First Junior Auto Races In Brownfield Will Start At 4 p. m. Today

Today will be a day to remember for about 40 Brownfield boys, who at 4 p. m., will take part in the town's first Junior Auto Races to be held on the Levelland-Seagraves cutoff on the hill by the rodeo and fair grounds.

But thrills and excitement are not the only things in store for the youngsters, because approximately $500 in cash and merchandise will be awarded to the winners, according to F. N. Martin, chairman of the auto races committee of the Lions Club, which is co-sponsoring the event with Teague Bailey Chevrolet company.

Cars were to be left at Teague-Bailey company, 401 West Broadway, yesterday following the second inspection at 5 p. m. Trucks are taking the miniature vehicles to the race track this morning, where trial heats will be run beginning at 9 a. m.

Another 36 organizations or individuals had volunteered to sponsor boys, but because of building difficulties, etc., the list of entries was almost cut in half.

First inspection of the midget cars was held Saturday at 2:30 p. m., at Teague-Bailey Chevrolet to catch any flaws in construction of the racers, which might be detrimental to the safety of the race.

Wheels and axles, which were obtained by the co-sponsor Teague-Bailey, were paid for by individual sponsors, as well as all other materials used in construction of a racer. These additional materials were not to exceed $10 per car. Advice could be offered by parents and sponsors of the boys, but actual construction of the racers was to be done by the boys themselves.

Jasper Benthall Brings In First Bale Of Cotton For Second Time in 3 Years

Jasper A. Benthall, Route 5, for the second time in three years was the farmer in Terry county to bring in the first bale of cotton for the season. A premium of approximately $500 is being given this year by the Chamber of Commerce, and the bale will be auctioned off on the courthouse square Tuesday, Sept. 2, at 4 p. m. by Herbert Chesshir, president of tht Chamber of Commerce.

Tom Warren, who brought in the first bale last year, was awarded a $500 premium by the local chamber, and his bale sold at auction for $1.05 per pound to the Brownfield State Bank and Trust company. Benthall also had the distinction of bringing in the first bale year before last.

As in the past, the Herald offered a year's subscription to the winner of the 1952 First Bale contest. Since Benthall is already a subscriber, his subscription will be extended for one year from the present date of expiration.

Benthall delivered the winning bale to the Union gin Saturday. Cotton for the bale was grown on irrigated land.

Bell Buys Property In Lovington, N. M.

We learn that Milton Bell, one of the cashiers of the Brownfield State Bank and Trust Co., has resigned his position with that institution. He has been employed a number of years with this bank, and has made many lasting friendships with the customers of this bank, as well as others.

We understand that he has purchased a nice tourist court at Lovinton, N. M., and will move there in the near future. The same informant also stated that he would build and open a grocery just across the street from the courts.

Bell is really an old timer in old Terry, having been born on a stock farm when his dad and mother lived in Terry county back in the 'teens. With the exception of a few years he spent in Marshall, old home town of his parents, Milton has resided in Brownfield.

We shall regret to lose Milton and family from our city, but our loss is Lovington's gain, and after all Lovington is only some 60 miles away—considered neighbors these days.

And we hope if we are ever in Lovington at nightfall, our credit will be good for a night's snooze on a good bed, and a bag of groceries when we leave. Note, we say "we hope!"

Football fans are reminded that the first game of the Cub season will be played here with Pecos on Sept. 12, and that a total of five home games are scheduled. Reserved seat tickets for the season are being sold for $7.50 and single reserved tickets are $1.50.

Persons holding reserve tickets here will be given first chance to buy reserve tickets for out-of-town Cub games.

Mr. Grimm and family moved here from Louisiana several years ago to become manager of St. Clair's Variety Store. He has been in failing health for some time, but only recently unable to be at the store.

Farm Bureau Meeting Has Light Attendance Good Program

Although attendance at the Meadow Farm Bureau meeting held Friday night was lighter than expected with approximately 50 persons participating, persons present were offered a well-rounded program, according to Jake Fulford, president of the bureau. A. J. (Doc) McCoy served as master of ceremonies for the meeting which opened at 8 p. m. in the Meadow High school.

Fulford outlined briefly "What the Farm Bureau Is," and Hub King, member of resolutions committee of the local bureau, discussed "Resolutions" and "Things Accomplished Locally By the Bureau This Year."

Bill Tilson, state director of the Farm Bureau, gave the major address of the program on the topic "The State Bureau and What It Means For the Farmers."

Earl Jones and McCoy were two of the local directors attending. According to Fulford, almost as many women were present as men. The bureau president expressed the group's appreciation for the interest and support of the women attending.

Work Is Progressing On Telephone Bldg.

Work is progressing on the new telephone building and interior decoration is almost complete. However, official opening of the structure will not be until Christmas week, according to the telephone company personnel. At the same time, dial service will go into effect locally. Name of the company is being changed from Southwestern Associated Telephone company to General Telephone Company of the Southwest.

Among the decorative features of the building's interior are pale green walls, forest green tiled floors, natural finished oak woodwork, solid oak slab doors. Ceilings of the building are finished with sound absorbing tile and fluorescent lighting is used throughout. The operators' lounge, which has walls of pale rose is the only room not featuring the green color motif.

Rooms in the building are the lobby, commercial office, terminal room, operating room and operators' lounge, along with rest rooms and janitor's quarters.

Rev. and Mrs. D. W. Matthews, 605 Lubbock road, came to Brownfield two weeks ago to take the postorate of the Four Square Gospel Church here after pastorate in Ballinger, Tex. The couple did evangelistic work before accepting a church.

Mrs. Matthews is a native of Fort Worth, and Rev. Matthews is from San Diego, Calif. Both are graduates of the LIFE Bible College in Los Angeles

The local Four Square church closed a successful eight-day revival Sunday night with the new pastor doing the preaching.

You know that old one about the fellow that builds a better mouse trap, and the path that is made to his door? Well, as far as Brownfield is concerned, R. L. Bandy is opening something just a bit different in the automobile tire line, at least. His line? General Tires, and Bandy says there is none better, few as good.

A bit about the location of this new industry. It is located out on the Seagraves highway, next door to the Steele Electric Co., and across the street (highway) from Pat's 66 Station. C. R. Warren will be assistant manager and the bookkeeper, while J. N. Hare will be the repair man.

The building has been completely remodeled to take care of just the kind of business that will occupy it. And that business is complete tire service. In addition, there will be a projection room, so that those who may be interested may see films on General Tires, and talks by tire builders.

R. L. Bandy is almost a native son of Brownfield, having come here with his parents in 1920, just after the advent of the railroad. He is the son of the late W. L. Bandy, and his mother who still survives. He married a Lubbock girl, Miss Earlene Hardy, and they reside at 703 East Oak street.

Then there are the little Bandys, Bobby, age 2½ years, and Allen Lee, all of five week old. Be sure you visit this new industry out at the location, Saturday some time, the official opening day.

Overflow Crowds Attend Meeting in Plains Courthouse

Overflow crowds have been attending the mission meeting being conducted by Ernest West, local evangelist of the Southside Church of Christ, in the courtroom of the old Plains courthouse. Monday night, when the meeting opened, persons in charge of the revival were prepared for an attendance of about 50 persons. However, the room filled and additional seating facilities had to be provided to take care of the 165 persons present.

Plans were being made earlier this week to move to larger quarters, due to increasing crowds. Towns represented Monday night were Brownfield, Tatum, N. M., Denver City, Morton, Welch, Plains and the surrounding area.

Alfred Waller of Denver City, minister of the Denver City Church of Christ, is conducting the singing. Services will continue through Friday of this week, with preaching beginning at 8 o'clock each evening.

Brother West formerly lived in Plains and attended Plains High school. "It gives me great pleasure to meet old friends and to preach the gospel for them," West said.

A contract for eleven additional blocks of paving in the northwest part of town was let to Kerr-Middle Paving contractors of Lubbock when members of the Brownfield City Council and interested bidders met Friday in the City Hall. Mayor Homer Nelson presided.

The contract is for a triple asphalt job to be finished in 60 days at a cost of between 12 and 13 thousand dollars.

Local Sheriff's Posse Participates In Ride Sunday to Cobb Ranch

Members of the Terry County Sheriff's Posse and their wives were among the posse groups from 12 South Plains towns participating in a ride to the Cobb Ranch in Yellow House canyon in Hockley county Sunday when televison and newsreel cameras were on hand to record the day's activities.

Hockley County posse was host for the day, along with members of the Cobb family.

Approximately 200 persons met at Levelland for a horseback ride to the ranch, and another estimated 100 persons also went to Yellow House canyon for the festivities.

After the group gathered at the ranch, church services were conducted by Rev. Vincent Larson, minister of the Levelland First Christian Church. Dr. Bob Robberson, also of Levelland, led group singing.

A barbecue dinner was served immediately after church services, and an hour's concert by the Levelland String Band followed. One of the highlights of the day's program was a square dance on horseback by the Mounted Patrol, four couples from Portales, N. M.

Among the persons introduced were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cobb, ranch owners, Gordon Cobb, and Paul Campbell, manager of Cobb's Department store in Brownfield.

Bill Anderson Is Champ Calf Rider

The many young friends of Bill Anderson, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Anderson, formerly of Brownfield, will be glad to learn of Bill's success as a rodeo rider. The Andersons now live at Alamosa, Colorado, Rt. 1, and formerly ran the Handy Andy store here. The rodeo for youngsters was held recently at Ojo Caliente, Kids Rodeo at La Junta.

Bill received a pair of cowboy boots for having stayed with the calf he was riding the full length of time. He was also in the wild cow milking contest, barrel races, at which approximately 200 youths were enered. Bill won third place in the barrel race, being just a half second behind the first place winner. Bill says a half second on a stop watch doesn't seem long, but long enough to put one in third place.

The Andersons own 700 acres 40 miles south of Alamosa, and good deer hunting territory. If up there hunting, the Andersons ask old friends to come see them. They live a mile north of Alamosa.

The many young friends of Bill here, who have ridden with him, or watched him ride, will be thrilled at his success up in cool Colorado.

Miss Carolyn Harris, who is employed in Midland, was here for the weekend visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Harris, of 817 East Tate.

Pretty Heavy Vote Registered Saturday

Really there was a heavier vote cast Saturday than many expected in a runoff primary. Reason, there was a hot Sheriff's race, as well as that of three Commissioners and the Assessor-Collector office.

In fact, Earl McNiell, for Commissioner Precinct No. 1, had to be placed on the ballot, although the next high man in that race in July, withdrew, but the law says if they do not receive a majority of all votes cast, their names have to be placed on the ballot. That was the reason Martin Dies' name was on the ballot. The second high man, John Lee Smith of Lubbock, withdrew, but Dies did not get a majority of all votes cast in the July primary.

And it appears that Terry is no different from a lot of other places. This year the ins went out and the outs went in. Just looks like a case of the people wanting a change. But here is how Terry voted, unofficially:

Supreme Court: Culver 1,887, Bell 990.

Civil Appeals: Moss 2,141, Northcutt 823.

Sheriff: Ocie H. Murry 1,438, Chick Lee 2,023.

Tax Assessor-Collector: Don Cates 2,173, Florene Webb 1,241.

Comissioner, Precinct 1: Earl McNeill, 969, Tankersley (write-in) 46.

Commissioner, Precinct 2: Carl Stephenson 754, Bill Settle 512.

Commissioner, Precinct 3: Lee Bartlett 176, B. R. Lay 325.

Commissioner, Precinct 4: Horace Fox 244, Bob Burnett 317.

The Old Cicero Smith Offices Come Down

Looking across the street at the Cicero Smith Lumber Co. plant, on Monday a. m., it reminded us of that trite old saying, "tearing down the house and throwing it out the window." The new brick and tile section that stretches some 140 feet on the south side of their half block, has been finished enough that temporary offices will be set up there. Temporary partitions will be put in, and as we understand, the offices will be finally moved to the front on South Sixth.

As soon as the old offices, which were tile, stuccoed, are torn down, a new brick and tile building will be erected where it stands. In the future, when all these buildings are complete, when a customer comes in and wants a certain article, the employee will not have to run back to some dark offices in the rear, maybe 150 feet in the rear, and hunt out the article. Things will be arranged more on the department store order, and the customer will be able to see what he is buying then and there.

Finally, the whole half block, 140x280 feet will be encased in a firewall of tile, even where just the lumber is kept, and with various other firewalls scattered throughout the plant, even in case of fire, it can be contained in a given area until extinguished.

It's going to be something out of the regular order of lumber yards when completed, and will greatly improve the looks of the area in which this firm is located.

Local Schools To Commence Monday

Brownfield Public Schools will formally open Monday, Sept. 1. Regular classes will be met by high school students Monday morning following a general assembly program. Junior High students will also meet and have regular classes after regular assembly.

West Ward students will register and receive their text books Monday. First and second graders are asked to not report to Jessie G. Randal school on Monday.

Gomez school, Ray Willis principal, and his staff will register all students Monday.

The cafeteria at Gomez and Jessie B. Randal will not be open until Tuesday.

Faculty Meeting Saturday

Mr. Douglas, superintendent of schools, announces the first faculty meeting of the Brownfield schools will be held Saturday, August 30, in the high school library, at 2:30 p. m.

Guests this past weekend in the H. H. Bearden home were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Redwood and boys, Bill and Ronnie, of Kermit.

Mr. and Mrs. Les Newberry spent their vacation in Arizona, New Mexico and down in Old Mexico. They report a wonderful trip and it rained on them each day they were away.

Rev. J. Frank Norris has finally gone the way of all flesh, having died down in Florida, where he was to conduct a revival meeting. In the 20ties or 30ties, a great lot of publicity would have been in the dailies about the meeting, but there was not a word that we read, concerning the revival. Back in the heyday of this man, when mention of he or his First Baptist Church at Fort Worth was noted, everybody knew who and what you was talking about without further ado. Norris preached hate as well as hellfire, and one either adored him or despised him. But perhaps many of the younger generation never heard of the man. Some have stated in our presence, that he would sometimes have two quarts of whiskey on his pulpit when he preached; tell where they were obtained, and the price. That was back in prohibition days. Another man, who happened to be in Fort Worth one time, and more out of curiosity than otherwise, went to hear Dr. Norris. This man was an old friend of the writer, but now gone himself. But we had the utmost confidence in what he related that Rev. Norris said one day, when he advised all the "women to cross their legs." The things that he said would hardly have been a subject between two men at that time, much less a mixed audience of several thousand people. We remember too, that he had one very prominent member back in the early twenties, the late Judge O. W. Gillispie, who at one time served the old 12th district in Congress. Anyway, when the Ku Kluxers were rampant, Judge Gillispie came out to Brownfield, and practiced law with Joe McGowan, as Norris had practically turned the First Baptist Church over to huge meetings of the Kluxers. Gillispie stated one day to the writer that he could not get within two or three blocks of his church, after the KKK's took over. This made the fine old gentleman sick and tired, that his church had been turned over to a semi-lawless element, that in many cases ran roughshow over people who refused to go along with them. At the first election out here, the Kluxers had been defeated, and Judge Gillispie decided to make his home here until conditions improved in Fort Worth. He spent two or three years here, and one or two years was on the school board, as president. As there were no Kluxers in the church to which the writer is affiliated, the Judge worshipped at his church the entire time he was here, and was always on hand in time for Bible school. The members tried to make him feel at home, and found that he was unusually well posted in the Bible for a professional man. But Rev. Norris thrived on controversy, and prohibition was his hobby. There were many ardent prohibitionists in Texas—still is—but many do not wish to carry the matter to exeremes. Norris was tried once for murder, and many still believe that he shot a man who disagreed with him, in cold blood. He was also once tried for perjury, and in both instances came clear, much to the adolation of his adherents. Sorter like the old nester we read of recently, when asked if he heard anything, in political speeches that made him think, replied: "Heck! I did not come here to think, but to yell." Anyway, the man Norris had calmed down a lot in the past 20 years—just a shadow of his old self. But the memory of what he did will not remain long in the memory of those who knew him, unless it be the few that agree with his methods. The world has seen and heard of too many men in the past generation that stirred up hate and turmoil. What the world awaits presently is the man who can lead the world to peace and good will to all mankind. Crusaders for the betterment of mankind will always be in demand, but crusaders for strife, discord and turmoil is not what the world awaits.

Admittedly this drouth, which has been going on, as Gov. Shivers stated for the past three years, is becoming serious. And very likely a large number will jump on the governor for the attitude he took last week at Austin to "wait, see," before we jump into the demand for drouth relief. Many of those on hand at the meeting were very impatient with the idea of further investigation. They had to be reminded that it was not too long ago when they were yelling, "we never had it so good." Some of these people should be reminded of the early Texans, back in the 80ties when the drouth like this one or even worse, cursed all Texas, west of the Brazos. But they called on Uncle Sam for nothing. Many of the people of east Texas, who had rain that year, gave of their abundance, and the stuff was shipped to west Texas. But we can see the reaction of Gov. Shivers to the relief proposition. He naturally wants to check on whether or not the present administration at Washington wishes to tack on a hint for a vote along with relief. Gathering what information we could from the meeting, it seemed to us that it was mostly small farmers and stock raisers in central west Texas, who were loudest in their demand for drouth relief. The Texas Cattle Raisers Association wanted no federal relief, stating they would make their own arrangements. Maybe, the governor had such an idea in view for the smaller farmers and producers; to raise the funds for relief right here in Texas. After all, any relief measures will have to be taken from taxpayers first, then handed over to the recipients, perhaps with a hint at least for a vote this fall. But people all over the USA have fallen into such a habit of taking everything while the taking is good, that it comes to them like candy from the doting parents to the children. They do not figure or care that someone else is going to be taxed like heck to pay this relief.

We believe it was FDR who was the last president to be inaugurated in accordance with the old law, around the first part of March. At that time we had what was termed a "lame duck" session of congress. That is, those who failed to make the grade in the November election, could hold onto their jobs until March the next year, and participate in the business of the congress, until their successor was sworn in about the time the president was inaugurated. But the congress passed a law that the newly elected congressmen could take their seats around the first of January, which next year will be about January 3. But, like many other things that are overlooked, the congress did not set the date for the incoming president to take his seat at the same time the new congress was sworn in. That date next year will be January 20, and for some 17 days, or more than half of January, we will have a "lame duck" president. What will Mr. Truman do with that 17 days? Will he deliver a message to congress, which may or may not be quite contrary to what the new president may offer? It appears to us that congress should have set the same date for the swearing in of the new congress and the inauguration of the incoming president.

Well, the little State Observer down Austin way, is still putting out some stuff that ought to tickle a hound purp, especially if the purp has a nice shady spot under a bush, where some water has been poured. It is still mad at the Texas Regulars, the State's Righters, Dixiecrats, and their lineal decendants, the Shivercrats, and 'lows as how: "To disfranchise the Democratic Majority, and throw the election into the United States House of Representatives." The above quotation was in capital letters. But just how the heck Editor Paul B. Holcomb can claim he has a majority of Democrats (?) on his side of the fence, after the recent election, and at the same time keep a straight face, is more than we can surmise. His man Yarborough for Governor as well as his great defender of Trumanism, Mr. Beckworth, for the US Senate, both hopelessly defeated by just as good Texans as Holcomb will ever be, even if he has been in Texas from the no'th for several years. And we don't think it becomes Holcomb to engage in name calling, especially of people, descended in many instances from the fathers that with squirrel rifles wrested Texas from the Mexicans, and made it a good place for Mr. Holcomb to land and call the people "Dixiecrats," etc. If that old hossfly knew his okra, he'd know that most people of Texas, are glad they are from Dixie, and they resent carpetbaggers that come south and try to slur that good name. And while we are about the matter, if the vast majority of the people in Texas, "Dixiecrats," if you like, Mr. Holcomb, think a man is a Socialist and not a Democrat, that is their privilege. A lot of the guys that are yelling loudest about Jeffersonian Democracy, don't know any more about Democracy than Eugene V. Debs. Democrats from time immemorial have belived in States Rights, which the Socialist State Observer decries. And of course the State Observer would have each and every Texan vote for Gov. Stevenson, together with the theft of the tidelands from Texas school children—property that has been in their possession for 116 years—and turn it over to the federal government. Thus a precedent would be set for any future ambitious presidents to grab off any property they might covet. Hurrah for the Shivercrats. Thank goodness though, the Observer, like the Herald, has a very limited circulation.

We have been wondering what kind of a reply Gov. Shivers and Atty. Price Daniel will get from Gov. Stevenson of Illinois, about the tidelands grab? It is a well known fact that a candidate can blow hot and cold, if in a tight place. To our notion, though, Adlai will pass the matter up as already settled, especially if he thinks that Texas and California are "in de bag," for the November election. In the first place, the Democratic (?) platform ignores the tidelands question, as if already settled. And what little Stevenson said at the Governors' Conference at Houston in June, would lead one to believe that he is with the Truman bunch in the steal. But we shall wait until we see what we see. As for Senator Sparkman, the vice-presidential candidate on the Democratic ticket, his position is already an open book. He has twice voted for the grab, or to sustain the veto of Mr. Truman. And you know that presidents sometimes die in office. That is the reason we have Mr. Truman on our hands. Gov. Stevenson could pass out, and Sparkman would be the president, with the same old run-around the tidelands states have received in the past few years. Let us state that a lot of the votes to override the Truman veto, have come, not from the Democratic side of the House and Senate, but from the Republican side of the aisle. Yet, we Democrats like to boast of our states right stand. But if Stevenson is as honest as many think, if he is elected president, and the congress passes another quitclaim to the tidelands, perhaps he will bow to the majority of the peoples' representatives, and sign the bill, and not veto it. An overwhelming majority of the Congressmen and a good majority of the Senators voted for the quitclaim deed of the tidelands to the states. But Mr. Truman does not recognize such a thing as that Congress represents the people of the USA. On the other hand, if Gov. Stevenson stands with Sparkman on the steal, we can't see how any loyal Texan could vote for the pair.

It has been estimated that U. S. farmrers and ranchers added from five to eight million head of cattle to their herds in 1951.

BOTH IN THE SAME STREAM

Your United States

By FLOYD CRAMER

(President of the National Association for the Preservation of Free Enterprise, Inc.)

High taxes, government controls, big spending, loss of freedom and a centralization of power are definite symptoms of socialism. Yet, we have been told over and over again that to defend ourselves we must swap free private enterprise for socialism.

Many patriotic Americans have gone along with this mistaken idea, because they were not given the full facts.

* * *

Turn your eyes to the north, where our neighbor Canada has steadily pursued the course of free private enterprise, despite shaky world conditions.

Let's see how the Canadians have fared under free enterprise.

First, instead of inflating their currency they now have a dollar which is worth 102 cents. For the first time in 18 years, the Canadian dollar is selling above our money in the world markets. What does this mean? It means that their relative financial strength is greater than ours, and that is not saying much for the United States as a world leader!

Canada has balanced her budget in these times of crisis and emergency. She is even running a surplus, and United States citizens are becoming more and more eager to invest their money in Canada.

* * *

Secondly, Canada has one of the highest standards of living in the world and is moving still upwards.

In addition, Canada is shouldering a share of the defense burden of the free world. But she is not giving herself away: rather she is opening up the country to market-starved Europe. Trade restrictions are kept at a minimum.

* ** *

Canada has done much to encourage free enterprise. Investors are given the opportunity to make a fair profit; to risk their funds in new enterprises if they so wish; and to compete in the labor and consumer markets. As a result of this encouragement, Canada is steadily strengthening herself internally. As a bulwark against foreign foes, she is developing her natural resources, her financial structure, her industries and her farms.

Now I certainly don't mean that Canada can be our model in all respects. But I do maintain that the preservation of free enterprise in Canada has helped that country and the discouragement of free enterprise in the United States has hurt us.

* * *

This country of ours would best help the world by bolstering up our own internal economy. We have tried the socialists' schemes and found that they do not bring us to anything but inflation, heavy taxes and government control.

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

I wash my hands today of republicans and democrats, and take for my theme, "Education." And before somebody jumps at any conclusion that I am against knowledge and learning, and wisdom, I hasten to correct such idea and add that I am also for horse sense and that is something not included in any curriculum that I have perused—first grade to Ph.D. AEsop is the one book that should be in the USA best seller. A student who gets a passing grade in AEsop is the one I would select as most likely to make the best citizen. Anyway, he would not be an out-and-out sucker—duck soup for a political platform founded mostly on wind.

A little overhauling of our system in the schoolhouses, I say, could do good. A picket line made up of teachers is a sad sight. If a teacher sets the example no wonder we see youngsters grow into walking delegates — even goons. The school trustees need some iron in their spines. A teacher who pickets should get the gate. And the mamas and papas who pay the taxes, they could get off the dime, too—give more attention to little Butch and little Blossom. They could even review their AEsop. Being 40—fair, fat and frisky, especially frisky, is a dangerous age, too.

This country will be okay again—we just been having too much fun, which breeds neglect of important things.

Cross of Plains, were married. Performing the vows was Glenn Smith, Baptist clergyman from Plainview, who is a friend of the bridegroom.

From an archway of greenery two large white wedding bells were suspended by streamers, forming a background for the service. NOTICE TO... ...OUR READERS

On September 1, the price of the Herald in the trade adea will be advanced to $3.00 per year, and $4.00 elsewhere. This becomes necessary on account of the greatly increased cost of everything that goes into the production of the Herald, as well as living costs.

You just can't do business like you did in 1940 or even 1946. Every thing we buy, eat or use has advanced much more than we are advancing the price of the Herald. But to make it interesting to readers, we have decided that during the rest of August, you will get the Herald at the old rate for as many years as you wish, in advance. For instance, during August:

HERALD ONE YEAR ------ $2.00
HERALD THREE YEARS -- $5.00

Or, if you want the Herald at that price for 6, 9 or 12 years, we will take your order and receipt you for any number of years you wish.

Remember, the Herald will positiively be advanced to $3.00 September 1, or $4 elsewhere. There will be no reduction of the rate outside the Brownfield trade area.

Those Old Renewals Are Coming In

Come next Monday, and the Herald will be three dollars per year in the area, and four dollars outside the trade area of Brownfield. We have had many renewals and quite a few new readers added the past week, and expect many more before the deadline, Monday.

Among those who have renewed since last week's report are, Johnny Benson, city, 3 years; Sam White, city, 3 years; R. W. Tunnell, city, 3 years; W. E. Brantley, Rt. 2, one year; Bert C. Brady, city, one year; H. H. Harred, Rt. 5, 3 years; H. P. French, city, to Jan. 1954; Lee Hulse, Rt. 4, 3 years; Jake and G. G. Gore, each, one year.

Rev. A. A. Brian, Brownwood, one year; Miss Almina Goodman, Long Beach, Calif., one year. Come on in, the water is fine.

Note: We are not ordering any more name plated for rural mail boxes. Too high, and take all of what little profit there might be in a $3 per year paper, and more at $2 per year.

Stricklinly Speaking

By OLD HE

A friend and reader brought in a clipping from a South Dakota paper last week, about a mess a lot of inter-marrying kin folks had got into over in Virginia. We got down to where a son-in-law was his own son-in-law, and from there on the article was such a puzzle, that we laid it away, and will try to figure out the duke's mixture after the weather gets cooler. Afraid we might blow a gasket as hot as it is.

Then there was another puzzler from the Associated Press, dagnabit, about two Texas burgs, one being Telephone up in northeast Texas, and Telegraph down in southwest Texas. Nothing confusing about the names—we hear them almost every day and hour.

But there is no telegraph service in Telegraph—but it does have a phone. And, to make things even, Telephone has neither telephone or telegraph service. About the only thing that might keep Telepgraph from being entiriely forgotten, is that a man by the name of Coke Stevenson lives nearby. He used to be our governor—remember?

And while you're at it, maybe you wish a better understanding of the Texas Legislature and its procedure? Likely you want to know what process is used in putting laws on the statute books? If so, the University of T. has just about what you want, "How Bills Become Law in Texas," by Dick Smith.

If so, just address your request to Institute of Public Affairs, University of Texas, Austin 12, Texas, and don't forget to enclose four-bits.

We have heard a number of versions on the crash of the two buses south fo Waco that snuffed out the lives of 28 people, as well as more or less seriously injuring many others. One version was that one of the buses was trying to pass a slow car on a hill. But officially, there has been no known, version given, according to Highway Headlights.

But the Safety Department does know that the awful accident was a head-on collision of two well loaded buses on Highway 81, a heavily traveled highway, that should be made into a four lane affair. This highway is 1900 miles long and carries in excess of 4000 vehicles per day.

But when we begin to figure, the Safety Department tells us, that there is an average of seven deaths in 24 traffic accidents in Texas, every day of the year, or 2,546 in the 365 days of the year.

Now, just a little foolishness to mix with the tragic. It was related to us by one of our friends that while a well behaved town purp was strolling down the street recently, he happened to pass a fireplug that had developed a leak with a small stream of water coming out, that wet on the dog.

Naturally, the pup was highly insulted, as most of the time he had played the same trick on the fireplug. But such things are what makes news for the papers. Remember that old one that used to go the rounds, about its no news when a dog bites a man, but when a man bites a dog—that's news.

And out in California, they are getting a lot of headlines they did not mail order from Rears Bareback. One day it is a female mosquito that is doing a deadly work. And you've perhaps heard that the female of the specie (humanity) is the most deadly. Well, these little monotonous songsters that disturb while you try to sleep, have spread a disease that has taken a toll of 30 lives out of some 500 who have contracted the disease. Victims either die or get well in about 24 hours.

Then the very next day, the page long headlines tells of another earthquake, this time at Bakersfield, that took some lives and destroyed millions of dollars in property, perhaps in less time than it takes you to read this. If you ask us, these headlines are not just what would appeal to the average tourist, or those who might want to make the Golden State their home.

But you can bet your socks, the natives will continue to boost, and will be ready to show you some sights away from the destruction. But heck, we have a severe drouth in Texas. Come to Terry!

The statisticians tell us that the old world is enlarging itself at the rate of some 60,000 to 70,000 youngsters daily. If you ask us, this is something to think about. There is that many more mouths to feed, backs to clothe, school rooms, books and teachers to provide when they reach six years of age.

But did you ever see many families that had more of the little brats than they wanted? "By hokey," as one fellow expressed himself, while rocking three to sleep, "I wish I had 40ty." But that was back when a fairly nice wedding dress could be bought for the present price of a diaper. Howsomever, what a lonesome old world this would be without the little rascals.

And speaking of "chillun," makes us think of weddings, naturally. So, just at this time, we'll clear the deck for congratulations to the Old Pirooter of the Denver City Press, who recently took unto himself a bride—not that a wedding and family raising would make us think of one and the same thing. Many happy returns of the wedding day!

Observation and experience may go together to produce things for the betterment of mankind. It is related that a young doctor, watched his brother die of the "white plague," many years ago. Having contracted the disease himself, he went up into the Andirondack mountains to spend his last days in the environment he liked best.

He noted that when he took violent exercise like following the hounds, and other rugged sports, his fever would spurt up. But when he rested, it would aleviate his suffering. Thus, the "rest cure" came into being, and major progress was made against tuberculosis.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Ramseur and son, Larry Huckabee, spent the weekend in Ruidosa, N. M.

VISITS IN NEW MEXICO RANCH HOME

Mr .and Mrs. Hayden Griffin and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sawyer returned Saturday evening from a visit to the Y-Bar ranch, out near Deming, N. M. This ranch is owned by Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hinton. Mrs. Hinton is the sister of Mr. Griffin.

The ranch headquarters, with its spacious buildings and wooded section around it, is considered one of the ranch show places of the state. The grounds around headquarters has iron fence, and besides the three hundred thousand dollar guest house, there is a lovely main house.

The Brownfield parties were driven over this 72,960 acre ranch in a jeep, by Mrs. Hinton. They report lots of rain out there and cattle look like pen-fed animals.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Miller, Elinor Miller and Betty Holmes came in Wednesday from a pleasure trip to El Paso and Albuquerque, N. M.

New Wildcat Location By Cities Service

Three more wildcat locations were announced today by Cities Service Oil Co. (Del.) as part of its stepped-up exploration program. Two of the tests are in Texas and one in Montana.

In Terry County, Texas, the company located a 12,500-foot test in the center SE/4 SW/4, Sec. 2, Block M, TTRR survey. The well is Starnes D No. 1, located on a 640-acre block owned jointly by Cities Service and Phillips Petroleum Co. Objectives are the Permian, Pennsylvanian, Mississippian, Devonian, Fusselman and Ellenburger limestones and dolomites. Sen. Corbin Urges Federal Drouth Aid

Senator Kilmer Corbin of Lubbock urged Governor Allan Shivers in a telegram last week to press for Federal drought aid for the severely affected drought areas of West Texas. Senator Corbin pointed out that the threat of drought disaster to the farmers and stockmen was eminent and has imposed a burden on the banks and merchants that they are unable to bear. Corbin urged that in these critical times political differences should be disregarded and the good of the people should be uppermost. The telegram is as foolows:

"Governor Allan Shivers
Austin, Texas.
"The prolonged drought, coupled with the paralyzing heat wave, has literally destroyed millions of acres of cotton and feed grain in West Texas. This has brought disaster to the farmers and has imposed a burden on the banks and merchants that they are unable to bear. If complete ruin to the people in these drought-stricken counties is to be avoided, immediate steps should be taken to procure loan aid from available Federal sources."

TWO BUDDIES VISIT IN KOREA

Mrs. Iva Jones, county treasurer, received a letter Monday from her son, Pfc. Kenneth Jones with the 2nd division stationed in Korea, to the effect that he had a visit from Pfc. Bob Sampson, of the 7th division.

Kenneth wrote they did not get to be together but a few hours but they sure had a time visiting. They have been frends for years and had a lot to talk about. Bob's parents are Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Sampson, 607 East Hill, city.

If you want to make a really delicious stew be sure to brown the meat on all sides in a little fat before adding any liquid. Chopped onions may be added during the browning process, if you like. Add other vegetables to the stew just long enough before the meat is tender so they will not be overdone.

Westerners Square Dance Association Sets Fall Dance

Members of the Westerners Square Dance Association from a wide area of West Texas will gather in Lubbock Saturday, Sept. 13, for their September dance.

The dance will be staged under lights on the double tennis courts directly in front of Meadowbrook clubhouse at Mackenzie State Park, starting at 8:30 p.m. The concrete slab, 100 feet by 90 feet, will provide space for 60 square dance sets.

Bleachers will be provided for spectators.

From twenty-five to thirty "top level" callers will be heard during the night's dancing. Among the callers will be "Kid" Ratliff and "Mitch" Mitchell of Brownfield.

Music will be furnished by the "Circle 8 Hoe-Downers," a popular four-piece string band from Abernathy. All experienced square dancers are invited to attend as dancing is not confined to members.

TEAMMATE OF VITAMIN B-1 FOUND BY UT

AUSTIN.—A chemical substance first isolated at the University of Texas is an important "teammate" of one of the most important vitamins — B-1, University scientists announce.

B-1 must combine chemically with alpha lipoic acid to turn carbohydrates (foodstuffs) into energy. Dr. Lester Reed and Mrs. Betty G. DeBusk of the Biochemical Institute made the discovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Davis and daughter, Cindy, of Dallas are here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Lindsey.

If a fingerprint is on light-colored paper and not more than a few days old, finely powdered lampblack or graphite dusted over it will usually make it visible.

Careful Planning Of Home Can Save Building Budget

You can get your home-building dollar's worth by careful planning.

This is National Home Week, and the Tile Council of America offers the following suggestions to aid in selecting a new or remodeled house in this period of high construction and financing expenses:

1. Look for a house with maximum living area at lowest possible cost. The all-on-one-floor dwelling, which eliminates a basement, ranks high on the list of money's-worth homes today.

2. Watch for ease of maintenance and upkeep. Durable walls and floors such as clay tile pay for themselves in the long run because they need no replacement.

3. Choose a heating system carefully. It should function on low-cost fuel, be automatic, and be designed to keep dirt and grease out of the house.

4. Be sure that the kitchen is highly efficient. This factor is extremely important in resale values. Attractive and easily cleaned walls, floors and wainscots, as well as drainboards, of material such as clay tile will last longer than the house and appeal to later owners.

5. The laundry should be sensibly located, well equipped, and both waterproof and well lighted.

6. A building which has "skimped" on the bathroom is not a good investment because, like the kitchen, the bath receives heavy daily use. If possible, be sure that there is at least an additional shower stall connected to the tub-shower combination, that the walls are of steamproof material such as clay tile, and that good lighting, ventilation and storage facilities have been provided. A bathroom need not be large, but it must be efficiently planned.

Mumford Smith and Wife Visit Here

Mr. and Mrs. Mumford Smith of Glendale, Ariz., were here the past week, visiting relatives and friends, principally in the home of his brother, Cecil and family on west Tate. On account of poor health back in the early 20ties, Mumford was advised to move to the desert section of Arizona. He not only regained his health, but went "native" along with it.

He held the office of city secretary there for several years, and then went in the automobile and garage business. Presently he is Oldsmobile dealer, and is doing well. On their way to Texas, they visited his brother, Dell and family at Artesia, N. M., and Mr. and Mrs. Uyless Sawyer, at Cross Roads, N. M.

Mumford Austin (Sonny) Graham, who has been here since school closed at Glendale, visiting his father, Sawyer Graham and Mrs. Graham, returned home with Mr. and Mrs. Smith, where he makes his home with his mother, Mrs. Bill Orm, and Mr. Orm.

Health Talks: Must Be the Heat

Prepared by the Texas Medical Association

"It muast be the heat," is a common excuse these days for a run-down, no-good feeling. "The heat saps my strength," "All the starch has been taken out of me" —any number of sad tunes in the same key are offered as an excuse to get out of a tennis game or a dinner date.

These fagged-out persons probably wish they had more git-up-and-go, but they just don't know how to come by it. Since causes for summertime tiredness may be many, each of its victims should look into his daily routine.

First of all, does he get enough sound sleep? The usual six or eight hours is not enough if it is broken by having to swat mosquitoes, get up and quiet a baby suffering with prickly heat or colic, or yell at the neighbors holding a watermelon party in their backyard. Of course, the obvious thing to do is to get rid of the cause of sleepliness is possible.

Next, the worn-out fellow might think about the exercise he is getting. Is it enough or too much? Too little exercise can lead to sheep counting. On the other hand, it takes only common sense to know that eighteen holes of golf in the mid-day sun is not good for comfort, much less for sleep. Swimming and sunning between 11 a. m. and 3 p. m., can have the additional danger of sunburn, itself a sleep killer at times.

Diet is important. Because of less physical activity during the heat and because of the heat itself, the appetite may be expected to fall off. This is little excuse, however, for making snacks a regular routine or for "living out of cans." Even though less food may be needed, the right balance of fats, carbohydrates and proteins is just as important as in cooler weather.

The amount of salt which a person should have during hot weather worries some unduly. In general, unless one does hard physical labor at extremely high temperatures in dry surroundings, he will not need any more salt than usual. If an extra amount is needed, however, there are any number of methods for getting it; salt can be used more freely in cooking or can be added to tomato juice, soup, broth, or even beer. Salty foods such as crackers and sardines might be added to the diet. Still other ways are to take salt tables by mouth (which occasionally may cause nausea and vomiting) or to dissolve a small amount of table salt in the drinking water.

A common question is what the temperature of drinking water should be. That is a matter of personal preference, as there is little evidence that cool water itself is harmful. Regardless of its temperature, large amounts of water, as well as other liquids, are called for when the mercury soars. In moderation carbonated drinks and beverages such as iced tea and coffee are helpful.

Constipation, which may occur more often during summer, should be treated with an oil or vegetable laxative rather than a stronger medicine such as epsom salts.

Above all, if the weatherman predicts a severe heat wave, sickness such as heat exhaustion, sun stroke, and heat cramps must be prevented by avoiding exercise, in the noon-day heat, by making working and living quarters as cool as possible; by taking sufficient liquids by mouth; and, if necessary, by increasing the amount of salt in the diet.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harris and Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander are leaving for a vacation in Colorado, with the Millard Ellington family.
