How's that? Historic Stage

Q. What theater was President Lincoln at when he was shot? Is it still around?

Lincoln was shot April 14, 1865 at Ford's Theater in Washington, D.C. The theater is still maintained with red and white bunting as it was when "American Cousin" was showing. The theater is open to the public for tours.

Calendar: Meetings

MONDAY

• The O'Neal-Kunkle DAV chapter No. 47 and auxiliary will meet at 7 p.m. at the VFW Hall on Driver Road.

TUESDAY

• A crisis hotline training session will be held at 7 p.m. in the Canterbury Retirement Center.
• The Washington Elementary PTA will meet at 3:15 p.m. at the school.

WEDNESDAY

• A crisis hotline training session will be held at 7 p.m. in the Canterbury Retirement Center.
• A stickhorse rodeo is scheduled in the Coahoma Elementary school gym at 9:30 a.m.
• CLEAN, a local clean-up campaign, will host a meeting at Big Spring High School during the last 30 minutes of school for students interested in working for the program.

Tops on TV: Flashbeagle

Snoopy shows what he can do on the dance floor at 7 p.m. on channel 7 in "It's Flashbeagle, Charlie Brown." Jill Clayburgh and Michael Douglas star in "It's My Turn" at 8 p.m. on channel 2. Part two of "Jesus of Nazareth" airs at 7 p.m. on channel 13.

At the movies: Thriller

"Friday the 13th, The Final Chapter" comes to the Cinema with "Police Academy." The Ritz is showing "Up the Creek" and "Where the Boys Are."

Outside: Sunny

Sunny skies and highs in the mid-70s are forecast today with northwesterly winds, 10 to 20 miles per hour. By tonight, skies should be fair with lows in the mid-40s and southerly winds, 5 to 10 miles per hour. On Tuesday, skies are again forecast to be sunny, highs are forecast in the upper 80s and winds should be southerly, 10 to 20 miles per hour.

Absentee voting

Absentee voting for the May 5 Democratic and Republican primaries and for the city council District 3 runoff election begin today, according to the Howard County Clerk's office and the City Secretary's office.

Balloting for the city run-off between Danny Heckler and Harold Hall will continue at the city secretary's office through 5 p.m. April 24.

Persons who will be out of town on May 5 may cast their ballots for the primary of their choice at the county clerk's office on the first floor of the courthouse, or they may write to the office to have a ballot mailed to them.

The deadline for absentee balloting in the primary is May 1.

State narrowing N-dump choices

From staff and wire reports

AUSTIN — The search for a nuclear dump site for the state has narrowed to three general areas after Hudspeth County was dropped from the list of potential areas.

Borden County remains as a possible site for the low-level waste site, according to the Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority.

The cost of constructing barriers to prevent leakage led state officials to abandon the idea of locating a low-level nuclear waste dump in Hudspeth county.

Rick Jacobi said his agency would formally announce today that it has "given up" on the idea of putting the first state-run dump site on land owned by the University of Texas in Hudspeth County, about 100 miles southeast of El Paso.

Among other sites still under consideration are areas in southwest, north-central and West Texas.

According to Jacobi, a landowner with property in Garza and Borden counties has offered sites to the agency and Land Commissioner Garry Mauro has agreed to let agency officials investigate the prospects of building a site on state-owned land in Brewster County.

Authority officials had pushed for the Hudspeth County site despite strong opposition from local residents, who hired engineering consultants to help prove their claims that the dump would be dangerous.

Under a federal law passed in 1980, all states have until 1986 to form regional compacts to handle their wastes. Those which do not could be required to accept wastes from other parts of the country.

Jacobi said Saturday that the authority has determined it would be too expensive to build the man-made barriers needed to guarantee that radioactivity could not leak from the site.

Dimmitt investor buys failed Lubbock bank

LUBBOCK (AP) — A Dimmitt investor planned today to reopen the Security National Bank, which federal officials closed after citing a bad loan portfolio for the bank's insolvency.

Bill Loyd, whose family's $3.45 million bid for the bank was accepted Friday afternoon by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., said the bank would reopen as City Bank and business would remain substantially the same.

However, the new owners did not purchase any of Security National's commercial loans or new construction, which are now controlled by the FDIC.

The bank was ordered closed Friday by acting U.S. Comptroller of Currency H. Joe Selby, who appointed the FDIC as receiver to liquidate the bank's assets.

The new owners will be taking over the bank's deposits and assets, including the present building, furniture, fixtures, equipment, cash, bonds and consumer installment loans, Loyd said.

FDIC senior liquidation specialist Arthur Lorentzen, who spent the weekend supervising the ownership transaction, estimated the bank's deposits at $52 million. Selby said Friday the bank had experienced substantial deterioration in the quality of its loan portfolio over the past few years and was unable to remedy its problems.

The bank's losses finally exhausted its capital funds, causing its insolvency, Selby said. Some of the bad loans were commercial loans for energy projects, Loyd said.

Loyd, who will serve as board chairman and president, said commercial loans will be reviewed for possible purchase from the FDIC and the owners later may negotiate for a new building that Security National had planned to move into, Loyd said.

Mike Klein, general contractor for the new complex, said he finished construction on Feb. 27 and did not know anything else about the plans for the building.

Loyd said he had no plans to change any of the bank's personnel. Douglas Boren, who had been president of Security National, will be employed as a consultant, Loyd said.

2 killed in drilling mishap

Five others hospitalized from gas exposure

ANDREWS (AP) — Two men were hospitalized in critical condition today from exposure to poisonous hydrogen sulfide gas that killed two other men when it was released during a weekend drilling operation, authorities said.

Three other men, including two Andrews police officers, also were hospitalized.

The poisonous gas leaked from the well when the Sierra Drilling Co. rig No. 1 apparently "hit a pocket" of hydrogen sulfide about 9:15 p.m. Saturday.

"They just hit a pocket of it and it was probably over with before it started," a spokesman for the Texas Department of Public Safety said.

Orbie Gatewood of Pecos was declared dead at the scene, about three miles southeast of Andrews. Billy Wayne Quisenberry of Seminole was dead on arrival at Permian General Hospital in Andrews.

A hospital spokesman said that Roy Aguilar, 38, of Seminole, and Donny Stroud, 27, were in critical condition today. Claude Quisenberry, 46, of Seminole, was listed in guarded condition.

Andrews police officers Terry Neil, 29, and James Victory, 36, were admitted to the hospital for observation.

HISTORIC DOME — The Presidio County Courthouse at Marfa, built in 1884, with its gables and domes is an unusual sight in Texas.

Courtly love

History, architecture wed

By The Associated Press

Stately, sturdy, strong, some of the first and most prominent public buildings in Texas towns were the courthouses. Home to county governments, they helped bring permanence to the plains.

But today, some of those historic seats of county government are threatened — by deliberate demolition or simple neglect. And that worries Curtis Tunnell.

"Sometimes, people have kind of lost sight of the significance of the beauty, the architectural importance, of the value of these buildings," says Tunnell, executive director of the Texas Historical Commission.

"Originally, some of the counties went deeply into debt or had a difficult time raising the money to build their courthouses. They spent very large amounts of money for that time. Courthouses are some of our best public buildings in Texas. They need to be preserved."

Offering advice, alternatives to demolition and money, commission officials and architects are helping preserve these monuments from the past.

The first Texas courthouses often were nothing more than log buildings, but they were the focus of community life. Banks, stores, stables, hotels and bars were built on the courthouse square. Auctions were held on the courthouse lawn.

Soon after the log building was up, citizens would plan a more permanent structure. After the 1881 Legislature authorized counties to issue bonds to pay for new courthouses, most counties built them. Many of those still are in use.

"Built as monuments to strength, style and dignity, the structures often featured statues of the goddesses of liberty or justice. ... Counties built to impress, and construction featured Victorian Gothic, Classical, Renaissance Revival, Romanesque and Second Empire styles," notes a historical commission publication.

Many of these buildings included massive stonework, ornate wood carving, stately columns and towering ceilings.

"People were very proud of their new seats of government, and many of them really did it right," Tunnell said.

But time and the growth of county governments intruded. While some buildings remain in active use, many old courthouses have been partitioned and paneled, had ceilings lowered and wooden windows replaced with incongruous aluminum ones.

"Through the years, some have not been adequately maintained. When they would get a leaky roof or something, oftentimes the county was kind of pinching pennies and would fail to really adequately repair them," Tunnell said.

New jail standards have required many counties to build modern jails, frequently attached to the old courthouses.

Maintenance problems caused some counties to remove clock towers, bells and other ornate decorations. Finally, some counties demolished the old buildings themselves.

But a special program run by the historical commission is trying to save the buildings. Preservation work can be as economical in some cases as new construction, Tunnell said, and what is saved never could be duplicated.

"A lot of those buildings have become even more valuable over time because of the materials that went into them. You just can't build that kind of building today," he said.

To encourage preservation, Tunnell said, the first thing commission experts often do is tell county officials to ignore the first advice they get.

"Sometimes counties will get bad advice from someone who wants to build a new building or who doesn't appreciate what can be done with the old building," he said.

While some construction firms aren't geared toward rehabilitation of old structures, an increasing number of Texas architects are working in the field.

To make certain counties get reliable advice on ways to save the buildings, state law prohibits a county from demolishing, selling, leasing or damaging the integrity of a courthouse without first giving six months' notice to the historical commission.

Tunnell said this gives commission experts time to work with county officials on possible preservation. However, the law provides only time — the commission cannot permanently block a county from doing as it pleases with its courthouse.

Stock suit challenges Harte-Hanks buyout

SAN ANTONIO — Harte-Hanks Communications Inc., owner of the Big Spring Herald, had no comment today concerning legal action begun against the company and its directors by a shareholder in the Court of Chancery in Delaware.

The legal action challenges the fairness of the proposed leveraged buyout of the company in which shareholders would receive per share a package of $28 in cash and a $10 principal amount of a subordinated debenture.

Although the company did not comment on the case, a spokesman said litigation papers were being reviewed.

Wheat program extended

Wheat farmers will be eligible to enter the revised 1984 wheat program starting today, according to the U.S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office in Howard County.

Under the farm bill passed last week, the sign-up period for wheat farmers has been extended today through May 4.

Cotton farmers are not eligible for the sign-up extension.

NEON ARREST — An unidentified striker is led away by a Las Vegas policeman after being arrested in front of the MGM Grand Hotel Sunday.

Strike gamble

Las Vegas owners say 'no dice' to unions

LAS VEGAS (AP) — The strike by 17,000 workers against glittering hotel-casinos entered its third week today, with the latest arrests involving 18 people who gathered in front of a non-struck hotel to watch pickets across the street.

The arrests Sunday in front of the Barbary Coast hotel-casino brought to 89 the number taken into custody over the weekend and to 374 for the entire strike.

No negotiations were scheduled between the 32 resorts and the unions representing culinary workers, stagehands, musicians and bartenders. On Sunday, a crowd gathered on the south side of the Barbary Coast, apparently to watch pickets across the street at the MGM Grand, and the crowd was given three minutes to disband an "unlawful assembly," Sgt. Larry Irvine said.

When the deadline passed, officers filled a paddywagon and loaded several other people onto a police bus as cat-calls filled the air and some 200 tourists looked on.

Sgt. Dean Wiedemann said 18 people were booked for investigation of disturbing the peace or unlawful assembly.

The demonstrators at the MGM Grand were within the numerical and distance limits set by court order early in the strike.

There were no further arrests early today, Wiedemann said.

Strikers have warned that confrontations would continue nightly at the MGM resort, where union members were angered by the reopening of the stage show "Jubilee" Friday night. At a rally Saturday night, union official Dennis Kist was arrested along with 70 other people in a confrontation witnessed by hundreds of tourists and bottle-throwing pickets.

The rally came at the conclusion of an orderly march, the second in the strike. The march had drawn an estimated 4,000 participants but generated no arrests.

Pickets at the rally booed police as they arrested Robert F. Harbrant, 41, of Washington, D.C., president of the AFL-CIO Food and Allied Service Trades Department.

Police then arrested Kist and methodically began arresting the strikers who had locked arms and sat down on a sidewalk leading to the MGM.

Some of the 71 arrested Saturday night were cited for criminal contempt and destruction of county property after some windows in a police bus were broken.

The strike has now passed the 15-day record set in 1976, when four unions walked out and closed 11 major resorts. The walkout cost the city's economy an estimated $131 million.

The number of arrests made this year has exceeded by seven times the number recorded during the two-week 1976 standoff.

The Nevada Resort Association vowed this year to defy striking unions by remaining open and simply reducing some services.

Twenty hotels have signed contracts with the four unions, and 13,000 employees continue to work at those hotels.

Dump

"Without expensive engineered barriers," a dump located above the porous land of Hudspeth County "wouldn't work," Jacobi said.

Two UT consultants reported last month that a Hudspeth County dump would endanger ground-water supplies for area farms and towns. One consultant said any radioactivity washed from the site would "head downhill" toward Dell City and Sierra Blanca, the Hudspeth County seat.

After hearing the consultants' reports, UT regents meeting in San Antonio on Friday took no action on the authority's request to lease or buy the land for a dump site.

The authority is considering only one other site, located near Asherton in South Texas. However, the site has been opposed vigorously by neighboring landowners, including former Gov. Dolph Briscoe and the Roman Catholic Church.

Jacobi said the agency, which has an option until Aug. 31 to buy the Asherton-area site, would look for willing sellers elsewhere in Texas because state law requires the agency to have at least two sites from which to choose a dump location.

Courthouses

Besides advice, Tunnell said, the commission has some money to spend. In recent years, about $1 million in grants has gone to counties for preservation of courthouses.

"We also can point out other places where applications for funds can be made. There are federal funds. And Texas has a great number of private foundations — probably more than any state in the nation — that fund various kinds of projects."

JPs earn twice salaries on weddings

HOUSTON (AP) — Two Harris County justices of the peace say they are providing a public service by performing weddings during business hours, a procedure that earns them twice their $51,000 Harris County salary annually.

Justice of the Peace Laurence Wayne earned an estimated $102,000 for the 4,109 ceremonies he performed in 1983 and fellow jurist Ken Pacetti earned almost $99,000 for 3,946 marriages.

State Rep. Frank Tejeda, D-San Antonio, however, says he plans to refile a bill in the next legislature to prohibit such activity during business hours.

"If they're getting a full-time wage, the taxpayer has a right to demand and expect 100 percent," Tejeda said.

Wayne and Pacetti said the wedding ceremonies do not interfere with their judicial responsibilities.

Tejeda said he proposed a similar bill which failed in the last legislature following reports that a Bexar County court-at-law judge recessed a trial to perform a marriage.

That case is scheduled for review by the state's Judicial Qualifications Commission next month.

The two justices have offices one block from where marriage licenses are issued at the Harris County Clerk's office. Wayne and Pacetti said their marriage ceremonies do not interfere with their other duties.

Wayne says he and Pacetti perform a public service. "We don't go looking for these people," he said. "They can't get married anywhere else for various reasons."

Pacetti said other county officials are not precluded from earning outside income.

"Our salary is considerably less than that of any other judges (in Harris County)," Pacetti said.

The two justices consider their jobs to be part-time, a reference to an exception in the Texas code of ethics for judges that permits justices of the peace who are lawyers to also practice law. All other levels of the judiciary in Texas are prohibited by the code from this dual role.

Sheriff's Log

Woman begins sentence

A Big Spring woman was transferred Sunday to the state prison at Gatesville to serve a five-year sentence. Carol Ann Scaggs, 36, of 1216 Wright was sentenced Friday in 118th District Court for revocation of probation for theft by appropriation.

Archie Tigner of Route 2 told sheriff's deputies Saturday he suspected someone had slashed two tires worth $100 on his 1976 Oldsmobile Cutlass.

Jimmy Perry of Americus, Ga., told sheriff's deputies that someone threw an object at his 1980 Mack truck and damaged the left side of the vehicle at 10:30 p.m. Friday while Perry was driving west on Interstate 20 east of the Midway Road overpass. According to the sheriff's report the person throwing the object might have been standing in the center median.

Four persons were released from county jail after serving portions of their county court sentences.

Sabas Torres, 49, of Coahoma was released Sunday after serving two days for driving while intoxicated.

Deland Savell, 25, of 1506B Sycamore also was released Sunday after serving a two-day sentence.

Homer Lynn Hixson, 29, of the Thrifty Lodge was released Monday after serving a two-day sentence for driving while license suspended.

Manuel V. Moya, 22, of 1215 Lindberg was also released Monday after serving 24 hours on a 48-hour judgment for DWI.

Louisiana Elizabeth Jones, 52, of 310 N. Scurry was released from county jail Sunday after being transferred from the police station on suspicion of DWI. She was released on $1,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Bobby West.

Bernice Lanell Brown, 40, of Midland was transferred Sunday to the county jail from the police station on suspicion of DWI and driving on the wrong side of the road. She was released on $1,000 bond for the DWI charge and $200 bond for the traffic charge.

Jay Jeffrey Turner, 25, of 2505 E. 25th was transferred Sunday to the county jail from the police department on suspicion of DWI. He was released on $1,000 bond set by West.

Ricky Lane McCullough, 28, of 804 Willa was transferred to the county jail from the police department on suspicion of DWI. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Garrett Dean Burgess, 22, of Sterling City Route was transferred Sunday from the police department to the county jail on suspicion of DWI and DWLS. Bond was set at $2,500 for the DWI charge and $1,000 for the DWLS charge.

Alfred Emmanuel Taylor, 54, of 634 Tulsa was transferred Sunday to the county jail on suspicion of DWI. He was released on $1,000 bond set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

Adrian Calderon, 22, of Donna, Texas, also was transferred to the county jail from the police department on suspicion of DWI. He was released on $1,000 bond set by West.

Rudy Acosta Holguin, 28, of Forsan was transferred to county jail from the police department on suspicion of DWI. He was released on $1,000 bond set by Daratt.

Nolting

MINOT, S.D. — Dr. David D. Nolting, 56, father of two Big Spring residents, died April 9 at his home here. Services were held April 13 at the Thompson-Larson Funeral Home in Minot. Cremation followed.

Survivors include four sons, Danny Nolting and Eric Nolting, both of Big Spring, Michael Nolting of California and Kevin Nolting of San Angelo; a daughter, Mrs. Rick (Kim) Bergin of Minot; and a brother, Robert Nolting of Houston.

He was born Oct. 3, 1927 in Springfield, Mo., the son of Paul and Nadine Nolting. He served in the Navy during World War II and later graduated with honors from the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque.

He earned his medical degree at Washington University in St. Louis, Mo. He interned at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, D.C., and served residencies at Barnes and Veterans hospitals in St. Louis.

He worked as assistant chief of medicine at the Veterans Administration Hospital in St. Louis and was consulting physician in internal medicine at Bernalillo County Hospital Medical Center and attending physician in internal medicine and cardiology at St. Joseph, Presbyterian and Anna Kaseman hospitals in Albuquerque.

He was elected to the New York Academy of Science in 1958 and to the fellowship of the American College of Cardiology in 1964. He was an instructor and consultant at the University of New Mexico College of Medicine and Bernalillo County Hospital.

He was a full-time emergency department physician at St. Joseph's Hospital in Minot.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Rosalieve Mulcahy, on July 2, 1976.

King of Swing honored

NEW YORK — Henry Mancini and Neil Diamond were among nine composers inducted into the Songwriters Hall of Fame of the National Academy of Popular Music, which honored clarinetist-band leader Benny Goodman with a lifetime achievement award.

BENNY GOODMAN Another composer active since 1950 and inducted Sunday was Norman Gimbel, who wrote lyrics for such songs as "Canadian Sunset" and "I Will Wait for You."

Inducted from among composers and songwriters active before 1950 were Richard Adler, composer of Broadway's "Pajama Game" and "Damn Yankees," and Bennie Benjamin and George David Weiss, who together wrote "Wheel of Fortune" and "Oh! What It Seemed To Be."

Inducted posthumously were Billy Strayhorn (1915-1967), composer of "Take the 'A' Train" and "Lush Life"; Al Hoffman (1902-1960), co-writer of "Allegheny Moon" and "Mairzy Doats"; and Maceo Pinkard (1897-1962), co-writer of "Them There Eyes" and "Sweet Georgia Brown."

Billy dries out in tank

CORONA DEL MAR — Former New York Yankee manager Billy Martin spent four hours in a public drunk tank after being arrested following a shouting match with a woman on the front lawn of a home, police said.

BILLY MARTIN Martin, 55, was booked for investigation of public drunkenness and disorderly conduct and released on $100 bail at about 4 a.m. Saturday, police said.

Responding to calls from neighbors, police found Martin on the lawn, "obviously intoxicated, screaming and hollering at a female," traffic investigator Gary Bruton said.

Bruton said Martin and a female companion, identified as Jill Guiver, apparently were arguing about travel arrangements for a horse he had bought for her. Martin flew to New York after Ms. Guiver bailed him out, he said.

Martin, who was fired last year as Yankee manager, is currently a Yankee scout. The Yankees had no comment.

One of Martin's attorneys, Eddie Sapir of New Orleans, said in a telephone interview Saturday he had no details of the arrest, but said he was "relieved" Martin had not hit anyone.

Surf's up for Prince Andy

BEVERLY HILLS — Britain's Prince Andrew was presented with a surfboard and an official Olympic hat upon his arrival for a five-day Southern California tour to benefit the British Olympic team.

Among those who greeted Queen Elizabeth II's middle son at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel on Sunday were Occidental Petroleum Co. chairman Dr. Armand Hammer and Tony Thompson, chairman of the British Olympic Committee-USA, which sponsored his trip, hotel spokeswoman Victoria Yust said.

During his trip, the 24-year-old navy helicopter pilot plans to tour the McDonnell Douglas aircraft plant in Long Beach, the Aerospace Museum in San Diego and the U.S. Naval Air Station in San Diego, where he will fly a British-made helicopter, said John Houlton, a spokesman for the British Consulate in Los Angeles.

He also will visit Metro Goldwyn Mayer-United Artists studios in Culver City and watch the filming of "2010," the science-fiction movie sequel to "2001: A Space Odyssey."

A fund-raising dinner on behalf of the British Olympic Association is planned for Wednesday, with a guest list that includes actors Michael Caine, Dudley Moore, Cary Grant, Sean Connery and Julie Andrews, along with singers Sheena Easton and Cleo Laine, Houlton said.

This man has a gripe

COLUMBUS — Just because you missed National Griper's Day, that's no excuse to keep complaints to yourself.

Griper's Day founder Jack Gilbert will listen to a troublesome tale any day in his effort to give the disgruntled, disappointed and depressed a sympathetic audience.

The 55-year-old Columbus man — who marked the first National Griper's Day on Sunday — said he invented the holiday of sorts to bring back old-time personal communication.

"If I am right that it's becoming more and more difficult to have people listen to you, the whole idea of having people call is good," Gilbert said. "The second purpose is just to get people to feeling like people again and not afraid of high technology and computers and all that stuff."

Gilbert doesn't stop at promoting National Griper's Day. The free-lance writer also publishes his phone number and address so people can use him as an outlet for their frustrations.

He hopes to compile the complaints he gets into a humorous griper's newsletter that could be sent to government officials so they know what really irks constituents.

Gilbert said complaints range from consumer costs to chemicals in food.

GRIM TASK — Police and ambulance attendants remove bodies from a house in Brooklyn where 3 women and seven children were found shot Sunday.

Brooklyn Massacre

3 women; 7 children killed; baby survives

NEW YORK — A baker who followed a screaming neighbor to his apartment found a "massacre" of three women and seven children — all shot in the head and showing no signs of panic — while an unhurt toddler sat crying among the bodies, police said.

It was believed to be the largest mass slaying in the city's history, authorities said.

"Six of the victims, at least, were sitting in chairs," Deputy Police Commissioner Patrick Murphy said Sunday night. "There appear to be no signs of panic. There appears to be no disruption."

Murphy and other police officials said they had not established a motive for the slayings and knew of no suspects. No drugs or signs of forced entry were found, and the 10 victims remained unidentified early today.

"We don't think they were all members of the same family," said Sgt. Eddie LeSchack. "There may have been some people visiting."

Authorities described the victims as three adult women, one teen-age girl and four younger girls and two boys ranging in age from about 3 years to the early teens.

The man who discovered the bodies, described as the common-law husband of one of the victims, voluntarily came to police headquarters for questioning early today but was not considered a suspect, LeSchack said. The man was not identified.

Police today were combing rooftops and searching the neighborhood for other clues, LeSchack added. He also said "quite a few" neighbors had also volunteered information to police.

Two neighbors said they recalled hearing noises that sounded like gunshots around 5:30 p.m. Sunday. Eileen Bell, 30, said she was walking by the house and "I heard a popping sound and it kept repeating, this constant popping. It sounded like a car backfiring."

Another neighbor, Lucy Marrero, said she had "heard the shots" at 5:30 p.m. Police said the victims' bodies were in three different rooms of the first-floor flat, which sits in the middle of a mostly commercial block in a quiet, working-class, predominantly Hispanic neighborhood. The second-floor neighbors were not home when the bodies were found, he said. Neighbors said the victims were Hispanic.

Mayor Edward Koch, who arrived for a brief tour of the house with city Medical Examiner Elliot Gross, appeared grim and shaken when he emerged. "Obviously, it's a massacre," he said.

Gross declined to discuss his preliminary observations, except to say that all 10 people had died of gunshot wounds to the head. He said autopsies were to be conducted today.

Inspector Robert Burke said police were first notified of the deaths Sunday night by Carmine Rossi, owner of the Rossi Bread Bakery next door to the victims' apartment house. Rossi said he was in his bakery when a man went into the two-story brick building and emerged screaming.

Rossi said the man, who said he lived in the house, asked if he was a police officer. He accompanied the man to the house, where "there were bodies all over the place," he said.

"I came to a small bed. A young girl was dead in the bed," Rossi recalled later. "Then I went to the living room. There were about seven people in the living room on couches. All dead, shot in the head. Then in the kitchen, a couple more people; the same way." The victims probably had been dead for about six hours when they were found, Burke said.

MOTHER'S ANGUISH — Maria Perez, mother of one of the slain children, weeps as she makes a phone call.

Bomb kills 2 U.S. envoys

WINDHOEK, South-West Africa — Two U.S. officials monitoring South Africa's troop withdrawal from Angola were killed when a bomb blast shattered a gasoline station that has been a past target of guerrillas fighting for independence.

A U.S. diplomatic source, who spoke on the condition he not be identified, said the attack apparently was not aimed at the Americans and that they simply happened to be there at the time. Another U.S. diplomatic source, who also spoke on condition of anonymity, said there were reports the blast was caused by a device attached to a fuel delivery truck or to a fuel pump at the gas station.

However, the Johannesburg Star today quoted unidentified sources as saying the explosive device may have been attached to the diplomats' car with the intent of killing them.

South African Foreign Minister R.F. Botha identified the Americans as Dennis Keogh, 44, director of the U.S. diplomatic office monitoring the troop withdrawal agreement, and military attache Lt. Col. Ken Crabtree, in his early 40s. The U.S. Embassy said both were married, and that Keogh had three children and Crabtree one.

The two Americans, who had been en route to a briefing on troop withdrawal arrangements, were killed Sunday 25 miles from the Angolan border when an exploded at the station in Oshakati where they had stopped to service their car.

One civilian from the South African-ruled territory also died and four other bystanders were injured, the South African government said. Earlier reports had said two civilians had been killed.

Jury acquits 9 Klansmen

WINSTON-SALEM — Grand Dragon Virgil Griffin thrust two thumbs in the air and said he'd attend a Ku Klux Klan rally after he and eight others were acquitted of violating the civil rights of five communists shot dead during a 1979 anti-Klan rally.

"Man, I think I died and went to heaven," Griffin said after Sunday's verdict, adding that he planned to celebrate with "three beers tonight ... and a Klan rally next Saturday in Louisville."

An all-white jury concluded Sunday that the nine defendants did not plot to provoke the violence that erupted at a Greensboro housing project after a caravan of Klansmen and Nazis challenged participants in a "Death to the Klan" rally.

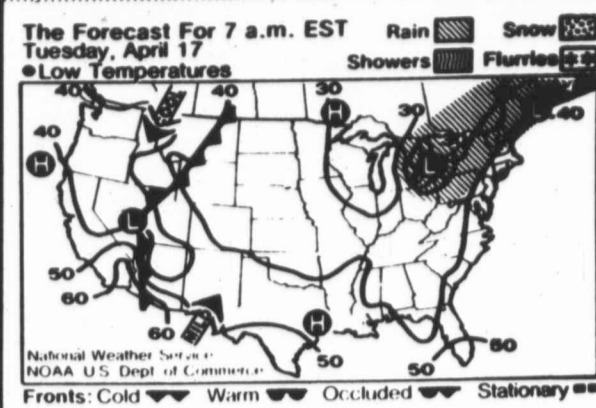

One juror said the panel agreed not to discuss the verdict, but juror William H. Johnson of Sanford gave a brief explanation of the jury's reasoning: "We felt the government hadn't proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the participants had done what they were charged with."

Johnson said that only count 14, which charged two defendants with interfering with the investigation of the case, gave the jury any difficulty.

Attorneys for the Greensboro Civil Rights Fund contended that the government had drawn too tight a conspiracy indictment and left a "back door" for the defendants.

Dr. Paul Bermanzohn of New York, a Communist Workers Party member who was seriously injured in the Nov. 3, 1979 confrontation, agreed.

Fair weather to continue

Clear skies prevailed across Texas as forecasters expected sunny conditions and warmer afternoon temperatures for at least a couple of days.

Some high clouds were noted over the Edwards Plateau. There were no reports of rain during the pre-dawn hours. An area of high pressure over the state was suppressing any significant cloud cover.

Temperatures before dawn were a bit lower than normal for this time of the year. Most readings were in the 40s and 50s. Temperatures at 4 a.m. ranged from 39 at Amarillo to 57 at McAllen and Laredo.

Westerly and northwesterly winds at 5 to 10 mph were reported across most of the state.

The forecast called for partly cloudy skies through Tuesday. Afternoon highs were expected to range from the 60s and 70s in North and West Texas to the lower and middle 80s in South Texas.

Along the upper coast, northwesterly winds near 15 knots were expected tonight and Tuesday, along with partly cloudy skies. Mostly fair skies were forecast for the lower coast, along with northwesterly winds near 10 knots.

Rain dampened sections of the Northeast today, threatening to flood rivers already swollen by heavy weekend rains.

Flash flood watches remained in effect over portions of New England, eastern New York state and the mid-Atlantic coast.

Showers and occasional thundershowers were scattered from North Carolina to Pennsylvania, New Jersey and northern New England, and from the Great Lakes across the lower Ohio River Valley.

Showers and thundershowers also were scattered over Florida, and rain fell widely over the northern Pacific Coast.

Rainfall in the six hours ending at 1 a.m. today was fairly light. Heavier precipitation included almost half an inch at New Bern, N.C.; Allentown, Pa.; Norfolk, Va.; and Martinsburg, W. Va.

For the rest of today, the forecast called for showers and occasional thundershowers from New England to the Great Lakes, extending south over the Carolinas and Tennessee Valley, Florida and inland sections of eastern Gulf Coast states.

Rain was also predicted for the northern Pacific Coast.

Today's high temperatures were expected to be in the 40s and 50s from New England across the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley to much of the upper two-thirds of the Mississippi Valley; near 60 degrees over the northern Pacific Coast; in the low 80s across Southern Florida and southern Texas; and near 100 degrees through the inland Southwest.

Temperatures at 2 a.m. EST ranged from 26 degrees at Cheyenne, Wyo., to 82 degrees at Palm Springs, Calif.

West Texas — Mostly fair through Tuesday. Lows 38 Panhandle and mountains to 48 extreme south. Highs near 80 Panhandle and mountains to 95 Big Bend valleys.

Border states — Louisiana — Fair and cool tonight. Sunny and warmer Tuesday. Lows mostly in the 40s. Highs mostly in the 70s.

Arkansas — Partly cloudy and cool tonight and Tuesday. Lows 40 to 45. Highs 60 to 70.

Oklahoma — Fair and cool tonight. Sunny and warmer Tuesday. Lows 32 Panhandle to 42 east. Highs 60 east to 75 Panhandle.

New Mexico — Mostly fair through Tuesday. Lows 26 to 32 mountains to 38 to 46 lower elevations. Highs 68 to 76 mountains and north to 80s south.

Put 'snoop' laws on federal leash

Unless something is done to stop it, coordinated snooping on Americans by federal and private agencies could soon reach a level reminiscent of the omnipresent telescreen that spied on citizens in George Orwell's novel, "1984."

Arrangements now are being made under which direct electronic links will be set up among about 100 federal agencies and seven major credit reporting companies that keep computerized records on more than 100 million individuals and companies. The links will enable agency personnel to examine, almost instantaneously, the current status of bank loans, liens, divorce records, and department store, oil company and credit card accounts.

Under the sharing contracts, the government will not only receive a wide range of personal information on Americans from the private credit reporting companies but will also give the companies details about government loans made to individuals or companies — thus making possible even more widespread dissemination of the information, since the credit reporting firms sell their data to merchants, banks and other lenders.

Although government agencies have collected credit information in the past, the development of the new computerized links (under federal budget office guidelines) will enormously increase the potential for invasion of privacy. And the potential for abuse will be greatly heightened by such widespread access to personal information and by the laxness of credit reporting firms in maintaining accurate information.

The prospect is made all the more shocking by the claim that the computer links and the sharing were authorized by 1968 and 1982 laws. Congress should impose curbs on such tools for snooping.

Alcohol lobby has an inside man

WASHINGTON — Dr. Morris E. Chafetz pops up with the predictability of a hangover whenever a Republican administration attacks the problem of alcoholism. What infuriates Chafetz' critics is his long, cozy relationship with the liquor industry.

I first reported on Chafetz 10 years ago, when he was head of the National Institute on Alcohol and Alcoholism in the Nixon administration. His expense accounts had come under FBI scrutiny; for example, he billed the government for a California vacation after a federal contractor had already picked up the tab.

President Reagan appointed Chafetz to the Commission on Drunk Driving, which presented its report last fall. Chafetz has since been named to a similar position under the National Safety Council.

The good doctor readily acknowledges that his Washington-based Health Education Foundation accepts funds from the liquor industry. Among the contributors are the Wine Institute, the United States Brewers Association, the Miller Brewing Co. and several other liquor-related organizations. Far from apologizing for these connections, Chafetz recently said on a television talk show that he hoped to get more money from liquor interests.

Critics charge that Chafetz' views on drinking, alcoholism and drunk driving loyally reflect those of the liquor industry. They point out that his 1965 book, Liquor: The Servant of Man, was distributed by liquor lobbyists.

The book contains some astonishing assertions. For example:

• "When the talk turns to teenage drinking, I can't agree there's a problem at all."

• "For those who want to live a lot and who wish to appreciate fully the role of liquor — repetition is required."

• "Alcohol is a poison and will kill you quickly and surely, but no more quickly and no more surely than distilled water, if you drink too much of it at one time."

The author of those words to drink by was appointed chairman of the Commission on Drunk Driving's education committee. As such, he flew around the country at taxpayers' expense to place editorials reflecting his views in various newspapers.

Internal commission records show that Chafetz took at least 20 trips, at a cost of more than $8,000.

Commission Chairman John Volpe says he had no problem with Chafetz' trips, and thought the doctor had done a good job.

Others weren't so pleased with Chafetz' performance. "He is so biased and prejudiced it is sad," said a fellow commission member.

"It's a disgrace," said Sandy Golden, author of Driving The Drunk Off the Road: A Handbook for Action, a widely acclaimed book on the problem. "The man is a tool and apologist of the alcoholic beverage industry, and his work on the commission reflects it."

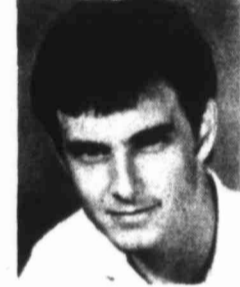

Golden believes there are definite steps that can be taken to cut down on the nearly 50,000 alcohol-related highway deaths each year.

Around The Rim

By BOB CARPENTER

Bonzo's gonzo

Sometimes I think Ronald Reagan would feel comfortable sitting on a throne and dispatching orders with the wave of a scepter. He wouldn't have to answer to anyone nor would anyone's opinion matter but his own.

I believe that situation would suit him just fine in light of the furor over last week's discovery that Reagan and his advisers have used the CIA in a covert mission to mine Nicaraguan harbors. Reagan bypassed the Neutrality Act and also failed to notify Congress of the mining — a violation of the check and balance system of our government.

Both Republicans and Democrats, even hardcore hawk Barry Goldwater, have denounced the action — which should tell us something about Reagan's newest blooper.

And not surprisingly, the State Department, under Reagan's prodding no doubt, has removed the U.S.' Central American policies from the jurisdiction of the World Court.

As far as I know, Reagan or the State Department has not owned up to okaying the mining operation. Both have simply avoided the issue as if we have no right to know about what our government has done or is doing.

How I loathe Reagan's smugness and aloofness.

All this goes far beyond Nicaragua, South America or Communism. It's our country too, President Reagan. We have a right to know — and at the very least our elected representatives have a right to be informed of actions of government. (Some congressmen found out about the harbor mining by reading the newspaper.)

I get the impression Reagan is sneaking around behind our backs and I don't like that. I don't feel he respects me as an American. For a man who goes to great lengths to profess his "Americanism," his words and actions are out of synch.

I hope when November arrives Americans wield the vote like the proverbial terrible swift sword and sever Reagan's presidency. He'll never know what hit him. Perhaps then he will remember that we have a democracy in this country not an aristocracy.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Policies of power, persuasion

WASHINGTON — The recent state of presidential comments on foreign policy come down to a single point — "military strength is a definite part of diplomacy." But who denies it?

Some Democratic leaders do in fact advocate a winding down of American power. But the effective undermining of the use of force in foreign policy comes in case after case after case from the Pentagon. We have that on the authority of the two men who have served Reagan as secretary of state.

The formal commitment of the administration to put military muscle at the service of foreign policy cannot be gainsaid. President Reagan has instituted a major military buildup in this country. Modernized nuclear weapons have been deployed in Europe.

In the Middle East, arms deliveries to Israel, Egypt, Turkey, Jordan and Saudi Arabia have been stepped up. In Central America, the administration is applying covert military pressure against the Marxist regime in Nicaragua, and American forces are increasingly active in supporting the armies of El Salvador and Honduras.

No diplomatic payoff, however, has followed the assertion of American power. The Russians, far from crying uncle, have broken off two sets of talks on arms control. President Reagan's latest offer — to send Vice President Bush to Geneva with new proposals barring chemical warfare — was denounced by Moscow as an electoral sham.

Similarly unbowed have been the countries hostile to the U.S. and its allies in the Middle East. Terrorist actions sponsored by Iran and Syria forced the U.S. to pull the Marines from Lebanon. Now the Lebanese government backed by Washington is begging the Syrian authorities for a deal.

Even in the "back yard of Central America" the show of force has not yielded dividends. Despite strong American support, the regime in El Salvador is menaced by guerrilla forces. The Nicaraguan Marxists react to the American-sponsored saboteurs by tightening their internal grip and procuring additional military help from the communist world.

Creed accounts for much of the resistance to U.S. pressure. Hardened revolutionaries call the signals at most of the pressure points. They seek confrontation with the U.S. as a way to assert their nationalist credentials with the people they seek to dominate. So to be effective, the threat of force has to be sharply targeted — not general.

Hesitation in this country further emboldens the revolutionaries to stand firm. In that connection, some Democrats bear some responsibility. They have questioned in the Congress and in the presidential campaign many of the foreign commitments made by the Reagan administration. But the questioning is oblique — a requirement that covert aid be overt, for example; or that the War Powers cutoff date be applied in Lebanon; or that there be a nuclear freeze.

The majority of Democrats have not confronted the administration on foreign policy directly. Lane Kirkland of the AFL-CIO was the swing man on the Kissinger Commission, which basically backed administration policy in Central America. Fritz Mondale stands up to calls for American withdrawal from Gary Hart and Jesse Jackson by saying flat out that he is "against pulling the plug." If partisan sniping was the only obstacle, the administration would have no serious problems in applying force for diplomatic objectives.

Far more difficult to manage is the defense establishment. The generals and admirals have learned and overlearned the lesson of Vietnam. They instinctively recoil from applying small doses of force in messy wars for obscure political purposes. Even as military advisers, American soldiers train friendlies to fight clean — with helicopters and deep patrols, rather than by terror tactics.

In practice, the skepticism of the military about intervention weighs far more on President Reagan than does the sniping of the Democrats. For the president wants, as a matter of conviction and convenience in dealing with his right wing, to stand well with the military. The military, in turn, has in Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger an articulate mouthpiece with special connections to the president.

Alexander Haig claims in his memoir of service under Reagan that Weinberger and the military stood in the way of effective sanctions in Central America. George Shultz, Haig's replacement as secretary of state, is beginning to acknowledge the Pentagon's role in pulling the Marines from Beirut.

In a speech on April 3, Shultz drew attention to the report of the Long Commission set up by the Pentagon to investigate Marine security in Lebanon. He noted that the commission had urged the president to "pursue diplomatic alternatives" as distinct from "military options." That distinction, the secretary said, reflected a "fundamental misunderstanding of the relation between power and diplomacy."

Politically, to be sure, President Reagan has an interest in pinning the failures of his tough strategy on Democratic softness. But if he really cares about using power for diplomatic goals, Reagan will forget about the Democrats and listen to the comments being made about the Pentagon by his Secretary of State.

God can lift 'dark cloud'

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: During the last five years, I have suffered two nervous breakdowns. I am pretty much recovered, but down inside, I have this fear of having another one, and it hangs over me like a dark cloud. I'm afraid my fear will just drive me into another one, but I don't know what to do. Can God help me? — Mrs. E.P.S.

DEAR MRS. E.P.S.: Yes, the fear of something can sometimes be as terrible as enslaving as the thing itself. And yes, God can help you — and he wants to, because he loves you very much and wants to help you.

The key to your problem is found in several verses of the Bible. I hope you will examine them carefully. The Bible says, "We know and rely on the love God has for us. God is love... There is no fear in love. But perfect love drives out fear... We love because he first loved us" (1 John 4:16,18,19).

Note carefully what those verses say about God. They say that he loves us. Is that true? Yes — and the final proof of that is that God sent his only Son into the world to die on the cross for our sins. I do not know if you have any children, but if you do, you know how hard it would be to allow one of them to suffer and even die. But God loves us so much that he was willing to let his Son be a complete and perfect sacrifice on the cross for our sins. "This is how we know what love is: Jesus Christ laid down his life for us" (1 John 3:16).

This means that God loves you — and if you come to understand that great truth, it will make all the difference in the world to you. Why? Because then you know that God can be trusted. You can commit your future to him placing all your problems and circumstances into his hands, knowing that because he loves you, he can be trusted with your very life. And when you understand and accept God's love for you, then that love will cast out your fear.

Turn to Christ, and invite him to come into your heart by faith. He has promised to come in, and he cannot lie. Then learn to walk with him. Let the Bible and its promises become part of your life every day, and let prayer also be part of your experience every day. "The eternal God is your refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms" (Deuteronomy 33:27).

Dear Abby

New chapter begins in tragic story

DEAR READERS: This letter appeared in my column on July 28, 1975:

DEAR ABBY: I am a physician. About 72 hours ago, a previously healthy, beautiful, 16-month-old child was brought to our department with obvious burns around his lips and mouth.

Only a few hours before, while visiting his grandparents, he discovered a bottle of lye and ingested only one mouthful. Fourteen doctors and dozens of nurses and operating personnel have been involved in the three operations that this child has already undergone.

The boy is now in our intensive-care unit, his eyes held shut with plastic tape, his breathing controlled by a machine and his life supported by tubes placed in his neck, chest, abdomen, penis, arms and legs. All of his esophagus and most of his stomach were destroyed by the lye and had to be surgically removed. If he lives, he will have to be fed through a hole in his abdomen for months.

Abby, please ask your readers to inspect their kitchens, bathrooms, basements and garages, and to place all dangerous chemicals outside the reach of small children. And ask them to pass the word on to their friends and neighbors who may not have children but who occasionally have young visitors.

This type of needless suffering and death to small children can be stopped today without spending one penny for research or donations.

I hope you will consider this worthy of your column, which is probably read by more people than any other.

ARNOLD E. KATZ, M.D., IOWA CITY, IOWA

DEAR DR. KATZ: Worthy? If only one letter makes my column today, this will be it.

Readers, please place all detergents, bleaches, cleaning fluid, paint, polish, rat poison, drain cleaner and pills (including aspirin and iodine) under lock and key today!

And today, I received this one:

DEAR ABBY: Do you remember the letter you printed in 1975 about a 16-month-old boy who had swallowed a mouthful of lye? Dr. Arnold E. Katz sent it to you hoping you would publish it as a warning to all who may have a child in their care.

Well, the boy's name is Michael, and I am his mother. I wrote to you a year later to tell you that our son had survived but we were still facing a long hard battle.

Michael is 10 years old now, and he's had so many operations we've almost lost count. He's doing fourth-grade work but had to be taught at home.

On Jan. 10, Michael was in surgery again for 10 hours. Dr. William Panje and his team of doctors at the University Hospital in Iowa City did a super job. Eight days later my husband and I brought Michael home. No one knew if the operation would be successful, but we were all hoping. You see, since his accident, Michael had been unable to swallow. He had to be fed through a tube in his stomach.

On Feb. 27, Michael took a gulp of soda pop, and it actually went down his throat and into his stomach!

He said, "Mom, it's gone! It's gone!" I told him to take a smaller sip to see if he could swallow again, and sure enough he could.

It's been a long 8½ years, Abby, but as of today Michael is actually eating and swallowing food. We can hardly believe it.

The tube through which he had been fed was removed from his stomach yesterday, and I wanted you to be one of the first to know that our son is normal again! This fall he will be able to ride the bus and go to school for the first time in his life.

I am enclosing a picture of Michael. Thank you for caring, Abby.

BETTY (MRS. EUGENE) STRIEGEL, LISBON, IOWA

DEAR MRS. STRIEGEL: Thank you from the bottom of my heart for wanting to share your joy with me. I know that my readers will rejoice with me on learning the wonderful news.

How I wish I could publish Michael's picture. His large blue eyes, pink cheeks and warm smile reveal an exceptionally beautiful and courageous child. May he and his family know only good fortune from this day on.

Dr. Donohue

Some can't take own blood pressure

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My 68-year-old father is taking his own blood pressure with a home use unit as well as having it checked once a week or so by his physician. His own readings are all over the place — from 140/76 to 190/90, then back down again. This is scaring him to death. When he is checked by his own doctor his pressure is invariably 140/80 or thereabouts. Could he have a faulty gauge? — T.S.

Many factors affect blood pressure measurement, including the one you suggest, a faulty gauge. Have your father take his machine with him the next time he sees his doctor and have a reading compared with one the doctor gets on his unit. But that's only one possible factor. Blood pressure doesn't stay fixed at one level all day, but varies with activity and with how relaxed or tense the person is.

Many doctors welcome the practice of the patient taking his own pressure at home, where, theoretically at least, the person is more relaxed and where the pressure can be taken periodically throughout the day. Your father may be one of the few for whom this doesn't work well.

Does he take a reading at the same time each day and under the same circumstances? He should try taking it after having rested in a chair for 10 or 15 minutes. And his anxiety over his readings is not helping. Factors such as physical activity can raise pressure as high as 220. He should be reassured about the consistency of the doctor's readings. But, nevertheless, he still should report his own and find out if his machine or his technique is faulty.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have a goiter and am taking the synthroid pills. I am fond of cabbage and brussels sprouts. Is it safe for me to eat them? My doctor is not available because he had surgery. I don't know who to turn to. — Mrs. C.S.

Cabbage, rutabaga, turnips, kale and brussels sprouts contain a substance that can impede normal thyroid production by that gland. But you have to consume prodigious amounts of those foods or have a gland that is on the verge of very low production to cause trouble. The substance, thiocarbamide blocks normal hormone production.

I have spent a long time trying to learn whether the substance might interfere with the thyroid hormone once it has been produced by the gland or when given as a supplement (as with your Synthroid). I can find nothing to support that idea, and the manufacturers do not suggest that it happens. You are supplying yourself with the ready-made hormone, so even were you interfering slightly with your natural production, you are getting what you need.

I'm quite fond of brussels sprouts and have been all my life. You've made me hungry enough to steam up a few right now. When your doctor recovers and resumes his practice, you can ask him what he thinks. If his opinion differs from mine, let me know.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Applications being taken for nursing scholarship

The Volunteer Services Council will be offering the nursing scholarship to interested individuals. Applicants accepted under the program will be able to enroll in a registered nursing program in the Fall Semester 1984.

Criteria for acceptance includes that the applicant must have completed prerequisite courses required by the college of nursing of their choice with a grade point average of at least 2.5, and must state the expected completion date of his/her nursing program. The applicant must provide three references, preferably from an employer, a college instructor and a person who can vouch for their character. The applicant also must submit a handwritten letter stating their reasons for selecting the nursing profession, their professional ambitions, the contribution they expect to make to the nursing field, and to BSSH, and the reason they require financial assistance.

Preference may be given to BSSH employees who meet the above criteria, and have been employed six months or more, who will be enrolling in an Associate Degree Nursing program.

Each applicant is encouraged to seek employment at BSSH for a time period at least equal to the time financial aid is provided, following completion of the ADN program. Should the applicant not complete the nursing program degree requirement, or should employment at BSSH not be realized then repayment of the amount advanced under the scholarship will be required.

The scholarship is intended to cover tuition fees and books as typified by cost a Howard College for the ADN program, although other area programs will be considered. Persons interested in applying for admission to the scholarship program or in donating funds for its support are asked to address the Chairman of the Scholarship Committee, P.O. Box 231. Those interested in more information may contact Volunteer Services, BSSH, (915) 267-8216 ext. 322.

Police radar

Q. What is police radar and how does it work?
A. Radar is an instrument used to detect the speed of moving vehicles. There are two types of police radars in use today. One being stationary radar and the second being moving radar.

Stationary radar is operated while the police vehicle is in a parked position with the radar being aimed in the direction of moving vehicles. Moving radar on the other hand is operated while the police vehicle is moving. This radar checks the speed of vehicles approaching the police vehicle.

All police radar operate on the Doppler Principle. The radar transmitter generates and sends a signal to the target. Upon striking a moving object the signal undergoes a change, this change in frequency is directly proportional to the speed of the moving object. This change is known as the Doppler Shift. This changed signal or frequency is received by the radar unit, the speed of the approaching vehicle is computed and is indicated by digital readout on the display screen.

President approves anti-terrorism plans

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Reagan has signed a policy directive that would authorize preemptive strikes and reprisal raids against terrorists as well as offering large rewards for information on terrorists at home and abroad, the Los Angeles Times reported.

The new policy was triggered by the truck-bomb deaths of 241 U.S. servicemen last October in Beirut and is in line with Secretary of State George P. Shultz's call for "active defense against terrorism," the newspaper said in its Sunday editions.

As part of a shift in anti-terrorism tactics, the White House will ask Congress for new laws, including one to permit the payment of huge rewards — $500,000 has been suggested — for information on domestic or foreign terrorists, the newspaper said.

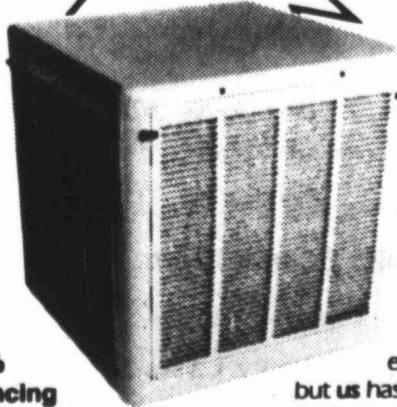

Despite the emphasis on preempting terrorist activity, the new policy directive, which President Reagan signed April 3, stops short of authorizing assassinations of suspected terrorists, the newspaper said. But it permits the use of force in other forms, including the creation of FBI and CIA paramilitary units.

"What concerns us, is the significant trend away from attacks on government property as the way the terrorist makes his political statement, with the swing toward attacks on persons," Brig. Gen. P. Neal Scheidel, chief of the Air Force security police, told the newspaper.

Fugitive killed in police shootout

NASHVILLE (AP) — An Arizona prison escapee was killed in a gun battle as he tried to flee a crowded restaurant, and authorities were trying to determine if a police officer who came on the scene had mistakenly wounded an FBI agent and a woman bystander.

Robert Vance Latimer, a fugitive from an Arizona prison where he was serving 15 years for armed robbery and kidnapping, was also wanted for shooting an FBI agent last month in a Virginia shopping mall where a fellow escapee was wounded.

Ten to 20 shots were fired in the shootout Sunday, and ballistics tests were ordered to determine whether a police officer had mistakenly wounded FBI agent Ben Purser and a woman whose car Latimer tried to commandeer, said Lt. Richard Pope of the suburban Goodlettsville Police Department.

"Frankly, at this point we do not know who shot who," said FBI spokesman Verne Gauby. "We had information that Latimer was in the Nashville area and we were actively seeking him."

Purser, 37, and Susan Wright of Chattanooga underwent surgery at Memorial Hospital in Nashville and were listed in stable condition early today, nursing supervisor Marion Ayers said.

Authorities said the incident began when Latimer, 25, had a meal in a McDonald's restaurant at a shopping mall in Goodlettsville shortly before 1 p.m., after having asked two strangers to drive to a post office and bring him some letters.

He then apparently slipped out a side entrance, eluding a plainclothes FBI agent waiting for him in a car. "We heard one shot through our speaker in the drivethrough," said restaurant manager Frank Shipley. "The agent was parked behind a customer at the window and after the shot missed the guy, he ran down the street."

As Latimer tried to force his way into a car containing Ms. Wright and another, unidentified woman, Purser tackled him and the two scuffled on the highway, said Capt. Sherman Nickens of the Metro Nashville homicide squad.

A Goodlettsville officer who happened on the struggle may have shot Purser by mistake, Nickens said.

"Before any of us can say positively for sure we need to wait for the ballistics reports to come back. There is a possibility that our officer may have shot an agent," Pope said.

"From the start to finish, there was anywhere from 10 to 20 shots probably fired," he added.

On Jan. 23, Latimer and Kenneth J. Lundien, 27, escaped from the Virginia State Prison in Florence, Ariz., where Lundien was also serving time for armed robbery and kidnapping.

The two were confronted by FBI agents March 8 at the Springfield Mall in Springfield, Va., and a shootout ensued in which FBI agent Carl Swanson and Lundien were wounded.

Both convicts escaped from the shopping center.

Rollins said he and the friend, Stan Cherry, took a key from Latimer and brought him two letters. Rollins' father, Alf, said the boys were paid $20.

Teens, FBI team in clash

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP) — Teen-agers who tried to run down anti-terrorist agents during a secret investigation near a Soviet diplomatic compound apparently knew nothing of the probe but panicked when the agents identified themselves, an FBI spokesman says.

No one was hurt early Sunday when the four youths aimed their van at members of the joint FBI and New York police Terrorist Task Force, said spokesman Joseph Valiquette.

Officers shot at the van, hitting it four times, then chased it 10 miles before forcing it off the road and apprehending the youths, he said.

Valiquette refused to give any information about the investigation near the Killenworth Estate, a Soviet retreat on suburban Long Island.

"All I can tell you is it was part of an ongoing investigation," he said.

The driver, John Sperazza, 17, of Port Washington, was charged with assault, reckless endangerment and resisting arrest. His companions were not charged.

Valiquette said the 1:37 a.m. incident took place near the estate's front gate. He said he did not know what the youths were doing there.

Crenshaw gets first major with Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Ben Crenshaw knew he had the first major championship of his golf career sewed up — and so did the massive gallery surrounding the 18th green at Augusta National.

The thunderous ovation came in waves as the popular Texan prepared to put the finishing touches on a closing 68 that left him with an 11-under-par 277 total and the coveted Masters title.

"I honestly didn't know where I was," Crenshaw said.

"Coming up 18 I had so much support. It was incredible. I just didn't want to let those people down."

They had been with him all the way on the treacherous back side of this famous course built by Bobby Jones.

The cheers started at the 10th hole where he rolled in a monstrous, breaking 60-foot putt for his third straight birdie — one that gave him a three-shot lead.

He bogeyed the 11th, but then came back with a 12-foot birdie putt on the 155-yard, par-3 12th — a hole that took out the only two players with a realistic chance.

Larry Nelson, the U.S. Open champion who had closed the gap to one with a birdie on 11, knocked his tee shot in the water and took a double bogey.

Tom Kite, the third-round leader who was two back at the time, also found the water, and made triple bogey.

There was a sense that this tournament was over, that the only person who could beat Crenshaw was Crenshaw.

He didn't let it happen.

He saved par with a 20-footer on No. 14 and then applied the clincher, a 15-foot birdie putt on the 15th that built the lead to four shots.

The ovations at each hole continued to grow.

They were the type that had been reserved for two legends in Masters lore — for the popularity of Arnold Palmer during his heyday and for the respect for the brilliant play of Jack Nicklaus, the only five-time winner of this prestigious event.

Tom Watson, a two-time Masters winner, made two birdies over the last three holes to claim second place at 69-279, but he really never was in the title chase.

David Edwards and Gil Morgan shared the low round of the final day with 67s, and were deadlocked in third place at 280.

Nelson was next at 70-281 and Kite had a 75, falling into a four-way tie at 282 with Ronnie Black, 68, Australian David Graham, 73, and Mark Lye, the colorful 36-hole leader who closed with a 74.

"I haven't been through this before," Crenshaw said. "It's a feeling of relief more than anything. There's no question I've put pressure on myself to win the important tournaments."

He narrowly missed a major title in 1981 when he lost the PGA championship in a playoff with Graham.

"Today was just my day," he said. "I was determined. I tried to hit the fairways and the greens, and I did a darn good job of it."

It was the 10th victory of a career that began with a triumph in his first professional start — the 1973 San Antonio-Texas Open.

He was fresh off the campus of the University of Texas, where he claimed three individual NCAA crowns.

The golf world expected great things from him. So did Crenshaw.

Asked if it were better to win his first major now, rather than in the early stages of his career, he said:

"It means more now. There have been disappointments, but this is a sweet, sweet thing. I don't think there'll ever be a sweeter moment."

It wasn't a day to remember for Kite, Crenshaw's former college teammate who has come close, but never won a major title.

Asked if he knew what might be going through Crenshaw's mind, Kite replied, "No, but I can guarantee he knows what's going through mine. It's sure not jubilation."

"He has got to feel sick," Crenshaw said of Kite.

Padres looking for success on road

By The Associated Press

The San Diego Padres, with a cast that includes a couple of Broadway characters, two young hoofers and a pair of newcomers starring in lead roles, have gotten their act together and are ready to take it on the road.

Off to the fastest start in their history, the Padres beat the Atlanta Braves 6-4 Sunday to wrap up their long-running, season-opening homestand with a lofty 9-2 record.

That mark puts the Padres, who have never finished in the first division since being formed in 1969, in a position they have never enjoyed prior to this year — 3½ games ahead of the pack in the National League West.

In other NL games, St. Louis nipped Pittsburgh 1-0, Houston shaded Cincinnati 6-5, San Francisco topped Los Angeles 8-6 in 11 innings, and Philadelphia at Montreal and New York at Chicago were rained out.

San Diego rallied for three runs in the third inning, aided by an Atlanta error, to overcome a 4-3 deficit. With runners on first and second and one out, Carmelo Martinez lined a single to left, and both Winner Sid Monge, 2-0, is one of six San Diego pitchers with a victory this season.

Claudell Washington drove in all four Atlanta runs with a three-run homer, his third of the year, and an RBI single.

The Padres venture to San Francisco for games Tuesday and Wednesday and then play four in Los Angeles before returning home.

Meanwhile the Braves, accustomed to fast starts, are just 3-8.

"Well, it's not as much fun as last year or the year before," said Atlanta Manager Joe Torre.

runners scored and Martinez reached third when the ball skipped by outfielder Gerald Perry.

Kevin McReynolds then hit a sacrifice fly off reliever Kick Mahler, who had relieved Craig McMurry, 1-2.

Angels scored in the bottom of the first inning and Cardinal starter Bob Forsch and three relievers made the run stand up. Forsch departed with strained back muscles with one out in the fifth. Dave Rucker, 1-0, left in favor of Jeff Lahti with one out in the seventh, and Bruce Sutter came on with one out in the eighth for his fourth save.

Lonnie Smith scored the game's only run when he singled, Ozzie Smith doubled and George Hendrick grounded out.

ASTROS 6, REDS 5
Houston scored four runs in the bottom of the eighth to make it 5-5 and then won it in the ninth on Phil Garner's one-out single with the bases loaded.

Garner's hit, through the left side of a drawn-in infield, came after the Astros loaded the bases on two walks and Enos Cabell's single off Tom Hume, 0-1.

All-Time save king beats season holder

By The Associated Press

It was a classic confrontation of pitchers, not starters, but between relievers — one at the top of his game, the other struggling to get back.

It was Dan Quisenberry vs. Rollie Fingers. The single-season save king vs. the all-time save leader.

Quisenberry, who set a major league record with 45 saves in 1983, had earned a save in each of his previous four appearances with the Kansas City Royals this season. He relieved rookie Bret Saberhagen on Sunday to start the eighth inning.

Fingers, who came into the season with the all-time save record of 301, had earned his first save in nearly two years for Milwaukee the night before. Apparently on the road back from arm surgery, Fingers took over from Mike Caldwell with one out in the eighth inning.

When Fingers came to the mound, the Brewers had a 3-2 lead, and he made it stand up with 1-2-3 innings of one-hit relief, striking out three of the six batters he faced. He hadn't had a save since Aug. 27, 1982. Now, he had two in two days.

"I'm not 100 percent of what I was," said the tall right-hander with the handlebar mustache. "The fastball is about five miles slower, but my forkball is working. I've worked on it for four or five years now, and I can finally throw strikes."

In other American League games, California outslug Oakland 12-8,

Baltimore edged Cleveland 6-5, New York beat Chicago 2-1 in 10 innings, Toronto defeated Texas 2-1 and Seattle beat Minnesota 5-4. Detroit at Boston was rained out.

ANGELS 10, A's 8
California scored nine of its runs with four homers, including a grand slam by Brian Downing, and the Angels led 10-0 after a seven-run second inning.

Reggie Jackson, who has 10 RBI and three homers in 10 games, and Juan Beniquez hit two-run homers, and Rob Wilfong hit a solo shot after Downing's slam in the second.

BLUE JAYS 2, RANGERS 1
Willie Upshaw and Cliff Johnson hit consecutive home runs in the top of the ninth inning as Toronto came back to beat Texas.

Luis Leal of the Blue Jays and Dave Stewart of the Rangers were locked in a scoreless duel until George Wright's RBI-single with two out gave Texas a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the eighth inning.

MARINERS 5, TWINS 4
Bob Kearney drove in two runs, including one with a double in Seattle's four-run seventh inning, and the Mariners rallied to beat Minnesota.

The Twins led 3-0 after three innings.

"If they don't go to prize money, that race is going to die," Meyer said. "More and more marathons are springing up with big money. It's sad, because Boston could be the best marathon in the world. It's sad, because they let it go."

"The proof will be Monday. This race was on its knees after the '82 controversy," Kilduff said. "Now, it's standing upright. I wish people would be a little more tolerable before they consider the race community."

76ers approach playoffs weary

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia 76ers, who won 16 fewer games this season than last year when they won the National Basketball Association title, will begin their drive to become the first repeat champion since 1969 with guarded optimism.

"I feel we can win it," star forward Julius Erving said. "I wouldn't say anything else. Admitting you could lose makes you vulnerable to losing. But you can't just say it, you've got to do it."

"This is the time of year I get no sleep," Coach Billy Cunningham said. "My main concern is to get everybody healthy. We're trying to get everything running smoothly. The East is so tough this year that anybody can beat anybody. I'm not sure it was like that last year."

The playoffs, with a largest-ever field of 16 teams, open Tuesday with five games.

Atlantic Division champion Boston plays host to the Washington Bullets, the Eastern Conference's No. 8 seed; Atlanta will be at Milwaukee, the Central winner; and Denver will be at Utah, the Midwest champion. Other games Tuesday have New York at Detroit and Seattle at Dallas.

On Wednesday, New Jersey will be at Philadelphia, Phoenix is at Portland and Kansas City will travel to Los Angeles, the Pacific champion.

The first round series will be best-of-five, with all subsequent series best-of-seven.

Boston's tradition steeped in trouble

BOSTON (AP) — Tradition aside, the Boston Marathon appears to be in trouble.

The trouble stems from the proliferating number of marathons throughout the world, virtually all offering prize money, and therefore attracting the elite distance runners.

The Boston Marathon, run for the 88th time today, meanwhile, refuses to bend from its tradition of not paying prize money, appearance money or even expense money.

Those are some of the reasons that the world's best marathoners probably will shy away from the annual Patriot's Day race, and head elsewhere in the future.

This year, as in virtually every Olympic year, the Boston Marathon is missing the leading American runners because of the closeness of the U.S. Olympic Trials to the race.

Fortunately, the race was able to attract some highly regarded foreigners in its field of 6,800. Those included Geoff Smith of Britain, and Allison Roe and Lorraine Moller of New Zealand.

Those three, however, entered only because they needed the race as a final qualifier for their country's Olympic teams.

Otherwise, the field would have been terribly subpar, with no men's runner having broken 2 hours, 10 minutes, and no women's runner having gone under 2:30.

This is the long-range fear of many Boston Marathon observers, especially the athletes. They maintain that if the race officials don't change some of their long-standing attitudes, the event will lose its international appeal and turn into a local event.

In addition to paying money, which now is legal — as long as the athletes put their winnings into a trust fund — the Boston Athletic Association, which organizes the race, is being pressured into changing the race day from Monday to Sunday, so it would be attractive to

The BAA, however, has refused to knuckle under. It has steadfastly held its pride, refusing to commercialize the race, preferring to keep it a pure amateur event. It has counted on the allure, the tradition and the mystique of the Boston Marathon to keep it going, without losing its appeal.

So far, it has been successful. But next year, without the Olympics to contend with, the Boston Marathon perhaps will face its stiffest test.

In April, there probably will be three other first-class marathons to challenge it for talent. They will be the first World Cup Marathon at Hiroshima, Japan, the Rotterdam Marathon and an expected marathon in Pittsburgh, also being run for the first time.

This year, the Rotterdam Marathon was run Saturday, and acquired such talent as world cross country champion Carlos Lopes of Portugal, Gidamis Shahanga, Zakariah Barie and Juma Ikingaa of Tanzania, Rodolfo Gomez of Mexico, Armand Parmentier of Belgium and Martti Vainio of Finland.

In 1985, the World Cup Marathon, to be run one or two days before Boston, likely will siphon off most of the best talent, leaving the other three marathons to scramble for top-flight entries.

Boston is likely to come out fourth-best in that battle. That is, unless, the BAA changes its policies regarding the race.

That could happen later this month, when the BAA's Board of Governors meets to elect a new board.

"I think they're going to come out and say there will be prize money," predicted Bill Rodgers, a four-time winner at Boston and New York, and the former American record holder. "I'll be shocked if they don't."

BAA President Tom Brown disagrees completely with Rodgers. "I think we'd be foolish to have prize money for this race," Brown said, "because it would take some of the

LOTS OF RAIN — Jerry Sluss protects himself from the cold and rain as he prepared for the 88th running of the Boston Marathon early today.

"If they don't go to prize money, that race is going to die," Meyer said. "More and more marathons are springing up with big money. It's sad, because Boston could be the best marathon in the world. It's sad, because they let it go."

At Silverdome

Stoudt enjoys second coming

By The Associated Press
Cliff Stoudt's appearance at the Pontiac Silverdome as quarterback of the Birmingham Stallions was quite a contrast to his last previous visit as a member of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Stoudt had a miserable game last Thanksgiving as the Steelers lost 45-3 to the Detroit Lions, but on Sunday he helped the Stallions win their seventh straight game, 28-17 over Michigan, the defending United States Football League champions.

"My trip to Detroit last time was pretty low," said Stoudt, who completed 15 of 24 passes for 133 yards and two touchdowns in the victory over the Panthers. "It was a rotten way to spend a holiday. But that's in the past now."

Elsewhere in the USFL Sunday, the Arizona Wranglers swamped the New Jersey Generals 20-3 and the Philadelphia Stars bombed the Chicago Blitz 41-7.

On Saturday, Oklahoma edged Washington 20-16, Los Angeles beat Memphis 23-17 in overtime, Denver topped Pittsburgh 31-21 and San Antonio blanked Jacksonville 20-0.

Houston will play at Oakland and Tampa Bay will be at New Orleans in tonight's games.

Stoudt got plenty of help from former Buffalo Bill Joe Cribbs, who caught one of the TD passes for seven yards, rushed three yards for another score and finished with 116 yards on 20 carries.

"Cribbs is the key to our offense," Stoudt said. "He takes the pressure off us. He just does a lot of things well. He's an All-Pro player. He has the ability to break it any time."

Despite Birmingham's lofty 7-1 record under Coach Rollie Dotsch, Stoudt's statistics are undistinguished. He has completed less than 52 percent of his passes, has thrown for an average of only 144 yards per game and has only seven touchdown passes in eight outings.

"Rollie's system doesn't need a quarterback to throw for 300 yards every week," Stoudt said. "We want to play the way Green Bay and Miami did (in the 1960s and '70s). You play hard, possess the football and win."

Michigan, 6-2, playing without star receiver Anthony Carter, who has a broken left arm, took a 7-0 lead before a home crowd of 42,665 on a 38-yard pass play from quarterback Bobby Hebert to Derek Holloway. But Cribbs' two touchdowns before halftime put Birmingham ahead for good.

Stoudt added a 17-yard TD pass to Jim Smith in the third quarter.

WRANGLERS 20, GENERALS 3

Kevin Long, who used to play for the New York Jets when they were coached by Walt Michaels, rushed for 123 yards and two touchdowns in leading the Arizona over Michaels' current team, New Jersey.

The loss before a crowd of 31,917 at Giants Stadium dropped the Generals to 6-2 and out of a first-place tie in the Atlantic Division with Philadelphia.

USL Roundup

In addition to his hard running, Long set up his 2-yard touchdown run early in the fourth quarter when took a short pass from Greg Landry and raced 40 yards. Long later scored on a 9-yard run.

STARS 41, BLITZ 7

Philadelphia won easily at home before 17,417 fans, scoring four touchdowns before the game was nine minutes old and 31 points in the first period.

Linebacker Sam Mills set up two touchdowns and a field goal with two interceptions and a fumble recovery, and the Stars also intercepted two other passes and recovered another fumble, the latter being returned 35 yards for a touchdown by defensive back Scott Woerner.

The Stars are 7-1, while the Blitz fell to 2-6.

SATURDAY'S GAMES

Oklahoma improved its record to 6-2 by winning its third straight game and keeping Washington winless. Quarterback Doug Williams, who hit 24 of 44 passes for 334 yards, passed eight yards to Ron Wheeler with 57 seconds left for the Outlaws' winning touchdown.

Goalies rule day for NHL winners

By The Associated Press

Who was that masked man? In St. Louis, he was Mike Liut. In Landover, Md., it was Billy Smith. At Montreal, it was Steve Penney. In Calgary, it was Grant Fuhr.

Goaltending often makes the difference in Stanley Cup play and that was particularly evident Sunday night. Liut was the key to the Blues' 3-1 victory over Minnesota as he made 24 saves. Smith, who has backstopped the New York Islanders to four consecutive National Hockey League crowns, foiled the Washington Capitals 32 times in another 3-1 decision. Penney, a rookie who was 0-4 in his regular-season appearances for the Canadiens, faced only 17 shots as Montreal edged Quebec 2-1. Fuhr foiled 35 shots as Edmonton beat Calgary 3-2.

Each winner now holds a 2-1 edge in their best-of-seven series, which resume at the same sites tonight.

BLUES 3, NORTH STARS 1

The Blues got goals from Bernie Federko, Doug Wickenheiser and Dave Pichette to subdue the North Stars. Liut, playing in his 35th straight postseason game for the Blues, lost his shutout when Minnesota scored on a power play with 2:25 left.

"He represents the finest type of goaltending you can get," said North Stars Coach Bill Mahoney. "I thought we got our offense going in the second period, but Mike Liut stood up big every time we had a chance. "You haven't seen the North Stars on the top of their game yet. When we play St. Louis, we expect a close-checking game and we know they're going to get good goaltending."

"I think I'm getting tired," admitted Liut. "The forwards are getting tired, everyone's getting tired. But it's the same thing for both teams. Until you get past the second round, you're playing back-to-back nights." Federko scored only 43 seconds after Wickenheiser made it 2-0.

"Dougie was breaking in alone. (Minnesota goalie Don) Beaupre came out, knocked the puck off his stick and it bounced right back to him," said Federko. "That's a good break for us, but sometimes you have to make your own breaks in the playoffs."

ISLANDERS 3, CAPITALS 1

The Islanders still aren't playing like a team on a mission — tying the NHL record of five straight Stanley Cups set from 1956-60 by Montreal. But they continued to show the killer instinct that has made them champions. And they have Smith.

"Billy Smith has carried them through two straight games," said Capitals Coach Bryan Murray. "That's it in the playoffs, that's what it's all about."

OILERS 3, FLAMES 2

Jaroslav Pouzar, one of Edmonton's few defense-minded forwards, made his 1984 playoff debut. He took a pass from Jari Kurri and beat goalie Reggie Lemelin on a breakaway at 3:13 of the third period.

Paul Coffey had the other two goals for the Oilers and was the main subject of post-game discussion. "Paul Coffey is to us what Bobby Orr was to the Bruins," said Wayne Gretzky, who is playing with a sore left arm. "As far as I'm concerned he won that game. People criticize him for his defense but tonight he was blocking shots, taking out his man... he dominated the game."

CANADIENS 2, NORDIQUES 1

Montreal's tight checking made it easy for Penney. Bobby Smith and Ryan Walter connected on power plays for the Canadiens, while Pat Price got the only Quebec tally.

"It's easier now (during playoffs) because we all know our little jobs," Walter said. "Before we were all trying to do too much, but it's the little jobs that are important."

And the goaltending.

Alan Haworth of the Washington Capitals takes down Paul Boutilier of the New York Islanders during their NHL playoff game Sunday. The Islanders won to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

Playoff bound Mavericks rest starters in 98-96 loss

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Golden State Warriors head coach John Bach already had a three-point plan for the 1984-1985 season minutes after ending the regular season with a 98-96 victory over the Dallas Mavericks.

"First, what can I do with our offense to make it shoot better than 46 percent?" the rookie coach said. "Second, what can I do to make our defense rebound better? And third, how can I prepare the team to play better on the road?"

"Those are the three questions to answer before we can become a playoff team," said Bach, whose team failed to make the playoffs for the seventh straight year.

While Bach ponders those questions, the Mavericks will be thinking about

Tuesday night when they will play host to the Seattle SuperSonics in the first round of this year's playoffs.

The Mavericks, who finished the year with a 43-39 record, played Sunday without their four top scorers, including Mark Aguirre.

Despite having their big guns on the bench, rookie Dale Ellis provided plenty of offensive punch for the Mavericks. Ellis finished with a career high 31 points, including 18 in the final period.

The game was tied at 20-20 after the first quarter and tied again at 66-66 going into the final period. Golden State pulled steadily ahead in the final period, taking a 92-78 lead with 3:13 to play.

But then Ellis hit two three-pointers and the Mavericks battled back to 92-88 with 1:50 to play.

Gamblers taking game on road against Invaders

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Going into tonight's game against the Houston Gamblers the Oakland Invaders do not have the worst record in the United States Football League.

That distinction, at least for now, goes to the Washington Federals, whose loss to Oklahoma on Saturday gives them an 0-8 record, compared with the Invaders' 0-7 mark.

Perhaps it is fitting that the Invaders will host the equally hapless Federals next Sunday in what could be a battle to avoid a winless season.

But the Invaders could always win tonight's game against the Gamblers and their hot, young quarterback Jim Kelly.

Kelly is coming off a 307-yard passing performance last week, his third 300-yard game of the year. He has 14 touchdown passes in seven games and has led the Gamblers to a 4-3 record in their first USFL season.

Quarterback Fred Besana has thrown 103 consecutive passes without an interception, but his starting job is in jeopardy. He has been dumped 30 times on sacks for a total of 223 yards in losses.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 17, 1984

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Don't let your prejudices or any criticism you have of persons or conditions show or you can find yourself behind the eight ball where it can be most embarrassing.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You may find yourself arguing over some business affair if you don't give it further study first.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are apt to get into a big quarrel with a partner because you do not agree on something. Use tact.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try not to argue with fellow workers or others because you have different views. Make sure you safeguard your reputation.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You and a friend may disagree about some pleasure, but it is best to compromise. Avoid an argument with your mate.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Take care you do not disagree with those at home otherwise a big fuss can ensue and reconciliation would be difficult later.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find a better way of handling those who do not agree with your ideas and gain their cooperation. Drive with care.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A financial expert and you may see things differently on some matter, so postpone coming to any definite decision.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Find the right means through which you and allies can handle problematical affairs much better. Not a good time for the social side of life.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't make the mistake of trying to belittle others or you could get into trouble easily. Think along constructive lines.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You don't understand why you don't get a personal wish granted; don't argue with a bigwig if that is the way it is going to be.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You may not agree with one in power, but could get into big trouble if you voice your views. Enjoy some hobby in the evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You want to be off to new sites and interests but could get into trouble if you don't keep your part of any agreements already made.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who has a penchant for fighting over every little thing and should be taught to be more willing to deal harmoniously with others, and then there can be much success during the lifetime, otherwise life could be most difficult. Teach to be cooperative.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Man held in E. Texas fire
NACOGDOCHES (AP) — A panhandler who was asked to leave a shopping mall in downtown Nacogdoches shortly before a major fire broke out was being held for questioning in the blaze, police said.
 "We are holding a dude in our jail that is a suspect," police Lt. Pete Winder said Sunday. He said police were awaiting the outcome of an investigation by the fire marshal's office.
 "They might decide it wasn't even arson," Winder said.
 Joe Adams, assistant fire marshal for Nacogdoches County, said two antique stores in the mall, Stripling's Drug Store, the Commercial National Bank and Boyett's Jewelry Store were damaged by the fire.
 No serious injuries were reported, fire department officials said.
 Adams said arson was suspected, but he declined to say whether it appeared an accelerant such as gasoline had been used to start the blaze.

Man held in killing of Angelo St. coed
LUBBOCK (AP) — A 24-year-old San Angelo man is being held on two capital murders charges in the rape-slaying of a 19-year-old Angelo State University student and in the beating death of 31-year-old Lubbock man after an apparent quarrel, officials said.
 Police said the body of Kimberly Reeves, 19, of Amarillo, was found on the shoreline of Lake Nasworthy just south of San Angelo at about 2:30 p.m. Friday.
 She had been stabbed and beaten with a car jack, police said.
 Harry G. Richards was found dead in a cotton field near Lubbock Thursday morning. He died of a massive skull fracture, officials said.
 Investigators said the man was connected to the San Angelo murder from statements he gave police after he was arrested in San Angelo on a Lubbock County warrant.
