Checking Student Handbook

SCHOOL BOARD LIKES IT

Handbook Will Assist High School Students

School board members had a preview Monday night of a new 24-page Student Handbook prepared for Colorado City High students.

They liked what they saw as school trustees and parents, too.

The handbook, prepared by Supt. Frank Wilson and his staff, is designed as a helpful guide for students in curriculum, preparation for college or careers, activities and all areas of high school life. It also is expected to be informative to parents in assisting, and understanding the high school's role in the education of their children.

At the same time, the handbook is part of a stiffening plan for graduation requirements and, thus, an expanding curriculum in the top 4 grades of Colorado City public schools.

Supt. Wilson said the handbooks will be distributed later in the school year to students who will be in high school next year.

Eleven pages of the mimeographed handbook list and explain requirements for graduation at Colorado High now and in future years, aids for formulating individual student graduation plans, admission requirements for a long list of colleges and universities, courses available to each high school grade, a description of courses catalogued by departments of the curriculum.

Other features include complete list and explanation of school regulations — ranging from autos to tardiness; objective of activity periods, commentary on the student insurance program, accreditation of new students, manner and evaluation of the grading system, requirements, honor roll, valedictorian and salutatorian.

Opening preface of the handbook briefly explains the place of education in modern society of culture, outlines the student guidance program, cites the school's accredited level through Texas Education Agency and Southern Association of Colleges and lists procedure for student registration, summer school, correspondence courses and withdrawal from school.

Other topics within the handbook deal with schedule changes, senior rings, lost and found items, organization funds, study hall, interschool competition, textbooks, public address system, lockers, fire drills, class schedule.

Charts are included also for students to maintain their own scholastic record with courses and credits acquired in each year of high school.

Wilson emphasized that the handbook is an initial effort in this field of student guidance and therefore, will be revised and updated from time to time as the need arises.

SALARY, LIBRARY HIKES IN BUDGET

A $100 per month increase in operational funds for the library and pay increases for all regular city employees are included in the proposed $388,892 municipal budget for 1960-61.

Public hearing for the new budget — up more than $17,000 from the current fiscal year's $371,500 — will be April 11 at City Hall. The date was set Monday night by City Council.

The $100 monthly allocation increase for the Mitchell County Federation Library boosts the city's support to $1,000 annually. City support has been $150 monthly, or $1,800 annually.

Five per cent across the board pay hike for city employees was recommended by City Manager Billie K. Southern. He's not included in the pay hike. Most cases are included for Public Chief Leon Younger and City Auditor, Inspector J. A. Butler Jr.

Knock Out Barricades To Progress, Delegates Told

Denton President Keynote Speaker

By KAY GRESHAM
Record Women's Editor

State president of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs declared here Thursday "never before has there been so much to be done" by women citizens.

Mrs. Ben Boyd of Denton outlined the limitless horizon in a keynote address for the opening session of the Texas Federation's 6th District Convention.

More than 200 women, early arrivals here for the 2-day meeting, heard their state president at 4 p. m. in Civic House shortly after the convention officially opened under the gavel of Mrs. Richard Moseley of Rochelle, 6th District president.

This never before so big a job doesn't ignore woman's special mission — the family and home, Mrs. Boyd emphasized.

But it stretches in modern society from the home, throughout the community and the world.

"If WOMAN has a special mission on this earth," the state president stated, "it is to do battle, continuously and evermore, with any power or influence which threatens the family in its home."

"But women must be aware of the fact that the cause of civic betterment commands with impelling and increasing force a more substantial contribution to leadership in community affairs."

"Club women, compromising the organized womanhood in the community, must in greater part furnish that leadership if maximum results are to be obtained. The areas of work and opportunities for improvement are unlimited."

"May each remind herself that this is my community," Mrs. Boyd urged, "that its people, that its problems are my problems and that its destiny is my goal."

THE STATE president pointed out five immediate areas of concern where woman can concentrate their attention and efforts in the role that requires more versatility than anytime in history:

1. Protecting and improving public health — "of paramount importance." Federal and state funds are available to supplement local funds for the establishment of city-county health units, but many of our cities and counties are

Peculiarities of Presidential Election Told to Study Club

Probably less than 1 person out of a thousand knows the real procedure for electing a president of the U. S.

That's what Mrs. John Worrell told the Hesperian Daughters Study Club Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Ace McShan.

And, just to prove her point, Mrs. Worrell related a score of little known facts and peculiarities of the huge election machinery which this year will again name a new resident of the White House.

The election procedure, in the first place, is not the same in all states, she explained. For the constitution of the U. S. provides that legislators of the states shall provide for the appointment of presidential electors.

The methods devised by the states are by no means uniform. Some states, as does Texas, use the convention method of appointing presidential electors.

But others, Mrs. Worrell pointed out, use the primary election system and still others, use both the convention and primary election methods.

One of the little known facts of the Texas system, she said, is that there is no Texas statute setting out how the presidential electors are to be nominated—whether by convention method or primary method. It apparently is a custom.

"The convention method has been followed in Texas for years," Mrs. Worrell said, "without specific statutory authority to do so."

Rival inter-party factions of Democrats went into court in 1944 in an effort to have their names placed on the primary election ballot.

"But the Supreme Court held," Mrs. Worrell reported, "that without statutory authority directing different procedure, the action of the State Democratic Committee would be upheld in its customary procedure."

"Since that decision the law in Texas is that the State Convention of the political party holding the election has the right to nominate its candidates for presidential electors."

Mrs. Worrell stated that another interesting thing to note in connection with the election of the president is that a candidate may get a majority of the popular vote and yet fail to be elected president or vice president, or both, as the case may be.

She stated that an illustration of this situation would be if 60,000,000 votes were cast in a presidential election with 10,000,000 cast in the State of New York and 7,000,000 of the N. Y. votes for the Republican candidates and 3,000,000 for the Democratic candidates while in each of the other states the Democratic candidate receives a majority of 1 vote.

She explained that this would result in the Democratic candidate being elected over the Republican candidate who would have received almost 7,000,000 more votes than the Democratic candidate.

Mrs. Laurence Rudd explained that we have different instances of women influences being felt in the progress of humanity since the beginning of time, as she discussed the topic—"Is There A Woman Vote?"

"The vote, as we know it today, has not always been a woman's privilege, but in the family unit, her position as the mother has been a determining factor," she said.

The speaker said that in our own country the long parade of effort for the right of women to "cast her vote at the polls" began in 1884 in Seneca Falls, N. Y.

"For 40 years now, women have had the right to vote, but only lately have they plunged into politics with telephone calling, doorbell pushing and intensive study of the issues at stake," she stated.

Mrs. Rudd said that due to their family-centered interest, women are more closely tied to men than to other women and, therefore, are not bound to vote as a women's bloc.

Mrs. Rudd said that women are today, and probably will remain, the largest unorganized group in the political structure.

"Women see government as a means of getting things done, as a means of producing needed services or for regulating abuses of power," she said.

"Age has a great deal to do with the way women vote," she said.

The speaker stated that by far the most interesting group of women who go to the polls is young married women between 21 and 35 for they live in suburbia, have one or more children, low-to-moderate incomes and husbands whose working day is lengthened by commuting time.

"This group, she said, is growing steadily in numbers and it knows how and why it intends to vote.

"Perhaps 90% will vote as their husbands do, but not because their husbands told them too," she stated.

She explained that if anything, wives may well be the decisive influence, because these women have a political education in running the community through their day-to-day tasks.

Mrs. Rudd was presenting this topic which was prepared by Mrs. A. L. Geer who was unable to attend.

Attending were Mrs. Charles Arledge, Mrs. Don Albright, Mrs. Warren Costin, Mrs. Frank Ginzle, Mrs. E. V. Grantland, Mrs. Lester Mannering, Mrs. Elmer Martin, Mrs. Rudd, Mrs. J. F. Selcraig, Mrs. Worrell, Mrs. Steele McKinney and Mrs. Henry Doss.

Mrs. Thompson Tells Club The Great Need for Nurses

The need for nursing is as old as pain itself but the profession of modern nursing is very young. Mrs. C. C. Thompson told members of the Hesperian Study Club Friday in the home of Mrs. Edgar Mallers.

The first schools for nurses in this country were opened less than 100 years ago, in 1873.

She stated that few people realize how enormous have been the changes in the education, income and working conditions of nurses in each decade since.

Mrs. Thompson said that nurses formerly lived under rigid restriction and had very little time to themselves before earning their diplomas but today colleges and universities are offering degrees in nursing without these rigid restrictions.

In 1901, the institution, now officially designated as the Texas Woman's University, was expressly and unqualifiedly gave the governing board of things, instructor in "Trained nursing and caring for the sick."

She stated that no other state supported institution of higher learning in Texas has these two responsibilities specified in its original charter.

"Realizing the limitations of its earlier efforts in nursing, the governing board of things, instructor in "Trained nursing and caring for the sick."

and recognizing the urgency of its responsibility to help meet the critical national shortage of professional nurses, Texas Women's University availed itself of an unusual opportunity which was developing in the area," she said.

Mrs. Thompson said that what is now the Dallas County Hospital district was, then, in the process of constructing a new 11 million dollar general hospital designed as a teaching hospital.

Under the terms of an agreement, she said, with the Hospital District, TWU was able to plan for the establishment of a superior nursing program in which students would receive all clinical experience within the hospital of one community system.

"Historically and traditionally professional nurses have been prepared in hospital diploma programs," she related to the group.

She said that about 80% of the students are currently enrolled in such programs today and she explained that we need these diploma programs.

"We need to prepare, in increasingly larger numbers of nurses in the 1-year vocational schools and the hospital programs and in addition to these 2 levels we also need to prepare a markedly increased number of nurses in our basic collegiate programs," the speaker pointed out.

Mrs. Thompson stated that each district in Texas has been asked to contribute at least 1 thousand dollars each year of this administration to the scholarship fund which will be used to help alleviate a shortage of nurses and to assist young women who could not otherwise take advantage of the program that is now available to them through professional nursing.

IN BASEBALL SEASON OPENER

Wolves Meet Brownfield On Wolf Field Friday

By DON BANTA
Record Staff Writer

High school baseball gets underway here tomorrow at 4:00 p. m. when C-City meets Brownfield on the local team's field, just north of Wolf stadium.

Like C-City, Brownfield is relatively new to high school baseball, this being the first year they have had a team. And like Colorado City, Brownfield is short on practice, a result of unfair weather.

Catching for C-City will be Jim Palmer, a junior who has had experience in the summer baseball program at Silver.

Mike Andrews, a sophomore who has extensive experience in Little Pony and Teenage leagues will occupy first base.

At second will be Steve Smith, a returning member of last year's team. A senior, Smith has played in all the leagues and won honorable mention last year as second baseman on the All-District 3-AAA team.

According to Coach Ken Kearns, Smith is 1 of the team's best looking prospects and he feels Smith will be among the district's top players again this year.

Smith's record also shows that he was a good hitter last season.

Another returner who was given honorable mention on last year's all-district team is Don Vest, a junior who will be a shortstop and is expected to produce scoring power with his bat. He won 2 honorable mentions on the all-district team, 1 for shortstop and the other for 3rd baseman.

Playing at third base will be Shorty Thomason, a senior with a strong throwing arm. Thomason was edged out of third base position on last year's all-district team by 1 point.

At the mound will be sophomore, Steve Hillhouse.

A lefty, Hillhouse pitched 3 no-hit games last season in teenage league. He also handed Wallace All-stars their only defeat of last season.

Later, pitching for Wallace, Hillhouse defeated a Snyder team which lost no other games all season. Rotan felt his power too as 1 of their 2 lost games of the season went to him.

Pitcher for Brownfield will probably be 1 of 3 players, Jimmy Hackney and Keith Davis, both juniors and Teddy Howell, a freshman.

Brownfield's offensive will depend on 3 players who performed well last season on in Lamesa.

the American Legion teams. Don Simmons, one of the 3 will be at second base but the other 2 may be placed in several different positions.

Richard Collins, the trio's second member will probably serve as shortstop but may be switched to the outfield.

Third member of the trio is Chuck Anderson, a first baseman who may also be on the mound at times.

Kearns points out that while C-City does have Hillhouse, one of its main weaknesses will be lack of a powerful pitching staff.

Hillhouse is good but he will be meeting boys who are 1 to 2 years older than he is since he is a sophomore.

To even the age difference however, Hillhouse was chosen last year by sportswriters as one of the top baseball talents in Texas high schools.

One of last year's regular starters, Ronnie Bassinger will not be in action Friday or for the first few games of the season.

Kearns reports that he hopes Bassinger, who was injured in a recent automobile accident will be ready to play before district competition starts.

Non-district games for the local team include 2 each with Brownfield, Andrews, Roby, Rotan and Aspermont. Dates for these games have not been set.

District play starts April 9 when C-City meets Lamesa.

IN CANYON REEF RELAYS

McKay Places 1st in High Jump

Jerry McKay was at his high-jumping best Saturday as he leaped 6 feet, 2 inches to capture the number 1 spot in high jump competition at Canyon Reef relays in Snyder.

Just behind McKay was Terry Carpenter of Clovis, N. M. who jumped an even 6 feet. A third high jumper, Max Gatlin of Tom S. Lubbock jumped 5-10 and 2 others, Sherrill Miller and Ted Teegarden tied for low spot by jumping 5-9.

McKay also scored in the broad jump where he was fourth with a 19-11 jump. Winner of high jump competition was Marshall McCrummen, Lubbock Monterey who jumped 21-1. Between McCrummen and McKay were Jimmy Maroney of Snyder, 20-10½ and Buddy Rawis of Pampa, 20-10.

Overall score for the local team was 6, which put them in 9th place following Midland, Snyder, Big Spring, Tom S. Lubbock, San Angelo, Monterey, Permian and Clovis.

Midland, winner of the meet had a 37½ score, barely edging Snyder which had 37. Snyder led until the day's final event started. As the final event, mile relay, started Snyder had 37-points and Midland had 28½.

Midland won the mile relay and pushed aside Snyder who did not place in that event.

Big Spring counted 26 points to hold down third place and Tom S. Lubbock had 18 to finish fourth.

San Angelo finished fifth with 16½ points and Lubbock Monterey was sixth with 16 points. Odessa finished seventh with 15 points and Clovis, N. M. was in eighth place with 9.

Colorado City, as mentioned before won ninth place with a score of 6.

Following C-City were Borger, 5½; Odessa, 5; Pampa, 3½; Brownfield, 3; and Plainview, 1.

Five teams did not score. They were, Sweetwater, Lake View, Lamesa, Levelland and Littlefield.

It's Good As The Magic Wears Off

One of the fine aspects of the new preparation program starting within Colorado City Industrial Team Inc. is the education. The fact it is something of a by-product from the project doesn't diminish its value a bit.

This education will come with knowledge gained by Team workers that any serious effort for industrial development is highly competitive and must have studios, energetic and continuous planning in every phase of business, economic and community.

By its own process of study and data, the preparation program extends this educational program into another important area—first hand knowledge of our own community, our own strong points, mediocrities and weaknesses.

Industry is almost a magic word in these days of quick progress. It sounds big, looks big and has a cash register ring. Everybody is for it.

Too few of us, however, have taken the time to study and prepare for it. Too few of us have taken off our glasses and really looked at ourselves in the mirror to determine if we wanted industry enough to work for it.

And too few of us have been willing to put the harsh spotlight of unbiased appraisal upon our own community to see just how it stands as a place for business, industry and living.

This preparation and study, and planning by the Team channels into at least nine fields. And its program of self-education is certain to spill over and embrace the citizenship as a whole.

That will be a fine thing, indeed.

WASHINGTON REPORT

Farmer Initiative In New Farm Bills

By CLINTON DAVIDSON
Record Correspondent

Congress at the half-way mark for this session is pretty well agreed this week that it will not pass a general farm bill this year, despite recommendations by President Eisenhower that it do so.

Some legislators, however, are making a start toward the kind of farm legislation they hope the next Congress will consider beginning in January of next year.

Some twenty odd congressmen have introduced identical bills which, if enacted, would place primary responsibility upon farmer-elected representatives for initiating and developing new programs, commodity by commodity.

The House Agriculture Committee plans to hold hearings through the spring on bills, but not to push for a vote on them by Congress this year. The main feature is that they would permit farmers to vote in choosing the kind of legislation they want, subject to approval by Congress.

All of the bills carry the title "Family Farm Income Act of 1960." They have two primary objectives. First, to strengthen the income and security of family farms and second, to place principal responsibility for program development and financing on farmers rather than on the government.

Under this proposal Congress would make available a number of alternative program methods, or combinations of methods, which farmers would be permitted to use. Among those would be establishment of marketing quotas or goals among the states, counties and producers.

Others would include broader use of marketing agreements and orders, stabilization pools into which farmers would put their product for collective bargaining with buyers, such as the big chain stores, and compensatory payments such as those now in effect on wool and sugar.

The first step toward development of a new program would be a request by an organization of producers for conference with the Secretary of Agriculture. If the Secretary agreed that a new program was needed he would call an election in which producers of the commodity would elect a nine-man committee of producers to develop a program.

When approved by that committee the program would be submitted to the Secretary of Agriculture. If it involved expenditure of more than $20,000,000 in any one year, the Secretary would refer it to the Senate and House Agriculture Committees.

State's Proposed Amendments Dimmed by Campaign Hoopla

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

Texas politicians have been finding it hard to make hay with no sun shining.

A number of statewide candidates are stumping the state, and legislative candidates are getting invitations to speak at rallies and before special groups.

But bad weather and the unaccustomed earliness of this year's election schedule have made it harder for most to get campaigns rolling.

Legislative candidates report they are most often quizzed on whether they favor (1) a teacher pay raise and (2) a general sales tax. "Yes" to the first and "no" to the second are generally regarded as safest answers. But many old hands have misgivings, feeling that the two commitments together may put them in a hard situation come the next session.

AMENDMENTS In the hoopla of a presidential campaign year, amendments to the Texas constitution probably will get only secondary attention, though they are of vital importance to all Texans.

Four are to be voted on by the people at the general election Nov. 8. Their order on the ballot, as determined by a drawing conducted by Secretary of State Zollicoffer, will be:

1. An amendment authorizing the Legislature to create a hospital district in Lamar and Hidalgo Counties and part of Comanche County.

2. An amendment authorizing the Veterans Land Board to issue bonds at 3 1/2 per cent interest instead of the present 3 per cent maximum.

3. An amendment giving members of the Legislature annual salaries of $4,800 a year and $12 per day allowances for a 120-day session. Sessions could go no longer than 140 days.

4. An amendment authorizing the Legislature to license and regulate lenders and fix maximum rates of interest.

SCHOOL COSTS A baby boom in the fifties means soaring school bills in the sixties, as indicated by the State Board of Education's 1960-61 estimate.

Board reported that cost of Texas public school program for next year will be $365,000,000. This is an increase of some $15,000,000 over the previous year.

Reason for the rise is more children requiring more teachers, more books, more desks, etc. Total enrollment for next year is expected to be 2,254,574, an increase of more than a half million since the 1954-55 year.

Counties will have to pay $73,080,000, or 20 per cent of the $365,000,000 total cost.

VILLAGES GO BIG Twenty-one small Texas towns mushroomed into cities during the fifties.

Texas Municipal League reported 150 per cent or more increase in population in some as much as 1,617 per cent.

Twelve of the 21 big

State Capital NEWS

growers are towns near to one of Texas' three largest cities—Dallas, Houston and Fort Worth. Topping the list with runaway expansion were three Dallas County towns—Irving, up 1,617 per cent; Mesquite, up 1,323 per cent and Farmers Branch, up 1,214 per cent.

Industrialization was the key to the spectacular growth of most of the 21. In a number of cases, the coming of a single large plant started the boom rolling.

TEACHER FUND — Texas' teachers retirement fund has increased more than 35 per cent in the past decade, according to State Auditor C. H. Cavness.

Cavness reported that at the end of the last fiscal year the fund stood at $389,341,289. This is $140,000,000 more than 10 years ago.

Teachers pay 6 per cent of their earnings up to $8,100 into the fund. State matches their payments. Fund provides for a minimum of $100 per month retirement pay for teachers and $75 a month for other school employees. To make the fund grow, it is invested in municipal, state and federal bonds and certain corporate securities under supervision of a board of trustees.

ATOMIC DISPOSAL — Water pollution from atomic materials could pose a real threat to public health, fish and wildlife in Texas, said Gov. Price Daniel.

Daniel praised the Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas for their concern over a proposal made at one time to dump concrete containers of low-grade radioactive waste materials in the Gulf of Mexico.

State Health Department, said the governor, keeps a continuous check on the state's surface waters for atomic pollution from fall-out.

NEED ECONOMY — Need for the next Legislature to raise between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000 in new tax revenue has been predicted by the director of the Texas Research League.

Alvin A. Burger, head of the private organization which studies state government, said state spending will require $1,000,000,000 a year in the 1961-63 biennium.

Burger urged careful analysis of the highway, education and welfare programs which take 85 per cent of the state budget.

As a money saver, he recommended taking the cost of maintaining farm-to-market roads out of the farm road funds. At present, this money can be used only for new construction and farm road repair has to be paid out of other highway funds.

SHINNERY PHILOSOPHER

Compelling Reason Found for Profit

Editor's note: The Shinnery Flats Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Bone Hollow Creek may be putting an odd twist on a set of figures, his letter this week indicates. We never attempt to correct him.

Dear editor,

When I run out of something to do on here on this Johnson grass farm, and I can do it any time I don't feel like working, I like to amuse myself by reviewing the latest situations on the farm problem.

Last night I got an entirely new slant on the farm problem and its importance. According to an article I read in a newspaper which must have fallen out of an airplane, I don't know how else it could have gotten wedged between the forks of a tree 10 feet above the ground, that farmers' incomes have dropped 29 per cent in the last two years while their expenses have gone up five per cent.

The farmers are going bankrupt, said the governor of Nebraska, said on reading these figures.

Well, lots of farmers have been heading toward bankruptcy for years, but as long as they don't actually get there, or they get there but nobody knows it, they seem to keep plugging away.

But what interested me in this report was the reaction of another group of leaders to it.

"Our concern goes deeper than concern for farmers, for merely maintaining the family-size farm," they said. "Many small towns in this nation are dependent on the farmers. If the farmers go broke what'll happen to these towns?"

But they needn't have stopped there. Look at it this way. Not only are many small towns dependent on the farmers, but many big towns are sort of dependent on small towns, and big cities are dependent on little cities, and Washington is dependent on all of them. And come to think of it, a lot of other nations are depending on Washington.

So, if I lose money out here on this farm, it's not concern for myself that bothers me. It's an international worry.

Up to now, I figured whether I made any money or not was more or less my worry, plus my banker's, but viewed in this new light, it's clear that the entire world is depending on me to make a profit, and consequently the farmer's plight is everybody's plight.

I had no idea so much responsibility rested on me, and I will appreciate it if you'll see that Congress helps me make a profit this year. I don't ask this for myself. I'm looking at it internationally.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

SOCIOLOGIST SAYS

Zoning Laws Now Aid Rural Areas

Would rural zoning serve as an aid for more orderly plans for land use in Texas? Reagan Brown, extension rural sociologist, believes it would.

He says that forward-thinking citizens are coming more and more to believe that the town or county which leaves its future to chance and fails to conserve the basic things so vital to well-being is in for trouble.

A community, town or county which fails to plan for the future is permitting its resources and particular advantages for living, work and play to be wasted, exploited and even destroyed. Brown, in his work with the leaders of organized rural communities in all sections of Texas, says that many communities are caught in a haphazard growth pattern. Once peaceful agricultural areas have become a hodgepodge of industrial activity. Valuable farm land is being, in many areas, used where less productive soil would have served the same purpose.

Strictly Fresh

If all the cars in the country were placed end to end there would be someone who would pull out and try to pass.

When it comes to helping others these days some people will stop at nothing.

Rural residents, he adds, are finding they have no control over what use is made of land purchased in their community. City residents who have moved to the country to find peace and quiet may find a noisy mill moving in across the road.

Brown believes that no town or county need grow like "Topsy," and become a hodgepodge of conflicting land use. Rural zoning, he believes, can be a real aid for keeping development in rural areas orderly and on a high plain. Zoning, Brown points out, is well known in most cities but is relatively new in rural areas.

In 1929 Wisconsin became the first state to enact rural zoning legislation. Today about 90 per cent of all the states have passed rural zoning laws.

At present, Texas has no rural zoning law and before counties can pass their own zoning ordinances, the Texas Legislature must pass enabling legislation. But, concludes Brown, it's time to give consideration to this very important aspect of rural living.

LOCAL BUSINESS

Selling Has Same Mark as Hunting

By ROY V. FOX
Record Co-Publisher

A highly successful farm implement dealer told a meeting of his colleagues recently that selling is a lot like hunting.

"In hunting you have to find the game before you shoot. In selling you have to locate a prospect before you can make a sale," he said.

"Advertising serves the merchant in the same way that a good dog serves the hunter. The dog rovers 30 times as much area a man could cover. He covers it faster and more efficiently.

"To the hunter the dog is a necessary and inexpensive investment.

"In the farm implement business, and in most other retail lines, it would be impossible to locate more than a small portion of the prospective customers without the aid of advertising.

the dealer said.

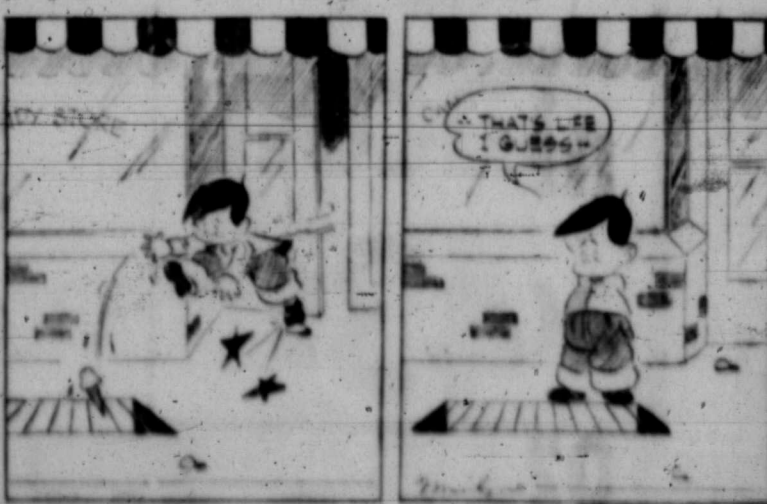

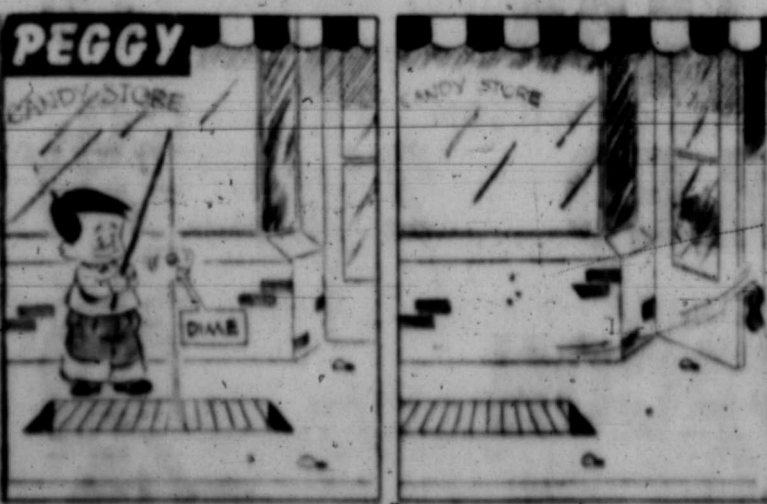

He pointed out that his newspaper advertising makes a complete survey of his trade area every week. This continuous search for new customers is basic to progressive retailing. The man who is satisfied with his old tractor today may have a breakdown and become a good prospect tomorrow.

The same problems of locating prospective customers exist in selling automobiles, homes, clothing, furniture, insurance, bank services, or any consumer commodity. Because the fortunes of people change from day to day, no limited list of prospects ever up to date.

Only the complete coverage provided by a local newspaper gives the retailer assurance that all prospective customers have been located.

Beauty

This rose is a glorious creation of God, given to be enjoyed to the fullest. Look at the symmetry and the sheer freshness of its beauty, like a pristine spring morning new from the hand of God. And have you stopped lately to look at a glowing sunset, a moment by moment panorama from His heavenly paint brush. And hush! Listen to the rhythm of life, the singing heart, the pulsing breath, the spaced step of a familiar footstep down the hall.

How wonderful God has made life. Drink in every flavor of it, and turn, give thanks to its Maker, who in this way shares His own beauty with His creation.

Is something wrong with your life—an inner restless dissatisfaction? The answer to every human problem comes only from God our Maker. He alone can forgive and reassure.
Through the church God has committed the provision and proclamation of His forgiveness and redeeming love. Without a church relation no one is securely related to God.
Everyone should be in the Church and the Church in everyone!
