The first prize money in the second Trades Day program will be $100, with second prize of $25 and third prize of $10. No one claimed the first prize of $50 last Saturday afternoon within the five minute time limit, and the entire $50 was added to this week's top money. A large crowd, one of the largest here in a long time, gathered on main street long before the 4:30 drawing time, and increased as deadline time neared. Police assisted in holding the crowd back and keeping traffic out of the area during the drawing.

Mrs. J. B. Jennings, of Rt. 1, Vina, Senn Stemmmons, manager Muleshoe, won second prize of $25, and third prize of $10 cash, made the presentation of the awards.

Commissioners Set County Tax Rate For Current Year

TRIAL WATCHED WITH INTEREST
Gaddy Vs. Sweatmon Suit For Gin Dust Damages Ends In Non-Suit

A motion for non-suit, made by plaintiff's lawyers was granted by District Judge E. A. Bills in the case of M. D. Gaddy vs. Sherman Sweatmon, owner of Progress Gin here Tuesday.

The case ended dramatically and suddenly, after having been underway for more than a day and a half. Motion for non-suit was made shortly after the noon recess Tuesday.

Mr. Gaddy, whose farm home is near the gin, had sued for $26,000, saying his home and farm was damaged to that extent because of dust, lint, cotton, smoke, etc., which emanated from the gin.

Represented by James A. Gowdy and T. Wade Potter, attorneys of Littlefield, plaintiff presented his case Monday after the jury had been selected. Defendant's case was being presented Tuesday morning with Sam Aldridge, Farwell attorney representing the defendant.

Mr. Sweatmon was on the stand, and just before noon recess he offered to buy the Gaddy farm at $400 per acre, which the farm was said to be worth. After some conference the non-suit motion was made.

THREE WOMEN ON JURY
Three ladies served on the jury: Mrs. Royce Garth, Mrs. Tommy Haley, and Mrs. A. J. Lenderson. Other members of the jury were James Warren, O. D. Ray, J. Lewis Morris, James B. Glaze, Mervin Wilterding, J. E. Wilhite, Harold Weyer, Carl Hall, and Aubrey Heathington.

The sixty-member panel summoned for jury duty this week included the names of 19 women. Judge Bills said he excused 10 of these because they had children under 16 years of age at home. He told The Journal man that the local courts will be using more and more women on the juries. Women as a rule, he said, offer less excuses than men for not serving; and, he said, they make good jurors.

YES, I WOULD BE INTERESTED IN LIGHT INDUSTRIAL WORK, AND YOU MAY PLACE MY NAME ON THE LIST OF AVAILABLE WORKERS.

I understand that this is not an offer of a job, and that no such offer is implied or intended, but that if such work does become available, I will be given an interview for the work, based upon my qualifications. Race or creed are not considerations for this type work, and any women in the 18-35 year age group, living within 15 miles of Muleshoe will be considered.

Deadline Near For Labor Survey End With Many Applications Needed

Members of the Muleshoe Industrial Development Committee issued another call this week for more women between the ages of 18-35 to sign up for possible positions with a clothing factory being considered for Muleshoe.

The owner of the factory has set 1200 as the minimum number of names for a labor survey before Muleshoe can be given serious consideration for location of the factory here. If located here, the plant would pay a minimum wage of $1 per hour with other fringe benefits, and would also pay girls $1 per hour while in training for the permanent jobs.

The coupon printed in this issue of The Journal may be filled out and sent to the Chamber of Commerce in Muleshoe, or a poster, listing name, address and age of applicants may be named the Chamber.

Application blanks are available at many local merchants, as well as in rural stores over the trade territory.

Saturday afternoon, prior to the Trades Day drawings, members of the JayCees obtained many applications in the crowd gathered for the drawings.

Names are urgently needed, and any women in the age group should immediately contact the Chamber of Commerce office.

Farm Bureau Protests Inequality In Acreage Reserve Payment Rate

The Bailey County Farm Bureau has protested treatment in the Soil Bank Acreage Reserve program and the Conservation Reserve program as well, according to a letter sent last week to officials in Washington by FB officials.

The text of the letter, in part, is as follows:

"Irrigation farmers and also dryland farmers in Bailey County feel that we have been treated unfairly in both the soil bank reserve and the conservation reserve program.

"Due to the extended drought, the dryland farmers have made very low yields, or none at all in the last five years. Therefore, irrigation has made the average yield for the whole county, which this year is 136-2-2 pounds per acre. The dryland area in this county has not received any adjustment for the missing years that a strictly dry county should have had. So we feel we are penalized for having irrigation.

Our average payment rate is $28, and we raise just as high yields on our irrigated land as the county to the north which has a payment rate of $59, or the county to the east which has a rate of $49.

We received $9 per acre through the conservation reserve program for putting land in the soil bank, while Farmer county gets $10 and Lamb county receives $12. We feel that the land is just as good as in adjoining counties and we should be on par with them in payments.

The letter was signed by W. T. Millen, president of the Bailey County Farm Bureau.

Social Security Representative Here February 21

Virtually all self-employed people are now covered by social security except doctors of medicine, according to John G. Hutton, manager of the Lubbock social security office. With the passage of the 1956 Amendments to the Social Security Act, the Nation's social security system will now protect practically every family. About 200,000 professional self-employed are affected by this change.

Self-employed lawyers, dentists, osteopaths, chiropractors, veterinarians, and optometrists are now building old age and survivors insurance protection for themselves and their families. Net earnings for 1956, if they are as much as $400, will count toward social security insurance. The law requires self-employed persons in these groups to report their earnings up to a total of $4200 a year for taxable years ending after 1955. In most cases, 1956 income tax returns early in 1957. This applies whether the work is in individual practice or in a partnership.

Mr. Hutton said that lawyers make up the largest number of newly-covered self-employed professionals. He pointed out that social security is not now familiar with the insurance provisions of social security, and have had occasions to observe and study it in connection with the affairs of clients. Also, some lawyers and other professional people already have social security credits earned in military service in World War II, or while working for wages.

The 1956 Amendments also cover additional farm operators. Landlords who substantially assist in or manage production of a crop or livestock on land farmed by renters or sharecroppers must report their farm income for social security if they had a net profit of $400 or more in 1956.

A representative from the Lubbock Social Security Office, will be in Muleshoe on Feb. 21 at the

Rogers Proposes Stiffer Liquor Law Penalties

Austin, Feb. 11 — Second and habitual offenders against Texas liquor laws will face stiffer penalties under a bill introduced by Senator Andy Rogers of Childress dealing with bootlegging offenses.

Senator Rogers, of District 30, said in a statement today that "The bill as I have introduced it is absolutely necessary if we are to protect our youth and human life, especially in the so-called 'dry' areas of the state." Sen. Rogers said that stronger penalties are needed because "in too many cases, the criminal bootlegger simply treats the fine as a business expense and goes on selling his booze whenever he can — to man, woman or child."

Under Senate Bill 187, by Sen. Rogers, persons convicted of a second or additional offense of bootlegging "shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars ($500), nor more than five thousand dollars ($5,000), or shall be imprisoned in the State penitentiary for not more than five years, or both."

While present statutes treat bootlegging offenses as misdemeanors, the Rogers bill would make any second or additional offense a felony and subject to the increased penalties.

"No one knows better than the citizens and the law-enforcing agencies of the counties and cities of District 30 what a terrible problem this is," Sen. Rogers said. "I sincerely hope that passage of this measure will provide an added bulwark against this sort of criminal activity."

RODNEY LAMBERT HOME FROM FT. CAMPBELL, KY.

PS-3c Rodney Lambert, who is stationed at Fort Campbell, Ky., arrived here last Saturday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Lambert and family. He also went to Lubbock to make plans to enter Tech college when his term of enlistment in the U. S. Paratroopers is completed this summer. Rodney is a graduate of Muleshoe High School, class of 1954.

Positions Open In Highway Patrol

The door of opportunity was opened this week for a number of young Texans who are seeking promising futures in the field of law enforcement.

Col. Homer Garrison, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, announced that an opportunity now exists for young men between the ages of 21 and 35 to join the ranks of the Texas DPS as Texas Highway Patrolmen.

Garrison said student patrolmen would receive three months of intensive training in all phases of traffic enforcement and related fields at the department's Law Enforcement Academy. After graduating they will receive further training for six months under the guidance of experienced patrolmen.

Seed Sown by God Will Not Sprout In Hearts of Stone

THE so-called "Parable of the Sower" really should have been called the "Parable of the Ground," or the "Parable of the Heart."

Because the lesson is not, "Take heed how ye sow," but "Take heed how ye hear." The parable was a favorite method of Jesus in his teaching and preaching. Sometimes today those who read the Gospels seize upon this to point out how simple Jesus' teaching was, how much it appealed to the people, and how easily it was understood.

A keener reading, however, would show how incorrect this interpretation is. The parables seem simple in their story form, but almost invariably those who heard Jesus were somewhat puzzled.

The story may have taken hold in their minds, but they did not understand its meaning. They asked him again and again to interpret the story and make its meaning plain.

This is a parable for hearers. The seed sown is the word, and human hearts and minds the ground. God has broadcast the seed very widely but, if our hearts are stone, the seed will not take root or produce anything. If the ground of our hearts is shallow, there will be no growth or harvest.

But if we take the seed of God's word and trust it deep and honest hearts, it will bring forth fruit manifold.

This parable at least seems clear and plain when we put all the emphasis on the hearer. To make it a parable of the sower would be to pervert the real truth; for if the sower considered the ground too much, he might not sow at all. If he watched to see if every seed were taking root, he might become discouraged.

The fact that the seed of God's truth is so widely broadcast makes it important that we should carefully consider and prepare the ground of our own hearts.

Humidifying Equipment For Cotton Classing Office Approved By USDA

The go-ahead signal for installation of humidifying equipment in the Lubbock Cotton Classing Office was given by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, D. C., recently to the four representatives of the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., and other agricultural organizations, who presented the plans. Henry Schuster of Bailey County, Director of the PCG, explained the representatives were selected from various agricultural organizations which met last November to discuss the classing situation and make plans.

George Pfeiffenberger, Executive Vice-president of the PCG, said the new classing building also has agreed to such changes and plans are now underway to provide the additional room.

Pfeiffenberger, who served as chairman of the meeting, said the U. S. D. A. agreed installation of such humidifying equipment would improve classing conditions.

The owner of the new classing building also has agreed to such changes and plans are now underway to provide the additional room.

Present plans call for cotton to be allowed to humidify 12 to 24 hours before classing. The work will be done this year prior to classing of any of the '57 crop, officials said.

Pfeiffenberger also said the U. S. D. A. officials were favorable to the plan that cotton from different areas on the South Plains be classed by the same classers and would not be shifted about to different classers, if the group desired it this way.

Also the Washington officials said establishment of a classing review board consisting of a government classer, a Plains Cotton Growers classer and a cotton trade classer is acceptable. Details of this program remain to be worked out.

History and Tests Given On Sorghum Almun

Sorghum almun was first described in literature from Argentina where according to available evidence, it originated as a hybrid between Johnson grass and a sorghum. In Argentina it is known as Sorgho negro. Sudan negro and Sorghum almun and as Columbus grass in South Africa. It has been introduced into the United States from Argentina, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, Nigeria and Algeria. It has been grown on the Chillicothe and Lubbock Experiment Stations for about 12 years.

E. M. Trew, extension agronomist, describes sorghum almun as a perennial very similar to Johnson grass in appearance. Generally, it produces wider leaves, larger stems, longer and more spreading heads and usually grows taller than Johnson and Sudan grasses. The underground stems or rhizomes are short, thick and turn up close to the crown. New growth comes primarily from buds at nodes or joints just above the ground with relatively few new shoots coming from rhizomes. It is not uniform and the types vary as to stalk size and height, leafiness and degree of tillering. The stalks, generally, are pithy and non-sweet. The seed shatter when mature. They generally are larger than those of Johnson grass but seed coverings of both grasses are the same color and shape. Sorghum almun does not appear to cross readily with Sudan grass and other cultivated sorghums but some types apparently cross freely with Johnson grass.

In clipping tests at Denton, Temple and in the Brazos River bottom near College Station, it produced about the same or slightly more hay than did Sweet and Common Sudan grass. Greater yield differences, based on observations, have been reported from the Rolling Plains area. On the lighter soils of that area, it seems to be more drought tolerant than either Johnson grass or Sudan grass.

During 1956, Sorghum almun was grown in more than 60 grass-legume demonstration series in the eastern half of Texas. On the deeper, more fertile soils, production often exceeded Johnson grass and Sudan grass but on the shallower, poorer soils, it often produced less. Production in nursery plots has declined the second and third years on shallow, poor soils.

Trew observes that best use of the grass appears to be for grazing purposes and perhaps soil conservation. Nutritive value should be about the same as for Johnson and Sudan grasses. It has survived the winter and acted as a perennial in the Rolling Plains area since 1954 but has winterkilled some years at the Lubbock Experiment Station.

The specialist says the grass should be planted in 36 to 42-inch rows on a seedbed prepared for Sudan or grain sorghum. Row planting permits cultivating for weed control. He suggests using three to five pounds of seed an acre to insure a good stand and small stalk size. Planting depths of one to two inches are suggested.

Fertilizer should be applied at or before planting time wherever needed. And Trew advises a soil test for determining this need.

Plantings for grazing should be divided into at least four blocks to permit rotation grazing and the plants should be at least 24-inches high before livestock are turned on it. This will decrease danger of prussic acid poisoning.

Sorghum almun for pure seed production should be planted in fields free of Johnson grass and at least a half-mile from Johnson grass stands. Harvesting the seed from standing plants with a combine results in excessive seed loss from shattering. To prevent this loss, hand harvesting is often practiced. In other cases, the plants are cut with a binder when the seed are almost mature, the bundles are shocked and after drying the heads are threshed by combine.

A new Extension publication, L-329, Sorghum Almun, is now available through the offices of County Agents or from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

Land Leveling Said To Step Up Dry Land Cotton Production by 59 Percent

Dryland cotton lint yields have been stepped up 59 percent by land leveling clay loam soils on terraced land having less than one percent slope and receiving supplemental runoff water, says C. E. Fisher, Spur substation superintendent.

It's an economical investment too, according to Fisher who says land at Spur was leveled for $17.88 an acre and will be effective for several more years. He says annual gross return per acre was increased $23.76 on leveled land with supplemental runoff water and $8.10 on leveled land without supplemental runoff.

Soviet: what mother says when you're late for dinner.

Hear about the fellow who cracked up his car and was fined to boot? Just got bad brakes, we'd say.

"My ELECTRIC clothes dryer saves money because we need fewer clothes for my growing children!"

SAYS Mrs. W. J. MESSICK 119 TEXAS HEREFORD, TEXAS

Mrs. Messick says, "The dryer saves ironing and even those things which do need ironing can be dried to correct dampness for proper ironing." No need for extra sprinkling.

Mrs. Messick stresses the savings with her electric appliances saying, "Savings in time and money are the foremost benefits we receive from our electric appliances." She finds that by the fast drying time an electric clothes dryer gives, she needs fewer clothes for the children. "Since children 'grow out' of clothes so quickly these savings become important," she adds.

Why don't you start "sitting pretty" with your own electric clothes dryer. You, too, will find the same advantages which Mrs. Messick likes.

Soil Bulletin By Specialist Is Now Available At A & M

A farmer has to "know his soil" as well as politician "knows his voters" if he expects profitable response from management principles. No one can hope to stay in business very long if he mistreats or neglects the basis for his existence, whether it's votes or soil. As the farm's most basic commodity soil will "support" its tillers only when proper improvements, conditioning, and conservation measures are practiced. But, mere recognition of a soil's limitations as well as its potential is an often-overlooked yet essential factor in securing a farm's maximum production.

"How Does Your Soil Rate?", a bulletin written by Extension

Soil and Water Conservationist Specialist Jack H. Barton, and Assistant Agronomy Professor J. P. Mills is intended to give a better understanding of soil to the average reader. Written in clear, concise, non-technical language, this bulletin offers an excellent description of the major soil characteristics and limitations. Photographs aid in the bulletin's treatment and explanation of soil texture, permeability, condition, and slope. The effects and characteristics of depth, wetness, erosion and other production-influencing factors are also adequately covered.

A description of land capability classes and a detailed section on recommended land treatments make this bulletin an extremely practical guide for teaching land evaluation principles. Barton expresses hope that it will result in a more uniform method of evaluation throughout the state.

Copies are available from the office of your local county agent or the Agricultural Information Office, College Station. Ask for Bulletin B-836.

Farmstead Windbreaks Prove Of Value In Protecting A. C. Gaede Home Place

Farmstead windbreaks have been of tremendous value to the A. C. Gaede farm home, according to the owner, seen in the accompanying photograph with one of the prettiest flower gardens in this part of the country. It also materially adds to the comfort of the home place.

Without the advantage of the windbreak, Mr. Gaede feels he could not grow many of the varieties of flowers and ornamental trees and shrubs which adorn his home.

Mr. Gaede favors Arizona cypress because they are fast growing trees for a farmstead windbreak, and also because they are not as inflammable as some others. The Arizona cypress give quick protection, and are a beautiful tree the year round.

Another point made by Gaede was in reference to location of the trees in relation to the farmstead itself. He believes that trees should be from 50 to 150 feet on either side of the building, in the direction of the prevailing winds.

There has been a great deal of interest in the farmstead windbreak program now being sponsored by the Blackwater Valley Soil Conservation District and the Lubbock county Nurseryman's Association.

Some of the cooperators in the District who have already obtained Arizona cypress seedlings last year include Eugene Black, Lewis Scoggins, B. Z. Beaty, A. J. Wallace, E. N. McCall, and others who would be glad to discuss with you these seedlings which are available to anyone this year in the District.

If anyone is interested in obtaining the seedling trees to establish a farmstead windbreak, they should contact the nearest SCS supervisor or the SCS office or the County Agent in the courthouse.

FARMER COUNTY Farm Bureau News

By RAYMOND LUTLER

Jack Patterson, vice president and membership chairman, is busy getting things in order for the annual membership drive, which is set to begin on March 12. Of course he has several fellows helping him in this work, but he has the responsibility involved. He wants us to tell you that it will save your local treasurer some money if you will promptly respond to your statement by mail. It will save some other farmer and his friend some money and time too, because they will have to come to see you if you have not remitted by mail.

He said that if you should happen to not want to renew, it would be helpful if you would use the return envelope to state that fact, and if you don't mind, even telling why. That way, the organization may receive some helpful suggestions to better serve members and non-members alike.

Farm Bureau is, after all, he says, a service organization that intends to be of service to all farmers and citizens, whether they are members or not; and he believes that if your wishes are known, and put to use, you would then want to give your support as a member. If your wishes are not known, or are ignored, your support could not be expected, he says.

Mr. Hoffman, Congressman from Michigan recently asked this question in the floor in Washington: "Why should I make the people of my district mad at me (voting for economy measures in government) if the administration and the Congress are to pour their dollars down rat holes across the seas?"

Mr. Multer, Congressman from New York, had this to say re-clude Sherman Inman, Virgil Nowell, Dan Darvey, E. N. McCall and Bill Eubanks.

Giant Automatic Sprinkler Rig On Bill Millen Place Awesome Sight

garding claims by Federal Department heads that they could find no way to cut their budgets: "Tell them that you are going to cut 10 per cent of their salaries if they cannot show you how they can cut their own budget."

We hope the number of statesmen seriously considering positive measures toward a more business like administration is increasing substantially.

And you ought to read on page 1368 of the Feb. 5 Congressional Record the list of clubs listed in the United Nations Phone Directory. It was read in the record by Mr. Gross, Congressman from Iowa. His point was that the United States furnishes fully one THIRD of the running expenses of what he calls "this Modern Tower of Babel."

He listed twenty four such clubs, which he says maintain, at your expense, offices and private telephones; and then he read one to be called if your particular club had been omitted from

One of the strangest sights to greet anyone riding about over the countryside hereabouts must surely be the automatic sprinkler system on the Bill Millen place south of the Plainview highway in some new land Millen is planting to potatoes this spring.

The sprinkler system is 1600 feet long and mounted on wheels which carry the length of pipe the list. "Clubs-general information. Congressman Gross suggested this as a good place to cut appropriations. What do you think?"

He also called attention to a "Delegates Bar-South", and Delegates Bar-North, located in the celebrated United Nations Building. We believe that if every State Farm Bureau had a few of these facts presented in their conventions, they would withdraw any statement they may have in support of United Nations, just as Texas Delegates did in November.

in a 3200 foot diameter circle, sprinkling 185 acres in one revolution.

Designed and manufactured by the Valley Manufacturing Company of Nebraska, the system has just been put into operation on the Millen place.

It is operating on a 10 inch well and is expected to put two inches of water in the ground at a watering which will be complete in six days.

There is a sprinkler head every 30 feet with automatic adjustments which keep each portion of the long pipe moving in line with the rest of the system. When one end of the pipe begins to lag behind, automatic valves increase the flow of water to actuating valves which speed up the turning wheels.

It is an awesome sight to see the 1600 foot pipe trundling slowly around the field unattended, the big wheels moving over the furrows, and the sprinkler heads revolving a spray of water onto the ground beneath.

4 REASONS WHY STEEL PIPE IS YOUR BEST BUY

1. Steel Pipe Is Proved

Nothing is stronger than steel. No substitute has been found which combines the durability, strength, and lasting economy of steel. With steel pipe for your water lines and well casing there is no weak link. There is complete dependability.

2. Joints Are Welded

No joint can be as good as a welded joint. Welding is not a temporary connection, nor is it one that is "just as good". Welding forms a permanent bond between two lengths of steel pipe. A bond that is leakproof and maintenance free.

3. Permanent, Long Life

Properly coated steel pipe will last indefinitely. Protective coatings nullify the effects of moisture, soil chemicals, electrolytic action, etc. Not only is the protected steel pipe long lasting, but you know that you can depend on it to be trouble-free.

4. Steel Pipe Is Priced Right

You can get all the advantages of steel pipe; long life, positive joints, maintenance free for the same price as a competitive substitute and synthetic materials. Don't be caught with a poor piping job that can shut your irrigation down. Remember, the water comes all of the way in a steel pipe. Make sure it gets to where you want it in steel. Play it safe with dependable, proved STEEL PIPE. Steel Pipe will stand pressure in connection with sprinkler irrigation systems. We are now equipped to install underground Steel Pipe and Sprinkler Irrigation Systems.

Babson Discusses

RETAIL STORES

Babson Park, Mass., Feb. 14 — I am concerned about the fate of the independent retailer in today's highly competitive markets. He is not keeping pace with chain store operators who spend large sums of money on new equipment, new lighting, intensive advertising and promotion.

COSTS HAVE SKYROCKETED
Independent merchants must pay just as much as the large chain operators for advertising space in newspapers and magazines. Often they must pay more proportionately for goods they stock because they cannot buy in such large quantities as the chains. Also, independent retailers are faced with increasing demands for higher employee wages and greater fringe benefits after these concessions are obtained initially by employees of big stores. Too many independent retailers have already succumbed to these pressures.

These chains have helped mightily, however, in bringing down the total cost of distribution. Their savings in buying, in window dressing and display, they share with their customers. They have made and are making a great contribution to the betterment of the American way of life.

WHAT INDEPENDENT RETAILERS CAN NOW DO

The independent merchant who prefers waiting on customers to waiting for his turn at golf has little to worry about. There always will be a demand for his personal attention on the part of certain customers. They are willing to pay for this personal attention as well as for credit and delivery. Of course, the independent merchant must be willing to advertise and secure a good location with plenty of show windows, always kept attractive. To believe, however, that he is destined to be pushed out of business by department stores or chain stores or mail order houses is a mistaken idea.

Retailers can further be helped by the plans of the UNITED INFORMATION SERVICE, with headquarters at 6 Madison Lane, New York City. This service enables consumers to learn quickly (any time between 6:00 a.m. and midnight) where they can get any desired merchandise. This shortens the time between the consumer's reading of an advertisement and his getting into a retail store. Cutting his time in half has the effect of doubling retail sales. Furthermore, it enables a group of merchants to save the expense of keeping open evenings by co-operating to concentrate evening inquiries through one channel.

IMPORTANCE OF DISTRIBUTION
The rapid rise of our country to a position of world power and the simultaneous expansion of our industrial economy give ample evidence that we can produce above and beyond our needs. The war needs of ourselves and our allies provided a challenge in production. Wealth in abundance, in the form of goods and services, we have learned to produce.

However, we have been practically standing still in distribution, except for the development of the chain "S" and "U" variety stores, the chain supermarkets, and the chain drug stores. There, however, is much more to be done.

SELLING OUR GOODS ABROAD

In addition to making plans for easier and cheaper movement of our production into our own domestic consumer channels, I forecast that we will also take steps to sell more American-made products abroad. These products are urgently needed in many parts of the world where disease is rampant because of food and other deficiencies. However, no plan has yet succeeded which would make surplus in some nations available to needy people in other nations, without upsetting the economic balance between individual countries or groups of countries.

We must help solve the problem of the growing imbalance between the "have" and the "have-not" nations. Communism has made great strides in Europe, Asia, and Africa largely because Soviet leaders have been so successful in pointing to the "selfish and wasteful" living standards in the U. S. American movies shown abroad are largely responsible for this. Positive steps toward solving the problem of international distribution would thereby remove the greatest grievance upon which Communism feeds.

THIS WEEK

-In Washington

Clinton Davidson

Agriculture Secretary Benson has made it perfectly plain to Congress that he now has just about everything he wants except money, to run his kind of a farm program this year.

The only "must" farm legislation put before Congress, or likely to be suggested, is elimination of acreage allotments for corn. That, and more than $5 billion in all he feels he needs to cut down on excess production, whittle down surpluses and push farm income up.

The heart of the Administration farm program consists of three main parts—(1) adjustable price supports, (2) the soil bank, and (3) the surplus disposal program, including subsidized exports.

He has, in all probability, four years in which to make that program produce the desired results, before war or other unexpected developments. In order to succeed, that program must raise net farm purchasing power by at least 20%.

A majority of Congress have about decided to let Benson have a reasonably free hand in carrying out his program. A veto of the Democrats' farm bill last year convinced most of Congress that they have no other choice.

Flexible price supports will be used for two purposes. First, to induce farmers to shift production from crops in surplus to other uses; and second, to encourage additional consumption and exports through lower prices.

The purpose of the soil bank is to compensate farmers for taking as many as 45 million acres out of crops already in surplus supply. These are corn, cotton, wheat, tobacco and rice. Congress has authorized $1.2 billion a year to be used in paying farmers for taking land out of crops.

The surplus removal program is aimed at whitening down the $3.5 billion worth of crops acquired or controlled under the price support program. Benson's job is to get rid of the surplus as fast as farmers put new production into the CCC stockpile.

He has available several programs to do that. The first is a cut-rate export sales program under which foreign currencies are accepted as payment for farm commodities shipped abroad. During the past 18 months he sold $3 billion worth of surpluses to foreign countries.

In addition he has available approximately $1 billion a year to finance relief and other give-away programs, including the School Lunch program. Likewise, he has authority to barter farm surpluses abroad for certain strategic metals and other goods to be put into our defense stockpile.

During the past year, Benson has succeeded in reducing CCC holdings of surpluses by about $1 billion. How much that has cost is difficult to estimate because there is no way of estimating value of the nearly $2 billion in foreign currencies he has accepted as payment.

USDA has estimated its price support costs for the year at $1.8 billion, but that includes almost $1 billion worth of commodities given away. A conservative estimate is that USDA is spending $2 for each $1 reduction in the surplus stockpile.

The soil bank probably is the biggest question mark in the Benson program. If it fails to make a substantial cut in production, the Secretary will be in trouble and so will farmers. Unless production is reduced, surpluses will continue to depress farm prices. It is a big, and possibly costly, gamble.

Yours faithfully, J. A.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

God's great healing and saving power will be brought out at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Scriptural selections will include the following from Matthew (15:30): "And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them."

Subject of the Lesson-Sermon is "Soul" a word which, when capitalized, is used in Christian Science as one of the synonyms for God. Passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (210:11-16):

Knowing that Soul and its attributes were forever manifested through man, the Master healed the sick, gave sight to the blind, hearing to the deaf, feet to the lame, thus bringing to light the scientific action of the divine Mind on human minds and bodies and giving a better understanding of Soul and salvation."

Sand Hills Philosopher Baffled

BY EXPERT'S OPPOSITION TO DROUTH LEGISLATION

Editor's note: The Sand Hills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm has been doing some drouth-stricken thinking, if you want to call it that. His letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:
I was reading along in a news article out of Washington last night with my mind sort of idling when suddenly I went back over the same item because something in it had slipped up on me and shocked me awake.

There it was in the second paragraph. It was a statement by an agricultural expert who was opposing a drouth relief bill in Congress on the grounds that it "would create more problems than it would solve."

This brought my feet down off the chair they were propped on and set me to thinking hard. This is one of the strangest reasons for opposing anything I ever heard of.

If people are going to stop passing bills or thinking up inventions or doing anything else just because they'll create more problems than they solve, we might as well call off Congress, close up the state legislatures, shut down the colleges, and outlaw the automobiles.

Take the automobile, for example. In view of the fact more people have been killed in car wrecks than in all the wars we've ever fought, who is there to say the car hasn't created more problems than it's solved? But also who is there to say the car ought to be outlawed right when most people haven't got their half paid for?

Or take Muleshoe. Anybody knows there are more problems on the piece of ground occupied by Muleshoe now than there were when it was still in cultivation. Parking problems, traffic problems, paved street problems, sewer problems, water main problems, fire problems, school problems, juvenile delinquency problems, tax problems — obviously the people who built Muleshoe created more problems than they solved, but I have an idea you'd be the last person who'd be in favor of abolishing the place.

You set up the standard that every move mankind makes has to solve more problems than it creates and modern civilization will come to a halt.

Drouth legislation may create more problems that it solves, but to a man in the middle of a drouth, having some problems he can't solve is standard fare, nothing new to him in that, and if anybody wants to legislate in favor of a drouth-stricken man, you won't hear him complaining. It's pretty hard to take a long-range view on short-term credit.

Yours faithfully, J. A.

TODAY'S MEDITATION

God Loves Every Man
Read John 8:12-20.
That was the true Light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world. (John 1:9).

While I was passing Singapore one night the water was calm. There were several light-houses around. As I stood on our ship, I was fascinated by the fact that regardless of the direction from which they came, the beams of light from each light-house made a path of light to my feet.

It seemed as if the beams were for me only, until I realized they were for anyone who cared to see them.

If it were possible for all persons in the world to stand in any direction in sight of a light-house, the beams would reach all persons.

So it is with God's love; it is like a beam shining in every direction providing a two-way communication channel between God and us. God extend His love to every believer in the world and to the non-believer also. Christ has said: "All that the Father giveth me shall come to me; and him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out."

PRAYER

Dear heavenly Father, we thank Thee for Thy faithfulness to us. Give us the willingness to see Thy light and incline our hearts to walk in it. In the name of Jesus Christ, our Light, we pray. Amen.

Muleshoe Mules Win District 1-AA Championship

Mules Win Eighth Conference Game Last Friday Night

Friday night the Mules won their eighth conference game by downing Dalhart 65-52. The Mulettes, after leading all the way, were upset by one point with only seven seconds remaining in the game.

The Mules' in a rather cool exhibition, got off to a slow start before stopping the fired-up Dalhart Wolves. At the end of the first period of play, Muleshoe led by only one point. This lead can be credited to Bill Black's accuracy in the free throw circle. He missed only one free shot the entire game.

Even so, the Mules had a cold night, hitting 19 of 63 attempted field goals, and 27 of 45 free shots. Dalhart scored on 20 of 29 free shots.

The end of the first half found the Mules out ahead by six points. In a last quarter surge, the Wolves trimmed slightly the Mules' third period 51-33 lead.

Don "Oakie" Alexander, making it his best game of the season, dropped in 25 points to lead the game's scoring column. Bill Black hit an unusual 11 out of 12 free shots. Eddie Wilt was one of the big reasons the Wolves hit only 20 of 57 attempted field goals.

MULETTES LOSE

The Mulettes lost their game by a heartbreaking one point. In this thrilling, through low-scoring game, the Mulettes led until the fourth quarter. Late in the final period, Dalhart closed the gap and the lead seasawed between the two teams.

Mules Lose Anti-Climax Game To Olton Mustangs

The Muleshoe Mules ended their conference play in a very cold way Friday night, failing before Olton 47-44. On the other hand, the Mulettes ended their season in high style, downing the Olton girls 52-45.

Playing in their own gym, and at full strength, the Mustangs completely dominated the boys game. The Mules played most of the game minus the service of their top scorer, Bill Black, who is recovering from a badly bruised arm.

Possibly the small court bottled up the Muleshoe team; nevertheless, they had a cold night, hitting very few of their shots. Perhaps the only way the Mules were outstanding was on the rebounds. Muleshoe controlled the majority of these. Otherwise, they looked at one bit like the team which downed Tulsa 75-54 two weeks ago.

Scoring for both teams was the same in all but one quarter. Don Alexander was high for Muleshoe with 17. For the winners, Kirk McAdams had 16, James Hyatts and Teddy Estes each had 10.

The Mulettes' game was just the reverse story, as they romped to a 52-45 victory over the cellar dwelling girls.

Mary Jo Holt started the nights scoring with a long shot from near mid-court.

The end of the first half found the Mulettes out ahead 25-0. A third quarter surge put them ahead 41 to 26.

While the forwards poured in the points, the guards, Jan Puckett, Bobbie Nell King and Gwen Williams kept the Olton offense from gaining many scoring opportunities.

Shirley Mathisen and Sandra Briscoe led the scoring for Muleshoe with 19 points each. Mary Jo Holt had 14.

Latrell Stewart made 16, and Billy Watts 15 for the losers.

Joe Salem Is Rotary Speaker

ideal of service. Using the Rotary motto, "Service Above Self", Mr. Salem developed an inspiring talk on the warmth that comes to one who performs even the smallest service for others.

He quoted the second Commandment "Thou Shalt Love Thy Neighbor as Thyself", and said that Love is the great influence and motivating force in the world.

Mr. Salem was introduced by John Miller, who was in charge of the program. J. M. Forbes gave a brief news review.

Guests included Rotarians E. A. Bills, district judge, and Bob Rogers, court reporter, Littlefield; Malcomb Coleman and Hugh Jones, Clovis, N. M.; J. W. Miller, Guy Walden, and Drew Watkins, Sudan club.

"THE STRENGTH AND CHARACTER OF A COMMUNITY IS OFTEN REFLECTED IN THE CARE AND RESPECT OF ITS DECEASED"

CONGRATULATIONS!

TO A WIDE AWAKE, PROGRESSIVE, THOUGHTFUL COMMUNITY ON THE TREMENDOUS SUCCESS THAT YOU HAVE MADE OF YOUR MEMORIAL PARK

WE ARE NOW IN THE PROCESS OF CLOSING OUR HOME PROGRAM

We refer to this as YOUR Park because that is exactly what it is. This Park was established and designed for YOU PEOPLE in this area so that you might have the Very Best resting place for your loved ones that money can buy at an extremely low cost.

Even though your park is just a little over two years old there is no doubt with reference to its beauty, constant Perpetual Care and careful planning that it now reflects that success Has Been Achieved.

In the beginning we dedicated this park to the people of this area with the thought in mind that you would have a place of beauty combined with a very sacred feeling of respect and love for your loved ones that have always been so close to your hearts during their stay on this earth.

Not only does this show that they were loved and appreciated on earth but that you have made every effort possible to prepare for them a place of beauty and care in their final resting place — not to be forgotten — ever.

When opening the park we set aside or dedicated what we thought was and always would be the most beautiful section of the park, Gardens No. 1 (Garden of Devotion) and Garden No. 2 (Garden of the Last Supper) to the people for pre-need selection on our Home Educational Explanatory Program where at that time we not only give a very generous discount but explain in every detail the meaning and functions of Memorial property.

This program is yours for the asking under no obligation whatsoever on your part. This service is rendered by your park so that we might help by enlightening you and your family on any question or problem that you might be confronted with in reference to selecting the proper resting place for your loved ones.

In the home and in the home only can we be of service at pre-need selecting.

We are happy to be of any service that we possibly can at times of need but in the home at pre-need it is much easier on the family to discuss things of this nature while the family is in a happy frame of mind and under no stress or strain of bereavement.

In the home and in the home only is it possible for the family to make this selection together where at that time discount, terms and a very choice selection can be had.

Selection in the front section of the park is rapidly coming to a close, thanks to those that have taken an interest in your park and have given their families a few minutes of very careful thought and consideration in respect to a beautiful resting place in the future.

At this time we still have several very choice family selections that may be had under our home program.

If you are interested in learning more about our Home Program under no obligation, please fill in the following and mail to our office. We will do our best to see that you are contacted at your home at your convenience under no obligation whatsoever on your part.

We want you to feel that this is your park and anything that we can do for you or any service that we can render is part of our obligation to you.

Don't wait or put this very important decision off any longer — Give your family this protection that they duly deserve.
