Make Water Needs Known Leaders Told

Water from the Mississippi may one day be stored in at least three reservoirs in Collingsworth County for irrigation in this county, under the Texas Water Plan.

"You need to study your potential and be concerned enough to let your wants be known," a group of water conservation-minded residents were told by State Representative Bill Clayton of Springlake Tuesday night, July 15.

This was just one part of the discussion, for Mr. Clayton, also the executive director of Water, Inc., was here to explain Proposed Constitutional Amendment No. 2, the water amendment, which he authored. Texans will vote on this and eight other proposed amendments on Aug. 5. Tom Christian, 75th District representative, accompanied Clayton here.

Preceding the discussion, the group saw the New Water, Inc., film, "Time for Action," released only Monday, which underscores Texas' need for water if it is to survive economically—a need that will rise to 60,000,000 acre feet of water in the next 50 years to support the economic growth of Texas.

Passage of Amendment No. 2 will authorize those constitutional changes necessary to implement the Texas Water Plan, said the legislator.

—It will eliminate the 4% interest rate ceiling, for bonds can no longer be sold for 4% interest, the speaker said.

—It will add $3.5 billion in Water Development Bonds, to be issued only as needed for construction, and with the ap-

Two Teachers Elected, Two Resign in City

The Wellington school board Monday night accepted the resignation of two teachers, then hired two instructors to fill vacancies that already existed.

Mrs. Glen Warrick was elected to teach English in the 9th and 10th grades in high school. She replaces Ronald Cummings who has accepted a place with the Texline Schools, according to Supt. J. L. Harper.

Mrs. Warrick is a graduate of Dodson High School and received her degree from West Texas State University. She has done substitute teaching in the past.

Miss Rita Lowrie, a Wellington teacher who has been on the faculty of Highland Park School, Amarillo, for several years, was elected to teach in elementary school.

She also is a graduate of West Texas State University, and completed her high school work here.

Before going to Amarillo, Miss Lowrie taught in the schools of a United States Air Force Base in Japan.

Resignations were received at the Monday night meeting from Mrs. Dan Henard, Jr., who taught remedial reading in the elementary school, and Mrs. Patricia Cleveland, special education teacher in high school. No action was taken to fill either of these vacancies created Monday.

For Farm Hearings

County Men on FU Washington Fly-In

Collingsworth County farmers, Earl Hunter of Wellington and W. R. (Buck) Breeding of Samnorwood, were in Washington July 13 through 15 to participate in a National Farmers Union Fly-In Program. Several Texas farmers representing various commodities and growing areas joined the Collingsworth County producers on the Washington trip.

The group was in Washington when Congressman W. R. Poague of Waco, chairman of the House Agricultural Committee, opened hearings on his farm bill, which would make the present farm legislation permanent. Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin was the first witness to testify.

Farmers Union supports the extension and permanency of the authority provided under present farm legislation. Those participating in the Fly-In Program presented economic data to members of Congress to support the Farmers Union position that the present farm legislation, including price supports and direct payments on

Dodson Cat Raises 2 Skunks With Own Kits

Mrs. Otho Talley of Dodson has a white mother cat that has adopted two baby skunks, according to Mrs. Doyle Sain. The mother skunk was washed out of an irrigation pipe on the Pat Bouchelle farm south of Wellington. She was killed and later the two baby skunks were found. They did not have their eyes open at the time.

They were taken to the Talley farm where the old cat cleaned them up and took them in with her family of kittens. That was seven weeks ago and the young skunks are right at home in the cat family. They play with their cat brother and sister. They will be desecrated and kept for pets.

Funeral Set Thursday for Mrs. Nickell

Funeral mass for Mrs. Elsa Romo Nickell, 24, of Panhandle, will be held at St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Shamrock Thursday, July 17 at 10:00 a.m. Father Patrick Burke will officiate.

Services were first planned to be here.

Graveside services will be in Fairview Cemetery, Wellington. Kelson Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Nickell, the wife of Bill Nickell, was found dead in her home Sunday about 5:20 p.m. by her brother, Jesse Romo, who also lives at Panhandle.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Romo, of 310 Dalhart St., Wellington, and lived here all her life until she and her husband moved to Panhandle about four and a half years ago.

Mr. Nickell was not at home when her body was found but returned shortly afterward, according to Carson County Sheriff.

"Don't Burn Trash"

Fire Destroys Grass, Threatens Encampment

Fire destroyed a section of fine grass owned by Lewis Green, eight miles northeast of Wellington, and threatened the entire Pan-Fork Baptist Encampment Saturday afternoon, July 12, Fire Chief J. B. Oney reported.

It was brought under control only after five hours of fire fighting and the combined efforts of the Wellington rural equipment and a group of firemen, a county maintainer, and area men who came from as far as Samnorwood.

Only two days earlier a barn, pump house and 40 acres of grass owned by Earl Gibbs near Quail was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin.

Two other grass fires in alleys in town caught from burning trash but were put out before damage resulted.

All this brought a stern warning, and an urgent request from Fire Chief Oney that trash not be burned in barrels until it rains, unless it is absolutely necessary.

Garbage collections are made about three times every two weeks, and Jake Leach, outside administrator for the City of Wellington, said plans are being made to fog the alleys to keep down flies and mosquitoes.

Firemen said the blaze northeast of town Saturday caught from a trash fire near the Encampment. There was no stock in the pasture, and there had been a lush growth of curly mesquite grass earlier that had become tinder-box dry.

The fire burned west to a county road and to the east edge of the pasture, department members said.

This is the camp season for Pan Fork, but because it was the week end, there were no children at the encampment. Teen-agers went home Thursday, July 10, and the junior girls did not start arriving until Monday.

Ag Leaders Get Air View of Conservation

The soil conservation program being carried out in Collingsworth County will be studied from the air during a tour of the Panhandle by members of the House Agriculture Committee and officials of the U.S. Department of Agriculture being arranged by Congressman Bob Price.

This inspection will come on Saturday morning, July 19, as the party, in from eight to ten planes, is en route from Memphis to Perryton.

They are due to leave Memphis at 9:30 a.m., fly over Collingsworth immediately afterward, and arrive at Perryton at 10:30 a.m.

The Wellington office of the Soil Conservation Service was asked to map a flight plan.

This tentative route, now in the office of Doug Cunningham, area conservationist, of Pampa, will take the group east from Memphis to see terraces and brush control work on the John Deaver and James Doneghy ranches, eastward to the John Brim farm, considered one of the conservation show-places of the lower Panhandle, then north through Fresno where parallel terraces are also considered outstanding in the area.

These have been constructed on farms belonging to J. B.

Castleberry, Ernest Nunneley, Elbert Watts, Carthel Lewis, Loren Thompson, Fred Covey, Leslie Moore and others.

The flight will continue north to see brush control and range seeding on the John R. Henard, L. M. Tittle and Ervin Enmert ranches in the northeast part of the county.

David Baumgardner, a member of Congressman Price's agricultural advisory committee, will join the agriculture committee for part of the tour.

The tour will take all of Friday and Saturday, July 18 and 19. Friday's itinerary will include a tour of Randall County

County Attorney Report Filed

Commissioners May Request Audit of Sheriff's Office

A report was filed with the Collingsworth County Commissioners' Court Monday, July 14 by County Attorney Paul Spillman which alleges discrepancies in the monthly bills as submitted to the commissioners by Sheriff John Rainey for the feeding of prisoners, as well as failure to comply with certain articles of the Code of Criminal Procedures.

After the commissioners had accepted the report, their next step was to request 100th District Judge Charles Reynolds to recommend a qualified auditor to audit the books of the sheriff's office.

The report noted that it had been requested by the commissioners in session on June 16, and that Mr. Spillman understood they desired a report from both the district attorney's office and the county attorney's office.

Mr. Rainey said he would welcome an investigation of his department and that he had never misused a penny of the county funds.

He said also that he did not use state-bound prisoners to work on his farm without pay, and declared this charge was completely false.

This same material was presented before the grand jury at its last session, he said and "they took no action that I know of."

District Attorney Jack Boone told The Wellington Leader by telephone Tuesday morning that:

"At the present time it looks like this is a county government type of thing, and I am going to wait and see what the audit brings out, if there is an audit. It is my understanding the commissioners' court has asked for an audit."

C. E. McKinney Enters Hospital

Justice of the Peace Claude McKinney entered St. Joseph's Hospital Tuesday afternoon, July 15, for tests.

Mrs. McKinney said he had not been feeling well for several weeks.

Wheatheart, Miss Sorghum

Cindy Saied Represents County in Contests

Cindy Saied has been named by directors of the Chamber of Commerce to represent Collingsworth County in two major contests later this summer.

These are the Wheatheart of the Nation Contest in Perryton and the National Miss Grain Sorghum Contest in Dimmitt.

The county is traditionally represented in these contests by the girl who is chosen Miss Wellington earlier in the year. Leigh Nall, holder of that title, is 16 years old and is therefore under the age limit designated in both contests.

Cindy, who does qualify, was

"My office will take any action necessary, but only after the proper, thorough investigation which will include an audit, is made."

"I am going to be very sure of my facts before I go before the grand jury," the district attorney declared.

The report also calls attention to the Code of Criminal Procedure relative to the custody of prisoners and to the sheriff's permitting defendants to remain out of jail.

The report does not spell out, but it does raise the question of whether some prisoners may have been released from custody before their fiens were either paid or worked off.

The report points out the duty of the Commissioners' Court to manage and direct the financial affairs of the county and to keep a financial ledger in which is to be entered a full and orderly statement of the financial condition of the county, including the sheriff's account.

Said Mr. Spillman in the report:

"I submit this report at your request and have not attempted to establish an exact liability of moneys owed to Collingsworth County and have checked only County Court records and Criminal Justice Court records and have not attempted to establish other moneys owed to the county and there are other records that must be checked."

The report notes that the sheriff's books have not been audited and it recommends an audit.

Attached to the report is a list of prisoners, with the time served and fine paid, and the amount allegedly still due the county for the period of Aug. 1, 1965 to June 4, 1969.

Pre-School

6-Year-Olds Complete Readiness Program

Forty-one boys and girls will enter the first grade in Wellington in September already knowing what it's like to go to school.

They completed the six-week summer readiness program Friday, July 11, and put away their work books for the remainder of the summer.

"This program gives them training in three areas, reading readiness, number readiness, and listening skills," explained Louis Graham, who was in charge.

This year also, a physical examination readiness program was introduced to help the children develop visual-motor coordination and figure ground relationship.

The summer readiness program is a part of the Wellington Schools' curriculum, provided for under the Title I program, Mr. Graham explained.

Often children enter the first grade without really knowing how to listen to what their teacher tells them ... or what reading is about ... or arithmetic. It is to introduce the children to these concepts that the readiness program was begun.

Mrs. W. E. Franks taught the listening skills, while Mrs. Dan Henard was in charge of reading readiness and Mrs. Lynn Carter number readiness.

Physical education was play to the children, without their knowing this was learning, too. They bounced on a trampoline, showed their skills on a balance board and walking board, or played with a bean bag and suspended ball.

Mr. Graham, High School Counselor prior to resignation in that capacity June 1, tested each child for mental abilities, personality factors, and the possibility of reading or learning disorders.

This year's enrollment was about the same as in 1968, although the scholastic count of children who will enter the first grade is down, Mr. Graham said.

Boys and girls who were in the summer readiness program were Marsha Pipkins, Mary Clark, John Morris, Randy White, Darryl Vernon, Toni Archie, Margaret Johnson, Toni Isaacs, Steven Vassey, Delmer Turner, Lynn Hernandez, Elmer Niccum, Faron Lockhart, Elizabeth Partridge,

Barbara Reynolds, Cindy Watts, Debbie Trimble, Sarah Trimble, Edna Romo, Margaret Seale, Randy Lambert, Harold Scott, Jerry Lee, Teddy Reeves, Darren Jones, Manard Nash, Elizabeth Brewer, Channy Wood, Renee Lacy, Mark Fourmentin, Willie McKinnon, Thomas Wolf, Mary Sue Thompson, Lynna Nunnelle, Donna Nunnelle, Kathleen Reeves, Tina Jenkins, Cathy Denton, Veritha Simon, Sylvie Hinnicutt and Maria Langford.

Funeral Held at Vinson for L. A. Pence

Services for L. A. Pence, 42, were conducted at Vinson United Methodist Church Tuesday, July 8 at 2 p.m. Mr. Pence died of an apparent heart attack Sunday morning, July 6 at a Mangum service station where he worked.

Officiating at the funeral were the Rev. E. L. Shumaker, pastor of the United Methodist Church at Erick, Okla., and Mrs. John Aaron, pastor of the Vinson church.

Burial was in Cave Creek Cemetery.

Surviving Mr. Pence are his wife; three sons, Danny, Jerry and Ricky; a daughter, Kathy; a stepson, Jimmy Rathjen; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Pence of Mangum; a brother and sister, Billy Pence of Amarillo and Mrs. Patsy Bryan of Mangum; and two grandchildren.

University Accepts Summer Orientation Applications

Applications for The University of Texas' four five-day summer orientation sessions still are being accepted, Dr. Jack Lee Kaplan, assistant dean of students and director of orientation, says.

"We are expecting more than 2,000 new freshmen to participate in this summer's orientation program," he says. "But we still have room for a few more students who have not turned in applications."

Date of the first session of orientation is July 27.

"One of the values of orientation is that these new students who enter the University in the fall will not be strangers to the campus," Dr. Kaplan explains. "The future students will meet with various college deans and department chairmen. They will also be involved with several workshops orienting them to campus life."

All orientation activities are structured around the UT Austin advance testing program, he adds.

Applicants for orientation sessions must pay a $3 registration fee. If they choose to stay at Kinsolving Dormitory — campus headquarters for the orientation program during the summer—the applicants must also pay $25.90 for room and board for five days.

Other session dates are Aug. 3-7, Aug. 10-14, and Aug. 17-21.

Church Polls Student Group

High School students of Wellington and Quail are being polled to determine what they would really like to have for church activities.

The poll is being conducted by the First Christian Church through its youth director, Lynne Cicklin.

The deadline for returning the questionnaire is Monday, July 21, and these may be mailed or brought to Parsons Drug, Hatch Dry Goods or Carroll's Dairy Mart.

The results will be compiled and will be available to all churches wishing the information.

"Kids everywhere often feel they do not have a voice in church activities, and this poll is to give the boys and girls of Wellington and Quail the opportunity to speak out," said Miss Cocklin.

Governor Smith Urges Use New SMV Safety Emblem

— Texas Governor Smith has proclaimed Texas Farm and Safety Week and called residents to make use of new SMV emblem on moving agricultural vehicles as added protection when traveling on Lone Star State highways.

He also urged rural residents to take advantage of modern technology designed to remove many of the hazards in agricultural enterprises and cited that in spite of a declining rural population and advances in agricultural technology, farm and ranch accidents in Texas continue to steadily increase.

Last year 297 persons in Texas died as the result of farm accidents, an increase of 6% in the number of fatalities over the previous year. Injuries for the past year are estimated at 33,200 as compared to 31,400 in 1967.

"If we are to reverse this trend, we must renew our efforts to prevent accidents among our rural residents as they go about the hazardous task of producing the commodities needed by the entire population," the governor said in his proclamation.

The Texas observance coincides with observance of National Farm Safety Week, proclaimed by the President, to focus attention on farm accident prevention throughout the nation.

During this special week, a unified statewide farm accident prevention education program will be undertaken by a number of Texas organizations. Joining in this concerted effort will be the Texas Safety Association, Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, Texas Farm Bureau, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Future Farmers and Future Homemakers of America, and Young Farmers of Texas, and other groups.

"Such a campaign can do much to call attention to the need for accident prevention among our rural residents," the governor added.

Joe Smetana, Waco, vice president for Farm and Ranch Safety Council, said all county judges in Texas will be called on to participate in the campaign by making local proclamations for the safety week observance.

"In addition, there will be a number of special events taking place throughout the state to call attention to rural accident prevention," he added. "Special emphasis will be placed on the advantages of the use of the SMV emblem on farm vehicles."

Use of the emblem on all motor vehicles designed to operate at a maximum speed of 25 miles per hour or less, will be required beginning next Jan. 1 under a new Texas law.

The triangular-shaped SMV emblem features a red and orange reflective surface that is visible day or night for a distance of at least 500 feet.

"Operators of slow moving vehicles are especially vulnerable to high speed traffic," the safety leader noted. "In an emergency, their vehicles do not have maneuverability that high-powered vehicles have and operators are often dangerously, physically exposed in case of an accident because of no cabs on the vehicle."

Marine Capt. David W. Clark shows how close his F-9 Cougar was to a private plane piloted by James D. Fox, right, during an air rescue operation recently 10,000 feet above Austin, Tex. Fox, a pilot for Humble Oil & Refining Company, was descending through a heavy cloud layer for a routine landing when the airport control tower radioed that a military plane had lost its navigational equipment and needed assistance. Fox went back up, located the disabled plane, skillfully positioned his wing tip under the Cougar's and led the craft to a safe landing. Because Safety Pays-Always Know and Practice These Precautions

The more we mechanize our farms, the greater the dangers we face and greater precaution is required. Be wise, follow these 6 safety rules.

- Keep all equipment in good repair and use the safety rules in operating machinery on farms and highways. NEVER insert hands or arms into moving equipment.
- Chemical farming is our way of life. Pesticides are safe if you use them safely. Always read the label before using pesticides and note the warnings.
- Avoid inhaling pesticides. Do not spill sprays or dusts on skin or clothing.
- Defolianters are a must on Collingsworth County farms. They make us money if we use them correctly.
- Many accidents can be eliminated by keeping buildings in sound condition.
- Learn to apply first aid. Keep a safety kit handy. And always apply first aid promptly when an accident does occur.

Cotton is our way of life, but it is highly mechanized and it is dangerous business. We urge every customer to observe the rules of safe farming in every step of operations.

B&PW Observes 50th Anniversary, Hears Highlights of Local History

The 50th anniversary of the organization of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs in the United States was celebrated by the Wellington Club Thursday evening, July 8, when past presidents and former members were special guests.

A salad supper was served and Mrs. Truman Estes and Mrs. Drury Lacy were hostesses.

Mrs. Etha Pruden, who was the second president of the Wellington club, in 1939-40, and who presented the first program ever given before the club, recalled many of the incidents concerning its first two years.

She was not present at the organization of Wellington Business and Professional Women's Club, but was invited to become a member before the second meeting, she said. "I can find only one person who will admit to being at that first meeting, Mayme Lou Denley, who is here tonight," Mrs. Pruden continued.

She had kept the speech she gave at that first program, and parts from it were incorporated into her anniversary talk. She described the first convention which Wellington club members attended, and recalled that all the women were wearing gold slippers. So she and the other Wellington delegate went out and bought a pair.

Mrs. Pruden wore these to the Tuesday night meeting, and again they are much in style. The first president of Wellington B&PW was Miss Lora Mae McFarland, Spanish instructor in Wellington High School, Mrs. Pruden said in reminiscing. The scrapbook kept during the first year was brought by Mrs. Denley and other mementos were shown.

After more than 10 years of service to B&PW, Mrs. Pruden retired from the club, but has retained her interest in its activities.

Other past presidents attending the anniversary meeting briefly of the high points of their terms of office. These were Miss Bonnie Willis, 1945-

46; Mrs. Dora E. Smith, 1946-47; Mrs. Lennie Lou Sims, 1957-58; Mrs. Willie B. Harwell, 1958-59; Mrs. Ethel Coleman, 1959-60; Mrs. Paralee Coleman, 1960-61; Mrs. L. C. Sweat, 1961-62; Mrs. Ethel Coleman, 1963-64; Mrs. Burnalee Duncan, 1964-65; Mrs. Lorene Jenkins, 1965-66; Mrs. Nancy McAlister, 1967-68; Mrs. Katie Isbell, 1968-69. Mrs. Harwell is again club president.

The B&PW Chorus sang the Business Women's Club Song, and Mrs. Estes gave a brief history of the national B&PW and Mrs. Sims sang "The Golden Key."

Tables were decorated with yellow and gold flowers and the centerpiece for the head table was a gold "50" surrounded by daisies and green candles.

Books were presented to Mrs. McAlister, who is listed in Outstanding Young Women of America, and to Miss Jan Glenn, who represented District 10 in the Young Career Woman contest at Galveston this year. Her mother, Mrs. Barney Glenn, accepted for her.

Members heard a report by Mrs. Charles Darter on the trip to Carroll's Dairy Mart which club members sponsored for children of the Community Action Center. Members participating were Mrs. Darter, Mrs. Isbell, Mrs. Bob Sessions and Mrs. David Peters.

Those present at the anniversary meeting were Mrs. Darter, Mrs. Bobby Langford, Mrs. Amos McQueary, Mrs. Dudley Phipps, Mrs. Bud Higginbotham, Mrs. Zook Thomas, Mrs. V. K. Orr, Jr., Mrs. Jimmie Kelso,

Mrs. Pearl Aaron, Mrs. Raymond Patton, Mrs. Estes, Mrs. Henry Langford, Mrs. Lacy, Mrs. Peters, Mrs. Clifford Christian, Mrs. Joan Flint, Mrs. Louise Templeton, Mrs. Pruden, Miss Willis, Mrs. Sims, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Harwell, Mrs. John Coleman, Mrs. Sweat, Mrs. Duncan,

Notes from Your County Home Demonstration Agent

By Mrs. Leta Hill

Tasty Okra

In eastern countries, the leaves and immature fruit of okra long have been in repute for use in poultices and salves. In some countries the seeds are used as a substitute for coffee.

But in the United States, particularly in the South, okra is prized for its good eating quality.

When buying okra, look for tender pods (the tips will bend with very slight pressure) under 4½ inches long. They should have a bright green color and be free from blemishes.

Avoid tough, fibrous pods, indicated by tips which are stiff and resist bending, or by a very hard body of the pod—or by pale, faded green color.

When preparing to freeze fresh okra, select young, tender, green pods. Wash them thoroughly. Cut off stems without cutting open seed cells.

Heat in boiling water:

Small pods, 3 minutes.

Large pods, 4 minutes.

Cool promptly in cold water and drain. Leave whole or slice crosswise. Pack into containers, leaving ½ inch head space. Seal and freeze.

Have Washer, Will Travel

A lightweight portable washing machine simplifies several laundry situations: the nightly light laundry of the career girl or student; the daily dunking of an infant's clothing; vacation cottage or trailer. Weighing only 17 pounds, the machine will handle a 1½ pound dry weight load. It features an automatic timer; an unbreakable rustproof tub; molded handles for easy toting. Plugs into any 120 volt outlet.

Delectable Peaches

July is the month for peach lovers.

Use your imagination to fit delectable peaches into many of your other favorite foods.

Sliced peaches nestled within a stack of hotcakes make for extra flavor appeal. Peach halves are mighty tempting filled with chicken salad or lime sherbet.

Diced peaches fold into quick bread batters or alternate in a parfait glass with bite-sized pieces of angel food cake and whipped cream.

Try these!

BROILED PEACHES offer something delightfully different in "peachy" eating. Place peeled peach halves outside up in a shallow baking dish. Dust with brown sugar, cinnamon and ginger. Dot with butter and put a spoonful of your favorite jelly in the center of each half. Broil five inches from heat for 10 minutes.

PEACH ICE CREAM. Spread a thin layer of softened vanilla ice cream over a cookie or graham cracker crust. Add a single layer of fresh peaches.

Then alternate ice cream and peaches to the top of the pie shell. Garnish the top by forming a wreath of peach slices and maraschino cherries around the edge. Chill one hour before serving. Tastes just as good as it looks!

Leisure Time

How do you like to spend your leisure time? In a recent survey in St. Louis, two-fifths of those interviewed wanted to relax.

Married men and women ranked being with their families their second goal; number three was having fun. Married men put physical exercise in fourth place, while wives preferred companionship.

More of the married men than women wanted to spend their leisure making improvements around the house. More of the women, however, wanted to "do something different" or develop a skill.

Single men and women often were widely differentiated in their leisure time goals. For the unmarried woman, being with their families was the second choice after relaxation. But the bachelors' second choice was "having fun".

None of the single men wanted to spend their time learning about new places or things or earning extra income, which were the goals of many single women. Yet five percent of the single men would devote their leisure to making improvements around the house, which none of the unmarried women wanted to do.

Washington Report

From Congressman
BOB PRICE 18TH DISTRICT, TEXAS

1222 LONGWORTH OFFICE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D.C. • 225-3706

As one of his last official opinions as Chief Justice before retirement, Earl Warren's decision on the Adam Clayton Powell case was characteristic: he ignored the Constitution which it was his job to interpret. In a 62-page opinion written by Warren, the Court ruled that the House exceeded its authority in refusing to seat the Harlem Congressman whose repeated violations of court orders and errant behavior in office are public knowledge.

I say the Court ignored the Constitution for this reason: Article I, Section 5 states that "Each House may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior and, with the concurrence of two thirds, expel a member." I do not see how it could be stated any more clearly. But the Court resorted to a strange reading of its own that the above section applied only in cases of dispute over age, residency, and citizenship. In both spirit and exact wording, it seems to me, the Constitution is very specific on this point.

Earl Warren has retired and Judge Warren Burger has assumed the office of Chief Justice. I have great confidence in the past record of Judge Burger. He comes to this great office at a time of loss of public confidence in the Court, but he has a great opportunity to invest the court with the impartial and objective majesty upon which rule by law depends. It has confidence he can accomplish this.

Major legislation considered by the House recently was the Public Health Cigarette Smoking Act. It was passed by a voice vote after defeat of an attempt to recommit the bill to committee. This was what I call "iceberg" legislation — in that the issue was bigger than what appears on the surface.

Looking at the bill itself it appeared merely to extend the present requirements that cigarette packages contain warning to the effect that cigarette smoking may be dangerous to one's health. There were no violent objections to this on the part of the cigarette industry.

What was important however, was a section of the bill which warned the Federal regulatory agencies that Congress intended to hold sole prerogative to decision making with regard to the advertising of cigarettes. The Federal Communications Commission had indicated earlier that it intended to ban all advertising of cigarettes on radio and television stations, and the Federal Trade Commission had publicly announced its intent to require its own health warning of cigarette packages. So what Congress' action amounted to was a warning to the FTC and the FCC that it intended to write public policy on the cigarette controversy and it didn't need the regulatory to get into the act.

We don't grow tobacco in the Panhandle, of course. But this issue is of great importance to the agricultural industry. Once the regulatory agencies have had their fun with cigarettes, will other agricultural products be next: high-cholesterol products for instance? I think it is extremely dangerous to establish a precedent whereby a Federal regulatory agency can dictate which law-abiding businessman may advertise his products and which may not. If cigarette smoking is dangerous, there are other ways of taking care of it without regulating such life-and-death economic power to the Federal bureaucracy.

Earlier, the House Agricultural Committee met to consider legislation designed to help more rural communities finance water and sewage disposal projects. During the course of the testimony by Jim Smith, the new Administrator of the Farmers Home Administration, the subject of H.R. 11547 and H.R. 11604 came up. These are bills I introduced this session to improve the FHA loan program. The first bill would increase from $60,000 to $100,000 the principal indebtedness limitation for farm ownership loans; and increase from $35,000 to $50,000 the limitation for operating loans. In view of changed economic agricultural conditions, I believe the proposed new ceiling would be more realistic.

H.R. 11604 provides that FHA operating loans will be insured in the same manner as other FHA programs.

I was glad to have the chance to discuss this legislation with Mr. Smith and to call it to the attention of the committee.

Maybe You Could Collect

Heard the one about the bungling banana bandit?

He figured in one of the daffiest of the annual collection of bizarre insurance claims cases.

The young desperado approached a cashier in a San Diego grocery, inadvertently drew a ripe banana instead of his revolver, and boldly proclaimed a stickup. Thrown into a near panic when he discovered his mistake, the callow Clyde Barrow with the bonnie banana still managed to fumble out his real gun and split with $745 before the laughter died.

Here are some more of the best "weirdies" from among the millions of claims handled in 1968:

From Tucson comes another tale of ludicrous larceny. This one starred a shoplifter who bit an arm and leg of a vigilant drug store clerk in a mad gnash to freedom.

And while a Milwaukee homeowner's watch dog had the right to bite, he became so nervous after an encounter with burglars that his owner took him to a vet "to see what could be done about his state of mind." There being no canine psychiatrists available, the pooch's prescription was for tranquilizers.

A Missouri policyholder was anything but tranquil after being shaken up in an auto accident. And even 120 days after the minor mishap, he claimed that he was still too nervous to return to his job—racking up pool balls.

And a dog owner who left his car briefly with the engine running was unnerved when his impatient mutt hit the automatic shift, rolled down an Ohio street, and crashed into—what else?—a fireplug.

Flying high last year were a soused simian and a pack of pickled pig's feet. The revelling Rhesus monkey molested tourists at a Florida zoo after being fed whiskey by an unidentified, but obviously over-spirited, employee. And in Houston, "a person or persons unknown" heaved a jar of hog's hoofs through the windshield of a claimant's pickup truck.

Of course, the ladies played a prominent role in the "Oddities of 1968". For example, a Phoenix motorist slammed into a utility pole to avoid hitting a man who dashed into the street. Traffic was the least of the latter's problem — he was being hotly pursued by a woman waving a revolver.

And a Coral Gables, Fla., driver plowed into a gate when he was distracted by a woman in topless attire who was chasing a small boy down the street. A policeman parked nearby admitted that he didn't see the crash.

Another accident gave a customer in Albuquerque mixed feelings about insurance protection. Driving home after visiting his agent, he crashed into another car while leaning forward to pick up something that had fallen from his dashboard — his newly-acquired auto insurance policy.

Farm Accidents Are Tragedy That Is Always Close at Hand

Farm accidents that result in death or injury are tragedies we know about out of our own experience, for it is unfortunate that every year one or more Collingsworth County men or boys are involved.

We visit them in the hospital, we hear about the expenses that mount up, and perhaps we are one of the neighbors that get together to plow out a crop.

Governor Preston Smith has proclaimed Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Week to coincide with National Farm Safety Week July 20 to 26, and the aim of both is to reduce farm work, home, recreational and rural highway accidents.

It is ironic that with the fantastic advances in agricultural technology, our farm safety record worsens. The Texas farm population continues to decline, yet in 1968, farm and ranch accidents increased by some 1,800 over the year before. In 1968 also, 297 Texans died in these accidents, up 6 per cent over 1967. And 33,200 more were injured.

We engage in the third most dangerous of all industries, and one of the few in which the safety record does not improve. It is a Texas size fact in which we have no pride.

Many dangers are inherent in our mechanized and chemical farming, but we can compensate by using greater precaution. Hazards due to carelessness can be eliminated.

But the greatest eliminator of farm accidents is the ever-present consciousness of safe practices, and our use of them.

Other Editors Say . . .

The Missing Element

Naval officer and Director of Naval History, Rear Admiral Ernest M. Eller (Ret.) recently made a point that is often overlooked in our strife-torn land. "Unhappily," he observes, "most education and most panaceas for social ills like riots, slums, and crime stress mostly material solutions rather than those of the soul and character. We should not neglect the material solutions but unless we emphasize first of all the nobler ones of the spirit we will surely fail."

Admiral Eller then quotes the words of a young naval aviator written to his wife shortly before he lost his life in Viet Nam. In them lie the soul and the character of which the Admiral speaks. "I don't want my sons to have to fight a war I should have fought. I wish more Americans felt that way. I am not a 'war monger.' It will be me who gets shot at. But it is blind and foolish not to have courage of your convictions. I will not live under a totalitarian society and I don't want you to either. I believe in God and I will resist any force that attempts to remove God from society no matter what the name."

AUSTIN.—Stiff resistance is forming to a proposed 11.4% average private auto insurance rate hike.

Gov. Preston Smith promised a "full scale" investigation of soaring rates after State Insurance Board rate experts recommended the new increase.

Smith said the proposal "borders on catastrophe" and the car insurance situation "has become intolerable for many of our citizens." Governor announced an early meeting with insurance company executives and said he is considering appointment of a select panel of citizens outside the industry to make a thorough study and recommendations.

Board rate-authorities blamed the increase on the number and cost of auto accidents. Labor cost for repairs, in particular, was emphasized.

Recommendations and testimony at the public hearing will be reviewed by the board after Aug. 1. New rates will take effect with policies written or renewed on or after Sept. 1.

—Liability rates, under staff recommendation, would go up 5.5%. (Bodily injury coverage actually would be reduced by 3.7%, but property damage would increase 21.4%.)

—Collision insurance would increase 17.5%.

—Comprehensive coverage for physical damage would climb

24.9%.

Commercial vehicles, with better safety records, would get lower rates. Figuring all classes of vehicles, the statewide average increase would be 9.2% under staff recommendations.

Insurance company spokesmen urged even higher increases, but AFL-CIO spokesmen argued for reduction rather than raise.

"An automobile is an absolute necessity in our current society, and I, for one, do not intend to sit idly by and see it priced into a position of being a luxury," said Smith.

Treasure Hunts Ruckus

A story which began in 1553 still is one of the state's headline items.

Lawsuits, sharp exchanges between state officials and threatened impeachment proceedings raged over what should be done with the treasure recovered from a Spanish galleon which sank in a storm off Padre Island more than 400 years ago.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler incurred the ire of a legislative committee earlier when he declined to cooperate with members probing his agreement with the Gary, Ind., firm of Ulatore, Inc. Sadler's proposal was to salvage artifacts from the sunken ship and divide the loot 50-50 with the state.

Sadler announced that he had recovered all the artifacts taken from the galleon by Platoro and has them in his custody. He got a court order temporarily restraining Platoro from further salvage operations, which firm, according to Secretary of State Martin Dies, engaged in the Padre Island treasure hunt without the proper state permit.

District judge at Corpus Christi postponed a hearing on disposition of the treasure until after the special legislative session. Meanwhile, he named a committee to determine if the Gary salvage firm still has some of the treasure and, if so, how to get it back. Serving on the committee are Col. Wilson E. Speir, director of the Department of Public Safety, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin, and Ed Harte, Corpus Christi publisher.

State Rep. Jake Johnson of San Antonio threatened impeachment of Sadler over his contract with Platoro.

Supreme Court has agreed to hear an application by the El Paso Times on a libel case by a former UT-El Paso professor. Dr. Richard Trexler claims he was libeled by a letter published in the Times. Trial court found no actual malice or damages, but the appeals court said the jury got the wrong definition of actual malice and ordered a retrial, which the Times appealed.

DPS Demonstrates New Jet Helicopter

In a demonstration at Childress airport, the Texas Department of Public Safety showed its new jet-powered helicopter recently put in service, explained its use, and then gave rides to law enforcement officers and members of the press from the Southeast Panhandle.

The helicopter will be used for survey work and for medical air evacuation where it is necessary for the patient's welfare, according to Lt. Fred Marshall of Lubbock, regional education officer, who was in charge of the showing.

Assisting were Capt. J. W. Blackwell, district director out of Amarillo, Lt. Carl Mullins of Lubbock, pilot of the helicopter, Sgt. Ken Blanchard of Lubbock, co-pilot, and Patrolman Chester Fant, safety education officer.

The craft will be used mainly for search in the 60-county district, any point of which can be reached within an hour and a half of flying time.

Lt. Marshall explained that the helicopter may be requested by a police chief, county judge, civil defense director, or other authorities when it is needed.

"We ask you to use it. It is a tool for your use," said Lt. Marshall.

The normal cruising speed is 140 miles per hour, with a top speed of 160. The one limiting factor is the availability of fuel, which at present may be had only at Childress, Lubbock, Amarillo and Vernon.

Trio Searches Family History

A search for material to be included in a family history recently took a trio through middle and northwestern Tennessee, with short trips into Kentucky and Missouri.

They were Mrs. Jack Davis; her daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. John G. Thomas and Valerie Sue of Bryan; and her sister, Miss Sue Ward of Ada, Okla.

Altogether, they visited 46 relatives, mostly cousins, and some of whom they had not known existed until a few months ago.

They were contacting both the maternal and paternal sides of the Ward and Davis families.

"I have never seen anything like Tennessee hospitality," Mrs. Davis said. "We did a good deal of researching, but more visiting."

She spoke especially of the visits to cousins now 80 to 90 years old, and the personal anecdotes they could tell to make long-dead ancestors seem more real.

Among the towns they visited were Columbia, McMinnville, Paris, Martin, Union City and Hampshire.

It will not be used for traffic law enforcement and any use in this regard would be limited to traffic direction on rare occasions.

In use only six weeks, the jet helicopter already has been used in rescue work at Eagle Mountain Lake near Ft. Worth, in helping put out an elevator fire at Brownfield by dropping fire smothering chemicals; and in locating the bodies of three persons who were drowned in the Brazos River, and which were found in a place where ground search would have been difficult.

Non-Traffic Toll High

Firearm accidents accounted for the greatest number of non-traffic rural deaths last year—49 persons were killed. Other major causes of the 297 deaths were burns, 54; falls, 44; tractor accidents, 33; drowning, 33; and farm machinery other than tractors, 22.

Most of the increase in 1968 is attributed to the increased number of deaths due to falls and tractor accidents. The only category that showed a marked reduction in fatalities was drowning. Thirty-three rural drownings occurred last year as compared to 41 in 1967.

The most awesome journey man has ever made is now underway for man is not only going to the moon; he will set foot on it and bring back samples if all goes well. In other flights the recovery of the men and the space capsule and not the takeoff has been the breath-holding time; but this time the climax will be when Armstrong and Aldrin actually step on the surface of the moon. Other astronauts say there are hundreds of thousands of happenings that could prevent the landing; but they are confident the adventure will become a reality.

As the time for voting on the constitutional amendments draws nearer, people are beginning to ask more questions about them, especially No. 2 on the ballot. This one provides for increasing Water Development Bonds of $3.5 billion. The Texas Water Plan calls for bringing water from the Mississippi River south of New Orleans and distribute it by means of two main canal systems, one to the Gulf and lower South Texas and the other up to a point near Dallas through north Texas to the high plains. The water would be pumped while the Mississippi is in flood and held in a series of reservoirs in north Texas.

Rep. Bill Clayton, who is also an irrigation farmer near Spring Lake, was in Wellington Tuesday night to explain the working of the plan and answer questions, and a story about this will be found on the front page. The meeting was well attended by representatives of various organizations and business institutions; but it is too bad that more people representing the general public were not there for Rep. Clayton was full of information and knew his subject in detail. He said that if this most important of all the amendments fails it will be because of apathy and lack of understanding on the part of the people.

Among many other things, Rep. Clayton pointed out that the Texas Water Plan, tremendous though it is, would never be in conflict with the even more colossal plan to bring water from Alaska, through Canada and along the eastern side of the Rockies to water the plains of the west and midwest. This gigantic plan known as NAWAPA (North American Water and Power Alliance) would bring water mainly down hill and would provide many, many times the amount of electric power needed for pumping. Rep. Clayton said this project would be years later if ever; but that Texas could be ready for it.

When Ralph Owens asked me if I would serve as a director of the Chamber of Commerce if elected, he was careful to point out that the organization only held one regular meeting a month. Since Sunday I have been to five, two were C of C meetings dealing with new industry and the other three were somewhat related to the work of the organization. I am not looking for membership in any more clubs or organizations that meet only once a month. It is no wonder that the able George Henry resigned as director because of too many other duties.

"A short time or when your auto insurance is due again your insurance man is going to catch hell because of the increased rates.

"It will not be his fault. But that of his company and the State Insurance Board.

"It is possible that the State Insurance Board needs some investigating.

"There have been several boards in the state that needed investigating — such as the Liquor Control Board. So maybe this outfit could stand a little checking."

iff John Nunn. Investigating officers said her body had bruise marks on the face and neck and she was lying on her bed when she was found. An autopsy was performed in an Amarillo hospital on Monday, and District Attorney Jack Boone said Tuesday morning that the results will not be released until after the coroner's inquest is held by Justice of the Peace H. L. Powell. This is set tentatively for Friday.

Mr. Boone pointed out that this is a case which he does not want to risk losing, but he declared that "we may not arrest anyone today or tomorrow, but one of these days we are going to make an arrest."

Mr. Boone said that Jesse Romo became concerned when his sister was not at church Sunday morning. He went by the house two or three times and got no response. About 5 o'clock he forced his way inside and found her body.

The investigation has been carried out at both Panhandle and Wellington.

Mrs. Nickell was born in Wellington Sept. 16, 1944, and was graduated from Wellington High School in 1963. She was a talented artist during her student years.

After graduating she was employed by Judge R. L. Templeton, who trained her as a legal secretary. Since moving to Panhandle, she has been employed in that capacity by attorney Marshall Sherwood.

Just as she was a favorite of people who knew her here, she was also a favorite among Panhandle people, Mr. Boone said. He added that those with whom he talked said she had a "spotless reputation" and was respected by everyone who knew her. She was regarded as an outstanding legal secretary.

She was a Catholic. Surviving Mrs. Nickell are her husband, Bill Nickell and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Romo of Wellington; three brothers and four sisters: Jesse Romo of Panhandle, Mrs. Susie Wheat of Amarillo, and Daniel, Raymond, Alice, Elena and Mary Romo of Wellington.

Ribbons will be awarded to the girls and refreshments will be served.

The public is invited to attend the event, Mrs. Hill said.

Memphis Woman Elected to Quail Faculty

Mrs. Ann Chappell of Memphis has been elected to teach third and fourth grades in the Quail School, Supt. E. P. Haynie announced following a meeting of the school board Tuesday, July 8.

She fills the vacancy created when Mrs. Juanita Miracle resigned to return to college.

Mrs. Chappell is a graduate of West Texas State University at Canyon, and taught special education classes at Quail last year.

Mr. Haynie said plans are being made to redecorate the home economics cottage, with work to be completed during the summer months. He was in Dallas on business for the school Saturday.

proval of two-thirds of the legislature) It is not likely, Mr. Clayton said, that any bonds will be issued before 1975, but Texas cannot wait until that year to begin planning.

—The amendment will give added powers to the Water Development Board, enabling it to receive grants from and contract with the federal government and other agencies for the development of water resources.

—It extends the termination date for the Water Development Fund beyond the present 1982 date.

Much of the information was brought out in answers to questions asked by the audience.

The Texas Water Plan, Mr. Clayton said, seeks to bring surplus water from the Mississippi River south of New Orleans, through canals to huge holding reservoirs in northeast Texas, which will make that part of the state a major recreational and tourist area. More surplus water will be available from Northeast Texas itself.

Other canals would carry this water to parts of Texas needing water, including one to serve the area north and south of the Canadian River.

At least 18 terminal reservoirs from Borger south, are being looked at, Mr. Clayton said, and at this point he urged that Collingsworth look to its own potential.

Water will be taken out of the Mississippi only at flood stage and a study is now under way by the Corps of Engineers to determine the amount of surplus water that will be available. Upon completion of this study, Texas Water Development Board can then begin negotiations with Louisiana for the surplus waters.

Pumping would be far enough up-river to eliminate the possibility of salt water coming into the canal.

The bonds to be issued would be revenue bonds and handled similar to the Veterans Land Board bonds. The users of the water are the ones who will eventually pay the cost of their retirement.

Supporters of the Texas Water Plan believe water can be delivered to Lubbock for $30 an acre foot, a price no longer considered excessive.

Mr. Clayton estimated water could be on the high plains by 1990.

Interior Work

C-C Office Remodeling Is Near Completion

Complete interior remodeling of the Chamber of Commerce office is nearing completion, making this one of the most modern in Wellington.

Buster Hughs, owner of Hughs' Ace Hardware, bought the building earlier this year from the estate of the late N. M. Higdon.

There is now a front office approximately 25 feet square, paneled on part of the walls and with the others finished in off-white.

Display windows were left unchanged in order that the Chamber of Commerce may use this space to feature Collingsworth County products or for other purposes in line with the work. Gold draperies will be placed across the back.

Behind this is another office of approximately the same size and at back is an additional storage room.

The ceiling of the building was lowered and new lighting installed.

"I think the chamber of commerce of any town deserves a good-looking, modern office, and one that will reflect the civic pride of the town it serves," said Mr. Hughs.

The grass destroyed on the Gibbs farm was a love grass pasture, and this also had grown profusely before maturing. After destroying the barn and pump house, it threatened another barn and there was only the width of a maintainer blade between it and the fire line when the fire guard was started.

The alley fires in Wellington included one on Houston Street Wednesday and another in the 700 block of Childress Street on Saturday.

Firemen were called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leamon Bawcom at noon Monday to put out a grass fire that caught from burning trash and was traveling rapidly toward a garage.

The success of small towns in securing industry is community co-operation, Mr. Lightner emphasized throughout his talk. There are many industries "most likely to succeed" in this area, he declared, and he also recommended application for SBA funds to finance employee training programs.

During the question and answer period, he explained liability of borrowers, interest rates, and some of the loan requirements.

cotton, feed grains and wheat, are essential to the welfare of farmers and the rural communities.

On arriving in Washington on Sunday evening, July 13, the Fly-In group, comprised of farmers from across the nation were briefed by the legislative staff of the National Farmers Union. Besides attending the farm program hearings, the Fly-In participants contacted all members of Congress to discuss farm policy and to explain the economic problems of agriculture in their home states and communities.

Texas Farmers Union president, Jay Naman of Waco, led the Texas delegation to Washington. In describing the "Fly-In" legislative approach, Naman said, "the National Farmers Union sponsored Fly-In Program is an important tool for farmers to use to get their views heard by the Congress and people high in the Administration. As the Congress begins to focus on farm policy, it is important that we have the grassroots viewpoint of the working farmers and ranchers in Washington to visit with us, as well as rural congressmen. Whether or not we get an extension of the price support and payment programs, may depend upon the effective work of these farmer and rancher citizen lobbyists," Naman continued.

The group met with key officials in the Department of Agriculture and participated in special breakfast meetings with members of the House and Senate.
