KEYS QUADRUPLETS—The Keys quadruplets are the only such foursome ever to gain a college education. They returned to the Baylor university homecoming in Waco for their first reunion since 1946. Originally from Oklahoma City, the women were graduated from Baylor in 1937. Left to right are Mona, now Mrs. Robert Fowler of Oklahoma City; Roberta, now Mrs. Roland Torn of Houston; Mary, now Mrs. Jack Anderson of McKinney; and Leola, now Mrs. Robert T. Hall of Oklahoma City. Since they can tell on each other, their age is no secret. They're 35.

Monday Will Be Big Day For Students

Monday will be the big day for elementary school students here—they will move into their new building. Open house will be held from 6 until 9 o'clock this evening, with the school open to the general public.

"We want everyone to come look at it while it is new," said Paul Jones, school board president.

The new school is modern in every way. Walls are textured in different pastel colors. First and second grade rooms have blackboards in the front and billboards for thumbtacking up art work. Desks are child-size and seat two children each in small chairs painted light and dark green, orange and yellow.

Floors are asphalt tile in all the rooms. Radiators are covered and the intercommunications system speaker connected to the principal's office is at the front of each room. Lockers are in the back. A thermostat in each room controls the temperature.

Desks for the larger grades are the modern type chairs with desks on the arm. Lounges for boys and girls are on each wing. Between each first and second grade room are two washrooms and toilets, accessible to each. Rooms for the first and second

AL STAG FEED SET SATURDAY

The American Legion's annual stag party and supper will be held Saturday night at the Legion hut at 7 o'clock. Lewis Price, post commander, announced.

All ex-service men of Garza county and this area are invited. Price said. Supper charge will be $1.25.

ACP Committee Will Be Chosen Here Nov. 18

Farmers of Garza county, Nov. 18 will have an opportunity to elect the committeemen who will administer the Agricultural Conservation program, price support, acreage allotment, marketing quota and other production programs in 1951.

Elections will be held as follows: A community, 8 o'clock in the morning to 5 o'clock. Basing Hardware store, Southland; "B" community, 8 o'clock to 5 o'clock—Graham gin office; "C" community, 8 to 5—Garza county PMA office, Post.

At these elections farmers will be voting for three members of a community committee and a delegate to the county convention.

According to Claude E. Spence chairman of the Garza County PMA committee, no farmer who is eligible to vote should pass up the opportunity to "voice" his choice of the three farmers in his community best qualified to administer farm programs in 1951.

In the chairman's words, "The coming year can be expected to call for decisions and actions which will demand the most able leadership available. This places the responsibility of electing able committeemen on the shoulders of the farmers in each of the three communities in Garza county."

Few Stores Will Close For Holiday

Due to the press of fall business, there will be no general closing here in observance of an Armistice holiday, Pat Ryan, chamber of commerce manager announced.

Government offices will close on Saturday anyway and just a few other businesses or offices will be closed. Some merchants considered closing Friday afternoon until the Post-Slaton game was postponed until Friday night.

After that the general consensus among the merchants was no closing, Ryan said. It has been generally decided to close Nov. 23 for Thanksgiving here.

Highway Violations Amount to $203 Here

Highway violations accounted for $203 in fines, with costs added in Justice of the Peace J. D. King's court this week.

Deputy D. L. Young Gets Stolen Truck

Deputy Sheriff D. L. Young recovered a stolen truck on the Snyder highway last Wednesday.

The truck was occupied by three drunks, a Negro and two white men.

No Interest Is Shown In Kindergarten

Little interest has been evidenced this week in the proposed kindergarten set to open here Dec. 1 for children who are at least five years old by that time.

G. R. Day, superintendent of schools has contacted a teacher who has agreed to take the class, if there is such a class. In order for a kindergarten to be organized, parents will have to sign a contract agreeing to pay a tuition fee of not more than $10 monthly for each calendar month the school is in session.

Contracts are available in the office of the Post Dispatch or in Day's office.

"The response I have had is disheartening," said Day. "Of course, if we do not get enough pupils to enable us to pay the teacher, we won't be able to have the kindergarten. I have worked on this for about three years now and am beginning to get discouraged."

Cotton Season Gathers Force Here This Week

The cotton season is gathering momentum here with ginnings increasing by more than 1000 bales again this week.

Southland continues to lead in number of bales ginned, processing 230 this week to bring the season total to 1120 bales. Farmers are doing all right with the number of hands they have and cotton coming in is still good quality. Gin spokesmen expect three or four more weeks of ginning before the main crop is out.

Planters' gin here in Post processed 250 bales this week, bringing their season total to 866 bales. Largest percentage increase was seen at Graham where the gin has been running late at night to get out 320 bales this week.

General Election Results Give Democrats Shaky National Control Tuesday

Reports late yesterday in the general election held throughout the nation indicated that the Democrats retained a shaky Congressional control, even though Republicans moved down administration stairways.

According to an Associated Press report, the Senate will line up in January with 49 Democrats to 47 Republicans. This represents a gain of six seats for the Republicans—California, Idaho, Illinois, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Utah.

Republican Sen. Forrest Donnell of Missouri, Democratic fleshthorn, was defeated, offsetting the Republican victories. He was the only GOP senator defeated. Meanwhile Republicans moved in on Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois, majority leader, and Sen. Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania, party whip.

According to the Associated Press, the Republican victories, including the reelection of Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio, "Mr. Republican," were attributed to the adverse turn of the Korean war, criticism of the President's foreign policy decisions, opposition to his domestic "fair deal," and reaction to charges of Communism in the government.

Other veteran Democratic senators going down to defeat were Millard Tydings of Maryland and Elbert D. Thomas of Utah. All four have been major supporters of Truman's foreign policy. Thomas led a futile drive for the repeal of the Taft-Hartley act.

In California, Rep. Richard Nixon (R) defeated Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas (D) for the Senate seat.

Governor Thomas Dewey swept into office for a third time as Republican governor of New York. Governor Earl Warren (R) defeated James Roosevelt (D), son of the late president, for the top office in California. In New York, Rep. Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., won reelection to the House of Representatives.

Guy G. Gabrielson, Republican national chairman, hailed the GOP victories as a sign that voters are "opposed to appeasement of Communism . . . at home or abroad" and are "opposed to socialism in free America."

The results paralleled those of every off-year election since 1934, although the Senate is more evenly divided than it has been since 1930. They generally appeared to add up to a setback for Truman's foreign and domestic policies.

Taft's victory loomed as a setback for organized labor's attempts to repeal the Taft-Hartley act. His success put him into the Republican presidential-nominee limelight for 1952. His margin of victory over Joseph Ferguson tabbed him as a vote-getter in Ohio.

In New York's 18th Congressional district, Vito Marcantonio, American Labor party representative with a Communist-party-line record was defeated. He lost out to James G. Donovan, a Democrat, backed by a Democratic-Republican-Liberal coalition.

Here in Texas, the Republicans lost their only national representative in 20 years, Rep. Ben Guill of Pampa, who was defeated by Democrat Walter Rogers. Guill lost by only 2,000 votes, after serving a short term won in a special election. The seat was vacated by Eugene Worley who was appointed to a federal judgeship.

For the first time in 16 years, a Republican was elected to the Texas House of Representatives. He was Edward T. Dicker of Dallas.

The Guill-Rogers race brought out 46,000 votes in the Panhandle . . . the largest number ever to vote in an off-year general election. Except for Dick-er's victory and Guill's near-victory, the Democratic landslide as usual prevailed in Texas. Generally Republicans had offered only token opposition, concentrating on a few offices.

Rogers campaigned against civil rights legislation, the FEPC, and federal control of the tidelands.

Guill spoke like a Democrat in his campaign talks and said in his concession statement he was amazed by the vote he drew and said it "constitutes one of the most outstanding moral victories of independent voters in the history of the south." No estimate of the total vote was available.

Another Deep Test Slated Northeast of Justiceburg

Another deep test was slated in Garza county this week and deepening was scheduled on a second.

C. T. McLaughlin of Snyder will drill a 7,000-foot project in Garza, 10 miles northeast of Justiceburg. It will be known as the No. 1 C. H. Williams. Drillsite

Kerr-McGee Oil Industries, incorporated, No. 1 G. W. Connell, a wildcat located 10 miles southeast of Post, is to be deepened after recovery of 185 feet of oil and gas-cut muddy sulphur water and 490 feet of gas-cut sulphur water. Present depth is unknown.

Deepening is also slated for Ryan, Hays and Burke No. 1.

Leon Bromberg, Lynn wildcat five miles southeast of Tahoka. During a drillstem test, tool was opened two and a half hours with recovery 180 feet of drilling mud and 1530 feet of salt water. The Pennsylvanian line was tested between 8962 and 9012 feet. Projected depth was only 9000 feet.

Locally, Murchison Brothers-Brown Brothers have made application for a new drilling site within the city limits on Post Estate property.

Dues for 1951 To Be Collected At VFW Meeting

Dues for 1951 will be payable tonight when the Veterans of Foreign Wars meet in regular session at their clubhouse. Commander Bob Poole announced.

Andy Stelzer, quartermaster, is receiving dues. Thirty-one jars have been placed in local business houses for contributions to the Gonzales Warm Springs foundation for the treatment of polio, Poole said. The drive, sponsored by the VFW throughout the state, will continue through November.

Commissioners Will Meet Here Monday

The commissioners court will meet Monday to work out details and a decision on the Post-to-Spur road. County Judge Lee Bowen announces.

Incoming members of the court will be included in the meeting.

County Court Docket Is Called for Nov. 21

County Judge J. Lee Bowen called the county court docket Monday and set all cases thereon for Nov. 21.

A jury has been called for that time, Judge Bowen said.

Robert L. Geer Opens Studio Here In Haws Building

Commercial work will be done by appointment on Tuesday, Thursday or Saturday. Ellen Frazier of Lubbock will be receptionist and have charge of the operation of the studio.

Salute to the Fire Boys...

The Post Volunteer Fire Department is one of our favorite organizations. They don't limit their volunteer work to merely fighting fires. When anything worthwhile is being done in a community sense, three chances out of four, the fire boys are doing it. As a group and as individuals, they can always be found doing something civic-minded. The fire prevention contest probably teaches the students in our schools more than any other thing during the whole year. Most of the things the fire department does does not benefit them, as a group or individually. Some of the service clubs here could well take the fire department as an example and be more service-minded and less social-minded. We could list the individual members of the fire department and their individual civic activities. Homer McGary, fire chief, is outstandingly civic-minded. The same statement could be made for the rest of the department. We are proud to have such an organization in our town.

ROGER W. BABSON WRITES THIS WEEK

Local State Elections Are Equally Important As Congressional Races in Troublous Times

BABSON PARK, Mass.—In the even-numbered years, such as this, the spotlight—even locally to some extent—is thrust upon candidates for the U. S. Senate and the House of Representatives. Yet, the ballyhoo of congressional campaigns should never divert our attention from our local state elections.

While the results of contests for places in our national congress will vitally affect all of us, we cannot afford to ignore our state elections if we expect to preserve the federal system which our forefathers so carefully planned and for which they sacrificed so much. We should be intensely interested in seeking men of the highest ability, integrity and foresight as our representatives at the capital of each individual state. The legislation enacted in the states and administered by the governors surely determines the stability of our federal system.

The times are now so serious and the adjustments we must make in our economy are so many and so delicate that every mediocre state government impairs the welfare of the whole country. Recent trends from democratic forms of government to dictatorship have occurred only in those nations where mediocrity and sometimes downright stupidity have prevailed in local and national government circles. In all such cases, this mediocrity and the stupidity of the government officials can be traced to indifference and sheer laziness on the part of the people as a whole.

When I was a young man, the office of governor of a state was a highly honored one. In those days, even the governors of our sparsely settled mountain states, which had so many money problems, had too much good American pride and common sense to go to the Great Father in Washington with hand-out-stretched, seeking financial aid. In those days, the states were independent and proud of their independence, and well run.

This year 32 of our states will elect governors and 11 of these governors will serve four-year terms. I am a statistician, not a politician. I have no political axes to grind. How-

Harry Truman's Radio Speech Saturday Shows Little Historical or Administrative Importance

Harry Truman's Saturday night radio speech from St. Louis had no importance historically or administratively. He summed it up in his final plea to vote for the Democratic party everywhere. But as a case study in the mental mechanics of our more or less accidental President, it has pathological importance. The little man from Independence is regarded as a very average citizen. In this country anybody can become President, and, as some amazed wit has noted, Harry Truman is evidence of it. You are driven to the conclusion that the working of the Truman mind must be the working of the average mind. If so, the average is a happy mentality that can only be honest with itself in believing what it wants to believe, regardless of evidence to the contrary.

Initially the President stated that this was a political speech, paid for by the Democratic National Committee. Now Mr. Truman has made at the expense of the taxpayer and the radio any number of political speeches which either he or the Democratic National Committee should have paid for or for which those of different views should have had equivalent free time. But it is clear that average Harry regards as political only a speech in which he asks for votes as he did Saturday, not when he asks for support of a policy which is party and personal. That is funny and absurd but as a truthful man, he believes it.

Take, too, the President's charges that the Republicans brought the country to bankruptcy in 1932. He had to forget that the 1931-32 Congress was Democratic. It was that Congress, if any, which did not know what to do or want to do it. So at best an informed Democrat can only argue that the Democrats repaired their own mistakes which Truman and others customarily charge to Hoover. Similarly in crying the evils of the Eightieth (GOP) Congress and the virtues of the Eighty-first (Democratic) while asking to duplicate this last with a Democratic Eighty-second, he charges the Eightieth with acts which the Eighty-first pointedly refused to change and which Truman can not pledge the Eighty-second to Buddy Poppy Day...

Saturday, members of the American Legion auxiliary will be selling poppies on the street, made by disabled veterans. Just the other day we were reading about someone's experience in selling poppies. It seems that she had worked on the streets all day, selling them all except one. She offered it to a smart-aleck character, who after a number of pseudo-clever remarks stated he didn't believe he'd "like to buy one." "How would you like to make one," she asked. His face was red as he purchased her last poppy. Perhaps we are not charitable, but we do get tired of constantly being bombarded for contributions to this or that worthy cause. However, this illustration brought our own good fortune forcibly to our mind. If the people of the world are divided into two classes, those who make buddy poppies and those who buy them, we are lucky to be buyers. We wouldn't like to make one. How about you?

ever, I strongly urge upon business and investors the importance of voting next Tuesday for good men in the selection of governors and other state officials. Capable men are as much needed in these state offices as in the national government in Washington. Sometime, in the not too distant future, the present business boom will be over. When that time comes, we shall have need of strength in government at the state, as well as the national level.

Congress now overshadows our state legislatures, particularly in troublous times like these when so much of our attention is focused on foreign affairs. Yet, this is no reason why we should neglect our state legislatures as we do. We ought carefully to select worthy men to represent us at our state capitals.

When we do elect them, we should see to it that they do our bidding. It is shocking to observe people failing to vote and even ignoring the work of the state legislature after voting. Yet, in states where the legislature meets in a large city, a mere handful of citizens will attend public hearings on very important pending measures. This is a crime against democracy.

Perhaps, we could arouse more interest in our state governments and actually achieve better government if legislative hearings were held at more convenient times. Such hearings are now held on weekdays in nearly all states. Only eighteen states regularly hold public legislative hearings during the early evening hours. Twelve other states hold evening sessions for very important hearings.

Does your state hold night hearings at a time when working and business people would be free to attend? Saturday is the one day in the week when farmers could pay special attention to the problems of state government, yet only eight states regularly hold public legislative hearings on Saturdays. A more intelligent policy in this regard would make for better business, safer investments and hence better wages. I recently decided to deposit money in the safest sections of the U. S. I selected banks in the capital cities of 20 interior forward looking states.

change as it will contain most of the Democrats who have said once they will not.

The little President resented the charge of a Red ridden government and squealed shrilly that the Democrats have done more than anybody else to squelch the Communists. Nobody else ever had to worry with the Reds. Prior to 1933, this country refused to recognize Russia and kept Red infiltration from becoming a problem. Blindly Franklin Roosevelt recognized, coddled and defended our Communist foes, with equal fatuity gave Russia more help in becoming a world power than its own rulers could do, and Truman began by following in his footsteps. As a truthful man, Truman has forgotten that repression of the Reds has been forced by his opponents, that whatever he has done has been only to repair horrible mistakes of himself and his predecessor. A convenient memory is a wonderful thing.

Unpaid Tax Collectors...

When Congress in 1942 adopted the "pay as you go" income tax plan, providing for the withholding of federal taxes on wages and salaries at the source, it made every employer in the land an unpaid, part-time federal tax collector.

Withholding the tax due from each employee each payday and remitting the proceeds to the Internal Revenue Bureau at stated intervals is a sizable bookkeeping job for all employers large and small. In the case of larger firms, the job necessitates the hiring of clerks that otherwise would not be needed. Employers thus render the government a valuable service for which they receive no compensation whatsoever; they are not even reimbursed for actual expenses incurred in rendering the service.

All governments pay their full-time tax collectors regular salaries. Is there any reason why they should not pay their part-time tax collectors too?—The Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Getting Out On The LIMB...

by EDDIE the editor

THE LITTLE WOMAN points out to us that this is National Cat Week.

I don't know who the thinker-uppers of all these various national weeks are, but I bet the government pays them. It certainly must be psychically rewarding, because I doubt if the demand for such a position is very great.

It wouldn't surprise me if thinker-uppers of special weeks are a glut on the market. Especially when they sink to the depths of announcing a national cat week.

For my money, a cat is the most useless, most worthless animal since the dodo bird. Proof of this is that people keep trying to improve on nature and the saggest business advice is "build a better mousetrap."

I just don't like cats. Maybe the reason is psychological—all those pictures of black cats with witches and broomsticks and such that you see every Halloween.

NOW WE HAVE a cat up at our house. Not through any choosing of my own, however, but because the Little Woman wanted it. She watched it from birth to the day we took it home for a few days. We still have it.

Now this cat is a daughter of my Mother's yellow cat, Rotan. It is gray with a blending of yellow, giving the overall effect of a sickening roan color. As a kitten, it was blue.

We all walk softly around our house and treat this cat, whom the Little Woman calls Clementine, as a queen, because I am firmly convinced we are going to have more cats in a short while. More cats to tie up and drown or else to give away.

My Cat Clementine stays on top of the dining room table or else on the silver chest, even though I have carefully prepared the house originally constructed for My Dog Bugle, a noble animal, for her confinement. I have stashed away clean rags and old quilts and such to make Clementine a soft, comfortable bed.

BUT LIKE ALL women—God love 'em—she wants to be the center of things and consequently prefers the polished top of the dining room table. At present, she is willing for us to use it for occasional meals, but as times passes and she grows more unreasonable as her condition progresses, I guess we will have to take to eating in the kitchen.

Now my neighbor has a Siamese cat. You could never tell by looking at the thing that it has a high-powered pedigree, it is cream-colored with black ears. Now if this fine cat turns out to be the father of My Cat Clementine's offspring, maybe I won't have to tie them up and drown them. Probably I can sell them for a good price.

However, I hope we don't have to go into court to establish paternity as the resultant publicity would be crushing to a cat of such a delicate nature as the one at our house.

Several years ago, Ollie and Kate Weakley had a gray Maltese cat named Hildegarde. Now this cat, if you recall, was more prolific than four normal rabbits. She had the most prodigious and most frequent litters of any cat I ever heard of.

EVERYBODY IN TOWN wanted one of her kittens. I'll bet the Weakleys gave away literally dozens and dozens of them. Now if they had had the forethought to charge for those cats, they would be wealthy today.

It seems to me there ought to be a market for cat fur. To me, one fur is the same as another. Now if only chinchillas were as prolific as cats, couldn't somebody make a fortune?

I read where only one chinchilla coat was made last year and it sold to Rita Hayworth for $75,000. Now if cat fur were as valuable as that, I would take a sincere interest in My Cat Clementine.

The one thing that I know of that these useless, worthless feline creatures are good for is making the strings for violins. However, at any day now, I am expecting nylon to replace gut violin strings like it has fishing lines and surgical sutures.

Some people think cats are smart but I don't. Witness Tom and Jerry in the movies. Who is it always climbing up trees and needing the fire department to come and get him down? Who is always getting clunked on the head or slapped in the face with a wet fish? Not Jerry—oh, no!

Who falls in love with a skunk and nearly wrecks a perfume shop? Nothing but a mangy old alley cat.

NOBODY EVER saw a cat wag its tail. Of course, they sometimes purr but you have to scratch their backs or stomachs or something even to elicit a small purr.

And those claws. Sometimes a cat will take your leg for a sharpening post and the blood will run. Of course, a cat will rub against you, offering that as a

Short Cotton Crop

While the 1950 cotton crop in Kaufman County is short and will approximate 20,000 bales, general agricultural picture was described by County Agent Reagan Brown this week as "in pretty good shape."

Pasture were never better for this time of the year, and beef cattle and livestock of all kinds are thriving.

A heavy acreage of winter legumes was reported by Brown. October sunshine, good on cotton, has been a little rough on legumes, however, and they are beginning to need rain. A large acreage has been planted to vetch.

My Cat Clementine also has curious dietary habits. During the summer she was wont to eat canteloupe and other such tidbits. She hardly insults her stomach with catfood, cream and such.

The dictionary defines the word cat as meaning "a name applied to a species of carnivorous quadrupeds of the genus Felis. The domestic cat includes many distinct varieties such as Angora, the Maltese (blue), the Manx and the Persian. The wild cat is much larger than the domestic breed."

I ALWAYS thought the Manx cat was related to the monkeys in Zambango so I looked it up, too. It turns out that a Manx cat is a native of the Isle of Man, distinguished by having no tail or merely a rudimentary one. Just as I thought.

Then there was the Cheshire cat in "Alice in Wonderland." To me it was the most disgusting of creatures. I always preferred the Duchess or whoever it was who played croquet with weasels or whatever they were.

And too, there was the calico cat who side by side on the pillow sat with the gingham dog. Everyone has heard that there are more ways than one to skin a cat—why anyone would want to have never been told, and in crowded places, the simplest child knows better than to cuss a cat for fear of getting fur in his mouth.

Miss Bessie Pitts told me that cats like perfume. I hope she was referring to the four-footed variety. She also said that they were neat creatures.

Well, as long as we have to have national this-and-that week, I guess national cat week is as good as any.

Worth The Money

"Newspaper advertising is by far the best advertising medium for department stores," Leon A. Harris, Jr., vice president and promotional manager of A. Harris and Company of Dallas, told the Fort Worth Advertising Club last Friday. Harris said his store's advertising budget for 1950 totaled more than $1,000,000. "The major medium of department store advertising is, and will continue to be the newspaper," says Harris, who adds that his Dallas newspaper advertising this year will total $650,000.

SOUTHWESTERN PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

25 YEARS OF GOOD CITIZENSHIP AND PUBLIC SERVICE

L. P. Kennedy, sr., Comes to West Texas, February, 1895

Kennedy, sr., came to the post office in Snyder was in 1895, when even a half-dugout.

Her mother had died and her father who was known as "Uncle Babe" Smithers, brought her and her brother, Morgan, here from Seguin in February of that year. They came to Colorado City by train—that was as far as the railroad went.

Mrs. Kennedy recalls that they met in Colorado City by her uncle who lived 20 miles from there. After spending the night there, the two small children and their father went home with her uncle.

It was so cold the children had to stay in the back of the wagon, tightly covered with blankets. Mrs. Kennedy remembers. When they got to her uncle's home and found it a half-dugout, they were amazed—it was one of the first they had ever seen.

The snow stayed on the ground for a long time. Mrs. Kennedy says. Her uncle's dugout had two rooms, each about 12 x 14 feet in dimensions. Walls extended halfway above the ground and they could look out and see antelope and deer in herds.

"My uncle was a good shot," Mrs. Kennedy recalls, "and he kept a supply of deer and antelope meat. They had a fireplace in the dugout that they cooked in and heated with. Wild turkeys were plentiful, too."

To Garza in Wagon
After about two weeks, Mrs. Smithers and his children came on to Garza county in a covered wagon. Mrs. Kennedy's uncle, L. N. Smithers, lived on a ranch 15 miles east of Verben.

"There were no roads here then, only trails," Mrs. Kennedy reminisces. "We rode around in the wagon all day looking for my uncle's place. Finally a man saw us and told us where he lived. The snow was still on the ground."

Mrs. Kennedy's aunt, Mrs. Mollie Williams, had a large family of children as did her uncle. She and her brother and her uncle's children all stayed with her aunt where they were taught by a governess, a Miss Elkins, who later married O. B. Kelly, the first sheriff of Garza county.

Mrs. Kennedy also went to the first school held in Post. Polly Duren is the only other student of that school living here now.

When Mrs. Kennedy first came to this area, everyone got his mail at Snyder. Later a post office was established near where Dermott now is, known as Dark, Texas. They got their mail there before another post office was set up at Fluvanna, which was then known as Light, Texas.

Six Young Ladies
When Mrs. Kennedy, the former Miss Mina Smithers, grew up, there were only six young ladies in the county, she recalls. They were Misses Vina and Tommie Elkins, Misses Beatrice and Eula Smith, Mrs. George Duckworth and Mrs. Kennedy.

"There was nothing to go to then but dances," Mrs. Kennedy says. "Although there were only six grown, unmarried girls, there were a number of boys working on the surrounding ranches. We would go to the different ranches for dances and spend a week."

She remembers that one of their favorite places to go was to Uncle Sam Elkins' ranch. People would come in their buggies from as far away as Colorado City to attend the dance. Married people came and stayed and danced, as well as the younger people.

"I remember their old Negro cook who always cooked and played for the dances," Mrs. Kennedy says. "He always played our favorite piece, 'Mosquitos Parade.'"

During her early years here, Mrs. Kennedy recalls that her family needed a doctor only twice. And that was just as well since the nearest doctor was in Snyder. Once her cousin, Tom Williams, accidentally shot himself and had to be carried to Snyder in a wagon to have the bullet taken out. Another time, all the children had scarlet fever and had to have the doctor come out from Snyder.

Nearest Neighbors
When the Smithers' first came here, their nearest neighbors were five miles away, at the OS ranch headquarters. Their next neighbors were 15 miles away.

Mrs. Kennedy met her husband, L. P. Kennedy, sr., in February of 1909, at a neighbor's house. They were married Nov. 24, 1909, receiving the 14th marriage license issued in the county.

Mrs. Kennedy's wedding dress was of dark gray taffeta. The wedding was held in the home of neighbors, the J. S. Lindseys. A big supper followed and after that the traditional charivari.

"They fired off both barrels of a shotgun and we were really scared," Mrs. Kennedy admits, recalling that the charivariers made lots of noise. A big crowd was on hand for the supper.

The next day the couple came to Post where they were honored with a big Thanksgiving dinner, attended by a large group of people.

After their marriage, the Kennedys moved near Close City, living in the house where the Clyde Redman family now lives. They stayed there four or five years, then bought four sections of land 18 miles south of Post where they lived 22 years.

Colorado On Wood
Mrs. Kennedy recalls that as a child she learned to spell Colorado because it was stamped on the wood of their house which was built from lumber hauled from Colorado City. She recalls that in the early days, people could homestead various sections of land and her father homesteaded five sections of the ranch where Morris Neff now lives, selling it later.

Panthers were prevalent in Garza county when she was a young child, Mrs. Kennedy says. At the time she came to Snyder, there were only two stores and a post office there. Garza county had not been organized but was still attached to Borden and settlers had to go to Gail to pay their taxes.

When Post was abuilding, all merchandise, equipment and material was freighted in from Big Spring. Post was just a tent town, Mrs. Kennedy recalls. Some 100 wagons did the freighting and were known as "the train." She can remember that one of their chief diversions was meeting "the train."

During Mrs. Kennedy's early days here, there were no churches. She recalls that once her father got a traveling preacher who was passing through, a Brother Bilberry, father of Luther Bilberry, to come and preach.

Verbena Camp Meeting
The Verbena camp meeting was organized and residents would go in together and buy the groceries, then camp and eat there, attending the camp meeting. This same Mr. Bilberry organized the First Baptist church here and at Justiceburg, Mrs. Kennedy recalls.

After Post was organized, they started having the Fourth of July picnics. Before that, neighbors would get together for picnics at Grape Creek and Cooper's canyon, Mrs. Kennedy recalls. The men would run footraces and do all sorts of things, she says.

Big dances were also held at the Llano ranch, when she was a girl, Mrs. Kennedy recalls. Headquarters were where the boy scout camp now is. Mrs. Kennedy has one daughter, Mrs. Delmo Gossett, and on granddaughter, Layne Gossett.

Are Our Texas Highways
Being Destroyed by 1%
of Highway Users?

This question is presented squarely for the first time by the Texas Tax Journal in its booklet, "The Case of the One Per Centers."

Every Texan who wants good highways, adequate for 99 of every 100 users, should write for a free copy of this revealing booklet.

Approximately 99% of all Texas motor vehicles are registered for a gross weight of 20,000 pounds or less."

All Texas taxpayers, including your Texas Railroads, have reason to be concerned about the high cost of constructing and repairing our highways and the prospect of building more costly roads made necessary by the operation of highway "box cars."

No one has any desire to bar vehicles of reasonable size from our highways, so long as each pays its fair share of construction and repair costs.

Other Texas taxpayers should not be required to shoulder the burden of a roadway system for highway "box cars", representing only 1% of highway users.

Every Texan interested in good highways without increasing the growing tax burden should fill out the coupon below and get a copy of this valuable booklet.

Three Major Buildings Here Near Completion

Three major buildings are nearing completion in Post this week.

Bryant-Link employees expect to move into their new building on the Tahoka highway in a couple of weeks. The roof is just about up and doors and window glass in front are all that it lacks being finished.

The roof is now on the post office, and J. C. Strange, contractor says he expects to finish it by Dec. 1. It lacks plastering, flooring, painting and installing the glass in the front.

No definite report was available on the Ford building which appears as near completion as the Bryant-Link building.

ON SOUTH HARRISON

Carroll Bowens Build New House of Pumice Blocks in Post

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Bowen have found an attractive answer to high rents here by building their own house of pumice blocks, just off the Tahoka highway on South Harrison street.

Built in the modern style with a flat top, the house faces west. It is painted pale green and has a garage attached. Windows throughout are the casement type.

The front door has three vertical glass panes at the top and is in a traditional style. The front room is 15 by 15 feet in dimensions. White venetian are on the big square window at the front and the regular-size window on the south side. White organdy criss-cross curtains are to be hung as soon as the Bowens have time.

A white chenille spread is on the double bed. Walls are painted pale blue. Tan asphalt tile is on the floor. Mr. and Mrs. Bowen have done all the painting and he laid the living room floor.

Double closets are on the east wall of this room. They are closed by slab doors. Furniture in this room includes the bed, a couch, a large library table, a telephone stand, a Duncan Phyfe occasional chair and a cedar chest.

The kitchen, east of the living room, is 15 by 15 feet square with a three-foot ell by the living room. Color scheme here is green and yellow. The floor is green and walls are painted pale yellow. More than half the back wall is covered with cabinets,

A window is over the sink, covered with venetian blinds and plastic curtains. The curtains are pale green with white flowers and white ruffles. A large home freezer is in the ell and an automatic washer is beside the bathroom wall.

Other appliances include a large gas range and a large refrigerator. The dining table is in the south side of the room. The kitchen door and a window is also on the south side.

The wall next the bathroom is of sheetrock—this was necessary Mrs. Bowen explains, to the installation of the plumbing. Other walls are of pumice blocks.

The bathroom, behind the attached garage and north of the kitchen is 10 by 10 feet square. The north wall is covered with built-in cabinets, drawers and a dressing table. Walls are yellow and the built-ins are painted green. Mr. and Mrs. Bowen design this feature.

On each side of the dressing table is a series of drawers. Small drawers are on either side at the top. A large recessed mirror is at the back. Cabinets above and on both sides provide a maximum of storage space.

The curtain around the dressing table and at the window matches the kitchen curtain. Mrs. Bowen is planning a stool painted in matching colors for the dressing table.

Bathroom fixtures are white. They include a tub, lavatory and commode.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowen had first drawn three or four sets of plans for a larger house. Then they decided to build now and drew up plans for the smaller house they have. However, there were never any blueprints for the house.

A feature of the garage is the extra storage space in the back. The Bowens plan to put a pull down door on the garage and then store such things as the lawn mower and outside tools there.

Their future plans also include a lawn in the front, back at the sides. Also they plan to build a barbecue pit in the back. They have lived in their home two months.

school at Estancia, N. M. He has a master's degree from the University of New Mexico.

Screwworm Treatment Superior to Old Smear 62 Is Developed by Government

A new treatment for the control of the destructive livestock insect pest, the screwworm, has been developed by the USDA's Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine at their Kerrville laboratory, L. C. Herron has been informed.

The new treatment is known as EQ 335 screwworm remedy. According to Herron, Garza County agent, the new remedy will replace the old reliable Smear 62 formula that has been used for the past 10 years. The formula for EQ 335 contains by weight three per cent of the powerful new insecticide, lindane, 35 per cent pine oil, 42 per cent white mineral oil, 10 per cent emulsifier and 10 per cent silica gel.

Herron says production of the new remedy is to start immediately and there will be smears of different consistencies on the market depending upon the type of emulsifier used. He says any of the smears that contain the three per cent lindane and the 35 per cent pine oil will be effective even though the other items in the formula vary somewhat from the original.

Here are the advantages he lists for the new smear over 62. It will not deteriorate upon standing. An application usually lasts for seven days or about twice as long as an application of Smear 62. Treated wounds heal quickly and the lamp black and other coloring chemicals that stain clothing, wool or hair are not found in the new remedy.

The treatment kills maggots deep in the wounds, young maggots as they hatch from eggs and flies attracted to the wound to feed or lay eggs.

According to Herron, the new remedy has been tried on thousands of animals during the past four years and none have been injured from the treatment. He points out, however, that young animals, especially calves, might become sick if the treatment is not applied properly. The smear should be applied with a small paint brush and only the wound and a narrow strip of an inch or less about the wound should be treated.

Herron urges livestock producers to use good livestock management practices and to be on the alert for infestations of screwworms, because the use of the new remedy alone will not give screwworm control. Infested animals should be treated at once and operations or other livestock management practices that cause wounds should be avoided during the screwworm season.

The same formula can be diluted with water, one part of EQ 335 with nine parts of water, and can be used to treat sheep that are infested with wool maggots. The liquid should be applied to the infested portions of the sheep.

Herron says screwworms have caused heavy damage this year in Texas and since the weather still remains warm over most of the state, further damage can be expected. He says this new smear will soon be available on the market and recommends its use. Check the container label, he says, to be sure the product you purchase contains the three per cent lindane and the 35 per cent pine oil by weight for these are the items that give the smear its kick.

DEAD GESE MYSTERY—These dead geese were found near a waterhole 35 miles south of Victoria. Forty-seven birds were found, and the water was tested in an attempt to find the cause of the deaths. Howard Dodgen, executive secretary of the state game, fish and oyster commission, blamed the deaths of hundreds of geese in south Texas on aspergillus, a form of fungus or mold. Dodgen said the disease was harmless to hunters if infected birds were cooked properly. However, Dr. Roy Lander of Victoria warned hunters to avoid handling the birds. Further studies of the disease are being made in a government laboratory in Denver, Colorado.

Doris Ritchie, Mrs. Jewell Strasner Are Honored at Assembly Program Here

Doris Ritchie was honored at a special assembly at the Post high school Thursday morning when she was presented a special Santa Fe honor award certificate by Herman Hill of the Amarillo public relations office of the Santa Fe.

Hill complimented Doris highly on her 4-H demonstrations and leadership ability and announced that the Santa Fe Railway company was awarding her an all-expense-paid trip to the National 4-H club Congress, Nov. 26-30 in Chicago. Doris is one of 14 winners in Texas.

I. M. Robinson, traveling freight and passenger agent of the Santa Fe, of Lubbock, was present and spoke briefly on the merits of the 4-H club programs and what they have meant to the youth of the world.

Both Santa Fe representatives complimented Mrs. Jewell Strasner, Garza county home demonstration agent, on her outstanding record in 4-H club work and on being selected as the home demonstration agent of Texas to accompany the state 4-H club delegation to the Chicago meeting. W. B. Hooser, county agent of Hall county, was the county agriculture agent selected.

Plans are being made for the entire Texas delegation to assemble in Fort Worth Nov. 24, where the group will be guests of the Sears Roebuck foundation for a luncheon. The group will leave from Union station in Fort Worth on the Texas Chief at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and arrive in Chicago at 9 o'clock the next morning.

The Texas delegation will leave Chicago for the return trip Dec. 1 and arrive in Fort Worth Dec. 2 where each delegate will return home by respective individual route.

Mrs. Kathryn Cunningham of Amarillo is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hudman. Mrs. Bertie Brown, another daughter of the Hudmans, left last week for her home in Oklahoma City.

grades are on the east side, the third and fourth on the north and the fifth, sixth and seventh on the west.

Offices for the principal and a teacher's room are on the front, as is the modern bookroom and study hall-library. A glass half-wall divides the library from the study hall proper. Each room is numbered. All doors are slab doors with a small vertical glass window at the top.

A dutch door opens from the bookroom into the hall. Fountains are located in the halls, as well as some lockers. The auditorium is in the center wing of the building. Seats are plywood and metal. Aisles are floored in asphalt tile while the rest of the floor is concrete.

The modern stage has only a rudimentary apron and no footlights, but a double row of varicolored overhead lights instead. On each side is a large dressing room with a lavatory and mirror. Blackboards are on three walls in the rooms designed for the older grades. Transom windows on the hall side of each room give cross ventilation.

Walls are going up on the new lunchroom. It should be ready for use by January, according to estimates given D. C. Arthur, grade school principal. A heating plant is right behind the school.

Two new teachers will begin work Monday. Mrs. Almon Martin will teach an extra second grade section and Miss Lola McWhorter will have an extra first grade section. A teacher is being sought for a mixed third and fourth grade section.

School started again Monday at Close City and few farmers could still use hands. The gin is expecting to put on a night shift soon. Cotton quality is good. Some 210 bales were ginned there this week, bringing the total to 720 bales.

Only 64 bales came in at the Storie gin in the Garnolia area this week. Ginning is still slow there. Some hands are needed by the farmers. Cotton is grading middling to strict middling. Ninety-four bales were ginned at the Pleasant Valley gin this week. This brings the total there to 440 bales.

Total fall ginnings in the county to date is 4280 bales.

Skiers Buy Things Besides Clothes, Skis

SUN VALLEY, Ida., Nov. 8. (AP)—People who think that all a skier buys are warm clothes and skis are dead wrong. They buy articles which are only remotely connected with skiing, says Fred A. Picard, who started an exclusive mail-order house for skiers at the Sun Valley ski resort.

A unique item Picard sells is white chocolate. Skiers like buy them because they are in the shape of snow-balls and because they are white—usually a favorite color of skiers. Small cameras with skiers can attach to their wrists are also big-sellers as are antimagnetic pocket watches. A special men's cologne for skiers is another of the odd items they buy. Swiss-designed beer steins are sold internationally by the Sun Valley businessman.

Picard has designed a special wall-paper for ski huts which he expects will be the next big request. What next?

Marine Lieutenant Flies Through Line

FIRST MARINE AIR WING IN KOREA, Nov. 8. (AP)—"I always wonder what it would be like to fly through a power line," First Lieutenant Vernon Bruce of Chico, Calif., said recently, as he climbed out of his Corsair fighter and examined the high tension wire wound around its right wing.

The Marine pilot didn't see the 350-foot-high electric lines strung across the Han River, as he and Captain Bert Perkins, of Los Angeles, Calif., flew into the early morning sun. Lieutenant Bruce's plane seemed to handle all right, so the two continued on their mission.

Back on the ground, Lt. Bruce noted the wires had cut gashes into the right wing, tail, and engine cover. There was also a bullet hole in an auxiliary gas tank.

Punishment Fits Crime in Prague

PRAGUE, Nov. 8. (AP)—This is a new case of making the punishment fit the crime.

A 22-year-old shockworker and amateur soccer player was banished from a game in Pardubice. He made an "indecent remark" to the referee. "Penal organs" heard evidence and passed this sentence: "He must enter the youth organization to educate himself and grow politically so as never in the future to be guilty of a similar offense."

HARD ON ANIMALS

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Nov. 8. (AP)—Foggy weather in the Niagara Peninsula has proved hard on the small animal population. Hazen McAndrew, a bus driver, counted 37 skunks lying dead on the highway one morning recently, as well as three or four rabbits.

Russian Language Is Vital in Berlin

BERLIN, Nov. 8. (AP)—Learning Russian has become the most important thing to do at school for the boys and girls of East Berlin.

The education department of the Communist East sector administration has ordered an investigation to be made of every case of failure in Russian, which is a compulsory subject. If it is confirmed that a student failed "because of open or concealed resistance against the Russian language," he or she cannot be promoted, the department says.

It Goes to Slaton Friday Night, Trims Brownfield Here, 14-7

Thursday, November 9, 1950 The Post Dispatch Page 9

RES ON FANCY PLAY—Southern University End Ben White hands off to Kyle Rote (left) on the two-yard line. Rote is being tackled by a long pass from Fred Ben.

Southland Girls Trim Wilson Six In Basketball Game

Southland girls basketball team took the Wilson girls 18-15 Tuesday night in one of the hardest-fought games of the season, in Wilson.

Mary Frances King was high point girl, racking up 14 points. Emma Basinger copped the other four for the victory. Laquetta Bruster was hospitalized in Slaton with a cracked rib.

"Wilson has a good team," said Southland Coach Robert Knox. "It was a rough, hard-played game all the way."

The Wilson lineup included Limer, Campbell, Coleman, all forwards; and Preston, Plkmitt, Stanghow, Carley and Montgomery, forwards. Playing for Southland were King, Basinger, Bruster, Jo Ann Trimble, Woodena Stewart, Jean Sims, and Tommie Wicker.

Wilson will return the game at Southland next Tuesday night.

Tom Powers, University of Duke University's outstanding wingback, is also a member of Phi Beta Kappa and a straight A student.

Antelopes will invade Slaton tomorrow night with a bruised and battered team. Coach Bing Bingham announced yesterday. Last Friday night Post defeated the Brownfield Cubs, 14-7.

Among those hurt are Jack Kirkpatrick, quarterback; Fred Long, fullback; Darrell Stone, halfback; Cletus Graves, tackle; L. W. Evans, end; and Billy Guinn Jones. Evans was hurt badly during practice session Tuesday, Bingham said.

"We didn't look as good as we should have against Brownfield," Bingham believes. "Of course, I know it was cold. I felt like we should have scored at least five more times. We are expecting a hard game at Slaton. In the first place, they outweigh us about 12 pounds to the man."

The Antelopes threatened several times but did not come through here Friday night when they defeated the lowly Brownfield Cubs by a one touchdown margin.

Brownfield battled the locals to a draw before some 1000 chilled fans until late in the second period when Norman Cash passed to End L. W. Evans for 28 yards and the first touchdown. Jack Kirkpatrick kicked the extra point.

Halftime score was 7-0. In the third quarter, Post scored again when Rex King went over left half for two yards. Kirkpatrick's conversion was good.

Not until the fourth period did the Brownfield bunch try to get back in the game. Their quarterback star, Dale Cary, who did most of the Cub running and all of the kicking, ran around right end for 35 yards and the lone Brownfield tally. Paul Billings went over right guard for the extra point.

Kirkpatrick and Cash stood out in the Post backfield. Jack Schmidt, Buddy Davis and Evans showed up well in the line. The Antelopes played a fair defensive game with good blocking and good tackling.

Post remains in a second place tie with Levelland which took Muleshoe Friday night 32-0. Both teams have won four and lost one conference game, Levelland losing to Post and Post losing to the state champions, Littlefield.

Littlefield rolled over Tahoka 39-7 this weekend, paralleling the score by which the Antelopes took the Tahokans.

The Antelopes got 14 first downs against 10 for the Cubs. However, the Brownfielders got 170 yards rushing to 179 for Post.

Post completed 10 of 22 passes for 187 yards and broke up each of Brownfield's three attempts. Post tried three punts for 91 yards while Brownfield tried three. Antelopes took five penalties for a total of 45 yards and the Cubs were penalized three times for 25 yards. Each team fumbled once and there were no interceptions.

Top game of the week will probably be the Levelland-Littlefield tilt, although the Post-Slaton game is expected to be hard-fought.

for the Houston Post, and Wilbur Evans, publicity man for the University of Texas athletic department, are two intimate friends of this West Texas giant. And they have a wealth of stories about him.

One of their favorites concerns an illustration of his strength. This was the case when a magazine photographer came around to take some pre-season pictures. Two students wrestled with a giant tarpaulin, pulling it into place for the photographer to work upon.

When the shooting was over, McFadin decided to give the boys a hand in towing the tarpaulin back in place. He grabbed one corner and broke into a run, lifting the manager off the ground along with the tarpaulin.

He won the intramural heavyweight boxing and wrestling championship as a sophomore.

Ed Price, Texas' line coach, figures McFadin is just now arriving and that he should develop into one of professional football's greatest. There's not much doubt that he'll play pro ball after he graduates this year.

A left-handed fiddler of renown McFadin has appeared on an Austin radio station with guitar playing teammate, Sonny Sowell.

A physical education major, McFadin has three favorite pastimes—bronc riding, coon hunting and fishing.

Ole Miss Can Face Double Grid Trouble

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Nov. 8. (AP)—Football fans of the University of Mississippi are getting used to twin football players.

Twice this season, Ole Miss has faced twins on the opposition team—and the Rebs also have a set of their own. For Mississippi, it's David and James Salley, who hail from Kingsport, Tenn., and play left and right halfback. The Salleys were matched with Kentucky's Jones twins, Harry and Larry, on Sept. 30, and also faced Texas Christian's Mooreman twins.

Southland Bows to Flomot Team 32-0 In Six-Man Play in Eagle Stadium

A flashy fullback named Tanner led Flomot high school to a 32-0 victory over the Southland Eagles Friday night on the Southland field.

Tanner caught the ball on the kickoff and cut his way to the 15-yard marker before being hauled down from behind. On the next play he scored standing up to initiate the rout. Try for extra point was no good.

In the second quarter, Clay, Flomot halfback, received, returning the ball to the 30 yard line. Tanner bulled his way over for another touchdown. Again the extra point was missed.

Flomot's Woods, end, recovered an Eagle fumble in the backfield and on the next play Gary Slover ran through the entire Southland team to score a third touchdown for the visitors. The extra point try was a successful drop kick.

Donald Basinger took over for the Eagles and ran the ball to the Flomot 20. Stanley Wheeler got a first down on the five and T. Basinger was stopped short of the two-yard line. Southland received a penalty for delaying the game, losing five yards.

T. Basinger next lost seven yards on a slippery handout as both sides were braving bitter cold. His fourth-down pass fell incomplete. At the end of the half, Flomot had possession of the ball on its own 30.

Three minutes after the second half began, Tanner passed to Woods for another tally. The extra point was missed. T. Basinger suffered a blocked punt on the 12-yard stripe and from there Slover scored on a line smash for the final Flomot score. Leake recovered a Flomot fumble on the 15 as the game ended.

Southland Coach Claude Spears was trying to arrange a game with Fluvanna for the weekend, but no announcement was available by press time.

Bo McMillin's 1949 Detroit Lions dropped four National Football league games, each by the margin of a touchdown or less. His young team dropped two of the games by a total of three points.

Yale has had 28 undefeated football teams.

ATHLETIC CONSUL

MONTREAL, Nov. 8. (AP)—Argentine consul Augustine Norez Martinez regularly gives boxing lessons to the younger members of the consulate here. Recently he rowed a boat 130 miles from Montreal to Ottawa, taking five days for the trip.

The University of Arizona basketball team won its fifth consecutive Border Conference championship last season.

University of Arizona football coach Bob Winslow played on two University of Southern California Rose Bowl teams.

Canadian Heroes Are Sculptured in Stone

TORONTO, Nov. 8. (AP)—Undisturbed by the roar of today's automobiles four great figures of Canadian history stare stonily down on the bustling north-south traffic artery of Queen's Park crescent.

Nine-foot stone sculptures of Champlain, Wolfe, Simcoe and Brock stand perched on the limestone walls of the new University of Toronto archives building. Inside, history books record their part in the moulding of Canada.

The figures, one of the biggest single sculpture commissions ever undertaken in Canada, are the work of Josephine Jones of Suburban York Mills. They took 11 months to create, not counting long months of research to provide authentic likenesses and dress.

Samuel de Champlain founded Quebec. James Wolfe conquered Quebec for the English. John Graves Simcoe was governor of the young colony and Gen. Isaac Brock, was a hero of the war of 1812.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ray of Sudan were weekend guests of their brother-in-law, D. W. Morris, and other relatives.

In packing a suitcase, fill shoes with small items to help conserve space.

Measuring spoon prizes went to Wanda Lee Hagler, Beverly Leazer, Sonja Sue Queen, Sandra Kay Palmer. Geneva Jo Page was awarded a small coin purse and Maxine Page got two cookie cutters.

A $2 prize went to the Close City club, $1.50 to Post senior; $1 to Post junior; $75 to Southland; $50 to Justiceburg and Graham.

A short program on the United Nations flag was presented by the Post senior club. Sue Stephens, president, was in charge.

Deaf Children Are Trained To Talk In Special Schools Held in New York

AP Newsfeatures
NEW YORK—“Mommy,” “Daddy,” “Bye-bye.”

Three simple words, spoken in a muffled tone, were the entire vocabulary of five-year-old Kay. The brown-eyed, dark haired little girl had been hard of hearing since birth.

Unable to hear spoken words, she could not understand the meaning of sounds and therefore was unable to speak. She had learned those three words painfully through constant practice.

Today, little Kay could deliver a speech with all the words she has learned at Manhattan's Junior High School 47, one of the largest public schools in the world for the education of the deaf and hard of hearing. Here Kay and six hundred other children learn how to talk and interpret speech along with the three R's.

Even the tiny tots in their pre-school nursery have little hearing aids strapped on to their waists. Every classroom is equipped with an amplifier. Maximum use is made of the smallest amount of hearing which a child may have. The Hearing Foundation of New York, non-profit information bureau, says that no child is born totally deaf but that there is always some hearing. Ability to use this hearing will deteriorate rapidly unless it is stimulated.

Children who are unable to make sounds overcome the handicap by blowing feathers across their desk. The teachers carefully act out different vowels until the child can pronounce them. That feat is the first step toward speech.

Parents are encouraged to sit in on this training when the child first enters the school. “The improvement in my little girl's speech is a miracle,” little Kay's mother said at the end of her first year.

When a child enters the school, extensive tests determine how much her hearing was impaired. The school also maintains a testing clinic for the entire city, testing over 4,000 children each year.

Doctors contend that half the cases of deafness, which generally begin in childhood years, could be cured or at least arrested if given immediate medical attention. It has been estimated that three million children in this country are hard of hearing, half of them needlessly so because of ignorance or neglect. The Hearing Foundation figures that one-third or approximately one million need special aid to get through school.

Also included in the school program is work with children who have normal hearing but speech defects. Muscular training is given to cerebral palsy victims to help them also learn to speak.

Canning Industry Booms in Valley

HARLINGEN, Nov. 8. (AP)—The canning industry in the lush Lower Rio Grande valley of Texas has shown a startling growth in recent years. Van C. Snell, president, and J. Overby Smith, manager, of the Texas Cannery association, said here recently.

In 1933, only 65,000 cases of citrus juice and 300,000 cases of citrus and vegetables were canned in this area. By contrast, in the 1948-1949 season, before the freezes damaged trees, 10,500,000 cases of citrus juice and 17,250,000 cases of citrus and vegetables were canned.

Planes Now Use Zipper Fasteners

AKRON, O., Nov. 8. (AP)—The slide fastener has taken to the sky.

According to the B. F. Goodrich company, its pressure sealing fasteners are used on the B-17, the heavy B-36 bomber and the Navy's PTV patrol bomber to reduce the time formerly needed for replacement or repair of aileron or tail surfaces.

It's almost as easy to zip on a new aileron or tail cover as it is to put on a raincoat, explained aeronautical engineers. Mechanics previously had to remove and replace a row of rivets to repair the covers.

Position of Prince Rates 600,000 Bucks

BRUSSELS, Nov. 8. (AP)—Twenty-year-old Prince Baudouin, Belgium's Prince Royal, chief of state, is to get 30 million Belgian francs a year ($600,000) from the nation.

Part is to be used for maintenance of estates put at his disposal by the Belgian government, such as the royal palace of Brussels.

King Leopold is to get six million francs (120,000) while former Prince Regent Charles and Queen Mother Elizabeth both get four million ($80,000). A residential estate is also to be given to Prince Charles. It is called Argenteuil near the famous battlefield of Waterloo about ten miles from Brussels.

ECA Boosts Silver Mining in Norway

OSLO, Nov. 8. (AP)—Norwegian silver production may be increased as the result of research at the government owned Kongsberg silver mines by the ECA technical assistance program.

The silver at Kongsberg is contained in low grade ore, with occasional pockets of nearly pure silver. It is hoped that methods will be found to mine the low grade ore efficiently so that eventual high grade pockets may be found. The mines now operate at a loss.

Pat Walker Speaks Tuesday at Rotary

Pat Walker gave a vocational talk on the profession of law when the Rotary club met for luncheon Tuesday in the city hall.

He briefly outlined the activities of the courts in Texas and discussed the importance of drawing wills. Next week Charley Smiley will have a musical program and Nov. 21 Paul Jones will present a program on community service.

Communists Work In Kurdish Provinces

BAGHDAD, Nov. 8. (AP)—Communist activities in Iraq are now centered in the northern Kurdish provinces, reliable informants say.

Communist organizers—after meeting strong government opposition in Baghdad and other cities—have shifted the weight of their activities into the rugged northern areas. It's easier for them to go into hiding when the heat is on.

One prominent Kurdish leader told a correspondent "Communist propaganda, holding out lures of better living conditions and self government, is not only stronger than ever before in the northern Kurdish government, but is developing into a center for all Communist activities in Iraq."

He described political and economic conditions in the Kurdish provinces as "appalling."

Arab Families Leave Southern Israel

TEL AVIV, Nov. 8. (AP)—Seventy-five Arab families from Majdal (the Arab quarter of the Southern Israel village Midgal Gad) left in 17 lorries for Gaza in the Egyptian held coastal strip of the Holy Land.

Those who left have volunteered to do so, because they have friends or relatives in the Gaza area whom they want to join.

They were allowed to take their belongings with them. The 20,000 Israel pounds that they had with them were exchanged by Anglo-Palestine Bank officials into silver money issued by the former British Mandatory Government of Palestine.

OLD MISSOURI CAPITOL—This old building in Marshall, was the capitol of the State of Missouri during the Civil War. The present owner, Lew Bates, said he probably will tear it down unless he can sell it soon. In the summer of 1861, Missouri Governor Claiborne Jackson and Lt. Gov. Thomas C. Reynolds fled to Marshall ahead of advancing Federal troops. This was the Missouri capitol until Gen. Robert E. Lee surrendered.

East Is West Now In Staaken Town

BERLIN, Nov. 8. (AP)—It's a bit difficult for Staakeners to find their way through the east-west cold war.

Staaken is a small western suburb, about ten miles from the heart of Berlin. Its eastern half is British, its western half Russian.

When Communists attack "western imperialists," East Staakeners look at the Russian sentries on guard in the western part of their town. For West Staakeners, the "West" is still the Russian zone, to which their part of the suburb was ceded by four-power agreement in 1945.

But the "East" is British East Staaken, and still farther to the East, lies West Berlin.

Japanese Lottery Bond Is No Good

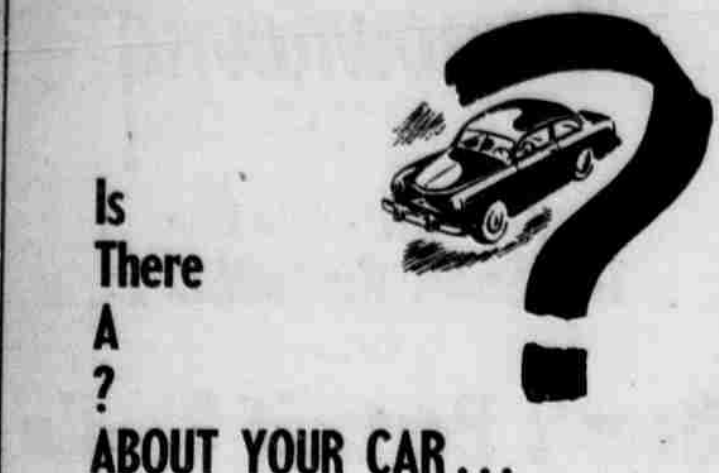

RANGOON, Nov. 8. (AP)—A middle-aged Burman has for five years been trying to cash a bond representing 100,000 rupees. The bond in 1945 was the first prize in a lottery run by the Japanese.

The unhappy winner has hounded government treasury offices, banks and money-lenders trying to cash in on his winning. All told him, "Sorry, no dice."

Israel Tries New Building Material

HAIFA, Israel, Nov. 8. (AP)—Lime and siliceous dune sand which are ample here and available at low cost, will be used for local production of "Ytong", a building material invented and used in Sweden.

"Ytong" is said to combine the strength of concrete with low thermal conductivity. Invented in 1920 by the well-known Swedish architect Dr. Axel Erikson, it was hitherto unknown in the Middle East.

Of the nut trees, hickory and walnut provide excellent hard woods for furniture making, the walnut being chocolate brown in color.
