SECOND GENERATION

Jessica Kurtz, 4, demonstrates her skill with a crayon while proud teacher Sadie Smith watches. Sadie has double reason to be proud: Jessica is her great-granddaughter — and a second-generation pupil in "Mrs. Smith's Kindergarten Class at First Presbyterian Church." Something For Everyone

Seafair VI In Full Swing

Marching bands...crab races...the aroma of gumbo cooking...crowds flocking to look at displays of art and jewelry...Rockport's sixth annual Seafair is in full swing.

The two-day event officially gets underway with a land parade through downtown Rockport. Kickoff time is 11 a.m. and this year's parade marshall is Larry Boone.

At noon, the Rockport-Fulton High School band presents a concert at the band shell, and then things are really in gear until 6 p.m.

On Sunday, October 12, activities will start at noon and continue again until 6 p.m.

Crowds, always in the thousands, find something for everyone at Seafair -- food and all kinds of goodies to buy at 167 booths, bands and duos providing music throughout both days...and lots of special events.

The special events start at 1 p.m. Saturday with the Sail Boat Regatta in Aransas Bay. Then at 1:30 p.m., it's time for the Water Ski Show in the Ski Basin.

At 2:30 p.m., Seafair-goers can see some judges really put to the test as the Second Annual Crab Beauty Contest gets underway. A number of entries will be on hand -- er, claw -- decoreated and "painted up" to look their...prettiest (?).

At 3 p.m., fair goers will

Lease Arrangements Under Fire At Meeting

By Pat Blair

A request for a sublease renewal in Cove Harbor sparked criticism of the Navigation District's leasing policies at Tuesday night's, October 7, session of the District commissioners.

The criticism came from commissioners themselves who feel the District is not getting enough money for its leases in Cove Harbor.

Both the sublease renewal that set off the discussion and a second sublease request were granted for one year while the Navigation commissioners study their lease policies.

One-year subleases were granted to allow Lynn Wendell Marine to sublease to Halliburton Services and to Robert Stroot to sublease Cove Harbor lots 121 and 122 to Harbor Enterprises Inc.

In other action Tuesday, the board approved a resolution setting speed limits, names of streets and the street widths on Navigation District property around Rockport Beach and the Turning Basin.

The resolution will be presented to the City of Rockport with a request that the city adopt an ordinance under which city police officers will enforce traffic regulations on Navigation District property.

Teacher Who 'Didn't Think She'd Last' Now Teaching Second Generation

By Pat Blair

When Sadie Smith first took her job teaching kindergarten, she "didn't think I'd last a year."

That was 19 years ago. Not only did Sadie last, but she now has a second-generation pupil in the class she teaches at Rockport's First Presbyterian Church.

Not only that, but the pupil — four-year-old Jessica Kurtz — is Sadie's great-granddaughter.

"I taught Jessica's mother (Sadie's granddaughter, Susan Smith Kurtz) in my class of 1963-64," Sadie said during a recent interview at the school.

That was her second kindergarten class. Her first was in the fall of 1962.

"My husband died in February, 1962," she said, "and I needed a way to make a living." A native of Rockport, "born and raised here," she had worked at Morrison's at one time but she didn't think she had much chance in the job market.

Absentee voting is scheduled from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays in Mrs. Hart's office at the Aransas County Courthouse. It will continue through October 31.

For those under age 65, absentee voting is limited to persons who will not be in the county on the regular November 4 election day or who are physically unable to get to the polls.

In addition to the Presidential election, Aransas County voters will cast ballots on several local elections this year.

Squalid exercise in church

(Reprinted by permission of The Washington Star)

There was a photograph on the front page of this and other newspapers recently. It pictured President Carter at Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta, with his head bowed and his hands reverently folded. The captions said that he was praying.

Soon after the prayer, or perhaps before it, the president made remarks to a largely black audience at the church (of which the Rev. Martin Luther King Sr. is pastor) which seemed calculated to insinuate, if not to charge outright, that Gov. Ronald Reagan is a racist, or at least the candidate of racists. The former charge, if true, would be serious, but not the latter. No candidate controls who rallies to his standard, carrying what unwelcome banner, although when the Ku Klux Klan announced its support of Reagan he promptly repudiated it.

One passage of Mr. Carter's prepared text, which he did not read, charged that Gov. Reagan opposed the 1964 Civil Rights Act. That happens to be true. The governor regrets but does not deny it. Mr. Carter did not add that opposition to a controversial extension of federal law-enforcement power into the field of civil rights was not confined to racists and included, for more reputable reasons, many who were not racists at all.

Few such issues lend themselves to simple analysis. In the 1930s, as the president might recall from the history of his own native region, federal anti-lynching legislation was widely opposed as an unwarranted extension of federal police power, but few who opposed it other than hoodlums considered lynching a civilized or acceptable practice.

Nor, finally, did Mr. Carter say what his own public or private attitude was toward the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which is any case both he and Gov. Reagan now support. His press secretary says there is no available record on the subject. What, then, are Mr. Carter's credentials for criticizing Gov. Reagan?

Another thing that President Carter said was that "states' rights," an old term that crept into one of Reagan's recent southern speeches, is a "code word" — a code word, it was implied, for racial discrimination. He did not say, though it is true, that while the term is often prostituted to cheap uses, some racist, there are issues of the balance of power between state and federal government whose validity is independent of racial views, and that Gov. Reagan may have been using the term in that sense and not the other.

In short, Mr. Carter, who should be ever mindful this year that he is not merely a candidate for re-election but the elected leader of us all, was trading in tarnished coin at King's church.

The coin itself is tarnished enough, considering that there is nothing that we know in the record to indicate that Gov. Reagan is, or ever was, a racist. But a transaction in such coin is the more offensive when it is preceded or followed by poses in prayer and meditation, as if Higher Instructions bade Mr. Carter to say these things. It lends an additional color of inappropriateness when all this takes place in a church associated with the Martin Luther Kings, father and son.

Both Kings have been a continuing inspiration to the nation in their leadership in civil rights, in ways too familiar to need listing here. But the president might especially have remembered, to the elevation of his level of discourse, that in their unresting advocacy of civil rights neither of the Kings ever cheapened the issue with crude epithet or innuendo. Their purpose has always been to redeem racists from uncharitable belief and feeling. Neither father nor son ever stooped to name-calling or dubious accusation. From this they have refrained even when a clear record would have warranted either or both.

The line of attack upon Gov. Reagan which President Carter opened in Atlanta, and which he also abided in silence from Rep. Parren Mitchell, is unworthy of his office and unworthy of Mr. Carter himself.

From a pragmatic point of view it is also unwise. When one candidate or the other attempts to start a fight over which was first to sensitize himself to the civil rights cause, it will be a loser for both. For it will probably be found that neither Mr. Carter nor Reagan was a sufficiently early convert to racial reform. Who, beyond a few seers and prophets, ever was?

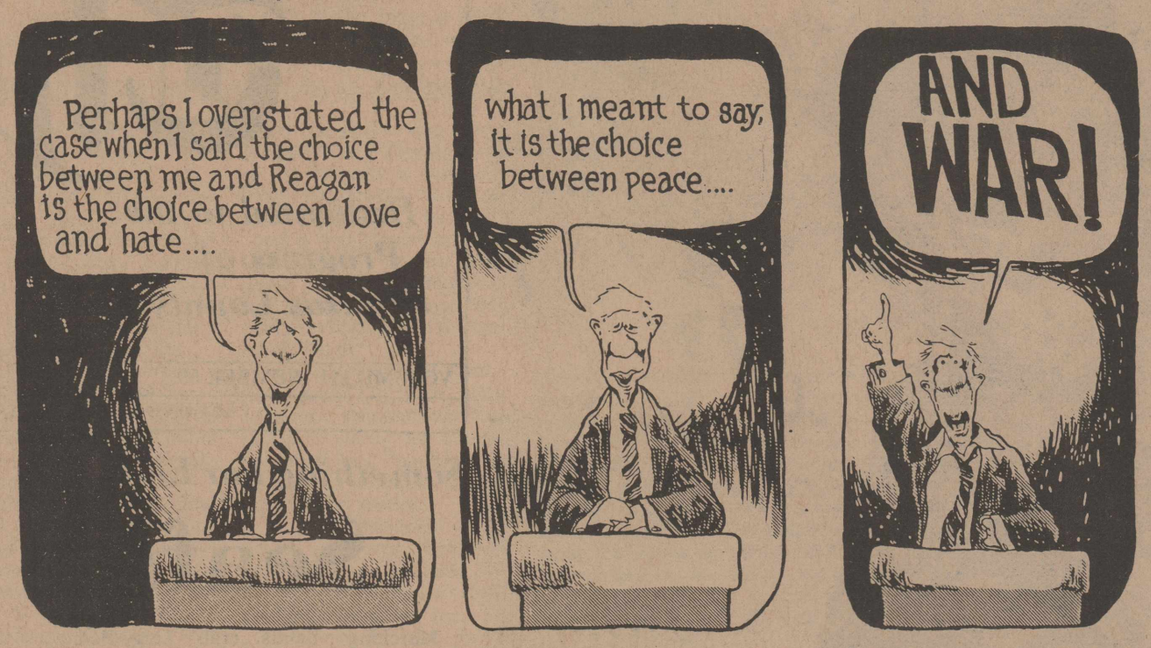

What counts now is that a standard of decency, responsiveness and sensitivy has been established out of the grief of a miserable past, and should be wholeheartedly subscribed to by anyone aspiring to be president of the United States. Civil rights is an issue of drastic complexity and importance, too complex and too important to the well-being of the nation to be cheapened by partisan rhetoric.

This squalid exercise in King's church should be the president's last indulgence of the sort in this campaign.

Live Oak Peninsula Philosopher

Editor's note: The Live Oak Peninsula Philosopher on his grassburr ranch has encountered a new theory out of Washington.

Dear editor:

A new medical theory has originated in Washington that requires a close examination.

According to a National Educational Committee's report to the Department of Health and Welfare, by 1990 there will be 70,000 surplus doctors in this country.

This, the committee said, will run the cost of medical services billions of dollars above the $200 billion a year it now costs, because "more doctors will be doing more things to more people, without necessarily improving their health."

In other words, the more doctors there are, the more they're going to find wrong with you. Or, the amount of sickness increases in proportion to the number of doctors around to treat it.

I don't believe doctors will agree with this theory, but if it works, if the more doctors the schools turn out the more we'll have to pay for medical services, then I'd like to see the theory put to a wider use.

For example, apply it to ranchers. The more cattle they produce, the more they get per cow or calf. Or apply it to shrimping. The more shrimp the fishermen catch, the more they get for it. I don't know of any doctors agreeing with this new theory, but fishermen and ranchers would endorse it unanimously.

Come to think of it, this theory has already been adopted in some areas by Congress. For instance, the more lawyers the schools turn out, the more laws Congress passes to give them something to do.

And the people who make X-ray film have discovered the theory. The more film they produce, the more X-rays hospitals have to take.

For some reason, this theory hasn't worked with car manufacturing.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

PROBING SECRET ADVERTISING COSTS

Senator Max Baucus (Mont.)"...Americans have an intuitive sense or feeling that the Government is spending too much money on advertising generally...

"We do not know how much Uncle Sam is spending for advertising. The reason is, very simply, that in all the budgets submitted to Congress, there is no line item for advertising or public relations expanse.

"All the advertising that money presently is spent for these days is built in, it is sandwiched in, it is padded within the various line items in one place or another. We just do not know where it is.

"GAO (General Accounting Office) reported a couple of years ago to me that they, too, do not know how much we are spending on advertising...I decided that, since GAO said, 'We do not know,' — and since the budgets do not indicate how much is being spent — I would try to investigate this as well as I could...

"I have on my desk a cardboard box. It is chock-full. It weighs 40 pounds. It is filled up with one item of each of the various different periodicals, different publications that HUD (Housing and Urban Development) distributes.

"Here is one little brochure entitled, 'Interoffice Safety Memo to the Entire Staff.' It notes 12 steps to office safety. (Example: 'Use ashtrays; never drop ashes in wastebaskets.')

"Here is another...This is called 'International Bulletin.' This is kind of interesting, this big article that HUD distributed somewhere, I do not know. It goes: 'How to Get an Apartment in Poland'...I did not know we were all worried about that, but apparently HUD thinks so..

"Here is another, a big glossy print. It is a kind of glossy report one would expect to receive as a shareholder of General Motors. This is from NASA (National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"We called NASA and a man said, 'I am sorry, but you would have to get an 18-wheeler (truck) to carry away one copy of all the publications NASA puts out'...

Senator William Proxmire (Wis.)"...I think the Senator from Montana is doing a marvelous job...I used to be in the printing business. The cost of the paper, the reproduction, and the color is very high..."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Congressmen's staffs should start writing, in each bill, the amount to be spent for advertising and public relations. The blank-check approach is outdated.

"IRAQ'S NO. ONE AIM - TOPPLE KHOMEINI," SO read a recent newspaper headline. All things considered, the current conflict between Iraq and Iran means little to the average American.

Sure, we have rather deep feelings about Iran's unlawful retention of American hostages, and there is some concern over curtailment of the oil flow from Iran — although that doesn't bother us too much, yet. Typically, we worry about such things only when they hit us at the gas pump.

For all of this I suspect that anyone who read the foregoing headline may have cheered. After all, that chap Khomeini is a madman, responsible for holding our fellow countrymen. Knock the scoundrel off and maybe some semblance of order might return to that miserable country.

Fair then to reckon that, aside from the hostages, our average citizen doesn't really care a hoot about who comes out on top in that Middle East conflict — except for the hostages. That circumstance sort of puts us on the side of Iraq — so long as we don't have to send our boys over there.

Yet there's another side. Topple Khomeini, and that almost certainly means kill him, and then where will our hostages be? We already know that Khomeini has a fanatical following, as fanatical as he.

Khomeini gone and then what of the hostages? I am fearful, so fearful as to be almost ready to cry "long live the Ayatolah."

I AM USUALLY AS CYNICAL AS THE REST OF you when some small nation cries to Uncle Sam for succor. Too often I have myself seen our largess fall into the hads of a few, onto black markets, etc. But last week there came a cry from the Bahamas which has been rejected by the Carter administration.

The Bahamas, less than 100 miles off our eastern seaboard have asked that we aid them in controlling narcotics that flow into those islands, dope that is to the extent of almost 100 percent destined for the United States.

The Bahamas, a small and even prosperous nation (by Caribbean standards), is physically and financially unable to contain the flow. They have asked for help from our Coast Guard, for patrol craft.

Does not this sort of aid — aid that is in the best interest of every American — deserve immediate affirmative response?

And there are other aspects to the matter. Virtually every independent island country in the Caribbean is in a state of chaos. Most have already fallen, to a large extent, to the influence of Castro Communism. Not the Bahamas. The government is basically stable and no one in those islands wants any part of Communism.

There is a tragically amusing aspect to all of this. Our Coast Guard, like all of our military services, is sadly lacking in man power and equipment.

In truth it already has as much and more than it can do in trying to prevent boatloads of aliens arriving on our shores, battling the narcotic trade off our own coasts, attempting to ensure water safety, rescue work.

Yet for all of that, the Coast Guard has only recently been ordered, thanks to environmentalist fanatics, to enforce MSD (Marine Sanitation Devices), a totally impossible task and in tidal waters downright silly.

Fancy this circumstance. With friends you are fishing somewhere south of Port Aransas and you observe a suspicious-looking vessel, a smaller one alongside. It appears that some sort of transfer is going on between the boats. Perhaps there is no radio aboard your boat, but when you reach shore you report the sighting to the Coast Guard. A voice from CG headquarters: "Yes, you're probably right — goes on all the time, but no, we don't have personnel or patrol craft available. All our men are busy inspecting 'heads' (toilets)." Ha, you may well say to yourself, so that's what's happened to that once proud service.

Meanwhile, from Jimmy Carter's Washington bureaucracy the word is — lay off helping control the flow of dope from the Bahamas and get on with head inspections. Has anyone among the environmentalists wondered where is the head aboard those thousands of 16-foot fishing boats?

IN THE COURSE OF ALL THE HISTORY WHICH I have read I can think of no emotional issue which has become political that remains within the bounds of reason and common good sense. The existing right-to-life and abortion issues are as fine a case in point as one might ask for.

And it is dangerous, especially when candidates for office are compelled to take a stand on the matter. An honest answer is bound to enrage one side or the other. Hence stands are wishy-washy, and when firm, I, at least, doubt the integrity of the speaker.

Virtually most any person who wins office may be expected to beg and evade the issue for all he is worth once elected.

ONE FACT OF LIFE WHICH SHOULD SERIOUSLY, and not just offhandedly, concern everyone is the circumstance that the poorest and most uneducated people of this world are the ones who breed most rapidly.

Right-to-life and abortion have virtually nothing to do with this circumstance. What does matter is that all of us, wherever we live, will in a few short years be affected by this — if we are not already. It is a rather sad commentary on the human race that we have to be struck squarely in the face by an unfortunate circumstance before we react. It is always costly and may someday lead to the downfall of civilization. —cmhenkelir

Valenzuela Named To Committee

AUSTIN — Alvino Valenzuela of Rockport has been appointed to the Statewide Steering Committee of Democrats and Independents for Reagan-Bush, Governor Bill Clements, state campaign chairman in Texas, said.

The Governor said that before the November 4 election more than 2,000 Texas Democrats and Independents will publicly endorse Governor Ronald Reagan and Ambassador George Bush.

Prominent Texas Democrats who have already endorsed the Reagan-Bush ticket include former Texas Governors Allan Shivers and Preston Smith, former Lieutenant Governor Ben Barnes of Brownwood, and former Speakers of the Texas House of Representatives Reuben Senterfitt of San Saba and Jim Lindsey of Texarkana.

Governor Smith, who served two terms as Texas' chief executive, said, "As of this date, our federal government is involved in our personal and family lives more than our forefathers ever dreamed. It is time for us to do whatever possible to halt this trend."

He added, "My political and governmental beliefs have not changed. I am not switching parties, and neither am I switching my governmental philosophy. I am now and always have been a conservative Democrat."

Democratic State Senator Bill Meier of Fort Worth, who is chairman of the Statewide Steering Committee of Democrats and Independents for Reagan-Bush said, "Four years ago, many Texas Democrats energetically campaigned for Jimmy Carter. Today, many of those same Democrats are bitterly disappointed with the President's performance in office."

A mother-daughter team won the first annual Gumbo Cook-off and a crab named "Sexytariat" was pronounced the best-decorated even though there was no official contest.

The year was 1975, the event -- Rockport's first annual SeaFair (that was how it was spelled that year).

Bill Christian was lauded as the guiding force behind the community celebration and served as chairman of the planning committee. Activities were under the direction of Peggy Bloch, Dusty Smith and Bill Janecek.

The dates, coincidentally, were the same as this year's, October 11 and 12 (a Saturday and Sunday, natch).

And as with this year's event, the 1975 SeaFair was kicked off by a parade. The whole thing was officially launched by Christian who smashed a champagne bottle across the bumper of his golf cart ("purloined," according to the Pilot, "from Live Oak Country Club).

From the start, there were certain features that have become SeaFair traditions: the booths, of course, for exhibitors (about a hundred that first year, well over a hundred in this year's event), the first annual Gumbo Cook-off, the crab races.

So far as is known, Rockport's SeaFair is the first time anywhere that anyone has sponsored crab races.

Also featured in that first Fair was a water ski show put on by Galveston Sea-Arama, an air-sea rescue demonstration and a sailboat regatta that attracted nine entries.

From the beginning, prizes were awarded to entries in the parade, and the Band Boosters float won the Appreciation Award for its Bicentennial theme featuring fifer, drum theme featuring fifer, drummer, and flagbearer.

Peggy and Helen Ratliff of Rockport, a mother-daughter team, won the "Golden Crawfish" as the best Gumbo cookers at the 1975 SeaFair. They defeated 35 other entries from Rockport and nine Texas cities -- including as far away as Houston.

In the crab races, the first place prize went to "Silver Streaker," an entry by Silver and Sand Jewelry Shop. Second was Harper Real Estate's "Pete" and third went to "Sandy Claws", a joint entry by Martha Christian and Kathryn Picton.

"Sexytariat," who took the "beauty award" was entered by Betty Corbett and Kathy Hicks.

Crowds were estimated in the thousands at that first event and the whole show as pronounced a "tremendous success."

By golly, I think they started something...

In Remembrance Of Me

For almost two thousand years the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper has been celebrated by Christians everywhere. Though variously interpreted by the churches, though administered with different ritual, it has always remained our unifying bond . . . the Communion of the Church with her Lord.

On World Wide Communion Sunday Christian congregations all over the globe will assemble to celebrate this Communion. Each will follow its own accustomed usage, exercising the right of religious freedom that the free peoples of the world treasure so highly. And as millions receive the Sacrament they will be conscious of the joyous faith that unites them with one another and with Christ.

This is a century of crisis in which those who treasure their spiritual heritage must stand together . . . must face with courage the alarming growth and ruthless power of an atheism dedicated to the overthrow of both freedom and religion.

Join your fellow Christians at The Lord's Table!

THE GOFORTHS — By Jim Campbell[s]

"Our old janitor would do anything you told him and told him and told him and told him . . ."

Jottings By Johnnie

By Johnnie Littleton

You've got to admire anyone who would work as long and hard for a mere two-day celebration, as the Rockport folks have.

This year's Seafair promises to be a great one. I was at the beach and saw trucks hauling in and smoothing the sand and other crews picking up litter, of which there was very little.

Everywhere one goes, the subject comes up. I find it hard to believe that people actually live here and don't go. Don't know why though. I live in Sinton and have never been to the Old Fiddlers' Contest. Oh, I've been during the day, but never could seem to get back at night for the real contest. Maybe this year. Might even drive back over here too.

There was an article in the Corpus Christi Caller that started out "You roll a sheet of paper into the typewriter, but the words just won't come. It may last for hours, days, or even years. It's known as writer's block."

Well, friends, I have an extremely bad case of it this week. The therapist-journalist who made that remarkably original statement must have been thinking of lots of people like myself.

My brain is full of other things, some bad, some mediocre, some good and some plain silly.

I keep trying to plan the weekend. Plans to attend Seafair. Planning what to cook for visiting college son. Planning to do his laundry and wishing I could transport myself to Georgetown to visit my brand new great-nephew who is just over a week old.

Right now I plan to stop this and get ready to go home, where I plan to sip tea and watch the tube.

Then I'll plan something to say next week.

For everyone's sake, I hope it works.

Home of the lily?

Lilies appear in some of man's earliest records. The biblical city of Susa is thought to be the original home of the madonna lily, first mentioned more than 4,000 years ago.

Rockport Student Is Marching Horned Frog

James W. Merrett Jr. of Rockport is one of the 200 members of the Horned Frog Marching Band of Texan Christian University who will host the first annual Marcharama on Saturday, October 18, in Fort Worth.

The Marcharama will precede TCU's game against Tulsa. The event is expected to attract marching bands, drill teams, flag corps, rifle teams and drum corps for the one-day competition on the TCU campus.

Merrett plays the alto and baritone saxophone for the band which is being directed for the 26th year by James A. Jacobsen.

The Marching Horned Frogs will be called on for halftime performances at six home football games as well as other fall activities.

Book Fair Monday At Rockport Elementary

Kindergarten through fifth grade students at Rockport Elementary School will take part in a Fall Book Fair beginning Monday, October 13.

Students will have until Friday, October 17, to decide on, and purchase, a book. The fair, which will be in the library, is designed to encourage student interest in reading and building their libraries at home.

The book fair includes old favorites and new books including "The Black Hole," a "Hansel and Gretel" carousel book, "Coin Collecting" and more.

The display will also offer books concerning sports, science, and world records. Prices range from 49 cents to $5.95.

Several copies of each book will be available this year, so most students will receive the book as they pay.

Parents wishing to buy books for the family may visit the school library during regular hours or at the student's library time.

The Educational Reading Service of Alexandria, Virginia, a professional book fair company, furnishes the display.

HEY, THIS IS FUN!

Ruth Hamm, Denise Griffith and Olga Cisneros, members of the Rockport Elementary PTA, try out one of the games — a kind of "toss tictactoe" — that will be featured in the school's Halloween Carnival Friday night, October 31. The action starts at 6:30 p.m. and will include a magic show, costume contest, talent event — and that's just for openers. Everyone from tots to teens is invited to come to the party!

Most Often-Asked Questions On Nutrition

Q. I hear people rave about what a miracle foor brewer's yeast is. Just what does it contain that makes it so good?

A. Brewer's yeast contains 40 to 50 percent of the highest quality protein; it is a superior source of the B vitamins; it is one of the richest sources of organic iron and is an excellent source of the major minerals and trace elements.

Is it any wonder that brewer's yeast is known as a miracle food? Paavo Airola even reports scientific studies which show that the generous addition of brewer's yeast to the diet can prevent cancer development.

There are, in fact, examples galore of the improvement of EVERY area of health through the use of brewer's yeast. Though perhaps its greatest claim to fame is that it is a good reducing food, AND it increases energy!

Q. A friend of mine gives her children one of the prepared cereals — you know with all the artificial colors and flavors — to her children for breakfast. It's supposed to be "enriched," so she thinks it's okay.

I know this makes an easy breakfast, but these cereals really aren't good for kids, are they?

A. Even if we overlook the harm done by artificial colors and flavors (which is considerable according to many experts), nutritionists feel that prepared cereals are unacceptable. They are largely pure starch, which is changed into sugar by the body.

A mother may as well serve her child a bowl of sugar and be done with it. That would be even easier and less expensive.

As to cereals that are "enriched" — reports show that cereal manufacturers may add about one-half cent's worth of synthetic vitamins to 12 ounces of cereal and then add 45 percent to the retail price. I don't know who's getting "enriched," but I don't think it's the cereal!

Until next week, Folks, stay happy and healthy! It's a beautiful world!

English Offered Indochinese

Beginning October 13 evening classes in conversational English will be offered to adult Indochinese individuals in the Rockport and Corpus Christi areas.

The program is being funded by a federal grant, and sponsored by the Catholic Charities organization of Corpus Christi. The classes are being offered to aid in the relocation of any Indochinese persons living in the coastal area, and will be offered in both locations.

Classes in Rockport are being sponsored by Sacred Heart Catholic Church, and will be held in the Catholic school building. They will meet four evenings each week - Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday - from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m., and will continue for one year.

An integral part of the program is a dependence on volunteer teachers and workers. Interested individuals are being solicited to help with teaching, making teaching aids, telephoning, and babysitting.

Materials and training will be provided. Anyone desiring more information or willing to give one or more evenings a week for at least two months is encouraged to contact the project director, Nelda Day Lee at 729-0803, or Father Deane, at 729-2174.

No special previous training is necessary; however, a sincere interest in the Indochinese population and an elementary school language arts teaching background will be beneficial.

Classes will begin Monday, October 13.

Runners Continue Hot

By Bob Crawford

Cross country runners at Rockport-Fulton High School continued their torrid pace this last weekend in Flour Bluff when they placed second overall behind 5A Kingsville.

The field of runners came from 5A and 4A schools (10 teams, 63 runners). David Ramirez crossed the finish line in 8th place to pace Pirate runners. Peter Booth came across in 10th place. Higher in the finishing were Raul Castro, Mike Zlock, Damaso Galvan, and Clyde Barro.

The course covered in the race was 2.8 miles in length. Most of th time, the distance covered is over a variety of terrain.

The Lady Pirate runners placed fourth in the girls division, with Flour Bluff as the only 4A school finishing ahead of Rockport-Fulton. Because runners finishing in the top ten take awards for their efforts, Belinda Cross, Lory Broadhurst, and Jane Brown received awards for their 5th, 7th, and 8th places. Following further back were Tammy Walker, Delfina Walker, and Tammy Barlass.

Amy Barlass ran in the JV girls division, finishing 27th out of 55 runners. Amy was running against all 5A and 4A JV girls, plus Varsity runners from 3A on down.

This weekend the Pirate team will run in Robstown.

Lady Pirates Make It Three

By Bob Crawford

When you're rolling, you're rolling. The Lady Pirates of Rockport-Fulton High School won their third straight district match Tuesday night over the Tuloso-Midway Cherokees.

The Ladies played their usual format, losing the first game, and then coming on with a determined effort to win the contest. After losing the first game, they settled down and played their own game instead of playing the Cherolees' game.

"It was a good team effort," said Coach Tom Chrobocinski after his team had won again.

In earlier action, the Freshmen Ladies put two consecutive defeats on the Little Cherokees to take their match. In the words of one of the Freshmen players Missy Krogsgaard, "We did good!"

CAUSEWAY—Real good fishing. Lots of trout and reds, but only a few drum.

BEA'S BAIT — Trout and red running pretty good. Fishing is fair.

PALM HARBOR MARINA — Really good. Catching speckled trout and reds.

Rain Inproves Texas Deer Outlook

AUSTIN — Drought-breaking rains have improved the outlook for the deer hunting season which will open November 15 in most Texas counties.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials believe the deer situation, which was approaching the critical state two months ago, has improved enough to forecast a generally good hunting season.

The late August and early September rains which fell on most of the state caused rapid growth of forbs and other plants for deer food.

Biologist Fielding Harwell said the spring and summer drought caused poor fawn production over the western half of the state, which may be reflected in a lower buck harvest in 1981-82. Also, the dry range caused antler development of bucks to be below par in that area.

However, the overall picture is much brighter than it was just a few weeks ago, Harwell believes. "Body weights of deer are increasing now, and hunters should find deer in good body shape by the opening of the season," said Harwell.

There still are problem areas in the state, Harwell noted, particularly in about eight counties west-southwest of San Antonio. Kinney County and portions of the counties surrounding itt the counties surrounding it had a sharp decline in population during the drought, coupled with a very poor or nonexistent fawn crop."

However, most of the rest of the state should have good hunting. Harwell said the eastern one-third of the state has a deer population equal to or slightly higher than last year at this time, along with a fair fawn crop.

In the Cross Timbers and Prairies area west of Fort Worth, populations are down somewhat and fawn production was poor. The same applies for the Edwards Plateau. Harwell added that losses in that area were mostly because of chronic overpopulation.

South Texas has to be considered in separate parts, as the eastern half of the region has maintained deer populations equal to last year, while the western portion was hit hard by the drought and deer populations are down. However, Webb County had fewer losses than other South Texas counties, and even produced a fair fawn crop, Harwell pointed out.

Harwell said if more rainfall occurs it will continue to benefit the deer herds, but rank vegetative growth and ample food will make hunting more difficult as the deer will move less.

Another plus for the deer situation is the acorn crop, which was expected to be disastrous because of the dry weather. "We have noticed a surprisingly good acorn crop in many areas, which will help maintain deer body condition through the fall," Harwell said.

Whitewing Season Is Called One Of Poorest

AUSTIN—The white-winged dove hunting season in the Rio Grande Valley was one of the poorest in years, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists.

Dry summer weather followed by torrential rains brought by Hurricane Allen combined to drive most of the birds into Northern Mexico, said dove program leader Jim Dunks. "The unusual weather conditions cut the birds' food supply short in the Valley, so hunters never saw the major flights of doves normally on hand in early September."

Dunks pointed out that the poor season was indicative of bad local conditions rather than a lack of birds. "Portions of Mexico had plenty of birds, but apparently many of the ones which ordinarily remain in Texas or cross the river into the state didn't this year," said Dunks.

Dry weather caused low production of grain and seeds through the summer, and the hurricane's winds and rain knocked down much of the sunflower crop which usually attracts doves, he added.

Hunter participation also appeared to be down, probably a result of threatening weather conditions just prior to the opening weekend. A hunter harvest survey will be conducted soon using receipts of the white-winged dove stamps as the sampling frame.

Boat Ramp Improved Goose Island State Park

AUSTIN — Improved boat-launching facilities now are available at two South Texas locations, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The newly expanded boat ramp at Goose Island State Park in Aransas County will enable boats to be launched in high water. Additionally, the docking area has been improved in the immediate area of the ramp, the parking area has been surfaced, and a sheltered fish-cleaning table with lights has been installed.

World Series spurs Kubek

by Bud Tenerani

When NBC Sports major league baseball sportscaster Tony Kubek says he won't take on broadcast assignments in other sports, he means it.

On the eve of NBC-TV's exclusive coverage of the 77th World Series (beginning Tuesday, October 14) for which Tony and his broadcast partner Joe Garagiola will be at the mikes as color analyst and play-by-play man respectively, the refreshingly candid Kubek confirms, "In the eyes of most fans, a guy who does one sport loses his credibility when he goes to another. Baseball is my specialty. I know the game and its people. I'm comfortable with it. A man should know his element and stick with it," declares Tony.

Kubek is starting his 15th broadcast year with NBC this season. Despite a number of tempting offers to branch out, he's never wavered from his resolve to remain exclusively and totally a baseball man.

Russia, Nyet

Incredulous, Kubek passed on a chance to be a part of the elite broadcast team NBC assembled for their ultimately aborted exclusive and unprecedented 150 hours of coverage of the 1980 Olympic Games from Russia this past summer.

As a matter of fact, three months of negotiations preceded Tony's recent signing of a new four-year contract with NBC, the only major delaying aspect of which was Tony's request that he not be required to work the Olympics. This while most sportscasters in this country and abroad, tyros and veterans alike, were clamoring for just the chance to be considered for an Olympics broadcast berth.

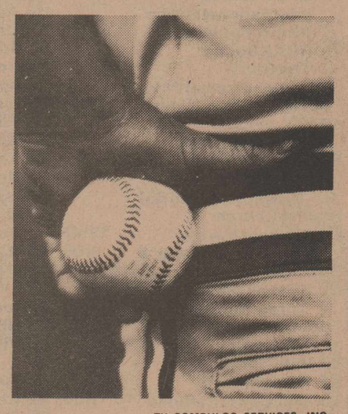

Baseball Junkie

The baseball season begins in April and ends in October. You won't find Tony Kubek working anywhere in television after October and before April, except maybe for those few weeks of spring training in preparation for the official April opening day TV game.

Kubek won't appear on nationally-telecast commercials either. He turned down what would have been a lucrative beer commercial offered him during his off-season months this winter.

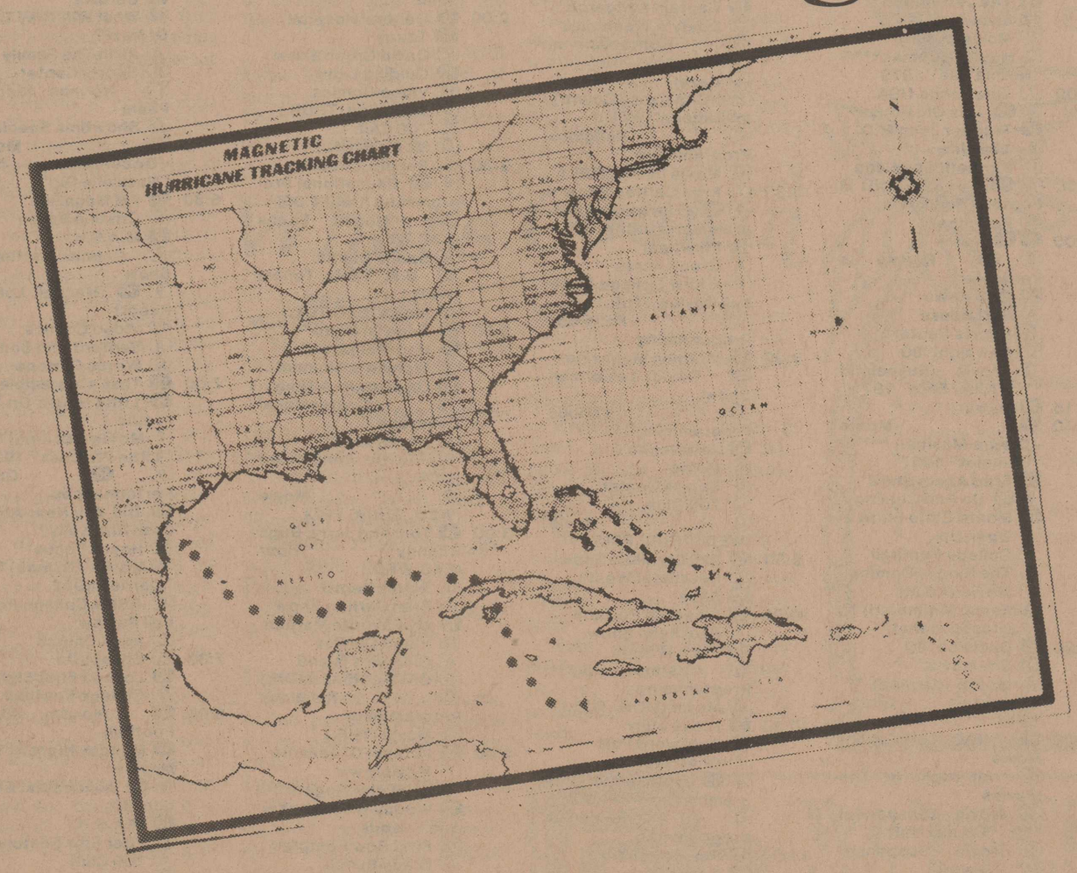

"Sure, I drink beer," shrugs Tony, "but I have teenage kids. Who needs that?"

Not one to go just half-way on a principle, Tony even rejects off-season speaking engagements, forfeiting fees of $2,000 each—at least. "The first thing you know," says the onetime standout shortstop with the New York Yankees, with whom he spent nine years during which the team won seven pennants and four World Series, "I'd have to get some guy to write me some funny material. Naw, it just wouldn't be me."

Pet Talks

By Dr. Hap Lutz

HOW TO PHOTOGRAPH YOUR PET
(Second in a Better Pet Photography Series)

The more you know about a subject such as photography, the more you will enjoy it. In this article, I will deal with cameras and how they operate.

There are several types of cameras, and one of the more popular these days is a reflex camera.

A reflex type is very simple to operate. It has three simple, but important, adjustable controls for: focus; aperture opening; and shutter speed.

A focusing scale is usually found on the lens. It is marked off in feet -- from the closest distance you can bring an object into focus at one end of the scale to infinity at the other.

You focus your camera by adjusting the lens until the viewer shows a sharp image. When you have your pet in focus, you are focused for a particular distance -- three feet, 10 feet, etc. Everything at that distance will be sharp in your finished picture.

Some things from a distance both in front of or behind the object on which you have focused also will be sharp. Photographers call this range of sharpness "depth of field" and that range can be changed by aperture control to give great depth of field or almost none.

SOME TIPS ON FOCUSING -- The closer you are to your pet, the more precise your focus must be. If you want a full face portrait (you'll probably have a long lens or a closeup attachment), it's usually easier to make final focal adjustments by slightly bending your body backward or forward until you see the face in the sharpest possible focus.

If you want an action shot, try focusing on a spot you know your pet will pass. If the animal is not that predictable, rig it. Have a helper lure him to the spot with a piece of string or a subtle noise that he can't resist investigating. When he reaches the target point, you're in focus to shoot.

In the next article, I'll discuss lens opening and aperture control. This information will help you take better pictures of your pets.

Wyatt Co-Sponsors Bill Dealing With Water, Labor, Education

Congressman Joe Wyatt has announced his co-sponsorship of bills in the U.S. House of Representatives dealing with irrigation water, farm labor contractors and education of illegal alien children.

The Irrigation Water Tax Act, authored by Rep. Norman Shumway (R-Claif.), would amend the Internal Revenue Service Act to provide an additional ten percent investment tax credit and election to depreciate over three years, equipment that conserves irrigation water.

"The heat wave this summer drove home a point which none of us really need to be taught," said Wyatt, "That is, that water is a precious resource, and a lack of it can be very frightening. If we can encourage the installation of equipment which helps to conserve irrigation water as much as possible, we'll all be a little bit better off the next heat wave or drought."

Another bill, authored by Rep. Leon Panetta (D-Calif.), would amend the Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act of 1963 to broaden exclusions from the Act. The original intent of the Act was to provide checks on travelling and independent farm labor contractors, but the regulations have been expanded to include almost all farmers, ranchers and other fixed-site agricultural employees. The amendment would exclude these employers.

"This bill would restore the Act to its original focus of regulating only crew leaders of migrant workers and independent contractors," said Wyatt, "Currently the Labor Department interprets 'migrant worker' to mean any agricultural worker. The Department has stretched the Act so far that it has become a source of harassment for farmers, ranchers and agricultural employees across the nation who are required to submit to burdensome and unnecessary regulations."

"The fact is that farmers and other fixed-site agricultural employers are already held responsible for their treatment of workers under the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Wagner-Peyser Act, the Federal Unemployment Tax Act, The Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act and the Occupational Health and Safety Act to name just a few," said Panetta.

A third bill, authored by Rep. Jim Mattox (D-Tex.) would give federal assistance to local school districts that have been forced by Federal Court order to provide service to the children of illegal aliens.

"The debate over whether these children should be admitted free to our public schools can go on and on. One thing is certain though, that when a school district receives a Federal Court order, they must obey—and that can cost money. We are trying to relieve, at least for the time being, the burden placed on these school districts so they can continue to provide a high caliber education to everyone attending their classes."

Of the three bills, the Irrigation Water Tax Act is awaiting hearings in the House Ways and Means Committee, and the other two have been referred to the Education and Labor Committee in the House where they are also awaiting hearings.

No Highway Fatalities

There were no fatal automobile accidents recorded for Aransas County during the month of August, according to a report from the Department of Public Safety.

Three personal injury reports and 14 personal damage reports were recorded from the county.

Refugio County recorded no fatalities, three personal injuries and nine personal damage reports.

San Patricio County reported one fatality, 14 personal injuries and 16 personal damages.

A comparison summary of accidents investigated by the Texas Highway Patrol for the year 1980 shows that the number of fatal accidents increased by thirteen over the same period in 1979.

Wyatt 'Guardian Of Small Business'

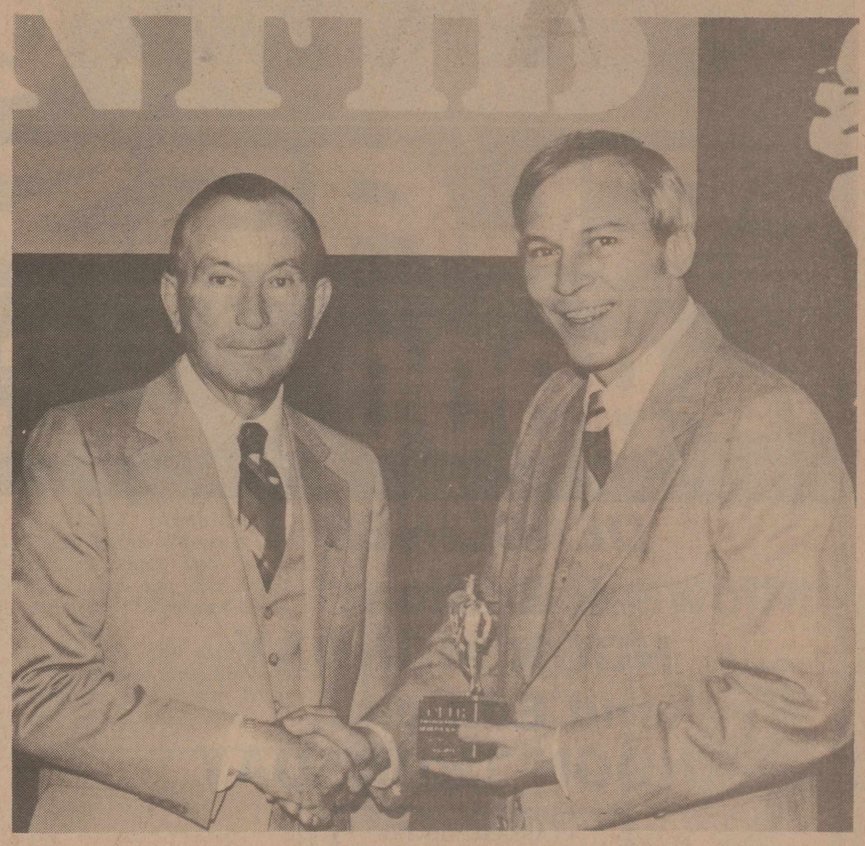

The National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB), the largest small business group in the nation, has chosen U.S. Congressman Joe Wyatt for the Federation's "Guardian of Small Business" award.

"I am very proud to have received this recognition," said Wyatt. "The NFIB exists to promote our system of private business, and to give small business a greater voice in Washington. I'm glad they have found me responsive to the needs of small businessmen who are the backbone of our free enterprise system."

In announcing the award which is based on voting record, Wallace Johnson, president of the 620,000-member organization said, "the Guardian award gives recognition to legislators who support small business, and at the same time assures our members of how their legislator is representing them in Congress.

"Quite often," said Johnson, "some legislators will claim support for small business by voting for such things as a Small Business Administration appropriations bill. We feel that NFIB members should know how their legislator voted on each of those issues which we consider of key importance to small business."

According to the NFIB, Wyatt voted to support small business 93 percent of the time.

WYATT AWARDED

Aransas History On Sale Everywhere

The first white child born in Rockport later served as county treasurer for 47 years.

During the Civil War, salt was so valuable — because it was in such short supply — that it became a medium of exchange and was considered "as good as gold."

During the first 10 years after its organization in 1871, Aransas County's affairs were conducted in a rented building located over the Post Office.

This is just some of Aransas County's history preserved in "The Texas Coastal Bend," a book by Alpha Kennedy Wood which is now available at some 20 locations throughout Aransas County.

Dr. Jerry Shaw, in charge of the book's distribution, said copies can be purchased at Sail Printing, First National Bank, Live Oak State Bank, Rockport's City Hall, H.E.B., Super D, Rockport's Chamber of Commerce to help fund Chamber activities. The Chamber holds publication rights on the book, a gift from the Wood family.

Mrs. Wood, the book's author, is a direct descendant of area pioneer Joseph F. Smith and was the wife of Will Welder Wood, grandson of Col. John H. Wood. Smith and Wood laid out the townships both of St. Mary's and Rockport in the early 1800s.

Mrs. Wood was the grandmother of the late Federal Judge John H. Wood Jr.

Copies are also available at Winston Churchill Gift Shop, Sundial II, Central Power & Light offices, the Sparrow's Nest, Johnson's Drug and Boutique, Roaten's Pharmacy, Potpourri, the Moon Shell and the Rockport Pilot.

LEASE

action on a request from Jim Hughes of McMoran Exploration to lease lots 172-179 and 383 north of Cove Harbor for three years. Navigation District attorney Reese Rozzell said there are some "specific regulatory statutes" applying to leases of this type and requested time to study these statutes.

Navigation Commissioner Bobby Landrum made the motion that the request of Lynn Wendell Marine to sublease to Halliburton be granted for one year.

Landrum said the commissioners "need to talk about subleases in Cove Harbor and see if we can get more money out of it. We need some kind of ruling on subleases in the future."

Landrum said a year time limit would give the board one year to consider the matter and set policies while Halliburton had the use of the sublease.

The motion was seconded by Commissioner Hillis Dominguez. Dominguez withdrew his second during the discussion that followed, but Commissioner Ken Faulkner seconded Landrum's motion.

Faulkner told those at the meeting that waterfront property in other harbors like Cove Harbor was "running for $4 per month per front foot." The present lease in Cove Harbor is for 40 cents per month per front foot.

"I think we need to take a look at it, get the rate up," Faulkner said. "We need to get funds into the Navigation District so we can maintain the harbor properly."

Faulkner continued that there were "tremendous abuses" of subleases in Cove Harbor, with lessors "getting five to 10 times more than is coming into the Navigation District. This puts a burden on the taxpayers," he said, adding, "We (the Navigation District) are short on funds."

Navigation Chariman Dave Maguglin said he was not in favor of limiting the sublease to one year. He reminded board members that Mrs. Wendell has a 20-year lease on the Property in question. "We can't change the lease until it expires," he said, "and it was signed in good faith by the lessee and lessor. I'm of the opinion that we shouldn't change our pclicy until we run to the end of the lease."

Vote on Landrum's motion was 3-1 in favor, with Landrum, Faulkner and Dominguez voting for a one-year term and Commissioner Jimmy Anders voting against the motion.

The commissioners voted 2-2 on the second sublease agreement, to sublease two lots on Cove Harbor to Cove Harbor Enterprises Inc.

The request was for a three-year sublease with an extension option through 1986.

Maguglin cast a vote in favor of a one-year lease to break the tie and grant the request.

creosote, paper of any kind or rubber tires.

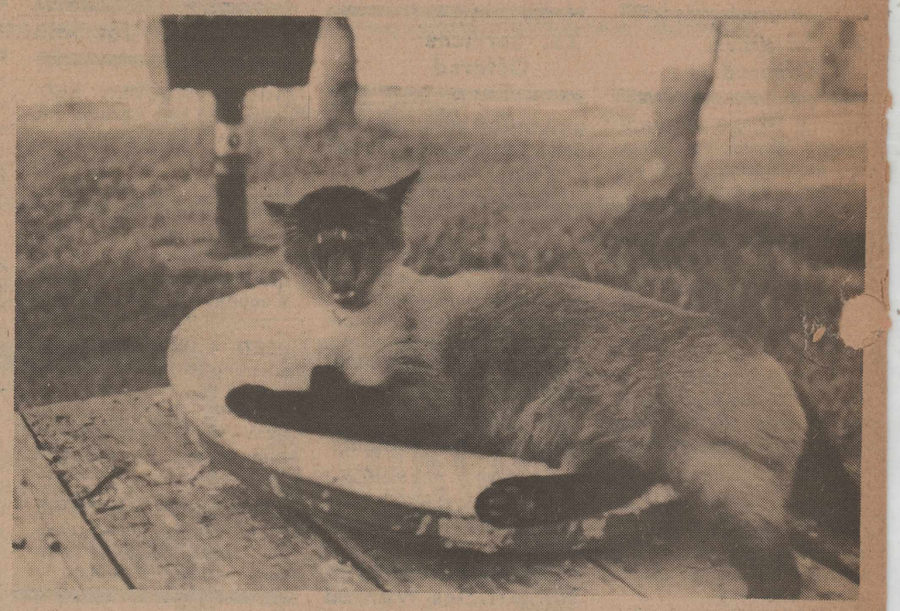

Persons who plan to call the shop students for pick-ups are asked to do so between Monday, October 13, and 1 p.m. Thursday.

A representative from RFHS will be in charge of placing materials on the fire. Anyone taking materials to the beach for the bonfire is asked to please check with the representative before placing the material on the fire.

Somethingfor Nothing? There's No Such Thing!

Shoplifting is a crime, and a permanent criminal record is it's only reward.

TIGER CAT?

Actually it's a Siamese, his name is Monkey, he's six years old and his owners, Mr. and Mrs. George G. Driffill, are the winners of this week's Pilot Pet Pix Contest. Again, we emphasize, judging is not of the pet -- there's no way we could do that -- but of the overall quality of the photograph. We are judging the photography only. There are still three weeks left in the contest. Only one photograph per family may be submitted and, please, no professional photographers may enter. Deadline for the third week's contest is noon Wednesday, October 15, so load your cameras and shoot. In addition to photographic quality, photos are also judged on the photographer's imagination and ability to capture those "revealing moments" on film. First prize is $15 each week with a grand prize of $50 to be awarded at the end of the five weeks.

SADIE

Presbyterian Church, though, she had one very important qualification: she knew how to love children. So when the kindergarten teacher resigned, they offered the position to Sadie.

"I turned it down when they first offered it," she said. But the church officers persisted, and finally Sadie gave in — not sure she was going to last.

Certainly she didn't think she'd still be at it 19 years later. Her classes didn't include her own two sons — Travis Smith in Agua Dulce and Charles Smith (Susan's father), now of Great Yarmouth, England. But she did teach all four of her grandchildren.

"They all had to mind, too," Sadie says. She treated her own grandchildren — and now Jessica — just like the other children, because to do otherwise "wouldn't be fair to the others," she says.

Her students also included "all of (Sheriff) Bob Hewes' children," as well as quite a few others. Although the kindergarten operates in a building belonging to First Presbyterian, Sadie has full control over its operation and her classes are open to any three and a half to five years, regardless of religion.

Classes are from 8 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. Mondays through Fridays and the youngsters learn the alphabet, learn to count, "learn to sit still — that's one of the main things," Sadie adds.

There are play activities too. Sadie tries for a blend of fun and education that will prepare the child for school later.

At the moment, she said, her class consists of 16 pupils — a limit imposed by the State of Texas which introduced compulsory licensing of all schools and daycare centers a couple of years ago.

In January, though, when she applies for re-licensing, Sadie hopes to convince the state she can take care of at least 18 youngsters in her classroom.

In the past, she has handled even larger classes — up to 25 students one year. Those students, she added, are now freshmen in high school.

Looking back 19 years later, Sadie certainly has no regrets about taking on a kindergarten class. And she's always been grateful to the church for giving her the chance: "If it hadn't been for the church, I don't know what I would have done," she said.

She's also had "some wonderful parents" over the years — and this year is no exception, she added, citing a woman who is buying "everything for a Halloween party" because she wants to.

And at 72, Sadie is by no means ready to retire. She takes off three months during the summer but, come fall, "I look forward to the start of school."

"You've got to love 'em," Sadie says of the youngsters she teaches. That's what she's been doing for 19 years — and plans to keep on doing as long as she can. . .

SEAFAIR

be treated to two special events. In the water, it'll be the air/sea rescue demonstration -- and in the air, four parachute jumps demonstrate their skill.

Then at 3:30 p.m., it'll be time for the water ski show in the Ski Basin.

During all of the day's activities, the gumbo teams will be stirring up their roux, chock-full of secret ingredients, so they'll be ready for the gumbo judging at 4 p.m. At 5 p.m., the awards will be presented and the gumbo auctioned off, with proceeds going to the Aransas County Emergency Corps.

The day's activities will close with another water ski show at 5:30 p.m.

Sunday will feature many of the same events as Saturday, with the Sail Boat Regatta beginning at noon, water ski shows at 2 p.m. and 5:30 p.m., the air/sea rescue demonstration and parachute and another afternoon of gumbo judging and auctions at 4 and 5 p.m.

Instead of crab beauty contests, however, Sunday will feature the sixth annual Crab Races, starting at 2:30 p.m. And earlier, at 1 p.m., a Boat Parade will n Saturday's land parade.

Boat Parade chairman Dick Lilly has lined up 40 entries this year.

And of course throughout both days, seven bands and two duos will provide lively music for the crowds.

Another all-day event for the whole family both days is the Maritime Museum. There's no admission charge and highlights include a display of historic Naval uniforms.

For the youngsters, there will be all-day fire truck rides, clowns and body-painting while their parents browse the booths or just have a beer or a soft drink and find a quiet place from which to watch all the excitement.

It's bigger and better than ever and everyo invited.

They call it "The Overnight Wonder" for constipation.

Are you uncomfortable with your laxative? Then meet the little white pill they call "The Overnight Wonder." Just one pill at bedtime safely, surely stimulates your system's own natural rhythm. Overnight. So in the morning, you're back on the bright side. Comfortably! It's a good feeling.

What is "The Overnight Wonder"? Ex-Lax® Pills. That's right—pills from Ex-Lax. Look for the white box.

Warriors Scalp Pirates 33-0

By Bob Crawford

Sitting Bull wasn't any kinder to General Custer at Little Big Horn than Coach Don Schmidt's Warriors were to the Rockport-Fulton Pirates at Tuloso-Midway Friday night, as the Warriors held a scalping party and completely ambushed the Pirates 33-0.

The Pirates were in trouble from the beginning when a fumble handed the ball to the Warriors at the Pirate 16. But, before the Warriors could notch a score after moving the ball to the Pirate seven, Micheal Simmons recovered a loose football for the Pirates, but they had their backs to the goal line.

The Pirates did get a break on fourth down when a short Ernest Gonzales punt travelled only to the Pirate 28, and the pay was extended to the Pirates with a penalty being called against Tuloso for roughing the kicker. The Pirates had new life momentarily. When the next fourth down rolled around, the Pirates were again forced to punt.

Gonzales sent a rocket up into the air, and when it came down across midfield, Mike Callihan of the Warriors took the ball in full stride, and when he finally stopped, he was in the end zone. The shocked Pirates, who usually get the better of returning kicks, watched as the extra point kicker added the extra point, giving the Warriors a 7-0 lead in the first period.

Following the kickoff, the Pirate offense was not moving except on an occasional run around the end by Simmons or Dwayne Walls. Another punting situation came about.

Gonzales had gone out of the game with an injury, and David Williams, the placement kicker entered the game to punt. Williams thought about it too long as he dribbled the ball off the side of his foot, and the punt netted only four yards. Luckily, the Warriors later missed a field goal try, making the short punt not so costly.

Rockport began to move the ball on their next possession. Jim Eaton hit two first down passes to Gonzales and Dennis Hull. Walls broke off a good run, and the next thing the fans knew, the Pirates were down at the Warrior 30 yard line. Then things fell apart. Eaton was dumped for a big loss instead of throwing the ball away, and then came an interception.

Tuloso-Midway could not move the ball, so they were forced to punt. The punt came down in front of Walls who was back to field the ball. As it bounced, the ball hit Walls, and he stood there frozen as the Warriors stacked on top of the ball three-deep, and with a minute left in the half, the Warriors had the ball in the Pirates' end of the field.

By the time 32 seconds had run off the clock, the Warriors were at the 12 of the Pirates. Quarterback Gordo Villalon set up his troops, and at the line of scrimmage made an adjustment by moving a receiver ment by moving a receiver further out. Then with the snap of the ball, the receiver he had moved ran a little diagonal pattern to the goal line, and Villalon threw a strike, and the Pirates were again stunned, this time with only 24 seconds to go in the first half.

Trailing 14-0 as the second half began, the Pirates moved to near midfield. Then three straight minus yardage plays forced the pirates to punt. The Warriors moved the ball down the field on the Pirates, with the big play coming on a perfect pass from Villalon to Callihan thrown over a defending Adam Harden. That pass gave the Tuloso team a first-and-goal. Only three plays were required to get the ball in. Following the TD, Kyle Dietze and Eddie Naro broke through for the Pirates to cause the kicker to miss his extra point try.

The Pirates tried to come back. Walls nearly broke the distance, as he shook loose to midfield where he was knocked out of bounds. As he relaxed after being forced out, he was drilled by a late tackle, and had to be helped from the field, although he later returned.

Tuloso was nailed deep in their territory by a good punt from Gonzales plus a penalty.

The quarter changed, and the teams went to the south end of the field. After another penalty or so, the Warriors had the ball on their own eight yard line. Villalon went back, gave a fake pump to his receiver Mike Callihan, and the next thing the Pirates knew, Callihan was running loose in the secondary. Micheal Simmons, with his tremendous speed, might have caught Callihan, but he was screened off by another Pirate chasing the runner. A pass play for 92 yards and a TD was the result.

Another late TD really only put points on the board, as the Pirates were drained by the shock treatments they had endured. The Pirates were hit with an injury on the next to last play of the game when Eaton went down with an injury.

The offense was plagued all night by the quicker Warriors, although Walls did go over the century mark with 104 yards in 20 carries.

The Defense did not play that badly. When a defense is put in the positin that the Pirate offense put them in all night, then they played very well. The ground game was held in check except when the passing game set it up. Villalon bombed the airways for over 200 yards for the night. Joe Barrera and Dietze, playing for the first time for any length of time, led the Pirates in tackles, and Naro, Scott Woodall, George Solis, and Scott Meyer added supporting roles.

Tuloso-Midway Eases By Pirate JV

By Bob Crawford

Tuloso-Midway scored a touchdown on their first possession and kicked a field goal with one second remaining on the first half clock to do all of the game's scoring in the 10-0 win over the Pirates of Rockport-Fulton in a JV contest at Pirate Stadium Thursday night.

The Warriors took the opening kickoff and moved the ball down the field and scored a touchdown after having controlled the ball for over eight minutes of the first quarter. The TD play came on a one-yard run after the Pirates furiously held them off.

The Pirates nearly gave the ball away on the following kickoff, but a heads-up play by Martin McNutt helped the Pirates retain possession as he recovered the loose ball.

When the Warriors got the ball again, Matt Logan punished the Warrior ball carrier, and the ball was knocked free. Mike Sanchez recovered for the Pirates.

Paul Beck rumbled for some big yards for the Pirates, but the Pirates could never really get the offensive surge they needed.

A trick play, a halfback pass, gave the Warriors a big break with time running down before the half. The play covered 39 yards, and Tuloso had the ball at the Pirates' 20 yard line. After trying to penetrate the tough Pirate defense, the Warriors went for a field goal as the clock has stopped on 0:01. The kick from 27 yards was good, and the Tuloso-Midway team led 10-0 at halftime.

Most of the second half was a defensive battle, with the Pirates winning the battle at the line of scrimmage, but not on the board. Beck continued his tough running, gaining 83 yards in the second half, putting him over 100 for the game.

The Pirate defense completely shut down the Warriors in the second half, yielding only 29 total yards. Peter Nichols, Joe Russell, Bill Jennings, Matt Logan, James Tumlinson, and a host of others made big plays from time to time to stop the Warriors cold.

Now, the Pirates will travel to Sinton to battle another group of Pirates this week.

Tuloso-Midway Nails Freshmen 21-6

By Bob Crawford

Rockport-Fulton's Freshmen gave away two fumbles both of which resulted in touchdowns, as they lost out 21-6 to a tough Tuloso-Midway team in Rockport Thursday evening.

The Pirates had worked hard to stop the Warriors on the initial drive of the game. Even though the defense was able to halt the Warriors, the Pirates coughed up the ball deep in their own end of the field, and in just a few plays the Warriors had a score, coming on an eight-yard run. With the extra point, the Pirates found themselves behind 7-0.

The Pirates got a good play from Darren Gurley who recovered a fumble at the 43 to give Rockport possession. Rockport marched the ball down the field toward the goal line, helped along by a 25-yard pass from quarterback Bobby Dingenary to Steve Olivarez. With the ball at Tuloso's 25, a mix-up on plays caused a fumble in the Pirates' backfield, and the major threat of the Pirates had been cut off.

The Warriors added another touchdown following the fumble, and the Pirates had spotted the Indians a 14-0 lead.

The second half was a gallant battle of defensive forces, neither team giving in to the other. Rockport got a big possession on a recovery by Ramond Romero, and Romero then went to the offense and made some big runs to put the Pirates in business at the 18 of Tuloso, but the Pirates who gave the football away on five fumbles, again left the ball on the ground for the Warriors to recover. As if by design, the Pirates got another recovery from Scott Russ, and as before, at the fifteen, coughed it up.

The Pirates did narrow the gap with a fourth period score on a 12-yard run by Romero. A blitzing linebacker stopped any hopes of picking up the two points, but the Pirates were on the board 14-6. Tuloso marched the ball down to inside the Pirate ten yard line, but two good plays from Greg Baker stopped the Warriors.

The Pirates had to go for broke. On a fourth down deep in their own end, they went for it and did not make it. TM just took the ball and punched it in for the cheapie score.

Rockport had one last effort following the kickoff on a long pass from Dingenary to Jeffrey Dickerson who had broken into the clear, but lost his footing. The play covered 32 yards.

On defense, the Pirates were led by Doyne Pass, Charles Solis and Chris Hill.

This week the Pirates travel to Sinton looking for win number five.

Runners Place Second At Robstown

By Bob Crawford

Pirate Cross Country runners placed second in Robstown this past weekend, losing out to powerful Kingsville of Class 5A. Close on the Pirates' soles were the Cottonpickers of Robstown with 90 points, two more than the Pirates had.

Leading the Pirates was David Ramirez with a ninth place finish. Peter Booth, Damaso Galvan, Mike Zlock, Raul Castro, and Ernie Lara also aided the cause.

Running for the JV division were Robert Garcia and Kelly Pultz, running with 53 other opponents.

The Lady Pirates, running in a division with all classifications, finished fourth. Leading the way for the Ladies was Jana Brown with a seventh place finish.

Lory Broadhurst placed a respectable ninth, and she was followed by Belinda Cross, Tammy Walker, Delfina Walker, Tammy Barlass and Irene Garcia.

Running for the JV girls were Amy Barlass and Aileen Little.

This weekend the Pirate teams will be running in Kingsville.

Aaron Pena (55) shows concern over the pain of team mate Eddie Naro (89).

Elegant, economical and easy souffle

Perhaps it is the ephemeral nature of a souffle that makes it such a special compliment to your table guests. The moment of drama and acclaim when it sits loftily, hot from the oven, quickly becomes an intriguing memory as the souffle is eaten or perishes of its own accord.

Appropriate for lunch, brunch, dinner or dessert, souffles are nutritious and versatile. A light cornmeal souffle, served with butter, jam and hot coffee, can put a smile on any Sunday morning. A dessert souffle ends the simplest of dinners with a festive and dramatic touch. The eggs give a hidden protein boost to the meal, so a light soup and vegetable entree will find themselves in nutritious, delicious balance.

Perhaps you've perused souffle recipes in your cookbooks, and decided they are too complex, or require some sophisticated tools and skills. Such is not the case with these recipes. A reliable oven, a souffle dish or other straight-sides casserole, and a wisk or egg beater are the tools you'll need. Care and confidence in preparing the ingredients are the guarantee of success. Still scared? Try the Squash Souffle recipe first. The confidence you gain will surely lead you on to a host of slightly more challenging souffle events. At a cost of 25 cents to 50 cents per serving of deliciously complete protein, I'll bet they'll become a regular feature on your table, as they are on mine.

SQUASH SOUFFLE

1½ lbs. yellow squash, or a mixture of yellow and zucchini
1 tbsp. salt
½ onion, minced
1 tbsp. butter
4 eggs, beaten
½ cup cottage cheese
½ cup grated white Cheddar cheese
2 tbsps. grated Parmesan
½ cup whole-wheat bread crumbs
2 tbsps. chopped fresh parsley
Freshly ground black pepper
2 tbsps. melted butter

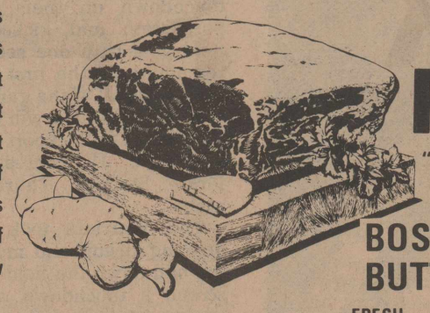

Grate the squash and toss it with the salt in a colander. Let it drain for 20 to 30 minutes. Meanwhile, saute the minced onion in butter until tender. Combine with the eggs, cheeses, bread crumbls, parsley, a dash of salt and a good grate of pepper. Rinse the squash and squeeze out the excess water, roll it in a towel to dry, then add it to the egg mixture and stir. Turn it into an oiled two-quart souffle dish or casserole and pour the butter over the top. Bake for 45 minutes in a preheated 350-degree oven, and serve immediately. Serves six, about 25 cents each.

Political asylum is nation's right

Contrary to common belief, the right of political asylum, which is well established in international law, is a right not of the person seeking haven but of the nation granting it.

The theory is that every nation has an absolute right to determine who shall be admitted to its territory.

FOOTBALL CONTEST

1st Place .$20
2nd $10 3rd $5

The Rockport Pilot in cooperation with several local merchants is sponsoring a weekly football contest. Three cash prizes will be awarded each week to the local football fan who picks the largest number of winning teams.

If a tie exists, the person who has best predicted the final score of the TIE BREAKER GAME will be judged the winner.

Entries are limited to one per person per week but there is no limit to the number of times a person may win.

Follow the entry instructions carefully and show your appreciation to the several area merchants who have sponsored this contest.

ENTRY INSTRUCTIONS

Each business advertisement has a contest game listed somewhere in the ad. To complete the entry form, first look in each ad, pick your winning team, find the merchant's name in the ENTRY FORM and list, beside his name, the winning team of your choice.

Each blank must have a team listed. When this is completed, turn your attention to the TIE-BREAKER GAME. Write your estimate of the final score. This game will only be used in case of a tie.

When you are finished picking the winning teams and the TIE-BREAKER SCORE, fill in your name, address and phone number.

Mail [P.O. Box 608, Rockport] or deliver the entry form to The Pilot Office [1002 Wharf Street] before 5:00 p.m. Friday.

The contest winners will be notified by The Pilot on the following Monday.

The decision of the judges is final!
