Soviets Make 'Peace' Bid, Assail U. S.

By NATALIE RENE
INS Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW, Jan. 21.—A top Russian spokesman tonight reviewed Premier Stalin's peace bid of eight months ago but almost in the same breath renewed the Communist attack against "imperialist aggression."

Peter N. Pospelov, editor of the Russian Communist newspaper Pravda, declared in the presence of Stalin, Foreign Minister Molotov and other top Soviet officials that the co-existence of capitalism and Communism is not only possible but an important condition for world peace.

The Soviet leaders were assembled in Moscow's Bolshoi theater to commemorate the death of Nicolai Lenin, founder of the Russian Communist state.

Peace Offensive Seen

(Observers regarded the double-barreled move as significant for two reasons:

(1). It came in the midst of a Communist peace offensive in Western Europe, and the heightened Berlin crisis which was not so acute when Stalin made his original proposal.

(2). It came little more than 24 hours after President Truman's blast against Communism in his inaugural speech. While the Russian's statement did not mention President Truman, inferentially it was the initial answer to the American President's declaration that the United States will keep world leadership in the search for peace).

Stalin Stand Recalled

Pospelov's statement paraphrased that made last May 17 by Generalissimo Stalin in replying to an open letter from Henry A. Wallace.

Stalin at that time also said settlement of the East-West cold war was possible and necessary for a peaceful world.

Pospelov, who helps make Soviet high policy decisions as editor of Pravda, made a lengthy review of the international situation during the course of his speech.

U. S. Capital Assailed

He attacked "Americacn monopoly capital" but was more restrained in criticism of American policy in China.

At one point he claimed that Western Europe is steadily deteriorating under the Marshall plan, chief target of the Communists. He contended that the Marshall Plan goals of economic independence for Western Europe

U. S. Cool Toward Red 'Peace' Talk

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (INS) — A high State department official sold today the United States will view the Russian peace offensive" cooly until the Soviets make some concrete move to ease the tense international situation.

Responsible government spokesmen in general said that action would be for more welcome than words in the East-West dispute.

The State department official, told that the editor of Pravda, Peter Pospelov, had said Moscow would welcome an adjustment of Soviet-American relations, repeated the "action" suggestion.

U. S. Lacks "Official" Word

It was pointed out that Undersecretary of State Lovett, who retired today with the swearing in of Dean Acheson as secretary of state, had made this clear at his final news conference Jan. 19.

Lovett at that time pointed out that the Washington government had received no official word from the Soviet government proposing a new assessment of relations between Democratic and Communist nations.

Lovett specifically suggested that a good evidence of international faith on the part of the Kremlin would be immediate lifting of the Berlin blockade and a realistic resumption of Austrian peace treaty negotiations.

Today's spokesman pointed out that it was well recognized in the

DROP, DARN IT, DROP!—V. H. Halliburton, meteorologist at the Weather bureau station at Municipal airport, bundled up yesterday afternoon in ear-flapped cap, gloves and overcoat to take a look at the mercury. Despite the station's own forecast of a severe cold wave, and the headlines on the paper Halliburton is holding, he found the temperature at 56 degrees as Texas' weather pulled its usual trick of doing the unexpected and the unforecast again. Area To Have Some Weather Today—Maybe

Cold Front Misses South Plains Area

By BILL HAMS
Avalanche Staff Writer

"DON'T shoot the weatherman. He's doing the best he can," If you hauled out your earmuffs, heavy overcoat, fur lined gloves, and put chains on the family bus Friday morning in anticipation of a "slightly" delayed cold wave, don't blame the weatherman.

If you were one of those that dashed into the pasture and rounded up the dogies and bossies, put them in a protected cowlot with an extra supply of fodder expecting a super-duper norther, don't blame the weatherman.

If you had to haul off your overcoat, take off your mittens, let old bossie out in the pasture again, and denounced the day you decided to wear a heavy wool shirt, don't blame the weatherman.

Was A Bit Warm

Sure the mercury scooted up to 56 degrees instead of tumbling to 15 or 18 degrees as was predicted, but leave that weatherman alone.

How can you blame the weatherman about Texas weather when every Texan worth his sand brags long and loud about how it can change overnight. Yea, even within a few hours. Such was the case with Friday's "phantom" cold wave. So don't blame, just brag. That's Texas.

The weather boys were right on the beam so long as the front kept moving, but it got stalled. Perhaps it was the warm air from down south that threw a body block into the Arctic's play. Maybe it just got tired going south and stopped to rest . . . anyway, it didn't get here, and as a result the South Plains had one of its warmest days in several weeks.

New Front On Way

Area residents had been wanting a real "summery" day for some time. Most of you will admit you were tired of cold, sleet, snow and ice. Well, wasn't that sunshine nice? Most of the snow, frost, and ice is gone. Sure, the Weather bureau experts missed their guess, but don't blame them.

Next time they will probably be right, and then b-r-r-r-r.

Anyway, for the doubting Thomases, and to those that haven't lost faith just because Texas weather threw a curve, here is today's and Sunday's outlook.

Partly cloudy and no important change in temperature today and Sunday.

A new cold front approached the U.S.-Canadian border last night in the Montana area, weather bureau maps indicated last night, but the front is not likely to affect South Plains weather before Sunday afternoon at the

'Possum Is Given Cool Reception At City Bus Station

An underfed 'possum with nomadic tendencies accomplished a small sized panic Friday night when his wanderings brought him into the City Bus station—and the company of several commuters.

Before the animal could be persuaded into a small box by C. W. Hicks, superintendent of drivers, and Joe Lane, manager of a concession in the bus station, at least four women had decided to meet their buses at a neutral corner.

The capture took about two minutes.

Patrolmen Lynn Campbell and George Wilkes who took the animal to police headquarters discounted the possibility of its doing any real damage.

The captive was too tired even to "play 'possum."

Life Termer Who Escaped Prison In November, Back In Jail

CANTON, Tex., Jan. 21. (AP) — Lonnie Jackson, life termer who escaped from a work detail at Huntsville State prison in November, is in county jail here.

He was captured Jan. 6, ten miles north of Terrell, by two Van Zandt county officials. Deputy Sheriff Charlie Simpson said many North Texas cities have sent or are sending officers to question Jackson in an effort to clear up burglaries or robberies.

Jackson has been questioned in connection with robberies at Athens and Terrell. Simpson said E. H. Brown, victim of a service station hold-up at Corsicana Dec. 6 viewed Jackson today but "was not able to positively identify him."

Simpson said Jackson was serving a life sentence as an habitual criminal as a result of crimes at Dallas, Kaufman, and Greenville.

Britain Is Declared Ready To Recognize Jewish State Soon

By EDWARD CURTIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 21 — Informed sources said tonight Britain is ready to recognize the Jewish state of Israel and the United States to recognize Arab Trans-Jordan.

Such a move, intended to ease Middle East tension over the Palestine situation, involves a major revision of British policy. It would be a minor shift by the United States.

U. S. government officials in Washington said the United States is likely to recognize Trans-Jordan next week at the same time full (de jure) recognition is given Israel. They said, however, the United States is acting independently. They said there was no British-American bargaining over whether Washington would recognize the British - supported Trans-Jordan in return for British recognition of Israel.

However, actions by both Britain and the United States as forecast here would bring closer together their policies in an area where both have strategic military and oil interests.

Informed sources said Britain may grant Israel de facto recog-

Three Die In Plane Crash

(By The International News Service)

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Jan. 21 —Three persons were rescued tonight from the wreckage of an Alaska airlines plane in which three others died and the survivors were involved in a second mishap a short time later. The three escaped unhurt in the second accident.

The light ski-equipped rescue plane carrying them out flipped over on its back but no one was hurt at the snowy scene 27 miles northeast of Homer, Alaska, where the C-47 plowed into a hill Thursday night.

Lt. Col. T. R. Chantler, Army public information officer at Elmendorf field, Anchorage, said the names of the three rescued and the three dead are not immediately available.

Blood Plasma Asked

The army set up floodlights at the crash scene to aid the rescue operation.

Ground parties reaching the wreckage seven hours after it was sighted from the air today first reported all dead. They later radioed there were signs of life in the wreckage, which did not burn, in the snow, and called for blood plasma.

Three crew members and three passengers were aboard when the plane left Homer for Anchorage Thursday night.

They were R. D. Land, Prairie Flower, Cal., pilot; Robert N. Stevens, Seattle, co-pilot; Lucina Nims, Seattle, stewardess.

Stanley Hillman, Yakima, Wash.; Roscoe Spears, Dillingham, Alaska; nd a man named Pomireau who got aboard at Homer.

Marshal Lovett, Alaska airlines official said wires which had been sent to next of kin had been recalled, in most cases after delivery, when the word was flashed of some survivors.

Slaton C-C Host At Annual Event

By ROGER SOUTHALL
Avalanche Staff Writer

SLATON, Jan. 21—Dr. E. N. Jones, vice president of Texas Technological college, tonight told members of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce and their guests that "we are in an exceedingly revolutionary time in the history of man, primarily for economic reasons."

The occasion was the twenty-third annual banquet of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development which was held tonight at the Slaton club house. Approximately 120 persons attended.

Time Playing Role

Dr. Jones declared that the economic factor has, up to the present, been most important in bringing about both the "easy" and "uneasy" facets of life. More than any other factor, he said, it is responsible for the "happy, problematical state of the present."

As an illustration, Dr. Jones pointed out that where days once were spent in travel between Slaton and Amarillo, now only a few hours are consumed to cover the distance. And, going further, he pointed out that the time needed to make a trip between the two cities is becoming ever shorter, due to changes and improvements in transportation of an economic

Truman To Be Invited To Visit Texas, Dedicate Big Bend Park

EL PASO, Jan. 21.—(AP)—President Truman will be invited to come to Texas, probably next October, to formally dedicate Big Bend National park, Federal District Judge R. E. Thomason announced today.

"Friends of the park would like to see the president of Mexico join Mr. Truman in the Big Bend, to make the ceremony one of international good will between our two nations, which have been at peace more than 100 years," the jurist who as a congressman introduced the bill creating the park, explained.

He pointed out that Big Bend is the only one of the national parks which has not yet been formally dedicated by the President who performed a similar ceremony several months ago in the new Everglade National park in Florida.

Five Hurt In Auto Mishaps

By CHARLES STONE
Avalanche Staff Writer

FIVE persons miraculously escaped serious injury when two cars met almost head on about 7:15 p. m. Friday on the highway in Monroe, but property damage to both vehicles was heavy.

Four youths in one car, two boys and two girls, were treated at St. Mary's hospital where they were taken by McDonald ambulances, and the driver of the other car, who was alone at the time of the mishap, was carried to Lubbock Memorial hospital by Rix ambulance for treatment.

Apparently Attempted Turn

Bobby McAllister, 19, of Abernathy, driver of a 1948 Ford was going south on the highway, and a 1937 Chevrolet coupe, driven by Willard Miller, about 25, of Cheyenne, Okla., was going north. Miller apparently was attempting a left turn off the highway when the two cars collided, investigating highway patrolmen said.

McAllister suffered minor bruises and abrasions and slight shock, hospital authorities said. Juanita Bridges and Mary Lois Lambert, both 16, of Abernathy, suffered cuts and lacerations. Miss Lambert, who was cut badly about the face, was later transferred to West Texas hospital, it was reported.

The fourth member in McAllister's car, 18-year-old Jack Williams, also of Abernathy, was apparently only shaken up in the collision.

Attendants at Lubbock Memorial hospital said that Miller suffered only a cut above the right eye, but was admitted to the hospital for observation.

No charges had been filed in the case, highway patrolmen said, pending further investigation.

U. S., Czech Troops Exchange Gunfire

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 21 (AP) — U. S. troops and Czechoslovak guards were disclosed today to have exchanged fire in a frontier incident.

U. S. Army headquarters announced no Americans were wounded. American officials said they did not know whether any Czechs were hit. They accused the Czechs of firing first.

The clash occurred last night near Schirnding, directly opposite the Czechoslovak border town of Eger, 75 miles northeast of Nuernberg. The American zone of occupation in Germany borders Czechoslovakia, a Communist state since last February.

Estimates of the number of shots fired ranged from 20 to 200. Each side brought up an armored vehicle, but the Army said the clash was limited to small arms fire.

The incident was touched off when a German truck, possibly loaded with smuggled ball bearings and machine tools, tried to crash the border into Czechoslovakia.

Revolt Launched By Anti-Reds Raoes In North Korean City

SEOUL, Jan. 21 (INS) — A revolt launched by anti-Communists in north Korea's Soviet-trained army raged in the industrial city of Haeju today.

Fierce fighting was reported to have been underway in the city's streets since Wednesday night.

A south Korean government spokesman in Seoul reported huge fires had been set in the embattled city, which lies less than a mile above the border between American-occupied south Korea and Communist-dominated north Korea.

HST Says Inaugural Talk Is U. S. Policy

By FREDERIC TUTTLE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—President Truman told a wildly cheering throng tonight that his inaugural message "is the foreign policy of the United States."

The President spoke off-the-cuff at a reception given in honor of Democratic chairman McGrath. Earlier, the Chief Executive shook hands with 1,000 persons at a reception given by Treasury Secretary Snyder.

Mr. Truman declared that the three major messages he has sent to Congress this month and the inaugural address have now covered the principles laid down in the Democratic platform drawn at Philadelphia last summer. He added:

No Scrap Of Paper

"That platform was no scrap of paper.

"I want to keep it from becoming a scrap of paper.

"The Republican platform was a scrap of paper, and you will remember I gave them a chance to implement it (in the last Congress.)"

The President asked his listeners to "get behind the Congress, the vice president and the Presi-

Acheson Sworn In As Secretary

By GEORGE DURNO
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 —Dean Acheson became secretary of state today facing a tremendous challenge — the implementation of President Truman's four-front attack against the world spread of Communism.

The tall, suave, lawyer-diplomat was sworn in as Gen. George C. Marshall's successor at a crowded White House ceremony less than 24 hours after Mr. Truman laid down his "cold war" program in a solemn inaugural address.

Supreme Court Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson administered the oath that will make Acheson responsible for meeting Soviet Russia's thrusts against what the President termed free and democratic principles.

About an hour after the White House ceremony, the State department issued its first policy declaration under the Acheson regime.

It was full U. S. recognition of temporary military governments in Venezuela and El Salvadar.

This recognition had been delayed for two months. The United States "deplores" use of physical force in overturning legally elected governments.

It was extended because con-

Grand Jurors Called To Stand In Trial Of Reds In New York

By JACK LOTTO
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW York, Jan. 21 — The trial of the nation's top-ranking Communist leaders produced a major surprise today when the defense announced it has subpoenaed the 23 grand jurors who indicted the 11 defendants.

The move, described by the attorneys as a "most unusual step" in courtroom procedure, came after presiding Judge Harold Medina ruled he will "absolutely not" allow the defense to call him as a witness.

During the day, four members of the panel of 525 prospective jurors testified in the "trial within a trial."

Defense strategy is aimed at proving that the panel is "illegally constituted" and the entire method of jury selection in the southern district of New York is unconstitutional.

If the defense contention is upheld, legal authorities pointed out that a "shadow of doubt" would fall on every jury-tried case since 1939 when the present method of selecting jurors was instituted.

The subpoenaed grand jury is the same which indicted former

22-Year Reign Finally Ended

By HAROLD K. MILKS

NANKING, Saturday, Jan. 22— President Chiang Kai-Shek retired from his historic role as China's leader yesterday and his successor reportedly agreed to send peace delegates to meet the Communists.

Vice President Li Tsung-Jen, thrust into leadership of stricken China when Chiang relinquished his 22-year command of the government, was in constant consultation with his top advisers.

One of these advisers said Li had agreed to send the delegates, but no decision was reached on those to go.

Delegates Urged

The Communist radio suggested yesterday that delegates be sent to meet the Reds.

(There was no further mention of this broadcast, which was not heard in San Francisco. Whether it was made after the announcement of Chiang's retirement was not immediately known. If it was, it seemed clear that Li was acceptable to the Communists.)

It was expected that three prominent peace advocates in Nanking — former Premier Chang Chun, Gen. Chang Chih-Chung and Shao Li-Tze—would be asked to serve as delegates.

Statement Held Up

When Chiang flew away from Nanking late yesterday he left behind a statement so ambiguous that officials of his crumbling regime held it up until midnight. They revised it after conferring with Chiang by telephone at his ancestral home in Fenghwa, 210 miles southeast of Nanking.

As finally released, the official translation in English said:

"With the hope that hostilities may be brought to an end and the people's suffering relieved, I have decided to retire.

Vice President Takes Over

"As from Jan. 21, Vice President Li Tsung-Jen will exercise the duties and powers of president in accordance with article 49 of the constitution, which provides "in the event the president for any reason is unable to perform his functions, his duties and powers shall be exercised by the vice president."

Young Girl Held In Check Case

A wave of juvenile offenses which has plagued law enforcement agencies in Lubbock recently continued with the arrest by police of a 16-year-old Lubbock girl for investigation into her alleged writing of a $2.88 check on a nonexistent bank account

She was turned over to juvenile authorities for further action, officials said.

Two juvenile girls, one 15 and on 16, recently were sent to a state reform institution for passing forged checks allegedly written by an 18-year-old girl here.

Several boys were paroled to their parents in connection with separate instances of forgeries, officials said. Investigation has not been concluded in yet another case of a Lubbock schoolboy.

In county court, a fine of $1 and court costs for check law violation were assessed against Mrs. W. M. Chrisman, 34-year-old Lubbock housewife. The charge was filed Dec. 21.

Juvenile investigation took another slant after officials were informed that possibly $300 worth of damage had been done by minor's shooting of a .22 rifle in the Avinger addition. A 14-and a 12-year-old boy, possibly others, will be questioned, juvenile officials indicated.

George M. Bankston, 34, of Lubbock, was transferred to Snyder, where he allegedly is named in a felony complaint.

The police said they held two men, 25 of Lubbock and 21 of Denver City, in connection with investigation into their alleged AWOL status.

Thirteen Injured In Bus-Horse Collision

DALLAS, Jan. 21 (AP)—Twelve of 13 injured persons were hospitalized after an All American Bus Lines bus hit a horse tonight on the highway about a mile and one half north of Carrollton, Tex.

At least three of the injured were believed seriously hurt.

Mrs. Mattie Vaughn, 55, Logan, W. Va., was given a series of transfusions at Parkland hospital. Extent of her injuries had not been determined late tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Barker, both 54, of Ardmore, Okla., were also believed seriously injured.

The bus, carrying 24 or 25 persons, was enroute from Dallas to St. Louis, Mo.

The bus careened out of control after it hit the horse, went down a 30-foot embankment, flew through the air and landed upright in a field.

The Dallas county sheriff's office said the bus driver, Ray Gibson of Oklahoma City, suffered a bruised right leg. It said the bus did not overturn.

Gaines County Well Makes Good Showing

Shell Oil Company, Inc., No. 1 Hawkins, south-central Gaines county discovery from the Ellenburger, had flowed 711 barrels of pipe line oil in the first 16 hours of a 24-hour official Railroad Commission potential test, and was to continue flowing for the full period, and then complete and put on production as the opener of a new deep field.

The flow was through a one-inch opening on tubing. Gas-oil ratio was approximately 280-1. Gravity of the oil was 40.8 degrees. There was no formation water with the oil.

The production is natural, and is coming from open hole between 12,174 feet, where 5½-inch casing is cemented, and the plugged-back depth at 12,267 feet.

This new discovery is about 15 miles south and slightly west of Seminole, and 1,983 feet from north and 665 feet from east lines of section 8, block A-23, psl survey.

It has shown for heavy flowing production from the Devonian and from the Clear Fork of the Permian. Operator will complete from only the Ellenburger, and will not attempt to produce from either of the upper pays at this time.

Lubbock Gains 49-33 District 1-AA Victory Over Borger

Galey, Wilson Lead Westerners To Third Conference Triumph

By EARL SCUDDAY
Avalanche Sports Writer

Lubbock High's scoring specialists, Center Jim Wilson and Forward Charles Galey, collected a total of 29 points to pace the amazing Westerner cagers to a 49-33 District 1-AA triumph over the scrappy Borger Bulldogs here Friday night at the Chapman field gymnasium.

Approximately 1,000 fans watched the Westerners stage their most impressive exhibition of the year, both on offense and defense, during the first half, despite the absence of regular Forward Jimmy Sexton. The Hub city quint showed some ragged spots during the second half, after Wilson fouled out of the game early in the third quarter, but a late point-making splurge by the brilliant Galey and Forward Jesse Fullerton clinched the victory.

Third Loop Victory

The win was the third in four District 1-AA games for the Westerners, as well as their fifteenth triumph in 19 starts this season, and gave the Lubbock schoolboys undisputed possession of second place in the district standings.

The Bulldogs jumped into a short-lived lead in the opening minute of the game, as Borger's Red Hooper dropped in a push shot from the corner. The Westerners tied the count at 2-2 seconds later, however, as Fullerton connected on a short set toss. A field goal by Galey and two free shots by Wilson gave the Lubbock boys a 6-2 lead that they never relinquished.

Galey and Wilson added two more points on free throws, as R. C. Dalton tallied three points for the Borger crew, then the Westerners' Blair Hankins sank a long shot to boost the count to 10-5 at the end of the first quarter.

Third Period Toughest

Both teams found the range on their shots in the second period, with the Westerners tallying 18 points during the stanza to nine for the Bulldogs. Wilson, using his favorite pivot shot, chalked up four field goals and a single charity throw to account for half of the Lubbock tally in the period. Galey and Guard Bob Rooker scored just before the half to hike the count to 28-14, despite late goals by the Bulldogs' Jerry Glass and R. C. Dalton.

The Westerners had their toughest battle in the third quarter, after the towering Wilson fouled out. Dalton, Hooper and Tommy McCord racked up seven points for the Bulldogs, while the Westerners were tallying only one point—a free throw by Galey. Even against the weakened Lubbock lineup, however, the Bulldogs were unable to launch a sustained offensive against Coach Roy Morris' tight zone defense.

Wild Scoring Race

The game developed into a wild scoring race in the final period, as the Westerners surprised the Bulldogs with fast-breaking tactics. Rooker, Turner and Galey dropped in three quick field goals to open the stanza, then Fullerton and Galey boosted the score to 40-26. The last four minutes were a one-man show by Galey, as the veteran sank three field goals and a free toss to make the final tally 49-33.

Galey was one of the outstanding individuals of the game, with his individual scoring mark of 16 points and stellar floor play, but Wilson turned in a sparkling exhibition in tallying 13 points and controlling the backboard. Hooper topped the Borger quint wth 12 points.

The Westerners will travel to Abilene tonight for a final non-conference setto with the Eagles of District 3-AA. The Westerners drubbed the Abilene five, 59-39, earlier this season, but the Eagles have shown rapid improvement in recent weeks and will be very tough on their home court. Next week the Westerners will resume conference warfare with a trip to Plainview and a crucial tussle with Amarillo's Golden Sandies here next Saturday night.

Three New Game Preserves Slated

AUSTIN, Jan. 21. (AP) — The state game commission today set aside nearly 32,000 acres of land in three tracts as state game preserves.

Action was postponed on the acquisition of Camp Swift near Bastrop to be used ultimately as a public hunting preserve.

The commission decided to make a personal investigation of inequities that a protest delegation from Bastrop county claim will hurt its citizens.

The commission, upon application of the owners, closed to hunters these tracts as state game preserves.

Newton county, 21,069 acres, property of Earl, Curtis and Raymond Namkamer.

El Paso county, 460 acres, comprising Ascarate county park.

Val Verde county, 10,209.72 acres, property of Martin Rose, Jr.

A 25 per cent increase in the salaries of game commission employees to result in an over-all increase of approximately $160,000 yearly was approved for recommendation to the legislature. This is in line with an increase being sought for all state employes.

The commission also approved a $50,000 outlay for continuation of its state-wide coyote control program.

The contract for the construction of a superintendent's residence at the Fort Worth fish hatchery was awarded to C. R. Rigby, Fort Worth, at $15,464.

The commission called for a report on the effects of a proposed causeway across Laguna Madre where the circulation of water would be cut off by dirt fillings.

Bower Crider, Bastrop attorney and spokesman for the 24-man group, told the commission that "everyone in the county is opposed to the Camp Swift project."

He voiced these objections:

1. The land is not suitable for game, and county roads now crisscross the area and make fencing it impractical.

2. The loss of tax revenue from the 52,000 acres represents a "big blow" to the county tax program.

3. Purchasing agents of the federal government promised the former owners first crack at buying the land when the army was through with it.

Several irate former land-owners said the $10 per acre they were paid for the land was "a low price."

Camp Swift is being considered as a site for game management experiments. It would untimately be turned into a public hunting preserve, stocked with deer, turkey and quail.

George Washington University's basketball squad plays 23 games this season.

Plainview Beats Lubbock Boxers

Hub City Fighter Scores Lone Kayo

By JOE KELLY
Avalanche Sports Editor

PLAINVIEW, Jan. 21. — Lubbock boxers sharpened their eyes here tonight for the Lubbock regional Golden Gloves tournament, but the Plainview hopefuls already had their eyes sharpened, enough to win a seven to six victory in the inter-city rivalry.

Only two technical knockouts and a single knockout featured the entertaining card, which was witnessed by approximately 1,800 fight fans. The TKOs went to Plainview boxers, while the lone kayo of the night went to a Lubbock boy.

Two decisions were booed lustily by the crowd, Dan Williams of Lubbock taking the decision from Bill Thompson of Plainview in one disputed fight and Calvin Pyle of Plainview winning a controversial decision from James Bickel of Lubbock.

Travis Fry Wins

Travis Fry, Lubbock lightweight, won the first fight for Lubbock when Jerry Johnson failed to show up, Fry winning by default. The first actual ring victory for the Hub City punchers came in bout No. 4, when Bob Bumpass outlasted Elmer Walls.

Dave Fawcett, classy southpaw lightweight, suffered a TKO at 0:42 of the first round when Hollis Black landed a glove on top of a broken rib. The pain forced Fawcett out of the ring.

In the preceding fight, Ted Livesay of Plainview racked up the first TKO at 0:58 of the second round, when Jimmy Peden fell before a looping blow. Livesay's glove pole-axed Peden behind the ear and the Lubbock fighter hung motionless a minute, then fell.

Dulaney Impressive

Biggest surprise of the night was Welterweight Bob Dulaney's showing for Lubbock. The Irishman was making his initial ring appearance and he was impressive, showing poise and ability that indicated experience. Dulaney was a sharp puncher and a good counter-puncher, turning in a fine job of beating Winfred Johnson.

Wayne Raney of Lubbock, a light heavy, caught Dub Bruington of Plainview in the Adam's apple as the referee ordered a break. The blow knocked Bruington's tongue down his throat and he fell flat, barely able to breathe. It had promised to be one of the best bouts of the night.

Despite the loss, Lubbock fighters showed promise and most of the boys on the card, from both cities, will be seen here Jan. 31, Feb. 1 and Feb. 2.

Professional Grid Leagues Decline Any Peace Gestures

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(AP)— The National Football league adjourned its annual meeting today a few hours after the rival All-America conference announced it would continue operations in 1949 as a seven club league.

The AAC said that any peace gesture between the two leagues would have to be mutual action. The National league throughout its own meeting insisted it would accept only San Francisco and Cleveland from the All-America Conference in any settlement of the box office war between the two leagues.

CAUTION ADVISABLE

U. S. Reorganization

EVERYONE appears to agree upon the need for extensive reorganization within nearly all branches of government—particularly the federal government—to reduce costs and increase efficiency.

But it would be risky to proceed with reorganization along the lines recommended by President Truman. Under his proposal, he would supervise practically all the reorganizing, subject to congressional restraints.

To adopt the plan he has recommended would, in large degree, allow those in authority to determine the powers they would exercise. The increasing centralization scheme they propose will add to their powers.

Any such procedure would put the cart of democracy in front of the horse. The United States government is founded upon the principle that the governed shall be the sole judge of the powers exercised by those who govern. Mr. Truman's plan would tend to reverse that principle.

The strict supervision of any governmental reorganization properly is an inescapable duty of the members of Congress who are the representatives of the American people. It is the responsibility of Congress to tell those who govern what powers they may exercise. Congress will fail in its responsibility if it approves a procedure which allows those in office, from the President on down, a dominant position in fixing their own duties and powers.

It would be better to allow the government to continue as the nation's worst example of inefficiency and extravagance than to trust reorganization to those who cannot escape a large share of responsibility for the conditions which are so urgently in need of correcting.

West Texas Mourns

WEST TEXANS have been relatively few who have been able to win elective positions in the State government. Winning candidates for State offices usually have come from more populous regions.

One of the most distinguished exceptions to this rule was George Sheppard, former mayor of Sweetwater, whose 19-year tenure as State comptroller was ended by death this week.

Mr. Sheppard first obtained the position through appointment to fill an unexpired term back in 1930. But the satisfaction with which he served in this office of high responsibility was proved by 10 successive reelections, usually with little more than token opposition. He became a revered institution in the State government whose integrity never was under slightest suspicion and who served efficiently until his last illness began.

His death is a loss to the entire State of Texas. But West Texans will mourn his passing more deeply because he truly was one of us.

"The people of this country now pay about as much for government as for sin," reports a statistician. We doubt if either is worth what we're paying for it.

We sometimes wonder if widespread love of money and universal averseness to work aren't at the bottom of most of the world's economic problems.

"We urgently need laws prohibiting morons from driving automobiles," says an editor. What's he trying to do—ruin the automobile industry?

The Little Savage

Beware Of Romance

By ROBERTA COURTLAND
Distributed By NEA Service, Inc.

(THE STORY: When sixteen-year-old Merry Carson learns that her dashing father, Kin, has asked her selfish mother, Susan, for a divorce, her whole world turns topsy-turvy. Kin leaves home and Susan goes to pieces. Aunt Jane comes to look after things. The doctor tells Merry her mother needs a change and suggests they take her to St. Vincent's, an island resort. At the hotel in St. Vincent's, Susan keeps up her martyr attitude. Aunt Jane tells Merry it's necessary to talk tough to her to bring her to her senses.)

FOR a few days things went along more smoothly than Merry had dared to hope. Susan seemed to have adjusted herself, though there were fits of crying and self-pity that left her soggily martyr-like, with "a splitting headache" and demanding more attention than Aunt Jane, barely managing to conceal her distaste, felt she was entitled to.

"Darn it, if only she'd make an effort to pull herself out of it!" snorted Aunt Jane wearily.

"But, Aunt Jane, she loves Dad, and after all, twenty years—"

"Sure, sure, I know. But, Merry, what's done is done; and after all, she has no right to make your life miserable."

Merry's young chin quivered a little.

"I'm not exactly bounding with high spirits myself."

"I know. And that's what makes me so dad-ratted mad!" Aunt Jane's fondness for the girl softened the look in her eyes. "Here you are, at the very height of your girlhood when you shouldn't have a thing on your mind but fun and good times, and making good grades in your school work, of course, and looking forward to graduation and keepin' steady company with some nice young lad."

Merry said through her teeth, "Well, at least there's no danger of that—steady company, I mean. I'm the most confirmed bachelor girl you ever saw."

"Fiddle-faddle, your highbrow!" snorted Aunt Jane inelegantly and forcefully. "You're a downy yellow chick five minutes out of the shell and quite sure that the world is the most exciting place a downy yellow chick could discover."

Merry tilted her young chin defiantly.

"You think so?" she asked thinly, and walked out.

AUNT JANE sighed, swore mildly under her breath and decided she might as well go fishing. After all, she loved to fish, and she'd never fished in the ocean before. It was downright exciting to buy a dozen "minnows" dareer than any fish she'd ever been able to catch in her own small mountain stream and use them for bait.

Meanwhile, Merry had gone out for a walk, sure that her mother would sleep for several hours under the mild sedative she had taken immediately after lunch.

As she strode along the beach, hard-packed and still damp where the tide had receded, Merry's head was bent and her young face was sober. She was remembering Marshallville, and the "kids" back there. School would be over, and the Sweet Shoppe would be packed with all the "gang"; they'd be laughing, all talking at once, nobody paying any attention, voices light and gay, laughter bubbling—

And Tip? Penny Staples would be with Tip. Of that Merry was as sure as though she could look into the Sweet Shoppe and see them. Penny, with her shining blonde hair in its long artful bob. Penny, with her slightly tilted blue-gray eyes and her lipstick mouth. Penny, with her exquisite young girl's body already showing a promise of allure.

THE first two or three weeks of their stay at the hotel were not too bad, since the weather obligingly lived up to the hotel's advertising.

But instead of getting outdoors into the sunshine every day, even if only to lie supine in a beach chair, with her unhappy eyes on the dancing blue of the ocean, Susan had to stay inside; to prowl her room and Aunt Jane's or to sit in a corner of the lobby, looking painfully unhappy.

"Thing we've got to do," stated Aunt Jane grimly, "is get her interested in something. Heaven deliver me from women who reach the age of forty all wrapped up in their homes and families, with no other interest in life. Dadrat it, she doesn't even crochet, or knit!"

"Well, she kept busy at home with her clubs and the house, and her garden," Merry protested defensively.

Aunt Jane looked startled.

"Well, now, blow me down for an old fool—of course. I hadn't sense enough to see that what we've got to do is rent a cottage here. Better still, we'll buy one. And she can garden the year round, and fuss with the grocer and bully the servants and have herself a time," said Aunt Jane eagerly. "Oh, and I almost forgot. You're to start in the morning studying for your final exams. You've got to have that high school diploma next year so that you can go to college."

Merry's face tautened.

"I'm not going to start school again, Aunt Jane—not for just the few months left of this final term," she said firmly.

"Who said anything about going to school? There's a woman here at St. Vincent's who makes a specialty of private tutoring. Quite a nice woman, too. I liked her. She'll expect you in the morning. Her house is that two-story one near the lighthouse, with the name on the gate, 'Miss Hutchen's School.'"

"You've already made the arrangements? Without saying a word to Mother or me?" She was offended, resentful.

"Afraid I'm pretty bossy, come to think of it," said Aunt Jane placidly.

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

I AM peeved.

Not a very sensational opening for a column, I admit, but see whether you wouldn't be peeved, too, under the same circumstances.

You remember the sensational case of Faye Emerson Roosevelt a couple of weeks ago, when she nicked herself accidentally with a razor blade, don't you?

BRANDEIS

Well, for that little "accidental" nick, she got pages of publicity, front page publicity, at that.

She got her picture in the papers, all over a lot of papers, dancing with her husband, looking lovingly into his eyes; another one with his arm around her waist, and many, many more.

It certainly was wonderful, a million dollars worth of publicity for nothing.

Now take the case of my wife. Here she is going around with two fingers bandaged up. (She burnt one of them on the hot stove and cut the other one while slicing bread.)

She can't even get her gloves on. So every policeman, every sheriff, every district attorney can plainly see the fix she is in.

Is she accused of having tried to commit suicide?

Does the District Attorney summon me to his office to see whether I might possibly be prosecuted for attempted murder?

Why, just imagine:

The editor of our little weekly, who knows my wife, met her only this morning.

He looked at her bandaged hand.

"Hurt yourself?" he asked, and walked on.

NOBODY seems to pay the slightest attention to my wife's injury.

The only fellow who paid the slightest attention to it was a friend of ours who asked facetiously: "Trying to do a Faye Emerson Roosevelt, eh?"

And that fellow being a comic artist, doesn't count.

When Elliott Roosevelt was interviewed by a couple of dozen reporters up in Poughkeepsie, after the case had been dismissed, he told them he hoped the dismissal would be given as "really big headlines" as what he termed the "accident."

(The story of the dismissal appeared on page 15, column 3, with an itsy-bitsy one-column head.)

My wife says she can't understand why that razor-blade case got so much publicity in the first place.

Anybody knows, she says, how the Roosevelts hate publicity and that, with whistles, bells, gongs and sirens, they have tried to keep out of the public eye ever since she remembers.

I wonder whether she's kidding me.

NEW OFFICIAL REVEALS

State Of Confusion

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Dean Acheson let a dark, diplomatic cat out of the bag when he assailed his former State Department colleague, A. A. Berle, as "confused" in the latter's report of his conversation with Whittaker Chambers about the presence of alleged Communists on the departmental pay roll.

TUCKER

The fact is, as President Truman's nominee for Secretary of State reveals, none of the top men in the State department during the Roosevelt regime were on speaking or friendly terms with one another. Everybody was in a state of "confusion," which was partially responsible for some of the inconsistencies of our 1933-1940 policies toward the Axis family of dictators.

INTRIGUE: Former Secretary Hull resented the fact that Sumner Welles, then Under Secretary of State, was closer to F.D.R. than he was, and frequently consulted the White House on important problems without first getting Mr. Hull's clearance. Mr. Acheson was a member of the Welles faction, and did not get along too well with Mr. Hull.

Mr. Berle was envious of the Welles-Acheson group's power and position, and sided with the former Secretary of State. In short, there was more personal and political intrigue around the State department in those days than Washington had witnessed in many years.

Ironically, Mr. Acheson's experiences during that period may be an asset to him now, when he assumes full charge of the conduct of our foreign policy. He realizes that the department must be reorganized and restaffed so that the top officials will not be working at cross purposes.

OUTSMARTED: Capitol Hill Republicans outsmarted themselves when they created the office of Public Information Officer for Congress during the Eightieth session, with a salary of $12,000 for the occupant of the post.

Whereas they had expected to control the Eighty-First Congress and name their own man to the job, it has been given to Cecil Dickson, veteran Washington newspaperman, Texas Democrat and a close friend of Speaker Sam Rayburn. Contrary to general opinion, the office was not created under the Monroney-La Follette reorganization measure, but under a special bill sponsored by Representative Daniel Reed, New York State Republican.

In view of Mr. Dickson's selection, the reasons for this legislation are interesting. In seeking information from executive departments or Congressional use, Republican members were frequently given what they call the "run around" by Democratic cabineteers, bureau chiefs and minor officials. Either the data they sought was not forthcoming, or it was not pertinent to the subject they had in mind.

ADVANTAGE: Roosevelt-Truman officials downtown also took political advantage of queries from GOP Congressmen. If the Capitol Hill questionnaire led them to suspect that a Republican planned to attack an Administration program or policy, they notified a Democratic member and provided him with material for defense. Time and again, according to Mr. Reed, the bureaucrats played this trick on his partisans.

Under the new setup, Mr. Dickson's office will obtain information from executive departments and officials without letting it be known whether the query comes from a Democrat or Republican legislator.

Therefore, it is expected that the data will be more non-partisan than it has been in the past, and that there will be no playing of political favorites. Just the same, the Republicans wish that this important assignment had fallen to a more sympathetic friend instead of to one of Sam Rayburn's Texas pals.

SENTIMENTAL: Former Speaker "Joe" Martin has just undergone one of the most unhappy experiences of his twenty-five years as a Massachusetts member of Congress. He had to make a special trip to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to ask financial assistance for the ancient and historic Waltham watch company up in his home country.

The mission had a sentimental angle for Mr. Martin, he recalled as he told the story to associates in the House lobby. When he graduated from the North Attleboro high school more than forty years ago, his mother gave him a watch as a graduation present, and it was a Waltham, then one of the nation's leading timepieces.

Mr. Martin was given a $1,000 watch by his constituents on his election to the House in 1923, but he still believes that his boyhood Waltham—he doesn't remember what it cost—was a finer article.

The Waltham company's difficulties, incidentally, will figure in the fight over extension of the reciprocal trade agreements legislation. Some Republican members charge that its sales have fallen off because tariff reductions on made-in-Switzerland watches permit them to be sold at half the price of American products.

It didn't make Mr Martin's visit to the R.F.C. any more pleasant when members of the refinancing organization informed him that ten New England textile companies were also in the market for federal money because of postwar troubles.

VETERANS: Representative John E. Rankin may take swee., Southern revenge on the Democratic leadership in the House for its part in the movement to get him off the Committee on Un-American Activities. The Rayburn-McCormack group hold him largely responsible for the sensational and extra-legal tactics which have discredited the committee in the public mind.

It so happens that the Mississippian is also chairman of the House Veterans committee. Despite his solicitude for the old soldiers, he has helped to bottle up many measures providing bonuses and other financial favors for 1917 doughboys, 1941 G.I.'s and their families. It is estimated that the amount of money involved in all this legislation runs into the billions.

It would not be too difficult for Mr. Rankin to force these bills out of his committee with a favorable report, for this body is extremely pro-veteran. In the past such legislation could be pigeon-holed in the Rules committee on orders from the leaders, and never reach the floor for a vote.

Under the recent revision of legislative procedure, however, Mr. Rankin can insist that Rules release these bonus bills, and his demand must be granted if he can obtain a majority of those present to back him. In view of politicians' partiality to the veterans, it is probable that he can easily command the necessary number. Few members dare to vote against the veterans—publicly.

MAJOR CHANGES MAY BE MADE

People Also Have Responsibility

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — In the boisterous, carefree midway atmosphere in Washington this week for President Truman's inaugural celebration there is symbolized the people's victory which the election truly represented.

We Americans are great people for comparisons, both of men and events, a biggest-and-best-ever folks.

Consequently, local historians have dug back into the books to the story of the first inaugural of Andrew Jackson when, for the first time, the people really moved into Washington, rowdy and unashamed, and took over, streaming hilariously into the White House East room and leaving it in a state of untidiness like a picnic grounds with bits of cheese ground into the polished floor.

STOKES

Comparisons Were Made

Even before the inauguration, in fact right after the election, you heard Harry Truman compared to Andy Jackson. That derived more perhaps from the support he had stirred up among the people by his rough-and-ready campaign against such great odds and against such powerful interests than from personal qualities. The comparison was heightened by the merry spirit abroad during the inaugural celebration.

Then there are those who bring up Abraham Lincoln, though hesitantly, to be sure—this perhaps because of a humility common to the two men otherwise so different. There may be some inspiration for this in the civil-rights program which the President champions to accomplish the ultimate freeing of the slaves. That, indeed, is certain to go down in history as a shining mark in the Truman regime.

But such comparisons are a mistake and a disservice to the present occupant of the White House and also to the people, however beguiling for purposes of idle speculative conversation. Harry Truman would be the first to scoff at them with that honest grin, being the modest and humble fellow he is, and a person, too, whom you feel knows more about himself than most of us know about ourselves, and surely more than do the usual political figures who rise to such eminence. He is truly modest, and in a way that approaches greatness of a kind as human beings go.

To build him up too high, to make him into something that he isn't and can't be is a mistake for the people themselves. For the victory was theirs, too, and it can be lost by forgetting this and depending too much for achievement of their aims, for realization of their victory, upon one man.

Harry Truman, in short, can't be loaded down with all our hopes and sent off, alone, among those in Congress and in our nation who are waiting to entrap him and to sabotage his program.

The build-up was natural. It came about because a man of his type, a man really of the people, went out almost literally alone, virtually an outcast of his own party, and won a victory that all but a few believed impossible. He was each of us fighting against heavy odds and winning, like a dream all of us have—only to wake up. His wasn't a dream. The surprise of everybody translated what had happened into a miracle. So he became a "miracle man."

He is, of course, nothing of the sort.

New Program Ahead

Recognition of this is important for what is ahead. Before us is another prospective revolution, one of our peaceful revolutions, or rather the continuation of a revolution already started that was called the New Deal.

Such revolutions in our past have been carried through by dynamic leaders either in personality or intellect, sometimes both. There have been few such leaders. There are few in any nation's history. People come to look to such leaders for decision and direction—often, in fact, to such an extent that the people do little for themselves in a political way. That happened finally under Franklin D. Roosevelt. Because of his dominance the party lost vitality and cohesiveness in its lower echelon of leaders and it was that which led so many to believe that the party was hopelessly disintegrating. It was assumed naturally that this also had infected the rank and file.

But, somehow, the rank and file rose up unexpectedly in the Truman victory. That was a significant exhibition of Democracy.

What happens from now on will be a test of Democracy. For it is the first time we have set out to make great changes—and such have been proposed—without the dynamic leader. It puts a responsibility upon the people. It rests with them to translate the paper election victory into a real victory, and that calls for constant watchfulness, constant checking on what goes on here in Washington, particularly in Congress.

STOCKS LOSE GROUND

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (AP)—The stock market failed to make any headway today for the first time this week.

Final prices showed a thorough scramble of small gains and losses.

Trading started off with the general tendency upward but there was no follow-through to the buying. Late in the day selling pressure increased somewhat and early gains were either lost or trimmed in many cases.

Business was moderately active at best. Turnover of 770,000 shares compared with 820,000 yesterday.

The indecisive action of the market was somewhat of a disappointment to those bullishly inclined observers who had expected yesterday's late rally to continue today. Demand perked up noticeably following the President's inaugural address and a gentle rise lifted the market to the best level since Nov. 4.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .1 of a one point to 66, the first setback since last Friday. Of the 964 issues which were traded, 388 advanced and 320 declined.

A handful of shares showed comparatively wide swings. Swift & Co. advanced 1½ to 32, apparently because a special dividend was larger than had been anticipated.

Nickel Plate, one of the more volatile railway issues, rose more than 2 at one time and finished 1½ ahead at 79¼.

Superior Oil of California, a high-priced issue, took a 3-point jump to 166.

Grand Jurors Are Called In Trial

State department official Alger Hiss on perjury charges growing out of the theft of department documents.

If the defense wins its point, the indictments against their clients and against Hiss will be voided.

Case Is Adjourned

It is the defense contention that the panel is a "rich men's club" excluding Jews, negroes, manual laborers and members of minority political parties.

After the four prospective jurors were heard, Judge Medina adjourned the case until Wednesday at 10:30 on the appeal of defense counsel Richard Gladstein of San Francisco.

The attorney told the court he must appear to argue a case involving back pay of five or ten million dollars for the CIO-International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's union before the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals on Tuesday.

Before the court's ruling attorneys for the defendants had declared they may call as witnesses, in addition to Judge Medina, Chief Judge John C. Knox, and 11 other district judges.

Judge Won't Testify

Medina, in refusing to step off the bench, declared:

"I will not testify. If I did I would automatically disqualify myself as presiding judge."

The 11 Communists—National Chairman William Z. Foster, a 12th defendant has been granted severance because he is suffering a heart ailment—are charged with conspiracy to "advocate and teach" the "duty and necessity" for the violent overthrow of the government.

They face a possible penalty of $10,000 fine and 10 years imprisonment if convicted.

The first jury witness was Herbert Allen, an investment banker, of Riverdale, N. Y.

Allen said that he will not become one of the jurors because he has been excused on account of the illness of his wife.

Gladstein asked:

"What is the assessed valuation of your home?"

Objections Sustained

The witness appealed to the judge for a ruling on whether he had to answer.

Judge Medina ruled he did not, and turning to counsel, declared:

"Pretty soon you'll be asking how much money he has in his safety deposit box."

The five major defense lawyers then shot such questions as "how much money did you make last year? Do you own any stock? Do you own any bonds? Were you paid any bonuses?"

This set off a barrage of objections by U. S. Attorney John F. X. McGohey in rapid-fire succession, with the judge replying in each instance, "sustained."

HST Backs Message

they were swallowed up by the gloom.

The President was the same vigorous champion, however, that he had been when the great day was at its height and he took the salute of the nation's men and its might.

He paused briefly at the White House, looking like a man who had bedded down at sundown instead of staying up until shortly before 3 a.m.

Taking the new day in full stride, the President continued his inaugural week observance by going to the capitol to breakfast with the Missouri congressional delegation.

The breakfast was given in the office of House Speaker Rayburn, Tex. Both the President and Missouri's Gov. Forrest Smith, in whose honor the breakfast was held, spoke briefly.

Mr. Truman hastened back to the White House, where he arrived shortly before 10 o'clock.

The President then witnessed the swearing in of Dean Acheson as secretary of state. The ceremony was held in the oval room, with members of the cabinet and other high dignitaries, including administration leaders in Congress, looking on.

Mr. Truman, still fresh as a daisy, vigorously clasped Acheson's hand.

Next, the seemingly-tireless Chief Executive went to Washington's departmental auditorium, where he was presented with a bust statuette of himself by the Democratic national committee.

This special ceremony was sponsored by the women's division of the committee. Sen. McGrath (D-RI), who also is Democratic national chairman, made the presentation.

McGrath told the smiling President that he was giving the bust not only to him, but hoped it would stay in the family for many generations.

Mr. Truman accepted the bust gratefully, and said he was glad it was intended for his entire family, so that he could take it with him when finally he left the White House.

He observed that "Nobody, of course, can understand what he looks like to other people, he can only see one side of himself . . ."

The President added:

". . . If he looks in the mirror, he is not right sure whether that is true or not, because he thinks he's better looking than that."

Mr. Truman disclosed that he had denied before the Missouri congressional delegation earlier that he is "the most powerful man in the world."

He pointed out that he could not even persuade his wife and daughter to get up and attend the breakfast at the capitol. The "most powerful" title had been applied to him by Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.)

As a finale to his whirlwind post-inaugural day, the chief executive was to attend a ball given in honor of vice president Barkley by the Kentucky state society tonight.

Two Sentences Are Suspended In City

Suspension of two five-year sentences was announced Friday in the 99th district court of Judge G. V. Pardue.

At the afternoon session, J. M. Fleming, 58, of Lubbock pleaded guilty of swindling over $50.

Robert Earl Bradshaw, 36, of Levelland, pleaded guilty of forgery at the morning session.

Fleming was represented by Roy Carpenter and Byron Chappell, Bradshaw by George Berry.

E. G. Pharr and A. W. Salyars, assistant district attorneys, represented the state. Juries were waived in both cases.

Those cases completed felony hearings for the week, Judge Pardue said.

Six of the 15 cases that had been set for trial this week were reset for later in the term, it earlier had been announced. The others were tried.

Acheson Sworn In

tinuing diplomatic contact is deemed necessary if the Pan-American defense alliance is to be kept intact for western hemisphere security.

Chinese Aid Problem

Of immediate importance to Acheson is the problem of Chinese aid. The "retirement" of President Chiang Kai-Shek to resign in the face of Communist capture of China raises the question whether continued U. S. economic and military assistance to the tottering Nationalist government shall be recommended by the State department.

President Truman, in his inaugural address, charged Acheson with responsibility for continuing the Marshall plan and creating a North Atlantic defense alliance, accompanied by rearmament of the western European signatories.

Mr. Truman made clear that Acheson must carry on the cold war against Russian policy of aggression around the world and inaugurate a new policy of raising living standards by boosting production in the world's backward areas.

New Aid Plan Proposed

The first three points of the Truman formula are not new.

The fourth, involving U. S. technical and financial aid to underprivileged populations, will involve a presentation to the American public and to Congress. This will take adroit salesmanship, in the opinion of disinterested observers.

Acheson, however, was the man who was sent out, while undersecretary of state, to sell the Marshall plan to the United States. After Secretary Marshall made his first broad suggestion that the U. S. promote European recovery, Acheson stumped the country and explained the idea in numerous speeches.

The cabinet, ranking members of Congress, top figures in the federal judiciary, all ranking State department officials, and relatives and close friends were on hand to see Acheson take the oath.

Mrs. Acheson, the new secretary's son and brother, and other close friends beamed proudly while photographers made a field day of the event.

When the oath of office had been intoned by Acheson, the President came from behind his desk and warmly congratulated his new secretary of state.

Acheson went into conference immediately with retiring Undersecretary Lovett and division chiefs. He had known most of them intimately during the period he served as assistant secretary and undersecretary under Secretaries Cordell Hull and Edward R. Stettinius, James F. Byrnes and Gen. Marshall.

pickup truck, license MB 7201, was reported to police by H. D. Phillips. It was taken from Plains White Truck company, at Twenty-fifth and Ave. H.

Police were investigating the claims of a Lubbock woman that a prowler had entered her residence on Seventeenth Thursday night and attempted to molest her. She said he apparently became frightened, and left.

I. B. Jameson, 41, indicted here by a Jan. 3 grand jury on a charge of felony swindling in connection with a $780 check, has been arrested by the sheriff's department at El Paso and held for Lubbock authorities, the local sheriff's department announced.

Chon Alvarado, 19-year-old Mexican, was fined $25, county court costs and sent to jail seven days after pleading guilty of theft.

County Attorney Waggoner Carr said two defendants had pleaded innocent: Tommie Murrah, about 25, charged Jan. 8 with drunk driving, and Ernest Malone, 19, a negro charged with theft of a pistol from Ivory Jackson. Judge Walter Davies set trial appearance bond of $500 for Malone, $400 for Murrah.

Police detectives alleged that machine dies stolen recently from Bingham & Son Machine shop at 341 Ave. H were recovered in the Mexican youth's possession.

A resident of 2829 East Ave. J told police that his overcoat containing his car keys and a small amount of cash had been taken from his car while the vehicle was parked in front of a local hospital.

Mrs. Ben Boswell Reported Seriously Ill In Fort Worth

Mrs. Ben Boswell of 2622 Twenty-fifth, who is ill in Fort Worth at the home of her mother, was reported serious in condition Friday.

Boswell, an employe in the adjudication division of the regional office of the Veterans administration, has been in Fort Worth about six weeks. He returned to Lubbock Thursday night to get one of his daughters, Ann, to take her to Fort Worth today. The other daughter, Lynn, already is in Fort Worth.

Chiang Quits As Leader Of China

ment and wishes for a lasting peace.

In New York Madame Chiang declined comment. She flew to Washington, Dec. 1 in a vain attempt to get large American aid to help her husband stave off Communist victory.

During the afternoon and night hours that the statement was withheld from publication, reliable sources declared the Chinese original avoided use of such words as "retire" and "resign," and insisted that the 62-year-old Chinese strong man since 1927 had purposely left the door open for a possible comeback attempt.

The English version that was released was agreed upon only after prolonged debate among the remaining top figures of the government. Finally former Premier Chang Chun telephoned Chiang at Fenghwa and the Generalissimo shouted corrections over the line.

Even then, skeptics commented that Chiang had "decided" to retire; that he had not said he actually had retired.

Shadowy though it might appear, the possibility that the old leader some day might return remained a definite factor in the calculations of officials remaining in this Communist-menaced capital.

No sooner had Vice President Li taken over than he accepted the resignation of T. V. Soong, Chiang Kai-Shek's millionaire brother-in-law, as governor of Kwangtung province. He appointed the Cantonese war hero Gen. Hsueh Yueh as governor.

Soong was reported leaving immediately by air for Canton, seat of Kwangtung province, and intending to proceed to the United States.

Resignations Offered

Premier Sun Fo and his entire cabinet also immediately tendered their resignations to the acting president but were asked to remain.

There was no direct word from Li, but it was learned reliably that he agreed to become acting president only after a long and bitter argument with Chiang.

The 58-year-old Li was said to have accepted only after receiving assurances that the official seal and other full evidence of authority be handed over to him. Li was elected vice president last April over the strong opposition of Chiang, who had favored Sun Fo.

U. S. OFFICIALS KEEPING CLOSE WATCH ON CHINA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP) — American officials kept a close—but silent—watch today on China where Chiang Kai-Shek's sudden flight from Nanking served to multiply the confusion in that strife-torn country.

While Congressional critics of the Truman administration lambasted it for failing to give Chiang more aid against the Communists, both the White House and State department withheld comment for the time being.

The U. S. has been giving limited aid to Chiang's regime. Authoritative quarters indicated there has been no change in this country's attitude that as long as a non-Communist government exists there and as long as the funds voted by Congress last, the United States will continue its assistance program.

What happens when either or both these conditions change remains to be seen. The question of this country's attitude in the event all China falls under Communist control is a major unknown in American foreign policy.

Recognition Seen

nition Monday. This would recognize the existence of the state of Israel, without giving full recognition to the government in power.

Some British informants said recognition might strengthen conservative elements in Osrael's first general election Tuesday.

Wednesday the House of Commons is scheduled to debate Foreign Secretary Bevin's Palestine policy, criticised by a strong bloc in Bevin's own Labor party as well as by conservative members of parliament. The demand for the debate grew out of the shooting down of five British scouting planes by Israeli forces in the Palestine - Egyptian border area Jan. 7.

May Recognize Trans-Jordan

Diplomatic sources said the United States might recognize Trans-Jordan Monday, or soon afterward. The United States gave Israel de facto recognition last May.

The sources said the United States has avoided recognition of the kingdom, one of the Arab league states at war wfth Israel, because of Zionist pressure and because Washington felt that Trans-Jordan's King Abdullah was tied too strongly to Britain.

Diplomats here said a double-barrelled move by the United States and Britain probably would help current armistice talks between Israel and Egypt at Rhodes. Israel has had exploratory talks also with Trans-Jordan and Lebanon.

Slaton C-C Banquet

nature.

Connected with this "march of progress," the Tech official said, are the responsibilities which fall upon an individual community.

"There are responsibilities upon Slaton now that it did not have at the time of its founding," he said. Such responsibilities are a part of the revolutionary period which man is now going through, and involve "keeping up with the trends that are all about us."

In speaking of a proposed expansion and improvement of community recreation facilities in Slaton, particularly those for younger groups, Dr. Jones said, "we never know just how near we are to striking 'pay dirt' as a community."

He challenged Slaton to carry out its plans for recreational and cultural improvement and expansion and urged its citizens to "let nothing stand in your way."

"Fulfill, through community endeavor, what used to be done by the home," he said.

The invocation at the banquet was given by Rev. O. B. Herring, pastor of Slaton First Methodist church. W. R. Sewell was toastmaster.

Edwin L. Forrest, Chamber of Commerce president, gave a brief report of accomplishments of the organization during 1948. Street markers were erected on all curbed streets in the city, the Slaton Selective service office was opened so that local 18-year-olds could register, and a transient labor camp which housed a total of 725 migratory workers during the year was operated on a self-sustaining basis, he reported.

A number of vocal selections were presented by the Plainsmen quartet of the Lubbock chapter of S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A., Inc. Members of the quartet were Bob Hufstedler, Robert Dennis, Jack Hall and Robbie Robertson.

P. G. Meading, secretary-treasurer-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, presented a fountain pen and pencil set to Sewell on behalf of the organization. Sewell, who has been a vice president in the Citizen's State bank here, recently was elected a vice president of the Citizen's National bank of Lubbock.

At the banquet, Chamber of Commerce members voted on five new directors to replace J. T. Sims, T. C. Reynolds, J. J. Maxey, B. N. Ball, and H. M. Englund, whose terms expired Jan. 1. New directors were not announced tonight.

Cold Front Misses

earliest and probably not before Monday. Air behind the front was described as "very cold."

Temperatures here yesterday ranged from a low of 30 to a high of 56, one of the warmest winter days of the year. The mercury stood at 35 degrees at 11 p. m., weather station records showed.

Late last night a thick fog blanketed a wide section of the South Plains, but no precipitation was reported.

The Associated Press weather summary said the "phantom" cold front had stalled again below Fort Worth and Dallas last night after bypassing Lubbock to the northeast and east by only 30 miles, however the front had expanded westward late last night to cover most of the South Plains, but temperatures remained relatively high.

It knocked the temperature down to 16 degrees at Amarillo as part of it hit the Panhandle early in the day. Then it stalled east and west along the Red river, and on the weather map appeared to pivot eastward. Its western edge where it touched the Panhandle seemed to dissipate rapidly.

Then late in the afternoon the front began a slow movement again into Texas toward the gulf. Temperatures fell gradually behind it. It passed Dallas about 4 p. m.

By 9 p. m. the weather map showed the front had stalled again. Its line in Texas ran between Dallas and Waco, east toward Shreveport and west toward Abilene, and upward toward the Panhandle.

The Dallas weather bureau gave as an example of the cold air's force the low it expected at Dallas by early Saturday: around freezing.

Temperatures in the Panhandle had moved upward rapidly during the day. Amarillo's afternoon reading peached 40 degrees.

Meanwhile, the cold wave continued to grip most of the midwest although not as severe as expected.

County Dimes Drive Continues To Lag

Only a fraction of the 17,372 soliciting letters sent out Monday to city and county residents from Local March of Dimes campaign headquarters had been returned Friday night, and the campaign is still lagging, with the total contributions now at $1,342.50, Warlick Carr, co-chairman of the Exchange club's drive, announced.

Minimum goal for Lubbock county has been set at $12,000, and an average of approximately $670 per day will be necessary to reach the figure by the Jan. 31 deadline. The drive, which opened exactly seven days ago, has failed to net anything near that figure on any single day.

Pospelov said:

"Boastful troubadors of capitalistic monopolies declare pompously that the 20th century will be an "American century," and that the world will unite under the yoke of American monopoly capital . . .

"No one can intimidate hundreds of millions of people aroused for conscious historic creation.

"Ignorant troubadors of imperialistic aggression and their bosses will do well to remember the lessons of history."

Of China he said that "hundreds of subjugated toilers of the east are being taught and educated for the revolutionary struggle by capitalism itself."

He added:

"Truly, is it not American capitalism which is assisting and fanning the civil war in China, and dispatching an enormous amount of modern armament?

"Notwithstanding, the people's army of liberation in China has lieberated a considerable part of China's territory and is winning decisive victories while the 'farseeing' policy of American imperialists remains hanging in the air."

Wallace in his letter called on the United States and Russia to meet immediately to settle their differences.

Stalin replied that the co-existence of Communism and capitalism and peaceful settlement of U. S.-Soviet differences "are not only possible but also doubtless necessary in the interests of a general peace."

Stalin declared that the Wallace letter provided a "good and fruitful basis" for agreement between East and West.

(The U. S. government gave the Stalin-Wallace exchange a cool reception.

(The Wallace proposals were made after Russia accepted what it believed was a U. S. proposal to begin talks for settlement of the cold war, and after the U. S. denied that any such proposal had been made.

(Washington officials felt hat the Progressive party leader and Stalin had failed to furnish a new basis for a U. S.-Russian conference that would provide a chance of success).

TITO HURLS OWN CHARGE AGAINST SOVIET CLAIMS

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Jan. 21 (AP) — Premier Marshal Tito hurled back at Soviet Russia today the charge of deviation from the Marxist-Lenin line and declared radio Moscow is issuing "enemy propaganda and anti-revolutionary propaganda" against Yugoslavia.

Tito said his Yugoslav Communist party is defending the interests of small countries throughout the world.

(P. N. Pospelov, a member of the U.S.S.R. Communist central committee and editor of Pravda, referred to the Tito-Russian break in a speech Friday night at Moscow's observance of the 25th anniversary of Lenin's death.)

fore a heavy snowstorm, forecast for tomorrow, hits the barren, wind-swept icefield 70 miles southeast of Churchill, Man.

The C-47 was forced to land because of insufficient fuel while in the return stage of a 4,000-mile mercy flight north of the Arctic circle.

Bay Ice Cracked

Another C-47 reported the downed plane's crew and two ill passengers had escaped uninjured in the forced landing. But it also told of many cracks in the bay ice and open water between the plane and the shore.

Aboard the grounded plane are eight RCAF men, a doctor of the Royal Canadian army medical corps, an ill civilian radio operator and an Eskimo suffering from hernia. Their immediate condition seemed good. Sufficient medical and food supplies were on hand and "six people" had been seen walking around on the ice.

No Americans were aboard.

AUSTIN, Jan. 21. (AP)—Former state Senator Ben Ramsey of San Augustine was sworn in today as secretary of state.

Today, Ramsey declined to comment on the criticism. "I don't care to enter into it," he said.

During the last legislative session, Ramsey was active in passing eight restrictive labor laws, including one bill of his own which outlawed sympathy strikes.

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 21.—(AP) A watered - down resolution calling for Indonesian independence by July 1, 1950, was placed before the Security Council today by the United States and three other countries.

The proposal immediately drew fire from Russia's Jakob A. Malik, who accused the U. S. of making a deal with the Netherlands to protect American monopolies in Indonesia.

The resolution which Cuba, China and Norway joined the U. S. in sponsoring, calls on the Dutch and the Indonesians to halt immediately all fighting in the Indies and demands immediate release of Republican leaders held prisoner by the Dutch. It also sets up a time table for establishing a United States of Indonesia.

Several Security Council delegates said privately it is the best document that can be drawn now to obtain the necessary seven votes to pass the council.
