Agricultural Association
Leaders To Take Local
Applications

To Plant Trees

Leased Spots To Be Fenced
And Planted With Government Trees

Following a meeting in the courthouse Saturday residents of practically every school district in Collingsworth County took steps toward creating agricultural associations and naming officers.

Community Projects

Interest in the associations followed the announcement that all shelterbelt applications were to be placed through the agricultural associations in each of the districts last week when government officials visited this county prior to starting the programs, according to John O. Stovall, county agent. Districts were asked to report their chairman, vice chairman, secretary and treasurer by Saturday.

For Community Service

"The primary motive of the agricultural associations is to serve the communities in which they are located," Mr. Stovall said. "They can perform what services they may see fit such as cleaning cemeteries, building churches, improving roads, sponsoring rabbit drives any other phase of public welfare they may see fit."

Applications for a part of the shelterbelt program in this county will be made to the chairman of the particular agriculture association serving the community in

Plymouth Elects Unit Officials

Farmers of the Plymouth Community, met in the Baptist Church Tuesday night, April 30, and organized a community agricultural association.

The following officers were announced: Tom Cummings, chairman; Walter Fritts, vice chairman; Vernon Fritts, secretary and treasurer. Twenty-four members attended the meeting which resulted in the election of officers and formal organization of the association.

County May Get Free "T-B" Test On All Cattle

Free tubercular tests for cattle in Collingsworth County were today announced by John O. Stovall, county agent, who said that the movement in this county was in conjunction with a state-wide movement at the present time.

"Tests have been made in practically all of the surrounding counties and in Oklahoma," Mr. Stovall said. "Collingsworth County paid a $25 fee for the purchase of ropes and chalk to carry the tests, which are an extension of the relief program through

New Highway Letting To Be Object Of Commissioners Visit In Austin

Members of the Commissioner's Court of this county will go to Austin May 13 to discuss possibilities of an early pavement letting on Highway 4 from Wellington, north toward the Wheeler County line, according to announcements today.

The delegation will contact Harry Hines, recently appointed Texas Highway Commission chairman.

Hopes for a continuation of the highway are maintained by the court since the road has been carried this far and every effort will be made to secure an additional

1935 Model Coyote Rivals Tales Of Wolves Which Roved In Pioneer Days

By JOE CLAUNCH

Pioneer stories of coyotes in the 90's have nothing on a 1935 model coyote who made his appearance in the Marella Community during the past week.

C. T. Painter returned to his field last Wednesday afternoon after dinner to continue listing, and he was followed by his poodle dog.

Coyote Is Brave

Mr. Painter started his plowing, still closely followed by the small dog. After a few minutes he heard a sudden growling noise and looked around. Much to his surprise he saw a coyote within 10 feet of the lister. He said that the animal was unconcerned and showed not the slightest signs of fear.

The coyote made his appearance at about 2:30 and Mr. Painter says that the wolf was never out of sight from that time until he took out his team and quit work for the night.

Wolf Attacks Dog

Again Friday afternoon the same coyote paid Mr. Painter another visit. This time, however, the dog made a run for the intruder. The coyote wheeled and Mr. Painter believes, would have killed the dog, had he not interfered.

Texas "Dirt" Farmers Will Visit President To Endorse Program

Gibbs Glenn and Clyde Emmert will leave Wellington Sunday, May 12, for Washington, D. C., where they will represent this county in a goodwill delegation to express the favor of Texas farmers for President Roosevelt and express support for his organization.

Arrive On May 14

Mr. Glenn and Mr. Emmert will arrive in Washington May 14 and remain through May 16, when along with the rest of the delegation they will return to Texas. Their expenses will be paid by the county and by the county agricultural units, John O. Stovall, county agent, said.

The goodwill train will include hundreds of "dirt" farmers from over Texas who will leave their fields to personally tell the President they think his agricultural program is a lifesaver. The train is expected to carry at least 300,000 commodity farmers.

Second Collingsworth Greeting
This message of goodwill and approval from the farmers of Collingsworth County will be the second to be received by President Roosevelt. Last year Deck Wells, editor of The Leader, carried a petition bearing the names of 900 Collingsworth "dirt" farmers to Washington at his own expense and presented it to the president.

Wellington To Play Paducah

Still tied for the leadership of the western division of the Red River Valley League with Childress and Paducah the Collingsworth Gassers will journey to Paducah next Sunday where they will meet the Paducah nine.

Due to a terrific sand storm last Sunday all games in this division of the league were called off, according to J. N. Wallace, one of the Gasser directors. The game is scheduled to be played with a double header tilt when the two clubs meet June 2, but by special agreement of the two managers can be played off during some week day.

The Paducah game next Sunday is scheduled to eliminate one of the two teams from the three-way clinch for the league leadership. Both Paducah and Wellington are undefeated to date and much interest has been concentrated on the game.

Negro Minstrel At Samnorwood Next Wednesday

A negro minstrel will be presented at the Samnorwood Rural High School Wednesday night, May 8, according to the announcement of Clyde Brown, director, today.

The production will be approximately two hours in length and will include talent from Wellington, Shamrock and Samnorwood. Proceeds from the event will be used to benefit school athletics.

District Court Opens Term Here Monday Morning

Grand Jury Charged Monday As April Session Holds Little Interest

Light Docket

Jury Cases Will Be Postponed Until Third Week Of month States

With an extremely light docket the April term of District Court opened here Monday morning with Judge A. J. Fires on the bench. The grand jury was charged and went into session Monday, while the remaining days have seen little action other than preparation for the term.

To Save About $450

W. H. Goforth, district clerk, also announced that there will be no jury called for the second week. This announcement followed special arrangements on the part of the court and resulted from general cooperation. Approximately $450 is expected to be saved from this arrangement.

The grand jury selected Winfield White as chairman and the following were empaneled:

Grand jury: Grover G. Roby, Ralph M. Bourland, M. P. Scott, W. W. Neeley, Floyd W. Thompson, H. G. Graham, O. O. Adams, C. H. Caperton, S. E. Voyles, R. L. Wood, E. G. Pierce.

The civil docket was reported to be one of the lightest in years while the criminal docket will largely depend upon indictments to be made by the grand jury.

County Erosion Funds Halted

Halting applications for soil erosion relief, officials at Austin telephoned the Wellington office at 9:25 o'clock Tuesday morning and stated that no more applications were to be taken until further notice.

The instructions did not state what steps were to be taken in regard to applications already taken, but it was presumed that Collingsworth County would be allowed its allotted quota of 10,000 acres at 10 cents an acre.

At the time the applications were halted 13,212 acres had been applied for in this county.

Fall Results In Broken Hip For J. A. Richerson

J. A. Richardson fell and broke his hip while working on a chicken house at his home just south from the southwest corner of the town section last Friday afternoon.

Mr. Richardson was sitting on the edge of a trailer wheel cleaning mortar from old bricks, from which he expected to build a chicken house, when he accidentally slipped and broke his hip from the impact as he struck the ground.

Cocklebur Grows Behind Car Radiator

A cocklebur plant has reached the height of four inches in the small space between the radiator and fan on C. C. Bishop's automobile.

The plant is rooted in a bed of soil furnished by the recent dust and sand storms. The radiator has a leak and ample water is furnished the plant. Heat from the engine is propelled through the fan and Mr. Bishop believes aided in maturing the plant.

Anyway, the plant is there and Mr. Bishop is going to send the yarn to Mr. "Believe It Or Not" Ripley.

Home Economics Girls Win Honors In State Competition

Four Wellington Girls Attend State Meeting In Corpus Christi

Students of the Wellington High School ranked high in the state Home Economics Contest at Corpus Christi last week, taking one first place, one second place and one third place in competition with other district winners in Texas.

Three Win Honors

Maurine Hunt was awarded first place in the state in judging school girl's wardrobe cost.

Olivia Templeton was awarded second place in the state on her entry of homemade play equipment for children.

Frances McClure took third in state on her entry of a tailored dress made in class. Nell Terry was the other member of the Wellington group.

The four girls accompanied by their instructor, Miss Lila Allred, left Wellington last Tuesday afternoon and returned here Sunday morning. The contests lasted from April 26-27, inclusive.

Compete With 1,000

They competed with district winners from other schools in the state and Miss Allred estimates that more than 1,000 girls were entered in the contests at Corpus.

The winning of state honors is considered not only an outstanding tribute to the individual girls, but to the Wellington Schools as well, since the award brings recognition to this city and to this school system.

District Meeting For Methodists To Be Held Here, 1936

Wellington will be host for the 1936 District Conference of the Methodist Churches for the Clarendon District, Rev. T. M. Johnston stated in a long distance telephone call from Hedley Wednesday morning.

The conference will be held here either in April or May of 1936 and will include the 31 churches in this immediate district. The district also includes 17 preachers and 31 church buildings, valued at $411,500; 21 parsonages, valued at $64,000.

The churches in the division are Allanred-Heald; Allison-Briscoe; Clarendon, Clarendon District, Dodsonville, Dozier, Hedley, Hedley Circuit, Lakeview, LeFors, McLean, Memphis, Mobettie, Pampa, Plaska, Quitaque, Shamrock, Turkey, Wellington, Wellington Circuit, and Wheeler.

Dodsonville Has 63 On Honor Roll

The honor roll for the fifth six-week period of the Dodsonville Schools was announced today by W. V. Swinburn, superintendent. In commending the exceptional work of the students, Mr. Swinburn stated that a total of 63 students were placed on the honor roll for the period.

First grade—Dollie Fern Frazier, and Leland Bonneau.

Second grade—R. L. Tisdale, Harry Walker, Verna Mae Lance, Bobbie Birden, Duane Lewis, Donald Adair, Hardy Scott.

Third grade—Ralph Wynn, Ray Tyler, Wanda Birden, Frances Davis, Charline Finley, Erma Lee Hunt, and Eureka Tisdale.

Loco Students To Present Play At Rolla On Friday

"A Fortunate Calamity," the annual junior class play at Loco this year will be presented at the Rolla School Friday night, May 3, according to the announcement of Bertha Mae Vandiver today.

The play carries some unusually good comedy-drama entertainment and met with such success at Loco that the students decided to present it at Rolla.

Special music will be presented between acts.

Resigns

Miss Katherine Boverie today announced her resignation as Collingsworth County Relief Administrator. The announcement is effective Thursday morning. Pink Sullivan, local director, stated that John C. Harper has been recommended to succeed Miss Boverie.

Miss Boverie said, "Upon returning from the State Library Meeting last week I have decided to devote my entire time to County Library work and am therefore severing my connections with the Relief Affairs of the county."

Rural Teachers To Hold Annual Banquet Friday

Program Complete For Collingsworth Rural Teacher's Banquet

The Rural Teacher's Banquet will be held at the Methodist Church Friday evening, May 3, beginning at 8 o'clock, according to the announcement of E. G. Sanders, president.

Third In History

Mr. Sanders said that the price of the plates had been reduced from 80 to 70 cents each and that amount was expected to cover all expenses involved in presenting the banquet. The gathering this year will represent the third annual rural teacher's banquet of this county and every rural teacher is eligible to attend.

Mr. Sanders stated that arrange-

Rabbit Drive Is Planned May 14 In Plymouth Area

The entire Plymouth Community has been invited to attend a rabbit drive in that community on Tuesday, May 14.

The hunters will gather at the Plymouth Store and will start the drive from there. Only shotguns will be used, according to announcements which said that rifles were barred due to the danger of accidents.

The drive will start promptly at 9 o'clock and is sponsored by the agricultural association.

Honor Students For 1935 Graduating Class Is Listed This Week By Farrar

Listing five outstanding students in the 1935 graduating class G. L. Farrar, superintendent, today stated that Beatrice King had been selected as valedictorian and Jewell Frances Somerville as salutatorian.

Miss King was reported to have maintained a grade of 95.48 for the past four years, while Miss Somerville's grade for the four year period averaged 94.35.

In making the announcement Mr. Farrar also cited the work of

Band Tax Loses By Tie Vote In Tuesday Ballot

Ruling On Tie Vote Says Band Tax Failed To Carry In Wellington

125 And 125

City Attorney Says Law Requires Twelve Months Before Next Petition

One of the most unusual elections in the history of Wellington occurred here Tuesday when 250 voters marched to the polls and voted on the proposed band tax—125 said "Yes" and 125 said "No."

Fails To Carry

The result was a tie election with 125 votes on each side. In legal requirements, however, the band tax failed to carry and supporters of the measure will have to wait another 12 months before they can petition for another election, according to Richard Coker, city attorney.

"Since a majority was required for the tax to carry, the measure was technically defeated," Mr. Coker said.

The band election Tuesday created unusual interest, the total stand at 250 ballots while only 350 were cast in the recent election for city officials.

The election was called by the City Council after a petition, carrying the names of 10 per cent of the qualified voters of the city, was presented to the council. The tax, if it had passed, would have added one mill or 10 cents on each hundred dollars assessed. This would have resulted in approximately $1,500 in additional city taxes for Wellington.

Sam Ming Visits Relatives Here

Sam Ming of the U. S. Marine Corps, stationed at San Diego, Calif., is visiting his mother, Mrs. S. A. Ming, and his sister Mrs. C. W. Fritts, and family of the Plymouth Community this week.

Mr. Ming has been in the Marines for the past nine years, but is remembered in this section by many acquaintances.

Noted Temperance Speaker To Appear Here On May 15

R. S. Middleton, of Indianapolis, known throughout the country as the veteran advance man of the Flying Squadron Foundation, is again in these parts. He appeared in this city on Wednesday offering the services of Miss Norma C. Brown, of Bloomington, Illinois, vice president of the organization, for a public address on the "Oncoming War with the Liquor Traffic." Local friends of the prohibition movement were quick to recognize this opportunity and arranged for a gathering to be held in the First Baptist Church on Wednesday, May 15, at 8 p. m.

Miss Brown is nationally known as a lecturer. It is said that her discussion is comprehensive and illuminating, free from shallow emotionalism and vituperation.

Three Other Students Who Maintained Unusual Scholastic Records

Ranking in third place for girls was Lorena Alexander with an average of 91.55. Chester Morris headed the list for boys with an average of 91.9 and Clifton Morris was second place for boys with an average of 89.7.

All of the grades included an average of work done by the students during their four years in high school.

Hollow Tiling Holds Interest In This County

PLYMOUTH and SAMNORWOOD By Mrs. C. W. Fritts

Sergeant Sam Ming of the Marine Corps of San Diego, California, is visiting with his mother and sister, Mrs. S. A. Ming and Mrs. C. W. Fritts and family. Sam has served the past nine years in the Marine Corps.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Morris and son and daughter of near Altus, Oklahoma, visited Tuesday night and Wednesday with Mrs. Morris' sister, Mrs. Claud Whitfield and family.

Rev. Bright, Methodist pastor of the Dozier Heald work, preached at Samnorwood high school auditorium Sunday morning to a small crowd. There was a misunderstanding as to the hour he would preach. He will preach each first Sunday morning at 11 o'clock instead of each third Sunday as previously announced.

Mrs. Roy Shirley and daughter, Jo Fern, and Rae Ming of Dalhart visited their mother and sister, Mrs. S. A. Ming and Mrs. C. W. Fritts and family and their brother, Sam Ming, of San Diego, who is visiting in the Fritts home. The piano musical program rendered at Samnorwood Thursday evening by Miss Harvey's music class was well rendered.

The junior play, "Kicked Out of College," was well rendered by the members to a full house Friday evening. The proceeds will be used for the senior banquet which will be some time in May.

We regret to report the serious illness of Ora Blandford, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rae Blandford of Prairie View. She is confined in a Shamrock hospital with pneumonia.

Jake Montgomery and H. M. McCaskill fished near Childress, Sunday and Monday but reported no luck.

Modern Closet Costs Only $1

GILMER.—With a total cash expenditure of $1, Ivey Reynolds of Upshur county has transformed a bare unpapered clothes closet without shelves or rods into a nicely painted and papered one with shelves for folding clothing and a rod for hangers, she reports to Miss Lula M. Dilworth, home demonstration agent. Mrs. Reynolds built shelves down one side with boxes her husband had brought home from town. Old coldframe covers were used for the canvas and the paper used in papering the closet was some that had been on hand for 10 years. The rod for the hangers was an old broom handle. Her only expense was $1 for white paint with which to paint the shelves.

All's Action On Midwest Front As War Begins On Drouths, Dust Storms

Right now there is little that man can do to keep the winds from "peeling" midwestern farmlands of valuable topsoil.

What is needed at this time is rain, lots of it, that will "anchor" the powdery earth and enable the farmer to get his root crops started.

But the dust storms, and their parent, the drouth, have done some good. They have speeded action to combat the menaces which threaten to rob American farmers of millions of acres of fertile land.

For one thing, the shelter belt program has begun. Envisioning a great strip of forest, stretching from Canada to Texas, agricultural experts have begun planting seedlings in Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas. Soon the plantings will be extended to Nebraska and the Dakotas.

As a starter, 150 miles embraced by the planned shelter belt will be reforested; 30 strips, each about five miles long, being distributed among the six states. Funds made available by the new federal work-relief program may see the project through to completion.

The tree-growing program probably will not help the American farmer for 15 or 20 years. But eventually its backers believe the band of trees will prove invaluable in "breaking" winds, and holding moisture in the soil.

An enthusiastic advocate of the shelter belt is Dr. Raphael Zon, who will handle technical phases of the work. Born in Russia, where similar experiments proved successful in reducing drouth and dust, this internationally known forestry expert advises that while windbreak planting is necessary, grassy areas should also be expanded, and soil stabilized by different methods of cropping.

As the "shelter belt" gets underway, farmers are being asked to co-operate. Many, incidentally, have in years past grown their own little wind barricades.

"Strip farming," with alternate rows of tillage and grass-sod crops, is being urged. Farmers are asked to leave stubble in the fields, not burn it, until enough rain has fallen to weight down the soil.

Use of new cultivating machinery which will not crush the soil too fine is suggested.

A plan submitted to Washington by Kansas' Governor Landon calls for a speedy campaign in which farmers will use "listers," or great, oversized plows, to turn up mounds of earth crosswise to the wind direction, and stop dust drifts. The necessary tractors would use oil, gas and grease supplied by the government.

And throughout the west the federal soil erosion service has under way demonstration projects which will reveal other ways to banish the specter that hovers over the midwest.

Demonstration News By Miss Annie Mae Donaghey County H. D. Agent

I really have enjoyed my sheets since I made them three yards long; I never will worry with short sheets again, says Mrs. C. S. Graham, bedroom demonstrator of the Lillie Home Demonstration Club.

From experience I have found that in checking on how long my sheets wear that it does not pay to buy cheap sheeting that is filled with starch, Mrs. Graham added.

Model Clothes Closet
"After being tired of hanging my clothes behind a curtain for several months I decided to build me a closet," said Mrs. V. M. Brown, president of the Lillie Home Demonstration Club.

There is a rod for clothes and four shelves for the storage of work clothes and hats. The closet was built all of the way to the ceiling so that there would be a place for the storage of quilts.

In order to make the closet look lighter it has been papered with a ceiling paper.

Closet Saves Steps
"I can truly appreciate all of the steps that have been saved now since I have added three shelves to my closet for the storage of underwear and linens," said Mrs. Georgia Bartlett, wardrobe demonstrator of the Lillie H. D. Club.

These shelves are built according to what I planned to store on them so that there will not be any space lost.

"Since my little girl is getting large enough to dress herself, I have added a rod that is low, so that she may get her own clothes," Mrs. Bartlett added.

The quilt shelf has been extended across the closet above the clothes rack so that there will be plenty of space for the storage of quilts.

J. S. Dorn Given Serum Following Attack By Cat

J. S. Dorn this week continued taking serum after having been bitten and scratched last Monday night by a cat.

The cat had been attacking Mr. Dorn's chickens and he set a trap and when he started to take the animal from the trap the cat bit and scratched his hand severely. Later, the cat escaped from the trap and could not be caught. Since the animal was not available for analysis physicians thought it best to give Mr. Dorn the serums.

THE HOME OF THE SAVED

(Dedicated in memory of Eual Warrick, from one who loved him.)

O sweetly through the gloomy years
That roll their dimming veil between,
The promised goodly land appears,
Arrayed in never-fading green.
And from that peaceful, happy clime,
Transporting bursts of song arise,
And, rolling through the mists of time,
Tell us of joy that never dies.

As voyagers on the stormy deep
Look for some bright and sunny bay
Where winds and waves are hushed in sleep,
And joy lights up the happy day,
So o'er the tossing sea of years
We glance the eye and stretch the hand

Where, robed in fadeless light, appears
The border of the shining land.
There angel hosts of glorious ones,
With sinless hearts and stainless hands,
Call us in glad and loving tones,
And bid us welcome to their bands.
Hark! how their harps and voices tell

The glories of that radiant strand,
And bid us breast the waves that swell
Between us and the shining land.
Ear hath not heard, eye hath not seen,
The glories of that home of song;
Though stormy billows roll between,
I go to join the angel throng,
But of the joys beyond the tide,
The welcomes on that golden strand,
The best shall be from Him who died
To bring me to the shining land.

792 MILLION DOLLARS PAID Into The Treasury From Processing Tax

$792,000,000 paid into the Treasury, from Processing Tax. $700,000,000 paid out of this fund to farmers, for curtailing production and limiting acreage. Where did this Tax come from? About 200 million came from hogs, the same amount from cotton and wheat—the balance from sugar, tobacco, rice and peanuts. Secretary Wallace says, "It serves as the farmers' tariff, assuring him that farm prices will be as high as tariff protected city prices."

A Blow At Crop Quotas

May the farmer look to the Federal Government to enforce restrictions of crops by the imposition of a tax on production in excess of fixed quotas? "He may not," says the Federal District Court, in St. Louis. Why, because, according to the Court, crop growing is intra state matter and not subject to Federal Control. Two facts about the decision: It is the first direct blow at crop control, thru taxes, by the courts; second, it ignores the argument that what substantially affects interstate commerce is subject to Federal control under the Commerce Clause of the Constitution. Final word on this argument rests with the Supreme Court.

Men Of Steel Drawn To Early Texas Frontier For Chance At Rich Prizes

AUSTIN, Texas—The Texas-Louisiana frontier—like a magnet—drew men of steel from the strongest nations. The proudest of Spaniards, the keenest of Frenchmen, the boldest Anglo-Americans were there to share in the profits of trade with the Redmen and, if possible, to gain the rich region for their respective countries. Quite as was to be expected, the Irish were early upon the scene ready to fight for even a chance at the rich prize.

Among the first of this race to enter upon the stage, with a flourish and almost a blare of trumpets, was Philip Nolan who had been born in Belfast, Ireland, but who, under the protection of the famous General James Wilkinson and the still more famous Thomas Jefferson had turned his thoughts toward the western country almost as soon as he had immigrated to America. It was openly whispered that Wilkinson planned to detach certain territories in the Mississippi Valley from the American Union and to erect there an Empire for himself. It was no secret either that Jefferson sensed the international importance of the region and was anxious to secure, not only the Mississippi Valley, but extensive lands lying much further to the West. At the age of 20, Nolan decided to obtain permission from the Spanish authorities to engage in trade in Mexico in spite of positive prohibitory orders then in force. He wanted, he said, to catch wild horses for he knew they would bring a good profit back in Franklin, Kentucky, and in Natchez, where he had lived for a season, since horses were greatly needed in that section. He wanted still more, though he did not say so, to map the country and to share in whatever territorial gains America might enjoy. He soon found a way and, armed with a passport from the Governor of Louisiana—who, by the way, was suspected of splitting profits with him—he made a final trip into Texas in 1801, although, on a former journey, he had been taken for a spy, had been cheated out of the goods he had taken along for trading and, had been forced to take refuge among the Indians. "The freedom and independence of the savage life" could not hold him long, however, and, as soon as he had skill and prowess in the chase from his Comanche friends he finally set forth on the journey that was to bring him death instead of riches.

As soon as the Spaniards learned of his plans through certain deserters from his party they made ready to meet his guile with force, as is shown by documents that are now being translated from the Bexar Archives in the library of the University of Texas. On January 1801, Simon De Herrera wrote from Rancho de San Jose to the Governor of Texas saying: "Confidential!

"In order to protect the towns and ranches north of the colony of Nuevo Santander against the designs of the American Philip Nolan, I have set out with a detachment of one hundred soldiers—in obedience to the superior orders I have received. I will march as far as the villas of Carmargo and Revilla, and station myself on this the north side of Rio Grande, in the spot I deem most suitable for my purpose. I write this to you for your guidance so that you may communicate to me any information you may have acquired of Nolan's march, since the news you reported to the governor of the colony, dated 7 and 30 of November last.

"If you have any news for me, after you have sent back the messengers which will take this to you, you may send it through the captain at Bahia, whom I will inform of my whereabouts.

"God keep you many years." The commandant general, Pedro De Nava, likewise was concerned with Nolan's activities in Texas. On March 3, 1801, he wrote the following letter from Chihuahua, addressed to the governor ad interim of Texas.

"With your official letter number 164, dated February 4th last, I have received the testimony given by the American James Cook, and the Frenchman, Pedro Longueville. I have also received letters you inclosed which were written in English, and which were found on the former. I will study them, and if their contents reveal anything that demands defensive measures, I will communicate to you whatever may be necessary. "The aforesaid Cook must be kept under safe arrest for the reason I stated in my order dated February 17. When Antonio Leal and his wife Gertrudis de los Santos arrive, you will inform them of how grave are the suspicions as to their conduct and connection with Nolan's arising from the aforesaid declarations, so that until charges resulting therefrom are made, they will not try to claim ignorance and so that I agree to let the Frenchman Longueville go free because of your good opinion of him, nevertheless, we must be on the lookout and watch his actions.

"You must not allow him to go to Nacogdoches without our permission. Whenever he has to do so, you must notify the commandant of that post, so that he may watch his actions, and not let him leave. He must be prevented from informing Nolan of the steps that are being taken for his arrest."

It was not long until Pedro de Nava had his desired meeting with Nolan, and the Irish-American met his death. The story of the final fight is recorded by Ellis P. Bean, one of the most daring members of the invading force: "There were but eighteen of us, seven of whom were Spaniards. We arrived at the River Brazos, where we found wild horses by the thousands. It was our misfortune to be attacked by a hundred and fifty Spaniards, sent by the Commandant at Chihuahua. They surrounded our camp about one o'clock in the morning, on the 22nd of March 1801. They took the five Spaniards and one American that were guarding our horses, leaving but twelve of us, including the negro Caesar. After about ten minutes, our gallant leader Nolan was slain by a musket ball which hit him in the head. They began to fire grape-shot at us; they had brought a small swivel on a mule. He had a pen that we had built of logs to prevent the Indians from stealing from us. It was agreed that we should retreat. Our number was eleven, two of whom were wounded. We set out through a prairie, and shortly crossed a creek. Caesar stopped and surrendered himself with the ammunition to the enemy. Of the two hundred wounded men, one stopped and gave himself up. There were nine of us that stood the fire of the enemy, for the march of a half of a mile, the balls playing around us like hail. We came to a deep ravine. About three o'clock they hoisted a white flag and (through an American that was with them) told us that their commander wanted us to return to our country and not remain with the Indians. We quickly agreed to go as companions with them but not to give up our guns. It was granted and we went back and burned our gallant Nolan." Though the leader was dead and though the survivors were cast into a Mexican dungeon, the Anglo-Americans were not deterred from their westward march. The spirit of freedom lived on for Bean was bold enough to write from his prison and to reject the offer to join the royalist party, saying: "I have had the pleasure of receiving your letter, dated December the 20th, 1812; and, in answer to the same, I have to state that I am very poor, but, for all that, your king has not money to buy me, or to make me a friend to a tyrant. When I have been rocked in the cradle of liberty from infancy."

Because James Dibben of Brooklyn stole a kiss from Thomas Grant's sweetheart, Grant gave him a beating and was fined.

Pre-Centennial Exhibits Here Include Many Interesting Displays

Many Items Date Back 200 Years In Local Display

Much Interest Shown In Old Clothing, Dishes, Utensils, Guns, Etc.

With the greater part of the exhibits removed and already returned to their owners, the pre-Centennial exhibit which featured the displaying of old articles in various windows closed here last week.

The exhibits attracted wide interest from over the entire county and many of the younger generation for the first time viewed articles which they had heard discussed by the grandparents and elders.

Old Style Bean Pot—This exhibit was entered by Mrs. Martin of Dodsonville and attracted unusual interest. The crockery pot is 50 years old and was used by her grandmother to cook Boston Baked Beans during the pioneer days in Texas.

Blue Sugar Bowl—Mrs. R. W. Sweat of the Aberdeen community entered a sugar bowl purchased by her great-grandmother in 1830 in Texas. The bowl is decorated with blue floral designs and has been handed down in her family for the past four generations.

Milk Jar 200 Years Old—The brown crock milk jar, entered by Mrs. Dollie Gardner of Wellington, was one of the oldest entries in the entire exhibit. The jar has been in her family for the past two centuries and has been handed down to the oldest child in each generation. The jar is still in good condition and is used by Mrs. Gardner in her home as an ornament for a book case.

Sterling Silver Spoons—H. H. Tilford of Wellington entered three sterling silver spoons which were a wedding present to his grandfather and grandmother 130 years ago. The spoons are simple in design with "TT" decorating the center of the handles. Experts estimate that the spoons were hand-hammered. They showed little results from wear during the years.

Enamel Plate and Cup—This exhibit was entered by J. P. Yarbrough and carried significant historical connections to the old timers of this section. The cup was used 48 years ago by J. Johnnie Drew, who operated the Rocking Chair Ranch in this county.

White China Plate—A Limestone China Plate was entered by Mrs. W. O. Miniature. The plate, more than 100 years old, was imported from England. Two small chips from the side of the plate commemorate the passing of the years. The glaze is also entirely worn from the plate.

Old Rolling Pin—This exhibit served both for rolling pies and as a hammer back in the Civil War days. It was entered by Mrs. Frank Ford of Dodsonville. This article was handed down by Mrs. Ford's grandmother and is made of exceptionally hard wood. Two deep indentations in the side attest for the fact that it was occasionally used as a hammer.

Prize Loving Cups—W. W. McClaskey displayed two loving cups both won by his parents. The first cup was won by his father in 1869, when he showed the best team of horses in a fair at Bloomington, Kentucky. The other cup was won by his mother in 1870 when she proved to be the best lady rider and showed the best saddle horse at the Dallas State Fair. The cups are almost identical and are made of sterling silver.

Early Table Fork—Miss Annie Mae Donaghey entered an old fashion table fork owned by her grandmother in 1864. The fork has only two prongs, and the handle is made from deer horn. Mrs. Donaghey's grandmother started keeping house with this fork as one of her set in 1864.

China Sugar Bowl—Lena Buntin exhibited this article which is more than 200 years old and was brought from Kentucky by her.

Antique Cup—This cup is owned by Grandmother Lee and the glassy surface has long since been worn away by age.

Silverware With History—Mrs. John Forbis entered two pieces of silverware, a fork and spoon, which were presented to her grandmother by President Andrew Jackson at his inaugural ball in 1862, when she served as maid of honor for the occasion.

Old Preserve Dish—Mrs. J. M. Strong, Sr., displayed an old preserve dish which was used in her home. The dish has a large capacity of one-half gallon and was used regularly on her table. She also displayed an old glass pitcher which was very artistic. The top is of ruby red and the base is crystal. The pitcher was of unusual design and was used by her grandmother to extract pickles. A silver sugar and creamer, used by Mrs. Strong's mother, was black with age and was one of the unusual exhibits of the entire display. She also displayed three pieces from a service of six of rose china, handed down from her mother. The exhibit included a sugar bowl, cream pitcher and a plate. Pictures of Mrs. Strong's grandmother and grandfather were also shown. The pictures were in a case with a safety latch on the side.

Celery Holder—Another of Mrs. Strong's most interesting exhibits was an old fashion celery holder. This article was in a silver frame featuring cut glass holders. It holds an entire stalk of celery. A unique pickle dish of cut glass was also garnished with silver trimmings. This dish also featured a silver lid and a prong attached to the side for extracting pickles. A silver sugar and creamer, used by Mrs. Strong's mother, was black with age and was one of the unusual exhibits of the entire display.

Old Clothing Displays
Cape 125 Years Old—This cape was displayed by Mrs. L. J. Campbell and was handmade by her great-aunt, Mrs. L. L. Slade 125 years ago. The cape was elbow length of light brown, wool broadcloth, embroidered in dark brown thread. The lining was handmade and quilted with neat stitches.
Blouse 75 Years Old—The material for this blouse was brought from Old Mexico during the Civil War and was brought across the border by Alexander Wilson, father of Mrs. A. R. West and Mrs. H. I. Cagle. The blouse is white with a small blue thistle and is trimmed with blue tatting.
Skirt 55 Years Old—This skirt was made by Mrs. D. J. Vander-slice, sister of Mrs. A. R. West and Mrs. H. I. Cagle. It is made from homespun material; the top is red with the bottom in blue. Neatly embroidered designs furnish the border.

Old Wedding Skirt—This skirt belonged to H. H. Tilford's mother and is the one in which she was married 78 years ago. The waist has small pleats stitched eight inches down with flares pressed toward the bottom. It is made from taffeta and has floral borders between stripes.

Blue Chambray Bonnet—The bonnet entered by Mrs. Bert Shaw of Aberdeen was worn by Mrs. J. J. Shaw of Aberdeen. The bonnet is quilted in half inch squares, and features two ruffles; also strings in the back and under the chin. A blouse of flower-checked, fleeced material was also worn by Mrs. Shaw.

Basque Blouse—This blouse, trimmed in white sutash braid, is lined with chambric. It was entered by Mrs. Bert Shaw and was worn by Mrs. J. J. Shaw.

Woolen Party Dress—This dress now belongs to Mrs. Bob Glenn and was worn by her great grandmother, and is estimated to be 150 years old. The woolen dress features striking color combinations, green and white background with brown and orchid flower designs.

Old Coverlet Displays
Old Coverlets—These homespun coverlets were exhibited by P. E. Williams. His mother, Mrs. W. W. Williams, bought three similar coverlets and gave them to her three sons. It was dyed with tree bark and features a beautiful floral design in light rose color with a gray background.

Mrs. P. E. Williams also entered a coverlet which her mother made and gave to her. This coverlet was used in her home and is of blue and white design.

Homemade Flax Coverlet—This interesting exhibit was entered by J. L. O'Hair. It is 85 years old, and was dyed from tree bark and roots. The color combination featured red and blue on a cream background in symmetrical designs.

Homespun Wool Blanket—This blanket was displayed by Dick Wiley and was made by his mother. It has been in use for the past 45 years.

Old Spinning Wheel—This article, which has been in Mr. Wiley's family for the past 145 years was one of the most interesting exhibits of the entire group of displays.

Homespun Quilt—This quilt was made by Grandmother Lee eight years ago. She made it on an old spinning wheel that was brought from Tennessee in 1890.

Firearm Displays
Powder Horn—This article was given to Mrs. R. W. Sweat of Aberdeen by Granville Bell, who was killed during the Civil War.

Another powder horn which belonged to Mrs. Bob Glenn's grandmother also demanded attention. This horn was decorated with designs.

Bullet Mold—This article was entered by W. C. Ketner of Aberdeen. This mold was used for shaping bullets in the early days of Texas. He also entered a box of old fashion caps used for setting off powder. A leather bag for carrying hunting equipment.

Winchester Shotgun—This gun is also owned by Mr. Ketner and was bought by his grandfather as a boy. It was used for hunting and killing turkeys. The gun is approximately four feet in length.

Old Musket—This gun is owned by George Richards and belonged to his grandfather.

Gun Went Through Wars—A "Killdevil" gun owned by C. W. Poteet of the Nicholson Community, was owned by his family and is more than 200 years old. It was used through the Mexican and Civil Wars.

Old Fashion Rifle—Uncle Billy Clark displayed an old fashion rifle which was handed down through his family and was used as a hunting iron in the early days.

.44 Calibre Winchester—This gun was shown by Mrs. Willie Knoll and is thought to be around 90 years old.

Historic Winchester—A .44 calibre Winchester was displayed by Ted Johnson. This gun was used in the later '70's and early '80's in the fence cutting days in Cook, Clay, Wichita and Archer Counties. It was also used in the Martin mob fight on Dry Creek in Young County, January, 1889, in which several lives were lost, and others were wounded.

In a group of guns from the Crews collection and shown by Charles Crews was displayed a most unusual collection of firearms. Included in the group was a Fling gun made at Harper's Ferry in 1828. Another gun in the collection featured a tall holder.

Cap and Ball Pistol—This gun of approximately 7 inches in length was displayed by Pink Sullivan who said that it came from New Orleans.

Books of Account—C. R. Pruitt placed on display two books of account, one owned by his grandfather and the other by his great-grandfather.

Baby Shoes—Baby shoes worn by M. F. Hunter were included in the display. The shoes are red lace with black toe caps.

100-Year-Old Kettle—A teakettle more than 100 years old was entered by Ted Johnson.

Two Old Razors—This entry was made by Bill McClaskey who said that the razors were imported from Ireland in 1812. They have bone handles and the blades are well over a fourth of an inch in thickness at the tops.

Was Early Dentist—A pair of forceps, displayed by Judge E. H. Small, recalled the early days around Aberdeen Community and the old Rocking Chair Ranch. The forceps were used 40 years ago to pull teeth of the complaining pioneers. After Judge Small had pulled the necessary teeth, the old timer would let his mouth heal up and then go to Vernon, where he would secure plates.

Old Mirror—One hundred years is the estimated age of a mirror placed on display by Mrs. W. A. Morrow of the Fresno Community. The mirror came from a dresser which belonged to her grandmother.

UJ Branding Iron—This iron belongs to George Richards and was his father's iron. The letters UJ were chosen by Mr. Richards because his friends called him "Uncle Jimmy."

Old Conch Shell—This article reported to be more than 100 years old, was entered by Mrs. W. O. Miniature.

A Warp Spool—Exhibited by Mrs. Martha Kensley, the old warp spool was estimated at 200 years of age. The purpose of the spool was for winding thread.

Valuable Bible—Mr. Robey displayed a Bible printed in 1758. The Book was brought from Ireland. It has been handed down in the family and was given to Mrs. Robey by her great aunt. The spelling in the book is slightly different from that employed today; Jesus is spelled throughout as "Jefus." The library at Canyon has made efforts to gain the Bible, but due to objects of more distant relatives it remains in the family.

Mrs. J. F. Lambert who demonstrated on the R. D. Wiley spinning wheel, was taught to spin at the age of 16 years by her mother. She spins cotton and wool for making gloves and socks and states that each winter she knits two pair of socks for her husband. Mrs. Lambert used to dye her own material from the bark of walnut and maple trees. She states that it took her one day to gather the material and make enough dye to color 50 yards of material. She also states that the thicker dyes from these barks were sometimes used as ink.

FOR FULL MOTOR PROTECTION

Say "OK-Drain" - FILL WITH CONOCO GERM PROCESSED MOTOR OIL

Modern cars must have oil with extra oiliness

THE development since 1931 of motors of 80 to 180 horsepower has brought about correspondingly increased bearing pressures and crankcase temperatures. Motor manufacturers have turned to new alloy metals of extra strength and durability to meet these new conditions.

For full protection of such motors, you must have oil with enough extra oiliness and film strength to get safe lubrication under extreme pressure and heat.

Yet motor oils generally have no more oiliness and film strength now than they had ten years ago. Some oils have less, because over-refining to eliminate carbon and sludge has robbed them of oiliness and film strength.

There is one exception—Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. It, too, is free from carbon and sludge troubles, as its users know after millions of trouble-free miles of driving. But more important, Almen and Timken machine tests prove it has more oiliness and 2 to 4 times the film strength of any straight mineral oil! That added oiliness and film strength protect your motor under all conditions.

Germ Processing—adding concentrated oily essence to highly-refined oil—gives other valuable advantages. Because Germ Processed Oil penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, a "Hidden Quart" stays up in your motor and cuts down starting-period wear. Germ Processed Oil gives longer mileage with greater motor protection, as proved by the famous Indianapolis Destruction Test.

Say "O.K.—Drain"—fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and get full motor protection!

By H. D. W.

The band tax election came out even. When the people started phoning up The Leader office Tuesday night to ask how the election came out, I would tell them—125. They would wait for me to say more, and I wouldn't say anything, for that was what it was. As soon as they could get their breath they would start to ask questions in earnest. Finally I had to tell each one that it was a tie. Then they wanted to know what I intended to do about it. I told some of them that I favored a battle royal between the ayes and the noes, and I told others that I favored a foot race to decide the winner. The truth is that I do not intend to do anything about it. The City Council will canvass the election, and until that is done there is nothing for me to say.

I have heard of close elections before, in which one man won by one vote, but I do not remember one in which it was a tie. I remember the case of one school trustee who was defeated by only one vote. He received one vote and his opponent received two. The general impression was that the defeated candidate voted for himself, and that the victorious one voted for himself and his wife did also. But as far as my knowledge goes, I do not know of an election held in recent years that was as close as our recent band election.

S. R. Pinkston likes to collect old things. His wife says that he would carry off a tombstone if it was old. Anyway he read the other day about the difficulty a certain historian had in finding a buggy whip and a whip stock. Pinkston decided he had to have one also. He told Lloyd Ball of his problem. When Lloyd finally realized that Pinkston was in earnest, he leaned back and let out a laugh that could be heard across the square. "You want me to find you a buggy whip," he asked. He was promptly informed that such was the case. Lloyd took him by the hand and led him into Fred Lederer's. There in the back was a whole rack of—not antiques, but buggy whips that Fred had for sale. I am still debating as to whether it is a joke on Pinkston's knowledge of relics or whether it is an index of Fred Lederer's modern merchandise methods. When put together they make me think of the band election.

About seven families certainly had trouble last week when the Shirley Temple contest was over at the school building. Chuck Collins' little girl won the contest in the opinion of the judges but it was announced that she was not entered. She promptly wanted to know why she couldn't have the doll as she was the prettiest. Little Betty Jean Robertson was lovely and deserved her prize. But that didn't help the situation in the other households. The same thing happened to all of them, and my own daughter just went over and took hold of the doll when they brought it out on the stage. She thought she had already won it.

I had a hunch that she would not come out first, and I told my wife to buy her a doll before the contest was held. I figured she was a little young to learn how bitter defeat can be. Therefore, I wanted to postpone it for a few years. It is the finest lesson that any person can have, but I didn't want it to happen so early that she would forget it. But it happened anyway. I bought another doll the next morning, but that didn't help much, for what Diane wanted was to win the doll at the contest. And if any of you think it is easy to try and tell a three-year-old girl why she was not best, then you have another guess coming. She didn't cry, but she kept saying after each one of my carefully worded explanations: "Well, Daddy, why didn't I win the doll?"

The reason I know how Diane would feel was that I suspected that she might have inherited a little of her father's unhappy competitive instinct. It does not run in the family, for as everyone knows, Clay Sullivan likes to play just to be playing. She doesn't care whether she wins or loses. (Anybody that believes this about Clay ought to see a doctor, for they are mentally sick.) But with me it is a part of life. Diane never said she was going down to be in a show. She said, consistently, that she was going down to win the doll. Unfortunately that is the way I always did feel. I never played any game just to be playing, I played to win the contest. Whether it was marbles, baseball, basket ball, football or anything else, I wanted to win. Even today I have a useless knee, two knotty ribs and a weak hand as a result of trying to make up in fury for what nature had denied me in muscle.

Jackie's Some "Kid," Eh, Charlie?

Who's that rough-looking man talking to our Charlie? Why... no, it can't be... Yessirree, it is! It's none other than Jackie Coogan, who made good with Charlie in that picture of long ago, "The Kid," a scene from which is shown below. And evidently Jackie's visit brought poignant memories to the famed waddling comedian.

When the blow came I didn't try to shield my girl, I simply told her that she did not do good enough, and that the next time she would have to sing louder. That may sound silly, but she could understand singing louder, but she might not have understood an intricate number of details. As I said the lesson should have been valuable, but I doubt if it will be. Four years later it would have been. At three a child's world revolves around them—completely and absolutely. They do not attempt to rationalize the surrounding world. They think only in terms of themselves. Later on they learn that other children have rights and that other people must be taken into consideration, but in their early years they think only of themselves. On this limited foundation parents must try to build a character on which can be erected courage, virtues, honesty, tolerance, intelligence and industry. —Sometimes I wonder how people raise families of ten, when I can't figure out how to raise one.

Postscript: Don't anybody leave this county. It will rain enough by May 31, and that is plenty of time.

Trench Silo Aid On Dairy Farm

FALFURRIAS.—A 30 ton trench silo filled with hegari bundles is being used by John Negri, Brooks county dairyman, to carry his dairy herd until Sudan pasture is available, according to Louis Franke, county agricultural agent. The work of constructing the silo, harvesting the feed, and filling the silo cost Mr. Negri $18, and this figure includes his own labor at current prices.

More than 50 persons have visited the Negri farm to observe the silo while construction, filling, and feeding operations were under way. The trench silo is new to Brooks county, but Negri's demonstration plus the current shortage of roughage has converted many local dairymen to this economical method of storing feed, according to the county agent.

Maytag To Visit In Wellington

Fred Maytag II To Be In Wellington Tuesday, May 7

Fred Maytag II, grandson of the Founder of the 42 year old Maytag Company, Washing Machine Manufacturers at Newton, Iowa, is visiting Maytag dealers, managers and salesmen in Texas in an extended tour of Texas and the United States. He will be in Texas throughout the remainder of the month of April and May and possibly part of June. He will visit LeDerer Hardware and Furniture Co., Maytag dealer at Wellington on May 7.

"The name 'Maytag' associated with washing machines is really the name of the family manufacturing the product and not a trade name, believed by many to be intended as a symbol to denote 'May-Day' or a new freedom from wash day drudgery," explained Mr. Holland, district manager of the Maytag organization.

Fred Maytag II is following the footsteps of his father, E. H. Maytag, who is president of the Maytag Company, and that of his grandfather, F. L. Maytag, who at the age of 77 is still active in the concern and has often visited the Texas Maytag organization also.

After graduating from Culver Military Academy and Wisconsin University, Fred Maytag II at the age of 23 made an extended tour around the world, which included a month of big game hunting in the jungles of Ceylon and also a tour into the interior of China, where he was lost to outside communication for several weeks.

Upon return to the United States he joined the Maytag Company and is first becoming acquainted with the immense Maytag organization by visiting its dealers in the various states. Between visits he has produced and edited a film depicting the making of the Maytag Aluminum Washer, which will be shown to the Maytag organization in this vicinity at a group meeting to be held at Childress on May 7.

To Be Here

Cotton States Plant Larger Feed Acreage

Lint Area Not Likely To Be Influenced By Shifted Planting

NEW YORK—Southern farmers plan a substantial increase this season in acreages of crops other than cotton and will plant the second largest non cotton acreage in many years, according to the New York Cotton Exchange Service.

In past years, the report points out, an increase in noncotton acreage tended to indicate a decrease in cotton plantings but under the agricultural adjustment administration program, with much land taken out of cotton, the relationship is much less significant.

Changes Not Uniform "Farmers in the western part of the Cotton Belt will increase substantially their acreage of feed crops," the exchange service said, "while tobacco acreage will be increased in the Eastern Belt. Aside from tobacco, however, Eastern and Central Belt farmers probably will decrease their acreage of noncotton crops. "Growers in the ten principal cotton-growing states intend to plant about 47,254,000 acres to crops other than cotton this spring, as compared with 46,008,000 acres last spring, an increase of 2.7 per cent. Corn acreage is expected to be increased very slightly to 27,624,000 acres against 27,532,000 last season. If plantings are equal to farmers' intentions, the acreage to all spring-planted crops except cotton in the South will be the largest since 1932."

Cotton acreage last year was reduced 12,217,000 acres or 30.8 per cent from the previous year but the acreage of other crops was increased only 948,000 acres, or 2.1 per cent. Net reduction in total acreage (including cotton) was 11,269,000 acres, or 13.3 per cent, indicating that these acres were fallow or used for pasture.

Texas Has More Feed "Texas, Oklahoma and, to a certain extent, Arkansas farmers are planting to expand corn acreage considerably and to plant more grain sorghums, oats and barley.

4-H Boys Show $2,100 Profit

ELDORADO.—Seven Schleicher county 4-H club boys received a total of $2100 for their club work during 1934, according to C. Snell, county agricultural agent. The boys fed out 112 head of lambs and won $409 in prize money at two shows. The sale price for the lambs varied from seven and one-half cents to $3.50 per pound. Cecil Moore sold his prize winning club lamb at $3.50 per pound, and Edgar Sauer sold his lamb for $1 per pound. A car load of lambs brought $9.75 per hundred.

Producer Income Considered First In Cotton Exports

Every Effort Concentrated To Increase Exports AAA Leader States

Past experience has shown that it is the cotton producer who would suffer in any attempt to force increased cotton exports by increasing the supply and lowering the price. Agricultural Adjustment Administration officials believe that to force cotton exports would not be to the best interest of either growers or those who handle the crop and that the net income of both groups would suffer in the long run.

"It is highly important that we continue to make every effort possible to expand cotton exports, but at a price at which farmers can afford to produce it," says Gully Cobb, director of the Cotton Division of the Adjustment Administration. "We are producing and will continue to produce all the cotton that can be sold at a fair price, both on the domestic and the foreign markets. The important problem before cotton producers is not only the effect of price on cotton exports, but the effect of rice on the man who grows the exported cotton."

One of the most outstanding illustrations of the sacrifice which producers make during a period when exports are expanding on the basis of price alone occurred in the three year period from 1923 to 1926 inclusive.

Supplies of American cotton in the 1923-24 season were about 13 million bales and the price averaged 28.7 cents per pound. In the 1926-27 season, supplies had increased to about 23 million bales and the price had dropped to 12.5 cents per pound. During these years, foreign consumption of American cotton increased 3,150,000 bales and the supply of American cotton increased more than 10 bales.

Exports increased nearly five million bales but the value of the cotton exported in the 1926-27 season dropped 128 million dollars below the farm value of the cotton exported in the 1923-24 season.

Producers not only received less money for the 1926-27 exports but they had less land on which to produce food and feed crops, and they were put to the additional expense of producing, harvesting and marketing the additional five and one-half million bales of cotton.

"During this period the United States succeeded in increasing export of cotton but did so at the expense of the American cotton grower," says Mr. Cobb. "The grower not only received less money for growing more cotton but he increased the supply of American cotton in foreign markets and added to the total burden of surplus which continued as a price-depressing influence."

"In the two years in which the cotton program has been in effect, the price has increased from an average of 6.5 cents per pound to an average of more than 12 cents per pound. Our total carry-over of cotton is expected to be about six million bales smaller at the end of the present marketing season than it was at the beginning of the cotton program and the carry-over should be still further reduced under the provisions of the 1935 program."

Canyon Students To Visit Mexico In Spanish Work

WYON.—The Department of Agriculture at the West Texas State University is sponsoring a 15-day tour to Mexico City, leaving here June 22 and returning July 6. Five days will be spent in Mexico City.

The itinerary includes Monterey, El Martain, Jacala, Mexico City, Mont Morrelos, and Saltillo. Besides inclusive tours of the city, special trips will be arranged for the city of Mexico. These will include a trip to the Desert of Lions, a trip into the mountains to the old Monastery, and a trip to the lovely Borda Gardens, where the late U. S. Ambassador Dwight L. Morrow had his summer home and Lindbergh courted Ann. Special arrangements will be made for those interested in attending the National University during the summer session.

Frank R. Phillips of the Agriculture Department and Miss Mary E. Hudspeth of the Spanish Department of the college are promoting the tour. The cost of the trip will be $100 per person.

Just A Trunkline Traffic Jam

Elephants are known to have good memories, but these tuskers evidently forgot themselves when they laid down on the job on a Los Angeles thoroughfare. It was a circus while it lasted, what with crowds and stalled traffic and all, but the creatures finally arose and lumbered on about their business.

Cotton Committees Say Tampering With Process Tax Would Be Fatal

COLLEGE STATION.—Tampering with processing taxes will meet the determined opposition of cotton producers, according to a statement issued here by the Texas Cotton Advisory Committee at its first meeting.

The committee, composed of cotton producers from every section of the State who have been elected to voice the opinions of cotton producers in regard to the present and future cotton programs elected C. H. Day, Hale County, as chairman, V. C. Marshall, Bell County, vice chairman, C. H. Matthews, Colorado County, secretary, and an executive committee composed of J. R. McCrary, Calvert; Donald Cothran, Calviness; and H. C. Lucas, Brownwood.

AAA Thanks Group
Grateful acknowledgement to the National Administration and the AAA for the great part they have had in the recovery of agriculture was made in the statement, and support was pledged to the cotton program both in its processing tax feature and the adjustment contract in the following words:

"We recognize that while we are coming out of the emergency period, it is of major importance to begin the development of a safe and long time program and to preserve for agriculture the compensatory tax that off-sets the high cost of living caused by protective tariff, and to fight against the elimination of the processing tax, and the three-bale amendment known as the Doxie Amendment which would totally destroy the control program."

It was pointed out that farmers are paying their share of the processing tax. According to statistics, a considerable percentage of the amount raised in this way is paid by the rural population.

Full membership of the committee is: C. H. Day, Plainview, Hale County, chairman; V. C. Marshall, Heidenheimer, Bell County, vice-chairman; C. H. Matthews, Eagle Lake, Colorado County, secretary; J. R. McCrary, Calvert, Robertson County; Donald Cothran, Calviness, Lamar County; M. A. Pillars, Wheeler, Wheeler County; J. W. Hammond, Tye, Taylor County; W. A. Satterwhite, Fort Worth, Tarrant County; L. G. Lucas, Brownwood, Brown County; and J. O. Cooper, Center, Shelby County.

The purpose of the committee is to help with the formulation and administration of present and future cotton programs in cooperation with similar committees from other cotton producing states and with the Cotton Section of the AAA. The members of the committee were elected by cotton producers through the cotton communities all over the state.

Realizing that this is the cotton farmer's own program and that the welfare of the cotton producers depends on its success, the intention of continuing the study, development and support of cotton programs was voted unanimously by the group. Recommendations for changes and improvements will be made to the Cotton Section from time to time as seems needed. Full text of the statement follows:

Statement Is Given

"We the Texas Cotton Advisory Committee, elected to express the views of the cotton producers of the State, wish to call attention to the fact that an overwhelming majority of cotton producers favor the cotton control measures now in effect and we wish these measures continued as they stand. We resent the attempts to cripple or destroy the program which has so greatly benefitted the cotton growers of the State, and indirectly the public in general. We are opposed to these various attempts such as the Doxie Amendment, exempting three bales to every producer, and the attempt to transfer the source of the benefit payments from processing taxes to the work Relief Bill. These measures if put into effect would substitute temporary programs which might be discontinued at any time for the processing tax which is just and fair to everyone. We call upon the cotton growers of Texas, particularly to the growers' community and county committees, to voice their views in these matters to their representatives and senators and to correct any impression in the public mind as to the value of the adjustment program or to the purpose behind these attempts to cripple this program. We recognize that while we are coming out of the emergency period, it is of major importance to begin the development of a safe and long time program and to preserve for agriculture the compensatory tax that off-sets the high cost of living caused by protective tariff, and to fight against the elimination of the processing tax and since the 1935 regulation takes care of the small producer by exempting 100 per cent from tax those farms with production history of two bales or less to oppose the three-bale amendment known as the Doxie Amendment which would totally destroy the control program."

which the applicant resides, Mr. Stovall stated.

The government expects to plant 25 miles in strips of trees, 10 rods (or 165 feet) wide in this county during the first year and plans to continue the planting for a period of three years.

Purchasers will visit the applicants in the near future and discuss the desirability of proposed land as a shelterbelt strip. Land which is being damaged by wind erosion will probably be given a choice. The applications are not binding within themselves and terms will be later stipulated in a contract for buying the land or leasing the land with an option to buy strips upon which the trees are to be planted. Provided the farmer cannot agree with the purchaser he can withdraw his application and not sign contracts, Mr. Stovall said.

After the sites have been selected, contracts will be made and cultivation of the land will be started, according to the proposed program. Trees are to be planted next winter. Only community labor is to be used on this project.

The types of trees to be planted are varied including wild plum, osage orange, Chinese elm, black locust, walnut, pecan, and many others. All strips will be fenced. Chairmen of the agricultural associations over the county will be named in The Leader as soon as they have been elected and can pass more detail information to the members of their organizations.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION

The many advantages of developing a rural electrification program in our section, using the enormous gas output of the Panhandle field as a means of power, can be visualized in the progress already made in the water power program of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Building of power lines into the rural sections there has already brought a marked advancement in farm life, and has acquainted the farmer with the many possibilities which electricity holds for him.

A typical example of the development of electrical service by the Tennessee Valley Authority can be found in the work that has been done in Alcorn County, Mississippi. The details of the power set up there are of especial interest.

For a number of years, the people of Corinth, in Alcorn County, owned the power plant, but later sold it to the Mississippi Power Company. Early in 1934, the Tennessee Valley Authority acquired a considerable amount of power company's property, including the distribution system in and around Corinth.

The townspeople and farmers in the county organized a non-profit corporation and every consumer was eligible to membership. This corporation then entered into a contract with the Tennessee Valley Authority to buy electricity at wholesale rates from the plant at Muscle Shoals. The Authority agreed to transfer the county electric properties to the corporation at the price originally paid for these properties.

The consumer-owned corporation decided to charge the same rates to town and rural users, averaging the cost of the service over all the people of the county. The existing rates were cut in half, and were made to include a sufficient charge to help amortize payments on the system. All surplus above operating expense, interest, taxes and depreciation, and a certain reserve for new construction, was to be used to pay off the debt as quickly as possible.

The immediate response was remarkable. People had previously felt that they were not able to purchase electrical equipment because of the high rates, and had kept their consumption of electricity at a minimum, but with the advent of the new service, they began to buy these conveniences. Consumption of electricity rose, and farmers on new rural lines were served for the first time. After only three months of operation, the corporation had over $6,000 in hand to pay on its indebtedness and on new lines throughout the county, after taking care of all other expenses.

At the present rate that electricity is being used in Alcorn County, it is estimated that the corporation will have paid off its total indebtedness in about five years, including the cost of new lines being built for it by the Authority. It was estimated when the corporation was formed that at least twelve years would be required to care for the indebtedness. And all of the surplus goes back to the consumers, either in reduced rates or in increased conveniences and service.

The success of the electrification program in Alcorn County is merely one example of the work being done by the Tennessee Valley Authority.

In our own section we have a vast gas field covering 1,300,000 acres of land, equaling many times all the water power of the Tennessee Valley. At the present time, thousands of dollars are being lost each day in the immense volume of gas being blown into the air. Here is potential power which could be harnessed to serve the Panhandle region in such a way that the individual citizen, whether he lives in town or country, can share in the benefits.

Morris Kellar of Cleveland was sent to jail for two weeks on a charge of binding and gagging his wife when she reproached him for being drunk.

POINTERS ON SPRING GARDENS

County Agent Lists Suggestions For Erradicating Garden Pests
By John O. Stovall

Spring gardens are beginning to show up and attract the attention of the English Sparrows. I would suggest that a little poison grain be used to eradicate them. Take 1-8 ounce of strychnine, 1 1-2 teaspoon starch and make a thick paste using cold water. Add 3-4 cup hot water to this paste and pour over 1 quart of clean wheat. Spread out and allow to dry then place the grain in pans or on boards in the garden or other places where the chickens would not have access to the grain.

Poison Bran Bait For Cut Worms
25-lb wheat bran, 1 pound white arsenic or Paris green, 2 quarts of cheap molasses, 2 to 3 gallons of water, 6 lemons or orange and peels finely ground, mix the bran and arsenic thoroughly then add the other ingredients and mix thoroughly. For grasshoppers add 3-4 ounce technical grade amy acetate to above mixture.

Look Out For These Insects
Colorado Pota Beetle—Yellow and black striped beetles of roundish outline, together with their orange colored larvae, both feeding on the foliage of tomatoes and potatoes. Spray with lead arsenate or calcium arsenate, 3 teaspoons in a gallon of water or dust lightly with same materials while dew is on the plants.

Cut Worms—Dark colored worms curled up in soil about base of various plants, the stalks of which they cut off at the ground line at night. Apply poison bran mash in very small quantities at base of plants.

Grasshoppers—Description unnecessary. Feeding on all plants. Broadcast poison bran mash lightly over area being damaged and about bordering margins and rass lands.

White Grubs—White, lying curled up in soil about roots of various plants, including potatoes, and feeding entirely on these underground parts, never coming to the surface. Dig out and destroy. Poison applications ineffective. Keep garden soil broken and cultivated as regularly as possible to avoid future damage.

Plant Lice—Soft bodied, usually greenish insects infesting various plants in immense numbers. Thoroughly mix one inch cube of laundry soap and one and one-half teaspoons black leaf forty in one gallon rain water and apply thoroughly as strong spray.

Tomato Worms—Long green worms with thorn on end of body. Feed on tomato leaves. Easily controlled by spray of arsenate of lead or calcium arsenate, six level teaspoons in one gallon of water, or some material dusted while dew is on plants.

Cabbage Worms—Several kinds, some greenish and others dark. All eat holes in leaves. Apply arsenate of lead or calcium arsenate, six level teaspoons in one gallon of water, or dust thoroughly with some material while dew is on the plants.

Striped Cucumber Beetle—Small black and yellow striped beetle, inclined to feed on stem of plants at or just beneath ground line. Apply nicotine dust under cover as advised in Pest Circular No. 10.

SLAVERY CONTINUES

That the slave trade is still carried on in no less than 15 different countries, several of which are members of the League of Nations, is the declaration of Ignatius Phayre in the April issue of Current History.

He cites Chino, Liberia and Abyssinia particularly as slave-trading countries. In China many millions are held in slavery, even in the more advanced provinces, and it is hard to imagine conditions in the remote regions beyond control of the Nanking Government. Only recently an international commission charged that in Liberia a large slave trade was carried on under the sanction of the government, which profits from the traffic. It is estimated that at least two million are held in slavery in Abyssinia.

Such conditions seem quite abhorrent to civilized people today, but when it is remembered that it is only a little more than 70 years since slavery was a recognized institution in the United States, it is not strange that it is still found in the countries mentioned.

Much progress has been made in recent years, however, in the direction of reducing the prevalence of slavery in parts of the world in which it still exists.

HOW TO AVOID WAR

In view of the belief of most informed observers that sooner or later another war of large proportions in Europe is inevitable, measures have been proposed whereby the United States, by making certain definite declarations in advance, might keep out of it.

Some of the declarations suggested are as follows:

Inform the world that our government will not lend funds to any belligerent for war purposes, nor permit individual citizens to do so. Also that sales or shipments of goods of any kind to belligerents will be prohibited.

Notify our own people that American vessels will not be permitted to sail in waters of any disputed area, and that travel by American citizens into belligerent countries will be prohibited except for reasons of the most urgent necessity.

Disavow responsibility for protecting Americans who violate the foregoing provisions, and announce in advance that any who disregard them do so at their own risk.

If Europeans knew positively in advance that they could obtain no money, munitions or supplies of any kind from the United States there would be far less danger of their going to war than there is now. By announcing immediately a policy such as is outlined in the foregoing, this country could serve the cause of world peace more effectively than in any other way.

SURGERY'S ADVANCE

Some of the recent amazing advances by surgery were enumerated by Malcolm T. MacEachern in an address this month, in which he credited surgery, X-rays and radium with no less than 26,000 positive cancer cures.

Great progress also has been made in the treatment of goiter, the death rate from which was as high as 20 percent, now reduced to less than one per cent in the best hospitals.

In the surgery of the stomach and gall bladder, death rates formerly reaching 20 to 30 per cent have been cut to about 6 per cent. Today practically any part of the brain may be operated on and many heretofore incurable conditions corrected. Even the heart has been subjected to the surgeon's knife with success in some cases. Several feet of intestine may now be removed with substantial safety to the patient. In the treatment of serious fractures, limbs which would have been amputated in the past are now saved in many cases.

Surgeons are now able to open the chest with little danger to the patient, and draining the chest cavity of pus is now common. Tuberculosis has been successfully controlled by surgical means, under certain conditions.

The wonderful advances in medicine and surgery are contributing inestimable benefits on mankind in the relief of suffering and in prolonging life. It is tragic that so much of the science and art of healing is counteracted by human carelessness, especially by fools who drive automobiles without regard for life or limb.

BIGGEST RANCH SPLIT

At last the greatest single real estate tract under private ownership in the world is to be broken up and divided among the heirs of its former owner. It is the famous King ranch in Texas, comprising 1,200,000 acres, larger than the state of Rhode Island.

This vast estate was the personal empire of Captain Richard King, who died a half century ago, the nucleus of which he bought from Mexican owners in 1853. He added to his holdings from time to time, encouraged settlers, built towns and railroads, and raised prodigious herds of cattle.

It is related that a few years ago when meat packers were very short of cattle and in the market for 20,000 head, a representative of the King Ranch who happened to be in Chicago said he could supply them. The packers were skeptical and asked that the ranch be wired to find out whether such a large number really could be furnished. The answer came: "Yes; do you want Shorthorns or Herefords?"

After Captain King's death in 1885, Mrs. King managed the vast estate, with the aid of her son-in-law, Robert J. Kleberg, for 40 years until her death in 1925 at the age of 94. Kleberg died about three years ago, and the big ranch will be divided, and the world will probably never see its like again.

WISCONSIN CHEESE LAW

In order to increase the use of cheese, one of the state's important products, the Wisconsin Assembly has passed a law requiring that one-third of an ounce of cheese must be provided as a part of every meal costing 25 cents or more served by any hotel or restaurant in the state.

The bill was passed by a large majority, although one lady legislator objected on the grounds that it would tend to increase the waistline of Wisconsin women.

Fortunately for those who do not like cheese, the law does not require them to actually eat it. A restaurant patron may take his portion home and bait a mouse trap with it if he prefers.

The Great American Home

OUR PAST

By C. C. BISHOP

When David Crockett a member of the lower house of our National Congress from Tennessee was defeated for re-election he decided to come to Texas and help with the efforts that Texas was putting forth to free herself from Mexico.

Crockett arrived in Texas in time to engage in the battle of the Alamo, and being killed in this battle on March 6, 1836, just thirty days after landing on Texas soil.

His body was burned the afternoon of the same day of the battle with the rest of the hundred and eighty some odd other dead Texans that lost their lives.

This hero had a family in Tennessee that he left when coming to Texas to help us with our battles. Too often we are inclined to forget the families of our heroes. His family was composed of his wife Elizabeth Crockett, and his only son, Robert Patton.

They left their home in Gibson County, Tennessee in 1854 for Texas to make their home, and first settled on the Trinity River, in the eastern part of the territory now embodied in Ellis County.

She remained there only a short time before locating on the David Crockett headright, a league of land patented by the State of Texas to Elizabeth Crockett as the surviving widow of David Crockett, said land being situated between Buckner's and Long Creeks, in Hood County.

There she lived with her son in a rude cabin about six miles east of Granbury, that Robert Crockett built with his own hands, until 1860 when she died.

She was buried in the Acton cemetery, on Walnut Creek, some five miles south of her home. The little village of Acton was the first established by white men west of Fort Worth.

Mainly due to the efforts of Senator Ward, the Thirty-Second Legislature appropriated $2,000.00 and had a monument erected over the grave of this notable pioneer woman.

Since its erection her grave has become a historic shrine which is visited annually by many hundreds of people. The road from the highway to the cemetery, however, at present is inconvenient for travelers being narrow and at places running through sandbeds.

There is an endeavor to have the State Highway Department designate a highway for a distance of three miles from the old Acton cemetery, in which is located the grave of Mrs. Crockett to Highway No. 10, leading from Fort Worth to Granbury.

Already the bridge over the Brazos River, where the highway crosses that stream at Granbury, has been dedicated to the memory of Robert Patton Crockett, who with his mother settled near where the bridge now stands in 1854 and maintained a toll bridge near where they resided in an humble cottage. It is proposed that by 1986 a marker be set up at the east entrance of the bridge with

The Repentance Of Sin

Text: Luke 15:11-24

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 5.

Three things that have been very real all through human history are dealt with in this lesson.

The reality of sin needs very little emphasis. We see the evidences of it on every hand, and the records of the past speak chiefly of what we find in our own age.

Here is this tragic record of the prodigal son, leaving a good home and a kind father, going out into life to have his fling, to waste himself and his substance. It is the old, familiar story of sin and the allurements of sin that turns out to be a snare and a tragedy.

In this, also, the story is not old. It is the story of what is happening in many lives today.

If that were the whole story, life indeed would be dark and dismal. But the worth of our study of Sunday school lessons, and of our teaching of them, is found in the fact that there is a way out of the abyss of sin.

Man may rise from his mistakes and errors. He may still be the bird with the broken pinion, never able to soar quite so high again; for it is true that though sins be forgiven, they often leave their indelible marks and their effects.

But even broken by sin in body and soul, man may find a new peace with God and the beauty and glory of a new life.

How can this be found, The one gateway to it is repentance. When the prodigal son came to himself and turned from his sin, he had made the first step toward the new life. In coming to himself he was on the way to his father's house, and on the way to God.

Sin is always a departure from one's self and from one's best. Repentance is the way of return to oneself as well as to God.

Repentance is the first great evidence of faith. It is not the full flowering of faith, though it is something more than despair and disgust with sin.

Repentance is disgust with sin in effective action. It is the strength of one's turning that constitutes his repentance. Repentance is the beginning of what faith fulfills in man, in the salvation of man from sin.

Paul said, "I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth."

It is the nature and quality of the Gospel that it is defined by its fruits. It is not a theory; it is not even just a beautiful teaching; it is an effective power of God upon which men may lay hold and under which they may find their lives transformed.

Would God that in every story of prodigal sons there might be as happy an ending as in the great parable of the Scripture! Why not? The same power is working in the world today as then, and those who have wandered far away may return and find a father's grace.

If human fathers fail, there is no failure with the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ and Our Father.

WELLINGTON

People . . . Places . . . Philosophy

By Jimmie Gilentine

With the fishing season officially declared open May 1, I am thinking that quite a few lines are going to get wet during the next few days. Of course there will be some fishermen who will make a run for the creek or pond the first day the season opened; these are people who really have the bug, people like Judge Holton, Walter Franks, Andy Bell and a few others. However, they won't catch all of the fish right at first because the signs are not just exactly right.

On May 1, 2, 3 and 4, fishermen should have fair luck because it is just before the big ones start biting hardest.

The signs really get their best on May 5 and remain at their best through May 12, then taper off getting poorer and poorer until May 20. The signs are at their worst this month between May 20 and 26. On the 27th they begin to get better and will continue to do so until the first of June, when they are again at their best. Understand I am not saying that you can't catch a fish when the signs aren't right. I am just saying that if the signs had been right you would probably have caught a much bigger one a lot easier. If you believe in fishing by the signs, then make your plans to do your fishing between May 5-12, inclusive.

Recently I heard a resident of this city denounce the common practice of sounding one's automobile in front of houses in order to summon the occupants.

I didn't think much about his statement at the time and then I got to noticing as I walked down the street on my way home. A car occasionally drove up in front of some house and the horn would sound. Immediately occupants of not only the house where the car was, but from houses on each side and across the streets, would come to the door or look out of the window.

There are lots of things which might be said on this subject. And if people will just observe the results I am sure that they will be surprised.

On the front page of this issue is an article from the Marella Community which tells about a coyote paying two visits to C. T. Painter as he listed his field last week. To some of the old timers I am sure this revelation will not be startling, but to me it is more than unusual. I believe the animal must be of a strain of blood resulting from some dog having joined the pack in past years or it may have been captured while still a puppy and brought up in some back yard. Anyway, Mr. Painter states that the coyote was not at all frightened.

The best sand storm story I have heard lately is from out at Sammood, where, according to reports, a terrific sandstorm blew up and ten men were unable to hold a blanket in front of a key hole.

While we are on the subject of sand storms you may remember an article in The Leader which announced that the "Daddy of All Sand Storms" had hit in Wellington. Mrs. W. E. Leach saw the article, and with a sigh said, "Well, I certainly hope that he has not come to make a place for his children."

I am certainly interested in the outcome of the farm census. Undoubtedly, this county will include a fair portion of the land between here and Kansas.

The boys and girls who entered the color contest sponsored by The Leader and the Ritz Theatre last week did some outstanding work, according to Jeff Greer, who was kind enough to act as judge. Mr. Greer has a reputation as an artist—and he said that the job of judging was most difficult due to the high quality of work presented in the majority of the pictures. There are certainly some interesting points in this county for art work and it was music to my ears to learn that the boys and girls did such fine work.

The statement was also a tribute to the teachers of this county, many of whom do not profess to know much about art but who have been training the children along this line.

Wellington Leader And Ritz Theatre Award Prizes To Children

Ten boys and girls were awarded prizes totaling $5.00 in cash and 26 theatre tickets in the color contest sponsored by the Wellington Leader and Ritz Theatre last week. Jeff Greer, artist and mural decorator, who served as judge for the contest, stated that the pictures were far above the average and that they were unusually good for children of the ages included. He also said that several pictures were not consistent and for this reason did not win prizes; he stressed the fact that many of those not receiving awards were good in one figure or one portion of a figure, but failed to carry the same high qualities throughout the pictures.

Odis Killingsworth won first prize of $2.50; Sam Holcomb took second prize of $1.50; Freddy Pooteet received third prize of $1.00. As fourth prize Winifred Brown was awarded 10 free theatre tickets; Richard Goforth, fifth, won five theatre tickets; Velma Rose Miller, sixth, won three free tickets; Alberta Gray, eighth, won two free tickets; Juanita Zeck and Madeline Young, ninth and tenth, who won two free tickets each. A special award was also made to Melvin Thompson whose drawing was given two free tickets. Only 10 prizes were announced, but his drawing was thought to have ranked along with the ninth and tenth places so he was awarded two tickets.

Others who received special mention were: Edmond Sanders, Annie Hornsby, Arthur Tate, Margaret Price, Nathalie Devenport, Dorothy Wilson, Mary Frances Allen, Annette Johnson, O'Netta Neill, Helen Long, J. B. Long, Billie Volz, Eva Dean Scheu, T. E. Johnson, Jr., Ethel Sue Maples, Margie Louise Wilcox, Johnson, and Estelline

Spring Sportswear

Knitted Frocks Are Here In Smart, Newer Versions

Knitted dresses always manage to be smart, but they are smarter and more important than ever for spring. Ambitious knitting needles are working overtime, but the Busy Woman who has no time for self-made knitted frocks, will find a wide variety of ready made versions to choose from in the smart shops. The joy of it is, that these machine made are very, very inexpensive and look hand made.

There is no end to the advantages of knitted frocks. They are equally at home in town or country. They have perfect poise for shopping or for sportswear. Then, too, there's just a bit of extra warmth, and a cosy feeling about knitted frocks that makes them ideal for first ventures without a coat.

Boucles lead the field with flying colors. One-piece styles favor feminine details, such as low necklines, frill fronts, patterned knitted tops and plain knitted skirts. The two piece styles offer a choice of short or long tunics. (Warning: If you are short, do stick to short tunics.) The most versatile knitted costume is a one-piece dress with matching jacket. It's an ensemble, really, and a practical darling. This type of costume, with surplus closing front, is First Choice for larger women.

There is something about boucle that just drinks up color. The color variety is infinite, with dark shades, dusty shades and clear, bright colors that are full of life. If you can't have a couple, do have at least one knitted frock to help you get the joy out of spring.

Mrs. J. W. Carreker Delegate To A. & M. Short Course

To observe national music week the Musicians Club has many plans. Thursday of next week the club will arrange for a concert to be given by Mrs. Cooper of Pampa, formerly Miss Hermina Stover, of Wellington. Mrs. Cooper graduated from University of Kansas and since that time has taught music in Pampa where her parents moved several years ago. She will give a violin concert and will bring with her an accompanist who will also play. The place of the concert has not been announced but will be open to all music lovers.

Mrs. Lester Bengé has accepted an invitation to give an evening program in Hollis on Friday of next week. The Hollis club women are giving a program each night next week and will turn one night over to Mrs. Bengé, who will read "Creations of God." Mrs. Bengé has read this book in Dallas and also for a group of club women in Wellington.

On Tuesday, May 7, Mrs. Jack Deahl, Mrs. Charles Crews and Mrs. Aubrey Dobbs will be guests of the Childress Music Club at which time they will give a musical program. Mrs. Crews will sing, Mrs. Dobbs will play the violin and Mrs. Deahl the piano. Mrs. Deahl will accompany Mrs. Crews and Mrs. Dobbs.

The members of the Musician Club as well as other clubs in Wellington have accomplished a great deal in developing music in Wellington. For a number of years music week has been observed here.

Assemblies Of God Hold Large Gathering Here

Northwest Plains Sectional Fellowship Meeting Held Here Monday

The North Plains Sectional Fellowship Meeting of the Assemblies of God Churches here at Wellington was said by all to have been the best in many months.

Most of the preachers of this section had arrived by 4 o'clock, Rev. Bates, our district superintendent, being present, and while the laymen held a devotional meeting upstairs, the ministers assembled in the basement for a special ministers' meeting, with Rev. Bates in charge. After giving an inspirational message Rev. Bates brought up a number of matters of business of interest to all ministers and workers. As the time for our annual district council meeting is near, some proposed resolutions were discussed, also it was mentioned that in the future our general presbytery will be elected by the district rather than by the general council, it being suggested that one of these general presbyteries should be chosen from the New Mexico section. At the present time, both general presbyteries are in the North Plains Section.

The proposition of a secretary-treasurer for the district was then discussed. Rev. Bates has for the past year been acting as Superintendent and Treasurer, but a resolution is coming up before the District Council next month at Borger that the office of secretary and treasurer be amalgamated. It was urged that a man should be chosen for this office according to his qualifications for that particular office, rather than electing someone because we happen to like them, or merely because of his or her ability as a preacher.

Spplid services were held in the church Monday night, Rev. Bates bringing an evangelistic message. At 9:30 Tuesday morning all met at the Methodist Church for devotional services with "Daddy" Newman in charge.

The ministers and the laity of the Assemblies all wish to express their appreciation to Rev. Johnston and the laymen of the Methodist Church where the remaining sessions of the fellowship meeting were held. The pastor, Rev. Johnston, and the good Methodist people, just turned everything over to us, and while the morning sessions were in progress, the good ladies were preparing a great feast in the basement rooms below. Deskins Wells, publisher of the Wellington Leader and mayor of the city, made a welcome address at 11 o'clock, with response by Rev. J. A. Thomas of Borger. Rev. Joe Newby, pastor of the Assembly at Childress, brought an inspiring message at 10:00. A wonderful dinner was served in the church basement at 12:30.

The Woman's Missionary Council had their program immediately after the noon hour. Throughout the day reports were heard from the various ministers, evangelists and workers.

The Christ's Ambassadors had a good parade and street service late in the afternoon, returning to the church for a splendid program receding the evangelistic message.

Bro. Lester is a good mixer and is one of our most promising young ministers. He believes in "doing" and the great success of the Wellington meeting is, in a large measure, due to his untiring efforts.

"The spirit of hospitality manifested by the city of Wellington, the Methodist pastor and his people in particular, and by the saints as a whole, will long be remembered by those who attended the meeting," an announcement in the church bulletin stated.

Cotton Fodder Winters Cattle

HENRIETTA, Tex. — Seventy-two head of cattle fed on cotton fodder have wintered better than cattle wintered on case, johnson grass and other forage on the farm of Brad Staggs, Clay county stockman, according to M. S. Duncan, county agricultural agent. All cattle were fed cake twice a week.

Staggs bought 100 acres of cotton last fall which he had mowed and stacked as he would any other hay except that it was not packed as tight as the ordinary stack and that a mixture of salt and lime was sprinkled throughout the stack. The land produced an estimated 100 tons of cotton fodder at a cost of $100. Seventy-two head of cattle were wintered on this fodder and Staggs will have one stack left when he quits feeding. At first the cattle did not seem to like the cotton fodder but now they will quit other fodder to eat it.

ments for the program have been definitely completed. Richard Wischkaemper of the Samnorwood community will be the principal speaker of the occasion. Other speakers will include W. V. Swinburn of Dodsonville, O. W. Lewis of Rolla; and R. N. West of the Swearingen School. Mrs. L. C. Sweat and Mrs. Jack Lowry will be presented in a duet; Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Collins will present a number on the piano and trumpet; Miss Wilma Jarrell of Lutie will give a reading and Mr. Sanders will act as toastmaster.

Every rural teacher in the county was urged to attend the meeting, which is sponsored here as an annual affair each year for the teachers.

Henry Deanne of Worcester, Eng., left $70,000 as a trust fund for the care of his dog.

"For the county to be accredited with having passed the tests and to benefit in shipping into other counties and states it will be necessary for all of the milk cows, 10 per cent of the range cows, and all of the range bulls to be tested."

Mr. Stovall stated that the service was free to the farmer and that no application would be necessary to enter the tests, which are conducted on a voluntary basis. He also said that the work would be facilitated if the owners would register their names and the number of cattle with the chairman of the agricultural association.

sented in songs. A big baby doll was presented to Betty Jean Robertson as winner. Others who entered this contest were Patsy Stafford, Beth Scott, Yvette Schaded, Jo Ann Donahoe, Diane Wells, Betty Collins, and Little Miss Roy.

Third, the football boys were presented in a ballet dance. The costumes exhibited athletic talent for next year. Each boy had a very dainty skip and side step, which if employed at the right time will bring many touchdowns for the Skyrockets next year.

Fourth, Boy Scout Troop No. 32, tumble act. This act started when the whole troop hurtled, one at a time, turning a flip as they passed over a chair. Jumpers were gradually eliminated as more chairs were added. Lee Lemley finally went over nine and said he could have done more except for the weak hearts in the audience.

Fifth, Lucky Thirteen Club, featuring a trio, Gerta Lou Bonner, Virginia Weber and Leeda Jo Thompson. Freeman Moore also appeared on the program with tap dances.

Sixth, the Kiwanis Club Band held unusual attention, and included E. L. Winn, John Bonner, Deck

Wells, Sol Bayouth, Mack Saied, Ennis Schaded, Cecil Wilson, Dr. Calvin Jones and a number of other members who had not practiced in 30 years. Cecil Wilson rendered a trombone solo. Incidental acts were put on by Martha Jean Henry, Billie Voca Brickey, Billie Sigler and Aaron Hurst.

The Girl's Glee Club won the stunt contest and a prize of $5.00. Included in the club were: Juanita Bayouth, soloist; Leeda Jo Thompson, Virginia Weber, Edna Earle Willoughby, Geraldine Fisher, Dortha Gray, Patty Smith, Lena Mae Thompson, Marion Blake, Vernene Franks, Inez Bayouth, Ina Hugh Longino, Josephine Moulton, Louise Whisenant, La Juana McClure, Kathleen Leggett, Red Williams, Juanita Duke and Pauline Duke.

The Stunt Night was sponsored for the purpose of starting a fund for band uniforms and netted a total of $14.00.
