WITHIN 200 VOTES OF NOMINATION

McGovern Nears Magic Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. George S. McGovern hailed his overwhelming victory in the New York Democratic primary as "better than even we expected" today, with the unofficial count giving him 225 out of a possible 248 elected delegates.

The victory brought the front-running South Dakotan within 200 votes of a first-ballot victory at the Democratic National Convention next month.

HE'S CONVINCED

Tuesday night, long before most of the votes were counted, McGovern told his supporters: "I'm convinced now that we will win the nomination in Miami Beach."

At a morning news conference at his headquarters here, before departing for Washington, the question of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts as a possible running mate came up again.

McGovern said his organization had been told that Queens County Democratic leader Matthew Troy planned to announce his recommendation of Kennedy for second place on a McGovern ticket.

Troy was among the first political leaders here to support McGovern and also has close ties to the Kennedy family.

KENNEDY RUMORS

"I'm not going to make any judgments about a vice-presidential candidate" until the convention, McGovern said.

He added, however, that Kennedy was certainly "a leading candidate."

Kennedy maintained repeatedly in interviews this week that he is interested in neither the presidential nor vice-presidential nominations.

He said last week he would consider the vice presidency if that was the only way to defeat President Nixon but added he could not conceive of such a set of circumstances.

McGovern's staff put the senator's delegate victories at 226, but The Associated Press count showed him with 225 delegates, 17 uncommitted, 4 for Rep. Shirley Chisholm of Brooklyn, for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and one race undecided.

In addition, McGovern's forces believed that at least five of the uncommitteds favor their man and they expect a substantial bloc of 30 at-large delegates to be picked next weekend by party leaders. The expectation is that they will finally surpass 250 delegates here.

The smashing McGovern victory overshadowed a series of hotly fought Democratic congressional races, highlighted by the Brooklyn contest in which 30-year-old Elizabeth Holtzman unseated 84-year-old Rep. Emanuel Celler, the dean of the House and long-time chairman of its Judiciary Committee.

Another woman, the flamboyant Rep. Bella Abzug, lost her House seat to Rep. William F. Ryan in a district combined by reapportionment. Rep. Jonathan Bingham defeated Rep. James Scheuer in a similarly merged district.

CONSOLATION — Rep. Emanuel Celler, 84, consoled by his daughter, Mrs. Sydney Wertheimer, Tuesday night after he lost lead in Democratic primary to Elizabeth Holtzman, 30. Final returns showed Miss Holtzman narrowly ahead of Celler, who has served nearly 50 years in the House as congressman from Brooklyn.

Living Costs Rise Listed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food prices dropped last month but substantial increases for clothing and transportation contributed to the largest rise in over-all living costs in three months, the government reported today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said its Consumer Price Index, measuring typical family spending, rose three-tenths of one per cent in May to 124.7.

This means it cost $12.47 in May on the average for every $10 worth of goods and services in the base period five years ago.

The report said, however, that price increases in the past six months of President Nixon's Phase 2 economic controls climbed at an annual rate of 3.5 per cent, down from 4 per cent in the six months prior to the beginning of federal controls.

HIGHER PAY

The bureau also reported that average wages of some 50 million rank and file workers rose two cents per hour and 74 cents per week to $133.21 and continued to outpace inflation.

It said the average wage was up $7.72, or 6.2 per cent, per week over the past year and after deduction for the 3.2 per cent rise in living costs, purchasing power was up $3.35 or 2.8 per cent per week.

However, the report added that the largest part of the rise in purchasing power was due to lower income taxes.

The price report said grocery costs, which usually show no change in May, declined two-tenths of 1 per cent. The largest drop was a decline of nine-tenths of 1 per cent for meats, poultry and fish. Government officials have warned of higher meat prices to come.

FRESH FRUITS

In other major categories of living costs, transportation rose eight-tenths of 1 per cent, clothing was up six-tenths, and there were increases of two-tenths each for housing, medical care and recreation.

"Prices declined for most types of food except fresh fruits and vegetables," which rose 1.5 per cent, the bureau said.

The decline in meat prices was contrary to a usual seasonal rise for beef and pork, and a for dairy products was the first for dairy productswas the first such decline in six months.

"The increase in fresh fruit prices was smaller than usual for May," the report said. "Fresh vegetable prices, on the other hand, rose more than seasonally due to smaller supplies, especially of green peppers, celery and asparagus."

Restaurant meals increased three-tenths of 1 per cent, it said.

CAR PRICES DIP

Most of the rise in transportation costs was due to a continued increase for used cars and a sharp upturn in gasoline prices after several months of declines, the bureau said.

But new car prices declined a little more than usual for May.

The prices of houses and furniture rose, the report said.

Mortgage interest rates continued to decline although at a slower pace since the downtrend began last November.

Property taxes increased, but at the slowest rate in nearly a year.

Costs were also up for household services including electricity, telephone and home repairs, the report said.

The bureau said that most of the over-all rise in living costs last month was due to items exempt from federal controls, including used cars, houses and raw farm products.

WHAT HEAT WAVE? — Pretty Datha Workman wasn't bothered when Tuesday's temperature hit 103 degrees. She took to the swimming pool at the Big Spring Country Club. If local residents thought the mercury was about to boil over the top of the thermometer, they might be surprised to learn that the reading was seven degrees below the day's record of 110 achieved here June 20, 1951. Today's competition for a heat record is not so tough — on June 21, 1960, the temperature climbed to 109. The temperature reading in the upper right hand corner was snapped at the First National Bank's gauge about 4 p.m., Tuesday.

250-Year Terms Upheld

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals overruled legal technicalities today in upholding 250-year sentences given three men by Dallas juries for murder.

The court upheld the conviction of Charles Edward Grayson in the Feb. 5, 1970 pistol slaying of Harold C. McBride, a liquor store proprietor who was shot during a robbery.

Also affirmed was the joint conviction of Charlie Carlos Lopez and Gregory Jimenez Jr., who were accused of shooting Guadalupe Flores Garcia, a Mexican national, during a June 20, 1970 stickup.

Grayson's lawyers objected because the trial judge allowed a grocery store clerk to testify that Grayson was with two other men who robbed her store four weeks after McBride was killed.

Usually, the court does not permit testimony concerning offenses other than the one for which a defendant is on trial.

But it said such testimony is permissible if it shows the defendant's state of mind during the period of the crime.

Property Tax Proposal Of Lamesa Fem

AUSTIN (AP) — A special Legislative Property Tax Committee has under study a recommendation from tax assessors over the state that all taxable property be assessed on a basis of 100 per cent of fair cash market value.

Norman Register, former assessor-collector in Dallas, and Mrs. Gladys Dennis of Lamesa, president of the Texas Association of Assessing Offices, appeared before the Committee at a meeting Tuesday.

The association, which includes about 2,000 assessing officers, also recommended establishing central offices for making tax assessments, with the consolidated offices supervised by representatives of all taxing agencies involved.

Twister Scares East Texans, Fierce Thunderstorms Boil

By The Associated Press

A tornado gave East Texans a scare as fierce thunderstorms boiled through that area today.

Peace officers said the twister spun overhead about six miles west of Longview but did not touch ground, as was first reported.

GOLF BALLS

About the same time winds up to 60 miles per hour and hail the size of golf balls lashed the area around the Gregg County Airport.

Kilgore had a heavy thunderstorm with hail and high winds about 6:30 a.m. Trees were uprooted and television aerials torn down.

WIND GUSTS

A severe thunderstorm near Henderson to Marshall moved southeast at 25-30 miles per hour on a Mount Enterprise-Carthage-Waskom line. There were reports of wind damage to power lines, roofs and trees from parts of Gregg and Rusk counties.

Five Southeast Texas counties were under severe thunderstorm warnings at 9:30 a.m. as storms ranged from near Milam to just southeast of Lufkin. A pilot reported hail and wind gusts of 40 m.p.h. just north of Lufkin.

While the unruly weather brought a little cooling to some northern areas in the state, few Texans needed a calendar to remind them this was the first official day of summer.

It already was hot at many points, including a number where the temperatures topped 100 degrees Tuesday.

A mixture of showers and thunderstorms, some loosing rain at rates up to two inches per hour, also surged through much of the Texas Panhandle and across the northern tier of counties in North Central and Northeast Texas during the night and into this morning.

Air Force Grounds F111s

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the wake of two crashes, the Air Force has grounded its entire U. S. fleet of F111 fighter-bomber planes.

The Air Force said Tuesday the grounding was "a precautionary measure" and would remain in effect until the cause of the two crashes is determined.

Two crewmen were killed Sunday when their plane plunged into Choctawatchee Bay after takeoff from Eglin Air Force Base in Florida. On June 15, the two-man crew of an F111 from Mountain Home AFB, Idaho, reported an inflight explosion and safely bailed out.

The crashes were the 21st and 22nd for the swing-wing plane. It was known as the TFX during development. The Air Force has had to ground the plane several times after crashes.

The latest grounding applies to 215 F111s at Nellis AF, Nev.; Cannon AFB, N. M., and Mountain Home. Not affected are 67 bomber versions assigned to the Strategic Air Command and 75 based in England.

NEW HC PRESIDENT TO BE NAMED SOON

A committee, headed by Dr. P. W. Malone, has been appointed to select a replacement for Dr. W. A. Hunt, the retiring president of Howard County Junior College.

The committee has taken an original field of 14 applicants and reduced it to six candidates.

A decision is expected within two weeks.

Plans For July 4 Program Here Are Being Finalized

Plans for the traditional July 4th program — "Let Freedom Ring" — are rapidly nearing the final stages, Maymie Lee Dodds, chairman, said today.

The program will be held on the east side of the courthouse lawn at 8 p.m.

Finishing touches for the program were to be applied at a 5 p.m. meeting today of the Chamber of Commerce Cultural Affairs committee, said Mrs. Dodds.

After the "Let Freedom Ring" program, there will be a fireworks display near the National Guard armory at approximately 9:30 p.m., or dusk, according to Webb AFB, the sponsor.

Trumpeters for the program at the courthouse will be Richard Kitchens and Allen Householder, while colonial music will be played by Sheritta Owenby and Mackey Reed, flutists and Ricky Mitchell, drummer. The Webb AFB color guard will present the colors.

The handbell choir of the First United Methodist Church will play "America the Beautiful" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and a choral group from Big Spring High School will sing, including "Let Freedom Ring."

Sheriff A. N. Standard, accompanied by Sheriff Posse members, again will arrive as a rider with the Declaration of Independence, read by Town Crier Al Scott. They will be accompanied by walking colonial soldiers from the Air Force Association. Mrs. A. W. Moody will play the role of Betsy Ross. Gold Star Mothers, and their husbands, will be honor guests. Prayers will be by Chaplain Ken Summy.

The program climaxes with the national anthem, Mrs. Jim Daum accompanist, and the ringing of bells.

State Employes Pay Raise Looms

AUSTIN (AP) — House spending bill writers agreed today to give most state employes a 6.8 per cent raise as they began whittled away at other spending requests made by state agencies and boards.

Rep. Bill Finck, San Antonio, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, explained that if the 6.8 per cent raise is granted for 65,000 employes it will exceed the federal 5.5 per cent pay raise guidelines. If the Pay Board does not grant the increase, it will be appealed.

At Finck's suggestion the House committee agreed to leave welfare appropriations to the last because they have no ruling yet from the state comptroller about extra federal monies that Gov. Preston Smith said were available for welfare administration.

"As the Legislative Budget Board bill is written now it calls for financing only eight months of welfare, leaving a surplus of $15.8 million in general revenue funds for the 1973 legislature," Finck said. "If we still don't have a ruling from the comptroller when we get to the welfare section, we can add another provision to finance the other four months and it would be effective only if needed."

The bill is not expected to be ready for debate before the full House until next week.

A Senate committee will question the six men nominated for the State Vending Commission.

This special session of the legislature was called by Gov. Preston Smith to write a spending bill to replace the one he vetoed last year. Smith could open the session to other topics.

The joint committee heard a request Tuesday for a $1 million program to control fire ants, which are in 56 counties and spreading.

Rep. Joe Hubenak of Rosenberg said aerial spraying of a pesticide called Mirex would control the ant, now infesting 20 million Texas acres, mostly in the southeast corner of the state.

Lubbock Library Bids Are Studied

LUBBOCK — Low bids totaling $1,127,425 were submitted Tuesday to construct Lubbock's proposed new central library.

Low bid for the bulk of the project was the Lubbock-based company of Page and Wirtz Construction. Its bid was $767,000, plus $67,000 for work on the basement.

O. W. Chisum Company of Lubbock was the apparent low bidder for the mechanical contract with $203,475, plus $2,670 for work on the basement.

Greer Electric Co. of Lubbock was low on the electrical contract bid. The firm bid $83,830, plus $3,450 for the incomplete basement.

JOB AS RODEO CLOWN CAN BE SERIOUS BUSINESS
Quail Dobbs shows off his son, Coley, age 6 months

He's Been Run Over, But Clown Says He's Lucky

By LINDA CROSS

"I looked like I was putting on a clown act every time I tried to ride a bull or a bareback bronc, so I decided to get paid for it."

Or at least that's how Quail Dobbs, rodeo clown from Coahoma, said he decided to become a clown. Dobbs will be featured for the first time at the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, which opens tonight.

"I always wanted to be a rodeo clown. I thought I would like it, and after I got into it, I found I really liked it," said Hobbs, who has been traveling the rodeo circuit as a clown for nine years.

Buffalo, Minn., was the scene of Dobbs' debut as a clown.

"The reguar clown got sick and couldn't work, and I took his place," said Dobbs.

On what does a clown concentrate when he's in the arena — the crowd, the bulls or the riders?

MUST CONCENTRATE

"You've got to concentrate on all of it. The main thing is to be there to attract the attention of the bull away from the rider, but I try to do it in a funny way that the crowd will enjoy. I try to help the bull rider all I can," said Dobbs.

"I've been real lucky," said Dobbs of his years in rodeo without receiving serious injury.

"I've been run over by bulls, and I got some broken ribs. I'd rather have a broken arm than broken ribs because when you've got a broken rib there is no way that you can move that doesn't hurt," he added.

Traveling the circuit with Dobbs is his wife, the former Judy McGuire of Colorado City, his five year old daughter, Stephanie, and six-month old son, Coley.

"They are traveling with me this year especially because this is the last year that the family will be able to go with me in the fall. Our daughter will start to kindergarten right here in Big Spring this fall, and they won't be able to get away much," said Dobbs of his family.

"It's really an education for the kids. My boy is just six months old, and already he has been in the 'Space Needle' in Seattle, across the Puget Sound on a ferry and in a Casino in Las Vegas. He has traveled between 10,600 to 15,000 miles," said Dobbs.

STAYS BUSY

The Big Spring rodeo is Dobb's 21st for the year since beginning his circuit tour Jan. 22.

"I've had a rodeo once a week since then," he said.

"I don't know what it is that makes people take up rodeo for a living. It's a way of making a living now. When it gets to be work, it takes some of the fun out of it, but I still get a lot of fun out of rodeos."

"I don't like having to drive so much any more, and I'm tired when I get somewhere, but after I get there, I enjoy it," said Dobbs.

"Rodeo used to be a way that people could travel around, and they took it up in order to see a lot of different places. I guess the best part of rodeo for me is getting to see all the different places and getting to meet a lot of people," he added.

"This is the first year that I've been able to perform at this rodeo," said Dobbs. "They've asked me before, but I've always had something planned. I book my rodeos two years in advance, but I told them last year that I'd make it."

DRIVES TRUCK

Dobbs came to Big Spring from a rodeo in Price, Utah, the last of his long hauls for the year. It was a 1,000 mile drive.

On the road, Dobbs has a truck with a camper-trailer rig which serves to haul his "bucking-car" and other equipment, and he has a family car.

In addition to his car, Dobbs uses a pig and a mule in his act. A padded barrel is one of his props when he's making a target of himself for the bulls.

Another long haul for Dobbs and his family was a drive from Yuma, Ariz., to Kissimmee, Fla., for rodeo appearances and then back to Tucson, Ariz.

"You try to book rodeos so that you aren't driving from coast-to-coast. There wasn't much going on when I made the rodeos from Arizona to Florida, but usually anything over 600 miles apart is considered a pretty long haul," said Dobbs.

Big Spring, Coahoma and Colorado City are always on Dobbs' route when he is making swings to rodeos across the country.

"It doesn't seem like we are traveling so for when we get to come home."

Area Operations Reported Routine

Oil operations in the area were routine Wednesday with testing continuing on a deep Martin County venture bidding for Strawn production. Another Martin County test, Purvis No. 1 Cox, prepared to rig storage for a test in the Grayburg zone north of Lenorah.

Howard County had an oil well converted to small gasser.

Water Usage Is Soaring

Soaring temperatures have had their effect on water consumption in this area.

Despite heavy showers, particularly in the Big Spring area, demand for substantial amounts of water returned this week.

Monday the Colorado River Municipal Water District was called upon to deliver 50.26 million gallons of water; Tuesday this figure jumped to 64.91 million gallons.

The Monday-Tuesday comparisons showed Odessa 14.6 and 25.9; Big Spring 9.0 and 9.6; Snyder 2.9 and 3.2; Midland 10.8 and 13.5; San Angelo 2.8 and 2.8; and Stanton .26 and .41; city totals 40.36 and 55.41.

The oil company comparisons showed SACROC 6.2 and 4.8; Sharon ridge 1.4 and 1.4; Sun Oil 1.7 and 1.8; and Walsh & Watts .6 and .5; oil company totals 9.9 and 9.5. Paschal Odom, assistant general manager of CRMWD, noted that SACROC, Sun and Walsh & Watts all were substantially below their normal draw due to technical difficulties with their repressuring operations.

Odom also said that the district will resume pumping from Lake E. V. Spence to Moss Creek storage today after having shut off while 2,352 feet of new water, some of it with higher than normal chloride content, flowed past the pump station. By ceasing pumping during that interval, the district helped maintain an even quality of deliveries to the system. Lake Thomas caught 1,500 feet of new water.

Monthly Queen Is Named By TOPS

Mrs. Louis Collins was named as the monthly queen at Chapter 21 of Take Off Pounds Sensibly Tuesday night.

Three members of the organization, Mrs. Al Scott, Mrs. William McNew and Mrs. Bruce Pitts, told of their recent trip to San Antonio for State Recognition Days.

Two new members were welcomed at the meeting which was presided over by Mrs. Collins. They are David Trim and Mrs. Morris L. Bertram.

Anyone interested in joining TOPS may attend the weekly meeting each Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the YMCA.

No Decision Is Made By Jury

A deadlocked jury resulted Tuesday in 118th District Court when jurors were unable to reach a verdict in the case of Transport Insurance Co. vs Malvin Blum.

No jury trials are scheduled for the remainder of the week.

Blum was seeking workman's compensation for lost pay and work time because of injuries he sustained as the result of a car-trai ncollision.

The insurance company was suing for a ruling that Blum was not entitled to compensation benefits.

The case will have to be retried at a later date if the principals in the suit do not come to an agreement out of court and wish to continue the suit.

Fina To Contest Federal Order

American Petrofina Company of Texas, professing surprise that it would be charged with illegally having increased prices to wholesale customers, claimed that the government's action is based upon "an arbitrary definition as to what constitutes the 'base price' which may be charged a customer."

The company disagreed, and still disagrees, said officials, with representatives of the Economic Stabilization in their interpretation of regulations. Nevertheless, it made refunds to the two individuals in view of minimal sums involved.

The company plans to contest the government's subsequent suit.

Local Patrolmen Attend Seminar

Two Big Spring policemen returned Sunday from a ten-day seminar at the Institute of Contemporary Corrections and the Behavioral Sciences, a department of the Criminal Justice Division of Sam Houston State University in Huntsville.

Patrolman Larry Lee and Sgt. John Scott of the BSPD attended the Seventh Interagency Workshop June 5-16, where 350 students and practitioners of criminology from the United States, Canada and other foreign countries heard the lectures of twenty leading authorities in the fields of criminal justice, juvenile behavior, corrections and Interpole.

Mood of the seminar was directed toward improvements in the criminal justice system, toward open communication and cooperation among the law enforcement agencies, the courts, and the correctional institutions.

The trend in modern correctional thought pervaded the workshop as discussion leaned from punitive corrective measures such as probation, counselling, psychiatry, and all programs that work toward giving the criminal a feeling of self worth and belonging.

The argument for the new philosophy lies in the notion that punishment falls short of changing the characteristics of an individual, whereas efforts toward developing a self-image for the individual which society is able to condone will create a place in the society for the former criminal.

Detective Sergeant David Durk, a New York City policeman, who has a law degree, stressed in his lecture that existing law enforcement agencies should live up to their own codes of ethics. He said that integrity and honesty should begin with officers of the law. Durk has exposed corruption and graft in the New York Police Department.

The attendance of Scott and Lee at the institute was strictly through their own efforts and at their own expense. The seminar was a three-hour college course, which the policemen arranged to attend on their vacations. The local department contributed nothing to their presence at the school.

MAGIC MARK

setback to Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie, who are trying to block McGovern's nomination.

Humphrey had hoped for election of many uncommitted delegates, Muskie for some of his own supporters.

But McGovern ended up winning practically all of the 237 spots for which his delegates ran.

McGovern's total assured him of at least 25 of the 30 New York delegates to be named Saturday by the state Democratic committee in proportion to the primary results.

Besides the spots won by McGovern, Rep. Shirley Chisholm captured four of the six delegates in her own congressional district. The other two were uncommitted, as were five delegates elected in the Bronx district of Rep. Herman Badillo.

NEW COALITION

McGovern went into the New York primary with 1,077.3 assured first-ballot votes, 431.7 short of the 1,509 needed to win the nomination. Besides the 30 New York delegates to be named Saturday, 42 other delegates will be chosen this weekend—27 in Arkansas, 13 in Delaware and two in Nebraska.

As McGovern celebrated his 10th primary victory in 23 contests over the past 3½ months, he alluded to recent criticism from Humphrey and Muskie in noting that "because we do represent a new coalition of political forces in this country, there are some who have expressed fears about us.

"They have nothing to be alarmed about," he added. "We want harmony justice, not bitterness and special privilege . . ."

Humphrey said in New Orleans Tuesday that McGovern is the candidate of the establishment with principal support from "the affluent suburbs, and the upper income blacks and the university group," adding that McGovern's views on welfare, defense and tax reform are so unpopular they would mean a Democratic defeat in November.

Less cash, more carry.

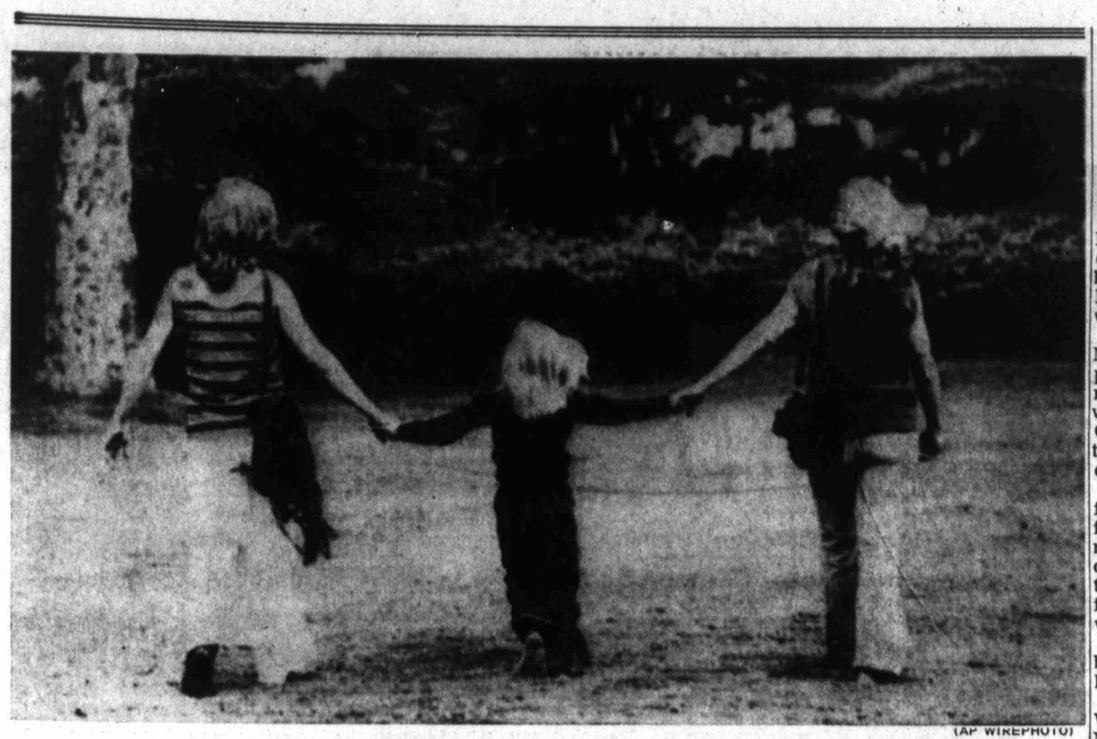

Consider the Jim Beam half gallon:

(1) The World's Finest Bourbon Since 1795 costs less per drink.

(2) There's a handle on it. Easy to carry, easy to pour.

(3) There's less chance of running out; less need to run out for more. A sensible way to enjoy the Bourbon that has been a family art since 1795.

GAY MOTHERS — They're not in the telephone book, and you won't find them on anyone's list of clubs, but they do have a name — the Gay Mother's Union. Here they enjoy a stroll in a park at Seattle, Wash. These are two members of the loosely-knit organization which they say provides comfort and mutual understanding for lesbian woman trying to live as they feel and raising children as normally as they can.

Lesbian Mothers Organize To Fight Social Pressures

SEATTLE (AP) — The Gay Mothers' Union is a loosely knit organization that provides comfort and mutual understanding for lesbians trying to live as they feel they must while raising children as normally as they can.

"Our rights are really restricted as parents," said Ann. "We feel like parents but we can't act it outside."

They fear that society can take their children from them—a consequence that one is fighting now.

Ann and Beth, both in their mid-30s, live together trying to raise a combined family of five children from previous marriages. Beth is under investigation by social agencies as a possibly unfit mother of her children.

"It's a terrible, paranoid way to live," she says.

To ride out the insecurity, they have the Gay Mothers' Union, where they can share common problems and seek solutions with women such as themselves. Since the first of the year 10 to 20 women have met weekly to talk over their concerns.

"It's not so much a matter of having faith in the world as it is having faith in each other," Ann said. "Beth and I figure we can handle most anything that happens, but we do live in fear of losing the kids."

It happened to Ellen and Carol, women in their 20s who lived together with Ellen's young daughter. They were taken from their home at 4 a.m. by police and the girl was turned over to a juvenile officer after a neighbor complained about the women's relationship.

"Finally I got custody, but with the stipulation that Carol move out and I get nine months of counseling with a social worker to cure me," Ellen said.

While they must be prudent in public, the lesbian mothers say, their home life with children is one of great freedom and affection.

"This time child raising is different," said Donna, in her 40s with grown children, now starting as a second mother to her lover's child.

"The atmosphere at home is very free and loving," she said, "and our little girl is affectionate and secure."

"We all think we're good mothers, much better mothers than when we were married," said Ann. "And we aren't raising our kids to be gay."

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

If ever there comes a time when I choose a new best friend, I think I'm going to make sure he or she is a friendly photographer. It won't matter if my likeness appears in public only once . . . I'd like to make sure the picture flatters me. Just coming on true to life can sometime be a sobering experience and this seems to be my lot when the negative is printed.

What is sometime meant to be a compliment ("Why it looks just like you!") can bring on a moment of bitter truth.

I find that this is not only true to my plight but it must be true of others. Having seen what someone (a picture editor?) did to that poor woman who is running for a Congressional seat and made the cover of a national magazine, I know that we women need some friends among the photographers.

I'm no women's liberationist, and I want preferential care when it comes to retouching . . it's brutal to show the face like it is unless, of course, one has the facial bone structure of Sophia Loren or Gina Lollobrigdia.

Even if one is ready and smiling the Sunday smile for the flasher, frequently the finished product makes some of us look as though we had lost our teeth and hadn't replaced them; had no chin, or worst yet, double ones; or hadn't had the hair done in months although the hairdo is fresh. There's just something about having a picture made that brings out the worst in me . . . or my face.

I really want a friendly photographer!

A vacation trip to the birthplace of these United States is the one the RAYMOND MOORE family has just returned from. En route to Virginia Beach, Va., they stopped in Little Rock, Ark., and a short visit with former resident, MR. and MRS. TED SNIDER, who once were connected with KBST. He now owns KARN in Little Rock. At Virginia Beach the family visited MR. and MRS. L. R. SNYDER, Mrs. Moore's half-brother and his wife.

Mrs. Snyder took the family sightseeing to Washington, D.C., through the capitol, Arlington National Cemetery, Lincoln Memorial and the Smithsonian Institute (which Mrs. Moore says took most of their time). They also went to Springfield, Pa., about 20 miles from Philadelphia where they were guests of cousins who took them on a tour of historical Philadelphia.

They spent a day at Williamsburg, Va., and then went on to Jamestown and saw so many things of historical interest they all felt they had had a full course in history. They also went to Kitty Hawks, N. C., where the Wright brothers built their first airplane and flew it.

To add a touch of the modern with the historical, the Moores completed their vacation trip with a stop at Houston to see some games at the Astrodome. They also took Gayle to Austin College in Sherman where she attended cheerleaders school.

Sign Of The Times: Woman At Academy

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis has decided to change with the times.

In September, Lt. Cmdr. Georgia Clark will become the first full time woman instructor at the 600-man academy. Her students will all be male.

"I anticipate no disciplinary problems," the 31-year-old officer said Monday during an interview at the home of her parents here.

Miss Clark said she doesn't know if any other women have applied for permanent teaching jobs at the academy, although four other women hold lower administrative positions there.

Academically, she has a master's degree in public administration from the University of Washington and bachelor of science in education and physical education from Drury College, Springfield, Mo.

After attending summer school at Arizona State University here in 1962, she "ran out of money and enthusiasm and remembered the literature a Navy recruiter gave me in college."

"I always was interested in international relations and decided the Navy would give me the opportunity to pursue that and learn other skills," she said.

Within eight years, Miss Clark was made lieutenant commander. During her 10 years with the Navy, she has had two tours in Washington, D.C., and spent two years in Hawaii as a personnel officer and administrative assistant to the fleet air commander.

Gives Advice On Altering Patterns

Mrs. Doyle Gillihan, vice president, presided, and Mrs. Dick Clay was introduced as a guest.

The devotion was by Mrs. Robert Lee, and games were directed by Mrs. J. L. Metcalf and Mrs. Vern Vigar.

The next meeting will be Sept. 5 in the home of Mrs. Lee, 1604

Laundry Rooms Need Ventilation

A laundry room is a source of considerable moisture — which in turn can cause a lot of dirt-and-particle-filled film on surfaces of all kinds, and even make the air in your home a little hard to breathe. So make sure you do your wash in a well ventilated room. As clothes dry, they emit moisture. For this reason most manufacturers recommend venting your dryer outside. Save money on fuel, too. Don't over-dry clothes or use your washer and dryer more than necessary.

Cleveland Joins WHA

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland, a charter member of the American Hockey League since it was founded in 1936, has moved into the new World Hockey Association.

Cleveland sports promoter Nick Mileti announced Tuesday night that he had obtained a WHA franchise for the city. He said further details of the agreement would be announced at a 9 a.m. news conference today in his offices at Cleveland Arena.

Also present at the news conference will be WHA President Gary Davidson. Mileti turned to Davidson when Cleveland was rebuffed June 8 in its bid to land one of two expansion National Hockey League franchises for the 1974-75 season.

Cleveland will be the 12th club in the WHA, which is expected to begin operations this fall.

Astros Nip Slumping Mets; Capture Top Spot In West

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros first baseman Lee May figures as long as he's swinging at strikes he'll do all right.

"I don't care what I swing at a long as I swing at strikes," the husky May said after clubbing a two-run homer to help the Astros to a 7-4 victory over New York and a half-game lead in the National League West Tuesday night.

"I get into trouble when I start going for bad pitches," said May, who has had his ups and downs at the plate this season. "I start getting anxious and I go for bad pitches and get in trouble.

"I just get in certain streaks. I'll hit good for a week and then something happens the next week."

May got the Mets in trouble Tuesday night with his 11th home run of the season that started a four-run Houston fifth inning. A double by Doug Rader and single by Roger Metzger scored two more runs in that inning.

The Astros, who passed the Cincinnati Reds to get into first place, scored three runs in the third on Bob Watson's two-run single and Cesar Cedeno's sacrifice fly.

Houston starter and winner Ken Forsch held the slumping Mets to three hits until he was bombed for four more hits and three runs in the seventh, including a home run by Ed Kranepool. The other runs scored on Tommie Agee's sacrifice fly and and pinch hitter Wayne Garrett's grounder.

New York starter Jim McAndrew left in the fifth after serving up the home run ball to May and took the loss.

Jim Ray took over for Forsch in the seventh and held the Mets hitless the rest of the way to pick up his fifth save. He has a 7-1 record.

Mets second baseman Ken Boswell, returning to the lineup after suffering a shoulder strain Monday night, said the Mets just hadn't played up to their potential yet.

"We've got a bunch of guys who haven't reached their peak yet," Boswell said. "That's good. We can struggle along and when they start to peak out, we'll break out and put it all together.

"None of us have played ball to the best of our ability. But we're still up there and there's still a lot of baseball to play."

A crowd of 26,394 paid to see the game and the turnout ballooned to 38,755 for Straight A Night at the Astrodome—pupils with straight A report cards got in free.

They came to see Houston go to the head of the class.

Twins Sweep Twinbill From Tribe

By The Associated Press

In the American League Tuesday night, Minnesota swept a doubleheader from Cleveland 7-3 and 3-1, New York trimmed Kansas City 4-2, Milwaukee downed Chicago 7-1, Baltimore defeated California 4-1 and Oakland nipped Detroit 3-2 in 11 innings.

Cleveland took it on the chin twice from Minnesota Tuesday night with Jim Kaat and Dick Woodson both hurling complete games for the Twins.

In the opener, home runs by Harmon Killebrew and Eric Soderholm in the fourth inning produced four runs and Kaat coasted to his eighth victory of the season. Killebrew connected with the bases empty and then Soderholm unloaded a three-run shot. Kaat callowed only six hits, half of them in the first inning when Cleveland nicked him for two quick runs.

Woodson also allowed just six hits and got all the scoring he needed in the second inning when Cesar Tovar delivered a two-run single and Danny Thompson singled a third run home.

John Lowenstein's ninth inning homer spoiled the shutout.

If Eddie Kasko had any hair on the top of his head, it would certainly be gray by nowm That's what managing the Boston Red Sox can do to you.

Take, for example, this past week. The Red Sox played eight baseball games and scored a total of 54 runs which averages out to almost seven per game. That's pretty good. They won three of the eight games and that's pretty bad.

The Boston bats went to sleep Tuesday night and the Sox came out on the short end of a 5-2 score against Texas. That's the same Texas team the Sox beat 12 the night before.

Twelve runs one day, two the next" said Kasko. 'What can you say? That's the way the game goes. At least that's the way it's been going for us.'

Boston's loss to Texas was all the more biter because two of the Ranger runs came on a homer by Dalton Jones, who used to play for the Red Sox. Always a utilityman at Boston and Detroit, Jones has found regular work in Texas.

Jones' two-run homer snapped a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning and Don Mincher, who had driven in Texas' first run, singled home two more in the seventh for the Rangers.

Rich Hand, Paul Lindblad and Horacio Pina allowed five hits between them with Hand picking up the victory to even his record at 4-4 and Pina nailing it down with his ninth save of the season.

Sparky Lyle chalked up his 14th save of the season and the Yankees won their fifth straight, beating Kansas City. Bobby Murcer drove in three runs for New York, two of them with sixth-inning homer.

Lyle's 14 saves in one-third of the season are two more than the entire Yankee relief corps managed all of last year.

Milwaukee beat Chicago's Wilbur Wood for the first time in almost two years, belting the White Sox as Jim Lonborg won his fourth game.

The Brewers hadn't whipped Wood since July 7, 1970 and the White Sox knuckleballer had a career 10-1 log against them before Tuesday night. Ron Theobald and Dave May led the Brewer attack with three hits apiece while Lonborg allowed nine.

Jim Palmer pitched Baltimore past California, firing a six-hitter for his seventh straight victory and ninth of the season.

Palmer also ignited the Orioles three-run winning rally in the seventh inning with a single.

Baltimore's victory, combined with Detroit's 11-inning loss at Oakland, moved the Orioles into a first place tie with the Tigers at the top of the American League's East Division.

MASAO OHBA of Japan retained his world's flyweight boxing championship with a challenger Orlando Amores of Panama Tuesday.

FANS WALK OUT

Rangers Rap Red Sox

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox are carrying to extremes the old saying "You win one, you lose one." They've reached the point where two victories in a row constitute a big winning "streak."

The Red Sox failed to put together back-to-back victories once more Tuesday night in bowing to Ted Williams and his Texas Rangers 5-2 before 12,864 fans at Fenway Park.

"Twelve runs one day, two the next — what can you say?" asked Boston manager Eddie Kasko. "That't the way the game goes — at least the way it's been going for us."

The hit totals on the scoreboard, five for Boston and 10 for Texas, caused one wag to remark, "They (the 5 and 10) tell the story of this game."

Many fans, obviously bored, walked out, even in the ninth inning when the Red Sox put two runners on base with one out. They didn't mean anything as Orlando Pena got the next two batters in easy fashion.

"I was a little surprised to see the fans walking out," said Williams, a former Red Sox slugger and now a member of the Hall of Fame. "I don't think I remember them doing that when I was playing here."

One unhappy fan, in a box next to the Boston dugout, had many uncomplimentary remarks for the players as he leaned over his seat. He kept yelling into the dugout and finally police ushered him and a pretty blonde companion from the seat.

"I was aware he was there, but I wasn't going to make him a big man by talking to him," Kasko said. "What the heck, a lot of people are on my back these days. I just ignored him."

Tommy Harper tallied both Boston runs, scoring after singling and stealing a base in the first and then hitting his 10th homer high into the screen in left center in the fifth.

The Rangers captalized on Boston starter Marty Pattin's wildness for a run in the third and then went ahead to stay in the fifth on a two-run homer by Dalton Jones, who played with the Red Sox from 1964-69.

Texas nailed down the decision with two more runs in the seventh.

Veteran righthander Ray Culp of the Red Sox was named to wind up the home stand today.

Culp, who has a 4-6 record, was due to be opposed by Bill Gogolewski, owner of a 3-6 mark.

YAZ DIDN'T MAKE IT — Carl Yazrzemski (8), Boston Red Sox, is out trying to steal second when he was cut down by catcher Dick Billings' throw to Texas Rangers second baseman, Lennie Randle, while Toby Harrah backs up the play, in first inning of their night game at Boston last night. Texas won 5-2.

Testimony On Fines, Turf Continues

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Testimony continues today on charges by the National Football League Players Association that NFL owners have failed to bargain on player fines and artificial turf.

In opening testimony Tuesday, attorneys for the two sides clashed over the role of NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle and a spokesman for the players accused owners of violating their contract with players by refusing to bargain on the two issues.

The hearings are being held by the Minneapolis office of the National Labor Relations Board. Trial examiner Melvin Welles of Washington, D.C., indicated testimony might continue through the week and said a judgment wasn't likely until late July.

In opening statements, NFL attorney Theodore Kheel said owners are willing to bargain on the issues but that Rozelle's status as final arbitrator has been agreed upon.

Eugene Keating, counsel for the players association, contended that the commissioner is not an impartial arbitrator.

SAFELY UNDER — St. Louis Cardinals Dal Maxvill slides into third base safely as San Diego Padres Dave Roberts falls over him. Maxvill took off from first on a bunt by Cards Rick Wise during the 7th inning. Maxvill decided to go to third when the San Diego pitcher was late getting the ball to first for Wise. The throw back to Roberts got past him and bounced off umpire Bob Engel as Maxvill later scored. The Cardinals won 5-4 in 10 innings.

NICKLAUS ABSENT

Crampton Western Favorite

NORTHBROOK, Ill. (AP) — With Jack Nicklaus absent for a rest, Australian Bruce Crampton may be the man to beat in the 69th Western Open Golf Tournament.

Crampton's problem this year has been just that—he's been getting beat.

But not by much.

When he came out of the pack to take second behind Nicklaus in last week's U.S. Open Championship at Pebble Beach, Calif., it marked the 10th time this season he had finished seventh or higher—easily one of the most remarkable records on the tour.

He hasn't won, but has had a good chance of taking at least a half dozen tour titles. His money winnings for the season is just short of $100,000.

"Most players set goals for themselves, like win a tournament and $100,000 for the season," he said. "It appears I'll get the $100,000 but I'm having trouble winning."

Crampton, now 36 and in his 16th season on the American tour, is the defending champion in this old event that gets under way Thursday on the 6,800-yard, par 72 Sunset Ridge Country Club course in Chicago's North Shore suburban area.

Nicklaus, who announced he wouldn't play again until the British Open, Arnold Palmer and South African Gary Player are among the absentees in the 144-man field that includes most of the other major players in the game.

Crampton, who made this his 10th career title whe he won on a different course a year ago, rates as the favorite in the $150,000 event that offers $30,000 to the winner.

Lee Trevino, who had figured to share the favorite's role with Crampton, was forced to withdraw. Trevino was still weary from a recent bout with pneumonia that hampered his defense of the National Open championship last week.

Some other leading contenders include Californians George Archer and Jerry Heard, each winner of two titles and more than $100,000 this season, Tom Weiskopf, former champion Billy Casper, Doug Sanders and Bobby Nichols, who usually plays extremely well in this tournament.

Anthony Breezes

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — Earl Anthony, 34, of Tacoma, Wash., breezed to his fourth pro bowling victory and second in a row Tuesday night, taking first place money of $5,000 in the Japan Starlanes Open Bowling Tournament.

Cincinnati Falls To Expos

Loss Drops Reds One-Half Game Behind Houston

By The Associated Press

"I don't care what I swing at as long as it's a strike," explained Lee May of the Houston Astros.

"I get into trouble when I start swinging at bad pitches."

May connected with a good toss and slammed a two-run homer in the fifth inning Tuesday night as the Astros defeated the New York Mets 7-4 and assumed first place in the National League West. The triumph nosed Houston one-half game ahead of Cincinnati, which lost to Montreal 7-2.

Houston jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the third, added four more in the fifth on May's blast, a double by Tommy Helms and a single by Roger Metzger and then weathered a late New York rally for the victory.

In other National League action, St. Louis edged San Diego 5-4, and Chicago swamped San Francisco 15-8. The Los Angeles at Pittsburgh and Philadelphia at Atlanta games were rained out.

Montreal's Ron Fairly and Bob Bailey clouted homers as the Expos kept the Reds from maintaining their lead in the NL West. Cincinnati took a short-lived 1-0 lead in the first, ending a 17-inning scoring drought. The Reds have been limited to five runs in their last five outings.

The Expos broke the contest open in the fifth when they pushed across two runs and chased starter Jim McGlothlin.

Randy Hundley, aided by some advice from Joe Pepitone, laced a grand slam homer as the Cubs erupted for a seven-run first inning en route to recording the most NL runs this season.

"Earlier this season I was leaning and bending over the plate. But Pepitone told me I used to stand up but now I'm bending over the plate. So I started to straighten up," Hundley said.

Chicago also exploded for five runs in the fourth in posting their seventh consecutive triumph behind solid relief work by rookie Rick Reuschel.

A 1970 draftee from Western Illinois University, Reuschel took the mound from Burt Hooten to start the fourth with Chicago ahead only 7-6. He tamed the Giants on five hits and surrendered two runs.

Lou Brock sprinted home with the winning Cardinal run in the 10th inning after second baseman Derrell Thomas fumbled Joe Torre's grounder.

Padres Manager Don Zimmer positioned Thomas 20 feet into the outfield in an attempt to force Torre to hit into a double play with two on.

"I said that if we were ever going to get Torre out this was the time," Zimmer said. "We made him hit into an out and we didn't catch the ball."

Lucchesi Laughs About Rumors

ATLANTA (AP) — Frank Lucchesi laughingly dismisses rumors that he will be replaced as manager of the slump-ridden Philadelphia Phillies.

A story in a Philadelphia paper Tuesday said that General Manager Paul Owens was traveling with the Phillies looking for a reason why the club has lost 26 of its last 31 games and is mired in last place in the National League East with a 20-36 record.

Memphis Whips San Antonio

By The Associated Press

Big first inning rallies were climactic Tuesday night as Eastern Division leader Memphis won while Western Division pacesetter Amarillo lost in the Texas League.

A two-run single by Ron Diggele capped a four-run first inning outburst as Memphis whipped San Antonio 6-3. Arkansas' Tommy Cruz blasted a three-run first inning homer as the Travelers scored four runs in the inning and Waltzed past Amarillo 7-1.

In other games, Midland shaved Shreveport 4-3 and El Paso tromped Alexandria 8-2. Bob Apodaca went the route for Memphis, posting an eight-hitter to even his season record at 4-4.

Rich Pope and Steve Evans combined for a four-hitter as Arkansas coasted by Amarillo. The homer by Cruz was his fifth of the season.

Mark Thomas retired 13 batters in a row before he gave way as Midland won its third consecutive game. Consecutive singles by Rob Sparring, Chris Ward, Bill Huisman and Jim Tyrone brought home the winning runs in the fifth inning for Midland.

Losing pitcher Dan Spillner surrendered seven walks in the first two innings as El Paso exploded for two runs in the first frame and five in the second. Wayne Miller tossed a four-hitter for El Paso.

Switch at San Antonio Proved Boon at Gate

One of the finest pieces of baseball President Bobby Bragan has ever done since assuming the highest executive's chair of the Texas League was to talk San Antonio back into the AA loop, after the Chicago Cubs had pulled out to move over to Midland, Tex. It not only restored the Lone Star league to the normal eight-club complement, but could have saved the league.

Despite the fact that the Milwaukee Brewer affiliate is mired down in third place in the Western Division, some 15 games off the pace set by currently leading Amarillo, the Brewers have drawn 88,693 fans into V. J. Keefe Field in just 22 openings and easily leads all Texas League members in attendance for the period ending May 31, 1972. This represents a gain of 68,599 cash customers over the 1971 figures. At this rate, the Brewers General Manager, John Begzos, could be accepting the large trophy given annually to the club with the highest gain in attendance, come the banquet at Hawaii in December. (This time last year leading Dallas-Fort Worth showed 61,074 or 27,619 below the current Brewers).

Despite various phases of the elements, mostly rain in the Eastern sector at Memphis, Arkansas, Shreveport and Alexandria, the league shows a gain of 9 per cent over-all in luring fans into their collective parks, even though Dallas-Fort Worth and Albuquerque, which ran 1-2 in attendance last season, have moved nito higher classification ball. The Spurs went into the American League, while the Dodgers took over the Los Angeles affiliation in the AAA Pacific Coast League.

That GM Begzos and his cohorts have done an outstanding selling job is reflected in the packed stands. Eight times the Brewers played to more than 4,000 loyals, topped by 9,417 on May 8, slightly better than the April 17 attendance of 9,373. There were 8,687 on hand, May 27, 10 more than the May 22 count.

All the other holdovers show slight decreases. Arkansas is 454 under a year ago, though with the improvement of the Traveler play in recent weeks turnouts have picked up sharply. On June 5 there were 5,238, and the following game 6,255 came to see their beloved Travs.

While Western Division pacer, Amarillo, shows 570 loss overall, the Giants have attracted 16,631 for 18 openings, compared to 17,201 for 23 for the comparable period in '71.

Rain has plagued the Memphis Blues but the Met affiliate played to 25,292 for 20 openings, as against 26,210 and one less game last season. The loss is 916 but some nifty innovations are coming up, says Mal Fichman, new Blues GM. A total of 7,325 witness the Trav series at Ray Winder Field.

Shreveport has been suffering at the gate, having drawn only 9,320 in 24 showings, or 13, 774 fewer in 20 openings in 1971.

Alexandria is showing the way for the newcomers with 26,789. The Aces under Manager Duke Snider, ex-Dodger great, are making a race of it in the Eastern Division. Midland is running well at the turnstiles with 23,883 in 19 openings. El Paso, a constant threat for the Western Divisitn title, attracted 19,124 for 22 openings. The Dodgers showed to 7,812 in one game.

Boyd Quits Alpine Post

ALPINE — Alpine High School head football coach Joe Boyd's resignation was accepted by the Board of Trustees of the Alpine School District Tuesday night in emergency session.

Boyd had come to Alpine last summer after a five-year stint at Sweetwater. He had been coach of the Bucks in 1965-66 before going to Sweetwater.

Last year at Alpine, he guided the Bucks to a 9-1-1 season record and a district championship.

GRID GLOSSARY

New Sounds In '72 Season

Copley News Service

Since the old order changeth for pro football each year, you'll likely see and hear the names of some newfangled plays and stratagems in the upcoming National Football League season.

Some you will recognize as old formations with new moves in the backfield and line. Others you may not be able to identify if you are in the stands. If you are at home watching on television, the commentators will tell you about it, sometimes in a puzzling jargon.

So Al DeRogatis, whose TV voice and face during weekend football outings have become familiar to millions of armchair athletes, has come along with a glossary of lesser-known grid terms for the uninitiated. A pro footballer of some stature himself before he turned to the airways, Al concedes the rabid football fan will dig many of the labels, but probably not all of them. And for those who are just getting the swing of pro football, his dictionary or digest could be a valuable aid.

For example, if Al or one of the commentators describes a "flea-flicker," would you know what he is talking about? Well, says Al, it's a razzle-dazzle type of play with the ball being handed or tossed around a la basketball.

A recent example of the rarely used flea-flicker was its use by the Baltimore Colts in the 1969 Super Bowl. On the last play of the first half, Earl Morrall handed off to Tom Matte, who swept toward the sideline, then halted abruptly and tossed the ball halfway across the field to Morrall.

Earl failed to see Jimmy Orr standing alone in the end zone and threw instead to John Mackey. Ooops, the ball was intercepted. You may not see the flea-flicker many times this year, but if you do, that's how it works or fails to work.

What about the fold block? Normally an offensive guard lines up opposite a defensive tackle. But in the fold block, instead of the guard hitting the tackle, the offensive tackle blocks the opposite tackle, the guard "folding" around behind the offensive tackle to cut down a linebacker from the side.

The idea of the fold block, explains DeRogatis, is to get a better bead on a linebacker before he can move into the developing play. Oakland guard Gene Upshaw is an expert at this maneuver, not one that a rookie would attempt often.

The flood pass perhaps has an unfamiliar ring because it is used sparingly, usually when other pass formations aren't gaining any ground. Like it sounds, the flood pass is the pouring or flooding of a number of receivers into one area to outnumber the defenders when they have been having too much luck with one-on-one or two-on-one pass defenses.

Sometimes the pro quarterback will go hunting with a shotgun — that is, if he is throwing to slow-running but reliable pass receivers or one whose mobility is limited because of a leg injury. The shotgun play sets the quarterback five or six yards deep to take a direct pass from the center. Usually the two wide receivers and two backs are set on either side in a double-wing formation. It gives the passer more protection as he waits for his receivers than he normally gets from the conventional pocket or cup formation.

The halfback option may be used more this year, since it usually is a spectacular and a crowd-pleaser and has been worked with considerable success by the Dallas Cowboys' Dan Reeves, Baltimore's Tom Matte and the Buffalo Bills' O. J. Simpson.

On the option, the halfback, after taking the ball from the quarterback on a handoff, runs wide and has the option of passing or running, whichever seems to be the wiser in that split second of decision.

Most football fans are familiar, of course, with the bomb, that long downfield pass which, even if intercepted, probably won't hurt you, for it's almost like a punt and just might get you six points. But do you know how that play got its name?

Suns Ship Silas To Boston For Rights to Charlie Scott

PHOENIX, Ariz. (APz — Paul Silas, the rugged forward who helped turn the Phoenix Suns from big losers into consistent winners, has been traded to the Boston Celtics.

Suns general manager Jerry Colangelo said Tuesday the Suns were forced to trade Silas to Boston in exchange to National Basketball Association rights to Charlie Scott, the American Basketball Association's leading scorer last season.

General manager Red Auerbach of the Celtics said he would accept only Silas in exchange for the rights.

Scott, who played most of last season with the ABA Virginia Squires, suddenly signed with Phoenix during the closing weeks of the season.

Dub Pearson At Seminar

W. S. Pearson, 606 Highland Drive, is among 26 businessmen attending a three-day financial analysis seminar at Texas A&M University.

The short course, conducted by the College of Business development program, provides basic accounting and finance to administrators who have little or no formal training in financial matters, such as budgets.

Pearson is publisher for The Big Spring Herald, Big Spring.

EDP Director B. J. Adams pointed out that the Monday through Wednesday seminar is a first for the college, with annual sessions planned. The course is designed for both large and small businesses.

Child Care Bill Voted

WASHINGTON (AP) — After trying to make it more acceptable to President Nixon, the Senate has approved a $2.95-billion bill that would provide the biggest federal child-day-care program in history.

Once vetoed by Nixon, the bill now goes to the House which has shown little inclination to act on it again. And some Republicans say the massive day-care provisions may cause still another presidential veto.

But sponsors said the lopsided 73-12 tally in the Senate Tuesday should give the measure impetus. They point to the bill's wide array of support from women's-liberation, church, union, child-welfare, education and civil-rights groups.

Its backers estimate in its first full year of operation the bill would double the present total of children in day-care centers.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., chief sponsor, said that, since millions of mothers must work, small children often are left alone because no arrangements can be made for their care.

Foes of the bill argue that it would help break up families and deprive young children of a mother's care.

The measure would provide free day care for children of working parents whose income is less than $4,320 a year. Those with incomes between $4,320 and $7,000 would pay part of the cost, while well-off families could use the day-care centers by paying the full cost.

Mondale emphasized that the bill provides for a child-development program going well beyond just day care.

There would be such preschool services as Head Start, prenatal services, in-the-home tutoring, and child-development classes for parents and prospective parents.

The bill authorizes $150 million to start the program in fiscal 1973, $1.2 billion in 1974, and $1.6 billion for 1975.

Sponsors emphasized the rate was well below the $2-billion, one-year funding in the vetoed bill.

The bill would permit such groups as school systems and churches in towns of 25,000 population and up to sponsor the programs.

This would make a potential of 2,000 sponsors. The vetoed bill had a floor of 5,000 population for the size of the towns involved. This would have permitted 7,000 sponsors, another feature to which Nixon strongly objected.

RGV DEATHS TRIAL SNAG

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A pre-trial hearing for a San Benito youth accused in the strangulation deaths of two 15-year-old high school girls was postponed Tuesday until July 13.

The hearing for Antonio Rios Zepeda, 19, was postponed because his defense lawyers are involved in another trial.

Rios Zepeda, a laborer, is being held without bond in the Cameron County jail.

He is accused of murdering Patricia Segura and Normal Delgado, whose bodies were found in separate irrigation canals near San Benito earlier this year.

Brown Recluse Bite Sidelines Big Mill Worker

OAKRIDGE, Ore. (AP) — Roy Bounds, 28, a king-size millworker, was raking wood chips at a shipping yard when it happened.

"At first I thought it was just a veneer splinter," he said, "but later I discovered two little fang marks and two tiny drops of blood on the back of my hand."

By the next day Bounds' hand was swollen and the bite marks had turned white.

A visit to his physician and the 6-foot-5, 300-pound mill worker learned he had been bitten by a small spider identified as a brown recluse, a cousin of the black widow spider.

That was more than a year ago and, after three rounds of surgery, Bounds still is unable to work or engage in outdoor activities. He's beginning to wonder if his hand will ever heal.

"Every time it looks like it's healed, it just starts rotting out again," he said.

Bounds, who was working at the Pope — Talbot mill shipping yard, was bitten by a spider normally native to the south central states of Arkansas, Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma. The half-inch long brown recluse carries venom toxic to humans.

Bounds' physician speculates the spider came from an empty rail car at the mill's shipping yard.

A pamphlet prepared by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare says that brown recluse bites are rare, but for the occasional person who is bitten, "it is a serious medical emergency."

Bounds, whose hand is protected by a heavy cast, has undergone three skin grafts this year. Another is scheduled this week.

Nail Biter

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

HABITS: (Q.) I bite my nails something awful. To keep from doing it I put petroleum jelly on them. My boy friend quit me because my hands are messy and smell bad.

I also swallow my gum. My mother says if I don't stop it will ball up inside me and no telling what will happen.

Please help me break these awful habits. — Gummy and Greasy in Mississippi.

(A.) A girl who really wants to break a bad habit can break it. I believe you do and can.

To help with your nails, get some of the new dark polish and apply it according to directions. It will look so great you won't want to put grease over it or bite it off either.

I don't think swallowed gum is likely to make you sick, but constant gum chewing is a messy habit. Just quit chewing it. Instead, use mouth spray regularly to keep your breath fresh.

BILL THRILL: (Q.) I work part time in a store and have been dating a boy I know there. He is just somebody to go with. But I am really crazy about his friend, who is named Bill and works at the same store.

I am planning to break up with the first boy. Should I tell him about Bill? How can I let Bill know I like him? And I am afraid he won't date me because I have been going with his friend. What about that? — 17 in Maryland.

(A.) When you break up with your present friend, tell him you are not interested in him any longer, which is the truth. Do not mention Bill.

Word will get around that you have broken up. That will be the message to Bill that he is free to date you if he wishes.

Be friendly with him, but not too obvious, and not in too big a rush. If he does like you, he should respond.

Trigger For Initiative

At the Harvard University commencement 25 years ago, Secretary of State George C. Marshall outlined a bold plan calling for massive U.S. economic aid to save a war-ravaged Europe from disintegration — the Marshall Plan. At Harvard recently, the event was commemorated with a speech by Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany, whose country lay in ruins in 1947 and, as a beneficiary of the Marshall Plan, performed an "economic miracle" to become one of the leading industrial states of the postwar era.

It was not the $16.7 billion in U.S. aid alone that made the Marshall Plan a success. It was as much what the 16 nations receiving the aid did with it. U.S. loans and grants provided only the nucleus of progress wherewithal for the energy and enterprise of Western Europeans. It led them to perceive and enjoy the fruit of competitive markets in free trade throughout the free world.

General Marshall had envisioned an economic recovery program applying to Eastern Europe as well as Western Europe. However, the Soviet Union pressured its newly-won satellites — Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and Romania — to shun the Marshall Plan. Instead, they were drawn into a "Molotov Plan" making their economies subservient to the Soviet Union, while Russian guns and Communist puppet regimes did the same to their political life.

As for Soviet-occupied East Germany, any of its industrial plants that had survived the war were carted off wholesale to the Soviet Union as war booty. The East Germans faced an even harder economic struggle than other East Europeans.

While the pace of recovery quickened in Western Europe, workers in the East found their labor harnessed to an economic system rigidly controlled by the state, feeding an ambitious Soviet Union and producing not what the people needed but what bureaucratic planners dictated. Due to political repression and lagging living standards and opportunities, the guardposts and barbed wire erected along their western borders on the pretense of keeping invaders out served only to keep people in.

The lesson is that the "economic miracles" they long for are most likely to materialize when aid programs are used to channel the energies of their people into development of a free economic system in which initiative and enterprise are rewarded, in which government planning does not weigh too heavily on the competitive spirit.

What Earns Recognition

The Nationalist Chinese on Taiwan are showing that a rebuff in the United Nations and some of the embassies of the world can be taken in stride.

After a slump following loss of its U.N. seat last fall, the Republic of China reports a new surge in foreign investment. Even the Japanese, who were skittish at first, are back on the scene. Taiwan's foreign trade during the first quarter of 1972 spurted 41.5 per cent over the same period in 1971.

Communist China, with its closed society, is going begging for investors and trading partners. The lesson seems to be that what earns status and recognition for a nation is not a seat in the U.N. but the work of a free, industrious people.

Burn, Baby, Burn

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

By the same token that if you sit still long enough anywhere, somebody you know will walk by, if you hang around long enough amost any theory will come full cycle.

THERE LONG was a suspicion that burning improved pastures, lawns and the like. Some even held to the theory that forest fires were nature's way of working curative powers.

Then came the theory that the first theory was all wrong. Fires destroyed badly needed organic matter; it seared the crown of grass plants and sometime killed them. It killed or badly scarred trees to the point they were easy prey for insects which cheated by also working on healthy vegetation. As a result the least desirable vegetation took over.

IN WEST TEXAS, where depleted organic matter is of considerabble importance to maintaining the absorbability and permebility of the soil, the organic theory gained wide currency — and still is likely the majority view.

Now come reports from a recent meeting in Lubbock of the 12th Tall Timbers Fire Ecology Conference. To get down to the nitty gritty of it, one of the speakers (Dr. Henry Wright of the Tech faculty) said that decadent stands of unpalatable tobosa can easily be made productive and palatable by burning during a wet spring. Ah ha! Note that final hedging phrase — "wet spring" Well, that automatically limits the burning intervals to few and far between in this region.

SIDE BENEFITS were held to be control of broomweeds, reducing the number of cactus plants, killing some mesquite trees and destroying the dead wood of mesquites killed by herbicides.

Tests showed that during wet springs tobosa produced up to three times more herbage after burning than did the unburned control patches. Tobosa burns continued to produce more than the control plots, even in the fouth year after the burn. However, in dry springs, the yield were slightly less forage than for the control plots.

THE TABOSA must be grazed immediately after the burn or when it first puts out in the spring while it is young and tender. This period may range up to four months. As the grass gets up to size, it quickly gets tough and unpalatable.

Tests on which the premise is based included two tracts on the Spade Ranch 15 miles south of Colorado City and one on a ranch five miles south of Garden City.

The primary danger in burning tobosa comes from broomweeds, which tend to burn off at the base and start rolling. Also, firewhirls generally develope where wind shears occur, such as a head fire running into a back fire, or fire burning up a slope into the wind. Researchers found that burning juniper infested pastures is risky, for the plants are so volatile they often create firebrands, which reached heights of 93 feet

DEPENDING ON the amount of litter on the ground, the fires are classed as hot and cool. Hot fire wipes out everything, including trees. The cool fire is not so destructive. The latter has little effect on wildfire. Studies showed that mourning doves returned to their tree nests after cool fires; after hot ones they nested on the ground, where, contrary to popular notions, their losses to predators were no more than usual. Actually, because of avoiding winds, the ground nests were more productive.

So the issue is joined for the conservationists and ecologists on the one hand, and the producers on the other. Both likely will agree on one thing — be careful. No more will we see the days when Indians fired the prairie to chase buffalo to strategic kill points.

Lonesome Sound

Robert E. Ford

Possibly the world's most lonesome scund can be heard throughout the West provided the listener is at the right place at the right time.

THIS IS ANYWHERE in rough country on a clear night. From somewhere far away comes a cry, rising and falling, as if the heart were being torn from something living.

Actually, it is nothing more than a coyote trying out his vocal cords.

The Indians believed he was the smartest animal around, and created legends about him.

The coyote possesses many of the traits that the Indian needed before he was forced onto reservations. He was intelligent, clever, an expert on hit and run raids, and could melt away into the wilderness so that his enemies couldn't find him.

Mr. Coyote is having one of his good times right now, and we'll wager that he's in his den right now laughing his furry head off at his latest victory.

This is because the federal government has switched over to his side, in effect.

SO NOW A NEW howl is heard in the land — coming from ranchers and chicken raisers. They howl pretty good, too.

This triumph for what the encyclopedia calls the Prairie Wolf came this year when President Nixon banned use of coyote poison on federal land and the Environmental Protection Agency stopped interstate shipment of predator control poisons.

For, smart as he is, the coyote isn't a very good chemist and can't distinguish a poison from a non-poison.

Ranchers, particularly sheep and goat raisers, protested loudly in Washington against the ban of poison. They estimate that coyotes, even with widespread use of poison, cost them $17 million in 1970 in animal losses.

They offered another deal to the government: Pay them damages if poisons are completely banned. They estimate the coyote population will explode to the point that their losses will be $50 million annually.

THE GOVERNMENT, in the person of Nathaniel Reed, assistant secretary of the Interior Department, said poison really isn't necessary.

Advised Reed: use packs of killer dogs or airborne hunters to control the coyote population.

This sounds very good on paper. But it just doesn't work that way.

Killer dogs do not stop killing just because they've chased the coyotes away. They turn to killing stock, too, and can be worse than coyotes.

A few years ago a rancher-farmer on the edge of the Wichita Breaks got tired of coyotes and bought several greyhounds who surely could outrun a coyote and kill it.

The greyhounds drove the coyotes deep into the breaks for a time. Then the dogs disappeared —utterly.

ASST. SECY. Reed apparently doesn't know much about coyote habits, else he wouldn't have suggested shooting them from the air.

They prowl at night mostly, and until riflemen develop night eyes there isn't much chance of seeing one so they can shoot.

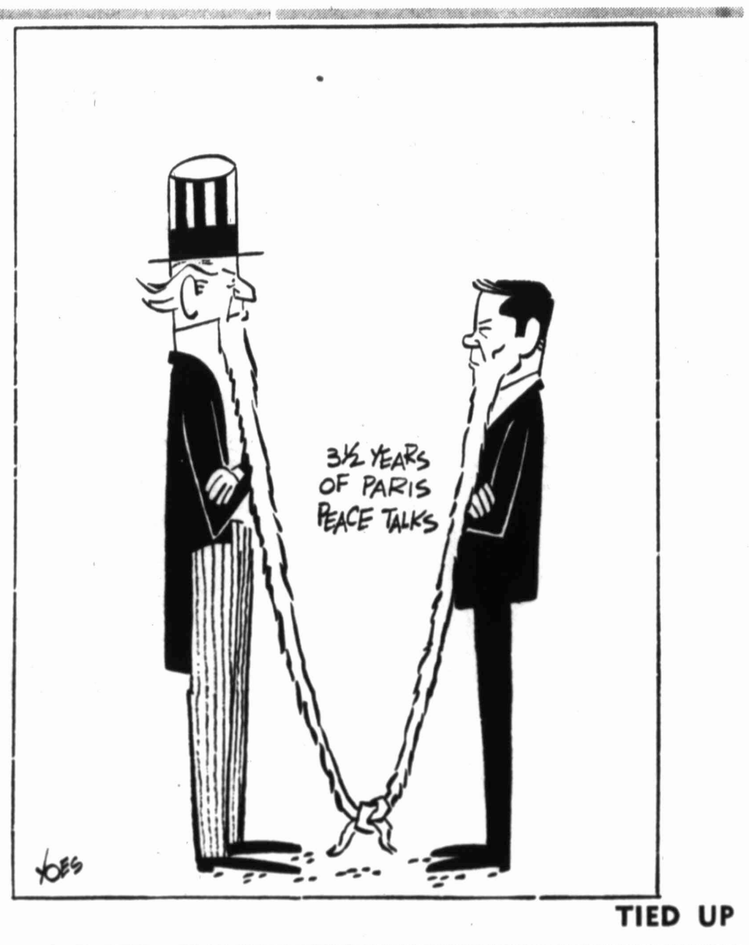

In daylight, coyotes mainly hide in dens or other places where they can't be seen. Seeing a coyote is somewhat unusual.

Out in West Texas you probably could get another western type war started between ranchers and farmers over coyotes.

One time the ranchers pretty well rid Baylor County of coyotes. So what moved in? Jack-rabbits.

The rabbits started chewing on the farmers' crops — there being no coyotes around to catch the fast little beasts.

So the farmers had to organize great rabbit drives to save their crops.

Wallace Presence

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The biggest puzzle about the Democratic national convention which starts on July 10 is what will happen to the Wallace votes. Gov. George Wallace of Alabama has won six primaries. He took second place in six others, and now holds over 300 votes in the convention. Texas, for instance, awarded him 42 delegates, which is more than it gave any other prospective candidate.

THE QUESTION is: What will the ultimate Wallace strategy be? His supporters could throw their strength to either Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota or Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota. There is as yet, however, no indication of such a course. Gov. Wallace is expected to go to the convention, but he may also prepare himself for a third-party campaign, though his aides say there are no such plans at this time. The probability is that Wallace will make his argument at the convention for the kind of platform he thinks should be adopted. If the document doesn't reflect the viewpoint he has been expressing, it is possible that he might head an independent party, as he did in 1968.

A THREE-PARTY contest would not be a comfortable one to carry on for either Republicans or Democrats, because Wallace does attract a substantial number of voters. There are doubts, however, that he would be able to carry on a vigorous third-party contest in view of his physical condition. One of his top aides recently stated that the governor's plans have been concentrated on the democratic that "there are no third-party plans now."

THE McGOVERN candidacy is obviously in the lead. While the South Dakota Senator doesn't have enough votes as yet to win on the first ballot, there is always a chance that changes among the delegates could develop and give him the nomination on an early ballot. If he got such approval, it would be very helpful to him in his campaign. But the Democratic party today is divided into many groups, and there is no certainty as to what the final preference of the delegates will be when the first and second ballots are taken.

Gov. Wallace's presence at the convention will keep his supporters active and may even increase the number of delegates he gets. The convention is bound to be one of the most interesting in quite a few years.

A QUESTION that has been widely discussed is whether Governor Wallace would desert his party and endorse the Republican nominee if the results of the Democratic convention left him unhappy. Some of President Nixon's supporters would prefer that there be no third party in the contest.

Gold Fever Spurts

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Gold is in the news again. Amid rumors that vastly important international decisions are imminent, the price of the yellow metal is spurting.

One of the rumors concerns an alleged highest-level secret agreement with Russia under which the United States would raise the price of monetary gold from $38 to as much as $140 an ounce, to be accompanied by a Treasury Department shakeup.

There appears to be no tangible substance to the rumors—nothing that anyone has said or done, no official statements. But gold does odd things to man, and man does odd things with gold.

What gives man this gold complex?

It is beautiful. It is rare. It is pure. It is inert and never deteriorates. It is found all over the world but in such tiny quantities that maybe only 100,000 tons have ever been mined.

It is so malleable that an ounce can be pounded in a 100-foot-square sheet, and because of this and other attributes it is acceptable and desirable.

It is desired in increasing amounts by the electronics and other industries, and so as a commodity whose market responds to supply and demand its price has risen to as high as $68 an ounce.

And because it is acceptable everywhere it has been foundation of international trade, where it is used as the backing for currency.

But gold itself is just too heavy to move about. Instead, governments have devised a system of paper money and assigned to it values in terms of gold. The United States is curator of that value, which is fixed at $38 for monetary purposes.

Until last year a foreign nation could redeem its dollars in gold, but then the United States ended convertibility, and since then nobody seems to be sure just what role gold will play in the future.

It is this interim of indecision that gives rise to the rumors, because everyone knows that a new international agreement must be reached if trade is to thrive. But will gold play a role?

The United States has argued for demonetization of gold, but there appears to be dissent within its ranks. Nations such as Russia and South Africa, which are big producers, naturally want the ties retained.

If gold is to remain as backing for currencies, then there is widespread feeling that the price would have to be higher than $38 an ounce. But if it were raised, wouldn't Communist Russia be showered by a windfall?

Ambush Danger

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — All the old scarecrows of fear and suspicion are being trotted out of the warehouse where they are perennially refurbished and given a fresh coat of phosphorescent paint to try to defeat the nuclear arms limitation treaty. Half-truths and just plain myths about the alleged superiority the Soviets will have under the treaty are trumpeted by the little band of weaponeers and standby alarmists.

YET, AS THE hearings on the agreements begin before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, a careful check shows that as few as 15 senators will vote no. This means ratification of the antiballistic missile treaty with far more than the required two-thirds and approval of the agreement freezing offensive missiles by an overwhelming majority.

In light of this it is hard to see why Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird seems to be practicing a kind of blackmail by threatening that unless Congress approves his full defense budget, (with $1.3 billion for development of new weapons systems), he will oppose the agreements.

TWO EXPLANATIONS for this behavior with at least a semblance of reason occur. One is that, with the President's approval, Laird is giving the right-wingers a taste of appeasement. A doubting senator can say, "Yes, I was for the treaties but at the same time I voted for money for those new weapons that are going to keep America strong."

But underlying this explanation is a belief that the right must be appeased. That a right wing is ready to spring into action in substantial numbers is a myth as was proved by the reaction to the Nixon missions to Peking and Moscow.

ANOTHER explanation for the Laird charge up Capitol Hill has slightly more logic behind it. The costly new weapons systems are being pushed a bargaining counters to be offset against similar Soviet developments when the SALT talks resume in the fall.

In one sense Laird is doing a service to the cause of nuclear arms limitation. There is nothing in the five-year interim agreement on offensive missiles to prevent development of the fantastic new systems Laird is championing. How far these systems go on the road of a nuclear arms race his advocacy makes abundantly clear.

THE INTERIM agreement is the smallest possible beginning. Unless, as President Nixon has said, the momentum out of Moscow carries over into a new round of SALT talks, the hope for any real pause in the race toward annihilation is dim.

Happy Shark Walker

Hal Boyle

By WES COOK
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "Mom, don't worry about the sharks, I don't. The moray eels really scare me though."

That's how the letters began. The writer was our son, Bob, whose interest is marine biology. He wanted experience and the chance to follow his interests "where the action is."

So he bought a used laundry truck and converted it to a mobile home—of sorts—and four days after his 21st birthday he set off for Marineland of Florida, the nation's pioneer oceanarium about 15 miles south of St. Augustine.

Two weeks after his arrival he was given a tryout as a "hard-hat diver," feeding and working under 12 to 20 feet of water with some of the nearly 3,000 specimens of marine life on exhibit.

Opened in 1938, Marineland is dedicated to study and research in marine biology. It also offers the public a unique experience in its educational and entertaining exhibits.

Bob wrote: "The first few weeks I was upset about the nurse sharks, which are like hungry puppy dogs crowding to get food. Everyone said they were harmless, but my mind said that anything that could swallow a 10-inch fish whole could also do a good job on my hand."

Other letters that followed contained these gems to quiet parental concern:

"Work isn't going bad at all. I don't mind getting bit. It's my fault anyway if I do..."

"I walked a shark today, about a 7-footer. It had been caught at sea by the collecting ship and was exhausted. You have to 'walk' them in the water, a sort of artificial respiration to force oxygen-bearing water through their gills until they revive. ..."

"I've been nipped by nurse sharks, tugged on by huge sea turtles and climbed over by morays, but those porpises have pushed, pulled, and knocked me down and bitten me and I still like them best. I have been bitten so many times this week that I feel like a pin cushion. ..."

Proudly he wrote: "I was paid a compliment by the announcer. He said that Wayne Birkett, the head diver, stated that 'Bob is the best diver he has had in quite a few years. In less than a month he has learned all of the jobs that the senior divers do. He moves exceptionally well in the water and seems natural.'"

Despite our concern about the unknown—at least for us—that he walks with daily in those tanks, we were happy and proud of his attitude when he wrote recently:

"I don't plan on doing this (diving) the rest of my life, but I know that I'll be able to look back on it someday and know that the reason I did my job so well was because I enjoyed it."

My Answer

Billy Graham

I need help. I'm twenty two years old, yet I feel at least one hundred. Maybe I'm dying of old age. I feel like I'm dying a little more each day, and I can't stop it. Please help me. J.C.

Carl Jung has said that the central neurosis of our timesis emptiness. This may be your trouble: you, like neurosis of our times is emptiness. on the inside. The Bible indicates that there is a God-shaped void in each of our hearts, and we will never find peace until Christ fills that emptiness.

Jesus said to an empty, purposeless generation: "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." Everyday young people are finding purpose and power by receiving Him as Lord of their lives.

You say you feel you are dying. The reason for this is: you really are. You see, the Bible says: "The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." You may say, "That sounds so simple. It's too good to be true." Yes, the Gospel, (the offer of God's love to lost men) is simple, and almost unbelievable. The Bible even says that men would call it "foolishness." "The preaching of the cross is foolishness to them that perish." I Corinthians 1:18.

Your feelings of futility indicate that you are not far from the kingdom of God. Before we find the Savior, we must first become aware of our need. "Cast all your care upon Him, for he careth for you." I Peter 5:7.

A Devotion For Today . .

"When you pray, go into a room by yourself, shut the door, and pray to your Father who is there in the secret place; and your Father who sees what is secret will reward you." (Matthew 7:7, TEV)

PRAYER: Dear God, thank You for all the joys of life, for home and love and friends. Help us never to stop asking for the best from You and seeking it with all our hearts. Amen.

Financial Outlook In City Improves, Nanny Reveals

A favorable report on the finances of the city came Tuesday from Rogers Nanny, city director of finance.

"I feel that the city will come out on an even basis this year," said Nanny. At the end of May when 67 per cent of the fiscal year had passed, only 61.9 per cent of proposed expenditures had actually been encountered, whereas 78.6 per cent of the expected income for the year had been received, Nanny reported of the general fund.

Referring to the water and sewer fund, Nanny said that the city had spent only 49.5 per cent of the budgeted amount for the fiscal year, because bond requirements and water treatment costs rise during the last months of the fiscal year from the beginning of warm weather to September 31.

Sixty-five per cent of the projected income has been received, a figure some 1.5 per cent less than was anticipated. "We feel that this will pick up," he said, but added that water income could very well fall one to two per cent below the anticipated amount.

Water usage depends on the weather, and he reminded that he could not predict the weather.

Taking an over-all view of the budget, Nanny was optimistic of the fiscal outcome. He predicted that income will reach projections, and expenses should be close to anticipations in the budget.

"I feel that we are staying in it (the budget) and will be staying in it as far as expenses go," he said. Should the rains descend unexpectedly and water income take a serious cut, purchases of budgeted capital improvements could be postponed to absorb the loss.

A figure of $165,000 was budgeted for capital improvements. Of this amount, $87,000 is unobligated and will remain that way until the income for further improvements can be seen. Only then, explained Nanny, will the administration request money from the city council to purchase the remaining budgeted capital improvements.

Troop 16 Back From Mountains

Boy Scout Troop 16 returned Saturday from a week of camping and hiking at the Buffalo Trail Scout Ranch in the Davis Mountains.

The outing included a three-day burro pack trip to the back side of the ranch. The scouts also participated in swimming, horseback riding, archery, rifle and other scouting skills.

Making the trip were Mark Glass, Mike Storen, Bruce Campbell, Kelley Allen, Tony Munoz, Kevin Lancaster, David Smith, Randall Anderson, Ralph Newman, Kim Long, Roland King and Bill Mims, the scoutmaster.

The troop, sponsored by Forsan Oil Well Service, will develop their swimming and lifesaving skills during the remaining part of the summer. Sessions will be every Tuesday and Thursday at the Forsan High School pool.

Riding Groups Massing Here

Howard County Sheriff's Posse and Youth Horsemen host at least 14 riding groups in the 4 p.m. downtown rodeo parade today. The local riding group had received acceptance of 14 invitations this morning.

Among visitors to Big Spring tonight is Cherryl Spindle, Grand Prairie, queen of the American Association of Sheriff's Posses and Riding Clubs, an organization including all of the United States and Australia. Also due are the president of the association, R. B. Allen, Dallas, and executive director Clark Jarnigan, Euless.

Following the parade, Howard County Sheriff's Posse and Youth Horsemen host a barbecue in honor of the visiting riding groups at the new fair barn.

Trophies will be awarded tonight in the arena immediately following the grand entry to the rodeo. The local riders furnish first, second and third place trophies for the junior group. The Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo Association provides first, second and third place trophies for the senior competition.

MISS EUROPE — Monika Sarp, a blue-eyed brunette from Dusseldorf, West Germany, smiles to acclaim her victory after she was elected as Miss Europe of 1972 Wednesday. She was entered as Miss Germany. She won title in a field of two dozen entrants.

Miss Europe Of '72 Named

LISBON (AP) — Monika Sarp, the 24-year-old blue-eyed Miss Germany, was named Miss Europe of 1972 at a gala pageant which ended early today.

An international panel voted Miss Sarp the prettiest girl among five finalists and the original field of two dozen contestants from Western Europe, Yugoslavia, Greece, Cyprus and Turkey.

As the audience was entering the Estoril casino ballroom in evening attire, a small group of students stood outside protesting the "extravagance" of the affair.

One banner proclaimed, "down with vanity, down with exhibitionism."

Nixon's Vietnam Policy Due Testing By Mayors

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A group of liberal big-city mayors is trying to prevent a national mayors' conference from endorsing President Nixon's Vietnam policy.

Mayors and representatives of some 350 cities at the annual meeting of the U. S. Conference of Mayors vote today on a resolution backing Nixon's policy, which was approved 10 to 7 by a resolutions committee Sunday.

The resolution, submitted by John Driggs, Republican mayor of Phoenix, Ariz., urged that all U. S. military personnel "be withdrawn from South Vietnam by a date certain and not later than four months after the conclusion of an internationally supervised cease-fire throughout Indochina, the release of all prisoners and an accounting for all those missing in action."

These were the terms set out by Nixon in his latest speech on Vietnam.

Eleven liberals—all Democrats, led by Norman Mineta of San Jose, Calif., and John V. Lindsay of New York—offered a resolution updating one passed by the conference a year ago in which, for the first time, the group called for withdrawal by a specific date, Dec. 31, 1971. The liberals changed that date this year to Oct. 1, 1972.

They lost Sunday to a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats. Mineta told a news conference that the resolution committee decision was "not reflective of the beliefs of our constituencies. As far as numbers are concerned, those 10 cities are vastly outnumbered in population by the seven who voted for the specific withdrawal date."

Under conference rules, each member city has one vote, regardless of population.

Mayor Ralph Perk, Republican of Cleveland, who supports the pro-Nixon resolution, replied that the communities whose mayors back Nixon "would be unhappy to know that they have been included in the backwaters of American life. Those are productive and good-sized communities."

CRMWD Agrees To Help In Financing Facility

The Colorado River Municipal Water District is willing to help El Paso finance an expansion of its sewage treatment facilities.

Directors Tuesday afternoon, meeting at headquarters offices in Big Spring, authorized the president, P. C. Harbour, Odessa, and general manager, O. H. Ivie, Big Spring, to negotiate with El Paso Water Utilities and Public Service Board for a memorandum of agreement on $1,250,000 of backing.

This would open the way for the district to issue approximately $1,250,000 in revenue bonds as part of the city's share to obtain maximum federal aid. The bonds would be repayable to the district at the end of completion of construction.

The district has provided similar financial aid to the City of Andrews and the City of Midland.

The board also approved a new chart of organization, fixing potential salary to which staff members might progress on the basis of abilities and performance. The chart also is designed to utilize more fully supervisory personnel in spotting and encouraging promising talent within the ranks. Lyle Deffebach, Snyder, and H. S. Sampson, Odessa, members of the personnel committee, said they felt that the district had obtained sufficient stature and importance to the area that the organizational structure should be revaluated.

O. H. Ivie, general manager, said that the District would be represented in hearing by the U. S. Corps of (Army) Engineers and the governor's committee for the Colorado River Basin Water Quality Management study. He also reported that district lakes had gained about 3,500 acre-feet of water during the past week.

Your Good Health

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When my son's eight-grade physical education teacher disagrees with our orthopedic surgeon, what's a mother to do?

We took the boy in for a check after repeated complaints of a sore knee which gets progressively worse.

Th doctor said not to worry — he has Osgood Schlatters disease, but he recommended no physical education for two months. He also made a few choice remarks about knees, Little League elbows, etc. In other words, too much stress for kids in that age group.

But the coach wants the boy to participate, so I am anxious to know if any permanent harm will come from this condition. Do all young teenagers go through this with no ill effects? I don't want to pamper the kid unnecessarily.

I'm really in a quandary as to how to handle this problem with the school. — Mrs. B. K.

No, all teenagers don't get Osgood Schlatters disease, but enough of them do so that unless I print something about it every six months or so a new crop of inquiries piles up.

You see, at the moment you are reading this, a lot of other parents are skipping over it as being of no interest. Six months from now some of them are going to be writing, "What's this Osgood Schlatters disease, and why didn't anybody tell me about it before.?"

The disease involves an interruption in circulation to the large bone in the lower leg (the tibia).

Fortunately, it is a condition that corrects itself in time. The circulation is restored, and the bone becomes hard and strong again.

But, depending on the degree of the illness, unless the bone is relieved of strain, it can be permanently damaged.

There is no other treatment that is needed or will help, but taking strain off the bone while it is regaining strength is essential. It's a "must." In some cases people (including grade-school coaches) insist on "participating," and the parents get some lusty surgical bills and should be glad if the youngster doesn't wind up with gimpy leg anyway, with necrotic bone removed.

I repeat: there is no treatment other than rest for the required time, and there is no substitute for that.

How to handle the thing at school? I'd report the situation to your orthopedist at once. A note from the doctor to the coach should solve it. With proper treatment, the disability is not too long.

If the coach doesn't then come to his senses, the doctor has the choice of putting the boy's leg in a cast, or complaining to higher school authorities.

Some young folks are even put in wheelchairs for a time because of this condition.

Dear Doctor: On all cartons of cottage cheese appears this statement: "Contains vegetable gums and Crrageeenan."

Would you please tell us what these ingredients consist of and why they are in our cottage cheese? — R. W.

The vegetable gums are to preserve the consistency and the Carrageenan is to preserve the thickness. They are harmless substances used for such purposes in much of the packaged food.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What makes a person's heart pound so even when sitting quietly — one who doesn't drink coffee or hard drinks? — Mrs. A. M.

Tensed up nerves is the likeliest cause. Possibly a disturbance in rhythm. Have you been checked?

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "How To Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long-self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Entrapment By Divorcee In Pot Case

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) -- Shapely beverage agent Shirley Thompson had no business posing as a bar pickup to "lure men into the crime of smoking marijuana," the 1st District Court of Appeal has ruled.

In a 3-0 opinion written by Chief Judge Sam Spector, the court on Tuesday overturned a marijuana conviction obtained by Mrs. Thompson, a Palatka divorcee investigating dope traffic in St. Augustine on the request of St. Johns County Sheriff Dudley Garrett.

The court rescinded the possession of marijuana conviction and one-year jail sentence against Tom Spencer, 36, of St. Augustine.

Spencer was arrested in August 1970 after he met Mrs. Thompson in a bar and she accepted his invitation to go to his apartment. She testified that once they got there, he offered her some marijuana.

A roommate testified that the female agent and Spencer were "cuddling" on the couch when he walked in. He said he drove Mrs. Thompson to a store to buy rolling papers to smoke the marijuana.

"It is beneath the dignity of the State of Florida to allow female agents to appear to be of questionable virtue in order to lure men into committing the crime of smoking marijuana," Spector said.

The judge said an inherent inducement was involved in the apparent pickup.

"It would be naive of this court not to recognize the implied promise in return for which the appellant must commit a crime," Spector said.

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: "On the Verge" complained because his wife was "frigid." He described himself as "6 feet 2, well-built, head full of premature gray hair," etc.

Then "Sleeping Alone in Virginia" came back with the perfect rebut. She said, "There are no cold women — only clumsy men."

I am a man in my middle 50s, and I am far from good looking. In fact, I'm a little heavy, not very tall, and you might even call me homely, but I have been with plenty of women, and I have yet to find one that's frigid.

I am not saying this to brag, but once I was with a woman I had no trouble seeing her again. It's my opinion that if a woman is "frigid," it's because the man is selfish, impatient, inconsiderate or just plain stupid.

DOING ALL RIGHT

DEAR DOING: You are living proof of what I have always contended. The ear is the most important organ in love-making. If a woman hears the right things from her lover, almost everything else is incidental. And you certainly say the right things, Mister.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: In this morning's paper there was another story about a child who was lost in the mountains while camping with his family. Why does this tragedy have to occur every year?

I would like to pass on a suggestion which we have used in years gone by because we, too, were a camping family.

Each of us was equipped with a police whistle, which we wore around our necks. If one of us lost his dirtction or became separated from the others, he could just give a long toot to let us know where to look for him. Children being children, there was a lot of miscellaneous tooting at first, but after the novelty wore off, our whistles became as important to our camping trips as sleeping bags.

Hopefully others can benefit from this idea. EX CAMPER

DEAR EX: I'm sure many campers are aware of the toot method, but it doesn't hurt to remind those who don't. Thanks for writing.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me how to handle a problem that really upsets me.

My husband (I'll call him Dick) is a wonderful person, but when we go to visit my parents he walks in the door, says "Hello," and then he hits down and doesn't say anything else the rest of the time we are there.

My poor father tries so hard to make conversation with Dick, but he can't get a word out of him.

Dick has always been quiet, but this is inexcusable. He says he thinks the world of my parents, so what can I do?

HURT WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If he "thinks the world" of your parents, it's time he broke the sound barrier. For openers, suggest that he say something about the subject that interests both of them. Sports? Politics? Current events? Books? Entertainment? The person who sits in company like a wart on a pickle is making a statement. It's either, "I have nothing to say," or, "You aren't worth talking to."

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have heard of a new father passing out cigars to celebrate the birth of a baby, but what do you think of a grandmother passing out cigars for a new grandchild? This really happened. In fact, she has done it twice already. Is it proper?

WONDERING IN WELLSBO RO,PA.

DEAR WONDERING: I wouldn't criticize anyone for giving away anything in the spirit of joy and generosity.

Total Peril, Says Graham

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham told Jaycees Tuesday the nation is imperiled by "radical anarchists," "moral decadence" and the "growing military might" of its enemies.

"In my judgment,' Graham told the Jaycees' national convention," "in spite of the euphoria of a temporary peace and growing economic prosperity, we are now facing total peril.

"The very survival of the American democratic way of life is again at stake," said Graham, whose address was interrupted by frequent bursts of applause from the 10,000 delegates.

He said that whether "we like to admit it or not, there is an increasing moral darkness in the nation and a gathering political and military storm in the Middle East and a dozen other danger points that could threaten our very survival by the later part of this decade."

No Rock In Cave

STANTON, Mo. (AP) — There's piped music throughout Meramec Caverns on U.S. 66 here but you won't hear any rock and roll.

Bob Hudson, cave manager, states that type of music interferes with the tours.

"When tourists hear rock and roll they tend to rush things and get in an excited mood which makes it extremely difficult for the cave guides," Hudson says. "The guides lost control of tourists."

"The cave is on the rocks and the music can't be," he adds.

Mobile Home People Eye Safer Anchoring Ways

COLLEGE STATION — Operation Anchor-Safe, a nation-wide effort to eliminate wind damage to mobile homes, has been launched by the Mobile Homes Manufacturers Association (MHMA).

"Like other types of housing, mobile homes are subject to damage from storms and high winds," Mrs. Jane Berry, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said,

Mrs. Berry explained that the mobile home industry has begun nation-wide effort to encourage every state to adopt legislative requirements for mobile home anchoring. Presently, manufacturing firms are required to build their mobile homes to an established standard which provides minimum specifications for the home's body and frame construction as well as plumbing, heating and electrical systems.

She noted that while the purpose of anchoring is safety, mobile home owners will also realize savings in insurance premiums plus an increased resale price.

Mrs. Berry named four basic criteria for maximum mobile home protection: construction according to the American National Standard Institute's Standard for Mobile Homes; site improvement according to minimum requirements; proper blockage and set-up on the mobile home site; and proper anchorage to the home site.

Interested developers and consumers can secure suggested engineering drawings by sending a stamped eight-cent, self-addressed long envelope, plus 25 cents to Operation Anchor-Safe, MHMA, Box 56066, Chicago, Illinois 60656."

MAKING NEWCOMERS FEEL AT HOME

Two Services Here Geared To Offer Welcoming Hand

By DAVID PICKLE

Life can be miserable when you move into a new town. The people are unfamiliar, you don't know where to go to have a good time and you don't know what to expect from the city.

There are two services in Big Spring to make this transition easier for ingressing people. One is operated by Tito Arencibia and whife, Wanda, and the other is run by Mrs. Joy Fortenberry.

Either one or both services will come by to greet a newcomer to town. When they come by, they will bring gifts from local merchants and answer most of the questions that the person may have.

Arencibia said the questions concern anything from paddleball to tax rates. Most frequently asked questions are: How do people support the town? Are sports good here? What is the population of the city? How are the schools? Where are the schools? How high are the taxes? How is the hospital situation?

NO PLACE NAMED

When asked about the hospital situation, Arencibia does not give the name of a particular building or place. Instead, he will tell them how many hospitals there are in the city.

Arencibia gets the names of the newcomers exclusively from the utility companies in the city. Mrs. Fortenberry uses the utility company and also information from the managers of five of the larger apartment units in the city. Webb base housing, landladies and next door neighbors. She also runs an advertisement in The Herald three days each week.

Mrs. Fortenberry said that nine out of every 10 people she goes to see are very grateful for the welcome. Most of them, she said, have never been welcomed to a town before. "In so many places, their next door neighbor didn't even care if they were there," she said.

Arencibia agreed that people are generally happy to be welcomed to town. "Some of them are a little skeptical at first," he said, "but when they find out what you are doing, they roll out the red carpet."

Arencibia had some painful memories of what it was like to be stuck in a city with no friends or contacts. "When I moved to Gary, Ind.," he said, "it was months and months before I knew where to go and what to do. And being from Cuba and not being able to speak English too well didn't help."

Welcoming services such as the two in Big Spring are not exclusively local. "Welcome Wagon," a service which was formerly in Big Spring, is nationwide.

THEY FOUND OUT

When Arencibia goes to visit a family, he tries to emphasize the friendliness of Big Spring above all else. "I've gone to some places and told them how friendly Big Spring is, and they will say, 'Gosh, yea, we've only been here a couple of days and we can already tell it's a friendly place,' " he said.

"People from the base will tell you it's one of the friendliest towns they have been in," Arencibia said. He said relations between the air base and the community are considered to be excellent.

That is fortunate because Mrs. Fortenberry said most of the newcomers to the city are newly assigned to the base. Cosden probably ranks a distant second.

Arencibia said the most skeptical people are those who have come from the North. When he tried to give one of them their gift, the person refused it saying, "I don't want something for nothing."

The gifts accomplish two things for local businesses, Arencibia said. First, they allow them to greet the people to the city and make them feel wanted. Second, they may encourage the people to trade at stores from which they get their gifts.

MAN SURPRISED

"I came up to a door one time," Arencibia said, "and it had a 'No Soliciting' sign on it. I knocked on the door, anyway, and when the man opened it, he said, 'Didn't you see the No Soliciting sign. I told him I wasn't soliciting — I had a gift for him. He was surprised."

Some of the gifts are fairly valuable. Most of them include a free pass to a movie or a meal at a local restaurant, but Arencibia cited a captain at the air base who had an unexpected windfall because of his welcome.

He had just moved to town and was living in an unfurnished apartment. One of his gifts was a certificate from a local furniture dealer giving him a 10 per cent discount on anything in the house. He bought $1,800 worth of furniture, thereby saving himself $180.

Mrs. Fortenberry and Arencibia are not in competition. "There have been many times when he has helped me, and I have helped him," she said. "I've known him and his family for 18 years."

Arencibia said neither service will make an effort to steal away one of the other's sponsors. I fthe sponsor wants to change, Arencibia said that is fine.

"The main reason I'm in this is because I like to meet people," he said.

Life In Pen For Murder

VICTORIA, Tex. (AP) — District Court Judge Joe E. Kelly sentenced Walter D. Menn, 24, to life in prison for murder.

Menn had pleaded guilty in the fatal shooting of Kendall County Sheriff Douglas Kuebel last Sept. 24 when the officer answered a disturbance call near Boerne.

Prosecutors had said they would seek the death penalty but withdrew the demand after Menn entered his guilty plea.

The case was transferred here from Kendall County on a change of venue.
