It's a Hard Old Day for Him! The Gentleman Shown Below Will Have Many Members of His Family Present on Thanksgiving Tables of U. S. Today as All America Bows in Gratefulness

"And This Day We Shall Give Thanks Unto the Lord, Our God"

(AN EDITORIAL) Three hundred and five years ago a hardy little band of Pilgrims gathered together upon the bleak shores of what is now the state of Massachusetts, to give thanks unto God for their safety and meagre prosperity during their first year's stay upon the eastern continent. Today, as their posterity, clothed in comfort and safety, wonder perhaps, just what obligations they owe to the God who has blessed them. Their hearts had been hard and we too them, in our mind's eye, huddled together, weary, but an unexpected stroke of the savage cut deeper into their thinning ranks, with the surrounding landscape dotted with mounds under which slept many of those who had landed with them. But they were thankful, those men and women who loved God, and kept His commandments—even though their lives were constantly in jeopardy, even though they were far removed from the land of their birth and despite the fact that even the elements seemed to have conspired together to blight their great endeavor. So, if they could be thankful in the face of such hardships, why cannot we, who enjoy the fruits of their labors, be thankful in direct ratio? Surely if they could see behind the cloud the silver lining—if they could recognize the work of Divine Providence in that chaotic extension of their lives and labors, and realize that their present security, yet most of all, be turned to God in Thanksgiving and at all times, take for our watchword, "And This Day We Shall Give Thanks Unto the Lord, Our God."

SWAPPING THEORIES FOR THE EASIER THING

Emma Goldman, who never believed in marriage when she ran on her rampage over America, has married. She practically admits that she does not believe in the institution any more than she ever did, but that it's the custom, and conformance to custom protects one from interference and scolding. Tom, Emma's husband, is a small comforter, but she has a capital that spelled her younger years.

CONCERNING MENUS AND LINGERIE

One-piece lingerie which takes the place of about four pieces which women wear in yesteryear has proven so completely satisfactory in this busy day that no woman would think of going back to the old-fashioned wardrobe. Now we have one-piece menus. One dish which takes the place of the old-fashioned meal with soup, vegetable, meat, gravy, potatoes, salad, dessert, etc. There's a cook book by one Chambers called "One Piece Dinners" which should meet the needs of the housewife who has some interests outside the home.

Kaleidoscopic Saga of a Gas-Light Ghost

By VIRGINIA SWAIN, NEA Services Writer
NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—White diamonds and black moths—Gamboge triumph and the purple gloom of failure—life at its richest and life turned bitter on the tongue—all these make up the story of Rose Coghlan, grayest ghost of a long-dead New York still left to tetter among the ruins.

While upper Broadway changes and Park Avenue murmurs to the tune of a new generation, old Chelsea still whispers of a dead century on Manhattan, the days of gas footlights and spanking boys prancing at the theater doors, the days when Rose Coghlan had but to flit a lady about across the stage to bring an audience of bustling ladies and side-whiskered men, cheering to its feet.

Up Linger Thrills

She tosses her regal head and the faces of her nightrobes flutter, but the only audience to see her is her scarred and wide-eyed maid. It is likely to be a new maid hired only last Saturday, for Regal Rose can no longer buy diamonds to listen to the thrilling voice which thousands once paid to hear. Week by week, the maids come and go, and the mistress, stigmata of their coming and their going.

Harried Husbands

Three of the ghosts that circle about her bedroom are the memories of her three husbands. The first was that buckskin Brown who loved her, dashed aside because he mistook the train that was to take them to their honeymoon.

Scandal Broke Play

When Wilde was brought into the English courts, and Brymore suffered a stroke on the stage, the play failed miserably. She never saw her diamond necklace again.

Charles Coghlan was the only leading man who ever played harmoniously with her. And he was forced to give up his place in the company because a squeamish American public objected to seeing brother and sister playing as lovers.

There is one other person in whom she has an interest—eight-year-old Rose Coghlan the second, the child of her nephews. She expects this child to follow in her footsteps, to use her flaming copper hair and petulant lips as the first Rose used hers, for glory and fortune on the stage.

WHEN SHEBA SOUGHT A SHEK

The Queen of Sheba must have been "nothing but a man-chasing flapper," for you may recall that it was the queen who, when she heard of King Solomon, went to him in Jerusalem with a very great train of camels laden with spices and gold and precious stones. And you may recall that King Solomon was not excessively bored by this exhibition of "man chasing." Of course there may have been such things as conventions and custom which said that queens called on kings first, so today's flapperhood should not take the historical incident too seriously.

WHEN SHEBA SOUGHT A SHEK

The Queen of Sheba must have been "nothing but a man-chasing flapper," for you may recall that it was the queen who, when she heard of King Solomon, went to him in Jerusalem with a very great train of camels laden with spices and gold and precious stones. And you may recall that King Solomon was not excessively bored by this exhibition of "man chasing." Of course there may have been such things as conventions and custom which said that queens called on kings first, so today's flapperhood should not take the historical incident too seriously.

CHEMISTRY FORMS VALUABLE AID TO FRENCH POLICE; PIN PRICK IS CLUE TO BANK ROBBERY SOLUTION

PARIS, Nov. 24. (AP)—Chemistry is one of France's most clever detectives. Three laboratories at Police headquarters play an important part in the detection and especially the conviction of crimes as any squad of the brightest sleuths on the force.

Forgery and murders are Detective Chemistry's specialty. So perfected are the instruments that they work practically amounts to the weighing of atoms.

Caught By Pin Prick—The other day an envelope supposed to contain 25 one-thousand franc bills was opened in a Paris bank. The bills were intact but the envelope was missing. Three days later the thief was behind the bars. A pin prick in the envelope had given him away.

"Our instruments made the hole in the envelope look like the crater of Vesuvius," said M. Edmond Faivre, chief of one of the laboratories, "and that crater simply belched out the name of the faithless employee."

The body of a murdered man was found in the Bois de Boulogne. The trail led to a bootlegger bookmaker who, outside the law, had his office in his cellar. Blood stains were on the body. The laboratory established that although it was human blood, it differed from that of the trail led to a bootlegger bookmaker named Stubbards.

"Have you ever had typhoid fever?" the Chief Detective asked, "under arrest exactly in the course of a three hour grilling."

"Yes, about a year ago," replied the accused in an unguarded moment.

"Then then are the murderer," shouted the police official in that articulate French, "because you were the only one in the neighborhood who had typhoid fever in that blood."

"All right, I give in, I did it," admitted the murderer.

The victim's eyes were used with great success in the detection of counterfeit and uncharged, common, national defense bonds and other securities. The original writing supposed to be the forgery with acids is made to compare under the glare of the rays.

Trace Victim—By Dent

The proprietor of a diner in the village was found behind his counter with his throat slit. One of the halves of the place was placed under arrest.

Visually he denied having been in the place for several days. Take his shoes and clothes off, he said, and the Chief, bent to the laboratory, the wearing apparel was found to show signs of the very dust which had been placed up behind the counter of the diner a few minutes previously.

Letters to Santa

Yesterday's mail brought two interesting letters to Santa Claus "at the North Pole" from Raymond Lee and Grace Fletcher, children of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Fletcher, Grace and Raymond Lee will probably both be on hand next Tuesday when old Santa, himself, will be in Lubbock under the auspices of the Avalanche-Journal. Santa will greet the kiddies at the Avalanche-Journal office, at 7 p. m. and will then lead them to various stores in Lubbock where Christmas toys will be on display. The stores will remain open that night until a o'clock.

"I love you. I want you to bring me a silver iron and a tub 16 inch long and a book." Grace Fletcher.

"I wish you to bring me a dump truck 28 inches long and that is all I want. If you want me to have any more things my dear Santa Claus if you will bring me that dump truck." Raymond Lee Fletcher.

AMERICAN SILK WORMS MUST WORK YEAR ROUND

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24. (AP)—Southwestern United States some day will become one of the great sources of supply for raw materials for the silk industry but American methods will extend the production to a year round basis. This is the opinion of Mary M. Ingersoll, University of Southern California, entomologist.

Until recently the United States had done little in sericulture, but a silk enterprise had been launched at Hermosa Beach, Glendale and Los Angeles.

"The breeding system of the Orient will find little favor here," Miss Ingersoll says, "since it operates only a few weeks of the year. The most primitive methods are used in the Far East, where the silk worms and the mulberry leaves upon which they feed largely are produced by the individual who has but a few acres on which to work and considers silk-raising as a side-line."

Under improved American methods the silk larvae will be operated on an intensive scale, while the mills will be kept in operation the entire year.

OXFORD STUDENTS MUST 'SIGN' BEFORE BOAT RIDE

LONDON, Nov. 24. (AP)—Cambridge University has its regulations for undergraduates, but they are few.

There are many professors to be seen at night in "black gowns" and "caps." They have the right to demand an introduction of any girl seen walking with a man after dark, and will insist on giving the name to sure in case trouble.

A new rule requires that all undergraduates must sign their name and give the name of their college before taking a boat or canoe on the river, whether accompanied by a girl or not.

Can You Carve a Turkey? Here Are a Few Hints

Perhaps the Thanksgiving host whose privilege it will be to carve the turkey needs his memory freshened up a bit. It's surely an art any man may be proud of, to neatly and skillfully carve a roasted bird.

The placing of the turkey on the table is important. The head should be toward the left hand of the carver. This brings the drumsticks to the right and the side of the bird directly in front of the carver.

Insert the fork firmly over the breast bone at the highest point. Do not remove the fork until the carving is done.

First remove the whole leg, thigh and drumstick in one piece. To do this make a circular cut around the joint close to the body. With the blade of the knife, press the leg back and cut through the ligaments, holding the thigh bone to the back. A quick little twist of the knife easily severs the joint. However, if you want to, it's perfectly "proper" to hold the end of drumstick covered with a paper felt firmly with the fingers of the left hand. Then a quick grab of the skin between the body and the thigh, a little tweak with the fingers and a downward cut with the knife and the leg is neatly and expeditiously carved. The two joints of the leg repose on the platter while the wing is secured and the breast carved.

Next remove the wing by making a circular cut around the joint and pressing back with the knife just as the leg was done. However, the fingers cannot be used for the wing. Care should be taken not to cut any of the white meat of the breast with the wing. Place the wing on the platter.

Now, with the fork still in position, cut this slice lengthwise from the breast, beginning close to the place from which the wing was removed and working up the ridge of the breast bone. Now remove the fork and separate the drumstick from the second joint. The dark meat on the thigh and drumstick should be divided into small inviting portions.

The stuffing is taken out from the tail end of the bird with a large serving spoon.

In the event that this is your "first Thanksgiving," and consequently your first venture in carving the previous bird, it will more than likely pay you, Mr. Man-of-the-House, to assist in the scrubbing and cleaning of the turkey and carefully watch the carving. This will give you the "feel" of the joints and a more intimate knowledge of the anatomy of the bird than you could otherwise have.

COLORFUL SPECTACLES WILL PRECEDE ARMY-NAVY GAME AS CHICAGO GREET CADET AND MIDSHIPMEN VISITORS

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 24. (AP)—Chicago blomed today with flags, bunting and "no parking" signs as the army and navy football squads en-trained for the city to meet Saturday in the first service game ever held west of the Alleghenies.

The two squads will arrive tomorrow afternoon, and on Friday morning 1,940 midshipmen and 1,115 cadets will follow them into the city to share in dedication of the soldiers' field Friday and to attend the football game Saturday.

An Alderman presented to the city council today a resolution memorializing congress to move either the military or the naval academy to a city on Lake Michigan near Chicago, and his gesture epitomized the eagerness with which Chicago awaits the two-day spectacle.

The navy team will be hastened to Soldiers' field on its arrival for a short workout and then to a South Shore hotel Saturday. It will go through its final paces at the University stadium. The army eleven will be taken to South Shore country club, where it will practice tomorrow and Friday.

Cadets and midshipmen, arriving on special trains Friday morning, will parade to their hotels. Thousands unable to get seats to the football game plan to get a free glimpse of the visitors then and in the afternoon at the formal dedication ceremonies for Soldiers' field.

With vice-president Charles G. Dawes and a host of governors, senators and other noted citizens in the reviewing stand, a vice-presidential salute of 15 guns will launch the ceremony. Down Michigan avenue and into the stadium, behind three American legion drum corps, will march a pageant picturing the evolution of the American flag. Behind will come service men from every allied nation in the world.

The cadets and midshipmen will march onto the field in the wake of the soldiers and will go through dress parade maneuvers.

Fifty thousand school children have been bidden to the dedication fete, and police expect to handle a crowd as large as 100,000 who will see the football game Saturday.

Friday noon the cadets will be the guests of Marshall Field Company at

Saturday and Friday night men of both schools will be the guests of the city at a ball beginning with a dinner and ending with midnight shows at downtown theatres.

Two records will fall at Saturday's football game. The crowd of 150,000 will be the largest ever to see a football game and the receipts of $800,000 will set a gate record for such a spectacle.

TETRAZZINI NOW IN CONCERT WORK ONLY

ROME, Nov. 24. (AP)—Mme. Louisa Tetrazzini, who recently became signora Veratti through her marriage to Pietro Veratti, has entered on a new phase of life, musical. She is devoting herself entirely to concert music. Her voice, with its unswerving trills, is unimpaired and she remains the same jovial, gitty, sympathetic woman.

She is admired for her loyalty to her friends and her remembrance of and gratitude for any service. This is exemplified by the prominent place given the portrait of Adeline Patti in the drawing room of her palace in Rome.

tion as ever, and it is doubtful that legislation can be enacted before adjournment, although a determined fight for the McNary-Haugen bill will be made by the farm bloc. Another measure which is considered by many as important to the farmers is the Muscle Shoals leasng bill, with its provision for fertilizer manufacture. Ever since 1921 this problem has been before Congress, but none of the several bills offered has been able to command a majority of both houses. The present bill embodies the proposal of the Alabama Power Company and associates, which has the approval of majority of the special joint committee appointed to receive bids for the property last spring. An effort will be made to substitute the bid of the American Cyanamid Company in the place of the committee's bill, and there are rumors that still offers for the property may be made. Then there is the government operation plan proposed by Senator Norris, which has developed some support. As matters stand, the power companies' bill has an apparent advantage through its approval by the committee and the supposed backing of the administration, but whether it can be brought to a vote before March 4 is problematical.

THE OLDEST THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

On this the national Thanksgiving occasion, many of the people of the land turn with solemn thoughts to their places of worship, where they, in expression of the true feelings, and appreciation to the God of the Universe, engaged in a service in keeping with the day. Others, spend the day in the quiet of the home with their family and possibly relatives and friends. Others enjoy a real family reunion, and are truly thankful. Others we are sorry to say have a very crude idea of thankfulness and spend the Day in revelry, in doing everything possible in just as ungodly manner as is possible to do. The latter is to be pitied, and maybe the God of Heaven will forgive them. However be this as it may. Our National executive annually delivers to the press his Thanksgiving proclamation, and so on down the line each State, each city in turn has its Thanksgiving proclamation. The oldest Thanksgiving document, however, was handed down before the landing of the Pilgrims. It was possibly the oldest that there is any record of, and it is found in the Book of Joshua—his farewell address which makes up the last two chapters of the book that bears his name, is a veritable thanksgiving proclamation not greatly different in purpose from President Coolidge's Thanksgiving proclamation which will be read in most of our churches today. The word "therefore" points back to a long array of national blessings calling for national gratitude to be expressed in national devotion to and service of Jehovah. Joshua made a demand for "thanksgiving." He pointed out God's hand in all their national history from Abraham to Moses, showing how God had led them out of Egypt, through the wilderness and into their present possession of the promised land. "Now, therefore, fear the Lord, and serve him in sincerity and in truth; and put away the gods which your fathers served beyond the river, and in Egypt, and serve ye Jehovah. And if it seem evil unto you to serve Jehovah, choose you this day whom ye will serve, but as for me and my house, we will serve Jehovah." Here is undoubtedly America's and the world's greatest need today, viz., genuine religion in the home. Family prayer has become a "lost art" even among the families of the church. Folks whose parents or grand parents regularly gather their families together for Bible reading and prayer in the family circle each morning or evening are now rearing their own children in paganism so far as any definite Christian influence or atmosphere of prayer within the home is concerned. Severe denunciation is being heaped upon the youth of today for their recklessness and disregard of moral and ethical standards, which in justice should be aimed rather at the older generation. Instead of crying "what ails our young people?" let the inquiry be "what ails our parents and our homes?" Paganized materialistic homes can do no more produce godly and pious children than water can flow up hill. It is true that parents can not make religious choices for their children, but it is just as true that they can not avoid choosing the illegals atmosphere and influence with which their children are to be surrounded in the home, and by which their characters will ultimately be largely determined. The choice to which Joshua called the nation was not a choice between a God and no God. That is not the choice before any generation. But rather the choice between the true God and false gods of men's own making. And let it be remembered that these false gods for us today are not the crude idols of the benighted heathen, but the gods of a refined materialism and a polished paganism, such as money, pleasure, power and passion. As between these and devotion to the true God, Joshua's stout ultimatum still stands for us. "Choose you this day whom ye will serve," for our Lord Jesus Christ says, "Ye cannot serve God and Mammon."

OUR WILD YOUTH

Alarmists who declare with assurance that American youth is going to the dogs received a rather severe jolt recently in the form of an announcement by the University of New York. That institution published figures showing that out of its slightly more than 20,000 students, 18,000 supported themselves in whole or in part last year. Total earnings for these students during the year amounted to more than $13,000,000, an average of $722 for each. Those who scribble with such facility concerning the depravity of present-day college students might find food for reflection in this presentation. Boys and girls who value an education enough to work their way through college are not likely to be headed in the wrong direction. It is believed that a fair inquiry would disclose that a large majority of students are as earnest and steady as those of any former generation. Only the spectacular antics of a small minority are responsible for the sweeping indictments brought against young people of the present by superficial observers and sensational writers.

EXTENDING AIR SERVICE

An important new development of commercial aviation in the United States is seen in the arrangement just made whereby the American Railway Express Company will establish an express package service on planes of the National Air Transport, Inc., on routes between New York and Chicago, and between Chicago and Dallas. Commenting on the innovation, William P. McCracken, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, declares that this is an important illustration of the readiness of groups engaged in surface transportation to co-operate in the extension of their activities to air transport. He believes that the carriage of express and passengers will aid in making privately owned air lines profitable, whereas government lines carrying mail alone were operated at a great loss. Plans have been made for the turning over of the air mail to the commercial air lines; but the Department of Commerce will foster and encourage civil aeronautics and the establishment of air navigation facilities, under the provisions of the Air Commerce Act passed at the last session of Congress. The wisdom of this measure is being demonstrated by the increased activity of privately operated air lines which has followed its passage.

SO THINK WE

We think the drivers of stolen traps possibly had about as good a night as the present day drivers. They usually blamed the horse for the trouble.
 We think it is just about as important to be careful about choosing your enemy as it is to choose your friends. Some people are really not worth hating.
 We think at least one Lubbock woman proved to her husband that the story that she never searched his pockets was a cute little joke. She recently admitted to her husband that she had occasionally slipped her diamond ring off her finger while making up the bed, and could not find it. He soon raised her anxious heart by presenting the ring to her with the explanation that he found it in his right pants pocket.
 We think we would rather be a less drain in a herd than some folks we know. We could at least do more good than they do—we could drown out a lot of their noise.
 We think the fellow who sits down and waits for his rich benefactor to die are certainly endowed with a lot of optimism and patience.
 We think if some folks would quit following at the heels of those who would make a greater success of life.
 We think Lubbock could be made a hundred per cent better by cleaning up some of the vacant lots where there are so many weeds growing.
 We think there is one thing pretty certain and that is that the block of land where the Denver railroad depot is to be located will be clean of weeds next year. It has been a regular wilderness for the past year.
 We think a lot of us think we have the other fellow fooled, but we haven't.
 We think we could at least make Thanksgiving a reality to some folks if we would on that day find some family that is hardly able to get enough to keep soul and body together, and give them a good warm turkey dinner.
 We think we should begin work on paving and sidewalks to the site of the Denver depot. It will be among the things needed at the completion of the road here.

Little Avalanches

Charles A. Klima, indicted in New York for having five wives, from whom he is said to have secured $11,600, has added insult to injury by uttering a foul libel on the fair sex, saying: "I'd blow into a town and right away the women would get me drunk, and when I got sober I'd be married." He ought to be locked in a room with the five slandered ladies armed with rolling pins.

IT IS REPORTED

That for more than three hundred years a people has been celebrated Thanksgiving.
 That the review is going to put the big pot in the little one. Friday in celebration of the decision of the I. C. C. to allow the Burlington to build into that city. They have a right to be glad, and Lubbock will join them in the celebration.
 That several hundred Lubbock folks are to get Buffalo meat at Canyon today. The Matadors are to stampede the herd this afternoon between the hours of three and five.
 That there are a number of families in Lubbock who will have no Thanksgiving dinners today, and possibly no dinners at all. This morning might be a fine time to drive around town for a few minutes and search out some of these families and give them a real warming up with a nice dinner today. That would be better than to hogdilly fill your own frames with a gorgeous roast. Holy writ says a plain language that it is more blessed to give than to receive.
 That the Santa Fe is now wanting to build a railroad from Post City to Fort Worth, and we say let 'em build. This is a big country, and we will need all the roads that they can build in every direction to carry the diversified farming products to the fellow back east, who have worn their hind out with one crop practice.

Our National executive annually delivers to the press his Thanksgiving proclamation, and so on down the line each State, each city in turn has its Thanksgiving proclamation. The oldest Thanksgiving document, however, was handed down before the landing of the Pilgrims. It was possibly the oldest that there is any record of, and it is found in the Book of Joshua—his farewell address which makes up the last two chapters of the book that bears his name, is a veritable thanksgiving proclamation not greatly different in purpose from President Coolidge's Thanksgiving proclamation which will be read in most of our churches today. The word "therefore" points back to a long array of national blessings calling for national gratitude to be expressed in national devotion to and service of Jehovah. Joshua made a demand for "thanksgiving." He pointed out God's hand in all their national history from Abraham to Moses, showing how God had led them out of Egypt, through the wilderness and into their present possession of the promised land. "Now, therefore, fear the Lord, and serve him in sincerity and in truth; and put away the gods which your fathers served beyond the river, and in Egypt, and serve ye Jehovah. And if it seem evil unto you to serve Jehovah, choose you this day whom ye will serve, but as for me and my house, we will serve Jehovah." Here is undoubtedly America's and the world's greatest need today, viz., genuine religion in the home. Family prayer has become a "lost art" even among the families of the church. Folks whose parents or grand parents regularly gather their families together for Bible reading and prayer in the family circle each morning or evening are now rearing their own children in paganism so far as any definite Christian influence or atmosphere of prayer within the home is concerned. Severe denunciation is being heaped upon the youth of today for their recklessness and disregard of moral and ethical standards, which in justice should be aimed rather at the older generation. Instead of crying "what ails our young people?" let the inquiry be "what ails our parents and our homes?" Paganized materialistic homes can do no more produce godly and pious children than water can flow up hill. It is true that parents can not make religious choices for their children, but it is just as true that they can not avoid choosing the illegals atmosphere and influence with which their children are to be surrounded in the home, and by which their characters will ultimately be largely determined. The choice to which Joshua called the nation was not a choice between a God and no God. That is not the choice before any generation. But rather the choice between the true God and false gods of men's own making. And let it be remembered that these false gods for us today are not the crude idols of the benighted heathen, but the gods of a refined materialism and a polished paganism, such as money, pleasure, power and passion. As between these and devotion to the true God, Joshua's stout ultimatum still stands for us. "Choose you this day whom ye will serve," for our Lord Jesus Christ says, "Ye cannot serve God and Mammon."

FARMERS AND CONGRESS

Congress will meet on December 6, with the prospect that some measures of considerable importance will fall of passage or final disposition because of the shortness of the session, which must end on March 4. Farm relief, one of the knotty problems which engaged the attention during the last session, is as far from a solu-

THAT MAN MUSSOLINI

By BRUCE CATTON
 The angles sounded their impetuous rat-a-tat-a-tat. The massed crowds in the ancient Roman square stiffened to attention. With clatter and clank of silken and glittering cavalcade sweeps by. Torrents of cheers burst from the great throng as a powerful, soaring man in a black shirt of a gleaming military uniform strides bravely from the saddle.
 Mussolini is passing by!
 Mussolini, a dozen years ago, was a poverty-stricken Socialist agitator, feared from three foreign countries and the object of suspicion in his own land, subsisting precariously while he preached the cause of social revolution. He has become the arch foe of all for which he once fought.

UNIQUE HOLIDAY

Dr. Hubert Work, Secretary of the Interior, in a statement last made public, declared that Thanksgiving day, about to be observed by the people of the United States, is a holiday unique among the nations of the world, in its underlying spirit. The observance of the day, he said, should include a prayer for unfortunate citizens of the country.
 The Secretary's statement follows in full text:
 In no other nation of the earth is there a holiday so holy day as it should properly be called—corresponding to the American Thanksgiving. And in no other nation does there exist the same beautiful reason why this nation should set aside a special day for humble thanks and grateful appreciation for the blessings bestowed upon it and its peoples by Almighty God, the Creator and Giver of all things.
 Steadily, since the first Thanksgiving Day, more than three hundred years ago when the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock, has the gratitude of America, reverently and nobly, advanced until she stands today foremost of all nations in the achievement of happiness, peace, and prosperity to her citizenry.
 It is fitting, then, that all should join in the spirit of this day, which should and does include among the fervent and thoughtful a prayer that God, in His infinite goodness and mercy will grant a larger share of His bounty to His less fortunate children wherever they may be situated until the fulfillment of the prophecy of peace, contentment, good will and brotherhood rests upon all the earth.

DIVERSIFICATION IS PROVEN

The Spearman Lard Company has perfected arrangements to place its high grade Jersey cows in the hands of fifty of their customers, with the idea of fostering the dairy business, as they believe diversified farming in this country, where food can be so abundantly raised.
 The details of placing these cattle is being worked out by Mr. Stroh, the local agent for the Spearman people, and those who are interested should see him. No money at this time will be required in this purchase, but Mr. Stroh says it must be understood that where cows are placed, some provision must be made for their protection in the way of shelter.
 With the hogs shipped here last fall and with these cows and with the many good chickens in this country, we are building in the right direction and the foundation which is being supplied by this kind company will result in this country being prosperously and heavily stocked within a very short time, if the farmers who get this stock will do their part. So in taking these cows remember you are being selected with the idea that you will make an outstanding success of this venture and will be pointed to as one of the farmers who is diversifying and therefore succeeding—longer and longer.

WHANCE HIS INSPIRATION?

What has caused it all? What had led Benito Mussolini to the path of his amazing rise? Whence came his inspiration? What did he take a hold genius, his mentor, with such unparalleled results?
 Mussolini himself had talked of following in the footsteps of the Caesars but in many respects the ways of Mussolini and the ways of the Caesars are as far apart as the pole.
 In 1858 there was born in Florence, one Niccolò Machiavelli. He was in his opinion? Whom did he take as his younger life? Then, at the hands of the Medici, he lost his favor, was imprisoned and suffered torture. But free, he wrote his famous work, "The Prince."
 Some have interpreted "The Prince" as a manual for tyrants. Other view it as a satirical attack on tyrants. Still others contend it was the fruit of an intense patriotism, designed to point the way to lasting Italian independence.
 This uncertainty as to Machiavelli's purpose, raises doubt in many minds as to the justice of his name being regarded as a synonym for political corruption and villainousness.
 "With all his faults and oversights," says one eminent writer, "having seen despotic Machiavelli of the glory of having . . . exalted statescraft into a science."
 Machiavelli addressed his work to "the magnificent Lorenzo di Piero de' Medici." He speaks of the cunning of seeking gifts in glistening words of their greatness, and aid.
 "Writing in like manner to approach your Magnificence with some token of my devotion, I have found among my possessions none that I so much prize and cherish as a knowledge of the actions of great men. Which knowledge most carefully and patiently pondered, and sifted by me, and now reduced to this little book, I send to your Magnificence."
Iron Hand Rule
 The words of the "iron hand" author, says Machiavelli, "And here comes the question whether it is better to be feared rather than loved, or feared rather than loved. It might perhaps be said that we should do both, and that the best way is to be both feared and loved. But this is not possible. For if you are loved and feared, you will have the love of those who fear you, and the fear of those who love you. But if you are only loved, you will have the love of those who love you, and the fear of those who fear you. COACHES FINISHES WITH MATADORS FOR SEASON Stressing the fact that the Matadors have no crotch in the victory of the game today in the Teacher College city with the Buffaloes, the coaches of the wearers of the Scarlet and Black took their late lads through a procedure of defense drills and turned the matter over to them for the closing workout for 1926.

The team will leave on the special train this morning and will be accompanied by some 500 followers. The train leaves promptly at eight o'clock. Among those that will take the trip to defend state's youngest educational institute, will be: Hill, Michels, Woodridge, Lassiter, Hamilton, "Iron Head" Hamilton, Richardson, Walker, Archibald, Cappelman, Harfoot, Jennings, H. White, Parks, Payne, Aldridge, Westerfield, Smith, Carpenter, Reed, De Witt, McWilliams, Lanford, Cooley, Calloway and Van Zandt.

In meeting with the West Texas State Teachers College Buffs brings together West Texas' only state institution. Thousands of West Texas and Panhandle fans will gather for this game this afternoon. The many hundreds of ex-students of the Teachers' College will be present for the annual Thanksgiving affair. Panhandle cities that will likely to bring large delegations will be: Amarillo, Panhandle, Wilbinton, Clarendon, Hereford, Plainview, Tulla, Lubbock, and others.

Walker will present the fans of that section some beautiful running this afternoon and here's a prediction that he will make several catches. He is fast and elusive and has never failed to score in but two games this year.

On hand or see, which shall it be? Will the Horned Frogs show the stampede of the outstanding Mustangs this afternoon. Another perplexing problem.

A variety of attack is the plan of the Matador coaches for this afternoon and the fans will see a team in all the phases of the game. Kicking, passing, running and defense can be displayed by the Matadors in a very capable manner.

It will be remembered that the Matadors failed last year with the Buffaloes and came near getting beat. Freehand and Higginbottom have been stressing this fault more than ever this week and the boys are to go into the game wide awake.

Woodridge is due for a long run from a punt return this afternoon and if he sees action at his safety position he will likely accomplish the feat. He made several runs the past season and has been lengthening them out in the past few games.

"Red" Carpenter plays his last game as captain this afternoon and his raring frame is slated to give the Buffalo offense trouble. He has made an excellent leader for the team and set a standard for future captains.

While on the subject of captains, the Matador captain for the 1927 season will be chosen soon. Several men are eligible for the position but it is likely that Hill, Walker, Woodridge or Reed will receive more attention. All are steady players and have shown a wonderful spirit in the games played with the Matadors.

MUSTANGS' STRONGEST LINE-UP GOES INTO ACTION TODAY AGAINST THE HORNED FROGS IN FINAL CLASH

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 24 (AP)—The Mustangs' strongest line-up goes into action today against the Horned Frogs in final clash.

The boldest champions of the red and blue, the most enthusiastic chroniclers of their triumphal progress this year, hesitate to predict definitely the outcome of the game, and the reason is not far to seek. The Horned Frogs are largely an unknown quantity, by virtue of their having played 49 games recently with teams which the Methodists have met. Their only foe in common, Baylor university, by T. C. U. of the upset of the conference season has had such a checkered record that it is useless for purposes of comparison.

FIVE CHOICE GRIDIRON DISHES SERVED UP TODAY AS THANKSGIVING FEAST FOR EASTERN FOOTBALL ENTHUSIASTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Thanksgiving day football feast in the east promises to be as sumptuous as ever. Five choice gridiron dishes, all highly seasoned with tradition and flavored with keen competition are ready to be served.

Champion of tomorrow's contest is the battle of the Eastern Shore to turn back the threat of College keep his shirt clean thereby and clinch an outstanding claim to sectional as well as national championship honors. It is the most significant item of the holiday menu but from the point of view of color and traditional interest it holds no advantage over such outstanding contests as Pennsylvania-Cornell, Penn State-Pittsburgh, Syracuse-Columbia and Washington and J. Brown-West Virginia.

Behind and Beyond

Thanksgiving is a fitting occasion on which to survey the days, months and years that have gone. In the looking backward, we find much that is worthy of gratitude.

In the looking forward there is more. There is the inspiration to guide our eyes toward the future, that it may be moulded by the finest achievements of the past.

The Pilgrim Forefathers were the original enoblers of the American race, and gave impetus to ideals that have made us a better set of people.

We should not forget them—this Thanksgiving, and we should be thankful for the magnificent momentum toward happiness, freedom and the ultimate clarification of strife and problems that are after all only the growing plants of a country's perfection.

DAILY MARKET

NEW YORK COTTON. NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP)—A moderate opening decline, attributed chiefly to near month liquidation, was followed by rallies in the cotton market today on trade buying and covering. January sold up from 12.49 to 12.61, and closed at 12.54, compared with 12.48 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed barely steady at net advances of 6 to 9 points.

COTTON GOODS. NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP)—Preceding the holiday, primary markets were quiet today. In cotton goods, some sales of print cloths were made for delivery through the first half of the year. Prices ruled steady. Raw silk was unchanged locally and firmer at Yokohama. Demand for silk goods was moderate. It was quiet in the wool goods division, spring duplicates being negligible thus far. Burlaps were unchanged, some of the light weight goods holding at a premium for spot shipment.

CHICAGO GRAIN. CHICAGO, Nov. 24 (AP)—Active buying simultaneous with Argentine crop damage reports and with unexpected firmness of the Liverpool market, carried wheat values upward today. Chicago closing prices on wheat were firm, 7-8 cent to 15-8 cents net higher, corn 1-2 to 5-8 cents up, oats at 1-4 cents to 3-8 cents 1/2 cents gain, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 25 cents.

SUGAR. NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP)—The raw sugar market was unchanged today at 5.02 for Cuban duty paid, although offerings at this level seemed to be more liberal. The only sales reported were 20,000 bags of Cuban for December shipment, at the quoted price. The raw sugar futures market was irregular, due to the circulation of 200 December notices, which were eventually stopped by string interests. Early covering of December and January deliveries caused an advance of 9 to 12 points, attracting increased outside buying of the later months which sold at net advances of 2 to 4 points. The upturn carried prices for the old crop deliveries into new high ground for the season, but after midday there was heavy general realising and prices moved rather sharply, closing 2 points higher to 3 net lower. Approximate sales were 134,000 tons, December closed 3.16; January 3.16; March 3.18; May 3.17; July 3.24.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON. NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 24 (AP)—The cotton market was somewhat more active today and the tendency of prices was upward. The improvement was due to the prompt stoppage of December notices in American markets covering for shorts over the holiday topmorrow and the map indications of unfavorable weather. The continued large exports was a contributing influence in the rally. The notices issued today called for 5,000 bales in the New Orleans market and 40,000 bales practically the entire certified stock. New Orleans notices were responsible for an early dip of five points but the market soon rallied as it became known that notices were being stopped and continued to advance until about the middle of the afternoon, active months showing gains over lows of 17 to 23 points and over the close of yesterday of 12 to 13 points. The market eased off about 6 points from the highest in late trading on some realising and also on a rumor that the spot basis was earlier a interior points in the Mississippi valley. The close showed net gains of 4 to 12 points. At the start, Liverpool was considerably worse than sea and first trades closed 2 to 3 to 5 points. These losses were soon increased five points on all months with December at 12.45 January at 12.48 and March at 12.53. The advance which then started kept up intermittently all through the close until the middle of the afternoon December traded as high as 12.54, January at 12.61 and March at 12.60. The market turned a little easier in the late trading on realising and December dropped back to 12.50, January to 12.57 and March 12.74. The close was steady. Exports for the day totalled 13,913 bales.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK. CHICAGO, Nov. 24 (AP)—Cattle, 11,000; steers and yearlings steady to 25 cents higher; top yearlings 18.00; stockers and feeders active, steady. Sheep steady to weak; hogs and vealers unchanged.

WALL STREET. NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP)—The New York stock exchange, the curb market the cotton exchange, and all other securities and commodities markets will be closed in observance of Thanksgiving day. Being a legal holiday, the banks will not be open.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (AP)—Shell union oil decided an extra dividend of sixty cents a share on the common stock and the regular quarterly of 35 cents, both payable December 31 to holders of record December 10.

Wool. BOSTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Moderate selling of wool is being made chiefly in fine staple and 4 French combing territory and 54's and 60's combined. Prices remain steady with the market very quiet. Woolen mills are taking a fairly small quantity of fine secured and greasy combing wools. There is some inquiry on South American cross breeds, but the demand is for spot wool, and the supply ready for immediate delivery is limited. A few orders for imports are being placed.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK. FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 24 (AP)—Steady values were in evidence in the cattle trade today, calves showing an advance of from 75 cents to $1.00 for the week. Hogs and sheep were unchanged. The count called for 3,400 grown cattle, 2,200 calves, 150 hogs and 1,250 sheep.

Potash Needed An association of the inland municipalities in Texas will soon be inaugurated. The bureau of potash has selected a site in Union county for an experimental work for a breeding.

Don't Over-Cook Vegetables should be cooked until tender, but no longer. Over-cooking makes them string-floated and indigestible.

Too Much Salt When you have added too much salt to a stew or any soup, add a raw potato. As it cooks, it will absorb the salt.

FARMER PROFITS BY DIVERSIFICATION

80 ACRES OF LAND IS MADE TO PAY BY GUANH MAN

QUANAH, Nov. 24. (A)—An eighty-acre farm much of which consists of "dry land" has proved unusually profitable to a local farmer here who has been practicing the West Texas chamber of commerce doctrine of diversification. L. W. Wefer, living about 15 miles northwest of the city, has freed himself of debt and operates strictly on a cash basis, through diversifying on his farm with broom corn, berries, sweet potatoes, fruit, some cotton, live stock, garden and truck crops.

About 1250 was netted by Wefer on his broom corn crop. Sixteen acres of corn were planted, from which he gathered 5000 pounds of baled broom corn which sold for $75 a ton. One acre of sweet potatoes yielded over 200 bushels and averaged $1.50. Four hundred and thirty-four gallons of dweberries from 1-4 acre, sold for 40c per gallon at his farm. From 700 young trees, that have just begun to bear in his new orchard, Wefer realized about 1250. He has gathered 22 bales of cotton from 3/4 acre planted. Besides all this he raises more than enough feed for hogs, his cows and his work stock. He also is able to "live at home" and realize a good profit from a large garden and melon crop.

Wefer is the father of a family of 13 children all of whom have been educated in the rural schools of Hardeman county, and all but one of whom are living.

Thanksgiving

To appreciate our manifold blessings on this Day of Thanksgiving, we have but to contrast them with the terrible hardships our Puritan forefathers had to endure. Here is how Gov. Bradford described the first Harvest Festival:

"Being thus arrived in a good harbor and brought safe to land, they fell upon their knees and blessed the God of heaven Who had brought them over vast and furious ocean, I cannot but say, and make a pause and stand half amazed at this poor people's present condition. Being thus passed this vast ocean, and a sea of troubles before in their preparation, they had now no friends to welcome them nor time to enter- taine or refresh their weatherbeaten bodies, no houses or much less towns to repair to, in which success. And for ye answer it was winter and they knew no winters of ye country knew them to be sharp and violent. Besides what could they see but a hideous and desolate wilderness, full of wild beasts and wild men? Ought not the children of these fathers—therefore praise ye Lord because He is good."

The directors, officers and employees of the Citizens National Bank, in company with others who are mindful of God's blessings, today bow their heads in humble gratitude and Thanksgiving.
