she expects he will stay in the hospital "a goodly length of time."

Anyway, she thinks he should because he has had "months of hard work" and can use the next few weeks as "a buffer" against what's ahead.

If the past is any indication of the future, Mrs. Johnson predicts the President will want to recuperate at his Texas ranch as soon as his official business will permit.

In a hospital interview Sunday night, Mrs. Johnson expressed her own relief in the outcome of the gall bladder operation the President underwent Friday. She said she had "great confidence and faith in the outcome."

Another Boost

Harvey Fryar (left) hands his contribution to the United Fund to Jimmy Taylor, chairman of the Area Division, which launched its efforts last week. The campaign reached one-third of its goal today, when the report listed $33,924.74 in hand or pledged. Leaders were optimistic that this outstanding start could mean an early wrap-up of the campaign. The goal is $99,964. (Photo by Danny Valdes)

Job Picture Rosy In U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — The economy is better than holding its own against two of its most feared bugaboos: the job toll of automation and the flood of teenagers into the labor force. Neither problem is licked. But enough new jobs have been created in the last year to take care of more teenagers than even the most optimistic had once dared to hope. And despite automation's inroads the total of blue collar jobs for both the younger and the older worker has increased.

Estes Case Petition Nixed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court denied today a Texas request for permission to file a belated petition for reconsideration of a June 7 decision in favor of Billie Sol Estes.

The Texas state court swindling conviction of Estes was overturned by the Supreme Court in the June decision, because of televising of courtroom proceedings in Estes' trial.

Waggoner Carr, Texas attorney general, in a motion submitted to the Supreme Court, said a petition for reconsideration should have been sent air mail, special delivery to arrive here on July 2. "Due to a clerical inadvertence," Carr said, the petition was sent by ordinary mail and did not arrive within the time limit for filing on July 2.

Because the petition was out-of-time, the Supreme Court clerk did not put it on the docket and it was not submitted to the tribunal.

HIGHER PENSIONS

More generous pension plans also are reducing the percentage of those past 65 who are looking for work. Medicare may lessen the urgent need of many more for jobs.

A further contributor to the improved employment picture is that the widening Viet Nam war effort has meant more business activity in many lines, some far afield from just the production of the hardware that war demands.

Sustained consumer prosperity is adding its share. A confident and free spending public is buying big ticket and little ticket goods, and furnishing jobs for those who produce, distribute and sell them.

LATEST FIGURES

There is still plenty of room for improvement in the job situation. But here are the latest statistics: The jobless total has dropped to 2,875,000, lowest since October 1957. The percentage of those in the labor force who can't find work is 4.4, compared with 5.1 per cent a year ago. The number of those on part-time pay also has dropped and is now 1,705,000.

The jobless rate for adult men is 3.1 per cent of the total labor force, for adult women 4.2 per cent, and for teenagers 13 per cent.

Row Flares Over Gag Of Filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate votes today on an attempt to choke off the filibuster against action on the bill to end the power of states to ban the union shop.

Supporters of the bill said in advance they lacked the two-thirds majority necessary to invoke cloture and stop the talk-fest which began a week ago today.

Opponents of the measure, led by Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, were highly confident.

LINE UP 25

Dirksen declared "there are plenty of votes" to prevent cloture. He was expected to line up at least 25 Republicans against it.

This number, combined with the "No" votes of 15 or so Southern Democrats, would be ample. It takes 34 votes to stop debate-limiting procedure if all 100 senators are present.

The bill which touched off the filibuster would repeal section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act. This section allows states to outlaw union shop contracts between unions and companies. Employees covered by such contracts must join a union within 30 days to hold a job.

19 STATES

At present, 19 states have laws that prohibit agreements between unions and companies making union membership a condition of continued employment.

If cloture is defeated in the vote scheduled for this afternoon, the only remaining question would be whether debate on the 14B repealer would continue for a while.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he did not know about his next move. But some senators expected him to put the repealer aside at once. He has made no secret of his strong desire to end the 1965 session hastily. There also was speculation Mansfield might try a second cloture vote later in the week.

NEAR END

The repeal measure is one of the administration's final major pieces of legislation for this session.

But President Johnson, recuperating from surgery at Bethesda Naval Hospital, commented Sunday there are no "must" bills to be passed.

Johnson, speaking of things that have been said about presidential pressure on Congress, told newsmen visiting his room: "We take the position that we propose and they dispose."

Johnson said later: "I haven't insisted on a single bill. There is not one bill that I consider a 'must' bill. I don't believe in must bills. I never wanted the president to tell me it had to be done. If there is a must bill, Congress can see it."

MORE SPEECHES

Dirksen said that, if the debate on the repealer bill resumes, the bipartisan filibuster

N.Y. Paper Dimout Over

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's 25-day newspaper dimout is over, with the return to work of striking employees of the New York Times.

After accepting contract terms Sunday afternoon by an almost unanimous voice vote, more than 1,900 members of the AFL-CIO New York Newspaper Guild returned to turn out today's Times — an 80-page edition.

ACCEPT TERMS

Tentative settlement of the strike came last Friday when negotiators for the Guild and Times accepted contract terms proposed by Theodore W. Kheel, special mediator for Mayor Robert F. Wagner. The terms were subject to union membership ratification.

The Guild struck the Times Sept. 16. Craft unions refused to cross picket lines. The Publishers Association of New York City charged a contract violation and closed down its six non-striking members — leaving only the New York Post publishing.

The Herald Tribune withdrew from the association and resumed publication Sept. 27.

The Post withdrew from the association during the 114-day strike and shutdown of 1962-63.

SUNDAY DIMOUTS

Publishing Sunday editions were the Daily News and the Journal-American and Long Island Press.

Dancer Critical

Belly dancer Nalla Ates was in a coma and in critical condition today after being hospitalized in New York Sunday night suffering from an apparent overdose of barbiturates, police said. Miss Ates, 32, has appeared on Broadway and in films and was once engaged to Texas millionaire Sheppard King. (AP WIREPHOTO)

U. S., Britain At Odds Over NATO N-Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Britain appeared to be split today over how urgently to push for formation of an allied nuclear force within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Britain evidently favors priority for negotiation with the Soviet Union on a treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

The United States wants to speed the NATO force project. Efforts to overcome this difference and at least agree on common tactics for dealing with these two problems were to be made today by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart in a series of policy talks at the State Department.

"We want NATO to be effective," Stewart said here Sunday. "But we don't want to occupy ourselves with NATO so exclusively that we ignore opportunities for political settlement with the Soviet Union and the countries of Eastern Europe."

MAINTAIN BALANCE He said in an interview on the CBS radio-television program

"Face the Nation" that the Western allies must maintain a careful balance between preserving their security and seeking agreements with the Soviet Union.

On another foreign policy question, Stewart said "it's true we hear rumors of greater willingness" on the part of Communist North Viet Nam to enter into peace negotiations now, after eight months of U.S. bombings.

But Stewart said he was not aware of any actual change in position on the Communist side in the Vietnamese conflict.

More importance appeared to lie in the stress which Stewart placed on avoiding barriers to agreements with the Soviets when it was possible to do so.

ON THE SHELF The NATO nuclear force project has been on the shelf for almost a year. The United States several years ago proposed creation of a nuclear missile surface fleet to be jointly controlled, manned and operated by all allied countries willing to join.

The United States particularly hoped for Britain and Italy to join up alongside West Germany in the multilateral nuclear force project.

The British more recently proposed what they call an allied nuclear force — ANF — which apparently would be a looser and more cooperative kind of organization than the multilateral force.

"We put forward the ANF," Stewart said, "because we thought it would be useful to NATO and that it would not constitute a proliferation of nuclear weapons."

At the same time, he said, the Soviet government has taken the position that any kind of NATO nuclear system including Germany would mean the proliferation of nuclear weapons into German hands.

Cubans In Stolen Boat Intercepted

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A group of Cuban refugees was en route to the United States today in a stolen boat, sheriff's officers said.

Officers said four exiles manned the 31-foot boat, the MMM, which left Camarioca, a small port on the north coast of Cuba, Sunday with 16 relatives fleeing Fidel Castro's communism.

The MMM, which was reported stolen from the Miami area Thursday, was expected in Key West about 8 a.m. (EST), its arrival delayed by mechanical breakdowns.

The boat was one of several expected to bring refugees from Cuba today and Tuesday, despite warnings to exiles from the U.S. government to await completion of negotiations with Castro.

UNDER TOW The MMM was intercepted 30 miles off Cuba by the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Diligence and was being towed to port. One of the boat's engines went out and the other overheated.

Other boats en route to Florida or awaiting loading and clearance at Camarioca included the 30-foot Rainbow, the 23-foot Liz and a craft piloted by Ramon Domestevet, Hialeah, Fla., who said he built it especially for the trip.

The boats came from various Florida ports, the Rainbow from Key West, the Liz from Sombrero Key and Domestevet's craft from Long Key.

Ike Flores, Associated Press writer in Cuba, reported by telephone from Camarioca that Cuban officials said more boats were en route from the United States.

Flores said 15 persons who arrived at Camarioca from the United States reported no interference of any kind. Some said they expected to be penalized upon their return but they were ready to take the punishment.

The refugees, Flores said, reported Cuban officials were "extremely helpful" and would not permit them to pay for food, lodging or gasoline.

Castro had set Oct. 10 as the date for beginning his open-door policy, but the U.S. State Department said it would take 10 days or so to work out arrangements. It warned Cuban exiles not to try to pick up relatives.

EXODUS RULES

Negotiations are being carried on through the Swiss Embassy in Havana, which represents this country in Cuba. They concern ground rules for the exodus, which some estimate may total 50,000.

John H. Crimmins, coordinator of Cuban affairs at the State Department, said the United States proposed to Cuba that the U.S. government set up a transportation system for the refugees.

Havana radio, in a broadcast monitored here, said exiles bent on evacuating anti-Castro Cubans killed a Cuban coastguardman Thursday night and it added that Castro's government would take "this criminal act into consideration with the negotiations" concerning free departure.

Here is one way to move ahead with Mercury in the Lincoln Continental tradition

There are 16 others:

Now you know there are many ways to move ahead with Mercury. But number isn't all that counts. Notice that every single model shares the same long, sleek, crisp lines—lines that give Mercury a classic distinction shared by no other car in its field. What else is new and distinctive? Mercury's smooth, poised, hushed ride—the finest this side of the Lincoln Continental. Then there's Mercury performance, ranging up to a magnificently responsive Super Marauder 428 V-8. To add to your pleasure and convenience, Mercury offers a long list of luxury options. For example: music from a Stereo-Sonic Tape System that plays 70-minute plug-in cartridges. Power front disc brakes. Vinyl-covered Oxford Roof. Cornering lights. And more. Every one a reason to ... Move ahead with

Drive Pressed For Sainthood For Pope John

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council marked its third anniversary today, and the man who started it all was the object of an increasing drive for his canonization.

Pope John XIII began the worldwide assembly of 2,200 Roman Catholic prelates with the goal of updating Catholicism for its own sake and for the sake of a Christian unity dream. Less than eight months later Pope John was dead. His council had barely got into action.

FIFTH WEEK

The council now is in the fifth week of its fourth and final session with major decrees due by December in such vital fields as religious liberty, increased participation by bishops in guiding the Church alongside the pontiff, training of priests, education, missionary modernization, and relations with Jews and other non-Christians.

"We have taken giant steps these three years of the council, in the progress of thought, of ideas and of updating the Church," said Leo Jozef Cardinal Suenens of Belgium. More than 300 bishops are said to have put their names to a request, made last by an Italian bishop, for the council to ask Pope Paul VI to canonize Pope John by the time the council ends in December.

SIMILAR MOVES

There have been similar moves. Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston suggested soon after the Pope's death in June 1963 that the cause for his sainthood be started at once. The Congregation of Rites has thousands of letters asking the same thing.

Pope Paul VI is said to be unlikely to bypass the usual painstaking research of Congregation of Rites into the virtues of Pope John, his words and his works, and especially into suggested cases of miraculous cures effected in his name.

But Vatican sources say sainthood for Pope John may not be too many years off.

Traffic Case Turns Serious

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The official charge against Jerre Donovan Weir, 32, of Fort Worth, Tex., is running a red light—but he faces more serious things than that.

Police nabbed Weir Sunday morning for going through the traffic signal. They spotted a 45 automatic on the floor of his late model sports car and decided to take a closer look.

They turned up 548 blank U.S. postal money orders, a stolen validation stamp from a Fort Worth money order station, a complete set of burglar tools, a second pistol, 27 stolen credit cards, a special deputy's badge from Midland, Tex., and a set of identification cards belonging to J. E. Deaky of Midland.

An FBI check revealed that Weir was free on $25,000 bond from Birmingham, Ala., where he faces trial Tuesday on a bank robbery charge.

He had 65 cents in his pocket, police said.

Norway Prince Leaves Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — The crown prince of Norway has concluded a five-day "strictly private" visit with Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Fay. Prince Harald flew to New York Sunday.

Cosden Dinner Dance Marks Anniversary

The first large social affair of the fall season was the formal dinner dance held Saturday evening at Cosden Country Club to celebrate the 10th anniversary of Math Master Labs Inc.

Approximately 200 persons gathered in the ballroom for a festive evening which began with a social hour at 7 o'clock. Music in the early evening was provided by "The Summits," a four-man-combo composed of the host's son, Kyle McAlister, Danny Johnson, Morgan Martin and Ronnie Banks.

Dinner music was by the George Atwood orchestra of Lubbock which played for the dancing hours from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. The buffet dinner was served from a table accented with an arrangement of gold and yellow chrysanthemums interspersed with mahogany leaves, and a similar bouquet was used on the punch table.

Hosts and hostesses for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. George A. McAlister Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Davis. With the host couples in the receiving line were three couples new to Big Spring during the past year. They are Mr. and Mrs. Harold McAlister, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Claerhout and Mr. and Mrs. Auril LaFond. McAlister is vice president of Gamco Inc., Claerhout is general manager, and LaFond is research and development engineer with Math Master Labs Inc.

Joining these couples at the head table were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Moss, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hollingsworth and R. L. Tollett. Members of the house party were Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. Derle Everett and Mr. and Mrs. Delnor Poss.

The popularity of long gowns for evening wear was evident at the gathering where most of the women chose to wear floor-length sheaths or slim evening skirts with sequined or beaded shell tops.

Mrs. George McAlister Jr. was attired in a pencil-slim off-white wool sheath sparkling with metallic threads, and Mrs. Davis' slender gown was a blue and gold flower print on silver, the hemline peaked at the center front. Mrs. Claerhout wore a

Tile, Chinaware Made Similarly

The strong resemblance between the glazed ceramic tile in your home and the chinaware on your table is no coincidence. They are produced by similar processes. Tile begins as moist, pulverized clay, flint, shale and feldspar.

This mixture is pressed in dies. Next, the tile "biscuit" is sprayed with a liquid glaze. At this stage, the tile is an unpromising gray mass. After "firing" in intense but delicately controlled heat, the material ready for your wall emerges.

Frame Windows With Draperies

One basic rule of interior decoration is often overlooked: draperies should frame a window, not cover it.

Draperies can be drawn at any specific time, but the basic function should be tastefully to frame the window itself.

Another trick in artful window decor is the surfacing of sills with warm shades of ceramic mosaic or quarry tile.

Sills surfaced with such tile offer another bonus: flower pots will not leave permanent stains.

LT. BRUCE R. HAASS

CAPT. W. E. HOLCOMB

Webb Officers Will Receive Commendations

Commendations will be presented to two Webb Air Force Base officers, who were recent distinguished graduates of Squadron Officer School of Air University, Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala.

The instructor pilots, Capt. William E. Holcomb Jr., 3560th Pilot Training Squadron, and 1st Lt. Bruce R. Haass, 3561st Pilot Training Squadron, graduated within the top 43 in Class 65-B, which numbered 666 officers.

Commandant of the Squadron Officer School, Col. John H. Buckner, said both Webb officers "displayed outstanding personal and professional attributes" and he commended them for "outstanding performances and... high degrees of dedication."

Squadron Officer School is a competitive 14-week course requiring intensive mental and physical activity. The staff and faculty evaluate each student in the combination of mental, physical and ethical qualities that determines the individual's over-all value to the Air Force.

Capt. Holcomb was born in Hattiesburg, Miss., in 1937. He is a 1959 distinguished graduate of the University of Mississippi, with a civil engineering major. He is married to the former Betsy Gladysne Cabiniss of Jackson, Miss. Their two children are William E. III, age 5, and Jean, age 3.

Lt. Haass is 25 years old, a native of Lubbock. He attended Texas A&M one year and Texas Tech four years, graduating from the latter in 1961. He took his pilot training at Reese Air Force Base and has been assigned at Webb since 1962. He is married to the former Sherry M. Scoggin, Lubbock.

Commendations to be presented to Capt. Holcomb and Lt. Haass were endorsed by Maj. Gen. Arno H. Luehman, vice commander, Air University; Maj. Gen. Nils O. Ohman, vice commander of Air Training Command; as well as Col. Buckner.

Youth's Body Recovered From Underground Pool

DAVIS, Okla. (AP) — Skindivers recovered the body of a Dallas, Tex., youth from the chill waters of an underground pool in the rugged Arbuckle Mountains of south-central Oklahoma early today.

The Texan, Richard Bowling, 18, a Southern Methodist University student, disappeared in the pool while exploring in a cave near here with three companions.

Bowling was wearing underwater diving equipment when he squeezed through a narrow opening in the cave and dropped into the deep pool. One person at the scene said the water temperature in the cave was 68 degrees.

Skindivers from as far away as Oklahoma City, about 150 miles north of here, swarmed to the scene when the Murray County sheriff's office broadcast an appeal for rescue workers to look for Bowling. Searchers entered the cave about 1:45 a.m. today and found Bowling's body about 3 a.m.

Bowling's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bowling of Dallas, were at the cave when their son's body was brought to the surface. The body will be taken to a Dallas funeral home.

One of the Dallas youth's companions, Joe Miller, 19, also of Dallas, reported to authorities about 4:30 p.m. that Bowling swam through a narrow opening in the cave and disappeared in the deep pool.

The cave, known as "The Old Wild Woman Cave," is located south of the Turner Falls amusement park in the Arbuckle Mountains near this south-central Oklahoma town.

With Bowling and Miller on the cave exploring venture were Billy Schaminis, 18, Dallas, and Charles Kingan Jr., 18, Houston. The other three youths were safe.

Banner Year In Construction

More than three and a half million dollars in building permits issued in September raised the nine-month total of permit value this year to $6,525,701—the highest in at least 16 years.

There are three months left in the year to add to the record total. Over half the total came in September with permits issued to the Big Spring Independent School District for additions and new buildings—$3,434,900 for two permits.

The closest to the $6,525,701 nine-month total was the entire year of 1962, when $5,773,690 in permits were issued by the building inspector's office.

The next high month to September, 1965 was August, when a total of $836,630 in permits were typed.

There were only 70 permits issued in September, the fifth lowest number this year. June remained on top in that category, with 184 issued. Most of that number were for re-roofing jobs on houses, caused by storms the previous month.

There were but three permits issued for new residences in September, for a total of $24,500; two new commercial permits, for a $364,928 total; four remodeling permits, which came to $3,400; six new sign permits, at $2,225; three houses moved at $1,200; and 28 re-roofing jobs came to $7,813. The big jump was in additions, where 19 permits issued had a value of $3,105,382. One of the permits issued as an addition permit was actually a new commercial (one of the school buildings, which went for $349,928).

The nine-month total was more than $2 million ahead of the total for last year, when in 12 months permits issued came to $4,508,945. Predictions for a good month in October seem valid, as at least one permit for more than $300,000 (T-P Development's planned apartment complex on FM 700) should be issued. That one permit should raise October above all but four of the first 10 months this year.

Comparisons Difficult On Auto Prices

DETROIT (AP) — Now that the four auto companies have announced new 1966 car model prices, it should be a relatively simple matter to determine how much the new price tags have changed in comparison with 1965 models.

But it is not that easy. The fact is that this year's price announcements included a maze of figures, plus claims and counterclaims by the auto companies as to their price structures.

CLOUDED PICTURE
Three main factors have clouded the price picture—1, the excise tax cut; 2, the addition of a mandatory safety package to all 1966 cars; and 3, the phrase "comparably equipped."

In general, the industry, in comparing its new prices with those at 1965 model time, has tended to subtract the excise tax reduction—the tax was cut from 10 to 7 per cent effective last May 15—from the new price tags.

Some critics say the auto firms are not justified in taking credit for the tax reduction, but that, rather, the reduction was accomplished by the federal government.

OVER $50
The government also bears responsibility for the package of safety items that were made mandatory on 1966 models, after congressional hearings. The safety items include such things as padded instrument panels and backup lights and they averaged over $50 that was added to the car price.

The "comparable equipment" phrase has proven the biggest headache in trying to compare prices.

Some items that were standard on 1965 cars have been declared extra cost options on 1966's; some options have been made standard.

TIRES INVOLVED
Even such items as tires were involved in the price changes, for on some models tires that were standard on the 1965's would cost an additional $12 or so more if the buyer wanted a comparable tire on his 1966 model.

Chrysler Corp. became the first auto maker to announce its prices.

By most figuring, Chrysler's 1966 pricing, after allowing for the tax cut and for the safety package, average about $10 to $35 a car more than 1965 prices. Ford, General Motors and American Motors all have claimed price cuts, but again it takes a lot of pencil work to keep up with the mathematics.

CUT BOOSTED
American Motors, last of the U.S. auto firms to announce prices, said it had cut boosts on the remaining 10 due to enlargement of the car.

Numerous assessments of the price picture have been made. One of the most respected auto trade journals, Automotive News, took a look at comparable 1966 and 1965 prices of 291 models last week and came up with these findings:

Adjusting for addition of the safety package and for tax changes, General Motors' overall prices are down 0.22 per cent; Ford is down 0.01 per cent and Chrysler is up .96 per cent.

Skies Mostly Clear In U.S.

By The Associated Press
Most of the nation was favored with clear skies today while showers fell over the northern Great Lakes and Washington coast areas.

Clear skies helped bring temperatures in Texas and Oklahoma into the 90s Sunday.

Oklahoma City's reading of 95 was a record. Lubbock, Tex., reported a high of 93.

A high of 94 at Wichita, Kan., also was the highest reading for so late in the year.

Temperatures in the 90s were reported as far north as the southeastern corner of Nebraska and the northwestern corner of Missouri.

The drought-stricken northeastern portion of the nation received scattered light showers late Sunday. Earlier in the day, a few thundershowers were reported in southern New England.

A doctor in the congregation climbed the 20-foot stair to the organ keyboard after the music stopped. Andrews was dead.

A Devotional For The Day

O sing unto the Lord a new song; for he hath done marvelous things: his right hand, and his holy arm hath gotten him the victory. (Psalm 98:1)

PRAYER: O God, we thank Thee for the blessings Thou hast bestowed upon us. Forgive us for being so slow in expressing our thanks to Thee. We thank Thee for the gift of Thy Son, as we dedicate ourselves anew to Him and pray as He taught us, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

Texas Vote Opportunity Lauded

This Southwestern state, usually "classified" Southern because of its membership in the Old Confederacy, should take pride in the statement by Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach that voter discrimination is not a problem in Texas. Katzenbach in a recent Houston address saw no need for federal examiners to expedite Negro voter registration in this state. Katzenbach's appraisal is in line with the 1959 report of the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights, created by Congress in 1957 to study, among other things, the degree to which voting rights are realized in the various states. That study indicated that the proportion of the Texas Negro population qualifying to vote was nearing that of the white population.

Another impartial statistical study in 1964 ("Party and Factional Division in Texas," by James R. Soukup, Clifton McCleskey, and Harry Holloway) concluded:

"As these figures indicate, the resistance to Negro voting in Texas has been slight. Some incidents followed the Supreme Court's 1944 decision that Negroes could not be barred from the Democratic primary, but on the whole, Texas experienced a quiet and orderly transition. And today it is widely accepted that the poll tax probably reduces the vote among low-income whites as much as it does the Negro vote."

In the Congress-ordered court test of the constitutionality of the Texas poll tax requirement for voting, racial discrimination is going to be difficult to prove. The assumption is that Negroes and Latin Americans are discriminated against by the poll tax because such a large proportion of those minorities are in the lowest income group, and hence more of them are discouraged from voting because of the requirement. That will be hard to demonstrate statistically, however.

Rod Must Be Used Sometime

As a statement of high principle, it is difficult to find fault with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville's plea to the United Nations that it must avoid use of force in trying to keep world peace. An avoidance of force by an organization dedicated to peace would seem to be a natural corollary.

But principle confronted by reality is much more ambiguous than this. The intervention of the U.N. in the Congo was not an unqualified success, but every reasonable person who has studied the situation is bound to concede that without that intervention, chaos would have ruled.

Representatives of the U.N. police an uneasy truce between Arabs and Jews by their presence in the Gaza Strip. In Cyprus, the U.N. presence has not settled the conflict between Turk and Greek, but it has prevented a blood bath and given both sides time to meditate and to reconsider.

In each case the U.N. has intervened in order to prevent violence or quiet it after it has occurred. Yet in practically every case, the U.N. presence is symbolic. It has never appeared in overwhelming force. Yet everyone knows that an overwhelming force is in the background and could conceivably be brought to bear.

Even the most willful child can be restrained by the thought of the rod that waits in the background. There are times when the rod must be used, though.

Thus, the paradox of a world organization dedicated to peace using force to enforce it is inevitable in a world of willful or thoughtless men.

A Crisis In American Education

WASHINGTON — A crisis in education in America has emerged. It involves this fundamental issue: Shall schools and colleges and other educational institutions be controlled by the federal government and by the political party in power, or shall they be free from such interference?

A TRAGIC example of federal intrusion has just occurred — not in the South but in a Northern city, the metropolis of Chicago. The U. S. commissioner of education, Francis Keppel, is an able man, but he is under the discipline of a system whereby, in order to eliminate alleged racial discrimination, the party in power has assumed the right to use federal funds to direct states, cities and counties as to how they shall operate their schools.

If the federal government can dictate to local school superintendents how they shall arrange their school districts, it can also tell them what to teach in the schools and what to suppress.

EVEN MORE sensational is the way the commissioner of education, who had ordered $30 million of federal funds withheld from Chicago schools, was directed by the White House to release the money, after Mayor Richard Daley, the political boss of Cook County, Ill., telephoned President Johnson.

Naturally, there was a report that the Chicago school authorities made some concessions, but the city's superintendent of schools, Benjamin Willis, was not consulted by the president of the board of education before the face-saving formula was accepted. The civil rights group which had originally sought to have federal funds withheld from Chicago schools complained that the release of the money was the result of "a shameful display of naked political power."

WHAT HAPPENED is not surprising. It has long been predicted that the vague phrases of the civil rights act of 1964, which fail to set up legislative standards for governmental commissions to follow and does not provide adequate means of redress for local governments, would soon bring a climax in the controversy over who shall control education in America. The Chicago Tribune declares editorially:

"The next step is up to Congress, if it wishes to spare other cities from arbitrary and capricious acts of the federal office of education. . . ."

"Federal control of education is here," Rep. Michel (Ill.) told the House. The foot is in the door and from here on we can expect the door to open wider toward federal control. One of these years we may wake up and see the only school board member is Uncle Sam, with a federal check."

"LESS THAN A month after this warning, the office of education tried to crack down on Chicago. The effort failed only because the mayor of Chicago happens to be a powerful Democratic politician and because of the strenuous protests of Supt. Willis and this newspaper. Other communities without a strong voice at the White House will be helpless. If they want money from Washington, they will have to obey every command of the office of education."

Many members of Congress are disturbed by what has occurred. Sen. Everett Dirksen, the minority leader of the Senate, happens to come from Illinois. He said he would ask the Senate labor and public welfare committee to "take a look into the matter." Immediately, he said: "We are going to get to the bottom of this."

REP. EDITH GREEN, (D. Ore.) together with Rep. Abraham H. Quie, (R. Minn.), at a press conference held for education writers here this week, expressed bipartisan concern. Mrs. Green said she had noted "a couple of warning signs that we need to be alert, to be sure we do not have federal control." Mr. Quie said federal involvement in education was a possibility against which members of Congress should be on guard.

The whole uproar is not surprising. When the federal government can at will withhold funds from a state or local government and command it to do its wishes, at that moment constitutional rights disappear and the power of the federal purse becomes a form of legalized blackmail.

Troop Pullout In Europe Eyed For Early '70s

WASHINGTON (AP) — If European allies of the United States are wise, they will start planning for the withdrawal of significant numbers of American troops.

A withdrawal is not imminent. But such a movement may be expected perhaps by the early 1970s.

That is when the United States will have a fleet of big and fast transport planes able to deliver division-size forces overseas in a matter of hours, and a companion fleet of swift deep water ships at sea already loaded with war gear.

WHEN THIS "quick reaction" airlift-sealift capability is a reality, U.S. strategic planners believe it will be possible to scale down to a considerable extent the 250,000-man American army holding the vital center of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization front in West Germany.

From the U.S. point of view, the main advantages to such a withdrawal would be (1) a sharp reduction in the outflow of dollars and gold spent in supporting these overseas garrisons, and (2) a buildup of the strategic reserve within the United States for use anywhere in the world.

West Germans in particular have been edgy whenever there has been a suggestion that the United States may find it necessary to scale down its overseas troop commitments. U.S. officials have always sought to reassure the Germans that there are no plans to pull back — but no promises have been given as to the future.

IT IS widely known that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and other U.S. leaders have felt that the increasingly prosperous West European allies have failed, despite American prodding, to live up to their commitments to supply fighting forces to NATO, and that these allies have leaned too heavily on the United States.

Withdrawal of American soldiers from Europe would not mean that this country was abandoning its pledge to defend Europe. U.S. nuclear power would still be poised to deter any Communist attack.

AND U.S. planners believe that the acquisition of a modern airlift-sealift capability would permit the United States to rush ground forces to Europe well within the time they would be needed in a crisis.

The decision to build the C5A transport plane, which will be able to carry 365 soldiers and the heaviest tanks and gear, should be a tip-off of things to come.

Head Hunters Up To Monkey Biz

IQUITOS, Peru (AP) — There's some monkey business going on in the head-hunting industry.

Operators trading on the reputation of the fierce Jivaro Indian tribe are pawing off shrunken monkey heads as the genuine article, Peruvians say. Heads of rubber and plastic, complete with a thatch of scraggly black hair, are also finding their way to market.

THE JIVARO, who roams the steaming Amazon jungles near the Ecuadorian border in northern Peru, couldn't care less.

He is a head hunter for reasons other than commercial. He is interested only in survival. Jivaro tradition holds that a warrior must decapitate a slain enemy and shrink the head to the size of an orange.

Few wild tribes remain in the Peruvian jungle, but those still resisting civilization continue to create havoc.

LAST YEAR one band raided a work crew building a road through the jungle. Many were killed.

Iquitos newspapers regularly relate the latest clashes between Indians and settlers in remote jungle posts.

U.S. oil companies have made their mark here in recent years. A shining big refinery looms up on the banks of the Amazon a few miles north of Iquitos. Drilling crews hop about the jungle.

One war-like tribe, the Cashibo, have their own "Yankee go home" symbol which oilmen respect.

A pair of crossed arrows spells out the word that oil field crews aren't welcome.

CASHIBOS ARE known as raiders who delight in carrying off white women after killing the men.

Others are capitalizing on the new markets brought to the jungle by the white man. One tribe produces its nine-foot blowguns in quantity, selling them for $10 in Iquitos shops.

Blowgun darts also are available but the buyer has to dig up his own poison.

Be Careful When Using Formaldehyde

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: My son, aged 12, is going to start an insect collection and will use formaldehyde to preserve the specimens.

Would spilling formaldehyde on the skin or the fumes from it be harmful? What precautions should be observed? — MRS. E. W.

Formaldehyde is an ancient preservative, used for centuries. In a water solution it is a powerful antiseptic. In too strong a concentration, it is poisonous. However, it is an "honest poison," just as a rattlesnake is an "honest snake." It gives fair warning.

The fumes of formaldehyde (since, in its pure state, it is a gas) are irritating to the nose and eyes. If there's enough to cause irritation, you automatically avoid it. Or if some is spilled on the skin, it will be irritating unless washed off immediately.

Therefore the rules of safety are these: Use it in a room that has good ventilation. Have a bowl of water (or a nearby bathroom) to wash the skin if any of the formaldehyde is spilled.

Obviously, don't get any of it in the mouth or swallow it — but who would?

Dear Doctor: Please discuss diverticulitis and in what way does it differ from diverticulosis? — M. H.

This takes a bit of explaining, so instead of going over and over the subject in the column, I've explained it in a booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You." To receive a copy, send 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of The Herald.

Dear Dr. Molner: Cancer seems to attack nearly every part of the body except the heart. Is this true? — B.D.

The heart is not entirely immune to cancer, although it is relatively rare. Both malignant and benign tumors of the heart can occur.

The heart is composed of highly specialized tissue, largely muscle, which is not strongly subject to cancer. In addition, because of the heart's situation in regard to lymph drainage, it is relatively free of cancer spreading to it from some other site.

Dear Dr. Molner: My baby is six months old, weighs 20 pounds, and has bowed legs. It has been exceptionally strong since birth and loves to "stand" and "walk" with our help. He has done so for three months now.

We were told that supporting his own weight would not cause bowed legs, that all babies have bowed legs until they walk, so we let him continue to exercise. Now I am in doubt. We have taken pains to see that he has the proper food and vitamins.

J. M.
You have been given correct information. Keep on tending to his nutrition. The apparent bowing will disappear. (The same is true of "knock knees" and "flat feet" in very young babies. It takes time for the bones to harden and strengthen. As long as babies get the right food, moderate exercise will help, not harm the bones.

Of all the problems that pediatricians encounter in children, pinworm is the commonest. To learn the newest methods of treatment for this pest, write for the booklet, "The Commonest Pest, Pinworm," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Around The Rim

One thing and another: The Manchester Guardian says tests on a book left in the Antarctic in 1912 have shown that paper retains its condition better in cold storage than in normal temperatures.

THE BOOK, a 1900 edition of Edgar Allan Poe's "Tales of Mystery and Imagination," was left by a geologist during Scott's expedition.

It was found in 1959 and returned to its owner, Professor F. Debenham of Cambridge, England, who turned it over to the Manchester College of Science and Technology for testing. Water had slightly damaged the corners of the book but the pages as a whole were noticeably brighter than those of copies of the second edition obtained from second-hand shops.

An expert says the tests indicate that the natural aging of paper could be slowed, like that of most organic materials, by cold storage.

THE SMILE you turn on when meeting a stranger has the intent of expressing cordiality but its primitive purpose was defensive.

So says biologist Richard J. Andrew, who points out that the smile is a descendent of a grin and the grin was a protective response to a startling stimulus.

Andrew adds:

"DRAWING BACK the lips is a preliminary either to biting or throwing out something noxious that has been taken into the mouth. A great many mammals, from the primitive opossum to the advanced primates, show this grinlike response when startled."

"It is a characteristic grimace under such circumstances even in man, as anyone can readily verify for himself by noting his expression when he happens to clash the gears of his car while shifting."

A DENVER soothsayer, no doubt, will be a little more cautious about giving advice in the future.

She recently took a look at one prospective client and told him: "Even though you don't like your present job, keep it because you will advance."

The man paid the woman $5 for the advice and then arrested her for fortune telling. He was a police detective.

So Nutty It's Frightening

WASHINGTON, D. C. — You would have been, as your reporter was, somewhere between indignation and embarrassment. As a reader or writer of newspaper copy, any listener to this speech by a federal spokesman would have rated it as insolence and absurdity — with undertones of paternalism and overtones of news management.

THE SPEAKER was Calvin Kytte, acting director of the Community Relations Service, the administration's man in charge of pouring oil — or goo — on the troubled waters of racial strife. He was addressing a couple of hundred editors and publishers at the UPI's sixth annual convention — sophisticated, successful men and women — but you'd have thought he was giving a commencement address to a delinquency academy.

Mr. Kytte, a newsman turned public relations before becoming a missionary of federalism, opened by telling these well-established private enterprisers that "you're only doing half as good a job as you know how to do." From that gauche preamble, which set the working press to wincing, he likened his message to the work of an agricultural "county agent" trying to teach stupid farmers how to cultivate their fields.

INDIGNATION AT the gall of the man, embarrassment for his boorishness, soon gave way in one reporter's mind to positive fright about what the Great Society had up its sleeve as a means of turning news coverage into social pleading.

One of Mr. Kytte's proposals was, if you can believe it, that newspapers withhold their stories of civic disorder until passed upon by "a member of the police department and a professional staff member of the city human relations commission." Another was that ordinary cityside reporters not be assigned to cover civil rights news, but that this delicate subject be covered by "a man or woman grounded in the social sciences."

NATURALLY HE admonished us to "avoid publishing unverified reports," not to be hard on agitators who seemed "too extreme," and not to "misrepresent" civil rights demonstrators by overplaying the "beatniks" among them. Finally, we were imported to make some sort of metaphysical distinction between the civil rights movement and the Negro Revolution.

There was a sarcastic reference to "Afghanistanism," which means the alleged newspaper practice of writing about faroff problems but ignoring local ones. Yet somehow we were supposed to ignore local disturbances when these could not be suitably explained by social science.

DESPITE SOME disclaimers at the end of the address, the whole plea was for turning the nation's news media into a trumpet for egalitarianism and for the administration's leadership in that direction. It's always a bad sign when any government, by sweet talk or tough talk, asks the press to get in tune and to sing nothing but hallelujahs.

Quiet End to Shameful Chapter

WASHINGTON — One of the most shameful chapters in the history of the United States — the persecution of Japanese-Americans during World War II — is quietly coming to a close.

IT IS A story few Americans want to remember. Soon after Pearl Harbor 110,442 Japanese were uprooted from their farms and homes on the West coast and confined to inland concentration camps. Some 72,000 of these victims of wartime hysteria were American citizens.

Ostensibly the cruel deed was ordered as a security measure. The nation, betrayed at Pearl Harbor by its pompous, feuding Army and Navy peacetime brass hats, spent 1942 in fear of a Japanese landing in California. But the truth is even more disgraceful: The destruction of the Japanese-American community in large part was a cynical design that had long been cherished by the same West coast elements that have since given birth to the lunatic-fringe John Birch Society.

THESE GROUPS feared and resented the Japanese, who were shrewd businessmen and matchless farmers. The attack on Pearl Harbor offered the opportunity to get rid of them once and for all.

At best the evacuation would have been a savage undertaking, but the disgrace was compounded by the speed with which it was put into effect. Japanese-American farmers and merchants were given no time to liquidate or find caretakers for their property. Business stock and real estate that the industrious Japanese had been generations in building up were knocked down at forced sales to greedy West coasters who had seized upon wartime hysteria to dispossess their neighbors.

THE BEWILDERED Japanese were clapped into concentration camps, where most of them spent two and a half years. They were paid between $12 and $19 a month. Mortgage payments and insurance premiums had to be defaulted, taxes were unpaid, and still more of the Japanese-Americans' West coast holdings fell into the hands of the white citizens who had long coveted them.

Francis Biddle, wartime attorney general and long a practicing liberal admitted — long after the fact — that uprooting the Japanese was "stupid, based on bad judgment." Earl Warren, then attorney general of California and subsequently a liberal chief justice of the Supreme Court, favored the mass relocation. President Roosevelt, notorious for his concern for the friendless, signed the order.

NO ACT OF sabotage was ever laid to any Japanese-American, and the Army has since admitted that "no military estimate after December, 1941, forecast even the possibility of an invasion of the West coast by the Japanese in strength."

But no voice was raised in behalf of the Japanese. After the war the "relocated" Americans (plus some 5,000 who had been born in the concentration camps) were freed to pick up the pieces of their lives.

EXCEPT among the neo-fascists who had systematically robbed them, hostility toward the Japanese-Americans had largely vanished. A great deal of the credit for the change belonged to the famed "Go For Broke" 442nd Central Postal Directory, an outfit wholly composed of Nisei, or American-born Japanese. The 442nd wrote a record of loyalty and gallantry in action that has been equalled by few American units. They proved what FDR (who had ordered the Japanese-Americans imprisoned in 1942) piously said in 1943 when the 442nd was organized: "Americanism is a matter of the mind and heart; Americanism is not a matter of race and ancestry."

THE FINAL footnote in the dismal tale of what wars do to nations was written a few days ago when the justice department agreed to a $362,000 settlement of a claim filed by two families who had lost a farm and rice mill in South Dos Palos, Calif. It was the last payment under the 1948 Evacuation Repayment Act (under which the United States repaid an estimated 10 per cent of the losses incurred through the removal of the 110,000 Japanese). One of the claimants had been dead three years when it was finally approved.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

The pilot program to provide public defenders for indigent defendants in U.S. District Court trials here represents an important step in fulfilling the American promise of equal justice for all.

The plan also has the benefit of exposing young law students to courtroom practice. Six Chicago-area law schools have each assigned 10 students to assist the defenders in investigation, research and preparation of cases.

A success in both areas, providing counsel for the needy and bringing competent trial lawyers into the profession in greater numbers, would be a boon to the American system of justice.

Billy Graham

You often mention "conversion," please explain just what you mean by this?

A.P.
The word "conversion" belongs neither to the Protestants or the Catholics — it is a Biblical word and therefore has deep spiritual meaning.

In the early days of mechanized travel they would take a horse-drawn buggy, put a gasoline engine in it, and in that process of "conversion" the contrivance took on a new name: gas buggy.

Now man was created for a specific purpose. Something happened that hindered him from fulfilling his reason for existence, and his need was "conversion." So important is this spiritual conversion that our Lord said: "Except ye be converted, ye shall not enter the kingdom of heaven."

What is conversion? William James said: "A self which is divided, inferior and unhappy, becomes unified and consciously right, superior and happy in consequence of its firmer hold upon religious realities."

How do we experience conversion? By repenting of our sin, and accepting God's estimate of our unworthiness, and His offer of forgiveness and new life. Then putting our faith in Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior.

Car Crash Kills Eight

KEMAH, Tex. (AP) — A flaming, two-car collision killed eight persons Sunday night, seven of them in one car.

The only survivor was Linda Margaret Thomas, 18, pulled out of the fiery jumble of metal by the first person on the scene, Joseph D. Quaranto, Baycliff, Tex. He was unable to rescue her seven relatives trapped inside by flames.

Texas highway patrolmen said Miss Thomas drove one car and David S. Dorfman, 62, Texas City, was alone in the other.

The accident occurred on Texas 146 just south of this tiny southeast Texas city, six miles from the Manned Spacecraft Center and between Houston and Galveston.

The visibility was good and the highway was straight when the cars hit about 9:15 p.m. Patrolmen said there were no skid marks.

VICTIMS LISTED

The victims were Dorfman; Valasta Kovar Thomas, 38; James T. Thomas, 39; and Carol Ann Thomas, 11, all of Webster, Tex.; and four relatives from Kerrville, Tex.: Johnnie Kovar, 51; his wife Pauline, 49; their daughter Virginia Kovar Lackey, 24, and her 3½-month-old baby, Elizabeth Ann Lackey.

Miss Thomas was in critical condition at Galveston County Memorial Hospital in nearby Lamarque, Tex.

A head-on crash east of Sherman killed Frances Pope Bass, 49, of Whitewright; her son, William C. Bass Jr., 18; Dorothy Lynn Guffee, 14, of Ector; and Bradley Parrish, 16, of Ector. Four other persons from Ector were injured.

MULTIPLE DEATHS

Near Jacksboro, Tex., two cars collided and fatally injured Dean Doughty, 22, and Paul Arlene Richardson, 16, both of Jacksboro; High Banks, 56, of Paradise; and Wilburn Otis Prater, 48, of Decatur.

Friday night, three persons died in a head-on collision a mile west of Austin. They were Mr. and Mrs. Horace Edell Wright of Austin and Allen Curry, 43, an architectural consultant in Houston. A Houston football coach, Don Hart, and his wife were seriously injured. Texas counted 41 violent deaths over the weekend, 36 in traffic.

Among other violent deaths were these: Roger Fontenot, 5, of Houston drowned Sunday when a playmate pushed him into a bayou. Lee Rodriguez, 25, a former boxer, was shot to death and Ismael Flores, 18, was wounded in an argument near Bishop late Saturday. Officers arrested a man and sought another.

CAR OVERTURNS

John Hoffpauir, 23, of Orange, was killed Saturday when a small sports car overturned eight miles north of Orange. Jimmy Jennings, 7, drowned Saturday in T-Anchor lake in Amarillo. An older brother was rescued after he went under in an attempt to save the younger boy.

A truck hit a culvert near Woodsboro Saturday, killing James Brooks, 28, of Houston.

Granville Baker, 65, was killed by a car Saturday as he crossed a Dallas street.

A Texas A&I student was killed Saturday night when a car collided with a truck near Kingsville. He was Fahel Al Marri, 30, of Saudi Arabia.

Pilot R. J. Stevenson, 48, of Harris County, was killed Sunday when his World War II plane, a Douglas dive bomber, crashed seven miles east of Brownwood. Stevenson was a member of the "Confederate Air

Federal Pay Bill Tackled

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate committee goes to work today on a pay raise bill for federal employees against a backdrop of presidential opposition to a House-passed measure and the impending close of the congressional session.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., chairman of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, reiterated his commitment to passing a pay raise measure during the present congressional session.

"I hope we can get together on a bill acceptable to the President," Monroney told a newsman as the committee prepared to go into closed sessions after three days of public hearings. He said he hoped a bill could be agreed to this week.

Administration spokesmen called the House bill, approved 370 to 7, exorbitant and inflationary and urged the committee to accept President Johnson's original proposal of a 3 per cent increase with fringe benefits that add about one-half of 1 per cent.

The House measure calls for a 4 per cent pay hike for 1.7 million employees, plus fringe benefits the administration estimates at 1.2 per cent.

Vote Against Seating Peking Seen Smaller

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

(AP) — Only three or four of the dozen or so French African countries seem likely to vote with France to seat Communist China in the United Nations this year.

That as much as anything is expected to prevent a majority in the General Assembly in favor of replacing the Chinese Nationalists with the Chinese Communists on U.N. bodies.

VOTE LOOMS

The assembly will vote on the issue in late October or early November. Delegates who have studied the outlook carefully figure that the margin against seating Communist China may be only half what it was the last time the assembly voted on the issue, in October 1963.

That time the difference was 16 votes — 41 in favor of the Communist Chinese and 57 against. Twelve countries abstained.

This time, indications are that the difference may be only eight votes, with 48 in favor, 56 against and 13 abstaining.

In 1963, France and 10 of her

African allies voted against the Chinese Communists.

Later, Paris established diplomatic relations with Peking and made known that the French vote next time would be in Peking's favor.

That aroused speculation that most of the French African countries would switch, too, and give the Chinese Communists a majority.

But some close students of voting probabilities now believe that only the Central African Republic, the Congo — Brazzaville — Mauretania and perhaps Senegal will make the switch. They say Chinese Communist tactics have alarmed the others and made them firmly anti-Communist.

Other observers expect the vote will be much closer. But even if the Chinese Communists should get a majority, they could not come here. The assembly decided in 1961 that a two-thirds vote would be needed to settle the issue.

Diplomats generally believe it would do so again if that decision should be challenged.

The United States and its supporters argue that Communist China should be kept away from the United Nations because it is

Dr. Edwards On VA Staff Here

After approximately 25 years in private practice as a specialist in internal medicine at Houston and Denton, Dr. Robert A. Edwards began a new phase of his career last week as staff physician on the medical service at the VA Hospital.

A native of Denton, the 54-year-old physician received his bachelor's degree from the University of Texas in 1933, and his degree in medicine at the university's medical school in 1935. A three-month residency at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., was completed in June, 1944. Dr. Edwards served two years as a captain in the Army Medical Corps at Brooke General Hospital, San Antonio. He is certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine, the American Doctors' Association, and the Texas State Medical Association.

NEW YORK (AP)—The argument about television as an art form goes on, almost wistfully, it sometimes seems, but recently a sharp-tongued critic declared that it could never be as long as it had to accommodate commercials at stated intervals.

No one has ever called "Bonanza" an art form even if it is a top show, but Sunday night it was shown without commercial interruptions so the sponsor could use all his commercial minutes for one long presentation of his new line of merchandise. But the student of television form could easily spot the places where the commercials were supposed to be introduced.

Sometimes the long-playing NBC Western is a bit light on plot and dialogue, but it is usually a handsome show to watch, particularly in color.

Gwynn Molzahn Wins Promotion

Miss Molzahn came to Big Spring in October, 1957 as head dietitian from a similar position at the hospital in Kerville. She was subsequently promoted to administrative dietitian and then to the assistant chief in March, 1961. She has also served as staff dietitian at the VA hospitals in Muskogee, Okla., and McKinney. Born in Waco, Miss Molzahn is a graduate of the University of Texas and received her BS degree in home economics in 1952. She is a member of the American Dietetic Association. Her replacement here has not been named.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South vulnerable, you hold:

♠A1074 ♥1073 ♣KJ94 ♠A6

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1♥ Pass 1♠ Pass

2♥ Pass 2♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A—This hand is the equal of an opening bid. Since partner has opened and then jumped, you should make a tentative estimate of a slam. You may take a chance on a direct six heart bid, or you may parry with an ace showing bid of four clubs and then support hearts vigorously on the next round.

Q. 2—Neither vulnerable, partner opens with one club and you hold:

♠AK4 ♥KQ93 ♣KJ94 ♠62

What is your response?

A—Your hand contains the proper point count for a three no trump response (16 points) but is not our choice. We favor restricting the use of the three no trump response to hands that are distributed 4-3-3. A superior contract may be reached in hearts or diamonds if partner happens to have four of either suit. We vote for a temporary bid of one heart, intending to provide bidding fire-works later.

Q. 3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

2♠ Pass 2♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Your partner hasn't very much, but he seems to have it where you need it most. There should be a fair chance for nine tricks, so you ought to try two no trump and see his reaction.

Q. 4—As South vulnerable, you hold:

♠A94 ♥1093 ♣K63 ♠AK5

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♠ Pass 1♥ Pass

2♠ Pass 2♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A—While normally a 4-3-3 distribution should dampen your ardor, it should not be a deterrent in cases where partner has shown a two suited and you have the side suits well taken care of. You should lose no more than one trick in the more than two in the majors. Bid four spades.

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠J10643 ♥K105 ♣A109652

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1♠ Dbie. Pass 1♠

Pass 3♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—A jump in a new suit following a take-out double is not 100 per cent forcing, but it may be passed only if responder has a hand which cannot possibly produce tricks. That cannot be said of your hand which contains a king, a jack, and a five card suit. It is your duty, therefore, to bid three spades.

Q. 6—As South vulnerable, you hold:

♠Q7 ♥A3 ♣AJ852 ♠AJ93

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♠ Pass 1♥ Pass

2♠ Pass 1♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A—The possibilities of a slam should not be overlooked. In order to elicit further information from partner, the suggested call is three hearts. Partner will surely recognize this as an ace showing bid, and after his next response you may be in better position to make a decision as to the ultimate contract.

Q. 7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AJS ♥KJ50A ♠KJ1095 ♠8

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♠ Pass 1♥ Pass

2♠ Pass 1♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Partner has shown a very strong hand by doubling and then bidding at the level of three. Your hand, containing nine points, is just a jack short of an average hand. We recommend three no trump.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠J964 ♥KJ9 ♠KJ987 ♠7

U.S. Troops Rout Cong

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. troops pressed big offensives in pursuit of the Viet Cong today in dense forests north of Saigon and in the central highlands of South Viet Nam.

Fifty-eight guerrillas were killed and 48 others captured, a U.S. military spokesman said. He reported American casualties were light.

U.S. planes made heavy strikes in North Viet Nam. They also dropped six million leaflets into Communist territory. It was the largest leaflet raid of the war.

Paratroopers of the 173rd Airborne Brigade killed 46 Viet Cong in a clash Sunday 30 miles north of Saigon. U.S. losses were "moderate," an American military spokesman reported.

BLOW UP JEEP

The Viet Cong blew up a U.S. Jeep, inflicting heavy casualties on its occupants.

The spokesman said the Jeep was mined, but one informed source said the guerrillas blew up the vehicle by setting off a 750-pound U.S. Air Force bomb that had failed to explode when dropped by an American plane.

Thousands of paratroopers and Australian troops launched the operation three days ago in an area known as the Iron Triangle, on the fringe of the Communist Zone D. The allied troops reported killing 13 Viet Cong earlier in the operation.

RED FORTS

The Iron Triangle is an area of dense jungle and rubber plantations on the fringes of Zone D where the Communists have built fortifications and forts.

The spokesman said American troops used tear gas once Sunday, but he gave no details.

The paratroopers had pumped the nonlethal gas into Viet Cong tunnels twice before during the operation, but found the underground forts empty.

It was the first authorized use of nonlethal gas by U.S. troops in Viet Nam since January. Washington ordered a halt to the use of gas after newsmen reported on that operation in March, causing unfavorable world reaction.

Troops of the 1st Cavalry Division, Airmobile, were reported chasing a Viet Cong force estimated at more than 500 in the central highlands, about 280 miles north of Saigon in Binh Dinh Province.

Thousands of Americans joined South Vietnamese troops in the operation called Shiny Bayonet. It was the first large-scale operation for the 1st Cavalry which arrived in Viet Nam last month.

Fall Vegetable Crop Hike Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department expects the fall vegetable crop to total 40.3 million tons, up 4 per cent from last year.

Increases are being forecast for cabbage, carrots, celery, onions, and strawberries. Small crops are indicated for cauliflower, tomatoes and asparagus with the lettuce crop about the same as last year.

DEAR ABBY

Time To Get Worried

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 18 years. We have five lovely children and have always been a very close and happy family. My husband was married before I met him and I was told that his wife got the divorce. Last night she telephoned him from another state, where she now lives (after 18 years), and she asked my husband to send her a copy of the divorce papers. She said she was trying to adopt a child and the welfare people told her they needed a copy. My husband asked her, "Didn't YOU get the divorce?" She said, "No, I thought YOU got it." Abby, I am worried sick over this. Can anything be done at this late date? The lives and reputation of our whole family are at stake.

MOTHER OF FIVE AND NOT MARRIED

DEAR MOTHER: If you and your husband don't have a lawyer, get one in a hurry. Don't panic. It can all be straightened out with little embarrassment.

DEAR ABBY: Last year you gave me some sound advice in regard to the purchase of baby skunks for my grandsons. Mrs. Pearson, you will recall, was loathe to have the skunks, but since I had promised them, you advised me to carry out my promise. I did, and everything worked out splendidly. They are odorless, well-behaved and a joy to my grandsons. And Mrs. Pearson even learned to like the skunks.

However, we now face another problem. My grandsons are going back to Los Angeles, and their stepmother says no skunks. American Airlines has agreed to carry the skunks, the boys want their skunks, but the lady with whom they will live from now on says no. What is your advice?

DREW PEARSON

DEAR MR. PEARSON: When the lady married your son, she knew he had little boys. But she didn't know the boys had little skunks. Her objections are based on prejudice. Perhaps if your wife assured her they were odorless, well-behaved and a joy to the boys, she'd reconsider. I hope so.

DEAR ABBY: We are a group of housewives who read the letter from the woman signed "LAZY, ASHAMED AND DESPERATE." She was disgruntled and never got her housework done. That fits us to a "T." On the other hand, our husbands don't do anything around the house, either. The basement is a mess and repairs and painting never gets done unless we hire someone to do it. If we do our part, shouldn't our husbands do theirs?

BROOKFIELD, WISC.

DEAR BROOKFIELD: Yes, but most husbands feel that after they've done a day's work elsewhere they should be able to come home and relax. Housekeeping is YOUR job, and the odd jobs around the house will have to wait until the Lord and Master gets around to doing them. It's still a man's world, girls, even though most of what he has is in his wife's name.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a husband who's always complaining about his wife's cooking?

BERT F.

DEAR BERT: He's lucky. Most husbands complain about their wives' NOT cooking.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters For All Occasions."

Texas Cool Front Weak

By The Associated Press

A weak cool front swung into Texas today, lying just south of Amarillo and promising to cut short the brief return of summerlike temperatures.

Long-range forecasts called for cooler temperatures in Northwest Texas today, mid-week showers in South Texas, and cooler weather and more showers Friday and Saturday.

Skies were partly cloudy over northern parts of the state and very foggy along the coast.

The coolness was due to spread to most of the northern extensions of the state by Tuesday.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 54 degrees at Dalhart to 72 at Brownsville.

Pork Decline Discussion Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's meat industry wants to know what to do about a decline in the supply and demand for pork.

A Friday meeting in Chicago has been called to seek ideas on what might be done to keep pork in the running with beef and chicken. The session is being sponsored by the National Live Stock and Meat Board, an independent organization set up years ago to promote meats.

Chairman James B. Nance, of Alamo, Tenn., expressed the industry's concern over the situation in these words:

"In spite of an all-time high in consumer purchasing power and in expenditures for food in this country, the supply and demand situation for pork is such that per capita consumption this year is expected to reach its lowest point of modern times." Hog production declined sharply this year after prices dipped last year. Prices have improved, but farmers are showing reluctance to expand production. Noticeable increases are not expected until late next year.

Paper Company Exec Rites Today

AUSTIN (AP)—Last rites for Charles Thomas Hicks, 64, chairman of the board of Bower Paper Co., were to be held today at St. David's Episcopal Church.

Burial in Austin's Oakwood Cemetery was to follow.

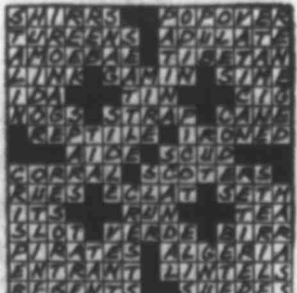

Hicks died Saturday in a New York hospital of cancer.

Puzzle of Saturday, October 9, Solved

Is the world ready for 40 new tigers? It is...if they all look like this! The tiger scores again!

Who'd ever have thought Pontiac would make cars for just about everybody? We did. Sleek Bonnevilles for swingers. Sumptuous Broughams for luxury lovers. Star Chief Executives for people who like their luxury connected to a low price tag. An improved version of the fabulous Grand Prix. Catalinas that come in convertibles, station wagons, sports coupes, hardtops, and sedans and four exciting Venturas. But if you're a real tiger at heart, you'll want to try the formidable 2+2. And there's more below...

You've heard of the ultimate tiger—the GTO with 335 or 360 hp. (Who hasn't?) But if you like tigers and prefer them more on the manageable side, the Le Mans is your car. You can order a 250-hp regular gas V-8, a 285-hp premium gas V-8, or the 207-hp version of our new overhead cam six when you specify the special sports package. And the 165-hp OHC-6 is standard on the Le Mans, Tempest and Tempest Custom. How's that for openers? Wide-Track Pontiac/66

Come to tiger country. See all the Wide-Track tigers at your Pontiac dealer's.
