Jap Smith Dies Following Heart Attack Thursday

Jap Smith, 56, a native of Collingsworth County and a resident here most of his life, died in the Parker County Hospital at Weatherford Friday, November 7, at 11:10 a.m. He had been stricken with a heart attack on the preceding day. Although he had been in ill health for several years, this was the first attack that he had suffered.

His body was returned to Wellington, and funeral services were held at the First Baptist Church Sunday afternoon, November 9. Officiating were the Rev. Chester O'Brien, pastor, the Rev. J. R. Lawson of Abilene, a former pastor here, and the Rev. Doyle Andrews of Decatur, a relative.

Pall bearers were Harold Drummond, Mike Burkhalter, Alfred Patterson, Otto Russell, Coleman Fike and Paul Brewer. Flower bearers were Mrs. Buster Hughs, Mrs. Mike Burkhalter, Mrs. Tom Bryant, Mrs. Sterling Payne, Mrs. Harold Drummond, Mrs. Cecil Elbert, Mrs. Bill Melton and Mrs. Otto Russell.

Burial was in the Wellington cemetery under the direction of the Kelso Funeral Home.

William Jasper Smith was born October 8, 1896, in the Buck Creek community, the son of Mrs. Ed C. Smith and the late Mr. Smith. Throughout his life, however, he had been known to his friends as Jap Smith.

Mr. Smith grew up in that community, attended the Buck Creek school, and as a young man united with the Friendship Baptist church there.

For a number of years he was associated with his father in operating a custom threshing machine in this area. In 1928, he helped to build the Farmers Cooperative Gin, still the largest in the county, and served as gin engineer from that time until 1945. He was credited as knowing as much about gin machinery and its operation as any man in this area.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith moved to Clarendon in August 1950 and operated a grocery store there until March of this year, when they returned to Wellington. A month ago they moved to Weatherford, planning to make their home there.

Mr. Smith became a member of the Odd Fellows Lodge in 1925 and had attained the highest offices in the three branches of men's work. He was a retired captain in the Canton, past chief patriarch in the Encampment, past noble grand of the local lodge, and for many years he was the Rebekah team captain. He was also a past District Deputy Grand Master, the highest district office.

Surviving Mr. Smith are his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Denzil Peeples of Wellington and Mrs. George Shadid of Borger; a step daughter, Mrs. Andrew Gosnell of Cisco; his mother, Mrs. Ed C. Smith of Wellington; and a sister, Mrs. Roscoe Land of Clarendon. There are 10 grandchildren.

Two Cars Stolen During Week End; Kendrick Pontiac Still Sought

The Sheriff's department is still hunting one of the two cars stolen in Wellington during the week end, Sheriff Hubert Mauldin said Wednesday morning.

Missing is the 1951 Pontiac belonging to Mickey Kendrick, Oldsmobile dealer, which was taken from the driveway of his home Saturday night, November 8.

The 1951 Plymouth stolen from Miss Opal Peggram, Wellington teacher, Tuesday, was recovered this side of Albuquerque, N. M., Saturday afternoon, Deputy Sheriff Bob Barnett reported. The car had been abandoned.

The keys had been left in the switch of both cars, Mr. Barnett said.

The Kendrick car is a light green four-door, bearing Texas license number AM6625. Another car belonging to Mr. Kendrick parked in front of the house, was not bothered.

Miss Peggram's car was taken from in front of the Claude Killingsworth home Thursday, Mr. Barnett said. It has been returned here ,and there was no apparent damage to it, Sheriff Mauldin said.

"We want to urge people to be more careful about removing keys from their car switches," Deputy Barnett warned. "We know that it's a pretty general habit to get out of your car and leave the key in the switch, but we cannot urge too strongly that you stop doing it. With times harder this fall than in several years, it is to be expected that there will be more car thefts throughout the whole area, and if your car is stolen, you stand a chance of either not getting it back at all or getting it back in damaged condition."

Rockets and Irish Play Traditional Game Friday

By JAMES GLASSCOCK

The Wellington Skyrockets will make a final appearence at home this Friday night when they meet their age-old rival the Shamrock Irish in a game that is going to shape into what appears to be a battle of battles.

The Irish have everything to gain and nothing to lose in this contest. They have won all their district games and will try to win this contest to keep their slate clean. Wellington will also be in there fighting to keep alive their district chances. The Rockets can still win the district 3-AA crown if Wellington beats Shamrock and Shamrock wins over Childress then it will be a toss-of the coin. And we stand a good chance to meet the winner of Quanah's district.

Even if this game were not a district game the mention of the Irish to the Rockets means a good game. This should be the game of the week in the Panhandle. Every time the Rockets and the Irish meet the fans who view the contest are assured of 48 minutes of good football and some of the most thrilling, chilling offensive and defensive plays to be seen in a long time.

Since the game will be played in Wellington, reserved seat tickets in both Wellington and Shamrock have probably been exhausted.

"Monday the Rockets took a day off to let the team rest," according to Coach McKnight. "This game with Shamrock is going to be good just because we play the Irish."

Last week the Rockets played to a 14-14 tie with Childress only to lose to the Bobcats by 1 first down. The Shamrock Irish journed to Memphis to play the Cyclones and defeated them 14-0.

The seating capicity at Powell Field in Wellington is around 5,000, and it is expected to be running over when opening gun sounds.

The weights of the two teams are about the same. Each team averages about 155 pounds in the line while the backfields weight is about 160.

"The Irish use the T and the Spread formation," said Coach McKnight.

Game time is 8:00 p. m.

Cake Walk and Pie Contest

Annual Quail Pie Supper and Coronation of Queen on Friday

The annual high school pie supper and coronation of the school queen will be held Friday, November 21, at 7:30 p. m. in the school gymnasium.

The program will be opened by the third and fourth grade students, with a musical description of the many nationalities that make up America.

Pies will be auctioned by auctioneers of the community. Pies will be worth 50 votes, cakes 75 and boxes 100. Five hundred votes will be given to the candidate chosen by the winner of the first place box, 300 for second place winner and 100 for third place.

New De Soto now on Display At Morton Motor Company

The 1953 De Soto, the most beautiful car in De Soto's 25-year history, will be introduced to the public Thursday, November 13, at Morton Motor Co., De Soto-Plymouth dealership.

The 1953 De Soto features a completely new body which makes the car longer, lower, wider and lovelier. Greatly increased visibility and a trunk which is 44 per cent larger are other innovations in the new De Soto.

Special events have been planned in connection with the showing of the distinguished new De Soto, Floyd Morton, head of the dealership, said. (Every effort will be made to accommodate all visitors who wish to drive the new De Soto, he added.)

Available with either the sensational, 160-horsepower Fire Dome V-8 engine or the famous Powermaster Six, the 1953 De Soto offers a host of features such as Full Power Steering, Power Brakes, Fluid-Torque Drive, Solex safety-tinted glass, and electric window lifts.

"We're expecting a huge turnout to see this great new car," Mr. Morton said. "Everybody is invited. We want as many people as possible to see the 1953 De Soto. It's the new smartest car on the road."

"The most beautiful automobile in De Soto's 25-year history is the new 1953 model which goes on display in our showroom today", said Mr. Morton, De Soto-Plymouth Dealer at Wellington.

ANTIQUE TOYS—Nine-year-old Paula Kassover plays with 200-year-old toys at the New York Antiques Fair. Seen above are delicately carved pieces of toy furniture, dishes and a stove for a French Provincial kitchen of two centuries ago. Other exhibits at the fair include over $25,000,000 worth of antiques from all over America, France, Denmark and Italy.

Mr. Morton emphasized that the "distinguished new De Soto has an entirely new body. It's longer, lower, wider and lovelier," he said, "and a car with truly great performance."

Available with either the sensational 160-horsepower V-8 engine — featuring America's most powerful engine design — or the rugged, economical Powermaster Sir, the new 1953 De Soto offers such features as Full Power Steering, Power Brakes, Fluid-Torque Drive, electric window lifts and safety-tinted Solex glass.

The first car to offer a functional air-vent hood, De Soto retains that unique advantage in new form in the 1953 model. Much greater visibility and a trunk which is 44 percent larger are other new features of the 1953 De Soto.

"There are so many things new about the 1953 De Soto that the only way it can be appreciated is to see it and drive it," Mr. Morton declared. The dealership has been specially decorated to show the new car and will remain open from 8:00 a.m. to 6 p.m.

100,000 Texans Are Overweight

AUSTIN — Are you packing too much fatty beef for the size of your frame? If so, you're probably one of the 100,000 or so Texans contributing to what State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox calls a "significant public health problem."

The number of obese (dangerously overweight) people in the state is growing, the doctor says, and they're laying themselves wide open to trouble.

For instance, if you are carrying too much fatty tissue you're twice as apt to get diabetes, and three times as likely to have heart trouble. Furthermore, if you get arthritis it will hurt you a good deal more because of your obese condition.

Many other conditions are made worse by a person's being too fat.

"Obesity is just as serious a form of malnutrition as starvation in the long run," the health officer will tell you. Ask why some people get fat while some don't and he'll tell you the plain and simple reason is that usually the fat ones eat more than their systems need or want.

"Obesity is exactly the opposite of starvation. Overweight people eat too much. Emaciated people don't get enough. Both types are malnourished."

But why do they eat too much? There may be some causes. The glands may not be working just right. They may be having emotional trouble.

"Dietary habits perhaps established in childhood. Part of the reason might be that an overly full stomach gives them a sense of emotional relief. They might be trying to satisfy an emotonal hunger as well as a physical one."

The best way to fight obesity is to cut down the caloric intake, he says. But to do this you've got to have a real desire to have normal weight.

"This means," he explains, "the underlying emotional factors which created the obesity must be corrected by a greater urge, such as avoiding an early death."

When you get this desire you'll be willing to have your doctor prescribe a reducing diet and medicine if necessary and you will follow his advice.

"If you don't," Dr. Cox cautioned, "you'll probably find an early grave."

Mental, Nervous Diseases Real Problem in Texas

AUSTIN—Mental disorders today represent a real problem and it is estimated that almost fifty per cent of all hospital beds are filled by persons suffering from mental or nervous diseases, declares Dr. Geo. Cox, State Health Officer.

It thus appears that modern civilization is exacting a terrific toll. High speed living with its cruel exactions upon nature, is responsible for a large part of the trouble. But improper personal conduct must also shoulder much of the blame. The fact is that nearly fifty per cent of the patients entering the hospitals for mental disorders are there because of organic or toxic causes.

For example, general paralysis is the direct cause of many mental troubles in males entering hospitals. This condition is an organic disease of the brain due to the germ responsible for syphillis. It is a preventable disease. Early and effective treatment of acquired syphilis will block the end results of general paralysis in the insane.

The excessive use of alcohol is responsible for a number of mental disorders. Alcohol and syphilis combined are responsible for approximately one-fifth of the hospitalized insafities. Nevertheless, improper living habits continue to impair many brains. Insufficient sleep, neglect of bodily care and constistent overforcing of nervous energy are the pitfalls to avoid in this connection.

Nature demands that her fundamental laws be at least reasonably observed. A constant outraging of the physiological economy takes its toll not only in bodies but in minds also. Insanities and lesser nervous disorders could be spectacularly reduced if this fact was more generally respected. Training for mental health must be started in childhood as that is the time when corrections can be made to the best advantage.

Draft to Take 2,184 Men in December Call

AUSTIN — State draft boards will be called upon early in December to furnish 2,814 men for the armed forces during January 1953, Lt. Col. Morris S. Schwartz, deputy state Selective Service director, said here Thursday.

Authority for the action was received in state draft headquarters Wednesday from national Selective Service headquarters. The January quota for the entire country is 48,000.

Colonel Schwartz pointed out that the January call is bigger than any monthly quota received during 1952. Large quotas of recent months, he said, are necessary to replace the "thousands of men getting out of the service."

The armed services at this time are maintaining their strength, not building up to a higher strength, Colonel Schwartz said. He pointed to figures showing number of Texans separated and number taken into the armed forces during September, latest month for which statistics are available.

"In September, we received notification of the separation of 4,612 Texans from the armed services," Colonel Schwartz said. "Our records show that 4,613 Texans were taken into the armed forces by enlistment and induction."

Colonel Schwartz said he expected more or less the same situation to prevail until next spring, provided the world situation and U. S. policy remain the same.

State draft headquarters also announced physical examination of around 7,500 men in December and probably another 7,500 in January. December examination calls already have been sent to boards and January examination call is expected to be sent in late November.

Child of Former Residents Drowns

Word has been received here of the death of Larry Eugene Hardin, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Hardin of Warrenton, Oregon, formerly of this county, who was drowned when he was swept out to sea by a big wave from the beach near that town. The following additional information was contained in a newspaper clipping received by Mrs. Vona Gray of Wellington:

"Coast Guardsmen from Point Adams station said the big wave, which endangered the lives of many seashore visitors, swept 50 to 75 feet farther up the beach than had other waves. It happened at high tide.

"The Hardins, their two children were on the beach when the wave hit. Hardin grasped his wife and clung to a stump to keep from being pulled in, and his brother saved Wesley Hardin, 5. Larry, witnesses said, was sitting on a log still farther from the normal wave crest when the big swell reached him and carried him to sea.

"Some 100 persons were patrolling the beach Sunday afternoon looking for the body, and a Coast Guard patrol plane had been summoned to aid the search."

Mrs. Hardin is the former Bertha Mae Sutton. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Sutton, moved from here to Oregon only last month. Mr. Hardin's family also formerly lived here, but his mother now resides in Wichita Falls.

Reading and Lighting and 'Rithmetic

Look what some figure-happy statistician just found out. From kindergarten through high school, school kids have to plow through a pile of books 18 feet high. A photograph taken of this pile of books would make your eyes ache.

Close visual work is hard on the eyes. A New York State survey of 83,000 students showed only one in 20 kids had vision defects at kindergarten age. By senior high, eye troubles affected six students in 20.

Good lighting is one readily available means of making seeing easier for these students. Lighting engineers find that over half the schools still use old, globe-type fixtures that give only one-sixth the light that ought to be on the desks.

In those schools that have installed modern lighting, teachers report that students are more eager to study, are happier and require less discipline. The teachers find their jobs easier.

To help schools analyze what light is needed, General Electric engineers work out various lighting systems in model classrooms where effects can be demonstrated and compared. A booklet is offered, "Making Schoolwork Easier on the Eyes," in which current practices are summed up. (Write the Lamp Division, Nela Park, Cleveland, Ohio.)

It is the aim of General Electric to translate its engineering help into public service at the community level.

You can put your confidence in—

Make This Hunting Season a Safe One

Most hunting accidents could be prevented if hunters would observe the simple rules of safety with firearms. "Trigger happy" and careless hunters, says R. E. Callender, wildlife conservation specialist for the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, not only endangers the lives of every other hunter in the woods but also cause much damage to wildlife.

Practicing safety with guns in the fields or woods then, says the specialist, is just a good conservation practice and applies to both human and wildlife. It is also very important at this time that hunters be doubly careful with fire. A wildfire can easily wipe out onl only the wildlife of an area but destroy vegetation that is so badly needed at this time for livestock, says Callender.

He says records kept of hunting accidents shows that two-thirds of them are caused by humans in the line of fire; mistaking humans for game and hunting with the safety catch off on the rifle.

He points out that good sportsmanship is just using good manners while on the hunt. It includes using the right gun for the right game, hunting only in season and not taking more game than can be used even though the bag limit may permit a larger take. Bird hunters, he says, should use a trained dog to retrive crippled birds. The rights of others are always respected and permission is always secured before going onto another's property.

Here are Callender's suggestions for making the hunt a safe one. Treat every gun as if it were loaded; never carry a loaded gun in the automobile; be sure there are no obstructions in the gun barrel or action; carry the gun so that the hunter always has control of the direction of the muzzle, even if he should stumble; never pull the trigger until sure of the target and never point a gun at anything you do not intend to shoot.

Loaded guns, says Callender, should never be left unattended and hunters should always unload guns before climbing over a fence or into a tree. And he adds, bullets fired at flat, hard surfaces, or at objects on the surface of water may ricochet and hit objects not thought to be in the line of fire. Last but not least, he says gunpowder and alcohol should never be mixed for the result can be disastrous.

And finally, believes Callender, the intelligent hunter is always thinking about how he can aid in conserving and even building up the wildlife resources of his favorite hunting areas. By being careful, preventing accidents and fires and by always being the good sportsman, wildlife resources can be onscerved and improved and relations between the landowners and the hunter can be given a big boost in the right direction, says Callender.

Bible Comment
FOR NOVEMBER 16

Revelations Is a Source of Inspiration

The Book of Revelations came out of a period of crisis in the early days of Christianity. It was during a crisis when the faith of the disciples was being put to a severe test in the fires of a terrible persecution.

The book was written to encourage Christians, to help them to be firm and have a sense of God's presence. It was meant to offer assurance of ultimate deliverance and blessedness if they endured the test.

According to biblical scholars, the book was written in the time of the reign of Domitian about 90 A. D. The totalitarian power of the state was dominant. It was a rule of insane power that demanded the worship of the emperor as a test of loyalty to the state.

It was not enough that the Christian citizen be a loyal citizen of the empire. He was called upon to prove it further by setting up a man, and a very bad man at that, in the place of God.

In many ways it was no sterner a test than many have faced in our own times. As the gas chambers, mass executions and ovens of destruction will prove.

If the Book of Revelations is difficult to interpret, it is because of the dangers that threatened author and readers in those days of persecution. But, if it is difficult to understand, it s also sublime and moving in its beauty. There is an unfailing sureness in the assertion of God's eternal power. And the fact that Christianity did survive the powers that sought to destroy it is proof enough that the book did bring strength and inspiration to those persecuted Christians who needed it so badly.

It is a book for our time as well as for theirs.

LOOKING AHEAD

By GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

LET'S HELP THE PRESIDENT

The election of a new president is only a beginning step by the citizenry. If we are to secure the greatest good from the new administration, citizens will have to make participation in government one of their major responsibilities. At no time in my memory has there been a more universal interest in political affairs or a more active participation by so many citizens. This is a highly encouraging fact. But it will not bring lasting benefit for the nation unless it carries over into the weeks and months ahead.

We could be assured of the best possible operation of our government, and the greatest degree of security, if we could apply the Biblical admonition, "It is more blessed to give than to receive," in our basic relationship to our government at the local, state and federal levels. I'm not thinking of taxes in the sense of giving; but of personal intellect, personal interest, personal action, personal know-how; and above all, the making of personal sacrifices for the common good.

A CHALLENGE

The people who founded this nation and gave us the great government documents, the Declaration of Independence and the U. S. Constitution, did so through the making of personal sacrifices. Our new president has asked for and needs the intelligent help of every American. There has never been such an overwhelming accumulation of grave problems confronting the leadership of our nation.

None of these problems has been solved merely by the election of General Eisenhower to the presidency. They will require the combined best wisdom and farsightedness of the American people. Wisdom is based on logic, which is based on truth or facts, which are based on study. The challenge then, as our new president prepares to take over, is to become better informed on the problems and then to make whatever sacrifice is necessary of time and effort to help find the right solution for them.

THE WAR PROBLEM

What to do about Korea and the looming threat of World War III is perhaps the most acute problem facing the nation. Last week Dr. Melchior Palyi, the noted authority on international finance, who is now associated with the new School of Amercan Studies at Harding College, spoke in our auditorium on the subject: "The Global Showdown Ahead." He is convinced, after extensive recent travel and study abroad, that Russia would not dare attack the United States in the foreseeable future.

Dr. Palyi believes Russia would end the Korean war and release Eastern Germany if the U. S. and her Western allies would give assurance they would not arm Germany and Japan. He has studied the grave international problem and is fulfilling his American citizenship responsibility by presenting his opinions publicly. Though his opinions may be contrary to those of other recognized authorities, they will be beneficial to the public's thinking, and finally to the President of the United States if they are heard and read by other people.

ACTIVE INTEREST NEEDED

What we do about the Korean war effects the future life and prosperity of every American. And so does the solution of the other major problems. That's why we should, all of us, continue to take an active interest in those problems.

Here are some problems toward which our best minds, and all our minds, should be directed daily: How much socialism can our way of life contain and still give individual freedom and the opportunity for progress to all citizens? Where and how can the expense of government be cut, so that our tax burden will be reduced? What's the best way to root out corruption and keep it out of public life? How can a closer, mutually beneficial harmony be achieved between American employers and employees?

This column and all the resources of the Harding College National Education Program will be devoted to examining facts relating to such problems in the months ahead. This is one way we can help the new president in his terribly important job.

His wife said he hadn't any business kissing any woman but her, and he agreed. However, he said he felt there was a lot of difference between business and pleasure.

Woman's best asset is man's imagination.

Isn't it peculiar that no matter how busy we are we always see to it that our auto is kept in good repair?

Mother nature can't jump from summer to winter without a fall, or winter to summer without a spring.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

About all the rain did was get the dust out of the atmosphere; but it did prove to many young children that it CAN rain in Wellington.

Before the election ended I became very weary hearing radio commentators discuss and pollsters write about "the great undecided vote." Liked an expression of the Star-Telegram much bettee. The Star-Telegram called it "the great silent vote." That is exactly what it was.

I have won something; but I don't know what it is. I recall the time, place and what the wager was about; but I do not remember what the reward is supposed to be. Since both of us plan to be in New Orleans next April, I think, (also hope), it is a dinner at Antoines. If that is it, the poor Minnesota editor does not know that I intend to take my wife and son and my daughter and son-in-law on the trip. Anyhow he sent me a column of his October 13 paper right after Eisenhower was elected. Here is how Herman Roe described the wager in his NORTHFIELD (Minnesotai NEWS:

"Ike Leads In Texas, Poll Finds." That was the headline of a pake one news stary with a Dallas, Texas, dateline in the Minneapolis Sunday Tribune. Here's hoping the Nov. 4 election returns from Texas confirm this poll.

The editor of The News rarely makes an election wager but when a Democratic editor from Texas who has been active in politics in the Lone Star state for many years offered to make a wager that his state would be in the Eisenhower column this year he was told, "It's a bet. And I hope I lose it."

Incidentally, the wager was made at a luncheon table at the Blackbushe airport near London, England!

We should not have lost that 14 to 14 game with Childress last Friday and every player on the Rocket squad knows it; so the least said about that the better. But this can be said: It was the cleanest and best officiated game the Bobcats and the Rockets have ever played against each other. There were only five penalties in all — three against Childress and two against the Rockets and none of these were of the premeditated dirty type such as slugging, etc. Let's hope that this high type of sportsmanship can continue through the years. We have maintained it with Shamrock for over fifteen years. We can do it with Childress if both clubs have that type of football as their goal.

* * *

But as usual this writer does have one gripe. That is against the announcer coaching from the loud speaker on first downs once it became evident that first downs would decide the game. He announced the first downs time after time when Childress led 9 to 8; but when the Rockets made it 10 to 9 in their favor, there was a loud silence about first downs until the Bobcats forged ahead 11 to 10. Then the coaching began all over again. There ought to be some sort of a rule enabling the game officials to shut off this sort of coaching from the loudspeaker such as calling formations in advance of the play. A loud speaker announcer is not a radio announcer. He should announce what has happened and never be allowed to divulge information affecting strategy or tactics. And this goes for the Wellington loud speaker announcers, too, who have done the same thing in other years.

More Navy -

Here are some more Navy items that I promised to inflict on the long-suffering readers of this column:

Yesterday Captain Clark of the USS Wasp announced that Exercise "Mainbrace" was completed and a mighty cheer went up from the officers and editors who were sitting over coffee in the wardroom, and we suspected that an even lustier cheer went up from the enlisted men in other parts of the ships for it meant three days liberty for at least one third of the personnel.

Announcement was made over the Wasp's speaking system that we were steaming by the white cliffs of Dover. We rushed topside to see the beautiful cliffs that have been heralded in story and song through the centuries. It was a much better view than the one we had obtained crossing from Dover to Calais or returning from Calais to Dover. We steamed alongside their entire length, whereas before we had been departing or approaching. It was a bright sunny day, rare for the English channel, and the sight gave us a feeling of something strange and far away and long ago mixed with an equally strong feeling of something near and dear that is a part of our blood heritage.

* * *

As we steamed into Portsmouth harbor the Wasp gave the traditional twenty-one gun salute. That is something that also gives you a feeling of pride and emotion. I had stopped near a gun turret on my way to the ready room, and had no idea of what was about to happen, and then the first blast went off and nearly burst my left ear drum. I stopped up my ears and opened my mouth wide as I had been instructed and stood there fascinated to see what would happen next. The officer in charge of the salute stood there with a satisfied, pleased military look on his face as he looked at his watch and rhythmically shouted fire at regular intervals. But something happened about the ninth salvo. One of the guns did not fire on schedule. After an anxious interval the officer shouted fire again. Another gunner thought he was talking to him, so he cut loose. The result was not the regularly spaced boom-boom-boom that we had been hearing. The delayed gun fired and the sound was a quick boom-boom. The officer looked horrified and screamed d-- it to hell. Then he resumed his military look, not pleased this time, and continued to shout fire at regular intervals. I stepped inside the ship and took my hands from my ears and placed them on the lower part of my stomach so that I could laugh like I wanted to.

* * *

We anchored outside the docks at Portsmouth and the tiny launching crafts jumped up and down in the water. The shore patrol boarded the first small boat. The editors were given a high priority. We boarded the second. Admiral Ingersoll cancelled the rest of the trips ashore due to the high seas, and everybody else had to wait until the Wasp docked. We did not know about his orders, and the editors would not have cared if they had known. We did not mind the rough water. We just wanted to get on land and get to London to see Piccadilly once more.

* * *

We boarded the train at Portsmouth for London. We rode first class as contrasted to one trip third class from London to Glasgow. Two sailors were entertaining two English girls in the compartment right next to ours. They were quite friendly in the first five minutes. Soon the shades of the compartment were down and the inquiring editors never learned about how friendly they were.

* * *

We arrived in London to discover that the annual automobile show was on in full swing. We could not get rooms at any of the hotels that are centrally located. Finally the American Express found rooms for all of us in a nice hotel about twenty minutes out from the central portion of the city.

* * *

Upon arriving in London, we were informed that those of us who desired such transportation would be flown back to the United States by Naval transport. Twenty-two of us jumped at the chance. Fourteen elected to spend two more weeks aboard a warship on maneuvers rather than fly over the Atlantic with only a life belt at our backs and six life boats in the plane. This does not apply to three editors. One editor who disliked to fly answered for three of his companians who were absent, and it turned out that they wanted to get home as quickly as the rest of us regardless of wind or high water. We chuckled over what these other three must have said to this particular editor on the long voyage back. The editors are accustomed to speaking their minds, and they can learn as fast as sailors about arious means of putting an unsocial, egotistical person in his proper place.

* * *

The flight date cut our stay in London short by a day and a half; so we rushed to do as much as we could in the limited time allotted to us. We rushed on a tour that included the Tower of London, Trafalgar Square, Downing St., Fleet Street Guildhall and many other places of historic interest. But the big regret of three of us was that we missed seeing the inside of St. Paul's Cathedral. We had intended to attend services there on Sunday morning. We had reserved it for Sunday morning, but the stepped-up plans of the naval flight eliminated our chance.

* * *

Herman Baggenstoss of Tracy City, Tennessee, and this writer did get to go shopping on the morning of the day before we left. Mr. Baggenstoss has been through the Panhandle in other days and knows the Studers of Canadian and Amarillo quite well. I bought some English bone china for my wife and he bought woolens and a fly rod for himself and we set out for Buckingham Palace to see the changing of the guards.

* * *

The changing of the guards is something you need to see to realize its significance. The significance is not in the precision of the horse guards, the timing of the musicians, the splendid looks of the footguards. The significance is in the faces of the British people who assemble on the square opposite Buckingham Palace to see the event. You look around and past the American tourists, seamen and airmen and at the faces of the British who have only an egg a week to eat and a pound of meat, and all of a sudden you realize how important this traditional and historic ceremony is to these people who have shown such courage and such fortitude in the defense of freedom through the centuries.

* * *

But you get another notion in England. The Scots are different; but the English just plain don't work enough for the shape that they are in. They open their stores late in the morning. They close them early in the afternoon. The well-to-do spend hours in such pursuits as golf, dog racing, yachting, horse raising and other things. And those who are lesser well-to-do spend their time in riding the trains to the seashore, riding bicycles to a picnic, and other activities. It is my opinion that they spend about half as much time really working as does the average citizen of the United States.

* * *

The people eat better in France. They get up earlier to go to work. But when the next showdown comes you can depend upon it that Great Britain and the Commonwealth of Canada, Australia and New Zealand will be our best and staunchest allies.

* * *

The editors flew from London to Port Lyautey in French Morocco, Africa. The Navy took us over to Rabat, the capital of French Morocco. There we had a chance to see the ancient walled city and the new city on the outside. They raise cork, dates, goats, etc., in a country that reminds you of certain parts of Mexico where it rains part of the year and is dry all of the rest.

* * *

From Africa we flew to the Azores and landed at the Island of Teceira which is the second largest island of the Azores and on which is located the largest naval base which the United States has leased from the Portuguese. There I met Capt. J. B. McCarley, who is second in command of the base. Formerly he was a reporter on the Amarillo Times and later on the Abilene Reporter-News. He asked to be remembered to S. B. Whittenburg and T. E. Johnson. He was hungry to hear of news of the Panhandle-Plains and insisted that I ride back to the plane with him so that we could talk.

Norwood Girls Defeat Granite

Samnorwood girls defeated Granite girls by a score of 66 to 48 in a game that was fast and unusually rough for girls. Bonnie Kidwell and Goldie Tippie tied for high point for the night with 25 points each. Hogan was next high with 20 points to her credit.

Norwood girls showed lots of promise in their fifth win of the year with Sue Pritchard, Sue Moody, Janis Oldham, and Shirley Brown turning in a good job at guard positions.

The Eaglettes have averaged 51 points per game in the five played.

Samnorwood boys were defeated by the Granite boys 40-16.

LONE STAR Agriculture

Released by The Texas Department of Agriculture

By John C. White, Commissioner

FIVE-YEAR FARM OUTLOOK

A nation-wide survey has been recently completed which offers some reassuring figures to those who fear we may have reached a peak in agricultural production.

The study indicates that in the next four or five years, farmers of the nation can produce about 20 per cent more than they did in 1950, and 18 per cent more than in 1951 if there is a need for such a volume, and provided that steps necessary to assure it are taken.

Agriculture is the foundation on which to build for national defense. No one can dispute that high and efficient production of food is necessary if any government is to survive — in war or peace. The survey was prepared as a possible guide for future agricultural plans.

This report of capacity to produce in a defense period is the combined work of Land-Grant colleges and Departments of Agriculture of the various states. Federal and state workers, thoroughly familiar with farming in their areas, prepared the report. The results represent neither a goal nor a forecast of future production. It does, however, indicate potential capacity, or the rate at which farmers could increase production under favorable conditions.

The farmer could, under "favorable conditions", produce about a fifth more of both crops and livestock than he did in 1950. Nationally, the projected increase is based on estimates that he could increase hog output 12 per cent above that of 1951, cattle and calves, 14 per cent; milk, 12 per cent; commercial broilers, 30 per cent; eggs, 12 per cent; corn, 21 per cent; wheat, 40 per cent; rice, 18 per cent; cotton, 11 per cent; soybeans, 14 per cent; tobacco, 11 per cent, and potatoes, 24 per cent. Labor costs and improved farming practices would be an important factor in realizing these figures.

The study further indicates that the South has the greatest possibility of increasing production percentagewise. The North Central, Mountain, Northeast and Pacific regions follow in that order. More than half the increase could come from feed and livestock. The rest might come largely from food grains, fruits, vegetables and cotton.

Know Your Soils Testing A Big Aid

COLLEGE STATION — There is no point in swapping even dollars. But, when you can swap one for eight, that is good business. Mr. Ed Detrixhe, a Hemphill county wheat farmer made that kind of a swap this year on his wheat crop.

Hemphill county agent Walter Grist says it all started as a result of a soil test. Mr. Detrixhe submitted a soil sample to the Texas A. & M. College System's Extension Service Soils Laboratory and then carried out the recommendations on his farm. M. K. Thornton, agricultural chemist in charge of the lab, makes recommendations on fertilizer usage and cropping practices as a part of the soil testing service.

Here is the story as reported by Grist. Mr. Detrixhe applied 30 pounds of nitrogen per acre to 80 acres of wheat and when he had finished combining, he found that this field had produced an average of 35 bushels per acre against a 11 to 14 bushel average for the unfertlized acreage. That increase of better than 20 bushels per acre paid him $8 in return for each $1 spent for fertilizer, and Grist believes the 35 bushels is some kind of a record for dryland wheat.

Considering that the average Texas farmer last year made an average net return of $4 for every $1 spent for fertilizer, Ed Detrivhe did exceptionally well when he doubled this figure, says Grist. It goes without saying, adds Grist, that Mr. Detrixhe is sold on soil testing.

Local county agents can supply information on how to take and submit soil samples to the laboratory for testing.

Taxes Taking Risk Money

WASHINGTON — Individuals feel the jolt when they pay their personal income taxes but few of them, says the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, realize the blow dealt business by the payment of present-day tax rates.

"At a time," says the Chamber, "when we need vast expansion to meet defense needs and to satisfy civilian requirements, high taxes are making it difficult to get money for increased production. Most profits have shrunk, and out of profits come funds for investment in business.

"People who have money to invest are hesitant to risk it when the government is standing by to take a disproportionate share of any earnings."

Farmers were a bit worried for awhile when they read the newspaper headline stating that the cream of the country is going to Reno to be separated.

First Down Costs Rockets Game With Bobcats

By JAMES GLASSCOCK

The hard-luck Wellington Skyrockets gave the Childress Bobcats a two touchdown lead and then roared back to a 14-14 tie, before an estimated crowd of 4,000. The Rockets lost the ball game by only one first down. It appeared at first that Childress was on top. They intercepted one pass and got a touchdown and used another pass to add on to their lead. Wellington got a touchdown late in the second quarter, as the half ended.

In the second half the Rockets displayed a new surge of power and ripped for a TD in the third quarter. The new Rocket attack was savage and ground out yardage when it was needed. This second-half Rocket defense and offense looked like the Rockets of old.

To pick out individual stars would be hard. Such great runs and tackles were made by Clyde Ingram, Dennis Holliman, Lonnie Wood, Jimmy Leggitt, Gene Baird, Ed Bawcom, Harold Moore, Floyd Hood, Walter Kiesling, Jack Eads, Jerry Drummond, Charlie Johnson, (who was instrumental in the first Rocket TD) Calvin Lacy, Doolen Starkey, Doug Duncan, Phil Handley, Vesta Orr, and Frank Jones. Each of these boys deserves praise. They played their hearts out and gave all they could and a little more. Each in his own right fought and held precious yardage and one thing about these boys they worked as a team. They asked no quarter and gave none.

In the first quarter with about three minutes left Lonnie Wood tried a pass to Charlie Johnson. The ball was intercepted by Lindley Davis, right halfback for Childress, and scored from 20 yards out. Perry Morren kicked the extra point. The score at the end of the first quarter was 7-0.

The second quarter saw Childress strike through the air for pay dirt. The first time Childress got the ball in the quarter they marched 54 yards in 12 plays for the T.D.

La Noel Castleberry pitch out to Perry Morren who threw a pass to Don Raney for 11 yards and the second Bobcat TD. Perry Morren again kicked the last point Childress got in the game.

At this time Wellington had not added the fuel yet. In the same quarter the Rockets started their display of power. Wellington got the ball on their own 35 yard line and after 7 plays Charlie Johnson threw a pass to Clyde Ingram for 42 yards and a Skyrocket touchdown. The Rocket fans went wild as Wellington scored. Doolen Starkey, extra point booter, split the uprights for the extra point. Score 14-7.

There was a colorful half time ceremony performed by the two bands.

As the second half began Doug Duncan kicked off for the Rockets and Perry Morren of Childress fumbled. Dennis Holliman recovered for Wellington and paved the way for the second Rocket TD.

Beautiful running by Duncan, Ingram, Woods, and Moore set the ball on the 35 yard line of Childress. After about 5 plays Doug Duncan raced around end for 35 yards and the last Rocket touchdown.

Score was 14-13 with try for extra point to come.

Doolen Starkey, left tackle for the Rockets, kicked what is known as he perfect extra point. The game was dead-locked 14-14 with about 9 minutes left in the third quarter. Score at the end of the third quarter, 14-14.

The fourth and final quarter saw a stubborn Rocket defense and offense go to work. The ball changed hands often whether the Skyrockets had the ball or Childress had it the Rockets looked very powerful.

Late in this quarter the Rockets nearly won the game on a safety. Perry Morren backed behind his own goal and was nearly trapped by a host of Wellington linemen.

As the game came to a close the Bobcats wasted time and yardage to keep possession of the ball.

Final score 14-14, Childress winning on first downs.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

CREATIVE WORKS PROTECTED BY COPYRIGHT

The United States copyright laws give to authors, composers and artists the exclusive right to their works for a period of twenty-eight years. During that time others are prohibited from copying or reprinting such works without permission of the copyright owners. Copyrights are renewable once for a second period of twenty-eight years.

Works that may be protected under our copyright laws include books (not only bound volumes, but also pamphlets, leaflets and even single sheets); periodicals (newspapers, magazines, reviews, bulletins, proceedings of societies, serial publications, etc., which appear at regular intervals of less than a year); contributions to periodicals; lectures, sermons or addresses prepared for oral delivery; musical compositions and dramatic or dramatico-musical compositions.

Lawyers say the principal steps to be taken in securing a copyright include (1) properly marking the work with a notice of copyright, (2) publishing the work, and then (3) filing with the Register of Copyrights in Washington an application for registration of the copyright. A relatively small fee and a specified number of copies of the work must accompany the application.

It should be noted that the marking must precede publication, and that both of these steps must precede the filing of the application.

Failure to incorporate the notice of copyright before publication or to set it up in proper form or to place it in the proper place on the works will result in abandonment to the public of the claimant's rights. He will lose his copyright. Requirements vary in respect to the form of the notice, and the place on the works at which it should appear — depending on the nature of the works, whether they are published or unpublished, and other factors.

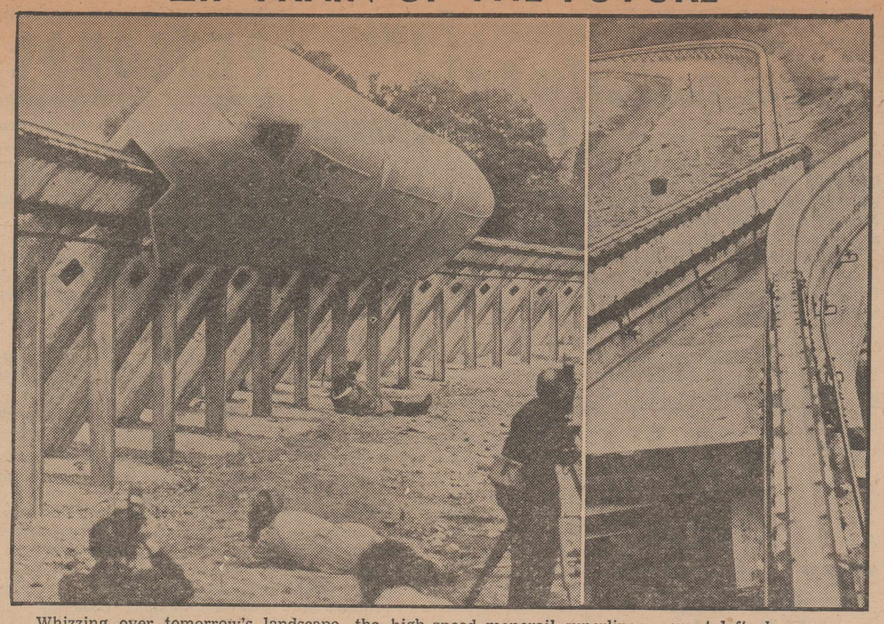

On some works it is mandatory that the notice contain the word "Copyright" or the abbreviation "Copr."; on certain other works, the letter "C" enclosed within a circle may be used instead. On some works the notice must include the year in which the work was first published.

In every notice the copyright claimant must be identified. In some cases the full name of the claimant is required; in others the initials or monogram, or an identifying mark or symbol, is sufficient. The name or mark may be that of the creator of the work, or of one to whom the copyright has been assigned.

In the case of a book, for example, the copyright notice should be placed on the title page or the page immediately following in every published copy of the book, and should consist of the word "Copyright" or the abbreviation "Copr.", the year of publication and the name of the copyright proprietor.

If the proprietor is the author, he should use his actual name and not a pseudonyn or pen name. The application for registration of the copyright should be filed promptly after the first publication of the book, together with two copies of the book and a fee of $4.00.

ZIP-TRAIN OF THE FUTURE

Whizzing over tomorrow's landscape, the high-speed monorail superliner seen at left above may be the railroad's answer to challenge of the airplane. Built near Cologne, Germany, for test runs only, the model car is two-fifths normal size, travels 100 miles per hour. Backed by Swedish millionaire Axel Wenner-Gren, the new train was kept secret by the Rail Transportation Research Society until this year. At right is the unique monorail track at a switching point which is set to curve right. Electric power is fed to the engine through metal bands on the rails. Rollers, built into a deep slot on the engine's underside, ride on the one rail which is six feet above ground. Full-scale models are expected to travel 210 miles per hour.

Widespread Use of Soil Conditioners Not Advised

He points out that research work dealing with the conditioners is being conducted at many different locations over the country but since the materials are only now becoming available in quantity, additional informaton is needed before recommendations can be made. The work being done by the Texas Station is a part of a southwide project.

Dr. Page says the "soil conditioners" are chemicals prepared for the purpose of binding and stabilizing small soil particles into larger particles which resist breakdown by water. He is quick to add that the natural organic materials have the same effect on soils and at the same time, leave other beneficial results in addition to the formation of the desired soil aggregates.

The scientist points out that research up to date has shown that expenditures of from $300 to $500 per acre must be made to get the required amounts of the conditioners is the soil.

He says work to date indicates that the conditioners are most effective on soils with high clay and silt content. They are not effective on soils high in sand content and soils already good structurally are helped little by the addition of the chemicals.

Dr. Page cautions purchasers against buying quantities of the materials until more is known about them. He adds, since the products offered for sale are new, many have not been adequately tested. Therefore, he suggests that buyers try only those products which have been tested and on which reports have been made.

Fresh from the Freezer

"Life is simpler, Judy, since we've had this Electric Home Freezer, full of fresh frozen things to eat — and the meals are better! Look at the variety in there! Corn on the cob, strawberries, peaches, snap beans — meat, cakes all baked and ready to warm in the oven — your school lunches for a week, all wrapped and frozen so I just have to take a package out in the morning when you leave for school.

"And we're never 'out of things'. When they have bargains at the stores — in frozen foods or in meats — I can stock up on them. I never have to throw leftovers away — just freeze them to use weeks later. So you see, this freezer saves me time and saves your Dad money, too!"

An Electric Freezer saves time and trouble in many different ways, and provides better meals. For the holidays, mince pies, puddings and the like can be baked in advance and frozen. Chili con carne, spaghetti and chop suey can be packed in meal-size containers, and frozen for future use.

With an Electric Home Freezer you can shop every couple of weeks instead of every day or so. Buy meats, fruits and vegetables when they're on sale; save money that way. You simply freeze and store until needed.

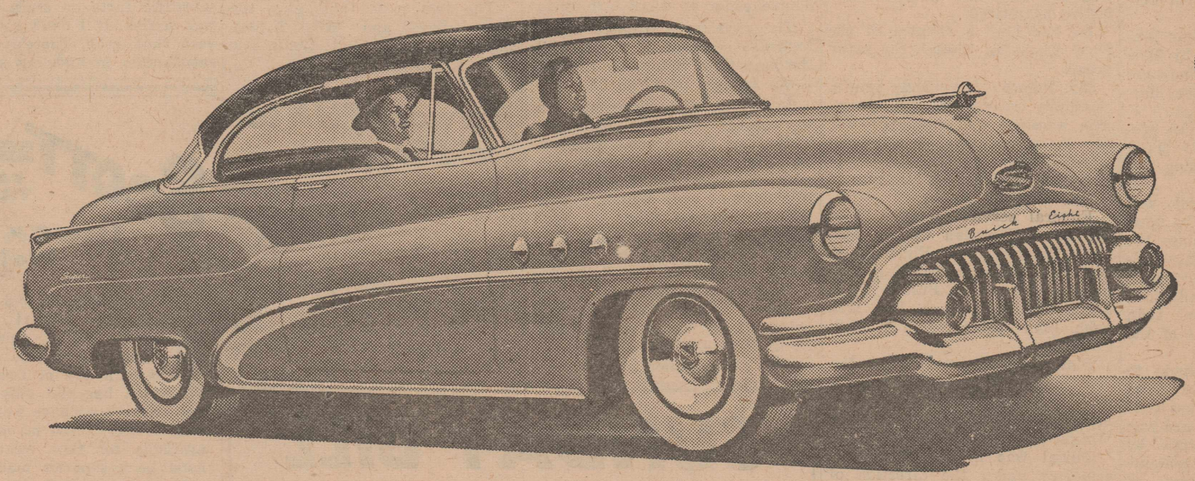

A complete Sunday dinner, prepared weeks in advance and stored in the freezer, is ready to heat and serve when needed. Hamburgers, wieners, and lunches for picnics can be frozen in advance.

DID YOU KNOW...
with an Electric Home Freezer you can:

Freeze bread slices until needed, keeping them fresh and firm... freeze large quantities of cooked beans, stews, etc., and store for later use... freeze and store cakes... freeze waffles, warm in electric range oven as needed... store ice cubes for parties... save enough on food to pay for the freezer in a relatively short time?

BAUMGARDNER TELLS OF COMING CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE IN INDIA

(Following are excerpts from a letter written by Marion Baumgardner, an instructor in the Agricultural Institute at Allahabad, India, to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Baumgardner. It describes something of the coming World Conference of Christian Youth, to be held at Kottayam, India, at the end of this year, and which will be one of the major conferences held by Christians during the year.)

A group of about 30 theology students will be arriving this evening and tomorrow morning for a three weeks short course in agricultural extension work. They are coming from Leonard Theolofical College in Jabalpur. I have already been assigned to teach several lectures to that group. I am hoping I can get their assistance in some of the Christian activities during their time here.

I am beginning to get a bit escited about the World conference to be held in India in December and January. I am still holding my breath until I have final word about my application to serve as a voluntary worker at the World Conferences of Christian Youth to be held at Kottayan, Travancore, South India, from December 11 to 25. Two other such conferences have been held, the first in Amsterdam in 1939, the other in Oslo in 1947. The sponsoring organizations for this meeting are the World's Alliance of YMCAs, the World's YWCAs, the World's Student Christian Federation, the World Council of Churches, and the World Council of Christian Education asd Sunday School Association.

Following the general conference at Kottayam, each of the sponsoring organizations will have its own world conference. I shall most probably be attending the conference of the World's Studest Christian Federation to be held in Madras, December 29 to January 5. It surely will be thrilling to be able to attend one or more of these meetings. The Kottayam conference is to have 300 delegates only, representing about 40 nations. Two-thirds of the delegates are to be from Asia.

Mr. C. S. Paul, general secretary of the Student Christian Movement of India, Pakistan and Ceylon has been in North India the past three weeks. I have had occasion to be with him several times and to talk with him about student work. He is on the India Conference planning committee. It is very likely that I shall have a job at the Madras conference, and I'm still awaiting final word concerning my application to serve at the Kottayam conference. I was told that there are between 50 and 60 applications from American youths to serve as volunteer workers; the Americans were ready to pay their entire expenses from the U. S. to India and back if they could just get an invitation or have an excuse to come to the conference. The numbers are strenuously restricted, so I shall consider myself very fortunate if I am chosen to serve even as a worker.

This place has been flooded with visitors in recent days. One fellow I have really come to appreciate is an Australian student who is the SCM delegate from that country to the Kottayam conference. He is spending some time looking about the country before he goes to the conference. He toured England and Europe with his parents in June and July. 'Tis remarkable to hear him tell of their most wonderful times in Europe. They avoided all tourist joints, drove their own car, cooked some of their own meals, and toured England, Scotland, France, The Netherlands, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, West Germany, Switzerland and Italy. They did all of this is about two months at a very nominal amount. It has been great fun hearing him tell of their travel. I surely wish you could do the same.

Mr. Johnson was born April 11, 1873, in Deloit, Iowa, the son of N. V. and Jane Mason Johnson.

As a young man, he came to Collingsworth County, settling 57 years ago in the Needwood community, one of the early communities established here. He was active in the growth and development of that section.

He returned to Deloit to be married to Miss Clara Johnston on February 7, 1904. They made their home in the Needwood community until 1919, when they moved to Wellington. Mr. Johnson engaged in the produce and hatchery business for a number of years here before he retired.

He had been a member of the First Christian Church for many years.

Mr. Johnson was widely known, especially among the old timers, who admired and respected him for those qualities of character which brought him here as a pioneer and which helped him remain as a community builder.

Buck Creek Philosopher

Editor's note. The Buck Creek Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Buck Creek has shifted from politics to farming, if you want to call it that, his letter this week reveals.

Dear editar:

Now that the election is over and I have woke up to the grim reality that regardless of all the golden promises that have been made to me I'm probably still gonna have to do my own work if it ever gets done, although I am glad to be livin in a country where it doesn't have to get done unless I feel like it and I'm the sole judge of how I feel, I was highly interested in an article I read in a magazine last night.

Accordin to this article, a seed which was buried fifteen feet deep in rock for 2,000 years has been found and watered and it sprouted, making a flower just as pretty as any we got today. I consider his welcome news.

It's a perfect answer to people who accuse me of bein lazy, who like to ask: "What's the matter with that crop of yours Looks like mostly weeds. No garden? Why don't you plant one?"

Under this new system, all these critics are doin is demonstratin a lack of patience and foresight and a knowledge of plant life. I remember as plain as if it was yesterday plantin all kinds of seeds in my garden back in 1928, and the fact they haven't come up yet is nothing to get alarmed about. What's 20 years or so compared with 2,000? I planted a good crop of wheat eight years ago, and the fact it hasn't come up yet is nothing, unless you're ignorant of the scientific facts on seeds. I never was selfish. If I don't get to harvest that crop, there's a great satisfaction in knowing somebody in the next 2,000 years may, and as far as I'm concerned he's welcome to it. I've never seen a crop yet that wasn't easier to plant than to gather.

In fact, if the people living years ago had been more thoughtful of future generations, particularly the one I'm in, they'd have gotten more seed in the ground and we could be sittin back now watchin em sprout.

I hope this new discovery will silence a lot of people who like to drive around criticizin farmers and home gardeners. Just because a plot of ground is barren ain't no sign something ain't planted there. Come back in 2,000 years and see for yourself and just don't be so quick to criticize.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Broilers, Fryers Top Buy For Texas Homemakers

COLLEGE STATION — Right now the supplies of broilers and fryers are such as to make this source of valuable meat a top buy fo rthe homemaker. Jimmy Nell Harris, foods and nutrition specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says the family shopper can save money on the food budget by taking advantage of the situation, and at the same time will be giving the producers a helping hand.

Eat them fresh and store a supply in the home freezer or locker box for later use advises the specialist. Poultry meat is an excelent source of protein which is needed in the diet to build muscles. In addition, poultry meat also supplies important vitamins and minerals and is one of the best sources of the pellegra preventing factor. Miss Harris adds that proteins are made up of the amino acids which are commonly referred to as body building stones because they are so necessary for growth and maintenance of life. Poultry meat contains all of the essential amino acids and thus is listed as a "complete" protein.

The rules of modern poultry cookery are few and easy to follow. Miss Harris says cook at moderate heat so the meat will be juicy, tender and evenly done to the bone and she points out the young tender birds are mighty tasty when broiled. Serve the boiled chicken hot off the grid, with the pan drippings or melted fat poured over it. Garnish with toast points and a sprig of green mint or parsley.

Poultry used for freezing should be of high quality and prepared ready to cook before freezing. The needs of the family should determine the form in which the product is packaged and the size of the package. Broilers may be cut into pieces ready to fry or may be cut in halves ready to broil. Giblets may be wrapped separately to prevent discoloration of the oth er pieces of chicken.

Miss Harris says for more information of using poultry, contact the local county home demonstration agent and ask her for bulletins B-88POULTRY, Dressing-Marketing-Canning-Cooking, and B-177 Freezing Poultry, For Home Use.

SCOTT FARMALL TRACTORS — INTERNATIONAL TRUCKS TRUCK & TRACTOR CO.
Wellington, Texas

Put an International cotton stripper on Gilbert Hunt's Farmall H tractor this week and suppose he will be at work with it in a day or two. Loren Thompson has the only other one of these we have working in this territory. And no more are available for this year. This must be a superior machine as cotton growers on the Plains are scouring the country for them while many other brands are still piled up on dealers' stocks everywhere.

* * *

Auburn Keller had us to deliver a new International Harvester home freezer out at his place last week. He bought the 16-foot size, after checking all competing brands for value and price.

* * *

Joe Childress had his Kaiser automobile in the shop for a motor reconditioning last week. This is one of Doc Barjenbruch's specialties—and we have the equipment here for him and Leland to work with. Nearly anybody can stick in a set of rings in an engine, slip in a set of rod bearings that nearly fit, and polish up a set of valves a little; but it takes the right equipment, in the hands of a man who KNOWS how to use it, and who WANTS to do a good job, if you aim to get your money's worth out of a reconditioned engine in a tractor, car or truck.

* * *

Have one brand new International pickup truck on the floor. Strikes have International factories tied up and the prospects for settlement of these are not very good. If you're thinking about a new pickup for the very maximum in durability, toughness and general performance, better see us about this one.

* * *

Tiffin Young was in the store Tuesday to get a new strainer bowl for his Farmall H—the old one had some water in it and froze and bursted Monday night. Might be a good idea to check up on your own equipment — tractors and cars, too. Or if you haven't put in anti-freeze yet, we have plenty of Prestone at a good price.

* * *

E. A. Hays, from out in the west part of the county was in last week to have the starter motor on his Farmall M repaired. Cold morning starts are hard on starters and batteries as well as engines. This is a good time to have all these items looked at and put up in good shape.

* * *

New Farmall Super C and Farmall H tractors on hand. now. Super M's will be coming along soon, we hope. If your plans for next year include new equipment, now is the best time to talk trade, before everybody gets loaded down with used equipment. If you don't aim to trade, it's a good time to have your tractor overhauled for another year, because we can do just a little bit better job when we have plenty of time.
