Two Slain At Lamesa, Father, Son Are Held

LAMESA — A young man and woman, fatally shot outside the Lamesa General Hospital last night, died here early this morning.

Her husband and his father (her father-in-law) were being held at the Dawson County jail for questioning. No charges had been filed at noon Monday.

Mrs. Nona Billingsley, 26, died of bullet wounds at 2 a.m. today in the hospital. Jimmy Thomas Schooler, 26-year-old farmer, died in the hospital at 4 a.m.

There was no indication that either had regained consciousness or had made a statement.

Nor did the sheriff's office indicate whether John A. Billingsley, husband of the slain woman, or Alva Billingsley, his father, had made any statement to officers concerning the incident.

Details of the shooting were few. Officers said that the man and woman were killed just as they emerged from a car outside the hospital at 11 p.m. Mrs. Billingsley, a practical nurse, was due to report to work at the hospital at 11 p.m.

Mrs. Billingsley was born April 30, 1931, at Lamesa and had resided here all of her life. Besides her husband survivors include one son, Jerry, 7, and a daughter, Gwendolyn, 8; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Davis, Route No. 1 Ackerly; two brothers, James Monroe Davis and Dennis Paul Davis, both of Route No. 1, Ackerly; and a sister, Mrs. Clifford Stafford, Lamesa. Arrangements are incomplete at Higginbotham Funeral Home.

Schooler was reared in the O'Donnell area and moved here three years ago. He was a farmer by occupation. Surviving him are his wife, one son, James Curtis, 2; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude C. Schooler, Route No. 1 O'Donnell; and one sister, Jerry Schooler, O'Donnell.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the O'Donnell Church of Christ with the minister, Carl Cain, officiating, assisted by W. T. Hamilton, Lamesa minister. Burial will be in the O'Donnell Cemetery under the direction of Higginbotham Funeral Home.

Southeast 'Loop' May Be Forfeited

Unless some way can be found to acquire the needed right-of-way at reasonable cost, Howard County stands to forfeit the allocated $159,000 state funds earmarked last weekend to build a new city loop route to be known as FM 700.

The County Commissioners Court at its session Monday morning gloomily contemplated the possible large sum involved in acquiring the 4.3 miles of 200-foot right of way and wondered if any method could be devised to provide the money for such a purchase.

The county has pledged to the state it will provide the right of way if the state will build the road. Now that stakes have been set for the road, the terrain over which it passes involves property the commissioners court feels will be too expensive to buy for road purposes — perhaps too costly for the county to accomplish.

"There was no money set up in the budget for this right of way purchase," R. H. Weaver, county judge, said at the meeting. "We anticipated at that time the easements would be available without large expenditure.

"The road as laid out by the state and on a route which the district engineer insists will have to be followed now crosses a considerable amount of private property which may have a high value. If the amount of money required is large—the county will not be able to buy the right of way."

If this development arose, then the $159,000 will have to be forfeited.

Weaver warned if this forfeit develops, the money will "be spent in some other county than Howard." He also added, "if we have to pass up this project at this time, we may never get FM 700 east built."

The commissioners voted that Weaver should contact property owners along the proposed road route anew and try to obtain from them the best possible settlement that could be made.

Weaver said that he would do so. He planned to visit with some of the persons involved this afternoon.

Goodwin Boys Meet Sunday For First Time

Introductions were in order Sunday afternoon when Jack Goodwin met Glenn Goodwin of Tucson, Ariz.

They are brothers, but they had never seen each other until Sunday. Jack, 46, is manager of the Crawford and Settles Hotels here while Glenn is an aircraft mechanic.

Glenn, 61, was taken along with another brother, Leroy, 58, to live with their aunt before Jack was born. The parents of the boys separated, with the father taking the two eldest boys and going to El Paso.

Two girls and a boy in addition to Jack were then raised by the mother at St. Joseph, Mo. Glenn said he lost all track of the family after returning from World War I. In 1935, he moved to Tucson, and three years later, another brother, George, contacted him there, so Glenn and Leroy started corresponding with their mother in St. Joseph. They then went to see her in 1944, only months before she died.

When Jack moved to Big Spring in June, he called Glenn, who said he would be through here during the summer. However, he was unable to make it, and Saturday night, Jack's wife mentioned that the brother did not come.

He walked in Sunday, however. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Goodwin will stay through Tuesday afternoon and then go on to Missouri to see other relatives.

Both brothers said they wouldn't have recognized each other, although they had seen pictures made in earlier years.

Jack still has not seen brother Leroy, but he said he planned to go to Tucson about the first of the year and get acquainted with him.

U.S. officials responsible for this country's missiles and satellite programs appeared determined to remain calm under criticism from members of Congress.

Secretary of Defense McElroy said in Cincinnati yesterday that Sputnik II will have no great effect on U.S. missile-satellite programs.

"We already are in a pressure program," McElroy told reporters. "Our program is in very good shape right now."

Congressional grumbling over the Soviet breakthrough, burst out anew in the wake of Sputnik II. Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said the second satellite shows that Moscow is "taking away America's historic trump card — its industrial and scientific supremacy."

Sen. Anderson (D-NM) called Wilson charged today that former insurance commissions had administered the law so credit insurance could be used in effect to exact illegal interest on small loans.

He appeared at the new Insurance Board's first public hearing on credit insurance rates and related matters.

Wilson said that in the past the credit insurance laws had been administered in an unconstitutional manner by the commission.

"We feel that the statutes are constitutional but administration has been unconstitutional, allowing credit insurance to be used to circumvent the constitution which prohibits usury," Wilson said.

"The board should take usury out of insurance. The board's job is insurance only and it should not worry about what would happen to the loaning industry."

The strike ended Friday night. Strikers voted to return to work.

This News Is Easy To Swallow

It was a dark day for the owners of the Baker Castor Oil Co. in Downey, Calif., when fire destroyed their three-story processing plant with an estimated $200,000 damage. The reaction of Douglas Har- din, 10, left, and his brother Gregory, 7, was extremely different.

Soviet Pup Circles Earth In Sputnik II

'Curly' Is First Space Traveler

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sputnik II, whirling more than 1,000 miles out in space with a little dog named Curly aboard, gave the world another convincing glimpse of Russian technical prowess today.

The Soviet Union's second earth satellite roared aloft about 11:38 p.m. EST Saturday. Data released by the Russians indicated it was propelled by a powerful new ballistic missile.

The announcement brought also a renewal of demands that this country speed up its missile and satellite programs to overtake the Russians. But Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy and other officials indicated they expect little or no change in this country's present schedule.

The feat gave the Russians another first—the first live space traveler, a Spitz-type female dog named Kudryavka, which is Russian for Curly.

THIRD STAGE

The Moscow announcement described Sputnik II as the third stage of the rocket which launched it into space. Total weight of the apparatus, which astonished some scientists, was given as 1,120 pounds.

An accurate orbit for the new satellite still had not been calculated today, but residents of the United States were expected to be sighting Sputnik II before long. It is traveling substantially the same pattern as its predecessor, but is taking a little bit longer for each circuit.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass., said the new satellite "should be visible very soon as an evening object in United States latitudes."

Scientists and radio amateurs began picking up the now-familiar beep-beeps shortly after Sputnik II was launched. The new satellite was transmitting on the same frequencies as Sputnik I did — 20 and 40 megacycles.

Moscow radio said Sputnik II swings 1,056 miles out into space at the farthest extent.

One broadcast said the new satellite is built to stay up longer than Sputnik I, "despite a considerable increase of the weight of the scientific and measurement equipment, which amounts to over half a ton."

GREATER VELOCITY

"The second satellite was given a greater velocity in its flight at the time of reaching its orbit, with a view to prolonging its life," the announcement said.

British scientist Kenneth Gatland, vice chairman of the British Interplanetary Society, called the accomplishment "simply fantastic."

"It must mean the Russians could land a rocket with a sizable payload on the moon tomorrow," Gatland said.

U.S. officials responsible for this country's missiles and satellite programs appeared determined to remain calm under criticism from members of Congress.

Secretary of Defense McElroy said in Cincinnati yesterday that Sputnik II will have no great effect on U.S. missile-satellite programs.

"We already are in a pressure program," McElroy told reporters. "Our program is in very good shape right now."

for immediate appointment of a missile czar to coordinate U. S. missile programs.

Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.) said "I hope all this will tend to jolt our people into a realization of the seriousness of the threat to our security."

Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) said the launching of Sputnik II is an indication there is truth in the Russian claim to have successfully tested a 5,000-mile range intercontinental ballistic missile.

Lester B. Pearson, former foreign minister of Canada and recent Nobel Peace Prize winner, told a Minneapolis audience yesterday:

"It is time for soul-searching, perhaps soul-shocking, rather than self-satisfaction as we face this new force of Soviet Communist imperialism armed with all the latest devices of a technology which we used to think peculiarly our own; and indeed possessing some that we have not yet acquired."

But Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, president of the U. N. General Assembly, told a TV audience that the Russian feat may have increased the chances of peace and disarmament because "the more we realize the urgency of our quest for peace, the more the possibility of solving it."

UNWELCOME MOISTURE

Up To 1.5 Inches Of Rainfall Reported In Big Spring Area

Persistent drizzles, intermittently broken by sharp showers, dumped from 10 to as much as an inch and a half of rain on Howard County over the weekend.

Here in Big Spring, the official rainfall at the U. S. Experiment Station was .65. Elsewhere in the city, the gauges showed from .23 inch to .40 inch.

Fairview community seems to have had the heaviest rainfall. It was reported some areas in that neighborhood had as much as 1.5 inches.

There was some light hail Sunday during one of the heavier showers but the stones were too small to do any damage.

The rains in general were not welcome. Cotton farmers looked on the downpour with jaundiced eyes as the pickers sat idle.

Promised freeze of Saturday night's forecast fizzled and the lowest reading for the 24-hour period Sunday and Monday morning was only 40 degrees.

Monday brought on a continuation of the same damp drizzle which had prevailed unbrokenly since 10 p.m. Saturday night.

All of Texas, with the exception of the extreme south was involved in the same sort of weather which ruled in Howard County.

More cloudy weather with scattered rains were forecast for the entire state.

Predawn temperatures Monday ranged from 38 degrees at Dalhart to 70 at Galveston.

Mineral Wells had a heavy ground fog and 17 of an inch of rain overnight. Weatherford had an overnight fall of .15.

Fog was reported Sunday at San Sunday's highs ran from 37 at Amarillo to 84 at Kingsville.

The same wet, cloudy and cool weather prevailed across broad areas of the entire nation.

The precipitation included snow, freezing rain and showers. A wide wet belt extended from Central Texas northward and eastward over western sections of the Southern and Central Plains states.

Snow and freezing rain fell in western Nebraska, eastern Wyoming and northeastern Colorado, where temperatures were in the mid 20s and low 30s.

Officials, Public Puzzled By Mysterious Flying Object

LEVELLAND, Tex. (AP)—Reports of a mysterious object which one witness said flew around with a "great sound and rush of wind" had officials and the public puzzled today.

Newsman and authorities had reports of sightings over a wide West Texas area Saturday and yesterday.

Peace officers checking areas where landings were reported were unable to find any trace. Reese AFB officials declined to say whether an investigation was being made.

Pedro Saucedo, 30, a farm hand and part time barber here, told officers and newsmen, "I was driving out to a farm near the Pettit Community (west of here) with a friend, Joe Salaz, when he first saw the thing. We first saw a flash of light in a field to our right, and we didn't think much about it at first."

"When it got near, the lights of my truck went out and the motor died. I jumped out of the truck and hit the dirt because I was afraid. I called to Joe but he didn't get out. The thing passed directly over my truck with a great sound and a rush of wind. It sounded like thunder and my truck rocked from the blast. I felt a lot of heat. Then I got up and watched it go out of sight toward Levelland," he said.

Saucedo, a Korean War veteran, said it was "torpedo shaped" or like "a rocket," but much larger. Bill Wilkerson, Lubbock Morning Avalanche veteran police reporter who talked to Saucedo, said he appeared considerably agitated.

Ronald Martin, 18, a Levelland truck driver, said his truck engine died and the lights went out "when a big ball of fire dropped on the highway" east of here early Sunday.

Martin said the object changed to a bluish green color when it settled on the highway, then changed to a fireball again when it rose straight up and disappeared.

Newell Wright, a Texas Tech student from here, reported a similar occurrence also east of Levelland.

Police Patrolman A. J. Fowler said Saucedo and about 14 others who called in reports of the object sounded upset and in some cases terrified.

"They seemed to agree that this something was 200 feet long, shaped like an egg and was lit up like it was on fire—but looked more like neon lights," he said.

"They said it was about 200 feet in the air, and when it got close car motors and lights would go off. Everybody that called was very excited," he asserted.

Sheriff Weir Clem said he saw a brilliant light in the distance but didn't get close enough for a good look. Highway Patrolmen Lee Har- grove and Floyd Cavin reported seeing similar flashes in the sky in about the same area and at the same time as Clem. All were riding in separate cars.

There also were reports of an unexplained light in the sky far across the state between Sherman and McKinney.

Two men said pulsating green flashes streaked between clouds near Odessa, about 130 miles south of here. Other sightings were reported around Amarillo, far to the north.

But the Texas Electric Service Co. at Odessa said the green lights there might have been caused by a power failure early yesterday when a ground guy wire sagged and caused an arc between two power lines.

Calvin Harris and Sandy McKean, CAA control tower workers at the Amarillo airport, said they saw a "blue gaseous object which moved swiftly and left an amber trail southeast of the city" Saturday night.

A couple driving into Amarillo from the south Saturday night told policeman J. R. Poole of an occurrence similar to the one reported by Saucedo, but Poole had not heard of the Levelland reports and said he brushed them off without getting their names.

Rep. J. T. Rutherford (D-Tex.) called for a statement from the Pentagon on the reports and said he was dispatching a telegram asking an explanation from Air Force officials.

Louisiana Plans Segregation Fight

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana today planned legal incentives for school officials to defy federal courts, with closing public schools a last resort to dodge integration.

Sen. W. M. Rainach, chairman of the legislative "watchdog" committee on segregation, explained: "We are interested in protecting public school officials and employees because some of them may decide they want to be in contempt of court. We want to provide an incentive in case they want to defy a federal court order to integrate."

The north Louisiana senator, also chairman of the Citizens Councils of America, did not elaborate. He hinted at economic protection for anyone sent to a federal jail.

Rainach's committee met for almost four hours behind closed doors yesterday with the board of directors of the Louisiana School Boards Assn.

The two groups, the segregation leader said, unanimously adopted a resolution directing the committee staff "to conduct hearings and draft appropriate legislation... which would automatically close any public school which is integrated, whether by order of a court, military action or otherwise."

The resolution also directed

"said legislation to provide for the continued education of the children and the protection of teachers and other public employees affected thereby."

The measure would be introduced in the 1958 legislature or a special session if one is called before next May.

"I don't see that a special session is necessary," Rainach added, "although later developments may make it necessary."

He said President Eisenhower's intervention with federal troops in the Little Rock school integration crisis "is precipitating the act, but the overall situation demands it."

"We are a long way from closing our schools," Rainach added. "One intermediate step that has been suggested would be to close down a school that was integrated and let the governor reopen it under his police powers."

Committee counsel W. M. Shaw said this was similar to a law recently enacted in Florida.

The 1954 school segregation law drafted by the committee in the weeks after the Supreme Court's decision outlawing school segregation placed the maintenance of separate schools under the state's inherent police power.

These laws were knocked out in an integration suit involving the New Orleans school system. An order to integrate in New Orleans has been appealed and the case is pending in federal court.

Allies Agree Sputnik II Big Russian Victory

LONDON (AP) — British and French commentators agreed today that the launching of the second earth satellite has given the Soviet Union another tremendous propaganda victory.

There were widespread speculations that the Red scientists may be on the verge of sending a rocket all the way to the moon, perhaps within days.

Military correspondents agreed that with rockets of the titanic power necessary to put Sputnik II into orbit just over a thousand miles out in space, the Soviet Union could easily pilot the United States with H-bombs.

China's first rocket was quick to seize on the propaganda implications of the Soviet feat. Peiping radio asserted the new launching proved the "absolute superiority of the Communist system over capitalism."

The outstanding achievements of Soviet science and technology are all the more admirable compared with the repeated failure of the West to send an artificial satellite into space, said the broadcast.

London's Conservative Daily Mail called anew for a joint British-American effort, saying Sputnik II "gives an even more urgent warning to Britain and America to get together in a close scientific partnership."

"Nothing but a big joint effort will suffice to overtake the Soviets," the mail declared. "Nothing less will save the West."

The London Daily Herald, voice of the Labor party, said the situation calls for "meetings and frank talks between the rulers of the world."

The independent London Daily Express termed the propaganda value of the new satellite immense, "particularly as the Russians had given notice of the launching."

"They said they would do it. And they have done it," the Express pointed out. "The message is clear: You can believe Moscow."

The Conservative Daily Telegraph said the two satellite launchings had greatly strengthened the power of Nikita Khrushchev, Soviet Communist party chief.

These demonstrations of technological success certainly provide Khrushchev with just that kind of momentum that ambitious rulers formerly found in successful military campaigns, the Telegraph said.

Two Parisian newspapers, Figaro and Parisien Libere, suggested the Soviet Union would launch a rocket to the moon on Thursday, the 40th anniversary of the Communist revolution.

"Let us note that Nov. 7 is the date of the full moon," Figaro said.

An Indian Foreign Ministry official in New Delhi said the high degree of Soviet technology revealed by the new satellite "makes old thoughts on world problems outmoded."

"Human psychology," he added, "needs readjustment to a fourth dimensional, transplanetary outlook. It must get out of the rut of 19th century, power politics thinking."

Dog's In Good Shape; Russians Also Claim Largest Airliner

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union reported today that its space-traveling dog was faring well inside the half-ton satellite circling the earth just over 1,000 miles out in space.

Moscow radio said the small, fluffy-haired passenger inside Sputnik II survived the shock of being blasted into space and her breathing, heartbeat and blood pressure were normal.

Housed in an air-conditioned casing the dog hurtled around the earth at a speed of 17,800 miles an hour.

Signals from two radios in the satellite are sending scientific data about the dog's reactions and space conditions, the Russians said. Monitors picked up a "beep, beep," on one frequency and a hissing sound from another.

As the spectacular achievement signaled the opening of the era of space travel, a Soviet scientist hinted the dog may parachute safely back to earth.

The outstanding achievements of Soviet science and technology are all the more admirable compared with the repeated failure of the West to send an artificial satellite into space, said the broadcast.

Pravda added that such rapidly breeding small creatures as rodents, mollusks and insects also may be sent aloft. This, the article said, will give a good possibility for genetic studies.

JET AIRLINER
In another technological claim, the Soviet government announced that it had put into operation "the largest passenger aircraft in the world," powered by four prop-jet engines. The announcement said the plane can transport 120 passengers from Moscow to New York in 10 to 12 hours.

The Russians originally announced that Sputnik II, launched at about 7:38 a.m. yesterday — 11:38 p.m. Saturday (EST) — was in an orbit reaching 923 miles out. Later this maximum distance was revised to 1,056 miles.

The new satellite weighs 1,120.29 pounds and circles the earth in 108.7 minutes, the Russians said. The first Soviet satellite, launched Oct. 4, weighs 184 pounds, has an orbit reaching out 560 miles, moves at 18,000 miles an hour and circles the earth every 96.2 minutes.

Sputnik I, still circling although its radio now is dead, is a globe sent aloft by a three-stage rocket. Two pieces of the rocket apparently still are orbiting with it.

The second satellite, described by the Russians as "the last stage of the carrier rocket," apparently is shaped like a rocket.

Both baby moons travel at an angle of 65 degrees to the equator. Sputnik I moves north to south. The direction of Sputnik II has not been stated.

TO ORBIT LONGER
One Moscow broadcast said the new satellite was built to orbit longer than its predecessor, which has completed about 500 circuits of the globe.

Instruments aboard Sputnik II were reported designed to send information about cosmic, ultra violet and X-ray, temperature and pressure and measurements of the earth.

The two radios send on frequencies of 40,002 and 20,005 kilocycles with wave lengths of about 7.5 and 15 meters. Beeps on one frequency were heard in Tokyo 23 minutes after the first Moscow announcement. The beeps last three-fourths of a second and is followed by a pause of the same length.

A. A. Blagonravov, one of the Soviet Union's top scientists, said the hissing sound on the second frequency provides information about the dog's condition. He hinted the dog eventually may be ejected from the satellite to parachute back to earth. The dog is being fed artificially.

CURLY ON RADIO
The Russians introduced the dog to a radio audience recently and said she was one of several which had been sent up in rockets and parachuted to earth in training for the satellite launching.

The Moscow broadcasts said information gathered by the new baby moon will make more understandable to man "the unfathomable natural processes going on in the cosmos."

The studies are being made in conformity with the International Geophysical Year program, an announcement said.

The Soviet announcement of its big, new passenger aircraft said the prop-jet plane, called the TU114, has a telephone system, a restaurant for 48 people and two elevators. The four-engine ship can carry 220 persons on flights of from 800 to 900 miles and 170 on medium-range flights, the official news release said.

Dawson Votes On Park Bonds

LAMESA — Dawson Counties will go to the polls Tuesday to ballot on $125,000 in park improvement bonds, with most of the money to be used in the construction of two swimming pools.

Those voters who reside in Lamesa will ballot on an additional $50,000 in park improvement bonds.

Balloting on the special issues in the Dawson County bond election will be at the regular polling place for the state amendment election, while the voting on the City of Lamesa bond election will be in the City Manager's Office.

High School Integrated

Timothy Winters, a lanky Negro expected to star on Pleasanton High School's basketball team, contributes an answer in class discussion on the first day of integration at the school.

Nixon Believed Driving Too Fast, Early For Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some friendly politicians are beginning to believe Vice President Nixon may be traveling too fast too early in his drive for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination.

Nixon received boosts last week from former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's description of him as a "superb" candidate, from Sen. William F. Knowland's reported decision not to enter presidential primaries outside California, and from California Gov. Goodwin Knight's apparent plan to avoid a decisive showdown fight with Knowland for the state's nomination for governor.

Nixon is coming to look more and more like the man to beat for the nomination.

That may be a satisfying spot in some circumstances. But many politicians contend that the earlier any aspirant arrives at that point, the earlier he becomes a target for political sniping and the more time he gives his enemies to combine against him.

In some respects, that is what happened to the late Sen. Robert A. Taft prior to 1952. Taft drew so much attention to himself that he became widely known as "Mr. Republican." He was the man to beat, and when Taft's critics were given the time to bring Dwight D. Eisenhower around to a receptive mood, they had the man to beat the Ohio senator.

Nixon is identifying himself with the "modern" wing of the Republicans so widely as to invite an onslaught from the more conservative Republicans who make up a substantial majority of the party's members in Congress.

These Republicans once counted Nixon as one of them. Although they were disillusioned on that score by some of his actions as vice president, they came to his defense when Harold E. Stassen made his abortive effort to knock Nixon off the ticket last year.

But Nixon's new prominence in the field of potential 1960 candidates seems likely to bring his critics closer together and to precipitate some concentrated firing at him.

A case in point may grow out of Nixon's reported work in surveying the foreign aid field. Unless the temper of the country changes, any increase in foreign aid is not going to be popular with the majority of Republicans in the House and Senate. President

Bronze Gnome Due To Return

HOUSTON (AP)—A bronze gnome who has spent 20 years in a warehouse away from the children who loved him and his long nose will probably be reunited with the youngsters of Houston.

The 50-year-old short, fat gnome with the funny face was taken from Sam Houston Park in 1937 after vandals repeatedly carried him away and sold him for scrap iron. After re-claiming him a number of times, city officials decided to pack him away in a warehouse.

Brownie was unveiled in 1907 to a cheering throng of youngsters whose penny contributions paid for his creation.

Park director Gus Haycock said the city plans to replace Brownie's missing right arm and return him to a park or to the children's room at the Public Library.

Strike Averted

HOUSTON (AP)—An agreement between members of the Transport Workers Union and the Houston Transit Co. was reached Sunday averting a strike of 800 bus drivers.

The bus drivers, who make $1.92 an hour, got an 8-cent an hour raise this year and a 4-cent raise next year.

Voters Cast Ballots In 6 States In Off-Year Elections

WASHINGTON (AP)—New Jersey and Virginia elect governors tomorrow as voters in a half dozen states cast ballots in off-year elections.

Those two states and Kentucky also will elect their legislatures. Pennsylvania and New Jersey will fill vacancies in the House of Representatives, and mayors will be chosen in New York City, Pittsburgh and a number of other cities.

Advance indications were that the Democrats would win both governorships and that the Republicans would hold on to both House seats at stake, but several factors added interest to the races.

Racial issues may be significant in both the New Jersey and Virginia elections, and observers were watching for possible shifts in Negro sentiment as a result of the Little Rock school integration incident.

The Republican candidates for governor carried the endorsement of President Eisenhower, who was victorious in both states last year. In both cases the incumbents are Democrats.

NEW JERSEY — Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner, whose election in 1953 ended a 10-year string of Republican governors, is seeking re-election in a race that could boost him or drop him from consideration for his party's national ticket in 1960. Opposing him is State Sen. Malcolm S. Forbes, a magazine publisher for whom Vice President Nixon campaigned actively. Forbes has raised Eisenhower's intervention in the Little Rock school crisis as an issue to gain Negro votes.

Friends say Nixon recognizes the political risks involved in getting himself labeled as front man for a cause that might be highly unpopular with a majority of his GOP colleagues.

On the other hand, the vice president evidently feels that he can get more convention votes by staidout positions on controversial issues than he can by pleasing members of the House and Senate.

Nixon's strategy appears to be to make himself appealing to the states that hold the big blocs of convention votes. He has appealed to them by his stand on civil rights.

This stand seems likely to cost Nixon the support of all of the Southern delegations to the convention. Eisenhower needed some southern support to beat Taft in 1952.

Nixon's enemies thus may have a reservoir to draw upon if they can find a Republican less identified with the civil rights issue.

The state's strongly Republican 2nd District will name a successor to the late Republican Rep. T. Millet Hand. Candidates are Assemblyman Hilton W. Glenn, Margate Republican, and Joseph G. Hancock, Greenwich Township Democrat.

VIRGINIA — Republican Ted Dalton, a state senator and GOP national committeeman who captured 45 per cent of the vote in trying for the governorship four years ago, is running this time against Democrat J. Lindsay Almond Jr. Almond supports the "massive resistance" to integration urged by his party's leaders in the state. Dalton has called for a locally administered pupil assignment plan which he contends would better withstand court tests and still permit only token integration.

NEW YORK — Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City is given the edge for re-election over Republican Robert K. Christenberry, hotel executive and former state boxing commission chairman. Mayors will be named also in 50 other New York communities, including Buffalo and Albany.

PENNSYLVANIA — A House vacancy caused by the resignation of Republican Rep. Samuel K. McConnell Jr. will be filled in the state's 13th District. Seeking the post are Republican John A. Lafore Jr. of Haverford and Democrat Glenn W. Preston of Orland. Mayors will be elected in Pittsburgh, Scranton and 21 other cities. Voters will ballot state-wide on a proposal to pay a Korean War bonus.

KENTUCKY — A state legislature will be named along with mayors in Louisville and most other cities.

CONNECTICUT — Mayors will be chosen in New Haven, Bridgeport and Waterbury.

Missile Strike Board To Meet

BROWNSVILLE (AP)—A union executive board met today to discuss setting the date for a strike that could tie up part of the nation's missile testing program.

The strike, voted by union members, would be against Pan American Airways but could halt missile testing at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The union claimed some 1,000 employees at the missile center, described by the company as housekeeping personnel, had given their go ahead.

Sputnik II Shows Up On Schedule

BONN, Germany (AP)—Scientists at the Bonn University observatory said Sputnik II showed up on schedule this morning between 2:43 and 2:53 a.m. EST.

The radio signals from the dog-carrying rocket were clear, said Friedrich Becker, director of the observatory. He added that the speed and altitude were unchanged from yesterday.

In East Germany, the Communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland quoted D. Wattenberg, chief of the East Berlin Observatory, as saying he believes the new satellite shows the Soviet Union has succeeded in producing a special new fuel for the launching rocket.

In another Neues Deutschland article astronomer A. Sternfeld said that the second satellite probably will prove that the sun's ultraviolet rays are absorbed by the satellite shell, thereby eliminating their damaging effects on living organisms.

A Bible Thought For Today

If any man hear my voice and open the door, I will come in to him. (Rev. 3:20)

New Jersey Election In National Scene

The gubernatorial election in New Jersey Tuesday will be watched with extraordinary interest by the satchmen of both major parties, and none will watch the results with more eager attention than President Eisenhower and his political advisers.

The contest is between Gov. Robert B. Meyner, Democrat, who as a boy delivered newspapers to help out the family budget, and State Senator Malcolm S. Forbes, Republican, publisher and editor of the business and finance magazine "Forbes."

Forbes, 38, is an Eisenhower Republican, with a wife and five children who have accompanied him on many of his campaign forays — the most intense and thoroughgoing in recent New Jersey history. President Eisenhower not only gave him a personal endorsement, but sent two members of his cabinet and Vice President Richard M. Nixon to help him with oratory and handshaking. Various GOP senators have also "invaded" Jersey to lend their weight—a gesture that goes not always produce desirable results. On the other hand, Meyner refused outside aid, and is carrying on his own day-and-night schedule of speech-making, handshaking and baby-kissing.

In short, the national GOP has shot the works in Forbes' behalf. If they win, the victory is calculated to give new life, hope and sparkle to next year's congressional races and to the 1960 presidential campaign. Conversely, if they lose great will be the repercussions thereof.

The odds favor Meyner in most of the polls. Four years ago he won in the face of a national GOP triumph; two years ago the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket led the Stevenson-Kefauver team by 800,000 votes.

But Meyner has proved to be a competent and popular governor, even with many Republican leaders; and he, too, has a great deal at stake — nothing less than a fair shot at the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960 if he survives this all-out GOP onslaught.

A great deal more than control of a single state is at stake Tuesday. The outcome may well set a pattern for 1958 and 1960.

Too Much Reassurance From The Top

If our people had become complacent about our military posture vis a vis Russia—and we doubt seriously if they had—it was because their leaders had indulged in words and deeds that tended to soothe and placate their natural uneasiness.

Such catchphrases as "a bigger bang for a buck," and talk about a single airplane or missile with an A- or H-bomb carrying more destructive power than all the artillery shells loaded in WW-II were misleading. Talk of push-button warfare was a delusion and a snare. Claiming the firepower of a single regiment of today's model is as great as that wielded by two or three old style divisions was subject to a great many qualifications that never were forthcoming.

Regardless of the advancement in firepower, great numbers of what military men callously refer to as "bodies" will continue to be needed for effective warfare.

It takes masses of trained soldiery to seize and hold, not to mention conquer, enemy terrain. Warfare is more than pitting a group of men against another group of men. Manpower always has been and always will be the sine qua non of conquest. It takes ten times more men behind the lines to win a war than men on the line.

So, the picture of a comparative handful of men pushing buttons and defending a country from attack, much less from conquest, simply does not add up.

We have been industriously cutting down our manpower for two or three years, as well as the production and procurement necessary to maintain a powerful military posture, on the theory that economy is more important than national security.

Whatever complacency our people might possess—and we have not been able to see much evidence of it—was induced by comforting words about bigger bangs. Certainly there hasn't been anything in world developments in the past seven or eight years to induce a state of somnolence among our people. And the military cutbacks throughout the free world have done nothing to discourage or dissuade our enemy.

Cold War Puts Great Burden On Ike

WASHINGTON — Dwight Eisenhower upon occasion must look out through the White House windows and wonder whether there's a human being anywhere in the world with his cares and worries.

The reporters at last week's press conference asked the President whether the problems of public office sap his strength physically or mentally. Mr. Eisenhower replied:

"If you will go back to a year ago when the Egyptians seized the canal, and if you can point out a day since then that there hasn't been some critical problem placed upon my desk, I can't remember when it was. I will say this: I find it a bit wearing, but I find it endurable, if I have got the faith in America that I have."

This was but another way perhaps of saying that, despite the strain, Mr. Eisenhower must go on bearing the burden which the American people have placed on his shoulders, and that actually he isn't discouraged because he does have "faith in America."

What does this "faith" mean? It could be that he feels the American people do not expect him to accomplish the impossible, or they do not believe, as some critics imply, that he can single-handedly control the destiny of mankind, much less control the behavior of the sinister men in the Kremlin whose recklessness and irresponsibility could at any moment plunge the whole world into war.

The tasks of every President are tremendous but they differ in intensity and acuteness. Thus it may seem paradoxical, but it is doubtless easier to direct a military organization in the midst of a hot war than it is to conduct the government of the United States in the midst of a cold war.

The Soviet regime not only conducts a censorship but it picks and chooses what representatives of newspapers it will permit to take up residence in Moscow and how much contact they can have with the Russian people. It controls rigidly the export of news.

The American system is far more difficult to operate than the Soviet system, yet few persons, of course, in America would want to see the Communist pattern followed here. Totalitarian government, of course, can order a parliament to do its bidding, can force its workers to concentrate on missile projects while the standard of living goes down for the masses, and can control any kind of political opposition through intimidation of opponents and by manipulation of the local press.

Many handicaps in dealing with public opinion make the job of the President of the United States in conducting foreign relations more difficult than is generally realized. Also the partisanship of the politicians is responsible for a propaganda which has for its object the gaining of votes in the election but which actually tends to hamstring government, undermine public confidence and produce disunity at the very time that unity is essential.

The wonder is that any progress is made at all by the democratic countries in the "cold war." For the same tactics of obstruction and confusion are to be observed in the politics of Britain and France—the selfishness of the ambitious and the narrow-mindedness of the partisan are often artificial barriers to the mobilization of a united public opinion

LETTER TO EDITOR

To the Editor:

Some months ago, our city enacted a so-called dog ordinance with "teeth in it," which was supposed to require that dogs be restrained from running loose. I am wondering what has become of that ordinance, as apparently it has made little difference in the number of dogs that are allowed to roam the city at will, with their owners making no effort to restrain them.

In my neighborhood they are running in packs, and are crippling and killing our kittens. My own kitten has been so mangled that he has been some time getting over it, and two nights ago two baby kittens were killed outside my window and left to lay there. From the barks I heard, more than one dog was involved.

As a person who loves kittens and cats, this is intolerable, and I believe, that something should be done about it. I wish that you would publish this letter, and that everyone who has the same views about the situation would write to you, and maybe there will be enough stink raised that something will be done.

Thanks very much

Lost Keys

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (P)—The maintenance engineer at the Harrison County Courthouse, Ernie Long, sometimes wonders if his memory is long or short.

Long was one of six persons trapped in the elevator which got stuck between the first and second floor.

After two hours, rescue workers finally found the keys to the elevator control box . . . in Long's pocket.

Russia's Political Sputnik

James Marlow

Contradictions Of Communism

WASHINGTON (P)—The launching of Sputnik II and the downgrading of Marshal Zhukov are shocking symbols of the contradictions under 40 years of communism in Russia.

Both events — packed with peril, and some small hope, for this country — were announced over the weekend, a few days before Russia celebrates on Nov. 7 the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

The Sputniks testify brilliantly to Russia's industrial and scientific progress at the very moment when Zhukov's humiliation shows the instability and political primitiveness of the Communist leadership.

Already Russian progress with missiles and Sputniks may have done this country desperate damage by weakening American prestige; intimidating friends and neutrals; and even intimidating this country to the extent of making compromises it would have considered unthinkable a few months ago.

Zhukov's elimination provides an unhappy prospect. It comes a few months after the purge of most of the remaining top leaders of Stalin's day. It seems to restore one-man rule again, this time Nikita Khrushchev's.

The picture is not all necessarily bad. But there is no reason for expecting any time soon any real change that would benefit this country.

The Kremlin in-fighting — while the Russian people made startling advances — reveals the Communist leadership still operates on the dog-eat-dog principle of 40 years ago.

At the moment the party apparently has little to fear from the Russian people themselves, who are bound to have a national pride in the achievements under the party's direction. In throwing out Zhukov, the party asserted control over the army.

Dr. Hammond told of one in particular. The cure was quick. "I told me he thought he had a hernia so I told him to strip on the spot for an examination."

Show Biz Is A Tough Nut

NEW YORK (P)—Much has been said about how tough it is to get started in show business today.

A man who has some actual figures on this subject is Ted Mack, emcee of "The Original Amateur Hour," a hardy NBC-TV network perennial of radio and television that will celebrate its 24th birthday next March.

"Over the years we have spent four million dollars auditioning some 900,000 amateurs," said Mack. "Of these about 17,000—or one in 53—appeared on our show. But only about 3,000—or one in 300—went on to become professional performers."

"Not all of these, of course, remained permanently in show business. Some married and got out. Others, probably, got smart and got out."

"Perhaps no more than 1 in 10,000—and probably not that many—went on to become real stars."

Not all of the amateurs, however, burn with a desire to become professionals. About 20 per cent say they wouldn't accept a regular show career. They merely want to appear on a network show once.

Many present day stars found the amateur hour program a showcase and springboard to fame. They include Frank Sinatra, Paul Winchell, Monica Lewis, Vera-Ellen, and opera baritone Robert Merrill.

But Mack is the first to admit that picking a potential star isn't easy.

"One of the greatest talents we ever had on the show was Frank Sinatra," he recalled, "but he had a rough time with us. He was a member of a quartet called 'The Hoboken Four,' and he had a case on his hands getting us to let him sing a solo."

"You can't always call the great ones on first sight—for one thing they haven't reached the peak of their talent."

"But generally, if a beginner has personality, some sign of talent, and you can sense in him an inner spark—a deep interior drive—you usually can be sure that, with more training, he will make the grade, maybe become the star he wants to be."

"If he doesn't have that spark, however, no amount of talent or training can make him great."

Around The Rim

Work Is Not Popular In England

One thing and another: Quite probably, the English people became incensed more over what Malcolm Muggeridge had to say about the citizenry in general than his remarks (printed in the Saturday Evening Post) about Good Queen Bess.

Writing for the London Sunday Times some time ago, Muggeridge wrote thusly about the masses:

"In Britain today 'work has become a dirty word. People who work hard are regarded as cads, not playing the game.'"

Duncan Hines, who is in the chips because he learned people-like being told where to eat, eats ice cream for breakfast.

Hines confesses he thinks sleep is more important than swank eating, however, says the way to keep healthy is to get at least eight hours in the Land of Nod nightly.

I've got a question. Would six hours a night on week nights and 12 on Sundays suffice?

Hines says his favorite meal is roast turkey, apple pie and "just plain rat cheese."

The famed gourmet leaves the cooking to his wife. He can brew a pot-of-coffee and turn an egg in a frying pan, but that's about all.

A French physician who says he has made a study of the subject says vegetables and fruits influence people's dispositions.

He states he believes that potatoes quiet the mind, green salad stimulates a craving for soft music and asparagus makes one honest and truthful.

He also thinks that pears help logical thinking and carrots and spinach help to combat depressive moods.

Judging from that, it, no doubt, would be helpful to the rabbit to munch on a carrot while being chased by the hunting dog.

Better still, feed the dog a tranquilizing pill.

If you don't want to catch the flu, be anti-social. That's the advice being handed down by some doctors.

If you must talk to a neighbor, do it through a closed door. If you see a friend coming down the sidewalk, turn up the alley. Don't even answer the phone unless it rings three times.

Of course, you might get a chill from all the friends you'll lose and come down with pneumonia.

We Have Conveniences—And What Else?

Complacency is a killer, and a lot of citizens, including Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, keep trying to hammer that fact home.

On the other hand, a lot of citizens seem to feel that worry or concern over Sputnik is unwholesome and un-American. Four-square in this division stands a man whose letter to the editor was just published in the New York World-Telegram and Sun.

"Being an ordinary, run-of-the-mill citizen," he writes, "I am somewhat fed up on the talk-talk-talk about the Russian satellite."

So the Communists have a satellite, but how many automobiles do they have, telephones, refrigerators, and the endless number of conveniences that we in this country enjoy?"

In a way, this gentleman is right. It certainly is going to be a big comfort to me to be able to pick up the telephone, call Washington and give the government hedges the day the first Russian intercontinental ballistic missile whistles over the old homestead. Of course, always providing it whistles over and on.

And it is also comforting to know that after I hang up the telephone, I can get a few ice cubes out of the refrigerator to cool the medicinal whisky I shall need to calm my shaking hands.

My spirit is further fortified by the knowledge that if the Russian ICBM lands close enough to home to jar the plaster loose, the new vacuum cleaner will "ready up" the house in a jiffy.

If, by chance, the house should be hopelessly messed up, it's jolly to realize that the family jalopy will take me to a nice clean hotel—always providing the turnpikes are still intact.

Obviously, everything is still for the best in this best of all possible worlds, and the aforementioned correspondent concludes his letter thus: "I am for more publicity on what we have and what the Communists lack."

Attaboy! There's a happy thought! Let's scare the U. S. S. R. to death with a list of our "endless number of conveniences." So, with a bow to Rodgers and Hammerstein, the following is to be beamed at the Russians to the tune of "There's Nothing Like a Dame."

"We got plumbing, we got cars.
We got teevee, we got bars.
We got diamonds, we got glass,
We got freezers, we got sass.

What ain't we got?
Go ask the brass!

"We got lobster, we got steak.
We got Fort Knox, we got cake.
We got Presley, we got cash,
We got glamour, we got pash.

What ain't we got?
Don't be so brash!

"We got washers, we got dryers.
We got plenty, we got buyers.
We got hotrods, we got mink,
We got lobster on the brink.

What ain't we got?
Oh, let's not think!

Let the Kremlin get a load of our "endless conveniences" and, by golly, then watch it quake.

It could be that we Americans are not destined to leave any footprints on the sand of time—just our smug heads in it.

Water Shortage

Final Blow To Great Texas Port

ROCKPORT, Tex. (P)—A shortage of water, a problem as real today as it was 75 years ago, was the final blow which made the once-thriving port of El Copano a ghost town.

A few old cisterns and the remains of a wall here and there are all that remain to mark the site of what once was a main port of Texas.

On the northern shore of the bay after which it was named, El Copano was founded in 1785 by Jose Galvez. He later moved the Mexican customs house from Galveston to El Copano in an effort to thwart smugglers who landed at will along the bay.

El Copano was a port which supplied the missions at Goliad and San Antonio. Hundreds of colonists famous in Texas history landed at El Copano.

The water problem finally proved the ruin of the settlement. Rain captured in giant cisterns and supplemented by water hauled from Hynes Spring and Melhorn Creek supplied the town.

But the rise of the towns of Rockport and St. Mary's with better supplies of water lured the population away, and about 1880 El Copano became a memory.

Major Task Ahead For Secy. Dulles

WASHINGTON—With President Eisenhower's visit to Paris for the NATO Council meeting made official, the prospect is best for all. This homework will have to be done by Dulles in the role in which he is at his best—that of private negotiator.

Now that the cry, "Dulles must go" (a standing cry so that it is necessary only to fill in the name of the current Secretary of State) has been raised, it is useful to recall the difference between the public Dulles and the private Dulles.

Those privileged to see a digest of his recent talk with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko cannot help but be impressed with the clear, precise way in which he conveyed the determination of this country to protect its vital interests in the Middle East. An attack in that area, whether directly by Soviet forces or by a local subverted and subsidized force, would meet with instant retaliation. Gromyko was told.

The public Dulles, whose image is so scorned in Europe, has often with self-righteous words or words of Jovian warning undone the work of the private Dulles. Here, in preparation for what could well be a now-or-never meeting of the North Atlantic alliance, he has a dazzling opportunity to exercise his private abilities.

Inexpensive Tongue And Cottage Cheese

Tongue is one of the easiest and least expensive meats to prepare and together with a helping of cottage cheese makes a healthful as well as attractive plate.

TONGUE-CHEESE PLATTER

Ingredients:

- 1 container (8 oz.) creamstyle cottage cheese
- 2 tbsps. dried currants
- 1/4 cup broken walnut meats
- 1 drained canned pimiento (chopped)
- Salad greens
- Sliced cooked smoked tongue

METHOD:

Mix cottage cheese and mayonnaise. Cover currants with water in a small saucepan; bring to a boil; drain well, pressing out water. Mix currants, walnuts and pimiento with cheese mixture. Arrange on greens in center of serving plate, surround with sliced tongue. Makes 4 servings.

Lamesa Gardeners

LAMESA — Members of the Green Thumb Garden Club met Friday morning at the home of Mrs. Roy Bearden, with Mrs. O. H. Sires as cohostess. Decorations for Thanksgiving and Christmas were discussed with an arrangement of harvest fruits showing from a pumpkin cornucopia being displayed. Plans were made for the Christmas party to be held Dec. 6.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

Gather 'round all you uninitiated—I'm about to talk about Texas again. If you are one of the thousands who have not been in Central Texas during the fall months, it would be worth your time to drive down. This is the time of the year when the sun turns the most beautiful shades of red. The various stages the leaves go through to reach the beautiful climax is a sight to behold.

Of course, one who comes from the plains area of the state or from a section no further west than Big Spring, can really appreciate the trees and native shrubs all the more.

I have heard of, but never seen, the beauty of the maple trees in Vermont during the changing season. I believe the sumac must be comparable. Nature certainly does herself proud to combine the gorgeous yellows, golds, light and dark orange and the brilliant reds that are now beautifying Central Texas.

Another thing — I have finally been through the Browning Memorial Library on the Baylor campus in Waco. Whether you happen to be an admirer or scholar of Browning or not, if you are afforded the opportunity, go and plan to spend all day. In fact, I believe one could spend several days there and be the happier for having done so. The meditation room inspires reverence. If it were the only room in the building, the time spent there would be well used.

Not only does the library have the most complete collection of Browning memorabilia in the world, it also is a grouping of rooms which are as nearly exact replicas of interesting rooms seen by the late Dr. A. J. Armstrong during his travels over the world.

The inspiring columns in the meditation room are of Lorenzo marbles sent from Italy. The paneling in the rooms is, I believe, of walnut, though on this I can't be positive. The fireplaces and doors are massive. Go to see it. It will be worth your time.

While we were in Waco we saw MR. AND MRS. CLYDE ANGEL, who had been spending the week with her sister in Corpus Christi. They had been over to Houston to see their son, Robert, who is in medical school there. The three of them drove to Baylor for the homecoming and to see JIMMIE LOU ANGIER. The Angels returned here last night.

Guests in the home of MRS. ARTIUR PICKLE Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Randall Pickle of Lubbock and Mr. and Mrs. Don Pickle and Kay Lynn of Odessa.

WCSO Of District To Meet Tuesday

LAMESA — Mrs. W. B. Landrum of Little Rock, Ark., a field worker for the Woman's Division of Christian Service, Methodist Church, will be the guest speaker Tuesday when the Big Spring District WCSO meets at the First Methodist Church for an all-day meeting.

Luncheon will be served by the Lamesa WCSO, according to Mrs. Guy Simpson, president.

Mrs. Raymond Hamby of Andrews is president of the Big Spring District and will preside for the business sessions. Registration will begin at 9:30 Tuesday morning.

Past Noble Grands

There will be a business meeting of the Past Noble Grand Club of the John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge this evening at 7:30. It has been announced. Members will meet in the home of Mrs. Ted Brown, 1303 Sycamore.

Baptists Honor Pastor, Wife On 25th Anniversary

LAMESA — Open house Sunday afternoon marked the silver wedding anniversary of the Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Jones. Members of the Bryan Street Baptist Church were the hosts for the open house.

The couple was married near Henderson by a cousin, the Rev. E. L. Jones, now deceased. They moved to Lamesa in Aug. 1944, and have lived here since except for eighteen months he was pastoring a church in Crockett.

Special guests for the open house were their son Clifton and his wife, who are students at Arlington State College.

Bradys Have Son

Dr. and Mrs. Keith Brady are parents of a son, Mark Steven, born Sunday morning at Medical Arts Hospital. The baby weighed 7 pounds 5 ounces.

Maj. Nurnberg Is Guest Speaker At 1930 Hyperion Club Saturday

Maj. Malcolm Nurnberg was guest speaker for members of the 1930 Hyperion Club when they met in the home of Mrs. Roscoe Cowper Saturday afternoon. Mrs. R. W. Thompson was cohostess.

The speaker told of his three years in Ecuador, when he was technical advisor to the country's air force. He discussed his part in the search for five missionaries who were slain by a tribe of hostile Indians in the jungle.

Maj. Nurnberg also told of his trip with a missionary to make contact with a tribe of Indians and of how their confidence was won. The food, attire, characteristics and daily life of the Indians was described by the speaker, who showed slides taken among the Indians and exhibited some of their weapons, pottery and war trophies.

The club voted to send a check to Maj. Nurnberg to be forwarded to the missionary with whom he worked.

The orientation course, to be held at the Big Spring State Hospital this evening and Tuesday, was announced; members signified their intentions of taking the classes. Mrs. Ira Thurman noted some of the plans being made for the patients.

For the Christmas activities, the group will be responsible for the gifts on one of the wards at the hospital Christmas tree, it was decided.

Mrs. Malcolm Patterson presided for the business meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. Elmo Wasson. Sixteen were present, with a guest, Mrs. H. L. Gunter.

Orientation Course Set This Evening

Registration for the orientation course at the Big Spring State Hospital will begin at 6:30 this evening, and Tuesday, with classes at 7 p.m. A coffee break is planned for the two sessions.

Volunteers who expect to work with the hospital patients are urged to attend the course, either at night or on Tuesday from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Luncheon will be served during the day session.

Churches Working On Parade Floats

Fifteen local churches and Webb AFB are starting work on floats that will tell the story of Christmas in the parade opening the Christmas season here this year. The parade, to have no commercial exhibits, is scheduled for Dec. 3 at 4:30 p.m. It is being sponsored jointly by the Big Spring Pastors Association and the Chamber of Commerce, the latter participating to the extent of giving each church $50 to help defray float costs.

Only parade entries outside of the church floats will be an international Christmas scene by Webb Air Force Base, the traditional Santa Claus float and the Big Spring High School Band. Churches, their float scenes and the order they will appear in the parade are Salvation Army, The Methodist, Family Scene on Christmas Eve; First Presbyterian, Prophecy (Isaiah 9:6); First Methodist, The Announcement to Mary (Luke 1:26); Baker Methodist, The Announcement to Joseph (Matt. 1:20-23); Baptist Temple, The Journey to Jerusalem (Luke 1:1-5); West Side Baptist, Mary, Joseph and the Innkeeper (Luke 2:7); St. Mary's Episcopal, Angel and the Shepherds (Luke 2:8-12); First Baptist, The Heavenly Host (Luke 2:13-14); First Christian, The Three Wise Men (Matt. 2:1); East Fourth St. Baptist, Wisemen Before Herod (Matt. 2:7); St. Thomas Catholic, The Manger Scene (Luke 2:7); College Baptist, Mary with Wise Men and Shepherds (Luke 2:13-14); First Mexican Baptist, Presentation of Jesus (Luke 2:22-24); First Church of God, A Family in Prayer—Thankful for Open Bible; Wesley Memorial Methodist, Family Scene on Christmas Eve; First Presbyterian, Prophecy (Isaiah 9:6); First Meth-

Delinquent Tax Record Sought

Howard County Commissioners are considering a request by Viola Robinson, county tax assessor, that a delinquent tax record for the three-year period of 1954, 1955 and 1956, be compiled.

Mrs. Robinson said that her office was in bad need of the record and that the state comptroller was pressing the county to have the record compiled.

She told the commissioners that what is really needed is a compilation of delinquent tax records from 1949 through 1956. The commissioners were not in favor of such a voluminous undertaking. They said they would ask the legal opinion of the county attorney and if that official ruled such a record should be made, a contract with a firm which does this type of work will be considered.

Lamesa Defendant Is Arrested Here

Police arrested a woman here Sunday wanted in Lamesa on forgery charges. Sybil Hopper was arrested in the 2000 block of W. Hwy. 80 Sunday morning. A warrant for her arrest had been issued in Dawson County, Sunday afternoon, officers from the sheriff's office there came for her.

Trials Concluded With Guilty Pleas

All but two of the defendants slated for trial before a jury in 11th District Court this week have decided to plead guilty.

As a result, the jurors who assembled before Judge Charles Sullivan this morning were thanked for their attendance and asked to be back at 9 a.m. Tuesday. The cases set for trial today were quickly disposed of when the two defendants on the docket changed their pleas from not guilty to guilty.

William Quinton Kidd, Lamesa resident, was sentenced to a year's probation jail sentence and fined $350 when he pleaded guilty to second offense DWI. W. V. Derrington, Big Spring, pleaded guilty to a similar charge. His sentence was a year's probated jail term and a fine of $500.

Gil Jones, district attorney, said that other defendants on the current docket with the exception of two, have also advised him they wish to plead guilty.

This will leave two cases for trial—Earl Menefield, charged with forgery, who is to be tried on Tuesday, and Lawrence L. Rollwitz, DWI second.

Counsel for Rollwitz told the court he had not been able to contact Rollwitz on Monday but that his case would be announced Tuesday.

Two other defendants on the docket, George Bradshaw, charged with forgery, and Orlando V. Daniel, DWI second, intend to plead guilty, it was reported.

CRMWD Asks Bids On Pumps

Bids are being asked by the Colorado River Municipal Water District for pumps and a new terminal storage at Odessa.

Proposals will be received here until 4 p.m. on Nov. 26. Bids must be submitted under a 60-day option to the district. Included in the proposals are four items, vertical transfer pumping units, terminal storage, No. 2, lifting station No. 2, and tunneling around the project.

The reservoir would be similar to one in existence at Odessa and thus would offer another 80 million gallons storage. The expanded reservoirs are planned to help meet periods of peak demand when Odessa is consuming water faster than supply lines can replace it.

Then, when consumption slackens, the reservoirs are filled. These reservoirs also protect Odessa against emergency disruptions along the supply line.

The Webb entry, high school band and Santa Claus will follow in that order.

Expected to be more than 100 will be in attendance at the affair, which will be presided over by Evelyn Merrill, president, Mrs. Cecil Bolton, accompanied by Mrs. Helen Green, will sing.

Among out of town guests scheduled to attend are Arno A. Anders, Midland, division production superintendent for Conoco; Lavone Montgomery, Midland, second vice president of the national D&D organization; G. F. Duncan, Big Spring, district superintendent for Conoco, also will be a guest at the affair.

Colorado City Man Stabbed In Fight

COLORADO CITY — Theodore Franco, 19, of Colorado City, is in serious condition with stomach wounds at the Root Memorial Hospital. Police said he was stabbed during a fight in the Latin American quarter early Sunday.

M. DeLoera of Lorraine also was injured and received several stitches to close a cut over one eye.

Charges of committing an aggravated assault on Franco have been filed against Victor DeLoera, 21, of Lorraine. Police Chief Henry Yeager said eight other persons paid fines for fighting as a result of the incident.

Clothing, Coin Box Stolen Sunday

A quantity of clothes was stolen from a laundry here Sunday, and early today, a coin box from a new stand disappeared.

C. T. Hale, 606 Bell, said that some baby clothes and women's under garments were taken from the Laundromat, 300 block of Bell, Sunday.

The coin box from the newsstand at the Permian Building which contained about $4 was taken today, said Roscoe Newell, 1300 Stanford.

2 Prisoners Escape 'Work Gang'

Webb AFB and local law enforcement officers hunted today for two men who escaped from a guard at Webb about 9 a.m.

The prisoners were on a work gang near the flight line when they escaped. They are Airman Basic Frederick English, 18, Jackson, Fla., and Benjamin Varrar, 18, of Pawtucket, R. I.

They were still at large at noon.

Airport Site To Be Enlarged

Howard County Commissioners Court formally approved purchase of 23 additional acres of land on the south end of the proposed Howard County Airport site at its Monday morning meeting.

R. H. Weaver, county judge, told the court the additional land was deemed necessary by the engineers in view of the assured participation in the airport project by the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

The commissioners were told that the land part of the Ora Johnson estate, was available at $100 an acre—the same price paid for acreage in the tract originally purchased for the airport.

Weaver was instructed to proceed with the purchase.

The judge had reported to the commissioners on the information of last Friday afternoon in which the CAA office in Fort Worth said that the master plan for the local airport has now been finally approved by the regional office of the federal agency.

Say Reds Used Accident Rate A New Fuel

WARSAW — A Polish space scientist said today he believes the Russians used a new type of rocket fuel to power their new Sputnik.

Olgierd Wolozko, secretary of the Polish Astronautical Society, said it seemed likely Sputnik II was powered by fusion of borax and hydrogen. He said this previously had been achieved only on a laboratory scale. He estimated it would produce twice the power of other known rocket fuels.

By fusion he meant chemical "burning," not fusion in the nuclear sense, he said.

Wolozko said Soviet scientists had to solve two enormously difficult problems:

1. The resistance of the rocket to tremendous temperature pressure and vibrations accompanying the work of the engine.

2. The fuel problem.

He said it is likely the Russians used not only metals but special ceramic materials which are able to withstand temperatures of 2,500 to 3,000 degrees centigrade.

The Polish scientist excluded the possibility of the use of nuclear energy in powering the second Sputnik.

"Present uranium piles are too big and heavy for use in a rocket, and thermionic piles do not yet exist," he said.

Wolozko expressed the opinion the second Sputnik's basic rocket engine had to develop thrust power of between 13 million and 20 million kilowatts, and that the entire apparatus necessary to shoot a half-ton satellite to a height of more than 1,000 miles must weigh about 500 tons.

"It is certain," Wolozko added, "that within the next few years the Soviet Union and the United States will shoot into cosmic space many Sputniks."

18 Are Jailed

Eighteen persons were jailed over the weekend, Sheriff Miller Harris said Monday. Majority of those arrested were picked up for being drunk.

Trailer Wheels Hit Phone Booth

The wheels from a trailer came off early today and bounced into a service station at 4th and Gregg. Police said the wheels hit the telephone booth and damaged the Waller Gulf Station. Clifford Riquelme, Marrero, La., was driving the truck pulling the trailer. The truck belonged to the Avondale Marine Ways, Avondale, La.

Sunday, at 3rd and Main, S. M. Cunningham Jr., Lubbock, and Richard Hordett of Vincent were drivers of cars colliding.

'MIRACLE' SCENE Out of bondage

Religious Movie Showing Set At Gospel Tabernacle

"Miracle," a new Christian film prepared by Bob Jones University, Greenville, S. C., will be shown Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. at the Big Spring Gospel Tabernacle, 1905 Scurry.

The motion picture portrays the life of Joe Parrell, a man who was beyond human help and the miracle it took to save him. He is a musician whose gradual enslavement to alcohol robs him of social position, wealth and influence. He staggers into a Gospel mission and discovers the chains of drink are broken and he is restored to his family and profession.

The public is invited to view the showing. The movie was filmed under direction of Katherine Stenholm in Unusual Film Studios of the Bob Jones University. Cast includes students and faculty members.

WTPA Leaders To Meet Here

Officers and directors of the West Texas Press Association will meet here Sunday noon.

W. H. (Sonny) Graham Jr., publisher of the State Line Tribune at Farwell and president of the association, announced the call.

He said that the session would start with dinner at the Settles and that planning for the mid-winter meeting would constitute the main business of the afternoon.

No date or place has been fixed for this meeting, which generally concentrates on operational problems both in the editorial and mechanical end of newspapering.

Funds derived from the auction are used by the clubs in their better vision and needy children's programs.

A-Bomb For Mark On Moon

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — An atomic bomb would be the best way to mark the surface of the moon if the Russians plan to hit it with a rocket Nov. 7, Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, said today.

There has been speculation that the Russians might try to reach the moon on that day, marking the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Dr. Whipple said it would take approximately four or five days for a rocket to reach the moon, approximately 235,000 miles away. So such a rocket would be presumably under way if Nov. 7 were the target date, he said.

Dr. Whipple said it would take an approximate 40 per cent increase in power over that used for Sputnik II to send a rocket to the moon.

There is a lunar eclipse Nov. 7 which would be an ideal time for the Russians to hit the moon.

An atomic flash would show up much brighter against the face of the moon darkened by the earth's shadow during an eclipse.

This eclipse will not be visible in the United States but can be seen in Hawaii.

Dr. Whipple said it would be more efficient to brighten the moon's surface itself as an identifying mark than to attempt to color it with coloring matter sent from the earth in a rocket. He said that astronomers have long known that younger craters of the moon glow much lighter than old craters.

An atomic blast, pulverizing the surface, would produce a crater much lighter in color than the surrounding lunar terrain, he pointed out.

Fox On Program At Water School

LUBBOCK (SCN)—Lige Fox, city sanitationist at Big Spring, was to speak today on water quality at the water and sewer operator's short course here.

The course began today and will continue through Wednesday. Five Big Spring city employees are attending. Roy Covert, W. T. Miers and James Lamar. Heister is slated to be on a panel during the school.

Little Rock Asks Delay In Suit

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The City of Little Rock today asked for an indefinite delay in a federal court suit in which the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People is attacking a municipal ordinance designed to make the association reveal its confidential records.

The requested postponement would be effective until Arkansas state courts have had an opportunity to pass on validity of the ordinance adopted last month by the City Council of this integration-troubled city.

Ballot Boxes Still Waiting

Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, was becoming worried at noon Monday.

She had a large collection of ballot boxes, all ready for Tuesday's general election on three state constitutional amendments. The boxes have been ready for several days. Judges in the 16 voting precincts have been asked to come and get the supplies.

At noon Monday only five of the boxes had been picked up.

The polls open at 8 a.m. Tuesday and are to remain open until 7 p.m.

The damp weather which is prevailing and which is scheduled to continue through Tuesday added to the wide impression that a very light vote would be cast on the amendments.

No interest was displayed in the absentee voting period and only 5 such votes were polled. Normally a heavy absentee vote is cast in this county in elections.

Rites Set Today For Randall Baby

Graveside services were to be said at 4 p.m. Monday in the City Cemetery for Dennis Eugene Randall, 9-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Essie Randall.

The baby died Sunday in a hospital after a 6-day attack of severe dysentery. The Rev. C. C. Collins, pastor of the Mt. Bethel Baptist Church, was to officiate and River Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Born Feb. 8, 1957, the baby leaves his parents, two brothers, Michael Wayne and Eddie Charles, and the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Essie Randall Sr., Reagan.

Two Men Charged With Forgery Today

Two charges were filed in the court of Walter Grice, justice of the peace, Monday morning by Gil Jones, district attorney.

Fredrick S. Snowden was charged with forgery. A similar charge was placed against David Holston Roddy.

State Hospital Board Meets

ABILENE — The Board for Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools met today to decide where to put a new school for mentally retarded children.

A committee was to report on a site in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

George Pirtle of Tyler headed the selection committee.

Two new dormitories at the Abilene State School were dedicated. The school here was designated for the mentally retarded during the last Legislature. Previously it had been known as the Abilene State Hospital for Epileptics.

The school now serves as an admission and diagnostic center for mentally retarded persons in West Texas.

The new dormitories costing $700,000 provide 266 beds.

Sputniks Bothering You? The Pentagon Says, 'Don't Panic'

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP) — The official word at the Pentagon today is "don't panic."

It is nearly a month since Russia launched its Sputnik and set off an avalanche of speculation as to what it would mean to the military future of the United States in a restless, powder-keg world.

But the atmosphere at the Pentagon is one of almost studied calm, even against a background many Americans consider disquieting.

Khrushy's Position Seems Unchallenged In Russia

MOSCOW (P)—The position of Nikita Khrushchev as top man in the Soviet Union appeared unchallenged today following the political disgrace of Marshal Georgi Zhukov.

Military leaders and journals of the armed forces were quick to endorse the expulsion of the former defense minister from the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee and from its ruling Presidium.

Crowds jamming Moscow streets in advance of the celebration Thursday of the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution displayed little interest in the fate of the World War II hero. Their attention appeared captured by the launching of Sputnik II, the preparations for the two-day anniversary holiday, and reductions in the price of pork, ducks and geese.

The announcement of the marshal's degradation had been expected since soon after his dismissal from the post of defense minister was revealed Oct. 26. The party Central Committee finally announced Saturday night that he had been stripped of his party posts.

The announcement added that he would be given a new job but did not say what it would be. Presumably he will get some obscure post in a remote location, as V. M. Molotov and Georgi Malenkov did following their similar disgrace last summer.

The charges against Zhukov had been accurately forecast for several days by dispatches to Western Communist papers and special articles in the Soviet press on the supremacy of the party over the armed forces.

As expected, the Central Committee said the marshal was guilty of trying to liquidate the party's control of the armed forces and of trying to establish a "cult of personality" centered on himself. He was also charged with a "tendency to adventurism in his understanding and evaluation of the most important problems of foreign policy."

Small Vote Seen As Texas Readies Constitution Ballot

DALLAS (P)—Fate of a 200 million dollar water bond program and two other proposals will be decided tomorrow as voters spike or add three amendments to the state Constitution.

Indications were the vote would be small.

Robert Johnson, chief of the Texas Election Bureau, predicted only about 200,000 qualified voters would turn out.

Organized opposition was seen only to the water plan program. The other propositions would establish a more adequate retirement, disability and death compensation for officers and employees of the state, and increase the old age assistance funds by five million dollars.

Gov. Daniel renewed his pleas for support for the amendments over the weekend. His office released a telegram voicing support of the water bond plan by three Houston newspapers and 30 South and Central Texas mayors.

The water bond program, third to be listed on the ballots, would launch a new financial setup for water development, providing for creation of the Texas Water Development Board and issuance of the bonds.

The funds would be used to purchase bonds or other securities issued by cities, river authorities or water districts for water control and development.

Backers contend that it would result in ultimate savings, that there would be no direct cost to the state, and that it is phrased to avoid any possible scandals.

Those against it say it is made quite or too costly an undertaking for the state to assume. Critics say it does not actually guarantee construction of local projects despite increased availability of loan funds.

The compensation fund amendment, designed as an incentive to longer active service on the part of state employees and officials, guarantees a minimum annuity of at least $30 a month for covered employees and liberalizes provisions in case of disability retirement. The measure also grants increased death benefits.

Opponents have placed such a cost to the state at least $400,000 but promoters say the security to the employees would make it worth it.

The pension amendment would give increased amounts to the aged, blind and dependent children.

Old age maximums would be

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Mon., Nov. 4, 1957 7

hiked from $20 to $25 a month from state funds. A provision stipulates that no payment in excess of $21 be made without matching federal monies.

Cost has been the strongest objection from opponents. Backers, some of whom have said the amount is still too little, say the program can be put into operation within the bounds of officially anticipated revenue.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—

Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H. At your druggist. Money back guaranteed.

ASPCA Scores Use Of Animal

NEW YORK (AP)—Animal lovers around the world are protesting Russia's use of a dog as a passenger in its new earth satellite.

Warren W. McSpadden, general manager of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said yesterday a protest to the Soviet Embassy would be sent through the State Department.

McSpadden said the dog is faced with "unnecessary sacrifice" or with "great pain and suffering should it survive."

Sending a dog to outer space, he said, "cannot possibly advance human health and welfare."

In another protest, telegraphed to the Soviet Embassy in Washington, Mrs. D. Kibbe Riddell, President of Bide-A-Wee Assn., Inc., condemned "this atrocity."

Mrs. Riddell said the Russian government "has once again proved its inhumanity." Her association maintains an adoption center for animals in Manhattan.

In London, the National Campaign Defense League asked dog-lovers everywhere to observe a minute of silence each day on behalf of Curly.

The organization said it will send a delegation marching on the Soviet Embassy to condemn use of the dog on the artificial moon.

The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said at Liverpool it was being flooded with protest calls. An official said the possibility of Curly's being buried by cosmic rays "are too horrible to contemplate."

Gaillard Heads For French Post

PARIS (AP)—Finance expert Felix Gaillard today seemed assured of becoming France's 24th postwar premier with a wide range of support in the National Assembly.

Gaillard served as finance minister in the outgoing government of Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, who resigned after the Assembly defeated his bill for limited Algerian home rule.

Italian Red Dies

LECCO, Italy, (AP)—Giuseppe di Vittorio, 65, once the strong man of Italy's Communist party, died Sunday. He was boss of the Communist-controlled Italian General Confederation of Labor and a Communist member of the Chamber of Deputies.

CASH from S.I.C.

It's no joke when you need a bundle like $990, and you are exactly $990 short. Every man jack at S.I.C. knows all about that from his own past troubles with personal shortages. No wonder every one of us is so glad to fix it up so someone else can get the $990 HE needs—gets it quick, easy and private. And with that great big S.I.C. SMILE thrown in. And look: $17.71 a month, 24 months, repays that $990 S.I.C. loan. How about that? Come SOS to S.I.C. down and—SOS to S.I.C.

Valley Vegetable Move Expected

McALLEN (AP) — The Lower Rio Grande Valley's fall vegetable movement is expected to begin this week. Shippers said their sheds will be operating in a few days with field crews ready to pick the early crop.

Peak production is due about Nov. 20. Good production should continue until the "first frost," shippers said.

Uncle Ray:

Knife Was Pioneer

Tool Of Human Race

By RAMON COFFMAN
Among the tools used by mankind the knife holds high importance. It was one of the very early inventions, and dates back to the Old Stone Age.

Q. What kind of knife was known in the Stone Age?
A. The stone knife. This was a piece of stone which had been broken or chipped on one side to make a sharp edge.

Most Stone Age knives were of flint, but some were of quartz. When flint is broken, it often provides one or more cutting edges.

During the Late Stone Age (also called the New Stone Age) men learned to grind the edges of knives and other tools. This was done by rubbing the stone pieces against slabs of stone.

Q. For what purpose did Stone Age people use knives?
A. Chiefly to cut up meat, to take the skins from animals and to defend themselves against enemies.

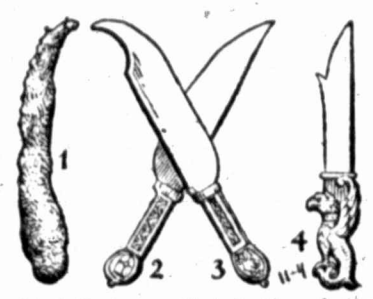

In that period men also had stone-pointed spears. Bows and arrows were invented much later than stone-pointed spears.

Q. What was the next big change?
A. In the Bronze Age men used knives with bronze blades. Bronze gave way to iron, and still later to steel.

During the Middle Ages in Europe men had knives in the form of daggers. Sometimes the knives were provided with decorated handles.

In the same way that we may speak of an arrow as a "little spear" we may describe the sword as a "big knife." Some American Indians observed the white men carrying swords and fell into the custom of calling the whites "big knives."

Immigrant Found With Radium Vial, Radiation Sickness

TORONTO (AP) — A German immigrant threw a civil defense drill into an uproar yesterday by pulling a vial of lethal radium from his pocket. He said he wanted it tested for potency.

An astonished policeman a few feet away pointed his Geiger counter and the indicator gyrated wildly right off the dial.

The mild-mannered German, Gunder Kuhn, 29, was searched and promptly arrested on a charge of carrying an unregistered and loaded revolver.

He was hustled off to jail and given a decontamination bath while police and civil defense agents spread out to run down the radioactivity in his wake.

Kuhn told police he brought the radium into Canada from West Germany eight months ago. He said he had been working with it for a year, applying it to the dials of wrist watches and various instruments to make them luminous. He works for a hospital equipment company as a mechanic.

Police found an adhesive bandage on his left eye. One expert said such sores are common in the later stages of radiation sickness. Other officials said there was no doubt the man's blood is infected.

Rebels Killed

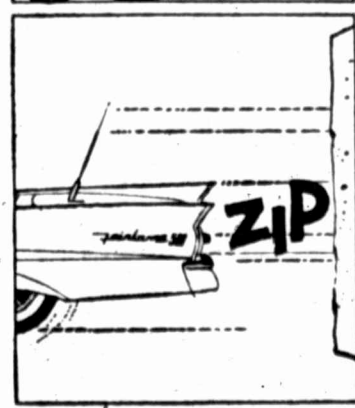

ALGIERS (AP) — The French reported today nearly 150 Nationalist rebels were killed or captured over the weekend and a number of rebel arms, food and medical depots were discovered.

Americans Agree Dog Has Chance

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — American scientists agreed today it is possible to bring the dog traveling in Russia's Sputnik II back to earth alive.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek, associate director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, said it is possible to allow the dog to parachute to earth still alive in a capsule by using radio devices in regular use in this country.

He said the problem would be to trigger the capsule off with enough force in the opposite direction from which the satellite is orbiting so that gravity would take over and pull it earthward.

Curly Has Outside Chance Of Returning From Trip In Space

NEW YORK (AP) — A dog known simply as Curly is the first heroine of the space age.

She has an outside chance of coming home safely from fantastic adventures as the pioneer passenger aboard Russia's second Sputnik.

Russian scientists hint Curly could be parachuted back to earth to bark to wag her tail, to enjoy a pampered dog's life.

But the Soviets won't say how or when. They have not spelled out how Curly is living or feeling.

Millions of adults and children are wondering or worrying. Some are protesting Curly's trip and treatment.

Just what are Curly's chances and life aboard Sputnik II?
This is the story from Russian announcements and estimates by U.S. experts:

She is inside a cramped compartment or container, is probably strapped down and can't move about.

Curly survived the shock of take-off and is still alive. Moscow says. Instruments are recording her heartbeat, breathing, blood pressure, temperature, and sending this information to earth by radio code.

She is fed by an automatic device. Moscow says. How she gets water is not explained. Veterinarians say water is even more essential than food for a dog.

Curly possibly could live for a few months or more if given enough food and water, says Dr. Gerry Schnelle, chief of staff of Angell Memorial Animal Hospital in Boston.

She is inside a sealed chamber in the rocket, the Russians say. But there's no word yet how food, water or oxygen is supplied to the chamber or how much is stored in the rocket.

Moscow just says the chamber is "air conditioned." To keep Curly alive for weeks or months would take great amounts of oxygen and a method of removing carbon dioxide.

She undoubtedly is unhappy or frightened. But Moscow says Curly has been trained for her job, taking shorter rocket rides about 100 miles high and then parachuting to earth.

With such training she would be less frightened and would need less food and water because she would be quieter. Schnelle said. She is probably comfortable, temperature-wise, in the insulated container. Her rocket is probably not spinning, except perhaps slowly, so she is not made dizzy.

The Russians sent her up to get direct knowledge of how life in space affects a living animal.

Curly's fate there can show some hazards which future human space travelers would meet from cosmic rays, X-rays and intense ultra-violet rays from the sun, meteors, or other conditions, and how to protect them. Instruments in the satellite are measuring and reporting these factors also.
