ANNUAL INSPECTION FOR BATTERY A
The annual Army general inspection of Battery A, 131st Artillery, 49th Armored Division of the National Guard was held Monday, Oct. 10, with Lt. Col. James A. Murphy, Jr., right, of the Fourth Army Headquarters, San Antonio, making the inspection. Just finished with the inside of the Battery's tank, Col. Murphy went over the outside. With him is Capt. James Chappell, commanding officer of the battery.

Two Million in Farm Program Payments Begin in County

Approximately two million dollars is being pumped into the Collingsworth County economy through payments started last week under the government farm program.

Checks are being mailed under the cotton, wheat and feed grain programs as soon as they can be processed, and the work should be finished in two weeks, according to Millard Brown, manager for the Collingsworth County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Payments under the cotton program for diverted acres and price supports reached $301,312.17 Monday, Oct. 10, and on Tuesday an additional $44,935.92 was paid under the feed grain program.

Preparing the checks for mailing is taking longer this year than in the past, as each farm operators' social security number must be found and put on the check, Mr. Brown explained.

When all 1966 farm program payments are made, the amount will be an approximate $2,897,202, he said.

Of this, the cotton, wheat and feed grain payments, those now being made, will amount to close to $2,322,202.

By far the largest are the cotton payments, which should be around $1,682,730. Most Collingsworth County farmers this year elected to take the 35% reduction under the diverted cotton acre program and will receive payment of 9.42¢ per pound on their cotton.

Mr. Brown explained that the amount of the checks is determined by this formula: the 9.42¢ multiplied by the farm yield, and that answer multiplied by the domestic cotton allotment. (The domestic allotment is 65% of the regular cotton acreage allotment on any farm.)

The remainder of the cotton payments now being made are diverted acre payments, based on 10.5¢ per pound times the normal yield times the acres diverted.

Approximately 18,000 acres

Conference Opener

Iowa Park, Texas Top AA Team, Plays Here

The Wellington Skyrockets open conference play this week against the Iowa Park Hawks, the team ranked No. 1 or No. 2 in Class AA play in Texas since the beginning of the season by sports writers and observers.

The game will be played here, in Powell Field, and game time for this and all other conference games will be 7:30 p.m.

The Hawks, coached by Tommy Watkins, went to the state AA finals last year and lost only to Plano. Their season record was 13-1. In 1964, their season record was 12-1 and the year before that 11-1.

Wellington head coach Bill Beene knows the Hawks well, for they played his team at alhart last year.

"They are a real fine team. They are polished and well drilled, and everything they do, they do it well," he said.

There seems to be little difference in the effectivenss of their running game and their passing game. They do both with skill that brings results, in this case, yardage.

The Iowa Park team that will play in Wellington Friday night is practically the same team that played in the state finals last year. Coach Beene talked about them.

Heading the team is all-state guard Mickey Patterson, No. 61, who is linebacker on defense. Greg Webb, No. 12, tailback and linebacker on defense, was on the second team all-state last year, as was the quarterback, Robert Watson, No. 11. Watson was understudy of the famous Robert Dawson of last year's schoolboy fame, and he is rated as being as good as Dawson.

Harry Price, 6-4 and 200 pounds, plays split end and is a fine receiver, good blocker and tough on defense.

Probably the fastest man on the team is Wingback Barry

Department Elects Officers

Firemen Kick Off $2,000 Alert System Fund Drive This Week

Fire Prevention Week brought members of the Wellington Volunteer Fire Department their annual election of officers, an open house which the firemen had to leave to put out a fire, and launching of a campaign to raise money for an alert warning system.

Buster Hughs was re-elected chief of the department in the elections Monday night, Oct. 10. Others re-elected were Joe Coleman, first assistant fire chief; J. B. Oney, second assistant chief; Millard Brown, Jr., president; J. P. Sikes, secretary; Leon Hartman, Hose Captain No. 1; Glen Norman, Hose Captain No. 2; and Dr. Carter Holcomb, department doctor.

The Rev. Ronald Crosley is the new chaplain for the firemen, and the mascot for 1966-67 will be Stevie Settle, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Settle.

Fire department equipment was on exhibit at the open house Tuesday night, Oct. 11, held in the fire department and attended by more than 200 city residents. Members explained to the visitors how various pieces are used. Among these are the resuscitator, used to revive drowning victims or persons overcome by smoke; the air pack which enables firemen to enter burning buildings, and suits which reflect heat, allowing the men to approach a blaze much closer. Firemen using the air packs and entering burning buildings always work in pairs, it was explained, and a rope is attached to each man connecting him with the outside.

A radio alerting system unit used by the Childress Fire Department was demonstrated.

The Wellington department will open its financial drive Thursday to raise funds to install similar units in the home of each fireman, Chief Hughs pointed out.

For the boys and girls there were rides on the Department's 40-year-old fire engine.

Midway through the open house, eight firemen and two pieces of equipment were called to Powell Field, where the pep rally bon fire got a little bigger than was expected and was about to destroy the scoreboard. "We saved it!" the firemen reported.

A house to house financial drive will be started Thursday evening to raise approximately $2,000 to buy the radio warning system, Hughs announced.

It will be continued through next week or until every house is visited.

These systems, used principally at night, operate as a radio receiver in the home of each fireman. When they are activated from the fire hall, each unit emits a shrill signal loud enough to awaken a per-

Skyrockets Drop Tight Game to Bronchos 13-12

By JACK FORD

In an explosive, thrill-packed football game, the Wellington Skyrockets lost a close one to a fine Clarendon Broncho eleven 13 to 12, before an estimated 1500 fans at Powell Field Friday night, Oct. 7.

Both the Rockets and Bronchos were about evenly-matched for this game, but the difference was the extra point the Bronchos made. The breaks were also about even with penalties and fumbles helping and hurting both teams.

The Rocket offensive and defensive teams of J. Barber, M. Barton, A. Bell, J. Brock, M. Gilmore, R. Kane, G. Killian, J. Lindsey, M. Roland, J. Smith, M. Smith, S. Trapp, W. Ward, L. Watkins, R. West, C. Wilbur and T. Yarbrough played good ball. The defense did a good job of stopping most of the Bronchos' drives, with some hard-hitting tackles. The offense had some good drives going, but just couldn't seem to have enough push to get into the end zone for a winning touchdown.

The Rockets won the toss and received to start the game. Both teams then played a tug of war game going back and forth on the field. The Rocket defense did stop a Broncho drive on the Rocket 10 yard line and taking over, the Rocketc drove to the Broncho 10, the big play being T. Yarbrough's 47-yard run, but the Broncho defense rose to the occasion and stopped the Rockets.

The Rocket offense came to life after the Bronchos couldn't move the ball in two plays, they quick-kicked and the ball rolled dead on the Rocket 6. J. Smith then ran for 17 to the Rocket 23, A. Bell and R. West drove for 5, again J. Smith took the ball for 29 yards to the Broncho 48, and then M. Roland took a handoff and with a fancy running job went all the way for the first Rocket touchdown. The try for extra point failed.

The Bronchos came right back, after bringing the kickoff to the Rocket 27. In nine plays the Bronchos moved into the end zone for a touchdown. The try for extra point was good. Bronchos 7, Rockets 6.

The Bronchos scored again after the Rocket drive was stopped. Putting the ball in play on their own 20, the Bronchos drove, in 12 plays, for their second and last touchdown. The try for extra point failed.

The second half was mostly Rockets. The Bronchos couldn't move the ball after the kickoff, and the Rockets took over on the Broncho 45. T. Yarbrough, J. Smith, M. Roland, W. Ward drove to the Broncho 14. A. Bell then passed to T. Yarbrough in the end zone for the last Rocket touchdown. The try for two extra points failed.

From this point onward it became a game of position. Both teams drove for good field position and possible scores, but the defense rose to stop the drives. The final score Bronchos 13, Rockets 12.

The three top ground gainers for this game were M. Roland 104 yards, T. Yarbrough 71, and J. Smith 57.

District play opens this Friday at 7:30 p.m. The Rockets meet the number two team in the state, Iowa Park, at Powell Field. This should be a good game and the Rockets will be out to be the spoilers. We have a good bunch of football players, so lets all get out and back the Rockets for this one.

New members presented by Mrs. Warrick were Mrs. Sam Adams, Mrs. Dick Hamilton, and Mrs. Jim Moss.

Roll call was answered by each member present reading a wry comment on marriage found nestled in her individual nosegay of pink and white.

The yearbook chairman, Mrs. King, outlined the "Portrait of Events" for the 1966-1967 club year.

The program subject "Marriage, Now and Then" was directed by Mrs. Sims; dressed in the 1892 wedding gown of her paternal grandmother, Mrs. J. S. Coleman, Sr. The history of marriage customs was from "the marriage by capture of the caveman through marriage by arrangement, down to the modern ideal of marriage for love."

Each club member participated in a series of tableaux depicting events which occurred at her own wedding or that of a family member.

Mrs. Helmers served the wedding cake, which centered the T-shaped luncheon table arrangement to Miss Hattie D. Wells, Miss Sara E. Jones, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Earl Lynn Bartlett, Mrs. Mack Bush, Mrs. R. R. Crawley, Mrs. Emmert, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. King, Mrs. J. F. University of Texas Correspondence Courses Aid High School Students

AUSTIN.—Students in Texas high schools may take courses for graduation credit or to meet special college entrance requirements by enrolling for University of Texas correspondence study.

During the year just ended, 1,800 persons earned credit in 62 different high school correspondence courses through the University's Extension Teaching and Field Service Bureau.

A total of 1,530 students (or about 85 percent of those enrolled) were from 800 of the smaller consolidated and independent school districts in the state. That figure represents more than half of the 1,500 public and private secondary schools in Texas.

The University also cooperates with the Texas Education Agency's Small Schools Project, which assists smaller schools in developing and enriching their programs, even though they may be operating on limited budgets. Teachers and administrators from small schools attend a summer workshop held in Austin each year under joint auspices of TEA and UT. Almost 700 attended the 1966 summer workshop.

Many schools involved in the Small Schools Project also take advantage of the University's correspondence study program. A physics course has been set up which requires only an adult supervisor, rather than a certified teacher. Students do all their own work, and the high school furnishes certain basic laboratory equipment.

Further information on all types of University of Texas correspondence work is available from Dr. L. E. McDonald, University of Texas, Extension Building 203, Austin, Texas 78712.

5 Generations of Wellington Family, Each a First Daughter, Meets Here

Mrs. Harold Chang of Honolulu, T.H., visited in Wellington recently with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Tatum, then went to McLean to see her daughter's family, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Blades and Donna.

The visit here was the occasion of the reunion of five generations of women of the family, each a first child and a first daughter.

At the head of this family group is Mrs. T. D. Reeves, 83, of Wellington. Then, in order there are Mrs. Tatum, Mrs. Chang, Mrs. Blades, and 14-months-old Donna.

Mrs. Chang's husband, Harold Chang, is percussionist with the Arthur Lyman Group, now on a state-side tour. She accompanies the group on their travels.

Recording artists as well, these four Hawaiian musicians are staples of the pop-record market, yet their music is described by Time Magazine as having a "delicate, haunting sound that has been imitated but not matched. They spend about half of each year filling engagements in the continental United States and Canada, including stops in some of the country's top hotels and night spots. Last year they toured Japan.

Besides the drums, Harold Chang, who is of Chinese ancestry, plays such exotic instruments as wind chimes, ass's jaw, boomba, cocktail drums, ankle spurs, finger cymbals, castanets, guido, and all manner of bongo, conga, samba, snare and other drums.

They are best known for their Hawaiian ballads, but their repertoire ranges from Israeli folk songs to boogie woogie.

Mrs. Chang is the former Robin Tatum. The family lived at Vinson when she was a child, but later moved to California, where she was married.

This is her first visit to Wellington in four years.

Briscoe at Quail

Quails, Bobwhites Open Season Oct. 18

The Quail Quails and Bobwhites open their basketball season on their home court Tuesday, Oct. 18 in a game against Briscoe boys and girls. Game time is 7 p.m.

They will be playing under their new coach, Bill Wilson, himself a former outstanding Quail player four years before graduating in 1962.

Wilson received his degree from West Texas State University, where he was a physical education major, and where he played intermural basketball.

In his first year of coaching he will be building two almost completely new teams, as both the Quails and Bobwhites lost heavily by graduation and with only one student graduating into high school, Wilson gained not a single player.

The 1966 Quails will be built around two experienced lettermen, Earl Lynn Feemster and Robert Blevins, both seniors.

Other lettermen include Cary Don Neeley, Jarrell Fielding, John Blevins, Gary Barton and Jimmy Langley.

Completing the team are three boys who have not been on the team previously, Darrell Colson, Steve Tennison and Clarence Long.

The Briscoe team is coached by Charles Stepp, and is considered one of the better teams of the Eastern Panhandle.

Eight girls will make up the Bobwhites this year, only one of them, Judy Campbell, a starter from last year.

There are five other letter players, Paula Langley, Pamela Langley, Reta Cummings, Janice Gosnell and Sue Parker. Two girls who have not played previously have joined the game, Joyce Johnson and Stella Johnson.

Junior High Teams Split Pair Thursday

Wellington's seventh grade football team lost its game to Memphis 16-0 here Thursday evening, Oct. 6, but the eighth grade was victorious, 8-6, and remains undefeated.

Both games were played at Powell Field.

The seventh grade Firecrackers played to a scoreless tie during the first half. Then during the third quarter, Memphis had a sustained drive that went downfield for 60 yards, ending with a touchdown made on an end sweep. The conversion points were good and the game stood 8-0 at the end of the third in favor of the visitors.

Memphis scored a second time late in the fourth, again going all the way downfield. The score came on an inside play, and a run around right end gave the two extra points.

Wellington's boys looked considerable better than they have in the previous game with Memphis.

Coach Carroll Nunnelley's eighth grade Firecrackers received the opening kickoff and without losing possession, drove from its own 35 until Danny Gray could score on an end sweep. A pass from Bobby Saied to Reese Bowen was good for the extra opints.

Wellington dominated the first half but did not score again, due to fumbled punts and other mishaps, and the score remained 8-0 at halftime.

At the beginning of the fourth, a Memphis boy broke on an end run and went 45 yards to score, but the attempted pass for the extra points failed when the tosser was downed behind the line of play.

Both teams played a defensive game for the remainder of the game.

Junior High to Meet Childress

Wellington's two junior high football teams, the seventh grade and eighth grade, will meet the Childress junior high teams at Childress Thursday, Oct. 13. Game time for the seventh grade game will be 5:30 and for the eighth graders 6:30 p.m.

The Wellington eighth grade remains undefeated. Childress, one of the stronger junior high schools of the area, defeated Memphis 32-0, while Wellington won 8 to 6.

The public is invited out to see the future Skyrockets play.

SCD Supervisor Election Thurs.

Co-operators with the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District living in Zone 3 have been reminded that the election of a supervisor is set for Thursday, Oct. 13 at the Quail ag building, during the Young Farmers meeting, according to Gary Reed, soil conservation service work unit conservationist.

Otis Emmert is serving as supervisor from this zone. The terms are for 5 years.

Wellington B, Clarendon Tie 12-12 Thursday

The Wellington Skyrocket B team played the Clarendon Broncho B to a 12-12 tie at Clarendon Thursday night, Oct. 6 in one of the most evenly matched games fans are likely to see this year.

Clarendon kicked off to Wellington, who moved the ball downfield on one of its longest gains, a 60 yard play by Herman Moore, and followed this closely with a 15-yard pass completion from Gary Brewer to Sandy Covey that was good for the Rockets' first touchdown. The try for extra points was no good.

Then, wtihout losing possession, Clarendon moved the ball downfield and scored on a sweep around left end. They, too, were unable to make the extra points, and the game was tied 6-6 with about four minutes left in the first quarter.

There was no more scoring until just before the half when a Clarendon player threw a pass, which was completed, and with yardage picked up on the ground gave the Bronchos their second score. Again the try for extra points failed.

With about two minutes to go in the first half, Wellington took over on their own 20 and moved down field, then Andy Lowe scored on a sweep around left end. The score was called back, due to a clipping penalty, and at the half Clarendon led 12-6.

With the Broncho B's receiving the second half kickoff, they moved the ball downfield from their own 30 to the Wellington 3 yard line, with a first down and goal to go. The Rockets tightened their defense and after Clarendon ran four plays, took over on the 6.

Wellington moved the ball but couldn't pick up a first down and was forced to punt. Clarendon fumbled and Alfred Allred covered, giving the Rockets good field position on the Clarendon 40. From that point, Wellington ran sweeps, by Jimmy Neeley and offtackle plays with Kenny Brown and Nickey Watts. Nickey then went to score from 17 yards out and tied the game 12-12. The try for extra points again failed.

That ended the scoring for the ball game, but Wellington was able to control the ball most of the time. A costly penalty and fumbled ball kept the Rockets from making another score.

"There was real team effort on the part of the boys. They are improving and if they continue to work hard and play as hard as they have, they'll be real tough before the season is over," Coach James Stavenhagen declared.

Youth Will Carry the Name of Collingsworth to State Fair

Youth will represent Collingsworth County before all of Texas next week at the State Fair of Texas in Dallas.

Each year 4-H boys and girls take fat calves to the junior livestock show, but this year the number is larger, and the quality equals anything that has ever gones from the county.

Some of these exhibitors will be young indeed, showing their animals for the first year. Others will be veterans of the State Fair and many other exhibits

The junior livestock show is always one of the favorite divisions of the entire livestock show, and these energetic boys and girls and their calves will be seen by visitors from all of Texas and many other areas. Young Collingsworth is to be commended, along with the men and women who work with them.

Change in Counties

Texans next year could vote on a constitutional amendment that could revolutionize government in at least 24 Texas counties, the ones with the largest population.

This amendment is not on the list of 16 that will be voted upon in November, but has already been put forward for consideration by the legislature at the next session.

This amendment, drafted by the Texas Research Bureau, would permit county commissioners to abolish nine elective offices, including sheriff, county clerk, district clerk and tax assessor-collector.

It would permit the hiring of a "county administrator" similar to a city manager. And it would permit the election of county commissioners "at large" instead of by precinct.

The proposed amendment is naturally expected to face strong opposition from courthouse political machines, even though it would apply to only 24 Texas counties those with population in excess of 50,000.

This amendment would also permit the abolishing of special funds—road and bridge, general, jury and permanent improvements—and the establishment of one hugh general fund with a single general tax.

This provision alone will cause a revolution in the ranks of county officials because as it stands now each county commissioner is boss of his own precinct machinery and has his own funds.

This amendment would also do away with election of justice of peace, public weighers, county treasurer, hide inspector, and surveyor, with these jobs filled by appointment by the county commissioner.

This amendment has shocked and jolted a lot of people and there is a good possibility that it will never get out of the legislature. But it raises a lot of questions that maybe ought to be raised about county government structure in Texas, admittedly a holdover from an earlier horse drawn generation.

And as cities become larger and political power becomes more concentrated in urban areas, we can look for a dilution of county political powers. This proposed amendment may be the opening wedge.

This amendment has some merit, and some drawbacks. It would divest present elected officials of their office, but it would put a lot more power in the hands of county commissioners who would become virtual czars of the courthouse under the proposed changes.

Don't Sell U. S. Short

Contemporary happenings have a way of changing appearance as they recede into the pages of history. It is interesting to conjecture how historians will record the economic status of the U. S, during the 1960's. The headlines will tell of strife and poverty. Production indices, on the other hand, will indicate an abundance such as no nation had ever known. For the sake of the record it should be reported that although large numbers of people are classified as poor by government definition, very few Americans today are actually denied the minimum acceptable level of health, housing, food and education.

In 1960, according to Mr. M. A. Wright, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, only about 7 per cent of American dwelling units were dilapiated. By 1964, more than 90 per cent of American households had television. Four out of every five households had telephones and at least one automobile. Among families, officially classed as "poor", earning $3,000 or less, there is more material well-being than might be thought. For example, over 75 per cent own a television set, about half own both a television set and a telephone, three fourths own a washing machine, 20 per cent own a home freezer, 65 per cent have a dwelling unit that is not dilapidated with running water and bathroom facilities for their own use, and approximately one in seven bought a car last year.

Admittedly, statistics are unreliable guides in measuring poverty. However, the foregoing should be of more than passing interest to historians.

Trick or Treat

BABSON'S POINT OF VIEW:

By Roger W. Babson

THE BOND MARKET

The other day we were talking with the partner of a large financial house. He said they had been looking for an experienced trader of bonds for better than a couple of months. A number of prospects were interviewed; but, long on ambition, they were very short on the chief qualification: experience.

Back in Fashion Again

Actually, it is no wonder that experienced bond men are scarcer than hen's teeth. Common stocks have been all the rage with the average individual investor ever since the end of World War II ... and for a spell even before that. Banks, insurance companies, and some trustees were the only ones who had much interest in bonds. As a matter of fact, even they bought more from necessity than from their love of bonds.

During the last big war, the Government and the Treasury, on the one side, and the Federal Reserve Board, on the other side, co-operated to keep interest rates low to hold down the huge expense of a soaring federal debt burden. This "accord" was highly inflationary ... because every time the Fed bought bonds to support the bond market, it filled the banks fuller and fuller of loanable funds. At the end of the fifth decade, this accord was scrapped; interest rates started a long climb, and bonds went into a secular slump from which they have not yet emerged. Today, yields of 6% on bonds are not hard to find, and these handsome returns have attracted buyers who never before bought bonds. In a word, bonds are back in fashion again!

But What About Inflation?

With the exception of a short period toward the end of the 1950's, those who bought bonds during and after World War II have had a very bitter experience. First, most of the bonds purchased had low coupon rates ... ranging from around 2½% to something over 4%. Naturally, as interest rates moved higher, the older, lower coupon rate issues fell in price. Second, during most of this period, stock prices rose handsomely ... making bonds look like a very poor second choice indeed.

Third, and most damaging to the bond owner, prices for consumer goods climbed ever higher, so that the yearly interest received bought less and less and the purchasing power of the bond when paid off at maturity was far below the purchasing power of the original investment.

The recent swift rise in the coupon rates on best-quality bonds—to 6% and even higher—is giving the buyer a good current income and lessens the danger of any future fall in the prices of such issues. Many will tell you that the threat of inflation, of further advances in the cost of living, makes bonds still unattractive; but this fear may be unwarranted today. At present low quotations for many sound bonds, all their owner has to do is purchase them at a discount and hold them to maturity, thereby increasing his capital. This method of protecting against inflation was not available when 3% bonds were selling close to 100. And the competition from stocks—even after their recent slump—is not very great, since many of the popular issues now yield only 3%-4%.

Tax Exemption Too

There seems little doubt that Congress will raise all income taxes for 1967. Such action will make tax-exempt bonds more appealing than they are now. Once it was thought that only the very wealthy should be interested in tax-exempt securities. However, those who pay only 20% to 30% of their taxable income to Uncle Sam can make really worthwhile savings in present depressed tax-exempt bond markets. Many of the tax-exempt obligations issued 10 and 15 years ago, with maturities in the next five years, can be had today at deep discounts. You pay no federal taxes on the yearly interest while you hold them, and you enjoy the favorable long-term capital gains tax on the increase at maturity.

The Long View

A review of the price movements of stocks and bonds over a long sweep of history indicates that popularity may ride with stocks for many years and then swing to bonds. Since 1949, bonds have been in the discard and stocks in the ascendancy. It is just possible that recent interaction between stocks and bonds may be making the foundation for the building of a new cyclical climb in bond prices.

State Capital NEWS

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN—Shape of Gov. John Connally's major legislative goals is beginning to emerge.

He gives high priority to his proposal for a constitutional convention to rewrite the state's basic laws.

Modernization of local governments is essential to state progress and effective management of local affairs. "Functional government by federal guidelines" is the likely alternative to a "renaissance of local responsibility", Connally warned.

Governor outlined a tough, seven-point traffic safety program including driver education for all youngsters, severe penalties for violations of driving laws and a minimum licensing age of 16.

"Without question," he acknowledged, "the 60th Legislature is looking at a raise in our state taxes, but it is impossible to tell exactly how large or how small."

He also ticked off these subjects from his lists of legislative "essentials":

Revision of the penal code and code of criminal procedure; additional sources of revenue for growing cities; substantial salary raises for state employees; continuation of progress in education, tourist and industrial development, community services for the mentally ill and mentally retarded and park system development and improvement.

In discussing streamlining of local government with county officials, the governor declared:

"We cannot progress on a preconceived notion that modernization is politically impossible."

School Stretchout Urged

Texas children ought to start to school younger and stay in school longer. So concludes the State Board of Education in its 16-point legislative program.

Board proposes schooling for five-year-olds, state-supported summer school for all grades, a study of feasibility of a 10-months school year and seven-hour day, and higher salaries for teachers.

Courts Speak

Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has ordered a new trial for Jack Ruby, who faced a death sentence for the murder of Lee Harvey Oswald, the man the Warren Commission said assassinated President John F. Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963.

Court said Ruby must be tried elsewhere thar Dallas, the scene of the crime, and concluded that testimony of a police officer concerning statements indicating premeditation were improperly admitted at Ruby's first trial.

Supreme Court handed down 137 orders. Among its decisions were:

—Nov. 30 date was set for arguments on Humble Oil and Refining Company's suit to recover $73,302 in franchise taxes paid under protest.

—State Board of Insurance rule requiring insurance companies to charge at least six percent interest on installment premium payments was thrown out.

—Transfer of two small sections of land from Frenship Rural High School District to Shallowater Independent School District of Lubbock County was upheld.

—Court will review dispute of Rio Grande Valley residents over possession of half of a winning $34,000 Mexican national lottery ticket.

Epidemic Contained

Texas' screwworm epidemic still is present in the Southwestern and South Central part of the state. However, Dr. S. B. Walker, director of the Texas Animal Health Commission, says the end may be in sight.

Texas' worst infestation since the screwworm eradication program began reached its height two weeks ago. Number of cases levelled off last week. Federal, state and private resources are being used to battle the worm.

Motion Filed

Attorneys General for Texas and New Mexico have filed a motion with the U.S. Supreme Court for permission to file a complaint against Colorado for insufficient release of Rio Grande water.

Motion was filed by Attorneys General Carr of Texas and Boston Witt of New Mexico for alleged violations of Rio Grande Compact providing for releases of water to the two states to the South. Proposed complaint says Colorado has withheld 939,900 acre feet of water, as of Dec. 31, 1965.

Attorneys General asked the Supreme Court to require Colorado to deliver the agreed upon amounts of water at the Colorado-New Mexico state line and to eliminate Colorado's accrued debt under the Compact.

Texas Railroad Commission has scheduled a hearing for Dec. 6 so oil and gas operators san show why a statewide ban to open salt-water disposal pits shouldn't be ordered.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

My Washington-wary neighbor notes that here lately the burrocrats have been harping on the theory that every family in the U.S. is entitled to $3,000 a year to live on.

And he wouldn't be surprised if this turns out to be propaganda aimed to sell this figure as a national allowance, so there won't be so much howl when the tax rate goes to 100 percent of all a family takes in over $3,000.

But he says there will be one consolation when taxes reach this point: it will sure take care of this fellow Jones, who has always been so hard to keep up with.

My bunksick neighbor says the national spending bee's operators have about got him averaged into nausea.

Says the experts are feeding him wise words about how the average cost of what he has to buy has gone up less than the average family's income, so that on the average, the average citizen is better off than he was last year.

And he admits that, statistically, the average winnings in a 10-horse race is one-tenth of the purse, but he says this won't buy any oats for the nags that run last.

An old saying is that confession is good for the soul, and lately our Supreme Court has made it also good for getting out of trouble with.

Every few days a killer goes free on account of he got to the police and confessed before they could shush him.

But my forewarner neighbor says if a citizen wants to enjoy the Great Society there are still some sins which it's best not to ocnfess, such as holding out on his income tax, or voting Republican.

A reporter tells us that corruption, bribery, fraud, thievery, and other forms of enterprise are a part of life for the Vietnamese.

And he estimates that 20% of the material aid we are shipping to Viet Nam is being stolen before it can get to the poor people it is intended to help.

But if the plain stealing method of making a profit on poverty can pay only 20%, it's away behind our American system, where high charges for administration of poor aid funds can run the take as high as 90%.

Norwood Teams Open Basketball Season

The basketball season opens for the Samnorwood contingent on Tuesday, Oct. 18, with the Eagles and the Eaglettes hosting Lakeview.

Prospects appears bright for both the Norwood boys and girls, as only two letter players were lost from the girls team and one from the boys team by graduation. Two boys moved away during the summer.

"With the returning players and freshman girls who were experienced on the junior high team, we hope to improve on their district championship and 33-6 record," said Coach Loyd Stephens. "After finishing below the .500 level in wins and losses for two straight seasons, the boys are aiming for higher goals."

Returning to lead the girls are three-year letterman Judy Martindale, Suzy Bentley and Brenda Coleman. Judy and Suzy have started all three years, while Brenda was a starter last year. Two-year letterman Billie Purkey returns, as a two-year starter, while Charlotte Conner, Sherry Kindrict, Carol Garner, Odessa Stice, Karen Waters and Betty Coleman have earned one letter each.

Six freshmen are leading a group of players who are competing for a position on the team. They are Charlotte Kincannon, Ruthie Dwight, Tressie Kirkland, Lillian Kirkland, Rita Lackey and Jan Christner. The other girls competing for the team include Sherrie Latham, Becky Brock, Regina Glazner, Mary Helen Gonzales, and Janice Colson. This year's Samnorwood Eaglettes and girls B team will come from this talented group of girls.

Five senior boys appear ready to lead the Eagles to their first winning season in three years. Paul Clark, Acie Boyd, Danny Tate and J. D. Ward have played as starters at some time during the last two seasons, while Calvin Kincannon is playing for the first time during his senior year. Nelson Dwyer and Stanley Oldham held down starting roles during the past season, and along with Kin Wischkaemper and Ron Warmack should give the Eagles ample depth. Ron was not eligible for the varsity at Samnorwood last season, as he moved into the district from Shamrock, but now appears ready to go.

The boys are expecting plenty of help from freshmen Johnny Breeding, Ray Dwyer, Glen Bruton, Kim Janes and Gene Patton.

Other boys out for the team include Frankie Green, Mack Knoll, Gene Glazner, Doug Darrow, Gary Oldham, Melvin Kincannon and Max Paschall.

"Any of these boys could earn a position on the team with continued interest and hard work. All of the boys will play on either the Eagles or the boys B team," Coach Stephens said.

Both teams face challenging schedules which include annually strong Quitaque, Briscoe, Wellington, Clarendon, McLean, Miami and Estelline, in addition to the conference foes.

Season tickets are now being sold and may be obtained through a team member. These tickets include B team and junior high games and may be bought at a saving.

QUANAH.—News media from a three-state area will get the first official look at the new B-Bar-J Ranch, a three-quarter million dollar breeding and training headquarters during a special Press Revue here on Thursday.

From 75 to 100 newspaper farm and sports editors, television and radio broadcasters will be joined by directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the West Texas and Panhandle Press Associations for an "evening at the ranch."

Press day festivities will begin at 3 p.m. with bull sessions and coffee in the ranch's picturesque old-world courtyard, followed by a tour of the 600-acre ranch facilities and later a hospitality hour and Texas ranch dinner.

Meanwhile, people of the Quanah and Greenbelt area of Texas and Oklahoma will be special guests of the ranch at an open house Sunday, Oct. 16. The entire ranch, including the ranch's prize-winning racing stable, will be open for inspection by the public with employees stationed over the ranch area to serve as guides and hosts.

Guidelines Drawn for Preserving Cotton Quality

Quality is a vital factor in the marketing and utilization of cotton. Ever increasing competition from man-made fibers and the rapid technological revolution in textile manufacturing are two basic developments now intensifying cotton quality requirements.

Progress in textile manufacturing has brought about greatly increased speeds, larger package sizes, and automation. Advances in chemical finishing have also been notable. These changes are demanding better quality cotton fiber and a more precise knowledge of fiber properties.

Cotton producers and ginners have a special interest and responsibility to themselves and to their customers in preserving fiber quality. When cotton opens on the stalk, the fiber is the best it will ever be. Producers and ginners, by careful management of their operations and selective use of their equipment, can make major contributions to the preservation of that quality, thus serving both their short-term and long-run interest as well as that of everyone in the cotton industry.

Important guidelines for preserving cotton quality in harvesting and ginning include:

1. Properly time applications of Harvest Aid Chemicals.
2. Keep moisture and trash low in harvesting.
3. Avoid over-drying in ginning.
4. Avoid over-machining in ginning.
5. Emphasize bale value, not grade alone.
6. Keep contaminates out of cotton.

In order to determine the true spinning value of Rolling Plains cotton, the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers is entering into an agreement with the Texas Tech Textile Research Laboratory under which the different varieties grown in the Rolling Plains will be compared as well as other practices. According to Charles Stenholm, executive vice president of the RPCG, there are certain features of Rolling Plains cotton that are highly desirable. Our cotton is not as bad as California would have the general public believe. We hope to prove this fact and publicize it fully by our findings at Texas Tech. If we can't prove that our cotton has desirable quality, we hope to impress on our farmers the need for improvement.

Dodson Mustangs Will Be Young but Stronger

Practice sessions of the Dodson Mustangs, both boys and girls, was stepped up last week as the opening of the school's basketball season approaches.

The first game will be played with Miami at Miami, on Friday, Oct. 28, Coach Albert Motsenbocker said. The first home game will be one week later when Miami returns the game.

Both teams will be young. Coach Motsenbocker said a majority of the players will be sophomores.

"We have some boys out right now, but if we can get them all in school, we should be better than we were last year," the coach added.

Only two boys were graduated from last year's team, and this year's Mustangs will be built around James Riley, John Hightower, Junior Castillo, Bobby Tabor, and Mike Gulley, all of whom started some last year.

Others due to play are Kenneth Derrick, Gary Norman, Elvis Sain, Dennis Sexton, Mike Teutsch and Gary Curry. The latter moved to Dodson recently from Irving, but he did not participate in basketball there and will be eligible to play for the Mustangs under Interscholastic League rules.

Neither team gained players from this year's freshman class.

All girls making up the starting team had considerable experience last year and will be considerably stronger. These include Nancy Gulley, Vicenta Palacios and Delores Palacios, forwards; and Clarice Green, Sheila Ford and Velma Whitson, guards.

Six other girls will complete the team, Amelia Espinosa, Glenda Hightower, Lynda Lemons, Maxine Leamon and Lavanda Curry. The latter also came here from Irving but had not played basketball.

Congratulations to the Skyrocket Band on the superb performance staged at West Texas State University last Saturday. Everyone who went is as proud of the band as they would be if they had a son or daughter in the red and white uniforms that night. It was an excellent showing and the members deserve all of the commendation they are receiving.

The government checks for compliance with the current program are being received this week and they should have a noticeable impact on retail sales in the next few weeks even before the harvesting of the cotton crop starts. Loan price for cotton is lower; but the actual market price for cottonseed is expected to be considerably higher. At the present time it is about $70 a ton as compar-to $42 last year. The cottonseed in one bale of cotton will bring about $28. Therefore the grower will realize from $8 to $10 a bale more than the cost of the ginning which is quite a different picture from that of the last few years.

The yield of grain sorghum is going to be above the average on an acre basis and there is a report out that the guar crop is so bountiful that a number of growers intend to harvest their guar planted on diverted acres and sell it at current market price and turn part of their government money back to the CCC. Add to this a good price for cattle and the best fall grass and prospects for good wheat grazing and you have a lot of items pointing toward good business.

Better get out your pencil and paper and write to Congressman Walter Rogers one last time before he leaves office. A bill has slipped by the Senate named "Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act." The administration says it will cost -100 billion to finance the 60 or 70 politically selected cities which means it will be $200 billion or $300 billion that will come out of the tax pockets of the workmen, the salaried person, the farmer and rancher, small town business, big business, everybody. It only lacks passage in the lower house; so get out your pencil and write Walter Rogers today. The address is House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515.

Here is news of a ground shaking development. Down in Dallas they have organized "The Texas Smokers League" which has been organized to give Texas citizens a freedom of choice. They say that unreasonable taxes lead to bootlegging from states that have lower cigarette taxes and thus the state receives less revenue and not more. The smokers may have a point there; but the cigarette tax is one item of expense that does not worry me in the least. Refraining from smoking can cut down on the grocery bill to a noticeable extent.

Ben Wilhelm can expand his chest a couple of notches. A four-year study by doctors at Loma Linda University in California shows that male members of the Seventh Day Adventists had sharply lower than average death rates due to lung cancer. The doctors studied 11,-071 men who were members of the Seventh Day Adventists. This is one of the churches that expels members for smoking.

This column will be comparatively short this week. By the time you read this, I will be in Houston for one of my periodic check-ups. Donald Langley is back home after a successful operation and is reported to be doing well.

Good Brand of Play

Wellington B Meets Memphis Here Thurs.

The Wellington Skyrocket B team will be host to the Memphis Cyclone B in Powell Field Thursday, Oct. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in one of the better B team games of the entire season.

"Memphis always has a good B team—they always do," declared Coach James Stavenhagen. "They offer lots of competition, and this year will be no exception."

Praising the improvement of the Wellington boys, Coach Stavenhagen had this to say about them:

Sandy Covey played a real good game on defense, referring to the Clarendon contest. "Improvement—you bet!"

Tackle Larry Kane and guard Harold Jones are playing real good ball. They are small boys but they play a lot bigger than they are.

Teddy Martin, center, is doing a fine job snapping the ball and playing linebacker.

Alfred Allred is one of the strongest defensive boys — he really mixes it with the opposition.

Glen Barber, playing his first year of football, is "sure improving" and playing real fine football. He is in guard position.

Jimmy Bohannon has become probably the finest blocker on the team.

In the backfield, improvment is also exceptional, with Gary Brewer and Charles Mauldin at quarterback, Nickey Watts and Kenny Brown, fullback; Herman Moore and Tony Gonzales at wingback; Andy Lowe and Jimmy Neeley doing an exceptional job blocking and running the ball.

Mrs. H.H. Tilford Dies Monday at Mangum, Okla.

Funeral services for Mrs. Nettie Brown Tilford were held Tuesday, Oct. 11 at 2 p.m. in the Memorial Chapel of the Johnson Southwest Mortuary, in Mangum, Okla., with Rev. Bob Evans officiating. Interment will be in the Reed Cemetery.

Mrs. Tilford died Oct. 10 in the Mangum City Hospital. She had been in failing health for one year.

Nettie Brown Tilford was born to Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Ramsey in 1879 near Mt. Vernon. She married James Walter Brown in 1902 at Gilmer, Texas. They lived in Texas until 1918 when they moved to Reed, Okla., where they farmed.

She was converted at an early age and had been a faithful member of the Baptist Church in Wellington.

When she left Wellington she transferred her membership to the First Baptist Church of Mangum.

the inspecting officer.

"There appears to be a tremendous amount of work and preparation," said Col. Murphy. "You have come up a long way from last year."

Then he added:

"This is indicative of the fact they are professional soldiers, although they are in a citizen type army."

The inspection a year ago was made less than a week after Capt. Chappell took over command of the unit.

Others taking part in the Monday inspection were Major Billy B. Blankenship, battalion executive officer, Headquarters 2nd Battalion, 131st Artillery, Wichita Falls; Sfc. Elton J. Green, Assistant Inspector General, Headquarters, USA, Adjutant General's Office, Austin; 1st Lt. Sammy Helmers, 1st Sgt. Douglas Rives, Sgt. Wm. E. Sullivan, M/Sgt. F. Stephens, and Sgt. Earlier in his ministry, he served churches in smaller towns.

"But I am a country boy, and I like small towns," he declared. "We wanted to come to a smaller towns," he added.

Mr. Fletcher praised the friendliness, not only of his new congregation, but of all Wellington, and commented on the time people take to express their friendliness to him and his wife.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher are from Georgia. Before entering the ministry he studied industrial engineering at the University of Akron, in Akron, Ohio, and took special courses at Wayne University, in Detroit, Mich.

Besides his ministry and evangelistic work, during which he has preached in all states east of the Mississippi, Mr. Fletcher has written extensively for publications of his church and was on the staff of The Christian Leader.

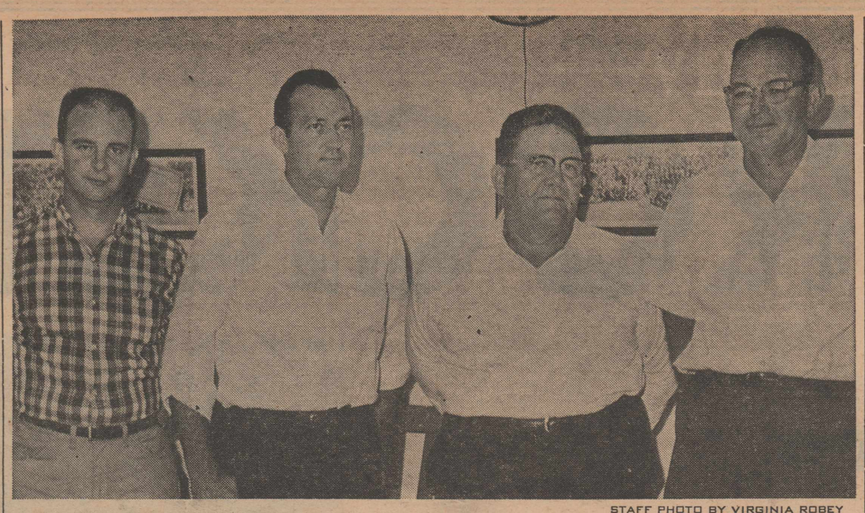

The couple has one daughter, Tina, now Mrs. Ralph Wallin of Spring Hill, Tenn. They are employed with the Tennessee Orphans' Home under the direction of the Church of Christ and he is studying for the ministry.

Jackson, who plays safety on defense.

At center is Bradberry, a 235 pounder who is quick for his weight and plays guard on defense. Rocky French, tight end, is regarded as a fine blocker and pass receiver. A new boy, Skinner, is the fullback, plays defensive end, and is tough.

Up against this aggregation will be a much improved Rocket eleven.

"They've corrected a lot of mistakes. They are gaining confidence, but they still need explosiveness and poise. But on the whole we play good football," Coach Beene declared.

"We can beat Iowa Park if we want to bad enough. It's just a matter of how bad we want to do it."

The Skyrocket starting lineup will probably be the same as last week. Neal Roberts, injured twice earlier, has received a bruised right thigh muscle and will be out for another two or three weeks.

Andy Henard is still out with a broken finger, but Larry Pipins will be back in the game this week.

Against the No. 1 team in Texas, the Wellington Skyrockets are optimistic.

PESO School Heads Meet

Superintendents of schools of this area participating in the PESO program met recently in Wellington to discuss new areas that are being developed within PESO.

One of these is new methods of instruction and use of new teaching materials and equipment, said Mack Bush, unit co-ordinator for Area IV.

The other program proposes the distribution of information in which it is hoped that the latest information on a national and world scope can be channeled into the classrooms.

Bush pointed out that many text books, especially in the field of science, are from 10 to 15 years behind in the information they contain. Under the proposed PESO program, information going into its center would be rewritten for classroom use with no more than one year's time lag.

"NASA, for example, has worlds of material available to the public on our space program, but it is not in form that can be used in the classroom," Bush said.

The results of the reading program were discussed. It was brought out that the 10,000 students participating, who had not been making normal progress, during the two and one half months the program was under way averaged 5 months progress.

of cotton acreage was diverted this year, Brown said. This is about one third of the county's allotted acres.

Wheat payments, amounting to $175,000, will be combined with the feed grain payments and will total for 1966 $464,472. Part of the feed grain payments were made as advanced payments.

Still to be made are the soil bank payments, amounting to an estimated $516,000, and these checks will go out in the near future, as soon as the clerical staff of the ASCS office can take care of them.

The remainder of the money which Collingsworth County draws under the farm program are the ACP payments, for conservation practices carried out and for which the farm owner or operator is paid a percent of the cost. Approximately 60% of these payments have been made and when they are completed, the total will be around $59,000.

son who is sleeping. Information as to the location of the fire is broadcast from the fire station or one of the fire trucks, Hughs explained.

Using the radio alert system firemen no longer would have to go to the fire hall to learn the location of a fire.

"In Childress a few days ago a fireman reached a burning house almost as soon as the fire was reported by the occupant. He got the report on his alerting unit in his home, just a block from the fire," Hughs said.

"By contrast, here the fireman would have had to come to the fire hall, learn where the fire was, and then go back to it."

Also during Fire Prevention Week, Chief Hughs was the guest speaker at the Wellington Rotary Club Tuesday luncheon meeting. He explained the work of the department and plans for the future. The radio alerting system was demonstrated.

state and national cooperation to prevent the purchase of excess right of way for state and national highways. The maintenance of this excess right of way is expensive and it is a waste of valuable farm land, the resolution will point out.

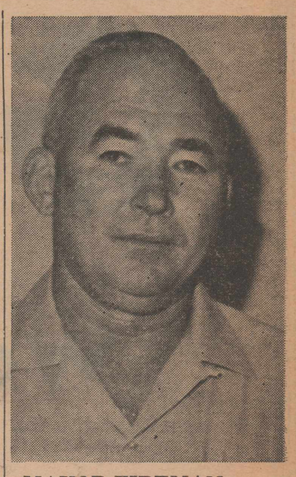

On the national level, a resolution will be introduced recommending that all cotton in government storage except that for national emergency be sold on foreign markets to the highest bidder. "This would force some foreign cotton growers out of the cotton business, but it also helps with the balance of payments, along with stopping the cost of storage of excess cotton."

There are other resolutions to be introduced that are of a less perinent nature, Hartman said.

"The Texas Farm Bureau is looking at the largest membership it has ever had," Hartman pointed out. "At the end of October, Texas will have 100,000 member families in its Farm Bureau. Collingsworth County has 588 families as members and our goal is 600 member families by Oct. 31, 1966. Based on an average of three to the family, this would be 1800 people represented in Collingsworth County."

Officers of the Farm Bureau in addition to Hartman, are L. A. Davis, first vice president; W. A. Bentley, of Dozier, second vice president; and James Martindale of Dozier, secretary-treasurer.

Doug Coleman of Dozier and Travis McGuire are directors at large. There are 20 other directors distributed in four areas of the county.

Why is gas cooking so clean? Turn a gas burner off and cooking stops — instantly. There's no hangover heat to make foods burn, stick or boil over. Gas broiling is clean too — because it's smokeless. With gas you broil with the door closed. (The gas flame consumes the smoke.) So if you want to cook clean — get a modern gas range. See them now at gas appliance dealers or Lone Star Gas.
