Outing Ends In Terror As Youths Riot

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A holiday outing ended in a voyage of terror for passengers aboard a Lake Erie amusement park vessel last night as teen-agers rioted aboard the ship.

Reporters aboard the crowded Canadiana for the 15-mile trip from Crystal Beach amusement park in Ontario to this city described it as "a nightmare of flashing knives and sobbing, frightened passengers. Rioting aboard the Canadiana flared up after a day of disorders by white and Negro youths at the amusement park.

Cpl. J. E. Legate of the Ontario provincial police at Crystal Beach was quoted by the Buffalo Courier-Express as saying the disorders were "strictly racial."

But F. L. Hall, general manager of the amusement park, said the disturbance there was "not a race riot."

Six persons were treated for injuries at hospitals in Buffalo and Fort Erie, Ont., and at least 10 others were treated for minor injuries at a first aid station at the park.

Provincial police arrested nine Buffalo youths at the beach. Five were Negroes and four whites. The Negro youths were charged with unlawful assembly and the whites with creating a disturbance. All were released under $500 bail each.

Margaret Wynn and Dick Hirsch of the Buffalo Courier-Express, who were aboard the three-decked steamship, reported that "nearly 40 white youngsters, several beaten or cut, covered below decks in the ship's dining room for most of the trip after being attacked or threatened by the many Negro teen-agers who made up the majority of the passengers."

The reporters estimated that of the approximately 1,000 passengers, 80 per cent were Negroes.

"Members of the ship's crew and private police," the reporters wrote, "vainly attempted to keep order, but when one fight was broken up, another flared in a different portion of the weather-beaten boat."

"Most of the trouble," they continued, "was caused by gangs of Negro girls who walked the deck, attacking and molesting young white girls."

"Firecrackers were carelessly flung at passengers, exploding at their feet. Several received powder burns. Switch-blade knives were brandished. Youngsters were shoved to the deck by the ramming mobs which rushed back and forth over the decks."

"Many older white persons were segregated by worried crew members. They sat quietly in roped-off sections of the slow-moving ship, attempting to comfort their crying, terrified children."

Ike Cautions Supporters On Complacency

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today cautioned his political supporters against complacency in this year's campaign. He urged them to work hard for continuance of what he called his administration's "great middle of the road philosophy of government."

In an informal address at a Citizens for Eisenhower national campaign conference, Eisenhower also called for election of a Republican Congress this fall to supplant present Democratic control.

Eisenhower got a rousing ovation at the start and at the conclusion of his remarks to an audience of about 500 at the Statler Hotel. The Citizens for Eisenhower Committee was created in 1952 to rally independent voters and dissatisfied Democrats to the Eisenhower banner.

At the outset of his talk the President recalled it was exactly four years ago today that he left Paris to return to this country to bid for the presidency.

Eisenhower alluded to his heart attack last September at one point and then touched off a laugh in saying that the only way he has now of knowing he is ill "is that the doctors keep reminding me."

He added that he is now ready to "go forward" into the campaign and to work cheerfully and energetically for victory in November.

The goal, he declared, is "clean government, good government, progressive government and government that knows its place and doesn't interfere with me as I go about my duties."

The last part of that remark brought a laugh. The President did not elaborate on it.

Eisenhower was flanked at the rostrum by two pretty girls, campaign workers, carrying bright red parasols and wearing "Let's Back Ike" campaign buttons.

Before outlining campaign goals in a general way, the President reviewed international events during the last three years and said much has been accomplished toward world peace.

He mentioned the end of the Korean War, for example, and added that so far as the future is concerned America is determined to preserve its position "as a friend of all."

CYPRLOT PLOT

Queen Guarded In Security Threat

LONDON (AP)—Security men with three Cypriot gunmen reported to have slipped into England with assassination orders. Shortly before the Queen left Buckingham Palace for the traditional ceremony of "trooping the color" — part of her "official" birthday observance — policemen were told that a letter had been received at Scotland Yard threatening to interfere with the parade.

Actually the Queen celebrated her 30th birthday last month. But official outdoor ceremonies are held later when there are better chances of good weather.

A brilliant sun beat down on Horse Guards parade, just along the tree-lined mall from Buckingham Palace as the Queen, riding side-saddle on a placid tempered police horse named Winston, arrived at the head of glittering cavalcade with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, just behind her.

Seven-year-old Prince Charles and his flaxen-haired sister, Princess Anne, watched excitedly from a window with Princess Margaret and the Queen Mother. Seventeen hundred guardsmen in thick red tunics sweltered for 90 minutes in the brilliant sunshine as they paraded their regimental colors before the Queen.

Beside the extra guards for the Royal Family, armed police have been posted around the homes of Prime Minister Eden's Cabinet ministers, and tracker dogs have been sent out to Eden's own country estate.

John Jack Bentley of Stanton today asked the Federal Communications Commission for authority to operate a new 1,600-kilocycle radio station at Stanton.

He has been working up details of the application at Stanton in conjunction with a radio engineer, but was out of town at noon today and could not be contacted. No details of his plans were available.

The FCC also was asked to approve the assignment of the license of KHEM, Big Spring, to the Elmo Broadcasting Corp. J. Homer McKinley of Big Spring holds the KHEM license. Details of that transaction were unavailable at noon, also.

North Korean Col. Lo In Hi, in denying Gard's charges, said: "Your side has unmasked its attempt to wreck the armistice agreement. You will be held responsible for all the consequences arising from this unilateral action."

The supervisory commission was set up by the armistice which ended the Korean fighting in 1953. There are four members of the commission — Sweden and Switzerland and the Soviet bloc nations Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The United States early this month told its Korean war allies steps should be taken soon to abolish the commission. Both the United States and South Korea have long charged that the Communist North Koreans have prevented the truce team from working effectively to check armistice violations.

Gard said the suspension of commission operations in South Korea would remain in effect until the Reds stopped illegal introduction of war material and "corrected" reports purporting to show there had been no armistice violations. He added that the U.N. Command would continue to "adhere scrupulously" to all other provisions of the armistice agreement.

Commission members were ordered to halt their operations in South Korea and pull back into the neutral zone. Britain disclosed the 16 nations making up the U. N. Command, which is headed by the United States, have turned down a new proposal from Red China for a conference to unite Korea and withdraw foreign troops.

A British note dispatched to Peiping on behalf of the 16 said the Communist governments of China and North Korea have provided no evidence of the good faith needed for such a conference to "serve any useful purpose" and accused the Reds of frustrating any effective supervision of the 1954 Geneva armistice agreement.

North Korea countered with a broadcast from Pyongyang reporting it will discharge 80,000 men from its armed forces by Aug. 31 and calling on South Korea to follow suit. The Pyongyang radio said the reductions would speed talks on unification. In another dispatch, it reported Premier Marshal Kim Il Sung has accepted an invitation to visit Moscow at some time in the future.

North Korea is estimated to have about 400,000 soldiers of its own in uniform, in addition to the many Red Chinese troops still in the country. South Korea has an army of about 600,000 men.

The armistice supervisory commission is made up of representatives of traditionally neutral Sweden and Switzerland and Communist Czechoslovakia and Poland. A blistering statement from the U.N. Command accused the North Koreans of armistice violations and said the Czech and Polish members of the commission covered up illegal Red activities.

U.S. Maj. Gen. R. G. Gard charged the Communists had used the commission "as a blind" behind which to illegally move jet fighters and other war material into North Korea.

"You are no longer privileged to take advantage of those provisions of the armistice agreement which have been violated and frustrated by your conduct and that of the Czech and Polish members of the commission," Gard declared.

His statement was made at a meeting of the Joint Military Armistice Commission. The North Korean Communists denied Gard's accusations.

Gard, senior U.N. delegate to the armistice commission, said the Communists had never at any time since the armistice reported bringing combat aircraft into North Korea.

U. S. Clips Korean Truce Commission Used As A 'Blind' For Red Buildup

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—The U. N. Command today clipped the wings of the four-nation commission supervising the Korea armistice, charging the Communists have used it as a blind for an illegal buildup of arms in North Korea.

Commission members were ordered to halt their operations in South Korea and pull back into the neutral zone. Britain disclosed the 16 nations making up the U. N. Command, which is headed by the United States, have turned down a new proposal from Red China for a conference to unite Korea and withdraw foreign troops.

"This is particularly conspicuous," he asserted, "since your side now maintains in North Korea between 400 and 500 such aircraft . . . whereas you had none in that area at the time the armistice was signed."

Gard charged Czech and Polish officers with "fundamental perversion" of the commission, and said the U.N. Command was "entitled to take steps necessary to protect itself from the consequences of such unwarranted conduct."

NO HOT BUS Yanks Ban Banbury For Banbury Ban

BANBURY, England (AP)—Some 3,000 U.S. airmen, it was disclosed today, have decided to ban Banbury until they bury the Banbury ban.

The ban declares the town out of bounds for British troops. It was imposed by the British army's Western Command last week "to prevent trouble with U.S. servicemen."

Spring has come to England, and it seems there has been a certain amount of Allied friction over girls.

The inference that they needed help from Western Command in such competition did not sit well with the Americans. After thinking it over, they arrived at a decision.

Until the town is opened up again to the British, the Yanks themselves will no longer "ride a hot bus to Banbury Cross," which is the way the old nursery rhyme goes these days.

"The fellows," said an officer at the U.S. base in Upper Heyford, "are real upset by the treatment given the British troops. They have decided to give Banbury a miss as a token of sympathy."

Among the 1,000 British Tommy's at nearby Kineton, the news touched off a positive wave of British-American friendship. The general feeling spread that the Yanks are pretty good blokes at heart.

In Banbury's saloons, pronounced "pubs," there were silent cash registers and deep gloom. "Those Yanks," said one publican, "are the best customers we ever had."

Meanwhile, in Parliament, indignation was brewing in the person of Lt. Col. Marcus Linton, a Labor member from London's Brixton district.

A fine thing, the colonel said last night, when a British soldier becomes an undesirable alien in his own, his native land.

So the colonel filed this motion in the House of Commons: "That in the opinion of this House the military order banning British troops stationed nearby from visiting Banbury so that only American troops are permitted there should be countermanded forthwith."

Nobody knows what will happen next. But what with one thing and another, there hasn't been so much excitement in Banbury since Cynric the Saxon clobbered the British here in the Battle of 536.

No Tragedies Mar Memorial Day Here

Big Spring spent most of its time in the swimming pool, on the golf course, and having picnics rather than having accidents over the Memorial Day holiday.

Although the accidents numbered three, one of them was in the city park and involved parked cars.

The swimming pool and municipal golf course were swamped with customers, and picnic booths at the pool were about as easy to find as a grandfather at a youth rally.

Paying holiday rates, 77 persons paid to tramp the links, and another 10 bought monthly passes. The number of persons who already possessed monthly tickets and played the course was not listed.

At the swimming pool, 767 crowded their way into the water. Of the total, 563 were adults and 184 were children. The total probably was expanded by persons having 10-swim passes.

The hot sun which prevailed drove hundreds of residents to resort spots. Picnics were popular and many families took advantage of leisure to go to the city park and other places to have their evening meal out of doors.

Most of the stores and offices downtown were closed throughout the day. The streets in the business area were almost deserted and the traffic pattern gave the appearance of a quiet Sunday.

The temperature climbed to a scorching 96 in mid-afternoon. The heat prevailed on into the night and never dropped below 71 for the 24-hour period.

Many Big Springers off the job for the day spent their time simply "resting." Others seized upon the extra time to do odd jobs.

A car owned by Ronnie Burks, 300 Owens, rolled back into another auto, and that car rolled into a third in the park. Burks' car, a 1956 Chevrolet, rolled loose and hit a 1955 Pontiac being driven by Sandra Sue Patterson, 103 1/2 Frazier.

The Pontiac then bumped a 1949 Dodge, also unoccupied, owned by Thomas Welch, Webb AFB. Kenneth Wayne Cartwell had the car at the time of the accident.

The other two accidents occurred at 1910 Gregg, and NE Second and Nolan. At the Gregg address, James Edward Montgomery of Midland hit a parked car owned by Ernest Edwin Elliott, 1909 Runnels. Montgomery's vehicle was a 1954 Chevrolet truck owned by

Science Knocks At Door Of Cure For Mental Illness

By STANLEY MEISLER
NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Joel LeBlanc, 34, a quiet, gray-haired intellectual, stared through his glasses at a doctor lighting a cigarette.

"Why is he doing that?" he wondered. Suddenly, he thought he knew. "He hates me. That's why. He hates me."

Joel saw another doctor smile. "Why is he smiling? Because he hates me too. They all hate me. They want to hurt me."

Joel wanted to hurt them first. He saw a stool. "I'll bash that smiler's head in," he decided. He rushed to the stool. Then he stopped short.

Have you guessed what was wrong with Joel? He was showing symptoms of schizophrenia—a dread mental disease.

If Joel was a real schizophrenic, he probably would be taken to a mental hospital like 350,000 other victims in this country. His chances for full recovery would be slight.

But Joel's symptoms disappeared in less than two hours. He was not a schizophrenic. He was a subject in a dramatic experiment that may point to a cure of the illness that accounts for half of our mental patients and a quarter of all those who lie in hospital beds.

at the Louisiana State Penitentiary, took the shots in experiments conducted by psychiatrists and biochemists of Tulane University's medical school.

It is part of a study to learn whether mental illness is associated with specific chemical or other changes in the body. Whether the substance isolated from patients' blood is a cause of the disease, or is something produced by it, cannot yet be answered.

Psychiatrists call Joel's symptoms paranoic — he was afraid the world was against him. "You don't know what you're angry about," Joel said afterward.

"At first, as the anger builds up, it is not unpleasant. But later as you try to control the anger, there is something hellish about it."

Joel had been injected with a substance isolated from the blood of actual schizophrenia patients. He and another volunteer, Fred Couderc, 25, who also is a prisoner sire to take the stool and hit him over the head with it. It's natural to hurt the thing that is hurting you. If I hadn't known in the back of my head all the time that this was an experiment, that the medicine was doing all this and not me, I couldn't have controlled myself. I would have hit him. I kept myself back finally by beating my hands against my chair and the table."

Joel has felt much better since the experiment. "Blowing my stack for a while seemed to help me," he said. "I haven't even been mad since then."

Opposite symptoms were shown by Fred, a thin young man who often slouches in a chair, his hands loosely touching, as he chews

Boys Will Be Boys

Two boys, ages 7 and 12, created this havoc in Revere, Mass., in one minute when they succeeded in starting the motor when playing aboard a ten-ton tractor. The boys jumped off unhurt as the tractor plowed through the walls of a new garage, smashed a fence then demolished a second garage and crushed a new car inside. A contractor building a new home nearby had left the tractor overnight. Damage was set at $8,000.

Stormy Weather Hits Sections Of Midwest

By The Associated Press
Stormy weather hit sections of Kansas and Oklahoma and rainy weather extended from eastern Colorado over wide areas eastward into New England today. Severe thunderstorms broke out last night along the eastern border between Kansas and Oklahoma. Funnel clouds were reported from north of Oklahoma City northward to near Hutchinson, Kan., and eastward to the Missouri border. Electrical storms and strong winds swept areas in southeast Kansas. Rain was heavy in some sections. Showers and thunderstorms continued this morning from eastern Colorado through Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, northern Arkansas, western Kentucky, southern and central Indiana, into Lower Michigan and around most of the lower Great Lakes region. Light showers fell in central New York and in parts of Central New England. Scattered showers and thunderstorms were reported from the mountain areas of southwestern Idaho and in northern Oregon and central Washington. Cooler air moved into the northern Great Lakes region, the upper Mississippi Valley, the northern and central plains and the eastern slopes of the northern Rockies. Strong winds, with showers, accompanied the cooler air as it pushed into the eastern Dakotas and western Minnesota. South of the cool belt, generally mild weather prevailed.

States Rights Group Sets Up Platform In Mississippi Meet

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Mississippians for States Rights, a virtual rebirth of the 1948 Democratic party split, organized yesterday a platform based on what they termed loyalty to principle rather than to party.

About 250 cheering, applauding persons from throughout Mississippi agreed to qualify independent presidential electors in an attempt to create a foothold for bargaining with either the Republican or Democratic party for full states rights.

Circuit Judge M. M. McGowan of Jackson, a founder and key-note of the organizational meeting, offered the hope that if 100 unpledged, independent electors voted in a bloc, they could throw the election into the House of Representatives where each state has one vote.

Visitors from Alabama and Louisiana reported similar plans afoot in their states.

McGowan said Mississippians for States Rights was organized on the assumption that neither major party would nominate candidates acceptable to the South. His group, however, does not have the backing of the governors of the states involved.

Instead, the group criticized Governors J. P. Coleman of Mississippi, James Folsom of Alabama, Earl Long of Louisiana and Orval Faubus of Arkansas for what it called a lack of leadership against federal encroachment upon states rights.

Several legislators, two former candidates for governor, Citizens Council leaders and members, and a newspaper editor were present at yesterday's meeting.

Cautioning against compromise, McGowan said, "You can't settle principles by manipulation. You have to stand on them."

"There is no such thing as an acceptable civil rights program. Civil rights laws are foreign to the concept of English law, the basis for our government, and are connected with socialism."

Root Plowing Gets Tests As Moisture Saving Technique

Root plowing, a new technique employing use of subterranean sweeps, is being tried on the L. S. McDowell ranch in northern Glasscock County.

Soil Conservation Service technicians, advising in the project for the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation district, believe that the practice will promote absorption, reduce competition for soil moisture by brush, and also open the way for generally improved ranges.

The operation is being combined with a reseeded process. McDowell is having 200 acres treated in the experiment at a cost of approximately $12.50 per acre. Oscar O'Daniel, Coahoma rancher, has 100 acres treated in the same manner. A demonstration was staged a week ago on the W. R. (Jinx) Powell ranch in Mitchell County, where some 22 acres had been set aside for a joint demonstration by the Jaycees and Mitchell County Soil Conservation District.

McDowell was having his land seeded with blue panic and King Ranch bluestem grass as the mesquite and other brush was killed.

Based on a recent shower, the procedure indicated better moisture penetration on the treated land. The 1.75 inches of moisture falling (most of it rapidly) since the project was completed showed penetration to a depth of 30 inches. Untreated areas had only five inches penetration. Looking at it another way, the root-plowed tract held an estimated 75 per cent of the fall, while most of that on the other area was said to have been runoff.

In root plowing, a root cutting blade moves below the surface at a depth of about 12 inches. Fins on the blade loosen the soil and ride roots of brush to the surface of the ground, providing the maximum kill of the brush. Still, the ground is not pulverized but it is roughed to the point that it seems to hold water longer.

Two seeder boxes, operating off the tractor's drive shaft, spread seed through the tractor exhaust over the plowed area.

Front of the 137 h.p. tractor is equipped with a dozer. The root plow cuts a 10-foot sweep.

Work in this area so far has been done by Bill Hudson and Ben Sparks, dirt contractors of Colorado City.

Baptists Asked For Patience On Segregation

KANSAS CITY (U)—Southern Baptists were asked today to apply the principle of Christian equality to the racial segregation problem.

"What we do about the racial situation in our home communities will be a help or hindrance to those who represent us in the cause of Christ among the restless masses of the world," said T. B. Maston, professor of social ethics at Southwestern Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Tex., in a prepared address to the Southern Baptist Convention.

Maston's appeal followed a warning to the convention last night by evangelist Billy Graham that "the world is on fire, especially here in the South."

Graham, speaking to more than 12,000, said the segregation issue "must be faced with courage, prayer, humility, love and above all, patience."

Speaking on the same platform with Graham, Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.), chairman of the SBC's Christian Life Commission, urged that Baptists "attempt to create an atmosphere in our communities in which the problem can be solved" without conflicts.

Repeated discussion of segregation by speakers posed the question whether an attempt would be made to have the convention consider a resolution to take other formal action on the issue. SBC President C. C. Warren, Charlotte, N. C., in his opening address yesterday pointed out the convention two years ago expressed its approval of the Supreme Court decision banning segregation in public schools.

Maston pointed out in his speech that prior to the Civil War Southern Baptist churches were integrated, with Negroes outnumbering whites in many instances. The congregations were divided after the Negroes were emancipated, he said. Since then the SBC has carried on "a continuing although admittedly inadequate and inconsistent program for Negroes."

OKLAHOMA CITY (U)—An Air Force lieutenant was shot and critically wounded early today while attempting to keep two teenagers from stealing his car. Lt. Mitchell Haddad, 28, Oklahoma City, was shot in the heart region with what police said was a revolver.

Climbers Killed

MATSUMOTO, Japan (U)—Three Japanese mountain climbers died yesterday atop 10,463-foot Mt. Hozuka while trying to recover the bodies of two other climbers who perished there three days earlier. All five were caught in storms on the summit and froze to death.

Soup For Breakfast

In years gone by, English and American breakfasts got a lift with a hot cup of beef tea, a drink similar to our present-day canned bouillon. Lately there has been a return of this protein-packed beverage to breakfast tables all over the country. Not so strange, either, when you consider that while some drinks build tension, hot bouillon soothes as it stimulates the digestion.

Antique Grouping

Special pieces in the collection of antique furniture in the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Derington are the 'ladies and gentlemen' chairs. Here, they are centered by a turtle-topped table, upon which is a 'Gone With the Wind' lamp with a coal oil base. Jan Derington is shown admiring the grouping. Other small articles are shown in the lower picture. On the marble topped table is a picture album of the 1880's, a coffee mill and on the large iron stone platter is a heavy glass wine decanter surrounded by long-stemmed wine glasses. (Staff Photo).

Antique Collection Is Labor Of Love For Mrs. Derington

By LUCILLE PICKLE

It's a labor of love and money well spent when Mrs. O. H. Derington, 302 NE 2nd Street, finds an antique to add to her collection. She has not only furnished much of their new home with old pieces but has numerous pictures, pieces of glassware, a coffee grinder and other interesting items.

She started her hobby about ten years ago by getting some odd pieces and when the family decided to build a new and larger home she decided to enlarge on her hobby by adding furniture.

Much of it had to be stored in various barns and shops and when the house was finished she almost had too much. When she found what she wanted out of town Mrs. Derington got her husband's pickup and personally brought the "load" back.

A prized purchase are the solid walnut 'ladies and gentlemen' chairs. Gracefully fashioned and surprisingly comfortable, the pieces are two from a set of four. Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Nalley purchased the other two ladies' chairs. At the apex of the frames is a beautifully carved cameo. Mrs. Derington has had them reupholstered in antique green velvet. The springs are brass; the formula for coiling them has long since been lost.

While Mrs. Derington has not set up any particular era or pattern to base her collection on, she does admire anything with a grape pattern. The marble topped 'turtle' table which she uses with her chairs has a handsome grape design worked into the legs.

BATTENBERG CLOTH

Another favorite with the collector, and one that has the cherished pattern, is the Battenberg lace table cloth. The lace work was done by hand with a needle and thread and while most are made on linen, this one, with many hours of work involved, was done on muslin. It is a 60 inch circle.

To complete the decor of the living room, Mrs. Derington has added a picture album with brown celluloid back graced with a young girl's picture outlined by pink and blue flowers. Somebody's family pictures are in it and probably date back to the 1880's. There is also a coffee mill, a china mantel clock and various types of plates. One has the picture of Louise, daughter of a king, most likely Austrian, painted in the center. Mrs. Derington has an original of the princess in charcoal by Gustav Richter done in Berlin in 1899. The scarf that is always around the throat of the princess, was to conceal an unsightly goiter. The frame is handtooled, and the back is solid with tiny strips of wood.

Adding to the decoration of the room are three handsome banquet lamps. All have brass bases; two matching ones have milk glass shades and additional trim of hobnail milk glass. Modern house wiring practices cut out the use of a beautiful chandelier in the living room. It was originally made for coal oil but has been converted for electricity.

When the new house was built the Deringtons forgot to have the ceiling wired for the lighting piece.

They have it in the den. It is of white glass decorated with pink roses and trimmed with a patterned brass band. Crystal prisms circle the base.

BEDROOM FURNITURE

A lover of old furniture would sleep well in the master bedroom. The furniture is of solid walnut and the headboard of the stump bed is approximately 6 1/2 feet high. The bed is spread with a counterpane of white with a pattern that gives the effect of being tufted but isn't. All the weaving, raised and flat, is continuous.

An imposing piece of furniture is a chiffonier of six drawers to which is attached a full length mirror. The base, raised approximately six inches from the floor, is of marble. The mirror is framed with walnut. The drawer bottoms are of birdseye maple and all the pulls are brass. The wood is beautifully preserved and has a lustrous finish.

The matching wash stand holds a pitcher and bowl and little touches to complete the theme, are a brass cuspidor, which holds a ivory, and a china chamber, daintily decorated with painted flowers. This was bought locally from the W. G. Cole family.

All of the lamps in the bedroom are made for use with coal oil. A brass candle holder with candle sits on a handcarved chest made in Belgium. The pattern is an ornate one, and the drawers have no pulls but must be opened with a large brass key.

Good Public Relations Help

There is no professional organization in existence that would not be better for a carefully prepared and consistently carried out job in public relations.

That has just been demonstrated anew, and quite forcefully by a campaign carried on by the Texas Optometric Association, through its institutional advertising in newspapers, radio and television.

The TOA a year ago started such a campaign under the chairmanship of Dr. Grady Jolly and vice chairmanship of Dr. W. C. Hambrick, both of Abilene. In their report submitted last Sunday the committee found it to be "the most efficient way to reach the people," and declared it "is time that professional associations recognize the import of their influence in reaching the people."

These professional groups, we might add, include doctors, lawyers, engineers, dentists and many others besides optometrists. The word "advertising" has always been a sort of bugaboo with them, and most such groups have strict "ethical rules" against it—quite wisely, insofar as individuals are concerned.

But the Texas optometrists approached it from an institutional viewpoint, presenting in well-written, excellently laid out and attractively balanced newspaper ads the story of the important part good eyesight plays in the life of the individual and the nation. Supplemental material appeared on the radio and television. There was no commercial ballyhoo; the central theme was information and guidance.

"More Texans have been informed about visual care than ever before," the report says.

"I think this approach to professional association problems is going to set a pattern over the nation, especially in optometry profession," Dr. Jolly declared.

Previously the group hospital and health care organizations had demonstrated the effectiveness of this kind of institutional advertising throughout the country. The Texas Optometric Association is to be congratulated on breaking new ground in the vital field of public relations.

Promises Beaucoup, Delivers Drip

Beginning five or six weeks ago, and at intervals since, a rainrow has been "talking it up" in this area. We are giving this bird one more chance to make good on his weather predictions, and if he doesn't come through this week we're going to track him down and execute him with an airgun or something as a disgrace to the rainrow family—a liar and a cheat.

The two-timing son-of-a-gun!

We have formed the half-baked opinion that this particular feathered forerunner has been giving us the lip, and flying off to surrounding counties and towns to deliver his promised showers of blessings. What else could account for the fact that in the last ten days we have been surrounded on all sides by heavy showers, while the city and its environs have gone begging?

His neglect of these immediate areas is particularly humiliating and aggravating, for in the past few months we have gone out of our way to speak well of all rainrows. He actually delivered three or four times back there in the late winter and early spring, as if egging his faithful followers on, but the moment we put in a plug for his prowess he began to neglect his knitting and let us down. Puffed up with pride, no doubt. That is the trouble with prognosticators: They start a hit now and then and they give upstaging every-body.

The late-developing tactics of our neighborhood rainrow has annoyed us into writing a poem about him:

The rainrow's a cuckoo,
A loose-talking gyp;
He promises beaucoup
And delivers a drip.

(P.S.: If we get the heavy rain we expect this week we'll wire our rainrow to come back home, all is forgiven.)

The Business Of Personal Visits

There is much embarrassment in Washington over the invitations which are coming in from Moscow. It would look very silly indeed if we refused to let Gen. Twining go to Moscow and to have a look at the Soviet Air Force. Yet we hesitate. What is worrying the Administration is that the invitation will have to be returned, and that as one thing is supposed to lead to another, we shall end up—as Sen. Knowland put it the other day—with Khrushchev and Bulganin coming to Washington "to sleep in Lincoln's bed."

All this arises from a certain confusion, from a failure to distinguish between a meeting of the heads of government and a meeting of subordinate officers and officials. It does not follow at all that visits of the chiefs of staff, defense officials and the like, must lead to a visit by Khrushchev and Bulganin. A meeting of the heads of government may not now be desirable at all. It seems to me it is not now desirable. But that does not mean that we ought not to welcome exchanges of visits and a general increase of communications between the Soviet Union and the United States.

The essential difference between meeting at the summit and meeting at lower levels is that the men at the top have the power to negotiate and to take decisions. Below the summit, men can only report, explore, and follow instructions. To hold a meeting at the summit is always an act of high policy in that it announces a hope that decisions will be taken.

Because of this, a meeting among adversaries at the summit, as distinct from a meeting among allies, should not be held until there is virtual certainty that they have reached some agreement. At the first Geneva meeting there was every reason to believe that they had reached an agreement on the impossibility of thermonuclear war.

There need be no embarrassment in saying frankly that we do not favor a meeting at the summit until there have been successful negotiations through diplomatic channels. Once this is our known policy, we need not shrink from, indeed we can encourage, the exchange of visits. The world will be spared the hullabaloo of publicity, of false hopes and dashed hopes, of rumors and suspicion, that would attend a visit by Bulganin and Khrushchev to Washington.

It can be said that they went to London, that nothing spectacular happened, and that the confidential talks were useful. The fact of the matter is that a visit to Washington would be a quite different affair. It would be a meeting at the summit in the sense that the London meeting was not. For the President has a kind of decisive power within the Western alliance which gives him tremendous responsibility in talking with the Russians. He is responsible to his allies. In a personal negotiation at the summit he may not be able to consult them adequately. If he makes concessions in order to reach agreements, he may be accused of letting down his allies and of partitioning the world between the two great powers. If he makes no concessions, he may be more inflexible than his allies wish to be.

No such dilemma exists as long as the President deals with the Soviet Union through diplomatic channels. For then he can consult his allies at every step of the way.

All this is, I must admit, hard to square with the enthusiasm of Secretary Dulles for traveling personal diplomacy. "It is silly," he has said on television, "to go at it in the old-fashioned way of exchanging notes, which take a month perhaps before you get a good understanding," when "by overnight flight" and "talking a few minutes face to face," the Secretary of State can get a good understanding.

Is Mr. Dulles right in thinking that a month is too long to take for a good understanding? And is he right that when men get off an over-night plane and talk face to face for a few minutes that they always know what they are talking about? Mr. Dulles has travelled 310,000 miles, and can it be said that the globe is studied with good understandings?

Exchange Students

NEW YORK (AP)—Every year some 50,000 persons are on exchange between United States and foreign colleges, universities and research organizations.

Last year, says the Institute of International Education, about three-fourths of these were foreigners coming to the United States.

Officials of the Institute, founded in 1919, believe that persons with international training are of such value to business, government and professional groups that it has established a Central Index of Educational Exchanges covering 210,000 of persons who have had contact with it in the past 36 years.

"Information on an estimated 25,000 to 30,000 new exchanges will be added annually," says Kenneth Holland, president of the Institute.

While They Weren't Looking

WASHINGTON (AP)—"You did it when we weren't looking."

That is the complaint some senators made against the rest of the states' rights argument—should have a voice in deciding rates.

Fulbright suggested it might be well to let anyone who disagreed with the labor secretary appeal to the courts. Opponents argued this might foul up the whole highway program, get it snarled in court fights all over the United States for years.

The Senate debated Monday, and 14 hours Tuesday, before approving a bill to create over the next 12 years a 40,000-mile network of superhighways costing the federal government about 25 billion dollars and the states about 2 1/2 billion.

Since the federal government will pay most of the bill, Sen. Chavez (D-Nm.) proposed the government should decide the wage rates for men who build the network. He said the secretary of labor should do the deciding.

This wasn't unusual. Under a law passed in 1931 the labor secretary decides wage rates for workers on projects paid for by the government. This applies to contracts for direct federal construction as well as to contracts for schools, hospitals, housing, airports and other facilities built with federal aid funds.

The secretary decides what the prevailing rate is in the area for the same kind of work—in this case it would be roadbuilding—and says that should be the wage rate for the highway builder.

There were a lot of objections, particularly from Southern Democrats, including Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.).

Their arguments, boiled down, ran like this: What area would the secretary select as a yardstick? An area close to where a strip of highway is to be built or some city 100 miles away where wages might be higher? What would happen to the economy of a rural area if the secretary fixed wage rates for roadbuilders out of line with wages paid nearby farmhands? Would they quit the farms to work on the roads?

Besides, the arguments went, the labor secretary shouldn't have final say. The states—this was the states' rights argument—should have a voice in deciding rates.

Fulbright suggested it might be well to let anyone who disagreed with the labor secretary appeal to the courts. Opponents argued this might foul up the whole highway program, get it snarled in court fights all over the United States for years.

The Senate finally approved Chavez's idea: the labor secretary should decide the rates. But it was a day of confusion on the floor. And just about dinner time Fulbright got up again, proposing an amendment to Chavez's proposal that anyone disagreeing with the secretary's wage rates could appeal to the courts.

The Senate quickly voted for this. Sometime later Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.), an opponent of Fulbright's amendment, realized what had happened. He asked the Senate to reconsider.

He hadn't heard the amendment read, he said, because there was too much disorder on the floor at the time.

He said he doubted many senators knew what they were voting for. Sen. Morse (D-Ore.) said he didn't know about it because he was out to dinner. Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) said he didn't realize it either. His back was turned at the time, he said.

The Senate let the Fulbright amendment stand. But the Senate bill differs from a similar measure passed by the House which said the labor secretary should decide wage rates but didn't provide for any appeal to the courts.

There can be no highway law until both houses iron out their differences. The Senate may bow to the House and agree to drop the Fulbright amendment.

South Pacific Has Changed

By JIM BECKER
(For Hal Boyle)

HONOLULU, May 31 (AP)—The dreamy, unsophisticated South Pacific is no more. The island nation via radio and war-gained knowledge are strictly up to date.

Lois-clad baseball teams sporting pitchers with a wicked curve, school teachers strictly up on the racial situation and natives who turn down cigarettes of the wrong brand are the things that travelers find now.

The Navy destroyer escort Whitehurst found the baseball team on a palm-fringed atoll named Lukunor. The chief of the island challenged the sailors to a game.

The bases were made of palm leaves and driftwood and there was an outigger canoe in center field. The natives had no gloves or shoes and their uniforms were loin cloths, but they could play baseball.

LT. (jg) Tom Kelleher from Salem, Mass., the ship's athletic officer, got up a team of pretty confident sailors—until they got to bat.

The natives won 7 to 4.

"The only reason we got any runs at all was because their second baseman couldn't field a ground ball," Kelleher said.

The lieutenant struck out the first time up, and singled the second. It was the only really solid hit the sailors got.

"I never saw anything like that pitcher. He had a really wicked curve," said Kelleher, who played three years of college ball.

David B. George of Honolulu, back from an eight-month cruise in the South Seas, said he visited an island in the Fiji group that hadn't had a white man on it in 20 years.

A native walked up and asked him: "Mac, how are you handling the racial problem in the United States, now?"

The native was a school teacher and an avid listener to radio newscasts.

In the Cook Islands groups, George reported that the natives turned down his offers of cigarettes.

"Wrong brand," he explained. "The Army had an air base there during the war and the natives got spoiled. Anyway they didn't like these filter tips."

Way To Stop Drag Racing?

There's probably a real simple solution to the "dragging" of Main and other streets in Big Spring.

My theory is that all it would take is the elimination of loud exhaust pipes. The noise those jazzed-up old cars make on the takeoff, and the popping and spitting that comes off when the hot rocks let up on the accelerator or shift gears seem to provide most of the incentive for the draggers.

At least I've never seen a drag race in which the cars weren't equipped with the noisy exhausts.

There must be something about a roaring, popping, sputtering exhaust system that makes the young buck feel like he's in the jet pilot class when he's driving a car thus equipped. An imposing amount of time and money must be spent making the so-called hot rods capable of giving out more racket than the law allows.

There are several ways to do this. The noisiest used to be called simply the "straight exhaust." It is literally that—a straight pipe—no muffler. Special mufflers, with nothing much inside them to muffle the engine noise, does just about the same thing.

It used to be common for the sports to disassemble their regulation mufflers and weld them back together without the baffles inside. Modified in this manner, the sound boxes were called "gutted" mufflers.

The easiest way to make your car make racket is to merely take a hammer and slash a few holes in the muffler. This accomplishes the same thing as the more expensive operations, but it isn't practiced so much. Puts the car owner in a class with the common people when word gets around that his muffler merely has a hole in it.

The police and highway patrolers used to give tickets to drivers with straight pipes, special mufflers and leaky exhausts. The informal complaint was "excessive noise."

Apparently, noisy autos now are ignored by the authorities. If not, they aren't harassed enough to discourage the practice of substituting something for mufflers.

Looks like the illegal exhausts would be the easiest of all violations to detect. One of those cars can't even creep away from a traffic light without making "excessive noise."

We Need To Understand Russians' Aims

WASHINGTON—When the Soviet government wants to make a psychological move and weigh the probable impact on the people of Britain or America, they call in Messrs. Burgess and Maclean, who know intimately the western democracies—their gullibility and their political weaknesses.

But when the United States is confronted with a move that could affect the psychology of the peoples behind the Iron Curtain, nobody with a knowledge of the processes of reasoning of the Russians sits in at the top councils. Decisions usually are made here on the basis of what American officials think is or will be the Russian reaction.

Thus, today there is a big problem facing decision by the United States government. It is whether to open the way for the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff to visit Moscow and to let the highest military commanders of the Soviet regime come here.

On the face of it, the American mind sees nothing wrong with it—just another means of creating a better "climate for peace."

But the men who have knowledge of the Russian underground—the emigres who have fled from behind the Iron Curtain—are constantly warning that the United States must not appear to be given sanction to permanent rule by the Moscow tyrants over the satellite states and a continued enslavement of the people of Soviet Russia.

Dr. Vladimir, Poremsky, president of the National Alliance of Russian Solidarists—an organization that carries on underground activities in the Soviet Union—flew to America a few days ago and, in a copyrighted interview in U. S. News & World Report this week, he discusses the recent visit of Khrushchev and Bulganin to England. He says:

"I think Khrushchev and Bulganin have a double aim. The first aim, which we consider the main one, is to consolidate their prestige within their own country by showing their people that they are being well received abroad, and to use this prestige to stifle domestic opposition. They strive particularly to deprive their people of the hope of support from the free world."

"Their second aim, which we regard as secondary, is to try once more to deceive the West, in accordance with the Leninist line to which they have now returned. Lenin was very optimistic concerning the possibility of fooling people in the West, because he thought that there were many fools there."

"What is your opinion concerning the wisdom or the unwisdom of the Geneva Conference?" he was asked. Here is his reply:

"I think that, because of the prevailing atmosphere in the world today, because of everyone's fear of war, it would have been difficult to avoid the meeting at Geneva. Personally, I would rather it had not taken place. Whether or not such meetings can be avoided in the future will depend on public opinion in the West. Only public opinion can give the western governments solid ground to stand upon in refusing to participate in such meetings."

General Twining, Chief of the U. S. Air Force, probably will go to Moscow for the air show next month along with air generals from Britain and France. But if the Russians invite the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff as a whole and the invitation is accepted, then the Russian Chiefs will want to come here, too. It would mean also that Khrushchev and Bulganin would feel that the United States could not fail to invite them. A number of military missions from Soviet Russia then would probably go to the Latin American capitals. This would aid the infiltration propaganda of the Soviets.

All this is in the face of the fact that sixteen nations which made military sacrifices to support the United Nations in Korea cannot even get permission for a general or any other military officer to visit North Korean camps where the armistice has been violated, especially in building up airfields. The neutral supervisory commission of the U. N. has given up all hope of being able to go into North Korea. Yet visits by American military men to Moscow are applauded in free America in certain quarters and there is a steady drive encouraged by many well-meaning persons to invite Khrushchev and Bulganin to come here.

In propaganda the Soviets are outmaneuvering America largely because they have men in Moscow who understand the western democracies. But in Washington evidently the Russians who have turned on the Kremlin and who understand Russia are not consulted when policy decisions are being made that could vitally affect the psychology of the peoples behind the Iron Curtain. Small wonder the "cold war" is going against us.

Only Mink-Base Cosmetics, Please

Science in the 20th century is an awesome thing. There is always a witch's brew of atoms cooking on the Bunsen burner, ready to make man one with the dodo, and the passenger pigeon. Or hydrogen. Or cobalt.

Ninety-nine times out of a hundred I can't make head or tail out of what the boys are stirring up in the back room of the laboratory. So it gives me great satisfaction when occasionally I come across some morsel of scientific research that I can dig.

Such a morsel has just escaped from the laboratories at Rutgers, New Jersey's state university, and its promises for the better life are spectacular. In short, the Rutgers test tube may make available to every American woman a mink coating if not a mink coat. It envisions a whole new line of cosmetics and perfume based or grounded in mink fat, suet or oil.

Like all great discoveries, (see Newton and his apple, etc.), the perfectibility of mink fat into cold cream or Chanel No. 5 is based on accident. A mink didn't exactly fall on the noggin of a New Jersey mink farmer, but after killing and skinning his home-grown minkers, his hands were always so soft, white and touchable that they hurt like blazes when he had to dig a ditch, chop kindling or pitch hay. The farmer's daughter (now, now, that's so far as this story goes!) was fascinated by daddy's lily-like paddles. She decided there must be some special properties in mink fat to produce the opposite of dishpan hands.

She asked the local druggist for advice on the mink fat's commercial value and uses. He, in turn, sent her to Dr. John M. Cross, professor of pharmaceutical chemistry at the Rutgers College of Pharmacy.

The first thing Dr. Cross discovered is that mink suet is so easily renderable that body heat melts it to a clear yellow oil, that it penetrates the skin easily, and softens the skin without leaving a greasy film on milady's face or greasy stains on clothing.

The lab has established one fact for sure—the ease with which mink oil penetrates the skin. It also has uncovered the probability that the oil contains a material which may be valuable in hormones. Rutgers scientists are now doing research on the hormone possibility.

Dr. Cross is not surprised that mink fat assays so high, in view of the fact that ranch mink live the life of Riley. They are fed on the best ground beef, vitamins and cod liver oil. While the average two-pound mink will yield only four to five ounces of fat, nonetheless, Dr. Cross believes that 350 tons of rendered mink oil a year can be produced from home-grown mink in the U.S.A. alone.

In view of the fact that a little oil goes a long way in cosmetic or perfume, it could mean that a mink coating is as the staid Rutgers scientists suggests, available to every doll in the nation. Or, if the oil is translated into perfume, "A lady with a wink deserves a mink-base stink."

gum and talks. Fred sometimes gets violently angry but, after the injection, "I became more like a zombie than anything else."

Fred showed what psychiatrists called catatonia — he was in a stupor, his limbs soft, yet half-rigid.

"I lost all emotions," he said afterward. "I couldn't joke or smile or laugh. I had no feelings or desires. I couldn't think about myself. I couldn't even stand up."

Just didn't care about anything."

Fred's final reaction to the strange state:

"That would be a good way to do time. You don't worry about nothing."

These reactions of Joel and Fred are only fragmentary evidence that schizophrenia could be caused by a substance in the blood. The Tulane researchers — psychiatrist Robert Heath, head of the team; his assistant, biochemist Byron Leach; psychiatrist Sten Martens; and biochemist Matthew Cohen — say the experiment is still only in the early stages.

Dr. Heath first announced the experiment at a meeting of the American Psychiatric Assn. in May, and has declined to discuss it publicly since.

One next step is to give the blood substance to more persons, who are not prisoners.

While psychiatrists find that both of the men are sane, both Joel, a registered nurse, and Fred have had minor scrapes with society and are being punished for it.

Researchers also have to be sure Joel and Fred actually became schizophrenic and not something else. Scientists know so little about schizophrenia they are not sure whether it is one disease or several.

Scientists also have to find out exactly what is the substance that changed the personalities of Joel and Fred. They have to discover when it develops in schizophrenia.

This will have a bearing on a general theory for the cause of the malady. For years, some psychologists said a schizophrenic became ill because he could not get along in this world. Other scientists looked for a physical cause, like brain damage or imbalance of body chemicals.

Still others said it was a combination of the two — the body and mind interacting.

It may turn out that getting rid of the blood substance, which may be inherited, will cure the patient of schizophrenia. But the patient also may become mentally ill in another way because his personality problems still are unsolved.

Obviously, Dr. Heath and his team are a long way from any cure or preventive. But the results with Joel and Fred indicate science may be knocking at the door that hides the solution to the problem of wasteful, terrifying schizophrenia.

U. S. Brass May Get Russ Visit Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some informed U. S. officials believe Moscow will follow up its successful bid to Gen. Nathan F. Twining with invitations to other American military leaders to visit Russia.

Members of the Soviet high command may be asked to come to the United States in return.

Secretary of the Air Force Donald A. Quarles announced yesterday that "with the authorization of the President" Twining had accepted an invitation to a Soviet Aviation Day celebration June 24.

Twining, Air Force chief of staff, will be accompanied by several subordinate officers.

Quarles said the decision to accept had been approved also by Secretary of Defense William L. French and Secretary of State Dulles, who is presently on a 10-day vacation.

The Russian Embassy was advised of the decision.

Thus ended half a dozen days of speculation.

The decision for Twining to accept was speeded by a weekend report from Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen in Moscow, making clear the bid was a firm one. This indicated that the Soviet government was not interested for the moment in inviting other members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff for a tour of Russian military establishments.

Comments from the White House and Defense Department showed they would welcome a broadened invitation, but when it became evident that this would not be promptly forthcoming the decision was made for Twining to accept.

As a matter of policy, it appears that Soviet moves for increasing military contacts with the United States have confronted Eisenhower and his chief advisers with a choice of difficult and risky alternatives.

The central problem is this: 1. How can the United States enter into friendlier military relations with Russia without causing its allies and the free world generally to lower its guard and relax vigilance against Soviet communism?

2. On the other hand, can the United States afford to cold-shoulder Soviet moves for more normal relations in the military field without appearing to other countries to have a kind of Iron Curtain of its own?

Eisenhower himself is described as convinced that more and closer American-Russian contact are in themselves desirable in the interest of peace.

Hub caps and fender skirts came in for stealing also.

Ernie W. Kennedy, 1102 Aylford, reported that the fender skirts had been taken from his 1952 Chevrolet Wednesday night.

Russ Church Leader Shows Political Savvy

NEW YORK (AP) — Metropolitan Nikolai, Russian prelate who arrives here Saturday as the guest of U. S. churchmen, has shown his prowess in Soviet politics. He has tried to put the Russian Orthodox Church behind all the twists and turns of the Soviet government's foreign policy.

Nikolai heads a delegation of Soviet church leaders who will spend 11 days in this country. They are returning a visit that a nine-member delegation of the National Council of Churches of Christ in America, headed by the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, made to Russia in March.

Nikolai has represented the Soviet Union abroad and in foreign affairs more frequently than any other Soviet religious leader. A few years ago his voice was raised almost as frequently as Pravda's in condemnation of the United States. Before Stalin died he said: "The greedy tentacles of the octopus across the ocean are trying to engulf the entire universe. Capitalist America, this fanatic prostitute of the new Babylon, having established a world marketplace, is trying to seduce the peoples by pushing them into war."

In October 1950 Nikolai declared his church was solidly behind the battle against "warmongers." He denounced "American aggression in Korea" and contended the United States was preparing to annihilate the world with atom bombs.

In May 1952 he spearheaded a meeting of representatives of most of the churches of the Soviet Union. This meeting was called to denounce the United States. Nikolai in the key address dwelt upon what he called the evil of "American germ warfare in Korea." He pictured the United Nations as "an instrument of war."

When Nikolai arrives here this weekend, he undoubtedly will speak for the let's-be-friends attitude that Georgi Malenkov, Nikita Khrushchev and Nikolai Bulganin have been promoting in their trips abroad.

If Nikolai is reminded of some of the things he said earlier, he likely will take the same line. Communist leaders take in similar situations — that it is better to forget the mistakes of the past and look to a better future.

Nikolai is No. 2 man in the Russian Orthodox Church. Its leader is the Patriarch of Moscow, Alexei.

A Memorial Day argument with his wife ended in death for an off-duty San Francisco policeman.

Lt. Al Nelder said Patrolman Roland Holm, 32, handed his revolver to his wife and told her to shoot herself.

When she didn't, Holm said: "All right, shoot me, then. You're a coward."

Mrs. Holm's sister, Mrs. Vivian Mohr, said Holm and his wife had been arguing about a vacation.

Mrs. Holm was booked on a suspicion of murder.

Representing the union at the bargaining table were USW President David J. McDonald, I. W. Abel, secretary treasurer, Howard R. Hague, international vice president, and Arthur J. Goldberg, general counsel.

The steel companies' representatives are Thomas A. Patton, assistant president and first vice president of Republic Steel Corp., John Morse, legal counsel for Bethlehem Steel Corp., John A. Stephens, vice president in charge of industrial relations for U.S. Steel Corp., and his legal counsel, Health Larry, assistant general solicitor for the firm.

Both union and steel negotiators said they would refrain at this time from making any further statements to newsmen.

Results of the negotiations—scheduled to transfer to New York next Wednesday—likely will set the pattern for contract settlements throughout the basic steel industry.

Construction Wage Increases Exceed Climb In Cost Of Living

Construction wages have advanced 12 per cent while the cost of living index has increased 1.8 per cent in West Texas during the past four years.

These are figured compiled and reported by the Associated General Contractors chapter which serves the West Texas area. The figures on wages are based on those in such areas as Abilene, Wichita Falls, Lubbock, Odessa, Midland, Big Spring, and San Angelo. They embrace wages paid to 18 major construction crafts in each city.

During the four-year period, the average advance in wages in the Abilene area has exceeded the cost of living (U. S. Dept. of Labor) index advance by 17.3 per cent, according to the report. In Midland-Odessa, the net increase has been 16.6, Lubbock 9.3, San Angelo 11.3, Wichita Falls 8.9 and Big Spring 8.8.

The over-all wage increase of 12 per cent for the period shows considerable variance between crafts. In the four years, the hourly wage of bricklayers gained 9.2 per cent, carpenters 11.5, cement masons 9.0, electricians 15.9, glaziers 10.6, laborers 6.8, tenders 14.3, mixers 16.6, structural ironworkers 23.1, reinforcing ironworkers 14.5.

As between cities there were variances, too, in the amount of increase. For instance, tenders and mixers jumped their wage rate 42.5 in Abilene but only 4.0 per cent in Big Spring. However, the Abilene rate was 20 cents below the Big Spring rate at the outset of the period.

Rate changes for the various crafts throughout the district showed bricklayers from $3.50 to $3.75 per hour; carpenters $2.37 to $3.57; cement masons $2.50 to $2.75; electricians $2.80 to $3.00; glaziers $1.90 to $2.35; laborers $1.00 to $1.40; tenders $1.20 to $1.42; mixers $1.25 to $1.42; painters $3.25 to $3.43; plasterers $3.12 to $3.43; roofers $1.20 to $1.67; sheet metal $2.60 to $2.85; terra zzo $2.50 to $2.95 (re-inforcing) $2.82 to $2.90.

Engineer Dies, 2 Missing In Train Wreck

PARKERSBURG, W.Va. (AP) — The Baltimore & Ohio's west-bound National Limited derailed coming out of a tunnel about 30 miles east of here early today.

The engineer was killed and two other crewmen were missing.

Two of the train's sleeping cars were derailed for Texas.

The diesel engine of the fast west-bound New York-St. Louis train apparently struck a boulder as it emerged from the tunnel in the rain-drenched Hughes River Valley. The engine and a baggage car overturned. Eleven cars to the rear were towed back to Clarksburg, then rerouted over a side line.

Several passengers were treated for minor injuries, but none was reported hurt seriously.

The engineer, J. C. Riley of Grafton, W.Va., was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital here.

The accident occurred at 2:22 a.m.

Riley Shaver, an ambulance driver, said the engine lay in the swollen river, and the baggage car lay on its side at the tunnel's mouth.

Estes Steps Up Drive In California

By The Associated Press

Sen. Estes Kefauver, fighting to regain ground lost in his Florida primary defeat, campaigned at full throttle today in an effort to whip Adlai Stevenson in California's climactic Democratic presidential primary.

Stevenson obviously was buoyed by his Florida victory over Kefauver—narrowly as it was—as he, too, pushed a drive for votes in the California primary next Tuesday.

The rival candidates quickly resumed their in-fighting. Kefauver blamed his Florida defeat on support given to Stevenson by what he called "Talmadge-type" politicians. Stevenson retorted that Kefauver was a "sore loser" and accused his opponent of "mud slinging."

The California primary is a winner-take-all proposition, with 66 convention votes the jackpot prize. It also is the last direct Kefauver-Stevenson test before the Democratic nominating convention in August.

While Stevenson and Kefauver continued to knock heads in California, President Eisenhower arranged to give a pep talk to the national Citizens for Eisenhower Committee. This group, meeting in Washington, also was expected to hear from Vice President Nixon—the other half of the all-but-certain Republican ticket this year.

Kefauver, ranging the San Diego area yesterday, flung at Stevenson the old age pension and "bossism" issues he used in Florida, where Stevenson won a slim popular vote majority, but pocketed 22 of the state's 28 national convention votes.

With only 23 of Florida's 1,778 precincts unreported, Stevenson had 221,718 votes to 209,447 for Kefauver—an edge of slightly more than 12,000.

Kefauver said his record reflected unflinching solicitude for the elderly. And he repeated his Florida accusation that Stevenson, while governor of Illinois, vetoed a bill that would have raised old age pensions. Stevenson has called that charge unfair, saying he vetoed the bill because the State Legislature failed to appropriate money to implement it. California, like Florida, has a substantial number of retired citizens.

On the "bossism" issue, Kefauver said, "One of the great dangers of the present campaign in California is that the Old Guard politicians are using the campaign of Mr. Stevenson to climb back into power."

He said the "main reason I lost in Florida" was that "Talmadge-type politicians" were for Stevenson and "against me on the civil rights issue." The term "Talmadge-type politicians," Kefauver said, referred to former Gov. Herman Talmadge of Georgia, a strongly pro-segregation leader who Kefauver said carries considerable influence in north Florida.

Although Kefauver by name during yesterday's swing through California's northern coastal valleys, he opened up on the senator when he got to Los Angeles.

Stung by Kefauver's charges, Stevenson issued a statement today, saying:

"Sen. Kefauver is engaged in mud slinging that will hurt the Democratic party. I shall not stoop to those tactics. I am sorry that he has resorted to personal abuse and deceit in these last days of the primary campaign."

Like Kefauver, Stevenson passed up a Memorial Day break yesterday to seek out as many potential voters as possible in advance of the primary.

Leading a motorcade into several smaller communities, he reiterated criticisms of Eisenhower administration policies, particularly in the foreign field. He said the United States "is neither as strong as it was three years ago nor does it command the respect it did" then. He depicted Eisenhower and his aides as using "boasts, threats, slogans and nonsense" in dealings with other nations.

Mrs. Hoak says "our milk is going out by boat."

Violent Death Toll Reaches 9 In Texas

By The Associated Press

Violent deaths claimed at least nine lives in Texas during the Memorial Day holiday.

An Associated Press tabulation beginning at 6 p.m. Tuesday and ending at midnight Wednesday showed that traffic accidents claimed four lives, a plane crash killed two persons, two drowned and one was shot to death.

Killed in the plane crash Wednesday were The Rev. William Lowry Walker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Iowa Park, Tex., and a neighbor, Carolyn Ann Whittenburg, 15. The minister was taking the girl on a pleasure hop when the plane crashed near Wichita Falls.

Two Beaumont area persons drowned in separate accidents in Jefferson County Wednesday. They were Joe Bailey Neely Jr., 35, who drowned in a reservoir when seized with cramps, and Frank Simmons, 36, who drowned when the motorboat in which he was fishing capsized.

Charles Robert Babbitt, 14, Dallas, was accidentally shot to death Wednesday by a gun he handled by a friend, who said he didn't know the gun was loaded. Morris Roper, about 35, was killed Tuesday night when his car left the highway and overturned near Andrews, Tex. He resided at Midland.

view, was killed Wednesday when she was crushed by an automobile on which she was playing. Highway patrolmen said Marion S. Butcher, 16, started to drive away from in front of the Martin home, not knowing that the child was on his car's front bumper. She fell off and two wheels ran over her.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lee Brimberry of Bellaire, a Houston suburb, were killed Wednesday in a head-on collision nine miles south of Huntsville. He was 37 and she was 33.

Irishman Is Race Winner

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—If any race driver still thought green was a bad luck color (an ancient superstition in the trade), they could get a sound argument today from George Francis Patrick (Pat) Flaherty, who won the 40th 500-mile race at Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Flaherty, a red-haired, 29-year-old racing veteran, roared unscathed yesterday around a track littered with oil and debris from seven bad wrecks and innumerable spins and skids.

Two drivers, two pit crew members and two spectators were hurt as cars splattered against the concrete retaining walls and banged into one another.

Tony Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill., suffered a fractured collar bone and Jimmy Daywalt of Indianapolis suffered a burned arm when their cars crashed into the walls in separate accidents. They were reported in good condition at a hospital.

Flaherty, who runs a bar when he isn't racing, didn't put a scratch on the big green shamrock painted on the front of his helmet. He started on the pole as the fastest qualifier in speedway history and he beat veteran Sam Hanks of Burbank, Calif., to the finish line in the closest windup since Wilbur Shaw nipped Ralph Hepburn by 2.15 seconds in 1937.

Flaherty took the 41-year-old Hanks by 20.46 seconds, or about a third of the 2 1/2-mile track.

The racing during competition was the fastest ever but due to an hour and 11 minutes of slowdowns for wrecks the final average was 128.49 miles an hour compared with Bill Vukovich's 1954 record of 130.84.

Flaherty missed Dick Rathmann's spinning car about two feet by splendid driving.

Flaherty, car owner John Zink of Tulsa, Okla., and master mechanic A. J. Watson of Glendale, Calif., won't know how much they won until the annual victory dinner tonight but Pat picked up $19,200 in lap prizes alone — $150 for each lap he led. The speedway sets the purse according to the gate, which looked like more than 100,000 customers in spite of overnight rain.

The purse, including awards from accessory firms to cars using their products, was $270,000 last year and Sweikert won $76,138.

Don Freeland of Redondo Beach, Calif., finished third officially, followed by Johnnie Parsons of Van Nuys, Calif., the 1950 winner; Dick Rathmann of Trenton, N.J., who pulled out of the spin that menaced Flaherty and then crashed on the 'south straightaway' after crossing the finish line; Sweikert; Rodger Ward, Los Angeles; Bob Veith of Oakland, Calif., highest rookie finisher; Jimmy Reece, Oklahoma City; and Cliff Griffith, Indianapolis.

Thomson Making An Old Brave Investment Pay

By ED WILKS

The Associated Press
It's been a long time coming, but Bobby Thomson finally looks ready to deliver the payoff for the Milwaukee Braves in that ill-fated deal they arranged to get him from the New York Giants in 1954.

The Swatkin' Scot was the man the Braves figured they needed for the pennant, and so they packaged pitchers Johnny Antonelli and Don Liddle, catcher Ebba St. Clair, infielder Billy Klaus and about $50,000 and sent them to the Polo Grounds for Bobby and catcher Sam Calderone.

You know what happened. Thomson broke an ankle in spring training, hit only two home runs so far this season and the Milwaukee lead, the National League by a game. Bobby slammed four homers, had six hits in nine trips and drove in seven runs as the Braves split a doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs yesterday.

All told, the two clubs combined for 15 home runs among the record 50 which were blasted in the 16-game Memorial Day card.

For all the records and Thomson's great day, however, most of the excitement was set off by Mickey Mantle's "near miss." The Oklahoma strong boy, jolting his 19th and 20th homers of the season as the New York Yankees swept Washington, smacked one against the facade on the third tier in right field that missed by 18 inches of being the first fair ball ever hit out of mammoth Yankee Stadium.

Thomson hit two homers in each game — his first "double" since Aug. 22, 1953. A pair of two-run homers by Hobie Landrith and Dee Fondy in the sixth got the job done in the opener for the Cubs, however, 9-5. Thomson's three-run blast triggered a four-run sixth that helped Milwaukee to an 11-9 edge in the nightcap.

Cub pitcher Russ Meyer and Billy Bruton were banished from the opener after exchanging blows when Meyer conked Bruton on his protective helmet with a pitch. Cincinnati replaced St. Louis as the NL runner-up, sweeping the Cardinals 6-3 and 6-5. Ray Jablonski's three-run homer in the eighth won the opener. Doubles by Frank Robinson and Ted Kluszewski fired a six-run third that won the nightcap.

Pittsburgh held fourth place, 1 1/2 games back in a split with the New York Giants. Dale Long's triple won the opener in 10 innings 5-4 for the Pirates. A two-run double by Al Dark broke up the nightcap for the Giants in 15 innings, 5-3.

Brooklyn and Philadelphia also split, the Dodgers scoring six in the sixth off Robin Roberts to win 6-5 in the opener. Then the Phils, with seven unearned runs, ran off with a 12-3 decision.

'We Still Have Big Job Ahead', Says Tech Man

Upwards to 350 persons who gathered at the Cosden Country Club Wednesday evening for the Texas Tech "victory celebration" were reminded by L. C. Walker, president of the Tech ex-students association, that alumni and friends of the school had a big job ahead of them.

Walker said that it was the school's intent to measure up to the Southwest Conference standard, academically, as well as athletically.

He said the people of West Texas could help by prevailing upon members of the Legislature to raise the salary of the instructors in order to compete successfully for their services with 'industry.' DeWitt Weaver, athletic director of Tech, recounted some of the obstacles the Tech committee faced before the school was officially invited into the SWC earlier this month.

He said the committee absorbed some criticism from some areas and particularly in Houston before and after the decision was made by SWC representatives to admit the big Lubbock school.

Doug Orme, master of ceremonies and a member of the Tech board of regents, compared Weaver with David of Biblical fame, who slew the giant Goliath, reminding the gathering that "we don't want to kill the giant, we just want to live in peace with him and share some of the fruits in the valley below us."

C. T. McLaughlin of Snyder and Ohio Bristow, Big Spring, were also introduced and made short talks. Weaver brought with him practically his entire coaching staff and their wives and each was introduced.

The Lubbock party arrived late but made it in time to eat.

Records Fall In Big Show

In the greatest outburst of home run hitting in the history of major league baseball, five records were broken and one tied in the eight doubleheaders yesterday.

A total of 50 homers were hit in both leagues, surpassing the old mark of 40 established May 30, 1950 when the National League sluggers connected with 24 and the American League batters with 16.

National League hitters sent 26 soaring out of the park yesterday to surpass their own and the major league one-day mark of 25 established July 16, 1950. And the 24 hit by the American League topped the circuit's previous best of 19 on July 25, 1937.

The Milwaukee Braves and the Chicago Cubs produced the other record, in leading the slugfest. They hit a total of 15 in the two games at Wrigley Field—nine in the first game and six in the second. The old mark of 14 was hung up by the Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics May 22, 1930.

Successive home runs by the Braves' Ed Mathews, Hank Aaron and Bobby Thomson in the first inning of the first game equalled another major league record.

Rich Dallas Meet Opens

DALLAS (AP)—Texas' biggest golf tournament both in money and quality—the $70,000 Texas International Open—started today with Sam Snead in the familiar role of favorite but with a score of others strongly backed.

It's the second half of Dallas' $100,000 golf show. Don January, the Abilene, Tex., freshman to pro ranks, won the first one, the $30,000 Dallas Centennial Open, last weekend.

January is in this tournament too but isn't among the favorites. He plays in the opening round today with Gene Littler, Singing Mills, Calif., and Freddie Haas, New Orleans.

Snead, who fired a 3-under-par 67 over the 6,216-yard Preston Hollow Country Club course yesterday but still complained about his putting, hits his first tee shot for keeps this afternoon, bet for a threesome with Wally Ulich, Rochester, Minn., and Dick Mayer, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Some observers figured the Texas International might be between Snead and Ben Hogan, the Fort Worth great. They are longtime rivals. Both Snead and Hogan have been playing well from tee to green and as Jimmie Demaret, another well-liked entry, says, "Hogan will start putting and boy how he will move."

Hogan had 277 to tie for 13th place in the Centennial Open.

Tornado Report Ends Contest

By The Associated Press

The Paris Orioles saw their Sooner State League lead literally go up in the clouds last night—tornado clouds.

The Orioles dropped a doubleheader to the Ponca City Cubs, 4-1 and 6-3, as Ponca City grabbed a half-game margin. But, the second game only went 4 1/2 innings. The contest came to an abrupt end when a report was relayed to the ball park that a tornado funnel had been sighted 20 miles to the northwest at Brameau. The 1,000 fans in the stands cleared out quickly.

McAlester also swept a doubleheader, going 11 innings to defeat Muskogee in the opener 4-3 and winning the nightcap 6-3.

Shawnee and Seminole split a pair. The Oilers won the first game 11-3, but Shawnee rallied to take the finale 7-5. Ardmore dumped Lawton twice, 4-3 and 5-3.

Nashua Runs Fourth In Metropolitan

By The Associated Press
Nashua, the world's richest horse, posed a question of his right to rank with the turf's great after finishing out of the money for the second time in his brilliant racing career.

Can the son of Nasrullah, who sold for $1,251,200 last winter and has won more money than any other horse in history, carry as much as 130 pounds and still win?

To achieve greatness, many horsemen say a horse must be able to win with even more than 130 pounds in the saddle. On that basis Nashua still has to prove himself.

The strapping 4-year-old picked up 130 (the most he has ever carried) in the Metropolitan Mile at Belmont Park yesterday and ran fourth as, Midwesterner, who never had won a stakes race, ripped off the distance in 1:35 under 111 pounds, and paid $2.60. The time equaled the stake record established in 1930 by Jack High.

The fourth-place money of $2,500 boosted Nashua's earnings to $1,102,865.

The defeat of Nashua was the high spot of the holiday at 11 thoroughbred tracks, where a total of 342,951 fans wagered $20,049,774.

The running of the historic $25,000-added Dixie Handicap at Pimlico saw Chevalation from Willie DuPont's Foxcatcher Farm score by a nose over Cockfield Stable's Akbar Khan. Greentree Stable's Maharajah was third in the mile and three-eighths over the turf course.

Chevalation, clocked in 2:17 2-5, paid $13.80 and picked up $21,000. Rex Ellsworth's Terrang, stablemate of Swaps, captured the $29,700 Will Rogers Stake over a field of 80-so 3-year-olds at Hollywood Park where 67,648 formed the largest crowd of the day.

Terrang was timed in 1:35 1-5 for the mile as he edged Tecolote to with the favored and fast-climbing Social Climber third. The victory was worth $17,400 to Ellsworth while the colt's backers received $8.70 or $2.

Skipper Bill carried John W. Galbreath's Darby Dan Farm silks to a neck victory in the $25,350 Brandywine Handicap at Delaware Park. Timed in 1:44 3-5 for the mile and a sixteenth, Skipper Bill paid $21.20 to win.

Water Skier Goes Over Falls
TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP)—The swift-running Snake River swept a water skier over the brink of 212-foot Shoshone Falls yesterday as onlookers taking the Memorial Day sun watched in horror from the shore.

Still missing today was the body of 32-year-old Melvin W. Hulbert of Boise, Idaho.

Witnesses said Hulbert lost his balance and fell into the water of a lagoon about 1,000 yards upstream from the falls, one of the highest cataracts in the west. He splashed around in the water, apparently unconcerned, while the current edged him ever closer to the lip of the falls.

"About 200 feet from the falls he seemed to realize he was in trouble," one witness said. The boat which had been towing him and another craft made desperate, dangerous last-minute passes in an attempt to rescue him almost at the brink.

The current swept him the last hundred yards in a matter of seconds.

Gregg Is Signed To Packer Pact
GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The Green Bay Packers announced today that Forrest Gregg, former Southern Methodist tackle and the No. 2 Packer choice in the 1956 draft, has signed a National Football League contract.

Gregg, 6-4, 230 pounds, was named to the All-Southwest Conference team in 1954 and 1955. He played in the East-West Shrine game and the Hula Bowl at Hawaii. He was also captain of the 1955 Southern Methodist squad.

TAAAF Fight Card Set For Odessa
ODESSA (AP)—The Texas TAAAF Boxing Tournament will be held here June 21, 22, 23.

Invitations have been sent to all towns in Texas requesting them to enter teams and Eddie Davis, Ector County boxing director who will have charge of the meet, said he was getting good response.

Joe Conrad Leading Reid Jack At 18 Holes, 3 Up
TROON, Scotland (AP)—Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., the defending champion, held a three-up lead over Scottish champion Reid Jack at the end of the first 18 holes of their 36-hole quarter-final match in the British Amateur Golf Championship today.

The little Texas redhead forged ahead on the back nine of Troon's testing championship course after they had reached the nine-hole turn all square.

Up to the last two holes it was a tight match in which Conrad took the lead three times only to be overtaken. Then the American, who had gone up at the 14th, won the 17th and 18th with pars to gain his biggest margin.

Conrad, the only remaining American out of 27 who started the tournament Monday, took the lead by winning the 16th and third holes but couldn't hold his margin.

A cold east wind blowing in from the Firth of Clyde made play difficult on the tricky 6,583-yard par 35-36-71 Troon championship links.

Many golf experts believe Conrad will be difficult man to beat over the distance. Although this is the first British Amateur in which the quarter and semifinal matches as well as the final round, are over 36 holes, Conrad has shown his ability to go the route.

This has been a tournament of upsets thus far over the par 35-36-71 Troon course stretching 6,583 yards along the Firth of Clyde.

Six Scots in the quarter-finals sets a record for the number of players from Scotland. The previous high was five at Prestwick in 1928. The way the pairings are arranged, it is certain a Scot will be one of the finalists.

The lone Englishman still in running is 18-year-old John Beharrell, who is playing on doctor's orders. His opponent today was Scotland's Dr. Frank Dighton.

Yankees Grab Pair Of Wins

The old cry, "Break up the Yankees!" may be sounded again shortly.

In this instance, it would be the Yankees of the National Little League, titans in small fry baseball here since the program was organized five years ago.

Going into June, the Yanks are still undefeated. They prevailed over the Owls, 9-0, last night after having beaten the VFW, 5-4, earlier in the week.

Tommy Burleson pitched the win over the Vets, scattering eight hits. Coy Mitchell was on the mound for the leaders last night and set the Owls down with two safeties.

In the other game last night, the VFW upset the Gold Sox, 3-1. Bill Pate pitched the win, giving up only two hits to the Sox.

Richard Wisner and Ben Frazier collected the only hits off Pate. Texas League teams will see action this evening. Amana's Lions oppose Couden in the 6:30 opener while Local 826 has it out with Reed Oil in the 8:30 p.m. afterpiece.

Pastrano In Narrow Win Over Detroit's Spieser

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Willie Pastrano's finally got Chuck Spieser out of his hair, but the swift New Orleans heavyweight's future plans have little pattern.

Pastrano, borrowing a page from the baseball manual, hit to all fields last night. He displayed a newly acquired style of infighting in winning a nationally televised 10-round split decision over the former Olympic team member from Detroit.

At 172, Spieser spotted Pastrano 10½ pounds.

The meeting was the third between the two and the record now shows two triumphs for Pastrano and one draw.

Pastrano opened bad cuts under Spieser's eyes and showed a marked superiority in the boxing department. But the officials couldn't agree on the decision.

Referee Frank Kercheval tabbed Spieser the winner 6 rounds to 4 with the crowd of 9,000 howling in disapproval. But

Baseball, Racing Have Big Turnouts
By The Associated Press

Eight major league baseball doubleheaders and 11 race tracks attracted more than a half-million sport fans on Memorial Day this year.

Baseball attendance totaled 240,354, which is nearly 50,000 more than the 194,448 of last year. Turnout for American League games was 122,025 and for National League contests it was 118,329.

Racing drew a total of 342,951 this year compared to 388,296 last year. Hollywood Park had the largest total for a single track—67,648.

More than three million dollars was bet at Belmont Park, Hollywood Park and Garden State. Belmont had the largest amount with a handle of $3,374,287.

House Calls Debate On Defense Powers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House called up for debate today a bill to extend President Eisenhower's defense production powers and to expand disputed restrictions on use of unpaid businessmen in government.

The bill would continue for another two years carry-over wartime authority for the President to purchase and allocate strategic materials, and to establish production and supply incentives to meet defense mobilization goals.

Loud Boom Shakes Los Angeles Area

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A loud boom shook a wide area of the city from Hollywood to east Los Angeles last night.

Police said they had several reports of broken windows.

Officers speculated that the concussion was caused by a supersonic plane breaking the sound barrier.

The blast, felt in Alhambra, Pasadena, the San Fernando Valley and other areas, caused hundreds of persons to telephone newspapers, police and radio stations. Burglar alarms were set to ringing all over the city.

There appeared to be no concerted opposition to an extension, although seven Democratic members of the House Banking Committee contended one year is enough. They said the entire defense program should be subject to a yearly review by Congress.

Over strong administration objections, the Banking Committee wrote into its draft of the bill additional restrictions on a program authorized last year to train businessmen for government duties in the event of a future war.

Under this "executive reserve" program, defense agencies may recruit business executives from private life to fill key government posts in an emergency as "WOCs"—or "without compensation" officials.

The committee bill would require such reserve officials to file public statements of their financial interests.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks called this an "unwarranted invasion of privacy."

The committee recommended it with the statement that it "will provide increased safeguards against conflicts between the government activities of these trainees and their private interests."

The Rev. William Lowry Walker, 45, killed in a plane crash near Iowa Park on Wednesday afternoon, was a brother of Mrs. A. B. Brown of Big Spring. She and her family led the original family home at Cleburne after learning of the tragedy which also claimed the life of a 15-year-old girl.

The Rev. Walker had just returned from a pleasure flight with his daughter, Dorothy, when a senior pastor, Rev. J. H. Schaefer, had started to take Carolyn Whitteburg, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

L. A. Whittenburg, on a short flight.

Witnesses said his light private plane took off from the Gilcrest Airport, between Iowa Park and Wichita Falls, and attained an altitude of 50 to 75 feet when the motor quit suddenly. He was killed a moment instantly, and Miss Whittenburg died several hours later.

The Rev. Walker was born in Cleburne and was ordained in 1938. His first pastorage was in the town of Littlefield, Garza county. He also had served in West Point, Ga., and Mount Pleasant, Tenn. be-

Death Toll Less Than Predicted

By The Associated Press

The nation's traffic deaths on the Memorial Day holiday appeared to have totaled less than the 100 predicted by the National Safety Council.

Latest figures showed at least 89 persons killed in traffic accidents over a 30-hour period starting at 6 p.m. Tuesday and ending last midnight.

In other violent deaths, 29 persons drowned and 28 others were killed in miscellaneous accidents.

The over-all total compared with 11 reported in an Associated Press survey May 16, a nonholiday Wednesday. That day's toll was 70 traffic deaths, 3 drownings and 33 deaths from miscellaneous causes.

The record traffic death rate for any one-day holiday was set on Christmas 1946, when 253 persons were killed on the highways.

Last year's Memorial Day holiday extended over a three-day period—a weekend—and 369 persons lost their lives in motor mishaps. Total accidental deaths were 596.

Generally mild weather lured millions of motorists to the highways yesterday in the first holiday of the spring-summer season.

Tourists Begin

GRAND LAKE, Colo. (AP)—The vanguard of an army of summer tourists expected to number 1 1/2 million began rolling over Trail Ridge Road today after its traditional Memorial Day opening. The road, with a peak elevation of 12,183 feet, is the world's loftiest continuous auto highway.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Ohio Woman Lauds City For Interest In Air Base

To The Editor:

I have read with great interest and pleasure the May 18 issue of Big Spring Daily Herald wherein you and the merchants of Big Spring devoted much space, time and money in promoting Armed Services Day and extending congratulations to the Air Force Base on their fourth birthday.

Your paper and the City of Big Spring are unique in that you have realized the need of bases and have accepted the responsibility of inviting and including the personnel of Webb AFB in your community plans. It is a practice which should be copied the length and breadth of our country and provides a refreshing view in contrast to some of the publicity where all manner of fault is found because a military base is located in or near some city.

Few men elect to spend a portion of their life away from family, friends and their familiar way of life and yet, when they are compelled to do so, they must be more content when a town accepts them as Big Spring has done.

As the mother of a young man who is with the Air Force at Webb, I am pleased and grateful over what I have seen when I visited him, and what I just read in your paper.

Thank you, citizens of Big Spring, and may the bread you have cast upon the waters return to you a thousand fold.

Sincerely,
Mrs. J. P. Wylam
3076 Crescent Dr.
Warren, Ohio

Proud To Help Support Schools

To The Editor:

I recently read a letter in the Big Spring Daily Herald suggesting that us "childless" couples stick together and vote against any future school bonds that would raise our property taxes. The writer complained he was having a difficult time paying for his home as things are.

I have been married 23 years, haven't any children, and am also having a hard time paying for my home. However, I do not agree this is because of our high school taxes. We are paying for wars, keeping prepared for future wars, spending billions on foreign aid and I am sure billions are being spent unwisely that we taxpayers are forced to support.

I have seven brothers and a sister, and they all have children. I am proud to help support our schools for these children and my neighbors' children.

French Begin Mollet Debate

PARIS (AP)—France's National Assembly buckled down today to debate on the general policies of Socialist Premier Guy Mollet's government. The spotlight centered on the darkening Algerian crisis.

Mollet has been authorized to call then for a vote of confidence in his four-month-old regime. The ballot is expected next Tuesday.

Although no end appeared in sight for the bitter 18-month-old Algerian insurrection, Mollet's government seemed in little danger of falling at this point.

The Senate threw its weight behind Mollet's Algerian resident minister Robert Lacoste yesterday after getting a rundown on his "pacification and reform" program for the turbulent North African territory.

Last night the Assembly subcommittee reported after examining the Algerian situation that it had "full confidence in the minister resident."

Lacoste, told the Senate that during June the number of French ground troops alone in Algeria would total 364,000 men.

"This force should permit us to win," he said.

A Senate investigation subcommittee, meanwhile, filed a report warning that the Algerian nationalists plan a large-scale operation early in June "to destroy harvests and starve the country."

The report added that the "battle of ideas has more importance in the Algerian affair than that of arms."

Dispatches from Algeria last night told of heavy French losses inflicted by a strong rebel band which struck a lonely French outpost near Batna in the eastern part of the country.

The French said they wiped out a large number of rebels, but no losses on either side were made public.

Colorado City Mail Carrier To Lay Down Tools Of Trade

By TOM J. GOSS II

COLORADO CITY — A lot of miles have rolled under the wheels of Ernest E. Smith's automobiles since June 16, 1918, when he first entered the postal service as a rural mail carrier.

Those miles — if laid end to end would equal a trip to the moon and back.

The miles that Smith has traveled have probably had more chug holes and sand beds, however, than a special delivery to the man in the moon.

"The sand banks got so bad in '18," Smith says. "I went home, took my shovel out from under the seat of my Model T, threw it under the house and told my wife that when it got so bad I couldn't make the route without a shovel I'd quit!"

"While it was so dry, I'd give a little boy a nickel every day to ride the back end when I went through a long sand bed close to the Hines' field," Smith chuckled. "His added weight made the car pull better."

The sand beds are nearly gone, but Smith plans to carry out his threat, beginning Friday. On Thursday, he will make his last trip over his 47.6 miles of route and retire.

In his 33 years of service (less 15 days) he has seen many changes, including a vast improvement in roads, a considerable increase in mileage and the movement of country people to town.

Despite the fact that thirteen and a half miles have been added to his route, and that he has picked up about 50 patrons within or near the city limits, Smith has lost some ground — he has 175 patrons now, as compared with a peak of 170.

"Quite a lot of the country people are moving to town," Smith said. "The farmers now are all getting to be bigger farmers. The little farmer hasn't hardly got a place. A lot of 'em have left and sold out to other farmers. And now a man can work so much more land with a tractor than he could with a team."

Smith's biggest group of city boxes are only a few blocks from the post office on Colorado City's South Side. This area does not have city delivery but is quite happy with rural route service, which offers several bonuses in service that city routes do not have.

The patron of a rural route can buy stamps, make application for money orders, and register letters, conveniences the city carrier cannot offer. The rural patron can mail packages on the route — and big ones, too.

A quirk in postal regulations allows the patron with a rural route address to send or receive a 70-pound package through the mails.

Crane Whoops Like A Father

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Crip the whooping crane whooped it up like any other proud father today after his mate presented the bird world with the first of its species born in captivity.

The long-awaited offspring made its appearance yesterday at the Audubon Park Zoo. It is the 31st whooping crane known to exist.

Crip's mate Josephine set the bird world talking a month ago when she laid the first of two eggs. The second still remains to be hatched.

The shy newcomer occasionally came from beneath its mother's wing as photographers eagerly awaited an opening. They had some trouble since the baby crane's color blended with its surroundings.

The whooping crane is the tallest bird in North America. It is long-necked, long-legged, red-faced and white-bodied.

There's Big Demand For Coats As Court Convenes

By SAM BLACKBURN

Some enterprising character with an eye to business opportunity could make a small killing by installing a coat rental office in the County Courthouse.

It would be requisite, apparently, that his rental garments be presentable in appearance. There would be no great issue over range of sizes he should stock. Just so they were big enough to fit the largest applicant and not large enough to slip off the slender shoulders of his sparer clients would be all that is required.

A common question in the minds of those who haunt the third floor corridors and the district court room is:

"Who has on whose coat today?"

It all stems from the rule that Judge Charlie Sullivan imposes in the district court.

Ordinary citizens may sit in cool comfort as spectators — sans coat.

Jurors, too, have that privilege in the steamy hot days of summer.

But not so the counselors at law. These learned gentry must wear a coat when they make their pleas before the court.

This poses a haberdashery difficulty from time to time.

In addition to their official duties as county officers, Guilford Jones, district attorney, Harvey Hooser, county attorney, and R. H. Weaver, county judge, also appear frequently before the court in the role of practicing attorneys. It is a common and comfortable custom of these gentlemen to do as the rest of us do — come coatless to their offices in the summer season in sportshirts and without coats.

And it is not infrequent that a lawsuit in which one or the other is involved is suddenly called before Judge Sullivan. There is a hustle and bustle as the particular attorney involved scurries from office to office in an effort to borrow a coat.

One of the three usually has a jacket available.

The results are sometimes spectacular.

The three officials vary sharply in size and build: Jones' snappy jackets fit Hooser just a little too soon. By the same token, Weaver's coats are a little on the drap side when worn by the district attorney.

In one recent emergency, Jones borrowed the sports coat of Court Reporter Charles Kee. Kee is tall and angular but heavier than the DA.

One sadistic character is patiently awaiting that inevitable occasion when Jones, Hooser and Weaver will all be involved in some litigation in the district court. He wants to see what solution can then be reached. Since coats in the courthouse in the summertime are extremely rare, it seems highly doubtful if two extra ones can be borrowed.

As to Judge Sullivan, he has no intention of relaxing his "coat or else" rule in the court room.

His honor, it must be said, wears his coat always on the bench and off. And it is not, it might be added, available for borrowing.

Wilson To Visit Atom Test Site

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson plans to spend several days at the central Pacific proving grounds, where this country is currently conducting hydrogen weapons tests.

Announcing yesterday that Wilson plans to leave Washington Saturday, the Defense Department did not say specifically he will see an H-bomb test.

That may depend upon whether weather conditions permit a test during the time he is able to stay in the area.

False Alarm

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Siren wails prompted a couple of burglars to leave a car agency so hurriedly they left their shoes behind. The wails were from a fire engine hastening to a false alarm.

The list of damage includes liquor and wine stains on furniture and rugs, cigarette burns, broken furniture and missing silver and glassware. Other damage was listed by Miss English for the patio, terrace barbecue and lily pond.

The Lanzas paid $1,250 a month rent.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Before and after photos of a $200,000 home leased by Mario Lanza have been shown in court in connection with a $40,461 damage suit filed by the owner.

Actress Kay English, widow of silent-screen star Normann Kerry claimed yesterday the singer damaged her Beverly Hills home "beyond ordinary wear and tear" during the 23 months he and his family lived there.

The list of damage includes liquor and wine stains on furniture and rugs, cigarette burns, broken furniture and missing silver and glassware. Other damage was listed by Miss English for the patio, terrace barbecue and lily pond.

The Lanzas paid $1,250 a month rent.

Any Plans For A Third Party?

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Two candidates for political office, a Democrat and a Republican, are going to be married but haven't decided whether it will be before or after the November elections.

"Let's keep politics out of this," said Miss Joyce Pueser, 27, the bride-to-be. She is unopposed for the GOP nomination for state representative.

The groom is James P. Hayes, 30, a suburban Clayton lawyer seeking the Democratic nomination for attorney general.

"I've known girls who've said they simply wouldn't marry a man who had a different political viewpoint," said Miss Pueser. "But I think everyone is entitled to his own ideas."

8lost Rips Building

AZUSA, Calif. (AP)—An explosion during an experiment at the Aerojet-General Corp. ripped out the walls of an isolated building yesterday. Damage was estimated at $2,000, a spokesman said. None of the 4,400 employees were injured.

Public Libraries Here Set New Schedules For Summer Months

Patrons of the Howard County Library in the courthouse and those who get their reading material at the Howard County Junior College library will have to reset their clocks.

Summer schedules of operation have been posted by the two establishments.

These vary from the hours the places are open for business in the other seasons of the year. That means that the book reader who wants to stock up on reading material for a summer weekend will have to time himself according to the new hours of operation or make a second trip.

Mrs. Opal McDaniel, county librarian, said that establishment will go on a daily schedule of from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. June 1. This means the doors will close one hour earlier than is the rule in the winter, spring and fall.

However, Mrs. McDaniel emphasized that the library will be open during each noon hour. This is a continuation of a regular year-round practice for the convenience of those who patronize the library.

The 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. hours will be operative through June, July and August. The library closes at noon on Saturday in accordance with the majority of the county offices, and is not in operation on Sundays.

The Junior College Library goes on a 9 a.m. to noon schedule June 1, according to Paul Vagt, librarian. However, he said tentative plans to remain open on possibly Monday and Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 9:30 are being considered. Determination of the days to be designated for the evening operation will depend on the classes at the summer session of the college.

Non-college patrons of the library will be served as usual during the scheduled hours of operation.

Extra-curricular activities at either of the libraries for the summer season are uncertain. There are plans being made for a "story hour" operation at the County Library but nothing definite has been worked out as yet.

The Junior College library has no plans for any special events this summer.

Vagt explained that the bulk of HJC patrons are students in the college who make use of the books on hand in the furtherance of their education.

The general public, he said, is invited to make use of the books in the library but he said that the percentage of townspeople who make use of the facilities is small.

Movable-Wing Jet Is Revealed

DALLAS (AP)—A jet plane which can raise or lower its wing position to change the speed of the aircraft when it is in flight was revealed by the Navy yesterday.

The Navy said the plane, the F8U-1 Crusader, now being delivered by Chance-Vought, Inc., Dallas, is designed for carrier use.

The wing hinges at the rear and raises in front for takeoffs and landings. The raised wing permits the plane to take off quickly from carrier decks and slows its speed for landing.

Widow Continues Memorial Custom

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—Mrs. Annie Coffey, 97, was up to decorate her husband's grave in the Ashland Cemetery on Memorial Day.

She came all the way from Gadsden, Ala., to perform the ritual she began in 1928. Her husband John died in 1908.

Mrs. Coffey has traveled more than 28,000 miles on her annual trips since moving to Gadsden to live with a daughter.

Beach Race Bars Down

BALTIMORE (AP)—Maryland's two main publicly owned beaches opened yesterday for the first time on an unsegregated basis. No incidents were reported.

Negroes used unsegregated bathing facilities in only one of the two areas, however. At Sandy Point State Park on the Chesapeake Bay about 15 miles south of here, what was described as a "handful" of Negroes used a beach which had formerly been for whites only.

At Fort Smallwood Beach just south of the city and operated by it, no Negroes used the bathing facilities newly opened to them, but in the general park area, as has been the practice in the past, Negroes used the playgrounds and picnic tables along with whites.

Convicted In Abortion Death

NEW YORK (AP)—Thomas G. Daniel, convicted of manslaughter in the abortion death of his blonde sweetheart, faces a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison.

A jury of 10 men and 2 women found Daniel guilty yesterday after a three-week trial in General Session Court. Sentencing was set for June 22.

Daniel, 25, who came here from Warren, Ohio, three years ago, was pale and rigid when he heard the verdict.

The jury had heard testimony that the victim, Jacqueline Smith, 20, was cut into pieces and thrown into trash baskets on Manhattan streets last Christmas Eve after she died in Daniel's apartment.

The young man's alleged accomplice, Leo Pijuan, 46, pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the fatal abortion. He said he dismembered the body. He will be sentenced June 25.

Horse Saved From Well

TAD, W. Va. (AP)—Delbert Igo's horse fell into a 35-foot-deep well Tuesday. Igo frantically called Bob Morris' Wrecker Service in nearby Charleston.

Morris winched his heavy wrecker to a tree, dropped a rope over the horse's shoulders and hauled him, dripping wet and still as death out of the well.

For 15 minutes, Morris and a bystander gave artificial respiration, pumping the horse's muscled chest. A sudden heave, a snort and the bewildered and bedraggled animal stood wobbly on his feet.

Veterinarian F. E. Hersey says the 4-year-old animal was in danger of dying, but not from the 3½-hour dunking in the well.

According to Hersey, the rope thrown around the animal's shoulders to hoist him out of the well apparently slipped up around his neck and almost choked him.

Woman Hopes To See 110th Year

CYNTHIANA, Ky. (AP)—Starting her 104th year of life, Mrs. Eliza Ann Rogers had one main hope today—that her friends would live to see her on her 110th birthday.

She reported herself "as good as new" on her 103rd birthday yesterday. Hundreds of friends sent cards and a great-granddaughter presented her with a cake.

The operator of the nursing home where she lives said Mrs. Rogers has made one concession to age: moving downstairs several years ago because her children and grandchildren were "getting too old" to climb the stairs.

Judge, Senator Are Nearly Twins

LILLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Harnett County Democrats have a reason for scratching their heads over which Robert B. Morgan is which.

The newly elected county judge is Robert B. Morgan. So is the county's state senator.

The two are not related, but both are Lillington lawyers and both are Wake Forest College graduates. To add to the confusion the wife of each is named Alice and each has a sister named Lucille.

Yesterday the senator still was receiving congratulations on the judge's victory in last Saturday's Democratic primary.

Girl Swallows 2 Safety Pins

SHELBYVILLE, Mo. (AP)—One-year-old Neita Latchford has two safety pins in her stomach but a physician says he is hesitant about an operation because of her age.

Dr. Howard Dutton examined the child closely yesterday to decide whether to operate or let nature take its course. He said Neita was in satisfactory condition.

The little girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Latchford, swallowed the pins as her father was preparing her for bed Saturday night.

Stolen Suit Belongs To Police Chief

DALLAS (AP)—Note to the thief who stole a size 43 suit from the Main Street Cleaners: That charcoal-colored suit may get uncomfortably hot for wear on Dallas streets and not just because it is flannel.

The suit belongs to M. W. Stevenson, chief of detectives of the Dallas Police Department.

Make Happy Reunion With Tasty Chicken

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Family reunion dinner: broiler chickens barbecued on an outdoor grill, old-fashioned pickled eggs and picnic cake. There's a meal to please a household of appetites.

BARBECUED BROILERS
For three broiler-fryer chickens (each cut in half lengthwise), you'll need two to three cups of your favorite barbecue sauce. But first get the chicken halves ready by hooking the wing tips behind the shoulder joints onto the backs, then brush with salad oil.

The fire ready? Place the chicken halves on the grate, skin side away from the heat. Cook slowly about an hour, turning often. If the drumsticks twist easily out of thigh joints, you'll know the chicken is done. About 5 or 10 minutes before that point, brush the broilers with barbecue sauce and cook 5 to 10 minutes on each side to brown and crisp. The rest of the barbecue sauce may be heated to serve with the chicken.

LOLLIPOP EGGS
Old-fashioned pickled eggs served like lollipops are fun. Get your meatman to round up some wooden meat skewers for you. With the sharp end of the skewer, make a hole in a big grapefruit; now insert the blunt end of the skewer in the hole.

Impale an egg, pointed side up, on the skewer's tip. Stick a few whole cloves in the egg. Add more eggs to the grapefruit in the same way. But before you have all this pleasure, pickle your eggs. Here's the recipe:

PICKLED EGGS
Ingredients: One dozen eggs, 2 cups distilled white vinegar, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon pickling spice (tied in a cheesecloth bag), 1 clove garlic (peeled).
Method: Hard-cook eggs, peel them and place in a jar. Put in vinegar, sugar, salt, spice bag and garlic in a medium-sized saucepan. Simmer about 5 minutes. Pour over eggs in jar. Cover and refrigerate several hours to season. When ready to serve, drain eggs.

Note: If you want the eggs to have a strong pickled flavor, refrigerate them in their marinade overnight rather than the several hours specified in the recipe. With this overnight stay, the egg whites will acquire a kind of elastic quality that addicts of old-fashioned pickled eggs say is traditional.

PICNIC CAKE
Ingredients: One package (1 pound and 4 ounces) yellow cake mix, 2 egg whites, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups light brown sugar (not packed), ½ cup moist shredded coconut.
Method: Bake cake according to package directions in an oblong pan (13 by 9 by 2 inches) using the temperature and time specified on the package for this size of pan. Shortly before the cake is ready to be taken from the oven, beat 2 egg whites with salt till they form peaks that bend over slightly when beater is lifted slowly. Gradually beat in brown sugar.

If mixture becomes too thick to beat, stir in remaining sugar with a spoon. Stir in coconut. Spread on baked cake (as it is still warm); do not remove cake from pan.

Return frosted cake to moderate (350 degrees) oven for 15 minutes or until set. Serve cake from pan.

Zippy French Dressing Good On Green Salad

Even the confirmed no-greens eater of winter develops a bunny-like liking for tender green things when they appear on the table, garden fresh and deliciously dressed, when summer rolls around. Here's a new dressing, made with sweetened condensed milk and tomato juice, that is specially good on all sorts of vegetable salads.

TOMATO-FRENCH DRESSING
2 teaspoons dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon pepper
½ cup tomato juice
½ cup vinegar
½ cup salad oil
½ cup sweetened condensed milk
2 tablespoons minced onion
Combine dry ingredients in 1-quart jar with tightly fitting cover. Add remaining ingredients. Cover and shake well. Store in refrigerator until ready to use. Shake well before using.

Easy Dessert Made From Day-Old Bread

One of the easiest desserts to give the children and grandchildren for luncheon is the old standby, magic angel cake. It's full of good nourishment, but it is as appealing as cake to the sweet tooth. To make it, cut the crusts from day-old bread, then cut each slice in four strips. Dip in sweetened condensed milk, roll in shredded coconut, and place on slightly greased pan. Brown in a 350 degree oven for about fifteen minutes. This bread cake is delicious with milk or cocoa, stewed, canned or fresh fruit, and with ice cream.

Deviled Dressing

Family gathering time is salad-platter time. Arrange your assortment of cooked and marinated vegetables on a large platter and center with a bowl filled with a different salad dressing. Just blend together 1 cup thick sour cream, contents family size (4½ ounces) can deviled ham and a pinch cayenne pepper. Chill and serve with salad.

True Affection

Elbert Oran (Bert to the family) Boullioun loves Cognac, the boxer, with all the affection of his 19 months. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Boullioun Jr. His grandmother, Mrs. O. M. Waters, pictured at left, and his mother, at the right, along with the senior Boulliouns like to get together for family meals, and today, give their recipe for a reunion size portion of turkey chow mein. (Staff Photo.)

Tomato Surprise

Cool red stuffed tomatoes... chilled silvery Maine sardines... what a taste-tempter! Fill four scooped out tomatoes with this mixture: to the pulp add 2 cans of chopped Maine sardines, 3 tablespoons of mayonnaise, ½ cup chopped celery, one chopped hard-cooked egg, mustard, salt and pepper to taste. Chill, serve on lettuce.

Boullioun Family Special Treat Is Turkey Chow Mein, Noodles

Summer time is family reunion time for most people and then, if never before, women try their best to prepare the most tempting, fattening, calorie food they know how to make.

Most groups have special menus that they follow year after year while others like to vary it and add a new dish occasionally.

When the junior Elbert Boullioun gets her mother and brother, Mrs. Maude Waters and Sam Waters, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Boullioun Sr. together they most likely will have turkey chow mein. This is 'Father's', as the elder Boullioun is called, dish, as he worked out the proportions to serve as many as 75 or 80 people. When they have just the family they eat on it for days or else cut down in the ingredients.

When they are going to 'put the big pot in the little one and stew the leg' they have the chow mein, hot garlic bread, tossed salad, sweet pickles, spiced crab apples (mostly to add color) and either fried noodles or rice, lemon ice or ice cream.

A favorite menu of the younger Boulliouns is spaghetti and meat, rolls, a congealed salad and butterscotch pie and coffee. The favorite 'Sunday' dinner at the Waterses was fried chicken, buttered English peas, gravy, rolls and strawberry shortcake.

"FATHER'S CHOW MEIN"

3 4 oz. cans button mushrooms
3 No. 2 cans bean sprouts
2 4 oz. cans water chestnuts
2 4 oz. cans bamboo shoots
½ bunch celery
2 or 3 large onions
¼ lb. butter
1 bottle soy sauce
5 or 6 lb. hen or small tom turkey
2 or 3 lb. lean pork
4 or 5 cans of fried noodles.

Bake the turkey and pork and dice meat into turkey or hen broth. Brown onions and mushrooms in butter and add to meat. Cut celery and stew in small amount of water until tender and add to onions, etc. Add water chestnuts and simmer for one hour. Add bean sprouts and bamboo shoots at the last to keep from breaking them. The soy sauce can be added at any time.

This will be juicy and should be thickened with a little flour and water. Serve over the noodles or rice as desired.

Mrs. Boullioun cooks this mixture in an electric roaster but if

Curry In Souffle

Add dry mustard, Worcestershire sauce and curry powder to a cheese souffle for interesting flavor.

Stuffed Spareribs Is Speciality For Men

Cooking and eating outdoors is becoming more popular by leaps and bounds and is attracting more enthusiastic advocates, especially among the male of the species, every day. The hearty meats and savory sauces that are served from outdoor grills have extra appeal when eaten in the cool breeze away from the formalities of routine, inside dining.

Men like these meals — they even like to prepare them — and many become expert at preparing their favorite meats and developing from basic recipes, their own special sauces.

For those of you who are just starting to enjoy outdoor cooking and those who want to add to your repertoire of "cook-out" dishes, here is a "different" recipe for barbecue:

SPARERIBS, STUFFED
1 large onion, minced
¼ cup butter or margarine
4 cups soft bread crumbs

1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
½ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
1½ cups (12 ounces) beer
3 pounds spareribs (2 pieces)
Prepared mustard
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons lemon or lime juice
½ cup chili sauce
Brown onion lightly in butter or margarine; add crumbs, poultry seasoning, salt, pepper and ½ cup beer; mix well; spread between 2 pieces of spareribs; fasten together with short metal skewers; brush with mustard. Combine remaining beer, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, brown sugar and chili sauce in saucepan; heat, stirring until sugar dissolves.

Broil spareribs over charcoal, basting frequently with sauce until thoroughly cooked, brown and crisp (45 minutes to 1 hour).

the cook has an enormous vessel, that will work out well.

When she wants to please her husband and young son, Elbert Oran, who is 19 months old, she has spaghetti and meat. To prepare it she browns ground meat and onions and seasons it with Accent, salt and pepper and ¼ teaspoon curry powder. This she adds to cooked spaghetti and adds a can of tomato soup, one teaspoon chili powder and a little water. In order to improve the flavor she likes to cook it the day before it is served.

BUTTERSCOTCH PIE

A favorite pie that is 'out of this world' according to our cook for today is this one: Cook 1½ cups of brown sugar with ¼ cup of butter in double boiler until blended. Beat four egg yolks with 4½ tablespoons flour and add 1½ cup scalded milk. Add this to butter-sugar mixture and cook over direct heat until it thickens. Put the pan into double boiler for 10 minutes then remove from heat and add 2 teaspoons vanilla and ½ cup of crushed pecans. Pour the mixture into a 9-inch baked pie shell and top with meringue made with the egg whites, 6 level tablespoons sugar and ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar.

Filled Cake Layers Make Easy Dessert

Two cake layers from the grocery can be turned into a wonderful dessert by putting them together with a creamy fruit filling. To make it just combine sweetened condensed milk with lemon juice to make a smooth, creamy base, and then add fresh fruit. Here is the recipe:

2 3-cup (½ can) sweetened condensed milk
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup fresh raspberries, sliced strawberries, drained, crushed peaches, crushed pineapple or prune or apricot puree
Mix sweetened condensed milk and lemon juice and stir until mixture thickens. Fold in the fruit and spread between the cake layers. Dust top of cake with sifted confectioners' sugar.

Put Sugar On Onions

A dash of sugar, sprinkled over thin onion rings as you cook them in butter, makes for good flavor. Serve with hamburgers or steak.

Press In Sugar

Dip small sugar lumps in orange juice; press into the tops of rich baking powder biscuits before baking.

Refreshing—but not filling

WONDERFUL what the modern diet trend — the trend to lighter, less filling food and drink — has done for people's looks, as well as for their health!

It's this up-to-date taste in diet that makes today's men so lean and trim, keeps women so lovely and slender.

Pepsi-Cola keeps pace with this wholesome trend. Today's Pepsi-Cola, reduced in calories, is never heavy, never too sweet. It refreshes without filling.

Have a Pepsi—the modern, the light refreshment.

Uncle Ray:*Huge Birds Once Lived In New Zealand

By RAMON COFFMAN

The other day I showed a picture of a gigantic bird to a reader.

"Is that a big ostrich?" came the question.

"No," I replied. "It is an extinct bird known as a moa."

Q. Did the moa live in prehistoric times? Were there any people on earth at the time?

A. The moa is now extinct, but it lived during historic times. Moas existed in North Island of New Zealand up to about 500 years ago, and in South Island until about 200 years ago.

Q. Did people come in contact with the moas?

A. Yes, they were observed many times by the Maoris, and the Maoris described them to white settlers who reached New Zealand 175 years ago. The natives spoke of a "monster bird called the moa" and said that it lived on the sides of mountains.

Scientists tried to locate moas, but their efforts failed. They were able, however, to find remains of the gigantic birds. Hundreds of bones were discovered in swamps. When the bones were put together, they made several complete skeletons.

In dry caves of South Island, feathers of the birds were discovered along with the bones. The feathers were dark brown, tipped with white.

Q. What was the moa like?

A. It was something like an ostrich, but was without wings. (An ostrich has wings which are too small to use for flying).

Several kinds of moas existed, and some of them grew to be larger than others. The tallest ones (with heads raised) had a height of 11 or 12 feet. This made them about twice as tall as Maori hunters.

Not being able to fly, the moas were brought down by the spears of the Maori hunters. The bold men must have felt proud when they carried the huge birds back to their villages, each one to provide a feast for 100 people.

'Oliver Twist' Theft Solved

DALLAS (U-P)—Police solved an "Oliver Twist" burglary last night. They rounded up four pint-sized partners in crime after four silver dollars and a carton of cigarettes were taken from the home of Roy Crowell.

Two 8-year-old boys and a 7-year-old admitted they boosted a 3-year-old boy into the house through a tiny window.

However, just like Dickens' be-draggled little hero, the 3-year-old crossed up his pals. He reported back outside with no loot.

Later, he returned alone, he told police, and took the cigarettes and money all for himself.

Live Wire Version Of Shocking Drama

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (U-P)—Stanley Geiser, 12, provided drama on a rooftop when he tried to do a good deed.

The youngster grabbed a live 220-volt wire last night while retrieving a friend's slipper off a second-story roof.

A neighbor, Robert Stephens, 26, heard the screams of Stanley's mates, rushed to the roof and knocked the boy loose from the wire.

"He collapsed in my arms like melted butter in an oven," Stephen said.

Stanley, more scared than anything else, said the hot wire "sent shocks going through my arms and hands and when I tried to get away it hurt more."

Alcoholics Target For A New Drive

By RENE CAPPON

WELLINGTON, Kan., May 31 (U-P)—Doctor and priest, welfare chief and prosecutor, sheriff and editor have joined in a common effort to make the "zeros" count again in this rural community.

They're members of a remarkable organization known as the Sumner County Council on Alcoholism.

"Alcoholics are zeros in their community," Dr. Karl E. Voldeng, one of the council's founders, said. "Most of them don't contribute anything. They don't even fix up their back yards."

"And that makes them a community responsibility. The alcoholic must be helped to live with himself again — he has to learn once more to be a good husband, father and neighbor."

The council pits the weight of community resources in an intensive campaign against alcoholism, which has been described as the nation's biggest unsolved public health problem.

Kansas' State Commission on Alcoholism helped launch the project and supports it. Lewis Andrews, executive director of the agency, says the group probably is unique on the American scene.

The idea was to determine whether—and how—a small town can tackle the complex problem on its own. Today everybody connected with the experiment is pleased with the results.

Founded less than two years ago, the council is zealously propagating the view that alcoholism is a medical as well as a moral problem. Its earthy, homespun approach has paid off in reclaimed individuals and reunited families.

Wellington is a county seat of some 6,000 residents in south central Kansas. Its situation with respect to alcoholism is no worse, and perhaps a little better, than in most similar places. But alcoholics aren't rarities, here as anywhere else.

There are some four million problem drinkers in the United States, authorities say, and economic losses attributed to them run to 800 million dollars each year. In Kansas, which repealed prohibition only six years ago, there are an estimated 21,000 alcoholics.

The Sumner County council is active not only as a guidance agency, but also as an information center that work with the schools, furnishes speakers and lecturers, shows movies and distributes literature on the subject of alcoholism.

Its message is simple: alcoholism is a disease—not a sign of degeneracy or weak character. And the problem is a public responsibility which can be met only as each citizen does his part in the community effort.

Council member Stewart Newlin, editor of the Wellington Daily News, sees to it that the group's viewpoint and activities are fully explained to the community.

"There's been a definite change in the public attitude," Newlin declared. "Many people now see the problem for what it is. And with greater public awareness there is greater pressure toward sympathy and rehabilitation."

The council's work has made itself felt in Sumner County's law enforcement picture. "It has reduced our drunk driving offenses," said Sheriff Everett Jaumgartner. "We wouldn't want to be without the council today."

"I myself used to think a drunk was just a drunk—you threw him in jail until he sobered up, and that was that. Now we realize that some of these people need help—and we know where to get it for them."
