Mayor And Sheriff Of Borger Resign Under Fire High School Youths Crash To Death Against Freight

Two Meet Instant Death And Others Expected To Die

Automobile Collides With Moving Freight Train On Weatherford Street Late Monday Night

Little Hope Held

Car Completely Demolished At Grade Crossing, Partially Hidden By Large Elevator Near Tracks

WEATHERFORD, Oct. 14.—Two high school boys were killed and two were probably fatally injured here tonight as their automobile crashed into the side of a moving freight locomotive on North Main street.

Joe Bounds and Robert Chambers were dead when they were taken from the wreck of their car. Doctors said there was little hope that Clinton Jackson, or his brother Carl, would live.

D. C. Wilson, a fifth occupant of the car was injured almost as badly but doctors had not completed diagnosis of his injuries. He was thought to have a fractured skull.

The boys were coming to town from the north side of the city when they approached the Texas and Pacific crossing which is partially hidden by an elevator. The freight train was moving out of town and had gotten up considerable speed when the automobile crashed into the locomotive, hitting it about halfway between the front of the locomotive and the cab. The automobile was demolished.

Sinclair Dealings Injected In Trial

Presiding Judge To Pass On Introducing Of New Testimony In Fall Trial On Bribery Charges

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Attempts of government counsel in the bribery trial of Albert H. Fall to introduce testimony showing his dealings with H. H. Sinclair, oil operator now in the District of Columbia jail, tonight awaited a decision of Justice William Pitts on whether such evidence was admissible.

Defense counsel opposed its presentation and Justice Pitts took the question under advisement until court opens tomorrow. The government told the court that such testimony would require only a short time and that except for this, its case against Fall was complete. The former interior secretary is charged with having accepted $100,000 for the Elk Hills, Cal., lease.

Opposed By Defense
The defense contended that to open the Sinclair case would require all the evidence of that transaction to go before the jury. If it was permitted, Frank Hogan, chief defense counsel, said the defense would require five or six days, bringing the end of the case into next week. Otherwise he said Fall's defense would be completed in from two to four days.

Death Follows Drinking Party

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Surrounded by evidences of an all-night drinking party, the charred body of Charles Randolph, 26, of Greenwich, Conn., was found today in a bedroom of the Hotel Belmont.

Dr. F. Oserman, Randolph's physician, said his patient had been impossible to pain in his arm and legs and police said he apparently tried to extinguish his blazing pajamas and returned to bed unaware they were still afire. Police said the physician had told them that Randolph had been evicted from several hotels recently for drinking.

Police learned that Randolph had dismissed a nurse who was sent to care for him over the week end. Authorities also said that a Margaret St. John had been evicted from several hotels recently for drinking.

Holland Gets Two Year Sentence On Burglary Charges

Defendant Pleads Guilty To Charges Of Robbing Slaton Grocery Store; Mexican Given One Year

Following a deliberation by the jury of only 15 minutes, Homer Holland was found guilty and sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary in the 29th district court Monday before Judge Clark M. Melton. He was charged with burglary in connection with the robbing of Harry's Cash grocery, Slaton, on September 19, of this year.

Holland pleaded guilty when placed on the stand and asked for a suspended sentence through his attorney, Victor H. Lindsey, appointed by the court.

Valerius Hernandez, Mexican, was also found guilty yesterday of violation of the prohibition laws and sentenced to one year in the penitentiary. Burton S. Burka, assistant district attorney, represented the state in both cases.

The case of Amelia Hill, negro, charged with violation of the prohibition laws, was taken up this morning. She was indicted last night. She is the sister of Jake Hill, being held in jail here for transfer to the penitentiary, having been sentenced to one year on September 30.

Pantages Case Is Approaching End

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The state slowly approached the close of its case against Alexander T. Pantages, 54, vaudeville magnate, being tried on a statutory charge today. Police Chemist Rex Welch, who District Attorney Buron Vitis said would be the last prosecution witness, was cross-examined.

Welch, identified clothing presented as a state exhibit earlier in the trial and identified as that of Eunice Pringle, 17 year old dancer and Pantages' accuser, had worn August 9, the day of the alleged attack, as garments he received for chemical examination. The chemist testified he was convinced the attack on the dancer had been made as charged.

"We are planning an unusual program for their entertainment," stated Mr. Clements, "and expect this gathering to be one of the most successful ever held on the South Plains. Every indication points to the fact that a large representation will be included from practically every city in the section."

Attendance Urged
"Every local Rotarian is urged to be present at this meeting. The program is a luncheon program and will not be held but this program is planned instead and will score in attendance records."

I appreciate the appointment and realize that the position is an important one. Governor Moody asked me sometime ago if I would accept the place and it was not without a great deal of consideration that I decided to do so. We expect to leave within a few days."

Flood Menace Is Moving On Miami

Millions Of Acres Formed In Gigantic Lake; Canal Overflows Banks At Serious Threat To Section

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Millions of acres of water, forming a gigantic lake slowly moving across country toward Miami and the country to the south, was seen late today when G. Carl Adams, engineering head of Glenn H. Curtiss properties, made an aerial survey of the section north of Hialeah.

The entire section was covered by a silver sheet, Adams said. In the center the Miami canal raced into Hialeah and Miami, overflowing its banks in many places.

Conditions Serious
The flood condition in the residential and business sections of Hialeah remains the same with many stores and homes flooded. No general evacuation of the city had been reported tonight. Relief work was being administered by the American Legion.

The Miami city commission this afternoon appropriated an emergency fund of $25,000 for cutting a drainage ditch to the southwest section of the city to reduce the high water. A fund of $1,000 also was appropriated by the city for relief purposes.

Circus Drums Will Beat Out Totto Of Death For "Black Diamond," Huge Jungle-Crazed Elephant

(By Associated Press)
BAY CITY, Tex., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The circus drums that once whirled Black Diamond, a nine ton brute engine of destruction, into elephantine performances under the big top beat out a tattoo of death for him today.

Urged To Kill
Through the elephant's little animal brain there darted Saturday a red primal urge to kill and when it had run its course the broken body of Mrs. Eva Donohue, 52, was tossed aside by the huge trunk and the mighty beast's former trainer, H. D. Prickett, 33, lay with serious hurts. Black Diamond was sentenced to die, perhaps to have his own kind as executioner.

Circus officials were waiting to put an end to the killer only until tomorrow or the next day when they will have cleared the populous country en route to another state. They feared an attempt to kill here might endanger other human life.

Chained To Car
Meanwhile, Black Diamond, chained fast to his car, sprawled in a stupor, the jungle craze still reflected in the mad gleam of his eyes as his contemporaries went about their accustomed duties, unmindful that the task of fratricidal executioner may be thrust upon them.

If the latter is adopted, a chain with free ends will be wrapped about the killer's neck and three elephants will be attached to each end. Then a strange death march, with the victim still, will begin with the signal which sets the animals to move in opposite directions.

Martial Law Rule Of City Reaches Dramatic Climax Monday When Two Officials Offer Their Resignations

The Question Is Who Is Crazy

Who's who and what's what?
A greatly perturbed Lubbock wife early last evening called the police station, saying her husband had gone crazy and she wanted him locked up.

An officer went to the home, found a man and wife quarreling. "He has cursing and making a disturbance all evening," she declared. "He is crazy and I am going to file a complaint of insanity against him."

"She has been cursing me and making a disturbance," he maintained. "She seeks to qualify the complaint against her."

The husband was arrested but released a short time later when officers found he was entirely sane. At a late hour last night no other word had been received from the two.

Soldier On Trial For Axe Slaying

Harrison Wait Charged In Murder Of Wife And Her Par amour; Unwritten Law Will Be Defense Plea

EL PASO, Oct. 14.—Seven jurors were obtained today to try Harrison F. Wait, Fort Bliss soldier, for slaying his wife, Irene, and her lover, Gordon Rose, with an axe several weeks ago.

Attorneys believed that the jury could be completed tomorrow and testimony opened.

Wait discovered his wife and her lover together and hocked them to pieces with an axe, giving himself up after he had wrapped his seven year old child in a sheet and taken it to a neighbor's home. The state seeks to qualify the child as a witness against his father.

Mother Attends
Wait's 70-year-old mother, Mrs. Hattie Wait of Wichita, Kansas, and his brother, L. M. Wait, a Rose Hill, Kansas, banker were in the courtroom today as selection of a jury started.

Questions asked by defense attorneys today indicated they would plead Wait sane and in the heat of passion. The state hopes to show that Wait got on his shoes and went to the backyard for an axe.

This, the prosecutor will argue, showed that Wait killed deliberately and not in the heat of passion.

Many To Attend
It is understood that Lubbock will be represented by a large group of citizens.

Mayor Thompson's letter follows: Hon. H. D. Woods, Mayor of Lubbock, Lubbock, Texas.

"As Mayor of El Paso I am unusually proud of my city in being host to the 12th (twelfth) annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. I, therefore, want to take this opportunity of cordially inviting you and your citizens to attend the convention at El Paso, being held October 24th, 25th and 26th, and I want to assure you that every effort will be made by the Mayor and City Council to make your stay here most enjoyable."

Jews Observe Yom Kippur On Monday

Yom Kippur, day of atonement for people of Jewish faith, was observed in Lubbock yesterday when a majority of the stores, owned by Jews in the city, were closed. A large number were out of town for the day, attending Temple B'nai in Amarillo and Dallas.

Yom Kippur is essentially a day of fasting for Jewish people and devout members remain in the synagogue all day.

According to the old orthodox rules, no work at all was to be done on Yom Kippur, which began Sunday night at sundown and ended Monday night at sunset.

Jewish New Year was celebrated 10 days ago, which is claimed to be the 3900th anniversary dating back to the creation of the world.

(By Associated Press)
BORGER, Oct. 14.—Martial law in Hutchinson county was climaxed today by announcement of the designations of Sheriff Joe Ownbey and Mayor Glenn Pace of Borger.

Brigadier General Jacob Wolters, in charge of Texas National Guard troops, made the announcement and said he expected the county to be freed of military rule Wednesday or Thursday.

No Successors Named
No successors were appointed, but General Wolters said he expected the county commissioners and the Borger city commissioners to fill Ownbey and Pace's places within the next day or so. The general also announced he expected the city commissioners, J. W. Crabtree and J. E. Higgins, to resign after they appointed a mayor with the approval of Clem Cathoun, district attorney.

"The Sky Is The Limit," Architects Say Of Plans For Giant 150-Story Structure To Be Erected In New York

By JOE COPPS NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The sky is the limit, and a New York office building is going to reach it. It's all very discouraging for those architects who have been commissioned to design "the highest building in the world." For there has been a spirited battle for supremacy of the national skyline, with several cities in competition.

But New York, city of sky-tougers, is going to win, and win by such a stupendous margin that its rivals scarcely can have a chance for many years to come. Near the downtown financial district of Manhattan there is to be erected a structure more than twice the height of its long-famous neighbor, the Woolworth building. It will cost about $100,000,000, will cover two city blocks at its base, and will shoot 1,600 feet into the heavens.

The Eiffel Tower in Paris, now the tallest structure in the world, will be dwarfed by this giant of steel and stone. So will the new Waldorf Astoria office building, to be erected on the site of the celebrated hotel. At its scheduled height of 1,600 feet, it was to have been the biggest, though closely crowded by structures in Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland.

It's Only Possible Side A stroke of luck for the promoters has made possible this skyscraper. They have been able to gain control of the only property in the city where such an enterprise could be carried out. Structural requirements for a building of such vast proportions make it necessary that two city blocks and the intervening street be spanned. Thomas street, between Broadway and Church streets, the site chosen, is owned by the city but by New York Hospital, and the promoters already hold leases on 150,000 square feet of this street and its bordering property.

The building code of New York requires that the area of a building's tower must not exceed 25 percent of that of the base. But even with this restriction, the roof will be an acre in area, and will be employed as a landing field for airplanes.

His Castle in the Air This giant of 150 stories has been the life-long dream of Charles F. Noyes, wealthy real estate developer who has an interest in 40 other large buildings. In this new enterprise he is associated with one of the wealthiest of the tobacco magnates.

We have determined that the 150-story building is entirely practical of construction and financing," Noyes declared. "We have been working silently on the project for some time and even this announcement—for our own interests—is somewhat premature.

The business population of the skyscraper will be at least 30,000, and it is estimated that 200,000 persons will enter it every day. It will be a city in itself.

plans landing on the roof, and a tower which will be at least 50 stories in height.

Noyes, now president of a huge real estate concern, has taken a colorful route to success. Born in Norwich, Conn., he sold newspapers as a boy, later expanding his business to obtain a monopoly on sales on Block Island, just across the sound.

Although his parents were in comfortable circumstances, he paid his way through college by working as a buyer for dining cars and the Grand Central restaurants. At 20, he opened a small real estate office in partnership with a friend with whom he had played professional football.

How Business Grew That was 30 years ago. In 1906 his business had grown until he was able to sell to the United Cigar Store interests for $2,400,000, and this with the provision that one-half that amount would be represented in a half-interest in the business to be retained by him. He was to continue as president and the bonus system he had installed for his employees was to remain in force.

Harvey Wiley Corbett, prominent New York architect and one of the most enthusiastic advocates of great skyscrapers, declared that 100-story buildings are the practical limit for a single city block. He now is designing the new Metropolitan Life Insurance tower, which way reach that height.

Hat, Shoes and Handbag Match In Newest Mode

By LUCY CLAIRE
Fashion Expert For Central Press

The vogue for matching hat, shoes and handbag has, if anything, increased in importance. Hat, shoes and bag need not necessarily match the costume, but they should, at least, match the accessories or trim. While brown is the leading color for fall at the same time black has lost none of its prestige. The proportion of black as against all other colors is at least 50 per cent. Dark green is forging to the front, and dark blue is also important, retaining its place at an even rating for the past six months. Dark red in the wide tones is gaining. I am speaking of the colors that are staples or nearly staples for daytime wear. Of course there are the dahlias, the lighter blues, lighter greens and any number of other high style colors that are in the mode, but they are scarcely the colors the women of limited wardrobe would care to wear for her street ensemble.

In handbags the envelope type is preferred with the tailored flap costume. In the Oxford, step-in or one-way model shoes, although the great popularity of the pump has made it equally important as a day-time shoe with all but the truly sports attire.

In hats there is little distinction between those for informal and formal wear, unless we go into the very formal hat, shoe and bag combinations illustrated the first, or that at the upper left, is in black. The hat is of felt with the felt lifted over the eye, and long draped back effect. The Oxford is of black kid with lizard trim, and the envelope bag is of the same leathers.

The combination in the upper right corner is in brown. The hat is of a reddish brown velvet, framing the face closely with the forehead in a bonnet cut, and with the long back held in place by rows of shirring. The shoe is of brown kid with saddle, tip and inset on quarter of deeper brown lizard, in an open vamp Oxford model. The bag is of brown leather trimmed with brown lizard.

In the third grouping, at the lower center, is shown a more dressy type of hat or afternoon wear, in a turban of blue felt and satin ribbon with a long drape over one ear, which is reported to be very successful. With this is shown a matching blue pouch bag of blue kid without arm strap, on an amber frame. The shoe is a favorite T strap model of blue kid in scandal effect.

You will note in all these hats that the eyes still have it with the forehead exposed, and the pushed to the back of the head movement is emphasized by the long backs. Not all fall hats are long in the back. It would be rather rough on

Expert Declares Good Cooks Need Change In Routine

Housewives Should Dine Away From Home One Evening Weekly, Says Mrs. Dougan

"The average man with a multitude of interests and contracts comprising his daily duties cannot understand why his wife gets tired of a routine of cooking."

So declares Mrs. Myra Olliver Dougan, noted cookery expert who will appear in Lubbock at the Avallanche-Journal cooking school next week.

If it were possible I should appreciate very much the opportunity of devoting one of my lectures to this essential item of lack of perspective in otherwise sympathetic husbands.

The man who lets his whiskers grow during a vacation does so in open mutiny against the regularity of shaving during the rest of the year, and the outlet this provided no doubt helps carry him over until the next year's vacation, when he again lets his beard grow.

Many hours have been provided by a systematic plan of providing the housewife with one evening's relief a week. On such an evening courtship days are revived—Mrs. Housewife dons her best garments and again the husband selects a place at which to dine and orders for the family.

How to Achieve Beauty

Of course, I have purposely selected the most elaborate and costly treatments known to beauty science in my talks this week. These may have but little immediate interest for you in your own pursuit of beauty but it is always of deep interest to every woman to know what some of her wealthy sisters are doing.

If ever the tang of mystery and romance surrounded a mere treatment, that treatment is the eastern oil beauty treatment. It was discovered, after years of research, and experiment, in one of the Oriental countries. Famous beauties of the day, ladies of royalty, applied their eastern oil with all the reverence of a religious ritual.

Periodically these women had the mask applied and made fast with the yolk of an egg, and permitted it to remain on for 48 hours. During this period they took their food in liquid form through a straw so as not to disturb the mask.

And the results, after the mask was peeled off, were so gratifying—the fresh color, the glowing skin tissues were so expressive of youth—that mildy could not help but be happy for days afterward.

Modern salons have adapted this old and successful treatment, contrasting it, however, into a shorter number of hours. The price, too, has been made not more than the cost of a moderately priced hat.

Steps are being taken to restore the hamlet of Trianon, France, famous as the place where Queen Marie Antoinette and her ladies at the Court met when not at the Tuilleries.

The WOMAN'S DAY

When Isabel MacDonald became hostess for her father at Number 10 Downing Street, in London, there were those who thought that this very natural, unaffected person, with her disregard for clothes and formality, might find her new position difficult.

Some of the dowagers of the British diplomatic set, decided to help her out about clothes, and tell her what to do and how to go about being the second lady of the land. She listened attentively, I'm told, then said:

"I believe I can get along very well, thank you."
And she has.

MOTHER'S DAUGHTER
But when you read that very remarkable tribute which J. Ramsay MacDonald wrote about his wife, a volume called "Margaret Ethel MacDonald," you realize that Isabel's mother had prepared her very well for her present position, and that she is but repeating her mother's success.

For society as such, she (meaning Isabel's mother) had great distaste. It bored her. Nobody enjoyed more thoroughly than she did a frolicsome time. She could play with the rowdiest and joke with the most facetious. But she chose her companions for such occasions.

County Judges Of West Texas Asked To Attend Confab

Gathering Will Be Held In City Tomorrow To Form Association Of Jurists In This Section

Invitations mailed out from Lubbock last week by County Judge Robert H. Bean, to approximately 75 county judges in counties of West Texas, have met with enthusiastic response and indications point to a representative gathering in this city tomorrow, according to an announcement yesterday.

A RICH HERITAGE
Isabel MacDonald had a brilliant mother, who was keenly interested in every social and political problem, and who entered into campaigns with heart and soul.

Margaret Ethel MacDonald gave her daughter a rich and varied background, and a better preparation for her difficult position today than any purely social training could possibly have supplied.

After extinguishing a fire which threatened his apartments, eighty-year-old Capt. Henry Hammond of Bexhill, England, dropped dead from over exertion.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified croscote that is pleasant to take.

Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs croscote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to croscote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the croscote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Paper Money Has Value! AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

An ancient prejudice nursed the ignorant fear and distrust of paper money. AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE inspires the faith which completely accepts the printed obligation. In the interest of convenience and safety, its use is universal.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

TUNE IN—The Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra, every Saturday night, over a coast-to-coast network of the N. B. C.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

President Looks On
With the President of the United States and the First Lady of the Land to applaud them, joining the applause of more than 30,000 fans, the Athletics for the second straight game demonstrated their unconquerable spirit by rallying to win after the game seemed hopelessly lost.

With two out in the ninth, Bing Miller, veteran right fielder of the Mackmen, drove the decisive blow to the score board, a two bagger that brought Al Simmons across with the winning run after George (Mule) Haas, big ramboned centerfielder, had tied the count with a smashing home run over the right field wall as Maxx Bishop rested on first.

Miller's drive, with the count 2 and 2, spoiled the last desperate strategy of the Cubs and their big right hander, Pat Malone, in passing Jimmy Fox intentionally. It goes down as the $50,000 blow of the series, deciding the difference between the winners' and losers' share of the spoils.

Dramatic Finish
The finishing tally was not as devastating as the ten run spurge of the Mackmen in overcoming the Cubs Saturday but it was more dramatic because it settled the record before the most distinguished fans of the land, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover, arriving ten minutes before the game with a large party including cabinet officers, stayed to the last out. They were on their feet, applauding as Haas, then Simmons and Miller struck the blows that suddenly converted the game from a prospective Cub victory to a wild triumph for the Athletics.

This was the big moment for the old master, Mack, as he saw his fighting young club attack through the gamut king of a defense by the Cubs, clinch the series by a margin of four games to one and give him his fourth world's champions. Fate and a number of hard hit balls, it seemed, were combined to make safe what is now a world's record for the 67 year old leader of the Athletics. No other manager in baseball has ever won four world's series. This was Mack's fourth in six tries since 1905, adding 1929 to the other victorious years of 1910, 1917, and 1924. John McGraw is the only other living manager who has won as many as three world titles, the mark which the late Miller Yankees also attained with the Yankees.

Chances Looked Slim
There didn't seem more than the remotest chance for the Athletics to win today after they had been held to two hits for eight innings by the fast balls of big Pat Malone and after Wally French, pinch hitting, stood nonchalantly at the plate in the ninth, had struck out the Cubs, driven the hero of the first game, Howard Ehmke, out of the box in the fourth inning with a vicious attack, with two out, that produced two runs and what looked like a secure lead as Malone mowed down the Mackmen.

Miller Comes Through
Bing, if he felt resentment over this implied reflection on his ability, stood nonchalantly at the plate as he let four go by, two balls and two strikes. Malone was pitching cautiously, working the corners but Miller was now ready for business. The veteran outfielder swung on the next ball, a fast one waist high, and sent it on a line between Cuyler and Wilson. From the moment it left the bat there was not the slightest doubt of its decisiveness. It was officially recorded as a two base hit but there was not even an attempt to make a play for Simmons, who almost had to fight his way through wildly excited team mates who rushed out to escort him in with the winning run.

With this flourishing finish, the Athletics once again lifted the American League banner to the peak, for the third consecutive year, with a record that is not quite as decisive a touch as did the Yankees in scoring their clean sweeps of 1927 and 1928. The National League has now lost 12 of the last 13 world's series games and must wait another year for any chance of revenge.

George (Rube) Walberg, big southpaw, curver, got credit for pitching the A's to their final victory, holding the Cubs safely in check after the downfall of Ehmke, just as Lefty Grove had done on two previous occasions. Thus the twin portside terrors of the Mack staff played big roles in three of the four triumphs, although neither had the distinction of starting a single game. It forms one of the most unusual angles of a series that had featured the unexpected from the outset, especially where the A's were concerned.

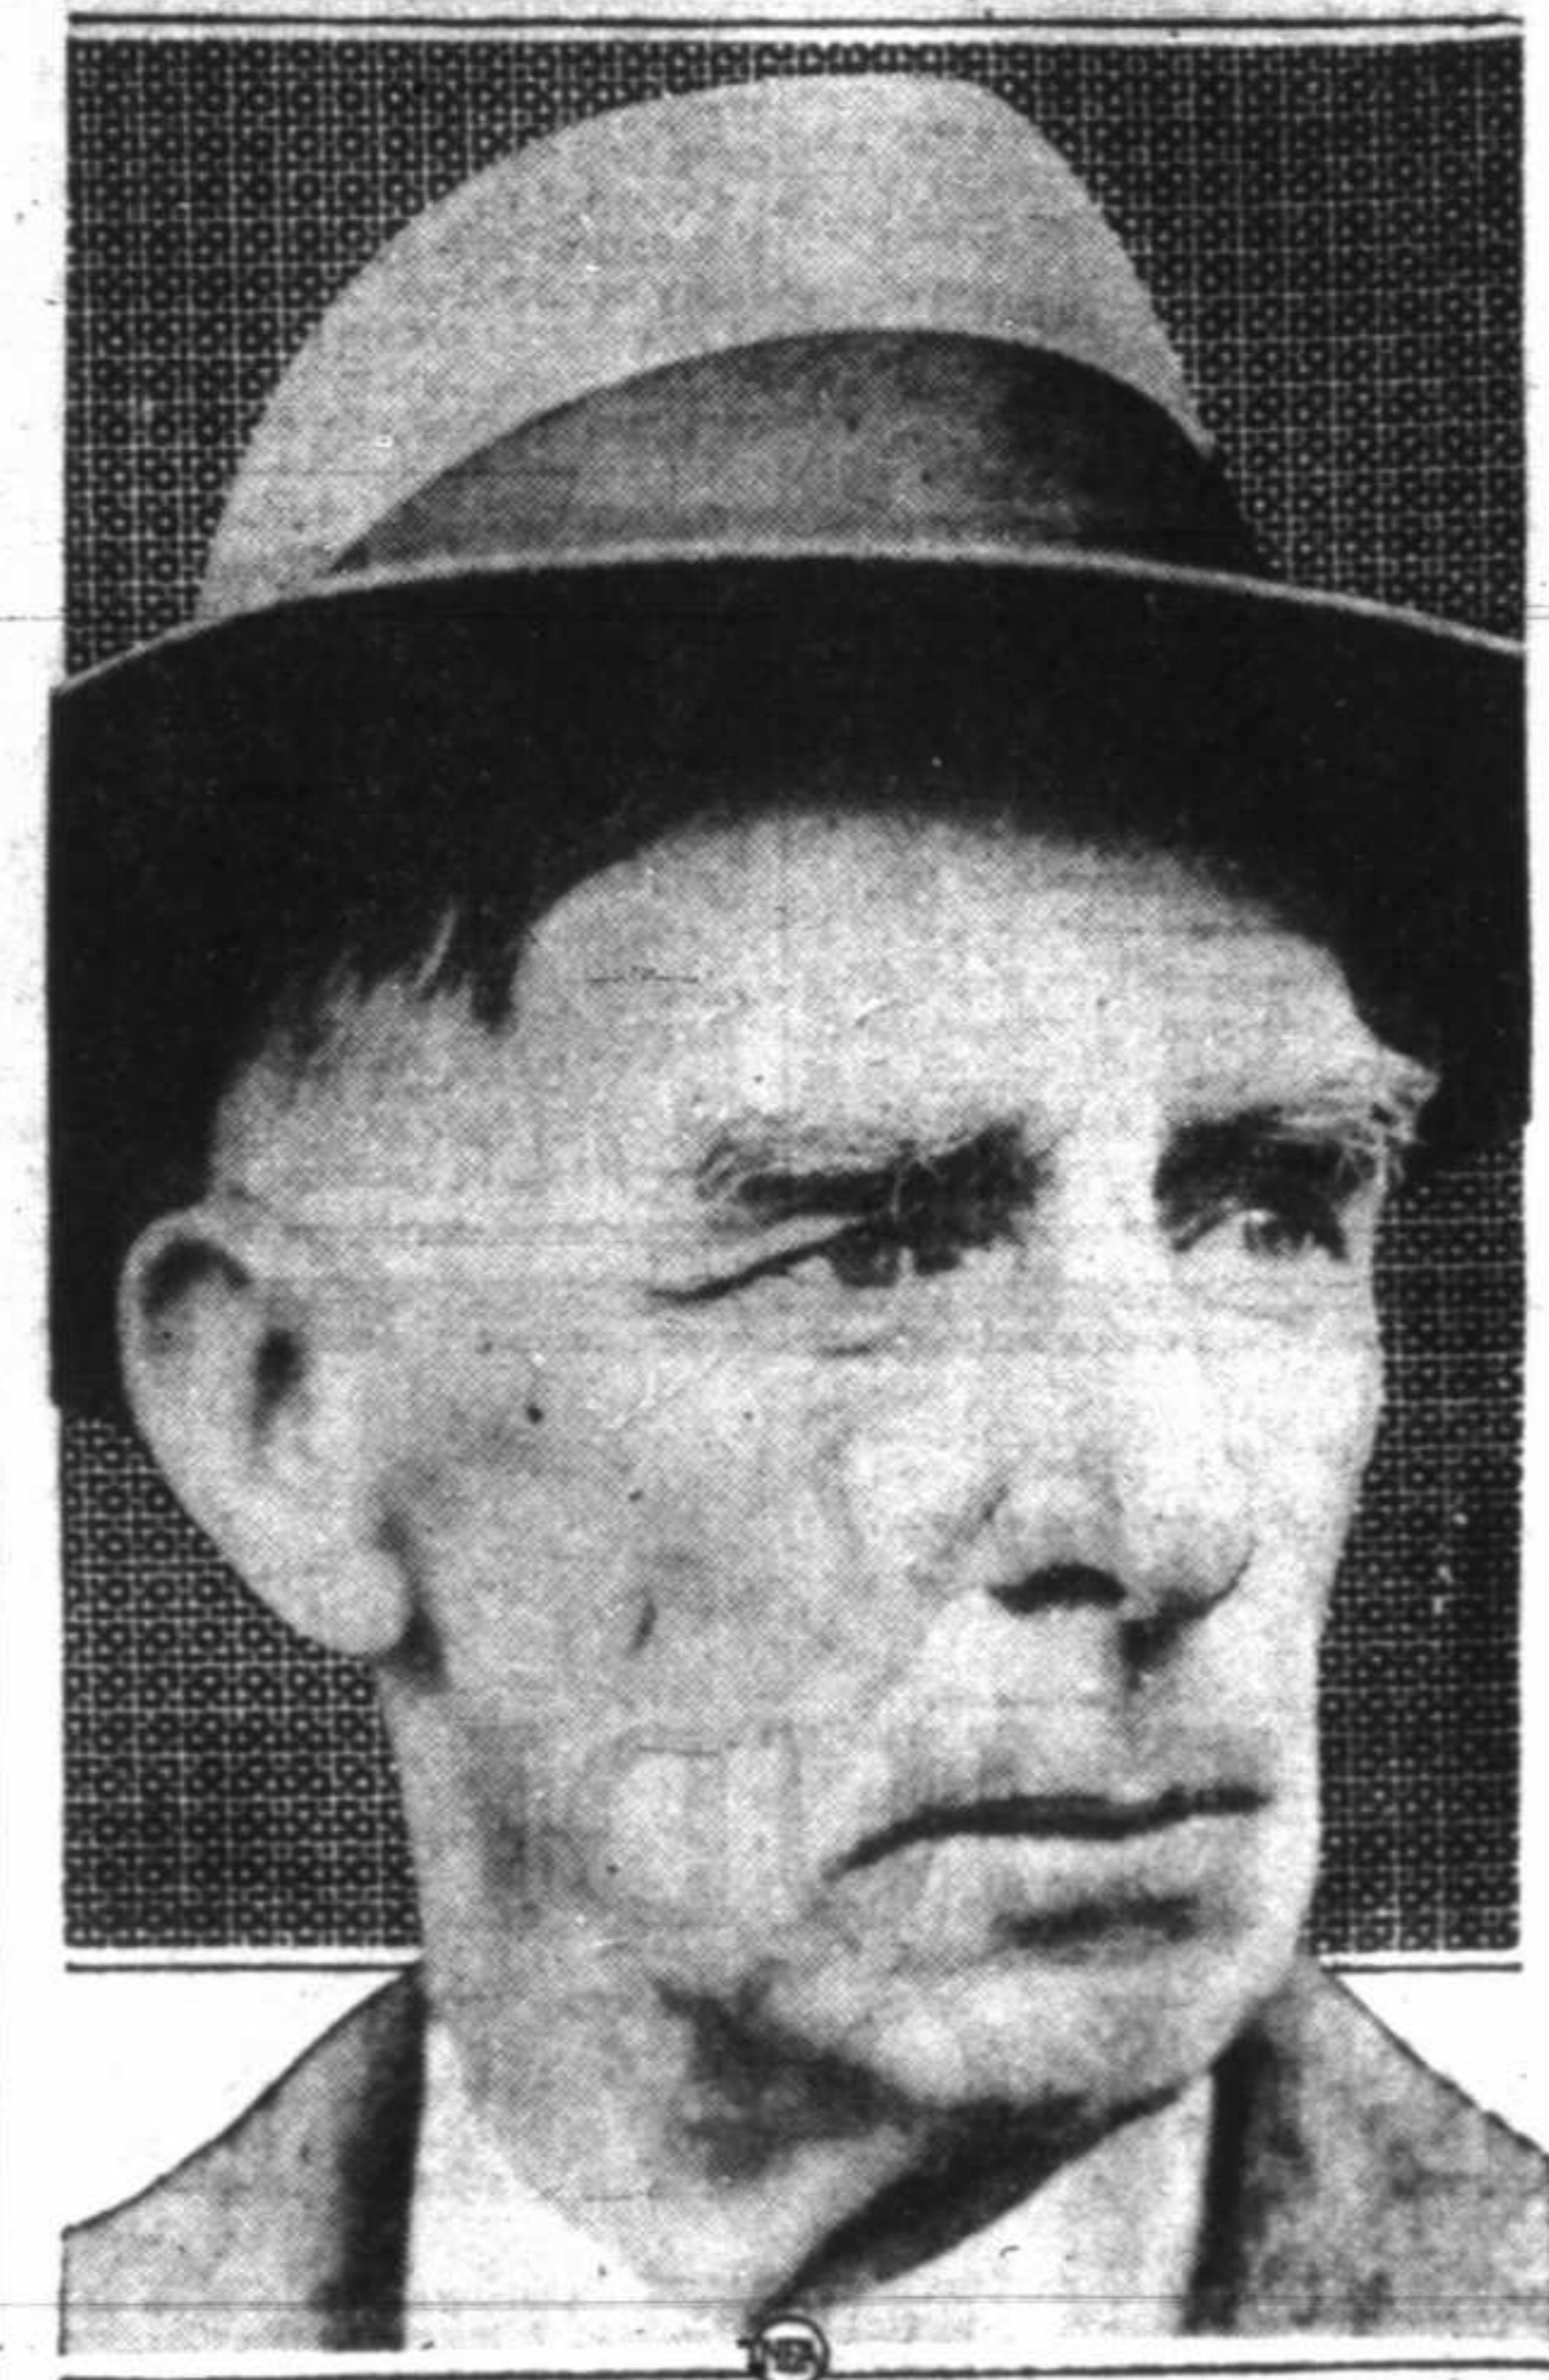

As a final surprise to the experts, Connie Mack sent Ehmke to the mound for the final game, after the veteran slowball artist had been disregarded even more than in the preceding game. The opening game, as a matter of fact Ehmke was in street clothes, in the stands, a half hour before game time, but 15 minutes later he started to warm up.

The experts had tried to "figure" Mack into starting Grove, although most indications pointed to George Earnshaw to start his third game. The A's themselves, in fact, expected Earnshaw to start and Grove to finish, if necessary, but the lean leader made it a double job by assigning Ehmke and Walberg. His second choice was better than his

Perfect Contentment Comes To Mack As Dream Of 16 Years Is Realized

Wins Fourth World Championship

CONNIE MACK

After sixteen years of struggle and disappointment, Connie Mack, 67-year-old leader of the Philadelphia Athletics, yesterday attained the highest honor in baseball as his fighting charges won for him the world championship over the Chicago Cubs. It was the fourth title for the master tactician of the White Elephants.

first, for the big Swedish portlander, who was born in Seattle 30 years ago, put on just about as effective a rescue act as Grove did in saving the second and fourth games.

Walberg relieved Ehmke with two out, two runs and two runners on base in the fourth. After Cuyler's double, a pass to Stephenson and singles by Grimm and Taylor produced two runs, the southpaw fanned alone to close the inning. He retired the first ten men to face him in order and allowed only two hits in the five and one-third innings he worked.

As a crowning touch, Walberg struck out six Cubs, increasing the Chicago total of victims to 50 for five games, an average of ten per game and a world's record for utility in any series. The mark is six more than the previous records of the Giants of 1911.

Rogers Hornsbay, the famous Cub second baseman and seven times champion batter of the National League, finished with the dubious honor of striking out eight times and heading the list of the Cub whiffers. Walberg's fast curves sent the great Rajah walking back to the bench from the plate in the fifth inning for the eighth time as he went hitting for the second game in the series. Kiki Cuyler, a world's series hero four years ago with the Pirates, fanned seven times, McMillan and English each six.

The Cubs were game right down to the final inning. They had fought hard in each of the three games in Philadelphia, to offset the big advantage that the A's obtained by winning the first two contests in Chicago. They threw all their resources into play here but had neither the offensive or defensive stuff to quite match the seemingly inspired performance of the Athletics. It was something like the Giants had to fight against in the 1924 series against the inspired Senators, led by Bucky Harris. The inspiration this time of the aged Mack apparently was as great as that of Johnson and Harris in 1924.

Malone today came closer than Charley Root did Saturday to the goal of victory that Guy Bush alone of the Cub staff was able to reach. Root "blew" an eight run lead in the seventh, whereas Malone had only a two run margin to work on but Big Pat had only two putouts from triumph when the A's put on the final crushers.

For eight innings Malone had everything, control, speed, confidence, plus a defense that weakened only in the fifth when Hornsbay struck on Fox's grounder. This did no damage, however, and it was offset anyway by the sterling all around work of Elwood English, hitherto something of a "goat" whose most sparkling effort was a backward running catch in the third that robbed Jimmy Dykes.

Only four Athletics got to first up to the ninth and not one of them reached third. Twice, double plays choked off the Macks, after Simmons had singled in the second and Cochrane had walked in the seventh. Hornsbay's error on Fox was followed by Miller's single in the fifth but Dykes and Boley flied out. This was the only semblance of a scoring threat until the big guns again got the range in the ninth and rearing the final bombardment of 1929 on the baseball front.

Sidelights

By JOHN H. REITINGER, Associated Press Staff Writer, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14. (AP) — President Hoover, who is said to have worked up a desire to see a ball game after listening in on the historic seventh inning of last Saturday, came to Philadelphia to see a hot finish and saw it.

A single, a homer, an out, a double, a pass and then another double is what he saw—enough to elect the Athletics the baseball champions of the world.

The president of the United States almost failed to see an exciting game for all the exhilaration was packed into that ninth inning.

Life's Ambition Is Gained by Leader Of Athletics

By EDWARD J. NEIL, Associated Press Sports Writer, SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14. (AP)—Somewhere in Philadelphia, surrounded by a worshipping family, is a gray, worn old man tonight. His nerves are all but shattered, his heart is trying to pound through his ribs, but the spirit of perfect contentment at last has come to him—Connie Mack.

There are bruises on his back from the gleeful smashes of his ball players and his ribs are sore from hugging. In his ears still ring the shrieks, roars, groans and 30,000 thrill-crazed baseball fans. He'll be all right after a little rest though, for he's gained his life's ambition, another world champion crew of Athletics, after 16 years of struggle and disappointment.

Leads Celebration
Down the runway to the dressing room he charged today as Bing Miller smashed the double to centerfield that beat the Cubs for the fourth time in the World Series. Behind him raged his herd of White Elephants, screaming, clambering all over each other in their excitement. Yet, despite his 67 years, there is none friskier than the veteran pilot of the A's.

He threw his arms about Mule Haas, the sun browned centerfielder who tied the score with a homer in the ninth and Mule, already as pleased with himself as a man can be, tried not to break down entirely in his biggest moment. He struggled to get his arms on Bing Miller as the players swept him into the dressing room.

Through the closed doors came a riot of noise, then a moment's silence, and Connie popped out again and ran frantically down the corridor to his office while it seemed as though every happy fan in Philadelphia tried to reach him with congratulations. Connie lost his hat, and what little breath he had left, on the way.

Once in his own sanctum, all the strain, worry and happiness over the result overcame the aged pilot, he stumbled to his couch, lay motionless for several minutes, hands over his eyes, and finally took a drink of water.

"Too Wonderful"
"I guess I over did it," he said as he pulled himself together. "It was a wonderful moment."

"Mine is the greatest team in baseball. All season long they have been winning games like the last two for me with desperate rallies and today I turned mental traitor to them."

Mentally I was on the train to Chicago, wondering who I'd pitch Wednesday when Haas hit that high, fast ball over the fence and tied the score. Almost before I could get back in the ball park, Simmons hit one, then Miller and the game was over.

"I had a feeling all along that I shouldn't give up and now I know that if it hadn't been Haas and Simmons and Miller it would have been someone else. All year they've done that nine out of ten times when we needed a game. I have a remarkable ball club."

"You've been wondering all along why Lefty Grove hasn't started a game. Now I can tell you that he hasn't been feeling well. Nothing serious, but not well enough to pitch and last nine innings. His pitching fingers have been sore too."

"I was anxious to pitch. Any time Howard says he's anxious to pitch I'm anxious to have him pitch. When he smiles at me and says he'd like to work I'll let him do it and he won't fail me often. Today he wasn't quite right."

"The Cubs have a great ball club and I can easily see how they won the National League pennant. They have a fine staff of pitchers, a great infield, a superb outfield, and exceptional catching. We won because we outkicked the Cubs as well as outplayed them. They were anything but disgraced."

"The Cubs were as angry a gang of ball players as ever walked off a diamond. They were speechless at the luck of the game that turned over."

He stayed for the excitement, however.

The ball club were only two out from making the long trip back to Chicago to finish the series. The way Malone was pitching it looked like a sure trip, but you never can depend on those Athletics losing.

"Those boys are dangerous at all times," said Tyus Raymond Cobb, who is well known in the baseball world, speaking of his former team mates.

The Athletics nearly tore the shirt off Bing Miller, as he came running in after touching second base with the hit that won the ball game and the series.

The scene when Haas hit his homer tying the score was as exciting and as noisy as the seventh inning on Saturday. Up to that time the crowd did not have much opportunity to use its lungs.

In 1911 the A's scored seven runs in the seventh innings of a world's series game against the New York Giants. Last Saturday they scored ten in the seventh. Today Connie Mack crossed McCarthy by passing up the seventh and pulling his rally in the ninth when the Cubs had been lulled almost to sleep.

Screened Passes Forbidden In Football Circles This Season

BY CHESTER L. SMITH, NEA Service Special Writer
The "screened" forward pass receives its death knell in the 1929 football rules.
Several years ago, "Pop" Warner, then at Pittsburgh, developed a pass play that was well nigh unstoppable because it employed a human screen between the receiver and the defensive team, a skirmish line that mowed down everything in its path.
The rules committee immediately forbade its use by refusing to permit the side making the pass from interfering in any way with an opponent until the ball was touched.
"Vision Screen"
Coaches then devised what came to be known as "passive interference" which meant nothing more than that one or two players who were not eligible to receive the pass were rushed down the field to act as a "vision screen," helping the eligibles and obstructing the view and right-of-way of the secondary defense.
The new rules carry this provision:
"On passes which cross the line of scrimmage, such players as are ineligible shall be penalized for interference if they in any way obstruct the right-of-way of defensive players."
No Benefit of Doubt
Moreover, the fathers of the game put teeth into the edict by adding that "in case of doubt as to such interference, the penalty should be inflicted."
This will have more effect than might be apparent at first glance. A game that decided a championship in the mid-west and another that resulted in one of the most surprising upsets of the season last year both were decided by deliberate interference which enabled the winning touchdown to be scored.

Determined Tech Crew Out Monday In Light Session

Bull Fighters Set Out To Stage Comeback Saturday Against Strong Redskin Aggregation

A determined band of Mata-dors resumed training Monday afternoon for what promises to be one of their hardest battles of the season Saturday with the McMurry Indians at Abilene.

In spite of their unexpected defeat at the hands of the Daniel Baker Billies, the Tech grid warriers have taken this setback as only a tough break and set to work for all eyes from their mud tussle with the even harder foe this week.

Sore and nursing numerous bruise-Brownwood aggregation last week, the Bull Fighters took things easy yesterday, going through a lengthy kicking and passing drill. Several gridsters who saw service in Saturday's battle with the Goats came out Monday with unmistakable signs of gridiron warfare. Chief of these was "Red" Waller whose facial features appear to have been plastered with the well-known can of tomatoes. Waller came in contact with a Billy tackle Saturday and the Billy made away with much of the skin on Red's nose and upper lip.

Line Coach Vic Payne, who witnessed the McMurry-Howard Payne game at Abilene last Friday, reports that the Indians have one of the best teams in the history of the Methodist institution. The Redskins upset all advanced dope by holding the vaunted Yellow Jackets to a scoreless tie last week and are regarded as sure contenders for the T. I. A. crown.

EVERY EXPRESS AND FREIGHT BRINGS HEAPS OF NEW GOODS

This thing of buying a whole store full of new merchandise is no snap. It is hard work. When someone in a casual way, remarks that they must buy a bone crochet hook, some shirt studs, or a box of gold shoe polish, we can hardly wait to get to our invoice files and start digging through to see what we have forgotten.

To the ordinary person, thinking about the items that are carried in a department store, brings to mind shoes, ready-to-wear, piece goods, men's clothing and other major items. It is hard to realize that in the Notion Department alone there are more than 1000 separate items; that there are 21 kinds of thread usually sold, a dozen varieties of pins.

When the express wagon comes around it is like Christmas morning—everybody wanting to open his or her boxes at the same time. And when one of those big assorted boxes comes it is like a veritable Santa Claus pack. It is fun to open box after box of different items. It is really a thrill that everything looks even better than we had remembered it, and it is most gratifying to find that we really did not forget to buy crochet hooks, shirt studs, or a box of gold shoe polish.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

For thou art the God of my strength; why dost thou cast me off? Why go I mourning because of the oppression of the enemy? O send out thy light and thy truth; let them lead me; let them bring unto thy holy hill, and to thy tabernacles.—Psalm xliii, 3, 4.

"EVEN-STEPHEN" AGAIN

THURSDAY, October 17th—day after tomorrow to be more exact—will mark a return to parking limitations in Lubbock's downtown area.

A couple of years ago a two hour parking limit was set in the retail district. For some reason or another, the "click" with one portion of the business men and the rest weren't interested enough to defend it.

When Bill Jones, who works downtown from 7:30 a. m. to 6 p. m., and eats his lunch across the street, parks in front of a retail establishment and he robs the establishment's operator of potential trade.

When next Thursday dawns—whether the sun is shining or rain falling—Blank faces a new era. He's going to get an even break despite the fact that his store is located in a choice part of the retail area.

That is why the Avalanche is glad to see the parking limit go back again. It makes no difference to this newspaper as far as the selfish motive is concerned. It is not a retail business. People wishing to transact business with the newspaper will come here, whether there is a parking limit or not.

THE GASTONIA BREAKDOWN

Collapsing of the trial of 16 defendants in the famous Gastonia trial is a matter which has little bearing upon the jury system.

While it is probably true that no one connected with the Gastonia case is directly to blame, the fact remains that there is something wrong with a system of jury selection which fails to exclude "eccentric" characters when human life is at stake.

This phase of the hectic North Carolina trial certainly deserves to be considered by the national commission on law enforcement. It is a travesty on justice to permit highly emotional, if not insane, men to play a controlling part in administration of the law.

HOPE OF TAX REDUCTION

Prospects of federal tax reduction next year are brought considerably nearer by the favorable state of the national finances reported by the treasury, showing during the first quarter of the fiscal year, now almost over, an increase in revenues over last year of close to $120,000,000.

It is obvious that such a reduction prior to a national campaign for the election of a new congress would be good politics for the party in power. Such a consideration is far from discrediting the motives of the administration.

It is worthy of note, however, that the reduction will, as usual, be made in a national campaign year. Many taxpayers are of the opinion that it should have been made this year.

All that remains to insure a substantial tax reduction is that the taxpayers insist that congress do its part. The president has insisted that expenditures for the next fiscal year be kept at the level of the present. Working with the budget bureau, the administration will see that any extraordinary expenditures which may have to be financed will be kept within bounds that will not interfere with present surplus prospects.

IT'S THE "LAMB" THAT SUFFERS

Babson, the statistician, predicts that there will be a crash in the stock market that will compare with the Florida land boom crash; and there is a decided fall in prices. Professor Irving Fisher, of Yale, who is also an authority on financial subjects, thinks Wall Street prices for stocks are none too high.

And here you are. You pay your money and take the chance. Probably the only way to reconcile the two opinions will be to say that Babson is a bear and that Fisher is a bull. The bear favors low prices, while the bull is a booster. It is the "lamb," represented by the public, that suffers.

STOCK MARKET PRICES, LIKE WATER, TEND TO FIND THEIR REAL LEVEL. OBSERVES SOUTH DAKOTA LAWMAKER

By CHARLES F. STEWART Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—"Stock market prices, like water, are bound to find their real level sooner or later," observed Senator William H. McMaster.

The tendency referred to by the South Dakota lawmaker happened to be exemplifying itself rather noticeably in Wall Street at the time, and the senator, looking on interestedly, dropped his remark as a banker's comment on the workings of the forces of financial nature.

There had been no tinkering with the discount rate. The Federal Reserve board was quiet. World conditions were normal.

It simply was an off day for industrialists—for no especially apparent reason. Nothing sensational—losses of a mere billion or two—not nearly enough to write for the little fellows.

It always is painful for a lot of folk," nodded the South Dakotan, sympathetically, "when stock market prices are trying to find their level.

"But there is no use in talking," he continued. "A stock's permanent value depends on the earning power of the concern which it represents an interest in.

"It cannot continue to sell indefinitely for more than the amount on which it will pay adequate dividends.

"Now the public, in making a large share of its stock purchases of late, evidently has based its calculations upon industrial profits which it is unsafe to predict, if at all, for some years to come at least four or five years. Folk who cannot afford to wait that long inevitably will suffer in the meantime.

"Not to discuss any stocks in particular—for of course there are exceptional issues—but speaking of stocks in general," went on the banker-legislator, "there is no question that recent extraordinary market prices have represented an enthusiastic public anticipation; not the mature judgment of experienced discreet investors.

"It is equally evident that the public has looked perilously far into the future.

"In addition to the fact that an interval must elapse before our industries can expand to the extent which has been discounted in advance, even the expected expansion is more or less uncertain.

"For one thing," suggested the senator, "the trend among American manufacturers toward the establishment of factories abroad, to meet the overseas demand for their products, is a development to be taken into account.

"By enabling them to eliminate transportation costs, avail themselves of cheaper labor and avoid import taxation, obviously this system places them in a position to compete to better advantage for foreign trade. It is natural and legitimate enough for them to make the most of it. Nevertheless it reduces the possibilities for the growth of such industries here at home.

"Some 200 instances of this policy's adoption were revealed in the course of senate discussion lately, and the number is sure to increase steadily—not mere foreign subsidiaries of home concerns, but independent plants."

Senator McMaster does not want to be understood as forecasting a business slump, similar to those of pretty regular occurrence, alternating with booms, in pre-war years.

"Regardless of the prospect of a shearing of stock market lambs," he says, "the era of periodic spells of hard times in America is past.

"Besides the stabilizing influence of the Federal Reserve board, a similar influence is exercised by the present-day compact alignment of our big industries.

"These latter are now in so few hands as to permit a degree of cooperation among them, which once was impossible.

"For their own good, they maintain a certain minimum of employment—maintain it by a kind of tacit joint action to prevent undue commercial depression. With the rising tide of what promises to become a boom, their prices rise, to check dangerous over-expansion; as the tide subsides, their prices also subside, to encourage business activity."

Is it a change of a sort likely to benefit agriculture?

"In a way, perhaps," replied the senator. "Lower industrial prices need not mean lower agricultural prices. The former would be equivalent to an advance in the prices of farm products even though the latter did not actually advance.

"Yes, in the sense that the farmer's dollar would buy him more, it would be a change to benefit him."

SEE A PHYSICIAN IF YOUR FEET ARE INFECTED BY RINGWORM

By DR. MORRIS FISHER

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

During recent years much has been said of the wide extension of the condition known as ringworm of the feet. The popularity of golf with the wide use of public shower baths, the extension of the gymnasium and of the swimming pool seem to be associated with the large incidence of this condition.

It is marked by the appearance on the feet of soft corns and swelling, blisters, itching and moisture between the toes. The specialist in diseases of the skin is able to take scrapings of the material and after treating it with proper solutions to examine it under the microscope and find the fungus or organism that is responsible.

Not infrequently, the organism is to be found, as pointed out by Drs. Williams and Barthel, along the sides of the big nails or just under the toe nail, and even though the condition is cleared up between the toes, the persistence of the organism around the nails makes reinfection of the feet very easy.

In 40 cases of ringworm of the feet, the organism was recovered from the toe nails in every instance, and in many cases the abnormality of the toe nails was so light that the patients disregarded it and did not even ask the examining physician about it.

It is marked by the appearance on the feet of soft corns and swelling, blisters, itching and moisture between the toes. The specialist in diseases of the skin is able to take scrapings of the material and after treating it with proper solutions to examine it under the microscope and find the fungus or organism that is responsible.

Hence, it is quite likely that this infection was responsible for reinfecting the skin of the patient and infecting the feet of other people as well.

In order to overcome this condition, physicians have recommended the wearing of paper slippers that can be discarded, particularly around gymnasiums and public pools. Various antiseptic powders are used to sterilize the shoes and the floor.

In the treatment of the condition, lotions and ointments are used which are so caustic that the patient should not attempt to treat the condition himself. Once the condition is cured, it is extremely important to be sure that the patient is not reinfecting. Stockings and underwear must be boiled to kill the organism.

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

The Innocent Cheat

By Ruth Dewey Graves AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL-POOR GIRL," ETC.

"THIS HAS HAPPENED HELEN PAGE feels hopeless in love with her guardian, LEONARD BRENT. After meeting a dying beggar, CHARLES NELLIN, Brent changes his plans for Helen's future. Soon after he tells her that she is the only granddaughter of a millionaire."

"Are you?" Brent asked, beginning to be amused. After all he thought, she might be more interesting as an unwilling bride. It would be a diversion to spend a little time conquering her. And it suited his mood, which had lost all gravity—in the certainty that he held the whip hand over her—to let her have the reins and pull and champ at the bit.

There was always his ace card to be played. She had nothing in her hand to play against it. He was absolutely safe—as safe as a game as his could be. He amended. Damn it, why hadn't he been able to discover the owner of that second lock?

As his mind swept back over the night he had picked it up in the hall at Bramblewood he remembered that no one present had appeared to have less than a hundred dollars.

Against a blank wall in regard to his discovery, his inability to place the ownership was the one genuine worry he had in the matter of acquiring the Cunningham fortune. Carmel was a nuisance. He knew he should probably always have to keep her at a distance with the payment of a reasonable amount of the blackmail but she did not greatly trouble him. Eva he dismissed with a shrug.

Helen was gathering her fur about her neck preparatory to leaving the table. Brent saw that she meant to end their luncheon abruptly.

He stood up and assisted her by drawing back her chair when she rose. His manner was perfect. "Allow me to pay the check and go with you," he said pleasantly.

Helen realized that her attitude was childish. Brent had always told her that superior persons did not follow impulses—though he followed many of them himself. But Helen did not know it.

Remembering what he had said she decided to be more worldly. "Very well," she said quietly. The waiter at the station would give her an opportunity to impress upon him fully and finally that she was serious, she reflected. And she wanted to leave him with no doubt in his mind that everything was at an end between them.

Presently they were making a detour to pass through a traffic jam. Helen seized the moment to turn to Brent and tell him that, as they could not avoid seeing each other on matters connected with the Cunningham estate, he must understand that she was going to marry Bob. "Are you?" he said lazily, almost indifferently. Then he laughed. "Soon?"

Helen blushed furiously. She felt as though Brent knew that she had quarreled with Bob.

"Because, before you marry him, Brent went on. "I have something to say to you that may cause you to change your mind."

Helen missed the words underlying threat in his words. "Nothing you could say could do that," she rejoined coldly.

"Not?" Helen asked Brent to play with her. "Do you believe that enough to give me your promise not to marry anyone else without first hearing what I have to say?"

"Of course I do," Helen declared with the fullest assurance that the course of true love was now to run smoothly for her. "I have never anything for which you mean to make somebody pay a price unless you make your bargain first? Everyone has a right to grow up free—and not be saddled with a debt they had no voice in acquiring."

"You were quite willing to have me love you," Brent reminded her. "But you knew I was just a kid," Helen protested. "You shouldn't have led me on as you did. Oh, I know you weren't always kind to me, but you fascinated me, and I wasn't . . . a weak crick."

You must have realized that some day I would meet the right man—that I wouldn't stay in love with you. It would have been so much better if you'd lived your life for yourself."

"Well," Brent agreed a bit innocently, "I didn't, and that's that. What are you going to do about it? Be a quitter just because you think you care for a young upstart? A bum too. Why, you poor foolish girl. Don't you know that any man in Ennis' position who agrees to marry a girl as wealthy as you are is open to the charge of being a fortune hunter?"

"No matter what you say, I love him," Helen declared. "How can you think of marrying me when I tell you that?"

"That's just another one of those things you wouldn't understand," was Brent's unsatisfactory answer.

"Well," Helen said and her voice was vibrant with sincerity. "I am sure you can understand me when I say I will not marry you."

Brent contented himself with raising an eyebrow, knowing that she would go on. "I was wrong to think of it after I knew that I loved Bob," she said hurriedly. "But I did believe I loved you something. All that is changed now. You will be able to console yourself readily enough. And if I had not seen what I did and you had told me you meant to

Naval Parity Is Unlikely Between Italy And France

French Cabinet Considers Invitation To British Naval Conference; Reply Will Be Made Soon

PARIS, Oct. 14. (AP)—It was understood in reliable circles today as the cabinet began its discussion of France's reply to the British naval conference invitation that the French government could not consider naval parity with Italy.

France believes it was said, that parity with Italy would be tantamount to French inferiority, because while Italy would be able to maintain an entire fleet in the Mediterranean France would be obliged to distribute her forces in both the Atlantic and the Mediterranean to protect an extensive coastline.

It was understood, however, France was ready to make an agreement not to maintain in the Mediterranean a fleet superior to that of Italy.

ROME, Oct. 14. (AP)—It was understood today that Italy would accept Great Britain's invitation to the five-power naval conference in London in January. She will be represented by either Giuseppe Sirianni, minister of marine, or Dino Grandi, minister of foreign affairs, according to the nature of the representation from the other powers.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 14. (AP)—At a meeting today between leaders of Australia's two chief political parties, Premier Stanley M. Bruce, head of the national government defeated in Saturday's general election, decided to send in the resignation of his cabinet to the governor-general next Monday.

James Henry Scullin, leader of the victorious labor party, agreed to hold in abeyance his plans for forming a new labor government.

No Clues Develop In Mexican Death At Little Juarez

Smiles Of Black-Eyed Senorita Blamed In Fatal Shooting Early Sunday; Investigation Started

No definite clue had been found at a late hour last night as to the identity of the man who, Sunday morning about 4 o'clock, shot Hignacio Panno to death outside Mexican Panno's cafe, in "Little Juarez" north of this city.

Hit Three Times
A few minutes later he fell to the ground outside the cafe, wounded in three places by bullets from a .38 calibre pistol fired by his competitor. Rushed to a local sanitarium, he died Sunday night at 9 o'clock.

Hit Description
We have a good description of the man we are seeking and will be able probably to make an arrest within a day or two," Chief of Police John Lemond announced yesterday.

Officials Resign
Officially out from office all of the sheriff's appointees.

General Walters' appointment came on the heels of the convening of the county grand jury by Judge E. J. Pickens. In a 45-minute address, the jurist told the inquisitorial body its investigation would enumerate every crime in the penal code of Texas, and asked the jurors to use every lawful means available to rid the county of its alleged criminal elements.

Military Court Set Up
The day troops arrived in Berger, a military court of inquiry was set up and scores of witnesses gave testimony which officials hoped would result in conviction of alleged leaders in the county's under world.

Face Arrested
Mayor Pace was arrested shortly after troops arrived, and later released under $3,000 on a charge of having a witness in a murder case leave Berger.

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer
NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Stock prices drifted substantially lower in the dullest session of the market in months today.

Several of the food shares were strong, Kraft Foods and Hershey Chocolate reaching new highs on rumors of inclusion in a new merger.

Utilities were dull and heavy. Call money held at 6 per cent all day, despite heavy mid-month interest and dividend requirements, and time money eased.

Foreign exchanges generally were strong, Sterling, the German mark, French franc and Dutch guilder reached new highs for the year or longer, as the gradual withdrawal of foreign funds from New York continued.

Made-To-Order Wedding Rites Are Feature Of New Common-Sense Religion; Would Replace Old Ritual

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer
NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—A made-to-order instead of a hand-me-down marriage service is one of the products of the new Humanist religion introduced recently in New York by Rev. Charles F. Potter.

This ceremony will be taken from no accepted ritual of any denomination, but will be an informal, individual agreement, based upon vows set down by the man and woman who want to become husband and wife, according to the co-time Unitarian minister who now has gained thousands of followers of his new creed.

"People who are marrying have a right to understand the contract they are making," he declared. "How can they if they hear only an ecclesiastical ceremony cluttered up with theological verbiage, or a legal agreement, bound down with legal technicalities?"

A "Foreign" Language
"Perhaps people understood the language of the marriage ceremony once," he admitted, "but it means mighty little today. Young people have no idea what it is all about. A minister has to teach them their cues, during rehearsal, as though he were addressing them in a foreign tongue.

"Take, for instance, such a phrase as 'themselves I plight three my troth,—what does that mean? Apparently nothing, for when reading it back, the prospective bride or groom usually says 'throt' for 'troth.'"

Dr. Potter would read the service in understandable English, and it would be based upon vows, agreed to by the bride and groom themselves, supplemented with a talk arranged especially for them.

The Humanist marriage ceremonies at which he will officiate, says Dr. C. F. Potter, pictured at the right, will consist of pledges composed by bride and groom and a common-sense chat he will have with them. Lower left is the entrance to Steinway Hall, business-like original home of the new creed.

To Make Own Agreement
Instead of the customary rehearsal before a wedding, Dr. Potter would have a talk with the bride and groom to be, and speak seriously to them on the marriage relation, after which he would ask both to write out just what they were agreeing to do.

"A man might write something like this: 'I pledge I will live with Mary Smith, that I will respect her rights, treat her as a person and not as property, and be fair and square with her in all things.'"

"That," said the Humanist leader, "is something any man can understand. A woman could make an equal vow. The minister performing the ceremony can advise and counsel the pair, in equally simple terms.

"In any ceremony I perform, I speak to the couple of their relations to their families, their communities and their state, stress the importance of both voting and properly educating their children, and emphasize the importance of cultivating a sense of humor and a tolerant, charitable spirit.

"I should say nothing about two people becoming one, because this is not so. Two people really become three, for between them they create a new unit that did not exist before them. I stress parity of relationship, and say nothing about either person obeying the other."

Dr. Potter promises that the new ceremonies will be short but will have nothing to do with the elaborateness of the wedding or its simplicity as a performance. People can have all the flowers, clothes, ribbon bearers and bridesmaids they want. All he has determined is that the words which bind the two be words that mean something in themselves.

Such a ceremony would be legal, in New York, at least, he said, because the law requires only an affirmation in the presence of witnesses before a clergyman, rabbi or justice of the peace.

Long a Minister

Rev. Potter resigned from the Unitarian church about a year ago, after 25 years as a minister. He announced he was going to found a new liberal church. He founded the New York branch of the Humanist Society, a new religion that is not a cult and has no creeds, admits no clergy, offers no prayers nor baptism, and substitutes lectures for sermons. He defines it as an attempt to teach people how to get along together.

At his first meeting, in an assembly room at Steinway Hall, 500 Broadway, Dr. Potter said he received inquiries not only from people in the vicinity of New York, but from all over the country, and that groups in Buffalo and Pittsburgh were asking him to organize them there. The hall where the first two meetings were held has been found to be inadequate for the crowds and it is necessary immediately to find a larger hall.

The second Sunday, two services were held, but many were turned away. Dr. Potter said he received inquiries not only from people in the vicinity of New York, but from all over the country, and that groups in Buffalo and Pittsburgh were asking him to organize them there.

Teachers His Church

He expects eventually to conduct his Sunday services at a theater in the Broadway district, contending that there is no reason for building a church when the city is full of theaters that are empty on Sundays. Instead of hymns, Dr. Potter uses secular music. At the first meeting Schubert's "Hark, Hark the Lark" was sung as a solo, and a Chopin prelude and nocturne were used for the offertory and the opening.

Various other denominations are watching his new religion with interest, and not a few are attacking it as opposed to fundamentalist doctrines. The New York society is part of a nation-wide movement in which Dr. John H. Dietrich of Minneapolis and Dr. Curtis Reese of Chicago are leaders.

Amarillo Painter Noted Big Change

Gifford Eats Better, Sleeps Better, And Works Better Since Taking Orgatone

"It has been over a year since I enjoyed such good health or felt so well generally as I do since taking Orgatone," said F. D. Gifford, who resides at 3390 Tyler St. Amarillo, Texas.

"Before taking Orgatone," he added, "my appetite was very poor and my stomach in such a condition that I couldn't eat anything but what would ferment and cause me trouble. My breath was very offensive and I was constantly belching up my food sour and undigested. I was badly constipated, had intense pain in my stomach and was seldom free from headaches.

"I noticed Orgatone in the window here at the City Drug Store, and I heard so many people telling what it had done for them that I decided to try it, and I had hardly finished my first bottle until I noticed a big change in my condition. I commenced to eat better and enjoy my meals. Before I got Orgatone my food seemed to do me very little good, but now everything I eat agrees with me perfectly and is giving me strength. My nerves are in fine shape and I sleep so sound that it takes a good strong alarm clock to wake me in the mornings. Orgatone has made a clean sweep of my stomach trouble and put me in shape to where my work is no longer a burden to me. I don't believe any one suffering from stomach trouble and liver disorders could take Orgatone without being benefited, and I only wish I had known about it a long time ago."

Genuine Orgatone may be bought in Lubbock at Stevens Drug Store, Adv.

Grade Crossings Elimination Seen

Chairman Of Highway Commission Asks For Local Co-operation In Relocation On State Highways

HOUSTON, Oct. 14. (AP)—Less blind opposition to the relocation of Texas highways and more local cooperation in the elimination of "death traps" grade crossings is desired by R. E. Sterling of Houston, chairman of the state highway commission.

Mr. Sterling also believes that the legislature should either provide more than one highway patrol officer for every five counties or relieve the highway department of law enforcement duties.

Death Toll High
The state highway chairman said that despite the fact that the national highway death toll was expected to reach 38,000 this year, local interests were interfering a great deal with the state department's efforts to eliminate fatal grade crossings.

He asserted local delegations opposed to rerouting highways had carried their fight even to the legislature. He said the people of Round Rock fought bitterly to keep the crossing where the lives of ten Baylor students were snuffed out and that a dangerous Hill county crossing where a whole family was killed remained unchanged to this day.

Progress in educating people toward relocating highways that for years followed "land lines and cow trails" was declared gratifying although one of the department's "greatest troubles."

"Build them where they've always been" has been the general cry, Mr. Sterling said. "But that has not deterred us from putting them where they ought to be."

Norway has only 22,000 passenger automobiles.
