Carrier Raid Smashes 357 Jap Planes

U.S. Sponsors Defense Plan

Other American Nations Would Join Under Supervision Of World Setup

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, May 15—Secretary of State Stettinius announced tonight the United States plans to invite other American republics to join in a mutual defense treaty arrangement under supervision of a proposed world peacekeeping organization.

In a statement proposing regional arrangement amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks formula, Stettinius said this government would ask its western hemisphere neighbors to join in negotiating a treaty "consistent with the charter of the world organization."

He said this action would be taken at the conclusion of the United Nations conference here.

Approval Implied

Stettinius' announcement implied approval by the Latin American nations of a formula under which the wartime inter-American defense agreement would be placed in operation under the proposed world organization. Future treaty agreements of the same nature would be carried out under the wing of the international league.

The charter amendment to be offered with the unanimous support of the American delegation would provide that nothing in the new league's charter should impair "the inherent right of self defense, either individual or collective, in the event that the security council (of the world organization) does not maintain international peace and security and armed attack against a member state occurs."

Measures to be taken under this self-defense authority would be reported immediately to the council and would "not in any way affect the authority and responsibility of the security council under this charter to take at any time such action as it may deem necessary in order to maintain or restore international peace and security."

It was not made clear immediately whether this proposed amendment has the support of others of the Big Five powers. There was doubt whether Russia had given its final approval, which could come only from Moscow.

U-BOAT SURRENDERS TO AMERICANS—A boarding party from an American naval vessel searches members of the crew of the first German submarine to surrender to U. S. forces since Germany's capitulation. Sub gave up off Cape May, N. J., on May 14. In the meantime, three others have surrendered off the U. S. coast and, with others now in port or enroute to port in Britain and Canada, the total in Allied hands is at least 35.

Nazi U-Boat, Crew Brought To Port After Surrender

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 15 (AP)—On her first mission, during which not one torpedo had been released from her tubes, the German submarine U-805 formally surrendered to the American Navy today, the second to give up in a United States port.

As the enemy craft was moored to a pier, naval officers told newsmen that one and possibly two more German U-boats probably would be surrendered here tomorrow.

Sailor Holds Tommy Gun

Capitalenleutenant Richard Varnardelli, the sub commander, conned his vessel into the harbor under the watchful eye of a U. S. Navy sailor who had a tommy gun ready and aiming at the German officer.

Varnardelli, whose Navy rank is equivalent to that of an American senior lieutenant, told naval intelligence officers that the vessel he was yielding to the United States was 15 months old and that her completion was delayed several times by Allied bombing raids. She was built at Swinemunze.

American Navy officers, reporting that the undersea craft "appeared intact," said she carried a crew of seven officers and 47 enlisted men.

The Navy removed all the Germans except three officers from the sub and brought them into the Navy yard on an American vessel.

They were lined up on the pier and each was asked in turn by a German-speaking American officer:

"Do you care to be interviewed by the press?"

In each case the answer was "nein."

Up spoke Varnardelli — Ingerman—from his now moored vessel: "I told them to say no."

That ended it as far as the newsmen were concerned.

The vessel arrived under escort of two U. S. Navy destroyer-escort vessels, which had taken her into "protective custody" several hundred miles at sea a few days ago. After Commander Alexander Moffat, USNR, accepted surrender and a complete examination had been made of the ship, she was taken with her crew to Portsmouth Navy yard.

Her arrival was delayed because of a northeast gale that swept the previously appointed "surrender area" last Thursday night and Friday, a storm that made impossible operation of the "surrender ship," a patrol craft, and an accompanying patrol ship which carried the press.

Truman Hopes For Early Big 3 Meet

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 15.—President Truman expressed the hope today that a meeting with Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin could be arranged in the not far distant future to discuss the coming peace program. He was not ready, however, to talk about the time or place.

The chief executive made the statement in reply to a news conference question. On the foreign news front, he also:

1. Declared that the prime objective in working out a reparations policy is "absolute insurance against German or Japanese rearmament—ever again."

Free Press In Germany

2. Said General Dwight D. Eisenhower favored, with the President's support, a "free press and a free flow of information and ideas" in Germany consistent with military security.

3. Favored repeal of the Johnson act which bars loans to nations in default on their first world war debts to this country.

Domestically, the President spoke out emphatically against any reduction of taxes until Japan is defeated. He also asserted the country is going to have anthracite coal by whatever steps are needed to get it, and said the Veterans administration is going to be modernized and expanded, but that no immediate discharges of personnel are in sight.

Discussed With Eden

The President said he discussed prospects of a Big Three meeting yesterday with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

(Prime Minister Churchill also asserted in the House of Commons today, that he "devoutly hoped" for an early Big Three session.)

Mr. Truman was asked whether it would be possible for them to convene in San Francisco before the world security conference ends. He answered in the negative and gave no hint when the meeting might be held.

If one is held, he said, it will not be immediately nor will it be in the fardistant future.

The whole problem of peace would be expected to come up at such a meeting, including terri-

Savage Fight Marks Gains On Mindanao

By FRED HAMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Wednesday, May 16—Fighting so savage that Americans attacked Japanese with bayonets, knives and their fists, with at least two Yanks drowning enemy troops by holding their heads below the surface of a river, raged west of Davao city on Mindanao island today.

The Japanese had fled westward from Davao toward rugged mountains inland but their retreat was slowed by two rivers, the Talamo and Davao, between which Maj. Gen. Roscoe B. Woodruff's famous 24th division trapped them.

Island About Cleared

Meantime, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced in today's communique that Mindanao was 90 per cent liberated. Mindanao, with 36,906 square miles, is the second largest island in the Philippines.

The general also said Mindanao's population was 95 percent liberated. Zamboanga, third largest city in the Philippines, has 140,000 population and Davao, fourth largest, 100,000 before the war. The island probably exceeded 400,000 in population, much of the remaining civilians living along the north and northeast coasts and in the Del Monte airfield, liberated a few days ago.

On the Davao gulf front, the 24th division infantry was locked in a roaring battle with the Japanese. So fierce was the fighting that the 24th, Leyte's famed victory division battlers killed Japanese with bayonets and knives, slugged them with helmets and grappled, wrestler fashion.

Some Roll Into River

There were reports that some combatants rolled into the river, where at least two Yanks killed their adversaries by holding their heads under water. Woodruff's veterans slowly were squeezing the enemy back but the Nipponese were going all out in the savagery of their battling.

So determined are their infiltrations that land mines which the Yanks had unearthed and disarmed were recaptured by the Japanese, rearmed and replanted.

MacArthur said Japanese remaining on Mindanao have "been largely reduced to the hill masses along the central interior." That would place them chiefly in Bukidnon province, east and south of the 40th division's recent landing in Macalajar bay and pincered between the 40th and 31st Infantry divisions.

18 Airfields Are Pounded

Source Of Jap Attacks Battered As Okinawa Fighting Continues Bitter

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Wednesday, May 16—Carrier planes hammered 18 Nipponese homeland airfields and destroyed, damaged or strafed 357 enemy planes in a sweep beginning Saturday night and continuing through Monday.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, announcing the carrier raids on the fields from which Japan has been staging aerial onslaughts on the American forces at Okinawa, said fierce ground fighting continued there today.

Jap Blow Beaten Off

A strong Japanese counterattack on the west flank was beaten back by the 22nd Marine regiment of the Sixth division, veterans of Eniwetok and Orote peninsula, while 77th divisions troops captured "Chocolate Drop" hill about 1,800 yards northeast of fortress Shuri after five days of bitter fighting.

The three-day attack on Kyushu and Shikoku was the first American carrier strike in force since the inland sea raid of March 19. Radio Tokyo previously had reported 900 planes were involved.

It started with a torpedo plane strike on Kyushu Saturday night. Twelve enemy planes were shot down.

10 U. S. Planes Lost

Sunday and Monday 272 Japanese planes were destroyed or damaged and an additional 73 were brought under machinegun and rocket attack with unobserved results.

A barrage balloon was shot down.

A preliminary check revealed that 10 U. S. planes were lost.

Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's carrier planes also struck targets of opportunity during the two-way sweep.

Railroad installations in Kyushu were heavily hit. An oil train, four locomotives, a railroad station, a chemical plant and a number of large buildings were destroyed or seriously damaged.

Planes also struck buildings, barracks and aviation installations at airdromes in Saeki, Oita, Miyakonojo, Kikuchi, Ashiya, Gannosu, Kofuji, Usa, Izumi, Tachiarai, Chiran, Omura and Hitoyoshi on Kyushu; and at airfields in Kochi and Matsuyama on Shikoku.

Airfield installations at Kokubu, Kanoya, Chiran and Kagoshima on Kyushu were bombed Saturday night.

Two motor boats and two luggers were sunk and repair ships, seven torpedo boats, four luggers, a small cargo ship, four small craft and a tug were damaged.

The carrier strikes occurred while a great fleet of more than 500 Marianas-based Superfortresses fire-bombed Nagoya, on Honshu, third largest city in Japan and its chief aircraft production center.

On the second day of the carrier strike, Monday, escort carrier aircraft attacked airfield installations in the oft-bombed Sakishima group and struck enemy positions on Kume island, west of Okinawa.

Night fighters of the Second Marine aircraft wing struck targets in the Amami group, northern Ryukyus.

On Okinawa, at the suburbs of Naha, the 22nd regiment of the sixth Marine division hurled back an enemy assault in hand to hand fighting. The attackers were finally driven back into the interior of Takamotoji town with heavy losses.

Vinson Steps Into Meat Control Fuss

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 15 — War Mobilizer Fred M. Vinson was reported tonight to have stepped into the Capitol Hill-OPA controversy over meat price controls with instructions from President Truman to straighten things out.

Congressional sources, saying this was their information, added that they expected an order from Vinson or the OPA tomorrow or Thursday which would meet some of the criticisms voiced in a report by Senate food investigators.

Calls For Subsidy

This report called for a "fair and sufficient subsidy" to encourage feeding of cattle to heavier weights, price changes to give meat packers "a reasonable margin of profit for processing each species of livestock," higher support prices for hogs and removal of price controls whenever any commodity is in sufficient supply "so that the law of supply and demand can operate to keep the price . . . within reason."

Finally, it recommended that "a supreme administrator for food be created to have supervision and jurisdiction over both the Office of Price administration and the War Food administration."

The report was issued today by the Senate Agriculture committee after a two-hour closed session during which Senators Lucas (D-Ill) and Ellender (D-La argued futilely with the other members that it should be "toned down." They cast negative votes as the report was approved 13 to 2.

Claimed Too Drastic

Lucas issued a statement describing the report as "too drastic, too severe and too far-reaching."

The majority report said federal agencies "deliberately discouraged" feeding of cattle to top grades in 1943 because of a feed shortage and have failed to change policies although "adequate feed supplies" are now available.

It also asserted that OPA "has failed miserably to enforce price and ration-control regulations," expressed belief its enforcement staff is "inexperienced and unqualified" and has concerned itself "too much with petty and technical violations of legitimate operators rather than concentrating on an effort to criminally punish those who have been engaged in diverting meat from normal channels in total disregard of price and rationing restrictions."

Damper Clamped On Civilian Hope

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—The War Production board put a damper on hopes for quickly soaring civilian goods manufacture today, declaring materails will be insufficient for "anything like mass production" until after September.

Chairman J. A. Krug, at his first news conference since V-E day, said WPB "will stay in business as long as need be to safeguard the Japanese war program and the war-supported civilian economy."

Suggests Vacations

Krug also:

(1) Suggested a 1-week vacation for war workers this summer to let them "relax and prepare for the tasks that lie ahead before the Allies have attained complete victory. Plants should not close down, he said, and should arrange vacation schedules so as not to disrupt production.

(2) Reported that more than 200 B-29 bombers are being built every month, that 2,000 have been delivered so far, and that Japan can expect bigger than this week's 500-plane assault on Nagoya.

Cutbacks Are Less

Reporting that armament cutbacks have been less than anticipated, Krug gave this forecast on the release of various consumer items:

Manufacturing controls to be revoked before July 1, permitting "substantial manufacture" in July, August, and September: Vacuum cleaners, washing machines, sew-

War Surpluses To Be Shifted

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, AEF, Paris, May 1. (AP)—All usable American war material no longer needed in Europe will be transferred to the Pacific theater as quickly as possible, most of it being shipped directly, Brig. Gen. Morris W. Gilland, deputy chief of staff for supply in the European theater of operations, disclosed today.

Calling this theater a major base for the Pacific, Gilland outlined a broad program of redeployment of equipment, material and supplies which his organization must handle while still supporting troops remaining on the continent.

Troops Take Equipment

Troops going directly to the Pacific will take all their equipment with them, Gilland said. Those going to the United States will carry only their maximum essential equipment, leaving the rest behind to be serviced and then sent directly to the Pacific.

The end of the war in Europe found the American armies with more than 5,500,000 tons of supplies on the continent. This included 700,000 tons of ammunition and more than a million separate items ranging from locomotives to watch repair tools.

Gilland's organization is faced with the problem of rehabilitating packing and shipping much of this material. He pointed out that

MIDLAND, May 15. (AP)—The body of Basil Mims, 63, was found in the bathroom of his home today when friends went to inform him of the death of his brother, Percy Mims, 53, who died a short time earlier from a heart disease.

Cause of Basil Mims' death has not been announced. He lived alone near his brother's home.

Percy Mims, an insurance man, was president of the Midland school board and member of the Baptist church, Chamber of Commerce, Rotary club and other Midland organizations. He was stricken at his office early today.

Both Sides Suffer Heavily As Chinese And Japs Battle Fiercely In Foochow Seaport

CHUNGKING, May 15. (AP)—The Chinese high command said tonight that fierce street fighting was continuing in the east coast seaport of Foochow which the Chinese entered Friday and both sides were sufferin gheavy casualties.

The communique said Chinese troops had recaptured Chenghsien, communications center in Chekiang province north of Fukien province and 120 miles southwest of Shanghai. The communique said the Japanese offered only slight resistance.

The reoccupation of Chenghsien followed earlier recapture by the Chinese of Sinchang, 10 miles southeast.

In Hunan Province

In Hunan province where the Chinese stopped a Japanese drive on the American air base at Chihkiang the high command said enemy units were surrounded in the vicinity of Kaosha, 50 miles west of Paoching, main base of the Japanese Hunan offensive.

The high command said two Japanese regimental commanders were killed during fighting Sunday and Monday and announced that captured enemy documents showed that the Japanese 109th regiment of the 116th division has suffered heavy losses since the start of the Japanese drive in Hunan on April 9.

After a month's fighting only 304 men of the regiment were left and they are now surrounded northwest of Shanmen, north of Kaosha.

In support of the Chinese ground troops U. S. 14th Air force pilots killed more than 1,100 Japanese troops in Hunan, Honan, and Hupeh provinces, a communique from Lt. Gen. Albert Wedemeyer's headquarters said. In addition 13 enemy locomotives were destroyed and a number of river craft, including a gunboat were shot up.

Japs Cut Loose From Axis Pact

SAN FRANCISCO, May 15. (AP) Japan cut loose from Germany and other European countries today, radio Tokyo announced, abrogating all treaties with them including the tri-partite Axis pact.

This unanimous action by the cabinet, bearing the emperor's approval, brought a peace-feeler reaction in Anglo-American circles when it was forecast last week by Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo.

Today's decision, which was communicated without delay to Heinrich Stahmer, German ambassador to Japan, was reported in a series of wireless dispatches and broadcasts emanating from the Domei news agency and radio Tokyo and recorded by the FCC.

Follows Full Report

Domei said the government's decision to denounce the pacts and agreements came after Togo had given a "full report on the matter."

When Germany's unconditional surrender appeared near Togo stated Japan "reserved the freedom to re-examine all her relations with Germany." Simultaneously Gen. Jiro Minami, totalitarian party leader, declared Japan never had the "slightest intention of relying on the power of Germany in prosecuting her sacred war" with Britain and the United States.

Surrender of Germany later was denounced by Togo as a "flagrant violation" of the tri-partite pact between Japan and Germany because Nippon was not consulted.

Weather Pranks Are Plentiful

Unseasonally cold weather, accompanied by rain, hail and snow, sent shivering residents of the South Plains scurrying for their overcoats Tuesday, but the heavy clouds that hung over the entire area failed to deliver much-needed moisture.

Lorenzo was the center of nature's pranks with rain and hail falling in the morning, and a snow flurry in the afternoon.

Some Rain Here

Rain began falling in Lubbock about 11 o'clock Tuesday morning and continued through early afternoon, with a total of .29 inch reported by the experiment station east of town. Clouds continued unbroken late last night, promising more moisture.

Muleshoe received approximately one-half inch of rain, that being the heaviest rainfall in this region. Abernathy, Slaton, Levelland and Littlefield all reported light showers.

Moisture Not Sufficient

Farm officials last night were of the opinion that the rains had not been heavy enough to compensate for the long dry period, and said that more moisture is needed immediately.

Temperatures also joined the prankish forces of nature, the mercury dropping to 41 in Lubbock yesterday afternoon, just 24 hours after a 96 degrees was registered.

Warmer weather was forecast for today in the Panhandle and South Plains, with continued cloudiness.

Europe's Bewildered Wanderers Rapidly Repatriated As Army Takes Up Big Task

By KENNETH L. DIXON
Associated Press Staff Writer

IN GERMANY — With the war over, the long trek home—or to places where home used to be—is being shortened for Europe's wandering peoples who became political prisoners, slave laborers, or simply part of a frightened horde fleeing before the storm of conflict.

The energies of American armies have been turned toward getting these displaced persons back where they came from—and results have come swiftly.

The Ninth Army alone has repatriated 120,000 French, Dutch, Belgian and Luxembourger nationals from east of the Rhine in recent days. During the last week the average daily turnover has reached 10,000.

"That means that by early next week the entire Army area should be largely cleared of western Europeans who desire to be repatriated," said Capt. George Morgan, of Durham, N. C.

For the irst time since I returned to this sector a month ago, roads no longer are clogged with footsore wanderers. By trucks and railroads they are being shipped out as swiftly as possible. Those still waiting to go are being fed and clothed more adequately and housed whenever possible in various Army "DP" camps. Once they avoided these camps because, unable then to help transport them homeward, the Army only impeded their progress with red tape.

Now word has spread like a Gypsy rumor and the wanderers eagerly seek out such camps in order to take advantage of their quicker transportation.

The majority of those repatriated have been western Europeans since the military situation—not to mention political problems — has prevented the mass repatriation of eastern and southern Europeans.

"However, arrangements are now being made with the Russians to handle the transfer of those displaced personnel who have to pass through territory the Soviet Army now occupies, in order to reach their homes," said Capt. Morgan. "There is no reason to believe they won't be under way in a few days."

Harry Truman Widely Popular After First Month In Office

Seven Of Every Ten Americans Believe New President Is OK, Gallup Survey Discloses

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J. — Although President Truman stepped into the presidency at one of the most critical periods in world history and followed a man of overshadowing universal fame, he has so far received both the favor and support of an overwhelming majority of his fellow citizens.

In a coast to coast poll the Institute finds that more than seven out of every 10 voters express approval of him as the nation's chief executive. Republicans and Democrats alike indicate a friendly attitude in about equal proportions.

GALLUP

The poll also brings out the paradox that liberal Democratic voters, who idolized Roosevelt, tend to like President Truman because they hope he will carry out the policies of his famous predecessor, while conservative Republican voters applaud Truman because they believe he will be conservative and "safer." His success thus far in keeping both camps reasonably happy is probably because as yet he has not had to take any major stand markedly on the left or on the right.

When the Institute in its poll asked the people of the country—the clerks, shopkeepers, workers, farmers, businessmen, housewives—what they would like to see President Truman do in the next four years, the results show that people who vote the Republican ticket and people who vote the Democratic ticket are substantially agreed on three major policies, but differ on a fourth.

The rank and file of both Democrats and Republicans want to see the administration (1) help create a world organization for peace, (2) continue vigorously the war against Japan, and (3) set up a program of aid and rehabilitation for veterans, including jobs for them.

Disagree On FDR

But on a fourth major point referred to more often than any issue except establishment of world peace, there is disagreement between Republicans and Democrats, liberals and conservatives. One group, mostly Democrats, wants Truman to be like Roosevelt in his social philosophy, to "follow what Roosevelt has done," and to "stay liberal."

The other group wants Roosevelt's domestic policies altered. They want Truman to "get back to the Constitution," "give America back to the Americans," eliminate bureaus, fire New Dealers. This program of "conservative" domestic policy is, in fact, named by Republicans more often than any other issue, as the thing they look for in Truman.

While the country's attention is focused on war issues, the creation of peace machinery, and international questions generally, the new President's honeymoon period promises to be quiet politically, because there is wide public agreement on all those things. It is when attention returns to domestic issues, and conservative and liberal wings both demand the President's support for their cause, that the White House will likely have its difficult moments, politically.

Right now there can be little doubt of President Truman's popularity. Voters in the poll were asked:

"What is your opinion of President Truman?"

A large majority of both Democrats and Republicans expressed the opinion that he is a good man, sincere, honest, hard-working, who made a good start and has done well so far. Among Democrats 74 per cent expressed this view, and another 10 per cent indicated a qualified approval. Among Republicans 71 per cent expressed approval of the President in varying degrees. Actual disapproval of Truman amounted to only 4 per cent in the case of the Democrats, and 10 per cent in the case of Republicans, the chief criticism being that he is "to inexperienced for such a big job" and "too much mixed up with city bosses."

Ceiling Ordered On Auto Repair Labor

Beginning June 14 local car owners will have no more cause to mutter dire threats of mayhem directed toward automotive repair men with regard to high prices in Lubbock shops, Arthur Bullock, Office of Price Administration information director in the local office, said Tuesday.

A new ruling through the local office clamps "specific limit on labor that may be charged in figuring prices" in automotive repairs for 56 common repair jobs. This ceiling extends from such common work as minor brake adjustment to installation of crankshaft and bearings, the announcement disclosed.

Charges and labor hours were determined from a survey of 16 well known makes of cars, and established by manufacturers of autos. The prices to be enforced were set forth in flat rate mahuals or labor schedules in March, 1942.

Listen!...You can hear it so plain...
It's the rumbling of guns across the sea.
It's the tramp of marching feet...
It's shaking the earth tonight
and it's coming closer and closer.

Listen...The sound of voices...
Voices from the beachheads...voices from the foxholes
Voices of the living...voices of the dead
They're talking to you...they're saying it again and again...
"Are you with us?...Are you with us?...Are you with us?"

You can't forget those voices!...
They'll follow you wherever you go...
They won't let you sleep...
"Are you with us?...Are you with us?"

Answer them! Answer them!...
You must...
Tell them, yes...tell them they're not alone...
Tell them you're backing them up with more bonds than ever before...
Bonds for attack...Bonds for Victory...
Bonds for the future of the world.
Tell them now...now, while there's still time
Now, when every ounce of effort is needed!

Have you any idea what it costs to run a war? Have you ever thought how much it takes to buy a bomber—a tank—an "alligator"? Well, a B-29 bomber—the kind of air ship that's been blasting away at Tokyo—costs $600,000. An M-4 tank—just one tank—with bulldozer blades runs, roughly speaking, about $67,000. And an "alligator" takes just $30,000 out of Uncle Sam's pockets! And that's why you and you and you have been asked to lend—not give—more of your money in this 7th War Loan!

Answer them...buy more War Bonds! Make the mighty 7th War Loan a knockout blow.

German 'Rape Racket' Beaten As Army Bares Subtle Sex Campaign

By KENNETH L. DIXON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE AEF IN GERMANY, May 15.—Early as it is in the occupation of Germany, the American Army already appears to have won one major battle against an evil which might have seriously undermined its authority.

It was the battle of the fake rape cases.

As yet, few level-headed high Army officials are certain whether it was an organized campaign of subtle sex sabotage or merely a sort of individual feminine guerrilla campaign.

Whatever its origin—either individual or collective — it has pretty definitely failed.

Rape Very Serious

To understand the seriousness of the original situation when American troops first swept into Germany it must be realized that, for both moral and disciplinary reasons, our Army views rape as civilian courts view murder.

American soldiers have been hanged for rape in several European countries where this war has been fought.

Word of the American Army's penalty for rape obviously filtered into Germany. That at least some Nazi-minded frauleins heard of it and made their plans is now a matter of record. Others perhaps "innocently"—if that word is fitting—fell into the scheme.

Suddenly in Germany the military police began to be approached by numbers of women crying "rape!"

Rapid Fire Action

Arrests were made immediately, but investigations prior to courtsmartial began to unearth many discrepancies, for instance:

Out of three such complaints to one division, medical investigation revealed that two of the girls were virginal and civilians testified that the third was a known prostitute.

All three finally admitted they had been prompted by the departing Germans to try the rape racket as a means of harassing American troops.

Several cases of German girls found fraternizing with doughboys first appeared as sex cases. The frauleins realized they had been found out and mistakenly thinking they too would be punished for such fraternizing they immediately cried "rape" in hopes of saving themselves.

Punishment Differs

The soldiers were punished for such fraternizing — but there's a difference between a $6 fine and hanging.

There probably is less promiscuity here in Germany than in any other country where the Army has campaigned or garrisoned—including America.

It definitely can be assumed that the Army itself has adopted an extremely hardheaded policy concerning seemingly frantic frauleins who cry "wolf! wolf!"

Rape remains a hanging offense in the American Army—but no doughboy is going to the gallows simply on the word of a clever German girl.

German Homes Said Finely Furnished

TEMPLE, Tex., May 15 (AP) — "Most of the homes around Saarlautern and Fraulautern boasted Bavarian china, sterling silver, and fine mahogany furniture," says Lt. Howard D. Ford of Midland, Tex.

Ford, now at McCloskey General hospital, was with the 65th division when it was slowly cracking a part of the Siegfried line. "We advanced about three miles in twenty-one days," Ford says. "The front line was the house next door or the building across the street which hid a German machine gun."

Ford lost his right leg when he stepped on a mine. He was leading a patrol into an apparently deserted village. His wife, Mary, resides in Midland.

Ranchers Tilt Against Grazing Fee Increase

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., May 15 (U.P.)—New Mexico ranchers today were absolutely opposed to any increase at the present time in fees for land controlled by the grazing service.

Sixteen livestock men are testifying at a Senate subcommittee hearing in Albuquerque on public lands. The hearing, which closes today, is conducted by Senators Carl Hatch of New Mexico, Chan Gurney of South Dakota, and Raymond Willis of Indiana.

Yesterday the ranchers showed willingness to discuss an adjustment of fees for land controlled by the grazing service after the war, but opposed any increase now.

The stockmen said that production costs already had soared so high as to cut profits drastically or even cause losses.

PLANT TO REOPEN

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP) — The Defense Plant corporation announced today that at the request of the War department it has authorized the reopening for full production of its magnesium facilities in Velasco, Tex., operated by Dow Magnesium corporation. It has been in standby status since Dec. 1.

Comprehensive Plan For Cotton South Aired By Committee

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP) — A comprehensive agricultural conversion program for the cotton South came up for discussion today at a meeting of the House Agricultural committee.

The idea was first suggested last December by Agriculture Secretary Wickard as a possible approach to overcoming the south's dependence on cotton. A more detailed study has since been made by the bureau of agriculture economics.

As outlined by the bureau, the conversion program would call for "a competitive price for all cotton so as to increase consumption and encourage production of the south's leading crop by farmers who could grow it efficiently."

Shift To Other Fields

It also would assist farmers who cannot grow cotton profitably to shift to other farm enterprises, and would assist underemployed members of the region's dense farm population to leave agriculture altogether for productive work in industry or trade.

"Conversion," says the bureau, "would mean fewer and larger farms, better farm income and a higher agricultural income for the whole region."

Coupled with agricultural conversion, as outlined by the bureau, would be "a broad program to encourage greater industrialization in the South. Obviously, people should not be encouraged to leave farms unless they have good jobs to go to in other lines.

"Also, more industry and trade in the South will mean better markets for the farm people who remain on the land."

Big Drop In Workers

The study contemplates that by 1956 southern workers in agriculture would total only 2,820,000 compared to 4,356,000 in 1940, while the number of non-farm workers in the same period would increase from 8,202,000 to 13,080,000.

To cushion the conversion and the lowering of cotton prices to a competitive level, the bureau said gradually decreasing government payments would be made. The cost of the program to the government for the first decade was estimated at $460,000,000. It would drop sharply thereafter.

The program is predicted on the bureau's belief that efforts to maintain the position of cotton by artificial price supports are "doomed to failure in the long run."

AMUSING JUNIOR

TRYING to keep Small Fry amused when he is forced to stay indoors is a task for many mothers. Here's an idea for a small boy who likes to whittle.

Instead of having him clutter the floor with useless wood shavings, give him your accumulation of dried slivers and scraps of soap and let him whittle them into thin flakes for use in the washtub or dishpan. This should provide a lot of fun for him but be careful about the knife he uses. We don't want to catch the blame if he whittles off part of his thumb or forefinger.

MAJ. DAVID JONES

PERHAPS you overlooked the news that Maj. David Jones of Winters, a prisoner of the Germans since Dec. 4, 1943, has been liberated and has cabled his wife that he expects to be back in the states soon. Maj. Jones' plane was shot down after a raid over Bizerte, North Africa, and subsequently he became a war prisoner in Germany.

He was one of the volunteer pilots who took part in the first bombing of Tokyo on April 18, 1942, under the leadership of Gen. Jimmy Doolittle. Capt. Ted Lawson wrote many incidents about him in his book, "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo," and his wife also was portrayed in the film version of the book.

LT. MARY LEE CARPENTER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Carpenter who live five miles northwest of Littlefield, was on the USS Comfort, hospital ship loaded to capacity with 700 wounded servicemen off Okinawa, when it was attacked by a Jap suicide plane.

Twenty-nine men were killed, 30 wounded, most of whom were doctors. Six Army nurses were killed and three wounded as a result of the dive.

The Carpenters felt great anxiety, knowing their daughter was on the ship, until they received a cablegram from her the other day. The ship was able to proceed to Guam under her own power.

OPA Makes Plans For Handling New Items

DALLAS, May 15 (U.P.)—Gus W. Thomasson, district OPA director, said today his office is ready to handle its biggest job—that of working out prices for civilian items returning to the market and for new items soon to hit the stores under reconversion.

Back from a conference in Washington, the district OPA chief said his office will handle the pricing program for reconverted small businesses—those doing $100,000 or less gross business a year.

Thomasson said small firms, swinging back to civilian production, will be given authority to fix their own prices and submit the lists to district OPA offices. The lists go to Washington for final approval.

Thomasson said it generally is understood in Washington that government agencies will go back to a 40-hour week about July 1.

U. S., Britain Say Slav Forces Must Vacate Province Of Istria

By PHIL AULT
United Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 15.—A British foreign office spokesman confirmed today that the United States and Britain have sent notes to Marshal Tito making "very clear" their opposition to Yugoslavia's unilateral occupation of pre-war Italy's province of Istria.

Diplomatic sources said the notes demand that Yugoslavia withdraw all her forces from Trieste and the rest of Istria without delay.

Not An "Ultimatum"

Though the notes were firm, the foreign office commentator said any suggestion of an ultimatum "would be much too hard a way of putting it."

The notes, identical or at least similar, were en route to Tito, the commentator said. Other sources said they already had been delivered in Belgrade by the American and British ambassadors.

Premier Stalin has been informed of the action taken, it was understood.

Both Yugoslavia and Italy have laid claim to Istria. Yugoslavia Partisan forces liberated the province from the Germans, ousted most Italian civil and even church officials and set up their own military government.

Up To Peace Conference

The United States and Britain have taken the position that Istria's disposition should be left to the peace conference. They contend that Yugoslavia, as an interested party, should not occupy the area in the meantime.

Diplomatic quarters saw two possible solutions:

1. Withdrawal of Yugoslav forces from Istria.

2. The placing of Yugoslav forces under Marshal Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, supreme Allied commander in the Mediterranean, by Marshal Tito.

The British foreign office spokesman said that Tito agreed last February in Belgrade that the whole of Italy must be under Alexander. But Yugoslavia now claims that rightfully Istria is Yugoslav territory, not Italian.

Military Ready To Take Over

A Rome dispatch said a British Eighth Army military government EAM was ready and waiting to move into Trieste to set up a temporary Anglo-American administration if the Yugoslavs withdraw.

The Istrian peninsula, also known as the Slovene Littoral, totals only 3,000 square miles and originally was part of the old Austro-Hungarian empire. It was ceded to Italy in the 1919 peace treaty. The population now is mostly Italian.

Dispatches from Belgrade said Edvard Kardelj, vice-premier in Tito's government, expressed willingness to wait on the peace conference for settlement of the Yugoslav-Italian border, but insisted on the right of Yugoslav forces to occupy Istria in the meantime.

British and American troops are in Trieste, out only by agreement with the Yugoslav commander to repair the port.

Truman Clears Up OWI Report

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP) — President Truman, reversing an announcement by OWI Director Elmer Davis, declared today that he favors a free flow of information in Germany, consistent with military security.

On May 10, Davis said information reaching the German public would be strictly controlled, and foreign newspapers and magazines (including American) would be barred for an indefinite period during military occupation.

He said "Germany is a sick man" and "can have only what the doctors prescribe" adding that the policy was arranged by the psychological warfare division of General Dwight D. Eisenhower's Allied headquarters.

No Such Orders Issued

President Truman at a news conference today, however, said General Eisenhower had informed him he "had issued no policy or order dealing with the importation of publications into Germany."

Mr. Truman said in a statement that he and General Eisenhower agree that while Germany cannot have full restoration of a free German press until Nazi and militarist influences have been eliminated, it should have freedom of press and information "consistent with military security."

The President said this position reverses the Davis announcement. Davis acted in good faith, Mr. Truman told reporters, but misunderstood the policy agreed upon.

Davis, upon being informed today of the President's stand, said: "I have nothing to say."

Two Women, Freed From Jap Camp, Visit Here, Recount Experiences

By OPAL DIXON
Avalanche Staff Writer

They were not treated cruelly—but they ate weeds.

Paradoxically as it may seem, that was the account of June Conant of the treatment of herself and her companions at the hands of the Japanese during internment as civilian prisoners on Luzon.

Miss Conant, 26-year-old attractive brunette, and Helen Lerner, blue-eyed blonde, sat in the Lubbock county Red Cross office Tuesday afternoon and related some of their experiences during imprisonment. They are visiting Miss Conant's brother, Eugene Conant of 1514 Avenue L.

Released February 23

They were released in the morning of February 23, when 130 American paratroopers dropped from planes, Filipino guerrillas moved in from the hills, and amphibious tractors carried them to safety. They were interned at Los Banos Jap internment camp at time of their rescue.

Tuesday afternoon they went to the Red Cross office to return clothing issued to them by the Red Cross on Luzon after they were removed from the prison camp along with 2,100 Americans.

They have had a "slight touch" of beri-beri—softening of the bone caused by malnutrition—but they were not treated cruelly. Miss Conant's mother, Mrs. E. T. Conant, also in the group of prisoners released and who also is visiting in Lubbock, weighed about 103 pounds before the war. She dropped to 67 pounds in prison and now weighs 87.

Care With Stories

Told to use care in describing their treatment at hands of the Japanese, telling nothing except what they personally had experienced, the two released prisoners who visited the Red Cross office used care. Miss Conant said she had "heard of some cruelty, but I have no actual proof of it."

"What we call systematic starvation started in October of last year," she said. "Up until then, we had had three meals a day, then they cut it down to two and latterly we had one. They told us they could not get food. They said the people of the United States were starving. Our committee went to the Japanese to ask for food and that was when they told us the people in the United States were starving and the United States Army was starving." Miss Conant was born in Hawaii, lived in the Philippines several years and spent seven years in California, attending three years of high school there and graduating from Mills college in 1940. She then went to the Philippines, to teach. She was on Negros when taken prisoner. She, her mother and her father, who is employed by the Hawaiian-Philippine Sugar company, evacuated to the mountains, then were among those who gave themselves up on advice of the American Army, on June 7, 1942.

Once Lived in Poland

Miss Lerner's original home is Poland. The family came to Europe in 1938, later went to Shanghai, where Miss Lerner's mother was an interpreter at the Polish consulate and her father was in the lumber business, and Miss Lerner went to Manila to visit friends in 1939. She was taken prisoner in Manila Jan. 25, 1942. She met Miss Conant in March, 1943, in Santa Tomas prison camp. Since then they have been together. Miss Lerner wanted to come to the United States and Mrs. Conant "guaranteed" for her. She has not heard from her own parents since 1942. Mr. Conant remained in the Philippines.

Although food could be obtained from the prison camp canteen, it was both expensive and limited. For instance, a banana cost about six or seven pesos, equivalent to about $3 in American money, and limit was one to a person. The price of an egg was about $5, and of one small coconut, about $4. Limes cost about 30 cents apiece. "That was about all we could buy, latterly," said Miss Conant.

Difficulty With Foods

After the prisoners were released, parents had difficulty getting their children to eat food like cream, cereal, sugar and eggs. They were accustomed to coarse cornmeal mush and rice.

During the latter part of their imprisonment, the captives received mush at 8 a. m. They would attempt to stretch one meal into three. Some of the mush would be saved for the noon meal and with it some greens or weeds—called "wandering jew"—which the Japs allowed them to pick and which filled them temporarily—and at night they would cook some of their allotment of rice, which was issued to them one pound to a person about three weeks before they were released, with the husk on. They rubbed the rice between two pieces of wood and "it took all day to get enough rice for one meal," said Miss Conant. About six weeks before the rescue, the prisoners were denied salt a week.

Each internee had to serve two hours of camp detail a day and Misses Lerner and Conant worked for the camp kitchen. During the remainder of the time they had to keep their space clean, do laundry, "try to get a meal together," and do the tedious job of cooking it on a clay stove, with wood fire.

Here Two Of Three Months

The two young women plan to stay here about two or three months, after which they will go to Southern California, where they expect to work. Miss Conant may leave sooner.

The brother and son they are visiting, Eugene Conant, is employed by the United Geophysical company.

Being free, being able to walk around, being able to talk without fear of being overheard by the enemy, and being able to eat all they want are the principal advantages of being out of prison camp, said Miss Conant.

Canada was the sixth largest importer of rubber in the world before the war.

News Briefs

After 18 months in the southwest Pacific, David William Kennedy, seaman 1/c, is back in Lubbock on a 30-day leave. He is visiting his mother, Mrs. H. V. Rice, and brother Fred at 2306 Seventh. Mrs. Rice is a member of the faculty of K. Carter school. Kennedy has served in the Navy about two and a half years, having volunteered at the age of 17 when he was a student at Lubbock High school. His overseas service was mostly on an aircraft repair ship. At the end of his leave he will report to Dallas for reassignment.

Floyd Co. Pioneers Reunion Set May 29

FLOYDADA, May 15. (Special.)—Annual reunion of Floyd county pioneers will be held in Floydada, May 29, it has been announced here by the officers and directors following a meeting in which plans for the event were made.

A parade will be held in the forenoon in which good horses and oldtimers will be featured, to be followed at noon by a special dinner for the first pioneers. The afternoon speech-making will be followed by contests of horsemanship and the evening will be given over to the annual square dance.

Two Posthumous Awards Set Here

Two of the highest awards made to American fighting men, one from the Navy and one the Marines, will be posthumously presented to the families of two West Texas heroes, who died in action against the Japanese, in ceremonies at the mayor's office here Tuesday at 2 o'clock.

The Navy Cross will go to Mr. and Mrs. Oma T. Gravitt of Levelland for exceptional gallantry shown by their son Lt. John C. Gravitt before being killed in September, 1944, on Peleliu island; and the Bronze star of the U. S. Marines will be given Mr. and Mrs. Douglass Witt, 2517 Twenty-second, for Pfc. Everett J. Witt, killed June 15 on Saipan.

Regular Navy Man

Gravitt was a member of the regular navy, having been in service some seven years. He has one brother a prisoner of the Japanese at Osaka camp; and a second brother was killed in 1941 at Hickam field with the Army Air Forces.

Witt joined the Marine corp in December, 1941 and had participated in the Marshall island campaign before landing on Saipan. With the H&S Battery, 4th 105mm Artillery Battalion, Howitzer Corp Artillery of the 5th Amphibious Corp, Witt had been ashore only 10 minutes before being killed in the intense artillery fire being laid down by the Japanese. He received the best of care after being fatally struck by shrapnel and lived 30 minutes after being hit. His company had been unable to land during the morning due to heavy opposition, and went ashore shortly after noon.

Other Awards Received

Witt wore the Asiatic-Pacific campaign ribbon with two battle stars. His family has received the Purple Heart posthumously awarded him, as well as the presidential citation given his unit. He is buried in the 4th Marine Division cemetery on Saipan.

Maj. Sidney J. Altman, officer in charge of the USMC Induction and Recruiting headquarters in El Paso, will journey to Lubbock early next week to honor the parents of the deceased servicemen.

FROM GUN DIRECTORS TO FARM TELEPHONES

Sharpshooting with anti-aircraft guns seems pretty remote from telephone science—yet Bell telephone research created an "electrical brain" that gives deadly aim to sky-pointing gunners. One gun in Normandy, controlled by the Western Electric gun director, bagged a Nazi plane in only three shots.

The same expert telephone research that developed the electrical gun director has already found new ways to extend and improve farm telephone service. Practical telephone men are busy right now planning how best to use those new ideas.

They'll be ready to go when the wartime telephone job eases up.

Senators Relate Terrible Story After Tour Of Nazi Horror Camps

By ALLEN DRURY
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Congress heard at first hand today a part of the terrible story of Nazi methods of rule by extermination.

A 12-man committee of both houses, fresh from a tour of German concentration and slave labor camps, verified many of the worst atrocity stories.

They told a tragic tale of filth, disease, starvation and murder.

Declaring the concentration camp practices to be "no less than organized crime against civilization," they demanded "swift, certain and adequate punishment" for those responsible.

Hope Of Future Justice

But despite the cruelty and horror they saw they held forth hope of future justice.

Senate Democratic leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, spokesman for the committee, voiced it this way:

"Through the sickening spectacle which we have witnessed . . . will come ultimately a firmer realization that men of all nations and tongues must resist encroachments of every theory and ideology that debases mankind. . . .

"A just and more enduring peace may arise upon the ruins and from the sacrifices which the human race has endured through one of the most crucial periods of its history."

The 12-man committee, invited by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to see the results of Nazi treatment of political prisoners and slave laborers, visited camps at Buchenwald, Nordhausen and Dachau.

Calculated Program

Barkley, who read his report to the Senate, charged that the camps constituted a "calculated and diabolical program of planned torture and extermination on the part of those who were in control of the German government."

He said the three camps visited were an "accurate cross-section" of the more than 100 such concentration and slave labor camps in Germany. Camps were largely conducted and controlled by SS troops and the Gestapo either acting under orders from superiors or "given wide discretion in the methods they were to adopt in perpetrating these hideous and inhuman sufferings."

He reassured the Senate at the outset that American prisoners of war were not incarcerated in any of the concentration camps.

"No prisoners of war are confined in any of these political prisoner camps," he said. "And there is no relationship whatever between a concentration camp for political prisoners and a camp for prisoners of war."

Classes Of Evidence

He said the committee based its conclusions upon three classes of evidence: Personal inspection, testimony of eyewitnesses among the prisoners and "common knowledge of the camp"—things not actually seen by the prisoners but which they all knew to be true from circumstantial evidence.

He said the committee saw with its own eyes:

1 "The barracks, the work places, the physical facilities for torture, degradation and execution."

2. "The victims, both dead and alive," of the atrocities practiced at these camps.

3. "The progress of liquidation by starvation which was still going on."

Indescribable Filth

"We saw the indescribable filth and smelled the nauseating stench before it was cleaned up, and we saw a number of victims of this liquidation process actually die."

The "hospital" at Buchenwald, Barkley said, was a place "where moribund (dying) persons were sent to die." No medicines were available, hence there was no treatment. Typhus and tuberculosis were rampant and death rates ran from 5 to 20 persons a day.

The "medical experiment building" at Buchenwald was used by scientists from Berlin who came down to inoculate "guinea pigs" with deadly diseases. Prisoners were induced to "volunteer" for this by being promised better living quarters and more food.

Trucks Collected Bodies

Roll call at Buchenwald was held every evening and trucks collected the bodies of all who had died during the day as well as live prisoners who were to be executed for political reasons.

The dead were taken directly to the crematorium. The living were forced down a 13-foot shaft, strangled and hung on hooks by SS men and then fed to the ovens.

The Nordhausen camp, Barkley said, was a combination factory and starvation center. Slave laborers were systematically starved to death, meanwhile being forced to work long hours at an underground factory which produced V-1 and V-2 bombs, airplane engines and munitions.

Dachau Not Better

At Dachau, Barkley said, the committee saw about 300 bodies of those who had died that morning. The Dachau gas chamber, he reported, could dispose of about 100 men at a time. Prisoners were also shot after being forced to kneel at the edge of open pits.

Barkley said the worst-treated prisoners were Jews, Russians and Poles. He said the committee was of the opinion that the collossal scheme of extermination—planned and put into effect against all those in occupied countries who refused to accept the principles of Naziism, or who opposed the saddling of the Nazi yoke on their countries.

Tire Allotments For May Increased Here

Arthur Bullock, director of information at the Lubbock district Office of Price Administration, has announced the tire quota for May in the area will be increased over the April allotments.

April, which was sliced 37½ per cent below the March output here, was one of the lowest months yet recorded and the new figures will fall below allotments in the previous month, with 2,741 more tires to be issued here than in April, still 1,183 less than alloted for March.

Supplements bring the combined total for May to 14,829 tires as compared to 11,048 for April. Other figures during recent months show December, 1944, to have issued 36,093 with February dropping sharply to 23,010. March was down even more at 16,012 tires as the quota before the greatest slice of all which came in April.

Bullock reminded local car owners that the increase is not a sign of plenty, however. He stated that care of tires is just as necessary now as at any previous time, and that no let-up in the still-tight rationing program could be foreseen by officials of that office.

AIR SERVICE RESUMED

STOCKHOLM, May 15. (AP)—Swedish airlines, using converted Flying Fortresses, will begin Friday their first direct flights to Paris since the outbreak of the war. The planes will carry both passengers and mail. Direct flights to Britain will be started May 21.

V-E Day Well Behind Original Plans Due To Die-Hard Nazis

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, AEF, May 15 (AP)—As swiftly as the war was won, it can be disclosed now that it took longer than Gen. Eisenhower and his staff had expected—longer by as much as five months.

But that was because of the Nazis' decision to fight on after military defeat into final collapse in the heart of the wrecked Reich.

On the basis of strategy and military success the campaigns from the African landings to final victory averaged up to or ahead of schedule.

In Africa, in Italy and on the Western front there were three big gambles, each of which might have shortened the war by months. They were the task force bid to seize Bizerte, the effort at Anzio to chop off all Italy south of Rome, and the Arnhem attempt to flank the German line in the west. None succeeded fully in that purpose.

The war was won by overwhelming military force and the application of that force brilliantly in classic breakthrough, rollup and envelopment tactics, all teamed closely with the development and use of the mightiest aerial striking power the world has ever known.

The Normandy campaign, which seemed to most unofficial observers to drag in its initial stages, actually moved off like clockwork.

It had been hoped that the British would be able to break through farther beyond Caen to close the Falaise gap slightly differently than it worked out. But any variance from plan or timetable was only in detail. The August breakthrough in France rolled up the German flank and created a whole series of envelopments.

Correspondents at SHAEF once were told the plan was five days ahead of schedule. That was the most pessimistic schedule—it was weeks ahead of what really was expected.

New York Giants Nip Chicago Cubs

NEW YORK, May 15. (AP)—The New York Giants clubbed Paul Derringer for four runs in the fifth frame today and went on from there to defeat the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 4, for their tenth triumph in their last 11 decisions.

Prior to the debacle Derringer had given up only one hit, a single to center by Nap Reyes in the third. Reyes added another single in the sixth to make it 6 hits in his last 6 official at bats.

Actually it was Weintraub's home run in the sixth with the bases empty off reliefer Bob Chipman that decided the contest. The veteran first baseman also opened the fifth-inning scoring splurge by working Derringer for a pass. It was Weintraub's sixth homer of the year and lifted him into a tie for the National League with Manager Mel Ott.

Van Lingle Mungo, who had to have help from Ace Adams, was the winning pitcher.

LITTLE BARGAIN—President Bill Klepper of the Portland Coasters claimed Marino Pieretti was worth $50,000 when Washington drafted him for $7,500, and now Clark Griffith agrees. The five-foot, 158 pound right-hander quickly established himself as a star.

Dykes Smiles While Chisox Idle In Rain

CHICAGO, May 15. (AP)—Manager Jimmy Dykes is singing in the rain these days, although a 10-game schedule lag by his first-place (for the moment) Chicago White Sox may give him a big headache later on.

When the weatherman again forestalled the Sox-New York Yankee series here today, it was the 12th postponement for the Chicagoans in 26 scheduled playing days. (One twice-postponed game with Cleveland was finally played).

All of which leaves the Pale Hose with seven games to be tacked onto their home schedule and three hangover road tilts with the season scarcely underway.

Dykes knows that means a two-way stretch for his pitching corps when the heat finally is on. But at this reading, cigar-munching James is enjoying the consternation his club has caused the experts who to a man awarded the Sox a second-division berth in pre-season master-minding.

The White Sox' 12-6 record, topping the second place Yankees (13-7) by 17 percentage points, is easy to explain. They are leading the league in hitting, are first in sacrifices, third in doubles and tied for second in triples.

Behind the veteran pitching of Thornton Lee, Joe Haynes, Ed Lopat and Orval Grove, the Sox defense has been amazingly alert.

Baseball Clinic Lines Up Big Name Teachers

DALLAS, May 15. (AP)—Three men well known in Texas baseball circles will be on the faculty of the baseball clinic sponsored by the Dallas News June 4-8.

The clinic will be held in connection with the Southwestern AAU Texas High school diamond championship tournament.

The News announced yesterday that Hank Severeid, former manager of the Wichita Falls Longview club and the San Antonio Missions; Al Vincent, manager of the Beaumont Exporters in 1937; and Arthur G. (Pinky) Whitney, former baseball star at Brackenridge High school, San Antonio, will be on hand.

Severeid became a major league catcher and is now a scout for the Yanks. Vincent is scouting for Detroit, and Whitney is known as a former third-sacker in the National League.

The lectures and field demonstrations of the clinic will be open to tournament players and coaches and all high school and college coaches.

San Antonio Golf Show Has Spotlight For This Week

SAN ANTONIO, May 15. (AP)—San Antonio's four-in-one golf championship tournament opens tomorrow with Jimmy Gauntt, Leland Gibson and Sam Schneider rated top contenders to capture the Texas P.G.A. crown—blue-ribbon prize of the links show.

The P.G.A. swings into 72-hole stroke play along with the Texas P.G.A. Women's Open championship, the P.G.A. Open tournament and the service men's tournament.

Gauntt Defending Champ

Gauntt is the defending champion of the P.G.A. and is rated a strong chance of repeating but Gibson and Schneider have been showing great form in tune-up rounds.

Favorites for the women's championship are Jo Henson, twice Monterrey Open winner, San Antonio city champion and 1942 Texas Publinx finalist; Betty Mims White and Joan Barr Tracy of Dallas. The latter won the recent All-Southwest women's tournament at Wichita Falls.

The servicemen's championship appears to rest between Gibson, who is at Randolph Field; Wally Ulrich of Brooks Field, former National Intercollegiate champion, and R. Hart of Fort Sam Houston.

The P.G.A. championship and the P.G.A. Open run concurrently with the ten top amateurs and ten top pros meeting Sunday in the annual Texas Cup matches.

The first 36 holes of the P.G.A. championship tournament will qualify for the National P.G.A.

Stars Drop Out

Jimmy Demaret of Corpus Christi, nationally-known pro at Corpus Christi Naval Air Station, was to have played in the P.G.A. but became ill and probably won't participate. Ben Hogan, the nation's leading money-winner until he entered the Army, also had been expected to play but hasn't been able to get away from his temporary station in California. He is in the Air Corps.

Betty Jameson, former National champion, and Babe Didrickson Zaharias who defeated Miss Jameson recently in a 72-hole match played for charity, have not put in appearance and probably will not participate in the women's open.

Tedd Houck of Borger turned in a fast 60 round over the Fort Sam Houston course today to slip into the picture. Frank Champ of Lake Charles, La., Sammy Schneider of Corpus Christi and amateur Lt. Jack Tinnin of Galveston each carded 70's. Champ and Tinnin will enter the open class, while Schneider is among the favorites in the championship division.

Derby Candidates In East Fade From Show

NEW YORK, May 15. (AP)—Kentucky Derby candidates from the East began to fade today as an epidemic of coughing spread through the barns at Belmont park and other trainers declared their horses were not of the caliber for the mile and one-quarter race at Churchill Downs, June 9.

Heading the list of three-year olds forced to the sidelines by the coughing is William Ziegler jr.'s Esteem, winner of only one race last year but a colt that gave every appearance of developing into a distance runner.

Trainer Matt Brady said he had given up hopes of getting the son of Stimulus--Esposa in shape for either the Derby or Preakness.

The coughing epidemic also hit Earl Sande's First Stage and had other trainers worried. Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, three times winner of the Derby with Gallant Fox, Omaha and Johnstown, said his Johnsport from William Woodward's Belair stud was not a Derby horse.

KENTUCKY RACES OPEN

LOUISVILLE, May 15 (AP)—Horse racing returns to Kentucky tomorrow with the opening of the Keeneland season at Churchill Downs here and featuring the $5,000 added Phoenix handicap for three-year-olds and upward at six furlongs.

Sinclair Lewis was the first American to win the Nobel Prize for literature.

McCloskey To Enter Casualty Golf Team

TEMPLE, May 15. (AP)—McCloskey General hospital's combat casualty golf team has entered the annuel Texas PGA golf tournament at San Antonio in the servicemen's flight.

Four of the six men entered were either injured or wounded while serving with the Army outside of the United States. Two are members of the medical detachment at McCloskey.

Lt. David H. Devonald of Chicago, Ill., is the ranking member and only officer on the team.

He now has charge of golf activities at McCloskey and is director of officer reconditioning under the chief of the physical reconditioning branch at the hospital.

He was wounded and captured by the Germans holding the port of Lorient in France.

Another member of the team, Sgt. Roland J. Labrie of Sioux City, Iowa, lost the lower part of one leg in France. He was a golf tournament contender in his home town.

Sgt. Emery Ball of Quanah, Texas, was hit by shrapnel while serving with the 90th division in France. One arm is paralyzed. He played tournament golf in West Texas and won some tournaments in that area.

A professional golfer, T/4 Herman (Hank) May is from Mission Hills Country club, Kansas City, Mo. He returned from Alaska in 1943 with head and nerve injuries incurred during an explosion.

Sgt. Jack White, NCO in charge of golf at McCloskey, was a professional at the La Porte, Ind., Country club. He will act as coach and possibly play.

Sgt. William S. Carter, NCO in charge of athletics, was a professional at the Bellwood Country club at Tyler, Texas, and will play in the tournament.

Babe Ruth To Oppose Cobb In Boys Game

CHICAGO, May 15. (AP)—Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb, two of baseball's greatest performers, will match managerial talent when the East meets West in the All-American boys' game sponsored by Esquire magazine at the Polo Grounds in New York on Aug. 28.

James Crossett, director of the game, said today that Ruth, now 50, and retired from baseball since 1935, will coach the East team during its entire training period. Cobb previously was selected to handle the West aggregation.

The two teams will be comprised of the nation's best boy ballplayers as selected by newspapers in 32 cities.

NEW COACH NAMED

MISSION, Tex., May 15 (AP)—H. T. Nance of Ashland City, Tenn., has been employed as head coach of Mission High school succeeding Orville Etheredge who resigned to become coach at Uvalde High school.

MAR, LEWIS MATCHED

MIDLAND TUNEUPS START

MIDLAND, May 15 (AP)—Qualifying rounds are under way in the Midland Country club invitation golf tournament.

Qualifying continues through Friday with match play Saturday and Sunday.

FISH RODEO CANCELLED

BROWNSVILLE, May 15 (AP)—The 1945 international tarpon rodeo has been called off, J. H. Batsell, sponsor, says because of the lack of concentration of tarpon in the Rio Grande and unsettled and adverse weather conditions.

Ott Smiles Over Giants' Showing

NEW YORK, May 15 (U.P.)—The happiest guy in town today was ageless Mel Ott, the little giant who has high hopes at last of rewarding his loyal legion of fans with a National League pennant.

His team, with 18 victories in 23 starts, is off to the best getaway for the league since Cincinnati won the pennant in 1940 and there are no indications of a crackup.

There are plenty of factors to account for the upsurge, but the biggest is the terrorizing display of home run and extra base power. That was the case Monday when the Giants won their ninth game in the last ten on two homers by Nap Reyes to account for four of six runs.

The game went into extra innings and Phil Weintraub had to break it up with a single in the tenth. It was Weintraub who won another Tuesday afternoon with another homer.

Bill Voiselle, who won his fifth game on Saturday, came back in a relief stint on Monday to win his sixth without a defeat, putting him on top in both leagues.

When it isn't Reyes, or Weintraub, it's one of the other long-range artists who is likely to deliver the winning punch with a homer. To date, the Giants, led by Ott himself with six, have hit 27 homers compared with 56 hit by all other league teams combined. They're far ahead of the 1944 timetable when they had only 10 homers at this time and didn't get their 26th until June 4.

The pitching is ahead of schedule, too. Voiselle had only three wins at this corresponding date, though he went on to win 21 for the third best total in the league. Harry Feldman, the number two winner with four victories, didn't pick up his fourth in 1944 until June 7.

All of which makes Ott grateful, because he wants to do something for the fans who never let him down in his 21 years as a player and his four as a pilot. Since he took over in 1942, the Giants have never been above third. They finished in the cellar in 1943 and in fifth place last year. Yet there were no wolves at the Polo Grounds; the cheers came just the same and the support was just as solid. The team has never been below fifth in attendance since Ott was manager and last year it was first.

Bobby Jones Delivers Eagle To Win Match

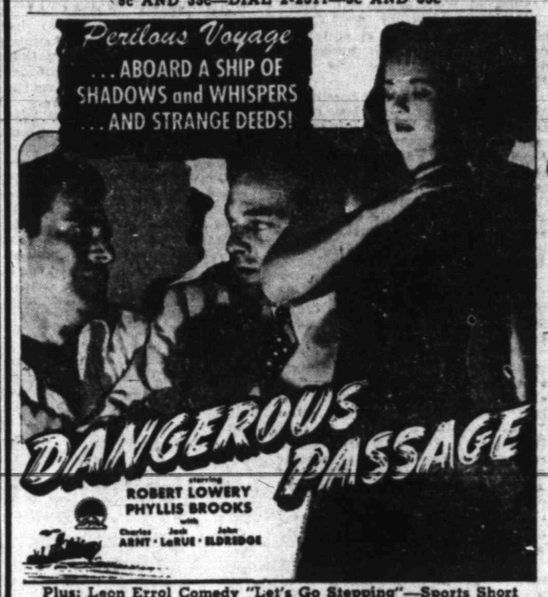

LAKELAND, Fla., May 15. (AP)—Bobby Jones, the former grand slammer, needed an eagle three on the 18th hole of an exhibition war bond golf match here today to give his team an even break, and that's exactly what he got.

His mashie niblick shot from 25 yards off the green took one bounce and dropped into the hole, evening the score and nullifying birdies registered by Sammy Snead, one of the game's top pros, and Cpl. Bobby Walker.

The Atlantan shot a two-under par 70, while Snead broke the course record with a 66 that included eight birdies.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

Spiritual Guidance Stressed As 36 Nurses Given Diplomas Here

Dr. M. Norvel Young, Broadway Church of Christ minister, spoke on "Choosing the Better Part" in which he stressed the importance of spiritual guidance in the art of healing at joint graduation exercises for the 36 senior cadet nurses of West Texas hospital and Lubbock General hospital schools of nursing last night in the First Methodist church.

Miss Ruth Norris Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Duncan of 2415 Thirty-fourth, received the ninth annual Dr. J. T. Krueger cash award which is presented each year to the highest ranking senior of the Lubbock General hospital school of nursing. Miss Duncan is a niece of Dr. J. Frank Norris, Fort Worth evangelist who spoke in Lubbock Tuesday.

Presented By Hutchinson

Dr. J. T. Hutchinson presented the Dr. Krueger award and diplomas to the 24 graduates of Lubbock General hospital.

Mildred Schuster of Abernathy received the sixth annual cash award made by Drs. O. W. English and Ewell L. Hunt for being the best surgical nurse of the West Texas hospital school of nursing. Dr. Sam G. Dunn's third annual cash award for the best all-around nurse went to Wilma Purvis of Amherst. Jaquita Weaver of Littlefield was named the best obstetrical nurse and was presented with a cash award made by Dr. Allen T. Stewart.

The seniors entered the auditorium as Mrs. Mamie I. Neal played the processional. Rev. John A. Winslow, pastor of St. Poul's Episcopal, gave the invocation. Preceding Dr. Young's address, a quartet, composed of Dorotha Nell Barrett, Joyce Watson and Louise and Jean Anderson, sang a selection. Ruth Fielding, a student nurse of West Texas hospital, offered a prayer.

West Texas Presentation

Dr. English presented diplomas to the 12 graduates of West Texas hospital school of nursing.

While the audience remained standing, the graduating classes repeated the Florence Nightingale pledge.

Rev. Winslow gave the benediction and Mrs. Neal played the recessional.

West Texas hospital senior class: Jane Ashley, Dorothy Becker, Bonnie Eubanks, Sue Gardner, Geraldine Gilbert, Marie Koke, Wanda McGee, Oleta Parker, Wilma Purvis, Mildred Schuster, Judy Tiffany, Jaquita Weaver.

Eleven of the Lubbock Hospital seniors actually finished their senior work in January, but since only one graduation ceremony is held each year, they too were honored Tuesday night and received diplomas. Nine of the 11 January graduates are in the Army or Navy Nurse corps.

Manufacturing controls to be retained after July: Refrigerators, stoves, furniture, radios and building activity.

The WPB chairman left the question of passenger cars unsettled; but indicated Detroit would not get its "go ahead" until after mid-year. No final decision has been made, he added, and reports that July 1 is the long-awaited date are "unfounded."

90 Controls Revoked

Some 90 manufacturing controls have been revoked in the past few weeks. They included, today, office machinery, cameras and photographic equipment, and food manufacturing machinery. A total of about 200 will have been dropped in the next two or three months, he said, leaving some 200 in force.

But controls over the flow of basic materials—steel, copper and aluminum — will be retained throughout 1945 in all probability, Krug said, to prevent the possibility that an upsurge of civilian manufacturing might divert needed metals from war production.

Woolsey, 2114 Twenty-fourth, garden tools, two washtubs and a washboard; M. O. Rogers, St. Francis hotel, man's wrist watch, ruby set ring, two hunting knives, two pair of trousers and a belt.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Howard of route 3, Levelland, have received word from the Red Cross that their son, Pfc. Wayne N. Howard, has been liberated from a German prison camp. Pfc. Howard, who farmed near Robertson before entering the service in May, 1942, had been a prisoner of war for the last 27 months.

Five men will be ordained tonight as deacons of Central Bapt. church, according to Rev. Jeff Welch, co-pastor. They are Victor Billington, D. Boyd Crooks, J. O. Smith, C. A. Weir, and O. R. Downing. The ordination services will begin at 8 o'clock.

Hale county Sheriff Ted Andrews and Plainview Chief of Police Hoyt Curry were driving to Lubbock Tuesday night to call on local officers. A short distance north of Lubbock they noticed ahead an automobile that all but "went down the highway sideways." They hauled in the driver, a 43-year-old Lubbock man, and delivered him to the county jail.

An 18-year-old Lubbock girl, living in the 2400-block Thirty-first, was still in city jail Tuesday night in lieu of payment of a $100 fine for drunkeness assessed after she was in an automobile that knocked ever a fire hydrant early yesterday morning at Twenty-ninth and College Ave. Residents in the vicinity awoke to find water service disrupted. Military police continued to check her story that a lieutenant was driving the car but ran away after the mishap.

from the Del Monte airdrome center along the nine-foot wide graveled Sayre highway toward a junction with the 31st Infantry division about 60 miles away, was meeting stiffer resistance.

The Nipponese caught between the two columns were using 90 mm dual purpose guns salvaged from Del Monte antiaircraft pits.

Another pocket is west and north of Davao city, pursued into the hill country by the 24th division.

Latest available reports estimated there still were 50,000 Japanese troops on Mindanao. MacArthur's communique indicated the bulk of these were pincered in Bukidnon province by the 40th and 31st divisions.

Closing In On Japs

The communique said "from the north, south and east our forces continue to close in on the enemy. Our northern column (40th division) has contacted an enemy force in the Mangima river area east of Del Monte airdrome and is pressing the attack. The 31st division, moving up from the south, secured the airfield one mile north of Maramag. To the east (west of Davao city) the 24th division repulsed a heavy counterattack and continued the assault on the enemy's defenses between the Talomo and Davao rivers."

On Luzon, the 43rd division captured positions on the Angat river overlooking Ipo dam, source of Manila's diminishing water supply. Closing the pincer on Ipo from the south, were elements of the 14th Army corps. Three days ago, the two American columns were only four miles apart. The ground action was supported by naval bombardment and by aircraft, which dropped 200 tons of bombs.

Australian and Dutch forces on oil-rich Tarakan, Borneo, attacked Japanese entrenched above a road east of the Pamoesian oil fields. Aircraft attacked airfields, bivouac and supply areas at Sandakan, Tawao and Brunei bay in supporting operations. Other planes swept Borneo coastlines, sinking five freighters, two luggers and several small craft.

Two more freighters, a river steamer and a tug were sunk by heavy bombers raiding the China sea. Highways and railroad bridges were targets for a 90-bomb raid on the French Indo-China coast.

In the East Indies, heavy bombers struck Boeloedowang airdrome near Makassar and Bira shipyards. Other planes ranged over the Celebes coastal area destroying several Japanese planes and attacking coastal shipping.

New Guinea Area

Light naval units supported Australian troops moving on Wewak, New Guinea. Warplanes dropped 140 tons of bombs on New Guinea, Rabaul, Kavieng and Bougainville.

Observers [illegible] beginning of [illegible] end for strong Japanese forces still opera[illegible] battles on Luzon and Mindanao but much heavy fighting still faced the Yanks on both islands. It appeared certain, however, that the Japanese, already having suffered a great disaster in the Philippines campaign and cut off from any hope of reinforcements or supplies, are destined for eventual liquidation.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP) — Following early weakness the cotton futures market developed an irregularly higher pattern today, to close 25 cents a bale higher to 15 cents lower. Near months were firm on mill buying against textile orders and short covering. May futures established a new seasonal high at 23.01 cents. It was also the first time 23-cent cotton had been registered on the board since the 1927-28 season.

New crop months lagged on advance as buying met continued liquidation by commission houses. Volume of trading was restricted pending further developments of the Pace cotton meetings in Washington. Traders also waited action on the department of agriculture proposal to let cotton sell at world price levels with compensating parity payments to be made to producers.

Combatant craft claimed in the latest toll included a destroyer, two small escort vessels, and two patrol vessels.

Non-combatant vessels included a large tanker, a medium cargo vessel and two small cargo vessels.

The announcement raised to 1,128 the total Japanese vessels of all types sunk by United States submarines since the start of the war, including 131 combatant ships and 997 noncombatants.

Negro Denied Bond In Fatal Shooting

LEVELLAND, May 15 (Special)—John Roberts, about 40, negro, is being held without bond in the Hockley county jail following a preliminary hearing yesterday in connection with the fatal shooting of Andrew Garcia, 40, Levelland resident.

Officers of the sheriff's department said that Garcia was shot with a .38 caliber pistol Saturday night, but that no other details were available.

Restrictions Lifted On Plant Expansion

DALLAS, May 15 (AP)—Production Urgency committee and War Manpower commission approval are now unnecessary in applications to the War Production board for plants planning expansion or spot authorizations.

The releases apply to the Dallas area and in all areas in the No. 3 and No. 4 unclassified labor areas.

Plants in class 1 and 2 areas, such as Fort Worth, Beaumont, Amarillo and Borger, may dispense with PUC and WMC approvals if production will not increase a plant's labor staff to more than 100, A. J. Langford, chairman of the PUC, said yesterday.

Truman's Hopes

torial disputes, of which there are more than 30 already; the Polish government reorganization, treatment of war criminals, reparations, and a host of related problems.

As for reparations, the President issued a formal statement reiterating his position against German or Japanese rearmament and stating he believed that "our Allies are of one mind with us on this point."

With such a basis agreement against Axis rearmament, he asserted, the way will be clear "for a just and equitable schedule of German reparations — reparations 'in kind' which will provide the maximum of rehabilitation and restoration of overrun territory."

Reparations Question

The President said a fair and workable settlement of reparations poses some of the most difficult problems of the entire postwar adjustment.

"These questions," he said, "are closely related to the task of insuring a lasting peace. For that reason, the right answers will be vital to the security of America and the world."

The President praised as "eminently qualified" a list of 21 experts selected to accompany to Moscow Edwin W. Pauley, United States member of the reparations commission, and his associate, Dr. Isador Lubin.

MARSHALL BANKER DIES

MARSHALL, May 15 (AP)—Albert C. Pierce, 60, assistant cashier of the Marshall National bank, died today following a one-day illness. Funeral services will be held tomorrow. Survivors include his widow and one daughter.

Mustard gas was by far the most devastating gas used in the first World War

Wolffarth Rites Set Here Today

Funeral services will be read at 5 o'clock this afternoon in Sanders chapel for Eastin Wolffarth, 75, early-day cowboy, cattleman and former Lubbock county sheriff who died at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon of a heart attack in West Texas hospital.

Elder Liff Sanders, a boyhood schoolmate, will read the service. Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery.

Stricken At Ranch

Wolffarth was stricken Monday night at the Duggan ranch near Whiteface where, friends said, he had spent most of his time since recent surgery in Dallas. He was taken to the hospital about an hour before his death.

Wolffarth moved from Jacksboro to the South Plains about 1887. George C. Wolffarth, a brother of 1906 Twenty-eighth, said. He was employed on the 22 Ranch in Crosby county; later worked on the IOWA spread, of which the late Rollo Burns was foreman; moved to Lubbock county about 1890 and to a fenced ranch near where Lubbock Army Air field now is located; came to Lubbock and was sheriff two terms—having been elected in 1898 and 1900. He and his brother George owned a ranch in Terry county from 1901 until about 1910, and the brothers later had a small Hereford ranch north of Lubbock.

Retired Cattleman

Eastin Wolffarth retired from the cattle business and had lived in Lubbock since about 1914. For approximately two years he was night police sergeant when Bud Johnston was chief of police here.

His death was unexpected. His health had not indicated dangerous symptoms, and the heart attack was the first he ever had suffered, his physician said.

Few knew more stories of the range that did Eastin Wolffarth, and, his friends say, you could count on your fingers the number of fellows who could tell them as well as he. He apparently knew everybody who ever rode the ranges in this section, and he was a natural wit and a practical joker. He was an ardent fisherman.

Registrations Made For Work In Harvest

Registration day at the Lubbock county agent's office Saturday for truck and combine operators brought in 23 truck operators, without combines, and six combines and nine trucks that will travel together through the harvest, according to a Monday announcement by Jason Gordon, agent here.

Gordon stated that an interview with D. A. Odam, farm labor field assistant in charge of district extension work at Plainview, disclosed need for small combines in Brady, Concho and Tom Green counties. Harvesting is expected to hit its peak around May 18, according to Gordon.

Medium combines will be needed in Young, Throckmorton and Baylor counties on or about May 21, Gordon added. Harvesting in these areas will be in full swing at this time.

"We are still scheduling trucks and combines," Gordon said, "and hope that farmers will clear with us immediately so that schedules can be worked into the district office records and other county agent's files."

Gordon stated that an increase in workers is expected by his office in another 10 days as operators become anxious to be at work.

Three Hurt As Cab, Fire Truck Collide

Three persons were injured slightly shortly after 6 o'clock Monday night when a fire truck and a cab collided at Nineteenth and College.

Troy Givens and Pete Stark, firemen of the Nineteenth street fire station, sustained minor cuts and bruises. They and Johnnie Heffington were riding a booster truck which was in collision with a Yellow cab driven by Earl Kirkland, 17, of 605 College. Kirkland received an injured knee. Heffington was not hurt.

According to investigating police patrolmen J. O. Tinsley and Harvey Nix, the truck was travelling west on Nineteenth and the cab south on College. The firemen were on a call to a four-room residence immediately south of Coffmen courts, 3905 Nineteenth. The fire resulted in slight damage.

The firemen said they had their siren on "full blast."

Considerable damage was done to both the truck and cab, it was reported.

World Conference

tions conference.

Along the way, the Big Five nations — China, France, Britain, Russian and the United States — made some conciliatory gestures toward small nation views. But even these were so designed as to knock some of the props from under bids of lesser nations for more authority in shaping the pattern of the post-war world.

Some Key Decisions

These were the key decisions, taken in various conference committees:

1. A Mexican proposal to lift an all-nation general assembly to the level of a proposed 11-member security council in approving action involving military or economic sanctions was defeated 23 to 7.

2. A New Zealand amendment to require a concurring vote or a review by the assembly—except in case of extreme urgency—in instances in which the council would apply force, was rejected. It mustered only four votes.

3. Also turned down was the question whether the assembly should be able on its own initiative to make recommendations on any matter relating to maintenance of peace being dealt with the council.

Subject to Approval

Committee decisions, of course, must be approved by the entire conference. Dozens of other small-nation amendments still are pending. They may produce plenty of argument. But today's ballots evidenced the ability of the great powers virtually to write their own ticket in this conference and to play the dominant roles in a new world league.

Referred to a subcommittee for clarification was still another important amendment—a Canadian proposal that any nation whose armed forces would be used to repel aggression sit in on meetings when the security council was considering use of force.

The United States supported the Canadian plan in principle, but Russia, wanted it sent to a subcommittee to clear up whether a nation merely should participate or whether it also could vote.

Big Five Substitute

What the Big Five would substitute is this:

"The general assembly should have the right to consider the general principles of cooperation in the maintenance of international peace and security, including the priciples governing disarmament and the regulation of armaments and to make recommendations to the governments or to the security council on such principles."

In addition they would let the assembly "have the right to call the attention of the security council to situations which are likely to endanger international peace or security."

But they also say that when the council is working on any dispute, the assembly should not make any recommendations on it except on request of the council.

The redraft was submitted by Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.), an American delegate.

Red Speaker Offers War Criminal Plans

LONDON, May 15 (AP)—A Moscow radio commentator said today that the people of Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia are entitled to try the Axis war criminals.

Their punishment was declared to be an essential feature of the coming organization of peace.

I. Yermashev, in a broadcast recorded by the Soviet monitor, said "not one of the fascist chieftains" is innocent of crimes committed against the three countries he named.

A dispatch from Flensburg, Germany, said British security police and intelligence officers are leading an intensive search for Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler in the Flensburg area.

Pimlico Expects Big Crowd For Openings

BALTIMORE, May 15. (AP)—The belated spring racing season gets under way tomorrow at Pimlico, with Christiana stables' Megogo and H. Guy Bedwell's Sollure drawing major attention in the inaugural feature, the $5,000 Baltimore spring handicap.

A crowd of 15,000 is expected to be on hand at post time.

The German city of Stuttgart was famous for a library collection of 8,500 Bibles, printed in approximately 100 different languages.

Goering To Face Trial For Life

(By The Associated Press)

Hermann Goering, first of the top Nazis to be apprehended, faces trial for his life as a war criminal, it was announced last night by the Allied War Crimes commission.

The fat founder of the Luftwaffe was placed on the first list of criminals adopted by the commission last November, the commission disclosed in the midst of the clamor over treatment so far accorded captured German leaders.

Seventh Denies Report

So hot had the subject become that the U. S. Seventh Army which seized Goering last week issued an official statement declaring there had been "no handshakes or chicken dinners" for the reichsmarshal at Seventh Army headquarters.

A Paris dispatch said the Allies were expected to act very soon in the case of the "surrender fuehrer," Admiral Karl Doenitz, whose so-called German government has continued to function in the Flensburg area near the Danish border. Doenitz was kept on temporarily, it was explained, because of his control of surrendering German land and sea forces.

Frontier Ordered Closed

Apparently learning that Nazi fugitives were trying to flee into Luxembourg, the Allies closed the frontier between Germany and the little Duchy and warned that anyone crossing the line without authorization ran the risk of being shot. Giving food or shelter to a war criminal was declared a hostile act.

The British, acting on a tip from the Danish underground, were searching for Heinrich Himmler, head of the Gestapo, in the heavily wooded Flensburg area on the Danish-German border. He was reported to have several hundred fanatical SS men with him.

Prime Minister Churchill told Commons he hoped to meet soon with President Truman and Premier Churchill to effect a "settlement among the victors." He hinted that he thought Hitler was dead, saying he leaned to the "general opinion," but he refused to be pinned down.

Many Ships In Ports

It was announced that at least 480 German ships, half of them sunk or damaged, had been found in German ports surrendered to the Allies. Included were the prize pre-war liners Europa and Bremen, the latter a burned-out total loss. The Europa is in relatively good condition.

Moscow announced that the German surrender on the Eastern front had been concluded, with more than 1,230,000 Nazis taken prisoners since the fighting ended officially. In four years of war the Russians said they killed or captured 12,770,000 enemy troops.

Ex-Navy Man Found Guilty Of Espionage

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—Laurent H. J. Brackx, 51-year-old former U. S. Navy reserve lieutenant, was convicted in federal court today on charges of engaging in war-time espionage and violation of the censorship code.

The jury of seven women and five men was out just two hours.

Former U. S. Attorney John J. Dowling, defense counsel, after hearing the verdict, moved to set it aside as contrary to "the evidence and to the law." It was denied by Judge Mortimer W. Byers.

Brackx, who will be sentenced May 25, faces a possible death penalty.

Brackx was accused of conspiring with Axis agents in Italy. The government contended that he had told Commander Max Ponzo, chief of Italian naval intelligence, that he would try to get information about radar and airplane construction when he returned to this country in 1941.

Vets Administration Will Be Expanded

WASHINGTON, May 15 (UP) — President Truman said today that the Veterans administration is going to be expanded and modernized to meet the problems arising from demobilization of veterans of the present war.

The president was asked two questions on the subject—whether he plans a shakeup in the Veterans administration and whether he plans to appoint former Sen. Bennett C. Clark, D., Mo., to a high post in the Veterans administration.

He said he does not plan an immediate shakeup in the organization although it will be expanded and modernized. He said he did not contemplate an appointment in the administration for Clark.

Andy Reid Wins In Abernathy Voting

ABERNATHY, May 15 (Special) Andy Reid, Abernathy and Levelland automobile man, was re-elected as alderman in a special election held here today to break a tie vote between Reid and H. Schulz, also an incumbent, in the regular election April 3, according to Burford Davenport, editor of the Abernathy Review.

The third name on the ballot was that of H. E. Richter.

Reid polled 16 votes, Richter 11 and Schulz 7. Two write-in votes were cast for W. C. Jenkins.

V-Bomb Said Aimed At New York On Last Election Day

LONDON, May 15 (AP)—A staff writer for the army newspaper Stars and Stripes declared last night that an attempted German bombardment of New York last election day "failed when the V-bomb either fell short of New York or was shot down by fighter pilots alerted to watch for such projectiles."

An editor's note preceding the story said the writer, Andy Rooney, was on temporary duty with the New York bureau of the paper in November, and that the story was withheld until after Germany's fall.

In New York a spokesman for the Eastern Defense command said: "We have no information about it. We would have known if such an attack had taken place."

A spokesman for the Third Naval district said there was "no foundation" for the article, and an official of the New York police department declared that if a robot bomb had been launched at New York from a U-boat and had neared its objective, "we would have been informed."

The Navy department in Washington denied any such bombing attempt had been made. Reports of a bomb landing somewhere in Connecticut, at about the same time, also proved false, a spokesman said.

Rooney wrote that the bomb, "presumably a jet or rocket-propelled projectile, was reported to have been launched from the deck of a German submarine lying off the Atlantic coast."

Wife Of Himmler Believes Him Dead

BOLZANO, Italy, May 15. (AP)—Heinrich Himmler's wife and daughter have not heard from him since mid-April and actually have believed him dead for the past few weeks, Frau Margaret Boden Himmler told the Associated Press today.

Wan and sickly looking, the Gestapo chief's wife added that she felt death would be the best thing for all Nazi leaders now.

She and her 15-year-old daughter, Gudrun, said they had not seen Himmler since last November, have had no word from him since about April 15 and had no idea of his present whereabouts. As a result, she said she was somewhat surprised to hear rumors that he was a prisoner.

Frau Himmler, her daughter and her sister were found Sunday in a splendidly-appointed mountain chalet in the Italian Tyrol some 15 miles north of Bolzano by members of the 88th division.

Stilwell Is Reserved Toward Russian Entry

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 15 (AP)—Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, commander of the Army ground forces, was quoted today by the Buffalo Courier-Express as saying "no one can tell what action Russia might take once she gets her house in order, but if she decides to make war on Japan I do not think there will be any immediate military sensations."

"It must be remembered," the newspaper quoted Stilwell as having said in an interview, "that Japan has a huge force in Manchuria, and this army will serve for a time to immobilize whatever organization the Reds will be able to concentrate in easternmost Siberia."

The general, who participated in last night's formal opening of the Seventh War Loan drive, predicted that the Japanese "will fight to the bitter, suicidal end."

The snowfall varied from light flurries to a maximum of ten inches reported at Ruxton Park, midway up Colorado's famed Pike's Peak. The mountain mining towns of Cripple Creek and Leadville, in Colorado, received six and two inches of snow respectively, with temperatures that plummeted as low as 26.

A mass of cold air moving southward from Canada east of the Rockies brewed a mixture of snow and rain in Wyoming, New Mexico and Western Nebraska.

Hail thumped down on parts of Oklahoma, which also had widespread rains, high winds and chilling temperatures. At Leflore, a flash flood swept away three miles of Frisco railway trackage and inundated hundreds of acres of bottomland.

We Need An Even Keel

Inflation, Deflation Both Bad

THAT there is as much confused thinking in high places as there is among us lesser mortals is indicated from Washington these days where there are two schools of thought —both highly vocal—regarding economic problems of the immediate future.

One group insists that the greatest threat to orderly postwar living is inflation; the other fears deflation.

The inflation crowd is alarmed by rising farm, home and security prices and commercial rents. These are the only major activities remaining outside the federal control zone. Rising values in these categories, it is argued, exert strong pressure against other inflation brakes, such as wage, price and domestic rent controls.

What the deflation crowd fears is a decline in national income as war spending eases off. This would cut into federal revenues, increase borrowing, make servicing of the national debt and a balanced budget more difficult. Organized labor is striving to hold up national income by increasing basic wage rates as over-time disappears. But if organized labor is successful in helping curb deflation in this regard, it may add to the inflation threat by placing a favored minority in a position to bid against each other for needed items, thus run prices higher than ever.

Fear of inflation seems to be the most prevalent of the two fears, although our guess is that's because more people know about the dangers of inflation than recognize equal dangers of deflation.

This much certainly is true:

We cannot stand much inflation, or much deflation, if our economy is to be kept on an even keel. Intelligent governmental regulation and whole-hearted support on the part of the public will be necessary to steer us away from the shoals of both.

Salute To A Good Neighbor

UNDER press of important news happenings in Europe, we all but overlooked an occurrence of moment right here in West Texas —the recent passing of Houston Harte's Silver Anniversary as owner of The San Angelo Standard-Times.

One of West Texas' "top hands" in any field is outspoken Mr. Harte who, a quarter century ago, came out of Missouri to make his home on the banks of the Conchos. There he has built a fine business and has greatly prospered. There, also, he found his charming wife and reared his two fine sons. Today, Houston Harte is as much San Angelo as Beauregarde avenue; as much West Texas as the mesquite trees which dot the rolling hills around the capital of Tom Green county.

It is no exaggeration to say that Mr. Harte's morning, evening and Sunday newspapers are among the very finest small city publications in the entire country. Neither is it an exaggeration to say that the outstanding talents of this outwardly hardboiled but inwardly kind San Angeloan have made him one of the most valuable citizens of the entire state. Along with his able partner, Bernard Hanks, of Abilene, Mr. Harte has laid in Texas the foundations of a fine publishing empire which today extends to newspapers—in addition to those in San Angelo and Abilene—in Corpus Christi, Paris, Big Spring, Denison and Marshall.

Like a great many men whose natural generosity is so great that it makes them an easy target for the unscrupulous, Houston Harte has wrapped himself in a gruff exterior to keep people from taking advantage of him. But those who know him best know him for what he is: one of the most tolerant, kindly and sympathetic of men.

To Houston Harte, and the fine staff of associates which surrounds him at San Angelo, a salute for 25 years of honest labor well done; best wishes for the next 25 years —and across the miles a firm, West Texas handshake signifying our continued admiration and friendship for him.

No Extremists Wanted Here

WE are more than a little weary over being told so often whether President Truman's policies will be "right of center," or "left of center." This "right" and "left" business is a European political import that we can very well do without in the U. S. A.

Judging from his record and his presidential actions thus far, Mr. Truman is as typically American as the Star-Spangled Banner, hence may be expected to give us an American administration—which will be down the middle, with fairness and justice to all segments of our people.

We don't need any "rightists" or "leftists" over here—and our guess is Mr. Truman knows it as well as anybody.

The One Minute Sermon

He that smiteth a man, so that he die, shall be surely put to death.

And if a man lie not in wait, but God deliver him into his hand: then I will appoint thee a place whither he shall flee.

But if a man come presumptously upon his neighbour, to slay him with guile: thou shalt take him from mine altar, that he may die.—Exodus 21:12-14.

THE STORY: Nick tells Pat about the plane-crash, says he intends to slip away quietly for a few days until the Calavestri affair blows over. Pat suggests he go to The Ledges.

A CLOSED HOUSE

IX

The Ledges, the Hudsons' summer home, was 30 rooms of early colonial austerity on the finest stretch of shore north of Boston. I had never been especially taken by the austerity of the place, but it had pleasant associations for me and the scenery was magnificent.

It was dark when I reached Minot on the way to Sandy Point the next night. There was a light in The Cock and Kettle. Before the war they had served delicious hickory-broiled steaks. I was hungry and the idea of hiding out at The Ledges had seemed less urgent as a whole day had gone by with nobody killed. So I stopped and had my steak.

That's where I saw Brenda Temple. Or perhaps I should say Brenda saw me.

She was on her way out as I came in. She stood to one side while her father paid the check. At first I thought she was not going to speak. She looked straight at me and through me with those remarkable eyes of hers. I was on the point of going by, when she said coolly:

"Why Nicholas Trent. How are you?"

"I'm fine, Brenda."

"What are you doing here?"

"Eating," I said. "It's a vice of mine."

"I read about you in the papers," she said. "Father, you remember Nicholas Trent."

I looked at Bruce Temple. He was a great rock of a man with a face like chipped flint. He scarcely glanced at me.

"Can't say that I do," he said. "Come, Brenda."

And Brenda came. They walked out and left me standing there. They had acted strangely and the two of them lurked in my mind for the better part of an hour until I had more pressing matters to think of.

I drove down the Sandy Point road on as dark a night as a man could wish for. When I got to the gates of The Ledges, I got out and fished in my pocket for the key to the padlock that held the massive wooden barrier. A light mist had begun to fall and it beat against my face like tiny needles of cracked ice. The gate groaned dismally as I swung it open.

By the time I had fumbled for minutes in the cold among a dozen keys to a dozen doors, the whole idea of vegetating for a week at The Ledges had become impressively nonsensical. The only thing that kept me from going back to town was the fear that someone would think that I was afraid of the dark—which I was at that particular moment.

Finally I got the door open and went inside. The bitter chill of a closed house laid its hand on my spine. I snapped the switch of my flashlight and the beam burrowed feebly into the darkness. I saw the shadows of objects hanging from the ceiling and beneath, the glint of metal. I was in the kitchen and the suspended objects were pots and pans hung over the stove.

I went to the wall, pushed the switch, and a second later the fluorescent tubes sprang to light. Suddenly, I remembered Pat's words: "The electricity will be turned off, but there are oil lamps in one of the kitchen cupboards." That little feeling of warmth, upon seeing the lights, evaporated. I stood stock still and listened. There was no sound except the uneasy beat of the sea on the rocks beyond the far side of the house.

There was a rack of wood in the corner and a bin of coal beside it. I laid a fire in the big range, lit it, and then straddled a metal kitchen stool to smoke and take stock.

As the heat from the fire gradually filled the room, I felt better. I brought in the hamper of food from the car and went to the electric refrigerator. I swung open the door; the light flashed on, and I set the hamper carefully down on the floor. The chest was completely stocked with food.

I shut the door and stood rubbing my chin and looking thoughtfully across the kitchen at the white swinging door with the black leather panels. Beyond that should be the dining room. And beyond that, if I remembered correctly, somewhere on the sea-side of the house, Phineas Hudson's library, high-vaulted with a great beam-studded ceiling and paneled with somber, thought-stifling fumed oak. There was a fireplace in it large enough to burn a forest of trees, and a chair soft and deep enough to sleep in.

I started through the swinging door resolutely enough. The feeble beam of my flashlight was lost in the vastness of that dining room. I began to look for the light switch. I could hear the rain beating against the windows, and as I started along the wall in a systematic search for the light, I heard another sound. It stopped me. A low short rumble. For a single instant I could not identify it. Then I had it. Thunder. End of summer, we used to say, when a single peal of thunder came in the fall. And I started along the wall again, laughing a bit shakily at myself.

Then I heard a second sound and it wasn't thunder. It was much too soft and stealthy for that. This time just the faintest noise like a quick intake of breath. Now my every sense was alive with red lights. I kept moving, feeling along the wall for the switch, pointing the beam ahead of me.

I reached a corner and turned my light onto the next wall. And the pale beam fell squarely upon the face of a man.

In the Middle Ages, jewelry was one of the industrial arts. It was fostered first in the monastic workshop for the service of the Church and then by the jewelers of the towns.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

IF THE circus shouldn't come to San Francisco this year, at least the dwellers by the Golden Gate will have had the satisfaction of having witnessed what is undoubtedly "the greatest show on earth."

As a show it has no equal. Just like in the world's fairs you remember, which usually had their "Streets of Cairo" and their hootchie-kootchie dancers, this particular show has its "Gallery of International Celebrities" who disport themselves in their forty-six or seven quaint ways to the great delight of the spectators.

When the delegates first arrived the Mayor of San Francisco had official greetings printed in ten different languages, only to find that he had omitted many more than he had included.

The Library of Congress drew up a list of more than 7000 books and documents to which the delegates and consultants could refer, and more than 1000 were sent on to San Francisco as a beginning.

The OPA saw to it that none of those attending should be short of cigarets and food.

(Before you read any farther I want to remind you that this a conference to set up a world organization for peace.)

I listened to a radio broadcast the other evening at which a 16-year old high school boy from Texas was asked what impressed him most about the San Francisco conference.

"Molotov and Artie Shaw" he replied without a moment's hesitation, and from the intonation of his words I took it that Artie Shaw, the bandleader who is out in San Francisco right now, impressed him just a bit more than Molotov.

Yes it is a great show, indeed, and I pray with all my heart that it will be a success.

But so far it looks to me as though human beings are still very much human beings, even at San Francisco—every man for himself and as long as I get mine it doesn't make much difference what you get.

I DON'T want to add my advice to that of the thousands of others who dispense theirs so freely.

But, in case the Library of Congress has forgotten to include it in its list of 7000 books and documents, there is one more book that they may want to send on to San Francisco.

It is a book called the Bible. And in case the delegates aren't sufficiently familiar with it, they may also send them the Concordance to the Bible—also known as the Index—which contains 58 references to "Peace" and each of the 58 is better than most of the suggestions I have read and heard so far.

There is one that I like particularly. It refers to St. Luke, second chapter, fourteenth verse—"and on earth peace to men of good will."

How much we have talked and how little we have done about it!

"One-Man Rule" Is Out

Truman Will Delegate Authority

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has voluntarily explained to a stream of White House visitors, especially to businessmen, that his will not be a "one man" Administration. He intends to delegate authority to responsible administrators, and "to kick" them out if they don't make good.

His remarks suggest that there will be wholesale changes in his official family as soon as he can clean house without seeming to depart too openly from his predecessor's choice of men. And although he has never mentioned FDR in this connection, he doese not subscribe to the late President's theory of a centralized and personalized government.

Having little pride of authorship, he will take advice — in fact, seek it — and act on it when it is good.

"This is an overwhelming job," he said, in utter simplicity and humility, to one group. "It is enough to terrify any man. I am not a one-man operator, and I don't pretend to know all the answers.

TUCKER

"I am going to surround myself with the best administrators I can get, and they are hard to find. Sometimes you pick a man who looks good, and then you learn that he can't deliver. Sometimes you pick a man who looks like a scrub, and he does a swell job.

"I am going to turn the job over to my administrators because I know that I can't do everything myself. If I pick an administrator, and he turns out to be a good man, I am going to give him full authority in his field. But if he turns out to be a dud, then I am going to kick him right out."

Incidently, even executives of the type associated with the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers praise Mr. Truman and approve his actions so far, with a few exceptions. These include conservatives who once claimed membership in the "hate Roosevelt" club.

WEST: Harold Ickes is making a desperate effort to hang on as Secretary of the Interior. The self-styled "curmudgeon" has not delivered himself of an old-fashioned, rip-snorting attack on anybody for at least two months. He has temporarily abandoned his schemes to snatch other agencies, such as Rural Electrification and Tennessee Valley Authority, from their present holders.

But White House associates understand that his self-imposed restraint will not avail him. They believe that Federal Judge Lewis B. Schwellenbach of the State of Washington is under consideration for this post. The former senator had been mentioned as a possibility for Labor after his recent visit with his old friend in the Executive Mansion, but it is thought that he would prefer the department which deals with so many Western problems.

As the first beyond-the-Mississippi man to occupy the Presidency, the Missourian is expected to pay greater attention to that section of the country. He knows its needs and wants—more favorable railroad rates and conditions, retention of war-built factories, more businesslike handling of land and irrigation matters.

At present the Far West has hardly any representation in key offices and lacks influence in bureaus that will handle major postwar questions. There is not a real Westerner in the regular cabinet or in any of the emergency positions.

Judge Schwellenbach's appointment would please the liberals, who are still slightly sulky over changes in Washington. Indeed, although he has no labor-background, he would be satisfactory to most of the rival factions if he should head the Labor department instead of Interior.

* * *

RUSSIA: The underlying danger to basic American interests at the San Francisco Conference is the prospect that the United States may become deeply involved — or caught — in the historic clash between Russia and Britain. Discerning diplomats and other observers maintain that questions of council voting and representation are only superficial differences, and that the more fundamental points at issue have been concealed.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

DIPLOMATIC circles are excited by the report that Tokyo, taught a grim lesson in the utter destruction of Germany, has offered conditional peace terms.

According to insiders, the Suzuki cabinet with the backing of the financial lords has promised to withdraw from China, Manchuria, Malaya and the East Indies provided that the Allies agreed not to occupy the Nipponese mainland.

This information bears out a statement by a high-ranking Japanese officier, captured by the Allies, which was published in this column on April 5.

LEMAN

The prisoner said, "Our plan was to take half of Asia but it failed. We are willing to call it a day and retire to our original empire, and your soldier can go home.

"Otherwise, we will fight step by step in our islands. We are prepared to sacrifice 20,000,000 Japanese lives for every two million that you will lose. We can stand it but your public can't."

Of course his views are not official. But they disclose what the upper classes in Nippon are thinking and reveal their bargaining arguments.

New York authorities on foreign affairs believe that if Americans will study the purported feelers they will detect a scheme of diabolical trickery.

If there is any truth in the report, it is artfully timed. The wily Japs think that parents of veterans in the European theater scheduled for transportation to the Pacific would be willing to call quits to bring home their sons. They assume that American capital and labor would settle for half a loaf in the Far East in order to resume "business as usual."

SECRECY: What are the probable consequences of swallowing the bait?

We would recover for other nations their lost colonies; we already have won our own Philippines. But we did not go to war merely to regain plantations for the Dutch rubber cartel or Chinese custom houses for the Kuomingtang.

We fight because we were treacherously attacked at Pearl Harbor and our Pacific seaboard will always be in danger of a sneak invasion so long as Japan is a power in the Pacific.

Our sword is drawn to avenge our martyred dead and tortured living. Our debt to them cannot be paid by clasping bloody Japanese hands in negotiated friendship.

Should we allow the scotched snake to crawl back into its nest, it would strike again if its poisonous fangs were not drawn. More than a million fresh troops are now in Japan. Two million five hundred thousand conscripts are ready for mobilization. Sixty additional divisions can be mustered on short notice.

If this enormous army were left on the loose, we should be obliged for years to keep American boys in jungle bases watching it.

We would not dare to bring home our men lest the Japs pounce on Alaska at the first favorable moment. We would never know what went on behind the veil of secrecy in Nippon — what new warships and giant planes were under construction for a second try — what ocean-crossing V-bombs were being made for raids on Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

"There are as many points on the surface of a penny as on the surface of the earth," says a mathematician. We don't believe it, and demand a recount.

Another flagrant case of war profiteering is the Missouri woman who married four soldiers and has been drawing dependency pay on the account of all of them.

GOP Hopeful Does Well At San Francisco

Stassen Increases His Stature

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO—Cmdr. Harold Stassen has increased his potentialities as a possible 1948 Republican Presidential candidate by his conduct at the United Nations conference, in the opinion of political observers here.

Already a well-known national figure, he has added to his reputation by his work in the field of international affairs as a member of the American delegation here. He has shown the judgment and balance he exhibited as governor of Minnesota, to which he was thrice elected. Beyond that he has demonstrated a capacity for courage and bold thinking which is refreshing in a gathering of diplomats such as this, even though he has been handicapped by lack of support on some major issues.

STOKES

He has won a commanding place in the American delegation. Yet he has worked throughout in a fine spirit of partnership and cooperation, refraining from pushing himself forward to raise controversial issue publicly, but using his influence to work them out with other members of the American and other delegations.

Sells Self To Press

There has been no indication of partisanship in his approach to the various issues raised here. He is serving somewhat in the role of representative of the millions of service men of all parties which presumably was in the mind of the late President Roosevelt when he appointed him.

Circumstances have shoved him to the front here. On several occasions he has been designated to meet the press on behalf of the American delegation. In that role he has attracted new admirers among the newspaper correspondents. He was a new figure to many of these men. After his first appearance there were comments from all sides from newspapermen who had never seen him before. They were eager in the discovery of a new and promising figure in American politics.

"He certainly handles himself well," was a frequent reaction.

HE wears well, and this general opinion has persisted.

Press conferences here become mass meetings with all sorts of people in attendance besides newspaper correspondents, many of the latter type carry chips on their shoulders on some issue or other. They have a habit of extending inquiries into rhetorical questions that occasionally become public speeches. They run along highly controversial lines.

Commander Stassen has shown an ability to handle them. He is firm, yet leaves no sore feelings. He has a judicial touch. He is able always to express himself clearly and positively, without the evasiveness too common among politicians.

He came to this conference well prepared. He was one of the pioneers in the movement for a United Nations organization. While still governor, before he entered the Navy, he presented to the public a design for such an organization and campaigned for it in speeches and in magazine articles. His influence percolated also into Congress.

Wants Real "Union of Nations"

He shares credit, along with his protege, Senator Ball (R., Minn.), for the agitation which resulted in a declaration by the Senate in favor of international cooperation, though their ideas were modified in the eventual Connally resolution.

Here the commander has tried to go further than was the intention of the managers of this conference. His idea is a real union of nations, rather than a big power league such as this is turning out to be.

He resisted, though unsuccessfully, the movement to give regional groups of states more authority, outside the central security organization, than was provided in the original Dumbarton Oaks plan. He is sympathetic to proposals from Australia and the smaller nations to abandon the Big Five veto insofar as measures for peaceful settlement of disputes are concerned. He has been a champion of more power for the assembly, the democratic body in which every nation is represented.

THE commander is of the progressive wing of the Republican party, both on domestic and international issues. He finds opposition among the Old Guard.

Whether he could be nominated in 1948 would seem to depend upon the influence of the younger, more progressive elements in the party, which undoubtedly will be strengthened by servicemen. Commander Stassen should have an appeal to this large service element in his party.

FRONTIER CLOSED

LONDON, May 15. (AP)—The Luxembourg radio said tonight Allied military authorities had closed the German frontier to prevent the escape of war criminals and other wanted persons. Anyone attempting an unauthorized crossing will be shot, the broadcast added.

RESUMES PEACE FOOTING

STOCKHOLM, May 15. (AP)—The Swedish Army, which during the critical war years reached an estimated strength of 600,000, will return to peacetime footing July 1, the defense staff announced today.

THANKS FARMERS
IN BEHALF of our boys in the armed forces, we wish to thank you for the way you responded to our plea for large clean grade A eggs. Because of your patriotic cooperation, we have been able to get their eggs to them much faster than could have been possible otherwise. We still have many more war department orders to fill, and the government is looking to you to help us meet our increased quotas.
If you haven't heard of the way that you can make more money, and still be helping our soldier boys, ask your neighbor, or we will give you the information. Your large clean grade A eggs are still desperately needed. Thanks again.

IRRIGATION FARM FOR SALE CLOSE IN AND A BARGAIN
150 acres of fine land, located about 7½ miles out of Lubbock on pavement. A very fine irrigation well, fair improvements. This is a real investment. All mineral rights go. 68 acres produced 92 bales of cotton in 1944, and the feed crop was equally as good. The owner received over $3,000.00 in rents. Considering the distance from town, the possibilities of oil and the fine land, this is a bargain at $140.00 per acre. Mr. Investor, this is your chance to own a close-in farm.

DUPLEX BARGAIN

Goering Heads Criminals List

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press News Analyst

Grim notice that his name is on the first priority list of Nazi war criminals has been served on Hermann Goering, Hitler's one-time successor-designate.

SIMPSON

It was placed there last November by the United Nations War Crimes commission in London.

And with Hitler presumably beyond reach of human vengeance and Himmler missing, the plump and strutting air marshal looms as the No. 1 Nazi under the criminal accusation brought against him by the commission.

Realization of Goering's unique place on the long roll of Nazi war criminals yet to be compiled probably inspired in part General Eisenhower's repudiation of any tendency to treat Goering as an ordinary war prisoner of high rank. It certainly stirred the crimes commission to formal announcement that his name had stood for months on "the first list" of those Nazis charged with war crimes.

Details Not Known

In the absence of the specific indictments, however, it is impossible to say how Goering will be tried.

The War Crimes commission had its birth under the joint "statement on atrocities" issued at Moscow in November, 1943, and signed by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin.

It provides that "those German officers and men and members of the Nazi party who have been responsible for or have taken a consenting part in the above atrocities . . . will be sent back to the countries in which their abominable deeds were done in order that they may be judged and punished according to the laws of these liberated countries and of the free governments which will be erected therein."

EXTRA NEWSPRINT GIVEN

WASHINGTON, May 15. (AP)—The War Production board announced today that 19 newspapers have received extra-quota ond quarter of the year. The grants included: Press, Fort Worth, Texas, 30 tons; Star Telegram, Fort Worth, Texas, 164 tons.
