Ceremony twice disrupted by demonstrators

Carter welcomes Teng to White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter welcomed Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping to the White House today with the promise of "a common journey" as they began talks on bolstering the new relationship between the United States and China.

"On behalf of the people of my country, I welcome you, Mr. Vice Premier," Carter said under windy, overcast skies during the ceremony on the White House South Lawn, which was twice disrupted by anti-Teng demonstrators.

"Today we take another step in the historic normalization of relations. We share in the hope which springs from reconciliation and the anticipation of a common journey," the president said.

Teng, reading his speech in Chinese, responded that "We share the sense of being on an historic mission. Sino-U.S. relations are at a new beginning and the world is at a new turning point."

Teng warned that "the factors making for war are visibly growing" in the world. He and Carter both expressed hope that normal relations between their two countries would help preserve world peace.

The ceremonies were disrupted twice, first by a woman protester who began screaming at Teng, "Teng Hsiao-ping, you are a murderer or a traitor!" She was dragged away by police.

Moments later, a man standing among the reporters, 15 feet in front of the president and Teng, shouted "Traitor!""Down with Teng Hsiao-ping!" and "You cannot make this a garden party!"

Three security agents arrested him and pulled him away from the press stand.

The two were identified as Keith Kozimoto, 28, and Sonia J. Ransom, 26. There was no immediate indication of their political affiliation.

Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, met Teng and his wife, Cho Lin, at the White House South Portico at 10 a.m. to a fanfare of Army trumpets.

Teng responded to the crowd's applause by applauding back. Then he followed Carter down a short receiving line that included Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, Vice President Walter Mondale and national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski.

The president and the vice premier and their wives mounted a platform and stood at attention as the U.S. Army band played the two countries' national anthems and cannons in the distance fired a 19-gun salute, the tribute accorded to a head of government.

The ceremony was witnessed by about 1,000 reporters and guests inside the White House grounds and untold millions on television around the world.

In front of Teng were arrayed honor guards representing the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps. To the sides were the invited spectators, waving small Chinese and American flags.

The two leaders had two private meetings on their schedule today, their first personal encounter.

Girl sniper kills two, wounds nine

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A 16-year-old girl opened fire with a .22 rifle on a crowded elementary school today, killing the principal and a custodian and wounding eight students and a policeman, police said.

When the shooting started, children ran quickly out of the school for cover, and nearby homes were quickly evacuated.

Authorities said the girl was firing from her home across the street from Cleveland Elementary School.

Fred Jeffries, a spokesman for the San Diego Unified School District, said head custodian Michael Suchar and principal Burton Ragg died of gunshot wounds.

An unidentified spokesman for Alvarado Hospital said all the injured students were in good condition. The policeman's condition was not immediately known.

A man identified as the girl's father was reported to be on the scene attempting to talk her out as a police SWAT team prepared to rush the modest yellow frame house in the city's northeast section.

Rain (not much) falls 1st day

Despite today being the 10th day that rain fell on Big Spring this month, Charles Yates of the Experiment Station says that less than a quarter of an inch has been recorded for the whole month.

"Most of those ten days, there were just traces of rain," he said "The amounts couldn't be measured. "We are running slightly below normal for this time of year."

To Gary Shaffer

Ambulance contract awarded

By JAMES WERRELL

Gary Shaffer, former Big Spring resident, has been selected by Big Spring and Howard County to operate an ambulance service here.

Shaffer was one of two candidates considered during a joint, closed meeting between City Council Members and Howard County Commissioners, 10 a.m. today. Following discussion, both groups went into open session, and passed resolutions to enter into contract with Shaffer.

The other candidate was Richard Craven, an employe of Trinity Memorial Park and a Big Spring native. Trinity Memorial Park was not involved in the bid.

"You made the choice very difficult. Both of you are highly-qualified candidates, and the scales were almost even," said County Judge Bill Tune, addressing the applicants.

County Attorney Harvey Hooser and City Attorney Elliott Mitchell will draw up a new contract which will be submitted to both governing bodies for approval later this week. The proposal calls for monthly subsidies of $2,000 from the city and $1,000 from the county on a 90-day trial basis.

"After 90 days we will have the option of renewing the contract for a period in the area of 18 months. The decision to renew will be made on performance," said City Manager Harry Nagel.

The city and county had previously held contracts with Alert Ambulance Service, but both were cancelled when Alert failed to pay for insurance coverage.

At the joint meeting, Wednesday, during which Alert's contract was dropped, Nagel proposed that the new contract contain provisions against "moral turpitude" and inadequate insurance coverage. Will this come about?

"Yes. The contract will be very strictly written. We will have recourse even without a conviction of any kind," said Nagel.

Shaffer and his wife, Debbie Adkins Shaffer, are both Big Spring natives. Both are also graduates of Big Spring High School and Howard College.

They were married here in 1972 while Shaffer was employed by the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home, and his wife was employed by the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. The couple spent a year in Dallas in 1973 while Shaffer attended the Dallas Institute of Mortuary Science.

Shaffer was an employe of the Ellis Funeral Home in Midland for three and a half years and in 1977, the couple took over a funeral home service in Robert Lee and Bronte. During that time, they operated the ambulance service for Coke County.

They now have an agreement to purchase equipment from Alert Ambulance Service, and set up residence in Big Spring immediately.

'Earth-consuming fires'

Skyjacker troubled by religion

NEW YORK (AP) — Irene McKinney talked about a plan to make the world aware of her "new concept" in religion in the weeks preceding her alleged hijacking of a 747 jetliner, friends and acquaintances in California say.

A four-page tract she reportedly wrote in 1970 predicted "earth-consuming fires...due to the extensive networks of oil, gas and electric lines" being disrupted by earthquakes after the explosion of the sun, said Frank Godfrey, a Cypress, Calif., real estate agent who rented Mrs. McKinney a two-bedroom townhouse.

"She had this idea of a heaven on earth and the sun exploding and she had all this technological stuff which she seemed to understand just perfectly," Godfrey said Sunday.

Mrs. McKinney, a 49-year-old California divorcee, was to be arraigned today in federal court in Brooklyn.

She was accused of commandeering a United Airlines flight en route from Los Angeles to New York on Saturday and threatening to blow it up unless televison star Lindsay Wagner or actor Charlton Heston or Jack Lemmon read her message over network television. No message was ever found at the Los Angeles airport, where she claimed to have left one.

But during a 6½-hour siege at John F. Kennedy International Airport that ended with her capture early Sunday, Mrs. McKinney gave FBI agents a 25-page statement with religious overtones. They described it as "quite incoherent."

A co-worker at Thermco Products Corp., in Orange, Calif., said that since the Peoples Temple mass suicide in Guyuana, Mrs. McKinney had cried often at work and expressed fears that she would be killed.

"She was nervous when she talked to you," a co-worker, who asked not to be identified said. "She never finished her sentences."

Mrs. McKinney earlier had told FBI agents that she was an unemployed writer.

FBI agent Quentin Ertel described her as a "fallen away Catholic, ambivalent about developments in the church" and distraught about her family situation. After her divorce, she lost custody of her children, he said.

The 11-hour ordeal for 119 passengers and 12 crew members aboard United Airlines Flight 8 began over Arizona when Mrs. McKinney allegedly passed a note to pilot Thomas Cook advising him that she had enough nytroglycerine to "blow this plane up."

When she was overpowered by an FBI agent, authorities found only personal items — including perfume — in the flight bag she said contained the deadly substance.

Big Spring supplied the Regional winner in last year's contest. She was Julianne Raines.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Grocery store ads

Q. Twice, a local grocery store advertised bacon on sale for 69c a pound. Both times, when I got to the store, I was informed that the sale price only applied with a $10 purchase. There was no mention of a purchase requirement in the ads. Isn't that illegal?

A. Assitant District Attorney Don Richard says that if misleading advertising is intentional, the advertiser is in violation of the Texas Consumer Protection Act which is enforced by the Attorney General's Office in Austin. We also contacted the assistant manager of the grocery store and he said that he was not made aware of the problem and that the store will back up any specials that it advertises. The clerk who informed you differently was not aware of the discrepancy between the ad and the sign posted over the bacon, he said.

Tops on TV: Katie is back

Anytime Katherine Hepburn appears in a movie, that has to be one of the highlights of the night on television. Fans will be treated to such a spectacle this evening when the award-winning actress stars in a new version of "The Corn Is Green," a classic in literature. The story about an English schoolteacher's experiences in a Welch mining town starts at 8 p.m., over CBS. Oh yes, there's more football, this one pitting the AFC All-Stars against the NFC All-Stars in the Pro Bowl at 8 p.m., over ABC. The wives can argue, and not without basis, that the footballers are just looking for a pay day.

Avery cites program of action

Chamber is optimistic

By EILEEN McGUIRE

Promoting free enterprise and advancing the agricultural, commercial, industrial, professional, civic and general interests of the Big Spring area will pervade the 1979 program of action as the chamber of commerce enters its 61st year, says president Johnnie Lou Avery in the 1978 annual report.

Reporting on the chamber's and Big Spring's progress during 1978 at the annual chamber banquet Saturday night, Bill Albright, 1979 executive vice president, pointed with pride to the industrial development that Big Spring has undergone during the year past.

He singled out Midas International, manufacturers of recreational vehicles, as one of the most promising industries. Newly located at Big Spring Industrial Park, the company has already projected an employment of 100 by the end of the year.

Master of ceremonies for the 7 p.m. banquet, which took place at the high school cafeteria, was Mayor Wade Choate. Dinner music was provided by pianist Larry Wheat. Rev. Kenneth Patrick of First Baptist Church delivered the invocation and Jerry Foresyth led the Pledge of Allegiance.

A number of special guests were introduced by Albright, including Mike Ezzell, state representative, and B. P. Cain, representing Charles Stenholm.

Guests included members of Post, Lamesa, West Texas and Denver City Chamber of Commerces, as well as past presidents of the Big Spring Area Chamber.

Tribute was paid to Howard College's Presidential Classics who served as hostesses and to Edna Womack and local garden clubs as well as the high school for banquet decorations.

The Ambassadors were credited for the oversold crowd. With 610 people in attendance, it was the largest banquet in the chamber's history. Singled out as top Ambassador salesmen by Mrs. Avery were Mel Prather, Troy Fraser and John Arrick.

The women behind the scenes, who keep the chamber office operating smoothly, were introduced. They are Claudene Floyd, office manager; Carol Hutchinson, assistant manager and in charge of memberships and activities; Rose Thomas, convention and visitors bureau; and Tammy Worthan, office assistant.

Man and Woman of the Year awards were presented to Marj Carpenter and Roger Brown following a recognition of 1978 and 1979 officers and directors.

Named as 1979 officers, in addition to Mrs. Avery and Albright, were Vice President Bob Hurt, Treasurer Walter Wheat and Past President Ray Don Williams.

The 1979 Program of Action was outlined by Mrs. Avery and her committee chairmen were named. They include Skipper Driver, community development; Deck Helms, athletics; Dr. Charles Hayes, rodeo; Russ McEwen, beautification; Mike Brunner, fun breakfast; Carol Hunter, tourism; Jack Redding, economic development; Ike Robb, business; Bruce Griffith, agriculture; Joe Pickle, transportation; Howard Piquet, regulation-control; Jack Redding, industrial development; Robert H. Moore, organizational affairs; Dan Hutchinson, membership; Jerry Forsyth, Ambassadors; Charles Beil, administration; Andy Swartz, long range planning; Daryle Hohertz, public affairs; Jane Ray, governmental affairs; Bill Bradley, cultural affairs; Sgt. Ed Kissinger, health and safety; and Caroll Kohl, free enterprise.

Tourism, the nation's third largest industry, was cited as one area that will be further developed during Mrs. Avery's reign. Chairman of the Tourist Development Council, of which Mrs. Avery is a member, is Polly Mays.

Keynote speaker for the banquet was humorist George McKinney, past president of the chamber and a member of the Rotary Club and Industrial Development Foundation. He is also, Choate noted, a favorite personality in the banquet ring and is listed in a version of who's who in banquet speakers.

Highlighting this year's banquet was the presentation of Builder's Awards to businesses and industries that have shown faith in Big Spring through the establishment of new industries or the expansion of those already established.

The awards, featuring photography by Danny Valdes and frames by Creative Woodworking, were presented to Attorney Wayne Basden, Howard College, South Western Bell, Mikums Construction Company, Burgess and Moore, Rip Griffin Complex, CPA Firm of Kenneth Boothe, Roy D. Hester and D.D. Johnson, Harris Lumber and Hardware, First Federal Savings, Bent Cement Skateboard Park, Jo Boy's Restaurant, Young and Alive Beauty Salon, Ramada Inn, Honey Building, St. Mary's Retirement Home, First Baptist Church, Herman's Restaurant, D.K.T. Co. Inc., K-Mart, Berkley Homes Inc., 700 Corporation, Coahoma State Bank, First United Methodist Church, Jack and Jill, Southland Corporation, Dorothy Garrett Coliseum and Best Western Mid-Continent Inn.

Also, Cain Electrical Supply Corporation, Trinity Baptist Church, Citizens Federal Credit Union, Burger Chef, O.D. O'Daniel Farm and Ranch Store, St. Thomas Catholic Church, McDonald's Restaurant, State National Bank, Don Crawford Pontiac, Big Spring High School, Turner Properties, Price Construction Co. Threatened walkout axed

ORANGE, Texas (AP) — Union leaders, who say they are very near agreement on a new two-year pact with Firestone, called off a threatened walkout scheduled for noon today at the firm's plant in Orange.

All that stands between the union and a new two-year contract is some "administrative details" said Gene Lacy, business representative for local 3290 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Lacy said Sunday that the details would be ironed out during negotiations today.

He said the contract, which would take effect immediately, is similar to an agreement reached last week between Firestone and the Oil Chemical and Atomic Workers.

The walkout deadline was set during Friday's negotiations. Only 35 workers at the Orange plant are members of the IBEW, but the total union work force at the plant is approximately 475.

On the light side

A headstrong goat

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — Whether two heads are better than one is problematic, but in the case of Hedy Lamarr they may be good enough.

Hedy, a two-headed goat who was rejected by her mother, apparently will defy the odds and survive, says her caretaker, Patricia Costa.

"She's doing fantastic," Ms. Costa, a local goat breeder, said Saturday. "She has passed the critical stage and it looks like she's going to live."

The goat's skulls merge. She has two mouths, four eyes and two noses, but just two ears. In other respects, she appears to be normal. Scientists had expected her to die within minutes of her birth Wednesday.

"She still can't stand up, but she's putting weight on her front legs and holding her heads up for longer periods," Ms. Costa said Saturday, adding that Hedy is being bottle fed — one mouth at a time.

High on love

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Art Castagnola and Sandy Himes got their marriage off to a flying start.

As friends, relatives and a few strangers remained safely on firm ground, the couple were married Saturday in the gondola of a hot-air balloon that was moored at the end of a 100-foot tether.

When the vows were finished, Castagnola kissed the bride, the line was cut and the balloon floated across the Western Idaho Fairgrounds for a landing near the Boise River.

"We wanted to do something we could remember — something a little different that we could think back on over the years," said Castagnola, 42, of Meridian, Idaho.

With them for the flight — the first balloon trip for either the bride or bridegroom — were Judge A. Richard Grant, who officiated, and pilots Scott Spencer and Curt Pengelly, who acted as witnesses.

Sheriff sentencing scheduled in Tyler

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Former Cherokee County Sheriff Danny Stallings was to be sentenced today in federal court on misdemeanor charges alleging civil rights violations.

Stallings pleaded guilty to the charges Jan. 19. At the same time he pleaded guilty to state charges of felony aggravated assault. A judge assessed him a five-year probated sentence and a $4,000 fine.

Stallings resigned as sheriff the same day.

The 29-year-old law enforcement officer allegedly was involved with the abduction of a Tyler businessman. One of his deputies, Thomas Glass, has also been charged in the abduction and has also resigned. Glass has been sent to a federal institution for psychiatric observation.

No official reason has been given for the abduction but Glass' girlfriend reportedly lived on the street where the abduction took place.

Stallings and Glass were involved in two shooting deaths last fall, but there apparently were not related to the present case.

Glass fatally shot a youth while questioning him in a patrol car about fires that had burned Stallings' home.

Small is beautiful

By Bill Albright
Executive Vice President,
Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce
Industrial Growth and Development

Small is Beautiful — now that probably sounds a bit strange coming from someone who proclaims BIG SKY — BIG COUNTRY — BIG OPPORTUNITY. But the small I have in mind is SMALL Business. Numerically, SMALL Business is anything but small. By definition it is generally a business that employs less than 500 people, is owner operated and grosses less than $2,000,000.00 per year. Yet, 45 percent of our country's gross national product is produced by SMALL Business. SMALL Business comprize 90 percent of our business entities and is responsible for more than 60 percent of all private employment.

And it is the essence of our Free Enterprise system. It is the foundation of business in these United States. Information provided by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the United States Industrial Council provides some interesting and surprising facts.

Such new products and services as the Xerox copier, the pocket calculator, fast food franchises and many other inventions and innovations were introduced by small companies in the last 25 years. SMALL Businesses seem to be more likely to experiment and to take risks.

More than 98 percent of the business firms that belong to the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce are classified as SMALL Businesses. They keep the system working through competition, efficiency and productivity.

But, there is a problem — and it's name is BIG — Big Government. Excessive controls, unnecessary regulations, an ever growing myriad of paperwork, plus high taxes and inflation are all combined to defeat the basic element of our marvelous Free Enterprise System.

Since the small business man can not normally afford to keep up with all the rulings, edicts and standards churned out by bureacratic forces, he has recently been pressured into selling his business or closing it down. It's no accident that within the same period that federal regulations doubled, the number of business bankrupticies also doubled — and most were SMALL Businesses.

Recognizing the consequences of overwhelming problems, the President has scheduled a White House Conference on Small Business to be held in 1980. Preceeding that meeting in Washington D.C., will be 12 Regional Conferences and 45 open forums. They are designed to get local input and ideas on dealing with inflation, advocacy, government reglation, international trade development, energy, job training, minorities, women in business and policies on taxation.

More than 400 interested people were in Dallas last Tuesday, examining these and other related subjects on Small Business.

The programs and seminars were enlightening and very well conducted. I was impressed with the potential value of instituting a Small Business Council here in the Big Spring Area and I will plan to discuss it with members of our Chambers Business Committee.

If you have ideas or suggestions in reference to our Small Business situation, please call me at the chamber. Remember — it takes three — you — your Chamber and me! Plus lots of HUSTLE!!!! HUSTLE!!!! HUSTLE!!!!

Interest in PCG elections is urged by Lloyd Cline

LUBBOCK — Lloyd Cline of Lamesa, president of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., is urging broad participation by cotton producers and cotton-related businessmen in upcoming county elections where PCG directors for 1979-80 will be elected.

Each of PCG's 25 counties has two directors, one a producer and one an agribusinessman, elected on alternate years for two-year terms. Excepting Hale and Swisher Counties, where elections were held in January, all counties in 1979 will be electing producer directors at meetings to be scheduled in February or March. Individual notices to the residents of each county and news releases will be mailed in advance of each meeting.

Hale County on January 23 elected A. L. "Skinny" Higgins, owner of Higgins Gin at Plainview and also a cotton producer, as its businessman director. The retiring Hale County business director, having served since 1969, is John McQuin, manager of the Plainview Cooperative Compress.

Swisher County January 24 re-elected its business director of four years, Boyd Vaughn, who is in the insurance business in Tulia.

Cotton prices are 8-11 cents over loan values

B. B. Manly, of the USDA Cotton Marketing Services Office, reported that only 17,500 cotton samples were classed in Abilene during the week ending Friday, Jan. 26. This brought the seasonal total to 329,000 samples classed, which compares to 709,000 cotton samples classed by this time last season. Some cotton fields had dried by late in the week and the cotton harvest was being resumed.

Local cotton prices ranged from 8 to 11 cents over CCC loan values during the past week, with most cotton selling at 8¼ to 9½ cents over the loan. Cotton prices were ½ to 1 cent per pound higher than during the previous week. Most mixed quality lots of cotton sold at 49 to 53 cents per pound. The supply of cotton was heavy, but producers offered light to moderate quantities. Demand was moderate most of the week. Trading was moderate early, but had slowed by late in the week.

Cottonseed prices paid producers ranged from 100 to 130 dollars per ton, with most prices around 125 dollars per ton.

The USDA estimate for 1979 cotton acreage was released on Monday, January 22nd. Total U. S. upland acreage was forecast at 13.9 million acres, up 200,000 acres from 1978. Total upland cotton acreage for Texas was estimated at 7.2 million, up 600,000 acres from 1978.

The quality of cotton classed in Abilene was comparable to that classed the previous week. Forty-seven percent was White, and 50 percent was Light-spotted. Grade 42 comprised 35 percent, grade 41 comprised 23 percent, grade 51 comprised 20 percent, and grade 52 comprised 10 percent of the classings. Fiber length was 59 percent staple 32,21 percent staple 33, and 17 percent staple 31. Micronaire readings were 78 percent from 35 to 49. Eight percent miked from 33 to 34, and 9 percent miked from 30 to 32. About 19 percent of the samples were reduced in grade because of bark content, and 2 percent were reduced for grass. Fiber strength tests averaged 83,000 pounds per square inch breaking strength, indicating average fiber strength.

Dawson's cotton harvest is good

LAMESA — The bale count in Dawson County's 1978 cotton harvest has now passed the 100,000 mark.

Only a few bales remain to be ginned. A total of 163,000 cotton samples have been sorted by the Lamesa Classing Office.

The harvest far exceeded all predictions made during late summer and early fall. Some predictions at that time ran as low as 35,000 while the most optimistic forecasts were for 80,000 bales.

Weather

Winter storm chilling Texas

A new winter storm chilled Texas today, spreading snow and sleet over a wide area of central and northwestern sections, with freezing precipitation reaching as far south as Austin and College Station.

A travelers advisory was in effect for most of northern Texas today and tonight.

It was snowing and 33 degrees in Waco before dawn, while 100 miles south in Austin light sleet pelted the capital. But ground accumulations were not anticipated because temperatures remained just above the freezing point.

Light rain mixed with sleet and some snow spanned an area bordered generally by Waco, Austin, San Antonio and Houston at 4 a.m. Snow was also falling on the Panhandle and the South Plains early today.

Rain and drizzle fell over most of South Texas, but amounts were generally less than 0.10 of an inch.

The only locations reporting clear skies before dawn today were El Paso and Texarkana.

Temperatures remained cold throughout the state. Readings were in the 20s and 30s in northern sections and generally in the 40s elsewhere. The predawn extremes ranged from 18 at Marfa to 58 at Brownsville.

The outlook is for snow, sleet, rain or drizzle to fall in most sections of the state today, but clearing skies should gradually replace the dreary weather from the west tonight. However, temperatures are expected to remain cold.

FORECAST

WEST TEXAS — Decreasing cloudiness and cold tonight. Clear to partly cloudy Tuesday. Lows tonight lower teens Panhandle to the upper 20s south. Highs Tuesday 30s north and 40s south except near 60 lowlands of the Big Bend.

Names in the news

MOSHE DAYAN ADLAI STEVENSON III

Third-party candidate?

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III says he's uncertain how to go about it, but he is considering running for president as a third-party candidate because President Carter is "embarrassingly weak."

"Maybe you just go out and run and see what happens," the Illinois Democrat and son of the 1952 and 1956 Democratic presidential candidate said in a copyright interview in Sunday's editions of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The 48-year-old Stevenson was quoted by the newspaper as declaring that Carter, "like his immediate predecessors, is surrounded by amateurs and preoccupied with the methods instead of the ends of government.

"His cabinet is strong, but the president is embarrassingly weak and surrounded in the White House by bush-leaguers," Stevenson said.

John Wayne bounces back

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor John Wayne, who had his stomach removed Jan. 12 during gall bladder surgery, may go home from the hospital in about a week, a UCLA Medical Center spokesman says.

It was during the gallbladder surgery that doctors discovered cancer in his stomach and removed the stomach.

"He's doing really well. Doctors are very happy and he should be out in about a week, or a few days," a hospital spokesman said Sunday.

Faithful Catholic

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Traditionalist Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre says he's not afraid of excommunication because "the Holy Father well knows I am as much a faithful Catholic as he."

Lefebvre said his relations with Pope John Paul II are much better than they were with the late Paul VI, who once threatened him with excommunication. However, Lefebvre says the Roman Curia, the Vatican's central administration, is still biased against him and is led by "persons who do not seek the welfare of the church, and some of them are so liberal they simply cannot stand traditionalists."

Lefebvre made his comments in an interview with the Swiss telegraph agency.

He is leader of worldwide conservative movement within the church that has rejected reforms stemming from the Second Vatican Council of the early 1960s, including some modern ways of celebrating Mass.

Room for improvement

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan, who begins talks today with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, says there is "considerable room for improvement" in relations between France and Israel.

Dayan told reporters Sunday he would discuss the stalemated Mideast talks and other subjects in his meetings with Giscard d'Estaing, Premier Raymond Barre and Foreign Minister Francois Ponce. He spoke with reporters at Ben-Gurion Airport before leaving for Paris.

Sources said Dayan would bring up a 7 percent decline in France's imports from Israel, as well as other economic matters.

American official shot

Hundreds wounded in Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Antigovernment rioters set fire to a nightclub, a brewery and restaurants in Tehran today as this troubled nation awaited word of the imminent return of Ayatullah Ruhollah Khomeini, hero of the anti-shah rebellion.

U.S. military officials here reported that an American officer was shot and wounded by an unknown assailant Sunday night.

Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar early today scrapped his plan to fly to France to meet with Khomeini at the Moslem leader's exile headquarters outside Paris. Bakhtiar rejected the "unacceptable" condition that he resign before meeting with the exiled Khomeini.

But Bakhtiar said Iran's airports, closed last week to prevent Khomeini's return from exile, would reopen shortly, and Khomeini could return "if security measures are taken."

In Paris, Khomeini announced he would return at his own risk as soon as the airports are open. His aides said they were ready to leave at a moment's notice.

"We hope to leave tonight depending on the latest order regarding the airports," said one.

Bakhtiar told a news conference "doors will stay open" for negotiations with the 78-year-old Khomeini, who wants to abolish the monarchy and Bakhtiar's shah-appointed government and establish a religiously oriented republic.

The wounded American officer was not immediately identified. A U.S. military spokesman said the officer, a member of the U.S. Military Advisory Group in Iran, was shot twice with a small-caliber weapon late Sunday as he was returning to his quarters from a friend's home. He was hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

The prime minister said Saturday he would fly to Paris to try to make peace with the Shiite Moslem patriarch who from exile led the year-long civil rebellion that forced Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to leave the country two weeks ago.

In Paris, one Khomeini aide said the ayatullah would receive Bakhtiar, while another said he would have to resign first. Later, Khomeini told reporters: "If Bakhtiar is on the side of the angels, let him resign and come and see me as a free man, like everybody else."

The 78-year-old priest, whose title of ayatullah is equivalent to that of bishop or archbishop, again attacked Bakhtiar as a "puppet and agent of the shah," and repeated his claim that Bakhtiar's government is "illegal" because it was appointed by the "illegal" shah.

"Losing Hair? Try This At No Risk"

HOUSTON, Texas—If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss...and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done". But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss...but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself.

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in the family," it is certainly not proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. If you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair...now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days—at their risk—if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail. ADV.

Carter getting education in economics

Two things have always been certain in this world — death and taxes. You can now add a third — inflation.

The upward spiral in prices is certain. To put it another way, your dollar is going to have less and less buying power. The prospect may not hit some people hard but, with the small business man and the average working man (and woman), the jolts could come like earthquake tremors.

TWO FACTORS WILL contribute to this situation almost immediately: A six percent increase in Social Security taxes; and increased federal withholding taxes for individuals earning more than $22,000 annually.

Who among the working class has reason to feel prosperous in the face of growing taxes and inflation?

Gone are the White House hopes that inflation, currently running at about eight percent at the retail level, might shrink to 6 or 6.5 percent this year.

Financial wizards say that instead, as a result of the OPEC countries' latest price hikes, plus the self-inflicted wounds of higher minimum wages and social security taxes in 1979, inflation will run about 7 percent. Some reason it will go even higher.

In turn, the Federal Reserve Board is likely to bump interest rates, already at dizzying heights, still higher in an effort to dampen inflationary fires.

The housing industry was beginning to boom again. That could slow down again. Already Chief economist Michael Sumichrast of the National Association of Home Builders predicts that only 1.5 million housing units are forecast for the year — down from 1978's estimated 1.95 million units.

When the housing trade retrenches, millions of workers in steel, lumber, glass and electrical industries are affected, with ripples going out to the producers of all types of household furnishings.

GOVERNMENT ECONOMISTS are reassuring the country that this factor alone will not produce recession, that only certain parts of the country will be hit.

By sluggish, the economists mean an increase in the umemployment rate, probably from the present 5.8 percent to above 6 percent, and a slowed economic pace. They forecast economic growth at about 2.5 percent next year, down from the earlier White House projection of 3 to 3.5 percent.

No doubt but that President Carter is getting an education in economics, and he's taking his lumps while learning. There are few victories to which he can point.

With the presidential elections drawing nearer, that must make Mr. Carter very edgy around the White House on occasions, or is he the kind that takes his worries home with him?

Dim vision

William F. Buckley, Jr.

The Shah's ejection is certainly the great event, as advertised. Nothing, as the saying goes, will be the same again. In the perspective of a fortnight, a few thoughts come to mind.

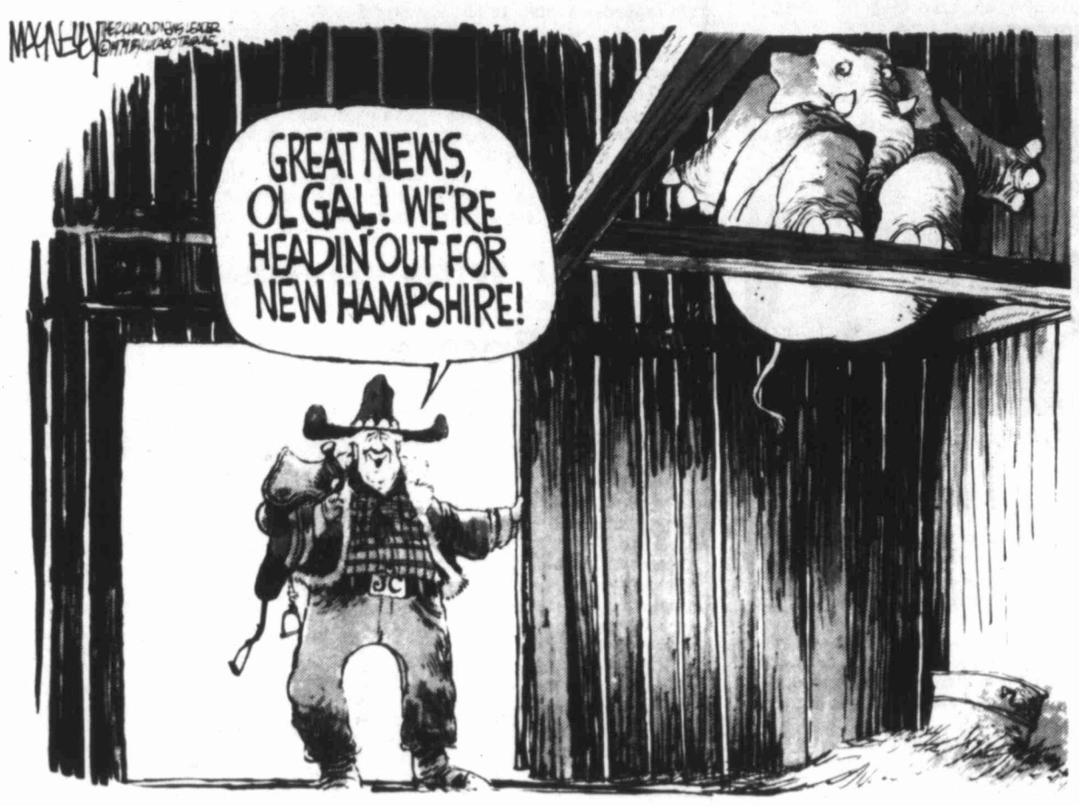

The first is that it was a grand event viewed purely as testimony to the human spirit. The thought of dislodging a despot who superintends the whole modern apparatus of suppression is — eo ipso — exciting. The very thought of its being doable seems almost reactionary. We are trained to believe that totalist governments cannot be overthrown by the people, only by coups d'etat. Here was a single individual who, playing the role of the prophet and leader, found that his words had electric effect 1,000 miles away among millions of people who did exactly as he bade them to do. Electronic communications, which are the century's gift to totalitarian states, played paradoxically into the hands of the insurgents. If ever in the history of the world there was a popular revolt, the one against the Shah was it. Which teaches us a great deal about the limited vision of popular revolts.

TWO GENERATIONS AGO — it happened in the Soviet Union, only there it began as a popular revolt, and ended as a coup. Still, those were days that shook the world. But Lenin had working for him not only the excitement of throwing over a dynasty, but of remaking a state around an ideological paradigm that excited everyone by its call to equality.

The Ayatollah's revolt is more negative in nature. The people knew what they did not want, which was a continuation of the rule by the Shah. They do not really know exactly what it is that they do want. "An Islamic republic" conjures up a departure from secular concerns, from that modernization of which the Shah was the symbol. Those Iranians whose enthusiasm is for the return of orthodoxy, what else will they be looking for? It was insufficiently stressed during the upheavals that the Shah's violations of Islamic practices were on the order of allowing commerce on Sundays in a Christian country. The Shah himself worshipped at Islam's altar.

But the state was not run as a theocracy, and one wonders therefore exactly what it is that the Ayatollah has in mind when he speaks of an Islam republic. Probably he bothers to use the word "republic" only in the symbolic sense of assuring his followers that the dynasty will be overthrown. But to depose a king is not to institute a republic. A republic — the kind of thing coughed up in Philadelphia 200 years ago — is far from what is in the mind of the Ayatollah, however inscrutable his pronouncements.

THERE WAS TALK, during the convulsive days of riots and demonstrations, of dismantling the military. The problem isn't dismantling the military, the problem is dismantling the threat. If the Soviet Union turned its army into sheep grazers and threw its missiles into the sea, the Iranians could concentrate entirely on the good life, spiritual and material. But Iran presents the most tempting contiguous country on the borders of the most avaricious superpower in history. To disarm is, in effect, to sue for annexation. In the event matters take that turn, Iranians will discover that the new Soviet rulers are, on the whole, unmarked by the excesses of Islam. There were plenty of Russians who, early into Leninism, dreamed about life under the czars. Perhaps the destiny of the emperor will be to lead a guerilla war for the return of the country's sovereignty.

Terms creeping into usage

By Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Please explain in plain language what the words "organic heart disease" mean. — B.C.

This is another one of those medical terms that seem to be creeping into the general language. They roll off the tongue nicely, but are sometimes difficult to understand. Another is "functional heart disease."

"Organic heart disease" means the heart has a structural weakness, such as scarring of a valve from rheumatic fever, or damage to a heart muscle from a heart attack. Some hearts may have abnormal connections between chambers or some other defect formed before birth. All of these are organic problems.

A "functional" problem, on the other hand, implies that the heart, while structurally sound, does not function properly because of outside influences. For example, anxiety, depression, fear or simple nervousness can cause a functional problem in a normal heart. They may cause the heart to beat faster, and the patient may even experience chest pain or tire easily or be short of breath, even faint. In such cases the fault lies not in our hearts, but in ourselves, to paraphrase a famous line.

Nor do such functional heart problems always stem from emotions. The outside problem may be physical and originate in another part of the body, such as the thyroid gland. Or it may lie in a general disorder, like anemia (low blood). The possibilities are numerous.

Many readers write anxiously after carefully selecting the most ominous-sounding phrase or word they can find in a medical report. One man wrote recently about having a "sinus node" in his heart. Everyone has a sinus node, otherwise known as the heart's natural "pacemaker." It controls heart rhythm. Nevertheless, I am sure the words caused this man considerable anguish. I hope he's reading this.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am a 59-year-old business woman. I notice that when I take long trips I usually get ill, either during it or when I get home. Is there anything I can do to prevent nasal cold flareups? Is it because I am running into different kinds of bacteria here and there? Can't something be done to prevent these problems? — A.S.

The problem is not bacteria, which doesn't change from place to place. Types of pollen do vary between locales, and traveling as you do you might encounter new ones, just as you might new acquaintances. Traveling also exposes a person to different pollution factors and to hundreds of allergy substances which may not be at home.

But, and this may be the most important factor, travel, even the pleasure trip, is fatiguing. Eating, sleeping and social habits change. This combination of factors makes it easy for the body's defenses to let down and invite trouble.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I developed hemorrhoids 20 years ago with the birth of my first child. While applying my ointment one day I discovered that if I gently tucked the hemorrhoid into the rectum I got complete relief. I no longer have need for the ointment now. Is this procedure OK? — N.J.E.

It's satisfactory for pain relief so long as you do it gently and take care about sanitary conditions. The question in mind, though, is just how sure are you that this is a hemorrhoid? Could be a polyp (a benign growth) that protrudes? It would be worth finding out after all these years.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Do you know anything about sporotrichosis, which I am told I have? — J.D.

It is infection from an organism that lives on decaying plants. It causes skin lesions. The problem is found most frequently among farm workers and horticulturists, especially those working with barbery bushes.

The usual treatment is with potassium iodide, which is diluted in water or beverage and taken after meals. The drug must be used cautiously because of its potential side effects. The disease may affect other parts of the body than the skin, in which case special treatment is required using other antifungal drugs.

It usually begins as a small nodule under the skin of a finger and gradually enlarges, becomes pinkish and eventually ulcerates. The organism (sporotichum schenckii) can be identified.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

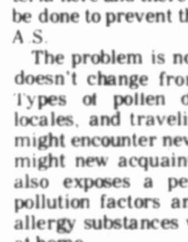

Dear Editor:

I read in Monday's Herald that the City Council is considering increasing our water rates again. Sales are off, but officials don't know why. The reason sales are off is that it is winter. People do not water yards so much in the winter. Also this winter we have had extra snow and ice.

We do not need a rate increase because as soon as spring arrives, water sales will pick up. The water department made a profit all last summer, but the extra money was spent outside the water department. The thing to do is to put the summer surplus money aside for the slow winter months.

I think the answer is obvious and understandable enough that no Council member would vote for an increase in the rate. However if they do, I hope the Herald publishes how the votes were cast.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I became a Christian in one of your crusades about a year ago. Now I find a lot of temptations come my way. I wonder if I am abnormal or if other Christians have problems with temptation? — D.A.A.

DEAR D. A. A.: Certainly Christians have problems with temptation. But you should remember that temptation itself is not sin — the sin is yielding to temptation. You should also remember that God can help you when you are tempted.

This is a very important truth, and sometimes it is misunderstood. It is not simply that God may give you a sudden surge of spiritual strength at the moment of temptation. It is also that God will equip you in such a way that the temptations of Satan will no longer be attractive. I suggest you study carefully what the Bible tells us in Ephesians 6:10-18. In that passage the Christian is compared to a soldier engaged in battle. Evil spiritual forces are arrayed against us, and yet God Himself has given us the armor we need to fight Satan, "so that when the day of evil comes, you may be able to stand your ground, and after you have done everything, to stand" (Ephesians 6:13).

They do happen

Around the rim

Carla Walker

"Oops, I did it wrong," or "I made a mistake."

For some reason, the human creature has trouble saying those simple words. For example, when I do something wrong in my job, and it comes out in print, very little can be done to correct it, other than to print a retraction.

And, when Tommy Hart, my editor, asks something about why the error occurred, my mind first jumps to think of a reason — to explain that "anybody else" would have done the same thing "because..."

LISTENING TO MYSELF, and to others attempting to explain why we made a mistake can be funny. I was glad to learn, in reading a recent magazine article, that I am not the only one who reacts that way, and Tommy Hart is not the only person who hears such (sometimes valid) excuses.

A farm magazine, "Grain Producers News," recently published a list of explanations of how car accidents happened, as reported by drivers of rented cars. The list came from the insurance claim form files of Tilden, Ltd., one of Canada's foremost car rental agencies.

As you read the ones I have reprinted, see how many you have heard — or said.

"Coming home, I drove into the wrong house and collided with a tree I don't have."

"A truck backed through my windshield into my wife's face."

"The guy was all over the road. I had to swerve a number of times before I hit him."

"In my attempt to kill a fly, I drove into a telephone pole."

"The gentleman behind me struck me on the back side. He then went to rest in a bush with just his rear end showing."

"I told the police that I was not injured, but on removing my hat, I found I had a fractured skull."

"I was sure the old fellow would never make it to the other side of the road when I struck him."

"I PULLED AWAY from the side of the road, glanced at my mother-in-law in the other seat, and headed over the embankment."

"I had been driving my car for 40 years when I fell asleep at the wheel and had the accident."

"To avoid hitting the bumper of the car in front, I struck the pedestrian."

"I first saw the slow-moving, sad-faced old gentleman when he bounced off the hood of my car."

"The accident happened when the right front door of a car came around the corner without giving any signal."

"A pedestrian I did not see hit me, then went sliding under my car."

"An invisible car came out of nowhere, struck my vehicle and vanished."

"I had been learning to drive with power steering. I turned the wheel to what I thought was enough, and found myself in a different direction, going in the wrong direction."

"The accident occurred when I was attempting to bring my car out of a skid by steering it into the other vehicle."

"The telephone pole was approaching fast. I was attempting to swerve out of its way when it struck my front end."

I guess it is human nature to find an excuse for what we did, or find some factor that would, to some degree, exonnerate us of blame for errors — whether they be in driving or in any other activity.

Why Tommy Hart, sir, this rim would not have been late, but you see, on my way to the typewriter,....

Needs no enemies

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — The only person rivaling Billy Carter as a constant source of embarrassment to the White House is Bert Lance, the president's ill-starred choice as his original budget director.

Like Brother Billy, there seems to be no one Lance won't do business with. While Billy Carter waltzes around the country with cronies of Libyan dictator Muammar Qaddafi, the jolly Georgia banker has been thick as thieves with the Saudi Arabians in various financial deals.

RECENT REVELATIONS that Lance, when chief executive officer of the National Bank of Georgia, gave preferential interest rates to the Carter family's peanut business also besmirched the president's hoped-for Mr. Clean image.

Now we have uncovered evidence that Lance may have tried to wangle banking business from a union boss who was on the verge of indictment for embezzling union funds — and who had retained two Atlanta attorneys to use their supposed influence at the White House and the Justice Department to help him. His case was too hot to handle that way, however, and all the president's friends were able to achieve was a five-month delay in the indictment.

The union boss is former paperworkers president Joseph Tonelli, one of the first major labor leaders to back Jimmy Carter for president. Finally indicted last July, Tonelli pleaded guilty to embezzlement and obstruction of justice.

Just six weeks before Tonelli's indictment, Lance phoned Tonelli about the possibility of doing some business with the union boss, reliable sources told our associate Gary Cohn. Tonelli later speculated that Lance may have wanted millions in paperworkers' pension funds transferred from a New York bank to one in Georgia. (Lance still owns stock in the National Bank of Georgia.)

About the same time, one of Tonelli's Atlanta Lawyers, presidential pal Irwin Stolz, wrote Carter with an incredible suggestion: "Bert and I believe that Mr. Tonelli would be an excellent adviser and informal liaison for you with organized labor."

THERE IS NO EVIDENCE that any transfer of union funds took place probably because Tonelli was by then under such close scrutiny by federal investigators that a large transfer would undoubtedly have come to light. And the suggestion that Carter strengthen his ties with Tonelli, at a time when the union leader's legal troubles were obvious to apparently everyone but Lance and Stolz, was too laughable to be given serious consideration at the White House.

On one previous occasion, union funds did wind up in the National Bank of Georgia. In February 1976, the Teamsters Central States Pension Fund set up an $18 million trust account in Lance's bank. The fund was under federal investigation at the time, and the Teamsters evidently felt it might be worthwhile to do business with a good friend of the man who might become president.

Although, as we have emphasized, there is no evidence to show that the efforts to use Carter cronies to influence the president ever amounted to anything, the fact that such attempts were made has proven an embarrassment to the Carter administration.

With friends like his, Jimmy Carter doesn't need enemies.

RIP-OFF ARTISTS: Some of the rip-offs that have given nursing homes a bad name have been detailed by the Federal Trade Commission. Such as these:

—Many homes won't itemize a patient's monthly bill, listing charges for "laundry," "therapy" and, vaguest of all, "miscellaneous."

—Patients are often billed for essentials that should be part of the basic fee, like soap, bed bars, crutches and aspirin.

—Patients usually have no choice in purchasing drugs; many suppliers are owned by the nursing home proprietor, and charge more.

—Patients' families must guarantee payment of bills, but need not be told of changes in fees or patient care.

—Many contracts absolve the nursing home from virtually any liability. One disclaimer states: "The facility and its management specifically disclaim liability for any act or omission of any physician, patient, guest or intruder which results in personal injury to the patient."

TRA-LA-LA: Whistle-blowers at the General Services Administration will now get a chance to practice before singing to government investigators. The scandal-ridden agency has formed a GSA choir.

A memo from Administrator Jay Solomon inspired 176 GSA songbirds to sign up. One of Solomon's personal assistants with a musical background was appointed choir director.

The big turnout has made it necessary to form separate groups for rehearsals, which will be held two days a week. Employees will have to get special permission from supervisors to get an extra half-hour for lunch to rehearse.

A spring concert is in the works, but there'll be no robes or uniforms for the GSA choristers for the time being. "We're operating on a shoestring budget right now," explained the director.

AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION: An idea whose time has not only come, but is long overdue, is proposed in the forthcoming issue of 50 Plus magazine — establishment of a Washington-Peking Hot Line to make sure that Chinese and U.S. leaders can make their intentions known to each other in emergencies.

The magazine's editorial director, Jess Gorkin, who first proposed the existing Washington-Moscow Hot Line years ago, points out that the capability already exists for the kind of instantaneous communication that could prevent a nuclear holocaust.

National Smoker Study:

Merit Rocks Tar/Taste Theory.

Flavor rated as good as–or better than–high tar leaders in fresh research study.

Can low tar MERIT with 'Enriched Flavor'™ tobacco disprove the old "low tar, low taste" theory?

Read the results of detailed, nationwide research conducted among high tar smokers who taste-tested MERIT against high tar brands—and among current MERIT smokers.

Research Confirms Taste Satisfaction

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

First Major Alternative To High Tar Smoking

MERIT has proven conclusively that it not only delivers the flavor of high tar brands—but continues to satisfy!

This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is what it claims to be: The first real alternative for high tar smokers.

Rosebud club holds meeting

Mrs. J. H. Talton and Mrs. J. F. Sanders hosted the Rosebud Garden Club meeting at the Dora Roberts Community Center. Mrs. Perry Lou Phillips was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. Sanders reviewed an article from the National Gardener on the subject of leaves. She said leaves are good for food, drugs, fibers, and also in arrangements.

Mrs. O. S. Womack was the speaker on Arbor Day. She suggested the following kinds of trees to plant in the Big Spring area for windbreak: mulberry, pine oak, red sunset maple, scarlet maple, techny arbovitae, redbud tree, flowering ash, norway maple, and dawn redwood.

She said when planting a tree, dig a hole a foot wider than root-spread and mix the dirt from the hole with Canadian Spagnum Coarse moss and water well when planting. The best time to plant trees is now until April.

Next meeting will be Feb. 27 at the Dora Roberts Center.

Use caution with kerosene

When using a fireplace, never pour kerosene or any lighting fluid on wood, coal or charcoal to start or replenish a fire, cautions Claudia Kerbel, consumer information specialist with the Texas Agrricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

DON'T FORGET about the performance tomorrow night at 7 p.m. in the Coahoma High School Auditorium by the Coahoma Elementary fourth graders. These students will put on a musical entitled 'Young Sam.' Don't miss it.

Mrs. Edwards presides over council meeting

The Council of Big Spring Garden Clubs met Jan. 24 at the Dora Roberts Community Center. Mrs. L. B. Edwards presided over the business meeting.

Johnny Johansen, owner of Johansen Landscape Company, spoke on how to plant trees and shrubs. The soil should be tested for PH factor. When planting bare- or ball root plants, water them well, then continue watering every third or fourth day until the plant is established. Do not fertilize when planting. Prepare the soil by mulching well with pine bark, leaves and cotton burrs. Prune bare root trees, shrubs and rose bushes before planting. Root stimulators may be used after watering the plants.

Sevin dust is excellent for treatment of insects, bag worms and horned worms, Johansen says.

Bill Sneed of the Men's Garden Club presented a Golden Gardeners' Award to Johansen.

Mrs. O. S. Womack presented Golden Gardeners' Awards to Mrs. Floyd Mays, Mrs. Paul Guy, Mrs. Cass Hill and Mrs. C. R. Clinkscales. Mrs. Marie Greer accepted an award for her mother, Mrs. P. D. O'Brien.

The Council of Big Spring Garden Clubs will host the Awards dinner at the district 1 Spring Convention in Odessa Apr. 4. Mrs. Womack reported that three ladies will receive Golden Gardeners' Awards at this convention.

Mrs. Gina Moreno, volunteer coordinator of the Department of Human Resources, a guest at the meeting, emphasized the importance of donating plants to nursing homes.

Mrs. Paul Guy has been appointed chairman of the committee on bird conservation of district 1 of the state garden clubs. Mrs. Cass Hill will be project chairman for district 1.

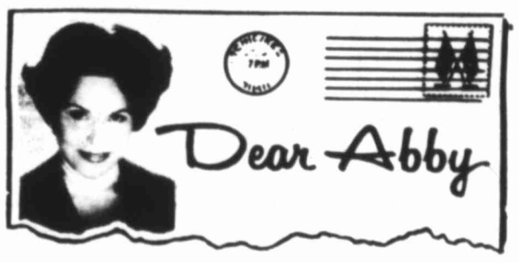

Mrs. Womack, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the slate of officers for 1979-80 as Mrs. Cass Hill, president, Mrs. J. F. Sanders, vice president; Mrs. Grady Cunningham, secretary; Mrs. Paul Guy, treasurer; Mrs. Tommy Hubbard, project chairman and Mrs. Sue Carter, parliamentarian.

Lingerie shower given recently

A lingerie shower for Suzie Brasher, bride-elect of Leon Langley, was held Saturday in the home of Jill Floyd, Ackerly. Pammy Nichols was co-hostess.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated with fresh pink carnations and wedding veils on a pink linen cloth.

Miss Brasher and Langley will wed Feb. 17 in the Ackerly Baptist church.

A Wife's Calls Can Put Hubby's Career on Hold

DEAR ABBY: Over the years you have advised wives not to phone their husbands at work unless it's absolutely necessary. I disagree.

Nothing brightens a father's day like hearing, "Hi, Dada," from his 2-year-old son whom he hasn't seen for two days because he's had to work overtime.

As for management complaining because it wastes company time, management would be wise to encourage 10-minute "sunshine" calls. It does wonders for their employees' morale.

However, there should be a few rules: Emphasize that your call is not an emergency so your husband isn't interrupted in the middle of something important; if he doesn't work near a phone, put a quarter in his lunchbox so he can call you.

Also, never tell him what the kids did wrong or anything that might upset him. Keep it light and cheery. He'll love it. My husband does.

BETTE M.

DEAR BETTE: Your husband may love your "sunshine calls," but I'll bet his boss doesn't. In business, time is money. Say your husband makes $6 an hour and you babble away with him for 10 minutes a day, that's $1 out of the boss's pocket. If he has 1,000 employees, each making $6 an hour, and each taking 10 minutes a day to discuss domestic trivia, it costs the boss $1,000 a day!

If you MUST chat daily, let hubby call you on his lunch hour. A guy who's on the phone is not on the job—unless he's a bookie.

DEAR ABBY: I am an 11-year-old girl whose parents are divorced. I live with my mother. Mom has her boyfriend living with her and everybody knows they aren't married.

My problem is this. I have a best friend I'll call Debbie. Debbie's parents will let her come to my house and stay all day, but they won't let her sleep overnight. What's the difference?

PUZZLED IN LAS CRUCES

DEAR PUZZLED: Debbie's parents probably fear that if they allow her to spend the night in a home where an unmarried couple are sleeping together, Debbie might think they approve of it—which they do not.

DEAR ABBY: I have a gripe I would like to air. Just before Christmas, I receive a Christmas card with my newspaper: "Merry Christmas from Johnny Jones, your newspaper carrier!"

I also get a Christmas card, "From Elmer Smith, your postman." And another one, "From George Brown, your garbage collector."

Abby, I never see any of these people during the year, but there were times when I would have liked to see them to ask why my newspaper was late again, or why I find so many letters in my box that aren't addressed to me. Or why my garbage cans are never put back where they belong!

I don't mind tipping for extra service, but it bugs me to get a "bill" for mediocre service that I've already paid too much for.

STEAMED IN PALO ALTO

DEAR STEAMED—Those aren't greetings, they're warnings.

Put boyfriend before skating

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I have a real big problem and I need help.

My best girlfriend and I started going roller skating every Friday evening.

Well now I have a boyfriend and I can only see him once a week — on Friday.

Now my girlfriend is upset that I would rather spend my time with my boyfriend instead of going skating with her.

I have offered to go skating with her on Saturday but she won't go. What should I do? — Joan Windsor, Ontario, Canada

Joan: Your girlfriend is understandably upset, but your offer to switch your skating day from Friday to Saturday was most generous.

See your boyfriend on Friday!

Dr. Wallace: I'm 20 and in a Tacoma jail. Before I got put in here, I was dating a gal from Seattle. When she found out that I was in here, she sent me a letter and said she didn't want to see me again.

It seems that girls always reject guys who are put in jail. Do you know why? — Ramcharger, Superior, Wis.

Ramcharger: It's probably because it hinders their dating. Seriously — the vast majority of girls want to date guys who are not involved in criminal activity.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 13-year-old girl and I smoke cigarettes. I'm not supposed to, but I enjoy smoking and don't want to hurt my parents by telling them. What should I do? — Amy, Ukiah, Calif.

Amy: You won't hurt your parents by smoking. You will only hurt yourself. I can think of many bad things about smoking, but I cannot think of one good thing.

Quit smoking and you won't have to say anything to your parents.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Consider cord placement

When selecting an iron, consider cord placement.

Cords fitted for right-handed persons contribute to accidents when used by left-handed persons, reports Becky Culp, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Right- and left-handed persons can use irons with the cord centered in the middle back, the specialist suggests.

City club sees film

The City Home Demonstration Club met Friday at 2 p.m. in the Pioneer Flame Room. Mrs. Pat Armstrong and Mrs. W. E. Wozencraft served as hostesses. There were 14 members present.

The devotional, "Slow me Down, Lord," was given by Mrs. Frances Zant. Rozelle Dohoney presented a slide program, "Heritage in the Home."

Mrs. Frances Zant gave the council report on the profits of the concession stand at the 4-H and FFA Stock Show.

Members of the group voted to change the name of the club to City Extension Homemakers Club to line up with the statewide change from Texas Home Demonstration Association to Texas Homemakers Extension Association.

Mrs. William Priebe reported on the T.H.E.A. training meeting at Midkiff Jan. 30. Anyone interested in going should contact the home extension agent at 267-8469.

Rozelle Dohoney was elected club delegate to the district meeting. Three delegates will be chosen at the next T.H.E.A. Council meeting, Feb. 5, to represent Howard County.

The club will meet Feb. 9 with Mrs. Jamie Burns at 611 Dallas. Mrs. Jean Cantrell will serve as co-hostess. Hostesses were chosen for the remainder of the year.

Police beat

Vandals puncture tires; items stolen from cars

Local vehicles were the victims in most crimes reported Sunday.

Vandals punctured three tires on a 1978 Chevrolet belonging to Susan Martin, Ackerly, Sunday night. The car had been parked in the lot of the La Posada Restaurant, and the deed was done while Miss Martin ate her supper inside. Cost of the damage had not been estimated.

Car burglars broke into a 1969 Chevrolet Camaro belonging to Martin Schattel, 4305 Connally, sometime Saturday night while the car was parked on the corner of West Fourth and San Jacinto. Stolen were a stick-shift knob and an eight-track tape player.

Including damage, total loss was estimated at $170.

At the same time, same place, intruders broke into a 1969 Ford Mustang belonging to Rick Huckabee, 401 Benton. Stolen were an eight-track tape player and a tachometer from the dash of the car. Total loss was estimated at $175.

Even the authorities were not immune. Vandals peppered the windshield of a State Highway Patrol car with BBs while it was parked at the home of Trooper Glen Redmon.

They also hit a window on Redmon's personal car, bringing the damage total for both vehicles to $255.

In the only incident not involving a car, burglars stole an Irish Wolfhound puppy from a garage at the home of Sylvia Miramontes, 207 Edwards, Sunday. The pup was valued at $50.

Wed to stepgrandmother a year

'We love each other'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After a year of marriage, 21-year-old Mark Goodman says his parents are "learning to accept the situation" and getting used to his new bride — his 78-year-old stepgrandmother, Ray.

A year ago today, Goodman married Ray Goodman — a former chorus girl and his father's widowed stepmother.

"It's been one exciting year," Goodman said Sunday. "No regrets, that's for sure."

Many people — especially Goodman's parents — looked on the romance with disfavor a year ago when the couple, then living in England, announced wedding plans. British law forbade a marriage between a man and his grandfather's widow, so the couple came to Southern California and married secretly.

His parents, who live in this area, did not attend the wedding but Goodman says they are getting used to the idea now and visit frequently.

"I think they are learning to accept the situation," he said. "Time did a lot of things and we get along fine now. Mother and father are friendly."

Goodman likes to play down the importance of age in their relationship. "We love each other. We're happy. That's what counts, isn't it?"

Goodman works for a securities firm selling stocks and bonds. He says he and Ray — he calls her G.R. for Gramma Ray — do some of the things young couples do, like disco dancing, and in some ways their life is more like that of older couples.

"I'd say we're somewhere in between," he said. "A combination of young couple and old couple."

G.R. gets a kick out of going to the disco — "she's unbelievable" — but Goodman admits they do "raise a few eyebrows."

The couple lives in a large apartment complex in the northwestern suburbs of Los Angeles about 10 miles from Goodman's parents.

In the evenings, they frequently watch television and play cards or visit with a few friends. They are jealous of their privacy and he said he plans to change their phone number "to make it inaccessible" even though their current number is unlisted.

"It's been a heck of a year, and this next year's going to be even better," Goodman said.

Mrs. Goodman was born in south London. She was the second wife of Mark's grandfather.

When asked about a future love life, the Press Association, Britain's domestic news agency, quoted Goodman last year as saying, "This is love, but it's a very, very special type of love....I think sex is a weakness."

Mrs. Goodman said to a question about sex, "I don't think that's so very necessary."

She and Goodman lived together in London before they were married.

"I know people might think he is marrying for money," Mrs. Goodman said then. "How wrong they are. Neither of us has any."

(AP WIREPHOTO)

YEARS APART — Mark Goodman, 21, holds onto his bride of one year, who is also his stepmother, Ray Goodman, 78, recently in their suburban Los Angeles home. The Goodmans moved from England where marriage between a man and his grandfather's widow is illegal, and married secretly in Southern California one year ago today.

ALMOST A TOTAL LOSS — Roy Moore, right, is assisted by his son, Roy Moore, Jr. in moving some of the things saved from the fire at the father's house eight miles east of Big Spring on the Snyder Highway around 11 a.m. Sunday. The senior Moore was in the house with his uncle, Claude Hendricks, when the fire started from a wood stove near the rear of the house. Moore and Hendricks began taking furnishings and other items out of the house in hopes of saving something. "A young fellow on his way to Snyder stopped to help or we'd never have gotten as much as we did out," said Moore. "He left before I could find out his name or even hardly thank him, but if it hadn't been for him, I'd have lost a lot more. Howard County Volunteer fire departments in Coahoma, Sand Springs and Jonesboro responded with three trucks, and the county sent out a water transport to help in fighting the blaze. Not much could be saved, however, since the entire roof of the house was burning by the time even the occupants knew of the fire. It took about 30 minutes to put the fire out.

Storm brewing over ethics in White House

Betty Ford calls book a 'betrayal'

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sheila Rabb Weidenfeld can't understand what the flap over the book is all about.

Betty Ford called it a "betrayal."

Ron Nessen, former White House press secretary, called it "tasteless and trashy."

First lady Rosalynn Carter called it "unacceptable" for White House staffers to write about the private lives of first families.

Mrs. Weidenfeld did just that. And she finds herself the center of a storm over ethics.

As press secretary to former first lady Betty Ford, Mrs. Weidenfeld kept a diary about her experiences in the White House. Her subsequent, recently published book, "The First Lady's Lady," offers a glimpse of power struggles within the White House.

It also reveals details of the Ford family's private life. And these tidbits have kept tongues wagging for months.

"This accusation that I've written a kiss-and-tell book bewilders me," she said as she curled up on the chocolate-colored corduroy sofa in her Georgetown living room. "Anecdotes taken in context show how life works. Taken out of context, it's gossip because they show no insight.

"I didn't understand it. I still don't understand it. Why has there been such commotion?"

The commotion — in columns, editorials, television news shows and cocktail party conversations — focuses on whether she betrayed confidences of the Ford family when she wrote that:

—Daughter Susan was dating a married man while she was living in the White House and that her mother knew it.

—Mrs. Weidenfeld learned that the Ford's son Jack planned to smoke marijuana and advised him to "get stoned" before he went to a rock concert rather than during the concert itself where he might be seen.

—Son Steve sneaked a date out of the Queen's Bedroom one morning as an ABC crew waited in the hall to begin a televised tour of the White House.

Q. Did you betray any confidences?

A. "No, not at all. It's a very complimentary book because it's a warm and loving look at the family."

As Mrs. Weidenfeld tells it, she has written a book about what happens to ordinary folks when they get in positions of power. "It helps you understand all administrations," she said. "And administrations aren't that different. There's a White House mentality. It's about how people grow and change...how they have to grow up on stage which is a very tough thing to do."

Asked why she chose to describe a tipsy Steve Ford taking a girl he met that night "on a weaving tour of the White House" before he and the young woman spent the rest of the night together in the Queen's Bedroom, Mrs. Weidenfeld said, "Now that's a telling story.

"We had lost the election. People in the White House were throwing caution to the wind. It was his home. Most people don't have a camera crew outside their bedroom door. What man at 21 wouldn't do the same thing?"

Zoeller captures Williams Open

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Fuzzy Zoeller had arranged his playing schedule carefully this year, keeping clear the two middle weeks of April.

"My wife's expecting our first child in the middle of April," Zoeller said. "That's the most exciting, best thing that's ever happened to me.

"I'm committed for everything up until then, but I had arranged it to be home when she's due. Now, it looks like I won't be there."

His first career victory on the PGA Tour came in wind, rain, a few flurries of snow, cold and hail Sunday at the Andy Williams-San Diego Open. And it suddenly made him eligible for two of golf's premier events, the Masters and Tournament of Champions. He has never before played in either. They come on consecutive weeks in the middle of April — "just about my wife's due date," Zoeller said.

YALE LARY JOHNNY UNITAS RON MIX DICK BUTKUS

THE CLASS OF 1979 — Yale Lary, John Unitas, Ron Mix and Dick Butkus have been selected as the 1979 entries in the Pro Football Hall of Fame it was announced Monday. They will be formally enshrined in Canton, Ohio, July 28.

NFL announces Hall of Fame choices

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Johnny Unitas, Dick Butkus, Ron Mix and Yale Lary form the 1979 class joining the Pro Football Hall of Fame, it was announced today.

Unitas, the rags-to-riches quarterback of the Baltimore Colts, and Butkus, the Chicago Bears' linebacking great, enter the hall in the first year after their five seasons of retirement.

Mix, a perennial All-American Football League offensive tackle with the San Diego Chargers, retired in 1971 after one year with the Oakland Raiders. Lary was a league-leading punter, star defensive back and punt return specialist for the Detroit Lions before retiring in 1963.

The four were chosen by the 29-member board of selectors. They will be formally enshrined Saturday, July 28, in Canton in ceremonies before an exhibition between the Dallas Cowboys and Oakland Raiders.

Their selection brings to 102 the number enshrined in the Hall of Fame.

Unitas, cut by the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1955, jumped from a $6 a game semi-pro quarterback to regular status with the Colts the next season. He would go on to lead Baltimore to National Football League titles in 1958 and 1959.

The 6-foot-1, 195-pound University of Louisville graduate showcased his talents in the 1958 championship game. He completed 26 of 40 passes for 361 yards, guided the Colts to a game-tying touchdown at the end of regulation and took them on an 80-yard march to beat the New York Giants 23-17 in overtime.

His 18-year career accomplishments are staggering: 2,830 completions in 5,186 passes for 40,239 yards — almost 24 miles — and 290 touchdowns. When he retired, no other passer had even remotely approached those massive totals.

One of his NFL records probably never will be broken. Unitas threw at least one touchdown pass in 47 straight games, a streak that started in 1956 and ended in 1960. He played his last year with the Chargers before quitting.

Butkus, who played at 6-3 and 245 pounds, was notorious for his vicious hitting as a middle linebacker in nine injury-shortened seasons. He becomes the 17th Bears' player to join the shrine.

NBA Roundup

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Kevin Porter is the spark that ignites the Detroit Pistons, and he had their motors running at full speed Sunday.

The Pistons sank their first seven shots from the field and went on to set a National Basketball Associaton record by hitting 69.1 percent from the field, 56 of 81, in defeating the San Diego Clippers 128-118.

M.L. Carr led Detroit with 26 points. Porter, the NBA leader in assists, handed out 19 to go with his 24 points.

"We're playing our best basketball of the season," crowed Detroit Coach Dick Vitale, enjoying a four-game winning streak. "We got a great all-around performance today. We can't get any better basketball than we are getting from Kevin (Porter), Leon (Douglas) and M.L. (Carr). They are really giving their maximum."

Elsewhere in the NBA, New Jersey trimmed Phoenix 117-114, Denver beat Chicago 98-87, Boston edged Golden State 103-102, Kansas City clobbered Cleveland 137-109, Indiana defeated San Antonio 123-110, Portland beat Philadelphia 116-94, Washington topped New York 122-105 and Los Angeles trimmed Milwaukee 111-109.

Nets 117, Suns 114

New Jersey trailed by 23 points early in the third period but came back to win behind 37 points by reserve guard John Williamson, who got 16 of his points in the last 4½ minutes.

Williamson scored on a drive with 34 seconds left to tie the score at 113, put the Nets ahead to stay with another driving basket with five seconds left and sank two free throws with one second on the clock to wrap it up.

Nuggets 98, Bulls 87

David Thompson scored 27 points as Denver built a 23-point lead early in the third period and held on to win easily despite a 21-point, 29-rebound effort by Bulls reserve forward Mark Landsberger. His rebounds were the most by any NBA player in one game this season.

Kings 137, Cavaliers 109

Kansas City led 62-37 at halftime and coasted past Cleveland as Otis Birdsong had 30 points and 10 assists and Billy McKinney, playing in place of injured Phil Ford, got 25 points.

Ford scored eight points before leaving the game in the first half with a jammed left wrist.

Celtics 103, Warriors 102

Chris Ford scored a career-high 34 points as Boston snapped a four-game losing streak by beating Golden State, which had fought back from an early 17-point deficit to lead 98-96. But Ford scored on a drive, Curtis Rowe made a three-point play and player-coach Dave Cowens added two free throws to put the Celtics ahead to stay.

Pacers 123, Spurs 110

Indiana won its third in a row as Johnny Davis scored 27 points to lead four Pacers who got 20 or more. "I don't know who was more pitiful — us or the referees," said Spurs Coach Doug Moe.

Blazers 116, 76ers 94

Lionel Hollins sank 14 of 16 shots from the field, scored 33 points and had 12 assists for Portland, which took command with 15 straight points in the opening period and never was caught.

Bullets 122, Knicks 105

Bobby Dandridge scored all 24 of his points in the first three periods for Washington, which jumped ahead 32-22 and never trailed as the Knicks finished an 0-5 road trip.

Lakers 111, Bucks 109

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored a season-high 40 points, including six free throws in the final minute that clinched the victory for Los Angeles.

Pro Bowl could be explosive tilt

By KEN PETERS
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With people like Earl Campbell, Terry Bradshaw, Lynn Swann, Walter Payton, Roger Staubach and Harold Carmichael in the game, tonight's Pro Bowl would figure to be a wild and crazy offensive show.

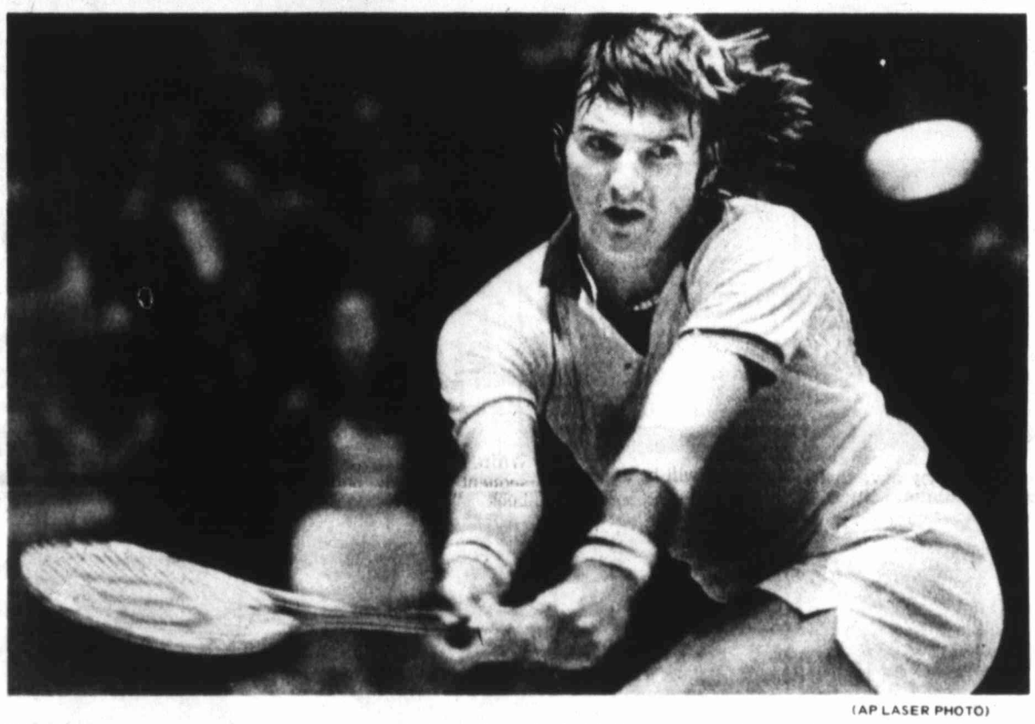

But that "figuring" doesn't take into account the defensive stars in the annual clash between the National Football League All-Stars.

When the AFC's Campbell carries the ball, or Bradshaw looks for favorite receiver Swann, they'll have to contend with NFC defenders like Bill Bergey, Jack Youngblood, Al Baker and Cliff Harris.

And when Payton, Staubach and Carmichael are trying to move the NFC offense, they'll be looking at an AFC defense that includes Lyle Alzado, Joe Greene, Randy Gradishar and Louis Wright.

Since the teams have just one week of practice together, the NFL has given some edge to the offenses by writing in special Pro Bowl rules that restrict the defenses.

The rules dictate that the defense must always be in a 4-3-4 set, play a man-for-man with a free safety, and cannot blitz unless the situation is third down and less than three yards to go.

Sands sweeps Klondike

SANDS — The Sands Mustangs swept two games from the Klondike Cougars in basketball action Saturday night.

Sands took an important 37-33 victory in the girls game. It was the first game in the second half of district play for both squads. Sands now has a season record of 25-5, while Klondike slipped to 19-5.

Sands' Jill Floyd led all scorers in the contest with 13 points, with teammate Tammy Nickles chipping in with 11. Roxanne Airhart led Klondike with eight.

Sands had an easier time in taking an 83-60 victory over Klondike in the boys game.

Sands is now 2-0 in the second half of district and 26-3 on the year. Klondike is now 1-1 in second half play and 10-15 on the year.

Van Gaskins paced a very balanced Sands attack with 19 points. Following Gaskins in the scoring department were David Mosley with 16, Shane Wigington with 14, and David Hall with 10.

David Cox and Bobby Hayes led Klondike with 14 and 13 points, respectively.

Forsan JHS takes third

STERLING CITY — Both the Forsan Junior High boys and girls basketball teams won third place trophies in the annual Sterling City Junior High Tournament held this weekend.

The Forsan girls started off Friday by taking a 29-13 decision over Water Valley. Susan Farquahar was high point girl for Forsan with nine points.

Robert Lee then won a 29-18 game from the Forsan girls in the semifinals. Gina Strickland was high point for the Baby Buffaloes with six points.

Forsan girls then rebounded in the battle for third place to take a 32-13 win over host Sterling City. Vicki Baggett led the winners with 14 points. The Forsan females are now 12-2 on the season.

The Fosan boys won their first game of the tourney by taking a 30-16 win over Water Valley. Lewis Boeker was high point man for Forsan with 13.

Robert Lee then decisioned Forsan in the semifinal match. The final score was 38-31. Lewis Boeker lead Forsan with 15 points.

Forsan then captured the third place trophy by easily beating Bronte by a score of 52-17. Lewis Boeker was again the high point man for Forsan with 14 points, followed closely by Robert Eggleston with 13. The Forsan Junior High boys are now 9-5 on the year.

Hawks, Queens host Frank Phillips

The Howard College Hawks and Hawk Queens return to WJCAC action tonight when they play host to Frank Phillips Junior College. The Hawk Queens start the action at 6:00, followed by the Hawks at 8:00.

Both the Hawks and the Queens will be seeking a way to get back on the winning road after suffering losses on the road to Amarillo Junior College last Thursday night.

The Hawk Queens of Coach Don Stevens entered last week ranked number 20 nationally, but dropped decisions to Angelo State and Amarillo since that time. A win tonight is very important for the Queens to stay in the thick of the battle for the conference title.

The Howard College Hawks are suffering through one of their worst years in conference history. The Hawks are presently 1-7 in conference play and 8-14 on the year.

Coach Harold Wilder will start a lineup consisting of guards Rocky Rawls and Robby Randolph, forwards Allen Bonds and Linwood Hines, and center R.Q. Tolliver.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JAN. 30, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There is much uncertainty in today's aspects and it is wise not to become involved in odd activities. Be on the lookout for a surprise benefit coming your way in the evening.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle those private anxieties intelligently and breathe easier. Clear the slate for more important activities ahead.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A friend could be acting oddly, so steer clear of this person for awhile and all clears up later. Take no risks in motion today.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be careful in the handling of an important business matter early in the day. Safeguard your reputation in the evening.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You may want to delve into a new interest at once, but first be sure to iron out all wrinkles of it. Don't be so impulsive.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Sidestep an argument about some responsibility you have to handle now. Be poised and use good reason for best results.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Listen carefully to what an associate has to say since it is vital to your mutual success. Your hunches are accurate now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Schedule your time and activities well and then follow through without changes or deviations. Use extreme care in motion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan how to express your finest talents to higher-ups. Try to please your mate more and have increased harmony.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Discuss a new plan with family members so that each can gain individual aims. Don't neglect important business affairs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Consider well what your true aims are and the best way to attain them. Be careful with the expenditure of money at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) An inspirational plan can pave the way to greater success in the days ahead. Take needed health treatments.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Showing consideration for others and doing special favors for them is wise today. Make sure your appearance is improved.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have much ability at understanding the problems and anxieties of others and will be able to do something for them. Be sure to give good ethical and religious training early in life. A good family life in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Junior college teachers expecting pay increase

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — College professors want the 1979 Legislature to improve their lot, but some legislators have the opposite in mind.

Professors want salary increases and more money for faculty research.

But some legislators are putting their priorities on abolishing the faculty tenure system.

When a university grants faculty tenure, it virtually guarantees the professor life-time employment.

Tenure supporters say it allows professors to teach their beliefs without fear of reprisal.

But Rep. Frank Gaston calls tenure educational welfare for elitists.

The Dallas Republican wants to replace tenure with a renewable contract system.

He introduced a bill to grant university administrators periodic review of teacher performance.

The bill would let universities trim deadwood from the academic payroll, making room for brighter minds and better teachers, he says.

Without tenure, professors fear that their colleagues who hold unorthodox beliefs or who are critical of university policies would be removed along with the "deadwood."

The Texas Association of College Professors and the American Association of University Professors oppose Gaston's bill.

Gaston says his bill is supported by voters, legislators and teachers across the state.

House Speaker Billy Clayton studied tenure this summer. Although he hasn't endorsed Gaston's bill, Clayton wants some changes in the system, an aide says.

But university professors have enough votes in the Senate to stop legislation altering the tenure system, Neill Megan, lobbyist for the American Association of College Professors, says.

If tenure is abolished, Rep. Mary Jane Bode thinks Texas will be blacklisted by national teaching associations. That will make it difficult for Texas Universities to recruit good teachers, the Austin Democrat says.

The legislature also is expected to slash university research money again.

Two years ago legislators cut the state's organized research budget in half. Some argued that professors spent too much time with research of questionable value.

The Legislative Budget Board says further cuts are in order. Its budget for research during the next two years is only two-thirds of the current level and a quarter of the amount universities requested.

"By and large, the attacks on research are mindless," an Association of Texas Colleges and Universities statement, says. The association represents all public and private higher education in Texas.

Faculty research has aided in industrial improvements, pest controls and diseases prevention, the association says.

Aside from benefits to the general public cited by the association, research money also allows professors at smaller schools to keep abreast in their teaching fields, Megan says.

Research cuts "will hurt like hell," Megan says.

Universities and junior colleges also say they need salary increases.

The Texas College Coordinating Board asked the legislature for a 6.4 percent pay increase for teachers. But the budget board recommended only a 5.1 percent hike.

Unless the legislature approves the coordinating board request, faculty members will lose three-to-five percent of their income to inflation, Kenneth Ashworth, higher education commissioner, says.

The average salary for junior college professor is $16,000, compared with $26,000 for senior college professors of the highest rank. Both averages cover the nine-month academic year only.

Junior colleges lost a powerful ally in the state appropriation process when Senate Dean A. M. Aikin Jr. retired last year. The Paris Democrat, a longtime junior college booster, attended Paris Junior College in the 1920s.

But junior colleges remain optimistic about the outcome of the appropriation process, Norbert Dettman, Texas Junior College Association lobbyist, says.

The chances that junior college teachers will receive the full 6.4 percent pay increase are improving all the time, he says.

Fire kills mom, child

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Arson investigators, puzzled by a mysterious fire that swept through a Fort Worth apartment Saturday killing a 22-year-old woman and her 2-year-old daughter, are looking for a man that argued with the woman earlier.

"We have a good idea who he is, but we haven't been able to locate him," said Lt. Harvey Gates, who added he thought the man may be able to answer some troubling questions.

The Tarrant County medical examiners office in a preliminary report said Donna Aston and her daughter Mandi, whose bodies were found in the smouldering debris of their apartment Saturday morning, died of asphyxiation.

Neighbors told Fort Worth police they overheard a violent argument between the man and the woman about three hours before the fire.
