Shiite says release certain

■ Officials in Iran hope the promised freeing of an American educator will lead to additional releases by other groups holding foreigners.

Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — A Shiite Moslem reputed to have influence over kidnappers holding three Americans said Friday a hostage release is certain despite delays caused by the United States' "arrogant ... cowboy" behavior.

In Iran, a newspaper close to President Hashemi Rafsanjani expressed impatience with the hostage-takers' postponement of a release. The Tehran Times said it hoped the freeing of one captive could be "the prelude to the release of one more hostage by another group."

Thousands of members of the pro-Iranian Hezbollah joined a military parade Friday through Beirut's southern slums, two blocks from where many of the 18 Western hostages are believed held.

Hezbollah is believed to be the umbrella for Shiite Moslem groups holding most of the hostages.

The Shiite Moslem cleric, Hussain Musawi, said the hostage-holders were "serious" about fulfilling their promise to release one of their captives.

"The delay is certain, the complications are certain, but the release is also certain," said Musawi, who heads Islamic Amal, a faction within Hezbollah that advocates strong links with Syria.

He spoke with The Associated Press by telephone from his headquarters in east Lebanon's ancient town of Baalbek.

Asked when he expected the release to take place, Musawi said, "That depends on how far-sighted the Americans might become. So far, their behavior is arrogant and one of cowboy mentality."

Musawi is believed to wield major influence over Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine.

The group holds Alann Steen, a native of Boston who turns 51 on Sunday; Jesse Turner, 42, of Boise, Idaho; and Robert Polhill, 55, of New York.

The three were kidnapped from the campus of the U.S.-affiliated Beirut University College on Jan. 24, 1987, by gunmen disguised as riot police.

The group said Wednesday it would free a hostage within 48 hours. But on Thursday it said Washington's refusal to dispatch a senior diplomat to Syria had postponed it "operation until the picture is cleared."

Musawi said the delay was caused by the United States' failure to send the U.S. assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern affairs, John Kelly, to Damascus.

"But Kelly's failure to respond is not going to cancel the release," Musawi said. "The hostage might be released in

Crews return

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Workers spread booms in environmentally sensitive waters on Friday, 10 days before Exxon crews return to Prince William Sound to resume cleaning up the nation's largest oil spill.

The absorbent booms were placed in waters favored by commercial fishermen and migrating sea birds, said Joe Tucker, an Exxon spokesman in Anchorage.

A ship left Seward carrying nine contract employees, an Exxon supervisor, two boom deployment specialists and observers from the Coast Guard and the state Department of Environmental Conservation, said Tucker.

Pickfair

End of an era

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Pickfair, the romantic estate where legendary movie stars Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks once reigned over Hollywood, has been demolished to build a palatial home for actress Pia Zadora.

Sounds of hammering and shouts of construction workers echoed across the hillside where "America's Sweetheart" once hosted parties for virtually all the legends of Hollywood's Golden Age as well as royalty and presidents.

Overmedicated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three physicians who treated Elizabeth Taylor overprescribed narcotics for their "demanding, famous client" but will not be criminally prosecuted, the district attorney's office said Friday.

Taylor

"It is clear that the prescribing practices of these physicians fell below the accepted standard of medical practice," Deputy District Attorney Daniel Feldstern wrote in a report.

"However, it is equally clear that these physicians, in trying to resolve the patient's medical condition, were also attempting to deal with her addiction through alternative means of therapy and treatment, and that their conduct was lacking in the requisite criminal intent," it said.

Miss Taylor was battling pneumonia at St. John's Hospital and Health Center in nearby Santa Monica. She remained in stable condition Friday, her spokeswoman, Lisa Del Favaro, said from New York.

'Low pollute commute'

Exxon employee Carl Rettenmaier, right, got a pleasant surprise when Ron Sartor, center, of the Midland Police Department pulled him over on the way to work Friday morning. Sartor and Sgt. The citations were redeemable for lunch at Murray's Delicatessen.

Midland Hilton beginning renovation

By Melia McEwen
Staff Writer

The owners of the Midland Hilton have announced a $2.2 million renovation of the 14-year-old hotel, located at 117 W. Wall Ave.

Barry Smith, general manager, said the project is designed to "bring our rooms up to the finest standards in this part of the state."

The first phase of the program includes total renovation of 240 of the hotel's 262 guest rooms. All furniture, carpet, wall coverings, lamps and art will be replaced. As Smith put it, "We're stripping the rooms to the concrete foundation and replacing everything."

The refurbished rooms will have color schemes of neutral tones, including grays and dusty browns. New oversized desks suited for business use will be installed, as will overstuffed lounge chairs and ottomans.

Also new to each room will be an "honor snack bar" located in an armoire, which will also house the remote-controlled television and clothes drawers.

"These rooms are designed for comfort, yet provide equipment the business traveler needs," he explained.

With the renovation of the guest rooms, the hotel plans to set aside two floors as "concierge areas," which will have controlled access and a special guest manager to assist with such business needs as access to a fax machine and travel arrangements. The two floors also will have their own hospitality room for complimentary continental breakfast and afternoon hors d'oeuvres.

According to Smith, the majority of guests at the local hotel are business travelers, and the Hilton conducted extensive research over the past six months to determine what business travelers want.

"Of course, we're not forgetting about our vacation travelers and week-end guests," he added.

Other renovations are to be announced in the near future, Smith said.

"The owners, who acquired the hotel in September, want the finest facility in the area, and they're committed to spending the money necessary to bring the hotel standards up."

Church won't bar 5-year-old boy with AIDS

■ Chicago's Moody Church responds to uproar by reversing its decision to keep the AIDS-stricken foster son of parishioners out of Sunday school classes.

CHICAGO (AP) — A church barred a 5-year-old boy with AIDS from Sunday school, then reversed itself Friday after an uproar.

"We love (him) and we want (him) back in our Sunday school and (he) will be back in our Sunday school," the Rev. Erwin Lutzer, senior pastor of the Moody Church, said at a hastily called news conference.

But Lutzer said other parents would be notified that a child with AIDS would be attending Bible class, "and they will have the freedom to keep their children from Sunday school."

"Our position and our concerns have not changed," Lutzer said. "We have decided to shift the burden of responsibility from us as a church."

The church had drawn fire when its decision to bar the boy became public, a few weeks after the death of young AIDS victim Ryan White.

"I'm pleased that they reversed themselves. ... I don't feel any bitterness," the Chicago boy's foster mother, Terry Rucker, said in a telephone interview Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Rucker said she had not decided whether to return to the church on Sunday. "I have made no plans to go elsewhere," she added.

On Thursday, Mrs. Rucker had said the church officials' initial decision stemmed "from fear and ignorance."

Before announcing the reversal, the pastor said the 65-year-old church had decided to bar the boy "to give us time to think it through."

His secretary, Evelyn Rankin, said officials of the non-denominational evangelical church acted out of concern over how AIDS is spread and fear it could be passed on through saliva.

There has never been a documented U.S. case in which AIDS, which cripples

Lithuanian embargo expands to food, parts

■ Moscow continues its economic sanctions in a thus-far unsuccessful attempt to end Lithuania's 5-week-old drive for independence.

Associated Press

VILNIUS, U.S.S.R. — Moscow on Friday expanded its energy embargo on Lithuania to include certain shipments of food, metal and industrial parts in its continuing effort to crush the republic's independence drive, Lithuanians said.

Dozens of Soviet soldiers also stormed a printing plant and beat civilian guards and a local legislator Friday, witnesses said.

The Kremlin "is seeking to stop the plants, put the workers on the streets, and encourage social unrest," Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis charged at a news conference Friday night.

Thus far in the 5-week-old standoff, no such unrest has occurred.

Despite military and economic pressure, Lithuanians have refused to back off their March 11 declaration of independence from the Soviet Union, as demanded by Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, and have solicited Western material and political support.

"I'll have to sacrifice," said Aviea Kishnevskaya, a Jewish mother in her 30s interviewed in Vilnius, the capital. She said that requiring her 7-year-old daughter to share those sacrifices will be the hardest part. The city was calm Friday, and traffic was quieter than usual.

Vilnius radio said the Presidium of the Lithuanian parliament messaged Gorbachev reiterating Lithuania's readiness to negotiate with Moscow.

It said Landbergis disclosed details Friday night and quoted the message as reading in part, "All countries big and small ... can and must find a solution worthy of civilized societies to any complication if these countries are guided by the principles of humanity. And it is only political dialogue that must underlie the search for the wisest solution."

The message also said, "We have no doubt that brutal assault and battery of ordinary people, like the one ... launched by units of the Soviet armed forces in Vilnius today, will call forth your condemnation and that those guilty ... will be punished accordingly."

"If somebody authorized by Moscow to negotiate presented us with a package of proposals including this, we could have a discussion," The New York Times' Saturday editions quoted him as saying in a telephone interview.

In Birmingham, Ala., where President Bush spoke at a political rally, spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the White House is "increasingly concerned" by reports of the Soviet economic crackdown on Lithuania and that Bush will be ready to brief Congress early next week on possible retaliation.

Former aide says Reagan plans trip to Soviet Union this year

Hearst News Service

WASHINGTON – Former President Ronald Reagan is planning to visit the Soviet Union "probably in the late summer," making his first trip there since the June 1988 Moscow summit, a former senior White House official in the Reagan administration has disclosed.

The former Reagan aide, speaking on condition he not be identified, quoted Reagan as saying at a recent private lunch that he plans to visit the Soviet Union before the end of the year, "probably in the late summer," and plans to visit one or more nations in Eastern Europe on the same trip.

"They're talking about dates," the former aide said.

Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev and Reagan have exchanged letters since Reagan left the White House, and Gorbachev extended "a firm invitation" in January for Reagan to visit him in Moscow, according to the former aide.

That invitation was renewed in March when Reagan sent a note of congratulations to Gorbachev on his election as president of the Soviet Union.

Mark Weinberg, a spokesman for Reagan, confirmed that the former president and his wife Nancy recently had received an invitation from Gorbachev but cautioned that no formal acceptance has been sent by the Reagans.

"The Reagans hope to be able to accept the Gorbachev's invitation but no time has yet been identified," said Weinberg.

Weinberg said Reagan, who was 79 on February 6, also has invited Gorbachev to visit him in California.

"There have been continuing communications. The invitations to exchange visits has been a part of those communications," the spokesman added.

A Reagan aide said the issue of the trip is very sensitive because Reagan does not want to appear to be upstaging President Bush before the May 30-June 4 summit here. Reagan hopes to personally inform Gorbachev of his plans when they meet during the upcoming Washington summit.

The former aide said Reagan would like to visit Berlin and give a speech at the wall to commemorate democratization in Eastern Europe and the tearing down of the Berlin Wall.

"Having seen the exchange of correspondence and knowing basically what's up with this thing, I'm sure the Reagans said, 'We couldn't possibly do it before late summer," Weinberg said.

Bag Lady wants trash picked up

AQUILLA, Texas (AP) — Several youngsters among the fidgety cargo of a lumbering school bus lean to glimpse the woman in tattered clothing.

She is puttering once again along the shoulder of the road with her garbage sack, hunching over it occasionally to stuff it with throwaways.

Philip King, having had enough, punches the disrespectful boy.

Later his father, Claude King, watched approvingly as Philip recounted his story.

"You defend your mother," he reminded.

Philip, 13, admits to being embarrassed occasionally by peer reaction to his mother's vigil. But on any given non-school day, he might be right out alongside 59-year-old Nadine King helping her do her part — as well as many other people's parts — to keep her world clean.

The former Marine staff sergeant says that since her military family moved to Texas in January, she has collected 300 bags of garbage on county roads within three miles of their home.

Despite the state highway department's high-profile anti-littering campaigns, too many Texans just don't respect their ecology, the New York native complains.

She bemoans traveling litterers in letters to the Tribune-Herald editor, in which she calls herself "The Bag Lady of Aquilla." She thinks a lot of people hate her because she's a Yankee telling Texans what to do.

"People here just don't know what they're doing to the environment," said Mrs. King, who has seen much worse during her military travels in the Orient with her husband, a retired Marine captain.

"I don't want that to happen in my little world right here. I want to make this next generation aware that if they don't do something, they are going to be wallowing around in five feet of trash."

Aquilla school officials plan to let Mrs. King air her message to a school awards banquet audience on May 21. Superintendent Nancy McNeal, who lives next door to the Kings, suggested the banquet after deciding to refuse her request to speak at graduation ceremonies.

"I told her it might not be an appropriate time for someone like that to speak," Ms. McNeal said. "It's a pretty formal occasion."

As for keeping their neighborhood and streets clean, Ms. McNeal is all for it.

"I think it's great," she said. "There are a lot of people who think it's a little strange. But if everyone took an interest like she does, then there wouldn't be a need for someone like her to go up and down the roads."

Mrs. King gets attention as she trudges roadside, toting a sack in one hand and a forked garden hoe in the other. She uses the long-handled hoe to keep from exposing her hands to "Mr. Snake."

Passersby are long on greetings and short on stooping.

"Several people have stopped to thank me," she said at her home, shortly before setting out in her 12-year-old green Mercedes on another trash run. "Some wanted to shake my hand. But no one — I mean absolutely no one — has stopped and offered to help."

She salutes the upcoming 20th anniversary of Earth Day on Sunday. The day was founded April 22, 1970, to focus attention on the environment. She was in California then, hoping the movement would clean up the world much quicker than things are turning out.

First-graders pull for their teacher

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Two Orlando schools, including some worried first-graders, are trying to raise $100,000 so cancer-stricken teacher Melody Burton can receive needed treatment.

Officials at M.D. Anderson Cancer Center in Houston, where she would receive the bone-marrow transplant, told her last week that treatment cannot begin without insurance or advance payment.

"The doctor told me that I definitely needed the procedure or I would die and to go home and come back with $100,000," said Mrs. Burton.

WEST TEXAS IN BRIEF

Man's condition remains critical

Staff Report

Tommy Withers, 39, remained in serious but stable condition Friday night in Midland Memorial Hospital after suffering carbon monoxide poisoning Thursday afternoon, hospital officials said.

Withers was found with Thomas Alan Hildreth, 40, who died Thursday, in their home at 5904 S. Rankin Highway after a faulty house furnace caused the two to become overcome by carbon monoxide, Deputy Sheriff Jerry Cowin said. The men were discovered by Hildreth's sister about 3:30 p.m.

According to Cowin, the two men, who were recently retired from the military, had just bought the house and were starting a business together.

Withers is expected to remain in the hospital for several days, hospital officials said.

A similar incident occurred Thursday when a man and three children on the 1200 block of Jack Street suffered from carbon monoxide poisoning also determined to be the result of a faulty furnace, Midland Fire Department officials said. All were treated at Midland Memorial Hospital and released.

Fire department officials said such incidents are not uncommon.

Autopsies awaited

BIG SPRING — Authorities were still awaiting results of an autopsy in the deaths of a local couple, one of whom was shot.

Howard County Sheriff's Department had no new leads to report, nor had they taken in any suspects in connection with the killings of Lloyd and Jean Davidson.

Deputies were summoned to the Davidson residence Thursday morning by a relative who discovered their bodies inside their mobile home.

Davidson's body was found on the floor of the livingroom and his wife in the bedroom.

Authorities later recovered the couple's stolen car at Scenic Mountain Hospital, just a few miles from Interstate 20 Mobile Home Park. The couple owned and managed the park.

Authorities have been tight-lipped concerning details about the case, except to say the couple died violently.

A series of reports entitled "A Decade in Review," produced by Holcomb and Neighbors, won best news series.

Odessa firm fined

AUSTIN — The Texas Air Control Board on Friday approved a $500 fine against U.S. Chaparral Water Systems Inc. of Odessa for an alleged violation of the Texas Clean Air Act.

A tank battery at West 42nd Street and Cypress Road in Odessa was cited for building and operating the plant without a permit and without qualifying for a standard exemption.

After the notice of the violation, the company submitted an application for a permit.

The Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau contributed to this report.

AIDS: Church reverses its ban of boy

the body's defenses against disease, was spread through saliva, said Charles Fallis, a spokesman for the federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta.

"We are well aware of Ryan White and the implication of his death," Lutzer told reporters Friday.

White, who had been barred from his school near Kokomo, Ind., after he contracted AIDS through a blood transfusion, died April 8 at age 18. He had fought a long and public battle aimed at increasing understanding of the disease.

"We thought with Ryan White, all that had been settled," Walt Rucker said of his foster son. Rucker asked that the child's name be kept private.

"That's just crazy," agreed Carrie Van Dyke, a friend and spokeswoman for White's family in Indianapolis. "Where is their humanity to fellow man?

"I would think that they would be a little more introspective about what they're doing."

The boy was born with the AIDS virus, said David Schneidman, a spokesman for the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services. The agency removed the boy from his mother, who has AIDS, out of concern she could no longer care for him, Schneidman said.

The Ruckers took the boy in two months ago. Mrs. Rucker confirmed that he has contracted AIDS from the virus.

another manner, maybe dialogue. I cannot speculate further. I can't lie."

"If someone decides to return a hostage, the other side is supposed to come and take the hostage," Musawi said.

The White House on Friday called the terrorist demands "a smokescreen" and part of "troublesome patterns that we've seen before."

"They do it every time," presidential press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said when asked if the kidnappers were toying with the United States.

"Syria still believes there's a possibility of release. We'll just have to wait and see if they're sincere and hope that they are," he said.

Kelly, who had been at a meeting of U.S. diplomats in West Germany, flew back to the United States on Friday. The U.S. ambassador to Syria, Edward Djerejian, returned to Damascus.

Iran's English-language Tehran Times said the kidnappers should consider Djerejian's presence "good enough to conduct the arrangements for the release of the hostage."

Indonesia fights rattan smugglers

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Don't put your nest egg into rattan baskets and try to ship them out of the country. You might be arrested for smuggling.

Not only that. When the problem first appeared, Attorney General Sukarton Marmosudjono said: "I may have to use the subversion law and threaten smugglers with the death penalty."

Three shipping containers filled with loosely woven baskets were impounded recently. Their owners, not identified, were accused of trying to sneak raw rattan out of Indonesia in the form of finished goods, which can be exported legally.

Officials said the baskets were to be dismantled in another country and the rattan crafted into more valuable products.

A government prosecutor demanded life in prison and a fine of 30 million rupiahs ($16,593) for H.W. Ng, who was charged with illegally exporting almost 2,000 tons of raw rattan to Hong Kong and Taiwan.

Ng fled Indonesia before the court delivered the sentence demanded by the prosecution.

Indonesian jungles produce more than 80 percent of the world's rattan. Vines of the long, flexible wood, which grows wild, once were exported in huge quantities to be made into wicker furniture, baskets and other items.

Wicker is a catchall term for items woven of rattan, reed, cane, dried grasses and other flexible materials, even twisted paper. Rattan, willow and bamboo are the most popular natural fibers, according to industry sources in Jakarta.

After timber, rattan is the most important forest product in Southeast Asia. Despite its near-monopoly, Indonesia made relatively little money from rattan because it exported only the low-value raw material, not such finished products as furniture.

Foreign manufacturers, most of them in Taiwan, Hong Kong and China, made the real profits.

To change that, the government imposed a ban in late 1986 on the export of raw rattan. A later decree specified that semi-processed vines and cane- webbing could leave the country only in the form of furniture or other finished products.

The Philippines banned raw rattan exports in 1977, Thailand in March 1977 and Peninsular Malaysia last year.

Indonesia's purpose was to develop manufacturing industries that would make rattan furniture and create jobs.

Similar methods were used to force the growth of a domestic plywood industry. After a ban was imposed on the export of uncut hardwood logs in 1985, Indonesia became the world's leading source of plywood.

"We are the world's biggest exporter of plywood, and in the near future it is hoped that this will be followed by the export of finished goods made of rattan, which is a natural resource possessed by few other countries," President Suharto said.

Criticism of the ban came from the European Community, United States and others. They pointed out that Indonesia was a member of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, which discourages non-tariff barriers.

Indonesia exported about 70,000 tons of raw rattan annually before the ban. It brought in $63 million in 1985 and exports of semi-finished rattan brought total earnings to $86 million.

Delegates to the second national congress of Solidarity raise cards to vote in favor of Lech Walesa's leadership of the union.

Solidarity backs Walesa leadership

By Deborah G. Seward

GDANSK, Poland (AP) — Lech Walesa won an overwhelming vote of confidence from Solidarity's second national congress Friday after delivering an impassioned defense of his 10 years as union leader.

"I am not the wisest guy, but we are wise because we now have a democracy," Walesa said.

Delegates responded by voting 357-1 in favor of a report on the leadership of Walesa and the union movement's National Commission since 1981. There were 22 abstentions.

His name was later submitted to a union commission for re-election, aides to Walesa said.

Members of the election commission said several other names had been submitted, but they declined to provide details. Some have accused Walesa of undemocratic rule.

Apart from the election of its leadership, the trade union movement also was expected to try to clarify its union and political roles in post-Communist Poland.

Walesa's re-election appeared virtually certain.

"Walesa will guarantee that the union will not fall apart," said Ryszard Musielak, a delegate from the central city of Torun.

"It is very important that we passed this vote of confidence because it shows there are no serious objections to Walesa's activities among the delegates," said Antoni Bielewicz of the Warsaw region.

Later, the congress rejected a motion to create a vice chairman who would take over if the chairman assumed other duties. But the post still could be introduced if union statutes were changed.

Last week, Walesa raised the possibility of running for president.

Walesa's address came on the second day of Solidarity's six-day congress, the second one it has held.

Since the first congress in 1981, the movement has survived martial law, negotiated an end to Communist dominance, and won elections to take control of the government.

Ortega prepares to lead opposition

By Mary Jo McConahay
Hearst News Service

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — With just days to go before President-elect Violeta Barrios de Chamorro's inauguration, the broad outlines of the opposition she will face are far more clear than the kind of government she will head.

As Chamorro struggles to formulate a program for this exhausted, bankrupt nation, the foe she beat so roundly in February's election, outgoing President Daniel Ortega, has emerged from the tense transition period with his reputation enhanced.

Ironically, Ortega never seemed as presidential as he has in the last two months, making concessions at regional summits while still appearing to get his own way and conceding defeat to Chamorro in a dignified manner that nevertheless left no one believing he is about to disappear.

While Chamorro has yet to persuade many Nicaraguans that she can ride herd on her 14-party National Opposition Union (UNO), Ortega remains the undisputed leader of the Sandinista National Liberation Front (FSLN), which garnered 40 percent of the presidential vote and will be the largest opposition bloc in the next National Assembly.

Chamorro will have formidable allies in her struggle, including the United States, private business and Cardinal Miguel Obando y Bravo, an important force in this Roman Catholic country.

Nevertheless, as political analyst Xavier Gorostiaga said: "The question now is to what point can UNO govern the country? The Sandinistas after all hold the power to paralyze the state."

The Sandinistas say that while they do not intend to be unnecessarily obstructive, they are not prepared to concede any of the institutional changes — land reform and the rights to strike and organize, for instance — achieved since the fall of the 50-year Somoza dictatorship in 1979.

In addition to the FSLN, and perhaps ultimately more nettlesome to Chamorro, are a range of organizations planning to challenge the new president and her conservative allies in the National Assembly in several areas.

"We are going to fight against the probable intent of UNO to privatize state factories, and insist on the civil service law that says no employee of the state can be fired," said Ronaldo Membreno, a leader of one of the country's largest labor organizations, the Sandinista Workers Central.

The labor group is not connected with the FSLN, but can be expected to back it in attacking elements of the Chamorro recovery plan.

Across town at the headquarters of the Sandinista Youth Organization, which counts some 50,000 members, founder Noe Irias, 27, emphasizes independence from the FSLN. But he acknowledges that the group is intent on preventing a roll-back of the "conquests" of the Sandinista revolution: the vote at age 16, free public transportation for students and between 8,000 and 9,000 scholarships abroad every year for students from poor families.

A well-organized movement with a wide reach in the country, its own ideological training school and its own sources of income — 85 percent of funds come from its sound-system, disco and auditorium rental businesses — the Sandinista Youth Organization can potentially generate formidable political muscle in a country where 75 percent of the population is under 30.

Indeed, one special concern of the group, education, may be a critical one.

Cardinal Obando y Bravo, who has Chamorro's ear on the issue, favors a more conservative curriculum and reportedly is pushing for like-minded people to be appointed to important Education Ministry posts.

Additionally, Chamorro will face considerable opposition if she attempts to privatize schools or make them pay their way, which some observers are expecting.

At the the University of Central America, a Jesuit institution where students now pay $2 a year, officials are concerned that a cut in government subsidies will push fees as high as $300. A secretary at the institution makes about $35 a month.

"If change is brusque, resistance will be very strong," said Ricardo Bendana, director of the campus pastoral center.

The women's movement in Nicaragua, largely financed by organizations in the United States and Europe, also is expected to add its voice to the opposition.

"We expect a fight over the work code, and over the need to establish penalties in rape and child abuse cases, which don't exist now," said Lourdes Ulloa, a single mother active in the movement.

"Now those same conservatives are running the government, but we won't go backward," she said.

Familiarity breeds invention of lock

SEAGOVILLE, Texas (AP) — A prisoner says he has invented a device that will prevent the crime that put him behind bars.

"It has kept me very busy," said Joe Walker, 34. "I've worked on this 18 hours a day. I probably never would have done it if I hadn't been arrested. I never would have had the time. Right now, all I've got is time."

Walker is serving a six-year term in federal prison for interstate transportation of stolen property, part of what he calls his "past minor indiscretions."

Walker and engineer Tim Jensen say they have a patent pending on The Trailer Guard, which they say will stop the theft of truck trailers.

Walker said the Trailer Guard makes it impossible for anyone to connect a truck's "fifth wheel" — the coupling on the rear of the tractor — to the trailer's kingpin and haul off the parked trailer.

"I had called several engineers, but as soon as I told them where I was calling from they said, 'Sorry, can't help you,'" Walker said.

Cherokee Nation tribe thrives as contractor

Hearst News Service

STILWELL, Okla. – The nondescript collection of buildings on the outskirts of town is deceptively like any other small business in small-town America, struggling to make a go of it.

That is where the similarity ends.

Inside is an award-winning, minority-owned business that is a valued supplier to two of the nation's giant defense contractors and an important example of self-sufficiency.

Cherokee Nation Industries Inc. is wholly owned by the Cherokee Nation of Oklahoma and is one of the very few Native American companies competing on a national level.

It does about $25 million in business each year, primarily building wiring harnesses for multiple launch rocket systems built by LTV Missiles and Electronics Group and for the M1 tank built by General Dynamics Land Systems Division.

While the LTV contracts seem secure, proposed defense budget cutbacks that include the cancellation of the M1 program could mean a loss to CNI of more than 40 percent of its 250 employees who work exclusively on the M1.

CNI management is confident it can pick up enough new business to compensate for the possible loss of the M1 contract, but if it doesn't, the loss will be measured by more than jobs and dollars.

All profits the company makes are plowed back into the Cherokee Nation of Oklahoma to help provide essential services to its 102,731 people.

It was started in 1969 by W.W. Keeler, chief of the Cherokees. He also happened to be chairman of the board of Phillips Petroleum, a fact that the current managers acknowledge didn't hurt the fledgling business.

"Back in 1969, Adair County was one of the five counties with highest unemployment in the nation," said CNI vice-president for marketing Phillip D. Wiltfong. "Because of his (Keeler's) position, he was looking for some way of putting some small company over here in this county to try to be a seed for a company to develop and grow from."

And grow it did, with a little help from Keeler's contacts at Western Electric, RCA and IBM. The company has received numerous awards for excellence from the federal government and from company contractors.

"By about 1972 or 1973, the company, with that assistance, had gotten to the point where it was an ongoing operation, successful but small, and they had made their own investments," Wiltfong said.

Deer becomes dear to deer dog

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — Dog may be man's best friend, but sometimes dogs choose other creatures dear — or deer, as the case may be.

Richard Faulkner's yellow Labrador, Jake, has taken up with a chummy young buck that showed up in Faulkner's wooded back yard a couple of weeks ago, looking hungry and lost.

Jake, a frisky 3-year-old, made the deer feel at home, sharing his water bucket and trying to entice the woodland animal into games.

Court to decide where cub lives

BARSTOW, Calif. (AP) — Coconino, an abandoned bear cub, has inspired a legal custody battle between the veterinarian who nursed her back to health and officials who want to return her to the wild.

Superior Court Judge Rufus L. Yent this week delayed a decision on whether veterinarian Kent Walker may keep the 4-month-old, female black bear cub or must hand it over to state Department of Fish and Game officials.

Walker, a Big Bear Lake veterinarian, says Coconino has become too tame and accustomed to people to survive alone in the forest.

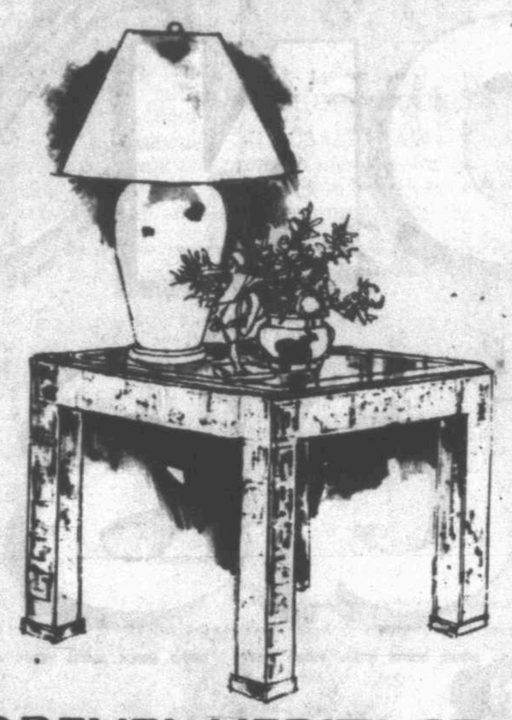

Local residents fell in love with the foundling and worked to build support for Walker, who wants to keep the 9-pound cub in a wooded, one-acre enclosure as an educational attraction.

But wildlife officials argue the cub should be sent to a wildlife rehabilitation center and ultimately returned to the forest.

Deputy State Attorney General Charles Post argued this week that allowing Walker to keep Coconino would set a dangerous precedent.

"It sends a message that what you do if you are smitten by a wild animal and want to keep it is hold on to it for awhile, make a fuss and then claim it has been tamed," Post said.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Coptic church in Cairo attacked

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Attackers threw explosives at a Coptic Orthodox church in a southern village, killing a sergeant and injuring two other police guards, a security officer and the Middle East News Agency said Friday.

The slaying Thursday was the first in a series of attacks — most blamed on Moslem extremists — on churches and Christian-owned property in southern Egypt. The attacks have raised fears of increasing intolerance toward Christians in the Moslem-dominated nation.

The attack occurred at dusk, when Moslems traditionally break daylong fasts during the holy month of Ramadan, which ends next week, said the Al-Akhbar newspaper in Cairo.

No extradition set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department said Friday it has no plans to return to Mexico a doctor accused of participating in the murder of a U.S. drug agent even if his capture violated Mexican sovereignty.

Justice Department spokesman David Runkel said he "did not foresee any circumstances" under which Dr. Humberto Alvarez Machain would be returned to Mexico rather than face federal charges in Los Angeles.

But the judge overseeing the case ordered the Justice Department to explain the circumstances leading up to Alvarez' April 3 arrest in El Paso, Texas, on charges of participating in the 1985 murder of drug agent Enrique Camarena.

The Mexican government also has demanded an explanation for what an embassy spokesman here called the "illegal detention" of the Guadalajara gynecologist.

Secret box opened

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The United States has opened a post office box to guarantee secrecy for people who respond to a $2 million reward for information on terrorism, the U.S. Embassy said Friday.

In a news release, the embassy said the box was in Washington D.C.

The State Department said in December that the government could award up to $2 million for information leading to the prevention of terrorist acts against U.S. citizens or property outside the country.

The reward also covers information leading to the arrest or conviction of terrorists.

In Greece, the November 17 terrorist group has claimed responsibility for killing 14 people, including three American officials. It has also attacked American military personnel and property since first appearing in 1975.

Despite large rewards offered by the Greek and U.S. governments, no members of the group have been arrested.

Militiaman killed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Gunmen with assault rifles killed a member of the Shiite Moslem Amal militia as he drove through Beirut on Friday during the latest battles between Amal and its rival, Hezbollah, police said.

A police spokesman said the conflict between the Shiite militias was expected to escalate. "The two factions are on maximum alert in west and south Beirut as well as in south Lebanon," he said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Unidentified gunmen armed with Soviet-designed AK-47 assault rifles opened fire at Mohammed Aziz as he drove across west Beirut's Corniche Mazraa commercial thoroughare, the spokesman said. Aziz was killed instantly.

By police count, the present round of Amal-Hezbollah clashes has killed 24 people and wounded 83.

Eviction blocked

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel's Supreme Court on Friday blocked the eviction of Jewish settlers living in a compound in the Christian quarter of Jerusalem's Old City, temporarily setting aside an order by the attorney general.

The 150 settlers can remain in the four 100-year-old buildings near the Church of the Holy Sepulcher until the high court hears more arguments next week on an appeal for the settlers to remain.

Attorney General Yosef Harish on Thursday ordered their immediate eviction from the 72-room complex, owned by the Greek Orthodox Church.

The church claims a former tenant illegally sold his user rights to the building to the settlers.

All of Tuesday's District 4-5A games, and their consequent scheduled makeup games, had been rained out until Friday.
Friday San Angelo made up its game at Odessa High and took an 11-8 win over the Bronchos. MHS and Midland Lee will try to make up lost games Monday, when Abilene Cooper comes to town to play MHS (probably at Zachery Field) and Lee heads to Abilene High. Lee is open today.

Rose apologizes

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pete Rose says his gambling problems grew worse as his playing days wound down.

Rose

Rose, who pleaded guilty Friday to two felony tax charges, apologized for his problems in a statement released through his publicist.
"I just hope that you will understand that I have a sickness," Rose said. "I first realized last October that I had a gambling problem and I made that public in November. I have been able to stop gambling since then — but I will need help for the rest of my life."
Baseball's all-time hits leader was permanently banned from the game last August for illegal gambling. He maintained until last October that he had no gambling problem. However, since then the former Cincinnati Reds star has sought psychiatric help for what was diagnosed as a gambling disorder.

Angels come home at last

Brian Adamcik/Reporter-Telegram

Midland catcher Andy Hall cannot hang onto the ball as El Paso's Shon Ashley slides safely into home plate Friday at Angel Stadium. The Diablos won 2-1.

■ The Midland Angels wasted a strong effort by starting pitcher Glenn Carter in extending their losing streak to six games in their home opener.

By Bill Grimes
Staff Writer

It is said that good pitching generally beats good hitting, even in a hitter's park.
The Midland Angels and El Paso Diablos would agree after El Paso starting pitcher Jim Hunter and Midland starter Glenn Carter dominated the scene at the Angels' home opener Friday — before the Haloes' heretofore unreliable relief corps allowed the Diablos to scratch out a 2-1 win in Texas League action at Angel Stadium.
Hunter, 1-1, allowed the hosts only six hits in eight full innings of work before relievers Mark Chapman and Chris George almost blew it for him. Still, Carter was the more dominant pitcher — especially in the middle innings, when he allowed only two Diablos to reach base in the third through eighth innings.
And to think it happened at Angel Stadium with the wind blowing toward left field. The only batter for either team to really take advantage of the wind was Midland's Andy Hall, who crushed a Hunter pitch over the left field wall in the fifth inning for his first homer of the season and the Angels' only run.
Hall's blast negated an El Paso run in the second inning. The Diablos had taken that lead on a double by Shon Ashley and a single by Ruben Escalera, who finished three-for-four with both Diablo RBI.
Carter was almost untouchable after the second inning, retiring the Di-

Large crowd enjoys game

■ Players and fans feel a sense of relief that the professional baseball season has finally begun in Midland.

By Joe Wyatt
Staff Writer

At long last, after months of preparation, the Midland Angels' home baseball opener became a reality Friday, bringing a sense of relief to both players and fans alike.
"Since spring training we've spent about 45 days in motels," said Angel second baseman Scott Cerny. "Playing at home is a lot more comfortable. You're not eating out of restaurants or living out of a suitcase."
With Midland's newly acquired mascot "Juice The Moose" leading the cheers, the Angels made their 1990 home debut before an exuberant crowd of 3,427 which belied the team's dismal 1-9 start.
"This is it. This is what we've been waiting for all winter," said Dan Anderson, a season ticket holder who has occupied the same seat at Angels Stadium for the last four years and attended Friday's game with his two children.
"I was about to go into withdrawls waiting for the season to start. The kids too. They love to run around chasing the foul balls.

George is new rookie millionaire

■ Former Illinois quarterback signs with the Colts two days before Indianapolis officially drafts him.

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS — The Indianapolis Colts signed Jeff George on Friday to a six-year, $15 million contract that will put the Illinois quarterback among the four highest-paid players in the NFL.
Colts general manager Jim Irsay announced the signing at a news conference, confirming that George would return to the city where he starred in high school.
"We really feel that this move in the long run is going to be a very significant one for the '90s," Irsay said.
"We feel that throwing the football is the way you have to be successful. I really don't think we've thrown the football consistently in a way we'd

Phils whine about Expo pitcher

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies probably think Montreal pitcher Dennis Martinez should go back to church and confess.
Martinez nearly pitched a no-hitter Thursday night after visiting the Cathedral Basilica of Saints Peter and Paul. But the Phillies felt he gained an unfair edge in his two-hit, 5-0 win by spitting tobacco juice on the ball.
"We've known he's been doing it for years," said Philadelphia outfielder Von Hayes said. "I called for the ball in the first inning. You could see the tobacco on the ball. It makes it darker."
Martinez, who lost his no-hitter when Darren Daulton doubled with one out in the eighth, avoided a direct answer when asked about Hayes' allegations.
"It's OK that he's thinking that way," Martinez said. "I want him to think that way. That's great."
Hayes, who was hitless in four at-bats, was ejected by home plate umpire Mark Hirschbeck after protesting a called third strike in the seventh inning. But he was even madder about the alleged tobacco balls.
"It was so obvious," Hayes said. "We've got him dead to rights. He knows it. I know it. ... But he (Hirschbeck) doesn't do anything."

Weis builds engines for wise racers

You can look high and low, far and wide, up, down and all around.
Midland does not have an automotive racing course that would attract a CART Indy car event. But for some reason, high profile drivers like Mario Andretti, his son Michael, and A.J. Foyt will be in town Monday.

Price

Strange? Not really. Those drivers — along with Emerson Fittipaldi, Bobby Rahal, Al Unser, Jr. and Arie Luyendyk, just to name few — have for years been mashing on throttles connected to engines built by Franz Weis of VDS Racing Engines here in Midland.
Weis-built engines have won 62 Indy car events, claimed three Indianapolis 500 victory and a trio of CART national championships. Weis, who formerly built Cosworth engines, began preparing exclusively Chevrolet mills last season.
As a tribute to Weis' accomplishments, the 11 Lone Star Chevy dealers and the Chevrolet Motor division of General Motors have prepared a "Salute to Excellence," invitation-only banquet in his honor Monday evening at the Midland Center.
That's why the marquee names will be on hand. Also here Monday will be bigwigs from Chevrolet, like division general manager Jim Perkins and chief engineer Dave Hansen. And while names are being dropped, I might as well mention that Mario Illian, the designer of the Ilmore Chevy engine Weis builds, is also expected to be in attendance.
Illian is such a stickler for builders staying true to his design, Weis and Roger Penske are the only builders in the world allowed to touch the Ilmore.
Weis, who came to Midland in the 1960s to work with local racer car driver and owner Jim Hall, has been hailed as the winninest engine builder in racing history. The attention he brings to West Texas has, for the most part, stayed within the relatively small community of the racing world.
However, Monday that will all change. Little more than a month before running of the 1990 Indianapoils 500 — the most widely watched auto race in the world with even non-fans giving it cursory attention — the banquet here to honor Weis will be covered by a media blanket.
According to Jack Sherman, one of the Lone Star Chevy dealers, ESPN and Sports Illustrated — as well as press representatives from Houston, Dallas and the Associated Press — will converge on Midland Monday for the event.
Even with all the attention, Weis probably will still remain far from a household name. This is the first time an engine builder has received this kind of recognition, and it may take even hard core racing fans a while to recognize what goes on behind the scenes of an Indy car win.
But Weis does have the respect of his co-workers and peers. The banquet may serve a promotional vehicle for Chevrolet, but that's not why the Andrettis and ole' A.J. will be here. They will not be at the Midland Center to promote Chevy engines (even though Weis does with every race won).
They're coming to pay due homage to Franz Weis. And taking something less than a shot in the dark, I figure Weis surely gets more satisfaction from that kind of honor than any nationally broadcast video tape.

NBA ROUNDUP

Mavericks deal Rockets blow

Associated Press

Rolando Blackman scored six consecutive points in the final two minutes and James Donaldson added two clinching free throws with 13 seconds left as Dallas edged Houston 121-120 on Friday night, dropping the Rockets one game out of the final Western Conference playoff berth.

Seattle, which beat the Los Angeles Clippers 121-99 Friday night, moved one game ahead of the Rockets (40-41). Both teams conclude their seasons on Sunday — Houston at home against Utah; Seattle at Golden State.

The Rockets must finish at least in a tie with the Sonics (41-40) if they are to make the playoffs for the sixth consecutive season. The Rockets hold the tie-breaker edge since Seattle and Houston split their regular-season series and Houston had a better conference record.

Spurs 112, Nuggets 108

David Robinson scored 26 points and the San Antonio Spurs used a big advantage in free throws to beat Denver.

Terry Cummings had 24 points for the Spurs, who won the game at the free throw line with 28 of 39, compared to 16 of 21 for the Nuggets.

The victory enabled the Spurs to remain tied with the Utah Jazz.

Celtics 120, Bulls 116

Reggie Lewis scored 28 points and reserve Ed Pinckney added a season-high 19 as Boston withstood a 45-point blitz by Michael Jordan of Chicago.

Playing without ailing starters Larry Bird and Dennis Johnson, the Celtics won their 11th consecutive game at Boston Garden, where they finished the regular season with a 30-11 record. They open the playoffs at home against New York while the Bulls also open at home, most likely against Milwaukee.

With playoff berths assured for both teams, the Celtics led 64-49 at halftime, built the advantage to as much as 17 points in the third period and were ahead 106-92 with six minutes remaining.

Led by Jordan, the Bulls battled back, closing within one point four times in the last 71 seconds before losing for just the third time in the last 14 games.

Robert Parish gave Boston some breathing room by scoring from down low for a 113-110 lead with 55 seconds left.

Hawks 126, Knicks 112

Dominique Wilkins scored 14 of his 32 points in the third quarter as Atlanta shook off elimination from the NBA playoff race.

The Hawks, whose last chance for a postseason berth ended when Cleveland beat Orlando 118-104 about an hour before their game ended, expanded a six-point halftime lead to 90-74 late in the third period.

The victory by Atlanta left the Hawks a game behind the eighth-place Cavaliers in the Eastern Conference standings with a game remaining. If the two teams finish in a tie, Cleveland would get the final playoff spot because it beat Atlanta 3-2 in their season series.

The Knicks, who will finish fifth in the conference, trailed 94-78 early in the fourth quarter before rallying to 102-99 on Kiki Vandeweghe's 3-pointer with 5:05 remaining.

A three-point play by Kevin Willis, who scored 11 of his 16 points in the fourth quarter, rebuilt the margin to 116-106 with 2:04 to go.

Patrick Ewing, who set a single-season Knicks record with his fourth point of the game, led New York with 24 before fouling out with 6:06 left. With one game remaining, he has 2,324 points for the season, 20 more than Richie Guerin scored in 1961-62.

Vandeweghe had 22 points and Gerald Wilkins 18 for New York. Moses Malone had 18 points and 10 rebounds for the Hawks.

Ewing broke the team record just 3:13 into the game with a 19-foot jumper, then went on to join Gerald Wilkins with 10 points in the first quarter, lifting the Knicks to a 28-26 edge after one period.

The Knicks took their largest lead of the first half, 37-31, with 8:37 remaining, but Atlanta outscored New York 26-14 for the remainder of the second quarter for a 57-51 halftime lead. Reserve guard Kenny Smith scored 10 points during the run.

Cavaliers 118, Magic 104

Mark Price scored 19 points and Craig Ehlo keyed a crucial fourth-quarter burst that enabled Cleveland to stop an Orlando rally and clinch the final Eastern Conference playoff berth.

Ehlo finished with 19 points, eight during a 13-4 spurt that opened a 16-point lead after the Magic had cut a 23-point deficit to seven.

The victory was the fifth straight for Cleveland, which has won 16 of 20 games to overcome a rash of early-season injuries and beat out the Atlanta Hawks for the last post-season spot in the East.

Heat 117, Bullets 112

The Miami Heat hit its final 11 free throws, including six by Sherman Douglas, to offset Ledell Eackles' late barrage of 3-pointers and beat Washington.

The Heat, which winds up its season Saturday at Atlanta, ended a nine-game losing streak and improved to 18-63. That's a half-game ahead of New Jersey and one game ahead of Orlando in the race to avoid the NBA's worst record.

Miami missed nine of its first 10 free throws in the second half but was perfect in the final nine minutes. Eackles hit four 3-pointers during that span, but Miami kept the lead after an 11-3 run put the Heat ahead 99-91 with seven minutes to go.

Jazz 97, Timberwolves 89

Karl Malone scored 25 of his 36 points in the second half as Utah came from behind to down Minnesota and remain in a tie with San Antonio for first place in the Midwest Division with one game to go.

John Stockton added 17 points and 18 assists for Utah. Tony Campbell led the Wolves with 23 points and Tod Murphy had 21.

Minnesota led most of the way and took a 74-70 lead into the fourth quarter. Malone scored 10 points in a 19-7 run and Utah took its biggest lead of the game, 89-81, with 4:58 remaining.

Pistons 121, Pacers 115

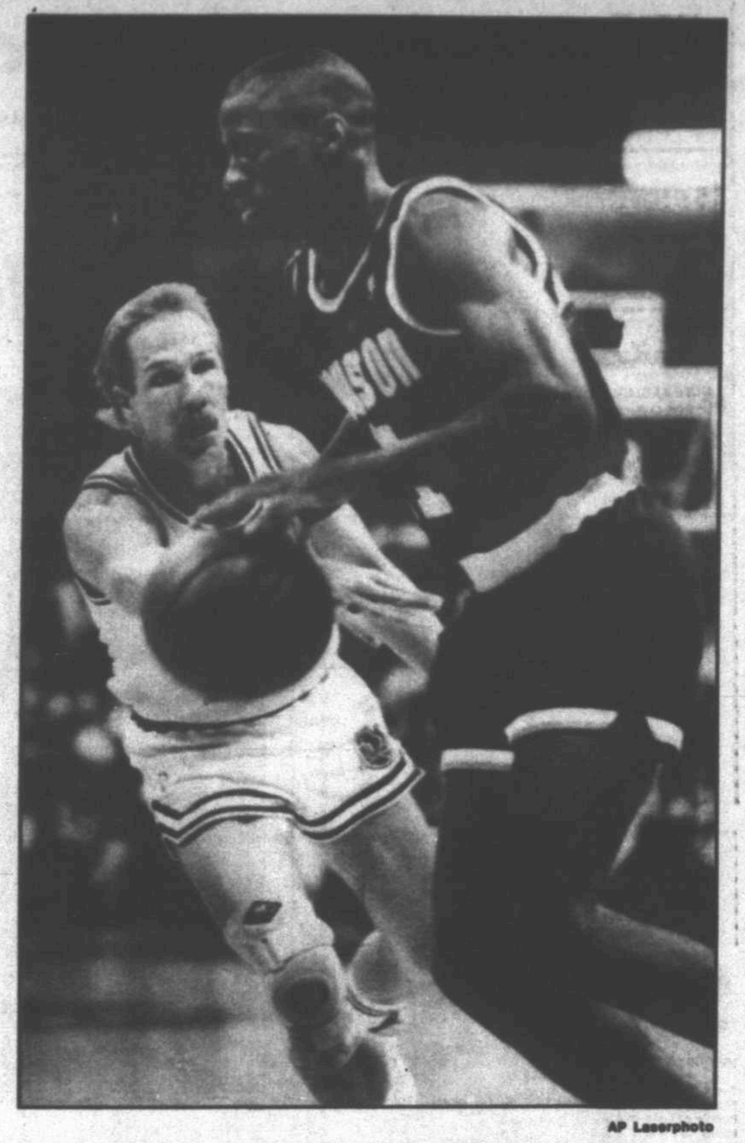

Mark Aquirre scored 25 points as Detroit defeated Indiana in overtime, setting up a possible rematch in the first round of the NBA playoffs.

The loss dropped the Pacers into a tie for seventh place in the Eastern Conference playoff race with the Cleveland Cavaliers, with one game remaining for each team. The Pacers need a win Sunday at Washington and a Cleveland loss to New York to retain the seventh seed.

Sonics 121, Clippers 99

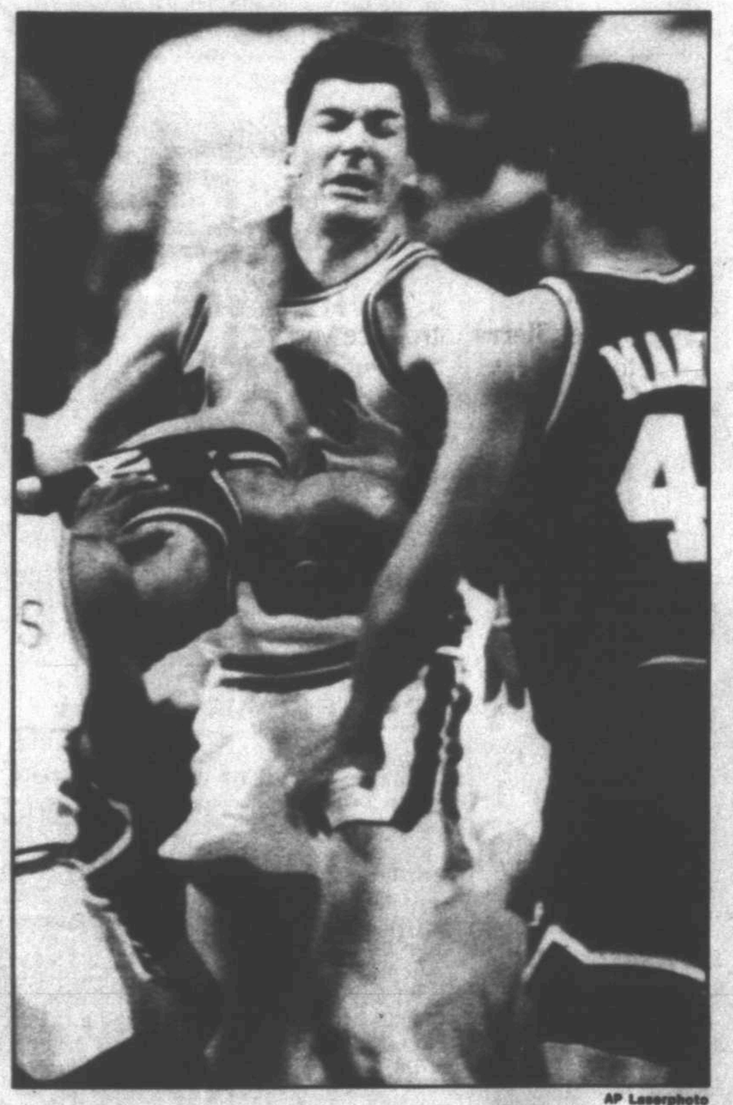

Dale Ellis set an NBA record with nine 3-pointers and Seattle moved into sole possession of the eighth and final playoff berth in the Western Conference.

Ellis, who set a club record with seven 3-pointers in an overtime victory in Sacramento the previous night.

NBA fines brawlers

N.Y. Times News Service

The National Basketball Association acted as if a 24-hour clock were running Friday in punishing the major offenders during a bench-clearing brawl Thursday night in the closing seconds of a game between the Philadelphia 76ers and the Detroit Pistons.

In addition to levying a record total of $162,500 in fines, the league suspended Charles Barkley, Bill Laimbeer and Scott Hastings for one game each.

Barkley, the 76ers' All-Star forward, and Laimbeer, the Pistons' 6-foot 11-inch center, were also fined $20,000 each for their parts in the scrap on the Pistons' court.

Hastings, a reserve forward for the Pistons, drew a $10,000 fine.

Laimbeer and Hastings missed the game Friday night against the Indiana Pacers.

Barkley will sit out of the 76ers' regular-season finale this afternoon against the Boston Celtics.

With the playoffs opening next week, neither game means anything to Detroit or Philadelphia.

Based on the players' individual salaries for the season, the one-game suspensions — which are served without pay — will cost the three combatants an estimated total of $48,000.

Barkley, the highest paid of the three, will lose about $30,000 in salary for the missed gamae in addition to the $20,000 fine.

The NBA also fined Isiah Thomas of the Pistons $7,500 for throwing two punches at Rick Mahorn, a 76er forward and his former teammate.

They were involved in an earlier incident that resulted in the Piston playmaker's ejection with less than four minutes remaining in the fourth quarter.

Five other players from each team were penalized $500 each for leaving the bench during the brawl that erupted with 14.8 seconds remaining to play, after the 76ers had wrapped up a 107-97 victory that clinched the Atlantic Division title.

The players were David Greenwood, John Salley, Mark Aguirre, Gerald Henderson and William Bedford of the Pistons, and Ron Anderson, Kenny Payne, Kurt Nimphius, Scott Brooks and Lanard Copeland of the 76ers.

But the penalties imposed Friday were not limited to the players involved. Each team was slapped with a $50,000 fine for failure to control its players.

"At some point, teams must be accountable for the conduct of their players," Commissioner David Stern said.

The brawl was touched off after Mahorn scored a basket and was fouled by Dennis Rodman of the Pistons.

Everything you need to close down a crackhouse.

You aren't helpless when crime invades your neighborhood. You're fully capable of helping police and they're ready to show you how.

The Case of The Stanton Park Stand-off.

When crack moved into a row house on a quiet block of Stanton Park in Washington, D.C., folks decided to serve an eviction notice.

They met with police to find out what they could do to keep drugs out of their neighborhood.

The cops told them to keep an eye out—to let police know whenever something suspicious happened. They began to notice faces. They wrote down license numbers of strange cars. They noted the times of odd behavior.

They worked with each other. They worked with the police. Armed with field glasses, note pads and telephones, folks kept track of the neighborhood.

Within one month, enough evidence had been gathered.

Police moved in. Crack moved out.

Citizen participation beat crime in D.C. It can do the same for you. For more success stories, write The McGruff Files, 1 Prevention Way, Washington, D.C. 20539-0001.

CROWD: Opener pleases

From 1B

"It's great. It's wholesome. It's the American pastime," Anderson proclaimed.

"It would be nice if they had a better record coming into their home opener, said seating attendant Red Gerhard. "But It just takes a little while for teams to gel, and I'm sure the Angels will."

Gerhard, a ballpark veteran, said that good weather and good baseball would generate some large crowds this season. "And the weather is on our side," he observed.

"The family loves it here at the ballpark," said Mike Cast, who attended the opener with his wife and child.

"We'll see if they can do better with the home crowd behind them."

Cerny said he believed the Angels would do just that.

"We're not panicking at all," he said. "Yes we lost nine out of our first 10 games, but we're only six games out of first place.

"We can get our feet on the ground here at home."

ROOKIE: Back at home

like to see probably since Bert Jones left in the late 1970s."

George's agent, Leigh Steinberg, confirmed that the deal would make George the highest paid rookie in NFL history. Among current players, George's package would rank below only Buffalo's Jim Kelly and Philadelphia's Randall Cunningham. It is equal to the contract of Cleveland's Bernie Kosar.

George will earn more than Joe Montana, John Elway, Warren Moon and several other established star quarterbacks.

George modeled a No. 11 jersey at the news conference and said he was ready to challenge Chris Chandler and Jack Trudeau for the starting job this fall.

"I'm a confident guy. This is just an ideal place for me. I expect a lot of great things are going to happen for me and Indianapolis in the next year," George said.

Martin nabs NASCAR pole

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Mark Martin clocked a lap of 117.475 mph in a Ford on Friday to edge Geoff Bodine and claim the pole for Sunday's First Union 400 NASCAR Winston Cup race.

Bodine, also driving a Ford, was clocked at 117.304 mph to join Martin in the front row of the 30-car field for the 250-mile race. Martin's lap time of 19.153 seconds was .008 off the track record set a year ago by Rusty Wallace.

"To be honest, we got lucky," said Martin, who took his first pole of the year in the Winston Cup series. "We hadn't been running that great. The last time out before qualifying, we ran a lap of 19.22 seconds. I had seen Ricky (Rudd) run a 19.10 and I figured we were beat by him or Bodine or both."

Dick Trickle's Pontiac and Dale Earnhardt's Chevrolet will be in the second row, follwed by Kyle Petty in a Pontiac and Ken Schrader in a Chevrolet.

Rounding out the top 10 were Darrell Waltrip and Rudd, both in Chevrolets, Ernie Irvan in an Oldsmobile and Alan Kulwicki in a Ford.

The remaining berths were to be decided Saturday.

Martin and Bodine will lead Ford's bid for its first North Wilkesboro victory in 10 years.

Blackhawks turn Blues blue

AP

CHICAGO (AP) — Troy Murray and Steve Thomas scored 10 seconds apart in the third period Friday night to lead the Chicago Blackhawks to a 5-3 victory over the St. Louis Blues and even the Norris Division finals at one game each.

Murray's power-play goal at 8:37 broke a 2-2 tie and Thomas connected from the left point with an unassisted goal at 8:47. It was a playoff record for the Blackhawks, whose previous two quickest goals had come in 11 seconds against Boston March 24, 1942.

The goals came after Brett Hull had tied the score with a power-play goal at 5:10 of the period. It was the second of the game and eighth of the playoffs for Hull, who led the NHL with 72 regular-season goals.

The best-of-7 series shifts to St. Louis for games Sunday and Tuesday nights. Game 5 will be played in Chicago on Thursday night.

Chicago center Denis Savard assisted on Murray's goal after returning from a hospital for x-rays on his left index finger. The x-rays were negative. Savard missed the entire second period.

The Blues, who won the opener 4-3, cut the margin to one goal when Paul Cavallini scored with 5:26 remaining. St. Louis pressed for the tying goal but was denied by Greg Millen, whose best save came with just over a minute to play when he robbed Peter Zezel on a short wrist shot from the slot.

Jeremy Roenick added an empty-net goal with 14 seconds remaining after St. Louis had pulled Vincent Riendeau for an extra attacker.

Steve Larmer put the Blackhawks ahead for the first time in the series with a power-play goal at 12:39 of the first period while Sergio Momesso was serving a slashing penalty. Trent Yawney shot from the slot and Riendeau made the save, but Larmer banged in the rebound for his third playoff goal.

Hull tied the game 35 seconds into the second period, stuffing Adam Oates' perfect past behind Millen from the goaltender's right.

The Blackhawks regained the lead at 6:18 on Wayne Presley's unassisted goal. Presley whipped in a backhander from in front for his sixth playoff goal, matching his entire regular-season output.

Chicago had three power-play opportunities in the second period but couldn't extend its lead as Riendeau, again substituting for the injured Curtis Joseph, kept the Blues in the game with several outstanding saves.

Dallas needs to draft for every position

By Denne H. Freeman
AP Sports Writer

IRVING (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys own four choices in the top 81 picks of the NFL draft, and do they need them.

After going 1-15 in Jimmy Johnson's first season as head coach, there aren't many spots where the Cowboys couldn't use an infusion of talent.

The big mystery is who the Cowboys are going to take with their first round choice, which is No. 21 overall. The pick was obtained from Minnesota in the Herschel Walker trade.

Dallas lost its No. 1 pick, which would have been the top selection in the draft, by taking quarterback Steve Walsh in last summer's supplemental draft. Walsh played started five games last year, including Dallas' 13-3 victory over the Washington Redskins.

The Cowboys have been shopping Walsh, but nothing has happened because their price is high — a No. 1 pick. Walsh, a backup behind Troy Aikman, will be available draft day.

Dallas was expected to take a running back or defensive lineman in the first round.

ANGELS: Diablos win duel

From 1B

ablos one-two-three in four of his last five innings. Only a walk to Bert Heffernan and a single by Escalera marred Carter's last few innings, despite weather conditions that favored righthanded power hitters.

"I was really surprised to see this game finish 2-1 after hearing about this park," Carter said. "It was just a good game for both (starting) pitchers."

It was not a good game for relief pitchers, however. That's been the norm for the Midland bullpen this season and nothing changed Friday, though Mike Butcher retired three straight Diablos after Escalera singled off Carter to open the eighth.

Butcher walked the bases loaded in the ninth before giving way to Frank DiMichele, who allowed Escalera to drive in the lead run with a scorching single to right.

The Diablos appeared to be in a position to get more but Midland right fielder Steve DeAngelis threw Diablo veteran Jesus Alfaro out at the plate to retire the side. Alfaro has played for both the Midland Angels and Midland Cubs during a long career spent mostly in Class AA.

The Angels had the winning run at second base in their half of the ninth, but Diablo reliever Chris George, the second El Paso pitcher of the inning, fanned Kevin Flora and Mark Davis to end a bases-loaded threat.

The Angels loaded the bases on an infield error and two walks, one of which was intentional. And yes, Midland manager Eddie Rodriguez though his club could have been a little more productive in the clutch.

"I felt we at least should have had a tie," Rodriguez said. "But that's what happens when you fail to put the ball in play."

Midland, 1-10 this season, will try to snap its season-long skid tonight behind starter Mark Holzemer, 0-2. El Paso will counter with Steve Sparks, 1-1 despite allowing exactly one earned run per inning this season.

HALO HOOPS: Carter feels like he's come a long way since getting rocked by the San Antonio Missions on Opening Night.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Ryan notches 292nd victory

Associated Press

Nolan Ryan, a winner in all three of his starts, got his 292nd career victory Friday night as Ruben Sierra's three-run homer led the Texas Rangers over the New York Yankees 6-5.

Ryan, 43, is off to his best start since 1973, when he also won his first three outings. He gave up three hits in seven innings, struck out nine and walked one.

Ryan joined Roger Clemens and Dave Stewart as baseball's only other three-game winners. He did it despite giving up the Yankees' first home runs of the year.

The Yankees had not homered in seven games, their longest streak at the start of a season since 1918 when they went 10 games without connecting. Mel Hall ended the drought at 62 innings with a leadoff shot in the second off Ryan and Rick Cerone hit a solo home run in the second.

Don Mattingly's two-run homer with none out in the ninth off Jeff Russell pulled the Yankees within 6-5. Dave Winfield walked with one out, but Jesse Barfield grounded into a double play as Russell got his second save.

Sierra broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh with his third home run of the season. He connected off Lee Guetterman (0-1) after singles by Rafael Palmeiro and Julio Franco.

Mariners 6, Athletics 1

Brian Holman lost his perfect game with two outs in the ninth inning when pinch hitter Ken Phelps homered in Seattle's victory over Oakland.

Holman's bid for baseball's 13th perfect game and Seattle's first no-hitter ever ended on the first pitch to Phelps, a former Mariner. Holman (2-1) then struck out Rickey Henderson to finish with a one-hitter.

AL Roundup

Orioles 6, Tigers 0

Bob Milacki held Detroit hitless for five innings and combined with two relievers on a three-hitter.

Milacki (1-0) won in his third start of the season. He gave up a leadoff single to Mike Heath in the sixth and left in the seventh after Gary Ward and Lloyd Moseby opened with singles.

Kevin Hickey relieved and ended Detroit's threat without allowing a hit. Brian Holton pitched a perfect ninth.

The Orioles, who benefited from eight walks to win their home opener Thursday against Detroit, took advantage of six walks from Jeff Robinson (0-1) in the first three innings.

Twins 13, Angels 1

Kent Hrbek's two-run single keyed a nine-run fifth inning and rookie Kevin Tapani pitched eight scoreless innings as Minnesota won its home opener.

The Twins were the last major-league team to play at home. They were supposed to open at the Metrodome on April 3 but their first two series were postponed by the lockout and they had to play their 10 times on the road.

Brewers 5, Red Sox 0

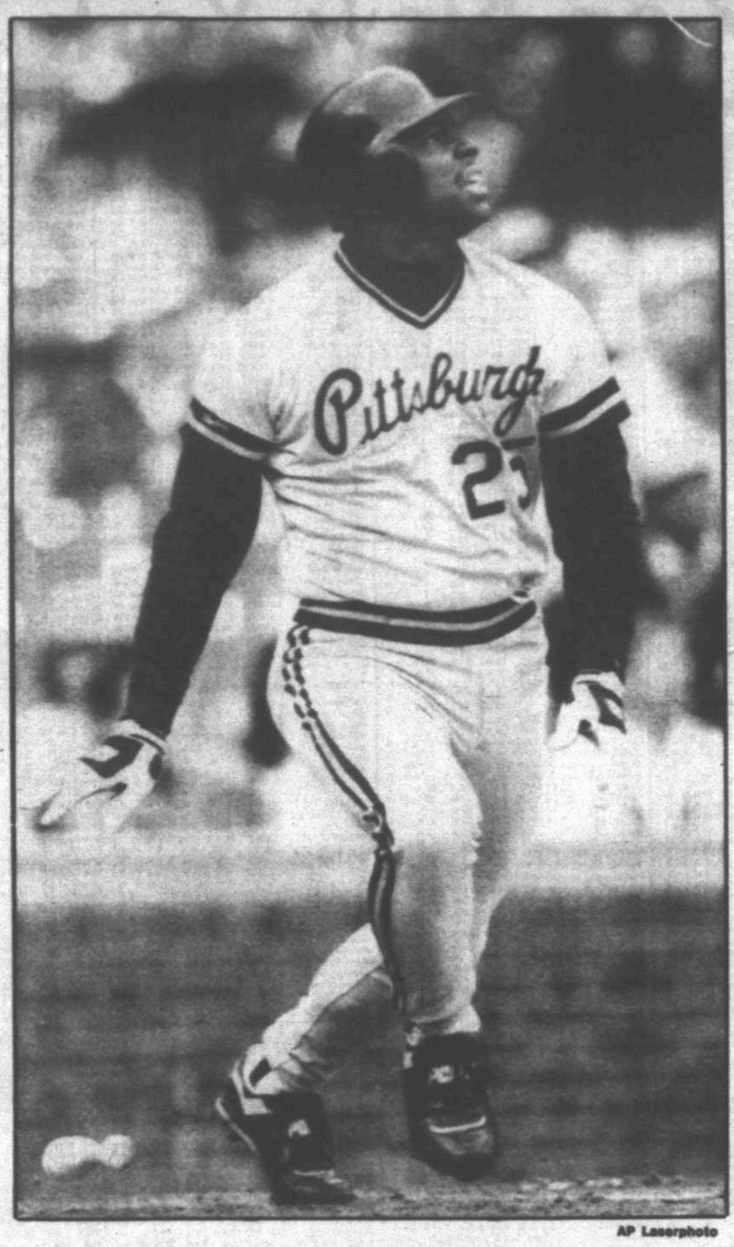

Rob Deer, booed at County Stadium on opening day, hit a three-run homer and Tom Filer and two relievers extended the Milwaukee staff's streak to 20 scoreless innings.

Blue Jays 17, Royals 6

George Bell again dominated Bret Saberhagen with a three-run home run in the first inning and Toronto homered five times.

Fred McGriff and Kelly Gruber each hit two-run homers in a seven-run fifth inning, Greg Myers later added a three-run homer and Nelson Liriano hit a solo shot. The Blue Jays got 19 hits in their highest-scoring game since beating New York 17-9 on April 11, 1988.

Bell, 15-for-41 (.366) lifetime against Saberhagen with five home runs and only one strikeout, began the onslaught with his third home run of the season and his team-high 10th RBI.

Bobby Bonilla of the Pirates clubs the first the first of his two home runs in a rain-shortened 9-4 win over the Cubs.

Bonilla's bat destroys Cubs

Associated Press

Bobby Bonilla, playing third base for the first time this season, hit two home runs to drive in three runs, leading the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 9-4 victory Friday over the Chicago Cubs in a rain-shortened game.

The start was delayed 2 hours, 5 minutes by showers that continued to drench 15,171 at Wrigley Field until the game was called following a delay of 1:15 in the seventh inning. Rookie Mike Roesler won his first major-league decision by pitching one inning in relief of Walt Terrell.

Bonilla, a third baseman last season, led National League players at that position with 35 errors and was switched to the outfield. But third baseman Jeff King had stomach flu and utilityman Wally Backman was out with a sore left elbow, necessitating Bonilla's return. He handled one chance, a grounder by Jerome Walton to open the Chicago first.

Bonilla opened the Pittsburgh second by hitting the first pitch from Mike Bielecki (0-1) into the left field bleachers for the first of his three hits in four at-bats. With two outs in the third, Andy Van Slyke singled and Bonilla homered off Bielecki to take the league lead with five in 11 games. He did not hit his fifth until his 40th game of last season. It was the fifth two-homer game of Bonilla's career.

Expos 2, Mets 1

Montreal's Zane Smith beat New York for the second time this week, doubling his victory total of last season.

Smith, 1-13 in 1989 for Atlanta and the Expos, snapped a personal 10-game losing streak by beating the Mets 3-1 Sunday night.

It was the Expos' sixth victory in their last seven games. The Mets have lost seven of their first 11, including three of four to Montreal.

After Kevin McReynolds walked in the first inning with two out and Darryl Strawberry reached on an error, Smith retired 15 straight before Keith Miller singled hard to center field with two down in the sixth for the Mets' first hit.

McReynolds followed with a single and Strawberry blooped an opposite-field single to left to score Miller.

Smith allowed three hits, struck out five and walked one in eight innings. On Sunday, he allowed five hits in eight innings.

Padres 9, Giants 2

Jack Clark hit a three-run homer to support Ed Whitson's complete game as the San Diego Padres handed mistake-prone San Francisco its sixth loss in seven games.

Clark's homer off Rick Reuschel (1-1) highlighted a five-run third inning during which the Giants made two defensive lapses. Whitson (1-0) allowed nine hits, walked none and struck out three.

Phillies 3, Cardinals 0

Philadelphia's Dennis Cook maintained his mastery over St. Louis by pitching a three-hitter.

The left-hander (2-0) struck out two and walked three in his third career shutout. Five of his 11 major-league victories have been against St. Louis.

Cook, who permitted only Todd Zeile's leadoff double in the fourth, Jose Oquendo's two-out single in the seventh and a one-out double by Pedro Guerrero in the ninth, has shut out St. Louis for 17⅔ innings.

Stewart has been unbeatable in April

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — If Reggie Jackson was "Mr. October," then Dave Stewart is "Mr. April."

The Oakland pitcher, who was the most valuable player in last year's World Series, has been unbeatable the past three years during the first month of the season. He is 17-0 in his last 18 April starts, and the Athletics won his only non-decision.

"Dave Stewart is a competitor, a bulldog," said Jim Lefebvre, manager of the Seattle Mariners and a former teammate of Stewart.

"He goes after you every pitch. He stares at you with that scowl and looks so mean, but he's one of the classiest individuals you'll ever want to meet."

Stewart improved his 1990 record to 3-0 Thursday night, allowing five hits and one run in seven innings as Oakland beat Seattle 5-2. The 33-year-old pitcher now has an earned-run average of 1.86.

The soft-spoken Stewart isn't gloating over his April accomplishments or taking his winning streak for granted.

"On any given night, this can all stop," he said.

But it hasn't happened yet. And Stewart, nicknamed "Smoke" for his strikeout prowess, continues to awe teammates, opponents and fans.

"I say the same thing over and over when he starts. He is just so consistent with everything," Oakland catcher Terry Steinbach said. "When Stewart goes to the mound, this team expects a good game from him. And we always get it."

Oakland gets it in May, June, July, August, September and October as well as April. While Stewart had losses in those months last year, in no month did he have more losses than victories. He finished the 1989 season with a 21-9 record — his third straight 20-win season — and 3.32 ERA.

Last year Stewart gave up 260 hits, more than any other pitcher in the American League. What Stewart didn't give up was big innings.

In 257 innings last season, he allowed three runs in an inning only four times and four runs only twice. He also reduced his walk total from 110 to 69.

The Oakland native won two games as the Athletics swept the San Francisco Giants in the World Series. In January, he agreed to a two-year, $7 million extension of his contract, briefly making him the highest-paid player in the game.

"Dave is perhaps the most deserving player in all of baseball," A's vice president Sandy Alderson said.

Stewart is the first pitcher to post three straight 20-win seasons since Jim Palmer did it four straight times in the 1970s. But the AL Cy Young Award has eluded him so far. Last year, he was runner-up to Bret Saberhagen of the Kansas City Royals.

"They don't base the Cy Young award on what you do in April, but what you do in April can make you a 20-game winner," Stewart said. "I don't know how long this April stuff will continue ... but it will never end because I'm not prepared."

Duo shoots six birds to keep lead

AUSTIN (AP) — Dale Douglass and Charles Coody birdied six holes in a row and nine of their last 11 Friday to expand their lead to six strokes after two rounds of the Legends of Golf tournament.

The runaway leaders combined for a 10-under-par 62 and completed 36 holes in 121, a record 23 under par in the 13-year-old better-ball event. The old record was 122, set by Don January and Sam Snead in 1982 at Onion Creek, a par-70 course.

Douglass and Coody shattered that mark with two eagles, 20 birdies and a lone bogey in two trips over the par-72 Barton Creek course, which is being used for the first time this year.

Eleven of those birdies came Friday, with Coody accounting for six and Douglass five. Most came on a six-in-a-row string beginning on the eighth.

"We're tickled to death," said Coody, the 1971 Masters champion, who did the bulk of the work in a first-round 59. "It's another nice score, but we didn't play particularly well in some spots."

But some spectacular putting helped them expand their advantage. Coody made a 40-footer for par on the 16th hole and Douglass birdied the last two holes with putts of more than 30 feet.

"The putts are continuing to go in, but we can't count on that continuing for two more days," Douglass said.

Defending champions Al Geiberger and Harold Henning, far back in second place, are counting on it.

"It's hard to lead for four days," Geiberger said. "They can run into their flat moment."

Geiberger scored an eagle-3 as he and Henning matched the leaders' 62 and reached the halfway point at 127, 17 under par but six behind.

"We made our fair share of birdies and Al played a couple of brilliant shots," Henning said. "Unfortunately, we didn't make any gain on the leaders so all our hard work was to no avail."

Larry Mowry and Frank Beard combined for a 63 and lost ground. They were third at 128.

"They're running away with it," Mowry said of the leaders.

The teams of George Archer and Don Bies, and Dave Hill and Chi Chi Rodriguez were next at 130, 14 under par but nine shots off the pace. The Archer-Bies combo had a 65 and Hill-Rodriguez shot 66.

Lee Trevino, winner of three of four starts earlier this year, and Jim Dent improved to a 66. The pre-tournament favorites, however, remained 12 behind the leaders at 133.

Homero Blancas and Don Massengale were disqualified after signing an incorrect scorecard for Thursday's first round.

Bob Toski scored five birdies as he and Mike Fetchick combined for a 65 and opened up a two-shot lead in the Legendary Champions division for players 60 and older.

Toski, 63, and Fetchick, 67, completed 36 holes in 132.

Roberto deVicenzo and Charlie Sifford, who won the Legendary Champions section the last two years, were tied for second with Fred Hawkins and Bill Collins. Each team had a second-round 67 and a 134 total.

Gallagher leads despite tall rough

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Jim Gallagher Jr. posted three birdies and a bogey Friday for his second straight round of 70 and a one-stroke lead over a bunched-up field at the midway point of the Greater Greensboro Open.

Possibly because of the fear of the high rough at Forest Oaks Country Club, most players failed to make any ground on par, despite favorable weather. Four golfers were at 3-under-par 141, seven more were at 142, 10 were at 143 and another 10 were at even-par 144

In all, just 32 of the 155 players who started the tournament shot par or better, an unusual experience for a course which generally has yielded low scores. The cut was at 147, and that eliminated local favorite Curtis Strange, who had a 150, to end a streak of 17 tournaments in which he had survived the first two days. Payne Stewart, who won the Heritage Classic on Sunday, also was eliminated after a 148.

"The golf course is playing tough. I thought it played with a little more wind today than we had yesterday," Gallagher said. "But when the rough is four or five inches tall, it's a long golf course. I'm very surprised at 4-under. I thought somebody would maybe get it going a little bit better today."

For a time, it looked as if Phil Blackmar would begin a charge, climbing to 6-under through 15 holes. But his tee shot at 16 landed in a fairway bunker and led to a double-bogey 6. He followed with a bogey-4 at the 17th hole and escaped with a 71 to finish at 141.

Fred Couples was at 4-under through 16 holes, including 3-under for the round. But his 6-iron shot on the par-3 17th hole landed in a bunker and he took a bogey en route to a 70 and his 141 total.

"I feel like I played better than two under (Friday), but it's playing like a U.S. Open," Couples said. "So a lot of things can happen."

Gallagher credited his back-to-back 70s to help from his wife, Cissye, who joined the LPGA Tour this year.

"I found that I was getting a little lax" with practice, Gallagher said. "On Monday, my wife and I went out and we worked on my alignment and I called my dad. I hit balls for about two hours and got straightened out. This is the best I've hit it all year. You seem to hit it better when you've got a little more confidence flowing."

Also helping him were par-saving putts at three of his last four holes. He three-putted on his 10th hole for the only bogey.

"I missed some makeable putts out there today, but I made three real good saves so I guess it all offsets," he said.

Mark Wiebe also was at 141 after a 70.

Lee Freshman wins net meet

Staff Report

Lee Freshman High School accumulated 25 points and emerged victorious from the Midland Ninth Grade Tennis Tournament Friday.

Lee's Amanda Connally won the girls' singles title 6-2, 6-4, and the Lee team of C. McHugh and Wendy Hobbs captured top doubles honors, 6-0, 6-0, to help Lee outdistance Midland Freshman High School which scored 18 second-place points.

Allan Neighbors of Midland Freshman was the Bulldogs' best Friday, winning boys' singles with a 3-6, 6-3, 3-6 victory over teammate Justin Arras.

Seventh and Eighth grade tournaments will be played today.

N.C. State names Turner new AD

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Todd Turner took the athletic director's job at North Carolina State on Friday, saying the school's dismissal of basketball coach Jim Valvano made his decision easier.

"The most important challenge is to rebuild trust and rebuild credibility in the athletic community," said Turner, who had been AD at the University of Connecticut for the past three years. "You don't earn that trust until you prove that academics is the first priority."

Turner, who agreed to a three-year contract at $105,000 per year, and school officials said N.C. State would embark on a program to make academics the first priority of its troubled athletics department.

Turner, who takes office July 1, refused to confirm reports that East Tennessee coach Les Robinson would be named next week as the Wolfpack's new basketball coach. But he confirmed that he had spoken with Robinson and said a decision would be made soon.

"He is a very credible and very attractive candidate for N.C. State," Turner said.

Turner said he will not make the decision on a new coach, but that he has been involved in the interviews for about a week.

The athletic director's position opened up last fall when Valvano stepped down after being asked to do so by the University of North Carolina system's governors. He was replaced on an interim basis by Harold Hopfenburg. The request came after a study of the school's basketball program initiated in the wake of allegations made in the book "Personal Fouls."

The basketball program was placed on two years' probation by the NCAA in December after players received cash and items of value in exchange for tickets and basketball shoes.

Valvano stepped down as coach after 10 years on April 7 after university and school booster officials agreed to pay him more than $600,000. Calls for Valvano's firing increased after ABC News aired allegations of point shaving by former players and when one ex-player, Charles Shackleford, admitted taking $60,000 while at N.C. State. Valvano was not implicated in either incident.

During their attempt to remove Valvano, school officials cited what they considered the coach's failure to ensure his players' academic progress.

Turner said Friday he admired Valvano's work as coach, but that the university's effort to remove Valvano helped convince him to make the move.

"The fact that the university stood up and made a decision about the future of the program was a factor in my decision," Turner said. "Our major goal is to fulfill the academic mission of the institution. I firmly believe the athletic program can contribute to that."

Interim chancellor Larry Monteith said contracts with future basketball coaches will spell out expectations concerning academics.

"We have learned from our experience from the past, and we would be foolish not to use some of what we have learned," Monteith said. "(The contract) will specify the academic priorities of the institution in a less vague way."

He became AD at Connecticut in 1987, where he designed and implemented the school's first drug testing program for athletes.

Judge lifts suspension of Ingram's House

KERRVILLE (AP) — A state district judge Friday lifted a school suspension of standout high school athlete Troy House and paved the way for the basketball record holder to compete in track.

House, an 18-year-old Ingram Tom Moore senior, had been banned for 30 days from competing for the school after he was charged with possession of alcohol by a minor.

"The court commends the school board for a good effort because we do have a serious problem in this country with substance abuse," state District Judge James Onion said after the hour-and-a-half hearing. "But the court is of the opinion that a temporary injunction should be granted."

Onion previously ruled that House could participate in track and granted a temporary restraining order to last until Friday's hearing.

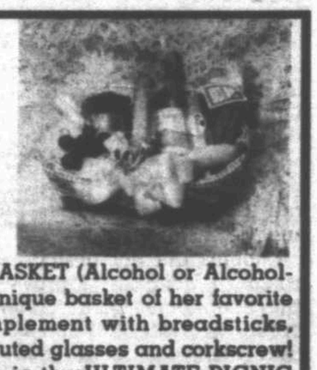

House became the known leading scorer in Texas high school basketball history this year, leading Ingram Tom Moore to the Class 2A state championship. A 6-foot-1, all-state guard, House scored 4,159 career points.

Ingram basketball coach Jim Reid announced Thursday that House will sign a national letter of intent Saturday to play basketball at the University of Texas at San Antonio.

Gathers family follows through with suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hank Gathers' family filed a wrongful death suit for $32.5 million Friday against Loyola Marymount, Coach Paul Westhead and 12 others, claiming their negligence contributed to the death of the basketball star.

The suit, filed in Los Angeles Superior Court, alleges that Westhead asked a doctor in late January to change Gathers' prescription for an irregular heart beat because the medicine was adversely affecting Gathers' performance.

The suit also claims that Westhead made a second call to the doctor, Vernon Hattori, on March 2, urging that the player's medication be decreased.

Westhead said in a statement Friday: "As his coach, I did my best for Hank Gathers. I was never part of the medical decisions concerning Hank. I did not decide what medication to prescribe or what dosage to take.

"I feel badly that my relationship with Hank and his family could be distorted with this legal action."

Gathers collapsed during a March 4 game and was pronounced dead two hours later. He had collapsed during a game on Dec. 9, and tests revealed that he had arrhythmia, an irregular heartbeat. He was given medication and, on Dec. 21, was cleared to play, with the stipulation that his condition be monitored.

The suit also alleges that Gathers was not made aware of the risk he faced if he continued to play, and that treatment was delayed for a critical 2 minutes, 45 seconds after his fatal collapse.

A letter, allegedly written by Hattori on Jan. 29 and filed with the suit, said Westhead called the doctor to request that the player's medication be changed. However, the suit included no documentation on the allegation that Westhead called him again two days before Gathers' death asking that the dosage be reduced.

Bruce Fagel, attorney for the family, said that according to one of Gathers' relatives, doctors told them after the death that Westhead had called the previous Friday asking that Gathers' medication be reduced because it was affecting his play.

The Jan. 29 letter was addressed to Dr. Michael Mellman and said the initial dosage of Inderal to control Gathers' irregular heartbeat was being reduced because he was not playing well.

The letter said 240 milligrams a day almost completely controlled the heart problem. But it also said: "His dose was diminished ... after a rather dismal performance in his first game against Xavier. On a lower dose, he apparently performed incredibly ..." in games against St. Joseph's and La Salle.

"However, his performance was obviously still being unfavorably affected by his medication, so I decreased his Inderal."

Joan Gaulene, a Loyola Marymount spokesperson, said university officials expect to be cleared of any wrongdoing.

"Loyola Marymount University is deeply saddened by the charges leveled at the university and the university staff in the suit filed today by attorney Bruce Fagel on behalf of the family of Hank Gathers," she said. "We expect the university and its staff members will be fully vindicated at the time of trial.

"The university's attorneys have not had sufficient time to review all of the allegations in the suit and we will be in a position to comment further only when that is completed."

Fagel said he already has met with attorneys representing the defendants, and that they have been cooperative. Further meetings are planned, indicating the possibility a settlement may be reached before the case goes to trial.

The suit was filed on behalf of Gathers' mother, Lucille; brothers Derrick and Charles; and his aunt, Carole Livingston.

Hattori and Mellman are among the defendants, which also include Loyola athletic director Bryan Quinn, team trainer Chip Schaefer and several other doctors who treated Gathers.

Another part of the alleged letter from Hattori to Mellman said that Hattori met with Gathers the previous week and the player said he was satisfied with his play after the medication was adjusted.

" ... Later on over the weekend I got a call from his coach, indicating that his athletic performance was still substantially sub-par and that he felt strongly that the medication should be changed," the letter said.

The letter quotes Hattori as saying Gathers felt decreasing his Inderal dosage would be preferable to changing medication because there was a chance he would have to miss a game to adjust.

The last recorded dosage was 40 milligrams twice a day, far below the 240 milligrams initially prescribed.

Westhead has denied having any conversation in which he instructed that Gathers' medication be reduced or changed and said he was "not in the link" of the doctor-patient relationship.

"I don't have a clue about medications. Why would I tell a doctor what is best for Hank Gathers?" ESPN quoted Westhead as saying Thursday.

Westhead told the Los Angeles Times on Thursday that his primary contact with Gathers' doctors came one or two days before the team's New Year's Day trip for games against St. Joseph's and La Salle in Philadelphia. He was present at a meeting in which the doctors cleared Gathers to begin playing again.

"The doctors said they were comfortable that he could commence playing, with the understanding that he would continue to take medication and continue to be tested," Westhead told the Times.

Westhead admitted knowing Gathers had missed a medical test or tests the week before his death. Westhead said he intercepted a message for Gathers from Hattori asking him to come in for the test.

Westhead said he told Gathers to call the doctor right away, "and Hank assured me he would."

After Gathers was diagnosed as having an irregular heart beat, Loyola Marymount purchased a defibrillator, a device to restore a regular heartbeat, and kept it courtside during games.

Fagel said the presence of the machine showed the school was aware of the danger to Gathers, but that it was not used fast enough. The suit says it was not used until the player was taken out of the arena on a stretcher.

Fagel said the family hopes the suit — and the attendant publicity — causes the NCAA to formulate rules concerning athletes with serious health problems.

Ruidoso prepares for season

Staff Report

RUIDOSO, N.M. — Horses are arriving by the trailer-load at Ruidoso Downs — an average of 100 head per day — as horsemen begin to settle in for the 78-day summer meet which opens May 10 and runs through Sept. 3.

Earlier this week, Joe Kirk Fulton's powerful Quien Sabe Stable arrived under the direction of trainer Mike Robbins. Fulton, a Lubbock resident, has 12 horses on the grounds, including the third and fourth place finishers, respectively, in last year's rich All American Futurity, Effortless Dream and Reckless Dash.

Robbins did not hesitate when asked to compare Fulton's premiere sophomore pair. "Effortless Dream is faster," Robbins said. "But Reckless Dash never makes a mistake."

Effortless Dream, by World Champion Special Effort and out of Fulton's World Champion Dashs Dream, was plenty fast in last year's $2.5 million All American. The royally bred filly finished a head behind runnerup Moons High and earned $153,500.

Reckless Dash, however, was equally impressive in the richest quarter horse race in the world. The bay colt, by Dash For Cash and out of the Raise Your Glass mare Shaken Not Stirred, recovered from a rough start and was closing fastest of all to check in fourth, only a nose behind his stablemate.

Robbins said another Fulton 3-year-old, Special Leader, could be the sleeper in the barn this season when the money's on the line in the Kansas, Rainbow and All American derbies.

"He had a lot of trouble in the All American trials last year and still made the the second consolation," Robbins said. "He's probably the fastest of the bunch."

Special Leader, however, never ran in the second consolation, suffering a minor injury which ended his season.

As for Fulton's 2-year-olds, Robbins is especially high on Gracious Dream, a full sister to Dashs Dream, Movin Effort, a son of Special Effort, and Repeatedly.

Spira Lawyer asks for venue change

N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK — David S. Greenfield, Howard Spira's lawyer, has asked that his client's extortion trial be moved here from Tampa, Fla., because, among other reasons, George Steinbrenner is one of Tampa's most financially powerful and influential citizens.

Spira, an admitted gambler, is scheduled to go to trial May 7 on federal charges that include threatening Steinbrenner, the New York Yankees' principal owner, as well as Philip A. McNiff, a long-time Steinbrenner associate.

The government charges that Spira made the threats after being refused additional compensation for information regarding Dave Winfield, with whom Steinbrenner has waged many legal battles.

Steinbrenner's American Shipbuilding Co. is based in Tampa.

Be still and know...

It is early morning at the shore. I venture out alone to watch the sun rise orange over the sea. As I walk I leave a track of footprints in the sand. I stop and listen. It is perfectly quiet. But as I look farther out to sea, the water is starting to swell until it can no longer contain itself. A mighty wave erupts and crashes on the shore.

Again, all is quiet. I turn and walk back the way I came. My footprints are no longer there. I start over, leaving new footprints.

As a wave quietly builds, then crashes on the shore, wiping away old footprints, God's quiet strength can wipe away old mistakes and regrets. You can start anew.

This week, worship God in prayer and meditation. In His Word, we are encouraged to . . .

Frank Johnson to mark 29th anniversary

Kelview Heights Baptist Church has declared Sunday as "Members Day" in recognition of the 29th anniversary of its pastor, the Rev. Frank Johnson.

Johnson

The church invites the public to attend services.

"No one could have dreamed from that first meeting in June of 1961 that God would bless the Kelview Heights baptist Church under the leadership of Pastor Frank Johnson the way He has," says a release from the church.

"Truly, it was the Providence of God that caused a newly graduated Bible college student to move his family to Midland and join with a few families who had been praying and struggling to start an independent baptist church. Time has revealed the leadership of God."

From a small beginning in a one-room building, a structure that measured 20 feet by 40 feet with no restrooms or water, the physical plant now consists of more than 110,000 square feet.

Johnson is from southwestern Oklahoma. He married his childhood sweetheart and they made their home in Houston. He enrolled in the Bible Baptist Seminary in Fort Worth in the fall of 1959. He graduated with a bachelor of divinity degree and has since earned a bachelor of arts and master of arts and has been honored with doctorates from five institutions.

While in school at Fort worth, Johnson worked for Rolling Hills baptist Church. The Johnson family, which included two sons and a daughter, moved to Midland in 1961.

Skipper Lewis waits on the set of caraway Street as the village is prepared for children's Church.

Cottonflat plans children's service

Cottonflat Baptist Church invites children from first grade through sixth to be a part of Children's Church at 11 a.m. Sundays.

"This service, done in music and drama, is geared to younger children and makes the word of God come alive through action and song," says a release from the church.

McCamey Baptist church plans revival

McCAMEY — "Here's Hope...Jesus Cares For You" is the revival emphasis at First Baptist Church, 820 Burleson, McCamey, Sunday through Wednesday.

The church is using the conference approach to the revival and will have a different speaker each service.

At 11 a.m. Sunday the Rev. Bernard Spooner, director of the Sunday School Division for the Baptist General Convention of Texas, who is from Dallas, will be speaking. Special music will be brought by Mary Alice Collier of Albuquerque, N.M.

Sunday evening, Mrs. Collier will begin the service with a concert. Guest speaker will be the Rev. Bob Calvert, minister of discipleship, evangelism and youth at Crescent Park baptist Church, Odessa.

For the Monday service Paul and Susie Luchsinger, Psalms Ministries, Atoka, Okla., will be leading the worship. He has been a member of the Professional Rodeo Cowboy Association since 1978 and is a former president of the Cowboy Chapter ministry.

Mrs. Luchsinger is a sister of Reba McEntire. Susie, Reba and their brother, Pake, formed a band in high school. Later she sang backup and toured with her sister for several years. Then she moved into the field of music evangelism.

For the Tuesday service, the Rev. H. Bailey Stone Jr., pastor of First Baptist Church in Odessa, will be the guest speaker. Accompanying Stone to McCamey will be the FBC Singing Men, a 40-voice men's choir directed by Curtis Brewer.

On the closing night of services, the Rev. William M. Pinson Jr., executive director, Baptist General Convention of Texas, who is from Dallas, will be preaching. Providing the music will be Steve Faulkner, minister of music, First Baptist Church in Crane.

The public is invited to attend. For more information call 1-652-8674.

Cataract surgery has become the safest elective surgery of today. The micro-surgical techniques have revolutionized the "after care" and hastened the healing period. The cataract is removed through a small incision by a technique called phacoemulsification. A narrow profile intraocular lens is implanted. The wound is then closed with only one suture, therefore it heals faster. In this lecture, Dr. Tolia will explain the new technique and its advantages. You will also be able to view the hi-tech equipment used in surgery. The seminar will give an opportunity for the audience to ask questions.

New evidence suggests more bay area quakes

Hearst News Service

SAN FRANCISCO – New evidence has convinced a growing number of scientists that subterranean movement responsible for quakes in the San Francisco area is happening faster – perhaps "much faster" – than previously estimated.

That implies earthquakes on the San Francisco area sections of the San Andreas and Hayward faults could occur more often than once assumed, experts inside and outside the U.S. Geological Survey told The San Francisco Examiner.

However, disputes over details of this and other scientific matters will likely delay for months the survey's release of the latest version of its "probabilities" report, a scientific crystal ball that forecasts when, where and how badly quakes will clobber the San Francisco Bay Area.

The 12-member panel's report, which the USGS had hoped to release by now, seems unlikely to appear before early summer, survey officials said, speaking on the condition that they not be identified.

The panel's goal is to revise 1988 estimates of the likelihood of major quakes in the next 30 years at different locations on Bay Area faults, particularly the San Andreas, which runs across the San Francisco Peninsula, and the Hayward, which divides Berkeley and much of the East Bay.

In the original probabilities report, released in 1988, USGS scientists estimated a 30 percent chance of a magnitude-6.5 quake on the San Andreas fault in the Santa Cruz Mountains between 1988 and 2018.

Sure enough, two years later, the 7.1 Loma Prieta quake struck that area. The result: death and devastation across the Bay Area.

Now, while operating in the shadow of Loma Prieta and aware of the potential sensitivity of their conclusions, panel members are struggling to finish a revised report that is scientifically credible. Led by USGS researcher Jim Dieterich, the panel aims to generate new estimates of the probability and severity of quakes across the Bay Area in the next three decades.

Sources said some of the disagreements revolved around questions such as:

–Which mathematical models should be used to simulate fault behavior? Some scientists complain existing models are unreliable.

–Which historical quakes occurred on which faults? Nineteenth Century records, as in newspapers, of quakes are vague (e.g., descriptions of clattering pots and crumbling chimneys), making it difficult to assign blame to any one fault.

–Do quakes tend to recur on the same fault in fairly predictable cycles – say, an average of once every 300 years – or in a more random manner? New data suggest the latter.

–How fast is the ground moving or "slipping" deep beneath the faults that cover the California coastline? Such deep movement is powered by plate tectonics, popularly known as continental drift, in which huge geological "plates" carry the continents along like logs stuck in ice.

Employer sanctions fight moves to Senate hearing

Hearst News Service

WASHINGTON – The author of a 1986 law barring U.S. employers from hiring illegal aliens Friday denounced Hispanic and Asian-American groups seeking a repeal of the measure.

Sen. Alan Simpson, a Wyoming Republican who wrote the 1986 Immigration Reform and Control Act, which seeks to curb illegal migration by drying up the source of jobs, accused the groups' representatives of ignoring the problem of border enforcement.

Simpson's remarks came during testimony before the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Immigration, which is considering a resolution introduced after a General Accounting Office report last month said the 1986 immigration law had caused widespread hiring discrimination against people with a "foreign appearance or accent." The immigration law set financial penalties for employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens.

Because of the negative report from the GAO, an independent agency established by Congress to investigate government activities, Congress must now re-examine the sanctions provisions. Friday's hearing was part of that process.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., chairman of the subcommittee on immigration, introduced a resolution to repeal the employer sanctions provisions within 30 days of the March 29 GAO report, but few congressional observers expect that to happen.

The Bush administration and Gene McNary, head of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, prefer changing the law to deal with the discrimination problem. And Congress could move toward adoption of a national worker identification card for citizens and legal aliens to prevent job discrimination against Hispanic and other minority workers.

John Dunne, an assistant attorney general appointed by President Bush to head an administration task force reviewing the GAO study, said employer sanctions were justified and that the law could be fixed.

Dunne said, "Clearly, any pattern of widespread discrimination must be combatted." But the Justice Department official promised Kennedy that the task force would make recommendations for improving the immigration law and reducing hiring discrimination within 120 days.

"It is clear that employer sanctions do work," said McNary, who added that INS will implement a new, uniform "employee authorization document" for temporary alien workers, such as seasonal agricultural employees, by the end of fiscal 1990.

But many Hispanic and Asian-American groups are using the GAO report's findings to attack the sanctions portion of the immigration law, which also gave blanket amnesty to 3 million illegal aliens living in the United States before 1982. They also say they are opposed to efforts to "fine-tune" the employer sanctions provision.

Is Your Child Too Small?

Growing up always has its hazards, but for some children just the process of growing can be difficult. For these children, a normal growth rate does not occur because they lack an essential hormone.

By three years of age, children should grow at least two inches a year until they are 10 to 14 years of age, when they experience an even faster growth. If children are not growing at this rate and are smaller than children their own age, they may have hormone deficiencies.

Odessa Women's and Children's Hospital is offering a FREE Growth Screening for children. By taking an accurate measurement of height. We can determine if their height is normal for their age group. And, if below normal, further evaluation and assessment will be recommended.

AIDS committee backs easing of ban on blood

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal AIDS advisory committee recommended Friday that the government's ban on blood donations from Haitians and black Africans be eased for people who have been screened for the deadly virus.

The recommendation, supported by three of the panel's five members, will be considered immediately by the Food and Drug Administration, said Dr. Paul Parkman, the agency's AIDS coordinator.

"We're inclined to change" the regulations, Parkman said.

The ban has been in place, in part, since 1984, when Haitians who had emigrated to the United States since 1977 were excluded from the list of eligible donors. Sub-Saharan Africans were added in 1986; members of both groups who had emigrated before 1977 were added in February.

The panel voted after several dozen Haitians told the FDA committee they consider the ban discriminatory. Witnesses said the policy has cost Haitians their jobs and homes.

"We know of children being harassed at school and we sense a general attitude, which the FDA's position encourages, that places Haitians in a somehow distinct and maybe dangerous biological category, simply because of their national origin," said Ghislaine Paperwalla of the Miami Haitian Coalition on Health.

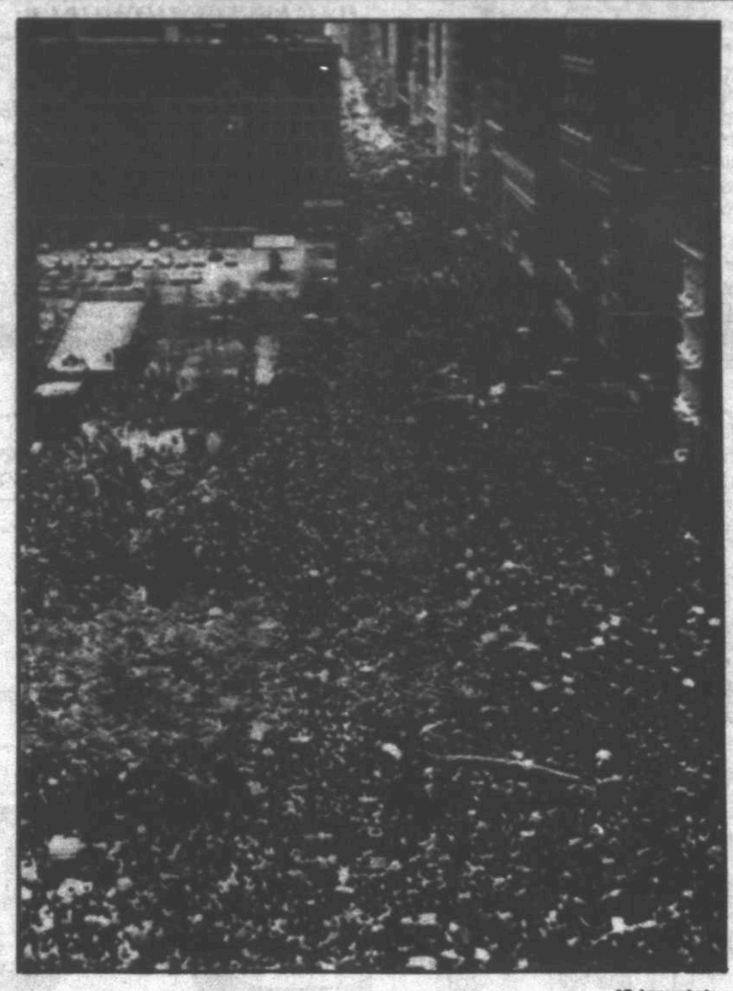

"Our blood is as safe as anybody else's blood," said Alix Mathieu of the International Alliance for Haiti. He called the policy insensitive and said it is not backed by scientific data.

In New York, 50,000 Haitians and African Americans protesting the ban rallied in lower Manhattan, closing the Brooklyn Bridge for more than two hours and tying up traffic around City Hall.

City police had expected a rally of 10,000 people at the most. Barricades set up beforehand were dismantled as people marched over them. Helmeted officers on horseback watched the peaceful demonstration.

One of the Haitians at the FDA meeting at the agency's headquarters in nearby Rockville, Md., Dr. Emile Jean-Baptiste of the National Haitian American Health Commission, said he was pleased with the vote but added, "This is not the end to the whole story. There's a long way to go."

He said his group wants the FDA to adopt the recommendations and to make the policy change clear to all blood banks.

Some 50,000 marchers, alleging racism against Haitians in AIDS policies, march on Broadway in lower Manhattan Friday after crossing the Brooklyn Bridge. Downtown New York traffic was snarled by the marchers and 100 taxi cabs that joined the protest.

Farmland prices rise last year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmland prices rose again last year but at a slower pace than in 1988, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

The department's Economic Research Service said that as of Jan. 1 the average value of U.S. farmland, including buildings, was $693 per acre, up 4 percent from $597 on Feb. 1, 1989.

An 11-month period was used because the agency is switching from Feb. 1 to Jan. 1 as the reporting date.

"Although below the 6 percent gain in 1988, last year's rise was the third straight increase," the agency reported.

Despite the annual increases, U.S. farmland values are still 16 percent below the record of $823 per acre in 1982.

NATION IN BRIEF

Soviet actions draw criticism

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The Bush administration criticized Moscow's escalating crackdown on Lithuania as "another unfortunate step" Friday and said President Bush would summon leaders of Congress next week to discuss possible retaliatory action.

The situation in the break away Baltic republic darkened amid reports that Moscow was blocking food shipments after sharply reducing fuel supplies.

Witnesses in the capital city of Vilnius also said Red Army soldiers stormed into a printing plant and beat civilian guards.

"We are increasingly concerned by news reports today of an economic crackdown on Lithuania," White House Press Secretary Marlin Fitzwater said, accompanying Bush on a political trip to Birmingham and Orlando.

Bush did not comment on the matter.

In Orlando, Bush announced the addition of five new sites, including waterways around Boston's polluted harbor, to the Environmental Protection Agency's National Estuary Program.

The designation leads to the development of comprehensive management plans to protect the areas.

The new sites are: Tampa Bay and the Indian River Complex, both in Florida; the Barataria-Terrebonne Estuarine Complex in Louisiana; Casco Bay, Maine, and the Massachusetts Bays in Massachusetts.

Milken to plead guilty

NEW YORK (AP) — Former junk bond financier Michael Milken agreed Friday to plead guilty to six felonies and pay $600 million in penalties to settle the largest securities fraud case in history, sources said.

The plea bargain, a stunning reversal for Milken, caps negotiations between the government and attorneys for the ex-head of Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc.'s high-yield bond department and removes the need for a long and costly trial.

Milken and Drexel were implicated by speculator Ivan Boesky, who cooperated with the government in settling charges that he ran an insider trading network that implicated major financial figures and shocked Wall Street in the 1980s.

Milkin is expected to enter the guilty plea to the felony counts and agree to pay fines and restitution next week in U.S. District Court in Manhattan, said individuals close to the case, who asked not to be named.

The sources cautioned that while a settlement had been reached it would not be final until the plea formally is entered.

Work overwhelming

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Social Security Administration is seeing warning signs of deteriorating service and rising workloads that could "overwhelm" the system, a top agency official says in an internal memo.

"There are signs of this early warning pattern developing in all areas of SSA's basic operations," said the March memo to Social Security Commissioner Gwendolyn King.

Deputy Commissioner Herbert R. Doggette Jr. wrote the memo shortly before he retired last month. He said both the numbers of claims pending and the length of time needed to process them increased in 1989.

"When this pattern appears, it is an early warning of deterioration in levels of service," Doggette wrote.

"The possibility clearly exists that at some point workload growth could overwhelm our ability to respond, given our limited resources," the memo said.

Raiders hold reunion

ALAMEDA, Calif. (HNS) – It was a celebration for a group of "Raiders" somewhat different from the football players.

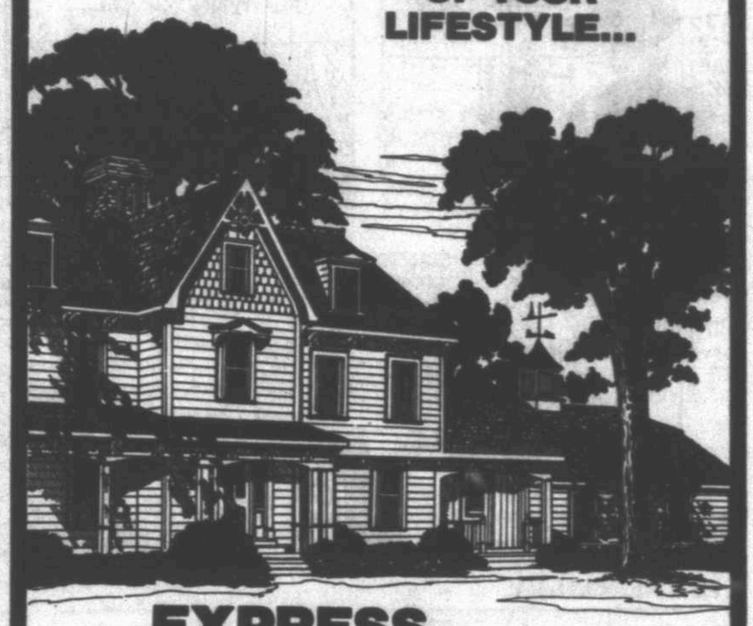

The subjects of a brass-band, spit-shine tribute Thursday at the Naval Air Station were most of the 40 surviving "Doolittle's Raiders" who flew their B-25 bombers from an aircraft carrier in the dark early days of World War II to bomb Japan 48 years ago this week.

What the 16 planes under the command of then-Lt. Col. James "Jimmy" Doolittle didn't do to cripple the industrial centers of Tokyo and nearby cities, they made up for in building morale and picking up the spirits of the American war effort.

Doolittle, 93 and living in Pebble Beach, was unable to attend the colorful ceremony. But Bob Bourgeois was on hand to recall the incredible flight from the heaving deck of the USS Hornet to military targets nearly 650 miles away.

Bourgeois, 72, was a bombardier aboard one of the twin-engine planes that lumbered off into the pre-dawn sky.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, APRIL 21, 1990

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: New challenges lie just ahead. Remain true to your principles. Your romantic partner shows new respect. If a job offer has too many strings attached, say so. Clear up any confusion about your educational goals. An older friend or relative is very sympathetic to your aims. Travel for business or pleasure is indicated in November and December. A telephone call to a former employer brings good luck. Young people play a major role in your happiness and financial success.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: novelist Charlotte Bronte, actors Tony Danza and Charles Grodin, singer Iggy Pop.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Anticipate a family member's request and you become his hero. Ask for a loan only if you have no other option. Your mate wants you to think twice about relocating. Be patient.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Do some research on a project you are starting this coming week. Opposition to a bright idea subsides. A family member relieves your mind by telling the truth. Romance becomes even more rewarding.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A loved one needs your help. Start to participate in life instead of drawing into your shell. A settlement with a neighbor or friend brings peace of mind. Exercise greater self-control.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Power is only valuable when you use it. Entertaining friends in your home makes them feel at ease. People see you the way you want them to. Conserve your time and energy.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You cannot expect a child to feel secure if you yourself appear frightened. Be strong. Romance is a two-way street. Help others whenever you can. Total self-sufficiency is impossible.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): It is important to plan for the future instead of dwelling on past or current problems. You have made good progress this week. Be careful. Confide only in those you trust absolutely.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): An athletic event could keep you near the TV much of today. Accept an invitation to dine with special friends. Recent financial gains make it easier for you to rest and relax.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your mate seems stronger than ever when the chips are down. A romantic disappointment no longer hurts quite so much. A child has an idea that you find very appealing. Relax at home tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A short trip provides a welcome change of pace. You are entering a period of great spiritual growth. Family trials and tribulations are almost over. All sorts of pleasures beckon!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A newspaper ad or article gives you a valuable job lead. It is better to be safe than sorry. Loved one's attitude could be due to something you said or did. Act quickly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your nervousness will increase unless you do something about a tricky situation. Loved ones want to help. Seek friends who share your interests. You learn a lot from persuading others to express themselves.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A very promising day lies ahead. You are about to enjoy a stroke of good fortune. Friends and travel mix beautifully today. Strive to inject new vitality into a marriage or romance.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are practical, determined and kind. They do well in mathematics and science but tend to find social studies and languages more difficult. Persistence may be their greatest asset. Their bull-like determination can wear out teachers and parents alike. Decisions will not be made lightly. Once they make a choice, they stick to it with steadfast conviction. This refusal to admit defeat will occasionally lead to their staying in unrewarding relationships. Loyal and loving, they make wonderful, warmhearted spouses.

Sales to get honorary degree

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — Comedian Soupy Sales will get an honorary doctorate instead of a pie in the face when he visits his alma mater, Marshall University.

"This doctor will be making house calls," Sales said after learning he will be honored at the school's commencement May 12.

Sales

"I'm thrilled to death about the honor. I have a warm spot in my heart for Marshall."

Sales grew up in Huntington as Milton Supman and graduated from Marshall with a journalism degree in 1949. He said he was fired from the school newspaper, The Parthenon, for cracking too many jokes and spending too much time at the student union.

Sales, who said he's had more than 19,000 pies thrown in his face during his 41-year show business career, is best known for his first network television show, "The Soupy Sales Show," in the 1960s.

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't be afraid your mate will find out you're a heavy-duty snacker. Just destroy the evidence, advises "Today" show host Deborah Norville.

Norville confesses a weakness for potato chips — although her husband may not even know about it.

"When my will power's really down, I'll eat an entire bag of potato chips and then throw it away before my husband gets home," she said in an interview in May's issue of Self magazine.

Norville was not alone in her noshing. Ed McMahon said he goes for a cheeseburger when the munchies hit, and Frank Sinatra and Donald Trump put pasta in their celebrity stomachs.

Disciples of sweets included novelist Jackie Collins (Haagen-Dazs bars), singer Gloria Estefan (milk chocolate) and diver Greg Louganis (gummy bears.)

Call it lifestyles of the rich and famished.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Princess Jelisaveta entered Parliament on Friday, the first member of the Karadjordjevic dynasty to cross the threshold of the communist-ruled legislature.

Her appearance, on invitation of a parliamentary deputy, stirred few political passions, despite a law banning all members of the royal family from returning to the country.

She said her appearance was "a wonderful miracle."

"I am so happy because we are all of the same blood and we are all brothers," said the princess, who is the mother of TV's "Dynasty" star Catherine Oxenberg.

The princess told reporters she came to help organize a meeting of ecologists who plan to meet in Belgrade next year under United Nations auspices.

She refused to comment on the political situation in the country, where two republics have followed the democratic call echoing through the Soviet bloc by deciding to stage free multiparty elections.

The princess, a Serb, has been home several times recently, basking in the newly reclaimed glory of Serbian nationalism.

She fled the country with then King Peter II and other members of the royal family when the Nazis invaded in 1941.

ANDERSON, Ind. (AP) — Gospel singer Sandi Patti says she felt victimized by the arson attack that destroyed her office.

Patti

The anonymous caller told the Anderson Herald Bulletin her group started the blaze because Patti had "put herself on the pedestal of God."

"It's one of the most paralyzing feelings I have ever felt in my life," Patti said outside her charred office Thursday, two days after the fire.

"There's a tendency to just kind of sit at home and close the door and think 'I will never be able to walk outside again.' I don't want to feel like that the rest of my life," she said.

A group, calling itself the "Equal Religious Coalition," claimed responsibility for the fire. Anderson police said they had never heard of the group but were taking the claim seriously.

An unidentified woman said the fire was set in the office "in objection to Ms. Patti's blatancy to continue to put herself on the pedestal of God."

Patti, her husband, John Helverling, and their four children are getting protection from off-duty officers. The office, operated by Helverlin, handles mail distribution of Patti's records, tapes and T-shirts, but master recordings of Patti's albums survived in a vault.

N.Y. Times News Service

Lee Atwater, the chairman of the Republican National Committee, returned home Friday after spending a day in the hospital for a leg scan that a committee spokesman described as routine.

Atwater, who undergoes daily radiation treatments for a brain tumor that was found last month, was examined at the George Washington University Medical Center in Washington, The Associated Press reported.

Earlier this month he was at the Montefiore Medical Center in New York, where surgeons treated the tumor with radioactive isotopes for several days to try to kill it.

Physicians have describedthe tumor as "aggressive."

Audit shows $712 million 'imprudently' spent on plant

BY Peggy Fikac

AUSTIN (AP) — A preliminary audit report released Friday by the Public Utility Commission found that Texas Utilities Electric Co. imprudently spent $712.6 million on its $9.25 billion Comanche Peak nuclear power plant.

Under state law, unreasonable costs cannot be put into rates and passed on to utility customers.

TU Electric has a $442 million rate case pending before the PUC that includes some costs of the Comanche Peak plant, which is north of Glen Rose.

PUC spokesman Bill Dunn emphasized that the finding by the Nielsen-Wurster Group, which studied the plant for six months, is preliminary.

It's unclear exactly how it will affect TU Electric's rate request because it is subject to change, he said.

STATE

"I think it's pretty clear there's going to be some sort of recommended reduction" by the PUC staff to the company's request, Dunn said. "We don't know how large it's going to be.

"We're nowhere near a decision by the three (utility) commissioners," Dunn added, noting that a hearing in the case has not yet started.

But the report immediately was decried by the state's utility consumer office and by the company.

"I think that's an astoundingly low reduction considering the delays that have occurred on this plant," said Clarence Johnson, director of economic analysis for the Office of Public Utility Counsel.

The public counsel has recommended about a $50 million rate reduction for TU Electric, even without considering any potential cost overruns at Comanche Peak.

TU Electric spokeswoman Kathi Miller said the $712.6 million figure was too high, calling it "outrageous."

"We really disagree with that number ... We feel like they've been doing a lot of second-guessing on things," she said.

The plant's two units initially were to be completed by Jan. 1, 1982 at a total cost of $779 million.

Today, Unit 1 of the plant is nearing commercial operation and Unit 2 is projected to be in service in 1993.

Nielsen-Wurster said in its draft report that assessing TU Electric's decision-making process and performance was "a difficult task."

"In the course of its review, Nielsen-Wurster found instances of imprudent decision-making processes and performance failures ... Additionally, we found generally reasonable management, accomplishment and a plant that is operating today that meets the latest standard for safe design, construction and future," said the report.

The unreasonably incurred costs identified by the auditor include $680 million for both units through a test year ending June 30, 1989, and $32.6 million through the end of Feb. 8.

The auditor said the costs were unreasonable because of delays and imprudent actions.

AUSTIN — Texas Utilities Electric had the sixth-lowest electrical rate in the state for users of 1,000 kilowatt-hours in April, the Public Utility Commission reported.

The Dallas-based utility's rate for users of 500 kwh was seventh-highest among 18 utilities in the survey.

For users of 1,000 kwh the rate increased 4 percent, to $64.25, while the rate for users of 500 kwh increased 3.2 percent, to $40.57.

A spokesman for the utility said the increase was due to the cost of electrity that the utility buys from co-generating industrial units.

The average usage in the TU Electric service area was 814 kwh, which cost $56.45.

The highest electrical rates were in the Houston Lighting & Power service area, which charged $86.38 for users of 1,000 kwh, and El Paso Electric, with $45.06 for users of 500 kwh.

The lowest electrical rates were in the Southwestern Electric Power Co. service area in Northeast Texas, with $56.46 for users of 1,000 kwh, and the city of Austin, with $24.08 for users of 500 kwh.

6 hurricanes forecast for season

HOUSTON (AP) — The outlook for the 1990 hurricane season calls for about six hurricanes and three additional named tropical storms, according to one of the nation's premier hurricane forecasters.

The prediction Thursday by William M. Gray, professor of atmospheric science at Colorado State University at Fort Collins, is considered average for a hurricane season.

Gray, who made his preliminary forecast for the 1990 season at the National Hurricane Conference being held in Houston, said some of the 1990 hurricanes are likely to be intense.

Intense storms tend to strike the eastern Atlantic coast more than the Gulf Coast, he said.

Hurricane Hugo, which claimed 29 lives and caused an estimated $5.9 billion in damage in the Charleston, S.C., area in 1989, was an intense hurricane.

After the hurricane season officially begins on June 1, Gray will predict the specific number of tropical cyclones he expects during the 1990 season. In early August, Gray will update that forecast. The official hurricane season runs through Nov. 30.

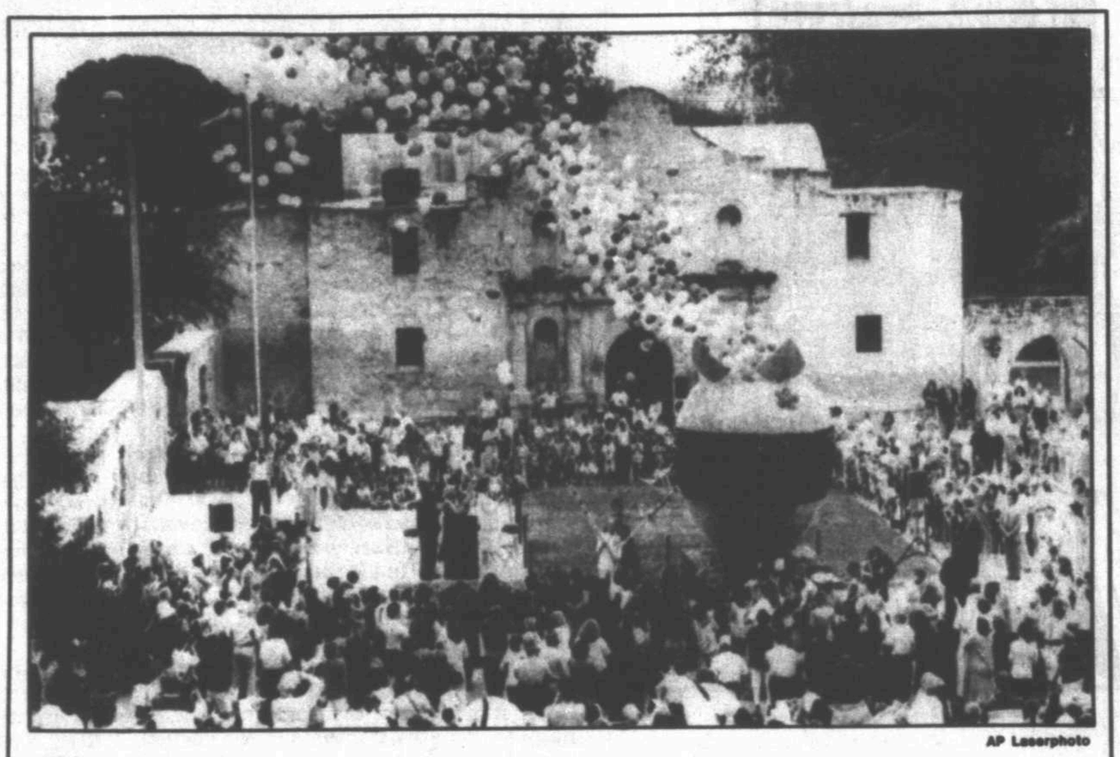

Over the years, Gray's forecasts of hurricane activity generally have been accurate.

In 1986 he predicted four hurricanes in the Gulf-Atlantic region; four developed. In 1987, he predicted four hurricanes; three developed. In 1988, he predicted seven hurricanes; five developed.

In 1989, his prophecy was for four hurricanes. Seven hurricanes developed.

Fired officer cries at his murder trial

DALLAS (AP) — A fired Houston police officer accused in the slaying of a janitor cried on the stand Friday, saying he cannot recall the entire altercation and shootout that left him seriously wounded and charged with murder.

Alex Gonzales, 25, also testified that he never punched Ida Lee Delaney in the face, as a prosecution witness has testified.

Gonzales shot Ms. Delaney, 50, in front of a road maintenance crew following a 12-mile chase on a Houston freeway on Oct. 31. She had cut in front of three off-duty officers in plainclothes and an unmarked car.

Defense attorneys say Gonzales shot in self-defense and claim the only reason the officers chased her was because she fired a pistol at them up the road.

Prosecutors say Ms. Delaney didn't provoke the shootout. Gonzales could face up to 99 years in prison if convicted.

Prosecution witnesses have testified that Gonzales had a blood-alcohol content nearly twice the legal level for intoxication when he was flown by helicopter to a Houston hospital for emergency surgery.

Gonzales acknowledged that he had between "11 and 13 drinks in just under five hours" before the incident, but denies he was impaired.

"I did not feel I was intoxicated," he said on the stand.

Harris County Prosecutor Chuck Rosenthal asked Gonzales, "Are you denying you hit Ms. Delaney with a closed fist?"

Gonzales responded: "Yes, sir."

Gonzales said his memory had been affected after the shooting, and that he couldn't recall certain moments.

The shootings heightened racial tensions in Houston; the victim was black and the officers Hispanic. The trial was moved to Dallas because of extensive news coverage.

Like Gonzales, the other off-duty officers also were fired.

Bushes will host rodeo, barbecue prior to summit

By Bob Tutt

Hearst News Service

HOUSTON — President and Mrs. Bush will host an evening of western entertainment here on Sunday, July 8, before the start of the 1990 economic summit of world leaders.

A rodeo, barbecue and performances by country music stars will fete dignitaries and the press corps, but other heads of state may miss it because they are not scheduled to arrive until the next day.

Summit planners originally proposed asking foreign leaders to arrive a day early, but the leaders reportedly resisted expanding the schedule, traditionally 2½ days.

The Italian delegation reportedly balked because July 8 is the date for the deciding match of the World Cup soccer competition, an immensely important event outside the United States.

Frederic Malek, director of the summit, on Thursday disclosed a tentative schedule of events for the July 9-11 conference at Rice University:

Bush will greet heads of the delegations from Italy, Japan, West Germany, Canada, the United Kingdom, France and the Commission of the European Communities at Rice on Monday, July 9, from 10 a.m. to noon.

The heads of the delegations will meet at mid-afternoon, followed by a working dinner at the Bayou Bend Collection of American Decorative Arts.

The world leaders, with foreign and finance ministers, will hold a plenary session on Tuesday morning at the university and will lunch together. The plenary session will resume in the afternoon, followed by staff and bilateral meetings of leaders.

The leaders, other officials, their spouses and special guests will attend the summit's official dinner at the Houston Museum of Fine Arts.

Bush will read the final communique of the conference on July 11 at noon, following the last plenary session.

That evening the Bushes will host entertainment at the Wortham Theater to honor those who helped put on the summit.

Traditionally, discussions during the summit's working sessions center on economic issues while political issues are the subject of dinner discussions.

Malek said the summit's taut schedule was designed "to best allow the president and his counterparts a chance to openly discuss their views on world affairs in an atmosphere very conducive to thoughtful discussion."

While the estimated 7,000 members of delegations and news organizations at the summit should give Houston's economy a modest transfusion, the city's greatest benefit should come from its global exposure, Malek said.

Mistrial motion denied in ex-officers' trial

TYLER (AP) — A state district judge Friday rejected a defense motion for a mistrial against three Sabine County lawmen accused of beating an inmate to death more than two years ago.

The three are accused of murdering Loyal Garner Jr., who died two days after being arrested on Christmas Day 1987.

Defense attorneys subpoenaed tapes of a Tyler television station's newscasts Thursday and Friday. In the tapes, Smith County's NAACP chapter president said a guilty verdict in the death would mean progress for civil rights, while an innocent verdict would set them back 50 years.

Former Hemphill Police Chief Thomas Ladner and former deputies, James "Bo" Hyden and Billy Ray Horton, are on trial here. The three were acquitted by a Hemphill jury in July 1988 of violating Garner's civil rights.

But a federal court ruled that they could be tried for murder in the same incident.

On Friday, Horton's attorney, Jeff Haas, said KLTV's tapes might have prejudiced the jury. He called the Rev. Harlon Overstreet's comments a "thinly veiled threat."

In denying the mistrial motion Friday afternoon, Judge Joe Tunnell said, "The court has confidence in the integrity of the jury.

"I'm not sure that this jury could be intimidated to violate their oath."

Overstreet, who said his chapter would protest if the lawmen were exonerated, has declined further comment.

Garner, 34, was arrested on drunken driving charges and was taken to the Sabine County Jail. An autopsy stated that he died after receiving multiple blows to the head.

Attorneys for the defendants — who all are white — say the men beat Garner, who is black, in self-defense after he became violent.

Alton Maxie, a friend of Garner's who was arrested with him, testified Friday afternoon that Garner was not intoxicated at the time of arrest.

Maxie testified that he, his brother Johnnie, and Garner each had a beer. Both he and Garner also had a sip of hard liquor, he said.

But Maxie denied that Garner was driving erratically.

"He was driving normal, he was on his side of the road. He had his lights on," Maxie said.

Maxie said after the three were jailed, Ladner hit Garner with a slapstick — a leather-handled weight designed to impart a stunning blow — and forced him out of the detoxification tank.

"I heard like they took him up the hall, like somebody getting beat, like (Ladner) was beating a rug," Maxie said.

When Garner returned to the cell, Maxie said, he was unable to walk and was supported by Ladner and Hyden. Maxie said his friend slumped to the ground and never regained consciousness, bleeding from at least one cut on the head.

"He had blood all down his shirt and he couldn't walk."

Maxie said when he awoke the next morning Garner was lying there unconscious.

"His shirt had been taken off and washed and thrown back in the cell. It looked like the water had dried up out of his eyes," Maxie testified.

Maxie said sheriff's deputy Clyde Kirk could not find a pulse and an ambulance was called around 8 a.m.

Earlier Friday, a neurologist who examined Garner after his death compared the blows he sustained with "a centerfield hit with a baseball bat."

STATE IN BRIEF

Woman given prison sentence

HOUSTON (AP) — A woman was sentenced to 60 years in prison for strangling her mother and stuffing the body into a freezer in their apartment.

Jolene Ott Dale, 47, did not react Thursday when a jury in State District Judge Bill Harmon's court found her guilty of voluntary manslaughter for the May 25, 1989, death of Sarah Murray, 75.

Because jurors found Ms. Dale used a deadly weapon, an unknown device, to strangle her mother, she will have to serve at least 15 years in prison before she is eligible for parole, prosecutor Donna Cameron said. Ms. Cameron had asked jurors to sentence Ms. Dale to the maximum of life in prison.

Ms. Murray's 88-pound body was discovered by a homicide sergeant on June 15 when he went to the apartment to look for the elderly woman after other relatives reported her missing.

Baby found in Dumpster

HARLINGEN (AP) — A 20-year-old woman has been charged with murder in connection with the discovery of a newborn baby found dead in a trash Dumpster at a shopping mall.

The body of what authorities named "Baby Boy Doe" was found April 13 at Valle Vista Mall, Harlingen's largest shopping center. Police said the six-pound, six-ounce baby's umbilical cord was still attached when a man looking for cardboard boxes found him inside a plastic bag in the trash bin.

Police on Thursday arrested 20-year-old Eva Marie Christiansen of San Benito at a business at the mall where she worked. She was charged with murder and remained in the Cameron County Jail on Friday in lieu of $50,000 bond.

Customs agents held

LAREDO (AP) — A Mexican official said two U.S. Customs special agents were detained at Ciudad Acuna, Mexico, for about 20 hours by Mexican Federal Judicial Police, and accused of carrying weapons without authorization.

Judy Turner, a spokeswoman for the Customs regional office in Houston, said the agents were released at about 3 p.m. Thursday. She said the agents were "following up on details of an ongoing investigation they were conducting."

She declined Friday to release their names or reveal the nature of the investigation.

Mario Najera, Mexican Consul in Del Rio, identified the two as James McNair and Bob McBride. Najera said they had four weapons when they were detained in Ciudad Acuna.

"The agents were in a foreign country with weapons and, it seems, working on a narcotics investigation," Najera told The Laredo Morning Times. "Those matters are investigated only by the Mexican Attorney General's Office."

Kirby tells state school districts to remain in operation

By Rick Brown
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Commissioner of Education William Kirby Friday warned school districts to stay open even if Gov. Bill Clements and the Legislature can't agree on a school finance plan by a court-ordered May 1 deadline.

Some school administrators already have told their employees they will be unable to meet payrolls if the state is prohibited from distributing aid checks on May 25.

The ban on aid is one option a Travis County district court will consider in a hearing that is scheduled the same day as the May 1 deadline.

Kirby told superintedents in a letter that an injunction against state aid distribution that the court is being asked to enforce does not preclude district use of local money or from borrowing to keep schools open.

"The injunction does not require or authorize any district to operate for fewer than the statutory number of days," he said.

The commissioner said the state plans to file a request for an extension of the deadline in the event that Clements and lawmakers are unable to find compromise.

School districts that are unable to find additional operating money must get permission from the Texas Education Agency to close, said Kirby. The agency would consider the requests on a "case-by-case basis," he said.

Kirby said that only "extremely extenuating circumstances" would justify a district operating less than the 175 days that constitute state law.

Meanwhile, the president of the 51,000-member Association of Texas Professional Educators has called on members to write their lawmakers in support of legislation allowing the state to make summer aid payments before the deadline.

ATPE President Carolyn Little of Ballinger said that school children and educators will suffer if the deadline is missed, "but the problem seems to lie with the Legislature and with the governor, so pressure must be applied."

The legislation would allow the state comptroller to issue checks for May, June, July and August at the same time he issues April checks at the end of the month.

Little said that members at election time next fall "should take a close look to see who has demonstrated leadership and responsibility in trying to solve this funding problem."

The House-Senate conference committee on education has agreed to funnel $550 million in new aid to districts next school year.

The House already has approved revenue measures that would provide a little more than that amount in new education aid. A proposed half-cent sales tax increase would contribute $448 million while budget cuts totaling about $117 make up the remainder.

The Senate is scheduled to act on the revenue measures next week.

The conference committee, which is attempting to reconcile separate Senate and House education measures, was scheduled to work through the weekend.

One sticking point is the different dollar allocation formulas each bill contains.

"You know how the process works," said Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur and Senate co-chairman of the committee. "You meet and you talk about stuff, and then you break up into little ones and twos and try to think of things that might sell."

Killer wants to be executed

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — A convicted killer who has spent about half his life behind bars was volunteering to be executed by injection early this morning for the murder of a cab driver.

"I just want to get it over with," Jerome Butler said last month when his execution date was set. "They could take these cuffs off me and walk me back to (death row) and I still won't resist. There won't be no appeals."

Butler, whose age on record is 54 although he claims to be several years older, was sentenced to death for the 1986 shooting death and robbery of 67-year-old Nathan Oakley of Houston. He has refused any interviews from prison.

Butler would be the 34th inmate to be executed since Texas resumed carrying out the death penalty in 1982. The total is the highest of any state. Nationally, he would be the 122nd person executed since a 1976 U.S. Supreme Court ruling allowed states to resume capital punishment.

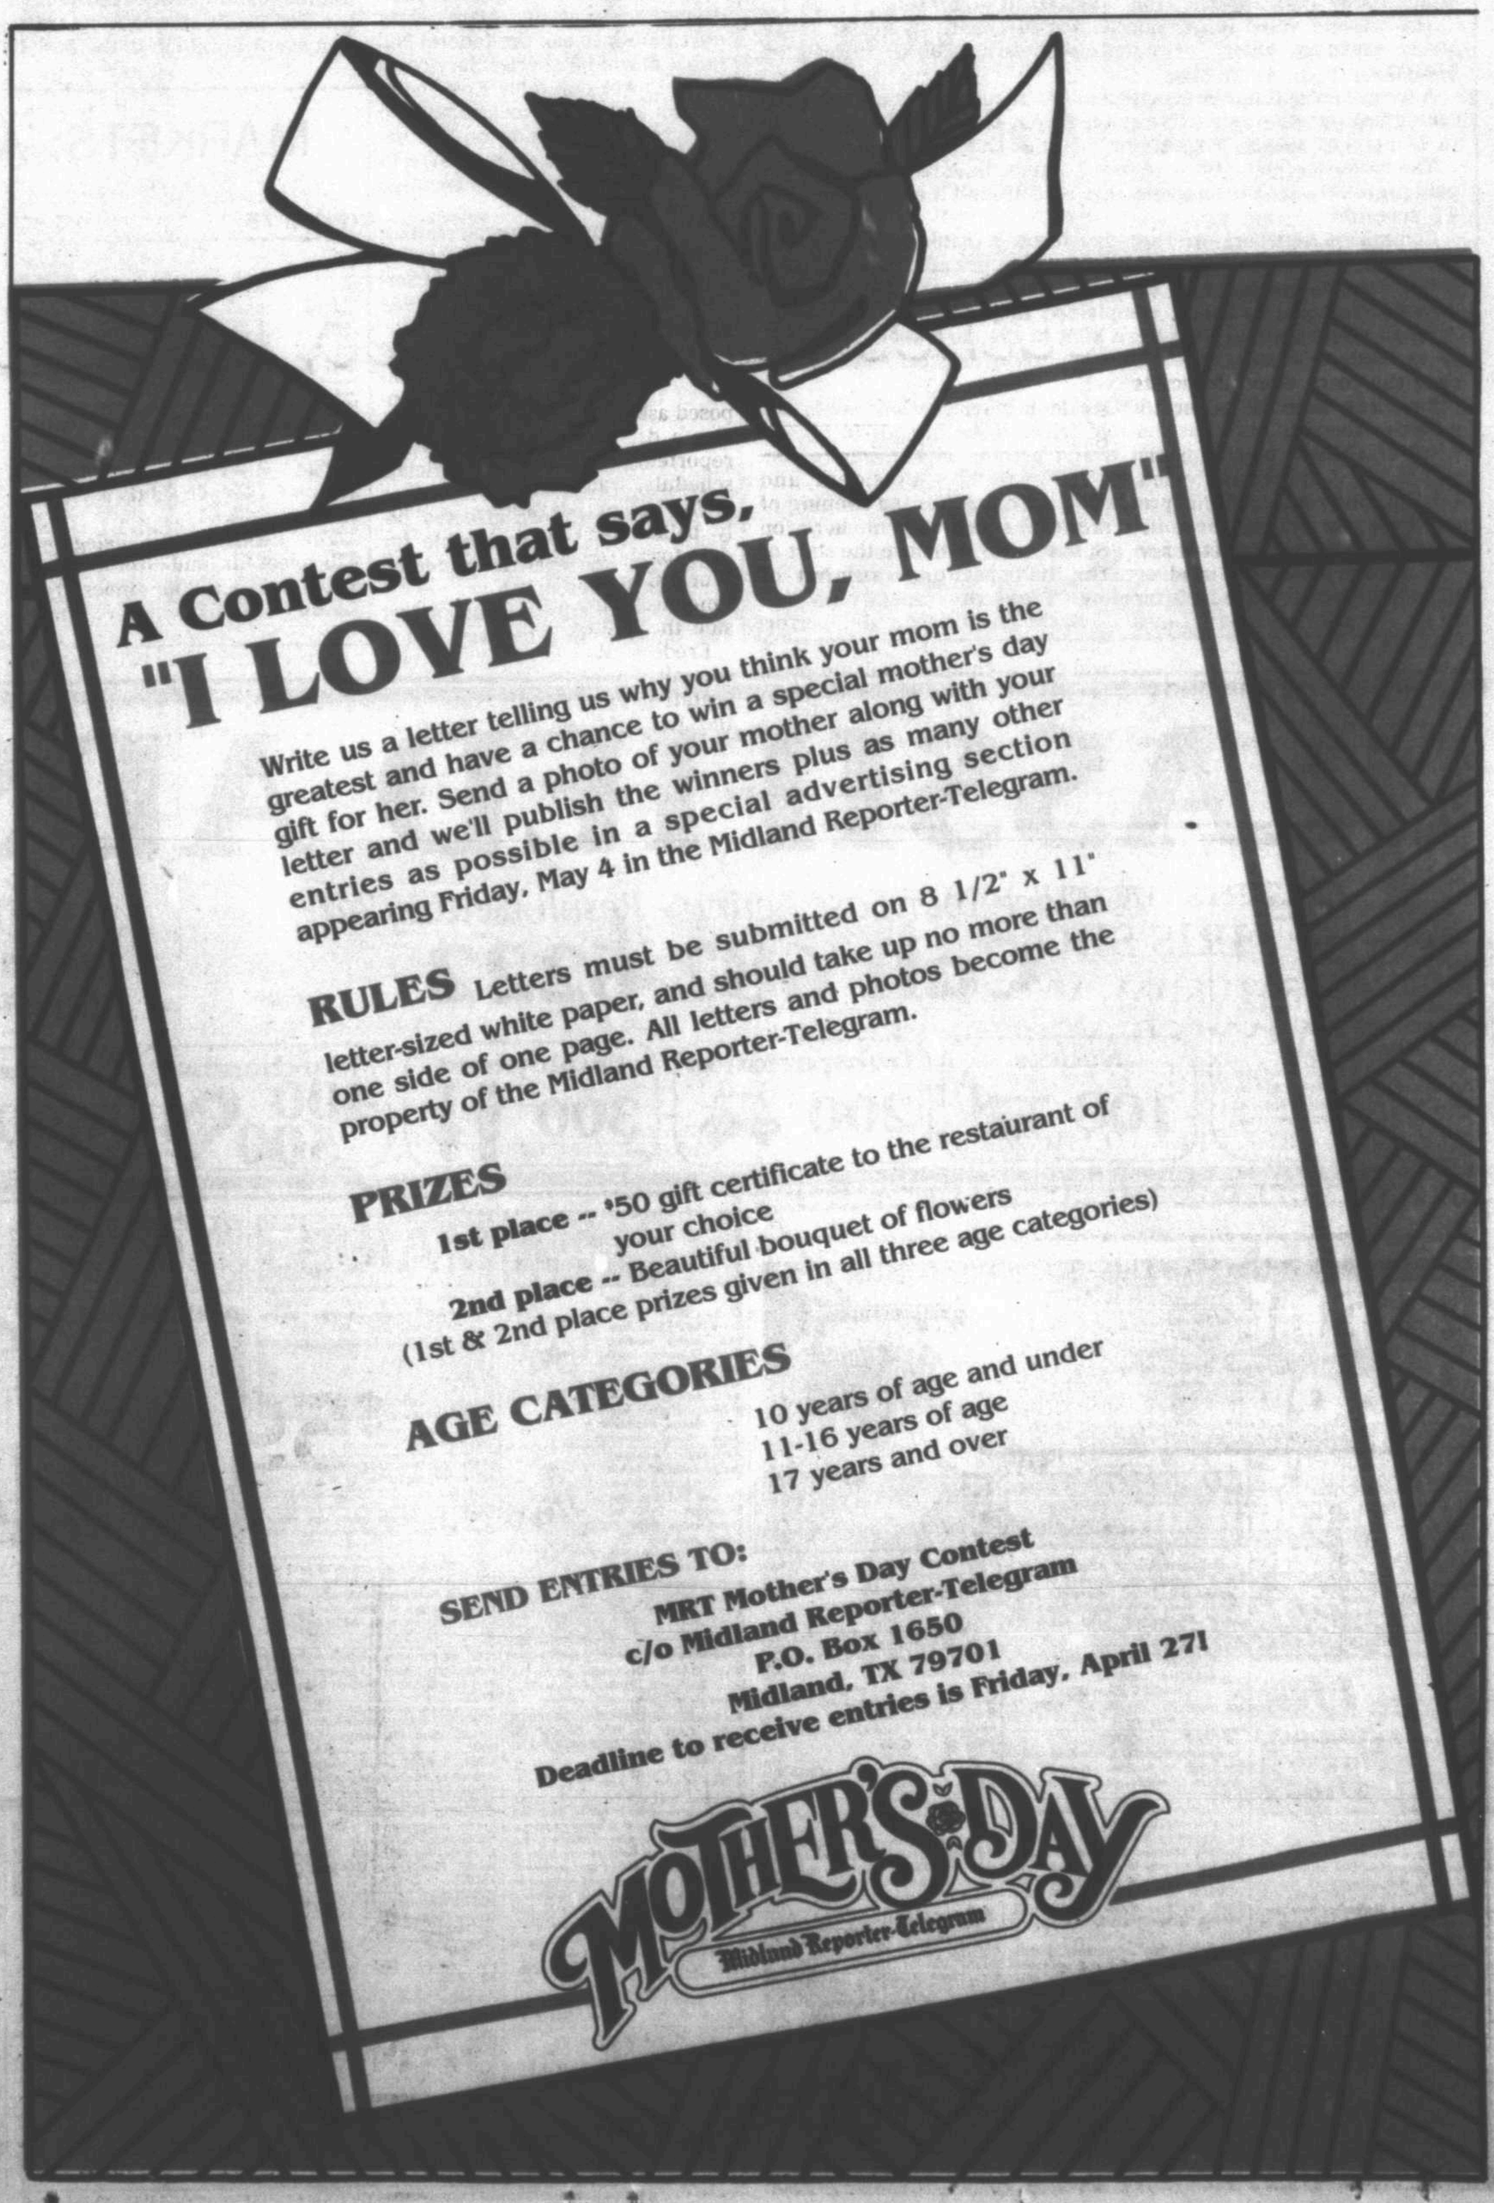

State corrections officials said Butler had not filed any appeals by Friday afternoon.

One of Butler's attorneys, Vic Pecorino, said Butler could be spared if he had a change of heart.

"Without cooperation from him, what are you going to appeal?" Pecorino said.

Prosecutors said Butler may have killed Oakley because the cab driver recognized Butler as the man who killed his friend, A.C. Johnson, in 1973. Butler served 10 years of a 30-year prison term for that slaying.

"This is what I've been waiting for — for this moment — to know this man can not take away another wife's husband and children's father," Oakley's widow, Robbie, said Friday. "It's been a difficult 3½ years. I wish I could be there to see it."

Oil drilling ban supported

KEY LARGO, Fla. (AP) — President Bush's silence on environmental policies affecting Florida's Keys during his visit has not been matched by activists. They're using his vacation as a forum to call for an offshore oil drilling ban.

Several organizations have announced plans for demonstrations this weekend in Islamorada, where Bush has scheduled a fishing excursion and a ceremony honoring a coral reef preservation group on Sunday. One group has promised daiquiris mixed in solar-powered blenders.

Also, some officials have criticized the administration's inaction on the oil drilling issue and Sunday's upcoming Earth Day celebrations to assail Bush, who proclaimed himself the "environmental president" while campaigning.

"For Bush to remain silent when all of the Florida Keys is opposed to offshore oil drilling is appalling," said Ann Whitfield, executive director of the Florida Public Interest Research Group. "This would have been the time to act, but he missed an opportunity to show he has a real interest in the environment."

Bush has said he is willing to ban drilling in some environmentally sensitive areas, but stopped short of guaranteeing protection of the Florida Keys.

Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., urged Bush to ban oil drilling and support a Coast Guard plan to move shipping lanes farther from fragile reefs off the Keys, where three freighters ran aground last year.

"You know all the arguments and I look forward to the day when we will spend our time telling fish stories instead of debating the issues," Fascell said in a letter to Bush issued Thursday.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Thursday that Bush will not make a policy announcement on the oil drilling issue this weekend. Fitzwater said a task-force report on oil drilling off Florida and California needs more study.

The special presidential task force issued its report in January, but the findings have not been disclosed. A temporary moratorium on oil exploration on key tracts off California and Florida expires Oct. 1.

There are 73 leases issued to oil companies off Florida's southwest coast affected by the present moratorium. In California, oil companies have proposed developing millions of acres off the state's central and northern coasts.

On Saturday, Greenpeace and several others groups will hold a mock "before and after" protest to illustrate the damage an oil spill would have on the Keys' sensitive coral reefs and mangrove coastline.

The following day at the lodge where Bush is staying, members of Environmental Solutions Inc. have scheduled an exhibit to show energy alternatives to oil. An invitation to the event promises daiquiris mixed in solar-powered blenders.

Among the proposals endorsed by environmental groups is revoking the 73 oil leases and permanently banning off-shore drilling south of 26 degrees north latitude, a bill co-sponsored by Florida's two U.S. senators. That latitude runs across Florida roughly from Naples to Fort Lauderdale.

A ban on oil drilling in the Everglades is scheduled to be considered next month by Gov. Bob Martinez.

"We have a unique opportunity here as environmentalists — to solve a problem before it becomes a problem," said Ms. Whitfield.

On Key Largo, the threat of an oil spill from a tanker or off-shore rig is particularly worrisome to those who make their livings off the reef and the clear waters.

"One oil spill — one mistake — and the Keys as we know them are gone," said Anthony Greene, who operates snorkling tours. "It's goodbye Keys, hello New Jersey."

Studies of a 1986 oil spill off Panama show severe damage to coral reefs and oil seeping deep into the sediment in the mangrove areas, said Lisa Speer, senior scientists at the New York-based Natural Resources Defense Council.

Higher education chancellor resigns over pay raise furor

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The head of the 20-campus California State University system abruptly resigned today at a special meeting of the trustees, who then rolled back large pay raises she had given herself and top executives.

Chancellor Ann Reynolds, who heads the nation's largest four-year and graduate-level university system, would have had her annual salary rolled back $59,000, from $195,000 to $136,000.

The trustees voted to cut salaries for 26 executives to last July's levels, meaning college presidents will earn $110,000 instead of $145,000.

A trustee subcommittee recommended the rollback Thursday after taking testimony on raises that ranged from 43 percent for Reynolds to 17 percent and 26 percent for deputies and college presidents.

The raises sparked a furor in part because the salaries of the best-paid professors at CSU campuses scattered around the state rose only 4.8 percent.

Committee members on Thursday focused their protests on the process in which the raises were approved in private. Trustees, who had delegated authority for salaries to Reynolds and board Chairwoman Marianthi Lansdale, complained they were not consulted.

Board members said they were kept in the dark about a consultant's study of comparable higher education markets and salaries commanded by their top executives.

Reynolds, chancellor since 1982, said her resignation would be effective Dec. 31, 1990, but she told trustees she intends to take a leave of absence beginning Oct. 1 and become a professor in the future.

Before her resignation, Reynolds had apologized for the controversy, but stood behind the salary raises. She said they were years overdue, but that she failed to get that information out.

"I think I was remiss in recognizing the impact this would have," Reynolds said at Thursday's meeting. "I take responsibility for it."

Endangered listing may reduce fishing

Hearst News Service

SEATTLE – Moves to declare three varieties of Columbia and Snake River salmon endangered could drastically reduce fishing on the two rivers and the amount of water to generate power.

Oregon Trout, a Portland-based conservation group, plans early next month to ask the federal National Marine Fisheries Service to place Lower Columbia River coho salmon and three stocks of Snake River chinook salmon on the national endangered species list, said Bill Bakke, the group's executive director.

The Shoshone-Bannock Indian tribe in Idaho already has asked the National Marine Fisheries Service to designate Snake River sockeye salmon endangered.

It would be the first such designation for Pacific Northwest salmon. If the stocks are classified endangered, water allocations for power production and irrigation could be substantially cut, officials said. They said fishing for other stocks also could be affected because it would be impossible for fishermen to separate protected from unprotected fish.

Protecting salmon could affect fish harvest "in a big way and it could affect dams and power in a big way," says Bob Lohn, attorney with the Northwest Power Planning Council. "What we're looking at is major consequences."

Bakke, interviewed this week, said the runs of those particular salmon have generally declined in numbers and quality even though the Bonneville Power Administration spent $1 billion in the past 10 years to improve conditions for migrating salmon passing over Columbia and Snake River dams.

He said that hatchery programs have produced more fish, but that many have been lost to disease and others aren't strong enough to survive river conditions and produce new broods of strong fish.

He said figures compiled from the Army Corps of Engineers and Idaho state fish and wildlife experts show the Snake River chinook runs were cut in half from 1966 to 1988 after four Snake River dams were completed.

Only four sockeye salmon, the species the tribe wants protected, entered the Snake River last year, compared with 22 in 1988 and an average of 78 per year from 1979 to 1988.

Thinking of leasing a new apartment?

Consider the comments of this Rental Expert.

Initially, I thought all rental agents were the same - they just wanted to lease apartments.

Yet, at Polo Park they really did try to help me find just the right apartment to suit my needs. Plus, they helped me get familiar with the area and made my move a pleasant experience.

But the final factor affecting my decision to lease my new apartment from Polo Park was the "We Care" Attitude of the entire staff and the service and attention I received personally. I really felt like my concerns were important and when it comes to making a decision about moving I feel thats important.
