Midwest G.O.P. Leaders Issue Call For Party's 'Grass Roots' Conference

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., TO BE SCENE OF CONFAB JUNE 10 AND 11

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 6—Republican leaders from nine midwestern states today set June 10 and 11 for the "grass roots" party conference at Springfield, Ill., in a call for an "Aroused America" to give vigorous battle to the Roosevelt "New Deal."

"The battle is not only to end the depression," said the call, "but also to preserve our very institutions."

Plan For Campaign

Charging the Roosevelt administration had created conditions "so intolerable and so serious as to be beyond mere partisan politics," the committee laid out for the conference a two-fold task of formulating plans for rejuvenating the Republican party nationally and proposing a "constructive" program for the 1936 presidential campaign.

President Roosevelt was charged with having plunged the nation "into a series of fantastic and experimental schemes, the result of which has been to retard recovery and mire the country more deeply into despair."

Personal Ambitions Out

The conference at the shrine of Lincoln, the committee said, will have nothing to do with candidacies "nor the personal ambitions of any men or set of men."

Selection of conference delegates was authorized in a manner to be prescribed by the signers of the call from the respective states, provided they are "unselfish Republicans" who are "in accord with the purpose and principles of this announcement."

"It is especially understood," the call said, "that there shall be no place in this conference for the selfish reactionary; neither shall there be a place for the equally selfish radical or self-seeking demagogue."

Declare Promises Broken

The Republican leaders declared every major promise made by President Roosevelt had been "broken and shamelessly repudiated" and and said his record "presents such political perfidy as to shock the conscience and rock the very foundations of Democracy."

"The Democratic party, as it has been known by its history, policies and declarations has ceased to exist," said the announcement. "It has completely and abjectly ignored its obligations and abdicated in favor of Mr. Roosevelt and his retainers."

Confidence Destroyed

OFFICERS FELL BANK BANDIT

ONE MAN KILLED, ONE INJURED IN PISTOL FIGHT AT BRYSON

(By The Associated Press)

BRYSON, Jack County, May 6.—Officers killed one robber and wounded another today as they ran from the First State bank, firing wildly.

The ringing of a telephone had frightened the men as they started to rob the bank shortly after 5 a. m.

Ran Out Firing

Sheriff Guy Morgan had rung the telephone to tell the men the bank was surrounded, and to call upon them to surrender. The robbers first cut the telephone wires, then ran out, shooting as they went.

Riddled with bullets, one ran 100 feet and fell dead. The other was shot in the leg. Neither was identified immediately.

The slain man had 17 bullet holes in his body, but seven of them, physicians said, were old, and were not received in today's fusilade. This

TRIAL OF POST MEN POSTPONED

DALLAS, May 6. (AP)—The trial of Sheriff W. F. Cato of Garza county and his former attorney, N. C. Outlaw, on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice was postponed until tomorrow at 10 a. m. when called in federal court here today.

Judge William H. Atwell acted to permit an important defense witness to attend the funeral of his brother.

E. R. Braddock, of Post, where the other two defendants live also, will be tried with Cato and Outlaw.

The charges, growing out of the machine gun slaying of Federal Narcotic Agent Spencer Stafford Feb. 7 at Post, allege the three men sought to have certain witnesses testify before a federal grand jury which investigated the slaying.

PEOPLE TO GET VOTE ON OLD AGE AID

AMENDMENT OFFERED ON PLAN TO GIVE $15 MONTHLY TO AGED

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, May 6.—The Texas legislature today submitted to popular vote a constitutional amendment to authorize payment of old age pensions of $15 per month to persons more than 65 years old.

House concurrence in senate amendments completed legislative action. The question will be decided at the general election in 1936.

House Accepts Senate Plan

The house originally proposed a maximum of $30 per month to persons more than 60 years old but accepted the senate proposal of $15 per month and 65 years, 120 to 5.

An effort by Representative W. W. Glass of Jacksonville to reject senate amendments and send it to conference to increase the maximum was speedily rejected.

Woman Member Objects

Representative Helen Moore of Texas City objected to what she termed a threat by Glass that those who voted against the $30 maximum would not be returned to the legislature.

"Since when has the legislature the right to base its actions and consider legislation on whether individual members would be returned?" she asked. "I don't think members of the legislature should seek to buy their return to office with the state's money."

Sponsors of the state old age pension anticipated the federal government would contribute to the fund, posting 50 cents for each dollar appropriated by the state.

TWO CHARGED IN BRUTAL SLAYING

COLEMAN, May 6 (AP)—Stanley Wood and Louis Reis, both of Talpa, faced murder charges today in connection with the slaying of Fred Brown of Talpa, whose funeral was held yesterday at Brownwood.

Wood and Reis, arrested in Ballinger Saturday night, were said by Sheriff Frank Mills to have admitted beating Brown to death near here Saturday.

Sheriff Mills said the motive was robbery. He said all of the approximately $2,000 Brown was supposed to have had at the time had been recovered.

Billions Are Asked In Relief Program

WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP)—Work relief proposals already in the hands of the government were estimated authoritatively today to total $20,000,000,000, five times the fund which President Roosevelt has to spend.

This estimate was made as the works allotment board, charged with advising the president as to what projects should be undertaken, prepared to have its first formal meeting at the White House tomorrow.

FDR Sends Note Of Congratulations To King George

WASHINGTON, May 6. (AP)—President Roosevelt today dispatched the following message to King George V of Great Britain on his Silver jubilee:

"The people of the United States join with me today in extending most sincere congratulations on the 25th anniversary of your majesty's accession on the throne.

"It is gratifying to contemplate the wise and steadfast influence which your majesty has exerted for a quarter of a century.

"The many traditions which we in the United States have in common with the British people permit us to understand how deeply stirring today's anniversary must be to your majesty's subjects. We share in their rejoicing."

RECIFE, Brazil, May 6 (AP)—Harrowing accounts of death and devastation were received today over a crippled communication system from the city of Bahia, lashed by furious gales and torrential rains the last week.

The number could not be accurately computed in the confusion. Most estimates placed it at not less than 400, with hourly increases. The number of homeless was authoritatively estimated at 2,000.

THOUSANDS OF ACRES ARE INUNDATED

FARMERS COUNT HEAVY DAMAGE TO CROPS AFTER RAINFALL

(By The Associated Press)

Swollen streams raged through many parts of North, Central and East Texas today as farmers counted heavy damages caused by floods of the last three days.

Torrential rains broke the long drouth in a large part of Texas, and the Panhandle, main dust belt of the state, received sufficient moisture from snow, sleet and rain to clear the air of dust and bring smiles to the faces of farmers and stockmen.

More Rain Forecast

The weather bureau at Amarillo forecast more rain for that dry section, which received around .25 inch of moisture.

The Red river, the Trinity, the Leon, the Lampasas, the Little river and the Guadalupe river presented serious flood threats yesterday as flood waters from swollen streams fed the main waterways.

Thousands of acres of crops and range land were inundated, bridges were washed out and damages were estimated as extremely heavy as many of the streams went out of banks.

Smaller Streams Flooded

The major streams, however, did little flooding, most of the damage being done by swollen creeks and smaller rivers.

Banita and Lannana creeks in the Nacogdoches section of East Texas, put out of banks by a rain estimated at more than 5 inches, raced across rich farm land and forced many persons from their homes yesterday.

Highway traffic was practically at a standstill in that section and gardens and crops were believed ruined. All roads leading to Lufkin were impassable several hours. A 10-inch rain was recorded there since Thursday.

Oil Breaks Out

At Gladewater in the East Texas oil field, approximately 125,000 barrels of oil broke from an earthen pit structure after heavy rains had weakened it. Other pits in the section containing more than a million barrels of oil were greatly endangered and owners rushed laborers to strengthen them.

Two miles from Gladewater three oil storage tanks containing an electric pump and separators were destroyed by fire after lightning struck them.

Endurance Seen In Legislative Battle

WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP)—The legislative situation was being pictured in terms of an endurance contest today as congress entered another week with the Roosevelt program still moving slowly.

The word was circulated on Capitol Hill that President Roosevelt had indicated he had no objection to congress staying in session all summer, if that was necessary to get his program passed.

DEMO LEADERS CONSIDER BONUS STRATEGY

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 6.—With the senate apparently determined to reject the Harrison compromise bonus bill today in favor of full and immediate cash payment, Democratic leaders considered strategy which might make it easier to kill the resulting legislation by a veto.

They debated the wisdom of quietly throwing strength to the inflationary Patman bill. Some Democratic chiefs argued a veto of the Patman measure could be sustained in the senate, while it would be difficult to uphold a veto of the Vinson bill.

As the senate met today it faced a vote on a motion to substitute the Vinson bill for the compromise which Senator Harrison (D-Miss) has said President Roosevelt would approve.

Among the Roosevelt forces it was conceded the full payment proposal would win out. Later, probably tomorrow or Wednesday, the choice is expected to be between the Vinson and Patman bills. Whichever is selected, some leaders said, the final vote upon its passage will be favorable by around two to one.

NEW RULING ON RELIEF MADE

NO EMPLOYABLE FARM FAMILIES WILL BE GIVEN RELIEF

(Special To The Journal)

AUSTIN, May 6—Effective immediately, county relief administrators no longer will be permitted to extend any form of relief from general relief funds to any employable farm family, it was announced by Adam R. Johnson, state director of the Texas Relief commission.

"A farm family," Mr. Johnson explained, "is one residing outside the limits of incorporated or unincorporated towns, villages and cities and who depend upon farming operations for the major portion of their income. It is not intended to include in this group families who live on small plots of land which are sufficient only to produce a part of their sustenance requirements and upon which they can not produce a commercial crop.

RHC To Continue

"Farm families," henceforth, may receive aid only in the form of advances through the rural rehabilitation corporation. County administrators were instructed to recall any work cards issued to rural families for work relief in May and to make advances, secured by notes and mortgages, instead," he stated.

All families affected by this change immediately will become rural rehabilitation families, Mr. Johnson said, and will receive aid in the future from rural subsistence funds in accordance with their needs as established by caseworkers.

At the same time, administrators will contact all landlords at the earliest possible date to obtain waivers on the landlord's interest in the tenant's share of the crop.

(By The Associated Press)

Nine persons, six of them of a motion picture production unit eastbound to make a film at Annapolis, were injured and taken to a Macon, Mo., hospital 15 miles from the scene of the crash.

The list of dead: Senator Cutting, Pilot Harvey Bolton, of Kansas City, Co-Pilot Kenneth Greeson, of Kansas City, and a woman, believed to be Miss Jeanne Anne Hillias, 20, of Kansas City.

The injured: Richard Wallace, prominent motion picture director, Hollywood; Paul Wing, Hollywood, father of film actress Toby Wing; Mr. and Mrs. William Kaplan, Hollywood. Kaplan is an assistant producer of a film company; C. B. Drew, Hollywood; Henry Sharpe, Hollywood; Mrs. Dora Metzger, and baby, bound from Los Angeles to Newark; Mrs. D. L. Mesker of Kansas City, wife of a TWA pilot.

SENATE ADJOURNS

WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP)—Shocked by the death of Senator Bronson Cutting of New Mexico in a Missouri airplane accident, the senate voted tributes to him today and forthwith adjourned in honor to his memory. The house planned to adjourn also in mid-afternoon.

News Causes Shock

Senator Cutting was returning to Washington from New Mexico. His body was identified by a billfold in his pocket. New of the prominent progressive Republican's death caused a shock in his home state and in the national capital.

All in the hospital were reported seriously injured except Kaplan, whose hurts were described as superficial.

The accident occurred about six miles west of here in rugged country where emergency landing conditions had been rendered hazardous by recent rains.

Eastbound nonstop from Albuquerque to Kansas City, the ship arrived over the Kansas City airport at 2:56 a. m., 20 minutes late, at an altitude of 4,000 feet.

Dispatcher Kors advised Pilot Bolton there was only 300 feet of ceiling here, due to low hanging fog and smoke, and ordered the ship on to seek the department of commerce emergency landing field at Kirgsville or Knoxville, Mo.

Fuel Gaves Out

About 120 miles northeast of Kansas City, just 15 miles short of the field at Kirksville, fuel gave out and an immediate landing was necessary.

This much was reconstructed from final radio reports and reports of Charles Bledsoe, farmer who lives near the scene of the crash, who said the motors of the big low-wing monoplane sputtered out just before it fell.

The Transcontinental Western Air offices in Kansas City said this was the first accident reported anywhere to one of these twin motored Douglas ships. The line itself had flown them 8,000,000 miles since May 1, 1934.

Bledsoe said the crash occurred about 3:30 a. m. on a rolling pas-

RAILROAD ACT IS INVALID

SUPREME COURT RULES RETIREMENT ACT IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 6—The entire railroad retirement act affecting more than a million employes today was held unconstitutional by the supreme court.

The decision was read by Justice Roberts. It upheld a lower court ruling which declared the act invalid.

The court's ruling was directed especially at that section of the act which made it apply to all employes of interstate carriers including employes not directly engaged in interstate commerce.

Whole Act Invalid

Justice Roberts, in delivering the opinion, stated the invalid features of the act could not be separated and that it was necessary to declare the whole act invalid.

He said the law, in addition, was not a regulation of interstate commerce, and was invalid also for that reason.

It also ruled taht the provision of the act required payment of annuties based in part on services rendered before the passage of the legislation constituted an unlawful taking of railroad property. The

MILLIONS OF BRITISH SUBJECTS PAY RESPECT TO KING IN JUBILEE OPENING

LONDON, May 6. (AP)—While millions of loyal subjects throughout the British empire celebrated his Silver jubilee in mingled carnival and solemnity, King George V. knelt in prayers of Thanksgiving today for completion of 25 years on the throne.

Both the king and queen may were plainly thrilled by the nation's fervent outpouring of love and devotion as they entered St. Paul's Cathedral to worship amid scenes of medieval pageantry.

Outside the ancient edifice, cheering thousands, many of whom had stood all night for the opportunity to pay tribute to their sovereign, jammed the route of the royal procession from Buckingham palace to St. Paul's.

A single untoward incident marred the triumphal march. Midway a communist banner was unfurled at Lugate Circus at the moment when King George was being driven past the spot.

The temper of the crowd became threatening as the banner was let loose. Scores of young men and women, mut-

LIPS OF "AMERICAN TRAGEDY" SLAYER MOVE IN PRAYER AS HE DIES IN CHAIR

BY LEO W. SHERIDAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

ROCKVIEW PRISON, Bellefonte, Pa., May 6 (AP)—Robert Allen Edwards, playboy of the anthracite fields, walked unassisted to the electric chair and died early today for the slaying of Freda McKechnie, the little church worker who had told him she was about to become a mother.

The lips of the 22-year-old "American Tragedy" slayer moved in prayer as the black cap fell over his head.

He marched steadfastly into the death house at 12:30 a. m. (eastern standard time) and a minute later the first contact was made. At 12:34.5 a. m. Dr. J. C. Weixel, prison physician, said: "Gentlemen, I pronounce Robert Allen Edwards dead."

Remained Calm

Men on the death watch said at no time did the slayer's calm desert him, not even as he bade a final farewell in the early evening to his father, Daniel Edwards.

The Rev. C. F. Laurie, prison chaplain, recited the twenty-third psalm as Edwards walked slowly in and the Rev. Thomas Hughes of Wilkes-Barre, Edwards' pastor, stood by him

Texas Parent-Teacher Congress Plans For Observance Of National Music Week

MacDowell Club Is Planning Concert

"Conserve Our Musical Assets" is the slogan for National Music week, according to Mrs. Laura M. Jaccard of Fort Worth, state music chairman of Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The keynote suggests: "Let your music week activities bring about a greater use of your community's musical assets so that their value will be more apparent to your citizens, and thus the cause of music will be safeguarded amid the trying present conditions."

Suggestions Given

Some suggestions for carrying out the programs for music week as given by Mrs. Jaccard are: Observe Monday evening as family music night, having the parents to find out a little about what the children are studying along musical lines; have neighborhood sing songs Tuesday night; let Wednesday evening be designated as church night, having the membership study the history of favorite hymns; choir night is assigned for Thursday at nightfall; school music program is to be celebrated Friday evening, visit shut-ins Saturday and give them the best music, whether instrumental or vocal; close the week Sunday with a vesper service by mother singers, using mother songs and choice selections.

It is further mentioned that some of the music week programs should demonstrate practically the essential part which music plays in our activities.

No local observance has been planned in regard to the week, with the exception of a program to be given by the MacDowell Music club Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the ball room of the Hilton hotel.

Music teachers and pupils are preparing for end of school programs and recitals.

HEARING IS SET ON NEW GAS ACT

AUSTIN, May 6 (AP)—The Texas Railroad commission has set for May 16 its first proration hearing under Texas' new gas conservation act. Oil proration matters also will be considered then.

The bill was designed by the legislature to halt wastage of natural gas, principally in the Texas Panhandle but it also applied to other fields.

The commission called for evidence on which to base an order preventing physical waste and also prorating production on market demand. Gas purchasers were asked to submit nominations of requirements for June.

Use of sweet gas for carbon black manufacturing was prohibited, and sour gas was required stripped of its gasoline content before burning for that purpose. Those and other provisions against physical waste will not become effective against sweet gas until August 1, and sour gas October 1.

LIBERAL PARTY PLANS MADE

DOZEN STATES SENDS REPRESENTATIVES TO CONFERENCE

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 6—Seventy-five left wingers from a dozen states agreed Saturday night in secret conference the time was ripe for the organization of a national liberal third party to drive a wedge between the Democrats and Republicans in 1936.

While the group, including representatives of various progressive political thought, did not reach the point of attempting to effect a new organization, it tentatively planned for another meeting in Chicago in June with the view of obtaining more definite action.

Both the Democratic and Republican parties were assailed by a number of speakers, all of whom claimed there was "no hope for the common man" in either. They agreed that all we ever got from the old parties was promises."

COMMUNITY MEETINGS ARE CONDUCTED BY VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURAL CLASS

Forty-nine farmers' meetings in eight communities, with an attendance of 987, have been held by students taking vocational agriculture training in the division of agriculture at Texas Technological college since December, 1934. The meetings have been held under the supervision of C. Luker, district supervisor and professor of agricultural education.

Eight communities were visited: Brownfield, Idalou, Lorenzo, Needmore, Meadow, Smyer, Weliman and Union.

Leader Training

Practical agricultural topics and topics dealing with the problems arising from the government's production control program were discussed. Methods of planting, best crops, feeding, livestock and other outlooks and poultry topics were discussed.

The course was organized last year for the purpose of training rural leaders for West Texas through actual work and practice. Prerequisites included: Senior or graduate standing in the division of agriculture; reputable character and a satisfactory average on all college work.

Nine In Program

Nine of the 14 graduates last June are engaged in vocational agriculture teaching work: four are assistant county agents and one has resigned a teaching post to study for the ministry. They are: Jack Downs, Elder; J. L. Gee, Bovina; Harlan Howell, Claude; T. L. Leach, Friona; Euel Liner, Lazbuddy; J. D. Strickland, Tahoka; M. P. Vannoy, Springlake; G. S. Dowell, Lorenzo; Jesse Young, Meadow; all vocational instructors; Bristol Chesser, Crosby county; W. W. Gregory, Dickens county; Odis Holly, Bailey county and Ira Sturdivant, Haskell county, assistant county agents. Fred De Lasham resigned a teaching position at Wolfforth to study for the ministry.

FAA In Work

The C. Luker collegiate chapter of Future Farmers of America, at Texas Tech, is made up of students taking vocational training. Honorary members include: Paul G. Haines, director of agricultural education, state department of education; J. B. Rutland, supervisor of agricultural education; Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Tech; A. H. Leidigh, dean of the division of agriculture. Associate members are the 1934 sutdent graduates.

Active members include: Lawrence Shipman, president second semester; Henry Elder, vice president both semesters; L. M. Hargraves, secretary; W. A. King, treasurer; Obie Norton, reporter; J. P. Smith, watch dog; Elton Cook, parliamentarian; C. Luker, adviser; Herbert Davis, president first semester; G. L. Beene, secretary first semester; Walter Labay, parliamentarian first semester; Marshall Howard, Fred Nix, Walter Labay, Lem Weaver, William F. Stubbs, W. B. Swanzy, William Zirkle, E. R. Steen, W. A. Branding and Walter Emmons.

Go To Soil Program

Students who dropped out of school to take positions with the soil erosion service are: E. R. Steen, Dalhart; H. O. Beard, Lindale; Fred Nix, Lindale; Hugo Mika, Lindale. W. T. McKinney accepted a post as assistant county agent of Terry county.

Four members of the class were members of the champion International Livestock judging team which won the bronze bull at the Chicago International exposition last fall.

SMALL WOOL CLIP SEEN FOR NATION

WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP)—The bureau of agricultural economics reports that the wool clip in the United States this year probably will be smaller than last year.

Prospects for marketing the new clip, the bureau said, are more favorable than was expected earlier, because of "the great improvement in domestic mill consumption thus far in 1935 and the marked increase in sales of wool on the Boston market since the latter part of February."

Higher Consumption

The bureau said the current marketing season in foreign countries has been characterized by a slow movement of wool from producing centers. Stocks in southern hemisphere countries were reported as "relatively large" while stocks in the United Kingdom and other European consuming countries were said to be "relatively low."

Mills in this country were said to have sufficient orders to maintain production at a fairly high rate through the first rate of the year, and mill consumption for 1935 was reported expected to exceed the consumption for 1934.

MUST LIFT ITSELF

SHANGHAI (AP)—Herbert Chatley, American engineer for the Whangpoo conservancy board, warns Shanghai that the entire city will have to be jacked up several feet within the next 200 years because the Yangtze river is dumping such enormous quantities of silt at its mouth that the bed of the river is beginning to fill up at Shanghai.

IN THE Spotlight

CHESTER D. SNELL

Dismissal of the former dean of the University of Wisconsin's Milwaukee extension center drew the attention of a state senatorial investigating committee. Snell was reported to have written President Glenn Frank of the university that the cause for the attack on him was "the underlying condition of subversive activities, improper conduct and immorality" on the part of a small group. Frank said Snell was dismissed because of administration difficulties.

Other athletes back him up...."I smoke all the Camels I want, and keep in top condition," says Mel Ott, slugger of the New York Giants....Georgia Coleman, Olympic diver, says: "Camels don't cut down on my 'wind.'"...Bill Miller, oarsman; Jim Lancaster, N.Y.U.'s 1934 basketball captain; John Skillman, pro squash racquets champion—hundreds of sports stars smoke Camels regularly and report that Camels never get their "wind" or nerves.

What this mildness means to you!...It means you can smoke Camels all you want! Athletes have made this discovery: Camel's costlier tobaccos are so mild, they can smoke all they please, without disturbing their "wind" or nerves.

OMAHA'S RACE FUTURE IS BRIGHT

BIG CHESTNUT SON OF GALLANT FOX MAY RIVAL FATHER

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May. 6. (AP)—The racing future appears unquestionably bright for Omaha—hailed today as a thoroughbred "block off the old chip"—but it remains to be seen whether the big chestnut son of Gallant Fox can duplicate further the championship or money-winning exploits of his famous father.

There's a striking parallel so far in the records of the latest and one of the most colorful father-and-son combinations in the history of the American turf.

Registers Smashing Victory

Much the way his daddy did in 1930, Omaha came off the far turn at Churchill Downs to register a smashing victory Saturday in the 61st Kentucky Derby and prove much the best in a field of 18 three-year-olds.

Ridden by the great Earl Sande, the Fox won the derby by two lengths from Gallant Knight on a slow track in the slow time of 2:07 3-5 for the mile and a quarter. Omaha, with 20-year-old Willie Saunders of Bozeman, Mont., in the saddle, withstood the challenge of the black bomber, Roman Soldier, to win handily by a length and a half in 2:05 on a fast track.

Was Springboard For Fox

For Gallant Fox, an inferior juvenile, the Kentucky classic was the springboard to a career as three-year-old champion, with aggregate earnings of $328,165, a figure that stands fourth in the all-time ranking list.

Omaha, no shakes as a two-year-old himself but now fully developed for a brilliant three-year-old campaign, will seek the triple crown by running in the Preakness at Pimlico this Saturday and training subsequently for the Belmont stakes, a mile-and-a-half race that should see the son of the Fox at his best.

Victim Of Mishaps

Bred to go the route, there never has been any question about Omaha's finishing powers, but up to the derby the colt had nearly always been the victim of early mishaps.

There's not much chance for Omaha to surpass his sire's money-winning record. Times have changed since the Fox was bagging some of the country's richest three-year-old stakes. William Woodward, New York banker who bred both horses, collected $50,725 as the winner's net share when Sande booted Gallant Fox home in 1930. Omaha won $39,525.

The value of other big stakes also has dropped since the boom times, although the trend again is upward.

Favorites Soundly Beaten

The son of Gallant Fox had things pretty much his own way after taking unexpected command of the derby on the back-stretch. It was no great surprise to the rain-soaked crowd of 50,000 to see Omaha come from behind to win, but it was a shock to find most of the other favorites so soundly beaten.

Nellie Flag, the Calumet filly which was a slight favorite over Omaha in the betting, was handicapped by interference at the outset but did not show the speed expected of her at any stage and was driving to take fourth money by a head from Blackbirder.

Nell For Behind

Nellie was seven lengths behind the winner, besides trailing Roman Soldier and Whiskolo, the Milky Way farm's entry which sprang a surprise by taking third money.

Staggering down the stretch, completely out of the picture, were such highly-touted horses as Mrs. Payne Whitney's Plat Eye, eighth; Mrs. W. M. Jeffords' Commonwealth, tenth; C. V. Whitney's ill-fated Today, erstwhile favorite, in twelfth place; and Col. E. R. Bradley's Boxthorn, another heavily backed entry, in sixteenth position.

Omaha, a 4 to 1 second choice, paid $10 for each $2 mutuel ticket to win, thereby rewarding the colt's backers much more handsomely than did the favored combination of Gallant Fox and Sande in 1930. The Fox paid only $4.38.

Mexico Victorious In Davis Cup Play

MEXICO, D. F., May 6. (AP)—Mexico's Davis cup tennis team, victorious over Cuba in a clean sweep, retired to the sidelines today to await the outcome of this week's series of cup matches between the United States and China.

Daniel Hernandez' 6-3, 7-5, 3-6, 7-5 victory over Jose Aguero and Esteban Reyes' 8-6, 6-1, 6-3 conquest of Joffre Etecheverry in the final singles yesterday gave Mexico the series with Cuba by a 5-0 score and sent the winners into the American zone finals to be played here May 17-18-19.

The American-China matches will be played Friday, Saturday and Sunday with the American team of Bryan Grant, Donald Budge and Gene Mako heavily favored over China's Sin Kie Kno and Guy Cheng.

DYKES AND SIMMONS PREDICT FUTURE FOR FARM BOY

BY HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

CHICAGO, May 6—The Black Sox of 1919 and '20 practically blacked out Chicago as far as the class of American league baseball went.

That attendance has been even as good as it was, seems a remarkable tribute to the good citizens of the big city on the lake front and the stockyards clientele which dates back to the hitless wonders of 1906 and beyond. Chicago always has been an American league town.

The Chicago management failed to keep stride with the times. It had no farm clubs nor elaborate scouting system. Things went from bad to worse. Seventh and eighth became the customary niche in the standings column. Lou Fonseca created a mild sensation by piloting the outfit to the sixth slot in 1933.

Sox recruits in spring training camps looked more like ribbon clerks than ball players—until this spring.

Then, from nowhere, apparently, came a corps of peagreens which such a good judge as Al Simmons called the best that has reported to a ball club in years.

There were the young pitchers, Johnny Whitehead, Les Tietje, Joe Vance, Vernon Kennedy, Lee Stine, Dungan Rigney, and Monty Stratton, and the robust outfielders, Vernon George Washington, Ray Radcliff, and Daniel Hafey, nephew of the redoubtable Chick.

Stine, Rigney, and Stratton have been sent out, but both Jimmy Dykes and Simmons predict all three will be back to remain for some length of time.

Farm Boy Makes Good

There is a good story in connection with each player who has lent a hand in the remaking of the White Sox, but the most interesting one has to do with John Henderson Whitehead, a right-hander of 209 pounds and 6 feet 2 inches.

Dykes and Simmons expect the 25-year-old Whitehead to take his place among the great pitchers of the game.

Whitehead made the Pirates and Cubs throw their bats away in exhibition games. He broke into the American league with a bang, letting the champion Detroit Tigers down once with six hits and again with three, and repelling St. Louis with seven.

Whitehead saw his first major league game when the White Sox opened in Detroit.

Both Whitehead and Washington hail from the northeastern part of Texas. Whitehead was raised on his father's farm near Ector, 90 miles from Dallas, and still makes his home there.

Whitehead was a catcher until his high school team was being beaten one afternoon. Then he turned pitcher "to get the other side out," and has been at it ever since.

Roy Leslie, former minor league first baseman, saw him in a country game at Wolf City, Tex., in the fall of 1931, and told him that he was wasting his time in the bushes. Leslie took him to Hap Morse, who then managed the Dallas club of the Texas league, and he finished the season there.

Whitehead beat Schoolboy Rowe, then with Beaumont, twice in 1932, and finished with 12 victories and 4 defeats after being employed as a relief worker for the first half of the campaign. He won 16 games and lost 12 in 1933, and came into his own last season with 2 victories and 9 defeats.

Pitches Like Idols

Whitehead's boyhood idols were Walter Johnson and Grover Cleveland Alexander, and he throws with the same sidearm and easy motion of that illustrious pair. The big boy who until four years ago was threshing grain, shucking corn, and picking cotton, also throws over and underhanded.

Whitehead has the speed with which to blow down major league batsmen, a sidearm sinker, an excellent change of pace, and an even disposition.

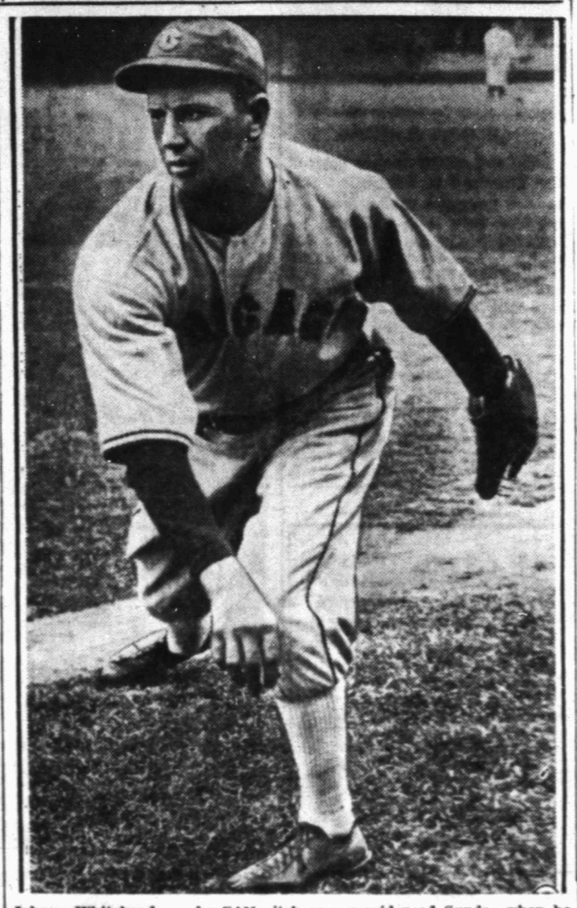

The current season is a glorious adventure to the large farm boy. Prior to going to Pasadena, Calif., to join the White Sox this spring, he had been out of Texas league territory only once—on a trip to Mexico City for post-season exhibition games.

"I'm having more fun playing ball this season than I have had since I broke in," says the veteran Simmons. "After what I've been through with the White Sox for two years it's a treat to be on a club that has a pitcher like Whitehead to toss in there every fourth day.

"The other clubs had better get used to the young man. Barring accidents, they'll see a lot of him for the next 10 years."

Thomas D. Campbell, American wheat king, did not plant a single grain of wheat on his 95,000-acre ranch near Hardin, Mont., in 1931.

NO RUNS IN THIS SOCK

Johnny Whitehead . . . he CAN pitch as was evidenced Sunday when he won his fourth 1935 victory with a shutout over the Senators.

The race for early season pitching honors in the big leagues this season seems to have developed into a two-man affair between Darrell (Cy) Blanton of Pittsburgh, who hurled only one major league game before this spring and silent John Whitehead of the Chicago White Sox, who never toiled in the big time before.

Rated as a pair of the most versatile young hurlers to come up to the majors in years, they have outdistanced all the veteran moundsmen to run up four victories each without a defeat while no other hurler had won more than three.

Both Are Versatile

Experts who have seen them agree that they won't turn out to be flashes in their respective pans as both can deliver almost every kind of pitch and don't have to rely upon speed or strength to get by.

Blanton baffled the Brooklyn batters Saturday to win his fourth straight decision. Not to be outdone, Whitehead came through with No. 4 yesterday against Washington, winning 4 to 0 with a superb four-hit performance.

Whitehead Hurls Shutout

Recording his first shutout, Whitehead came close to pitching the Pale Hose right into the American league lead. By one method of reckoning the victory put them a half game ahead of the Cleveland Indians, who were kept idle by rain along with five other American league clubs. The percentages, however, favor Cleveland, .750 to .733.

The league-leading Giants continued to cop the National league headlines by their policy "if you can't win then, don't lose them." For the third time this season they failed to win or lose, winding up in a 2-2 draw with Cincinnati when rain which had fallen all through the game became heavy enough to stop action after the tenth inning. Hal Schumacher, who never has lost to the Reds, and Paul Derringer, a three-game winner this year, waged a mound duel punctuated by Mel Ott's seventh home run of the season and one by Chick Hafey.

Cubs In Second

The Chicago Cubs, rained out at Philadelphia, moved into second place when the Pirates hammered out a 9 to 2 victory over Brooklyn for Guy Bush, who came back from his recent suspension to score his first Pittsburgh victory. Arky Vaughan started the scoring with his second homer on successive days.

Dizzy Dean tossed the world champion Cardinals to a 7 to 0 triumph over Boston that left them only a half game behind the Dodgers, contributing to his own big afternoon by fanning Babe Ruth twice and stealing the Bambino's thunder by smashing a homer off Dutch Brandt.

BULGARIAN TO FACE MARVEL THIS WEEK

STEVE NENOFF TO TRY TO HALT VICTORIES OF THE UNKNOWN

The big, bad boy from Bulgaria, Steve Nenoff, may be picking up something he'll wish he'd left alone Wednesday night when he grapples with the "Masked Marvel" in the main event of Promoter Sled Allen's weekly show.

Undefeated since his entry into the Southwestern circuit, the masked "Unknown" still rules slight favorite in the match with Nenoff, although he will give away several pounds and spot the Bulgarian several years in experience. By defeating the Japanese star, Matsuda Matsura, and showing his superiority over Pascual Castana here last week, the "Marvel" has elevated himself from a truly unknown to a position of high rank among the ear-twisting brethren who frequent this league.

It is off of this pedestal that Nenoff will attempt to knock the "Marvel" when they clash over the two-out-of-three falls contest Wednesday night.

Beats Garrison Easily

In his debut here last week, Nenoff did not extend himself in beating Pat Garrison, the Arkansas Rozarback, in just about half of the scheduled semi-final time. Years of experience in the muscle-bending business showed behind the Bulgarian's methodical attack and defense. It was almost impossible for Garrison to bring a groan or a grunt out of him, and twisting Nenoff's huge legs and arms was like trying to punish as much rolled leather.

For his supporting card, Promoter Allen is presentng Ali Kaba Shabe, the moustachioed Turk from Stamboul versus Ernie Arthur, venerable ice hockey coach and wrestling champion of Canada, in the special event.

"Terrible Turk" Climbs

After two preliminary engagements, both of which he won handily, the "Terrible Turk" has earned a climb up the ladder, and if he succeeds in beating Arthur, which seems unlikely over a period of 30 minutes, he may well come into the ring as a main eventer soon.

Rex O'Sullivan, the Oklahoma lad who tries so hard to be a villain but who can't make his efforts look like anything but so much put-on, will try for revenge in a preliminary skirmish with Pat Dowdy, Auditorium referee. It will be the second meeting of these lads. Dowdy was victor in a match here several weeks ago.

A COUPLE OF gents who are just about as good in their line of business as you'd care to see are Messrs. Harry P. Schaefer and E. S. "Scotty" Farrell, of Chicago.

What Mr. Schaefer can't do with a billiard ball, or any number of billiard balls, he lets Mr. Farrell do, and what Mr. Farrell can't do with a cue and taw-ball, well it just hasn't been invented. They really know their P's and Q's, which is short for "pockets and cues."

Touring the country in the interests of pocket billiards—and a manufacturing company which specializes in billiards and what goes with 'em — Messrs. Schaefer and Farrell hit town on Derby eve and for a couple of days kept the boys over at The Lubbock Club, and the gals, too, in practically a state of suspended animation. In a main performance Saturday night, they exhibited their skill before a pop-eyed crowd of about 200 persons. Another enthusiastic crowd saw them go to it again yesterday afternoon.

When Mr. Farrell introduced himself to this old getter-behind-the-eight-ball, we were a little taken aback by his modesty. "You may say that I'm the world's greatest trick shot artist, holder of records," and this and that. The reporter had little time to get in a word edgewise for listening to the colorful description of the remarkable Mr. Farrell. Aha, the Dizzy Dean and Whataman Shires of the billiard game, eh!

Anyhow, we happened to be in the gallery when Farrell and Schaefer (the latter no relation of the great Jake Schaefer of balk-line fame) opened their show. Didn't stay for the finish, but saw enough in the first half hour to make our head swim for the next 24 hours, and the boys tell us he pulled some really fancy shots later in the more than two-hour program. Mr. Farrell may think a lot of Mr. Farrell, but he can sure call his shots.

A quiet, unassuming gent is Mr. Schaefer, but he can do things with the ivories, too. In the matinee yesterday, he kicked in a high single run of 51 balls, and kept this up for some time to whip the sox off Mr. Farrell in a 150-point game. Mr. Farrell's high run while here was 54, Saturday night. He has run as high as 125, just one short of the world's championship record but considerably lower than the world's exhibition record.

The touring gentlemen had a lot of praise for M. L. "Sudan" Davis' recreation parlor, known as The Lubbock Club. They commended Mr. Davis for his equipment, unusually good for a town this size, and for the manner in which the club was regulated and conducted. The Texas laws frown upon open billiard or "pool" halls, as such, and they become legal only when conducted as private clubs. Many of our "best people" are members of the Lubbock Club, which provides entertainment and exercise in the form of bowling as well as billiards.

SPEAKING OF THE DERBY, and we did refer indirectly to it in a preceding paragraph, there was more local interest in Saturday's running of the historic Kentucky classic than has been apparent previously. The telephone wires to the office were fairly sizzling from the "they're off!" until the paper hit the street. Strangely enough, a lot of guys wanted to know the odds, the amount of the pay-off for win, place and show.

The running of Roman Soldier and Whiskolo, who finished second and third respectively, in the Kentucky Derby raises a point of interest among Texas race fans. It means that we have purty fair hoss racin' down heah in Texas, too, Suh. Roman Soldier charged to the Texas Derby tape, and Whiskolo

EXPORTERS HAND OUT 7-0 SPANKING TO BUCCANEERS

(By The Associated Press)

Beaumont held the lead in the Texas league pennant race by winning the only game played in the loop yesterday.

While all the other teams were taking a forced rest because of rain, the Exporters gave Galveston a sound 7 to 0 spanking at Galveston. Frank Cook held Galveston to four hits while the Exporters were cracking out eight safe ones off Cole and Garcia.

Steers Get Murray

The Dallas Steers had a promised boost as they prepared for a home stand. George (Tarheel) Murray, veteran right-hander who was a consistent star in the Dallas club a few campaigns back, reported to the Steers yesterday, and Manager Byrne James announced that Jim Stroner, third-sacker, who participated in 157 games for the Mission club of the Pacific coast league last season and hammered in 101 runs, had been added to the Dallas club.

The Steers have won only three games out of 23 starts.

From small wooden coaches with kerosene lamps to all-steel cars, cushioned on deep shock-absorbing springs, electric lights, hot and cold running water, sanitary toilets, spacious washrooms and smoking compartments, palatial sleeping cars, immaculate dining cars with excellent meals at ordinary restaurant prices—all this has taken place in 25 years.

And now Western Railroads offer air-conditioning on wheels. They have air-conditioned all principal trains west and north of Chicago, St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans.

Regardless of the weather—be it hot or cold, wet or dry—perfect weather begins for you the moment you board an air-conditioned train. Temperature and air-moisture (humidity) are always ideal. No dust, dirt, odors or noises can bother you, for air-conditioning eliminates them all. Air-conditioned cars are so clean men can wear white linens, women can wear their daintiest summer dresses.

Don't be satisfied traveling any other way for air-conditioning costs you not one penny extra.

Lower Fares and Sleeping Car Charges

Western Railroads have also pioneered in reducing the cost of travel by train. They have cut the basic fare to as low as 2c per mile round trip for sleeping car travel and corresponding low rates for coaches and chair cars. Sleeping car charges are one-third lower. Your dollar certainly goes farther on western trains.

On many trains you will find luxurious new type coaches and chair cars—with deep, adjustable seats, individual light control, cozy smoking compartments, fine washrooms, and refreshment service from the dining car at most reasonable prices.

How Human Eagles Make New Geography

One of the flying geographers from the Institute of Geographical Exploration at Harvard, equipped with his five-lensed camera.

Cambridge, Mass., as seen by the flying geographers. Note how the camera has taken a square picture in the center and flanked it with four others, the whole making a Maltese cross.

Harvard University's flying young map makers demonstrate the tenfold greater accuracy and thousandfold greater ease of plotting Mother Earth from the skies

By Dr. Frank Thone

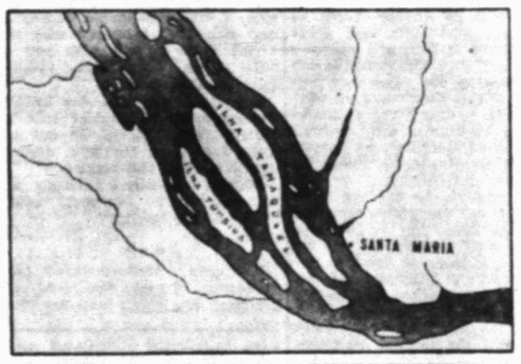

WHEN the younger grandfathers and the older fathers of the present generation of school kids were themselves kids in school, their first introduction to the mystery of maps, in geography class, was usually worded something like this:

"Now, children, just imagine yourselves able to fly, like eagles, until you were very high up above the earth, so that you could see a long way in every direction. You would see everything spread out flat beneath you, but everything would look very small. You would see not only this town that we live in, but many others besides, and rivers and lakes and hills and mountains. And if you made a drawing of the country, as you looked down on it from away up there, it would look like this:"

You were doubtless a little dizzy from this flight of fancy by the teacher, but it fascinated you just the same. All of us have a hankering for height, clambering up trees and adventuring on the ridgepoles of forbidden barns as children, just to see what we can see; going mountain climbing, or at least taking elevator rides to the top of the Empire State Building, in later years, for exactly the same purpose. Of all legends and tales, those of wing-footed Mercury, wing-shouldered Daedalus, the flying carpet of the Arabian Nights—all that told of rising high and seeing far without the weary labor of climbing—have always been our favorites.

Just about a generation ago, the dream of all youth for ages suddenly became real. Only a few months after the splendid tragic failure of Langley came the shining success of the Wrights. Men could fly at last; men could mount high and see the earth laid out beneath them like a map. The wings of Icarus were no longer broken; whereas we had before been forced to view our world with the short sight of beetles, now we could use the eyes of eagles.

MEN were not long in realizing what their first-grade teachers had imagined for them. Pictures from the air were so obviously useful, as well as interesting. And when a World War broke out, just a decade after the first successful airplane flights, the evolution of air photography and air mapping was intensely speeded up under the lash and spur of military necessity. The mechanical eyes of our mechanical eagles quickly reached an amazing accuracy and speed of operation.

A comparison between the old and new methods of making maps. Above, a 20-year-old chart of a Brazilian river; below, one prepared from airplane photographs. Note how much more accurate the second map is.

When the guns finally stopped—the blind guns for which they did the seeing—the eagles had no need to droop their wings. Unlike Othello, they did not find their occupation gone. On the contrary, in the service of peace and civilization, they had more occupation than ever.

During the post-war years, airplane mapping has become one of the standard methods of geographers, map-makers, surveyors. The eagles' eyes make our daily lives safer and far more interesting than they used to be.

Lately there has been established at Harvard University a veritable nest of young human eagles, in training to fly forth into the skies over all the earth, to see and record and perfect our knowledge of the world. It is the Institute of Geographical Exploration, the dream-made-real of a young teacher of scientific geography, Weld Arnold.

Not that all the work of the young men of the Institute is done thrillingly on the wing. Not even eagles spend all their time among the clouds. Research students at the Institute have many exacting hours over the drawing-board, many necessary nights with their books.

Only the elect are admitted, and only those who can "take it" may stay. Many feel that they have been called, but only a few are chosen. And of these few, some are given wings to fly.

These fortunates, however, fly far and see much. The familiar skies of home, over Cambridge and Cape Cod, may see their first sky-circlings; but in the end their motors have roared to the echoes of the glacier-groaning mountains of Alaska, over "Ind's enameled peaks that rise around that inmost One," among the mysterious dead pueblos of our own southwest, above the matted green treetops of the equatorial river basins.

The skies of home are chosen first not merely as a matter of convenience or safety, but because the home city and the home state offer some mighty good training in the new geography. Boston and Cambridge present most interesting combinations of the old, tangled, "cow-path" streets dating back to earliest Colonial times, and the new, straightline boulevards of modern motor traffic. The state of Massachusetts as a whole gives a wonderful range of topographic jobs to work on, from the flat shores of Cape Cod and the rocky coast of Nantucket to the mountainous Berkshires.

AT Cambridge and Boston, and at Massachusetts, then, the map-making eagles first direct high-altitude eyes.

They are most remarkable eyes, those Fairchild cameras that are the tools of the map-making skyman. They look with five lenses at once, one straight down, and one to each of the four quarters of the compass. Each picture thus comes out in the shape of a Maltese cross, with an undistorted square in the middle, and on each of its four sides a quadrangle wider at one end than at the other.

These flare-ended side pictures give plenty of drill at the plotting-board, for their distortions have to be herded back into straight-lined rectitude by proper mathematical formulae before they can be considered orthodox enough for really accurate mapping purposes. It is fascinating work, but exacting. Small wonder that Weld Arnold is proud of the record of his men, in making Massachusetts the first state in the Union to be completely photographed from the air.

Having won their right to wings over the home nest, the young eagles of geographic sciences are flying in many alien skies, mapping remote territories with an ease and precision no other map-makers can rival.

Worthy of eagles was their task on the Washburn Alaska expedition. Here they photographed the towering snow-wrapped mountains with their terrific precipices of sheer white and their awesome slow glacier-rivers of creeping ice.

Those glaciers were their special quarry. They circled over them, charting their curving courses, getting details of their banded surfaces, marked with tell-tale rhythmic zones of annual growth, like the annual rings in a tree. In small boats they sailed impudently up to their towering faces where they front the sea—a most uneasy kind of adventure, since if one of them should suddenly "calve" an iceberg it would set up a miniature tidal wave able to swamp any lesser craft.

EAGLE-WORTHY also was the task of the expedition that went around to the "back door of the Himalayas," through China's Far West, that inner land where few white men ever travel.

This expedition's chief goal was Minya Konka, a tremendous mountain seen by an earlier American expedition and estimated by them to be higher even than Everest.

The Harvard geographers worked from the ground as well as from the air, making careful sketches of geological and topographical features. They found Minya Konka to be lower than the earlier estimates had made it, and so second to Everest after all; but a most splendid, awe-inspiring and amazingly beautiful peak none the less.

And incidentally they had the privilege of gazing upon the Great Buddha of Kiating, Szechuan Province, a 200-foot image of the great religious leader carved out of a huge mountain crag long ago, as Washington's face is being carved on a peak in the Black Hills, in our own land, today.

While these two expeditions were searching remote mountain fastnesses for their secrets, a third was in a land without mountains but with rivers harder to master than any mountain. For the Rio Negro and the Rio Branco, tributaries of the vast Amazon, wind into labyrinthine channels in which a boat can get hopelessly lost, and the thick forest that covers the face of the land makes travel through these regions on foot simply impossible.

The one means for rapid travel is the airplane, fitted with pontoons for use on the bayous and quieter backwaters, which constitute the only practicable landing fields.

Over this wide wilderness the plane again proved its value as a map-maker's eye-carrier. Maps made 20 years ago, by laborious parties in boats, showed four principal channels and perhaps a score of good-sized islands, on one particular stretch of the Rio Negro.

THESE surveys required weeks in insect-infested jungles. And in a half-day's flight with a good plane and camera the whole tedious job was made obsolete; the river is now shown split into nearly a dozen channels by several times as many narrow, ribbon-strip islands, some of which curl and double on themselves like fish-hooks or carpenter's shavings. It is a simply astonishing demonstration of the tenfold greater accuracy and the thousandfold greater ease of doing one's geography from the air.

But the making of modern maps by modern means is not the only occupation of the students of the Institute. They take their turn at making ancient maps by traditional means, quite as though they were artist-scribes in a medieval monastery. The eagles can play owl, on occasion.

Among the historical treasures of the Institute are several ancient books of geography, dating to pre-Columbian Europe. In these there are no maps, but cities and other places are set down in long lists, each spot given its latitude and longitude, sometimes with marginal notes on natural resources, commerce, or customs of the people.

Graduate students have worked out maps from these, carefully drawing them in the antique style with quaint old-fashioned lettering. They have successfully recaptured the spirit of the old geographers, and are looking on the late-medieval world with late-medieval eyes—despite their ultra-modern training.

THE South Plains Good Roads association, an organization composed of individuals who are greatly interested in improved highways, will meet in Lubbock Friday and efforts are being made to get the new chairman of the State Highway commission, Harry Hines, to attend.

Here's hoping the efforts are successful.

Although it is common knowledge that The Plainsman hoped for the re-appointment of Judge Walter Raleigh Ely, now that Mr. Hines has been selected we believe he should be accorded the respect and support of all Texans interested in better highways.

We should forget whatever efforts we made for either Ral Ely, or for any other individual and do what we can to aid Mr. Hines in his new job and help him in getting the facts concerning highway needs in this territory.

Our needs as far as highways are concerned are much more important than any individual's desires—or the desires of his friends for him.

If and when Mr. Hines comes to Lubbock, or to any South Plains city, it is up to South Plains people to let him know that we greet his appointment with a spirit of helpfulness and friendship.

SPENCER WELLS, back from one of his regular quarterly trips to New York, reports that the Big Town's business interests, together with those of most parts of the North and East, are "soured" on the Roosevelt administration.

Because Big Business has been unceremoniously dumped out of the nation's "driver's seat", the boys are sore. They can't take it.

Which is an indication that recovery might be progressing a little better than most of us realize.

Spencer has been making trips to New York for many years and has come to know many wholesalers and retailers there, as well as many retailers whom he meets from other towns, in New York on buying trips.

And he finds from them a keen distaste for what they broadly term "government interference in business".

THEY look back to the day when they were running things", Spencer reports, "and there's no doubt but what they were running things with a high hand prior to the New Deal.

"In those days they were rolling in wealth and profits, to the detriment of millions of others, and of course, to them, that period was 'the good old days'.

"New Deal legislation, however, has stopped a good deal of the ruthlessness of cutthroat competition and the one-time 'favored few' are not so 'favored' now.

"Things have been shaping around to where eventually more people are likely to share in prosperity and the 'die-hards' are not so fond of the idea".

Spencer deducts from what he saw and heard in New York, and Washington on this last trip that the so-called 'good old days' will never return in the form we knew them five and six years ago.

He sees a very definite trend toward more prosperity and protection for more people, rather than for the 'favored few'.

ROBERT BEAN, according to Claude Denton, called the state experiment station Saturday morning to find out how much rain we had.

When the connection was made Don Jones' voice on the other end of the line didn't say 'hello', 'goodbye', or anything else, except "fifty-one hundredths of an inch"!

And the connection was broken while Robert was trying to say "thanks".

Poor old Don, who is the boss out at the farm, was just getting a taste of what The Avalanche-Journal gets on every football and election night!

So swamped with calls was he that all he could do was give the moisture figure and hang up, so's to take care of the scores who were trying to 'get through' by phone to the station.

Those who got their rain 'dope' in the snappy way Robert Bean got his didn't mind, though. They were so happy they didn't care what happened!

Incidentally, Mr. Jones and his organization do a great public service in giving out those rain reports and deserve the thanks of everybody.

And in an effort to help out, The Avalanche-Journal gets the figures from Don on every rain, so other scores who call the office may get the information without bothering the experiment station.

Studio Is Same As Home To Movie Couple; Charles Vidor And Karen Morley Find Work On Same Film Is Pleasant

BY DAN THOMAS
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, May 6—Again that old question arises as to whether a husband and a wife can work together successfully in the movies.

This time the answer, strangely enough, is in the affirmative. Most of our married couples believe it s perfectly all right to have two careers in a family as long as those careers don't get too close together.

But Director Charles Vidor and his wife, Karen Morley, think differently. As far as they are concerned, their careers couldn't become too closely knitted.

So Vidor's next picture will find Karen taking orders from him. He already has been working for several months on a story especially suited to his wife. It will be his next picture for RKO and will go into production soon after he finishes his current assignment, "Boom Days."

"If two persons are happy in private life, they can work together and continue to be just as happy," Vidor declares. "Whenever you see a couple squabbling around the studio, you can just put it down that they also are having trouble at home.

"Karen and I have been happily married for more than three years and we feel perfectly confident that close association during working hours isn't going to make the slightest difference in our home life."

Prefers Her Husband

Not only does Miss Morley agree with her husband, but she goes so far as to say that she would rather work with him than any other director.

"I have perfect confidence in Charles," she says. "He's one of our best directors. So why shouldn't I be willing to take orders from him?

"I know that an actress needs direction. Sometimes she even has to be told that she has done a scene very badly. We can't always be right, you know. And if anybody's going to tell me I'm lousy, I prefer having Charles do it."

At least it's going to be interesting to watch them. The prevailing belief in Hollywood is that trying days on a set start quarrels which are carried over into the home. For that reason most of our married couples think that even being in different pictures isn't enough. They want to be in different studios.

However, Al Jolson and Ruby Keeler came through a picture together without any trouble. So may Charles and Karen, too.

Fun For Pirates

Instruments used by present-day pirates off the coast of Asia to torture their victims will be seen on the screen for the first time when "China Seas" is released. One of the most vicious of these implements is a wooden boot lined with spikes. It is tightened on the foot of the victim with clamps. Clark Gable is subjected to this torture in the picture—minus the spikes, of course.

Magic Melody

Here's a new one—a magician as technical adviser on a musical picture. Chayer the Magician is the man. Director Roy Del Ruth signed him to assist on "Broadway Melody of 1935."

"The very nature of his work makes a magician the greatest of all illusion experts," says Del Ruth. "By using his talent in determining camera angles, freakish lighting, and unusual sets, we should be able to obtain some very startling results in the picture."

TODAY'S JOURNAL EDITORIAL

DALHART PUBLISHER SCORES AGAIN

John McCarty, editor and publisher of the Dalhart Texan, a young man whose everlasting energy and habit of boosting his own home town has won him a place of honor not only in Dalhart but the entire state, comes out with another unique idea.

Undaunted by months of drouth and duststorms, without a sign of rain, John has banded farmers, business and professional men of his county into a "Last Man" club, each member vowing to be the last man to leave the Panhandle of Texas, come what may.

"We can take it. Many of us were raised on a hard-time budget—and dust," he declares. "We're still here. We're going to stay. It will rain some day."

And John's got those fellows up in that country believing just that. Why shouldn't they believe it? What's a little dust in the life of a West Texan?

Old Mother Nature, refusing to come across with moisture of her own accord, Editor John and his friends have decided on mild persuasion in the form of TNT bombs and with the aid of "Tex" Thornton, explosives expert of Amarillo. "Tex" cut loose at some clouds last week but the wind was too high and he brought only a few drops.

Discouraged? Not so's you could tell it. "Tex" declared he would "fight it out on this front if it takes all summer." And his backers did not lose hope. Before following the dusty roads back to their homes after the exhibition, many of them joined up with McCarty's "Last Man" club.

And that's why you don't see bedraggled caravans moving slowly eastward from that section of the country. Drouth? It only makes West Texans more determined. Dust? It only makes 'em more stubborn. And rain? Well, we could use a little more of it now and then, but if it's long in coming we'll just camp here on the Plains and in the Panhandle, organize a whole section into a "Last Man" club like John's and be bull-headed enough to wait until it does get here!

Dutchers' News And Views OF WASHINGTON

Dutcher

(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The long, devious road to war at last has been mapped and charted.

It is the road America traveled in the years of her neutrality from August, 1914, to April, 1917. It is the same road America will travel again, according to Senate Munitions Committee investigators, if another European war breaks out this summer—unless drastic new neutrality legislation is passed in the meantime.

A confidential report now before the committee shows for the first time the sequence of events and overwhelming pressures which swept the Wilson administration from its initial "strict neutrality" position and its "He Kept Us Out of War" campaign slogan of 1916 to a point where American statesmen faced a choice between war and domestic panic accompanied by European financial chaos.

Road To War Shown

Quoting from scores of secret documents in State Department files, which are considered too sensational for publication, the report traces step by step the inexorable consequences which began to pile up when the first boatloads of munitions and foodstuffs left these shores for ports of belligerent nations.

There were two parallel ruts in this road. In brief:

1. American industrial, commercial, and financial interests piled up a huge structure of production, export, and debt. They became inextricably bound by gold and steel to the war fortunes of the allies.

The government, whether influenced by pressure or the threat of a collapse of that structure in economic chaos, shifted its neutrality policies to the advantage of the allies and the disadvantage of Germany.

By countenancing loans to the allies which it had at first called "unneutral," it in time reached a crisis where the Morgans and other private bankers could no longer sustain the structure, and direct financial aid from this government was essential to save it.

2. By arriving at a neutrality policy which permitted Americans to sell billions of dollars' worth of munitions, food-stuffs, and other materials to Britain and France—and to lend them the money to pay for it—and at the same time permitting England to violate our neutral rights to the extent of blocking our commerce with neutrals bordering on Germany, we became in effect partners to the "starvation blockade" of Germany.

Our protests to England grew feebler as our war profits mounted. The report shows how the Germans, as they grew hungrier, became increasingly enraged at America.

Eventually, in bitterness and desperation, they resumed submarine warfare. And the emotional reaction of the American people coincided with the feverish backstage jitters of our statesmen over the economic crisis.

Paid Appalling Price

Securities to the extent of $2,000,000,000 as well as American prosperity would have been jeopardized by a German victory, it is pointed out.

(The war cost us 100,000 killed, 190,000 wounded, and $22,625,000,000 directly. The post-war cost to us has been estimated as high as $200,000,000,000.)

When the Morgan firm in August, 1914, first asked the State Department its attitude as to loans to belligerents, Secretary Bryan at once took the position that such loans would be likely to get us into war eventually as financial interests here championed the cause of the debtor nations.

So the State Department declared war loans would be "inconsistent with the true spirit of neutrality."

Gate Opened To Greed

But our huge munitions sales had to be financed and soon there was an informal agreement between Acting Secretary Lansing and Morgan that "commercial credits" were another matter.

The bankers were around again in a few months, seeking permission to float big loans. A year after the war's outbreak, Lansing had succeeded Bryan and was agreeing with Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo that conditions had changed.

The war supplies interests had built up a 2 1-2 billion dollar favorable balance of trade. Withdrawal of Allied gold to pay for it would have bankrupted England and France. If they couldn't find means of paying us, it was argued, they would have to stop buying from us and there'd be economic hell to pay here at home.

Only big allied bond issues could save our "national interests" in the face of an economic crisis. So the first big war loan, the $500,000,000 Anglo-French issue, was floated by a Morgan-headed syndicate, while the State Department, secretly embarrassed by Bryan's previous interpretations of the "true spirit of neutrality," said it had taken no new position.

Preferred War To "Panic"

The financial situation grew even more strained, however, as private money-raising proved inadequate. Ambassador Page at London was cabling frantic bleats in the spring of 1917.

German submarines were playing havoc. If we went to war the greatest help we could give England and France would be a big government loan. Perhaps our going to war was "the only way in which our present pre-eminent trade position can be maintained and a panic averted." A world financial crash threatened.

Feared England Too Much

Ambassador Gerard at Berlin urged the government here to embargo the export of arms unless England permitted food to enter Germany and members of Congress introduced embargo bills. Lord Grey's memoirs show that England would have dropped the blockade if Wilson had threatened an embargo, but other documents indicate Wilson, Colonel House, and Page feared a rupture with England far more than effects of relations with Germany.

The Commerce Department, meanwhile, was privately taking the dollars-and-cents attitude that good will of the allies was likely to be worth more than British restrictions had cost us. This viewpoint won.

The DARK BLOND

by CARLETON KENDRAKE ©1935 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MILLICENT GRAVES, secretary to GEORGE DRIMGOLD, finds her employer in his office dead. JARVIS HAPP, a stranger, offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty shop where she is transformed into a brunet, then takes her home, introducing her as his secretary. She meets Happ's son, NORMAN; his stepson, ROBERT CAISE; MRS. HAPP; and VERA DUCHENE, Mrs. Happ's maid.

That night a note under her door informs Millicent, "The woman in black ermine is here." Millicent sees the woman, tries to follow, but loses her. Millicent goes to the chauffeur's quarters. The chauffeur is dead from a bullet wound.

Next morning SERGEANT MAHONEY takes charge of the case. Over the telephone MRS. HAPP learns that her husband has been kidnaped. She is warned not to inform the police.

Norman begs Millicent to tell him what she knows of the whole affair. She does. Together they determine to solve the mystery.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI

Norman Happ emerged from the sixth retail liquor store he had covered. Millicent looked at his face, knew that he had discovered something. "You've found it?" she asked when he had approached the car.

"I think so," he told her. "This place is open until 3 o'clock in the morning. A little after two a woman bought a pint bottle of whisky and demanded that particular brand."

"A woman" Millicent exclaimed.

"Yes," he said.

"What did she look like?"

"I want you to come in and talk with the man," Norman said. "You'd be more apt to get the stuff we want in a description—you know, clothes and everything."

His manner was that of one struggling against tense excitement and Millicent said, "Look here, you've found out something already."

He nodded.

"What is it?"

"Just this," he said. "She wore a black ermine coat."

Millicent scrambled out of the car, quivering with nervous tension. "Honestly," she asked, "was it the woman in the black ermine coat?"

"Steady," he cautioned. "Don't get excited. It was a woman in a black ermine coat."

Millicent felt his hand on her elbow steadying her as she crossed the sidewalk and entered the swinging door of the retail liquor store.

A man well past middle age, with a white mustache, surveyed her with tired, expressionless eyes.

"We want to talk with you a little more about that whisky sale," Norman said.

The man surveyed the bottles stacked upon his counter with a critical eye, picked up one of them, held it to the light, dusted it with a cloth and nodded.

Norman looked significantly at Millicent, and Millicent said, "You saw her clearly?"

"Oh, yes."

Millicent's voice betrayed her excitement, "I mean you could see her face? She didn't keep her collar turned up so it concealed her face?"

"No, ma'am. But why all the excitement? You aren't a detective, are you?"

"Mercy, no," she said. "Just trying to get some information."

He nodded, rearranged some of the bottles on the counter, said wearily, "What information?"

"Was she young or old?"

He looked at her. "Ma'am, I d'know. I'm 68 myself and to me women divide themselves into three classes. There's the young ones that are full of giggles and awkwardness. Then there's the smooth, pretty ones that range anywhere from 20 to 50. And then there's the women that don't care anything about being beautiful, and look about my age. I know some of them are beautiful when they're 60 and some look old when they're 40, but to a man who's lived as long as I have as long as a woman's smooth and pretty she's young and I can't tell the age."

"But surely you can tell whether a woman is 20 or 35."

"Well, perhaps I could tell that. This woman wasn't 20. Probably she was around 30, but I can't tell. She was one of the smooth kind."

"Did she smile?"

"Yes, she knew how to use her smile. I remember she had me grinning and cutting capers around the store, trying to get her service. She said she was in a hurry. That brand of whisky is a genuine 9-year-old, bottled in bond whisky. We don't sell much of it. I had to go in the back room to get it."

"Did she drive up?"

"There was someone waiting for her in a car. She drove up with him."

"A man?" Millicent asked.

"Yeah, a man."

"What kind of a car was he driving?"

"I can't tell you that—wait a minute, maybe I can, too. They transferred a suitcase from the back seat to a baggage compartment in the back, come to think of it. I guess it was a black sedan. It had a little compartment for baggage back of the spare tire. I remember the man was transferring this suitcase from the inside of the sedan to

LUBBOCK CATHOLIC CRITICIZES RADIO PRIEST

Dear Plainsman: As a reader of the Sunday Visitor, some weeks ago, I noticed an article in that publication, headed: "Right Or Wrong", wherein A. Monsignor Ryan, comes out with the affrontery that all saints, bishops, priests, and Catholics are with this priest, Father Coughlin. I wish to state, that in my humble opinion Monsignor Ryan has placed himself in the same category as Coughlin—a prevaricator, which has been proved beyond a reasonable doubt by an Eastern gentleman—an American Catholic.

We know of thousands of our people who have held their noses long enough. Individuals of Coughlin's type, have not helped the Roosevelt administration, but have done considerable injustice to the church, and Catholics in general. Catholics think it better to give the path to the dog—rather than be the recipient of his bite.

Now, comes Bishop Gallagher of Detroit, in a statement to the press that he endorses Coughlin. In doing so, the bishop is not commanding the confidence and respect of the Catholic people. When these clergymen pull off their robes they call blessed, and drag them in the dirt of petty politics—we have our opinion.

If Bishop Gallagher wishes to rate the respect due to his office, he would return this foreign-born priest back to where he came from—he has done nothing but breed "Anti-Catholicism".

Respectfully yours,
B. W. Kieran,

Most. Rev. Robert E. Lucey, Bishop of Amarillo, will visit St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church here Friday and Saturday, Father Gabriel of the local church announced this morning.

Confirmation will be administered for the American congregation at a service starting at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening. Order of service, said Father Gabriel, will be a rosary, sermon by Bishop Lucey, confirmation, and benediction. Immediately following the service, a reception for the bishop will be conducted on the church lawn.

SLAYER DIES

praying silently as the boy died.

Dressed in a white shirt, opened low at the throat, black trousers, and black slippers, Edwards rose from his cot shortly after midnight and walked behind the guards to the death house door.

Read Family Bible

In his last hours, the former Edwardsville coal miner read from his family Bible. Prison attaches said the Bible given him by Margaret Crain, East Aurora, N. Y., music teacher, the "other girl" in Pennsylvania's parallel of the "American Tragedy" was left by Edwards in the Luzerne county jail at Wilkes-Barre.

It was charged that for love of Miss Crain, whom he met at Mansfield State Teachers college, Bobby black-jacked Freda to death while they were swimming in Harvey's' lake near Wilkes-Barre last summer. Freda had been happily making plans for her marriage after Bobby had promised the ceremony would take place soon.

Miss Crain visited Edwards only once but several letters concerning their romance were read at his trial.

Until late yesterday, Governor George H. Earle in Harrisburg was besieged with pleas to halt the execution. He issued a statement saying he found no cause to intervene.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, May 6 (AP)—Traders and investors picked their equity favorites with much discrimination today and the result was that decisive trends in the stock market were not in evidence.

While specialties stood out from the remainder of the list, the metals were somewhat heavy, the rails a trifle easier and the utilities about unchanged. Grains, cotton and other commodities showed few signs of running away in any direction. Foreign exchanges were moderately mixed. Secondary bonds displayed a much firmer undertone.

Shares up fractionally to around a point included Radio Preferred "B", Otis Elevator, American Bank Note, Commercial Investment Trust, Columbia Carbon, Cuban American Sugar, South Porto Rico Sugar, Great Western Sugar, American Can, Johns-Manville and American Radiator.

On the other side of the ledger, U. S. Smelting and Cerro De Pasco dropped 2 points each and Silver King was off about 1. Southern Railway lost a point and Union Pacific was off nearly as much, but Santa Fe, N. Y. Central and Southern Pacific were only a shade under. Such stocks as U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, American Telephone and Consolidated Gas were up and down in small fractions.

Improvement in the trade outlook was seen in the April statements of Kresge, Woolworth, National Cash Register and Newberry, all of which showed much higher earnings than in the same 1934 period.

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, May 6 (AP)—Cotton futures opened quiet today unchanged to 7 points lower.

Light offerings at the start of trading served to bring about a moderate decline from Saturday's final prices, but sales lessened after the first call.

May was off 7 points at 11.76, while July at 11.85, Dec. at 11.58 and Jan. at 11.63 were off a point or two.

Most of the business centered in October which was unchanged at 11.52.

Irregularity cropped out as the morning progressed, with old crop months 3 to 8 points lower while new positions were from 1 to 2 points higher.

Rains needed in the Panhandle area of Texas were said to have been offset partially by reports of further rains in the eastern part of the belt.

Additional showers in the Carolinas and Georgia at this time were said to be detrimental, delaying the progress of planting and other farm work.

May sold at 11.80 and July at 11.78 in the old months while Oct was up 2 points at 11.54 and Jan made a similar advance to 11.67 in the distant positions.

Dealings were quiet for most of the day and routine business made up the major part of the transactions.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, May 6 (AP)—Cotton futures opened quiet, 1 higher to 1 lower with liquidation absorbed by the trade. May 11.87; July 11.90; Oct. 11.60; Dec. 11.65; Jan. 11.69; March 11.75.

A holiday in Liverpool seemed to check trading somewhat and the comparatively small orders in the market were quite evenly divided with fluctuations during the first half hour confined to a range of 1 to 3 points. July sold off from 11.92 to 11.90 and prices generally at the end of the first half hour were unchanged to 1 point net lower.

The market fluctuated irregularly during the remainder of the morning. Declines of 2 to 4 points brought in sufficient trade support combined with moderate foreign buying in late months to cause rallies or about 4 to 7 points from the lows. July advanced from 11.88 to 11.92 and the general market sold up to net gains of 2 to 4 points by mid-day.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, May 6 (AP)—Downturns of grain prices early today accompanied word of light rains in dry districts of domestic winter wheat territory southwest. Opening 1-8 to 1-2 lower, July 96-96 1-8, wheat afterward underwent an additional sag. Corn started unchanged to 3-8 off, July 82-82 1-8, and subsequently altered little.

NEW RULING

This procedure was adopted in order to secure advances which the rural corporation will make to the tenant.

Waiver Is Essential

"If a client transferred under these regulations receives subsistence advances, executing notes for them, and later it develops that a waiver can not be obtained from the landlord or other creditors, then the case will be dropped completely from our records," Mr. Johnson declared. "In such instances, the notes taken will be written off as a loss, but the client will receive no further advances after the date on which creditors refuse to execute waivers. Creditors will be notified when these cases are dropped from the records."

Explaining the new regulation, Mr. Johnson said it is in line with the long established method of furnishing sharecroppers. "This is what bankers and other creditors always have done," he said. "Our former practice of furnishing the tenant with subsistence needs as an outright grant just encouraged creditors to allow the relief administration to finance the making of their crops. This new regulation will help to correct that situation and dignify the aid extended farmers by eliminating the outright relief grant."

railroads estimated this would cost them $4,400,000,000.

In addition, the act was held unconstitutional so far as it applied to persons who had been employed within a year before passage and who had not returned to railroad service.

The decision was 5 to 4. Chief Justice Hughes wrote a dissenting opinion in which Justices Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo joined.

ture a fourth mile from his farm home which is six miles west and 1 1-2 miles south of Atlanta.

"I heard the crash," Bledsoe said, "but made no investigation. A half hour later Bland Genpner, a neighboring farmer, came to my house with a woman passenger. The woman had gone to Genpner's house to report the accident, but he had no telephone. We put in calls to Atlanta and Macon for ambulances.

"Seven injured were brought to my house. One was brought in on a truck and the others on stretchers. All were unconscious or too badly injured to tell what had happened. The injured were taken to a hospital at Macon."

Bledsoe said the airplane was destroyed. There was no fire.

Officials of the TWA said it was the first fatal crash on one of the airline's scheduled revenue carrying flights since March 31, 1931, when Knute Rockne, Notre Dame coach, and seven others were killed near Bazar, Kas., in foggy weather much the same as that early today over Missouri.

New Gly-Cas Is A Sensation In All Of Lubbock

Crowds Are Coming To Mark Halsey Drug Store, 1219 Broadway, To Get Gly-Cas; Local Lady Now Like New—Stomach Trouble and Neuritis Conquered

Never before has a single medicine created such a sensation throughout Lubbock and vicinity as this new Gly-Cas. Hundreds of local residents have already been given the good health they had been wanting for years and were unable to find in any other medicine or treatment before.

Read the amazing statement of praise given the Gly-Cas man recently at the Mark Halsey Drug Store, 1219 Broadway, by Mrs. G. M. Duckett, highly respected local lady who has lived here for the past ten years and who now resides at Tahoka, Texas, (just south of Lubbock.)

"For years it did not matter what I ate I always suffered with gas, bloating and indigestion after eating," said Mrs. Duckett, "The gas pressed against my heart until it was no pleasure to eat my meals knowing how I would suffer afterwards. When I would arise of a morning I would become terribly nervous and so dizzy I could hardly stand. My entire system seemed to accumulate poisons until neuritis had an awful hold on me. The pains were always in my neck, arms and shoulders and even down into my limbs and knees. I would be so sore and stiff of a morning that I could hardly do my housework. Even my kidneys would not allow me any comfort and it seemed my system was wearing out all over—until I began taking Gly-Cas."

"I put this new remedy to a real test in my case and found it to be even more than I expected," she continued, "Gly-Cas wasted no time in helping me and to-day I am feeling fine. I can eat what I please and eat my meals without any bad after effects and enjoy each bite I take. I can get around with ease, neuritis has been relieved, kidneys no longer bother me and I sleep fine the entire night through. I know there never was an equal to Gly-Cas before—it has made a new person of me—and I know it will give the same remarkable results to similar sufferers."

So it goes—just another case right here in Lubbock where Gly-Cas has seemingly accomplished the impossible.

The Gly-Cas Man is daily meeting crowds of local people at the Mark Halsey Drug Store, 1219 Broadway, where he is introducing and explaining the action of this amazing new remedy. Gly-Cas $1.00 per box—6 boxes $5.00. Add 3c postage for each box ordered. Send money orders made payable Mark Halsey Drug Store. Don't send cash. Checks not accepted.—Adv.

"I'm glad we had our telephone put back"

Seriously, that's what a lot of housewives have told us since they decided not to try any longer to get along without a telephone.

They feel that the few cents a day a telephone costs is more than offset by the protection it affords the home in emergency, the greater convenience it brings, by the saving in time and money it makes possible, and the satisfaction of being able to keep in touch with friends and relatives.

Have you had your telephone put back, or are you considering it? Ask at the telephone business office for details, without obligation, on how little a telephone will cost you.

the baggage compartment while she was getting the whisky."

"Would you know this woman if you saw her again?"

"Sure I would. She was pretty."

"What kind of hat was she wearing?"

* * *

"Some kind of a small hat that didn't have any brim. The ermine coat had a big collar and she kept the collar turned up. There wasn't any brim on the hat, so the collar fitted right up close around her head."

"But you're sure you saw her face?"

"Sure I did. I looked right at it. Why, what's so mysterious about it?"

"Nothing," Millicent told him, smiling. "But I was wandering if you'd be able to recognize a photograph of her."

"If it was a good picture I think I could. Sometimes you see a woman dressed a certain way and then you get a snapshot picture of her and it doesn't look at all the same, but if this was a good picture I think I could spot it all right."

"What color was her hat?"

"Black I think, but I can't be sure."

"What color was her hair?"

"It was covered up pretty well by the hat. I don't know whether it was black or not. She had the kind of skin that goes with a blond—sort of smooth and white, except for the cheeks, and her lips were real red."

"I think we'll get a photograph," Millicent told him, "and come back. You can look at that and tell us if it's the same woman."

"I can try, anyway. Come again anytime, ma'am. It's a pleasure to help you any way I can."

Norman Happ piloted Millicent from the store and, as they crossed the sidewalk, said, "That's the reason I wanted you to talk with him. I could see that he fell for a pretty face and figure, and he was getting a little surly about my questions — acted as though he thought I was trying to make trouble for the woman in the black ermine coat."

She said excitedly, "Do you know what we've done?"

"What?" he asked.

"We've uncovered the only person who has had a good look at the face of the woman in the black ermine coat — the only one who could positively identify her."

"You figured on bringing back a photograph?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Whose?"

Millicent said crisply, "Vera Duchene's, of course."

"You think she's the one?"

"At any rate we'll show him her photograph," she said.

She was about to step into the car when her attention was caught by some object which reflected the sun's rays. She paused to stare down into the gutter. A moment later she gave a startled cry and lunged forward. Her hand reached toward a small triangular piece of brass-studded leather.

"What is it?" Norman Happ asked.

She held it up. "It's a corner," she exclaimed, "that came from the suitcase in which the Gentry books of account were kept—the suitcase that was stolen from my room!"

He took it from her, turned it over in his fingers, studying it.

"Come on," he told her, "jump in. We're getting hot on the scent. I know one other clew we're going to have in a few minutes."

"What is it?"

"The name of the person who owns the automobile you saw driving away from the garage. I've got a friend in the traffic department. He promised to trace the car registration for me. You're sure you got the license number right?"

"Yes," she said, "that number is burned in my memory. There's no chance for me to have been mistaken."

"Well," he told her, starting the car, "we'll know in a little while."

"I'm so afraid," she told him, "that it will turn out to have been a stolen car. That woman in the black ermine coat has been such a sinister shadow it seems almost impossible to think we could finally clothe her with a real flesh and blood identity."

His right hand dropped from the steering wheel to grasp hers with a reassuring clasp.

He pulled the car in close to the curb.

"Is this where your friend lives?" she asked.

"No," he told her, "I'm going to telephone. I can get the information over the wire, but I didn't want to telephone from the liquor store."

He parked the car, ran to a drugstore while Millicent sat anxiously waiting, comparing the pulsing of the idling motor to the throbbing of her heart as she watched the door for him to reappear.

Suddenly she saw him come out, walking so rapidly that he seemed almost to run.

"We've got it!" he called when he was still some 15 feet from the car. "We've got the name and address of the woman who owns that car!"

whisked in second. Texas is getting the class of the country's thoroughbreds in its racing meets, and that's going pretty strong when you consider that THAT kind of racing has been legalized in this state a little more than a year.

There were heartaches and headaches as well as happiness as a result of the Derby, natural results which attended any competitive activity. For instance, this corner's choice was Boxthorn, but the luck of the "hat" gave us Today, the general favorite. Boxthorn finished somewhere in the muck, and Today should be coming in tomorrow, or any day now.

ONE REASON WHY college baseball has declined is because the season is too early and too short. Many games are frozen out so early in the season, and before they can be made up, school's out.

But we didn't think that would happen to collegiate track and field. The Texas Tech squad headed for Albuquerque last Friday for a Border conference meet with University of New Mexico — and wound up snowbound at Vaughn, 100 miles short of the goal.

They'll be trying it again this weekend, unless the boys freeze their joints in workouts. Coach Ballard thinks his lads have a fair chance to make a showing in the conference meet, which will be something new and different for the Matadors.

TIOGA SCHOOL IS CLASS B WINNER

DENTON, May 6 (AP)—Tioga High school of Grayson county collected 12 1-2 points to take first honors in the Interscholastic league state class B meet here Saturday.

Trenton of Fannin county was only one-half point behind Tioga, and Abernathy of Hale county was third with 11, Olden of Eastland, fourth with 10, Oklaunion of Wilbarger fifth with nine and two-thirds points.

Individual scoring honors went to Kirchville of Kyle, Hays county, whose nine points were one-third point above Simmons of Oklaunion.

Rain saved state records, only one new time mark being set. Conway of Venus clipped four-fifths of a second off the 220-yard dash, making the run in 22.1. O'Guinn of Fairview jumped 5 feet 11 inches to tie that class B record.

SENATOR MARGIE NEAL EMBARKS ON CAMPAIGN TO MOVE UP POLITICAL LADDER; IS AFTER FEDERAL POSITION

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS

AUSTIN, May 6. (AP)—The only woman ever to serve in the Texas senate, Miss Margie E. Neal, former newspaper publisher at Carthage, has embarked on a campaign to move up the political ladder. Her goal is the federal social security board.

Senator Neal gained the favor of the national administration during the 1932 general election campaign by her work in organizing Texas women for Roosevelt and in raising campaign funds. She was chairman of the women's groups and state co-chairman of the Roosevelt-Garner forces.

Given Appointment

She was rewarded with an appointment as chief of the women's section of NRA. Word that she was seeking membership on the proposed federal social security board did not surprise those familiar with Miss Neal's record in the Texas legislature. She desires appointment to the division of the board that will supervise activities for crippled children, unfortunates and the aged.

In the senate Miss Neal sponsored much welfare legislation, particularly for crippled and dependent children. She was a leader of the movement to establish a child welfare division in the state board of control that has done effective work in seeking out the unfortunate child and setting him on the right track by improving environment and opening up opportunities for education and social betterment.

Favored Increase In Scope

She also was whole-heartedly behind the plan to increase the scope of the crippled children's division of the department of education and served as chairman of the senate education committee.

Miss Neal informed friends she had the endorsement of Senators Tom Connally and Morris Sheppard and that Vice President Garner had promised cooperation. Several members of the Texas delegation in the national house, also will lend their support. The appointment would be made by the president.

The former senator was a pioneer in social security and social service legislation in Texas although her activities were confined chiefly to advocacy of bills that would improve conditions for children. The strong emphasis laid by the national administration of social phases of the national problem has brought that subject to the forefront in the current legislature with the result that it has tentatively approved increased appropriations for crippled children's work and, it is believed, will submit a constitutional amendment that would authorize establishment of an old age pension system.

A clock known to be 113 years old, is still keeping time in the home of Mrs. Lillie Webster Holloway of south Hutchinson, Kas.

ARE YOU RUNDOWN, WEAK?

MANY women of middle age who are passing thru the "change of life" need a dependable tonic. Then there are those women who suffer from weakening drains. All such women need the tonic effect of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Mrs. C. C. Carson of 7836 Ave. E., Houston, Texas, says: "About three years ago I was in a rundown condition and suffered from irregularity, cramps and frequent headaches.
