ILLINOIS SOLON WANTS CONGRESS TO INVESTIGATE

GRAVE CHARGES MADE ON DRY ORGANIZATION IN CONGRESS SPEECH

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Charging the anti-saloon league with exercising an "insidious influence" over the treasury department in the appointment of prohibition enforcement officers, Representative Britton, Republican, Illinois, today introduced a resolution to investigate the activities of that organization.
The inquiry was requested, the resolution said, because high officials of the league or its subsidiaries have been sent to prison for collecting money under false pretenses and also because it has been shown that two high officials of one state were on the league payroll while serving in their respective capacities.
"Although the resolution mentions no names," Mr. Britton said in a statement, it refers indirectly to William H. Anderson, head of the anti-saloon league of New York, who has just completed a term in the penitentiary. It also refers indirectly to Richard Perkins, of the state supreme court of Kansas, who was credited with being on the payroll of the league after an investigation of the league's affairs in Topeka, Kans.

The resolution would provide for appointment of special congressional committees to conduct the inquiry and would authorize an appropriation of $150,000 to defray expenses.
"The welfare of the state is jeopardized when public officials elected to enforce all laws are receiving two salaries, one from the state and the other from an overpowering secret organization."

Other in part said:
The league and its subsidiaries have raised large sums of money, the expenditure of which has not been made public.

The name adopted by the league is fraudulent and misleading. Its intention and purpose is complete prohibition and not alone to abolish the saloon.
Use of money by the league to influence public opinion in ways unsuspected by the American people.
Violation of the league and its subsidiaries of the national campaign contribution law and of state corrupt practice laws.

That the league paid campaign expenses of former Representative Andrew Volstead while he was chairman of the house judiciary committee which reported the dry law bearing his name.

INDIAN CASE HAS NEW INDICTMENT

GUTHRIE, Okla., Feb. 13 (AP)—A new indictment was returned here today by a federal grand jury against W. K. Hale and John Ramsey, charging the murder of Henry Roan, an Osage Indian. The indictment was identical with one returned January 9 with the exception that it was more specific as to the location of the alleged crime.
After returning the single indictment the jury recessed until February 26. The previous indictment was quashed because it did not describe in detail the location where Roan's body was found on the allotment of Rose Littlestar. The new indictment was amended to make this more definite.
Hale and Ramsey will be arraigned in federal court at Oklahoma City Monday morning.

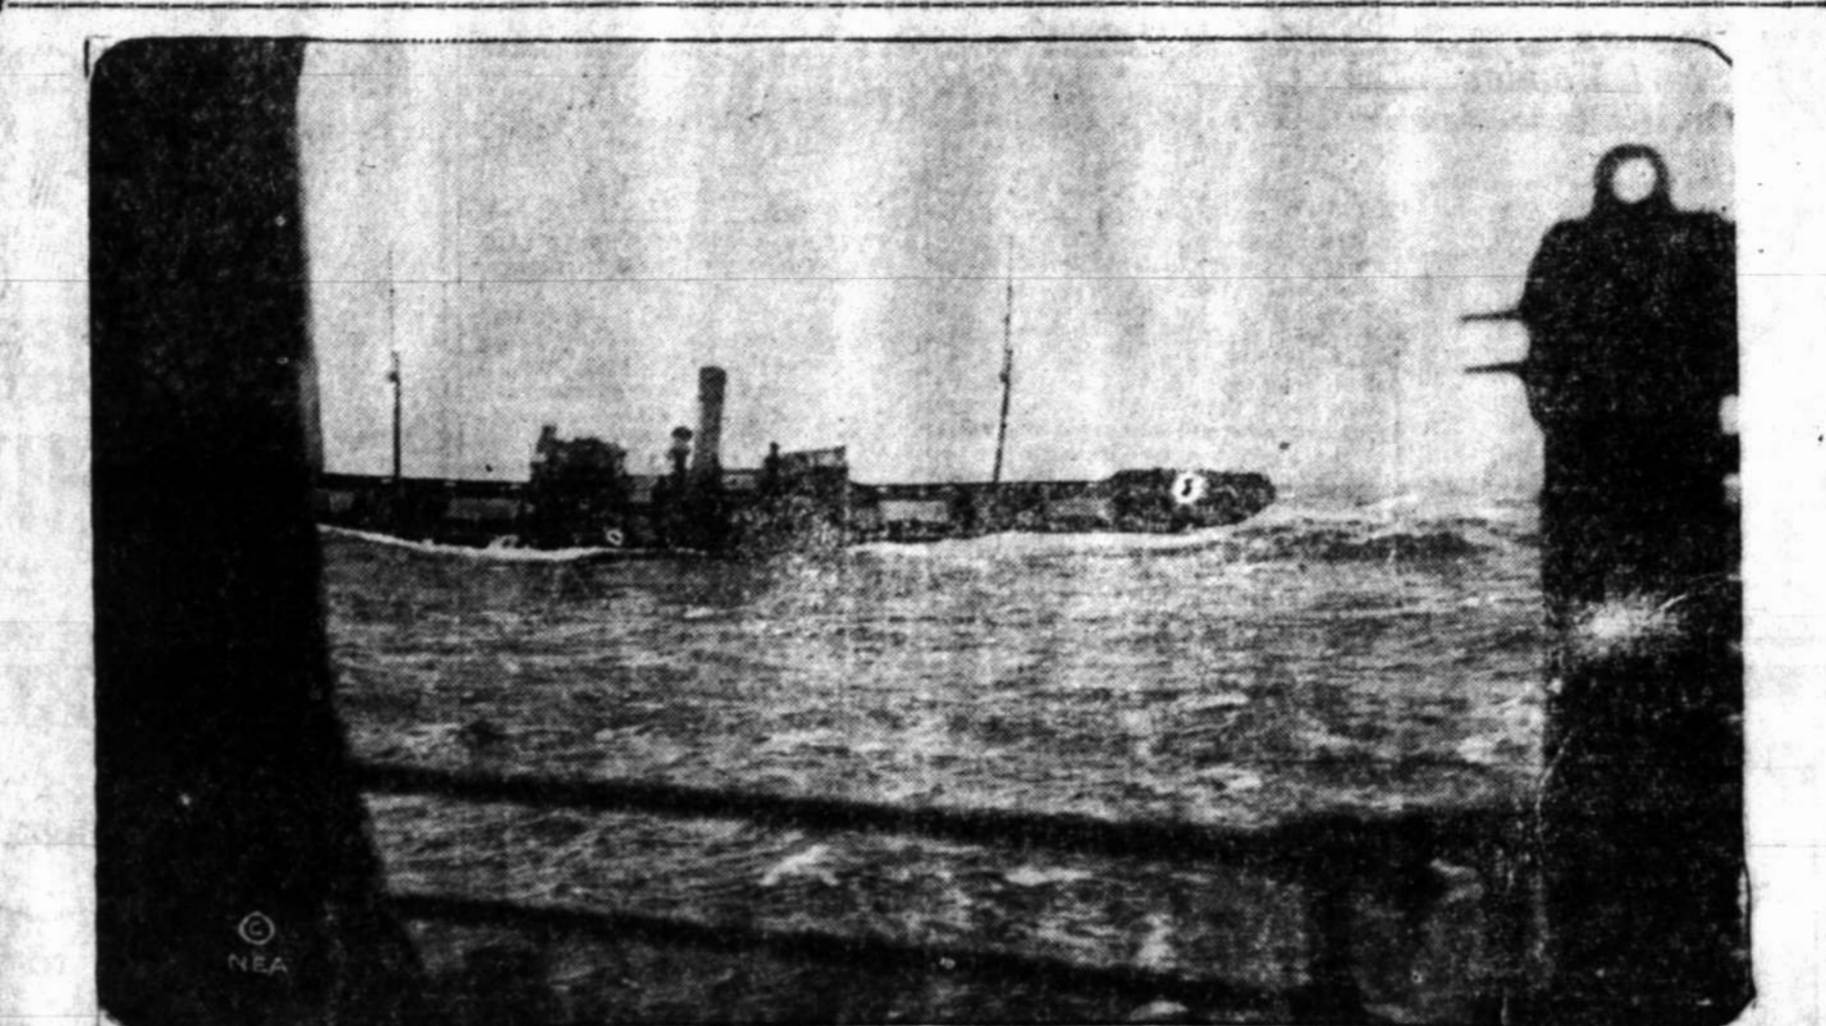

A suggestion by Federal Judge John Cottrell that the arraignment be held at once was not carried out because of the absence of Ramsey's counsel. The jury was in session only about a day, and a half, and of the 45 witnesses summoned, considerably less than half are believed to have testified.

There was every indication that the government's plan is to let the investigation rest with the indictment of Hale and Ramsey, and with their case the issue, fight out to a finish the question of whether it has jurisdiction to press murder. This has been denied by counsel of the indicted man.

Panhandle Crude Oil Advances Made Public

AMARILLO, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Katy County Gas Company, Marshall subsidiary, today announced new prices on Panhandle crude oil, meeting the advances recently made in the Mid-continent fields. ANTINOE RESCUE SCENE

Made at the scene of one of the most glorious chapters in the history of heroic American seamanship, and rushed to the Journal by boat, airplane, and express train, this photograph shows the sinking British steamship Antinoe just after the last of her crew of 25 men had been rescued in mid-Atlantic by the American liner USS Oregon. The view is from one of the rescue ships' gunnery entrances. To reach the reeling, water-logged, and doomed Antinoe, the President Roosevelt fought for 34 hours a nerve-wrecking battle with hurricane-like winds and mountainous seas. Two of the President Roosevelt's seamen paid for the gallant victory with their lives. King George of England awarded decorations to Captain George Fried of the President Roosevelt and the other rescue heroes, and their courage was acclaimed around the world.

WEST TEXAS GETS ADDITIONAL OIL

SAN ANGELO, Feb. 13 (AP)—The well of J. C. Cooke of Tulsa, and Paul H. Hart, of Chicago, on the Crockett county ranch of J. S. Todd of Fort Worth, spouted oil half way up theerrick late Saturday when the manometer gauge was opened. The well drilled half in at 1,795 feet, the depth at which gas was struck Monday, Feb. 3, and ignited, destroyed the rig. The hole has not been deepened since. The gas was extinguished with steam after flaming five days.

Oil rose 1,000 feet in the hole within three hours after tools were fished out early Saturday morning and a control head put on. After the first flow the well immediately was shut in. Thus no gases on production have been obtained, although the development of a new field of magnitude appears certain. The Cooke well is about 20 miles west of Ozona, 15 miles south of the Republic-Humble wells in northern Crockett county, the nearest producers, and 28 miles from a pipe line. The location is in section 33, block WX, G. C. & S. F. Ry. Co. survey.

(By The Associated Press)
TIJUANA, L. C. Feb. 13.—Luis Amador, Tijuana saloon proprietor, charged jointly with Chief of Police Zonaldo Llano, of attacking Clyde and Audrey Petset, after being thwarted in a suicide attempt this morning, announced his intention to go on a hunger strike.
Amador's suicide attempt with a safety razor blade with which he succeeded in slashing one of his wrists was made before the jailer discovered his act and took the blade from him.
The prisoner, in a morose and nervous state, announced that he would eat no food. Mexican officials say that the man's mind is probably affected.

SCORES OFFER TO AID SICK GIRL

(By The Associated Press)
HOUSTON, Feb. 13.—Three chapters of the Daughters of the Confederacy in Houston today took umbrage at Governor Miriam A. Ferguson's permission, asking Texans to celebrate the birthday of Abraham Lincoln.
In a signed statement the Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee, and Oran M. Roberts chapters, said that history "had failed to reveal a single instance which might inspire gratitude from the South or in which Lincoln was not perfidious to the South."
"When each month of the year brings illustrious birthdays more to the liking of Texans, what could have been the governor's object in asking all loyal citizens of Texas to celebrate in October the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt and suggests that it would be grateful and worthy to close the state department in honor of Abe Lincoln. This we must leave to the imagination of the public, but the Daughters of the Confederacy wish to go on record as repudiating the act, and insist that it does not represent the state's people. If we do not protest John Brown and Harriet Beecher Stowe will be up for celebration."
Suggests Other Celebrations
The statement asserts that the birthdays might have been appropriately celebrated of Gen. Albert Sydney Johnson, who lies in the state cemetery at Austin; Generals Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson, J. E. Stuart and Joseph E. Johnston, all of which the statement declares, passed unnoticed.
"Texas believes," the statement concludes, "no less than other states with Dr. Randolph H. McKim that the people that forgets its heroic dead is already dying at heart and we believe we shall be truer and better citizens of the United States if we are true to our past."

Blood Transfusion Saves Young Mother

Mrs. Fannie Brown, aged 15 and the mother of a three-months old baby is convalescing in the Lubbock sanitarium following a successful blood transfusion performed yesterday by Dr. J. T. Krueger, sanitarium officials said last night.
Mrs. Brown, who lives at Floydada has been ill since Christmas day and when brought here was very low. Slightly more than a pint of blood was furnished her by her sister, Miss Mattie Cantrell, 24.

STORM SWEEPING TOWARD INLAND AREAS; RAINS WREAK DAMAGE

(By The Associated Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13.—After having gouted the seas along more than a thousand miles of coast line to an orgy of destruction, a storm of record size and force was moving swiftly inland late today. A wake of shattered beach structures from San Francisco to San Diego, three dead and at least two sturdy ships hopelessly battered and broken, were left.
Ships at sea reported last night that they were fighting high seas and hurricane winds, while the surf shoreward was smashing down seawalls, beach homes and pleasure piers.
Craft Harbor Bound
Wind and surf kept all craft harbor-bound, while playing havoc with the light shipping off shore. At San Pedro, a heavy Southwesterly gale put a stop to all fishing operations, tore targets of the U. S. battle fleet adrift from their moorings and broke many yacht anchor ropes, setting these craft adrift.
The concrete floor of the municipal pier and Santa Monica had sagged to such an extent today that police ordered all spectators and workmen to leave the structure.

Heavy Rains Follow
Flooding rains accompanied the storm turning streets into miniature rivers. Water flooded "high" into the lengthful homes of Jesse Lasky, Joseph Schenck, the motion picture magnate and a number of others at Santa Monica, while South of Venice many other residences were undermined, including that of Edward Everett Horton, stage and screen actor. Some of these homes were on the verge of collapse.
Two met death at Santa Monica yesterday and a third man was swept to death when George Proctor, wharf employee at Ventura, was washed off of the collapsing shipping pier.

DAVIS GIN BURNS EARLY SUNDAY

The Davis gin, located at 195 Broadway, better known as the "Red Gin," caught on fire shortly after three o'clock this morning and was a total loss as a result of the flames.
Guy Davis, manager of the plant, was reached for an early statement and it is understood that the ginone best plants of its kind on the Plains, was worth in the neighborhood of $25,000 and carried insurance of approximately $15,000. It was the property of Dean and Webb, well known Plains ginners, the firm of which is made up of C. E. Dean, of Falls, and Sidney Webb, of Mineral Wells.
In addition to the plant and the machinery, several thousand dollars worth of cotton and several thousand bushels of cotton seed were lost in the flames.

Internal combustion of cotton stored in the building is thought to have started the conflagration which frustrated the attempts of firemen to subdue it as high winds of the early morning gave added impetus to the flames.
Members of the Lubbock Fire department rolled out of warm blankets to answer the call and labored desperately to save parts of the building but to no avail. A number of box cars, lying on the Santa Fe's tracks immediately adjoining the gin on the west, were threatened for a time by the flames but were ultimately saved through the efforts of the fire-fighters.

Churches Here Will Make Canvass Today

All of the churches of the city will co-operate this afternoon in the taking of a religious canvass and a luncheon for all workers, to be held in the basement of the Baptist church immediately following the morning service will start the canvass off. L. E. Payne, director of religious education, said yesterday.
Each church will furnish a number of workers and crews will cover the city, calling at each home and listing the number of persons living there, together with their church preference. Following the canvass the pastors of the various churches, armed with the information secured in the canvass, will attempt to add the names of all persons not affiliated with churches here to the church of their preference.

Tree Planting To Start Monday On College Ave.

The second step in the beautification program mapped out for the campus and surroundings of the Tech college will be put under way here Monday when the work of planting trees along College avenue east of the campus and about the driveways through the campus will be started, according to Chas. H. Mahoney, of the horticultural department of the college, who will supervise the work.
Approximately 700 trees will be set out along College avenue that extends the full width of the city, and on the loop driveway that leads to the front of the administration building. Children's clubs will be used, Mr. Mahoney said.

CUMMINS NEARS GOAL IN 5-DAY ENDURANCE RUN

IS STILL IN EXCELLENT PHYSICAL CONDITION ON HOME STRETCH

Jimmy Cummins, owner and manager of the Cummins Battery-Battery-Bearing Company of this city, who drove out from the salesrooms of the Kaykendall Chevrolet Company last Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock determined to pilot the Chevrolet roadster in which he is riding through 120 hours of continuous driving, was nearing his goal early this morning, and according to his statement is still in excellent physical condition.
The endurance race is scheduled to end this morning at 10 o'clock when the driver will be unlocked from the wheel, and so great is Cummins' confidence in his ability to finish the drive as per his contract that he has offered to lay a wager that he can go on for another three days without a stop.

"Let off the sob stuff in your news stories about the run" was his comment in connection with reports that had been carried to him about press notices stating he was near exhaustion. He said he wanted to announce to the world that he is feeling fine and will carry through to the finish.
The Chevrolet roadster, stock model taken from the floor of the salesroom of the local dealer, is standing up exceptionally well under the severe test, and according to the driver, has never missed a lick during the entire trip. The machine has been through some grueling tests, Cummins stated, as he occasionally has had it up to high speed, and on his rounds the car has traversed much rough country. The Federal Balloon tires, furnished for the trip by the J. F. Frye Rubber Company, South Plains distributors of Federal products still contained the same air on which the trip was started.
A fresh supply of gas and oil from the Howell Oil Company was taken on by Cummins shortly before midnight. Veedol lubrication is used in the motor, and only a negligible quantity in proportion to the mileage that has been consumed.

Mr. Duncan will talk on the school situation here, but Dr. Granberry, who is given the privilege of selecting his own subject, has not announced the subject of his address Saturday afternoon.

HOUSE LEADERS INSIST OLD TAX PLAN BE RESTORED; SENATE PLAN IS SUBJECT OF DEBATE COMING

CONFERENCE WHICH IS EXPECTED TO IRON OUT ALL DIFFICULTIES IS PUT OFF UNTIL EARLY TOMORROW MORNING

(By the Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. — House leaders served notice today that they would insist on restoration to the revenue bill of some of the federal taxes wiped out by the senate in going more than $125,000,000 beyond the total of $230,000,000 reduction proposed for this year by the house.

Opening of the conference between representatives of the senate and house at which differences will be ironed out, was delayed until Monday pending the printing of the bill passed by the senate.

Bounds Are Exceeded Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, who will head the senate conferees, admitted to President Coolidge, that the senate had exceeded the bounds of tax reduction declared possible by the treasury by at least $100,000,000.

Particularly irksome to the house leaders are the decisions of the senate to eliminate completely the taxes on inheritance, passenger automobiles, admissions and dues. These will form the main basis of contention in the conference and are considered the most likely taxes to be restored to the bill.

House spokesmen pointed out that if a 2 per cent automobile tax, as provided by the house, and a slightly modified admissions and dues tax were returned to the bill, it would cut the total amount of reduction for this year, by almost $100,000,000, which, it was estimated, would bring the total within limits acceptable to the administration.

Taxes Wiped Out These taxes, reduced by the house, were wiped out by the senate by votes of democrats and republican insurgents.

While repeal of the inheritance tax would have no material effect on revenue receipts this year, house leaders have declared they will not yield on the petition that this tax should be continued.

If admissions and dues taxes are restored to the bill, it is expected more liberal exemptions will be allowed.

Reductions Acceptable The general feeling prevailed today on both sides of the capitol that the $23,000,000 additional reductions provided by increased cuts in the surtax rates applying on incomes between $24,000 and $100,000, as voted by the senate, would be acceptable. These cuts were made the incidence of senate democrats in the much discussed compromise in which they accepted the 30 per cent maximum in surtax figure.

Predicting that the house conferees "will rigidly insist" on changes in the senate bills, Representative Tillson of Connecticut, the republican, issued a statement today defending terms of the house bill.

Mr. Tillson endorsed personally the repeal of the inheritance, automobile, admissions and dues taxes, but believed that such action should wait until a future date when our financial department will have sufficiently improved to warrant such reductions.

Garnier Is Quoted Chairman Green of the ways and means committee, and Representative of Texas, ranking democrat on the committee, who will head the house conferees, expressed the opinion the conference would be able to come to agreement next week.

Senator Smoot announced the conferees would be asked to agree first on the surtax rates and the proposed repeal of the capital stock tax and 1 per cent increase in the 12 1/2 per cent corporation tax. This, he explained, will permit the treasury to have the printers set up the income tax blanks so that printing may be begun immediately upon enactment of the bill.

Such a step is taken as a precaution to assure distribution of the income tax blanks in time to permit taxpayers to have the benefits of the reductions when first returns are filed March 15.

JOHN H. WILLIAMS ANNOUNCES FOR COUNTY CLERK

John H. Williams, who for the past four years and a half has been in the employ of the S. E. Cone Grain company here in the capacity of assistant manager, announced here Saturday that he will seek the office of county clerk at the hands of Lubbock county voters subject to the democratic primary in July.

Mr. Williams is 30 years of age. He came here from Savoy, Pannin county, in 1921, and accepted a position with the C. E. Parks Grain Co., that is now the S. E. Cone Grain company where he has established a record for clean business dealings, conscientious efforts and stickability.

Before coming here he had three years experience in the work of a county clerk, he has dealt a great deal with the office since coming here.

If elected to the office, I will promise to fulfill the duties to the best of my ability in the most straightforward manner possible. Mr. Williams told the Daily Journal Saturday night in authorizing official announcement of his candidacy.

BIDS ASKED FOR ON GARZA COUNTY BRIDGE

Sealed proposals for the construction of a concrete timber pile trestle across the Yellowhouse canyon on highway No. 84 leading east and west across Garza county through Post, will be received at the office of the state highway commission until March 4, according to information received at the office of Geo. A. Field, division engineer of the highway department here, who was largely instrumental in securing the bridge for Garza county.

The bridge is to be 647 feet long with a roadway 18 feet wide, stretching almost the whole width of the canyon east of Post, and will be constructed on a 50-50 basis by Garza county and the state.

The structure was secured for the county through the recommendations of Mr. Field that such a move was necessary to properly handle the heavy traffic on this highway.

SCHAFFER NAMED RECEIVER OF RAILROAD

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 13. (AP)—Announcement of the appointment of Fred H. Schaffer, Assistant General Manager of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Company to the General Manager-ship, was made here today by President James M. Kurn. Mr. Schaffer succeeds General Manager James H. Frazier, resigned. Mr. Frazier in tendering his resignation, did not disclose his future plans. He has been in ill health for several months. The retiring general manager came to the Frisco in 1921 from a position as General Manager of the Wichita, Ranger and Fort Worth Railroad.

BERGDOLL JAILED ON CHARGES OF SEDUCTION

(By the Associated Press) MOSBACH, Bade, Germany, Feb. 13.—Cruel Cleveland Bergdoll, wartime draft evader, was arrested today in a hotel in the village of Heuffenhardt once the home of his mother, Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, of Philadelphia, an old lady now lodged in the Mosbach jail.

He was taken on the complaint of a detective named Sachs, said to be a German-American, who alleges that three years ago Bergdoll seduced a girl in Heidelberg. The police, who are holding Bergdoll on an open charge while investigating the charges against him, refused to divulge the name and age of the girl, but Sachs has undertaken to produce her to substantiate his allegation.

Detective Probes Case The detective, who now lives in Frankfurt-on-Main, has been making an investigation regarding Bergdoll in this neighborhood, but his motives have been fully disclosed.

The police today believed the complaint is backed by persons desiring to be revenged against Bergdoll on account his killing one member of a party which tried to kidnap him at Eberbach on Aug. 11, 1923, and wounding another.

Villagers in this district assert that they have overheard Sachs saying, "I'll get something on Bergdoll yet." The former Philadelphia and draft dodger was arrested early this morning and brought to Mosbach in a police patrol wagon.

English Sparrows Defended by Big U. S. Entomologist

ST. PAUL, Feb. 13. (AP)—When English sparrows bring to their nest 500 destructive caterpillars in one day as one pair did they are entitled to consideration as a most useful bird, declares Professor A. G. Ruggles, Minnesota agricultural college entomologist.

A second pair brought 500 insects of various kinds to their young in one hour. Besides, Professor Ruggles estimates, many insects were eaten by the adult birds. The birds frequently consume insect eggs equivalent to one-half of their own weight.

HICKS RUBBER CO. OFFICIAL IS IN LUBBOCK

The Lubbock house of the Hicks Rubber company which is in charge of H. T. Roberts as manager, was visited yesterday by Fred Hicks, general sales manager of the Hicks Rubber company of Texas. The latter was accompanied by Earle E. Bruck, advertising manager of this concern with headquarters at Waco. Both Messrs. Hicks and Bruck were highly gratified with the amount of business done by the Lubbock house during the year 1925, and were quite unostentatious in their praise of Mr. Roberts untiring energy and aggressive business policies. The latter has been with the Hicks stores for many years and has therefore come up through the ranks.

The prospects for splendid business this year, not only in west Texas but over the state in general are quite evident," was stated by Mr. Bruck. Mr. Hicks and Mr. Bruck have just returned from the eastern rubber markets, where the tire factories from whom they purchase their merchandise are located. These men are now making a tour of their stores in Texas outlining the merchandising plan for the year 1926.

When it is recalled that the Hicks Rubber company has 26 stores in the state at present, no wonder is expressed at the use of their slogan, viz: "Texas largest tire house." This fact allows them to buy in enormous quantities, with resultant quick turnover.

The success and largeness of this business in recent years is largely due to the fact that these "better values" are passed on directly to the tire buying public.

"No one, it seems is able to forecast the rubber market, but whether it fluctuates down or up, we are determined to take the public into our confidence," stated Mr. Bruck. "It seems times as erratic as the cotton market."

Employer Lauds Man Who Seeks County Office

Simultaneously with the announcement made here Saturday that John H. Williams will seek the office of county clerk in Lubbock county, there came a signed statement from S. E. Cone, manager of the S. E. Cone Grain company here, where Mr. Williams has been employed since he came to Lubbock in 1921, urging that voters give Mr. Williams' candidacy due consideration when casting their ballots.

The statement of Mr. Cone, which he said came absolutely unsolicited, is as follows: "Having been informed by John H. Williams, an employe in my office, that he will make the race for county clerk of Lubbock county, I wish to state that Mr. Williams has my heartiest support and good wishes in making the race, and that while I personally regret the possibility of losing him from my services in the event of his election, I have assured him that I would be glad to see him gain any promotion that is possible, and I feel that the people as a whole would be benefited in securing his services as county clerk."

business and he immediately gained our confidence. That this confidence was not misplaced is evidenced in the fact that Mr. Williams has remained in our office since his first entering it, and will leave on his own accord, and with my regret except in that I would be glad to see him get a job bigger than is my ability to give him. "On numerous occasions during my absence from the office Mr. Williams has willingly taken the responsibility of looking after the management of the business, and it was on these occasions that I was impressed with his executive ability and am persuaded that the office he seeks holds no problems larger than he can handle. He has kept the records of our office in splendid shape at all times.

"I am conversant with the personal affairs of Mr. Williams and know that his aged parents are practically dependent upon him, and that he has been faithful in supplying their needs and I believe he deserves some consideration on this point.

SCOUTS COURT OF HONOR SESSION HELD HERE

The regular monthly court of honor of the boy scouts organization was fulfilled last night in the First Presbyterian church with Colonel Clark M. Mullican presiding, and witnessed by a host of the parents of the boy scouts.

The meeting opened with Scoutmaster Henry leading the audience in the oath to the flag, followed by the invocation by Rev. Walter P. Jennings. Col. Mullican delivered a most eloquent address on the character and lives of the boy scouts, and emphatically declared that the men in charge of boy scout work were devoting a portion of their time due to their love for boys.

The candle service was gone through with the color guard of six boy scouts preparatory to the issuing of the rewards of merit to the scouts.

Seven scouts became second-class scouts, and two boys became first class scouts. They were congratulated by K. N. Clapp and Rev. Jack Lewis on their success and promotion.

Dr. Ballinger was recognized and delivered a short address of thanks to the boys for sending him the flowers while he was in the sanitarium recently.

Merit badges were issued to 27 boys, five of whom became star scouts. These boys were praised for their work by H. D. Woods, who urged them on to the higher ranks in scouting.

A contest was held in which the troop having most parents there in proportionate percentage to their troop enrollment. Troop No. 1, Sam Henry, scoutmaster, won the contest and Hubert Hopper provoked a great deal of laughter when he poured it on the other troops for not winning, and took special delight in taking a rise out of K. N. Clapp which brought down the house.

Rev. Walter P. Jennings closed the program with a talk on Washington and Lincoln, and conveyed the idea to the scouts that both these men would have made excellent scouts and their lives were example for boy scouts to pattern after, and become enviable citizens of this great nation.

Good example is worth a thousand roams of good advice.

IN OUR NEW HOME!

1312 AVENUE I

We are thankful to the people of the South Plains for their support. It has been their support that has made this new home possible. But, support of this kind does not come unless there is a foundation upon which to base it. It has been service, promptness and economy that has caused them to so heartily endorse our plans. Below are a few of the facts relating to the claims paid and to the low rates that it has cost our supporters for this support.

Elmo Wall, the able secretary of the Lubbock Mutual Aid Association, who has so successfully led the organization to success. And has made possible the erection of this new home.

Above is pictured the new home of The Lubbock Mutual Aid Association. Below are two large store rooms which will be occupied by stores. Upstairs is the offices of the Association and other firms. The entire building is a wonderful piece of architecture. Several office rooms are now for lease.

We take pleasure in submitting for the inspection of the public, the accompanying figures which have been taken from our records of the business transacted through our office.

The record is one to be commended, and in fact we have the abrobation and well wish of a great host of Lubbock and adjoining counties citizens whom we have the honor to serve in a LIFE INSURANCE CAPACITY.

The substantial amounts we have paid into many homes in this section has won for this Association the confidence and esteem of those who have taken notice of our service.

A great number of people carry insurance with us, who are unable to buy the higher priced policies.

Every person in good health living within 50 miles of Lubbock ought to endorse this Association by taking some amount of insurance, and permit us to say that a goodly number are taking all of our 8 policies.

Lorenzo Team Wins District Cage Crown

Municipal Golf Association Is Reorganized Here

LITTLEFIELD IS LOSER IN SEMI FINAL TILT

Lorenzo high school, Crosby county representative at the district basketball tournament that was in progress here under supervision of Tech college officials, Friday and Saturday, won the district championship Saturday night by defeating Littlefield in the final game of the tournament, 29 to 22.

The final round was bitterly contested throughout, but only an occasional spurt of real basketball form was in evidence. The Littlefield quintet, apparently not yet recovered from their terrific battle with Plainview in the semi-finals in the afternoon, did not show the form exhibited against Plainview, and could not hit their stride.

Lorenzo Maintains Lead

The Lamb county bid for final honors drew first blood in the battle early, but this was soon matched by the east plainmen, from which point Lorenzo steadily took the lead that was never seriously menaced. The first quarter closed with Lorenzo leading 10 to 4, but in the second quarter Littlefield rallied, cutting the lead until at the end of the half, the count stood 13 to 9.

At the opening of the second half, Littlefield threw into the arena an offensive, but the Lorenzo defense tightened, and the rally was short lived while Hale, Lorenzo center, led his team into a counter offensive. The count at the end of the third quarter stood 21 to 15, and although Lacy, Littlefield forward, attempted to lead his team into a winning rally in the final period, the count was more than matched by Lorenzo.

Hale, Lorenzo center, and pivot of the passing machine that was battling to the Littlefield crew, was high point man of the game with a total of 12, but Lacy, Littlefield forward, ran him a close second with 11.

Plainview Loses

In the Plainview-Littlefield semi-final game, Littlefield nosed out the conquerors of Lubbock in the first round of play, 12 to 9, when Wood, ace forward, broke into a scoring spree in the second half that netted four field goals while Lacy and Davent were each ringing up one.

Lorenzo Beats Floydada
In the other semi-final, Lorenzo took a two point margin over the Floydada Whitecaps with a count of 16 to 14. Lorenzo led throughout the game, but the lead was constantly menaced, especially after Hale, Lorenzo center, was removed from the court due to personal fouls.

Brackens, Lorenzo forward, was high point man in scoring with 8, but Swain, Whirlwind center, followed a close second with 7.

Lorenzo Beats Muleshoe

Opening the preliminaries at the Tech college gym at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon the Muleshoe Yellowjackets went down before the wiry claws of the Lorenzo Wildcats, 22 to 18. Personal fouls worked heavily against Muleshoe, and lost them the game, as six points were made by Lorenzo by this route. Muleshoe registered nine field goals and Lorenzo eight, but the Yellowjackets were unable to find the basket on free pitches.

Tahoka 29, Dickens 28

A free toss for goal proved the undoing of Dickens when the east plains crew met Tahoka in the second game on the Tech floor Friday afternoon, for this gave Tahoka one point lead through three periods, could not overcome, Davis, Tahoka center, was the driving power behind his team's attack, with a total of 10 field goals.

Floydada 33, Southland 21

The Floydada Whirlwinds, crack quintet from the east edge of the plains that went into the semi-finals, where they lost to Lorenzo, broke into a stiff offensive battle early in their session with Southland, representative from Garza county, and amassed a lead that gave them final victory in their first game, 39 to 21. Swain, center, was the driving power behind the Whirlwind offensive, and wore outstanding in the performance. Watkins was high point man with 13 counters, but was followed closely by Swain with 12.

Roaring Springs 18, Seminole 13

Roaring Springs, another representative from the eastern confines of the plains, emerged the winner in a well fought battle against Seminole, from Gaines county, 18 to 13. In one of the best exhibitions as far as fight is concerned in the tournament, Godfrey, Roaring Springs forward, rung up 9 points for his team.

Lamesa Forfeits Game

In the first scheduled contest at the high school gym in Friday afternoon play, Lamesa Lobos forfeited their chance at continuation in the tournament when they failed to appear for the game with Littlefield, and Littlefield passed on into the second round without a struggle.

Lewelland 18, Brownfield 14

Lewelland's combination of brothers three of the Leedy tribe and two from the Pope family, measured up to requirements in the second contest of afternoon play at the high school gym and took a victory from their neighbors from Brownfield in a slow and listless affair, 18 to 14.

Plainview 22, Lubbock 10

The Lubbock high school Westerners, winner over virtually everything that they have met on the court this season, failed to find their bearings in the tilt with the Plainview Bulldogs, and went down and out of the play in their first game of the tourney by a count of 22 to 10. Plainview broke into an early lead of four points and the first half closed with the vis-

Billy Evans Says

Jack Hendricks Banks On Walter Pipp To Bolster Cincy Infield

ITS hard to figure the big league managers.

Eight American League bosses waived on First Baseman Walter Pipp of the Yankees. Manager Jack Hendricks of the National League was the only one in his league to claim him.

"Pipp should make the Cincinnati club a pennant contender," says Hendricks. "My dope is that he is far from through."

"When Cincinnati took the aged Jake Daubert, after no other club wanted him, rival managers laughed at the very idea. Yet Daubert until his death was one of the most valuable players on the ball club. He made the team."

"Lack of a competent first baseman cost the Cincinnati club at least a dozen games last year, perhaps more. Put a dozen games on the won column of last year and the Reds would have been eight up there."

"I look for Pipp to go along for at least three more years."

Cincinnati is banking on a player waived out of the American League, to make the club a pennant contender. I am inclined to agree with Jack Hendricks' judgment.

HARD TO FATHOM

Last spring after watching the Chicago White Sox in training, Manager Eddie Collins asked me what rookie infielders I liked best.

"Johnny Butler and Ike Davis are the only two new infielders who impress me," I replied, "and I like Butler the better of the two. He's rangy, looks like a good fielder and if he can hit, he will fill the gap at short."

It seems Collins had a similar opinion. When the team started north of us was a battle between Butler and Davis for the position at short.

The breaks at the bat went against Butler. He himself told me that he didn't hit a ball hard all spring in the exhibition games. When a player isn't hitting he fails to impress. Incidentally he usually slumps in the field as a result of worrying over the scarcity of base hits.

Ike Davis played shortstop for the White Sox last season and did a pretty good job of it. Johnny Butler was sent back to the minors before the race started.

The other day Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn Nationals gave six players for Johnny Butler who had a big year of it with Minneapolis in 1925.

THE SECOND GUESS

A year ago George Sisler traded Pitcher Urban Shocker for Joe Bush. Now Bush goes to Washington in exchange for the veteran Tom Zachary and the rookie Win Ballou.

Last year George Sisler took George Morridge as part payment for Catcher Hank Severid. He wanted to bolster up his pitching staff.

Now Morridge goes back to New York, a club that turned him loose to Washington several years ago. In his place Sisler taken the veteran catcher, Wally Schang. He wants to strengthen his catching.

Conditions are constantly arising in baseball that call for changes in personnel. A manager must juggle his players in trades or sales to meet all such situations.

The history of baseball is that many a manager pays a fancy price for some player who was once out loose by the same manager without so much as even a trial.

Mustangs Win In Hard Tussle With Baylor Quintet

DALLAS, Feb. 13. (AP)—Tied 13 to 13 at the end of the first half; then a brilliant race to a final 22 to 21 score. That epitomizes the thrilling nature of the basketball duel between Southern Methodist University Mustangs and Baylor University Bears here tonight. The Bears had the gloomy end of the score. The victory placed S. M. U. into a tie with Baylor for third berth in the conference standing. S. M. U. occupied themselves during the last three minutes of play in merely trying to prevent the Bears from overcoming the 3 point lead.

Payne Succeeds Shotwell As Head Coach At Simmons

ABILENE, Feb. 13. (AP)—Victor D. Payne, coach at Simmons university for the past two years, has been elected head coach. It was announced today by President J. D. Sandefur. P. E. Shotwell, athletic director and co-coach with Payne, resigned last week. In the future Payne will have charge of all athletics at Simmons, a member of the newly created Texas conference.

COURSE WILL BE RECONDITIONED AT ONCE

Vaughn E. Wilson, prominent local attorney who makes golf his hobby, was elected President of the Lubbock Municipal Golf Association at an organization meeting held here Friday night when plans were laid for reconditioning of the course.

Spring approaches. E. B. Adcock was named manager of the organization.

The Board of Directors was selected as follows: Sled Allen, H. D. Stanley, Paul Stevens, N. R. Carter, Floyd Miller, and Floyd Bowen. The publicity committee is composed of the following: A. B. Slagle, Neal A. Douglas, and Rankin Dow.

A tournament committee that already has plans underway for staging a sensational inter-city tournament was named as follows: J. C. Smith, Floyd Bowen, Huddie Stewart, and Lee Dugan.

30 Men Form Nucleus

About thirty members form the nucleus of the association, the most of whom were present at the organization meeting, and the association will be thrown open to membership to any one who wishes to associate themselves with it. It was agreed that any member taken in before March 1 will be admitted $10, while in the annual dues entitling the member to full rights and privileges until March 1, 1927. After March 1 however, the membership fee will be raised to $15.

The membership card that will be mailed out from the office of the organization immediately upon receipt of the fee, will serve a dual purpose, entitling man and wife or man and child to full participation in all privileges of the association.

In view of the fact that are possibly a few that will not care to take a year's membership card, arrangements have been made whereby non-members who wish to play on the course will be charged a fee of 25 cents for a green fee, but all who take advantage of this will be required to register at the club house and pay the fee before they tee off at the first green.

Ground Keeper Employed

The association, working through County Commissioner Marvin T. Warwick, in whose precinct the course is located has secured a man to care for the grounds and he will begin work Monday morning in putting new top-ping on the greens, and all greens will be leveled by so many last year. All other necessary incidentals to bring the course into first class condition will be looked after by the keeper. The association will pay a stipulated amount monthly toward salary for the keeper contingent upon his ability in keeping the course in condition.

The question of firm membership, or membership of a business house for the benefit of its employees was taken up at the organization meeting, but was tabled due to the fact that no practical method of issuing this form of membership has yet been devised.

Officials of the association point out that the fee charged is very reasonable, and that it was kept to this low mark so that even the most lowly golf hound might take advantage of the recreational privileges offered by the course. Quantity membership will be sought rather than a higher fee that would make the association more or less restricted. It was also made clear that the membership rolls will be open to anyone regardless of his golf affiliation or former experience.

President Issues Plea
Mr. Wilson, President of the association has requested that all those interested in the move mail in their check for $10 either to him or to Mr. Adcock who may be reached at the Wooten Grocery Co. A membership card will be returned immediately upon receipt of the check, he said.

In this connection the association voted unanimously to send complimentary membership cards to the County Judge, each County Commissioner, to the President of the Country Club, to Dr. Paul W. Horn, President of the Tech College, and to the President of the Malou Golf Association.

Officers and directors of the association will hold regular meetings at least until such a time that the more intricate problems may be worked, and the organization is working smoothly.

10 Records Fall In National A. A. U. Swimming Meet

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 13. (AP)—While 10 world's records fell in dazzling succession, mermaids on the east coast made an almost clean sweep of the women's national A. A. U. swimming contests this week.

New York gained three new champions and retained a like number. In addition the women's swimming association of New York won the national team crown and holds the title for the 400-yard relay swim. Martha Norrell, New York, was the individual high point winner.

Illinois with sybil Bauer, and Ethel Lackie remained the home of two national champions, while California retained only one title when Eleanor Clark claimed victory in the 50-yard free style swim on opening night.

All-Round Star

Ed Morrison is regarded as West Virginia University's greatest all-round athlete. In football they call him the best defensive back in Mountain history; on the diamond he's a clever infielder and sensational hitter and shines as a guard in basketball. Furthermore, Morrison is one of the most popular athletes the institution has ever had.

MOODY PUTS RAIL BRIEF TO U. S.

AUSTIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—The state's brief, opposing action of the Texas railroad commission in the Fort Bliss case was sent today to the interstate commerce commission at Washington by Attorney General Dan Moody.

In August, 1925, the Texas commission held that freight on all classes and commodities from Texas common points to Fort Bliss, to an army post a short distance from El Paso, to Fort Bliss a flat rate $1.52 per car was fixed.

The Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio railway attacked the rates as unjust and discriminatory.

The Texas commission held the I. C. C. does not have jurisdiction, because the rates involved are purely intrastate.

San Angelo Loses To Concho County Team

SAN ANGELO, Feb. 13. (AP)—Eden Concho County, today won the high school basketball championship of four counties by defeating San Angelo at Miles, 14 to 15. The game was played in a high wind.

YOUTH'S ATTEMPT TO SWIM RIVER IS FATAL

RIO GRANDE CITY, Tex., Feb. 12. (AP)—An attempt to swim the Rio Grande instead of waiting for a ferry cost Douglas Pope, 25, of Rio Grande City, his life today.

Having missed the last ferry from Camargo, Mexico, at 4 a. m., Pope decided not to wait for the first daylight boat, because he was afraid he would be late to work. Pope and a companion, Tom Foltz, started to swim the stream. When within ten feet of the American side the swift current sucked him under.

A 15 year old Mexican swam across the river in an attempt to save the drowning man but was too late. The Mexican then assisted Foltz out of danger.

Pope was a brother of County Attorney John A. Pope, Jr. of this county. He was employed by an oil company.

Failing Eyesight Causes Astronomer To Halt His Work

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 13. (AP)—Failing eyesight has caused the retirement from active service of Father Jose Algue, who for 30 years has been director of the Philippines weather bureau.

In addition to being an astronomer of note, Father Algue invented a number of instruments used in connection with weather forecasting, notably the cyclometer, employed in the determination of direction, distance and movement of tropical hurricanes. The Philippine service won praise in years gone by through his dependable forecasting of typhoons in the Philippine archipelago. He was a native of Spain and was educated in Spain, France and the United States. The new director is Father Miguel Selga, S. J., a native of Barcelona, educated in Spain and the United States. After graduation from Harvard he saw observatory service at Lowell, Ariz., and Mt. Hamilton, Cal., observatories.

CLEAN SLATES IN TENNIS HELD BY LEADERS

CANNES, France, Feb. 13. (AP)—Suzanne Lenglen and Helen Wills, after three rounds played in the Carlton tennis tournament, both have reached the quarter finals without the loss of a game. Helen has granted her adversaries a few more points than Suzanne but experts can give nothing in the way of the comparative chance of the two champions in their forthcoming singles match, set for 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, except that the two greatest woman tennis players have stayed almost as far apart as the north and south poles. Hard clean tennis on the courts today came as a relief to the political financial tennis which has been played in the room of the committee during the past few rainy days.

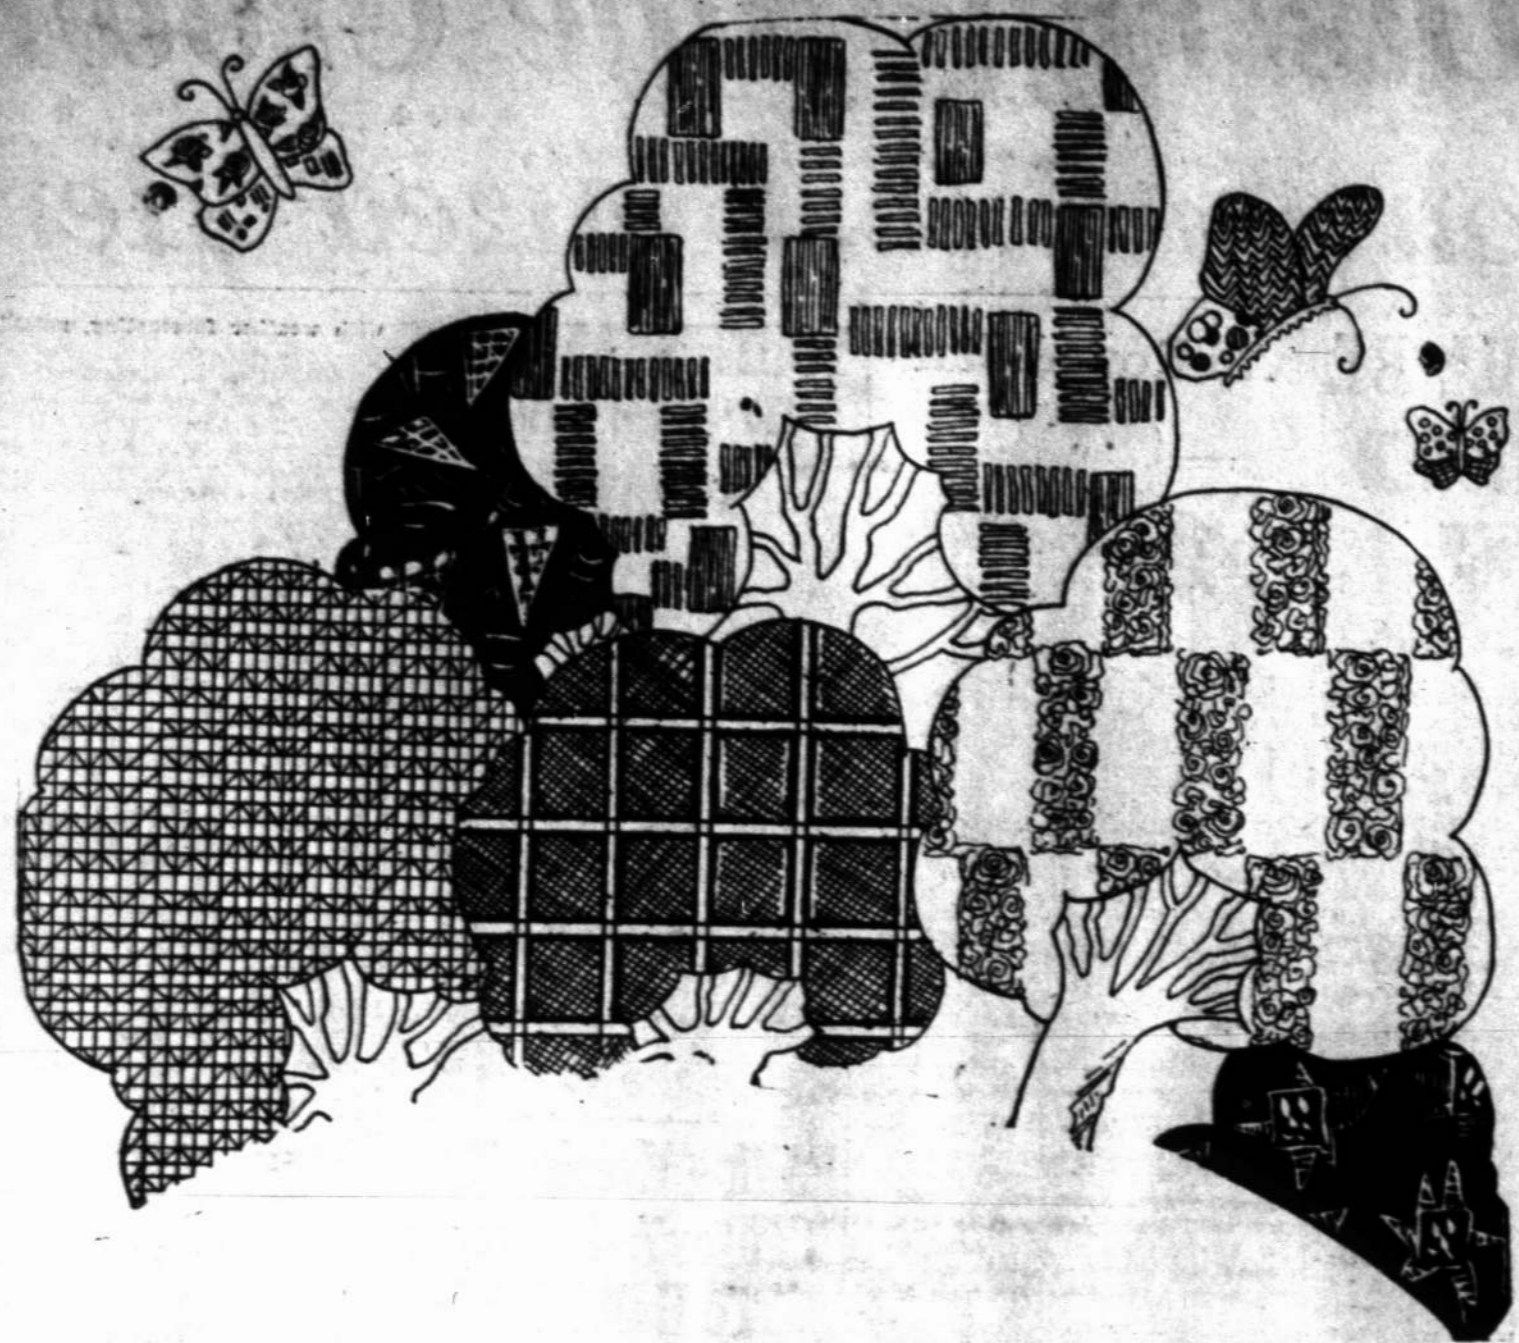

The battle for the filming rights and for other concessions is apparently forgotten now that the meeting between the French and American champions is practically a certainty.

Both Miss Lenglen and Miss Wills also made their way into the quarter finals of the women's doubles today.

TJUANA RUM KING GOES ON BIG HUNGER STRIKE; POLICE CHIEF'S ALIBI MAY FREE HIM OF CHARGE

TJUANA, Mex., Feb. 13. (P)—Charges against Zenocidio Llanos, former chief of police of Tijuana of attacking Audrey Petet may be dropped following investigation of testimony offered by Llanos in his final questioning this afternoon, the Mexican investigating officials announced.

The testimony does not affect other charges which may be made against the former official, however, and he still is being held.

In his final questioning Llanos made emphatic denial that he had harmed the Petet girl, who following the alleged attack upon herself and her sister, Clyde, joined her mother and father in a "shamo suicide" in San Diego last week.

Says He Was Drinking
The former chief of police testified that while the girl was in an upstairs room in a hotel where she is alleged to have been taken, he was in the main room downstairs drinking with eight persons.

The testimony of Llanos came as a surprise to the investigators. Mexican officials, in their eagerness to quickly settle the case, will hold court on Sunday if necessary.

Amador Letters Taken
While Luis Amador, proprietor of the Oakland Cafe in Tijuana, from which place the two girls are alleged to have been taken after their father had been drugged and who is accused of attacking Clyde Petet, is continuing his hunger strike, officials announced that two letters had been taken from the prisoner this morning at the time that he attempted suicide with a safety razor.

The first of the two letters is addressed "To the public" and declares that Amador is in fear of punishment that he feels may be visited upon him by the Mexican authorities. He also expresses fear that he may be taken across the border and there punished.

The second of the letters is addressed to his wife and consists gravely of endearing terms.

"Had I taken your advice, I would not be here," he wrote.

Has Eaten Little
Amador has eaten but little for the last two days and today following his thwarted suicide, he definitely declared he would not eat officials said.

News that a part of the charges against the former chief of police of Tijuana may be dropped was received with jubilation by residents of the border town where Llanos is popular. What resentment Tijuana inhabitants feel in the prosecution of the case is largely due to the fact that the former official was implicated. The feeling of the populace is vented in resentment against the Petets rather than against either Mexican or American officials, who are prosecuting the case.

Blame Girls' Father
Residents of Tijuana, in discussing the case, attempt to shift the blame of the tragedy on T. M. Petet, the father, and the two girls, for visiting the Oakland Bar and dance place situated on a back street of the border town. Mexican officials declare that the residents of the border town are eager for the punishment of any persons who may be found guilty of the alleged abduction and attacks on the two girls. Feeling also for the seven men who are held in the federal prison in connection with the case was evidenced in a pamphlet said to have been circulated in Tijuana and asking for "fair play" for the men.

Pending the presentation of information to the court, a proceeding similar to presentation of evidence to a grand jury, the seven men alleged to be connected with the case are being held in the federal prison without charges against them and are not admitted to bail. The seven include in addition to Llanos and Amador, Refugio Alvarez and Francisco Navarro, bartenders, Francisco Gonzalez, police officer, Juna York Sang, manager of a hotel and Salvador Espinoza, taxi driver.

LINDSEY

In his latest photoplay "American Pluck" a two-day engagement at the Lindsey theatre, George Walsh is the very personification of pep. This athletic young screen star is ideally cast as "Blaze" Derringer, a young man whose wild exploits result in his being expelled from college and disowned by his father until he has proven his ability to earn his own living.

George Walsh sets into action early in the story by substituting himself for a prize fighter and winning an important bout. He does not stop to collect the money, however, as his attention is attracted to a beautiful girl who turns out to be a princess in distress. George or rather "Blaze" as he is known in the story, then becomes in a series of political plots which are as strenuous as they are funny.

It is quite evident that no one but a trained athlete in the very pink of condition could attempt to perform the many and dangerous stunts that Mr. Walsh goes through with the greatest ease throughout with the screen's greatest blackface comedian, runs the star a good second and his every appearance on the screen was the signal for unrestrained mirth. Leo White also contributes a very funny character as the broken down "Lord Raleigh" and Wand Hawley lends her brilliant blonde beauty most acceptably to the roles of the Princess Alicia.

Several very spectacular sets form the background for the energetic star whose stunts kept last night's audience gasping for breath.

"American Pluck" is the screen version of Eugene P. Lyle's novel "Blaze" Derringer and Ralph Spence has turned out a photoplay that is even more entertaining than the original novel. The screen needs more pictures on the style of "American Pluck" it is entertainment plus.

PALACE

Compared with teaching Bessie Love to dance, gliding films would seem to be a much-needed paint job. Miss Love has gained the reputation of being the foremost Charleston stepper among the leading film favorites, and has on several occasions tutored those of her fellow players who were eager to learn. But recently Miss Love took lessons in the art of tumbler, because of her roles in Herbert Brenon's "The Song and Dance Man" in which she is featured with Tom Moore and Harrison Ford.

The "song and dance" portion of the title is not confined to the man in the case, Tom Moore, Miss Love plays the part of a small-time vaudeville actress who scores a hit in a New York musical comedy, and to perfect herself in the dance routine required for the role, the petite screen player attended classes at Ned Yagburn's dance school.

She discovered more about timing, rhythm, building to climaxes and grand finishes than most operators of musical comedy dancing, even dream are part of the show. Between scenes on Herbert Brenon's set at the Paramount Long Island studio Miss Love practiced her dance steps against the time when the theatre scene were staged for the motion picture cameras.

IS JAZZ RUINING TRIM FIGURES OF AMERICAN GIRLS?

A picture which attracted considerable attention because of its lively theme, its director and its cast of gifted players, is "Trotty Ladies," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production coming to the Lyric Theatre on Monday and Tuesday. Monta Bell, director of "The Snob" and "Lady of the Night," is acting in a similar capacity in this picture and Zasu Pitts, Tom Moore, Ann Pennington, Lily Tushman, Fern Randall, Helena D'Algy, Lucille LeSueur, Roy D'Arcy, Paul Ellis, Gwendolyn Lee and Dorothy Seastrom portray the principal roles, while Norma Shearer and Conrad Nagel, play in two brief but important parts in the picture.

The story, based on Adela Rogers St. Johns' romance of an unloved, plain-looking, but fine-grained "Follies" comedienne of great popularity and an easygoing drummer. It is said to be bubbling over with good cheer, humor, pathos and originality.

Alice D. G. Miller wrote the screen adaptation.

LUBBOCK WILL BE INCLUDED FOR GOOD HOGS

DALLAS, Feb. 13. (P)—As a result of a "hog campaign" conducted this winter by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, seventeen carloads of blooded and disease-immuned hogs will be brought into West Texas within the next few months. This was announced here today by E. H. Whitehead, chamber officer, who declared that bankers of each of the interested communities are cooperating with farmers in handling the hogs.

The first carload of 70 hogs already has been shipped from Sioux City, Iowa, en route to Fort Stockton, Mr. Whitehead said, and another will be sent soon to Colorado City. Other carloads will follow later to Stamford, Haskell, Spur, Ralls, Lorenzo, Idalou, Quanah, Clarendon, Plainview, Lubbock, Tahoka, Post, Midland, Sweetwater, Merkle and Abilene.

Without charge for their service, and in an effort to increase the standards of hog raising in Texas, packers and stock yards officials are cooperating by making selection of the hogs. Whitehead said.

Additional Facts In Cathart Case Given

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (P)—While preparing to dispose finally of Monday of the case of Countess of Cathart, English titled woman, banished at Ellis Island from entering the United States, Secretary of Labor Davis was presented recommendations in her behalf today from several quarters. A delegation from the National Women's party informed the department that the countess was being kept out of the United States for reasons that would not keep from entering a man similarly placed, while attorneys in her case were active.

Petting Parties Are Passe, Co-eds State

FORT COLLINS, Colo., Feb. 13. (P)—Petting parties are "cheap" and drinking among college students is passé, co-eds from nine Rocky mountain universities and colleges decided here today at a conference of associated college students.

Although the conference resolution condemning and petting and drinking, it passed up mention of smoking among women students. Conference leaders said the smoking problem was not serious enough in this region to warrant any definite action.

Amherst Man Killed In Crash At Vernon

VERNON, Feb. 13. (P)—Mark Pace, 26, of Amherst, was fatally injured and John B. White of this city was seriously hurt Saturday night when the car in which they were riding overturned on the Wichita Falls highway about four miles east of Vernon. GALLOWES PUT END NOOSE CLOSES ON TO BIG HOLDUP

CHICAGO, Feb. 13. (P)—Joseph W. Holmes and Jack Woods paid for their part in the murder of Frank B. Rodkey, a clerk in the spectacular "wild west" holdup last summer of the fashionable Drake hotel, when they were hanged in the Cook county jail today.

Two of the men who participated in the robbery were killed later in pistol fights with the police. The fifth, the alleged "brains" of the quintet, William Mulneschuck, escaped.

Woods and Holmes in final statements blamed him for their predicament. They said he led them and then got away with the $10,000 proceeds without returning them funds for an adequate defense.

They walked to the gallows smoking cigarettes, and made their final remarks in clear, firm voices.

"I plead not guilty," said Woods. "Not guilty, and God bless you," said Holmes.

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., Feb. 13. (P)—An unsuccessful, death chamber plea for delay in the execution of Harry Garbut, for murder, was made here today by his attorney, Ernest Spagnoli. Garbut was convicted of the murder of Mrs. Dorothy Lee Hunn of Pasadena. The trap was sprung at 10:46 A. M.

Garbut was to have been hanged at ten o'clock in the morning but execution was delayed while the supreme court of California and of the United States heard pleas for a stay.

Atop the gallows the guards affixed the ankle straps, the noose and the black cap. Spagnoli renewed his plea, by the clang of the scaffold trap ended one of the most spectacular and persistent fights ever waged in California to save a man from death.

Garbut is said to have admitted last night that he fired the shot that killed Mrs. Hunn. He said he had gone home and found her quarrelling with a man named Frank Gibson. He said Gibson started to hit Mrs. Hunn with an instrument he used for opening shells, Garbut said he tried to stop them and pulled out his pistol. He said that in a scuffle the pistol exploded and Mrs. Hunn was shot.

HOUSTON, Feb. 13. (P)—The "long arm of the law" reached out today and apparently caught its own hand.

Constable Cole, of Harrisburg, brought in for questioning two men, when he found them telling people they were prohibition agents and special officers.

Not finding sufficient documentary evidence to substantiate the claims, Cole invited them to confer with District Attorney Soule.

Consequently it developed that the men were "under cover" operators, who hired out by the week, daily, or year to any sheriff of any county and did their work at reasonable rates.

Secretary Hoover points to prosperity for the present year, and that's mighty fine if somebody will pass it around often enough. — Indianapolis News.

Houston Groceryman Mysteriously Slain

HOUSTON, Feb. 13. (P)—Fred Weidman, 41, a Dallas avenue grocery store keeper, was shot and instantly killed in his store shortly before midnight Saturday. According to the police two negroes were seen to run from the building just after the shots were heard.

Police declare the killing of Weidman was similar to the murders of two store keepers here on successive nights several months ago. It is believed that Weidman was killed when he resisted a holdup.

EARLY HISTORY OF AUTOMOBILE IN LUBBOCK COUNTY INDICATES GREAT GROWTH OF MOTOR SALES

PEOPLE WHO THOUGHT AUTO CRAZE OF 1907 WAS TO BE SHORT-LIVED ARE NOW PAYING FINES FOR BREAKING CITY SPEED LIMIT

(By BLANCHE E. BEAN)
Journal Women's Editor.

In spite of the predictions of the ages of 1907 that the automobile craze could not last, more than 5400 automobiles have been registered in the County this year and many of those who thought it unlikely that cars would ever become common are now regularly paying fines for breaking speed limits.

It is now becoming uncommon enough to warrant a story for one to refuse to ride in an automobile, yet when the cars were first introduced into Lubbock, people frequently refused to ride in them.

Early in the history of the coming of the automobile to this section of the State, R. C. Burns, now tax assessor, ran a stage line from Lubbock to Amarillo. He had a very good friend who frequently came to Lubbock on business. The friend would meet Mr. Burns in Amarillo very often but repeatedly refused to ride to Lubbock in one of the cars. He felt that the automobile was unsafe and consequently rode in the regular hack pulled by horses.

a wide berth that I was never able to see who he was," Mr. Burns laughed.

Jack Robinson and Jim Powell were among the first men to bring cars into Lubbock and J. M. Bradley, for many years a garage owner here, came to this country from another section of Texas in a "gasoline buggy." This car was similar to a buggy in appearance except that it was power-driven. It was guided by a long bar which was crooked on the end.

The first cars were one and two cylinder vehicles and were not satisfactory in many ways. They were hard to drive, were very expensive and did not run any length of time. They frequently were in need of repairs and when some part was broken it took considerable time to secure a new part as there were no houses carrying parts nearer than Kansas City or more remote cities.

SANTA ATTENDING TOY FAIR IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP) — The playthings which Santa Claus will leave on his visit next Christmas will be decided upon at the annual Toy Fair of the United States.

Mr. Kringle, with the hundreds of buyers from this and other countries, has to select the favorite toys early in the year so that the manufacturers may know what to make.

"In the selection of toys local color plays an important role," said H. D. Clark, Secretary of the Toy Fair Chamber of Commerce. "Although many of them enjoy general popularity the country over, the play spirit of some sections finds an outlet very different from that in other parts."

For example, the toy buyers from Boston, New York, Philadelphia and other large cities of the east stock up heavily on fire engines, automobiles and similar apparatus. Flying toys buyers from Omaha and other points in the west make big purchases of horses and wagons, stuffed animals and the like. Even in dolls one finds variations in popularity. Bob-haired dolls find special favor in Chicago. In the far west, however, the old-fashioned doll, with hood and gingham dress, still holds its own.

The fair will last until March 6 and during that time the buyers will place orders for approximately half of the toys needed for the holiday seasons ten months away.

MAC NIDER SPELLS HIS NAME BY LEGEND

MASON CITY, Ia., Feb. 13 (AP) — A romance in Scotland, which dates several generations back, answers the question as to why Hanford MacNider, former commander of the American legion and now assistant secretary of war, spells his name different from his father, C. H. McNider, prominent Iowa banker.

When Thomas Duncan MacNider, Hanford's great grandfather, followed the dictates of his own heart and married the village lass he loved instead of the girl his parent had selected for him, he was disinherited.

Leaving the parental home on the rocky shores of the Isle of Skye off the northwest coast of Scotland, he came to Canada penniless, deciding to get away from the original name by calling himself McNider. His son, Thomas Bryon also took this name. Both father and son set out to carve a place for themselves in the new world and wanted to forget the old.

Neither Thomas Duncan MacNider nor his son mentioned the change in name, so far as can be learned, and it was not until C. H. McNider began an investigation of the family tree that the facts were brought out. Hanford was a small boy at the time the investigation was made, but he started spelling his name MacNider and has been doing so ever since.

Young Boy Widely Traveled But Has Not Used Trains

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 13 (AP) — Charles Stockwell Ricker, 6 years old, has been in most of the states in the union, but has ridden on a train only once.

Charles is the son of Chester Ricker, widely known automotive engineer and an official at motor racing events, including the annual Indianapolis motor speedway classic.

He had been to New York city, all over the south, and to the far west, but always he had gone in his father's motor car. Recently his father took him to Denver by train.

FLORIDA COLORS AND SPIRIT OF PLAY FURNISHES FASHION THEME FOR MILADY'S SPRING CLOTHING

Each season the styles for milady follow some sensational event of the year. At one time not so many seasons past, King Tut furnished the theme for clothing designs and Egyptian pottery and art were featured on every hamper.

Florida, the sensation of the winter, has furnished the theme for spring. Florida colors and the Florida spirit of play are seen in the airy-fairy costumes for spring and the sport trend of the season's clothing, and Florida gold, a new shade of yellow, is being shown as one of the leading colors, especially in millinery.

Color is the keynote of the spring clothing, according to merchants who have returned from northern and eastern markets. Many of the shades are in pastel but the loveliest new blues, greens and rose colors are shown in hats and dresses. There are a few bright red garments, but the wood shades, lovebirds and chartreuse greens, shades of roses, Marie Antoinette, maintenance and phantom reds, and Italian blue and grey are among the leading colors.

All Colors Shown

Prints of every color and pattern are seen in shop windows of Lubbock now and, according to the buyers for the stores, prints are extremely popular. The dresses are cut fuller with many flares and considerable attention is centered on the neck lines and trimming.

Georgettes, Alexander crepes, crepe romaine and flat crepes are seen in most of the spring dresses. Sleeves are long, and often puffed. Dresses will remain short and waistlines are coming back.

Imported tweeds are extensively used for sport coats, according to the buyers. Some of the coats show a tendency to flare from the shoulder, giving a cape effect and some flare in the skirt of the coat. Dress coats are shown in charmers in the same colors seen in the dresses and hats. Many of the coats are trimmed in summer furs, especially on the collars.

Hats Large and Small

Large and small hats were both shown in the markets and a great many large hats probably will be worn later in the spring, according to the milliners. Felt hats are popular for sport. Silk hats are good for early spring and some flexible new straws are being brought in. One straw is known as the balsaminal and another is the crooked visca. The visca shape is stylish for early spring wear. This hat is small with a narrow brim that turns down in front and up in the back. A few tams were shown in the markets.

Scarfs to match the hats will be a leading fashion, according to the milliners. The scarfs are a riot of color in silk and knit materials.

Suits Coming Back

Suits probably are coming back, according to those who visited eastern markets. The bobby coats, half way models, were shown some in the form of sport suits in tweed and in tailored sport suits of navy. No separate short coats were shown.

Later in the spring washable coats will be worn. These coats will be tailored and will be shown similar to the way crestone coats were worn last spring. These coats are to be better made, however, it is predicted. Smocks were shown in the style centers, and some of these will be shown in Lubbock a little later in the spring.

Shoes are to be in the lighter shades of kid—the Bois de Rose, parchment, sauterne and blonde are favored and black satins and patents will be worn, it is said. One-strap pumps and the plain or small tounge effect pumps are both favored by fashion.

WOMEN'S CLUB TO BUY PICTURES FOR SCHOOLS

An art exhibit of famous paintings is being brought to Lubbock this spring by members of the Business and Professional Women's Club and money raised from the exhibit will be used in purchasing pictures for the school rooms of the County, according to Miss Mae Murfee president of the club.

"There are few school rooms in the County that have one famous painting in them," Miss Murfee said, and she feels that the placing of such pictures in the schools is a worthy undertaking.

Detailed plans for the exhibit have not been completed but the exhibit probably will be given in one of the schools or in some house in the business district of Lubbock. School children of Lubbock and of the County will be urged to attend the exhibit, although the general public is being invited. A small admission price will be charged.

That Horace Grady Moore may some day be known as the poet of West Texas, is the prediction of George Smallwood, professor of English at the Technological College, and other members of the English faculty of the college.

Mr. Moore is a freshman at the college whose home is in Floydada and, although he has never sold any of his poems or stories, he shows a strength and versatility in his writing that is seldom seen in one much older and one who has studied considerable more than he has, according to Mr. Smallwood. He has surprising mastery of composition, of the mechanical forms in poetry, of English and of literature, according to his instructors. He has made no attempt to market his works.

Contrary to the general opinion that one who is more or less of a genius is a writing eccentric, Mr. Moore is a well-built, husky young man near six feet in height with a pleasing and winning personality. His is not an aggressive nature, yet his modesty does not cause him to be backward. He has been reared in a small town and his abilities are those of the average small-town and farm lad of about 18 years.

He registered at the Tech as a freshman at the beginning of the fall term and is now in his second term of college work. He has made excellent grades in all of his studies and his English work has been almost flawless according to his instructors. Unless Mr. Moore can find employment to assist in paying his college expenses for the remainder of the year he feels that he will be compelled to withdraw from college at present, however, he is anxious to receive his college training.

In addition to his poetry, he shows ability as a writer of fiction as well. Mr. Smallwood said. He is being urged to enter some of his poems in the State contest conducted by Southern Methodist University this spring.

Mr. Moore is the only student of the college whose poetic ability has been discovered as yet, according to Mr. Smallwood, but since only freshman and sophomore courses are offered and no courses in poetry are studied, there may be other students of ability there, he said.

EXHIBITION

OF THE NEW FAMOUS PICTURE VALUED AT $75,000.00

"NEVER ALONE"

By Herbert de Bareaux Jr.

This wonderful painting, which transports one's very being to a higher realm and grips one's soul with irresistible power depicts a soldier's death on the lone marshes of Flanders.

Herbert de Bareaux the artist, has painted a war scene without any trace of the conflict; solitude without desolation; sorrow without horror. A young French soldier has been shot down in the midst of the marshes and lies, with life ebbing away, his lips apart, his eyes already fixed in the seal of death; his helmet has fallen off, his rifle lies at his side.

Alone he lies—not another human being in sight—no eye to note how and when he fell—no comrade to carry the news to kindred as to how he died for his country. Yet not alone—for by his side, with arms extended, stands a figure—a Being with infinite compassion—the figure of Him who said: "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee."

Herbert de Bareaux Jr. painted "Never Alone" late in the year 1914. In October, 1918, he was killed in the battle of Chateau-Thierry, himself an actor in a similar tragedy which he had so vividly pictured four years before.

This wonderful painting, measuring 10 ft., 6 in. by 8 ft., 6 in., is valued at $75,000.00, and was visited by over 2,000,000 people in the city of New York.

YOUTH HAVING ITS DAY

A roster of champions in various sports this year carried the names of more than a score of boys and girls whose ages range from 16 to 22 years. They were successful over veterans the average of whose years was very much higher.

If it were possible to bring some of the spirit and love of sports into the field of essential work, much friction and unhappiness would be removed from the world today. Human nature is so varied in its predilection that there is never any danger of a bitter struggle for the soft place in life.

The world is making progress, however. Science has devised means for measuring the capabilities of youth among the varied fields of endeavor, and vocational schools are making selection and training for life a matter of more concern than was the case in our folk's days.

AGAIN

Practically every paper we pick up has something to say about diversification and is preaching the farmer the doctrine of planting something besides cotton. It is an old subject, but seems to be one which must be revived from time to time in order to get the farmers to help feed the world.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

DOES CONGRESSWOMAN OUT-RANK WIFE OF CABINET MEMBER?

By CHARLES P. STEWART, NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON—Does a congresswoman socially outrank the wife of a cabinet officer? This is a serious question, now that women are breaking into Congress in increasing numbers—already a quarter of a dozen strong.

That a cabinet officer outranks a representative is a well recognized principle of social law. It seems to follow naturally that his wife outranks a representative's wife. Presumably he (a cabinet officer) outranks a congresswoman, too.

When the present Washington "season" opened the capital's social arbiters' first thought seems to have been to class Congresswomen Florence P. Kahn, Mary T. Norton and Edith N. Rogers among representatives' wives, as, indeed, Congresswomen Kahn and Norton (not Congresswoman Rogers) had been.

The YELLOW STUB by Ernest Lynn

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in GRAFTON. Police find a woman's handkerchief and a yellow ticket stub from a theater in CLEVELAND.

JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Cleveland. The stub is traced to a THOMAS FOGARTY, who says he gave it to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he encounters Olga Maynard, and she faints when he tells her she is suspected of murder.

Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi and misunderstands. Olga is arrested. She tells police the ticket stub and handkerchief might have got into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder.

She doesn't know who he was and police scoff at her. Jimmy believes her and goes back to Grafton to persuade the district attorney to release her. BARRY COLVIN, in love with Jimmy's sister, JANET, asks him if there was anything in Henry Rand's past that might give a clue to the murder.

Now Go On With The Story

"Forgive me, Barry. I know its no joke." He became very serious. "I think I know how you feel."

"You'll never know how I feel, Jim, till you're in love yourself."

"I think," said Jimmy, turning away. "I think I know Barry."

"Janet," said Jimmy, his hand on her shoulder, "why don't you cut out all this nonsense and put Barry out of his misery?"

"You know why, Jimmy, and Barry knows why." He faced her squarely. "Happy, Sis?"

She averted his eyes. "Of course you're not," he said abruptly and turned his back to her. "Janet," he went on, starting into the fireplace, "there isn't any too much happiness in this world at best. Don't pass any of it up. We're fools if we don't grab all we can."

He came back to her and looked earnestly at her. "Janet don't spoil this—this beautiful thing between you and Barry."

She should have spoken but he cut her short. "I know what you're going to say—that it's just for a while. You don't want to involve Barry in this—this tragedy."

"Janet, I believe—I know—that somewhere Dad is trying to tell you not to do this."

He had gone as far as his voice and take care of it right now."

He put on his coat and hat and followed Jimmy out of his room.

As if the weather were not miserable enough, the day that Jimmy spent in his search for work was even worse. He tried office after office. It seemed to him that he answered every want ad in the paper. He tramped weary miles and met nothing but disappointment.

He tried the automobile agencies, advancing his qualifications as a successful salesman back in Grafton. But they told him, they didn't need salesmen; they needed customers.

"Night came and he was tired and hungry. He would eat something warm, he told himself, and then go home to a hot bath and his bed. He would feel better in the morning."

He was about to turn in at a cheap restaurant when he suddenly stopped short, a worried look on his face. He frowned.

"What's the matter with me?" he said aloud. "What's worrying me?"

He stood for a moment or two, thinking, then entered the restaurant. He ate a hurried meal, topped it off with two cups of steaming coffee. He lit a cigaret and started for home.

Outside the little restaurant a group of hangers-on eyed him curiously. He darted them a hostile glance and a moment later stopped short again and Jimmy pressed himself flat against the building and waited.

CHAPTER XVI

BARRY continued: "Yes, Jim, out of the past. Somewhere in your father's life is somebody who had an object in getting him out of the way. Perhaps, he didn't know himself that he had any enemies, but he had them."

"Good Lord, man, you don't think for a minute that this thing was done on impulse? It was carefully planned. Why, they almost succeeded in making it look like a suicide. Why would anyone do it, Jim? What possible motive?"

"I don't know, Barry. Jimmy shook his head. "Could it have been money? Let's get at this thing."

"Dad didn't have any money. No." "Blackmail? Jealousy? Fear? Jim, I think someone was afraid of your father."

"You know better than that, Barry. Dad wouldn't have scared a cat." "You don't get me. Either he had something on someone or that person was afraid he would find it out. They're evidently afraid you'll find it out too. Now you take a fool's advice and stay out of Cleveland."

"I will not. I'm going back tonight." "Don't do it, Jim. I'm afraid. You're just too stubborn to admit you're in danger. You're in somebody's way in Cleveland. That's why you got that note, and the phone call, and the telegram here. Stay home and let the police find the man you're talking about. The Maynard girl can help them."

"If you don't," he shrugged—"well, they didn't stop at murder before." "Nonsense, Barry. This thing is all a bluff. You mean to say that someone is going to take the trouble to kill me if I don't leave Cleveland?"

"Whoever did that thing to your father knows you're staying in Cleveland and probably knows why." "Well, let them play their game with me. If they show their hand it will make it that much easier to nab them in the end. I'm going back and I intend to stick close to Olga Maynard in the hope of running onto the fellow she described. The police would not do as well for if he's the kind of man I think he is he'll be able to spot a policeman a mile off—even in plain clothes."

"And now, Barry, shut your head. By the way, how are you getting along with Janet?" "I haven't moved her an inch." Jimmy laughed. He saw Barry stiffen, and hastened to grab his arm.

would take him. A sob rose in his throat. He flung himself into a chair and buried his face in his arms.

She was beside him—on her knees—her face working with emotion, her chin quivering.

"Brother, dear, what's come over you? Where's my light-hearted Jimmy?" Her voice broke. She stopped abruptly to wipe away her tears and regain her composure. It was Jimmy who was broken—who must be comforted.

"Jimmy," she said finally. "I believe this is all going to come out right in the end. It's only a question of waiting a little while. You don't see my side of it. My pride, Jimmy. If I change my course I have no pride left, and Jimmy, dear, if a woman brings no pride to her husband she brings nothing else."

He looked up. "Is it pride, or stubbornness? No, no—now wait." He closed her mouth with his finger. "Sis, I know now how Barry feels. There's a girl—Stubbornness—my stubbornness, although I called it pride at the time—seems to have lost her to me."

He rose to his feet. "Janet, we spoke a moment ago of tragedy. The greatest tragedy of all is to miss the happiness that is in your grasp."

Jimmy left the train the next morning in Cleveland in a slow but steady downpour of rain that drizzled down from low, laden clouds.

He hurried to police headquarters. O'Day was off duty, and Jimmy told the chief of the action that had been taken by the district attorney in Grafton.

"All right, when we get official confirmation, we'll prefer a minor charge against this Olga Maynard and release her on bail," said the chief.

"Bail? Where are we going to get bail? She hasn't any friends. I haven't any money."

curled. "Now, why did I do that?" he muttered. "Just like a little boy with a chip on his shoulder!"

The rain whipped along now on a rising wind, chilled him. His incessant tramping all day long had soaked him. He hurried ducking his head to meet the wind.

He was perhaps a block or two from his rooming house when again he stopped. Some sixth sense—some sixth sense—some watchdog in his mind—seemed to warn him of impending trouble. He looked back of him. There was nothing in sight. "I'm as nervous as an old woman!" he growled angrily.

Just in front of him was a street intersection the last corner to be turned on the way to his room. As he made the turn he paused to listen but only the howling of the rising gale could be heard.

He swore. "What's the matter with me?" He had that strange hot and cold sensation that men often experience when a crisis is to be met.

Again he listened straining his ears, and this time he heard a sound—a quite definite sound like a footstep—some distance down the street behind him. He stood quite still for a moment, then he pressed himself flat against the building and waited.

been supplied, prices eased off under liquidation local and southern selling. The census report showing domestic consumption of 283,192 bales for January, evidently disappointed the vent buyers, while there also was bearish comment on the falling off in exports and the cotton exchange statistics showing a decrease of 47,076 bales in the world's visible supply of American cotton for the week against at loss of 63,130 the previous week and 46,543 last year. March sold off from 20.35c to 20.25c and October from 18.34c to 18.25c, net declines of about 1 to 2 points. The market closed within a few points of the lowest. Widening of the difference between March and May to about 55 points helped to steady the market at the decline.

Private cables said profit taking and hedge selling had been absorbed by trade calling and continental buying in Liverpool, but that there was a poor spot demand, and less active demand for cloths from India. The amount of cotton on shipment at the end of the week was estimated at 147,000 bales, against 182,000 last year.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13 (AP).—The cotton market today wound up the week with limited trading and narrow price fluctuations. Starting with a small decline due to disappointing cables, the market declined a little further on the census bureau's consumption report which was rather smaller than expected. The increase in mill stocks at the end of January, helped the decline, which at the lowest showed prices 6 to 8 points under yesterday's close. A rally near the end late months which advanced October to a level 3 points above the previous close, cut down the earlier losses and the close showed net losses of 1 to 2 points.

At the start, prices were unchanged to 2 points down. Prices gradually eased off during the short two-hour session and at the lowest March traded down to 19.62c, May to 19.07c and October to 17.64c or 7 to 8 points under the previous close.

A moderate demand for new crop positions due to transferring from old crop months to the late positions, caused a moderate rally in the late trading which carried October up to 17.74, or 3 points above the previous close. The nearer months did not rally in sympathy, however, and remained relatively weaker than October.

Aside from the consumption report, there were no developments in the market calculated to increase prices except a somewhat easier tone in spots. Shorts for the day totaled 11,919 bales.

Sheep trading was

Stocks And Money

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP).—Stock prices displayed a complete reversal of form in today's market, bounding upward at the opening under the leadership of the coolers and high priced industrial specialties and then turning heavy under the weight of a large volume of profit taking on bear closing. Closing quotations disclosed considerable irregularity, with trading in unusually heavy volume for a session sandwiched in between two holidays. Total sales 1,187,000 shares were the largest of any Saturday session this year. Encouraged by a large quota of bullish news over the holiday, including the settlement of the anthracite controversy, the senate's passage of the tax reduction bill, announcement of higher gasoline prices in the East and increase of $6 to $7 in the annual dividend of General Motors, operators on the long side began to bid stocks in spirited fashion, when the market opened.

Heavy buying of the coolers in anticipation of early coal shipment was an early feature. Delaware and Hudson was quickly run up 5 1/2 points and early gains of two to nearly 4 1/2 points were recorded by Lackawanna, Reading, Lehigh Valley, Philadelphia Read Coal and Iron, and U. S. Distributing, but these gains were materially reduced in the late wave of selling. Jersey Central opened 15 points higher at 200, and then fell back to 201 on a few sales.

Extreme buoyancy again developed in some of the high priced industrial specialties. General Electric soared 16 1/2 points to a new peak, a net gain of 35 points in the week. American Can jumped 4 1/2 points to a new top at 329 1/2, but lost nearly half the day's gain soon realizing. Allied Chemical was lifted to a new maximum at 112 before sagging to 127 1/2 for a net loss of 2 1/2 points on the day. General Motors responded to announcement of the higher dividend by climbing over four points to 129 1/2 but settled back later to 126 1/2. Oil shares made no response to a future advance in gasoline prices.

The sensational collapse of Devoe and Reynolds, which broke 27 1/2 points to 60 1/2 bear selling presumably inspired by recent publication of the 1925 report showing a small margin earned over the $2.40 annual dividend, was the outstanding individual feature. Savage Arms, another target of bear traders, broke 11 1/2 points to $7. The late selling was accelerated by an announcement that the federal government had brought proceedings under the Clayton Act against the National Food Products Corporation. National Dairy Products, a block of whose stock was acquired by National Food Products, broke over seven points to 68 and then rallied to 65 1/2.

SHORT CROP SEES NEED OF JUTE IN LIFE

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—It remained for a short crop from the jute fields of Bengal, India, to impress upon commercial world the importance of that commodity to every-day life. A recent report that the jute crop of that district was considerably below normal increased prices at Calcutta nearly 50 percent.

The shortage will affect every home to a small extent. The sacs in which sugar are shipped are made of the better grades of burlap and then there are carpets, the foundation of which are formed from good grades of burlap and Hioleum in which burlap is used as a base.

Jute is used largely in the upholstery industry and, because of its strength and durability, in automobile tops.

Burlap has become a standard wrapper for many products that do not need the protection of wooden boxes. Beans from Australia and wheat from the Argentine are exported in that material. The American potato farmer also uses gunny-sacks.

The short crop of the jute in India resulted in increasing prices at Calcutta from $215 a ton for the first grade on September 1, to $310 by December 1. A month later it was down to $285 a ton.

The jute industry of India is somewhat similar to cotton production in the southern part of the United States. It is grown largely by small native farmers in the Bengal district, the only place which has produced large quantities of jute of good quality. There are under cultivation between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 acres.

Beware of Little Gentlemen, Warns London Scientist

LONDON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Beware of the boy of eight whose mother describes him as a perfect "little gentleman," is the warning sounded by Dr. Creighton-Miller.

The boy of eight who has soiled hands and refused to let his mother scrub him up and keep him immaculate is merely showing the independence which is necessary for the proper development of a man who will shoulder responsibilities and not shirk his life duties, Dr. Creighton-Miller said.

It is a good psychological sign when a boy cuts loose from his mother's apron-strings and insists on doing things for himself and doing them his own way, even if it is a pretty poor way, in the opinion of the specialist, who urges women not to regard carelessness in a youngster as a sin.

New Charges Are Brought Against Petting Parties

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13. (AP)—A new charge against "petting parties" has been brought by Dr. Allen J. Smith, professor of pathology at the University of Pennsylvania.

These occasions, he contends, probably are one of the important methods of spreading pyorrhea, particularly the type known as "trench mouth," introduced during the war and becoming an increasing cause of infection.

Dr. Smith's statements were based upon research conducted by his associate, Dr. M. T. Barrett, instructor in oral pathology, at the university. Dr. Barrett said that while before the war bacterial infection caused not more than 3 or 4 per cent of the pyorrhea infections, at present at least 25 per cent is due to the germ causing trench mouth.

A small percentage of pyorrhea also is caused by another type of bacteria, known as streptococcus vincenti, but the majority of it still is caused by a kind of amoeba, he said.

$1,500,000 WILL BE ASKED FOR WORK ON CAPITOL

(By The Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Feb. 12.—Because the Texas capitol has had practically no repair work done it since it was opened in 1886 the Board of Control expects to ask $1,500,000 of the 40th Legislature. This amount, it was estimated by R. B. Walthall, member of the board, is needed to revamp the interior of the capitol, repair the governor's mansion and the new Land Office building, which is showing wear.

As the exterior of the building is one of the best in the world, the legislators have appropriated paltry sums for the maintenance of the interior. Visitors to the capitol often remark of the contract of the new granite building's imposing appearance on the outside, and the dilapidated appearance on the inside.

Only $12,500 was appropriated by the 38th Legislature for support, supplies, janitor and guard service for the building, while a mere $11,000 was appropriated for water, light and heat, and the Texas capitol is the seventh largest building in the world.

New floors are needed badly, while the board of control hopes to have a marble walkway for the first floor. Two elevators in the building need to be replaced and three new ones may be asked for to accommodate the traffic.

Plastering in the building is cracking. Much of it is blotched. The heating plant is ancient and the power plant has been abandoned. The state now buys its light from a public utility company. In some offices timbers have been placed to prevent the plastering from falling on the state employees. The tile floor on the main floor has about worn away and one man is kept busy patching the tile.

In the Senate chamber buckets and wash tubs have to be placed at the numerous leaks when it rains. The auditorium in both the senate and house of representatives chambers is ragged.

Temporary offices for various departments ruin the beauty of the structure. The crowded condition could be done away with if sufficient appropriation was made to put the large basement rooms in a livable condition, Mr. Walthall said.

The governor's mansion is an old structure, and is almost untenable during cold weather. A hot fire in the furnace endangers the place, and the building is so constructed that it is almost impossible to heat.

WOMEN EQUAL MEN IN STUDY OF BANKING

DALLAS, Texas, Feb. 13. (AP)—Women are the equals of men in the study of banking principles, it has been learned by the American institute of banking, which meets here July 12-14. Of the 25,000 members of the institute, 8,900 are women.

According to Richard W. Hill, of New York, secretary of the organization, who completed advance arrangements here for the meeting, the women on the average are the equal of the men in the class work and even show more nimble minds in learning the theoretical principles. Several women are now bank presidents and many of them hold responsible positions in the business.

The American Institute of Banking is the educational department of the American Bankers' Association. It is organized into chapters of which there are 186 in the United States. These chapters conduct study classes in which various departments of banking are studied. The institute is in effect a school organized among bank employees for the benefit of those actually engaged in the business.

The prescribed institute study courses, said Mr. Hill, cover nearly every phase of bank work. First there is a preparatory course.

This is known as banking fundamentals and treats in a simple, general way of the more important aspects of banking practice, theory, and law graduation from this course make the student eligible for the standard courses, which include commercial law, negotiable instruments, standard economics and standard banking.

Successful completion of the course entitles the graduate to a certificate. There is also a post-graduate course, and a forum once a month at which bankers discuss problems of their business.

The institute has a quality which makes it unique, said Mr. Hill, in these days of agitation between the so-called forces of labor and capital, between the employer and the employee it stands out distinctively as an organization of employees whose doctrines are absolute harmony, loyalty and justice.

Negroes Brought Before Officials On Fight Charge

Letha Wilcox and Mary Lee Murray, two "deep" brunettes of the African colony of Lubbock were hauled before City authorities here Saturday to face a charge of fighting following a brawl engaged in by the two in the white residence section in south Lubbock.

Somewhat battered, but still unconquered as far as the other was concerned, the women each offered bitter words for mercy at the hands of the law, and were granted freedom of cash bonds posted by interested white people.

Finger nails and teeth were the only weapons in the possession of the batters, and each of them bore evidence of incursions made on the flesh of their faces and arms by these weapons.

LAYING OF WATER LINES IS NEAR COMPLETION

The work of laying water and sewer lines in the city of Lubbock under the program launched here last August is progressing nicely, and water lines are just about completed, according to Harry N. Roberts, Consulting Engineer of the city. The sewer lines, however, are going in much slower, with only about half of the contract yet finished.

More than the amount of water line called for under the original contract let August 7, 1925 has been laid, the report of Mr. Roberts shows, but an extension to the program authorized by the Commission yet leaves about 8,000 lin. feet to be laid. The amount of water pipe laid to Saturday night was approximately 57,200 lin. feet, or the equivalent of nearly eleven miles.

The original program called for 11,500 feet of ten inch pipe; 3,200 feet of eight inch; and 25,000 of six inch. The bulk of the pipe yet to be laid is of the smaller variety. The program connected on the larger part of the city from 2nd street to 23rd that was not already on the water line, the greater percentage of which laid between 14th and 23rd street.

The extension to the program includes several blocks of line that will serve the new ward school building in the north part of the city across the railroad, work on which is expected to get under way around the first of March.

Last Laugh Best Laugh; Wedding Is Marked Off Books

DALLAS, Feb. 12. (AP)—He who laughs last had the laugh yesterday on Albert Hedrick, who last week engineered a secret jail wedding with Lucille Wilson, his 14 year old niece, while the judge apparently was looking the other way.

The district not only annulled the wedding on the ground of fraud, but turned the erstwhile girl wife over to juvenile authorities. Her mother, who opposed the annulment, took her daughter away from the juvenile matron, Hedrick, 37, is held on a statutory charge and the state desires to use the girl as a complaining witness.

To make it illegal to testify against Hedrick, it was planned to have them merry, but the first court issued injunction forbidding the marriage. These, sooner or later, every man gets a chance to enter the cabinet through the bars.

SCHENCK SAYS HE RECOGNIZES HIS LIMITATIONS

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—The man who guides the screen destinies of such stars as Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Norma and Constance Talmadge, Charles Chaplin and Rudolph Valentino frankly admits he could not write their scenarios, design the stage settings or direct the pictures.

Joseph M. Schenck, executive head of the United Artists, is the man. In advancing to his position from an immigrant boy of thirteen, with a job paying four dollars a week, he early recognized that no man is greater than his own limitations.

"The world is filled with wrecks of men and women who tried to be something they weren't fitted to be," he said. "If they had concentrated on what they could do best and recruited others to fill the gaps in which they were deficient, they probably would have succeeded."

In addition to being a producer Schenck is president of a California bank and is interested in amusement and real estate enterprises. First of all he is Norma Talmadge's husband.

Among the other maxims he has followed are: "Be sure you are right—then go ahead," "Don't mistake appreciation for genius," and "Save for the day your money producing well runs dry."

"There never were so many opportunities in America as at the present time," he said. "But it's virtually impossible to amass money without possessing some to start with. That's why I advocate thrift."

Japanese Movies May Have Kissing New Rulings Says

TOKYO, Feb. 13. (AP)—Not so long ago the Japanese motion picture censors permitted a picture to be shown in which there was a kissing episode.

The censors, influenced by the public, have become more liberal. Now the here and hereabouts are permitted to clinch in the western fashion and a brief kiss is allowable. But it must be brief for the scene becomes too ardent the censors will start using their scissors.

Home office figures show that the "love motive" in moving pictures is gaining in popularity among the Japanese fans. A report discloses that last year more of the "heart interest" pictures were imported into Japan than ever before.

More than 60 per cent of the moving pictures used in Japan are imported from Europe and America, the remaining 40 per cent being of domestic production. Japanese films have to do mostly with the historical drama, depicting brave deeds of the ancient Samurai—which may explain the 40 per cent.

STATE SURVEYING 32 MILE LONG TUNNEL

SEATTLE, Feb. 13. (AP)—Survey of a proposed thirty-two mile automobile and railroad tunnel through the Cascade mountains has been undertaken by the state of Washington and a committee authorized by the last legislature will report next January on the feasibility of the plan.

The tunnel would be financed with national, state and railway money. The Simplon tunnel through the Alps, for trains only, now is the longest, with a length of 12 1/2 miles. The Moffat tunnel in Colorado being dug under the main range of the continental divide is 16 1/2 miles long. It will be used by both trains and automobiles and, also is designed for carrying water from the western to the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains.

General H. M. Chittenden, who died here in 1917 conceived the idea of the thirty-two mile Cascade project. He was the originator, too, of the idea for the ship canal which now links Lake Union, within Seattle, and Lake Washington, on the city's inland margin, with Puget Sound and the Pacific Ocean.

The Great Northern railway already is starting an eight mile tunnel through the Cascades to eliminate grade difficulties, cut operating costs and reduce operating time of trains between Chicago and Seattle, several hours.

New Radio Noise Remover Is Found

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13. (AP)—Another step forward in eliminating unwanted noise in radio receiving sets is reported by research workers in the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Harold Pender, dean of the Moore School of Electrical Engineering, said that in collaboration with Dr. J. H. Muller, assistant professor of chemistry, he had perfected a new non-inductive, high-resistance filament to take the place of impregnated paper used widely in a grid leak.

These filaments are mounted in glass tubes. A coating of metal a thousandth of an inch thick upon a glass core gives a grid leak of uniform resistance which does not vary with weather conditions, whereas the impregnated grid leak varies as much as 100 percent, throwing the receiving set out of perfect adjustment.

A well adjusted grid leak prevents the tubes from "spilling over" draining off the static charge gradually and without noise.

CULLUM BUILDING MONUMENT OF FAITH IN CITY

FORMER AUTO DEALER WILL OPEN UP ACCESSORY BUSINESS IN NEW BUILDING ERECTED TO FIT NEEDS

STRUCTURE OF SPANISH ARCHITECTURAL FINISH IS ONE OF MOST BEAUTIFUL IN CITY WHICH WITH STOCK REPRESENTS $56,000 INVESTMENT

Signifying his faith in the future of Lubbock, both along building lines and commercial operations, Dyke Cullum, former member of the firm of Cullum Bros., Studebaker dealers here, is now seeing the finishing touches put on a new business building on Ave. K, between Main and Broadway, in which, with a stock of goods he will place therein, he will have a total investment of approximately $56,000.

The building, a complete business establishment in every detail, is built along Spanish architectural lines, and is one of the prettiest business homes in the city. The structure is fifty feet square, but on account of its arrangement appears to be much larger. It is three stories in height, including a full basement that will be used by Mr. Cullum in the operation of an exclusive wholesale automotive accessory business.

Carries Spanish Architecture

The building is of steel and concrete construction in the skeleton work, with the outer walls of brick and tile. A hat-faced Acme brick, the same as those used on some of the buildings at the Texas Technological College, was used in the finishing walls. The structure is dotted with stone work that serves to bring out every impressively the Spanish architectural features that are outstanding, and recognized as one of the most beautiful methods of procedure in structural work. The stone was manufactured at the local plant of the Lubbock Art Stone Company, under the management of J. W.

Thompson.

The stone work includes ornamental plaquards, a belt course at the top of the first floor, stone window bases, spiral columns, and the column slab ornaments, all of which were designed and made by Mr. Thompson's firm.

The roof is of Spanish design green glazed clay tile made to order especially for the job in Chicago, and so intricate are workings on this particular phase of the building that measurements for the work were made by a roof expert.

The ground floor of the building is being divided into three compartments, two of which will be rentals. The south wing will be occupied by Owens Electric Company, and is being finished and equipped especially for this business. The walls will be of silver grey, the ceiling ivory, and wood-work will be in mahogany. Every facility for display of electrical fixtures and appliances are being installed in this wing of the building.

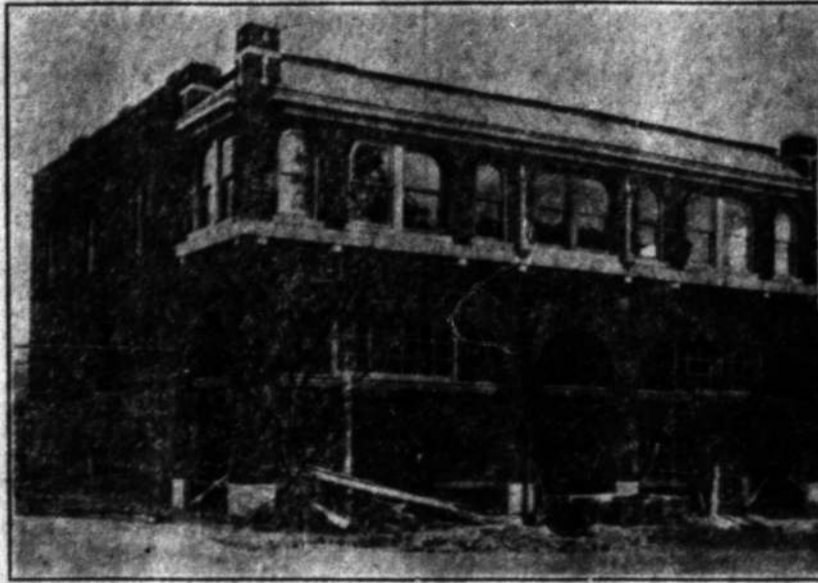

Cullum To Office in Center

The north wing will be finished in a similar manner to the South, and between the two will be a somewhat smaller portion that will be used by Mr. Cullum as an office in his wholesale accessory business. This will be finished in ivory and mahogany, and in the entrance door will be a tapestry glass transom with the name of the building sand blasted into the glass. On each side of the door and near the corners of the building on the second floor will be Spanish ornamental lamps that will be of the latest design obtainable. Just above the entrance door to this office on either side will be ornamental stone slabs that will again emphasize the Spanish architecture.

Hardware throughout the building is to be of hammered bronze of Spanish design, and is an exact duplicate of Spanish design hardware of the fourteenth century. This, according to Mr. Cullum, is the most expensive hardware obtainable, and to emphasize this statement, he said that the handle alone on the outside door cost more than $20.

The top floor, which will not be completed at present, is to be divided into four complete living apartments with every modern convenience. These probably will be finished some time this summer. Mr.

New Dyke Cullum Building

The new Dyke Cullum building, on Avenue K, between Main and Broadway, which will house Dyke Cullum's Auto Accessories company, one of the newest businesses in the city. The Dyke Cullum building is one of the prettiest on the South Plains.

Cullum said. The entire building will be steam heated.

Basement is Stockroom

The basement, which is full size of the building, has been retained by Mr. Cullum as his stock room for wholesale distribution of automotive accessories. And in addition to this, he will handle radio supplies.

He will be South Plains distributor for Timkin bearings that are recognized as leaders in the automobile industry, and to accomplish this, he has purchased the entire stock of bearings and the Timkin distributors' contract from the Plains Battery Bearing Company, which firm has been handling the stock here.

His stock of automotive accessories will be absolutely complete in every detail, Mr. Cullum said, and South Plains business men have learned that when he says he will do a certain thing they can depend on this thing to be done.

In addition to a general line of garage needs, such as bolts, pins, and cotter keys, his stock will include: Landis French Ray-O-Vac batteries, both dry cell and radio; CRA Radio tubes; Splittorf electric cable, including radio, household and automotive cables; a complete stock of Hoff tire chains, which is the first time this particular chain has ever been placed on the market in West Texas; Majestic bumper; Kant Steel radiator Caps; and the famous Red Devil line of automotive needs. He will also carry a complete line of genuine Ford parts, accessories and fixtures.

Stock is $30,000 Investment

The stock alone represents an investment of more than $30,000, and will be added to as occasion demands, according to the owner.

Mr. Cullum came here with his brother, William D., about four ago

OWENS TO MOVE ELECTRIC SHOP TO NEW BUILDING

TO OCCUPY SOUTH WING OF CULLUM BUILDING BEING COMPLETED

The Owens Electric Company, under management of Fred Owens, well known over the South Plains both as distributor of fixtures and appliances, and for the many difficult electrical wiring jobs that have been completed under his supervision, is now making plans to move his business in to the South wing of the Dyke Cullum building that is being finished here.

In his new location, Mr. Owens plans not only to increase his stock, but will widen his scope of activity in his new and larger quarters. Special built-in fixtures are being installed in the new building for his purpose and to his specifications, and he is planning the operation of one of the most modern and up-to-date fixture houses in West Texas.

The walls are being tinted in a silver gray shade which will conform as distributor on the South Plains for the Studebaker automobile, and by his straight forward manner of business dealings has established an enviable reputation in the commercial world of West Texas. Last year he sold out his interest in the Studebaker to his brother, since which time he has been completing plans to enter the business of which he is now the head.

He will be assisted in operation of the business by a competent corps of experienced men who know automobile parts and accessories. Much of his stock has not yet arrived, but he hopes to open the business for public inspection not later than March first.

admirably with the display of electrical fixtures, which he will stress. The ceiling will be finished in ivory and the woodwork in mahogany, the latter to stand out especially in finishing work on the balcony in the rear end of the shop which will be equipped for fixture display alone.

The balcony, which occupies the entire rear end of the building, will be curtained off with draperies that may be swung back to permit the fixture department to be exhibited to the main floor.

The show window will have a panel effect in the rear, and a flood light system is being arranged for this phase of display.

Mr. Owens has been in the electrical business here for nearly five years, and before entering business was in the employ of the city, where he gained much valuable information along practical lines. He has to his credit electrical work in many of the larger buildings not only in Lubbock, but in several other towns over this part of the state, including the west wing of the Lubbock Sanitarium that has just been completed, The Temple-Ellis building, the Plains Motor Company building, the Matador High School building, and is now at work on the court house at Brownfield.

Possibly one of the most delicate jobs handled by a local electrician was the lighting effect in the Woolworth building and Anderson Bros. Jewelry. So stringent were requirements and so intricate the problem of bringing out the desired effect that real skill was required in the installation work.

Work is progressing nicely on the new location for Mr. Owens, and he hopes to occupy the building by March 1st. One of the most complete lines of fixtures in West Texas will be carried, according to Mr. Owens, and he hopes in the near future to add a curio gift department to his already very popular business.

EXPANSION!

Congratulations Dyke Cullum

—In your new venture in Lubbock. May success and happiness be yours. It was our privilege to do the electrical work and furnish the appliances on this building.

We are proud of the fact that our business has grown to an extent that it becomes necessary for us to have to move into larger and more spacious quarters. It gives us a feeling of sincerity to the people of Lubbock when we realize that it has been their support patronage and good will that has made this expansion possible.

Pictured above is the new Dyke Cullum building. Our new home is to be on the ground floor, occupying the south half. Our entire stock will be enlarged. Everything in Electrical Fixtures, Appliances, Repairs, etc., will be found here.

In connection with this expansion of our business we wish to thank the people of Lubbock for their support in the past and promise to try to give them an even better service in the future.

PHIPPS PLANING MILL HERE MAKES RAPID STRIDES SINCE ESTABLISHED BY EXPERIENCED MEN LAST OCTOBER

The Phipps Planing Mill, a new industry for Lubbock in point of time but one that is fast gaining in popularity since its establishment here the latter part of last October, is an industry that is keeping pace with the building program under way here and in addition to the planing mill the firm maintains a general contracting department under which the Dyke Cullum building here was erected.

The business is owned and operated by J. A. Phipps, his son, J. A. Jr., and W. E. Yates, all of whom came here from Marlin, where they operated a similar business. The elder Phipps, who is manager of the mill operations, holds the distinction of having operated a mill at Marlin for forty years before coming to Lubbock, but admits that in the face of the building program here, he has no regrets whatever for moving, and is looking forward to an ever increasing volume of business in his line.

In fact, this increase already has been noted to such an extent that plans are now under way for enlargement of the building that now covers two lot is full depth with the consequent installation of additional.

Much Equipment Used
The equipment now in use includes all manner of machinery necessary for turning out any nature of job, and with such accuracy is the plant operated that patterns for stone work on at least two local buildings that were turned down by mills in Dallas, Fort Worth, and St. Louis were milled at the Phipps plant to exact specifications. The equipment includes a ten foot turning lathe on which all manner of column and pilaster work is turned out, a joiner and any number of saws for various purposes. Other equipment needed has been ordered and is now on the way here from the factory.

J. A. Phipps, Jr. has charge of the contracting department of the firm, and is assisted in this by Mr. Yates, who not only is an experienced contractor, but a mill worker of the first class. Mr. Yates started in mill work under the elder Phipps many years ago, and during his long experience has handled many exceptionally particular jobs that required skill and science.

May Discontinue Contracting
The firm is now debating the probability of dropping the contracting department and confining their efforts solely to the mill, for according to a statement of the younger Mr. Phipps, this department has grown to such capacity that such a move is almost necessary.

The milling firm specializes in service, and as an evidence of this fact, much work is done at night to meet the demands. Several instances of this nature were cited when heavy jobs were brought in by contractors that ordinarily would not be expected for two or three days, and these were delivered the day following filing of the order.

An addition to the building now being used is under contemplation by the firm, and they announced Saturday that it is very profitable this will have to be erected within a short time. The mill is located at the corner of fifth Street and Avenue O.

Posey Brothers Carry Cullum's Fire Insurance

The Lubbock Insurance Agency, the oldest and largest organization of its kind on the Plains, is carrying the insurance on the Dyke Cullum building where Dyke Cullum's Automotive Accessory company is housed, Eric Posey and E. B. (Pete) Posey, brothers, who have lived in Lubbock for years, are owners and managers of the company.

The Lubbock Insurance Agency was purchased by the Posey Brothers over a year ago from Joe Dick Slaughter, who is now engaged in the real estate business. The company was organized in 1906 and is the pioneer organization of its kind.

Fifteen of the largest and strongest fire and casualty insurance companies of the world are represented in Lubbock and Lubbock county by the agency, which also has one of the strongest bond connections in the world in the Fidelity and Deposit company of Baltimore. In addition to the general insurance business the agency also does general bonding, not only here and in this county but in the entire Plains section.

In addition to the Posey Brothers, Emmett Porter, Herbert Lowery and Miss Tubbs are active in the business.

ORNAMENTAL FEATURES OF TECH ADMINISTRATION BUILDING ARE INTERPRETED; EACH SIGNIFICANT

Most colleges have traditions and customs upon which they may rely but the Texas Technological College possesses neither of these, although it does have ambition and inspiration in no better way could these last two qualities be portrayed than in the selection of great men of the world represented in the busts and the plaques found on the front of the Administration Building.

To the casual observer, the inscriptions, shields, and busts have no special meaning; yet there is a decided meaning to everything placed on the building.

There is a main entrance to the building, over which are two inscriptions—one from Mirabeau B. Lamar, and the other from Solomon. On the right of the entrance are inscribed the words of Lamar:

"A cultivated mind is the guardian genius of democracy. It is the only dictator that freemen acknowledge—the only security that freemen desire."

On the left side of the entrance is the quotation from King Solomon: "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people."

This quotation is found also over the altar of the Chapel at the Annapolis Naval Academy. It is also a favorite of Dr. Horn, because he says that "righteousness is fundamental to national greatness."

Above these inscriptions are the great seals of the college. The seal has an eagle perched on top of it, and is itself divided into four equal parts: one part contains an open book, representing the book of knowledge; the second, a key, representing the key to knowledge; the third part contains a lamp, representing the light, or the illumination given by knowledge; the fourth sector represents the star, symbolizing Texas as the Lone Star State. Each of these four divisions is separated from the others by cotton bolls, as the major product of this great state.

Atop the building, centered over the entrance, there are two overlapping shields, symbols of unity—the shields of Texas and of the United States.

Clear across the entire front is a number of words, revealing the specific endeavors of the college: Agriculture, Science, Manufacturing, Democracy, Home-making, Art, and Literature are inscribed there, but the central one, representing the biggest and best thing that Tech strives for, is Democracy.

Under these, another group of words naming the four most important institutions of the world today—Home, State, Church, and School.

Immediately above the students, each time they pass under the arch, is another row of inscriptions, as the aims toward which the student is striving: Patriotism, Religion, Industry, Virtue, Wealth, Enlightenment and Citizenship—and all these center upon Virtue, as one of the really worthwhile attributes of man.

Toward the left of the entrance are busts of men great in American History, arranged from standpoint of time: Columbus, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Robert E. Lee and Woodrow Wilson are there. Toward the right, in similar arrangement, are men famous in Texas History—such men as Houston, Austin, Crockett, A. S. Johnson, and Hogg.

The buildings of Tech have all been constructed for a purpose, and have been built well. It is to be hoped that the spirit of the College may so influence the building up of human character of students who pass thru its halls and class-rooms that men may say: "Tech is a school worth-while."

Rear of Building
Just as the shields, seals, inscriptions and medallions with which the front of the administration building is magnificently decorated, speak out to one in review of the history of the new world from the time of its discovery by Columbus down to more recent years, as a standard upon which the great aims of the institution are based—just so do the ornaments and inscriptions at the rear of the building take one back to the ancient times and reflect the progress of learning through the ages by reference to the greatest characters associated with each step of development.

The architecture alone, which is featured by the center edge of broad archway, carries one back as far as the old Spanish monasteries with their arches and barrel-shaped ceilings of unfinished stone, which features are especially evident in the salle a'orte. However, this Spanish effect is not all crude, for the ornaments of mythical little figures which adorn the columns of the arches are likewise Spanish, and are hand-carved.

The names inscribed above the archways all have a significance. Beginning at the western end, there are Plato and Aristotle representing the founders and promoters of philosophy. Poetry and literature are represented by Homer and Shakespear. Medicine is represented by Hippocrates, the father of medical science. Paul represents divinity and Beethoven music. Immediately above the entrance to the salle a'orte from the rear of the building is the name of Michael Angelo, the sculptor, its appropriateness having been commented upon by a majority of visitors.

The art of teaching is depicted by Pestalozzi, Newton and Pasteur are representative of general sciences; Gladstone of state craft; Benjamin Franklin of common sense, all leading up to Edison the greatest of modern sciences, and Burbank in the field of agriculture. These inscriptions were suggested by Dr. Horn, who states that the military field was omitted purposely, due to the fact that students will not be encouraged along military lines, other than for physical culture.

As Dr. Horn looks into the future to the next building program of the Tech, which will probably come within the next two years, he visualizes the complete structure of the administration building which will then enclose an open court, the building on the south being of one-story structure, permitting a better prospect of the country and admitting the Panhandle breezes. The cloisters will be extended entirely around the inner dimensions of the finished building. A concrete floor probably twelve or fifteen feet in width will be built out from the cloisters, accommodating several thousand people at open air meetings. The center of the open court will be converted into a tower bed, watered with a magnificent fountain.

The other two corners of the finished building will terminate in towers 150 feet high which already stand above the unfinished structure.

TECH TO HAVE SUMMER SCHOOL

Following action of the Board of Directors of the college in deciding for a six-weeks summer school for Tech, a meeting of the summer school faculty was called by President Horn Thursday afternoon, in order that definite plans might be voted under way at once.

The summer school session will begin on June 14th, following the close of the regular session on June 12th. A committee, composed of Dean Gordon, J. W. Evans and Dr. Granbury, was appointed as a summer school committee.

The session of six weeks, under the present plan, will cover the required work of a three months session. Classes will be doubled, that is, classes meeting three times a week will meet six times. The only difference, practically, will be that not so much work may be taken by a student because of this doubling up of hours.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS INTEREST IS FOCUSED ON GERMAN AND ITALIAN TROUBLES IN TYROL'S TERRITORY

(By The Associated Press) GENEVA, Feb. 13. — Interest in league of nations circles was focused upon Germany yesterday.

In the midst of the Italo-German polemics over the Italianization of the South Tyrol, formerly Austrian territory, to the alleged detriment of German speaking section of the population, the Berlin government gave notice that tomorrow it will make formal application for league membership. Consul Aschmann informed the league's secretary-general, Sir Eric Drummond, that the application was sent from Germany by mail and that he would fill it upon its receipt.

Assembly Is Summoned
President Scialoja of the league council has summoned the council for 3 o'clock Friday afternoon when provisions will be made for the special league assembly at which will be elected to membership.

The assembly session will probably be set for March 10, thus permitting Germany to be represented at the latter part of the March session of the council, in which a seat is being prepared for her.

In view of the Italo-German situation, it is thought that Germany will take advantage of her position as a member of the council to make special drive concerning the treatment of minority populations, as in the South Tyrol.

African Colonies Talked
League circles believe the Berlin government will also make a second drive in the direction of restoration of one or more of the former German colonies in Africa.

These activities with the general move for reorganization of the council, are expected to open a lively era in league history, perhaps having for a change effects on the structure of the institution. That this development will increase the scope and responsibility of the league's activities is indicated by a communication received today from the Allied Council Ambassadors concerning the fixations of frontiers which is regarded here tantamount as a surrender of ambassadors' council's prerogative to the league.

Similarly it is believed that the inter-allied Board of military control will be merged into the league, thus with the exception of the reparation committee, bringing a liquidation of the Post-war organizations set up for the control of Germany.

Many Documents Shown
The communication from the ambassador's council contains a collection of maps and documents outlining the new European frontier fixed since the peace conference by plebiscites or special members. It calls attention to the fact that the descriptions of the frontiers appearing in the peace treaties no longer hold in some cases. The frontiers thus rectified included those between Austria and Italy, Austria and Hungary, Austria and Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Rumania, Hungary and Czechoslovakia, Poland and Germany, and Germany and Czechoslovakia.

Crisis Is Hinted
It is remarked here that if foreign minister Stresemann of Germany forces the South Tyrol dispute into the league as a matter endangering good understanding and peace, it may cause a grave conflict between Germany and Italy and a real crisis in the league.

The league itself is unable to take the initiative as in the case of minorities placed under protection of the league, because Italy has signed no minority treaty with Austria and a direct appeal under the covenant must come from some member state.

Mother Elephant Attacks Auto To Protect Young

13. (AP)—How a mother elephant rescued her baby, which had been frightened by a small automobile, picked up the machine and hurled it into a ravine, smashing it to bits, is related in a story arriving here from Telok Betong, South Sumatra.

A party driving before dawn along a primitive road through a forest was halted by a baby elephant, which apparently by the headlights, refused to budge. The driver rode up to the animal and gently tried to push it out of the way. The beast, however, firmly stood its ground but began to bellow piteously.

Presently a deep trumpeting was heard by the motorists and a huge cow elephant was seen smashing her way through the jungle. The occupants of the car jumped out and fled to safety. The mother elephant, after having felt her young with her trunk to see if it had been injured, in a rage seized the car with her trunk and hurled it into the ravine. Apparently satisfied the mother disappeared with her baby into the jungle.

AGED WIDOW BURN TO DEATH IN RAZED HOME

MESQUITE, Texas, Feb. 13. (AP)—Slowly burning to death, Mrs. W. P. Samuels, aged widow, alone in her blazing home, today made a futile effort to call aid by telephone. Her only chance failed. Her charred body, lying near the telephone was found in the damaged house.

Mrs. Samuels, aged 70, lived at New Hope, four miles north of here. It is believed her clothing ignited from a fire she attempted to start in a stove. She had tried to telephone for help but was unable to make the operator understand what had happened. Mrs. Howard Britton, telephone operator, however, realizing that something was wrong, notified the woman's neighbors, who found the house in flames. When they extinguished the fire they discovered the woman's body on a cot where she had fallen after trying to send her last message.

TRIBUTE IS PAID TO ABE LINCOLN

Emancipator Is Honored in Commemorative Speeches Throughout Nation

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—Tribute to Abe Lincoln as a world figure of history and the ideal of millions was paid throughout the nation Friday on the 117th anniversary of his birth.

Lincoln the emancipator, the president and statesman, was honored in commemorative speeches and services. Nor were these confined to the region which gave him, living, its support. Texas for the first time in its history closed its state house at the request of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, to observe his birthday as a holiday.

But it was Lincoln as "honest Abe"—the man, the citizen and neighbor that was portrayed in stories of his life and character, told and retold with undiminished enthusiasm, by those still living who had known him.

Illinois, which gave him to this nation, furnished many of these. The world at large might hear the reminiscences station WGN, Chicago arranged to gather all who had seen him, or had shaken his hand, before the microphone tonight in a Lincoln radio service.

In Springfield, his home since 1837, which he left 65 years ago to be inaugurated, his old home and his tomb were visited by reverent pilgrims; one of these was 1500 members of the De Molay, juvenile Masonic order, from Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Michigan, and Kentucky.

Texas Capital Closed
AUSTIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—For the first time in history, the Texas capitol observed the birthday of Abe Lincoln. Friday, it was at the request of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, that the departments suspended business in honor of the martyred president.

Proclamation Recalled
NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—As New York, in common with the rest of the nation, Friday paid homage to Abraham Lincoln, a little elderly man at the Hotel Ansonia recalled personal memories of the painstaking manner in which Lincoln wrote the emancipation proclamation.

He was Davis Homer Bates, manager of the War Department telegraph office in Washington where, in the summer of 1862, Lincoln came to hear the latest war news and to write the historic document.

Mr. Bates is the sole survivor of the group of operators who worked in that room.

Lincoln, he said last night, would drop into the office from the White House each morning and after exchanging letters with the operators, would ask for the "latest news" from Grant. Then he would seat himself at a desk, take out the uncompleted draft of the proclamation and begin work.

"He didn't write much at a time," said Mr. Bates. "But what he did write was thoughtfully done with no intermissions of sleep. That's the way the emancipation proclamation grew, a little at a time, with a new paragraph each day or two."

ART STONE WORKS IS NEW INDUSTRY FOR LUBBOCK

An industry that is new to Lubbock and the South Plains, but one that nevertheless is becoming recognized as almost indispensable to the great building program now under way throughout this section of the state is the Lubbock Art Stone Works, where stone used in many buildings that will stand as a monument to the progressive civilization of this age in West Texas is manufactured.

The business is owned and operated by J. W. Thompson, who has made a special study of stone manufacture, and by virtue of his long and extensive building experience knows the requirements of materials for this climate.

Mr. Thompson moved the plant here from Morton, county seat of Cochran county, where he made all stone used in the court house and school building there. The business was opened here about three months ago, and stone has been manufactured for many local business houses that have been erected recently, including the Dyke Cullum building on Avenue K between Main and Broadway, the residences of Dr. Patton and Herbert Stubbs.

Mr. Thompson was formally an employee of the Sampson Construction Company, which took over the Rice Construction Company following the death of Mr. Rice, and had supervision over the manufacture of stone used by the firm in all its work.

He uses his own formula, and the stone is made of the same material throughout. Instead of the interior part being made in the rough surfaced. Cement and crushed granite are used, and polishing is all that is needed to complete the job, according to Mr. Thompson. The plant is located at 1616 5th street.

ADMINISTRATION LEADERS FIGHT TODAY TO MAKE UP FOR ORGY OF TAX SLASHES STAGED LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Administration Republicans sought Thursday to counteract the tax slashing orgy indulged in Wed. night by the senate in adding $100,000,000 to its $352,000,000 tax reduction bill after voting to repeal the inheritance tax.

The sudden turning of 16 Republicans who first had voted against repeal of the inheritance tax and then joined an almost solid Democratic line up in wiping out the tax on automobiles, admissions and dues and prompted a quick recess as moved by Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, "in view of the storm."

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, hopeful that the storm had blown itself overnight, sought today to round up enough strength to undo some of the action of yesterday, especially in view of remaining provisions calling for more tax cuts.

The total reduction of $452,000,000 provided by the bill at the close of week yesterday is $125,000,000 over the figure provided by the house measure and the maximum set by Secretary Mellon.

Chairman Smoot told the senate its action in repealing the automobile passenger levy, involving a loss of $70,000,000 in revenue, "will ruin the bill," while Senator Coughens, Republican, Michigan, countered with the charge that it was "a damnable outrage if you take the taxes off dead millionaires and not relieve these burdensome levies."

He Loses Decision

He had fought the provision repealing the inheritance levy, which was approved by the senate, 49 to 26, with 18 Democrats and 31 Republicans, favoring it.

Elimination of the taxes voted yesterday may assure return of the inheritance tax to the bill when it reaches conference with representatives of the house, who's leaders already had served notice they would fight for its return to the bill.

Repeal of this levy, and the retroactive reduction in inheritance rates in effect since the increases were voted two years ago, would involve a loss of $20,000,000 this year, it was estimated.

A senate tomorrow on passage of the tax reduction bill was forecast today by Chairman Smoot of the finance committee.

The final roll call, planned for today, was postponed while administration republicans from the South recouped some of the revenue losses voted yesterday by the repeal of taxes on automobiles and trucks, admission and dues.

Chairman Smoot said a vote tomorrow would assure tax reduction by March 15, when income tax payments are due.

ARREST MEXICAN IN FOUR DEATHS

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 13. (AP)—Mexican officials at Ti Juana reported today that they had arrested Luis Amadore, a saloon keeper there, and closed his bar as one step toward clearing up the mystery of the death of all four members of the family of T. M. Petzet here last week, following an alleged attack on his two daughters in the Mexican resort town.

Handwriting Is Checked

Amadore's arrest followed the checking of Ti Juana authorities of his handwriting with the signature on a hotel register where Audrey Petzet, younger of the two girls, was said to have been found last Thursday. Further important developments are expected including an investigation of civil authorities charged with law enforcement.

Petzet, his wife and one daughter were found dead and another daughter at their home as the result of inhaling gas, apparently compelled to do by the father. The two girls had been drugged and kidnapped in Ti Juana and held there for some time. The second daughter, Miss Clyde Petzet, died early today.

Under Fire

The Senate is trying to decide whether to confirm President Coolidge's appointment of Wallace McCamant of Oregon to the U. S. circuit court. McCamant was a member of Oregon's delegation to the 1920 Republican convention, and in spite of the state vote for Senator Hiram Johnson refused to support Johnson at the convention.

O. C. Walker, cashier of the bank, accompanied Adams to Fort Worth. He stated that the bank was fully protected by surety bond.

Elliott, who stated that he had intended to make restitution, said he began by taking $50 and on other occasions had converted sums up to $500. He is unmarried.

ENDURANCE TEST OF OLDSMOBILE IS STARTLING

Plowing through a 12 hour blizzard and racing over a route largely of ice covered, rutted gravel, a stock Oldsmobile Coach raced for seven days and nights without a stop last week, rolling up a total mileage for the 168 hours of 5,950. This distance is believed to be a non-stop record for an automobile, particularly at the rate of speed which averaged better than 35 miles an hour for the entire week.

This is the second annual Battle Creek endurance run made by an Oldsmobile. Last year a professional driver broke both car and driver endurance records by driving an Oldsmobile 1,558 miles in 121 hours and 53 minutes. This year Lee Barnhart, of the Barnhart Motor Sales Co., Oldsmobile dealer in Battle Creek, determined to further the test of the Oldsmobile running it continuously at high speed for a week.

Mr. Barnhart and six other amateur drivers took turns in sending the Oldsmobile coach over a 78.3 mile course, of which 55 miles is poor gravel. The route consisted of a mass of sharp curves and was through three cities and two towns, at each of which stops were made each lap for registration. Each time the endurance racer passed through the cities a legal speed rate was maintained, thus necessitating road speeds of 55 and more miles an hour to maintain its high average.

Saturday night, the fifth day of the run, a blizzard raged for 12 hours. During this time the Oldsmobile plunged its way through snowdrifts and over roads other drivers considered blocked to traffic. The only mishap occurred during this storm when large snowbanks ahead of the car filled the radiator honeycomb openings, necessitating stops to stop the ice from the core. In the 24 hours including the storm period a total mileage of 873 miles was made. The best day's mileage was 977.7 miles.

From one to four passengers, besides the driver, were carried at all times so that the test was under constant observation. Careful check of gasoline and oil was kept, which showed an average mileage of 16.8 miles per gallon.

The result of this seven day test is most conclusive proof of the advancements made by the best automotive engineers in recent years. Less than a decade ago 5,950 miles would have been considered excessive driving during an entire year.

After the test the Oldsmobile was dismantled and proved to be in excellent condition, despite its grueling experience.

The Battle Creek run is the latest of several held during recent months in which Oldsmobile has demonstrated the remarkable endurance, stamina and power built into 1926 automobiles.

Not only in the United States but in the rest of the world also the Studebaker Big Six outsells every other car of equal or greater rated horsepower.

Edison Honored By Service At Lockney School

LOCKNEY, Texas, Feb. 13.—Believing that Thomas A. Edison should be honored for the services rendered to his country and the civilized world, the Lockney High School in conjunction with the chamber of commerce held a thirty minute program at the school Thursday, which was attended by more than six hundred persons. The junior class sponsored the program which consisted of talks on the life of Edison, and the service he has given his country. F. M. Kester, president of the Lockney school board said, "That he was glad that Lockney had taken the initiative in honoring Edison while he was living, and it was his desire to see a program of this kind followed down through the ages." W. D. Biggers, superintendent of schools had charge of the program, and paid a high tribute to Edison, calling him, "The master of men and a Patriot." The Chamber of Commerce, The Parent Teachers Association and the Federated Clubs will take the subject up with the state officials of all civic organizations of the country in an effort to have Edison's birthday celebrated by the schools of the entire universe while Edison is living. At the close of the program a telegram was sent to Edison at his home in New Jersey congratulating him on his eightieth birthday, and thanking him for the service that he has rendered to his country and the entire world.

STILLMANS SAY THE RECONCILIATION IS PERFECT

CHEROBOURG, France, Feb. 13. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stillman of New York departed from the steamer Olympic today "perfectly reconciled" as Mrs. Stillman put it. She said they were going to Paris for a three-week visit. (Advices from Marseille, are that Mrs. Anna U. Stillman Davidson arrived today India and took a train to Paris to meet her parents.)

"I have been a student of psycho-analysis for more than five years," she said, "but Mr. Stillman is not greatly interested. No, I'm not trying to convert him, but I hope he will become interested on his own accord."

She added that she would probably see Dr. Carl Jung, the famous Swiss psycho-analyst, should he be in Switzerland when they reach there. For the present she and her husband would remain in Paris, and then probably go to the Riviera.

RELIGION MAY BE CONTENTION

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 13. (AP)—Although there has been no official announcement, the newspaper here had received what is described authoritative information that the Attorney General is preparing to issue an order for the nationalization of all property of the Catholic church in Mexico.

It also is said he intends to punish all persons who hide church possessions, or who violate the Mexican constitution.

The reports are that several Spanish priests have been arrested in Mexico City and sent to Vera Cruz for deportation. There is no confirmation of this.

Attorney General Ortega said today that in investigating the Archbishop of Mexico City he is not attempting to persecute, but is only endeavoring to ascertain if he was violating the constitution.

DODGE BROS. CAR USED IN DESERT EXPEDITION

The Dodge Brothers car, which was the first to penetrate the Gobi Desert of Central Asia with the American Museum of Natural History expedition, has now added another bit of pioneering to its record by being the first automobile to enter the Kalahari desert in South Africa. The exploit is revealed in the following article from "The Cape Argus" of Cape Town, South Africa:

"Mr. C. H. Douglas, chief engineer of the Kalahari Expedition, returned to Pretoria to day (Oct. 21). The expedition, he said, penetrated the desert for a distance of 300 miles. West and south of Livingstone the country is very uniform, and the investigation very similar. All the roads follow the courses of the rivers until the tsetse fly area is reached where the roads become nothing more than ill-defined tracks.

"The tsetse fly was more prevalent in areas where game abounded and appeared to follow the game. Despite the association of sleeping sickness with the tsetse fly, that disease was not prevalent in the area traversed by the expedition.

"A number of native tribes were encountered, and they were all of a friendly and peaceable disposition. Every variety of game was encountered, including elephants, giraffes and zebras.

"The expedition had no difficulty with transport, and the large Dodge Brothers seraped car penetrated into regions where no mechanical transport had ever before been used. One of the achievements of this lorry was the traversing of a sand ridge.

"The expedition kept in touch with civilization by wireless, and they enjoyed concerts broadcast from the Johannesburg, Cape Town and Durban stations almost every evening."

Packard Dealer Claims Record In Amarillo Drive

G. D. Harrison, South Plains distributor for Packard automobile claims to have set a new speed record in West Texas when he piloted a regular stock model Packard machine from Amarillo to Lubbock in two hours and forty seven minutes. The distance is approximately 135 miles by the highway route.

The machine driven by Harrison is three years old, and has seen a great deal of road service, the driver stated but is still in first class mechanical condition throughout, as is customary with Packard products.

FOREIGN PRIESTS DEPORTED FROM MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 13. (AP)—Ten foreign priests have been deported from Mexico, eight more are held for expulsion, and the police are seeking others alleged to have violated the Mexican constitution, it was officially announced today.

The Department of the Interior has given 24 hours notice for the closure of several schools and asylums conducted under religious management.

The district court in continuing its investigation to determine whether Archbishop Mora del Rio and other church officials have given interviews or made statements contrary to the constitution.

The Archbishop has issued a statement saying that an interview with him recently printed here and which resulted in the government's investigation, was in reality a statement he made in San Antonio in 1917. He said the church has no intention of creating difficulties with the government.

It is thought the prelate's statement may stay further court action against him. Attorney General Otergo has stated that there is no intention to persecute the archbishop or Catholics but that he does intend to enforce the laws impartially.

The constitution says: "Ministers of religious creeds may not either in public or private meetings, or in acts of worship or religious professions, criticize the fundamental laws of the country, and particularly the authority of the government in general."

It is understood this clause forms the basis of the government's investigation into the archbishop's alleged interview.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Feb. 12. (AP)—Fourteen Spanish Catholic priests, expelled from Mexico for alleged violation of the constitution, were embarked on the steamer Espange here today. The priests protested their innocence of any offense.

SENATORS OPPOSING EACH OTHER IN WORLD COURT FIGHT TO COME TOGETHER AGAIN AT POLL BOXES

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Senators who oppose each other in the world court fight likely will come together again, this time in the fight at the ballot box.

Opponents of American adhesion to the court, in continuing their opposing in a plea to the public, will seek to prevent re-election of those who advocate joining the tribunal. This appears as the first development of an informal conference of the irrecusable last night, called by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, who was among leaders in the fight against the adherence resolution adopted by the senate.

Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, one of the court's foes, who would defeat its friends in the elections, will open the campaign in a radio address before the Knights of Columbus in Chicago on February 21. The fight against the court itself will be reopened by Senator Borah with a radio speech at a Chicago radio station to the Cooke County Republicans on George Washington's birthday.

The conference of Senators yesterday was described as offering an opportunity for a canvass of the situation and to bring out the views of individual senators as to their course of action. It was attended by all voted against adherence with the exception of Senators Watson, Republican, Indiana, and Dill, Democrat, Washington.

In addition to Senators Borah and Reed, those attending were Senators Blaise, Democrat, South Carolina, Shipstead, Farmer labor, Minnesota; Williams, Missouri; La Follette, Wisconsin; Brookhart, Iowa; Howell, Nebraska; Fernald, Maine; Moore, New Hampshire; Nye and Frasier, North Dakota; Schulz, Minnesota; Johnson, California; Harrett, Oklahoma; Robinson, Indiana; all Republicans.

TEXAS ROAD DISTRICT BONDS ARE OUTSTANDING LEGAL OBLIGATIONS ATTORNEY GENERAL MOODY DECIDES

AUSTIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—Texas road district bonds which have been issued and sold by road districts and the proceeds received and expended are legal outstanding obligations and the interest should be paid promptly and matured bonds should be taken care of as they mature, the attorney general ruled today.

The ruling was in a letter to T. M. Jordan, county attorney of Hardin County from C. A. Wheeler, Assistant Attorney General. Validity of the bonds was questioned since the United States Supreme court declared road No. 2 in Archer county unconstitutional.

Jordan was asked by the Hardin County treasurer whether he should pay bonds now due, and stated that he had advised the tax collector to continue to collect taxes due on road districts.

Advice Is Given

"You are advised that this department concurs in the opinion you have given to the county officials of your county with regard to the payments of interest due and matured bonds of road districts of the county," said the ruling.

"No road district in Texas was a party to the suit before the supreme court in the case known as the Archer County bond case, except road district Number 2, Archer County, and hence no other road district in Texas is directly affected by that opinion.

Bonds which have been issued and sold by road districts and the proceeds received and expended are legal outstanding obligations of the district and interest should be promptly paid as it falls due and matured bonds should be taken care of as they mature. In paying interest due and matured bonds of road districts the county treasurer will be doing just what the law of the state authorizes him to do and in so doing he will incur no personal liability."

The opinion affects between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000 in Texas road bonds and is basis of the motion for rehearing case before the United States Supreme Court of the Archer County bond which is to be filed in Washington not later than Saturday.

RURAL SECTION IS HANDICAPPED IN COIN BUYING

Special to the Journal.

AUSTIN, Feb. 13. —"How can we get a Stone Mountain half-dollar when there is no coin-selling organization in this little community?" This question has reached State Chairman Lon A. Smith so repeatedly, from persons in small towns and communities where there are no banks, and from men and women on farms who are anxious to do their patriotic bit for the Stone Mountain monument, that a special division is being set up in State Campaign headquarters to meet the need.

This branch of the coin drive is to serve only those sections where there are no local chairmen or committees, so that it will not encroach on the campaign of any unit, nor cut into the credit for attaining the quotas.

Chairman Smith has issued a statement that any person so situated as to be unable to get the Stone Mountain half-dollars locally, may secure the coins by writing direct to him at the Capitol, Austin.

"See your nearest bank, if possible," he advised. "If not, ask your postmaster whether anybody in your community is distributing the coins. Then, if you haven't located one, enclose a $1 bill and write me. The coin will be sent you direct from headquarters. There are more than 22,000 local communities in Texas. The efficient and enthusiastic campaign organization obviously cannot have chairmen in all these places. The coin drive remains open until March 1. We don't want anybody, because of not being in one of the unit centers where the coins are distributed, to miss the opportunity of possessing one of the unique Stone Mountain half-dollars and of serving the cause of the South by contributing 50 cents above the face value of the coin to completion of the monument."

"I also take the liberty of advising purchasers not to surrender the coins, even at the $1 price, because their rarity and their uniqueness in being the only such special coins ever minted, and issued in only limited numbers, will some day make these coins valuable in addition to, and apart from, their high patriotic value as tokens of devotion to the South."

DRY PARLEY URGES CO-OPERATION OF PUBLIC

BROWNSVILLE, Feb. 13. (AP)—Co-operation of citizens of Mexico and the United States with officials of both countries will be offered in testimony by speakers at the dry conference being held here. Prohibition enforcement officials and anti-saloon league workers are cooperating with the Women's Christian Temperance Union in the two day parley.

Officials are powerless to enforce the liquor laws or any other law without the support of the citizenship. Mrs. Ella Boole, national W. C. T. U. president, said at the session last night and she urged that parents of America instill the spirit of obedience to all law in their children.

"As the citizenship of the nation come to respect the laws of the land the work of the officers will become more efficient and eventually a race will be raised up without a knowledge of liquor and its effects," she said.

At the afternoon session, Major H. H. White, prohibition enforcement officer for Texas and Oklahoma, said he could enforce the laws now with the proper number and kind of officers, but in a round-table discussion he failed to reply to a query as to what number of officers would be needed.

A session that afternoon, at which temperance reform progress in Mexico will be discussed, will end the conference.

EYES OF OIL WORLD FIXED ON TEXAS CALLOWAY SAYS

AUSTIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—The eyes of the oil world are on Texas. Earl Calloway, chief clerk of the oil and gas division of the Texas Railroad Commission, said today. He predicted that 15,000 wells will be drilled in 1926 in Texas, and that 70 per cent should be producers, judging from 1925 records. He asserted that the period of high finance of speculation as well as boom periods are at an end in Texas oil development. Calloway said that "San Angelo would be the Tulsa in West Texas" in view of the immense production in Reagan County and of the University of Texas oil lands. Reports show that Reagan County exceeded others in recent months in production. He based his prediction of 15,000 wells for 1926 on the fact that 350 have been started since February 1, and that 74 new oil companies were formed in two days.

Calloway also said that shallow production is now bringing in a good price, ranging up to $1200 per acre on leases in some fields, and the "little fellow" has a chance in the oil game now because the "world wants oil production and the eyes of the oil world are on Texas because of the scarcity of oil."

REASON ASSIGNED FOR STRIKE VOTE BY EMPLOYES

CHICAGO, Feb. 13. (AP)—Representatives of the employees and management of the Texas and Pacific Railroad today told the railroad labor board about the dispute which led the organization to take a strike vote.

Spokesmen for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, contended that agreements were violated by the management in connection with the joint operation of a line between mile point 9 and Alexandria, La., by the Texas and Pacific and the Missouri Pacific. They objected to the pooling of the tonnage and displacement of Texas and Pacific crews.

The management represented that joint operation with the Missouri Pacific as a tenant road had begun in 1916 and had not been seriously protested until 1923.

The management also contended that whereas grand officers of the organizations now opposed to the operation of passenger trains by joint Missouri Pacific crews, other grand officers previously had conceded to the right of the Missouri Pacific to operate its own trains with its own crews on the joint tracks.

The employees representatives made it clear that they were present because the board had so ordered and not of their own initiative.

STUDENTS MAY ORGANIZE AT NEXT ASSEMBLY

NEXT CONVOCATION TO BE CONDUCTED BY STUDENTS

After having lain apparently dormant for some months, the issue of Student Council is again coming to the front, reports from the meeting of Club Presidents indicate.

At this meeting, Dr. Horn sanctioned the movement as taken by the Club, and he says that he is heartily in favor of the students organizing, if they are ready for it.

The next regular convocation, which is to be held at 11 a. m. March 2, students of the College will have charge, including the program of the hour.

At this time the subject of Student government will again be broached, but a definite step will not be taken until afterward. In order that these organization may not be haphazard construction, much care will be taken in selecting the persons who will be responsible for its interests. The President's Club, as sponsoring the movement, will recommend officers, and plans for the Council, and their recommendation will be carried by this paper at least a week in advance of time set for their selection, so that all students may have a voice in the proceedings.

WRESTLING MATCH AT MULE BARN MONDAY

The first wrestling match sponsored by the Tech will be held in the "Mule Barn" Monday evening, Feb. 15th, at eight o'clock. This match is for the benefit of the Athletic association, 60 per cent of gate receipts going to gym equipment, involving some very necessary items.

Contestants are R. D. Campbell, of the engineering department of Tech, and John Lambert, of Oklahoma City. Campbell weighs one hundred fifty-five pounds, while Lambert tips the balances at a hundred eight-five. Despite the difference in weights, the match promises to be a good one, and should Lambert fail to throw Campbell twice within one hour, he will forfeit the match.

Charges are to be 50c and 75c. Aside from the fact that the match is to be a good one, Tech loyalty to one of its members should help to swell the receipts of the gate, coupled with the fact that the 60 per cent of the entire sum goes to the Athletic fund.

Tech's spirit of loyalty has been cussed, discussed and otherwise talked up, but it has never yet been over-stressed. Basketball games have come and gone, and money has been paid for it. And the school athletics are better off. If you enjoy wrestling, come out—and Tech's gymnasium will be benefited by 60 cents out of every dollar taken in at the gates.

Talk it today and tomorrow—and be there!

This is the zero month for taxes and to many it is a very cold proposition.—Canton Repository.

2500 STUDENTS ARE EXPECTED BY TECH DIRECTORS

The board of directors for the college are not to be caught napping again. It seems, in the matter of preparations for students, if their actions outlined for the next year is an estimate of their work.

At a meeting of the board held in Fort Worth, some days ago, it was decided that preparations should be made within the next two years, for two thousand five hundred students.

This step taken is evidence of the faith Texas people have in this newest school of the States, and if enrollment during the coming year increases on the same scale it has since the opening of the school, their estimates of the number of students here will be quite correct.

In this great motor age it is as much as a pedestrian can do to jump from one year to another without being bumped off the map.—Wilmington Every Evening.

F. P. QUICKLY HELPS FORT WORTH WOMAN WHEN OPERATION FAILS

MRS INSL VARNELL

"I have suffered from pains in my sides for years," says Mrs. Insl Varnell, whose attractive home is at 211 Pecan St., Fort Worth. "Finally I had an operation, but even after doing all that I could do, the pain looked like it was just as bad as anything that touched me would nearly kill me. Suffering made me nervous and weak, and I had about given up hope of getting well, when I read about what St. Joseph's G. F. P. is doing for women, and got on the ninth bottle now I can hardly believe I am the same person. My side never hurts at all, I have gained in weight and have a hundred times more energy and ambition than I ever had before. So it gives me the greatest pleasure to recommend St. Joseph's G. F. P. to all girls and women who suffer from 'female trouble' because I know from my own experience what a really marvelous medicine it is."

How much better prepared we would be if we could only look into the future and see what it holds for us. This, of course, is impossible. The nearest we can come to it is to profit by the experience of others who have already been along the road we are to travel. Thus any woman can become convinced, by talking to others who are older in experience than she, how dangerous to her future health and happiness it is to allow herself to go on suffering from any of those peculiar diseases, such as headaches, backaches, pains in the back and sides, nervousness, nausea, irregularity, cramping, irritability, and that awful run-down, tired feeling of uneasiness and depression so common among girls and women today.

The reason these so-called "female troubles" invariably run on and continue to get worse as long as they are neglected, we now know is that fully ninety percent of them are caused by Catarrh of the Female Organs, a terrible disease which attacks the mucous lining of woman's most important organs, when they are weakened or run-down from over-exertion, colds or neglect, and continues to grow and spread through the inflammation it causes until the proper steps are taken to get it out of the system.

St. Joseph's G. F. P. is believed to be the first direct specific for the treatment of this terrible disease. Its marvelous power in overcoming and stamping out Catarrh even in cases where all other treatments have been tried and found failures, is the most convincing proof any one could ask of the power of this wonderful medicine.

So many women and girls in West Texas are finding out for themselves, by using St. Joseph's G. F. P., how quickly it relieves these distressing and embarrassing symptoms of Catarrh, and restores them to health and happiness, with vim, vigor and vitality that almost everywhere you go, you hear of some woman who was once thin and run-down, and is now marvelously restored to her former youthful buoyancy, advising all her friends and neighbors to give G. F. P. a chance to help them in the same quick, dependable way.

That is why G. F. P. is so tremendously popular throughout all Texas and why its sales have reached the enormous number of over a million and a half bottles a year, with the demand growing every day.

(For Personal Hygiene Use St. Joseph's Antiseptic Powder.)

For many years, while engaged as a critic in Chicago, Carl Van Vechten loved nothing better than to walk in unrequited byways picking up the art world's stray cards and shouting: "See, here is a full-blooded Persian that you have overlooked."

Thus he was holding up by the neck the modernist composer Stravinsky many years before the "jazz symphony" came into vogue. Today Stravinsky's "Le Printemps" is played by our most conservative symphonies, while Mrs. Van Vechten, now a writer of sophisticated fiction, turns his shovel in buried cities and digs up—who do you suppose? Ouida, Sallust and Shiel!

His new book of essays is aptly titled "Excursions." (Knopf) Since

International Sunday School Lesson

BY J. E. NUNN

For February 21, 1926
GENERAL TOPIC: Jesus Raises Lazarus From the Dead.
SCRIPTURE LESSON: John 11:32-44

32. Mary therefore, when she came where Jesus was, and saw him, fell down at his feet, saying unto him, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.

33. When Jesus therefore saw her weeping, and the Jews also weeping who came with her, he groaned in the spirit, and was troubled.

34. And said, Where have ye laid him? They say unto him, Lord, come and see.

35. Jesus wept.

36. The Jews therefore said, Behold how he loved him!

37. But some of them said, Could not this man, who opened the eyes of him that was blind, have caused that this man also should not die?

38. Jesus therefore said, saying in himself, cometh to the tomb. Now it was a cave, and a stone lay against it.

39. Jesus saith, Take ye away the stone. Martha, the sister of him that was dead, saith unto him, Lord, by this time the body decayeth, for he hath been dead four days.

40. Jesus saith unto her, said I not unto thee, that, if thou believedst, thou shouldst see the glory of God?

41. So she took away the stone. And Jesus lifted up his eyes, and said, Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me.

42. And I knew that thou hearest me always: but because of the multitude that standeth around me, I said it, that they may believe that thou didst send me.

43. And when he had thus spoken, he cried with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth.

44. He that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with grave-clothes; and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them, Loose him, and let him go.

GOLDEN TEXT—I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth on me, though he died yet shall he live.—John 11:25.

TIME—The death and resurrection of Lazarus occurred in February, A. D. 30, about two months before Christ's crucifixion.

PLACE—Bethany (Bethabara) in Perea, east of the Jordan.

INTRODUCTION
The raising of Lazarus from the dead is commonly regarded as the greatest of all Christ's miracles. The narrative bears on the face of it every evidence of its truthfulness, and to believe that some writer of the second century was skilful enough to compose this moving, simple, perfectly natural, and majestic account is to give credence to what would have been a literary miracle as great as Christ's raising of a man from the dead.

The Bethany Family
Bethany (meaning "the house of dates") was a little village nearly two miles east of Jerusalem, situated beyond the summit of the Mount of Olives on the southeast slope. It is now called El-'Azariyah, after the name of Lazarus in Arabic. The modern Bethany is "a miserably untidy and tumbled-down village."

In Bethany lived a family very dear to Jesus, consisting of two sisters, Mary and Martha, and their brother Lazarus. Martha seems to have been the oldest of the three, the active manager of the household, bustling and somewhat imperious.

several of the essays have been printed previously, book collectors have long since been warned that they should not be without Edgar Sautius. Van Vechten can be credited with the Sautius revival. Ouida, for some reason unknown to us, has

Mary was of a contemplative mind, and loved to sit at the Master's feet and drink in his words of loving wisdom. Lazarus seems to have been the youngest, a lovable young man whom some have lifted with the rich young ruler of Matt. 19:16; Mark 10:17; Luke 18:18.

The Sickness of Lazarus, vs. 1-6
Lazarus fell ill with a severe sickness, and his sisters sent a pathetic and trustful appeal to Jesus: "Lord, he whom thou lovest is sick." They doubtless expected that Jesus would come at once and heal his friend, or heal him by a thought from that distance. But Christ remained where he was for two days. He had his work to do, and he knew that the miracle he proposed to work would be far more effective as a proof of his divine power if it should be delayed. He always has a reason for postponed answers to our prayers, and we may well trust him to send all blessings in the best time.

The Heroic Journey, vs. 7-16
Finally, Christ announced his intention to return to Judea, and was at once met by the horrified opposition of his disciples. It seemed like walking into the jaws of death. But our Lord met their protests with the calm question, "Are there not twelve hours in the day?" It was still his working day, though the night was at hand. "Until God's clock struck 12, his life was immortal." This saying is "a call to confidence. Be not afraid to go hither or thither at the summons of duty. Thy day has its twelve hours."

Jesus and Martha, vs. 17-27
A messenger came and told Martha that Jesus had arrived and was waiting outside the town. The conversation that John summarizes is one of the most momentous recorded in the Bible. Martha expressed rather vaguely her faith that even as matters were, God would give Christ whatever boon he might ask; she did not dare to name her brother's restored life. But the Saviour at once told her, "Thy brother shall rise again." "I know; at the last day," said slow-minded Martha. Then came the majestic and marvelous declaration: "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth on me, though he die, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth on me shall never die."

Jesus and Mary, vs. 28-33
"Mary . . . fell down at his feet, saying unto him, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died." Martha had said the same thing when she met Jesus (verse 21), and doubtless the two sisters had been saying this over and over for the past four days. How often in the presence of some grief or calamity, we feel that Christ has deserted us; since if he had been with us he could not have permitted it. It should occur to us that the trouble may have been sent to us for our good.

"They were three special favorites upon whom very distinguished regard was set, and therefore it was that Christ sent them a special trial. The lapidary, if he takes up a stone and finds that it is not very precious, will not spend much care in cutting it; but when he gets a rare diamond of the first water, then he will be sure to cut, and cut, and cut again."—C. H. Spurgeon.

"Jesus Wept," vs. 34-35
This, the shortest verse in the Bible, is at the same time a verse that carries a world of comfort and of revelation. It pictures to us a Saviour who, though on his way to perform the most stupendous of all miracles, though absolutely confident of the outcome, though knowing that death is only a brief sleep out of which he can summon the sleeper with a word or a touch, yet weeps with the sorrows of those that have not his divine knowledge and his infinite power. In all our affliction he is afflicted, and here is never a mourner but may, if he will look, see the Saviour weeping by his side.

The Miracle Described, vs. 36-44
"How impressive is the narrative which this chapter contains: If the whole Fourth Gospel had been justly termed a prose poem upon the theme, 'The Word was made flesh,' as truly may this chapter be called a poem, a drama circling around the thought, 'I am the resurrection and the life.' With the exception of the last hours of Jesus himself, the Gospels do not present such episode so minutely described, so perfect in its climax, so thrilling in its every detail."

Lazarus in the Tomb, vs. 39
"Jesus saith, Take ye away the stone." Christ might have cleared the mouth of the cave with a word or a thought, but, as always, he called upon men to do what they could, and did not introduce his divine power till men had reached the point where they were helpless. "He hath been dead four days."

The Importance of Faith, vs. 40
The Jews had a belief that the spirit of the dead kept vigil by the tomb for three days, watching for a chance to come back into the body; but on the fourth day, when the disintegration of the body has fully set in, the spirit flies away. We owe to Martha's despair one of the powerful proofs of the reality of the miracle; the death of Lazarus was no mere trance, as infidels would have us believe.

How couldst see the glory of God? "The glory of God" was never more wonderfully shown than in the miracle which Christ was on the point of working. Verse 26, as well as this verse, shows how Christ valued the faith of those for whom he worked miracles; and this was shown abundantly also at other times when he did wonderful works, though he proved many times his power to work miracles unsustained by the belief of those around him.

The Purpose of the Miracle, vs. 42
"That they may believe that thou didst send me." This miracle was a "sign," as were all of Christ's miracles, and the principal purpose of it was all was not to relieve human misery, for they merely touched the outward fringe of that, but to teach men to believe in God's goodness and love as manifested in His Son.

SPECIAL LESSON
(1). "Christ turns the mind away from the thought of 'an everlasting future,' and sought to fix it on the thought of an eternal now."

(2). "The doctrine of the resurrection of man is absolutely unique; it is a pure doctrine of revelation. We cannot discover any evidence of it in nature, or prove it by any analogy that we can find out. We accept it in faith."

(3). "As Christ is 'the Resurrection' of the dead, so is 'the Life' of the living—absolute life, having life in himself, for so it has been given him of the Father (John 5:26)."

Newest Twists in the Mystery of the ~~Slaved~~ Murdered Romanoffs

How the Sensational and "Authentic" Account of the Royal Household's Execution Has Been Followed by the Alleged Identification of a Hospital Patient as the Princess Anastasia.

Left: The Dowager Empress Marie, Mother of Czar Nicholas, Who Has Assumed Charge of the Mysterious and Insane Frau von Tschalkovski, Said to Be Princess Anastasia, Youngest Daughter of the Czar.

A Sensation Has Been Caused in Leningrad by the Publication of What Purports to Be the First Authentic Account of Czar Nicholas' Execution. According to This Story Commandant Yurovski Shot Down the Czar and Murder of the Imperial Family Followed.

Witnesses Now Swear That a Patient Now Confined in a Berlin Sanitarium, Under the Name of Frau von Tschalkovski, Is in Reality, the Princess Anastasia.

LENNINGRAD. Frau von Tschalkovski, the beautiful mad woman who is now supported in a Berlin sanitarium by Dowager Empress Marie of Russia, no other than the Grand Duchess Anastasia, the Empress' own granddaughter, and only member of Czar Nicholas' immediate family to escape butchery by Bolshevik soldiers? Or does the detailed account of the massacre of the Czar's household which has just been published here by a prominent Soviet newspaper tell the entire story and prove the Empress' protegee a fake? This is the royal mystery that has just developed, puzzling kings, queens, statesmen and sundry others. On the one hand, part of Berlin's Russian refugee colony believes it has uncovered the romantic but true history of Frau von Tschalkovski and that she is no other than the late Czar's daughter. On the other hand it would seem too grim a jest, even for the bloody Bolshevik soldiers, to have left alive one member of the Czar's family but to have robbed her of her wits. And how else could she have escaped the carefully planned execution of the royal family which has at last been given to the world by a Soviet newspaper? The interest of the world became centered on Frau von Tschalkovski when the Danish Minister to Berlin, Herluf Fahle, ordered her removal from the public ward of the Catholic Marien Hospital to a private sanitarium and admitted that the Dowager Empress of Russia, who is now living in exile, with the Danish Royal family, had ordered the change. It also developed that practically all the surviving members of the Russian Royal House had become feverishly interested in this beautiful wreck of a woman whose deranged brain continually forces her to shrink and cover from an imagined firing squad while at the same time she babbles regal commands to ghostly attendants. Among the first facts that the Russian refugees discovered were that the woman carried the scars of many bullet wounds on her body, on her skull and on her stomach. A little later it was also learned that she had registered her name as Anastasia von Tschalkovski, born in St. Petersburg, June 3, 1901. The real Grand Duchess Anastasia was also born in St. Petersburg, on June 8, 1901.

Elaborate investigations were begun and are still in progress. Their results, lacking proof in many instances, and are sheer supposition at times, would yet seem to indicate that there is some connection between Frau von Tschalkovski and the Grand Duchess Anastasia whom the entire world thought dead. The way the Czar's daughter is supposed to have escaped is as follows: At the time of the secret murder of the Czar, Czarina, their children and attendants in the cellar of their prison at Ekaterinburg, the Czar's fourth child, Grand Duchess Anastasia, was not killed outright but fell severely wounded and unconscious among the bodies of her family. A burial detail, chosen from German and Polish prisoners for the sake of secrecy, was called in to remove the bodies and as they were carried out into the country, the frosty air stirred a little life in the Grand Duchess. A young Polish nobleman, von Tschalkovski, who was among the burial detail, noticed the feeble heart beats of the Grand Duchess Anastasia and, impressed by her child-like beauty, managed to roll his burden into the shrubbery as the other bodies were being pitched into a common pit. Later he returned to the gruesome spot, successfully revived the wounded girl, hid her in his cottage and nursed her back to health. A romantic flight followed which ended with the two safely across the Rumanian frontier and the marriage of the Grand Duchess Anastasia to her preserver.

An interlude then takes place in which the two are said to have lived in the utmost secrecy for fear of the long arm of the Bolshevik secret service and during this time the Grand Duchess bore her husband one child. Then in a daring attempt to return to Russia, von Tschalkovski was recaptured by the Bolsheviks and shot.

Following this second great tragedy in her life, Grand Duchess Anastasia, who is supposed never to have completely recovered from her wounds, suffered a terrible nervous and mental breakdown and finally as Frau von Tschalkovski she was admitted to the Catholic Marien Hospital in Berlin where she remained until removed to a private sanitarium at the expense of the Dowager Empress of Russia.

It was here that many members of the Imperial Russian family are said to have visited her secretly in an effort to identify her, and two old body servants of the Czar were also brought in who positively confirmed her resemblance to their former master's daughter.

The whole mystery seems to hang upon whether or the Czar's youngest daughter actually managed to escape death and burial with the rest of her family or not, and as a result, the account of the slaughter of the Czar's family, just given to the world by a Soviet newspaper here, which conducted an extensive investigation into the facts, seems of vital bearing on the case. The facts, as the Krasny Gazette states them, are that the royal family was quartered in the house of an engineer named Elpatava, upon their arrival in Ekaterinburg and were at first allowed comparative freedom, until a note written by the Czar and smuggled out in the cork of a milk bottle by a nun was discovered. The note read as follows: "Now is the time. Our rescue is approaching. The day has arrived for our friends to unite. The Czech-Slovakian army is on the way to Ekaterinburg. It is only a few versts from the city. It is the moment for action. It is necessary to do something immediately." Nicholas.

Moscow was immediately notified of the contents of the note and Russian history reached a climax when a special courier arrived with the answer, a decree ordering immediate death for the Czar and all his family. Commandant Yurovski, a former member of the royal army, made all the preparations for the execution and at midnight the Czar and his family were hustled out of the house and shot to death.

A little later that night the bodies were removed to the woods outside of the town, where Commissar Wykoff, who is now Soviet Ambassador to Warsaw, superintended their destruction. They were gathered into a pile and large quantities of sulphuric acid was emptied over them. When they had been eaten beyond all recognition they were saturated with kerosene and burned. Such is what Soviet officials now claim to have been the authentic end of Czar Nicholas and all his family. Yet a few of the Romanoffs managed to escape the butchery of the Bolsheviks, among them being the Czar's mother, Dowager Empress Marie of Russia.

The question now agitating European political and court circles is whether or not this aged Empress has discovered in the mysterious inmate of a Berlin hospital still another member of the Russian royal family, in fact her own granddaughter, who also managed to cheat death.

Or is it just another one of the myths that have grown up around nearly every royal execution in history?

ABILENE AS A "CITY OF BEAUTIFUL HOMES"

By Mrs. Harry Tom King

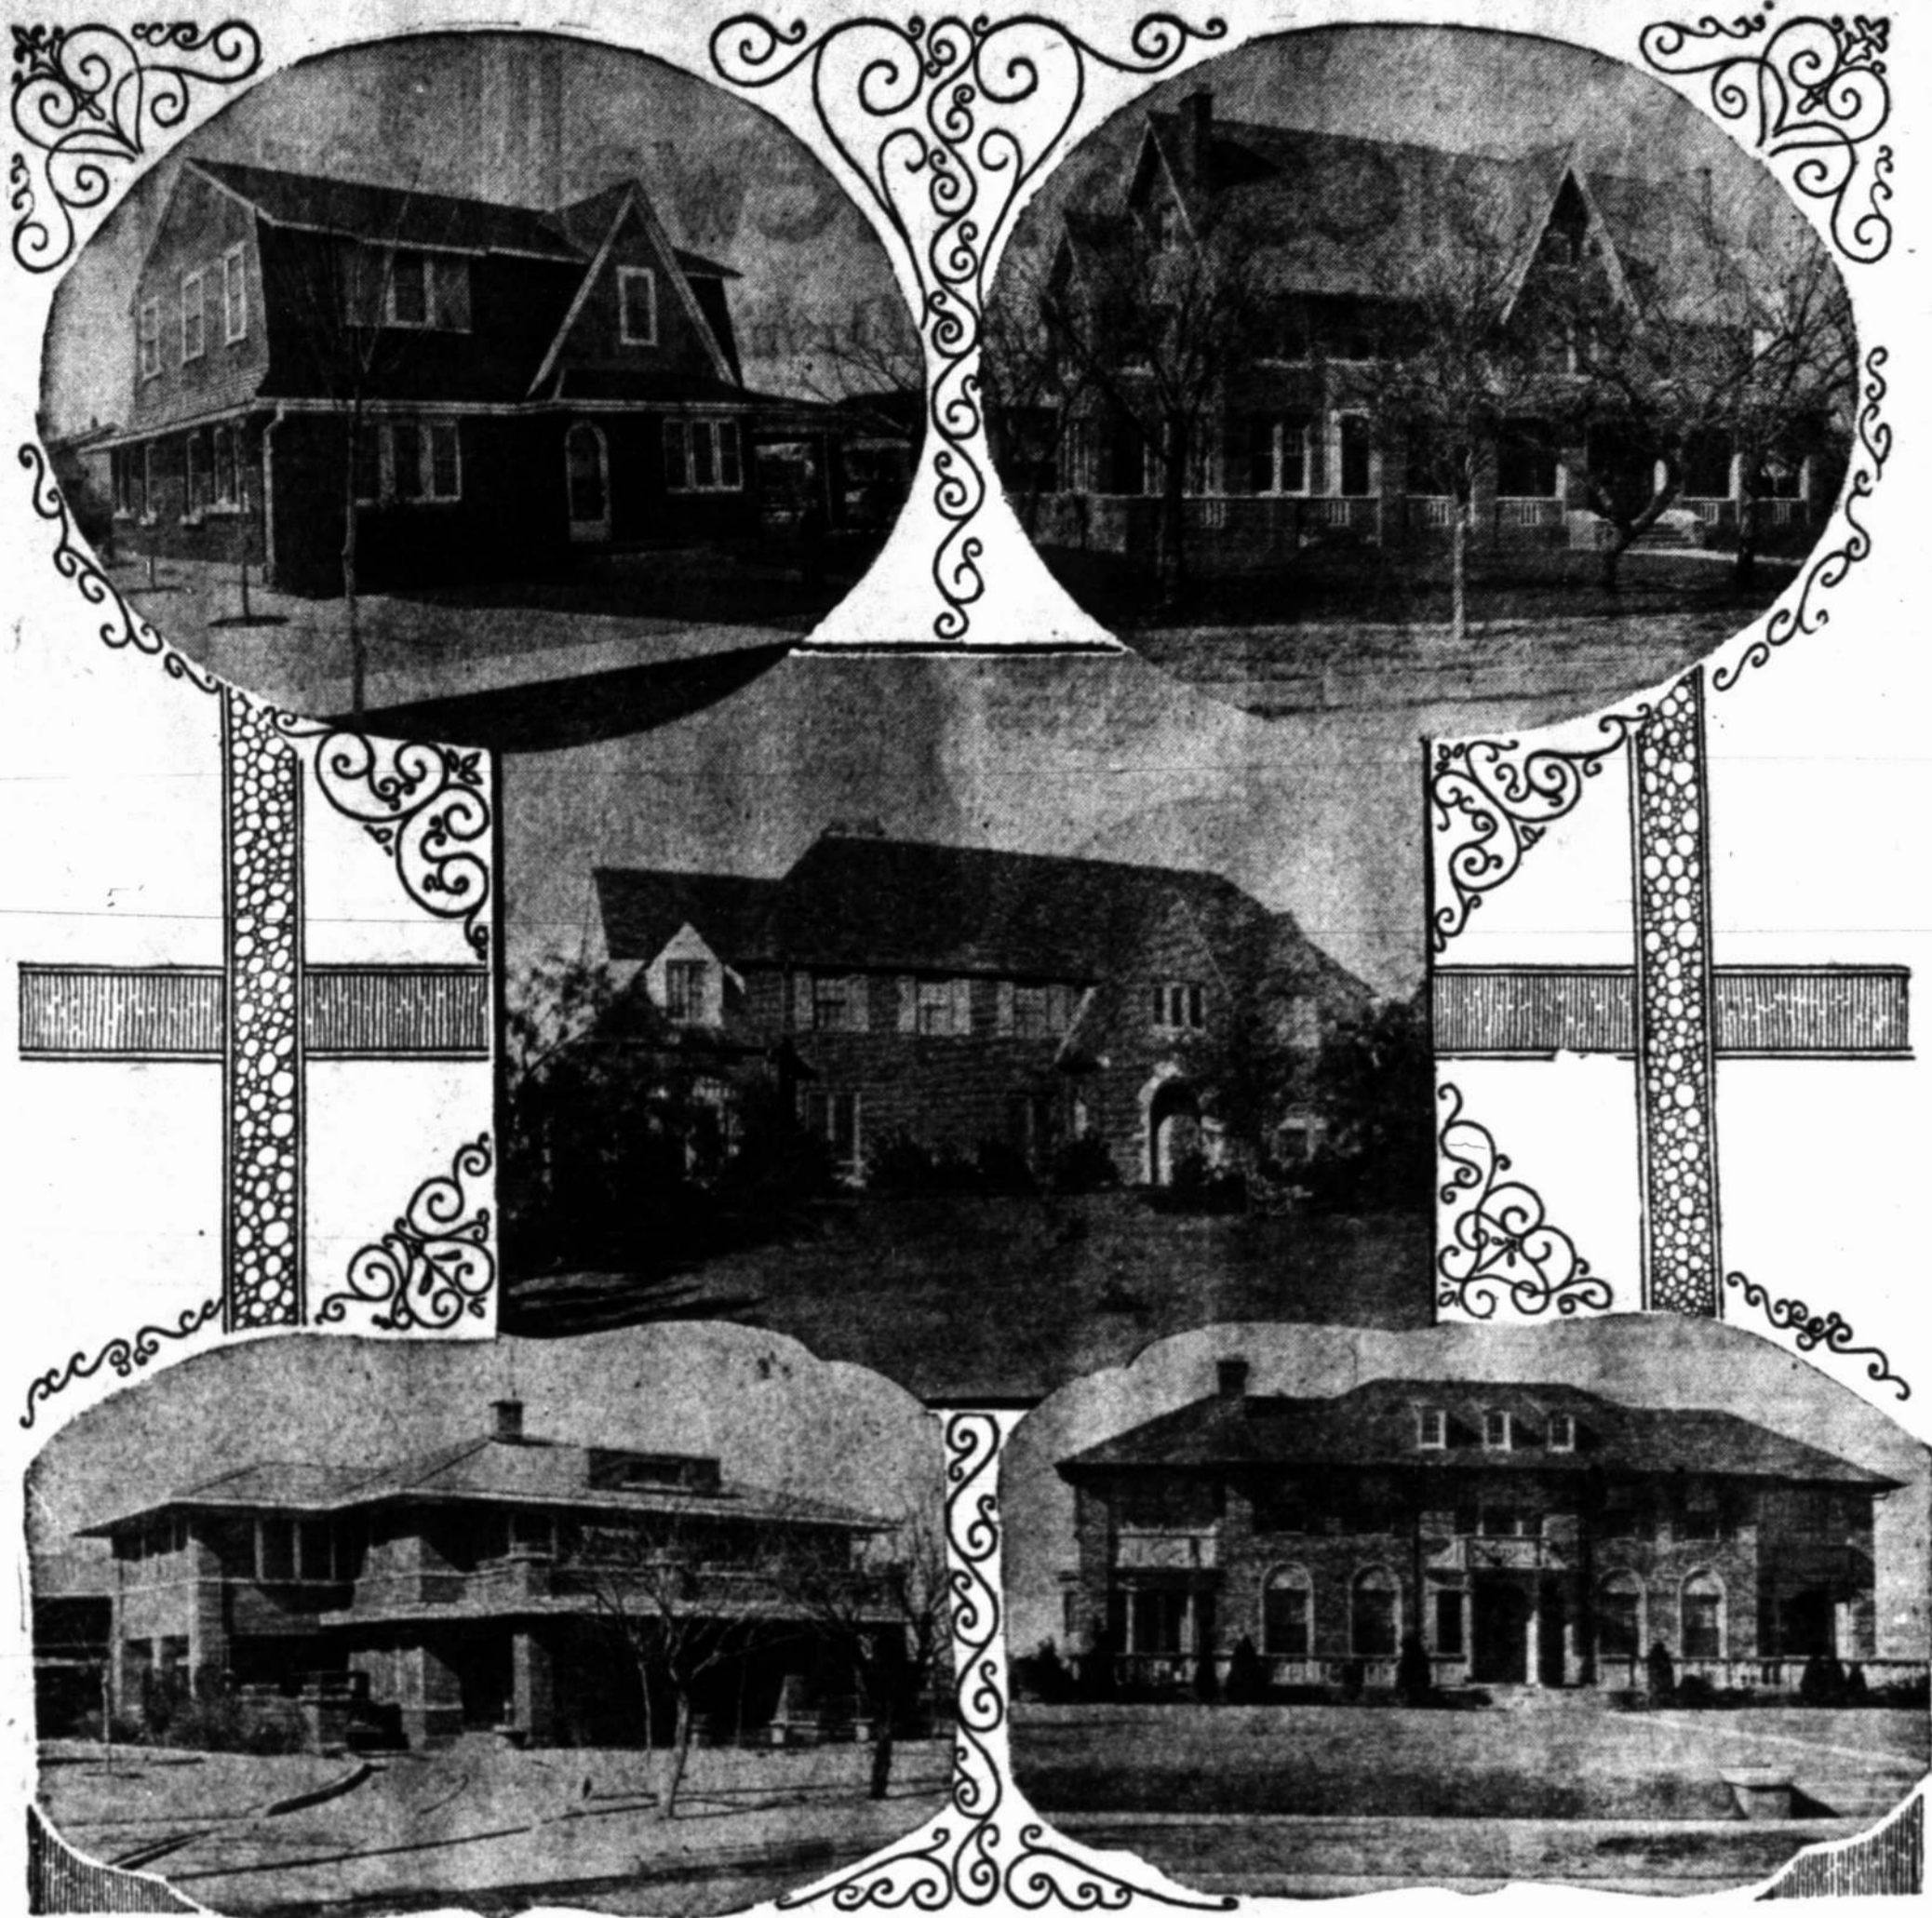

Some Examples of Abilene Finer Homes

Much has been said in the past of Abilene's schools, both parochial and public, churches and business buildings, but in enumerating her assets the fact should not be overlooked that Abilene is a city of beautiful homes. (Which is no small item in a city of our town a worthy class citizens). Not so many years back when the frontiersman of the plains decided to erect his home he hauled the location material for a required number of rooms. The house was begun without very much thought as to its comfort or appearance; the roof line was usually determined by the dimensions of material at hand. But quite different now as a drive through the city will show. You will see good examples of all types of architecture now being used in other parts of the United States, such as English Manor houses; English Cottage; Italian; Spanish and California Bungalow, and no doubt Abilene's several firms of efficient architects have in a large measure been responsible for bringing about a desire for a better style of building.

The L. S. Munger and Henry Sayles homes are both very good examples of the adopted English Manor house; the Ross Jennings, the English Cottage; the J. M. Wagstaff and L. K. Leggett the Georgian Colonial; the W. J. Fulwiler, the Italian; the Mattie M. Sayles, the Spanish; the J. M. Jay the California Bungalow—these are only isolated examples, for there are to be found many types of these styles in the residence section of this city.

The material in Abilene's beautiful homes incorporates most all the building material used in present day construction; brick; interlocking tile; stucco and wood. A short distance from the city limits is located a brick manufacturing plant, giving the builder a chance to choose at first hand the material of a particular class without incurring the additional expense of high freight rates; the Abilene Lumber yards can and will furnish anything in the building line desired.

The proper planting of lawns and gardens has not been overlooked in creating beauty in Abilene, from the simplest cottage to the most pretentious place. Many of these lawns and gardens have been planned by landscape artists and in style appropriate to the type of architecture. Beautiful evergreens and the formal trimmed hedges are to be seen surrounding an English or Georgian style house, while a Spanish patio is decorated with cast. yucca, mountain cedar and ornamental grasses. However the rose is the universal flower in Abilene. Every one has roses in the greatest quantity and rarest variety. But I must not forget I am telling about Abilene's beautiful homes and not her gardens, not only on the house and exterior has thought and money been expended in Abilene but we have many homes furnished with the most exclusive

At upper left, small English cottage home of Mrs. F. B. Olds. Upper right, Recently completed home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Minter. Center, English manor house, home of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Munger. blooming plants and ferns. Upon entering you are impressed by the appropriate decorations, furniture, bric-a-brac and hangings being in keeping with the size and style of the house. When you are invited from the living room to the guest room I am sure you will settle your hand box and bags for a longer stay than you would in less attractive place. The walls are hung in a rather indefinite pattern of gray paper in leaf design, crowned with a border of apple blossoms and rose pink rug. At the windows hang dotted swiss curtains with creton valances in black lattice covered with bunches of apple blossoms. Crocheted rug rugs in colors of rose gray and black are used in front of the open desk and vanity. The vanity bench has a cushion of rose pink taffeta. The furniture in this room is painted robin egg blue decorated in motifs of black baskets loosely filled with apple blossoms and many colored butterflies. The lamp shades in the room are orchid silk, while at the vanity a dainty colonial lady holds the light by which "my lady" prepares her toilet. The four post bed is spread with lace. There are several lovely designs in boudoir pillows, one the sautee face of a "flapper," hand painted and delicately outlined. The desk is equipped with dainty stationery and a feather pen in pink and gold. Over the desk hangs a narrow mirror on one side of which is a woodland scene, on the other an apple orchard in bloom.

I might go on indefinitely were it not for space in the description of Abilene's beautiful homes. As it is, I have been able to mention but a few. I might also mention many interesting objects of art gathered by home owners here in their travels. Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Caldwell have an interesting collection of such things. In pictures they have a number of paintings by Miss Hall of New York. Among them "The Gallant Knight"; the "Bird Love"; "Memories" and "Christ and the Woman at the Well." While in Italy they acquired several examples of sculpture in "The marble, "The Three Graces"; "The Dancing Girls" and the "Leaning Tower." Among a rare collection of laces they have a bed spread made in Belgium by a disabled soldier boy who was taught the art of lace making after the World War.

At the Dallas Scarborough home one sees the mellow glow of antique mahogany and maple; old Chelsea China and glass as well as the rich tones of the early American covered.

There are in the city many libraries consisting of a large number of volumes some old and rare but I shall be compelled to leave many other interesting things for another to describe.

It has been said, and wisely so, by those who have made a study of such things that the way to properly estimate any community is to determine the interest it takes first in its homes, second in its churches and then in its schools. If this be wisdom then Abilene is a place where the stranger can with safety "build his castle." The handsome brick home to the small well kept cottage bears witness of this, the spirit of friendliness and welcome with which Abilene people accord their new citizens.

furniture, pictures and the finest imported rugs and we have many other more simply furnished and yet very beautiful. It is not always necessary that furnishings be expensive to be attractive and in good taste.

In the shops here are to be found furnishings for all types of houses. All modern conveniences that can be supplied by any larger city are available here. Efficient electrical service; natural gas and ample water supply are accessible to all.

Rooms Described— It might be quite interesting for you to view with me an occasional room in some of these houses, already mentioned. We will begin at the L. S. Munger residence an English Manor house type mentioned above.

Oak floors and massive oak paneled floors are seen throughout. We find the gray walls finished with a delicate wrought iron arrow tipped picture mold; its comfortable fireplace almost tall enough to walk in, accommodating cord wood and equipped with iron fire back and massive and-iron. Above this fire place hangs a painting "The Wind-break" by Bolton. At either side stand electric torches in polychrome wrought iron. Near the grand piano, a very beautiful Chinese lacquer cabinet is used to hold music and records. The book cases are oval topped and recessed, the rug is Persian and almost covers the floor of this spacious room of eighteen by thirty feet and the soft tones of old blue rose and gold of this rug are reflected in the upholstery of the living suite, and in the blue velour and copper gauze at the windows.

By the side of luxurious overstuffed chairs are wrought iron polychrome tables with reading lights, comfortable needle point foot stools and floor cushions in harmonizing colors complete this most livable room.

The W. J. Fulwiler place of the Italian style, crowns the top of a prominent hill, from the terrace of which one has a commanding view of Abilene and surrounding country. The entire lower floor is paneled in black walnut from base to ceiling line. The general scheme of architecture and decoration follows the Italian style in the living rooms. In the dining room is seen the black walnut side walls; a soft gray ceiling exquisitely modeled in Staff work design; the central and bracket lights are a candle and crystal design. The oak floor is covered with a blue Chenille rug with a Persian covering the space at the double doors as you enter. The windows are hung with ivory gauze and hand blocked linen in Jacobian design.

These drapes are unlined allowing the light to pass through, bringing out the colors of blue of the Chenille, rose of the Persian rugs and brown of the sidewalls. The furniture is a very fine reproduction of the Jacobian style, on either end of the buffet set satsumma jars in teakwood containers; in the center a small silver vase; the serving table placed between the arched top windows holds a very handsome silver service, the door from the dining room to the service part of the house is of mirror panels, reflecting the dining room and adding to its spaciousness.

A Sun Room— The Henry James residence, a recently completed brick of English design sits well back from the street, over a winding stone walk you reach the front entrance, a strong arched door of English type with wrought iron strap hinges and latch. Above this door hangs a copy of an old lantern electrically equipped. A house to be truly English of course must not boast too many nor too large windows, however here the architect has most cleverly arranged a delightful sun room, yet holding a perfect English exterior. It is this engaging sun room to which I am inviting your attention. The dominant color tones are red and black following the new idea in interior decoration. The walls are hung in stippled paper, mostly ivory with a blending red and brown topped by a heavy cornice mold; the wood trim is brown mahogany, the floor is dark slate with an occasional red piece, laid in flagstone design. The ceiling light is a cream and brown glass cylinder held by a black iron frame from which is hung red silk tassels. A most comfortable suite of wicker furniture is seen in attractive groupings. It is painted black; the small pieces upholstered in red leather the larger ones in a many colored chintz design; the predominant colors of which are red, black and green. This chintz is also used as side drapes with theatrical gauze in brown at the windows. Many charming pillows of the predominating colors of comfort to the chase-lounge and long divan; boxes and hanging baskets of ferns give touch of the out doors. To further add to the brightness of this room brilliantly plumaged parrots are featured, being used as door stops; a light for a side table, and perched on the side of a majolica hanging basket. Across one group of windows a long black wicker table is placed which holds a few magazines and a large green flower bowl. Indeed one rather reluctantly turns to leave this cheerful place.

In a description of Abilene's beautiful homes it would be impossible to overlook the bungalow, since it seems quite as much at home here as in California. You can see almost every adaptation of it, from three rooms to ten, both plain and pretentious. On a street of bungalows we will stop at the Pool Robertson home. A little house of five rooms surrounded by a well clipped lawn. The porch, an open terrace made more attractive in summer by boxes of

"Purges" and "Physics" Bad for Old Folks

DR. W. E. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

While Dr. W. E. Caldwell, of Monmouth, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, knew that constipation was the cause of advancing age, he did not believe that a "course" or "cathartic" every little while was necessary.

To him, it seemed cruel that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "riled up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which he calls "regulate" the bowels of old folks. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but each dose helps to strengthen the bowel muscles, shortly establishing natural "regularity." It never grips, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

If past fifty, buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just use for yourself.

The Fatal Finish of the Beautiful Divorcee's Farewell Party

How Rich Mrs. Selby—Dashing Home to Her Children—Plunged to Her Tragic Death in the Bay.

The Wrecking Crew of the San Francisco Fire Department Recovering the Body of Mrs. Selby, Still at the Wheel of Her Sedan, From the Bottom of San Francisco Bay the Morning Following Her Wild Drive in the Rain. Walter Selby, Her Former Husband, Can Be Seen Second From Left in the Group of Onlookers.

Below: Walter, Dorothy May and Janet, the Three Beautiful Children of Mrs. Hazel Selby, Who Waited at the Rain-Washed Window Pane All Night for Their Mother's Return on the Fatal Christmas Night.

Mrs. Walter Selby, Divorced Wife of San Francisco's Millionaire Candy King.

IT was probably the most gorgeous birthday party ever held by any youngster in San Francisco. Dorothy May Selby was twelve years old, and brother Walter, three years younger, and little Janet, six, were helping her celebrate.

There was a marvelous birthday cake, all white icing, with twelve candles ready to be lighted. But Dorothy would not light them. "Mother is going out this evening," she said. "So we'll light the candles after it is dark and put the cake in the window. And she'll see them and know where home is."

And the young and beautiful Mrs. Hazel Selby thought it a splendid idea. After her divorce from Walter Selby, the millionaire candy king of California, a few months ago, she often visited the Bohemian resorts in the "Little Italy" of the Golden Gate City with gay parties. And she had just returned from a trip to Paris and London, bringing along some rare gems which she was eager to wear to this particular party. So after attending the birthday celebration she kissed the children and set out early in the evening in her motor to call for her escort, Captain J. A. McDonald of the United States Army, recently returned from duty with the American forces in the Orient and now stationed with the heavy coast defense guns at Fort McDowell on Angel Island.

They proceeded at once to "Cabiria," the liveliest of the Latin Quarter resorts. There they met a party of six men and another woman and Mrs. Selby became a scintillating figure in the merriment. She laughed and sang and danced and her jewels glittered. And the evening progressed and waxed convivial.

In the meantime Dorothy and Walter and Janet carried the birthday cake to the window of their home on fashionable Nob Hill. They lighted the candles when they thought the time for mother's return was nearing, and pressed their faces against the pane.

"I guess maybe it's a good thing we've got the lights for mother to see," said Dorothy. "Look how hard it's raining outside! And the fog—why it seems as if the bay came right up the hill to the front gate! I s'pose mother couldn't find the place at all if it wasn't for our lights!"

And they waited while the hours ran along. Their nurse came when it was their bedtime to take them upstairs to bed. But they said, "Oh mother'll come any minute and she'd be so disappointed if we weren't waiting for her!" So the maid left them and soon the household was deep in sleep—all excepting the children.

And the candles burned low and finally went out. But still they waited—two little girls and a little boy, with their faces against the window.

It was about seven o'clock in the evening that the "Lady of Nob Hill" as Mrs. Selby was known in San Francisco's Bohemia, stopped her motor before a fashionable hotel to call for Captain McDonald, who had left his army post on leave in the afternoon and was waiting for her in the lobby. Since the days of prohibition, Society frequents certain strange little resorts in San Francisco's Latin Quarter where the entertainment is bizarre and where English seldom is spoken. Accordingly Mrs. Selby, who was divorced only last June from the millionaire whose name is blazoned on the fronts of a hundred fashionable bon shops in many cities, drove directly to "Cabiria."

She drove through a terrific storm against rain that fell in sheets before a howling wind. And down the hill, beyond the road, the waters of the bay were lashed to fury.

It was bright and comfortable in the night club, however, where the party gathered. One of the men was the visiting mayor of a near-by city; another was a councilman from the same city and a third was a nationally known politician. But their names and the names of the other woman never had been made public.

Mrs. Selby, it is said, was the life of the party. She danced continuously and sang as the merriment rose high. And the glitter of her jewels drew all eyes. She was a brilliant figure which drew the attention and admiration of everyone in the restaurant.

It was nearing one o'clock in the morning when someone yawned and said, "Well, let's go somewhere else!"

It was only Mrs. Selby and the captain, however, who left "Cabiria" and went on to "The Blue Room," a similar but rather more fantastic place. They had been there only a short time when she said that she was sleepy.

"I'm so tired I can hardly keep my eyes open," she told McDonald. "I want to go home. I ought to be there, anyway. I want to see the children. I should have been there when they went to bed. I don't believe I care for parties any more. I shouldn't wonder if this would be my farewell party!"

"Oh, nonsense," replied the captain. "The children are all right! Why should you think of a 'farewell party?' You'll have many more!"

But Mrs. Selby was suddenly thoughtful—rather depressed. "No," she said. "I won't. This is my farewell party. I have a feeling—a premonition... This is my farewell party! Let's go now."

So they turned their backs upon the music and the lights and the shuffle of dancing feet, and she headed her motor into the storm. She insisted upon driving to the bay's edge where a launch waited to take McDonald to Angel Island. As he bid her good-night at the dock, clocks were striking two. He stood there, watching her car fade into the rain.

Mrs. Selby drove along the wide waterfront, known from early Spanish days as The Embarcadero, heading toward home. She bumped over broken pavements and railroad tracks, between warehouses and past docks. She drove nearly an hour in the blinding rain, and eventually realized that she was hopelessly confused.

Panic seized her. The district is infested with thugs and she was wearing a fortune in gems. She turned blindly into street after street, skidding on slippery pavements, narrowly avoiding one collision after another. She knew that her life was in danger because of her diamonds. But she did not dare to stop the car. With one hand on the wheel, she used the other to tear the jewels from her ears and thrust them into her bodice.

It was three o'clock when she turned a slippery corner and her car got out of control, momentarily. There was a crash and a jar. She had careened into a fire hydrant. Her fender was ripped off and her engine stalled. She managed to start it again, however, in spite of the storm, and once more took up the wild drive.

It was not long afterward that Mrs. Selby again presumably experienced the sensation of being in a floating car, and knew that she was skidding. It is believed that she struggled to pull the wheels about—to "right the skid"—but there was another crash, and a terrible din. She had run straight into a pile of gas tanks.

The car, by a miracle, did not overturn, and she backed from the railroad yard, into which she had floundered, and went zig-zagging away down the storm-drenched street. Then a brakeman employed by the Belt Line railroad, which circles the waterfront, was astonished to see the car dashing along in that out of the way place.

He stepped out full into the glare of her headlights, shouting and waving his arms. She probably thought he was a thug. At any rate she did not stop. Only her expert driving saved him from being run down for he realized her danger and stood his ground in spite of the onrush of the motor. She swerved sharply so her wheels went up over the sidewalk, and he heard her engine roaring as she stepped on the accelerator.

He stood by helplessly while she turned a corner. Apparently she thought that she was turning into another street. Instead she was rushing along a narrow roadway that runs beside a branch line of railroad tracks. The brakeman knew that they led directly to the water's edge, on a dock sloping sharply downward into a ferry slip for the railroad company's boats.

It was then, possibly, she jammed down the brakes. But the pavement was swimming and the grade steep, and they failed to hold. It was as if the mud and water had greased the road to send her more swiftly ahead. Long, black marks showed, the next day, where the wheels had slid.

The car hurtled over the dock and its momentum carried it out above the water. There was a great splash and churning as it sank.

And in the window on Nob Hill three little faces were turned steadily into the night and Dorothy said, "I wish mother would come!"

Mrs. Selby's mother, Mrs. M. E. Wolfing, member of a family of California pioneers, told the police the next day that her daughter was missing. Selby learned the news and, frantic for his children's sake, joined the search. At first it was thought the missing woman had been murdered and robbed, but police soon traced her movements of the night before and followed her car to the ferry slip. It was not until then that the brakeman told of what he had seen.

So it was that late in the afternoon, firemen and divers raised the broken and twisted motor from beneath the black, ugly water. Mrs. Selby still sat at the wheel with her gems in her bodice.

Selby lifted the body, with great tenderness, into an ambulance, and sat beside his dead wife as they dearly climbed the hill road that she had struggled so vainly to find the night before. And there his tears fell upon the faces of the three little children who had waited throughout the night for the return of their mother from what was to prove her farewell party!

WILL ROGERS: Rogers Into Ranching Again

By WILL ROGERS

Well, I hate to admit it, but Florida got me. I come here representing California's Realty Board. I come with an unbiased opinion. I said, "Well, if they got it in going to the 'em credit. Well, I saw everything they had, and would have remained loyal to California if it hadn't been just by chance for one little incident. We were to go fishing on one of Mr. Carl Fisher's Yachts. It took longer to decide which one than it did to make the trip. We were to be accompanied by a man that is known in all the world, Capt. Charley Thompson of Miami. He is known by every Yachtsman and Fisherman in the U. S. Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt by the way, has the greatest private collection of specimens of fish in the world. That's his hobby. He fishes in every known water. Charley has been with him on all of these trips. In two more weeks Mr. Vanderbilt comes by Miami in his big yacht and picks up Charley and they go for two months, away over on the Pacific side of Mexico, and get some new, strange variety. Personally, I don't know why he would ever leave Miami for strange fish. There is every known variety in the world coming in here every day.

Well, I didn't want to go on this trip. I never had fished, even in a creek, much less an Ocean. But my wife wanted to go, and you know how these women are. If you let them have their way you will get into bed with them in the end, and I did. She got sick. I got prettier sick.

"Was you ever 'Pretty near sick'?" Well, that is worse than being sick. You are sick you know how bad you feel, but if you feel like you are going to get sick you don't know how bad you are liable to get. It's that uncertainty that makes it bad. Well, I was just a-hovering like that all day. Now, to me an ocean is an ocean. There is no difference in any of it. But not so with Charley. He would look at a piece of water, tell the Captain to go over there and bait us hooks according to what the water looked like.

Charley is a kind of a Fish Dietitian. Charley says a human is the only thing that never knows what is liable to eat. Charley says certain days fish eat different things. Now, Monday, for instance, is Fish's Fish day instead of Friday.

He would look at another piece of water, bait his hook with something else, and go over there and accumulate some of that specie. In 1912 Charley caught the biggest Fish that has ever been known to be caught. It was a fish too; not a Whale. It weighed 40 thousand pounds, was 40 feet long. They had five harpoons in it, and shot over 200 shots into it. It towed an 18 foot boat for 23 hours. The Smithsonian Institute sent men there and got records of it. The Chamber of Commerce and the band met Charley down the bay when they towed it in.

They put it upon the beach, and after a few days Charley was asked to please remove it, or the town would have to move. Charley said he presented it to the City; it wasn't his. Nobody could get near enough to move it, even if they could have moved it. That's why Miami was so slow developing. If it hadn't been for Charley's big fish people would have come there years ago. He always accompanied President Harding on his fishing trips when Harding came to Florida. Also Cleveland and Roosevelt and Wilson. I told him if he landed Calvin to let me know I wanted to go on that trip. The reason I am telling you what this is not to try and show you what a good fellow Charley Thompson is. Everybody that ever spit on a piece of bait knows that. As long as he is a Vanderbilt he don't need me for an advance agent. But I want you to be better acquainted with my new partner in a brand new enterprise. It was through meeting with Charley and talking with him that I invested in Florida. It wasn't the Real Estate Agents that landed me. Mine was a bone fide proposition. I was raised on a Ranch, and I don't care who you are or what you do afterwards, you always have a longing to get back into the business you started in.

Now, I know you all want to know how our fishing trip turned out. We caught a lot of Fish, but there was only one that was lucky enough to get what Charley considered the right Fish. There was a kind of a Fish with bright scales on it in the shape of letters of the Alphabet, and if you caught one that spelled your name, why it was the right fish. If not, Charley would make us throw 'em back. He claimed no man should take a fish that wasn't his. He called 'em the Alphabet fish. Twice I caught three fish at once, or what was a part of three fish, all on the same hook. I first caught an Alphabet fish, and while bringing him in why a "Barracuda" jumped at him to eat him, but landed on the hook himself, and then a "Grouper" made a dive at the "Barracuda," and I got him whole, but only the other two's heads. I thought that was remarkable, but Charley said he had lots of times got a half a dozen different ones on the way in. It's awful hard to land the original fish you catch. There was all I could ever get, though.

know the day of the big Cattle business is fast passing. So when I run onto Charley, why an entirely new branch of the Cow business was thought up between us.

Charley has a little private Aquarium of his own, and in it he has some "Sea Cows." Now, after he has explained to me the habits and customs of these wonderful Animals, and taking into consideration the food value why we decided to start a "Sea Cow Ranch."

Charley knows where we can capture some of the Males, and we will open up in a modest way at first. But they are a very prolific breed, second only to the Guinea Pig and the Rabbit. Then, another thing. The big need of Florida now is fresh milk. Charley says when he had one cow over in Miami, before he moved over to the beach, that there used to be hundreds of Tourists come to his little place every day to see him milk the Sea Cow. It will beat this condensed milk they all drink down there all to pieces.

Then they are a really domestic animal. When he moved his Aquarium over across the bay to the beach, he drove this cow in front of the boat with a halter on her. She pulled the row boat and he would "Gee" or "Haw" when he wanted her to turn.

They feed on grass or sea weed. We can get that cheap and bale it and ship it around to our various Ranches. Charley says we will have to dehorn all of them, as they are bad to hook each other when they are confined on a home range. They are an awful hardy animal, and when they can't get grass they will eat most anything.

Charley had one one time named "Beatie." She was out in the bay and swallowed an old Fork barrel. When he was out there one day and saw her and called her, she came and looked awful bad. She had swallowed the barrel (which was empty) with the closed bottom side down in her stomach, and everything she would eat would go into the barrel, and she almost starved to death. But we can get by that by having no barrels thrown out unless they have both ends knocked out.

Our only trouble and big expense down there will be on that trip. The reason I am telling you what this is not to try and show you what a good fellow Charley Thompson is. Everybody that ever spit on a piece of bait knows that. As long as he is a Vanderbilt he don't need me for an advance agent. I was raised on a Ranch, and I don't care who you are or what you do afterwards, you always have a longing to get back into the business you started in.

New Kind of Ranch— I love the cattle business, but I the shore and start jumping. They jump away in the air, sometimes three or four feet, and just come right down on their stomachs. That is to break the Clams. Now, of course we will get them as they come up and before they start jumping, and get a chance to break the Clams. We will remove the Clams and that will save the expense of digging. We will incidentally get Clams that the ordinary Long Island Clam Digger never get. It is really just the imbecile clam that comes near enough ashore to allow itself to be caught by a "Clam Digger." So we will be able to advertise a superior grade of Clams. "Smart Clams for Smart People." So remember Thompson and Rogers, dealers in Ocean Dairy Products. Sea Cow Milk, served from contented Cows.

Now, I know you all want to know how our fishing trip turned out. We caught a lot of Fish, but there was only one that was lucky enough to get what Charley considered the right Fish. There was a kind of a Fish with bright scales on it in the shape of letters of the Alphabet, and if you caught one that spelled your name, why it was the right fish. If not, Charley would make us throw 'em back. He claimed no man should take a fish that wasn't his. He called 'em the Alphabet fish. Twice I caught three fish at once, or what was a part of three fish, all on the same hook. I first caught an Alphabet fish, and while bringing him in why a "Barracuda" jumped at him to eat him, but landed on the hook himself, and then a "Grouper" made a dive at the "Barracuda," and I got him whole, but only the other two's heads. I thought that was remarkable, but Charley said he had lots of times got a half a dozen different ones on the way in. It's awful hard to land the original fish you catch. There was all I could ever get, though.

It's Serious Business

Three stars of new Broadway attractions are (at left, above) Estelle Winwood, appearing in "A Weak Woman," a French farce which is naughty and, yet, quite nice; Eugene O'Neill, who returns from Europe after two years in an anything but silent drama called "The Love City," which is a sort of dramatized movie in which film captions frequently take the place of lines; below is Patricia Collinge, appearing in the revival of "Hedda Gabler," in which Emily Stevens plays Hedda.

By the Play Jury
NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—When the spirit of dramatic adventure, so sadly missing from the season's plays, finally reached the theater it had all of its relatives along.

Some shouted and sounded strains, some were masked and silent but altogether so much noise was made that the half-awake army of theatergoers was disturbed if not entirely awakened.

First was the new Eugene O'Neill play, "The Great God Brown"; next came Kappek's "The Makropoulis Secret," and, finally, the German Franz Werfel's symbolic drama, "The Goat Song."

Each is unorthodox drama. They are not plays built for three-year runs, nor is any of them likely to be taken on a "cos-country" tour. Much will be printed about them in the magazines devoted to the serious theater. They will be the subjects of club papers, rather than of general discussion. All three have weaknesses, but dramatic courage and revolt lends them strength.

"The Makropoulis Secret," produced by Charles Hopkins, tells what might happen were the "fountain of youth" ever found. The various his chief characters with masks, which they change during the action of the drama. Basically there is the struggle of the artistic and the pragmatic, shown in two characters whose rivalry in loves and careers constantly tangle. The most serious handicap to the play is the fact that characters must wear masks during most of the action, which, of course, cramps the individual actor's style.

"The Goat Song," splendidly staged by the Theater Guild, is perhaps the most involvedly symbolic of the season's products and, even though all of the symbols and allegories are not caught at a single visit, it is thrilling and highly theatrical.

Franz Werfel, the author, was a playwright and poet who came out of the war chaos in Germany. Goat-song is the Greek word for tragedy. You will recall that it is the goatlike head of the Dionysians which to this day is used in visualizing the tragic drama.

Werfel has laid his play in a Slavic peasant background. Superstitious folk hear tales of a half-man, half-animal. A rich land owner becomes father of such a monster, which escapes, strikes him with terror, and, captured by a young revolutionist, is set up for worship, bringing about a revolution, pillage, sacrifice and slaughter.

Of course there is such a "thing" in us all—call it what you will—and, when liberated and taken up by others, it leads to wars and revolts and terrors. It is a thing that leads mobs to uncivilized acts; that leads to war-time ravages and blood lust.

There is no more eerie and shivery evening to be found in New York than at this play—also, there is no beauty for the eye and mind.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—A young man who began with 25-cent music lessons because his parents couldn't afford to pay more holds the spotlight in the opera world just now.

W. Frank Harling is his name. Jot it down on your cuff for you will want to refer to it many times. It was his opera, "A Light From St. Agnes," given recently by the Chicago Opera Company at a matinee premiere, that created an overnight sensation. The sensation became a veritable stampede and Harling fled to his hotel to avoid the kissing and cheering crowds.

Harling has since come to New York after signing a contract with Arthur Hopkins, the producer, to write a typically American opera, "Deep River," the scene of which will be "de south befoh de war," which means that there will be a background of negro spirituals and levee synecopation—in brief a "jazz opera." The book has been written by Laurence Stallings of "What Price Glory" and "The Big Parade" fame.

The vogue of dark melodies is the most important event of the New York musical season. Concert halls are jammed at the many negro spiritual recitals; Paul Whiteman has presented a short opera of negro Harlem, "135th Street," with music by Gerahwin; two books of negro music, "Melodians" and "A Book of American Spirituals" are selling into many editions.

To return to Harling—he began his musical education when his mother discovered that he possessed unusual talent. Even 35 cents a lesson was a drain on the family budget at that time. When he was 13 he persuaded his parents to let him go to New York and enter Grace Church choir. Then there was a year in London at the Academy of Music, but he grew discouraged because of the financial outlook and, at 18, returned determined to go into business.

His parents were firm, however. And back he went to London to win a scholarship that put him under the direction of the Ysaye's. He had written a portion of an opera based on Hauptmann's "Sunken Bell" when the war broke out and the manuscript became lost in the melee.

Returning to America he wrote everything from Broadway ukelele songs to cabaret revues. He was working on a pantomime prologue when he met Mrs. Fliske, who told him the plot of "A Light From St. Agnes." He dropped everything to write music for the piece.

And now his struggles are at an end. He has become an outstanding musical figure. But he remains a champion of "tin pan alley." The center of jammed has done more for American music than all the "uplift" movements, he contends.

Broadway has seen an unusually quiet two weeks.

At a season when productions are generally rushed on by the score but two plays and a couple of musical comedies have been put on.

"Move On," a newspaper play, is likely to do just that—and shortly.

"Hello Lola" is Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen" put to music, and presented by the Messrs. Shubert. Edythe Baker is the "baby talk lady" and she can dance, play jazz on the piano and look strikingly pretty. Richard Keene is young Baxter and "Genesis" becomes a burnt cork part. Dancing and chorus work feature the production.

"Sweetheart Time," another Shubert Musical show based on the farce "Never Say Die," is about the dancing show in town. There are specialties and chorines and solo dancers and "never say die" is their middle names. It has much color, gaiety that more than overshadows the weak spots in the books. Mary Milburn is more than passingly cunning, and Eddie Zussell has the William Collier role.

If you're making a list of what to see in New York, jot this down as one of the "dances and girls" performances to take in.

We'll Soon Send Business Letters By Photo - Radio

NEW ORLEANS, La. Feb. 12.—In a short time, practically all correspondence carried on by business men will be handled by radio instead of by our postoffice system, says Geo. S. Davis, known as the big boss of the Tropical Radio Company, and vice president of the United Fruit Company. "The letter won't be mailed," says Davis. "It won't be telegraphed. It won't even be sent by radio as we send written messages today. "It will be placed on a screen in a reproducing and sending apparatus and one minute later that letter, complete with every dot of 'i' and crossing of 't' and signature, will be delivered thousands of miles away. "Drawings, documents and photographs will be sent this way around the world in an international system of communication swifter and more complete than the general public dreams possible.

"Radio transmission of X-Ray photographs," Davis predicts, "will be a matter of daily routine within the next two years. Simplified X-Ray outfits that can be used almost as easily as one uses a camera, will be a part of the equipment of hundreds of steamships.

"Injured mariners, hurt in accidents aboard ship, can have their injuries X-rayed on board, and the X-Ray picture sent by wireless instantly to any Tropical Radio wireless station, where it will be placed before consulting specialists.

Tests Made To Improve Broadcasts

BY ISRAEL KLEIN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—A small group of workers in a long, low building here is the body on which fans of America depend for improved radio reception in the future.

This group forms the radio laboratory staff of the U. S. Bureau of Standards. It is working with testing and measuring instruments to learn causes of interference, to keep a close check on the frequencies or wavelengths of broadcasting stations and to do many other things that

The long building, shown in the upper view, is where U. S. Radio experts are studying the vagaries of radio transmission with intent to improve the science. At left is Dr. J. H. are ultimately designed to bring greater joy and contentment to the radio fan.

At the head of the laboratory is Dr. J. H. Dellinger, president of the Institute of Radio Engineers in 1925, and a physicist in the Bureau of Standards since 1907. He is one of the few recognized authorities on radio in the United States.

Working with him are men and women, each of whom has accomplished some definite improvement in the radio field. E. Z. Stowell, for instance, has been working on the measurement of radio field intensities, a problem of great importance in the control of power of radio stations.

Woman Checks Stations—On the work of Miss Grace Hazen are based the fundamental frequency standards of the bureau and of the country. And there are others. In fact the studies of Uncle Sam's radio staff would read like a list of all the problems confronting radio today—static, interferences of stations, wavelength or frequency control and standardization, fading, directional transmission and reception, high and low frequency transmission, daylight and night effects, and any other related subject that might come up for study.

In addition, the staff at times is called on to test apparatus and to help formulate standards for the ra-ing are three types of aerials for transmission on short, intermediate and long wavelengths, and additional antennas are put up at times for radio reception.

All Brands Are Tested—Inside are various forms of loops and apparatus by which the staff may be able to keep track of the signals that speed through the ether, from the lowest experimental wavelengths to the highest bands of ship stations and government departments.

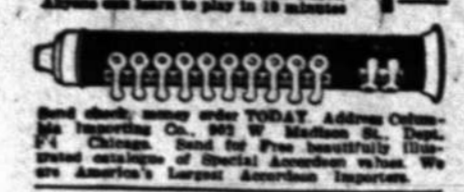

One instrument developed at the laboratory is a small 10-meter transmitter used for testing short waves. Another is a directional loop for the study of directional transmission, and still another is the valuable device perfected by Miss Hazen by which the frequencies of broadcasting stations are checked up and standardized.

All of the work of this laboratory is directed for the improvement of radio—for the attainment of conditions more enjoyable and beneficial to reception than those existing today.

SALOME SUN

MADE WITH A LAUGH LIKE A PHONOGRAPH. DICK WICK HALL, EDITOR. PICTURES BY "PUT". SALOME, YUMARESCUI COUNTY, ARIZONA.

This is a picture of when the Frog was Young Yet, before he had found out what he was and thought he was a Chicken. He used to think that Every Thing was Chickens, just because he was Hatched by a Hen, but he learned better as he got Older. Some Folks is a good deal that way too—looking at every thing from their Point of View and not realizing that the Other Fellow may have Ideas of His Own—but if they had run Up Against a few Tarantulas

Etc. when they was Young, like the Frog did, they would have More Respect for the Other Fellow. That is one reason Our Frog is so Smart—because he always wanted to Know and was Anxious to Learn. Bites and Bumps are hard on the Constitution but they are great Brain Developers—and the Frog never got Bit more than Once in the same Place by the Same Thing—and I have heard of Folks who have been Buying Oil Stock All Their Lives and never get enough Grease to Oil their Watch.

For the benefit of readers whose Education has been Limited or neglected, the Hairy Looking Critter in the picture is a Tarantula, which Looks and Acts like Certain Death, but he ain't. One Bite of a Tarantula is Annoying to anybody, two Bites is Extremely Irritating, in which ever Extremity he Bites you on, and it is said that Three Bites will Kill you—but anybody that will wait around for a Tarantula to Bite the Three Times had ought to be Dead. Probabilities are that Anybody that Foolish would get Killed some other way long before they ever saw Tarantula. The Tarantula is the Discoverer of the 1st Principle of Aviation. He learned How to make lots of things Fly long before Wright Bros. were ever heard of and a few good Tarantulas would soon settle a lot of this Government Aviation Trouble, or make some of the Chair Warmers Take the Air.

SOCIETY SCANDAL

There ain't much use in our Printing it, because Everybody in Town knows All About it already. What chance does a Newspaper have of being First with Fresh News of the Ladies Aid Society, now that it has got Three Members? We have been sending Archie Bald Doveface down to the meeting every week to get the News so as we can Print it, but it has got so that just the Minute the Meeting is over, all Three of them Start in Different Directions—and by the time Archie Bald gets back to the Salome Sun Office, everybody in Town knows every thing that has happened. What Happened at the Last Meeting day before Yesterday was something like This, before it adjourned in Disorder. One of the Women likes to Sew and another one likes to Sing and Mrs. Scroggins, the New Member, she likes to Read Pieces—and as near as we can figure out from what Archie Bald tells us, there is going to be Three Societies from Now On—the Sewing Society, the Singing Sisterhood and the Literary Class, each of which will have Two Members. Mrs. Madden and Mrs. Hansen are going to be the Sewing Society, Mrs. Hansen and Mrs. Scroggins the Singing Sisterhood and Mrs. Scroggins and Mrs. Madden the Literary Class—and all Three of them are going to keep on Having the Ladies Aid Society so they can keep Track of what they are doing. I don't print this as News, but just so they won't Stop their Paper if I don't. I'll bet these Married Men will be getting their Oys Supper—and an Ear Full.

CADDYING IN THE CACTUS

Some of the Cow Men is getting pretty 'Sore at Scar Face Scroggs, the Head Caddy of the Greasewood Golf Course, on account of him hiring so many of the Cow Boys to Caddy for the Eastern-Tourists who are Playing Golf here this spring. At the rate some of them are going, it is going to take them way along in the Summer or some time Next Fall to get clear around it.

The Cow Boys like to Caddy on account of getting More Money and it being easier work than punching and not so long hours, and some times the Folks they are Caddying for give them Presents and Money to Back Up what they say about what they have done out on the Course. Between You and Me, they ought to pay a Good Price to expect any one to Alibi some of the Stories I have heard them tell.

The Cow Men say they are having a Hard Time hiring enough Cow Boys for the Spring Round Up, ever since they found out about Chukcawalla Slim, and most of them waiting around thinking they can pick up another Good One. Slim has been Caddying ever since New Years for a New York man who only plays every other day and then makes Camp and Rests Up and gives Slim $10 to ride to Town and get his Mail, besides paying him his Regular Wages, which makes it Pretty Soft for Slim. Slim says he will have a Roll as big as a maddie blanket by the time his Boss gets around the course, if he don't get snake bit or sun struck before making the 15th Hole.

VALENTINE DAY

There was no Valentine Celebration at Salome this year on account of all the Animosity aroused last year by some of the Pictures which the Post Master says is in the Law, so Nothing was done except by the Teacher, who give boxes of the Scholars a Pretty One. don't look to us like Any Picture that was ever made had ought to make Scar Face Scroggs or Mrs. Scroggins or the Reptile Kid ve Mad to get it, because they don't look enough like Mary Pickford.
