Ambrose E. Brazelton, an Ohio educator who spoke to a group of some 2,500 public school teachers at their district convention here Monday stimulated considerable comment and raised a few eyebrows. We would not attempt any alibis, or rationilization in his behalf, but we suspect that he used the time-honored tool of exaggeration to get the attention of his audience (it's difficult to get 2,500 people to listen to anything these days), and perhaps some of the situations he alluded to are different in Ohio from those in Texas.

His indictment of competition may well have been a device to encourage teachers to continually seek new and better methods for motivating their students. It certainly could not be accepted as a blanket solution to problems facing students, teachers, or any other segment of the population. This nation would not be in existence today if there were no competition.

But those associated with organized athletics were perhaps more sensitive to Brazelton's remarks than most others. And we can say with absolute certainty that if some of the situations he described exist in Ohio, that state is far behind the times. He declared that the athletic teams should confine their activities to after-school hours. That is exactly the case around here. The University Interscholastic League of Texas (the best organization of its kind in the world) demands it. And the bit about coaches pouring out "four-letter" words is so out-moded in these parts that some of the younger teachers and coaches probably didn't know what the speaker was talking about. We have been around a few public school athletic events, observed practice sessions an even been in some locker rooms over the past quarter century or so, and there are few places where you hear less profanity. We have never followed them around for a full day, of course, but in casual observation from time-to-time we have never heard Maurice Hodges, or any of his staff members, rely on four-letter words to get their messages across.

Also, we were interested in the comment on restricting activities on gymnasium floors by posting signs prohibiting "street shoes" on them. It is a good rule, we can testify personally, since we have a crooked wrist to this day which resulted from a game played in street shoes on a gymnasium floor. Pupils in street shoes have no more control than those in socks when they attempt to run on a gymnasium floor.

Of course every teacher feels that his, or her, field is the most important in the entire curriculum. If one doesn't he, or she, should get in another line of work. Brazelton must be doing a commendable job for public education in Ohio. And he certainly got a lot of teachers to buzzing following his address here Monday. Not many speakers at such conventions have been able to do this. He is a live-wire.–WACIL McNAIR.

Today In History

Today is Thursday, Oct. 30, the 303rd day of 1975. There are 62 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

Reds Free Nine Americans Captured Last Spring

By DENIS D. GRAY
Associated Press Writer

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP — Nine Americans captured by Communist forces in South Vietnam last spring arrived in Bangkok today along with two Canadians, two Filipinos and an Australian. They were described as "fit and well."

One of the Americans, Paul Struharik, 35, of Barberton, Ohio, a U.S. aid official in Ban Me Thuot, said, "I was captured waving a white flag at my house when I heard them coming through the back gate. The battle for Ban Me Thuot was by that time essentially over. But there were bombs and artillery still going off all over the place."

The 14 civilians were flown from Hanoi to Vientiane, the capital of Laos, and then on to Bangkok in a Laotian plane chartered by the United Nations. U.N. officials said all were "fit and well" although one of the Americans complained of "psychological hardship" during a period of solitary confinement.

The Americans included two missionary couples and the small daughter of one of the couples, two government officials and a student. One of the Filipinos also worked for the U.S. government, and the Canadians were missionaries.

They were captured in South Vietnam in March and April during the collapse of the South Vietnamese army and the lightning Communist advance. They said they were taken by truck to Hanoi in mid-August and confined near Hanoi.

United Nations officials said the missionaries were John Miller, 45, his wife, Carolyn, 37, and their 6-year-old daughter, Lucille, of Houghton, N.Y.; Norman and Joan Johnson, 45 and 44, of Hamilton, Canada; Richard and Lillian Phillips, 45 and 44, of Bloomington, Minn., and Betty Janet Mitchell, 36, of Bly, Ore.

The American officials were Paul A. Struharik, 35, Barberton, Ohio, an official of the U.S. Agency for International Development; and James Foley Lewis, 31, of Illinois.

The American student was Jay R. Scarborough, 29, of Southern Illinois University.

All of those released today except Lewis were captured in Ban Me Thuot, in the Central Highlands, when the Saigon government abandoned it to the Communists in March. Mrs. Mitchell's husband, Archie, was captured there in 1962 by the Viet Cong and has not been heard of since.

About 40 other Americans are still in South Vietnam. Most of them are believed living in Saigon.

The returnees were flown from Hanoi aboard a Laotian airline DC3 chartered by the U.N. High Commission for Refugees.

Missionaries in Vientiane said members of the group appeared quite thin but otherwise healthy. They said nine reportedly had malaria during their captivity and some were still bothered by diarrhea.

These sources said the returnees told them that after their capture in Ban Me Thuot, they were taken to Thanh Binh, in nearby Pleiku province, and confined in several grass huts for some time.

They said they had a total of 200,000 piasters, or about $300 at the exchange rate before the Communists took over, and their captors allowed them 500 piasters per person a week to buy food and other necessities.

On Aug. 15, they continued, their captors took them on an eight-day journey in covered trucks to Son Tay, a town 25 miles northwest of Hanoi, where they were given antimalaria pills and a medical man was assigned to take care of them.

HOSTAGES FREED UNHARMED

Police Arrest Ex-Convict

CLEVELAND (AP) — A 56-year-old ex-convict who held six persons hostage for more than 20 hours was taken in custody today by police and the last of the hostages were freed unharmed.

Two hostages were removed on stretchers about 11:30 a.m., and the last four walked out half an hour later.

Edward O. Watkins, the ex-convict who took his hostages after police thwarted his holdup attempt Wednesday afternoon, was brought out by police in handcuffs, a tiny smile on his mustached face.

Mayor Ralph Perk said the bomb that Watkins had used as a threat was believed to be a fake.

Police Chief Lloyd Garey and an FBI agent had met with Watkins before his surrender.

They said at the time that the hostages appeared to be in good condition, though shortly after two of them were carried out on the stretchers.

Watkins released three women hostages in the first six hours, one of whom said she had a heart condition and two who became ill. Watkins himself was said to be suffering from a heart condition.

One of the women hostages he released told police Watkins had enough dynamite to kill everyone in the bank.

Pleas from police, the gunman's girlfriend, a friend from prison and a judge he reportedly respects failed to end the standoff.

The released women told police Watkins was smoking cigarettes and drinking coffee. They also said he had a pistol and held a shoebox with what looked like a plunger attached.

The drama began at 2:50 p.m. Wednesday, when Watkins was surprised during an attempt to hold up the Society National Bank, police said. Officers responding to a silent alarm surrounded the building, as Watkins ordered nine persons into an employes' lounge in the rear.

Authorities bargained with the gunman over an intercom, while sharpshooters cradling rifles with telescopic sights and infrared spotters perched on roofs outside.

William Rooney of Cleveland, who knew Watkins in prison, said he believed Watkins would carry out his threats to kill the hostages if necessary. Watkins demanded money and a van to take him to Cleveland Hopkins Airport so he could escape.

"The FBI has a whole lifetime to catch me," Watkins told Rooney.

A van was brought to the bank, but Watkins rejected it, apparently fearing it might be bugged, police said.

IN NM LAND SCHEME

Jury Returns 80 Count Indictment

By W. ROBERT WELLER
Associated Press Writer

Carolyn R. Scheer, a 43-year-old teacher from Wisconsin, said she bought her New Mexico land as an investment to keep "until my youngest daughter goes to college."

But it turned out she needed the money sooner, so she asked Rio Rancho to sell her undeveloped land for her.

"I guess they never made a commitment to sell it for me," she said.

A federal grand jury in New York returned an 80-count indictment this week charging the developers of Rio Rancho with fraudulently selling $200 million of "undeveloped semi-arid desert lots."

The developers also built the town of Rio Rancho, a bustling community of 6,000 residents near Albuquerque. The people there — except for minor complaints — apparently are happy with their lots.

Bob Ayles of the Albuquerque Better Business Bureau said most of the problems arise from attempts by people like Mrs. Scheer to sell their land in undeveloped Rio Rancho Estates.

"We have a report worked up by us, advising people that there is no resale for property of that sort," Ayles said. He added that the number of complaints has been relatively small.

New Mexico Atty. Gen. Toney Anaya said his consumer protection division has received "a fairly substantial number (of complaints) over the years, maybe a couple of hundred, that we turned over to the Federal Trade Commission early in the year."

The indictment charged the defendants had boasted that purchase of undeveloped Rio Rancho Estate lots would yield "financial security for the purchaser's retirement or the education of his children and for other financial objectives, all of which were false."

Instead, the indictment said, the venture was "an exceptionally poor, risky and dangerous investment" with "virtually no resale market for these lots throughout the entire 14-year history of this scheme." The indictment says the developers bought the land for $180 an acre in 1961.

AMREP Corp., the main developer, has denied all the charges.

Mrs. Scheer bought her land — hoping to use it to pay for college for her 12-year-old daughter Laura — after succumbing to years of letters encouraging her to attend a promotional dinner — "It was very convincing. They had testimonials in the movies. They also had at least one couple who had been out and visited their property who gave a testimonial that everything that was being said was true."

She paid $260 down and was to pay off the purchase price of $2,600 for a half acre in eight years of $31 monthly payments. She says the state of Wisconsin had approved the agreement. She had paid about $1,000 when she stopped making payments.

Stefan A. Jasinski, 34, an engineer, from Rochester, N.Y., said, "They are not telling the full story about what Rio Rancho is about." He said his half acre — which cost $2,500 — is four miles from the developed section and there are no sewers or water.

He bought his land five years ago after attending a dinner.

Huff Denied A New Trial

District Judge Wayland Holt denied a motion in 132nd District Court yesterday by attorneys for Freddy Huff for a new trial on possible misconduct of the jury.

Huff, 20, of Post, was convicted here Oct. 8 of a lesser included charge of aggravated assault in connection with the July 18 incident in which he struck Charles Randy Sterling of Ira on the left elbow with an axe at the Scurry County Coliseum parking lot following a rodeo dance.

The state had asked for an attempted murder conviction but the jury convicted Huff on the lesser charge.

On Oct. 9 the jury sentenced Huff to three years in prison and levied a $2,500 fine.

The lawyers gave notice of appeal to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin.

London Bombing Second In Week

LONDON (AP) — London's fashionable West End was hit by its second bombing in a week with an explosion in the doorway of a Mayfair restaurant 200 yards from the U.S. Embassy which injured 18 persons, four of them Americans.

"We are both fine, the Lord be thanked," said Edwin Daly, 42, of Bryn Mawr, Pa., as he and his 10-year-old daughter, Ruth, were released from a hospital early today.

The other two Americans were Alan Ward and his wife, Ruth, both 68, of Riverside, Conn. They were kept in the hospital, Ward with cuts about the head and neck and his wife with cuts on the face and knee.

All the injured suffered cuts, bruises or shock. Seven of them were kept in the hospital overnight.

The restaurant, the Trattoria Fiori on South Audley street, was wrecked. The bomb exploded just before 9:30 p.m. Wednesday.

"As I rushed up to the restaurant, people were shouting and screaming," said photographer Maurice Marucci. "One man was staggering around shouting, "Bastards! Bastards!' Others were crying for help. Six or seven people collapsed on the sidewalk. There was blood all over them and all over the road."

"I heard an explosion and everything went dark," said Daly, who is in England on business. "We were sitting right at the corner table by the door. Fortunately we were not badly hurt."

Enrico Sidoli, the restaurant's chef, said the medium-priced eating spot was not very busy and only about 20 people were in it at the time.

Absentee Voting Ends Tomorrow

Twenty-eight absentee votes had been cast this morning at the courthouse in the Nov. 4 vote on the proposed changes in the Texas Constitution.

Absentee voting is scheduled to end tomorrow.

Franco Worsens

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco's condition has worsened again, the Spanish news agency Europa Press reported today.

The agency said its information came from reliable sources. A medical bulletin was awaited from Franco's doctors.

Meanwhile, Premier Carlos Arias Navarro called his cabinet into session amid reports that Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, Franco's designated political heir, has agreed to become chief of state temporarily.

Panel OKs Loan Guarantees Bill

By MIKE WATERS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Banking Committee today approved a bill with $4 billion in loan guarantees for New York City and sent the measure to an uncertain fate on the Senate floor and a threatened presidential veto.

On an 8-to-5 vote the committee approved what was a compromise measure between Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., and the panel's chairman, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., that would put the city on a spartan fiscal regime to balance its budget and to prevent it from defaulting on its obligations Dec. 1.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., tried to persuade the committee to go along with a substitute measure by Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., which would have allowed the city to default but which would provide guaranteed debt certificates called for by President Ford in his speech Wednesday.

Tower said that the committee, in essence, was wasting its time in approving the loan guarantee measure.

The only Democrat to vote against sending the loan guarantee measure to the floor was Sen. Thomas Morgan, D-N.C., and the only Republican to vote in favor of it was Sen. Robert Packwood of Oregon.

Before the vote, the committee unanimously adopted an amendment by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., which would increase the fee the city would have to pay the federal government for the right to issue tax-exempt notes from 3 per cent to 3.5 per cent of the total amount.

Stevenson, during the debate on whether to approve the loan guarantee measure, said President Ford in his speech Wednesday proposed what amounted to be "the largest bailout of all."

"To veto this proposal, the President would have to veto his own proposal," Stevenson said.

Commenting on the likelihood of a presidential veto, Proxmire said that "I've seen presidents turn around before. Nixon turned around on a dime on the subject of price control."

Prior to the Senate Banking Committee's vote, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said that New York City has not tapped all possible sources of funding to meet its debts and he suggested an increase in sales taxes or locns based on employe pension funds.

VIEWPOINT

Message To New York

It should be clear to nearly everybody now that President Gerald Ford's reluctance to "bail out" New York City from its financial dilemma has significant support.

Opposition to any plan to hand the municipal government of New York City some federal funds probably is more vigorous than among people involved in governing other cities. Those attending the Texas Municipal League conference this week in Houston spoke loud and clear when they voiced their wholehearted opposition to any such plan. These are people who are engaged in the day-to-day operation of city government and they can forsee the perils of any federal benevolence in such cases.

A few other large cities already have indicated that if New York City is permitted to feed at the federal trough, they will expect the same privileges. The people who have operated their cities in a more business-like manner envision consequences which could be downright frightening. City governments could eventually become mere extensions of the federal bureaucracy.

Moreover, it would mean that many American taxpayers would be financing operations in areas where they had no personal interest and where they received no benefits. There are enough of these in other fields already, without adding city governments to the list.

And most Americans in other regions are finding it difficult to reconcile the plight of New York City with its claims to leadership and most of all, its resources. It is an affront to citizens of all cities who attempt to operate with some sense of responsibility to suggest that they owe New York City a dime.

Let us hope that President Ford doesn't waver on this issue.

We're Nuts About Bolts

Nuts and bolts have held this nation together for 200 years—though sometimes, reading the news from Washington, one gets the impression that the former are much more prevalent than the latter.

A patriotic Bicentennial release from the Trans Union Fastner Group, which distributes more than 30,000 kinds of mechanical fasteners, points out that pins and screws not only held American muskets together in the fight for independence but are vital in everything from household appliances to outer space communications.

For example, it was the failure of a screw to remain tight that apparently caused the breakdown of a $78,000 television camera intended to broadcast in color from the moon in 1969.

In 1840, when Micah Rugg and Martin Barnes formed a partnership in Connecticut to establish the nut and bolt branch of the industry, their six employes produced a total of 500 carriage bolts a day.

Today, 600 plants employing 67,000 people produce more fasteners in one minute than Rugg and Barnes could produce in seven years. In 1975, U.S. industry will use more than 200 billion nuts, bolts, rivets and screws and the metal fastener business will top $2.7 billion.

Think about it.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. I loaned money to a friend to start a small business. The business has gone bankrupt and I have no chance of getting my money back. Can I deduct the money I lost?

A. Whether you claim a bad debt depends on the circumstances under which you made the loan, and what attempts you made to recover it.

First, you may not claim a bad debt unless there is a legal liability enforceable in court.

Gifts cannot be the basis of bad debts. If you had no intention of collecting the debt, the advance is considered a gift. You must also take reasonable steps to collect the debt, although you do not have to go all the way to court if you can show the judgment obtained would be uncollectible.

Usually, if good businesss judgment indicates that the debt will remain uncollectible in the future, the debt will be considered worthless.

Non-business bad debts are reported on Schedule D, Form 1040. For more information, see IRS Publication 548, Tax Information on Deductions for Bad Debts.

Q. We bought some Series E Savings Bonds for our grandchild and listed her as co-owner. We would like to transfer the bonds to her name. Are we responsible for any of the interest?

A. Although the bonds are held jointly, since you actually bought the bonds, you are responsible for all the interest earned on them until the time of the transfer. You should include the interest in your income for the year the bonds were reissued in your grandchild's name. If the bonds had been taken out in the child's name, all the income would be the child's even though you paid for the bonds.

Q. We are renting the second floor of our house and require the tenants to pay a security deposit equal to one month's rent. Is this considered part of the rent and should we report it as income?

A. Security deposits are not considered rent or income when they are received, unless they are applied to the rent payment for the last month of the lease. Then they are considered advance rental income and must be reported in the year they are received.

If all or part of the deposit is kept because the tenant defaults, it should be reported as income at the time it is appropriated for back rent.

O'Bryan On 'Row' This Halloween

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Timothy O'Bryan, 8, died last Halloween of poisoned trick-or-treat candy.

His father, Ronald C. O'Bryan, 33, will spend this Halloween in a 10-by-6-foot cell on death row—the ultimate chamber of horrors.

O'Bryan was convicted six months ago of poisoning the boy to collect $30,000 in insurance money. O'Bryan protests he is innocent.

His case is on appeal and no date has been set for him to walk that "last mile" to the electric chair. No one has since 1964.

But the anguish is nonetheless there. "What can you say about a man on death row adjusting? He doesn't like it but his spirit is as good as can be expected under the circumstances," says the Rev. Jimmie Jones, pastor of O'Bryan's church in Pasadena, a Houston suburb.

Doyle Skillern, a murderer housed near O'Bryan on the "row", says "He seems to be adjusting to his situation. As tight as we're locked up, it takes a while to become adjusted"

Jerry Bird, another o the 24 men on death row, said "I would say some of the poople on the row who have children of their own might harbor some ill feelings."

But Skillern says the death row world is a judgemental vacuum: "I can't say one person's crime is worse than another's. Crime is crime. It would be difficult for me to sit down here and downgrade him for his crime. I'm sitting here with the death penalty, too."

Trick-Or-Treat Groups Welcome

Halloween trick-or-treat groups will be welcome at the Snyder Nursing Home between the hours of 7 and 8 p.m. Friday, it has been anpounced.

They may call on patients in the home who have pumpkins on their doors.

Mrs. McKanna On Historical State Board

Mrs. Edith Whatley McKanna of Fluvanna has been elected to the board of directors of the Texas Historical Foundation.

She has been interested in historical preservation since the forming of the Scurry County Historical Commission, of which she is a member.

Her interest in this field has been evident in her work in the Ranch Headquarters unit in Snyder, an organization dedicated to development of a ranch museum at Texas Tech University; her contributions to the Scurry County Museum and work on the county historical commission.

Mrs. McKanna was active in the Womens Army Corps in World War II and was the first woman pilot in Texas to fly her own plane. She also has been active in the oil industry for many years and in women's club work.

Others in this region on the Texas Historical Foundation board are Mrs. Wesley B. Blankenship of Lubbock and Kathryn Duff of Abilene.

Fire Chief On Program

Alfred Kohl, Snyder Fire Chief, brought the program at the regular luncheon meeting of the Noon Kiwanis Club, held Wednesday at the American Restaurant.

He said the Snyder Fire Department has three fire stations, nine paid men, and 30 volunteers. He said the department averages 1.3 fires a day. Kohl showed slides of work done by the fire department. He also discussed the department's training program and plectron alerting system.

Bobby Beard, president-elect, inducted Darrell Rains into the club as a new member.

The meeting was presided over by Sam Kitching, president. Guests included Bill Forbes of the Sunrisers Kiwanis Club, Kenneth Drake of Snyder, and Mark Gowen of Lubbock.

Firemen Called

The Snyder Fire Department was dispatched to 2501 Thirty-second Street yesterday at 7:20 p.m. to a reported kitchen cabinet fire.

Moderate damage resulted to the cabinet firemen said. The house is owned by Terry Row of Snyder.

Fight Shatters Reported Truce

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Moslem street fighters pushed back Christian gunmen ringing Beirut's downtown hotels today in fierce combat that shattered an announced government cease-fire.

A left-wing Palestinian guerrilla official whose troops supported the Lebanese Moslems' attack said Christians from the right-wing Phalangist party militia "have suffered a military defeat."

Bassam Abu Sharif of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine made the claim after Moslems and guerrillas overran the Phalangists' last forward outpost and moved into the shadow of the 25-story Holiday Inn, witnesses said.

Youths in green fatigues, armed with Soviet-made AK-47 assault rifles and backed by .50 caliber machine guns, poured through the Qantari district on a downhill run toward the 500-room hotel, already pocked by bullets and scarred by rocket hits and fire.

"Tonight we'll move ahead," a Moslem gunman boasted to an Associated Press photographer following their advance. "This was just a probe."

A spokesman for the 6,000-man Phalange militia said Christian forces still controlled the Holiday Inn and the Phoenicia, a neighboring 500-room hotel.

The Phalangists also occupied the plush St. George's Hotel on the waterfront — where rich Lebanese and foreigners used to eat oysters flown live from France — after another Christian militia pulled out and the hotel staff fearfully ran up a white flag.

Warring Moslems and Christians were earlier reported to have agreed to a gradual pull-back so security forces in armored cars could establish a buffer zone by nightfall.

Steven Soliah Is Arraigned

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Steven Soliah, free of a charge that he harbored fugitive Patricia Hearst, faces a possible death sentence in connection with a bank robbery and murder last April.

The stocky, 27-year-old housepainter, believed to have been Miss Hearst's lover, was arraigned Wednesday on a charge of bank robbery resulting in death.

His brief court appearance came about four hours after he was indicted by a federal grand jury in connection with the April 21 holdup of a Crocker National Bank branch in suburban Carmichael.

A customer, Myrna Opsahl, 42, was killed by a shotgun blast during the $15,247 robbery, which police say involved at least four persons.

The indictment did not name Miss Hearst and others linked to the Symbionese Liberation Army, although the FBI has identified Miss Hearst as the woman who rented a garage used for the getaway car.

Snyderite Election Inspector

AUSTIN— Alex P. LeFeuvre of Snyder has been appointed by Secretary of State Mark White to serve as an election inspector during the November 4 election, it was announced today.

Under a program coordinated by the State Bar of Texas at White's request, LeFeuvre was nominated for the position by Lealand W. Greene, president of the Scurry County Bar Association. Several hundred lawyers across the state have volunteered to participate in the program.

Created by amendments to the Texas Election Code enacted by the legislature earlier this year, the position of election inspector will be utilized by White's office to assure compliance with election laws in polling places which are object of complaints.

Upon receipt in White's office of any problems, the local lawyer serving as election inspector will be asked to visit that polling place and evaluate election procedures. White's office will gather these reports and use them to determine the effectiveness of election laws in assuring Texans of full enjoyment of their right to vote. "The objective is to assist election officials and voters in solving any election problems," White said.

Idealist Says Decision Making a Child's Right

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: That letter on the "best kind of punishment" was interesting. Punishment is always destructive to a relationship. Just think about how you felt when you were punished.

In a well-functioning family, punishment is unnecessary. Parents respect their children's rights—such as the right to privacy and the right to make their own decisions. And children respect their parents' rights, such as the right to be free from worry about their children's safety at 2 a.m.

Children and parents concede these rights out of love and understanding, not fear or guilt. When those rights conflict, parents and children sit down and work out solutions that satisfy everyone.

Thus, relationships grow warmer and closer. That's what being a parent is all about.

JOY R. IN BEVERLY HILLS

DEAR JOY: You make it sound so super simple. Punishment may be unnecessary, but discipline is a must. Until children reach legal age, their parents are responsible for them, and parents who really love their children will give them guidelines.

I'm all for parents allowing their children to make their own decisions to a point. But while it's wise to let your child stub his toe to learn a lesson, would you let him break his neck if you could avert it?

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 25 years, and if I thought my husband wanted another woman, I would hope that he'd be man enough to tell me. I would not want him in bed with me while his mind was on another woman.

How do you feel about it, Abby?

DAILY READER

DEAR READER: Same as you. But a man who would tell his wife that he'd rather be in bed with another woman is not only cruel; he's an idiot.

DEAR ABBY: We recently adopted a beautiful baby boy who is everything we had ever hoped for in a child.

We were married for 11 years before we accepted the fact that we weren't able to have children of our own, so we decided to adopt. I can't describe the happiness this child has brought into our lives.

Our lawyer advises us not to tell our son that he is adopted since all the records, including the birth certificate, show us as the baby's natural parents.

Abby, there are so many people in this town who know of the adoption, I don't see how we can keep the boy from finding out.

We got him when he was only 3-days-old. He is our child in every sense of the word, and we want him to feel that he is.

Should we tell him he's adopted? And if so, when? We don't want him to hear it from anyone else.

NEW MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think your lawyer gave you very poor advice. Your son should be told that he was adopted as soon as he is able to understand what it means.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has some relatives who always leave the price tag on gifts they send to us and our children. I just can't understand it. The first thing I do when I buy a gift is to make sure the price tag is removed.

It can't be a coincidence that every gift that comes from these people has the price tag on it. Do you think it could be because they want us to know how much they have spent on us and want us to spend the same amount on them in return?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: I think you've come up with the answer. Ignore the hint and spend what you can afford—and continue to remove the price tags!

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Sir Lancelot felt that with his trusty sword he could handle three ordinary knights. He also felt that with the trusty spades he would take his chances against the other three suits.

Lancelot's four spade bid was typical of his style at both bridge and war. His pass over five spades was a bit of guile. He felt that he wanted to play six, but knew that his reputation was such that if he bid it on his own he wouldn't be allowed to play there.

So he passed and let West push him into six. West passed over the six spades and poor East fell into the trap just as almost anyone would. He doubled!

East's king of hearts won the first trick, but that was all for the defense. Diamonds didn't break, but Lancelot was able to pick up West's jack after East showed out on the second diamond lead.

East had a really cheap save at seven hearts, but there was no way for him to know that Lancelot had bid his six spades to make, not as a sacrifice.

Ask the Jacobys

An Ohio reader wants to know if we approve of the 19-point, two-club opening.

This is a very complicated modern convention that has not found many sponsors. We do not use it and do not recommend it. Instead, we prefer either all strong two bids or the use of the two-club opening as the only forcing bid to show either a notrump hand of 23 or more points or a forcing two-bid in an unspecified suit.

Students Build Doll House For Kindergarten Children

Something new has been added to the kindergarten room of Mrs. Forrest Beaver. It is a lovely handmade doll house complete with furniture for every room and carpet on the floors. The lovely doll house was presented to them from students of the Special Education, Level III, department of Humble-Smith School.

Mr. Dale Lavender, teacher, says that besides regular classroom activities the twelve students in his class spend about one hour a day on handwork. They must be as busy as bees during that hour however, because they have a number of projects on display that are made of wood. The small shop is equiped with a band saw, sander and the usual tools found in a shop such as hammer and nails. Most of the wood scraps are donated to them from cabinet makers in Snyder. Therefore they have learned to design and build furniture according to the materials they have to work from. None of the materials are wasted, they make small items such as recipe holders from small scraps.

Some of the larger projects made by the students are doll houses, shown in the picture, complete with hand made furniture in every room. The kitchen is complete with hutch, made with sliding doors and a table with four chairs. The bedroom is furnished with a bed with a beautifully shaped head and foot board and a dresser. Other furniture includes a couch, tables and chairs. The furniture is designed for dolls the size of "Barbie."

They also make such items as windmills, stage coaches and wagons and forts.

Fun is not the only objective of building projects thought. Each project is planned to serve three purposes for the student. First, to help the students develop needed skills in perception; second, to help the students develop a better self-concept, which also helps develop a better relationship with the regular classroom student; and third, to give the students experiences with simple tools needed in everyday living.

The highlight of the year is the "Science Fair." A time when projects are displayed for other students and each pupil shows his projects and explains procedures for making them.

Many people have asked to buy the student's projects and as a part of the program in Mr. Lavender's room he teaches the students to help earn his own way in life, therefore each student makes two of each project. One for himself and one to sell to help pay for materials he uses. The doll house, pictured, sells for $37.50, complete. Other items range from $2 to $10 each.

Anyone interested in buying any of the iems may contact Mr. Lavender.

LET'S PLAY DOLLS— The children of Mrs. Forrest Beaver's kindergarten class at West Elementary are delighted with the lovely doll house, complete with furniture and carpet, which has been added to their room. Students in Dale Lavender's Special Education, Level III, class at West Elementary made the doll house and furniture and presented it to the kindergarten class. Mr. Lavender looks on as the little girls play. Pictured are (from left) Janice Haywood, Angela Traylor, Sherry Pierce and LaFonda Ford.

Dr. Lamb

Who's on first for nutrition?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am interested in getting enough fiber in my diet, but I am most confused. I find it difficult to reconcile calories to nutrition to fats to proteins to carbohydrates to amino acids to enzymes, etc. In other words, who's on first? It was complicated enough before, now along comes this nutrition thing, and I don't know how to relate it to all the other stuff.

I understand that candy, sweets, alcohol are "empty" calories that provide no nutrition, but then I bog down. Must one be sure he eats nutritious calories?

DEAR READER—It is confusing. There has been a lot of loose application of the word nutrition. Nutrition means simply the entire process of taking in and utilizing food, to "nourish" yourself. Calories are part of nutrition and there is no such thing as a non-nutritious calorie. That is like having non-fat fat.

Try to think of nutrition not as who is on first but what you need for the whole process. Your body is like an engine and spark plugs. So you need calories, the fuel or energy, and the means to process it, the vitamins.

First, you need enough calories but not too many, for growth, proper body weight and daily energy.

Second, you need all the right vitamins and minerals to process the food to release the calories and to provide parts for the body such as calcium for bones and iron for blood.

Third, you need protein, because it contains amino acids that are used to build body structures, such as muscles, and even to build enzymes, hormones, and other vital body substances. What protein you don't use for building or replacement building can be used as fuel or calories to provide energy or store energy as fat. It can also be used to form carbohydrate fuel for the same purpose. Excess protein is not helpful in any way except to provide fuel.

Fourth, think of how all these calories (carbohydrates, fat, protein, and even alcohol) are packaged. They are diluted, if you will, with water and indigestible material or bulk and fiber. Your calories need to be diluted with enough of these to give you diet satisfaction from bulk amount without getting too many calories. And the bulk provides enough volume for normal intestinal actions. You can get your bulk from any whole cereals, particularly wheat and oats. You can use any of the shredded wheat products, bran products (All Bran, 40 per cent Bran Flakes, Grape-Nut Flakes), cooked oat meal, but you won't get much fiber from rice.

Sweets, candy, white or refined flour provides calories or fuel and that is part of [illegible] they may lack vitamins, minerals and certainly cereal fiber unless artifically added. So, use whole wheat products such as whole wheat bread and avoid sweets unless you need to increase your fuel (calorie) intake.

For the latest summary of the needed amounts of calories, protein, vitamins and minerals send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 4-6, Balanced Diet, Recommended Daily Dietary allowances (RDA). Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

Beyond these aspects of a balanced diet you can add the measures of limiting fat and saturated fat to prevent fatty-cholesterol deposits and sweets plus fats to limit calories or any modifications that may be required to medical reasons.

Coast To Coast

By Dick Maurice

The mercurial TONY FRANCIOSA and his "Matt Helm" director DICK BENEDICT got into a knock-down-drag-out on the set last week twice had to be pulled apart by cast and crew. Although no announcement has been made at this writing, it's considered inevitable that "Matt Helm" will be cancelled.

Says BOB BARKER ("The Price is Right," "Truth or Consequences"), "When people started mentioning how much I look like Bill Daily, ("The Bob Newhart Show"), I suddenly realized how incredibly handsome he is."

"Fay" may be cancelled but she's not dead yet. CBS is said to be testing three episodes before public viewing panels to evaluate its audience potential on that network.

Country pop singer MAC DAVIS, 33, is being sued for divorce by his wife of five years, Sarah Jane Barg, 24.

FOSTER BROOKS who is currently sharing the spotlight with JULIET PROWSE at the DESERT INN in Las Vegas confessed to me on my KSHO-TV program that he's a tea toter. He gave up drinking a number of years ago on a $10 bet.

HENRY WYNBERG, the guy who seems to move in when RICHARD moves out of Liz's life, has taken up residence in London where he is planning to become an actor's agent. I have a hunch he's just hanging around Europe waiting for the first big Burton-Taylor fight.

Actress Elena Yolanda Yanez Hernandez of Mexico City sued a surgeon Thursday complaining that an operation to enlarge her bosom left one breast larger than the other. She filed charges of medical responsibility against the surgeon for the $640 operation which she underwent Sept. 5. She said a second doctor has determined that another operation will be required to even out her problem.

Man-killing bear subject of movie. It was inevitable: A film company has announced a movie called, "Claws," based on the drama of a man-killing bear. American International said today that the script is being written by Alan Caillou and will be filmed in a national park.

Las Vegas is a city of many temptations. It is also a city of con artists, troublemakers, and beautiful young women. Several weeks ago one if its most attractive beauties, model Diane Marie Vincent, was permitted by Judge Howard Babcock to continue her paternity suit against British singer ENGELBERT HUMPERDINCK. The number of young singers in Las Vegas who have been charged with fathering children out of wedlock is indeed sizable.

RALPH NADER says Madison Avenue is spending millions for television commercials to turn children into nags for toys and cereals. "There is some $400 million spent every year by companies on television advertising directed to children, not only (for) food but toys and other products," he said. Nader said corporations pitched their products on television by means of "pretty roosters, plastic doodads, and little jingles that are basically and pristinely idiotic."

White House TV correspondents RICHARD VALERIANI, (NBC) MARVIN KALB (CBS) and TED KIPPEL (ABC) bought a race horse together and named him "Henry The K." They have named their stable (if one horse a stable make) "Off The Ress" and their racing colors are newspaper black and white. What's more, they hope to enter "Henry The K" in the first race at International Day at Washington's Laurel Race Track. Hear tell that Henry A. Kissinger is so pleased with the boys havng named their horse for him that after each press briefing he asks, "How's Henry? Is he doing well? Can he win?"

ROBERT DeNIRO has bowed out of the cast of "Bogart Slept Here," at Warner Bros. because of "artistic differences" with the director Mike Nichols.

Who says there's nothing new on television? FLIP WILSON will be "sawed in half" by magician MARK WILSON on his "Travels With Flip, Part II" CBS special in January. Producer David Wolper's upcoming "American Spirit" special will star FRANK SINATRA, ANDY WILLIAMS, SANDY DUNCAN, HELEN REDDY and DON HO. ROBERT REED stars in an episode of DENNIS WEAVER'S "McCloud" series. HAL LINDEN, a big hit in his new "Barney Miller" comedy series, has permanently moved his family from New York to Los Angeles. RICHARDO MONTALBAN, PEDRO ARMENDARIZ and A. MARTINEZ are guest stars in an episode of PETER FALK's "Columbo" filmed in Mexico City and Cuernavaca.

BACKERS STRESS PICK AND CHOOSE

TMA Opposes Charter

By The Associated Press

Directors of the Texas Manufacturers Association have joined the ranks of those who oppose the proposed state constitution while backers began to stress that voters did not have an all-or-nothing choice, but could vote on the individual proposals.

The board of directors of TMA, an organization that has 5,800 members, issued a statement saying that the present constitution has been amended and therein lies its strength.

Hull Youngblood, chairman of TMA, said in San Antonio that "people have amended the present constitution to meet changing conditions."

"What we are saying," he added, "is that it (the constitution) has been updated each two years for the past 100 years."

Youngblood said the TMA's decision to opposed the new charter was made during a meeting of the board prior to the 53rd annual conference on Texas industry which opens today.

In Austin, Speaker Bill Clayton said that "contrary to what the opposition is insinuating, voters can vote for or against each proposition on the ballot individually" next Nov. 4.

But Mrs. Alfred Negley, president of the San Antonio Conservation Society and former member of the State Democratic Committee, said: "I think it is important for the people to understand that this is not just a revision, but a totally new document. There are a lot of good things proposed in it but for every good thing that's in there, we have four or five bad ones that overwhelm me."

Clayton insisted that Texans "can pick and choose what they like and discard what they don't" when they go over the eight propositions included in the new charter.

Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, head of a statewide opposition effort, said he felt that Gov. Dolph Briscoe's decision to oppose all eight propositions caused the opposition to gain ground rapidly. "I believe that most people who study the proposed new constitution will vote against it," McKnight said. "But if a voter hasn't had time to examine every controversial provision, then I think he or she should play it safe and keep our present constitution by voting no."

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby spoke out Wednesday for the judiciary article, which calls for a merger of the Texas Supreme Court and the Court of Criminal Appeals and a statewide unified judicial system. "Our people are deeply concerned that our judicial system be responsive and effective and they realize that an efficient system of justice is a major factorin society's ability to combat crime and assure order," he said.

In other action Wednesday:

—The Travis County Commissioners court endorsed, by a 5-0 vote, the Local Government article of the new constitution. "County government needs the constitutional authority to establish and enforce regulations in unincorporated areas," the resolution said.

—Four past presidents of the State Bar in Houston endorsed the judiciary article. They were attorneys Leroy Jeffers, Thomas M. Philips, Joyce Cox, and Leon Jaworski.

Protesting Fems Stage 'Drink-In'

DALLAS (AP) — To hear Ed Murph tell it, taverns offering free or half-price drinks to unescorted women don't do it to exploit them — they're just trying to give women a break.

"Actually, when you get right down to it, we aren't exploiting the ladies," said Murph, who manages The Beggar, a Northwest Dallas bar. "Most of the ladies who come here have jobs, but we realize they don't make as much as the men do, so the half price drink is mainly to equalize things."

Well, The Beggar didn't go begging for business Wednesday night, when 75 feminists decended on the tavern to drink it dry. The women say the free or half-price drink is nothing more than a fancy lure to get men to bite the hook, adding that they're sick and tired of being used as bait for the profits of club owners.

The drink-in, brain child of the Dallas chapter of the National Organization for Women, was part of the nationwide "Alice Doesn't Day," designed to show the importance of women as members of the labor force and also as housewives.

Murph it was "a great honor" to be singled out by the feminists as the bar they would chose from all the others offering discounts to women, but added that he didn't think the women could come any way near to drinking The Beggar dry.

Nonetheless, the women, mostly in their 20s, settled down to a hearty night of drinking, "mainly highballs, tequila sunrises — that kind of thing."

He said they were orderly, not rowdy, talking with and explaining their positions to other patrons.

And through it all, not one of them got sick.

"Women don't do that," he averred. "They're ladies."

When the women came to the bar, Murph said he made it a point to meet some of the leaders and talk with them.

"It was very interesting. I think each side learned a lot," he said, adding that he's going to keep on offering discounts to unescorted women.

Asked whether the protest by the women had raised the consciousness of other patrons, Murph replied, "I don't know about now, but maybe it will be when they wake up with a hangover."

Jacobsen Trial Dates Are Reset

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — State District Court Judge Curt Steib has granted a motion for continuance and reset the pretrial and trial dates in the case of Austin attorney Jake Jacobsen.

Jacobsen, a former milk industry lobbyist who was a key witness in the bribery trial of former Tex. Gov. John B. Connally, was indicted on charges of misapplication of some $800,000 from the First Savings and Loan association of San Angelo where he was an officer.

Connally was found innocent.

On Wednesday, Judge Steib set a pre-trial hearing for Nov. 10 and moved the trial date from Nov. 10 to January 12, 1976.

Prosecution and defense attorneys said they intend to call to the stand several state officials during the pre-trial hearings and the trial.

Federal authorities refused to prosecute Jacobsen on federal charges after Jacobsen agreed to testify against Connally.

A Dallas federal judge, however, refused to dismiss the federal charges and appointed special prosecutors to handle the case which is still pending.

Close Contest Expected At Lubbock Tonight

What could be a close and exciting football contest will get underway at 7:30 tonight at Lowrey Field in Lubbock when the Dunbar Panthers host the Snyder Tigers in a District 3-AAA clash.

The game is crucial for the Panthers since they can remain in the running for the district crown with a victory. For the Tigers, they're playing mostly for pride and a winning season since they're virtually eliminated from the district race. Dunbar has the better record, 4-3 for the season and 2-1 in district play. The Tigers are 3-4 on the year and 1-2 in district action.

Coach Maurice (Mo) Hodges of the Tigers has a lot of respect for tonight's foe.

"They're actually faster than Estacado," Hodges declared. "They're the fastest team in the district."

Defending the Dunbar sweeps, reverses and traps will be a problem for the Tiger defense. The Panthers are a ground oriented team, seldom resorting to the pass. They have two talented quarterbacks in Walter Alsobrooks, 145-pound sophomore, and Robert White, 140-pound senior. Both probably will see action at the important position tonight.

Running backs for Dunbar will include fullback Dennis Gentry, 160-pound junior; tailback Kenneth James, 165-pound sophomore; and, slot back Gary Adams, 175-pound junior. Albert Slaughter, 151-pound senior, also operates at tailback. The Panthers opened the season with a Veer offense, but switched to a Power I attack two weeks ago and have had better luck with sustained drives. With their speed, however, they could strike from anywhere on the field. Tight end Billy Hardaway appears to be the prime receiver when the Panthers pass.

Snyder will counter with perhaps the best balanced attack in the league. With Kelly Ragland chunking and tailback Bobby Thompson, fullback Mitchell Smith and wingback Larry Gee doing the running, the Tigers have been able to move the ball consistently in their last six games. Snyder's basic offensive alignment is the Winged T.

Thompson is the leading ball carrier, and Ragland has hit on 60 per cent of his passes. His favorite target is split end Kenny Thompson. Tim Flynn also is available for tailback duty, and Pat Dryden is expected to alternate with Gee at Wingback tonight. Except for the opening loss to Monahans, no team has been able to beat the Tigers by more than four points.

Defensively, both teams use five man fronts, but the Panthers stunt much more often than the Tigers. Leading the defensive charge for Dunbar will be Rowland Strong, 210-pound senior tackle. The Tigers' defense is sparked by linebackers Ricky Beard and Greg Pavlik.

Up front on offense, the Tigers will have Kenny Thompson and David Rice at end, Gary Greenlee and Charles Hammond at tackle, Dusty Land and James Smylie at guard, and Dennis Buchanan at center.

The linebackers will be joined on defense by Mike Freeman and Billy Allbritton at end, Richard Willis and Sam Kitching at tackle, Darrel Lester at middle guard, Kyle Sikes at rover, Bobby Thompson at cornerback, Tim Flynn at halfback, and Steve Greene at safety.

FROG FANS PATIENT

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Normally, you'd expect wolves to howl, heads to roll and fans to revolt.

But such is not the case at Texas Christian University, where the Horned Frogs have lost 17 games straight, the longest current string in major college football.

"The wolves aren't at the door," a TCU official said this week.

If anything, it would appear that Coach Jim Shofner's job is more secure than ever.

"Even though we've lost 17 in a row, it's not something that happened when Shofner got here," said Dick Lowe, a Fort Worth oilman and one of the university's major supporters.

"It's something that had been building up for a long time ... He came into a bad siaution and it wasn't one he could turn around in two weeks."

With a little luck, he said, TCU could become competitive next year.

But, as Dallas columnist Blackie Sherrod observed, "If it were not for bad luck, TCU would have no luck at all."

Some trace the Frog's misfortunes back to the 1966 season, when a heart attack felled Abe Martin, whose TCU teams won Southwest Conference titles in 1955, 1958 and 1959.

From his hospital bed, he chose assistant coach Fred Taylor as his successor. It was a decision, some say, based more on loyalty than objectivity.

Whatever, Taylor's teams, repeatedly riddled with key injuries, failed to win and he was replaced after four years by Tulane's Jim Pittman.

"Pittman was a proven, successful major college coach that was obtainable," said Lowe. "It was a very rational, well thought out decision."

After an encouraging start, Pittman was cut down by a fatal heart attack, midway through his first season. Under the circumstances, TCU had little choice but to elevate his top assistant, Billy Tohill, to the head job.

Tohill's freewheeling lifestyle did not fit TCU's image and, it is said, he would have been fired if again tragedy hadn't intervened.

Tohill nearly lost his life in a car accident.

"We had to give him another year, but things didn't get any better," said one close to the university. "The program went downhill and we had to make a change.

"We wanted to stay in football and we wanted to do it on a big-time basis. And we wanted a person with impeccable character, integrity and personal morals."

Shofner, then a San Francisco 49er assistant, was a logical choice. He had been an All-SWC running back at TCU in the mid-1950's and later spent a year at the Dallas Theological Seminary.

He accepted the job in December 1973 and it was the following year, in the Frogs' season opener, that TCU last won a football game, beating University of Texas-Arlington 12-3.

Before the long season ended, Kent Waldrep, a popular and talented young halfback, had suffered a broken neck and TCU again dealt with personal tragedy.

"Last year is gone and there's no use dwelling in the past," Shofner said last summer. "We're looking to the future."

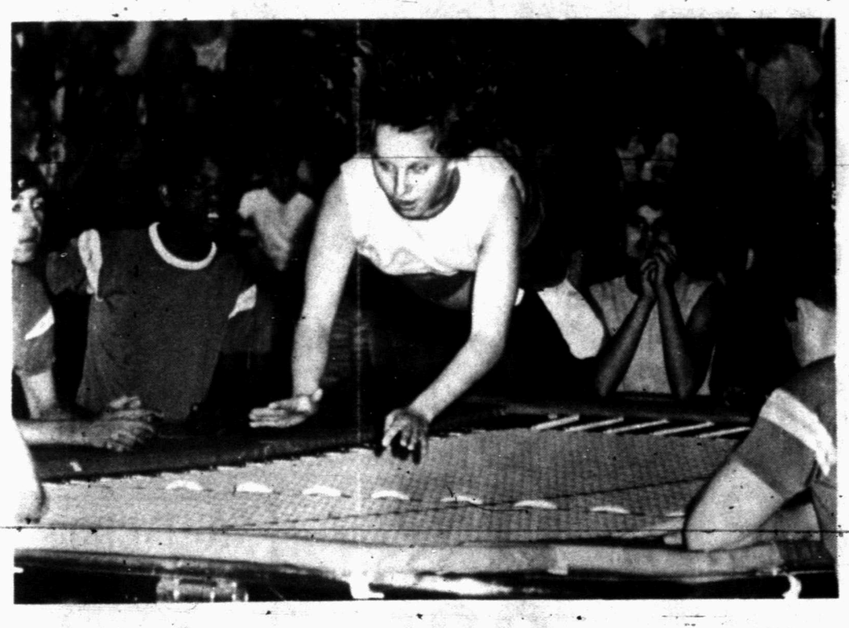

When the 1975 campaign opened with a stunning 24-7 loss to UT-Arlington, some speculated openly that TCU could not survive as a major college contender.

"I don't think the people realize the schedule TCU plays every year, said Taylor.

Pearson FindsHome

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Preston Pearson got two telephone calls at the end of the National Football League's long preseason.

The first came from a Pittsburgh Steeler official who told the 29-year-old Pearson his services were no longer needed by the World Champions.

The second came from the Dallas Cowboys who wished to drop the rule that they don't play anybody they don't draft, inquiring how quickly the running back could hop a jet to Big D.

"It was a big shock to get that call from the Steelers, and I guess it hurt my pride more than anything," said Pearson. "I felt I could play for the Steelers and I still do."

The nine-year veteran had an inkling the ax was coming when he got to carry the ball only four times in two preseason games.

"They really weren't very fair to me," said Pearson. "Dallas was the first team to call when Pittsburgh put me on waivers. Four or five other teams were interested but Dallas was the first to call—that meant a lot to me."

Pearson said he quickly came to money terms with the Cowboys.

"I wanted to play with a team that has tradition like the Cowboys," said Pearson. "I realize I'm the only player on the team they haven't drafted but I certainly don't feel like an outsider. They've been just great.

"I feel I'm starting to make some contributions. This is a young team and boy do they like to play. The organization is top flight all the way."

Pearson, a gliding type runner, has stepped into a starting role for Sunday's National Conference Eastern Division game with Washington. Pearson has rushed 32 times for 164 yards—a nifty 5.1 steps per try, including a long run of 32 yards.

"Pearson has a lot of ability," said Cowboy Coach Tom Landry. "He has the quickness, agility and experience."

Cowboy assistant Ermal Allen added, "He's intelligent and is picking up our system very fast."

Pearson was a 12th round draft pick by Baltimore out of Illinois in 1967. He played only basketball in college.

He led the NFL in kickoff returns in 1968 and was traded to the Steelers in 1970. Loaded with running backs like Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier, Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll decided to let Pearson go.

"I wish Pittsburgh the best luck in the world because I have a lot of friends on the team ... and I've got in the back of my mind that the only way I will get to play against them is in the Super Bowl ... I sure would like to play against them."

Gibson's Wins Again

Holiday Rambler Packers of Sweetwater struck for paydirt on the first play of the game but Gibson's Bombers fought back to take a hard earned 23-13 victory in Sweetwater Tuesday night.

Gibson's mounted a steady time consuming drive from its 15 to the goal on 30 yard pass play from Marvin McClanahan to J. B. Lee. The Pat was good to give Gibson's an 8-7 lead.

Both offenses moved the ball at will, but the Gibson team seemed to toughen toward the goalline.

Gibson was able to push another tally across before halftime, to give them a 15-6 lead.

In the second half, Holiday took the opening kick-off and marched for a score. The Pat was good making it 15-13 as the third quarter ended.

Fourth quarter action was tense and tight, until Frank Woner picked up an interception at mid-field and returned it to the Holiday 30 yard line. Two plays later MClanahan hit Ricky Hopper for a score. Hopper fell at the five yard line, but got up and scrambled into the end zone.

The try for the Pat was good making it 23-13 with less than two minutes to go in the game.

The win gives Gibson's a 7-0 record and the right to represent the league in the regional tournament at Bryan at a date to be announced later.

BLACKOUT BAN COSTLY

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle said today National Football League clubs lost more than $9 million in revenues during the 1974 and 1975 seasons as a result of the lifting of the television blackouts on sold-out home games.

Rozelle said a decrease in season ticket sales meant lost revenue of more than $8.4 million, while the remainder of the losses came from game program sales and the value of radio rights.

He also told Congress the antiblackout law produced more than 1 million no-shows — ticket purchasers who do not attend — last season which, the NFL believes, will result in a decrease in future ticket sales.

In testimony prepared for the House communications subcommittee, Rozelle said season ticket sales by NFL member clubs had shown a steady annual increase prior to 1974, the first full year in which the antiblackout law went into effect.

"The number of season ticket sales decreased for the first time in NFL history in the 1974 season, the first season following the enactment (of the law)," he said. "The trend downward has continued to the 1975 season."

Rozelle said there has been a total decrease of 150,674 season ticket sales since 1973, 55 percent of the total decrease coming from teams which had regularly televised home games during the 1973 and 1974 seasons.

NFL member clubs who televised three or more of their games in 1973 and 1974 accounted for a decline in season ticket sales of 57,908," he said. "The net result is that fully 93 per cent of the decrease in season ticket sales comes from those member clubs who were required to televise some or all of their home games locally during the 1973 and 1974 seasons.

Rep. Torbert H. Macdonald, D-Mass., chairman of the subcommittee, and Rozelle are at odds over the impact of the measure, which Macdonald wants to make permanent. Macdonald said no one has shown that the law has done any damage.

Jeff Hepinstall and Scott Resseguie of Toledo both caught 24 passes in their first four games this season.

"Charles! You said you and some people in Oregon were leaving this planet in a UFO and would never return!"

Sixty Dead In Air Crash

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — A chartered Yugoslav DC9 jetliner with 127 persons reported aboard crashed four miles from Prague's Ruzyne Airport today, airport sources said.

The sources said at least 60 persons were killed, and many of the survivors were in critical condition.

Most of the passengers were Czechoslovak trade union members returning from a vacation on Yugoslavia's Adriatic seacoast near Tivat, the sources said.

Tanjug, the official Yugoslav news agency, said a crew of five Yugoslavs was aboard the plane.

Czechoslovak officials refused to give any information.

The airport sources said the plane belonged to the Inex-Adria airline and was one of four flights today to Prague from Tivat. It was scheduled to land at 9 a.m. The Prague airport had been shrouded in fog since last Friday for all but a few hours around noon, and today was the first day of normal air traffic.

LIBRARY STRETCHED—The Scurry County Library has two new additions which are being added. The larger addition shown here has simply expanded the adult reading area north.

TWO NEW ADDITIONS

County Library Project Is Nearing Completion

By BENNY ELLINGTON

Completion is nearing on two new additions to the Scurry County Library.

"The noise we have learned to live with, but the dust has been really bad," declared Mrs. Jervis Bullard, Scurry County Library librarian, "But it is going to be well worth it once it is all completed."

The contract for the new additions was let approximately five months ago to H.R. Bundock, Inc. of Lubbock. The cost of the project will run in the neighborhood of $90,000. The money for the additions was provided by federal revenue sharing funds.

The larger addition on the northwest corner, is 40 feet by 79 feet. Carpet was going down last week, and according to County Judge Preston Wilson, "The whole thing should be completed within a month."

Against the wall on the west side will be the library's collection of books on the Southwest. Three shelves containing mystery books will set out approximately three and a half feet from this wall in the southwest corner of the new addition.

Science-fiction and western books will be along the north wall. On this side, toward the middle, will be a reading area.

"We hope with this area designated for reading, people will be able to read in a quiet atmosphere, not like it is now, where other people are always stepping on your feet," explained Mrs. Bullard.

The reading area will contain chairs grouped around in a semi-circle, with a newspaper rack and a magazine stand similar to the one at Snyder High School's library.

The east side will be reserved for reference materials. They will simply be scooted north from their present location. A shelf containing genealogy books will be located on the south side against the wall. Sections of the original wall had to be left in order to support the structure.

New tables and other materials transferred from the original building will also be located here.

This addition will be approximately twice the size of the area just west of the check-out table now. Windows are located on the north side like the windows in the original structure.

FINISHING TOUCHES—Carpet is going down in the larger addition here. O'Neal Bloom trims the edge off of a section of carpet in order that it might fit properly. He is carpet department manager at Clark Lumber Company.

The new additions are being made because the library has just outgrown its original building.

"The original library was built to house 26,000 volumes, and we now have over 50,000 volumes," the librarian explained. They have many books not on the shelves, but stored away in the supply room. The Scurry County Library has many magazines in the bookmobile garage.

On the southwest corner of the present structure, a smaller addition has been added. It is approximately 24 feet square.

This area has been designated for the younger children. "We hope to have sitting pillows in here where the younger children can sit and listen to sponsors read and explain stories, during the story hour period," added Mrs. Bullard.

This room also will be used for meetings of the Library Board. The lighting in both the children's reading area and the adult reading area has also been redone.

This is the first addition made to the library since its completion.

Many people from out of town have commented on the excellence of the library for such a small community.

The Scurry County Commissioners' Court voted last week to began accepting bids for the furniture to be used in the new additions.

County Judge Preston Wilson said that, "the court would probably accept or reject the new additions, though, before the furniture arrived."

An "Open House" will be set later, once everything is completed and the furniture is in the new additions.

Baptists Urged To Avoid Split

DALLAS (AP) — The new president of the Baptist General Convention of Texas says if local Baptist associations have complaints about neo-pentecostal churches, they should deal with them themselves instead of dragging the matter before the convention.

"Where there is a strong movement that fragments fellowship, I think churches should deal with it locally," said Dr. James Harris. "I don't think the convention is any place for it."

The Rev. Dr. Harris, pastor of Fort Worth's University Baptist Church, was elected president of the 2.2 million-member state denomination Wednesday. He replaces Dr. Ralph Smith of Austin, who is completing a two-year term.

A predicted showdown over the charismatic churches — those which practice faith healing and speaking in tongues — was defused Wednesday when delegates rejected a motion which could have led to the ouster of the charismatics from the state organization.

The proposal would have required a church to be a member of a local Baptist association before it could belong to the state organization.

Two weeks ago the Dallas Baptist Association purged from its membership two charismatic churches, and the Houston association followed with a proclamation condeming the charismatics as being divisive.

However, the 2,400 messengers attending the annual meeting here rejected the proposal by a 20-1 margin.

The convention's Christian Life Commission advised delegates to vote against Proposition VII of a proposed new state constitution because it would open the door to gambling.

The report also urged Baptists to stand by the public school system, explaining that "we need to do all in our power to move with patience, correct the injustice and improve our total public school educational program."

The commission asked members not to "panic or seek alternative plans as an attempt to avoid responsibility for public education."

Social Security Taxable Wage Base Is Raised

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you earn over $14,100 next year, you'll be paying up to $70.20 more in Social Security taxes.

The government announced Wednesday that it will levy Social Security taxes on the first $15,300 of your earnings beginning next Jan. 1, up from the $14,000 taxable wage base this year.

The result will be that an estimated 18 million workers will be paying higher Social Security taxes next year, to a maximum of $895.05 or $70.20 more than this year. Their employers will pay a like amount.

Self-employed persons will pay a maximum of $1,208.70 next year, up $94.80.

The higher taxable wage base will yield about $2.1 bilion to help pay part of the 8 per cent cost of living benefit increase that began flowing to 31.3 million Social Security recipients last July. General revenues paid for the same 8 per cent increase for four million supplemental Security income recipients.

The added revenue is not expected to ease the projected Social Security deficits of $3 billion this year and $6 billion next year, nor even offset the first-year cost of the benefit increase.

Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell said the heavier tax on workers "will mean higher benefits for them and their families in the event of retirement, disability or death than would have been possible without an increase in the base.

"In return for the increase in taxes, these affected workers will have greater protection because a larger amount of their earnings will be credited toward benefits than before."

The base increase, mandated by law and based on a formula gauging the average wage increase, also raises the limit on outside income that retirees can earn without losing some Social Security benefits.

The government estimates that about 1.3 million retirees will benefit by the 1976 provision allowing them to earn $2,760 in outside income, a $240 increase over this year. Every $2 earned over that limit will result in a $1 reduction in Social Security payments.

Beneficiaries will be permitted to earn $230 a month next year without losing benefits, $20 more than this year.

The tax rates of 5.85 per cent each on employes and employers and 7.9 per cent on the self-employed will not change next year. The employe-employer tax rate is scheduled to jump to 6.05 per cent in 1978.

New Equality Credit Law Will Have Little Affect

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

Bank and loan company officials in Texas insist the new federal law that bars them from refusing credit or loans because of sex or marital status will have no affect on their operations.

Most of those contacted by The Associated Press said their financial firms had been following that policy for sometime and that women had been treated the same as men.

The law went into effect Tuesday and under its provisions a woman cannot be asked whether she plans to have children, and lenders cannot assume from an applicant's age if she is likely to become a mother.

The Equal Credit Opportunity Act was passed by Congress in response to complaints that women had difficulty in obtaining loans, maintaining credit records apart from their husbands and being considered the equal of men as credit risks.

Mary Kisso, a loan officer for the American National Bank, one of the largest in Austin, said, "We are fortunate. We have not had to make any policy change as a result of the law change. For quite awhile we have had the policy of looking at a woman applicant for a loan on her own merit. If she had the income and property to substantiate a loan we would make her a loan on her own, just like we would a man."

A spokesman for the Household Finance Corp. office in Dallas, one of the major lending institutions to individuals, said "We have been doing the same thing this law requires for years. We'll just keep on doing what we have been doing. There is no need for any change in our policy because we meet all the requirements."

Donald L. Neil, senior vice president for consumer banking at the Texas Commerce Bank of Houston, said, "It will cause some changes in the way we keep our files. In the future, banks will have two separate accounts so that the spouse, husband or wife, will receive credit for any joint credit they may have."

Neil said one provision of the law, which is effective Jan. 31, 1976, may cause changes in policy by some banks. This section provides that any person turned down for credit for any reason will have the right to find out why.

Neil said, "I think disclosure of why a loan has been turned down may cause some changes for some banks in general. We've never hesitated to explain why we turned someone down for a loan, but I'm not sure that is consistent with all banks."

Bill Tapp, a loan officer at the Bank of Texas in Dallas, said, "We have been following these requirements for sometime in the screening of loans. There will be a meeting in our bank on this law, but I can't see any way it will require policy changes."

Dick West, attorney for the Federal Reserve Board, said women can still be expected to reveal their marital status when applying for a loan.

He said this is necessary because Texas is a community property state, and property often is used as collateral.

Mexican National Is Typhoid Carrier

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Immigration officials say a Mexican national, illegally in this country, has been found to be a typhoid fever carrier while working at a Texas City restaurant.

The U.S. Border Patrol identified the former cook at the Monterrey House restaurant in Texas City as Jose Macias Silva, 38. He began treatment, health officials said, after 12 confirmed cases of typhoid and five suspected cases were reported in the Galveston-Harris County area.

Health officials said the victims all ate at the cafe.

James J. O'Keefe, assistant district director of the Border Patrol in Houston, said Wednesday Silva entered this country illegally in late April. He said the agency will detain him at the Harris County Rehabilitation Center in Houston while he undergoes treatment.

Meanwhile, two damage suits involving three plaintiffs and seeking a total of $900,000 have been filed in state court against the restaurant. The plaintiffs allege they became ill after eating at the establishment in September.

Solon, a great lawmaker and general, made laws for the Greek city-state of Athens in 594 B.C.
