Trans-Atlantic Fliers Injured With Forced Landing In Brazil

RIO JANEIRO, Dec. 17. — Two men who had flown from Seville, Spain, in 27 hours without a stop, today emerged from the tropical forests of Brazil to reassure an anxious world as to their safety.

Major Tadeo Larre-Borges

who had hoped to reach Montevideo, capital of his native land of Uruguay, was first to reach a village connected by telegraph with the outside world. He gave assurance that although he and his companion, Lieut. Leon Challe, French aviator, had been stunned by the wreck of their plane in a forced landing last night neither was seriously injured.

He told how after successfully negotiating more than half of their projected route, including the whole of the hazardous over-water route, they had reached South American shores in darkness and were unable to orient themselves. Failing to pick up even the lights of towns that might guide them to a haven, the fliers circled inland, weary from the strain and with dwindling fuel supply, picked out the first clearing to bring their Breguet sesquiplane to earth.

The ground was soft and the plane overturned and smashed. The major crawled out and released his companion. A short time later natives reached them and guided Larre-Borges to the little town of Santo Antonio de Saito near the northeastern coast of Brazil. As soon as word of their plight was received physicians and officials hurried to the spot.

RECORD IS SOUGHT

Hazardous Flight Planned By English Airmen

CRANWELL AIRBORNE, LINCOLNSHIRE, England, Dec. 17. — Two Royal Air Force officers tonight were entering the most hazardous stage of their attempted non-stop flight to Cape Town, South Africa, with a new long distance record as their goal.

They left here at 8:00 a. m. (3:00 a. m. E. T.) with weather conditions distinctly favorable for their effort. They hoped to reach South Africa before night fall Thursday. Their Fairey monoplane was loaded with 1,200 gallons of gasoline.

After crossing Tunisia, with its scattered French settlements and military posts, the fliers will face the hazards of the French section of the great Sahara desert. Beside the natural hazards of this expanse of sand and rock a forced landing might mean at the mercy of marauding bands of Arabs.

Claim Fictitious Witnesses Served

Trial Of Tom Shook Under Way At Graham On A Charge Of Robbery With Firearms; One Held

GRAHAM, Tex., Dec. 17. — The trial of Tom Shook, former Electric police chief, on a charge of robbery with firearms, got under way here today after one man was held in contempt of court and another held as a material witness in the pretended serving and returning of subpoenas issued for three fictitious witnesses, summoned for the defense.

Judge Allen D. Montgomery sent W. W. Hopper, constable at Harrod, Tex., to jail for three days and assessed a $100 fine against him after Hopper admitted on the stand he pretended to serve three imaginary persons and made out false returns on the subpoenas.

To Prepare Citation Sam Spence, district attorney, announced he would prepare a citation against a relative of Shook, who was named by Hopper as the man who asked him to make the returns.

Henry Shumate, who confessed committing the actual holding of the Jefferson hotel in Electric in June, 1928, in connection with which Shook was charged, but who claimed he was influenced and spounged by Shook and Ed Fryor, former constable at Electric, repeated a detailed account of the robbery.

Seventeen-Year-Old Girl Testified Lover Slain By Four Men; Imposter Is Alleged By State

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark., Dec. 17. — A 17-year-old Hill county girl, Tiller Rummier, took the stand as the state's star witness in the Connie Franklin murder trial today and testified the last time she saw Franklin her lover, he was lying in the woods near St. James crying "You've killed me!"

The four men on trial charged with murdering him, Herman Greenway, Hubert Hester, Joe White and Bill Younger, were standing by beating him with rocks and "brass knucks," she said.

Attacks Claimed "While Franklin lay gasping for breath, she said, two of the men, Greenway and Hester, attacked her when she left them, she said, she returned immediately to Greenway's home, where she had been staying and never had seen Franklin again.

These threats, she said, kept her silent from last March 9, until about a month ago when she gave testimony to the grand jury.

She denied flatly under cross-examination that the man who claims to be the Connie Franklin alleged to have been slain was the man she was to have married.

Despite severe cross-examination, she held to her story although she admitted she had not seen Franklin slain.

Unlike Lee Roy Merriman, who was executed for his part in the crime Thanksgiving Day, Aldridge is talkative. He appears in the highest of spirits and shows no outside fear of his impending doom.

With one of his hopes of escaping the electric chair for an attack upon three Dallas girls blasted by the refusal of Governor Dan Moody to interfere with his scheduled execution early Thursday, Ben Aldridge, remained calm in his death cell in state prison here today.

He told policemen his name and address before he became unconscious. He died a short time later in a hospital.

County Voters Okeh Highway Project By Almost Five To One

Big Majorities Rolled Up In Heavy Voting Over Entire County on $991,000 Bonds; Opposing Leaders Make Statements

By AL HILL

By AL HILL, Avalanche Staff Writer

BELIEVERS in the old adage: "The third time is the charm," are among those who feel like saying: "I told you so," as a result of the election held yesterday to vote $991,000 in bonds for paving highways number 7, 9 and 53 through Lubbock county.

Unofficial returns, as checked by the Morning Avalanche last night, give a total of 3,259 votes cast for the bonds as compared to only 685 cast against them. This is approximately a vote of five to one, and the result can not be materially changed when the remaining 12 boxes of the country's 32 polling places have been heard from.

Balloting Heavy. Features of the voting were the great majorities rolled up by citizens of Lubbock and Slaton for the bonds. Lubbock's total votes show a ratio of more than 12 to one for the bonds, while Slaton's show a ratio of almost five to one for the paving program.

Total votes of Lubbock's six polling places give the bonds 2,574 for and 211 against. Slaton's total for the bonds was 452 as against only 86 against.

Precinct number one, Lubbock, carried the bonds by 1,348 for and 61 against, which is just about 20 to one for.

By boxes, returns were received from the following: Prec. 1, Lubbock, 1,348 for, 61 against. Prec. 2, Lubbock, 130 for, 23 against. Prec. 3, Lubbock, 73 for, 42 against. Prec. 4, Lubbock, 561 for, 63 against. Prec. 27, Tech Furniture store Lubbock, 393 for, 19 against. Prec. 28, Lubbock Lumber Co. 49 for 3 against. Prec. 3, Slaton, 110 for, 24 against. Prec. 24, Slaton, 173 for, 50 against. Prec. 25, Slaton 64 for, 11 against. Prec. 26, Slaton, 100 for, 11 against. Prec. 6, Caldwell, none for, 9 against. Prec. 7, Canyon, 23 for, 22 against. Prec. 9, Becton, 2 for, 76 against. Prec. 11, Shallowater, 54 for, 14 against. Prec. 13, Wolfarth, 32 for, 4 against. Prec. 18, Idalou, 33 for, 195 against. Prec. 19, Monroe, 39 for, 15 against. Prec. 29, Abernathy, 9 for, 14 against. Prec. 30, Union, 3 for, 13 against. Prec. 31, Pooley, 28 for, 13 against.

From these, it is to be seen that Idalou, Becton and Caldwell are the only rural boxes giving a vote against the bonds.

Change Unlikely. The remaining 12 boxes, including Acuff, Center, Carlisle, Foster, Slide, New Hope, Hardy, Grovesville, Woodrow, McClung, Estacado and Harwood, if they should vote solidly against, would have not enough votes to change the result.

It is expected that Acuff, Carlisle, Woodrow and Harwood will each give a bigger vote for the bonds than against. Figuring that all votes cast were against the bonds the total of all 12 of these boxes would undoubtedly be no greater than the total of 593, which is all the ballots cast in all these boxes both for and against the first bond issue election of last year.

Statements from the two leaders of the past several hectic campaign days, M. G. Abernathy, directing the opposition, and Charles F. O'Neill, chairman of the Lubbock County Good Roads association, leader for the bonds, were made last night as soon as the final results were known.

Mr. Abernathy had only the following to say: "I've got both hands up, with a white flag."

Mr. O'Neill said: "The city and county of Lubbock justified our faith in the Spirit of the West. It was a great victory and I feel that I owe particular thanks to the legion of men and women who so loyally gave their assistance, when you think of our city giving 13 to one for the bonds."

"Great thanks are due the citizens of Lubbock county for their support of the bonds."

Mercury Driven Below 32 Degree Mark Tuesday To End Spring-Like Temperature Of Past Two Weeks

FOLLOWING two weeks of spring like weather, during which time the thermometer registered around 50 degrees as an average, winter again made its appearance in Lubbock and vicinity yesterday, the mercury dropping at a late hour last night past the freezing mark.

Indications were that with the approach of the early morning hours today, the temperature would drop even lower while reports from Amarillo stated that, with a minimum of 31 degrees Tuesday, an 11 degree drop was expected before today.

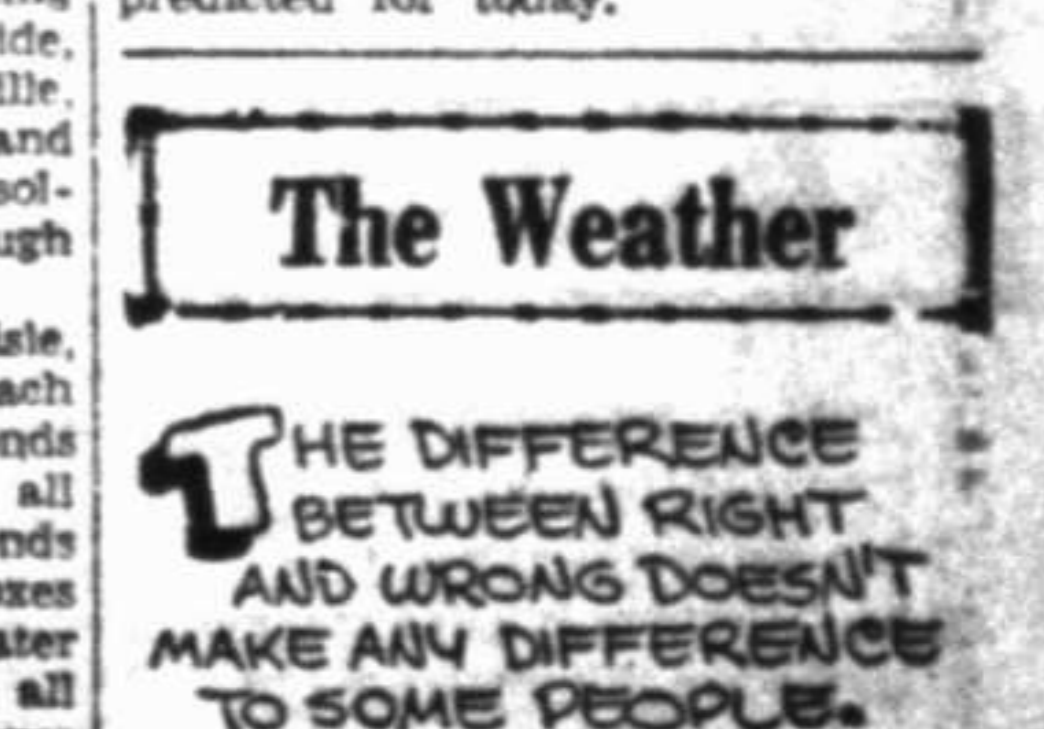

Cold Wind Arrives. The cold spell struck Lubbock early yesterday morning and a sudden drop resulted. A cold wind blew down from the north and Lubbock citizens were forced into the protecting folds of heavier clothing which had been abandoned with milder temperatures.

Wichita Falls reported colder weather about noon Tuesday, and a drop of 14 degrees registered. A drop of 20 degrees took place at Paris.

Sharp drops also occurred at Waco, Dallas, Fort Worth and other North Texas points. Associated Press dispatches stated that pleasant weather prevailed in the extreme south portion of the state, the temperature at Edinburg being 80 degrees. Fair and colder is predicted for today.

Santa Promises Kleinschmidt He Will Visit Lubbock Kiddies Christmas Eve

Captain and Wife to Go Home After Long North Pole Trip

By CAPT. F. E. KLEINSCHMIDT

Special Correspondent for the Avalanche-Journal and Head of the Expedition to Find Home of Santa Eskimo Village, Victoria Land, Dec. 17. (By Wireless)—This is the biggest surprise Santa has given us yet and you know from my previous dispatches how often he surprised us with Jack Frost and the Observatory.

It all came as a result of a long talk I had with him. I believe in bigger and better Christmas every year and this is going to be the happiest one of all for the children in Lubbock. There are many surprises in store for Christmas morning I am sure, for I have invented some brand new toys, none of them has ever been before, and I am coming with a bigger sleigh than ever.

I told him that nothing would do as much to make Christmas bigger and better in Lubbock than a promise from him that he would come there on Christmas eve with a sleigh full of toys.

Santa Agrees He thought about the plan and then he gave me his answer. "You may tell the boys and girls of Lubbock and vicinity that I will positively be there on Christmas eve," he said. And his eyes twinkled as he said it, for no one knows any better than Santa just how much pleasure he can give by such a visit.

I was so delighted that I jumped into the air and kicked my heels together three times before I came down. He actually has promised to visit Lubbock on Christmas eve and when Santa gives his word not even Laylak, the North Wind, can change it.

Ready To Leave After Santa gave us his promise we were ready to leave. Our baggage was all packed and all we had to do was transfer it to the airplane. We warmed the motor up and I settled with Patukuk and Kitesna, our faithful Eskimos and everything we could spare and which we actually did not have to use on our flight home we left with them and it proved to be quite a heap of goods, making them virtually millionaires in Eskimo-land. Our rifles and ammunition, of course, topped the list in value, because this meant food in the shape of Seal, Walrus and Polar Bear. A pair of binoculars were priceless to them because they made their eyes so strong you could see things for miles. The whole village wanted to rub together and buy the airplane if a white man would stay with them for a year and teach them how to run it.

Excuses Invented We did not wish to offend these kind and childlike people, so we had to invent excuses, but sometimes we were hard pressed for it.

For instance, I gave Kitesna my flashlight which had been of great help to us in the dark looking for things around camp. Even Laylak could not blow out its light. I gave him some extra batteries and showed him the simple use of it.

Now another Eskimo came up with some beautiful white fox skins and offered them for an electric light bulb. He had seen the fine light it gave, and would not that have solved so many problems for them in their house where they had to use seal oil and reindeer moss for light. It was as simple as the flashlight, for all you had to do was hang the bulb on a string and turn a little knob.

So you see we had to use infinite tact for an Eskimo like most uncivilized people will respect you and quickly judge you according to what you say and how you deal with them. The Eskimos are the most truthful people in the world and one of them should ever tell a lie he would be ostracized by the whole village.

Mrs. K. Keeps Ring Mrs. K. also diverted herself of everything she could spare and robbed us into the bargain. If we should have an accident on the way home it will go hard with us, for we won't have a pot to cook in, a needle or thread nor a tent to pitch camp with. The only thing I am sure she has left is her wedding ring.

The airplane has been rolled out of the snow hangar and the motors are running, we have to dismantle the wireless set and I have to sign off.

Santa has already anticipated his visit to Lubbock on Christmas eve and urges all the children there and in that vicinity to be good and merit his trip. Nothing gives him more pleasure than to give pleasure to others for he is the most unselfish and beloved man in the world.

Off For New York Mrs. K. and I are going to fly to New York where we will spend Christmas. Santa has promised to stop off and see us before he goes back to the east at the North Pole and we are, of course, delighted.

We have enjoyed our trip and are proud of what we, with the Avalanche-Journal, have accomplished for the kiddies of Lubbock and the South Plains. Love and a Merry Christmas to all.

Captain Kleinschmidt, signing off.

Santa Fe Clerical Association Feted

(Special To The Avalanche)

SLATON, Dec. 17.—The first annual banquet of the Clerical association of the Slaton division, Santa Fe railway, was held here Saturday night at the Slaton clubhouse with representatives attending from Lubbock, Plainview, Post, San Angelo, Albuquerque and other points. Several prominent figures throughout the section appeared for talks on the program. A short business session was held near the close of the meeting.

The association has a membership of 137, including many of the clerks located at various points on the Slaton division, which includes 1,690 miles of rail lines through West Texas.

Central Missouri counties have raised the bounty on wolves from $5 to $20 because inroads of the animals have increased.

Approve Bus and Truck Line Sale

AUSTIN, Dec. 17. (AP)—The railroad commission today approved sale of bus lines and class A truck lines, as follows: George W. Page to the Southland Greyhound Lines, Inc. bus line from Big Spring to Midland and from Midland to Pecos. W. S. Black to the Waco-Hico-Cisco Transportation Company, Inc.

Make Your Gas Bills Thrift Bills

While we can not regulate the amount of gas that you use, we do urge you to take care that your consumption does not exceed your actual needs.

In other words, we want you to get the most out of the gas you use; we want you to make your gas bills thrift bills.

We desire this because a careless, wasteful use of gas results in big bills, complaints, delayed payments and other expenses which, when taken together, mean dissatisfied customers.

Satisfied customers constitute our best asset. They are worth more to us than any revenue derived from gas which is wasted.

College Professor On Lions Program

Two speakers featured the regular weekly luncheon program of the Lubbock Lions club yesterday noon at the S. S. McKay of Texas Technological college and D. E. Bible.

In his address, Dr. McKay told of the organization of the Lions club in San Antonio, Texas, in 1915. The first convention of the order was held in Dallas October 1917, with 25 clubs represented and a total membership of only about 800. Now the organization has more than 2,000 clubs with a total membership of over 40,000.

There are 1,100 members in 29 clubs at Texas Tech, Dr. McKay said. Approximately 200 of these were present at the luncheon and met in a body to discuss the club's activities.

Local Woman Takes Poison Wednesday

Reports last night from the Lubbock sanitarium, stated that condition of Mrs. E. D. Prophet, 24, of 904 Avenue K, was slightly improved following poisoning from swallowing disinfectant water yesterday. The young woman was found in her room by her husband almost immediately after swallowing the fluid and was rushed to the sanitarium for medical attention. Mr. Prophet attributed the act to melancholia, the result of the serious illness of a relative in East Texas from whose bedside his wife just arrived yesterday morning.

Ranger Wife Of Salesman Makes Public Statement

Orgatone Has Done All For Me You Could Expect It To Do, I Use It For Family Remedy," She Says

"Honestly I don't believe I ever felt so well or enjoyed such fine health as I have since taking Orgatone," said Mrs. L. B. Kimmell, of Ranger, Texas, whose post office box is 26, and the wife of a well known salesman, who travels for the Ranger Pipe & Supply Co. "I've suffered from stomach trouble and a general run-down condition," she continued, "and have only taken two bottles of Orgatone, and I'm like a different person. I was always tired and worn out and never felt like doing anything."

"I suffered from gastritis, and a sour condition of my stomach. It just got to where I couldn't eat anything without it souring, and forming gas that would bother me for hours, and I would belch it up. I lost my appetite and just didn't eat anything, and was nervous and didn't sleep well at night. Food would form a knot in my stomach and would pain and cramp me until I would almost double up. The least noise would upset me, and I was awfully constipated."

"I read so much about Orgatone in the papers, I decided to give it a trial. I just feel like a new person, and nothing I eat ever bothers me in the least. I sleep like a baby at night and never wake up. My bowels are regular and I'm not nervous or restless any more. My nerves are perfectly calm. Orgatone has certainly been a benefit to me, it has done all they claimed for it, and I'm now giving it to my children, and using it for a family remedy."

Genuine Orgatone may be obtained in Lubbock at Bowen's Drug Store.

TO HUNT EIELSON Canadian Airmen En Route To Start Search

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 17. (AP)—Canadian airmen en route to Seattle today to start a search for Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Sordland, down somewhere with their plane near North Cape, Siberia, have about a 50 per cent chance of being successful, Major Howard C. Deckard, who will send the three planes and eight fliers north, said today.

"Everything possible is being done to hasten the start," Major Deckard said. "We will have the first plane in the air 24 hours after its arrival at Fairbanks. We have what I believe is the pick of northern fliers and they are being equipped with planes that can go anywhere."

Man, Woman Face Mann Act Charge

SHERMAN, Dec. 17. (AP)—Vernon Ramsey and Evelyn Miller of Waukegan, Ill., arrested in Denton upon request of Illinois officers, faced a hearing before Federal Commissioner Paul Kern here today on charges of violating the Mann Act.

Ramsey, an aviator, and Miss Miller, his student, were brought here yesterday after the charges were filed by J. L. Satterfield, deputy United States marshal here. Satterfield took this action after Illinois officials had failed to file charges. Ramsey was said to have a wife in Illinois.

The WOMAN'S DAY

Orchids have never been my favorite flowers, but they have always held great mystery and interest for me.

In my ignorance, I have pictured them as parasites in tropical swamps swarming with brilliant birds and blue-green butterflies. Instead, I learn that those exotic blossoms nestle so cozily on ermine coats and black velvet gowns, grow in New Jersey and other quiet civilized regions.

Which probably explains why any little hole-in-the-wall florist in New York City always has a line of orchids ranging from $5 apiece upward, and why, in spite of their supposed rarity, orchids are the one flower you can always get in any season.

Within a few miles of New York City, in Bound Brook, N. J., are orchid nurseries started 22 years ago, that now cover some 50 acres, with greenhouses that accommodate as many as 125,000 at a time.

Recently these nurseries were sold to a large corporation for $2,500,000 — which makes orchid raising big league business. The new corporation plans to establish greenhouses in other parts of the country, using bulbs developed at the Bound Brook nurseries. They have specimens that are so rare that they cost $700 apiece.

It seems that it takes seven years to produce an orchid, even with modern science, and that extreme care is required to bring them to their maturity.

Ask any pretty chorus girl to tell you how long it takes them to wilt!

In The Air Mode
If you are old enough, you may remember the hideous costumes women wore when they first took automobiling in a serious way.

The gusters, long chiffer-wells, goggles, and so-called tourists coats should be forgotten with the generation wearing them. Why any marriage licenses were taken out during that time, I shall never understand.

Thus Fay Gillis, who is both a seller of flying machines and a flying instructor, has designed a costume to make every woman who is not already so air minded.

The suit follows the general architectural idea of the overall — with glorification. It comes in leather, in delightful shades of blue, green or red, with zipper fastenings on the sleeves, from neck to waist, and from ankle to knee. Even the nifty little pockets are slippared. Then the garment is neatly lined, with sheepskin, closely clipped, so that the garment is also less weighty and is also more kindly to the silhouette.

Sports for women can scarcely be more popular than the costumes they call for. Making golf and tennis tops so smart and snappy has done much to increase interest in the court and links — to say nothing of the added volunteers to swimming pools and beaches, when bathing tops went seductive.

Christmas Bridge Dinner Given By Club On Tuesday

Husbands Complimented At Pretty Evening Affair At Giorietta; Prizes Are Given Couples

CHRISTMAS zest was added to the dinner party given Tuesday evening by members of the 1928 bridge club through gay red and green decorations, favors and table appointments. The event was held in the Giorietta tea room, and husbands of the members were special guests for the occasion.

A lovely three-course dinner was served at 8 o'clock, after which games of bridge furnished an hour's diversion. Poinsettias in art were used as table centerpieces for the seven Christmas parties, wrapped in Christmas paper, were given to couples making high and record high scores.

Mrs. W. B. Hearrell and Mrs. J. A. Phipps, Jr. were in charge of arrangements for the party. Those attending were Messrs. J. Edgar Price, C. W. Greer, J. N. Hale, J. R. Dush, J. A. Phipps, Jr., O. A. Terry, E. L. Pitts, J. Ray Dickey, W. B. Hearrell, Fred Childress, Leo Edwards, W. A. Sylvester, Gilbert Jackson, F. L. Lindsey, Mrs. Norma Roberts and Mr. Jack Diamond.

W. M. S. Of First Methodist Church Entertained Here

Pretty Event Is Courtesy Of District Four; More Than One Hundred Guests Attended

Red tapers, mistletoe, and other decorations throughout the house lent an atmosphere of the Yuletide season and presents were distributed from a Christmas tree strung with many-colored candies. A miniature tree centered the dining table which was covered in Madiera linen and four red tapers gloved in poinsettia holders at either end of the table.

All guests arrived, they were met at the door by Mesdames C. C. Webb and George Wolfarth, while other in the receiving line were Mesdames Rufe Williams, Solon Clements, E. I. Brown, Joe Hill, M. M. Dupre, J. H. Whitesides, J. B. Edgar, Price, C. W. Greer, J. B. Anthony, J. H. Grimalter, E. M. Smith, McCullough, Bates, and J. F. Patterson.

Refreshments consisted of chicken salad sandwiches, individual cake squares, iced with green and white, and colonial tea. Mesdames J. B. McCauley, Clarence Mast, J. R. B. Cooper, and J. B. Mast, presided at the table.

Mrs. H. W. Sims was in charge of a Christmas program which was featured by a number of old-time songs.

A very lovely Christmas tea was given Monday afternoon from 4:30 to 6 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Roscoe Wilson, 2281 Broadway, with Mrs. W. H. Bledsoe as joint hostess. The function honored women members of Texas Technological college faculty and wives and mothers of faculty members.

The entertaining rooms presented a spectacle of Christmas cheer and color through an attractive arrangement of holly, mistletoe and poinsettia plants, while a decorated, lighted Christmas tree centered the sun room.

The tea table was covered with a lace cloth, while red tapers in green holders, and green bowls filled with red caramels accentuated the Yuletide motif.

Throughout the afternoon coffee and spiced tea were served with star-shaped open sandwiches, fruit cake, nuts and mints. Ninety guests called.

Razorbacks Favored To Capture Southwest Cage Title

Six Opposing Coaches Wonder How Porkers Can Be Shaken Loose From Four-Year Cage Monopoly In Loop

Presence Of Francis Schmidt At T. C. U. Gives Other Teams In Conference Hope Of Ousting Hogs From Basketball Pinnacle In Group

DALLAS, Dec. 17. (AP)—Another Southwest Conference basketball season is just around the corner and six coaches are again wondering if and how the Arkansas university Razorbacks can be shaken loose from the monopoly they have enjoyed for four straight years.

It has about reached the point under Coach Francis Schmidt's regime where the other six members of the circuit considered it a moral victory to finish as runner-up to the Porkers. Texas university gained that distinction last year and regarded his season as quite a success. Now that Schmidt has transferred his affections to Texas Christian university, however, there has been a decided renewal of hope around the conference. The Razorbacks with "Chuck" Bassett at the helm are favorites as usual, but several of their rivals, notably Texas and Rice, are not quite willing to concede them the bunting. The Longhorns and the Owls expect to give the towering Ozarkians a battle.

Porters Favored
With the start of the conference chase almost a month away, they are ranking them about like this—Arkansas first, Texas and Rice to give them their stiffest opposition; the other four, T. C. U., Southern Methodist university, Baylor university and Texas A. & M. to do the best they can. That is how the material looks.

There are some who look for the T. C. U. Frogs to prove the "joker" in the deck, even as they did in football. They have in Schmidt one of the country's greatest basketball coaches. He proved himself something of a wizard at Arkansas, even if he did have an abundance of natural material. His success with the Frogs will be watched with a great deal of interest.

Bassett, formerly at Texas A. & M., where he always managed to turn out a contender regardless of the material at his disposal, has inherited a fine squad at Arkansas. Pichel and Lambert, two stars of last year's championship team, are missing, but there are eight or ten others almost as good. They are the same tall, quick-moving fellows the Southwest has come to associate with Arkansas.

Schooner Is Star
Wear Schooner, all-conference basketball and football star, is back to lend his team from a forward position. There are six other six-foot regulars from last year's squad. Jim Pickren will pair with Schooner at forward. Kenny Holt, who extends four inches over six feet, is looked for the tip-off job with Roy Brewitt his understudy. Milan Dreyton and Tom Oliver are regarded as surties at the guard positions, with Harrison Hale an alternate. In addition, there are eight lanky candidates from the freshman squad, all of whom brought up with a basketball somewhere about the premises.

The Texas Longhorns last Holly Brook their bright particular star of last season, but they have a splendid lot of talent for Coach Fred Walker to throw in the race. Nona Rees, scrapping guard, captains the Orange. His mates include Frank Chestham, "Sugar" Camp, "Big Un" Rose and Fomby from last year and several brilliant prospects from the freshman squad, notably Wilson "Bull" Elkins, who starred at Schreiner Institute. The team has looked good in its practice games.

Coach "Pug" Daugherty has a fashionable squad at Rice, almost the same outfit that lost so many heart-breaking one-point decisions in the last conference race. The best combination they say is Jake Hery and Ray Hart at forwards; Harry Norman at center, and Carleton Polk and Dave Zuger at guards. Hart and Hess are said to rank with any pair of forwards in the conference. Carl Shpack is another goal-ringer who saw much service last year, and "Red" Banner is fighting Norman for a center post. Fritz Hart, "Red" Thomas and George McCarbie are other guard candidates.

Frogs Looking Good
The T. C. U. Frogs have displayed a potent offense in practice games and Schmidt has them working smoothly. Clyde Robinson, a forward, promises to be the individual ace, with Captain Eury at center a close second. Flynn looks like a good bet to hold down the other forward post, and Atkins and Wain are a pair of bang-up guards. With Schmidt at the helm, the team has great possibilities. Mike Brum below, letterman at guard last year, will join the team after New Year's. The Aggies have a new coach John Reid, from the North Texas Teachers, and rather slim prospects for a title. Their aspiration received a jolt when Joe Brown, veteran center, recently underwent an operation that will keep him off the squad. In addition to Captain Harry Keaton, selected by many as all-conference guard last year, the Farmers have Johnny Konecny and Jerome Harris, guards, and Cecil Hoke, forward, back from the 1929-30 squad.

Southern Methodist scarcely will be in the running. Coach Jimmy St. Clair is having difficulty getting his material to turn out. He is using Captain Al Brooks and Reynolds at forwards, Dillon at center, and Hammett and Koonits as guards in practice games. Sheeters, a regular last year, has not reported for practice, and Kaitman and Neely, promising freshmen, likewise are absent from the squad. It looks

Giant Italian Shows Promise

All that Primo Carnera knows about boxing has been taught him by Leon See, his manager. In the short time since the big Italian was discovered as a circus strong man and beast of burden, it must have been a mountainous task, but apparently it has borne results. At any rate Carnera, who weighs more than 280 pounds and stands six feet 10-1/2 inches tall minus those vicious fangs he wears on his feet, won his first 15 fights by knockouts and in the 16th won on a foul over Young Stribling. Carnera has mastered three things that give quality to a blow, See declares in a series of articles running in the London Dispatch. They are precision, timing and angle of the blow and the manner in which they were taught Carnera is described by See. Five full-sized faces were painted on Carnera's heavy punching bag—one full-face, two three-quarter faces and two profiles facing right and left. As the bag revolved, Carnera learned to hit each face with the correct blow, a straight punch for the full face or a left hook for the profile facing left, and so on. In the next step See instructed his pupil in timing, impressing upon him that a blow was more forceful if struck as the object moved forward rather than backward. And lastly, See taught the huge Italian to land his blows sharply, allowing the fist to glance off, causing greater shock and vibration which, according to See, causes the knockout. Feeding his behemoth is perhaps See's greatest worry. The day before Carnera's bout with Stribling he was allowed one meal consisting of a one-pound steak, two fish and some fruit salad. He got the same thing the day of the fight.

Nationalists Are Again On Offense When Rebels Fall
Battle-Worn Government Is Following Up Its Triple Victory With Intensive Campaign Against Rebels
SHANGHAI, Dec. 17. (AP)—The battle-worn nationalist government appeared to be on the offensive in China again today after following up its triple victory over three rebellious factions which almost caused its downfall.
Instead of being in the precarious defensive position disclosed by reports a few days ago, advisers indicated the tide had turned in favor of Nanking and nationalist soldiers were entering rebellious territory with hostile forces apparently crumbling.
At Canton, where the nationalists won a bloody battle December 9, the rebellious "Ironside" division of General Chang Pak-Wei and the Kwangsi rebels, who cooperated in an advance upon the north metropolitan, were reported crushed. General Chang, who with his division withdrew from the nationalist army some time ago and turned against the nationalist government, was reported to have committed suicide.
Collapse of the insurgent north of Hankow under command of General Tang Yun-Sheng was expected in nationalist quarters as a result of government victories in that area. Tang's recent advance caused the evacuation of many foreigners from Hankow, important central China city.
Condition Precarious
Nationalist forces also claimed to have the rebels in a precarious condition north of Pukow.
Conditions remained otherwise unsettled in many places. Most of the foreigners who make their homes in Nanking, nationalist capital, remained here. They came to Shanghai recently when the rebels menaced the capital.
Minor troop defections continued and outlaws prevailed in many places, especially in the Yangtze valley.
As a bid for new business and an answer to the Boston metropolitan parking problems, the Boston and Maine railroad is offering free parking for patrons at its suburban stations.
like a poor year for the Mustang basketballers.
Bears Have Two Stars
Baylor is pinning much of its hopes on a brilliant sophomore forward, Raymond Alford, from Beaumont. They predict he will be a conference sensation. There also is Bob Kiersky, a star from last year, and a number of other capable basketball tossers, but the Bears are not advancing any title claims.

Lightweight List Assumes New Turn

Winner Of Slattery-Scozza Bout To Be Recognized Champion By New York State Commission

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Dec. 17. (AP)—The next time "Bellerin" Joe Humphries announces the new light heavyweight champion in New York state he will be "of Buffalo," regardless of his name.
The New York State Athletic commission today announced the winner of a match between Jimmy Slattery, the veteran playboy, and Lou Scozza, a rough youngster, will be regarded here as the successor to Tommy Loughran, retired 175-pounder. Both Scozza and Slattery are from Buffalo.

The announcement met with some surprise despite the logic of the commission's deductions. A few days ago the fight slogs named Maxey Rosenbloom and Yale Okun, both of New York, along with George Courtney of Oklahoma, and Scozza for an elimination tournament to decide the prize.
Least favored of the entries was Slattery, who never has performed in starting fashion here, while Slattery, already beaten by Loughran in a title test, was not even mentioned. Rosenbloom was an outstanding favorite, due to sensational victory over Joe Sekyra of Dayton, O., and through chastisement of almost every other contender in the light heavyweight and middleweight classes.
Shortly after beating Sekyra, however, Rosenbloom fought Jimmy Slattery in Buffalo and met with surprising defeat. Slattery's victory gave him Maxie's place in the tournament.
During the past week, the other pair of contenders was eliminated.

MINERS MATCH GAMES
EL PASO, Dec. 17. (AP)—Negotiations for home and home football games between University of Mexico and the Texas College of Mines are under way. Mack Saxon, athletic director of the Texas school, announced here today. The games would be played in 1930 and 1931.

Jackets' Record Indicates Power

Breckenridge Eleven Has More Potent Offense But South Texans Boast More Stubborn Defense

DALLAS, Dec. 17. (AP)—The Breckenridge Buckaroos will enter Saturday's championship bout at Waco generally favored to defeat the lighter Port Arthur Yellowjackets, but a survey of their records for the season reveals there is very little to choose between the survivors in the schoolboy chase.
Breckenridge has rolled up 290 points to opponents' 25 in 10 games this season. Port Arthur has scored 163 points to opponents' 12 in nine games.
The Buckaroos from West Texas apparently have a more potent offense than the lowlanders, having averaged almost 30 points to the contest, but Port Arthur's record would indicate a more stubborn defense.
Four teams, Sweetwater, San Angelo, Ranger and Waco, each scored a touchdown on the Breckenridge eleven. Port Arthur was scored upon in only one game, the Brownville Eagles pushing over the Jacket goal line twice in their district encounter.
Those who saw Coach Tom Dennis' scrapping eleven trounce Denton in the semi-finals last week declare Port Arthur is almost 50 per cent stronger than last year. They say the Jackets will give Breckenridge a close scrap, they would not be surprised at a Port Arthur victory. At least they say, there will be no repetition of last year's debacle, when Port Arthur was snowed under by Abilene in the finals.

CARNERA WINS BOUT

Matadors to Meet Hornets Thursday

The practice game between the Tech basketball quintet and the Lubbock Hornets will be played Thursday night, it was announced last night by college officials.

Conflicting engagements for the college gymnasium had forced the postponement of the contest. The Matadors will resume training tonight for their second practice session in two weeks.

STEAMER AGRROUND

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 17. (AP)—Laden with a cargo of gasoline, alcohol and oil, the Steamer Skagway was aground and afire between two rocks known as Poca's Pillars, 2 miles south of Cape Flattery today. The captain, whose name was not learned in early dispatches, was still aboard, but the crew of more than 20 men was reported taken ashore safely.

ABOLISHMENT RECOMMENDED
WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. (AP)—Abolishment of a 35 cent differential on the New York cotton exchange on Southern deliveries on future contracts was recommended today by W. L. Clayton, Houston cotton broker, before a senate agriculture sub-committee inquiring into causes for the depressed price of cotton.

Waco Fans Plan Huge Welcome For High School Mix

"We Will Not Be Partial" Is Slogan Adopted By Grid Enthusiasts Of City; All Colors Displayed

WACO, Dec. 17. (AP)—This city is preparing a reception for the Breckenridge Buckaroos and Port Arthur Jackets, Saturday, that no other city has ever given to two high school teams, meeting for championship honors.
First of all, the several thousand football fans have adopted a slogan "We will not be partial." Where the Breckenridge colors will be displayed in Waco, alongside will be Port Arthur's colors.
The Waco high school band, girls' pep squad and cheer leaders will meet both special trains into the city as will the firemen's band. Several hundred boy scouts will usher at the Cotton Palace Stadium.

Approximately $8,000 was stolen in the robbery.

QUAKE REPORTED

SEATTLE, Dec. 17. (AP)—A severe earthquake, apparently centering in the Aleutian Islands of Alaska where volcanoes have been active recently, was recorded on seismographs throughout the United States today.
The center of the earthquake was believed to be in the North Pacific ocean, in the Aleutian Islands of Alaska.

They are: Boyce Bandy, Canyon; Price Barrett, Hereford; Farris Bass, Post; Robert Clark, Turkey; Edwin Comer, Clovis, N. M.; Leo Cooper, Lockney; Robert Elkins, Amarillo; Guy Fuller, Spearman; Sloan Miller, Henrietta; R. F. Newman, Hedley; Ernest O'Donald, Canyon; L. B. This closes the best football season that the Buffs have had in several years, having won six games, tying one, out of 10 played, the three Abilene schools were the only ones to defeat the Herd.
The annual banquet for the letter men will be held Friday night, December 20. At that time a captain for 1930-31 will be elected.

PLANS PERFECTED

Clyde McNeil Scheduled To Go On Trial
BROWNWOOD, Dec. 17. (AP)—Altona for Clyde A. McNeil, charged with robbery with firearms in the holdup of the First National bank here March 12, perfected their plans today for McNeil's trial.
After hearing 25 witnesses on a motion for a change of venue, Judge E. J. Miller yesterday overruled the motion, and granted the defense a recess until today to work on their plans. A number of witnesses were here to testify for McNeil.

SLATON, Dec. 17.—Actual cage training for the Slaton High Tigers started Monday, with over 20 candidates on the field. They were on last year's quintet, which finished second in the district.

Ring Future of "The Great" Shires Lies Behind Him After Trafton Fight

By CHARLES W. DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO, Dec. 17. (AP)—The ring future of Charles Arthur "The Great" Shires, lies behind him. But if he still chooses to fight, after his disastrous football player, the line of prospective opponents is beginning to form at the right.
The great man, decisively defeated and knocked to the floor three times last night, was deluged by challenges today. They came from all corners of the nation. The discovery that Shires, the conqueror of Lena Blackburne, late manager of the White Sox, and the dangerous Dan Daly, could be licked possibly stimulated the challenges.
Spohrer Wants Match
Promoter Jim Mullen heard from Albert Spohrer, catcher of the Boston Braves. He wants to fight Shires. So does Russell Crane, captain of the University of Illinois football team this year. Ray Kolp, the Cincinnati pitcher, and others.
Hack Wilson, the Cubs' center-fielder, has turned thumbs down on a move to shove him into the ring with the great Shires, inasmuch as Shires has already been licked.
After Shires attempted to soothe his bruised body and cut mouth with a saucer of bananas and a platter of bacon and eggs today, he was undecided as to his future. He gave consideration to an appearance in vaudeville at a thousand a week, and went around to collect $2,825, the amount he received for hitting the deck three times and for catching all those punches that Trafton, the 219-pounder belted him around the jaw, on his nose and body.
"Trafton? Oh, yes, that big bum." Shires mused between gulps of coffee. "He played football or something didn't he? And he had the nerve to fight me. Well, if the guy was anywhere near my weight it would have been a different story."
"How could they expect me to lick a guy weighing 40 pounds more than I did?"

Trans-Atlantic Flier Tells Story Of Battling Head Winds Over Ocean

SANTO ANTONIO, Brazil, Dec. 17. (AP)—The story of how he and his companion battled head winds most of the way across the South Atlantic and finally made a forced landing in the darkness on the Brazilian coast ending in the overturning of the plane was told to officials here today by the Uruguayan Trans-Atlantic flier, Major Tadeo Larré-Borges.

The major who arrived here from Maracaja where their plane was wrecked last night, said he and his companion, Lieut. Leon Challe had encountered all kinds of weather on the 3,600-mile flight. They were exhausted after more than 36 hours in the air, their fuel was running low and darkness settled down. They decided to land at the first available spot, but were unable to see clearly as they came down, and the plane turned over, pinning Challe beneath it.

Winds Favorable
"For the first few hours of the flight the winds were favorable," said Major Larré-Borges, "but after passing Cape Verde on the African coast, we ran into head winds so unfavorable about four in the afternoon that we decided to ask the direction to the nearest land and to head there."

Charged Student Gets Suspension

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 17. (AP) Louise Lee Derry, University of Missouri football star under bond on a charge of stealing clothing and jewelry from a fellow student was suspended from the university today for failure to attend classes. Dr. M. G. Neale, dean of the school of education, who made the announcement, said Derry had attended only one class since the close of the football season.

High School Band To Play Uniform Benefit Concert

Fifty Western Musicians Will Be Aided By Funds Received At Entertainment Tomorrow Night

Proceeds of the entertainment will go to buy uniforms for the 50 Western musicians who, this year, have had to purchase their own sweaters. An order of 50 was received the past week.

To Enter Contests
Plans at this time of the organization call for entering several band contests in the spring and members have been working seriously to this end for the past several weeks. The high school organization has served as an entertaining feature on several occasions the past year, playing at the Panhandle South Plains fair, making booster trips, leading processions for elections and an evening in Lubbock with the Westerner football team.

Program as announced yesterday includes the following:
Gateway City March; H. L. King, American Patrol, F. W. Meacham, Adolph Folsa, Lessey trumpet solo played by Robert Kornegay.

Atlanta Suite in Four Parts, Sarranck:
1. Nocturne and Morning Hymn.
2. A Court Function.
3. "I Love Thee," the Prince and Anna.
4. The Destruction of Atlantis.

Evening Song "Aloha," Pluck.
By the Waters of Minnetonka Lierance, sung by the mixed octet under the direction of Mrs. Von Tungen.

Songs and Novelties by E. V. Blake, selected.

Japan And United States Meet Over Conference Table

Spirit Of Friendliness And Good-will Shown In Meet For Settlement Of Naval Problems At Washington

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. (AP)—In a spirit of friendliness and goodwill the United States and Japan faced each other over a conference table today in an effort to settle as many as possible of their naval problems which will come before the London disarmament conference next month.

With the first formal duties of yesterday in ceremonial calls paid President Hoover and Secretaries Stimson and Adams, the delegates had before them today business conferences and social entertainment.

Equality Sought.
Insistence upon a strength equal to 70 per cent of the largest fleet of auxiliary warships, voiced by Reijiro Wakatsuki, head of the delegation, in Chicago Sunday night, was reasserted. This was coupled with the intimation that 80,000 tons of submarines—approximately Japan's present undersea strength—would be offered as a minimum at the London conference.

The 10-10-7 ratio which Japan is asking for auxiliary ships was thus presented as applying over the total auxiliary tonnage, rather than to each category separately.

Submarines Desired.
In any event complete abolition of submarines was shown to be held undesirable, but abolition of capital ships, which has been agitated ever since the airplane became an important weapon of war, was represented as a pleasing prospect.

An outline of the Japanese position was given yesterday in a formal statement by Wakatsuki at an embassy reception. This said the Kellogg anti-war pact was the starting point of the London conference, and "in itself a guarantee of success."

Meanwhile, the American government completed the list of those who will represent the United States at the parity and announced 67 men and women would be sent to London.

The navy department was asked by unidentified members of the delegation to send the group to England aboard the battleship Texas, flagship of the fleet. The navy indicated willingness, subject to the approval of President Hoover.

St. Louis loses between $25,000 and $35,000 daily to racketeers and commercial swindlers, it is estimated by the Better Business bureau.

Contracts Let By Commissioners On Roads And Bridge

AUSTIN, Dec. 17. (AP)—The state highway commission today concluded its award of contracts for the month by accepting offers aggregating $693,529 for the construction of eight road and bridge projects in nine counties.

The lettings today brought the total for the month to nearly $1,600,000.

Suggestions Made For Living Rooms

Miss Louise Baird, County Home Demonstration Head, Mails Letters After 1st Scoring In Contest

With practically all living rooms entered in the state contest scored for the first time, Miss Louise Baird, county home demonstration agent, Tuesday was mailing out letters to contestants with suggestions as to planning their work for the year.

Miss Baird stated that living rooms which have not been scored will be immediately after the first of the year and that final scoring will be made in April when winners will be determined.

Six Characteristics.
The suggestions included six main characteristics which make up a livable living room: a music center, writing center, reading center, conversation center, rest center and amusement center. If women will follow these principles in checking their present furniture they will have a better idea of what to add, according to the county agent.

"Individual pieces can be bought and used as well, and sometimes better, than an entire suite," said Miss Baird. "Another important thing to remember is the color scheme. It has been found that best results can be obtained from three different colors which harmonize. Every contestant should study the problems of furniture in the living room so that they will know just how to go about improvement before they start. Several books can be obtained at the county library which will be helpful."

Jones county: Reinforced concrete and steel bridge across Clear Fork of Brazos river on state highway 30, $26,488.60.

The commission accepted the swinging bridge on highway 36 at Freepert, Brazoria county, on condition that the district operate it until two pipe lines now attached to it are removed.

Dallas county representatives were promised that the commission would give further consideration to the amount of aid the state would give on the widening of the present Dallas-Port Worth road, highway 1, in Dallas county.

Most of the delegations were heard yesterday and the commission this afternoon began mapping out its 1930 budget for surface treatment, which will amount to one and one-half or two million dollars.

Japan is now third on the list of cotton manufacturing countries, Great Britain leads, America is second and China fourth.

taken into the confidence of the police on the subject of Dowd's alias. And none but Sergeant Turner and Lieutenant Strawn knew that Henry Dowd had purchased a ticket in New York on June 2 for Chicago. For the murder of Sally Graves, and the relationship between the New York girl and the Hamilton woman who had been murdered, were not to be touched upon at the inquest.

Dundee himself had been one of the first to be called before the coroner's jury, for it was he who had discovered Mrs. Hogarth's body. The fact that he, together with Detective Payne, had also discovered Cora Barker's murder was skillfully omitted from Dr. Price's questioning of the young detective.

"And where were you between one and two o'clock this morning?" Dr. Price asked.

"Asleep in my room on the third floor of the Rhodes House," Dundee answered.

"And of your own knowledge can you throw any light whatever on the death of Cora Barker?" the coroner asked.

"I cannot," Dundee replied, with his official connection still a secret. Dundee had returned to his seat beside Norma Paige and Daisy Shepherd, and had listened to witness after witness with apparently no more acute interest than that of any other boarder in the Rhodes House.

One thing Dundee had confided to Coroner Price just before the inquest, however, and his weary boredom lifted when Daisy Shepherd was called to the witness chair.

When she had admitted, flushing deeply, that she had raided Mrs. Rhodes' kitchen on Saturday night at the very time that Mrs. Hogarth was being strangled to death, Dr. Price asked suddenly:

"Are you acquainted with a man named Arthur B. Wheeler, Miss Shepherd?"

Daisy's broad pleasant face went pale and her lips jerked oddly as she retorted: "Of course I am! He was a boarder at the Rhodes House. All of us knew him—that is, all who were boarding there before he left."

"And that was on what date, Miss Shepherd?"

"I don't know," she blazed. Then reconsidering, "I think it was early in June—about the third or fourth."

"Have you any reason, Miss Shepherd, to believe that the long distance call which came for you shortly after 12 o'clock last Saturday night was from Mr. Wheeler?"

"I don't know who was calling," Daisy retorted sullenly.

"The call was from Chicago," the coroner reminded her. "You knew Mr. Wheeler was in Chicago, didn't you?"

"I—yes I did! But I can't see what Arthur Wheeler—" ings into an invention he was all worked up over. Said he would give me a half interest in it if I would, but I worked too hard for my money to waste it on some silly invention I couldn't even understand."

"What was this invention, Miss Shepherd?" the coroner interrupted.

"Some gadget to go on a sewing machine," Daisy answered sullenly. "I didn't pay enough attention to his harping on it to understand just what it was supposed to do. All I know is he made up a model of it and tried it out on Mrs. Rhodes' machine, and he needed more money to get it patented and to try to market it."

"Do you know what became of this model, Miss Shepherd?"

"He took it away with him, the night he packed up, but I told him pretty much the same thing. But he wrote me again anyway, and I suppose it was him calling me from Chicago—I don't know."

"This is the envelope in which he mailed you a letter from Chicago on June 27, isn't it?" Dr. Price asked, and handed her the envelope which Dundee had found in her wardrobe trunk.

"Well, of all the nerve!" Daisy ejaculated with righteous indignation. "Yes, it is, if you must know, but I tore the letter up his last dollar, and begged me to change my mind about putting my savings into his invention. I didn't take the trouble to answer it."

"Mr. Wheeler, of course, knew that Mrs. Hogarth was supposed to be married to have a large sum of money hidden in her room?" Dr. Price asked.

"He wasn't dead!" Daisy retorted. "Everybody that ever boarded at the Rhodes House knew that story, but if you're thinking of that man who had up for money that he killed and robbed Mrs. Hogarth, then I don't see how you can think he was calling me from Chicago that same identical time!"

"Do you know anyone else in Chicago, Miss Shepherd, who might have been calling you long distance?"

"Not a single solitary soul!" Daisy retorted emphatically.

"Now Miss Shepherd, may I ask if you were—well, romantically interested in Mr. Wheeler?"

"He was a—well, a—contemptuous!" "If you ever seen him you wouldn't ask me that! And say, does this letter sound like I was romantically interested in that man?"

During the gust of laughter with which the delighted audience greeted Daisy's retort, the state capital the night before, leaped forward from her chair directly behind Daisy, and patted the girl encouragingly upon the shoulder.

"Mr. Herbert B. Magnus!" Dr. Price called.

There was a buzz of excited comment for the newspapers had carried the rumor of Bert's engagement on the very eve of her murder, to Cora Barker.

In All the Stories of Oppressed Peoples,
No Man Is More Romantic Than Syngman Rhee,
Princeton Graduate and Actual Head
Of the Theoretical Republic of Korea,
But Now Living in Exile in Hawaii

A typical Korean country gentleman. . . . Until modern times his native land was a hermit among nations.

By HERBERT A. MILLER
Professor of Sociology, Ohio State University

WHEN Margaret Wilson was married in the White House, an invitation, in a White House envelope, took its distant way over the Pacific to the city of Honolulu to Syngman Rhee, a man alien in race and tradition, but a friend of the President and his daughter.

To explain, Syngman Rhee, doctor of philosophy from Princeton, and president of the unrealized Republic of Korea, takes one back 16 generations, and then leaves unexplained the same kind of factors that made Columbus, Shakespeare and Abraham Lincoln unaccountable in the world in which they lived.

The Kingdom of Korea, whose history goes back thousands of years, occupied a peninsula projecting from the side of China towards the heart of Japan. It was called the Hermit Kingdom because it remained its isolation a generation after Japan opened its doors to the western world.

Scarcely 50 years ago it made its first treaties and faced the modern world. Its government had fallen into decay and the dynasty which had ruled for 600 years has now come to an end.

This dynasty was founded by Yi Lian, who established the capital at Seoul. Yi is the Chinese equivalent of "Rhee." The last king of the last dynasty had an elder son, who was the crown prince. Sixteen generations ago this crown prince became the ancestor of the boy Syngman, who was born 34 years ago in the western part of Korea, the sixth generation represented by a single son.

King Yi wanted his second son to succeed him, but this was impossible under the law, as the crown prince knowing his father's wish, feigned insanity so successfully that the succession was transferred. When the king learned what his elder son had done to please him, he loved him more than he did the younger son, so the brother later became even more famous than the younger king.

The legends are full of the happy relations that existed between the king and his elder brother. In the 16 generations of Dr. Rhee's family 48 kings ruled Korea. Although the estates had been divided until there was nothing left, the family relationship was symbolized by worship in and care for the ancestral temple.

SYNGMAN was reared in an aristocratic environment. The Yang Ban class, which is the name of the nobility, was not measured by wealth, and could not work. In most cases perhaps it became parasitical and distorted, but under the old system it was the only class privileged to take examinations for governmental positions. The method of examination was like that of the Chinese and was based on the Chinese classics.

According to the Korean custom on his first birthday the boy was placed in front of a table on which were set many articles; it was supposed that the first one that the child took indicated his future career. In Syngman's case a pen was within reach and he took that, causing great joy to his mother because it showed that he would become a great scholar.

He was set to work on the useless task of learning the Chinese classics, and at six had learned a thousand characters. When the time approached for the examinations he recited in one winter 10 whole books, a thing which few others had been able to do. He was in a Confucian school until the Chino-Japanese war in 1894-95, when the old traditional civil examination system was abolished.

It was evident to thinking observers that the Chinese, whom the Koreans were imitating, had lost the war because they had stood against modern ideas, so the progressive element began to get some influence in Korea.

The young man Rhee wanted to retire to the mountains and become a scholar, but his parents were getting old and had no other children, and he wanted to pay back for what they had done for him. He was persuaded to attend a Methodist missionary school with the expectation that he could, after three years, still pass the new examinations and get a governmental position. He had to keep this from his mother as such schools were attended only by the lower class so an aristocrat attending them would lose caste.

AT this time Russia, China and Japan were competing with each other to get control of the Korean government. Russia, by most high-handed methods, had secured great concessions in the north. The Japanese were very fearful of what it might mean to them and rebuffed their efforts; the weak Korean government fell in the middle.

At this time Dr. Philip Jaisohn of Philadelphia, a Korean American citizen, was invited over as an adviser of the Korean government. He saw how things were going and founded the independence movement against the intrigues of the foreign embassies. He was soon compelled to leave, but the idea was implanted, and young Rhee became the leader and has continued in that role ever since.

The young element of the Independence Club came into clash with the government and 17 men were put into prison. Young Rhee was chosen chairman of the privy council and directed a continuous mass meeting which lasted until the 17 men were released.

There was a demonstration of great numbers of people which lasted for weeks. The government tried to frighten Rhee, then offered him a bribe in the form of a position, and at last promised reforms which it did not carry out.

Dr. Syngman Rhee, President of the Theoretical Republic of Korea, in Japan.

Many were arrested, including Rhee, though no legal charge could be made against the protesters. Several Americans would do Rhee's bidding, but to no avail. At last Rhee had to break them out, thus providing the government with a local charge against him.

For seven months, except for two minutes a day, he lay with his feet bound and his head in a heavy wooden stock—in a cell, or in a room, or in a cage. Twice it was reported that his execution had taken place and both times his father came the following morning to take away his body.

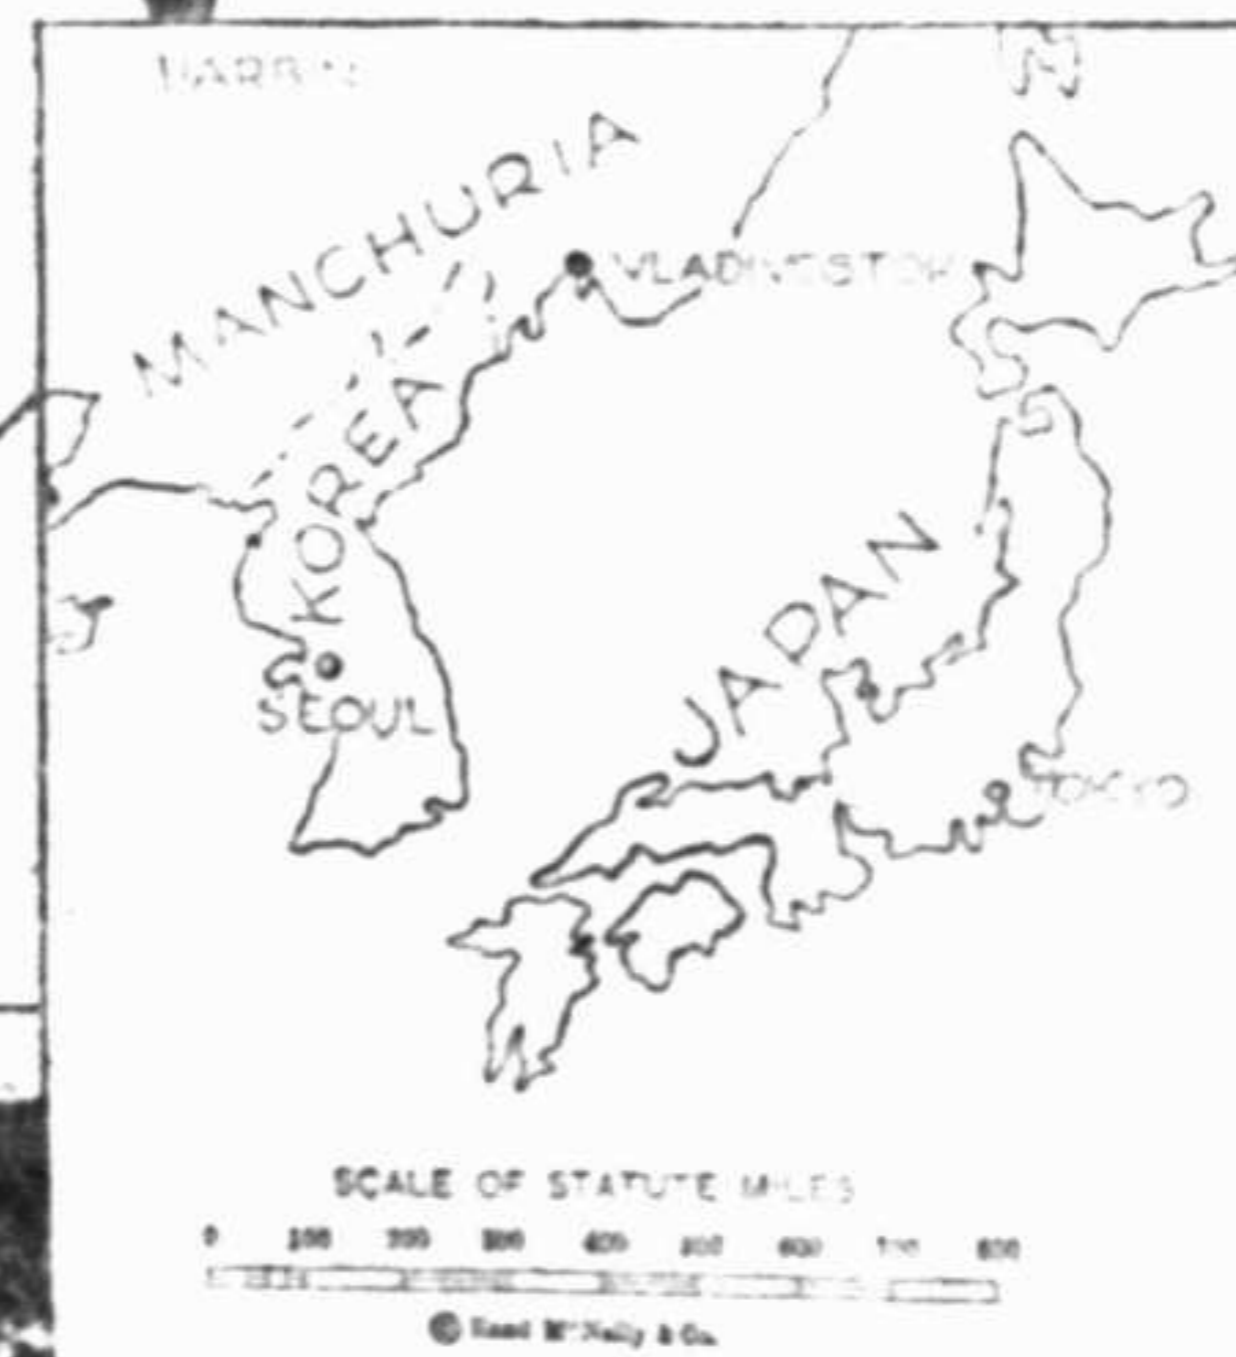

FINALLY, at the whim of one of the judges, the stock was removed and his sentence made a life imprisonment. For six years he remained in prison, but during the last four, conditions were made easier.

He started a school in the jail and 40 of his fellow prisoners became Christians and some of them became famous in later years. He wrote a book, which was Centuries of bleak oppression have made even the typical Korean dancing girl a grim-faced person.

He's father of his country, but he can't go home. . . . Rhee's exile President Syngman Rhee, descendant of 48 kings.

A peninsula like Florida Korea sits from China toward Japan and long has been a playground for bitter Russian, Japanese and Chinese political rivalry.

During the height of the elaborate funeral procession for the late Emperor of Korea . . . hundreds of thousands of Koreans staged a revolutionary demonstration against Japanese rule.

smuggled out and printed in California and is known as the Spirit of the Independence Movement.

With the outbreak of the Russian-Japanese War the conservatives and pro-Russian forces collapsed and Rhee was released from prison. Although for a time the Japanese had thought him to be on their side because he was opposed to the Russians, they found immediately that what he wanted was Korea for the Koreans, not for the Japanese, so he was forced to escape from the country as quickly as possible.

He was released in August, and Prince Min tried to get him appointed envoy to Washington, but the Japanese prevented it. He left for America in September, and in the harbor of Honolulu met Mr. Taft, then Secretary of War, who gave him a letter to President Roosevelt, whom Rhee was able to see at the time of the peace conference between Russia and Japan, but since he had only personal and not diplomatic standing it was not possible to accomplish anything.

The next year the young Korean entered George Washington University as a special student and in two and a half years graduated with an A. B. degree. Two years later he got an M. A. degree from Harvard, and the following year a Ph. D. degree from Princeton at the last commencement at which Woodrow Wilson presided.

DURING all his student career Rhee had supported himself by speaking, mostly in churches. On finishing his studies he had decided to give up political activity and was persuaded by the Y. M. C. A. to go back to Korea to start student religious and educational work.

He would not, however, co-operate with the Japanese, and as they were about to arrest him he managed to leave the country as a delegate to the Methodist Quinquennial Conference in Minneapolis in 1912, and has never been back.

In 1913 the Koreans in Hawaii invited him to come there. When he arrived he found several thousand Koreans rather adrift in the world and decided that they needed a school. He established one which now has the support of the best Americans on the Islands and has sent many students to colleges on the mainland.

Japan formally annexed Korea in 1910 and ruled it with military ruthlessness. On March 1, 1919, the funeral of the late Korean emperor was to be celebrated. Instead of the expected ceremonies there was simultaneously staged a revolutionary demonstration involving hundreds of thousands of Koreans who shouted for independence, but attempted no violence.

The leaders of the revolution elected a full government, composed mostly or wholly of men outside the country. Syngman Rhee was in America and was elected president of the Republic and continues to bear the responsibility, though it is as president of the Korean National Commission that he has really active functions.

IT was on March 25th of that same year that I first met Dr. Rhee in Philadelphia when the Koreans in America joined forces with their fellows at home in the effort to secure independence from Japan. The effort had a noticeable effect on the Japanese methods of administration.

I have just visited Dr. Rhee on the Island of Hawaii, where he finally returned, having realized the hopelessness of immediate political change and the present necessity of preparing his people for national responsibility.

Dr. Rhee is not a fanatical agitator. In breadth of view and unflinching idealism he reminds me of President Masaryk of Czechoslovakia, the successful leader of a similar cause which had waited 300 years for its realization.

The Korean Commission, with headquarters at Washington, is not engaged in revolutionary activity, but is trying to arouse in the Koreans a sense of national responsibility. In the meantime Dr. Rhee is absorbed in the effort to make a co-operative plantation succeed so as to help solve some of the personal problems of Koreans living in Hawaii.

America has harbored many leaders of foreign causes, but none finer, nor with a more obvious cause than the man whose spirit the Korean prison could not break.

It is our next duty to get together and plan for the paving of a road from Slaton north, and for the paving of the Levelland road, and the road from Idalou to Peterboro. These are necessary to the development of Lubbock, city and county.

"I want to thank Mrs. V. R. Dockray, W. R. Blake and 500 other good citizens for the help given, also the very excellent high school band. Without such generous aid the bonds could not have carried.

"Let's forget the opposition. Let's all join hands in building a great county, and to those who claim the city of Lubbock as home, I urge that we retain the good old Lubbock spirit and that we solemnly determine that this city SHALL be the metropolitan of the Great West. We can do it."

Courage To Dawson

It is my hope that Dawson county will take courage from the result of our bond election and vote their bonds next Saturday.

"Thanking again everyone especially the newspapers of the county I will say good night."

A long distance telephone message from Brownfield, from J. C. Shelton, secretary of that city's chamber of commerce, brought congratulations for the success of the election and the expressed hope that Dawson county would vote their bonds and that it would not be long until Terry county followed suit.

In a program to the Lamasa chamber of commerce, Mr. O'Neal stated:

Good Luck Voted

Lubbock county voted over four to one for good roads bonds. We are anxious for Dawson county to do the same by the great West and vote its bonds on Saturday. Everybody happy here with work with greater heart for a better West Texas. Good luck to the progressive people of Dawson county. Vote your bonds.

Congratulatory messages were received from Lamasa citizens, also.

A telegram from Slaton will be found in another story in this issue of the Morning Avalanche.

Parades Planned

Featuring the election day included parades by the Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary club members, and their wives from the Hotel Lubbock to the courthouse marching by the high school band, and the parade of Tech students to the polls, in addition to the showing of many industrial plant exhibits at various intervals of the day as a reminder that the election was being held.

It will be remembered that the first bond issue election, held in December of 1922 resulted in a vote of 1,578 for and 2,282 against, and that the second election, held in January of this year, resulted in 11,780 for and 1,682 against.

By the vote of Tuesday this county will get almost 100 miles of paved highways. Amounts figured are based on concrete paving, the state and federal governments to give one dollar each for every dollar voted by this county with the exception of highway number 42, from Lubbock southwest. It is very likely that this portion of 33 will receive federal designation before the bonds are issued to pave it, as application is now before the government for federal designation of the Carlsbad-Cavern highway from Oklahoma City to El Paso, via Lubbock, of which number 33 is an integral.

Slaton To Work For Designation

(Special To The Avalanche) SLATON, Dec. 17.—With early returns indicating tonight that Lubbock county's road bonds election had a safe two-thirds majority, officials of the Slaton chamber of commerce announced here that they would begin working immediately to secure state designation on the road leading from Tahoka to Wilson and Slaton and thence north of here to intersect highway number 33.

Before calling the bond election which was today successfully carried, Lubbock and Slaton representatives pledged themselves to work together in getting this designation. It was planned to offer a smaller bond issue later, which would provide funds to pave the road from Slaton north to 53 and also to pave the road west from Lubbock toward Levelland.

On the other hand, in the senate where a democratic-republican independent coalition has caused much trouble for administration republicans over the tariff, the president's proposal for creation of a commission for study of the advisability of the transfer of the prohibition activities of the treasury to the department of justice has been expected to endorse it.

Meanwhile, a number of members have come forward with bills or resolutions to place in legislative form other recommendations of the chief executive.

Only in one instance has the White House veto failed to receive the hearty sympathy in the proposition to set a time for consideration. This has been in connection with suggestion for a commission to study the situation in Haiti. In line with Mr. Hoover's special message, Chairman Foster of the house foreign affairs committee, introduced a message to create such a commission and the committee approved the proposal.

The house rules committee, which gives the right of way to legislation in that chamber, refused, however, to set a time for consideration of the proposition in the house chamber. The committee held the proposal to be too indefinite.

Up To Senate In the house—where the republicans won 193 more seats in the November victory than did the democrats—the House bill to expand by $200,000,000 the public buildings program initiated in the

Hear Conflicting Testimony About Depressed Market

Numerous Views Given In Investigation Of Cotton Exchanges At New York And New Orleans

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. (AP)—The senate committee investigating speculation on the New York, Chicago and New Orleans cotton exchanges elicited conflicting testimony today about the causes for the present depressed market.

Expressing what he said were the views of the southern cotton farmer, Leo Suleido, of Lake Providence, Louisiana, attributed the low price of 17 cents a pound to the exchanges, which he linked to a "gambling machine."

Opinions Expressed Another opinion was expressed by Senator Heflin, Alabama, and Smith, South Carolina, democratic members of the committee, who agreed that "powerful influences" were at work "tempting" to drive the price down.

Still another view of the situation was contributed by W. L. Clayton, Houston, Texas, cotton merchant. Her claim is like the claim of Paris on a spring day, when the soft gray mist attenuates and blends the colors of our lovely old buildings, of the chestnut trees along the boulevards, of the melting blue Paris sky, and yet brings accord well with her type—and when she uses eye shadow, which she should only do when in full evening dress) it will be a grayer blue than the color of her own eyes.

Her manner of applying her make-up must be most delicate. The hard, brilliant beauty, she blonde or brunette, can manage to rouge her lips in a taxi, drawing hard lines and leaving them unblended, but the indefinite blonde would do well to take the affection of never being seen applying make-up of disappearing to powder her nose, as our mothers used to do. The custom has a delicacy and old-fashioned charm which accords well with her type—and powdering and rouging unobserved can be more carefully done than when it becomes a sort of trick performance for the audience.

In particular, the daily make-up which she puts on at home should be very carefully done. Perfect blending, and the absence of any sudden transitions, will preserve the softly graded effect, which is her main charm. One method of doing this is to use two of everything—powder, base and a powder, a moist rouge and a dry rouge, two shades of brown eye pencil, two shades of eye shadow. Only the lipstick will be single, and that will be carefully applied so as never to thicken her mouth, and will be carefully blended toward from the outer line of the lips to a darker tone between the lips.

Technique of Application Many of the cleverest French women use this principle of applying two thin coats of each element of the make-up. The technique is this: First comes the powder base, which may be a cream or a liquid—myself, I favor the cream. After that the moist rouge is applied over the highest points of the cheeks, and carefully blended out, till it fades into the skin. A tiny touch of the rouge may be applied to the lobes of the ears—but a very little, so that it is rosy, not red. Then the powder is applied smoothly and evenly all over the face, and checked softly down onto the neck. After this the dry rouge is applied over the same area as the moist rouge, and is as carefully blended out. No dry rouge touches the ears, though women who like to look very blooming may put the mocha touch of rouge on the tip of the chin—if the chin be firm and willful looking.

After this, the powder is dusted

How to Make Up Indefinite Type

By LUCIEN LELONG. Special Cable to Central Press, PARIS

Each type of woman has a unique charm which must see the keynote of her dressing and make-up if she is to be supremely effective. To my mind, the indefinite type with hair that is just too dark to be blonde and just too light to be really brown with clear gray-blue eyes and faint complexion, has a subtle charm which may be achieved by the dash of honey and the striking blonde, but she among all women must show the wisdom of the serpent and the gentleness of the dove in the choice and application of her make-up.

A woman of this soft coloring when she styles herself perfectly can be more femininely lovely than any other type—even more so than the blonde. Her beauty is made up of the delicately graded tones of the indefinable type of woman, which she chooses the most attenuated and blends the colors of our lovely old buildings, of the chestnut trees along the boulevards, of the melting blue Paris sky, and yet brings accord well with her type—and when she uses eye shadow, which she should only do when in full evening dress) it will be a grayer blue than the color of her own eyes.

from the eyelashes and brows with a small soft-bristle brush, and the waxy, broken eye pencil is run over the eyelashes and blended with another brush or with the fingers. After this the outer corners of the eyes are very delicately powdered with the lighter eye pencil and this tone is carefully blended up onto the eyelid and out from the corners of the eyes to ward the temples—but not too far, exaggerated almond eyes are to be left to the Oriental type of beauties. In the evening the eyelids may be very delicately touched with the gray-blue eye shadow, which should also be used in duplicate—the blue stick being applied after the rouge, and the gray powder delicately touched on with the finger after the eye pencil has been used.

I have taught my mannequins of the indefinite type to use this make-up, and it is the most successful means of giving them the soft, melting look which is so perfect in the indefinite type, which I, for one, admire intensely, and which I think more permanently attractive to most men than the strikingly brilliant blonde or brunette.

The change was made necessary by the extension of the new oil field at Van, it was said. The special rate is 13 cents, compared to the regular rate of about 19 cents.

Cotton Is Quiet; Market Stagnates

Tuesday Declines Are Followed By Covering, Buying

Prices Rule At Generally Steady Tone With Offering Light; Net Advance Shown At Closing

NEW YORK, Dec. 17. (AP)—Cotton was quiet today but yesterday's declines were followed by some covering or trade buying and prices ruled generally steady with offerings light. January contracts sold up to 19.94 or 11 points net higher and closed at 18.87. The general market closed steady at net advances of 4 to 9 points.

The opening trade and offering was an advance of 1/2 to 1/4 point. There were some southern selling but it was absorbed at about the initial prices and the market soon showed increasing steadiness on covering, probably coupled with some buying for rally after yesterday's decline and a note paying for trade account. Further selling was encountered as prices worked upward but offerings were light enough to suggest that the market had been pretty well liquidated before the rally after yesterday's advance and prices advanced to about 10 to 13 points net higher. The demand slackened at these figures and closing prices showed reactions of 6 to 8 points from the best.

Cotton Market Is Quiet Tuesday

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 17. (AP)—Influenced by the near approach of the holiday season, which caused a disinclination to enter upon fresh commitments, the cotton market was quiet today with prices steady. Under an improved technical position, ring traders were disposed to cover and trade buying in considerable quantities was in evidence.

Opening practically unchanged on favorable Liverpool cables the market gradually improved during the morning, gaining 11 to 13 points from the best of afternoon realizing and closed generally steady at net advances of 7 to 10 points.

January opened at 16.78, advanced to 16.84, 8 points net higher for the day.

The early improvement continued and by noon January was trading at 16.89, March 17.16 and May 17.40 or 11 to 13 points above the previous close. The afternoon trading was slack.

Efforts of Salesmen to Boost Prices On Market Circuit Meets Resistance

Buying Is Heavy On Wheat Market

Forecasts Of A Cold Wave Expected To Endanger Autumn-Sown Wheat In Oklahoma And Kansas

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 17. (AP)—Cattle trade around the 11 market circuit was again very slow, with strenuous resistance to efforts of salesmen to advance prices. The general market on most killing classes was no more than steady. There was no dependable outlet for steers scaling above 1,250 lbs. and some further declines were enforced. Aggregate receipts were estimated 31,000, a decrease of 11,000 from a week ago and about the same as the corresponding day last year.

Hogs were generally unevenly steady to 15c higher. The day's top of $9.50 was paid both at Chicago and St. Louis. Total offerings were around 122,500 against 127,127 last Tuesday and 120,982 a year ago. The sheep supply approximated 45,500, a slight increase over both a week ago and a year ago. Fat lambs were steady to unevenly lower. Aged stock was unchanged. Closely sorted lambs in Chicago on early rounds made $13.90 while the bulk of good to choice natives and best westerns turned at $13.00 to $13.25.

TEMPERATURE DROPS

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 17. (AP)—A perceptible drop in the temperature accompanied by a clement rain today swept the mid-west clearing fog, which for the past 10 days had interrupted airplane transportation. The drop in temperature was the forerunner of a mild cold wave, which weather observers said would sweep over the interior of the United States in the next day or two.

Creeping Rallies Set In Following Morning Sessions

Wall Street Exchange Experiences Stagnation Not Reached For Months As Shares Fluctuate Lightly

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17. (AP)—The stock market reached a state of stagnation today such as had not been experienced in months. After a little more selling during the morning, a creeping rally set in largely reflecting short covering and several leading indicators and utilities closed with gains of 2 to 7 points. The market as a whole, however, was extremely narrow and the majority of shares fluctuated less than 2 points. Total sales were only 2,438,080 shares.

The sluggish trading was dominated by the cautious operations of a few professional traders, trading with a moderate amount of year-end selling to establish losses for income tax purposes. Commission house board rooms were largely deserted save for an occasional handful of obviously bored and inactive traders. Traders generally were awaiting definite indications of the 1930 business trend. In view of past experience, a period of dull and sluggish markets is regarded as a normal development when the early technical adjustments of a severe market crash have been completed.

Cattle Sales Are Steady Wednesday

FORT WORTH, Dec. 17. (AP)—Most classes of grown cattle were steady here today. Trading was not active as yesterday. Steers were steady and slaughter parlors and hinders rendered lower with calves steady. The supply was about normal and quality generally good.

One load of steers brought 10.25, about 7 other carloads bringing over prices. Bulls, mostly 1,250, some at 8.00. Common light bulls ranged 5.00 to 5.75.

Receipts Liberal

Slaughter receipts were rather liberal with some sales at 10.50 and less, and common packages 7.00 down.

Packers paid 8.25 to 9 for calves; one load heavy fed calves brought 10.00 and 10.50 for better kinds. Aged fat weathers sold at 7.50 and 2 year old at 8.50.

Hog receipts were light. Truck top 9.00, rail top 9.10 early; prices steady.

Fat lambs sold 11.61 to 11.80, about steady, with feeder lambs bringing 10.00 and 10.50 for better kinds. Aged fat weathers sold at 7.50 and 2 year old at 8.50.

Hog receipts were light. Truck top 9.00, rail top 9.10 early; prices steady.

Attention remained focused on the gold export situation. It was reported that officials of the treasury and the Federal Reserve view the outflow of gold as a normal return of gold attracted to the market during the recent period of high interest rates.

Virtual abandonment of the gold standard by the Argentine government failed to influence the stock of the few companies having large investments there.

Wife Was Fat; No Longer Attractive

Lost Husband's Love

The above headlines appeared in a New York newspaper of April 4 in connection with a divorce trial that has attracted wide attention.

"She was a beautiful woman," one witness testified, "but she got fat and is not attractive any more."

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their beauty just because they do not know what to do.

If you are fat how would you like to lose it and at the same time gain in physical charm and acquire a clean, clear skin and eyes that sparkle with buoyant health?

And gain in energy and activity? Why not do what thousands of women have done to get rid of pounds of unwanted fat? Take one half a teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast and keep it up for 30 days. Then weigh yourself and see how many pounds you have lost.

You'll have the surprise of your life and best of all a bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last you for four weeks costs 83 cents—you'll probably say it's worth one hundred dollars after you take the first bottle.

Kruschen Salts are a blend of natural revitalizing salts your body nerves and glands must have. If you are to enjoy good health, ask any druggist for a bottle of Kruschen Salts and start to lose fat today. (Adv.)

Opposition Heard To Federal Farm Board's Policies

Chairman Of United States Chamber Of Commerce Is Questioned; Claims Fund Advance Is Unfair

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. (AP)—Opposition to the farm board policy in advancing to wheat cooperative funds equivalent to the current value of the product was expressed today before the senate's lobby committee by Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the board of the chamber of commerce of the United States. He was questioned two and one-half hours concerning a conference he and other grain men had with Alexander Legge, chairman of the farm board. Barnes, who also is chairman of the business advisory committee formed after President Hoover's business conference and is head of a $3,000,000 grain exporting company, told the committee the price advanced wheat growers by the board "will be found to stimulate such an acreage as to produce another burdensome surplus."

Clain Unfairness
The witness testified that the grain men "do not accept that it is fair to extend advances to cooperative farmers, and not to the general run of farmers."
"If that was open to all farmers," he said, "it would be in a different class, but to make it a premium to join a cooperative organization, I say that kind of loyalty is an organization will cause it to dissolve under any distress. That will not form a cooperative in this country. It will dissolve like water the first time stress starts."

In quiet tones he explained his views of the farm board's policy. His tones did not alter when Chairman Caraway of the lobby committee accused him of being an "uncandid witness" or when Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, referred to the meeting with Legge as "lobbying."
Caraway's accusation was made after a letter from Ben C. McCabe of Duluth was read. The witness was asked if it expressed his views. Barnes contended it was unfair to read another person's letter, which Caraway had said opposed the farm board, and to ask him if the letter represented his views.
Replying to Blaine's charge of "lobbying" which was twice repeated, Barnes objected to the term.
Examination of Barnes occupied the entire hearing and H. C. Lakin, president of the Cuba company, who had been expected to resume his testimony, was directed to reappear again tomorrow.

Impetus Given To Search For Burke

Reputed Desperado Sought For Gangster Massacre After Machine Gun Bullets Are Identified

CHICAGO, Dec. 17. (AP)—New impetus was given to the intensive man hunt for Fred Burke, reputed desperado, today after Coroner Herman N. Burdese of Cook county made tentative identification of bullets fired from a machine gun found in the Burke Michigan bungalow as similar to those found in the bodies of seven Moran gangsters who were massacred in a Chicago garage last February.

The bullets were sent to Major Calvin C. Goddard, ballistics expert for microscopic examination.
Two machine guns were found in the Burke hide out after he was alleged to have shot and killed Policeman Charles Skelley in St. Joseph, Mich., last Saturday. Markings on the bullet of one gun were not visible to the naked eye. Bullets from the other, however, bore ridges believed to be caused by slight jamming.

Stone flooring in the Boston Public Library were down under the tread of millions of feet until brass inlay work protruded and caused stumbling.

An Automaton Pilots Their Plane

The substitution of mechanics for the human element in flying is the job of the three experts pictured above. Standing in front of the tri-motored plane which was flown from Dayton, O., to Washington by an automatic pilot are, left to right, Major A. H. Glines, Elmer Sperry, the inventor, and Lieut. A. F. Heegenberger. Their test had been made with a gyroscopic control which holds a plane on even keel, at any given direction and elevation, without attention from the pilot. Upper center is visible the wind driven generator which supplies power for the device.

Democrats Named As ICC Members

Joseph Eastman And Robert Jones Are Appointed By President Hoover For 7 Year Terms

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. (AP)—Joseph B. Eastman, of Boston, and Robert M. Jones, of Knoxville, Tenn., both democrats, were appointed today by President Hoover as members of the Interstate Commerce Commission for terms of seven years beginning next January 1.
Eastman has been a member of the commission more than 10 years representing the New England section. Jones who is a member of the electric utility district of Tennessee will succeed Richard W. Taylor of Mobile, Ala., and succeed three years ago by President Coolidge to fill out an unexpired term.
Appointment Expected.
Reappointment of Eastman had been generally expected, although some topics were developed because of his views on government ownership of railroads and his dissenting opinions as expressed in many commission decisions on matters of major policy.
Selected from more than a score of candidates from every state in the southeastern section except Kentucky and Louisiana and his appointment came as a surprise to the friends of A. J. Maxwell, state internal revenue commissioner of North Carolina and a former member of the state railroad commission.
The nominations were approved by the senate Interstate Commerce Committee without opposition shortly after being received from the White House.
Action by the senate before the holiday recess begins next Saturday is expected.

Mrs. Gus L. Ford and daughter Frances, will leave Friday for New York City where they will spend the Christmas holidays with Gus L. Ford and Doyle Wallace. Messrs. Ford and Wallace are attending Yale university.
