Learning New Job

Mrs. Tom Phillips, left, newly appointed county welfare officer, goes over some of the records of the office with Mary L. Cantrell, who is resigning from the post effective March 10. Mrs. Phillips was appointed to the post by the county commissioners Thursday afternoon.

County Appoints Welfare Officer

Mrs. Tom (Ruby) Phillips, whose home is 901 W. 3rd, is Howard County's new public welfare officer. She was selected by the Howard County Commissioners Court Thursday afternoon.

She will begin her duties at once. Her pay will be $285 per month plus $75 per month car allowance.

Mrs. Phillips attended high school in Hall County and had two years at Wayland College, Plainview. She has never engaged in welfare work but she has had related experience. She is a former kindergarten teacher.

She came to Big Spring from San Diego, Calif. She and her husband operate the Alamo Tourist Courts on West Third.

She was one of nearly 40 applicants who filed for the job when Mary L. Cantrell, welfare officer for nearly 15 years, announced her resignation a week ago.

The commissioners interviewed all applicants personally.

A special meeting was called for Thursday afternoon to make a final selection. Several of the applicants were considered. The field was reduced to four.

Joe Hayden moved that A. E. (Shorty) Long, former juvenile officer, be named as welfare officer. The motion was seconded by Rufus Stallings. On a vote, Stallings and Hayden voted "aye" and L. J. Davidson and Ralph White voted "no".

Ed Carpenter, county judge, joined with Davidson and White, breaking the tie and eliminating Long.

Stallings then nominated Mrs. Phillips. Hayden seconded the motion. After some discussion, a vote was called and she was selected unanimously.

Miss Cantrell had asked to be relieved of her duties not later than March 10. Mrs. Phillips informed the court that she was ready to go to work at once. She plans to work with Miss Cantrell for a few days in order to familiarize herself with some of the details of the job.

Freed Fliers Face First News Parley

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Two Air Force captains today will have their first chance to give the public a dramatic story.

On July 1, 1960, Soviet fighter planes shot down an American jet reconnaissance plane over the Barents Sea.

Thus far, the public knows only these few facts:

Six men were aboard the downed plane. The Soviets sent one body back to America. Two were imprisoned, nearly seven months. The other three are missing.

Capt. Freeman B. Olmstead and John R. McKone, released from a Soviet prison Jan. 25, have been shielded by the Air Force from newsmen since their return.

Today they will be questioned by reporters for the first time.

The two captains have much to tell: How their jet plane was shot down. How they were plucked from the icy sea. Where they were imprisoned. How they were questioned, and how they spent the long months away from their families.

The Air Force has said only that the plane was mapping magnetic fields; was not over Soviet territory, and that Olmstead and McKone don't know what happened to the missing crewmen.

Missing are Maj. Eugene E. Pea, 38, Visalia, Calif.; 1st Lt. Dean B. Phillips, 25, Sacramento, Calif.; and 1st Lt. Oscar L. Goforth, 26, Sardis, Okla.

Capt. William A. Palm, 39, Oak Ridge, Tenn., was killed.

The crew and their RB47 plane were stationed at Forbes Air Force Base near Topeka and were sent abroad in June, 1960.

Aggies To Treat 800

A spaghetti and chili supper sponsored by the A&M Club will mean a feast Saturday for about 800 patients and staff members of the state hospital.

As entertainment to go along with the meal, the club has scheduled a musical program during the supper.

Food will be provided by the A&M Club and members and hospital personnel will help with preparations.

22 Mine Workers Die In Underground Blast

Construction Continues To Mark Big Gains

Building permits issued for February of this year went almost a quarter million dollars over those for the same month in 1960. For January and February, 1961, permits went over the same period for 1960 by well over a quarter million.

New residences have accounted for the major portion of the building in the first two months.

In January, 12 permits were issued for new residences amounting to $184,750. In February, 30 permits were issued, running to $329,500.

There were no permits issued in January for new business construction, but there were two in February for $20,400.

Total building for January ran to $204,300 and for February $389,835.

A breakdown for the months of February last year and this year show the following, with the first figure being for 1960: new business, none and $20,400; additions to business buildings, $42,075 and $2,500; remodeling business, $11,000 and none; demolishing business buildings, $750 and $1,287; new residences, $73,200 and $329,500; addition to residences, $7,950 and $10,910; remodeling residences, $9,000 and $4,900; demolishing residences, none and $1,575; re-roofing residences (included in remodeling for 1960) for 1961, $1,706. Total for all types, $148,340 and $389,835.

The February total is above all months in 1960 except July.

Stanton To Vote Saturday On School Bond Issue

STANTON — Voters of the Stanton Independent School District will decide Saturday whether to issue $160,000 in bonds to finance a combination school auditorium and band hall.

If voters approve and the project is undertaken, and if there should be any residue, the additional funds would be used to construct a concession stand and other improvements at the football field. Plans for the work are being handled by Pierce Norris and Pace, Midland architects.

The voting place is the elementary school and polling hours are 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Connie Mack Hood, board president, said that the issue would not necessarily mean an increase in the tax rate since normal increase of values should be sufficient to care for the additional debt service.

The proposed auditorium would have a seating capacity of 500, ample for most community gatherings.

Stars Appear Here

Imogene Coca, Edward Everett Horton and King Donovan, entertainment celebrities, will appear at the John H. Lees Service Club at Webb AFB Sunday at 8:30 p.m. Their variety program will be free to all service personnel and civilian employees of Webb.

JOHN STANLEY

E. C. SMITH

Two More Candidates File In City Contest

Two more names had been listed today with the city secretary, as candidates for places on the City Commission, subject to the election of April 4.

New aspirants to places on the council are E. C. Smith, building contractor and land developer, and John Stanley, hardware store proprietor.

Their filing brings to five the total number of candidates bidding for two places on the commission. Saturday midnight is the deadline for getting a name on the ticket.

STATEMENT

Smith issued a statement which said:

"I feel that I could be of some service to the city of Big Spring, especially in the handling of the $4,300,000 that will be spent in capital improvements over the next few years, because of my experience in the development field as well as the building industry."

"Should the people choose to elect me as a commissioner, I would exert my energies to seeing that the commission would establish municipal policies and to seeing that the city administrators be responsible for carrying out such policies. I would also do my best to see that all citizens are informed as to municipal policies, and that every citizen would have an opportunity to be heard on these. I would want the commission to hear any citizen, at any reasonable time, on any matter."

SINCE 1954

Smith has been in Big Spring since 1954, and has been active in various civic and fraternal activities. He was reared in Rule, Texas, completed high school there, attended college in San Angelo after seeing service with the Navy in World War II.

In addition to his development work, Smith operates farms in Howard and Haskell counties, has a small herd of cattle on a ranch near Brady, and has some oil interests in the Sterling City-Water Valley area.

He is a member of the American Business Club, the American Legion, and the Big Spring Country Club. He has been active in Shrine activities and presently heads the Big Spring Shrine Club.

Investigations said there were indications of a struggle in the room where the bloody bodies were found.

Police said Mrs. Hagans' new sedan was missing.

Roebuck went to the brick home near downtown Nacogdoches after neighbors became alarmed when they failed to see Mrs. Hagans for several days.

Roebuck said he found eight editions of a daily newspaper on the front lawn.

Roebuck found the door locked. He broke in after receiving no answer to his knock. The women were lying with their heads together, he said.

Food was on the table. Roebuck said it appeared the two women finished eating shortly before their death.

Justice of Peace H. W. Whitten said no weapon was found.

Mrs. Hagans lived alone. She owned considerable real estate in the Nacogdoches area. Outside of periodic checks on her property, she lived a rather secluded life.

Smith was general coordinator of volunteer efforts that built the Crippled Children's Center here.

Smith and his family—there are four children—live at 1701 Yale. They are members of the Baptist Temple Church.

15 YEARS

Stanley, 39, has been a resident of Big Spring for 15 years and owns his home at 1106 Mt. Vernon.

He and Mrs. Stanley have a 5-year-old daughter.

"Several people have talked with me about service on the City Commission," he said, "and I am willing to submit my name so that the voters at large may make a choice. I have no special interests to represent, no magic promises to make. Basically, I believe that the commission's actions and policies ought to reflect the desires of the people. When they do not, our democratic principles are affected.

"I would want to work in harmony with other members of the commission in the interests of a sound, conservative city government, one that is responsive to our real needs."

HARDWARE STORE

Throughout his residence here, Stanley has been associated with his father in the hardware store bearing his name. He is a veteran member of the American Business Club and is a past president. He and his family attend the E. 4th St. Baptist Church.

Stanley had five and a half years active service in the field artillery during World War II, and spent 19 months in the Pacific. He still holds a first lieutenant's commission on an inactive status.

Rescuers Brave Heat, Deadly Gas

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)—

Twenty-two miners died in a flash explosion deep in a coal shaft Thursday night. Their torn, burned bodies were hauled out by masked workers in a hazardous 10-hour operation.

"We don't know what caused the explosion," the mine general manager said, "but we're going to start an investigation tomorrow morning to find out."

The 22nd body was carried out in a clattering mine rail car at 7:35 a.m. today. It had been about six hours since the first body was found.

The blast ripped through a shaft deep in the Viking mine about eight miles southwest of Terre Haute.

Pockets of intense heat and deadly coal gas threatened the operation and forced the rescuers to push forward with the greatest care.

They said there was danger of another explosion, and as they moved forward they sprayed chemicals to prevent it. State Police put up rope barriers 15 yards from the shaft to keep grieving relatives from danger.

The explosion was so far underground that nobody heard it, and mine officials were unable to pinpoint the time.

Just when the explosion was discovered was not clear, either. Apparently the first indication came about 7:45 p.m. when an air pressure gauge on the surface dropped to zero. An official attempted to telephone the miners and got no response to repeated, frantic ringing.

Then coal dust was seen billowing from the shaft.

Twenty-two other miners in another section were immediately ordered to the surface.

What touched off the explosion was not known. There was speculation that the miners broke through into an old shaft in which deadly coal gas had accumulated.

As soon as the explosion was discovered, fresh air was poured into the mine, but it had no chance of penetrating the wall of swirling dust, smoke and fumes—and, anyway, all 22 men apparently died in the blast.

The men were 265 feet below the surface and about three miles back in the sloping shaft.

Birch Brooks, vice president and general manager of the Viking Coal Corp., said, "We will have to check their belt numbers to identify them."

A rescue worker said: "You couldn't see anything in there. The smoke was black as night."

The mine has a total of about 200 employees working in shifts around the clock to provide fuel for the nearby Wabash power plant of the Public Service Company of Indiana.

Off-duty miners rushed to the shaft to aid the state mine rescue crew, headed by Charles A. Purcell, Indiana director of mines and mining.

The mine is about 200 yards west of the Wabash River in desolate hilly country.

The bleak scene was illuminated only by two or three floodlights. About 200 persons stood in the dark and cold outside the rope barrier manned by State Police—most of them families and friends of the trapped miners.

A woman standing next to a reporter asked the time. When he told her, she said: "Oh, my God, I've only been here an hour and a half and it seems like all night."

Tax Measure With Built-In Stretchers Ready For Solons

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas legislators have a chance next week to work on a tax bill with built-in stretchers.

Both houses are in adjournment until Monday.

Thursday, the House Revenue and Taxation Committee recommended passage of a bill (HB344) designed to close $7.7 million in present tax loop holes. It will be on the House calendar Monday.

On its face the bill proposes to gather about $3 million by changing the bookkeeping system for state cigarette taxes without actually increasing the tax; to raise $3.8 million by reinstating a 3 per cent excise tax on additional parts of home air conditioners, and almost another million by changes in current taxes on coin operated machines.

However, the House committee Thursday changed the wording of the bill's caption, which purports to tell briefly what is in a legislative proposal.

Committee Chairman Charles Ballman, Borger, said the committee had been assured by the House parliamentarian that the new caption "is broad enough for this bill to be amended on the floor to include sales taxes or even a general sales tax."

The committee then voted a special invitation to Rep. John Allen, Longview, author of the only introduced general sales tax bill, and Rep. Jack Connell, Wichita Falls, author of a $50 deductible "luxury" tax bill, to bring their measure out for public hearings. The House Labor Committee heard and referred to subcommittee a bill (HB44) by Rep. Ted Springer of Amarillo to standardize wage rates on public projects in different areas of the state.

Springer's bill would empower the State Labor Commissioner to divide the state up into wage areas with similar economic characteristics and to determine the prevailing wages for construction work in those sections.

A bill aimed at protecting growers and migrant farm workers from abuses by unscrupulous crew leaders also was heard by the Labor Committee.

Representatives of organized labor, the Texas Committee for Migrant Workers and the Bishop's People testified in behalf of the bill (HB50) by Rep. Don Kennard, Fort Worth. It was opposed by a representative of the Texas Farm Bureau.

Kennard's bill would require crew leaders to meet state license requirements. Texas now does not license crew leaders.

Rep. Jim Wright of Fort Worth, in the other television show, appealed to viewers at El Paso, Port Arthur, San Angelo, San Antonio and Wichita Falls. Wright said he was sponsoring a $600 income tax deduction to parents of each child attending a college or university. He said he also has prepared legislation for using farm surpluses "to feed the hungry and clothe the naked."

In Austin, Secretary of State Frank Lane told prospective candidates that they must have their applications and $50 filing fee in his office by noon Saturday. Mail received after that hour, he said, would not be acceptable regardless of the postmark.

Three more persons filed for a place on the ballot, bringing the total to a massive 52 candidates. The latest to file were Carl Schrade, 59, of Runge; Harold Franklin, 43, of Jacksonville; and Jim W. Amos, 58, of Dallas, all unknown politically.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said Fort Worth congressman Wright has lost his status as a major candidate. He termed Wright's candidacy insignificant and said efforts to make Wright appear "as the anointed one" in the race had failed.

In Washington, Sen. William A. Bickley, serving on an interim appointment in the post for which he and 51 others now are running, introduced a bill to provide tax relief for parents of college and high school students.

The Bickley measure proposes a $1,200 educational exemption on income taxes for each full time college student and $400 for each high school student.

More Candidates Join As Senate Race Gets Warmer

By CLAYTON HICKERSON

Associated Press Staff Writer

Three more candidates, including another woman, got into the crowded U. S. Senate race Friday.

Newest ones paying their $50 filing fees were Joyce Bradshaw, 36, newspaper columnist of Carriazo Springs; Delbert Grandstaff, 61, teacher, West Columbia; and Bennie Faber, 67, Leon County surveyor of Flynn, Tex.

The secretary of state's office said it is still counting J. G. Barker of Marshall, who has said he is withdrawing from the race but has not notified the secretary of state. Unless the withdrawal is received before the deadline at noon Saturday, Barker's name will go on the ballot. Even if Barker withdraws before the deadline, his $50 filing fee will not be returned.

There were attacks, innuendoes, flanking movements and all sorts of battle strategy becoming evident as the battle settled down between top candidates.

A possible future candidate for Governor of Texas was broadcast over statewide television when Senate candidate, Maury Maverick Jr. so introduced a supporter, Judge Jim Sewell of Corsicana.

Maverick "formally" opened his Senate campaign via television with a galaxy of liberal supporters helping him. They included Sewell, blind Navy veteran of World War II; Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham of New Waverly; and Dill Crain, St. Mary's University law professor.

Endorsements were read from Mrs. R. D. (Frankie) Randolph, former Democratic National Committeewoman and Mrs. Jud Collier, chairman of the State Democratic Women's Committee.

Three more persons filed for a place on the ballot, bringing the total to a massive 52 candidates. The latest to file were Carl

GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY IN Big Spring Resources SAVINGS ON THE INCREASE

(Sixth and last of a series)

Big Spring and Howard County people have laid up a tidy sum for a rainy day. Consequently, there exists a golden opportunity for alert merchandisers to make it rain.

In conventional local sources, residents had laid aside $16,190.649 at the end of last year. This does not include another $659,362.78 invested in U.S. Savings Bonds by Howard Countians.

The remarkable thing about the savings figure is not alone in its total, but more in the degree of gain. During 1960, the aggregate savings increased 35 per cent in these sources.

There are indications that the pace continued in January. For instance, the First Federal Savings and Loan Association had share accounts of $8,546,680 at the end of last year. During January, the net increase in share volume was $326,884, or 3.8 per cent for one month. In January, the U.S. Savings Bond sales ran to $71,669, which was somewhat above the rate a year ago.

Here are parts of the savings story at the end of the past year:

Local banks had $4,436,942 in savings accounts out of total deposits of $33,997,000. While the deposit figure was up only slightly, the savings total showed a gain of more than one-third.

Federal (and state) credit unions reported an aggregate of $3,122,223 in share accounts, nearly doubling the totals of the previous year. Postal savings alone dwindled, but only $84,903 of the entire total is in this source.

Conclusion: Things are pretty sound here in the heart of the opportunity belt.

The New T-37

Capt. James P. Fogarty, chief of standardization board in Pilot Training Group, looks on as Maj. Bill Hillen, T-37 project officer, tries the controls of the new T-37, side-by-side jet training craft, to be used in the Webb AFB training program.

Twin-Jet Comes To Webb As Trainer

The U.S. Air Force twin-jet T-37 aircraft will be used in conducting the primary phase of flying training at Webb AFB when the undergraduate pilot training program is implemented next month. The T-37 is built by Cessna.

This sleek 440 m.p.h. class jet represents the first U.S. Air Force jet designed from the drawing board up, specifically for flight instruction.

The T-37's colorful history actually began in 1952 with the Air Force request for proposals for a new jet trainer.

To meet its objectives, the Air Force specified that the new trainer must meet such requirements as: Have a maximum empty weight of 4,000 pounds to limit cost and complexity; flight handling characteristics to match the most modern operational fighters; a 35,000 foot service ceiling with sufficient high altitude maneuverability to completely orient students; and have a maximum traffic pattern speed of 113 knots to assure good low-speed handling characteristics.

AWARD IN 1952

Late in 1952, Cessna Aircraft Corporation received notification that its design proposal had been judged the winner of the industry-wide competition and the work began.

The T-37 had its first flight, in October 1954 and the first production model rolled out in September 1955. Following a complete series of tests, the T-37 began USAF operations when ATC received it in December 1956.

Since then this intermediate trainer has been setting new training records and motivating new training concepts.

Two J-69-F-25 turbojet engines with a thrust of 1,025 pounds each makes up the T-37's powerhouse. The engines are arranged in submerged wing root type installation to provide a minimum of duct and tailpipe losses.

Unlike the propeller driven trainers of the past, the T-37 gives future pilots the "feel" of jet flying for the flying characteristics of the T-37 are nearly identical to those of the latest ultrasonic jet tactical aircraft.

Previous T-37 primary training has been conducted at Bainbridge and Spence Air Bases, Ga., Graham and Bartow Air Bases, Fla.; Moore Air Base, Tex., and Mendenhall Air Base, Mo. In Air Training Command's new undergraduate pilot training program students will receive primary training at Williams AFB, Ariz.; Vance AFB, Okla.; Reese AFB, Tex.; Moody AFB, Ga., and Webb.

SIDE - BY - SIDE

The T-37 is the first jet aircraft of its type with side-by-side seating for student and instructor. The seating arrangement well in front of the wing, combined with bubble type canopy provides a high degree of visibility and gives much more efficient training environments than the previous front and back seat arrangement. In fact, according to Webb personnel who have served at T-37 training bases, this is the ideal seating arrangement as the instructor sees every mistake the student makes and can correct it instantaneously.

The wing incidence and fuselage nose contours of the T-37 are such as to promote excellent forward and down vision. A ballistically operated canopy jettison and seat ejection system provides for emergency escape.

The cockpit incorporates a dual stick control arrangement. Duplicate flap, engine, speed brake and landing gear controls are provided to foster the single place concept.

EQUIPMENT

The latest Omni (navigation equipment), and UHF (ultra high frequency communication equipment) is included in the T-37 and complete instrument panel provides for day and night instrument flying.

The instrument panel layout is simple and straight forward, while meeting all the requirements for modern jet aircraft. Duplicate controls and instruments are installed where necessary.

The T-37 has a conventional flight control system. The well matched aerodynamic balance on all three control surfaces allows this system to operate without power boost, even though the speed capabilities of the airplane are high.

Webb students will get their first knowledge of instruments and operations of the twin-jet job in the T-37 flight simulator. The simulators are an exact copy of the T-37 cockpit and the students will practice starting and stopping, emergency procedures, etc., before taking the "live" craft off the ground.

The T-37 carries enough fuel so that a supply of magnitude sufficient for student training is available. Slightly over 2,000 pounds of the aircraft fully loaded maximum weight of 6,575 pounds is fuel. The crew counts for 400 pounds and the empty plane weighs 4,000 pounds. The 29-foot-4-inch long jet trainer has a range of 600 miles.

Low wing and power loading combined with high lift flaps enables the T-37 to operate from short fields during hot weather.

The T-37 measures 30' 10" from wing - tip to wing - tip and careful selection of the wing section and geometry permits satisfactory performance over a wide range. It has a ceiling of 35,000 feet but Webb students will only be operating the craft up to 24,000 feet.

Skirts Called A Fire Danger

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Fashion may frown but a physician told some 3,000 firemen Thursday that little girls ought to wear pants instead of skirts.

Dr. Carl A. Moyer of St. Louis said thousands die each year of burns—with too many cases due to skirts set afire by open flame heaters or fireplaces.

DEAR ABBY

MORE ROPE

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I don't know if this is a coincidence or not, but lately my husband has been making up excuses to go out after supper.

I don't like to be left alone, and I can't go anywhere because we have a baby, so I call up my girl friend to ask her to come over and keep me company. Whenever I call her and my husband is gone, she isn't home either. When my husband is home, so is she. What do you make of it?

SUSPICIOUS
DEAR SUSPICIOUS: If you want to hang this couple on circumstantial evidence, just give them both a little more rope.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 19 years of age and working. She recently complained that when we serve wine or mixed drinks at home (usually only when we have guests) we either do not offer her any, or else her father says, "You don't care for any, do you?" Do you think she could wait a year or two longer? We do.

DEAR D. S.: Today's 19-year-old deserves the dignity of adult treatment. I, too, would prefer that she "wait." But in her own home she should be given the chance to make her own decision.

DEAR ABBY: I am 26, married and have a daughter. When I was 16 I had never dated, which made me feel unwanted and unpopular. I found a way to be "popular." My mother had told me that sex before marriage was wrong, but when I asked her why, she said, "Because I said so." There were never any explanations.

I think if I had known WHY sex should wait until after marriage, it would have changed my life. My husband doesn't respect me because I gave in to him before marriage. He said at the time it would prove I loved him, but now he calls me a tramp and says he will never trust me. I have never been unfaithful to him and never will be.

I am saving your columns for my daughter, Abby. Mothers can tell daughters things, but coming from you it means more. I want more than anything else in the world to see my daughter walk down the aisle in white.

NEVER DID
Yes, Abby will answer your letter personally if you write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Play Pays Off

NEW YORK (AP)—It took 19 months, but "Once Upon a Mattress" has finally paid off its $100,000 production cost. To get into the black, the musical played in five New York theatres and generated two touring companies.

THE UNDENIABLE

Complete Guide

By T. H. Tarnet, preacher, Church of Christ, West Highway 80

In guiding the apostles, that their doctrine might guide us, the Holy Spirit did a complete job of it. He did not guide the apostles into just some of the truth. According to the promise of Christ, the Spirit guided the apostles into "all truth" (Jno. 16:13).

No truth was left out. Nothing remains for the Spirit to guide us into directly. The Christian faith has been completely delivered (Jude 3).

Thus we are told that the purpose of Scripture is "that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works" (II Tim. 3: 16, 17). The Scriptures

Keystone Cops Are Outdone

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Patrolman Joseph Pinson, pursuing a woman driver who had just rammed a parked car, watched in amazement as his quarry circled the block and again rammed the same car.

Cherie Roddey, 25, a private nurse, explained it all to Municipal Judge Albert Cohen.

She said she was angry at her husband when she found his car parked in front of another woman's house.

"I can appreciate your feelings but I must ask you to use other methods to take out your anger," said the judge. He fined Mrs. Roddey $100 and suspended half of it.

CLEANED OUT

BRUNSWICK, Ga. (AP)—An automatic laundry operator reported someone took him to the cleaners to the tune of $70 from his coin changer.

He said a string was tied to a 50-cent piece to make the coin changer spout quarters like a slot machine jackpot.

The laundry is open around the clock but unattended at night.

Another Speaks Out As Women's Rights Champ

DENISON, Tex. (AP) — An indignant Georgia peach, transplanted to Texas soil, hopes her platform of equal rights for women will win her a seat in the U. S. Senate.

Mrs. Martha Tredway is among the more than a score of candidates running in Texas' special election April 4 to select a successor to Lyndon B. Johnson, who resigned to become vice president.

"Maybe we can show the men that women still are to be reckoned with," says Mrs. Tredway, tossing her platinum blonde hair. She will campaign largely for the women's vote.

"I don't care whether I win or not. But I'd like the result to be a mandate for the legislature to call a constitutional amendment election and free the women of this state," she says.

CITES DISCRIMINATION
Mrs. Tredway claims 44 Texas laws discriminate against women in business.

It is not a local issue, explains the 40-year-old candidate with a peaches-and-cream complexion.

"Look at this," she says, brandishing a letter a woman forwarded her to illustrate discrimination. The letter was from a St. Louis firm checking on the credit of a new dress shop operated by a woman. It showed that the husband was required to put up collateral, and credit was established in the husband's name — not the wife's. Yet the husband was in another business.

Mrs. Tredway's enthusiasm for women's rights is only one outlet for her energy. She's also a Cub Scout den mother and active in the Baptist Church, the Texas Manufacturing Association and women's clubs. Every year she travels to markets from coast to coast.

ROAD TO TEXAS
She became a Texan by a round-about method. Born Martha Carey in Madison, Ga., where her father was a civil engineer and surveyor, she attended Piedmont College in Demorest, Ga., 2½ years.

But 11 years ago she was living in Reno, Nev., where she and her husband owned a motel, when something happened to change their "nice, slow, easy life," as she describes it.

It was time for the annual Reno rodeo, and the rodeo boosters asked residents to "do something different."

"I can't tell you today what anyone else did," she relates. "But I can assure you that what I did was different."

INTO BUSINESS
Her son, Randy, was 10 months old, so she fashioned him a pair of diapers from heavy blue denim — the cloth of the West — and strapped a tiny six-gun on him.

"It was a show stopper," says the winsome blonde. "Photographers shot the rodeo and they shot Randy, but Randy got the spreads."

The Tredways almost instantly were buried by letters. Everybody wanted a pair of blue jeans, recalls her husband. "So finally we decided the best thing to do was to start making them."

They sold their motel and returned to Texas — Tredway's home state — to go into business together. They named their firm "Diaper Jeans, Inc.," and soon branched out into a complete line of children's clothing and linens.

DISLIKES LAWS
She cuts the material and fashions the clothing. Then an artist draws the design — reversing the usual procedure.

"Ever since Diaper Jeans, Inc., was born, we've been badgered by the laws involving married women in business in not only Texas but in many other states," she declares indignantly.

Her Senate candidacy announcement drew quick response. For instance, former Rep. Wingate Lucas, formerly of Texas and now of New York, wrote, "Stick by your platform of women's rights and don't let the professional politicians get you involved in other issues."

WHAT ARE CHANCES?
But her chances of winning the election are a question. She will be running against at least a half dozen well-known political figures, all of whom appear to be well financed and who are active campaigning.

Mrs. Tredway, a Democrat, says she doesn't plan to stump the state. Much of her campaigning will be through the Business and Professional Women's Clubs, in which she is active, and other women's clubs. The BP&W long has advocated equal rights for women.

One letter from a staunch supporter advises: "Go ahead and make an active campaign, and if your husband gets in the way, then sue him for a divorce and show him just how you stand."

But Mrs. Tredway has no plans to divorce her No. 1 campaigner.

Hat Styling Feature Of OWC Luncheon
Paper sacks at members' places held makings of spring hats at the luncheon given Thursday for the Officers' Wives Club at Webb AFB.

From the material at hand, the group made hats which were judged, with Mrs. Jack Wickard winning first place in the millinery display.

Girl Scout Troops, 290 and 300, presented the international flag ceremony; in deference to the scouts, the speakers' table was decorated with yellow roses, flower of the organization.

Other tables held multi-colored balloons made into faces under spring hats fashioned of paper plates.

Col. Donald W. Eisenhower was speaker for the afternoon, explaining the changes which are being made in the training program at Webb and illustrating his talk with slides.

Credit Rating Is Subject Of Talk By Mrs. Eubanks
Mrs. James Eubanks, speaking before members of the Credit Women's Club, Thursday at noon, told the group of the importance of keeping good credit rating.

The club met in the Golden Pheasant Lounge for luncheon; Mrs. Judy Kuykendall offered the invocation, and Mrs. J. B. Apple reported on her trip to the recent meeting of credit executives in Austin. She recounted her visit to the state Senate when debate was taking place on the bill for women's rights.

Mrs. A. G. Eitzen was in charge of the program, presented for 19. Mrs. Kuykendall won the capsule prize.

Re-Enlists

M. Sgt. William R. Ready has re-enlisted at Webb AFB for five years. He is a supervisor of radar, teletype and radio maintenance. Sgt. Ready will have completed 20 years of military service at the end of this hitch. Prior to coming to Webb in October, 1958 he was first sergeant of an aircraft control and warning squadron in Newfoundland.

Dr. Johnson To Conduct Webb Mission

The Rev. Dr. Ray Neill Johnson, former Army chaplain, will be the Protestant Missioner for the preaching mission at Webb AFB Chapel, March 12 through March 15. Dr. Johnson is pastor of the Aldersgate Methodist Church of Abilene.

A chaplain during World War II, Dr. Johnson was discharged as a major in 1946, after four years of service. Before active duty, he had studied at McMurry College and received degrees from Southern Methodist University, Perkins School of Theology.

"We are pleased with Dr. Johnson as our missioner," said Chaplain (Maj.) Benjamin F. Meacham, Wing chaplain. Chaplain Meacham also announced that base groups would sponsor the preaching mission nights. The base youth will be in charge on March 12 and the student officers, barracks airmen, and Protestant men and women of the chapel will have charge March 13-15.

"The worship, music and preaching of the mission will give an inspiring setting for spiritual growth," Chaplain Meacham said. He concludes, "Whether church members or not, personnel belonging to our Webb family will find their spiritual life stimulated, their religious understanding and convictions deepened through attendance at the mission."

All sessions of the preaching mission will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Water Usage Takes A Dip In February

Water usage in February by the City of Big Spring and by Cosden and Cabot fell below the January volume by 12,053,000 gallons, according to figures from the department of public works.

The city users accounted for 94,598,000 gallons in February as compared to 94,517,000 in January, a drop of 9,919,000. Cosden usage fell 986,000 gallons from 34,962,000 in January to 33,994,000 in February.

The fact that February had only 28 days as compared to January's 31, cut the monthly usage down. The January city usage of 94,517,000 divided by 31 showed an average daily usage of 3,049,350 gallons. Cosden's daily average for January was 1,127,306 gallons.

The city daily average for February was 3,021,357, and Cosden and Cabot's was 1,214,070. Counting the extra three days at the same average, the city's usage would have been 93,662,071, or still slightly under January, but Cosden & Cabot's February usage would have gone over with 37,636,210 gallons, and the combined total would have been over January by 653,281 gallons.

The combined total for February 1961 went 3,838,000 over the February 1960 usage in spite of last February's 29 days.

Toastmasters To Vie In Contest

The best speakers of the Flying Tumbleweed Toastmaster's Club were selected to compete in the Webb AFB officers Toastmaster's speaking contest next week.

Toastmasters Lt. Col. Leland A. Younk, Maj. Ernest G. Bauman, Maj. Joseph A. Riley, Capt. James K. Gibson, were selected by vote of the members to meet in a club speech contest to choose the Flying Tumbleweed speaker and alternate who will represent the club at the area Toastmaster's speaking contest to be held in Abilene on March 11.

Capt. Nolan Young of the Webb club, who is the Area Lieutenant Governor, will conduct next week's contest meeting. It will be at the officers' club at 7:30 p.m., March 9.

A Devotional For Today

Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you. (John 15:14)

PRAYER: O Lord, lead us in Thy way today. Remove far from us the desire to go where Thou canst not go with us. Help us to obey Thy Word and to mold our lives according to Thy will. Grant us the fruits of Christlike obedience. We pray in the Master's name. Amen.

Cutting Out Costly Delays

A measure designed to speed up freight rate-making procedures has been introduced in the Texas House of Representatives, and the committee hearing has been set about a week hence.

Although there is no secret that the railroads are included among its staunchest backers, the bill does have support from other shipper groups and organizations, among them our own West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The bill would eliminate the long, time-consuming and expensive process of altering rates. Currently, it is necessary to give notice, conduct hearings and wrestle the thing out for months and even years. By the time a decision is handed down, it is not infrequently the case that either the need or advantage of it has passed, or that the cost of having battled the issue has exceeded the benefits.

The proposal now before the House does not take away the right of protest. Indeed, notices and hearings can be required as before, but the new regulation would specify that a final adjudication is to be had within seven months. If there is no protest, the rates go into effect within 30 days. Thus, the public is protected.

It is ironic that most of those who may oppose the new measure are not so much concerned with protection of the public from undue rate charges, but more with the ability of railroads to make and promptly realize the competitive advantage of lower rates. If rates can be made more flexible and competitive, the consumers of Texas will benefit—and that means you.

Challenge Bigotry In Its Tracks

What Bill Tipton had to say here Thursday in his Brotherhood Week address before Kiwanians and other service club members bears re-emphasis.

Obviously, a lot that is said about the ideal of brotherhood must be repetitious in nature, for basically it is the truth. You just don't bend truth around for the convenience of a new approach.

Yet Tipton did inject a thought which deserves expansion and action. The key to smoothing the road for better understanding and in cutting down bigotry is personal courage, he said, a personal courage that will stir a man or woman to speak out in the face of poisonous generalizations.

The ideal of tolerance has a lot more currency than one might suppose. The majority of people are fair-minded and are sure enough of themselves and of democracy to accept the thesis that people should be judged as individuals for what they are and what they can do as individuals.

Where we fall down is that most of us, while we won't accept the prejudicial or the bigoted bias, fail to challenge it in its ugly tracks. Why there should be any timidity is difficult to see, for after all the person who has respect for all beings made in the image of God has right on his side.

Holmes Alexander

Is This The Policy Of Tolerance?

WASHINGTON—Neutrality, which was practically a cuss word under Secretary Dulles, is beginning to take on the luster of gospel in the New Frontier.

"We need to orient ourselves a little on the word 'Neutrality,'" said Professor Gale McGee (D., Wyo.) on the Senate floor earlier this month. "For in my judgment a united, stable, independent nationalism could easily be a neutral Africa as well."

McGEE WAS no sooner off his feet than another of the Democratic Professors, Mike Mansfield of Montana, was up to commend and congratulate him. If that weren't enough, the Foreign Relations Committee a few days later entertained Professor Zbigniew Brzezinski, who briefed the members on a report called "Ideology and Foreign Affairs" prepared by the Center for International Affairs of Harvard University. This report turned out to be a "think" piece which might have been composed by a flag sitter on an Ivory Tower—it was that lofty and cerebral. Again, the theme was neutrality. The United States in its policy toward underdeveloped areas, should foster the independence of these countries without, as a general rule, seeking from them a formal commitment to the West... the U. S. (should) display tolerance for governments which do not follow the western democratic model as long as the regimes act constructively to cope with the problems of their societies and do not subordinate themselves to the Communist bloc."

WELL, THERE is a great deal more of the same. We are advised to tolerate not only anti-democratic (dictatorship) regimes, but also anti-capitalist (socialist) regimes. The inference is that even Yugoslavians, just so they are not strongly allied with the Bear or the Tiger, it is even suggested that the Bear and the Tiger have neutralistic spots on matters where their interests clash—and, for example, where Russian or Chinese nationalisms differ from their communism, that's a part of the Sino-Russian monster we can safely pet.

THERE'S SOMETHING to be said for neutrality, and I have done so on other occasions. Mr. Dulles was never very successful in making big countries like India hug their heads in shame for being neutral. The new Administration is not likely to do any better with the new African nations.

Yes, but nobody ever conquered in the sign of the cipher. Historically, the great movements and conquests all moved behind symbols of strong conviction. Men have followed their ark and covenant, their cross and crescent, their banner. They have "moved forward," as Candi-

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Did the universe have a beginning or has it always existed much as it is today? No more fascinating question has preoccupied astronomers and physicists this past decade. On the one hand there has been the "evolutionary" view of the universe, as expounded by Prof. George Gamow and others. This school of thought views the cosmos as an organic whole born—probably in a giant explosion—billions of years ago, and expanding ever since.

Against this view there are the advocates of the "steady state" or "continuous creation" position, notably Prof. Fred Hoyle, Thomas Gold and Herman Bondi. To these theologians it has seemed that the universe had no beginning and will have no end. In their view matter in the form of elemental hydrogen is constantly being created in the vastness of interstellar space. Thus is provided the raw material for the constant though by human standards incredibly slow formation of galaxies, stars and planets to replace older galaxies which have receded so far from us that their light can never reach us.

The acid test of a scientific theory is always found in the comparison between the theory's predictions and the data found by observation. If the "steady state" theorists are correct, one large section of the observable universe should be very much like another; for large enough samples of the universe there should be no major differences due either to time or to distance. In other words, matter should be evenly distributed through large sections of the universe.

It is that prediction which is now called into question by the findings of a team of radio astronomers at Britain's Cambridge University. Probing out to the incredible distances of three to eight billion light years away, Prof. Martin Ryle and his associates report they have received signals from far more "radio stars" than there should be if the universe were actually in a steady state and matter evenly distributed. If these findings are confirmed the advocates of continuous creation will have to abandon their theory or modify it substantially.

Meanwhile the world has been given an impressive demonstration of what can be learned with that comparatively new scientific tool, the radio telescope.

What Will Peace Corps Look Like?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American Peace Corps which President Kennedy created this week is still too new to have precise form. But it is possible to indicate the shape it will take.

It will, of course, require much time, many months, before the full picture emerges. Kennedy simply set up a temporary Peace Corps. He asked Congress to go beyond this and by law make a permanent Peace Corps. Kennedy hopes his temporary arrangement will be able to train and send 500 or more young people overseas by fall. But the permanent Peace Corps may have 5,000 or more members.

Beware The Country Boy

NEW YORK (AP)—The letter to Joe and Jane Urban read:

"Dear folks: We aim to spend next Saturday night in the big town and would like to have you all help us paint it red."

"You make the arrangements. Don't worry about the cost. Wife Beulah and I are bringing along plenty of egg money and cookie jar cash."

"Cousin Otis."

"Who in the world is cousin Otis?" asked Jane.

"He's one of my father's nephews," said Joe sourly. "He calls himself just a poor little old country boy, but he actually owns half the small town he lives in."

"When I was a kid—we lived in the city—I used to spend a couple of weeks every summer with his family."

"Cousin Otis made my life miserable with his country pranks. 'If we went to the old swimming hole, I always came out to find my clothes wet and tied in knots so tight I had to chew them loose. Once he got me to chew tobacco and when I got sick he told me to gnaw raw elm bark. Naturally, that made me sicker.'"

A grim look came over Joe's face.

"This is my chance to get even at last with cousin Otis. I'll make him pay where it hurts him most—in the pocketbook. He wants to paint the town red? We'll let him."

"He taught me country life the hard way. I'll teach him a few city tricks."

Well, Beulah and cousin Otis arrived and the first thing Otis said was: "A poor little old country boy like me really feels lost here. Don't know whether I can paint the whole town in one night or not, but let's get started."

Cousin Otis couldn't pay the taxi fare to the expensive restaurant because the smallest he had was a $50 bill. Joe paid.

When the $65 restaurant check came, cousin Otis was in the men's room.

On the way to see a hit musical—Joe again paid the cab—the tickets had cost.

Joe said $37.50.

"H-m-m, it still costs us only 60 cents to see a movie back home," said cousin Otis, "but I suppose everything is higher here. I hope you're keeping tabs of everything."

"Don't worry, I am!" Joe said tartly.

After the theater, cousin Otis insisted they take in the best night club in town. They did. Both Otis and Beulah confessed they were starving and thirsty. More steaks. More drinks. Many more drinks.

At 3:30 a.m. cousin Otis arose and mumbled, "Excuse me." At 3:45 the waiter came over, put down a bill for $168 and said, "Your friend said to tell you he was ill, and would meet you at the hotel." Joe had to use his company credit card to meet the tab.

Back at the hotel they found Otis sound asleep in bed with his clothes on.

"Call us in the morning," suggested Beulah.

Joe did that—bright and early. But his relatives had already checked out. Glumly, Joe figured the evening spent trying to get even with cousin Otis had cost him $300, including tips.

Moral: Beware the man who calls himself just a poor little old country boy. He'll city slicker you every time.

Doctors Know No Specific Cure For Shingles

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Will you explain the skin disease called shingles? What causes it, and what can be done to relieve the intense pain? Does one's diet affect it? Does it really prove fatal when it meets around the waist?"

—G. E. S."

Shingles isn't exactly a skin disease even though it does show on the skin before it is finished.

Shingles (or Herpes zoster, if you want the technical name) is a virus infection of the roots of certain nerves. The virus appears (not identical) to the virus that causes chickenpox.

When the virus infects the nerve roots, there is pain—sometimes sharp, sometimes dull, sometimes a burning sensation—in the area in which the nerve or nerves serve.

Subsequently small vesicles or blisters appear in the skin. It is quite common for the chest to be affected by shingles. However, it can attack elsewhere—the face (involving the eye-ball), the genital area, buttocks, or other places.

In the chest area, where we find shingles so often, it is very unusual for both sides of the chest to be affected. I don't doubt that people, observing this fact, made up the fiction about it being fatal when it meets. It is extremely rare for it ever to meet or go clear around the trunk. Anyway, there's no truth to that story, so forget it.

The disease usually occurs in older persons, but diet has no part either as a cause or a treatment. The virus causes it.

There isn't any specific treatment except to ease the pain. Since the amount of pain varies from one case to another so does the choice of medication to allay the pain. Sometimes narcotics are mandatory; in other cases less drastic drugs for the pain are adequate.

There may be a single attack, or there may be recurrent attacks. Eventually the disease wears itself out, but it is often intense for a considerable period, and may last for many months after the blisters have disappeared.

In a way, shingles reminds you of colds and other virus diseases. There isn't any specific cure, and you have to wait for the disease to run its course, meantime trying to keep the patient as comfortable as possible.

And since the pain of shingles can be so severe, keeping the patient comfortable sometimes calls, as I said, for powerful drugs.

"Dear Dr. Molner: If a person thought he contracted syphilis would blood tests still show it six or seven weeks later?—B.M."

The blood test turns positive three to five weeks after the disease has been contracted. Therefore your answer is, yes. But remember that other methods have a part in identifying the disease: the individual's history, and physical examination are important. The blood test itself is not simple. It should be performed by a competent physician.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I noticed a bald spot on my head about the size of a dime. My doctor gave me some red pills that seemed to help for a time, but the spot is growing larger and is now bigger than a half dollar. It stays in one spot on the side of my head."

—M. H."

The spreading, single area of baldness suggests a fungus infection of the scalp, but if that cannot be established, you might suspect the hair spray you are using.

"Don't Quit Because Of Arthritis" is the title of my leaflet designed to help all who suffer the aches and pains of arthritis. For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of the Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover the cost of handling.

Dr. Molner is always happy to hear from his readers, but he regrets that he cannot answer individual letters due to the great number received daily. Whenever possible he uses readers' questions in his column.

Around The Rim

An Attachment For The Unattached

Here's an item that might be of interest to any "unattached" people around town.

You know what the unattached person is — an unmarried man or woman who often is at his wit's end as to how to spend his leisure time; where to go and what to do; how to meet people, somebody in his own boat instead of bosses, clerks, waitresses, married friends, co-workers.

It does get a bit old, particularly when an unattached person finds himself surrounded by folks who have paired off till death or divorce do them part.

AND THAT'S WHAT the Bachelors and Belles Club is all about—a way for the singles to get together and become acquainted. The club meets out at the YMCA, Thursday nights at 7:30.

That word "club" is really a misnomer—there isn't any particular organization to it. It's just a group of people with one thing in common, and with Mary McConkey acting more or less as coordinator. Some nights, the members play volleyball, sometimes they borrow decks of cards for quick rounds of hearts or bridge, other times they dance, or sit around and talk.

AFTER EACH MEETING, groups of individuals who have found more in common than their singularity head off elsewhere to continue their evening. Quite often, lasting friendships are made. And, even though I shouldn't mention it, sometimes the linkage between a man and woman who met at the Bachelors and Belles Club grows so permanent that they lose their eligibility for membership.

If you're planning to remain independent, don't let that last statement scare you. The club is no hunting ground for predatory females or lonely men—but it does provide a meeting place for those as hanker for the chain.

THE CLUB ALSO provides a meeting place for those whose only purpose is relaxation and the meeting of friends one can feel comfortable with.

If you qualify, why not drop out sometime. You might be glad you did. Remember, Thursday nights at 7:30.

Do Collegians Know English?

Some weeks ago I read a serious article asserting that in the United States education in our mother tongue is at a "dangerous low." The National Council of Teachers of English, after a coast-to-coast survey, issued an alarming paper on the state of English instruction, from grammar to literature.

AIDED in its study by other learned societies, the council warned that the low level of English instruction threatens not only competence in this "bedrock subject" but constitutes a serious handicap in the mastery of any other intellectual disciplines.

In 1960, the council discovered, college entrance English tests were flunked by some 150,000 students. As a result, 70 per cent of all colleges and universities are forced to offer courses in remedial English—to teach men and women at the college level not to commit assault and battery on their own language!

NOW I AM in possession of some copies of the "Lumberjack," student publication of Humboldt State College in Arcata, California. Its editors, in reply to sharp criticism of their misuse of the English language and their demolition of grammar, whinnily assert in two succeeding issues that "sound grammatical writing is not a requirement for entering college."

If someone had dropped a caterpillar on my reading glasses or a skunk in my typewriter, I couldn't have been more amazed at this student defense of inexcusable—even abysmal—ignorance of English grammar at the college level.

FOR THE EDITORIAL staff of a student newspaper angrily to defend its mistakes and castigate its critics on the basis of acceptable ignorance is too much!

Lashing out at its critics, the editorial staff in the issue of Nov. 11, 1960, says, in part, "Many members of our staff have not had the background for sound grammatical writing."

When this shameful explanation did not still the critics, the staff ran an editorial in the "Lumberjack" issue of Nov. 18. Its rude—well, insolent—title is: "Put Up, or Shut Up!" The staff's chief defense of its own ignorance is one of the most amazing admissions I have ever encountered in a college or any other publication.

The defense is "sound grammatical writing is not a requirement for entering college."

"SOUND GRAMMATICAL writing is not a requirement for entering college?" For Pete's sake, why not and since when?

To speak and write English well is apparently the new mark of distinction in the school system. I can remember when it was basic, not a matter of pride but a matter of course. Soon after the Civil War, my Grandmother Callaway attended a small village school. And my mother, toward the end of the last century, went to a country school.

BOTH MY GRANDMOTHER and my mother wrote and spoke beautiful English and, when I was in grade school, drilled me in the fundamental structure of the language. What, not just in the past century but in the past quarter-century, has happened to the teaching of the English language, one of the most glorious instruments at the command of man?

The "Lumberjack" editorial "Put Up, or Shut Up!" points out that Humboldt State College has 14 classes in remedial English, all jammed with students ill prepared in grade and high school. Oh, sure, Humboldt has a championship football team. But many of its students can't write English properly. But then, first things first. What price English if the team is winning?

The Court And The Communist Menace

WASHINGTON — It seems incredible that, with a "cold war" going on and with billions of dollars being spent by the Soviet government to infiltrate every democratic country in the world, there should be issued by four members of the Supreme Court of the United States—Chief Justice Warren, Justices Black, Douglas and Brennan—an opinion which appears to brush aside the Communist menace.

Fortunately, five other members of the Court—Justices Stewart, Clark, Frankfurter, Harlan and Whittaker—see the Communist menace in its realistic form. By their latest decision, they make it clear that the empty claim to protection of "free speech" will not save suspected Communists in the United States from investigation by an authorized congressional committee.

THE FOUR dissenting justices insist that witnesses, when asked by a congressional committee whether they are Communists, need not even take the Fifth Amendment but can refuse to answer on the ground that their rights of free speech under the First Amendment are being transgressed.

The argument solemnly proclaimed by the four dissenting justices is that no agency of the federal government, be it legislative, executive or judicial, may "harass or punish people for their beliefs, or for their speech about, or public criticism of, laws and public officials."

THIS DOCTRINE would make it possible for any citizen to decline to tell an investigating committee about rackets, monopolies, payola, or any irregularities in human behavior on which it might be desirable to pass remedial laws. The witnesses could merely claim that the congressional committee was "harassing" him for his criticisms of the committee and was trying to punish him for his "beliefs." Congressional efforts to get information on which to base regulatory laws could thus be frustrated.

In the latest opinion—the case of Frank Wilkinson, who refused to give even his place of residence to the House Committee on Un-American Activities—the majority of the justices repeated a statement from a previous decision which said:

"TO SUGGEST THAT because the Communist party may also sponsor peaceable political reforms the constitutional issue before us should now be judged as if that party were just an ordinary political party, to ask this court to blind itself to world affairs which have determined the whole course of our national policy since the close of World War II."

What the majority of the court says is supposed to be "the law of the land," but it is being scorned—in the companion case of Carl Braden—by Justice Black, with Chief Justice Warren and Justice Douglas agreeing. In this dissenting opinion these words of defiance are issued:

"THE FOUNDERS of this nation were not then willing to trust the definition of First Amendment freedoms to Congress or to this court, nor am I now."

But to accept the idea that Congress cannot investigate or that the Supreme Court cannot rule on the case of a man who may be serving or helping a hostile government—an enemy—is to deprive the nation of any power of self-preservation.

The purpose of these congressional investigations is to expose the espionage and subversive activities of the whole Communist apparatus in the United States. Loyal American citizens are expected to cooperate with their own government in all its branches. The Communists have stolen atomic secrets. They have at times infiltrated the departments in Washington.

The Supreme Court in the past has taken the view that it isn't a "right of free speech" falsely to cry "fire" in a crowded theater. Nor does the "free speech" clause of the Constitution give anyone immunity from an investigation to determine whether he belongs to a party that is financed by, instigated by, and often directed by a foreign government which is seeking to damage the United States and possibly bring on a war.

JUSTICE BLACK argues that editors and newsmen who have criticized a congressional committee now could be brought before that same committee and punished for refusing to answer questions. But whenever there is basis for suspecting that a newspaperman is paid by or working for an enemy government, he shouldn't be able to claim immunity under the First Amendment, either.

The House Committee on Un-American Activities is under attack these days by many so-called "liberals" who will be encouraged now by the dissenting opinions of the Supreme Court to carry on their campaign to curtail, if not abolish, the work of the House committee and also of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. But the defenders of America's safety against the Communist enemy will find an irreducible argument in the two opinions rendered this week by Justices Stewart, Clark, Frankfurter, Harlan and Whittaker.

offered by the defense. Defense Attorneys, Roger Brown and John Richard Coffee, appointed by the court, waived defense arguments. The jury left the court room at 10:50 a.m. and returned its verdict thirty minutes later.

Magill was charged with taking $88 at the point of a gun from Mr. and Mrs. Ben Long on Dec. 30. He was arrested by Sterling County officers at a roadblock on South U. S. 87 an hour later.

This was the final case to be tried this week. Judge Caton thanked the jurors for their services and excused them from further duty.

Mr. Fryar, who was born Aug. 25, 1882 in Bell County, died early Friday in a local hospital after a brief illness. He had spent much of his life in the Fairview community.

Survivors include seven sons: Shirley, Frank, R. V., J. W. Jr., W. C. and Harvey, all of Big Spring, and Clarence, Stanton; two daughters, Mrs. Edgar Phillips, Big Spring, and Mrs. W. C. McWilliams, Fredericksburg; five granddaughters, Mrs. D. E. Jacobs, Big Spring, Mrs. Ernie Thompson, Anchorage, Alaska, Mrs. Beatrice Brown, Hermosa Beach, Calif.; H. J. Lewis, Liverpool, and W. D. Lewis, Eunice, N.M. There are 30 grandchildren and 34 great-grandchildren.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Black Smokey, a 940-pound Angus owned by Wilburn Holloway became Thursday the fourth Angus in 29 years to be grand champion steer of the Houston Fat Stock Show. The reserve champion was Sir Sam, a Hereford owned by J. D. Dodgen, 16, of Liano.

IS HARD TASK

Finding a job can be a difficult task, especially if you are only eight years old.

Nathan Smith, the son of Mrs. Audrey Smith, 206 W. 7th, and quite as enterprising, young man, applied for work at the Carlsbad Caverns National Park. He was a little disappointed with the reply.

The need for higher education was stressed as the National Park Service advised him to go to college and study forestry.

Maybe the employment picture will be better in 15 years anyway.

Mr. Hays Is The Candidate

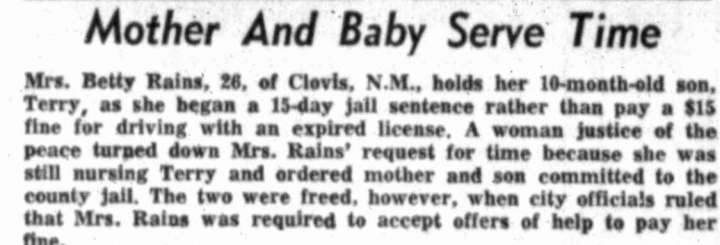

Others filing are Donald Duke Coahoma, Cossden employee who lives at Coahoma, has three children, two of whom are in school. T. O. Earnest, Sand Springs, Cossden employee, who has four children, two of them in school. Womer Robinson, Route 1, Big Lake, farmer, has four children, one of whom is in school. Robinson and Earnest are incumbents. Smith Cochran also incumbent, is not seeking re-election. Three places will be filled in the April 1 balloting.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Kenneth E. Dudley, 47, itinerant carner of the dead, was admitted today to a hospital for disposing of the bodies of five of his children, starts undergoing psychiatric tests and examinations today.

W. K. Cunningham Jr., Virginia penitentiary superintendent, said Dudley, father of 10 children is "getting a psychiatric bed to determine how he mentally reacts to the case." He said it would take two or three weeks for the tests and a psychiatric report.

Dudley, who has told police he disposed of the bodies after the children died during 2½ years of wandering around the country, is charged with the slaying of his daughter, first-degree murder by starvation in the death of his daughter, Carol Ann, 7. He and his wife Irene, 44, also are charged in Brunswick County, Va., with causing Carol Ann's death by malnutrition, exposure and neglect.

Sheriff J. B. Vaughan said Carol Ann was in the back seat of the Dudleys' rickety car the night of Feb. 1-12.

PORT WORTH (AP)—William Preston Jr., 57, testified Thursday that he flushed $21,000 in $100 bills down a commode at the plush Fort Worth Club to keep his estranged wife and creditors from getting it.

Preston made his disclosure at a preliminary hearing in a divorce suit brought by Mrs. Mary Preston, his wife of 36 years.

Preston told Judge Harold Craik that he sold some property for $21,700, converted it to $100 bills and returned home where he engaged in a heated argument with Mrs. Preston.

He said he began drinking and eventually reached the club.

"I had money to drink and I should have," he said. "Money had ceased to mean anything to me . . . I did it in a fit of complete, total dishonesty."

Preston said he kept $700, probably just because the bills had pined to be in a separate bundle.

Judge Craik refused to believe Preston's story. Ruling that Preston hid the controversial sum at home and disposed of it, Craik set a hearing to decide what further action he should take.

"I just don't believe," said Craik, "that a man would get drunk or so distraught as to do such a thing."

Weeks of Negro demonstrations protesting segregation came to a climax at Columbia, S.C., in a hymn-singing march on the statehouse during which 190 persons were arrested, all but one of them Negroes.

All of the demonstrators, including one white youth and a field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, were charged with breach of the peace.

City and county jails held 150 of the marchers today. Bond of $50 each was posted for 31 others Thursday night.

The students marched in small groups to the statehouse, were warned not to demonstrate, and then were arrested when they continued to advance.

The 8th U.S. Circuit Court Appeals at St. Louis, Mo. ordered the school board at Little Rock, Ark., to speed desegregation that city's schools, but did not set a timetable.

While conceding the board members were public spirited citizens working under adverse conditions, the court found the board "was motivated and governed by racial considerations" in deciding on school assignments for Negroes.

The board was directed to Anderson farmed northeast of Big Spring until his retirement in 1955.

He has been a member of the Church of God since 1907.

Services will be at 2:30 p.m. Saturday in the Nalley-Pickle Chapel with Cecil Smith of Abilene officiating. Burial will be in the City Cemetery under the direction of the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Survivors are his widow, Mrs. Mary Lester and Sam, both of Big Spring; a daughter, Mrs. W. T. Gobbel, Fresno, Calif.; two grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

Childbearers will be nephews of the deceased.

Lynchburg, Va.—Six jailed Negro students continued a hunger strike they started Tuesday by refusing to eat. They were not allowed textbooks. They are at a hearing on antirape charges in connection with a slaying.

Sumter, S.C.—Thirteen Negroes were convicted on charges stemming from antisegregation demonstrations involving mass marches and sit-ins. They were fined $100 or 30 days in jail and later released on appeal bonds of $25,000 each. About 63 arrests were made during recent demonstrations.

FHA Farmers Had Good Cotton Reports In 1960

The average farmer doing business with the Farmers Home Administration during 1960 had a good year from the standpoint of per acre production of cotton.

The analysis consisted of 20 Howard County farmers who were located in every section of the county and also seven farmers located in the St. Lawrence community of Glasscock County.

In Howard County, the average yield of line cotton per acre was 227 pounds, said Lee Tunnell, county supervisor. This was based on an average from 3,004 acres. We feel this was due chiefly to moisture and the skip-row planting method. Average production per acre on 2,218 acres of maize was 627 pounds. On this basis it is extremely difficult for the farmer to show a profit from the production of maize. However, it does assist in the control of wind erosion which is a major problem in the county.

The average gross farm income was $13,770 with a net farm income of $2,225, said Tunnell. With the comparison of these figures, the cost price squeeze can be seen. It cost the 20 farm families an average of $2,019 family living with $8,380 used for farm operating expenses. The average paid FHA was $8,798, and an average of $955 was paid to other creditors.

In Glasscock County seven farm families businesses were analyzed. These were irrigated farms. The yield per acre of cotton was 678 pounds per acre production based on 556 acres. The maize yielded 554 pounds based on 706 acres. The maize was only pre-watered. The gross farm income was $17,608 with a net income of $4,204. Again the cost price squeeze can be seen. The average expense of family living was $1,766 with $10,557 operating expenses. The average paid FHA was $9,833 with $2,115 being paid to other creditors.

Upon completion of this analysis, the Farm Home Administration believes for the small farmer to continue in the farming business, he must cut cost of production chiefly by harvesting cotton mechanically, producing more food on the farm, and practicing diversification. If maize is to be grown, it can be marketed at a profit only through livestock.

Maury Maverick, Liberal, In Tradition Of Forefathers

By JOE BENHAM

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Maury Maverick Jr., locally prominent son of a one-time nationally known father, is bidding for a U.S. Senate seat with one of the most unabashedly liberal campaigns in Texas political history.

His views have won him the official endorsement of Texas labor unions and this has led the Republicans to label him the man to beat.

"I am a Franklin D. Roosevelt-John Kennedy-Ralph Yarborough Democrat," Maverick tells his listeners, whether he is in a union hall in Houston or a country store in an anti-labor crossroads town.

To Maverick, 40, bachelor son of fiery former U.S. Rep. Maury Maverick Sr., there is only one real issue in the race for the Senate seat given up by Lyndon Johnson when he became vice president:

"You are either for the John Kennedy New Frontier program or you are not," he says, "and I am for it."

Maverick has endorsed medical care for the aged through social security, an increase in the minimum wage, aid to depressed areas, expansion of public works programs, federal aid to education and lower interest rates—all key features of the Kennedy program.

He hammers again and again at the issue of party loyalty in his speeches and in interviews.

"I am an out-and-out loyal Democrat and a man who wants to work with that great Texan, Vice President Johnson, Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Ralph Yarborough," Maverick said in an interview.

He sees no middle of the road, commenting, "either a candidate is a Kennedy Democrat or he's not a Democrat and the boys who try to be in-between are up against it."

Maverick says he expects to run second behind Republican John Tower in the April 4 balloting.

In the runoff, Maverick expects "the loyal Democrats will gravitate to me" and put him in the Senate.

Maverick says that after Tower and Maverick, Sen. William Blakley, Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, state Sen. Henry Gonzalez and Rep. Jim Wright should attract votes in that order.

Maverick's political fortunes, regarded as low when he began a vigorous campaign and jumped sharply Feb. 4 when the Committee on Political Education of the AFL-CIO endorsed him.

Mrs. R. D. Randolph, former woman, and University of Texas Prof. J. Frank Dobie also support Maverick.

Maverick, Democratic state committeeman from Bexar County, built a reputation as a liberal during three terms in the Legislature. He did not seek re-election in 1956.

The Maverick name is familiar in Texas.

When Your Eyes are Examined at TEXAS STATE OPTICAL...

The interior of each eye is thoroughly examined for evidence of disease or defect.

The eyes are also examined to determine the presence of astigmatism, the degree of near or farsightedness, and to measure the efficiency of the interior and exterior eye muscles. Your eye condition is thoroughly analyzed, and if glasses are needed you can be confident of getting the exact lenses required for clear, comfortable vision.

SUPERVISED NURSERY — AMPLE PARKING

Good News Club Meeting

Mrs. John Vagt uses visual aids in conducting a Good News Club meeting in the home of Miss Ora Morrow, 611 Galveston. At left is Miss Louise Paulger, assistant West Texas area director of Child Evangelism.

Good News Club Meetings Slated

National Child Evangelism Week is being observed here in a series of Good News Club meetings, training sessions and with the showing of a sound color film.

Several churches have made use of the film, "Angry Jungle," and a general showing is to be had at a dinner meeting Saturday at 6 p.m. in Masters Cafeteria.

Miss Leona Hooper, West Texas area director for Child Evangelism, urged as many to see it as possible but asked that they call the Child Evangelism Center, 711 Johnson, so reservation can be made. The picture is set in the Malayan jungle and Singapore and tells how Christian workers have the answer to communism.

International Child Evangelism is now in its 30th year and originated as an inter-denominational movement as a means of reaching at an age when they are most receptive and have a prospect of a life of Christian service ahead. National and international headquarters are in Muskegon, Mich., and headquarters in the 94-county West Texas area are here. Operated in connection with this office is the Visual Aids Depot, from which Sunday school teachers and other workers from many different groups and churches secure teaching supplies.

One of the points of contact is the Good News Club. Actually there are several, and in the West Texas area some three score in such places as Amarillo, Abilene, Lubbock, Midland, Odessa, etc. While evangelism is a prime objective, much of the time is given to Bible instruction with emphasis upon visual aids and techniques beamed especially for children.

There are also teacher training sessions, not only for Good News Club teachers but for Sunday school teachers as well, each Monday evening and Tuesday morning. During summer, the movement also does much work in conferences. Outside of the United States, there are some 160 missionaries in 60 countries.

College Baptist Church Nursery Is Completed

A new nursery at the College Baptist Church has been completed this week. It has, however, been in use for three weeks.

The new addition, on the west side of the church, is separate from other units and contains five different departments. They are for bed children, those six months to one year; one to two; two to three; and three to four years old.

The nursery is completely modern with new beds, tables, chairs, and other equipment. Three persons work with the younger children and volunteers care for the two older classes.

"The number of children just outgrew the space we had," Mrs. D. D. Hurst, secretary of the church, said.

Members of the church raised part of the money.

Pastor Alerts His Church To Plans

Dr. P. D. O'Brien, who is nearing his 20th anniversary as pastor of the First Baptist Church, has alerted his congregation that he intends to retire at some indefinite date, possibly many months hence.

He discussed his intentions at the mid-week prayer service, saying it was his feeling that when the church embarks on a new building effort (a site has been secured south of the VA Hospital), the leadership of a younger man will be desirable. Earlier, he told the board that when he retires he hopes to be able to work with small groups, clinics, special meetings, etc. In the meantime, he has a vigorous schedule, including three services on Sunday, lined up for many months.

By HELEN REAGAN SMITH
For over a year bicycles had been disappearing regularly. The city was not too large, and Sam began watching with the policemen.

It seemed strange they could not catch the thieves. They planted a rack of bicycles and began watching. Sam, staying with the force. But he wanted something more. He wanted somehow, to help the boys—surely the thieves were boys—and while he couldn't stop an arrest, he might recognize a running shadow. He might do something to help.

Only he was too late. The baited trap, paid off. Three boys were watching slipping out three bicycles, rolling them off through the dark streets and down to the river where they anchored the bicycles deep in the water under the bridge.

The courts were jammed when the day arrived. The closest place Sam could get was near the back window where the stood and watched. Although the town's best lawyers were defending the young-

Diligently Pray For The Work of Your Church

Only wise men and hungry children fully appreciate their blessings!

Many of God's gifts, like the air we breathe, are received without thought. Others, like the abundance of the harvest, we think about only in season. Still others, like our religious heritage, get varying degrees of attention and response according to our spiritual perception . . . or the precariousness of our plight.

This isn't Christmas . . . or Easter. And we hope it is not a time of personal crisis for you and your family . . .

If it's just a normal week, full of the routine of life—then it's an ideal time to remember your blessings. And Sunday will be an ideal day to begin, renew or strengthen that wholesome habit of worshipping God in the church of your choice.

Copyright 1961, Keister Adv. Service, Strasburg, Va.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Police who seized Howard Bell, 20, of Roxbury, Mass., inside a liquor store in that city, stand guard as he clears a gate on the way out. Police claim Bell sealed the gate to enter the store and had two money bags with $200 in them. Police went "over the top" into the darkened store and arrested Bell at gun point.

Guilty Pleas Draw Sentences

A Fort Worth man, who related from the witness stand that he had been a narcotics addict, pleaded guilty in 118th District Court Thursday to illegal possession of a hypodermic needle.

He was J. C. Cleveland who was arrested by city police on Jan. 5. He told the court that he had been "off dope" for two months and that he has hopes he can break himself of the habit. Officers testified the man said he had a "100 habit" at the time he was arrested.

Gil Jones, district attorney, recommended that the court give the defendant a probation sentence. He said it might help Cleveland to solve his problem.

Judge Ralph Caton sentenced Cleveland to two years in prison and then probated the sentence. Victoria Howard, who was returned from New Orleans this week, pleaded guilty to theft over $50. She admitted she took a transistor radio from the Western Auto Stores on Oct. 12, 1960. The radio was worth more than $50, the store officials testified. She was sentenced to serve two years in the state penitentiary.

In other business, the court approved minor courthouse repairs; approved the employment of Mrs. W. B. Beeson as secretary in the county agent's office and okayed the payment to the State welfare office of 30 cents per person on the increase of the welfare roll over 1960.

Commissioners discussed, but took no action, on possible appointment of a county auditor.

Vandalism Is High On Docket

Vandalism was frequent Thursday as three incidents were reported.

The lunch room across from the Bauer Elementary School was reported burglarized, but only candy was believed to be missing.

A Mrs. Green advised police that some boys broke the windshield of her car Wednesday. At the time, it was parked at 905 Johnson.

Mrs. H. Hinman, 1208 Main, reported that someone shot her window with a BB gun.

Jury Finds Nunez Guilty, Sets 10 Year Prison Term

A district court jury deliberated for nearly five hours before it reached the decision finding Joe Nunez, 46, guilty of narcotics possession and of being a habitual offender in this category.

The jurors came into court at 3:30 p.m. Thursday night and handed Judge Ralph Caton a verdict fixing Nunez's punishment at 10 years in the state penitentiary. The case was bitterly fought. Nearly all of Thursday was devoted to debate by the state and defense over the charge to the jury.

The evidence had been completed Wednesday night. The jury spent the day, until around 2:30 p.m., in its quarters. The charge was read at that time. Despite the long battle over the charge, the argument offered by the attorneys to the jurors was brief. The jury retired to begin its deliberations at 3:40 p.m.

The indictment against Nunez accused him of having a quantity of marijuana in his possession when he was apprehended on March 11, 1960. It also related that on April 28, 1952, Nunez had been found guilty of possession of marijuana.

Nunez is being held in the county jail. What legal steps his attorneys may attempt was not known Friday morning.

Members of the jury were: W. C. King, J. N. Pickens, Darlene Loving, Roy Brown, Bennie Porter, Glen E. Gale, Elwood Carlie, Dene Porch, Mrs. Floyd Alder, Gene Burrow, Robbie Elder and Robert D. Carpenter.

Plans Reviewed On New Library

LAMESA (SC)—Dawson County Commissioners viewed plans for the new library and discussed features of the facility with architect Howard Allen at a regular meeting here Tuesday.

In other business, the court approved minor courthouse repairs; approved the employment of Mrs. W. B. Beeson as secretary in the county agent's office and okayed the payment to the State welfare office of 30 cents per person on the increase of the welfare roll over 1960.

Commissioners discussed, but took no action, on possible appointment of a county auditor.

This Combination Still Doesn't Mix

Children, matches, and any combustible material just do not mix, as has been proven by Fire Department statistics.

Another such incident was added to the books when a grass fire was reported Thursday at 1202 Douglas Cause—children playing with matches on the lawn.

Plans Reviewed On New Library

2 Minor Wrecks On Police Blotter

Two minor wrecks occurred Thursday but police said damage was minor.

A two-car collision at the intersection of 11th and Gregg involved vehicles driven by Lawrence Ferguson, 905 Abrams, and Maggie Harrington, Vincent.

Another accident occurred at the NW 12th and Lamesa Dr. intersection. Drivers of the vehicles were Emmett Thompson, 218 N. Johnson, and Helen McDonald, state hospital employee.

Hearing Set

AMARILLO (AP)—Dist. Judge Gene Jordan has set a March 9 hearing on a request to padlock four places accused of operating as bookmaking establishments.

Owen Is First In Council Race

COLORADO CITY (SC)—E. M. Owen, local appraiser, became the first candidate to enter the city council race Thursday, with four council seats to be filled in the election set for April 1.

The four councilmen whose terms expire in April are Sam Majors Jr., Ira Utz, Lawrence Rudderick, and A. W. Hubbard. None have filed for re-election.

Ira Utz said Thursday afternoon that he felt that downtown business should have some representation on the council and that unless other businessmen entered the race, he would probably enter.

After some initial confusion as to the filing deadline, City Attorney John Worrell ruled Thursday afternoon that the final time for filing would be Saturday at midnight.

Traffic Group To Study Cards

The Big Spring Traffic Commission was scheduled to meet at 3 p.m. today to canvass survey cards mailed to city residents on the one-way traffic pattern in downtown areas.

At 10 a.m. Friday, 391 of more than 800 cards mailed had been returned to Commission Secretary Bruce Dunn, with a slight majority favoring abandonment of the one-way streets.

The commission will probably set another public hearing for the near future, and may draft recommendations to the city commission.

Cards were mailed to every 10th water customer in the city, and less than half of those mailed out have been returned with a customer's reaction.

Controversial Golden Girl Dies

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—The body of Adelaide Darling Avery, 21, Purdue University's most famous Golden Girl, will be taken to Manteca, Calif. Saturday for services and burial.

Mrs. Avery died Thursday of a massive hemorrhage of the brain. She had been stricken Tuesday and never regained consciousness.

As the Golden Girl she performed in a brief costume with the Purdue band at football games. A controversy developed in 1958 over her hula dance, which shocked some Purdue coeds.

Last November she was married to Vell Avery III, Binghamton, N.Y., a Purdue science junior, and was replaced as Golden Girl. A junior majoring in home economics, she dropped out of school at the end of the first semester.

Independence Day

WASHINGTON (AP)—Addressing the Senate to commemorate Texas Independence Day, Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex.) Thursday said: "All Texans know that just four days later at the Alamo a garrison of 187 men fought to death against an army of 3,000 in one of mankind's most heroic battles for the ideal of human liberty."

Contented Pigs

FREDRIKSTAD, Norway (AP)—"Pig's paradise" has been set up by Gunnar Nilsen, Norway's biggest meat packer, to prove that contented pigs make the best pork. Music is piped in to Nilsen's 3,500 porkers.

Thinks Big

Cowboy actor Pat Hawley, 39, leaves the city recorder's at Santa Ana, Calif., after filing a claim to the entire city of nearby Laguna Beach. Hawley, who last month staked a claim to most of the Laguna Beach ocean frontage because he says nobody knows who owns it, now says part of the downtown land is also in question, so he's claiming the whole town. City officials, who aren't quite sure who does own the beach, are hoping the whole thing is a bad dream. The town's land has an assessed valuation of about $25,000,000.

German Student Makes First Class Solo

Airman I.C. Kaus W. P. Kahlert, a German Air Force student undergoing pilot training at Webb AFB, was the first member of Class 62A to solo the T-33 jet aircraft. He made the 30-minute flight Monday.

The Munster, Germany Airman came to the United States in April, 1960 through the Air Force Mutual Defense Program. He went through Lackland AFB's language school before taking primary flying training at Bainbridge AB, Ga. Airman Kahlert came to Webb Jan. 30 and was assigned to Red Flight for 5½ months of basic flying training in the T-33.

In commenting on his training before a solo, Airman Kahlert said: "It's interesting, but I didn't think we would have so much to learn in three weeks." Other Red Flight students getting in their 10 hours of dual flying to solo on the same day Kahlert were Lt. Wallace E. Parsons and Edward E. Fowler.

Texas Exes Begin Member Drive, Elect Officers

The University of Texas Ex-Students Association is conducting a drive to enlist all former Texas U. students and, in a closely related project, to strengthen the association's scholarship program.

The local chapter's scholarship fund is made up entirely out of the bigger portion of the organization's dues. Big Spring members were told Thursday evening at the annual Texas Independence Day banquet held in the Student Union Building of Howard County Junior College.

The theme of scholarship was continued by the guest speaker, Walter Beardsley of Midland, who tied in his subject with the theme of discipline. Beardsley pointed out various aspects of the scholarship program at the University of Texas which in recent years has raised the school's academic standards to record heights. He predicted those standards had not yet reached their acme.

Beardsley related the high standards of scholarship to the principles of discipline and traced the numerous facets of self, public, child, and political and economic discipline.

He strongly inferred that a little more self-discipline by members of the Big Spring chapter could greatly improve the scholarship outlook and help some deserving student gain an education.

New officers elected include Bob Dyer, president; Bennett Brooke, vice president; Ann Ratliff, secretary-treasurer, and the following directors: Jack Little, Rene Brown, Darryle Hohertz, and Ed Boullion Jr.

Ex-students who wish to join the association were urged to contact Ann Ratliff.

Rockefellers Escape Fire

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller fled to safety early today as a flash fire wrecked New York's historic old executive mansion and destroyed pictures and art objects valued at more than $250,000.

The governor, roused by his wife, climbed from a second-floor bedroom window to the roof of a shelter over the main entrance and directed firemen in the rescue of three servants, temporarily isolated by flames in their third-floor quarters.

All occupants of the turreted, Victorian-style residence that once housed Presidents Grover Cleveland and two Roosevelts, Theodore and Franklin D., escaped down ladders without injury.

Paintings charred by flames that apparently originated in the main floor drawing room and swept up the wide, main staircase included numerous old masters valued at about $200,000. They were given to the mansion by W. Averell Harriman, Rockefeller's immediate predecessor in office.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

The fire was brought under control about an hour after it was discovered.

Buser Wins Spot On Dean's List

John E. Buser, former wire editor on the Herald staff, and Nancy J. Jones of Midland, qualified for the dean's list of Hardin-Simmons University during the 1960 fall semester.

Buser is a graduate student and Miss Jones is a sophomore. They were among 12 students who qualified.

To qualify for the list, a student must carry a minimum of 12 semester hours and make an A grade on all work.

Among students who made the H-SU honor roll by earning a 3.50 grade point average on at least 12 semester hours of work are Thomas C. Echols, Ira, and Kenneth Hoover, Colorado City.

John Steward, Colorado City, received honorable mention for compiling an honor roll average, but carrying less than 12 semester hours.
