Panhandle Wheat Growers Hear Government Farm Experts' Plea For Reduction

A. & M. OFFICIAL TAKES ISSUE WITH PROPOSAL

Two Texans Speak in Opposition to Federal Suggestions

FARMERS COMPLAIN

Chairman Legge Queried Pointedly on Prices Of Implements

AMARILLO, Texas, July 11. (AP)—Nearing the end of their campaign through the southwestern hard winter wheat area, Secretary Hyde of the department of agriculture and Chairman Alexander Legge of the federal farm board today presented their suggestions for reduction of crop acreage and production to the Texas Panhandle.

An audience estimated at 1,500 heard the government's agricultural spokesmen present their pleas for voluntary curtailment by growers of wheat in the southwestern area and their suggestion that wheat farmers organize themselves in order to command better prices.

Texan Speaks

Presentation of the campaign brought from O. B. Martin, director of extension work at the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college, the expression that the college "does not come here with broadcast advice on acreage reduction or acreage adjustment" and that "we do not believe much in campaigns and propaganda."

Large-scale producers of the Panhandle territory, Chairman Legge said, would have to "go some" to compete with Argentina in the world wheat market.

Growers also were advised by C. A. Bonnen, economist of the Texas agricultural experimental stations, to continue their production programs but at the same time to endeavor to reduce costs.

"Wheat or Nothing"

He expressed the theory that the Panhandle territory was one of "limited opportunity" so far as crops were concerned and said "we must produce wheat or nothing."

Bonnen and Martin appeared on the program with Hyde and Legge at the Municipal auditorium.

Secretary Hyde, in the afternoon expounded his theory that "it's profits, not bushels of production, that pay the debts and raise the standard of living."

"If you can produce a little less and yet get more for it, it sounds like a pretty good way out, doesn't it?" he asked the growers.

Complain on Prices

They subsequently complained, during the extended questioning of Chairman Legge by members of the audience, of the present low prices.

The need for dealing in futures, the farm board chairman said, answering a question, would be removed after growers had organized. He expressed the belief that the present wheat marketing system "should not be destroyed but should be replaced by one that will work."

Replying to the question, "what are you going to do about farm machinery prices?" Legge, former president of an agricultural implement manufacturing concern, said that "approximately 80 per cent of the wholesale prices goes to labor" and that he was "not sure I want to reduce them."

Calling upon farmers to follow labor's example and perfect organization, the farm board chairman reiterated his belief that "the low price problem cannot be solved by legislation."

Secretary Hyde and Chairman Legge arranged to depart tonight for a meeting tomorrow at Enid, Okla., which will conclude their campaign through five states in the heart of the winter wheat area.

Five-Day Chase Ends In Suspect's Arrest

PAWHUSKA, Okla., July 11. (UP)—G. I. Talmadge, 40, of Ponca City, was arrested in a tourist camp here today with stolen property worth $1,500 in his possession.

The arrest by Tulsa officers ended a five-day chase over the state in which Talmadge was followed from Oklahoma City to Enid, Guthrie, Perry, Ponca City and here.

Coxey's Kin Marches in Beauty Pageant

Katherine Coxey, above, granddaughter of General Jacob Coxey of "Coxey's army" fame, has no plans for leading another march of unemployed on Washington, but she does hope to be chosen as the world's most beautiful girl at the Galveston, Texas, beauty pageant in August. Miss Coxey, whose home is in Massillon, has entered the Ohio contest for selection of "Miss Ohio" and hopes to compete at Galveston for the title of "Miss Universe."

Jim Ferguson Centers Attack Upon Ross Sterling in Southeast Texas

Veteran Campaigner Delivers Thrust After Thrust at Bond Issue Proposal and Past Record of Foe

(By The Associated Press)

Making the rounds of his reputed South Texas strongholds, Jim Ferguson spoke at Brenham Friday night in the interest of his wife's candidacy for governor while the other six active candidates were in enemy or debatable territory.

Whether or not it was because of reports that R. S. Sterling, a South Texan, was taking away some of his wife's votes, Ferguson was centering his attack on the wealthy chairman of the state highway commission.

"Klan" Revived

He charged that Sterling was a former member of the Ku Klux Klan and said that "Sterling's campaign manager, Bill Strauss," represented the big bond buyers. In each county that he visited he tried to convince his hearers that the Sterling state highway bond plan would result in a greater bonded indebtedness for their county.

Ferguson, however, asserted that his ranks were remaining intact despite reported inroads by Sterling and by Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller, who is said to have the support of such South Texas leaders as Senator Archie Parr of Benavides, W. A. Williamson of San Antonio, Gus Russek of Schulenburg and A. J. Wirtz of Seguin.

Jim Young spoke Friday night at Houston, Sterling's home city. He reiterated his opposition to the state highway bond issue.

Hudspeth Aids Young

Young was cheered by the news that Claude Hudspeth of El Paso, former colleague in congress, would champion his cause in two speeches despite bad health. Hudspeth wrote from Hot Springs, Ark., that doctors had advised him not to make an address for at least a year, but he thought he could make two short speeches. He said cattlemen should vote as a unit for Jim Young.

Young headquarters in Dallas predicted that he would run first in Bexar, Navarro, Hill, Falls, Ellis, McLennan, Smith, Rusk, Cherokee, Anderson, Kaufman, VanZandt, Gregg, Harrison, Bowie, Hunt, Upshur, Wood, Collin, Grayson, Denton, Wise, Parker, Bell, Comanche, Brown, Mills, Hamilton,

MAN DRINKS CARBOLIC ACID

Wichitan to Survive Burns, Physicians Say

A 24-year-old man was rushed to the Wichita General hospital shortly after 4 o'clock Friday afternoon after he had taken a sizeable dose of carbolic acid into his mouth at a place about two miles from the city on the Petrolia road, according to the report of attending physicians at the hospital.

Although the young man was said to be resting well and not in a critical condition late Friday evening, physicians said he had suffered serious burns about the lips and in the mouth. An examination through the use of a stomach pump revealed that little or none of the violent poison had gone down his throat.

The man was said to have been staying at a hotel in Wichita Falls and to have gone to a home on the Petrolia road where he knew a young woman Friday afternoon. He found no one at home, it was reported, and when the young woman with another young woman returned home they found him suffering from the poison. No reason was assigned for his having taken the acid, the young woman reporting she had known him only a short time. An ambulance from Albert's Funeral home was called immediately and was met by city motorcycle officers who led the way to the hospital.

'Ghost Lover' Wins Freedom When Statute of Limitations Voids Verdict

LOS ANGELES, July 11. (AP)—Otto Sanhuber, who as the "ghost lover" of Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich was convicted of the manslaughter eight years ago of her husband, Fred, wealthy manufacturer, was freed today when the state concurred in a defense motion the statute of limitations had nullified the jury's veruict, returned a week ago.

The motion was presented as Sanhuber appeared in superior court for sentence.

Defense said the statute of limitations outlawed manslaughter if no prosecution is made within three years.

The state admitted this, and Judge Hardy freed Sanhuber.

Sanhuber was tried for murder but the jury's verdict was "manslaughter." Mrs. Oesterreich is awaiting trial for murder. The slaying occurred in August, 1922, during a quarrel between the Oesterreichs. Sanhuber intervened and shot the husband during a struggle.

At the trial, he testified he lived for many years in secret garret nooks of Oesterreich homes, here and in Milwaukee, as the widow's clandestine lover.

AGREEMENT TO END LITIGATION OVER BRIDGES

Lew Wentz and Officials Of Toll Structures Enter Compact

STATES GET BRIDGES

Old Rates to Be Restored During Construction Of New Links

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 11. (AP)—Lew Wentz, chairman of the Oklahoma highway commission, said tonight an agreement, subject to final confirmation by bridge owners, has been reached to end all litigation over the construction of free bridges over Red river to parallel toll structures.

The agreement, Wentz said, provides that the old toll rates on the three principal spans shall be restored during the time of construction of free ones. In return, one of the bridges will be given to the states of Oklahoma and Texas, and provisions made for using the other two in case of need.

Details Awaited

Wentz said details of the exact schedule of rates had not been worked out, and tfiey would not be determined until the agreement is closed.

The stipulation involves the Terral-Ringgold bridge on U. S. highway No. 81, owned by the Terral Bridge company; the Marietta-Gainesville bridge, owned by the Gainesville Red River Bridge company, and the Denison-Durant bridge, owned by the Red River Bridge company.

The tentative agreement was arranged following a recent conference between Charles C. Huff, Dallas attorney, and Wentz. W. C. Lewis, assistant Oklahoma attorney general, left today for Dallas with papers for final signature. Huff represents the owners of all three bridges.

Contractsa Let

If the agreement is reached, it will call for the highway commission asking Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, to restore the rates during the period of constructing the bridges, Wentz said.

Contract for the construction of a free bridge between Durant and Denison was let in January, and for the Terral-Ringgold bridge in March. A work order has been issued for the construction of the Gainesville-Marietta structure.

Wentz said that under the tentative agreement the Durant-Denison bridge will become property of Oklahoma and Texas, and will be given to Bryan county, Okla., and Grayson county, Texas, "to serve local communities."

"The bridge is some distance from the new structure and will be a convenience to the residents immediately adjacent," the Oklahoma highway chairman said.

Cholera Spreads Famine In Stricken Island

WASHINGTON, July 11. (US)—With starvation threatening Bantayan island in the Philippines as a result of cholera, the Red Cross relief force is distributing food to between 12,000 and 15,000 persons until a special government appropriation for public work is available, Charles H. Forster, manager of the Philippine chapter at Manila notified headquarters here today.

Girl Flier Attains 26,000-Foot Altitude

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 11. (AP)—Ruth Alexander today reached an indicated barograph altitude of 26,600 feet, exceeding her previous mark by 6,600 feet.

At 22,000 feet in descent Miss Alexander lost consciousness, and her plane dropped to 1800 feet before she recovered. When taken from the plane after landing she seemed somewhat dazed.

Officer-Critic Offers To Perform Fan Dance Which Closed 'Vanities'

NEW YORK, July 11. (AP)—A gray haired police officer of dignified mien took off his horn rimmed glasses in old Jefferson Market court today and offered to perform a fan dance if Earl Carol would furnish the fans.

The officer was acting Capt. James J. Coy, local critic of the police department. He was testifying against Carroll, a stage comedian and eight comely show girls whom he had charged with staging an indecent performance.

He told of buying an $11 ticket to the Carroll "Vanities" and watching four scenes which he considered entirely inoffensive. But then came the fifth scene, a daisy field in which there lay numerous young ladies waving fans.

"Into this scene," Coy continued, "danced Faith Bacon, waving before her two large ostrich feather fans."

"Do you identify this defendant as Faith Bacon?" the prosecutor asked, motioning to Miss Bacon where she sat with the other show folk inside the rail to rise.

Miss Bacon, a blonde in summer furs, took a bow.

"That's her," said Coy. "She danced with two fans waving in front of her, and when she turned to leave the stage I saw that she was nude from the nape of her neck to the soles of her feet."

Under cross examination Coy insisted that he was positive Miss Bacon was not wearing flesh colored tights, although he acknowledged that the lights were dimmed during the scene and that a gauze curtain hung between the dancer and the audience.

"But while she was facing the audience you had no idea that she was undraped?"

"She kept herself covered with the fans," Coy replied, "passing first one and then the other in front of her. If the fans are here I'll show you how it was done."

Miss Bacon smiled and a titter ran upward through the crowded courtroom. Magistrate Maurice C. Dieb banged his gavel for order and threatened to clear the court.

The hearing was adjourned until next Tuesday.

BOMB WITNESS UNDER ARREST

John McDonald, Waiter, Held in Baltimore

BALTIMORE, July 11. (AP)—John McDonald, whose testimony in 1916 helped to convict Thomas Mooney and Warren K. Billings of taking part in the bombing of the San Francisco Preparedness day parade that resulted in the death of 10 persons, was arrested here tonight.

Through an attorney he issued a statement admitting he had committed perjury at the trial and saying he desired to return to California to "undo the wrong regardless of the personal consequences."

MAN QUESTIONED HERE IN CASE

John H. McDonald, who was found unconscious on the road near Bellevue early Thursday morning and who told officers he had been slugged and robbed by two men with whom he was riding from Fort Worth, was removed from the detention ward at the Wichita General hospital Friday and placed in a regular hospital room. McDonald was questioned Thursday by police who sought to determine whether he is the John McDonald wanted in California as key witness in the Mooney-Billings Preparedness day bombing case in San Francisco in 1916. He denied he was the same McDonald.

Bandit Dies in Electric Chair for Ohio Slaying

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 11. (UP)—Lawrence Dull, 25, of Tiffin, was executed at 9:11 p. m., tonight for the murder of Roy Tish during a holdup at a filling station at Fostoria, Ohio.

Dull died a few minutes after being baptized in the Catholic faith.

Tish was shot to death last November as he sought to protect his filling station from robbery.

Air Pioneer Undergoes Appendicitis Operation

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 11. (AP)—Glenn H. Curtiss, aviation pioneer, was operated on for appendicitis at the General hospital here today. Dr. Thew Wright, who performed the operation, said at noon that the operation was "quite successful."

County and District Candidates Address 800 in Opening Campaign

Brief Speeches by More Than Score of Aspirants to Various Offices Present Platforms

The largest crowd to have assembled in Wichita Falls this year to hear political speeches gathered on the Memorial auditorium grounds Friday night to hear 29 Wichita county candidates for state, county and precinct offices. Approximately 800 persons heard the speakers outline in five-minute talks the platforms on which they base their hopes for election at the July 26 primary.

Judge John P. Marrs, unopposed candidate for the office of county judge, acted as chairman at the speaking. The crowd assembled in the open air under the light of flood lights at the west side of the auditorium, where a second speaking will be held on the evening of Wednesday, July 23. Meanwhile, the candidates will hold speaking engagements in Burkburnett, Electra and Iowa Park.

Substitute Speaker

The first speakers were the candidates for state senate from the 23rd district. In the absence of George W. Backus, assigned first place on the speaking list, a talk in his behalf was made by C. J. Thompson, who stated Mr. Backus "leases his candidacy on his business qualifications and upon his success as a private citizen, which assures the people of this county a business-like administration of the office he seeks in the state senate."

Roy J. Daniel, also a candidate for state senate, said: "I have practiced economy in the past and feel that I am qualified and deserving of election to the state senate, having already served my apprenticeship in the Texas legislature. I favor nine months of free schooling for the children of the farm as well as those of the city. I favor correlated highways, but under the direction of a commission instead of under the proposed bond plan. I am opposed to further taxes on oil."

Oneal Talks

Ben G. Oneal, another candidate for state senate, said: "I have been among you for 14 years. I have never before asked you for a public office. I oppose any increase in state taxes. I favor good roads but I oppose the bond issue which has been proposed. The time will come, I feel, when the gasoline tax will take care of our roads. I am opposed to changing the penitentiary system. I do not want the state to go into the business of selling land. The prison should be rebuilt where it stands.

Rube Lofton, the fourth candidate for state senate, and J. D. Avis, candidate for representative from the 111th district, place No. 2, were both absent.

Joe P. Hatchitt, the other candidate for representative from the 111th district, place No. 2, said: "I have one disadvantage—my youth. But there is a far worse disadvantage you must consider—it is age."

Early Van Deventer, candidate for representative from the 112th district, said: "I am just an average citizen not a lawyer. The lawyer ridden legislature and the lobbyists are trying to do away with competition. There are entirely too many lawyers in the legislature today."

Vernon Candidate

Albert G. Walker, candidate from Wilbarger county for representative from the 112th district, said: "I ask that you investigate my record as a private citizen and a lawyer in both this city and the city in which I now reside. I am against the $300,000,000 bond issue for Texas roads. It is sponsored by grafters from New York. I am against the removal of the penitentiary system."

Allan D. Montgomery, candidate for judge of the 30th district court, said: "I was appointed about 18 months ago by Governor Moody to fill an unexpired term. I have done my utmost to conduct the business of the court as speedily as possible

HIJACKERS ROB HITCH HIKER

Fort Worth Man Thrown From Car—Loses $65

Two men who had offered him a lift in their automobile robbed W. H. Brown of Fort Worth of $65 and hurled him from the moving car onto the pavement of the Henrietta road near Staley field Friday night. Brown, who suffered a severely wrenched back, was rushed to the Wichita General hospital in a Merkle ambulance. Physicians said his injuries were not serious.

Brown told Earl Brooks and J. H. Pogue, motorcycle officers who investigated the case, that he was hitch-hiking his way from Amarillo where he had been employed, to his home in Fort Worth. The two men, driving a large touring car offered him a ride near the Denver tank about 9:30 Friday night. In reply to their questions he told them he had $5 and would pay that to be taken on to Fort Worth. The agreement was made and Brown got into the back seat of the car with one of the two men. He was immediately attacked, his billfold, containing $65, snatched away, and he was thrown from the car to the pavement.

A householder near the field heard his cries and called for the ambulance. His son, A. C. Brown of Fort Worth has been notified.

Repeated Quakes Terrify Guatemala Populace

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, July 11. (UP)—Severe earthquakes in Santa Rosa department continued today, causing great alarm.

The people were terrified, running out of their houses.

The government rushed supplies to the affected zone this evening. Hundreds were reported homeless.

The shocks were said to have caused numerous small buildings to collapse.

Germany Urged to Ask Allied Armies to Call

OMAHA, Neb., July 11. (UP)—A letter to President Paul von Hindenburg, urging a "re-union of former enemy" troops in Germany in 1931 was sent from here by Harry O. Palmer, Republican gubernatorial candidate. Palmer asked Hindenburg to invite allied soldiers to Germany for a "peaceful invasion" in the interests of international friendship.

Fifteen-Year-Old Boy Stabs Father to Death

WASHINGTON, July 11. (AP)—John Alt, 55, was stabbed to death today by his 15-year-old son, Henry, at their home here.

The boy told police he had killed his father with a carving knife after the elder man had threatened members of the family with a pistol.

BLACK KILLER SPIRITED AWAY BY SHERIFF

Officer Precedes Crowd Of Men to Scene of Brutal Murder

Child Gives Fragmentary Account of Attack On Mother

Special to The Record News

SHAMROCK, Texas, July 11.—Sheriff McKinney, whose spectacular dash through a Collingsworth county mob saved a negro suspect from lynching after the murder of Mrs. Henry Vaughan, 27, Friday morning, returned to Shamrock Friday night with the secret of the negro's whereabouts secure in his keeping. He declined to tell the goal of his wild ride out of the state, stating simply that his prisoner was in "safe-keeping." The sheriff also refused to verify reports that the man, Jesse Lee, had confessed the crime.

The sheriff was last seen with his charge at a filling station at Madge, on the Oklahoma side of the border, where he dismissed his companions and took the prisoner on alone. It was believed here that Lee had been taken to the reformatory at Granite, Okla. Crowds that had surged through the streets here throughout the day were quieting late Friday night.

SHAMROCK, Texas, July 11. (AP)—Mrs. Henry Vaughan, 27, was beaten to death by a negro at the Vaughan farm, 12 miles south of here today.

Jesse Lee, negro, accused of the crime, was arrested by Sheriff Claude McKinney and rushed away for safekeeping. It was first reported the officers were headed for Granite, Okla. The negro was driven away as a crowd was gathering and while excitement was at a high pitch. Officers were confident tonight, however, that mob violence would be averted.

Woman Never Speaks

Mrs. Vaughan died in a hospital about four hours after the attack. Her head had been clubbed with a piece of iron pipe. She was unconscious when found and died without speaking. Her husband was at work in the field when Mrs. Vaughan was attacked.

The negro arrested about three hours after the attack in a house near the scene of the crime, denied he was guilty. Explaining scratches on his nose and arm and the presence of blood on his shirt, the negro said he had been thrown by a horse into a fence.

There was evidence in the Vaughan home that Mrs. Vaughan had put up a terrific struggle in an effort to fight off her assailant.

Child Tells of Attack

Margery Ruth, 3-year-old daughter of Mrs. Vaughan, related fragmentarily that the negro rode into the yard on a horse, dismounted and attacked her mother with a gas pipe.

The child said her mother screamed to her to "get daddy!" and she started across the fields for aid.

She first reached George, Henry Vaughn's 10-year-old brother, who had been sent to the house for water.

"Black man make mama bleed," the little girl cried, and the two ran together to the house where they found Mrs. Vaughan in a pool of blood a short distance from the structure. The children spread the alarm through the fields and Mrs. Vaughan was sent to the hospital.

Mob Thwarted

Her head was badly crushed and she died at 2 p. m. The doctor who attended her said she had not been criminally assaulted.

U. S. Inspectors File Sealed Report On Causes of Tragic Plane Crash

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, July 11. (UP)—Two inspectors for the aeronautical division of the United States department of commerce, refused to say tonight what they had written in a sealed report mailed late today to Washington determining the cause of an airplane crash near Port Aransas Thursday which claimed the lives of five prominent Kansas City business men.

Those killed were: Murat Boyle, former president of the Missouri bar association; Raymond Watson, attorney; Eugene Lynn, insurance executive; R. J. Delano, realtor and Pilot K. E. Gebbart.

H. B. Pentland, supervisor, and C. U. Rose, inspector, both of Dallas, today spent several hours inspecting the torn fragments of the plane, trying to piece together the cause of the crash.

Walter Cross Jr., of Kansas City, son of the owner of the plane, and Jack Foster, Kansas City aeronautical engineer, had not arrived here tonight. It was believed they had changed their original plans and would arrive here Saturday morning.

Bodies of the five victims tonight were removed to San Antonio. They were accompanied by Frederick and to give all persons a fair and impartial trial."

J. W. Akin, the other candidate for judge of the 30th court, said: "This is one office where the qualifications of the candidates should stand above all else in the minds of the voters."

Irvin J. Vogel, candidate for judge of the county court-at-law said: "I have attempted to carry out a fair and impartial administration of the law with as little delay and expenditure as possible during the time I have held that office. The biggest leak in the public pocket is in our courts. I have striven to stop that leak in my court so far as it was within my ability to do so."

E. E. Fischer, the other candidate for judge of the county court at law, said: "I worked my way through two Texas colleges, and have practiced law in every court in Texas, from the supreme court on down. I feel myself fully qualified as an administrator of the law to fill the office.

Perry Browning, candidate for sheriff, said: "We are all personal salesmen, trying to sell ourselves to you voters. I have never asked for an office before. I submit myself as a business candidate for sheriff. A business administration of that office is what you people of Wichita county need most. At the same time I promise you an efficient enforcement of the law."

George H. Hodgins, also a candidate for sheriff, said: "I was the only man to hold the office of chief of police under two commissions in Wichita Falls. The heaviest plank in my platform is cooperation with the law enforcement departments not only of Wichita Falls but of the other cities of the county and this section of the state. My qualifications as a peace officer are known to all of you and upon them I base my candidacy."

W. G. Bralley, candidate for re-election to sheriff, said: "I have been in the county for 16 years. I have spent more for my deputies than the state allows, and that money has come from my own pocket. I have done my utmost to provide for you the security and protection which is your due from my office. I ask that you compare my record with those of my fellow-candidates and then let your conscience be your guide."

E. F. Fruechte, candidate for county attorney, said: "I have lived here for the past 10 years. I have a little home, and after 999 more payments it's mine. I feel at home because lots of you are in the same shape. I have practiced law here for the past four and a half years, having served you as assistant district attorney and more recently as a private attorney. I shall be fair to all persons, but I shall reserve the right to use my common sense in any case."

L. V. Abernathy, the other candidate for county attorney, said: "I am a native Texan and have been in Wichita Falls since 1917. I have a home that's not paid for, too, but that is not one of my reasons for asking for the office of county attorney. I served in the army, too, and went from Wichita Falls and thought enough of it to come back after the war. I was selected to be your assistant county attorney and I feel that I am qualified and deserve to be promoted to the office of county attorney."

Life in Dugout

Jim Robinson, candidate for county tax collector, said: "I lived in a dugout 120 miles from a railroad when I was a young man and many a morning I got on a cow pony and he was on me before I could get out of the lot. I promise you a faithful administration in the office of tax collector."

Arthur C. Howard, also a candidate for tax collector, said: "I have lived in Wichita Falls for the past 50 years, having come here nine years after I was born. I will at all times consider the office of tax collector as your office, not mine. I shall do my dead-level best to serve you in that capacity if you will give me your support July 26."

Roy a Jones, present chief deputy tax collector, and third candidate for tax collector, said: "I was born here and educated in your schools. I have been employed in clerical work throughout most of my life. I have served for the last six years as chief deputy tax collector and I wish to stand flat-footed on my record as a deputy. I feel that I have every qualification for the office and that I can render you fair consideration in every line of business in which you may come in contact with the office of collector."

J. A. Hood, candidate for county school superintendent, said: "I received a great and generous vote in the last election when I was a candidate for this same office. I hope that these friends will again cast their ballots in my favor and if others will examine my record as a teacher in your own high school and Junior college and in other schools over the state for the past 20 years, they will see that I have the highest possible qualifications for the office of county superintendent."

Burl Bryant, present county superintendent and candidate for re-election, said: "I have been engaged in school work since I received by first certificate 20 years ago. You know of my work as your superintendent for the past several years. I believe that if there is an office in the state that should have long tenure it is that of county or state school superintendent. My record stands open for your inspection."

Mrs. A. J. Newby, also a candidate for school superintendent, said: "My candidacy is based on the fact that the rural districts of the county have expressed a desire for a change. This desire has been expressed to me and I know that I can understand the children, which is, after all, far more important than being the possessor of book learning."

Mrs. A. B. Eichelberger, unopposed for district clerk, and Max Shumake, also unopposed for tax assessor, at this point made brief talks.

A. E. Brown, candidate for justice of the peace, place No. 2, precinct No. 1, said: "If you elect me, I promise all in my power to give you the best administration possible."

O. L. Gibbs, candidate for reelection to justice of the peace, place No. 2, precinct No. 1, said: "I base my candidacy on my past service in that capacity."

Frank Morgan, candidate for reelection to constable, precinct No. 1, said: "If you elect me again, it will make my 10th year in that office. I base my candidacy on my past record."

Fred K. Smith, also a candidate for constable, said: "Well, folks, here I am again. If you elect me constable, I'll do my very best to enforce the law."

Luke Rowell, third candidate for constable, said: "This is a fee office, with no salary connected with it. For that reason the fee privilege can be abused. If a deputy of mine ever comes in with a bright new car and a lot of other expensive things, he's fired."

M. A. Bundy, candidate for reelection to commissioner from precinct No. 1, said: "I have handled my office to the best of my ability and have given you an excellent business administration."

J. H. Patton, also candidate for commissioner, said: "I served the city as commissioner for six years. I stand on my record in that capacity in asking for my election to this higher office."

M. H. Pearce, third candidate for commissioner, said: "I will make you a commissioner who will give you a business administration throughout."

Sun-Parched Midwest Counts 33 Dead From Heat and Sixty-Four Drownings

Four States Favored by Slight Relief From Fiery Sun While Kansas Harvesters Work by Moonlight

CHICAGO, July 11. (AP)—Even the light from the moon seemed hot tonight in the Midwest, parched by a near record-breaking heat wave for the last week.

Heat deaths for the area since Sunday mounted to 33 and drownings to 64, with but slight relief in sight. Only in the Dakotas, Wisconsin and Minnesota did storm clouds hide the sun momentarily to bring temperatures down an average of six degrees from readings so high that the weather-toughened golfers at the Interlachen open tournament were forced to slow their play while a dozen spectators collapsed on the lawns while watching Bobby Jones.

Wheat Fields Parched

Northwestern and Canadian wheat field were parched while crops in almost all other sections of the Midwest turned yellow from lack of rain.

It was so hot in Omaha, Neb., that John R. Ringwalt, 73, committed suicide. After surviving yesterday's temperature of 104, he told his wife he couldn't stand another day of such heat. She found his body with a bullet through the head.

In Iowa the heat was so intense that six persons died today, bringing the total deaths there attributable to the sun to 12 in the last three days. Horses and other livestock were dying by the score in rural districts. No relief was in sight.

Harvest at Night

It was so hot in Kansas that many wheat harvesters stayed indoors until dusk, then worked in the fields by the light of the moon.

At Benton, Ill., it "was too hot to work," the Evening News said in advancing its edition time to 12:30 p. m. for the rest of July.

Hail and rain storms lashed parts of Tennessee and Louisiana while Northern Utah was covered with silt and mud from one of the most devasting rainfalls in the state's history.

The rain swept through the Wasatch mountains and flowed in torrents through the cities below with damage estimated at $500,000. Highway No. 40 east of Salt Lake City was closed by landslides. Union Pacific railroad tracks were washed out southeast of Ogden when thousands of tons of earth and rock were piled into a natural dam which blocked Weber canyon and changed the course of Weber river.

NORRIS OFFERS TREATY 'RIDER'

Hoover's Defiance Moves Fiery Nebraskan

WASHINGTON, July 11. (AP)—President Hoover's refusal today to give the senate all the notes leading up to the London naval conference provoked the introduction of the first reservation to the treaty and drew a spirited denunciation.

Around the reservation—offered by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska — there was gathering tonight considerable strength and upon this issue may be made either the big attempt to reject the treaty or to postpone its consideration until fall.

It was Senator Johnson, Republican, California, leader of the treaty opposition, who assailed the presidential message and called upon the senate to take action against the "lashing." He did not mention what action, and it was understood he meant rejection of the treaty.

Mr. Hoover invited the members of the senate to scrutinize for themselves the London documents under pledge of secrecy, but he said their publication or use in debate would amount to a "breach of trust" by himself with the other nations.

He reiterated "with the utmost emphasis" that in the London negotiations "there were no secret or concealed understandings, promises or interpretations, nor any commitments whatever except as appear in the treaty itself."

The Norris resolution which was offered immediately after the presidential message was read to the senate called attention to the failure of the senate to get all the London data and concluded:

"Therefore, be it resolved by the senate that in ratifying the said treaty the senate does so with the distinct and explicit understanding that there are no secret files, documents, letters, understandings or agreements which in any way, directly or indirectly, modify, change, add to or take from any of the stipulations, agreements or statements in said treaty; and that the senate ratifies said treaty with the distinct and explicit understanding that there is no agreement, secret or otherwise, expressed or implied, between any of the parties to said treaty as to any construction that shall hereafter be given to any statement or provision contained therein."

While Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, one of the delegates to London, indicated his disapproval of the Norris resolution, Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee and other treaty proponents withheld judgment pending a study.

Electra Pioneer To Be Buried Today

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, July 11.—Funeral services for J. S. Baker, 72-year-old Electra pioneer who died at a Wichita Falls hospital Thursday night, will be held from the First Methodist church at Electra at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Rev. C. L. Bounds, pastor of the church, and Rev. H. E. Anderson of Gainesville, former Electra minister, will conduct the services. Burial will be in the Electra cemetery.

Mr. Baker, for 24 years a prominent Wichita county farmer, came to Texas 40 years ago from Richmond, Va. He is survived by four sons and one daughter. The sons are O. C. and W. D. Baker of Electra, S. H. Baker of Burkburnett, and M. L. Baker of Midland. Mrs. S. E. Honaker of Vernon is the daughter.

Texan Found Dead In Automobile at Jewett

GOVERNOR RACE GETS WARMER

Candidates Unsparing In Personal Attacks

Coryell and a "majority of the counties in the districts of Congressman John Garner of Uvalde and Hudspeth with a strong vote in all the principal cities."

Headquarters for Young also announced that 11 speakers would advocate his nomination in various parts of the state Saturday.

Eustis Myres of Dallas, returning from East Texas to Dallas headquarters of Earle B. Mayfield, said that the former United States senator was in the lead in that section. "Mayfield has supporters in every town of any consequences in that section," Myres said. "He has 10 times as many requests for speaking engagements as he is able to fill."

Help for Mayfield

In an attempt to partially satisfy the Mayfield supporters R. B. Humphrey, Dallas Hoover Democrat, has taken the stump for Mayfield, and W. M. Pierson, Dallas attorney, will speak at Terrell Saturday afternoon and at Kemp Saturday night, Myres said.

Mayfield spoke Friday afternoon at Mart and Friday night at Waco, the latter speech being broadcast.

After nearly a week in East and Central Texas, Senator Clint C. Small said he was "encouraged." He stated that notwithstanding the fact that he was little known in those sections he would get a good vote because the people would vote against certain candidates rather than "for anybody."

Small spoke at Groesbeck Friday afternoon and at Marlin at night. Up in his home district in the Panhandle a giant rally had been planned for Friday night with Senator Pink L. Parrish of Lubbock and John Erhard of Dallas as the principal speakers.

The paths of Miller and Sterling did not cross Friday but they both were still in West Texas and continued to fight a more or less personal duel concerning the income of the state highway department. Sterling claimed that under Miller's plan the state would have only $5,000,000 a year for new road construction whereas the state bond issue would relieve the counties of their tax burdens, would provide ample funds for new road construction, and the bonds could be retired out of the gasoline tax.

John Davis of Dallas, former state senator and Miller supporter, said at Hillsboro Thursday night that the state highway department had said that the revenues exclusive of federal and county aid during the current fiscal year for state highway purposes would be in excess of $33,000,000. Figuring an increase of 10 per cent each year in the gasoline tax revenues and adding the federal aid, the average income for the next 10 years would be $51,423,000, Davis said. "Mr. Sterling admits that not more than $50,000,000 can be effectively used annually," he said.

Sterling supporters in each county have been given figures showing how much the taxes of their county would be reduced by a refund of the money their county has contracted to spend on state roads.

Miller spoke at Mineral Wells Friday afternoon while Sterling was at Anson in the afternoon and at Stamford Friday night.

Senator Thomas B. Love talked at Weatherford Friday afternoon and had arranged to speak over radio station KTAT at Fort Worth Friday night.

His headquarters minimized defections of Hoover Democratic voters to Sterling in East Texas, to Small in West Texas and to Mayfield. Alvin Moody of Houston, head of the anti-Tammany Democrats and Love's campaign manager, said he could not tell how the rank and file would vote but 99 per cent of the Hoover leaders were for Love.

Moody said that Sterling would not beat Love by more than 2,000 votes in his home county of Harris and gave Mrs. Ferguson third place in that county.

Law Still Stumped By Lingle Death Mystery

SHERIFF SAVES NEGRO KILLER

Shamrock Murderer Taken To Oklahoma

Shamrock rushed to the scene evidently prepared to mob the negro if he was caught. But Sheriff Claud McKinney of Collingsworth county preceded them.

Jesse Lee, a young negro working on a neighboring farm, had been sent on horseback to a store several miles away to get some medicine. The sheriff and the group of Shamrock men found him in a negro shack about a mile from the scene of the crime.

When questioned, he denied any knowledge of the killing and explained the presence of scratches on his nose and face by saying his horse had thrown him into a fence. Officers said the negro had the reputation of being feeble-minded.

The sheriff took Lee into custody, outwitting a mob of more than a hundred men at the Vaughan place by driving away at a fast pace. Several cars followed but were outdistanced.

Sheriff to Oklahoma

Henry Vaughn, husband of the slain woman, armed for vengeance, refrained from using his gun at the first sight of Lee for fear the wrong man might be shot, officials reported.

The sheriff drove toward Mangum, Okla., and the most reliable information indicated that he took the prisoner to the Oklahoma state reformatory at Granite.

Feeling was high here and the mob was considerably chagrined at its failure to obtain custody of the negro.

Talk was heard of "running all the negroes out of town" but leading citizens counseled moderation and respect for law.

The sheriff put two Shamrock men out of his car at the point of a gun at the Oklahoma state line.

Mrs. Vaughan was survived by her husband, the small daughter, Margery Ruth, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tackitt, of Erick, Okla.

The Vaughans have been prominent residents of Shamrock for many years. They moved onto the farm about a year ago. Funeral arrangements had not been completed Friday night.

Inspectors File Crash Report

Dierks, Kansas City lumberman, who remained behind to fish several days when his companions took off from Port Aransas en route back to Kansas City.

Parts of the plane, its wings ripped off in mid-air and its fuselage torn into bits, by the impact of the fall, were scattered over a half mile area, making an exhaustive survey of the wreckage necessary, Pentland said. The motor was buried more than five feet in the ground.

Veteran pilots along the coast tonight were agreed that the wings were torn from the ship when Pilot Gabbert, flying blind through fog and thunderclouds, attempted to level out the ship from an earthwide dive.

J. P. McAuliffe, meterologist, said that Gabbert failed to query the weather bureau here for information.

GASOLINE WAR END IN SIGHT

Standard Restores Old Motor Fuel Price

LOS ANGELES, July 11. (US)—First of the big companies to join in the effort to end the disastrous gasoline war, Standard Oil of California today announced its former prices will be restored.

It was stated in the announcement, simultaneously made public here and in San Francisco, that tomorrow morning the motor fuel will again be retailed in Los Angeles for 19½ cents a gallon and at 20 cents in the northern city.

The first move was made here several days ago when the MacMillen Petroleum corporation, one of the larger independents, raised its retail price to 19½ cents a gallon and appealed to other concerns to do likewise. The MacMillan move was received coldly. In fact, prices took a further drop and gasoline was sold at many stations for as low as 10 cents a gallon.

RALLY ALMOST ENDS IN FIGHT

Oklahoma Senator And Warden in Heated Clash

McALESTER, Okla., July 11. (UP)—Pittsburgh county politics boiled today after a threatened fight last night between State Senator Guy L. Andrews and Dr. John Q. Newell, warden of the state penitentiary.

When Andrews finished a political speech at a rally here, in which he said if "any dirty money was included in a fee to draft a new pardon and parole law it came from the warden."

Newell rushed up the aisle, waving his cane and calling Andrews a "damned liar."

Several in the audience demanded that Newell be thrown out by the white haired official walked from the room with no more disturbance created.

Andrew's statement resulted from charges made against Andrews by Pres S. Lester, a rival candidate for the senate. Lester was quoted as saying the fee for the pardon and parole law was "dirty money."

Newell said about 18 months ago the prisoners collected about $250 among themselves, gifts ranging from eight cents to $5, to have a pardon and parole law drafted. This was in keping with the custom to allow prisoners to hire attorneys, Newell said.

"The money was given to Hl Aston, Andrews' law partner. The money is all gone. No bill was introduced into the legislature. I had nothing to do with the money. I resent what Andrews said about me," Newell said.

Hawks' Speed Plane Crashes

Famous Flier Escapes With Slight Injuries

WICHITA, Kan., July 11. (UP)—Capt. Frank Hawks, famous flier who holds transcontinental records, narrowly escaped death here shortly after noon today when his new racing plane, a special Mystery S Travelair, nosed down at Central Avenue airport.

Hawks was testing the speed of the tiny plane, in which he hopes to fly from coast to coast in 12 hours or less. He was coming in to land when his wheels brushed the telephone wires lining one side of the field.

The plane nosed into the ground. Hawks climbed out unassisted, having cut off his motor when he saw the ship was going to hit. He suffered bruises and was cut. First aid treatment was given him at the Travelair factory emergency station.

The ship escaped serious damage.

Hawk's escape was considered miraculous, as the tiny plane landed at a speed of nearly 90 miles an hour, and ordinarily would have turned completely over on touching its wheels to the wires, fliers said.

The Mystery S is capable of 250 miles an hour, according to official tests. It is small, with a wing spread of 30 feet, and a length of 20 feet. It is virtually a flying gasoline tank, and Hawks' action in cutting off his switch before the plane hit undoubtedly prevented a fire.

Electra Lions Name Committee Heads

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, July 11.—The opening song at the noon luncheon of the Lions club Thursday was "Hail, Hail, the Lions Are Here." The invocation was offered by Rev. C. L. Bounds after which the following visitors were introduced: Judge Irvin J. Vogel and C. E. Sumerlin, Wichita Falls; Misses Letrice Wofford, Belva Hannah and Oscelle Terry, Electra.

G. J. Gilles, president, presided over the business session, and the names of the chairmen of the standing committees who will serve during the ensuing year were announced as follows: Membership, F. M. Baker; major activities, W. M. Austin; finance and budget, Dr. R. R. Ramey; constitution and by-laws, Ben W. Tipton; attendance, J. N. Fulcher, J. A. Wise and Wayne Gillispie; publicity, W. L. Horn; program, H. T. S. Totten; park, A. C. Rippy.

President Gilles read a letter from the Lions club of Hartford, Conn., asking for information concerning the annual minstrel put on by the Electra club. A story of the annual minstrel had appeared in the international publication.

H. T. S. Totten, who was elected chairman of group No. 29 recently, announced that F. M. Baker, Electra, had been chosen as secretary of the group.

Entertainment features included song numbers by Misses Hannah and Terry, accompanied at the piano by Miss Wofford. Neal M. Sparks, A. C. Rippy, Wayne Gillispie, and Rev. C. L. Bounds were chosen to give a song number. They were led by Rev. C. C. Klingman. Reverend Bounds also gave a humorous reading, "The Dutchman's Dog," which was enjoyed. Talks were made by the visitors, and President Gilles, in behalf of the club, wished Reverend Klingman a pleasant trip to the Lions International convention which will be held at Denver, Colo.

Startlingly reminiscent of actual war days is this action photo of a British observer leaping for his life from a blazing balloon. NOCONA CALLS CITY ELECTION

Commission Government Up to Vote

Special to The Record News

NOCONA, Texas, July 11.—A petition signed by 74 qualified voters of Nocona requesting an election be called to decide whether or not Nocona shall continue under the commission form of government or changed to the aldermanic system, was presented to Mayor True Strong recently. Strong has granted the request and ordered an election to be held Aug. 12, 1930.

If the aldermanic form is adopted, five aldermen, a mayor, city marshall, city clerk, tax collector, tax assessor and city treasurer will have to be elected by the people. The offices of assessor, collector, clerk and treasurer are usually held by one person in towns the size of Nocona.

DOYLE GIVEN SIMPLE BURIAL

Services for Author Held At Windlesham

WINDLESHAM, Crowborough, Sussex, England, July 11. (AP)—With the utmost simplicity and scarcely a visible sign of mourning Sir Arthur Canon Doyle was buried today in the garden of his country home here.

A union jack, flying at half staff above the club house on the golf course nearby, was virtually the only conventional token accompanying the placing of the body of the noted author, creator of Sherlock Holmes and exponent of spiritualism, in its final resting place.

Assistants on the Doyle place attended the burial in their working clothes and only a few of those present wore black neckties. The committal ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Brayton Thomas, non-conformist clergyman and fellow spiritualist of Sir Arthur.

Dennis Conan Doyle, eldest son, was ill and unable to attend. Lady Doyle, her son, Adrian, and two daughters were the other members of the family present.

MEMORIAL SERVICE SET FOR SUNDAY

LONDON, July 11. (AP)—Spiritualists have set the stage for Sir Arthur Canon Doyle's reappearance before them during a memorial service to be held Sunday at Albert hall.

The author's favorite chair will occupy the center of the platform, to the lay eye empty, but to his devotees occupied by the spirit of the man who created Sherlock Holmes, and who died Monday.

Lady Doyle, his widow, will sit at the left side of the chair, a place she always occupied during her husband's public lectures. She was said today to regard this as the last public demonstration that she would attend with him.

At Lady Doyle's request, Frank Hawken, organizing secretary of the Spirit Memorial service, said a demonstration of clairvoyance will be given. She supports Sir Arthur's view that clairvoyance is a religious rite.

"We expect it to be the largest attempt at clairvoyance ever made, but whether Sir Arthur will be able to demonstrate sufficiently yet for the medium to describe him is problematical. Even if he should it is doubtful if the evidence would be accepted by the skeptics, but we who have known Mrs. Estelle Roberts, who will be at the clairvoyant, have no doubt at all."

Bilbo Refuses To Release Prisoner

GULFPORT, Miss., July 11. (AP)—Governor Bilbo today refused to honor a requisition of Erath county, Texas, officials for the delivery to them of H. D. Wilkinson and C. A. Kelkinney of Macon, Miss., wanted in the Texas county on an indictment charging conspiracy to defraud in connection with an alleged cattle purchase.

The governor's refusal followed a lengthy hearing in his summer offices at which the Texas district attorney and other officials as well as attorneys for the two Mississippians presented their cases.

Wilkins, according to authorities, stopped payment on a check given for the purchase of cattle brought in Texas. The accused contended that the cattle were diseased and could not be shipped into this state.

COLE SENTENCE SLATED TODAY

Date of Convicted Man's Death to Be Set

WEWOKA, Okla., July 11. (INS)—Formal sentencing of Paul D. Cole, convicted of the murder of Ernest Irby, former Texas banker and drug store owner here, will take place Saturday, District Judge George C. Crump announced today. As no recommendation of mercy accompanied the jury's verdict it is mandatory upon the court to assess the death penalty.

Cole was charged jointly with Frank Hunt, former Tulsa lawyer, in the slaying of Irby. The latter, who turned state's evidence in the case, and testified to buying the gun which was used to kill Irby, will stand trial later. He accused Cole of doing the actual shooting.

Evidence in the case revealed that the slaying of Irby was prompted by a fear that he would testify against Cole and Hunt in connection with a liquor charge pending against the two in federal court.

Irby's body was found in Lake Wewoka, April 10. It had been weighted down with pipe and stones.

Knox County Asks for Oklahoma City Man

President Signs 'Oleo' Tax Change

WASHINGTON, July 11. (AP)—President Hoover has signed a bill to amend the oleomargarine act providing for an assessment of a 10 cent tax per pound on all colored imitations of butter.

The measure had been in congress several years following the growth of the manufacture and sales of compound as butter.

Under the new act all compounds containing more than one per cent of moisture and colored to imitate butter are to come under the oleomargarine act and all quarter and pound packages must carry the information the product is oleomargarine.

The act is not applicable to lard and other uncolored shortening compounds.

FOOT TO MOUTH

Mike: Pat has worked himself up, hasn't he?

Murphy: How do you mean?

Mike: He used to be a chiropodist, now he's a dentist.—Answers.

ARE YOU A MILLIONAIRE?
IF YOU ARE, perhaps you can afford to be reckless with silk lingerie and stockings, even though it may not be very sensible. But most of us have to be careful.
When you wash fine things, only a pure soap should be used. That's just what White King is—soap made from vegetable and nut oils good enough to eat. It's as pure as soap can be—safe for the most delicate ginghams and prints, effective for the heaviest woolens, kind to the most tender hands. Even in hard or lukewarm water it forms quick, rich suds, cleanses thoroughly, and swiftly rinses away.
Try White King today. It solves every household washing problem. And it's economical—a teaspoonful for the wash basin, a cupful for the washing machine. You won't need more. It's condensed. Sold by your grocer.

New York's Welcome Spreading Speakeasies Outnumber the Schools 4-Hour Workday

By EMILE GAUVREAU

New York extends its ticker tape welcome to every variety of hero: airplanist, diplomatist, soldier, polar discoverer, and now a golfer. It went wild over a girl swimmer. Were a welcome staged for Babe Ruth the city would probably be turned inside out. Meanwhile the real heroes who benefit mankind, great inventors, physicians, scientists, authors, slip in unrecognized. The acrobats and showmen hold the stage in this country. South America, which honors its writers with street parades and naval convoys, might teach us something.

If prohibition should be enforced women would be the impelling force behind it. At heart, the majority of them are like Mrs. R. L. P. Wallace, president of the Parent-Teacher association in Queens, who appeals to the federal authorities to close up a speakeasy there whose rear entrance fronts public school No. 36. The federal authorities refer the good lady to the police. The police have raided the place several times but it opens up again every time and they are unable to padlock it. They refer the lady back to the federal authorities.

Mrs. Wallace, fighting woman, wires President Hoover, the department of justice and to Representative Brummer. They all promise "immediate attention." She knows what that means. She will tackle the job herself and on Monday will picket the speakeasy. Before prohibition the saloon was kept away from the church and the schoolhouse. Now the speakeasies are crowding the schools. Little boys collect dimes and quarters on the streets of New York to show you to the gates of the secret bars. Not surprising when there are more speakeasies than schoolhouses in Manhattan.

People who want to take it easy will be interested in the prophecy of the editor of the National Education association, who promises a four-hour work day by 1960. Those who dislike working will begrudge the intervention of 30 years. Others will work all the harder, knowing that the brain and muscles improve with use and get atrophied with disuse.

Edison, who has worked 20 hours a day, will tell you that, as it is, we only make use of a small percentage of our thinking powers, which are wasted. Einstein, another man who uses his brain, is one of the hardest working men in Europe. He creates while he rests. Neither of them will wait for 1960.

While New York raises the salaries of its major officials by hundreds of thousands of dollars, poor children have to wait on the charity of our underpaid policemen for their summer excursions. Patrolmen, sergeants and deputy inspectors voluntarily tax themselves with $1.50 to $3 contributions for a $30,000 fund. The political hogs who grabbed their salary increases from the pockets of the taxpayers will undoubtedly pat the generous bluecoats on the back for their public spirit.

Commissioner Mulrooney raids cheap New York dance halls and promises a cleanup. The "hostesses" in these breeds of vice should be sent back home and the city should pay their fares. Most of them are good girls, lured to New York from small factory towns by the promise of easy money. They wind up in the underworld.

Mrs. Rita Schoemaker, modern mother, leaps 16,000 feet in a parachute at Roosevelt field for a record. Landing in a cabbage patch, she says: "Give all of the credit to my baby." If he knew about it, the baby would not be so enthusiastic.

New York police have been instructed to be more quiet in the performance of their duties. There are times, no doubt, when people would like to have them keep absolutely still.

The greatest vacation of all is to pitch a tent and sit down to rest in it. The tent—not the pitch.

A Man and His Faith

A GENERATION that grew up with Sherlock Holmes as its favorite miracle worker cannot look on the death of Conan Doyle as anything less than a personal loss. The number of human beings with really good imaginations is never large; Sir Arthur had one, and it brought enjoyment and a pleasant intellectual stimulation into the lives of millions of people.

Yet it was not solely as the creator of Sherlock Holmes that Conan Doyle is remembered. He had another distinction—a faith, bizarre but strong, which struck a great many of his fellow mortals as outlandish but which nevertheless sustained and helped him when he needed help very badly.

Indeed, now that he is dead it is precisely this queer faith of his that sticks in one's mind.

For Conan Doyle was that peculiar anomaly, a believer in an age of confirmed skepticism. Other men might debate the question of determinism, might suggest that men are no better than cunningly-made machines; this aged author could pin his life to the belief that the dead not only lived but could be talked to. He could see a heavenscent reality beyond the flub-dubbery of table-tappings and dim-lit seance parlors. He could look confidently at the grave as a portal and not as a final resting place.

And this, now that he is gone, is what must stick in our minds. Whether you scoffed at his faith in spiritualism or respected it, there is no blinking this one fact—Conan Doyle, now, knows the truth about it.

It may be, after all, that the proof of the pudding lies in the eating of it. The works that proceed from faith have been accepted, for ages, as proper testimonials; and for Conan Doyle, at least, the faith that was in him was something very real and very helpful.

Read the account of his death. There was no terror, no reluctance. He died peacefully; and just before he died he turned to his wife and said, "You are very wonderful."

Dupe or seer, this man at least had found a faith that made death easy. He had found a faith that sustained him in his old age, a faith that kept him from black despair when his son was killed in the trenches of France, a faith that enabled him to die better than most of us will be able to die.

You can think what you please about spiritualism as a faith. But for the man who created Sherlock Holmes, at least—it worked.

If Cars Were De-Horned

CONSIDERING the multiplicity of ordinances and laws passed here and there continuously with a view to influencing the highway conduct of automobile drivers, may one not marvel at the changes that would be wrought by the simple expedient of depriving all drivers of klaxons, horns, sirens, or other alarms on their cars?

Shed of his capacity to hurl a stentorian and raucous blast at the pedestrian who is about to venture bravely from the curb at the crossing a block away, the driver would shift his foot from the accelerator to the brake, unconsciously restrained by the possibility of a serious accident.

Rendered incapable of shrieking mechanically his possession of the street by virtue of acquired momentum, he would allow the other car to enter the main artery of travel far ahead of him, even if further acceleration were rendered momentarily unwise by the intruder's self-assertion.

Shorn of a tooting organ or strident-voiced horn with which to attract attention, many a youthful driver would be robbed of his entire incentive to hurl a heavy car through downtown traffic at reckless speed.

Last but not least, he might park his car at the curb and call personally at the door for the person with whom he would commune, instead of waking up the entire neighborhood with prolonged, regular and thoroughly annoying squawks as he hangs impatiently over the wheel.

The Postal Deficit

POSTMASTER GENERAL BROWN is a brave man. When congress reconvenes in December he will lay before it a report recommending an increase in first class postal rates of ½ a cent an ounce, from 2 to 2½ cents an ounce for letter mail.

Such an increase would affect everybody who mails a letter and it is pretty certain to meet with a lot of objection. The rate on first class mail has been 2 cents an ounce since 1885 and is about the only thing that hasn't been raised in that period.

But the increase would pretty surely wipe out the deficit under which the postoffice department now operates. Last year this deficit was $50,000,000; this year it may reach $60,000,000.

The increase on letter postage would be more widely spread out than any other increase in rates could be, and it will be just as easy to collect 2½ cents from the letter writer as two cents. But just the same we will expect to hear a very strong protest when the recommendation is made to congress.

Victory for Non-Resistance?

SARDAR VALLABHAI PATEL, leader of the Indian Nationalist movement now that Gandhi is in jail, tells an interviewer that England's efforts to choke the independence movement will surely be defeated by the Indians' campaign of non-resistance—a move, he says, to which "the west has yet found no answer."

"You can beat us, you can shoot us—but as long as we do not hit back, you cannot defeat us," he says. "We have shown not only the world but ourselves our capacity for suffering. And after a while you will begin to feel ashamed of yourselves."

There is food for a good deal of thought in that remark. It is just within the bounds of possibility that events may prove it correct. At any rate, it is a dignified expression of a very noble ideal.

Q.—Has automobile registration gone over 25,000,000?—M. G.
A.—In 1929, it was 26,501,443.

Q.—Where was Pocahontas' son reared?—F. A. L.
A.—An uncle in England reared Thomas Rolfe.

Q.—Who was master of ceremonies at the first inaugural?—G. S. M.
A.—Colonel Smith, husband of Abigail Adams Smith, was one.

Q.—Where was the first synagogue in the United States built?—W. D.
A.—Touro Synagogue in Newport, R. I., is the oldest. It was built in 1762, and is still in use.

Q.—Can people commute by airplane?—H. W.
A.—Some companies are furnishing commuters' strip tickets. This kind of business will probably grow rapidly.

Q.—How long have stock exchanges existed?—L. B.
A.—The idea of a stock exchange is an old one, and stock brokers, so called, have existed for many years. In fact, Nelson states that as early as 1285 in England the term, broker, is referred to in an act of parliament.

Q.—An old family record mentions Little York, Pennsylvania. Can you tell me where it is?—K. G. H.
A.—The town of Little York has developed into the present city of York. It was named for York, England, and was referred to during revolutionary days as Little York.

Q.—What is the world's record for typewriting and who holds it?—P. G. T.
A.—One hundred and thirty-five words a minute is the new world's record for typing. This was attained by George L. Hossfield, Sept. 28, 1929, in Toronto, Canada. Mr. Hossfield also held the record for the following years: 1918, 1929, 1921, 1922, 1926 and 1927. The record was made by plain copying from straight reading matter. The writing lasted for one hour.

Q.—When was Morro Castle built?—S. J. H.
A.—The Morro Castle in Havana is a picturesque fortress, built about 1633 on a jutting promontory, 200 feet above the water opposite the narrow harbor entrance to Havana. It was built by the Spanish and although the Dutch captured the city of San Juan in 1625 they did not capture Morro. It remained in Spanish possession until the Spanish-American war.

Q.—How did Julian Eltinge happen to become a female impersonator?—H. O. C.
A.—Julian Eltinge, whose real name is William Julian Dalton, was born in Boston in 1883. He was employed in a bank in Boston and at that time the different banks' clerks put on a show annually, called the Bank Offices Show. Eltinge (or Dalton) played first in the chorus and later the leading female role. He achieved such marked success that he became a professional female impersonator. He began his professional career at Keith's theater, Boston.

Q.—Can I get a patent for a new remedy?—H. B. P.
A.—Patents for medicine compounds are obtainable in rare instances and must amount to a startling generic discovery before being patentable. Since the government has practically ceased granting patents of this class, applicants are advised to keep the preparation of the medicine secret and protect the proprietary article when placed on the market by means of trade mark, print and label registration.

Q.—Which companies had the first chain stores in the United States?—W. H. B.
A.—The first of the existing chain store systems appears to have been the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company which was founded in 1858. The Jones Brothers Tea company was established in 1872; Woolworth's Five and Ten Cent stores in 1879; James Butler company's Grocery chain in 1882; McCrory Grocery chain in 1882; Kresge company in 1885; United Cigar stores in 1901; J. C. Penney stores in 1902; and the United Drug company in 1902. Since 1900 the chain store idea in the United States has spread in 55 different branches including automobile supplies, bakeries, clothing shops, confectionery shops, drugs, shoes and tobacco products.

"STEP-CHILD"

BY ROB EDEN

Dane had stopped the car at the exact spot where the accident had occurred.

Knocked down by the car of Mrs. Talbot, a pretty young girl is taken to the hospital where, upon regaining consciousness, she can remember nothing which happened prior to the accident, not even her name. In the days at the hospital, the girl becomes acquainted with Dane Talbot, Mrs. Talbot's nephew, who gives her the name of Kay Smith until her true identity can be determined.

CHAPTER II

Kay alighted from Dane Talbot's car and looked at the house where she was to live. His aunt's house, he had said. Mrs. Talbot was going to let her stay there until she felt herself. The girl knew that meant until some one claimed her.

She had seen Mrs. Talbot only once, when the older woman came to the hospital with her nephew one afternoon. There had been murmured apologies, though the gray eyes belied them. Something hard, brittle in her eyes that Dane's did not have.

The house was a large gray stone, four-storied place. Narrow, with high windows and a wrought iron railing enclosing a small flagged court. Wedged in closely between two gigantic apartment houses, it still seemed to assert itself proudly, almost defiantly to the two overpowering neighbors. So this was to be her home. Not always, but for a time. Her home. She walked up the half dozen stone steps silently, feeling out of place, and strangely alone though Dane was at her side.

Miss Nason had loaned her a hat and dress while the only garments Kay possessed were being cleaned and mended for her, for their condition after the accident was pitiful.

The pumps were shabby, worn. When she had taken them in her hands to examine them she had thought she must have walked in them a good deal. The heels were beginning to run over and the soft leather was scuffed as if by jagged stones.

The coat was light, evidently a summer garment, and the air was chill. Miss Nason and Kay had talked over the clothes very carefully, and Miss Nason was of the opinion that they had been made by a dressmaker, which accounted for the lack of any labels. The nurse also said that the pumps must have been expensive when new. They were well made, and the leather was very fine.

Almost Crazy.

Kay smiled grimly. She was getting used to thinking of the past, wondering about it now, calmly. At first she had been frightened, almost crazy because she couldn't remember. Now it seemed as if she must have been born when she opened up her eyes in the hospital, when she had seen Miss Nason looking down at her. All the rest was a blank. But a blank, a void that she was inquiring into curiously, instead of with fear. She must remember. She must. And soon.

Dane Talbot had taken her by Gower and Market on her way to Mrs. Talbot's. He had stopped the car at the exact spot where the accident had occured according to Mallory, with whom he had visited it several times.

Kay had shaken her head when her eyes had met Dan's. She didn't know the streets. Yet two weeks ago she had crossed here. Two weeks ago. Had she lived near here? And was she hurrying home? This other self she did not know. This self she was trying to place. So short a time ago. Only a few days. So much had happened since then.

She thought of the days in the hospital, when she grew stronger and could walk around the room. At first stumblingly, for her feet were unsteady. Then when her strength had come back, her nervous pacing of the floor. Her eyes on the door, through which should come some hint of her past. Every time it opened, her pulse quickened, her heart played queer tricks on her. Sometimes she had to sit down, weak with anxiety.

But no, only the doctor, Miss Nason, one of the other nurses to cheer her up. Often Dane Talbot, who had been very good to her. She had grown to look for him every afternoon about 4, and when he did not come, she was disappointed. She liked to see his big, broad frame sitting in the chair opposite hers, liked to see the slow smile that passed over his face, starting with his fine gray eyes, quivering over the tip of his nose, and ending with his firm, straight lips.

Rugged Strength

His face with its rugged strength, its kind sympathy. The little mannerism he had of running his fingers through his thick brown hair, and ruffling it when he was excited. She wondered at times at the little lines under his eyes, and around his mouth. She knew he was 33, but often he seemed older—when he frowned, and when he sat quite still, looking out of the window. When he laughed he was a boy—a careless, lovable boy, and she forgot about the lines, and laughed with him.

His eyes gray, like his aunt's. But a vast difference in them. Dane's a soft, kind gray. Mrs. Talbot's steely, rather forbidding.

She liked to call him Dane. When he had suggested it, because he insisted from that first day on calling her Kay, she had been strangely happy. Happier than she cared to admit.

Every morning at the hospital the same unasked question in her eyes. Miss Nason knew it now, and answered it as silently with a shake of her head. No, no one had come to inquire.

Miss Nason, herself, couldn't understand it, and told Kay that perhaps her relatives hadn't missed her yet, or that she had been visiting in New York and was a stranger here. It might take some time. She musn't be discouraged. She mothered the girl as much as she could.

She followed Dane into the living room and looked curiously around. A large room, furnished entirely in the French Louis XVI manner. Dane seemed out of place here, lolling in one of the fragile, gilt chairs covered with pale yellow satin damask. A woman's room, not a man's. Certainly not Dane Talbot's. She knew he didn't live with his aunt, that he had an apartment of his own down town. But she also knew that he visited her constantly. Her heart quickened at the thought. She would see him often. Perhaps every day.

Mrs. Talbot trailed in presently in a long flowing yellow gown, moving majestically over the Aubusson rug. She shook hands with Kay, and murmured something Kay could not hear, then moved off, where the girl saw her touch a long silken cord.

A maid appeared almost immediately.

"Show Miss Smith to her room, Ellen," Mrs. Talbot's voice was sharp. "We'll have tea at 4, Miss Smith."

Kay rose reluctantly. The dismissal had been so abrupt, so hurried. There were things she wanted to say to Dane—they would have to wait now, unless he, too, stayed for tea. She hoped he would.

Fascinated Eyes

The room where Ellen took Kay was on the third floor, a small room at the back, looking out on

That it takes longer for a person's voice to travel the few inches to the microphone than it does to travel all the way 'round the world—because after it is broadcast it is as swift as light.

That childs in the Savoy-Plaza has no toothpicks.

That smoking by the girls is permitted in the class rooms at Columbia before the lesson begins.

That there are pieces of real estate a stone's throw from Times Square which have not increased a $ in value in the past 50 years.

That the fastest train to Chicago isn't the 20th Century or the Broadway Limited. It is the 16-hour train that goes straight through to Chicago daily with a load of fresh fish.

That by eating raw carrots you will whiten your teeth.

That telephone operators in Jerusalem are supposed to speak 11 languages before they can get the job.

That there is a way you may listen in on telephone conversations without making that "clicking" sound and arousing suspicion.

That the new Wellington hotel in New York, however, has the new type of phone switchboard, which makes it impossible to listen in on conversations, accidentally, or on purpose. For if you are an operator and you try to—you immediately cut off both parties.

That Paul Revere was but one of a party who rode that night, and that the horse Paul rode was not white!

That lightning often strikes twice in the same place.

That there are four niches in the four faces of the Saratoga Battle monument at Old Saratoga, now Schuylerville, N. Y. They contain the statues of Generals Gates, Schuyler and Morgan. The vacant niche was to have been occupied by the statue of Benedict Arnold, the outstanding hero of this engagement, who later forfeited his claim to lasting fame by turning traitor.

That Nancy Carroll has tried to see a movie in New York for three weeks but cannot get anyone to take her!

That among those now receiving pensions from the federal government are several widows of veterans of the war of 1812. (Izzatso? Well, how about old veterans who married young gels, you dope?)

That there is a mountain range in Alaska known as the Crazy Mts.

That old newspapers are more effective than camphor for discouraging moths from clothing. Moths detest the smell of printer's ink.

That on the Charles Bridge in Prague, stands the only crucifix in the world erected by Hebrew inscriptions. It was put there at the command of the Hapsburgs and has only Hebrew inscriptions.

That they are now coloring sugar—a novelty loaf of sugar being flavored and tinted lemon, orange and lime.

That Southern California practically has no twilight, for when the sun sets out there it does so quicklyjustlikethis.

That the story of "Robinson Crusoe," take it from G. W. Stimpson, is based to a slight extent on the adventures of Alexander Silkirk, who wasn't shipwrecked, but left on the island of Juan Ferandez by Captain Stradling in 1704. He left the island four years later.

That the town of Burke, Idaho, has one street—a mile long—and that is paved with silver lead ore.

That no hunter has ever found an elephant's carcass and that it is not known how elephants dispose of their dead.

That there once was a statute in New York barring a litigant from having more than two attorneys. The reason being was that there were only 41 lawyers in New York at the time (1695).

That there are mechanical clocks which do not vary a second in 20 years. And that they are more accurate in measuring time than any observations of heavenly bodies.

That in several Canadian night clubs the manliest collegians dance together and it is considered all right. I get it, I get it.

That the borough tax assessor of Waynesburg, Penn., is named Andy Amos.

That the naked eye cannot see the color of grass at night.

That the spire of the Chrysler building is covered with stainless steel, which occasionally condenses fog to cause rain to fall on the street below, even though the day be comparatively clear.

That black horses suffer from the heat more than white ones.

That Rudy Vallee ankled along Brighton Beach the other afternoon while the elephants from Luna Park were taking a dip in the ocean at Coney Island. The elephants, however, drew the biggest audience. Am I too loud?

That if you break a street car window in some European cities you have to pay the cost of a new one.

That it was Catherine de Medici who best defined woman's charm: "Clear eyes. Sweetbreath and beautiful hands, for the hands are the eyes of the night"—which hasn't been swiped for a "popular" song, yet.

And that the homelier the girl, the more help she is to her mother.

Visiting Bride-Elect Is Honoree At Unique Party

Another honor shown Miss Mildred Mays, a pretty bride-elect who is visiting in Wichita Falls, was a kitchen shower and luncheon for a group of close friends and relatives which Mrs. J. T. Gant arranged Thursday morning.

Pink and green, the chosen colors of the honoree, was the motif observed in decoration. Tinted shasta daisies and deep pink crepe myrtle with dainty ferns were used in the floral scheme.

During the morning guests hemmed pretty dish towels, which were presented to Miss Mays with the favorite recipe of each donor.

Luncheon was served at a table covered with a handsome lace cloth and the chosen flowers making a beautiful center. Covers were laid for the honoree and for Mesdames Mack Taylor, Jim Echols, T. J. Taylor, Harvey McCarty, S. C. Mays; Mrs. Carl Payne of Fort Worth, Mrs. O'Neal Taylor, Misses Madelyne McCarty and Carline Payne; Jack Gant and the hostess.

Many Courtesies Shown

Miss Mays, who left Friday with her mother for their home in Atlanta, has had her time filled with honors since the bridge luncheon given by Mrs. H. A. McCarty when the announcement was made. Mrs. Jasper Ferguson entertained with a picturesque breakfast at the forum when Miss Mays was presented with an exquisite table lamp; Mrs. John Ebner and Mrs. C. V. Reynolds honored her Thursday afternoon with a tea-shower, when the honoree received a lovely gift from her hostesses as well as a real shower of gifts from friends.

Miss Mays and her mother, Mrs. S. C. Mays have been the guests of Mrs. H. A. McCarty and Mrs. Leon Deaton in Wichita Falls. The pretty young bride-elect has a host of friends in the city. Her marriage to Joe B. McClung will take place in Atlanta, Wednesday, July 16.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Flowers have cheated Wichita Falls to some extent this year. Roses did not last so long; shasta daisies blossomed and died; even the hardy zinnia is sun-tanned so that it is not so gorgeous as usual. The only thing that is quite up to par is the petunia. We see great beds and borders of them each day, and even if the sun does wilt them down slightly when it is at its hottest, with the coming of twilight—they open their buds and show their pastel colors once more.

◇ ◇ ◇

Crepe myrtle is getting to its most gorgeous stage, however. It is as pretty in the distance as when you draw near. And there are so many things that are not pretty to look upon, it is good to find a few that are.

◇ ◇ ◇

For instance, at one time Mahatma Gandhi won real sympathy from us. In the first place, we felt that India had been treated unjustly on the salt question and in the second, from all we read, Gandhi was so feeble an old person for the long trek he started upon.

◇ ◇

But we saw his picture. And we kept seeing it. And finally we saw a portrait study of him made in clay a few weeks before his arrest by an Englishwoman whose interview with him was really charming. He watched her model as they talked, (though his response to her first address of 'Gandhi' to him, was a polite, "Mr. Gandhi, please; I call you Madame),"' and when she began on his nose, he said, he said "Longer Madame, much longer please, for that nose is going to keep on poking itself into trouble."

◇ ◇ ◇

We might enjoy talking to the man if we did not have to look at him. He is like an ugly old dwarf in looks, but he has an Oxford education and we have always loved those who could laugh at themselves.

◇ ◇ ◇

We saw two curious creatures today. Fish hawks, they were and though they were merely babies in age, they had bodies as large as a hen and an enormous wing spread. They were caught by Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Presley on one of their many fishing trips. The name gives them away. Pretending to be young eaglets, they must live on the fish they swoop down on in the lake. Mrs. Presley was on her way to the ... to make a present of them to that institution. We saw her one day buying ground meat for them. —she fed the infants by hand. We really believe she would have liked having them around, only Mr. and Mrs. Presley are starting on their annual trip into the Colorado Rockies and fish hawks might not feel at home there.

◇ ◇ ◇

If our daughter had seen them, she would have wished for one of them for her biology class. Every specimen that came to our house, save merely human, went to that biology class.

Litte Theater Player Does Fine Work at T. C. U.

Miss Margaret Tanner of Wichita Falls, who has been attending the Texas Christian university summer school of expression which closed July 12, recently appeared in recital at T. C. U. and read "Capital Punishment" by Stone.

Miss Tanner was also a member of the cast of a one-act play, "Trifles" by Susan Glaspell, which was presented at T. C. U. July 11.

Miss Tanner's work in the Little Theater of Wichita Falls is remembered as outstanding in merit.

Foolish Maiden Would Wed To Escape Parents

Folly of Using Marriage as an Escape From Fault-Finding Parents —Can a Man Be Really in Love With His Third Wife?—Children's Welfare Paramount.

Dear Miss Dix—I am very unhappy at home. My mother is most devoted, but my father makes my life unbearable. He says he loves me and gives me plenty of money, two lovely cars and gorgeous clothes, yet I am never with him for an instant that he isn't finding fault with me. I have on too much rouge and lipstick, or my sorority is damned; something is the matter with all my friends. None pleases him. He tells me to get home by 12 o'clock when the dance doesn't begin until 11. The boy friend I have at present wants me to run off and get married. I don't know whether I love this boy or not, and he couldn't give me the luxuries I have now, but he could at least make me happy. Please tell me whether I should marry him, or put up with my father's terrible disposition. I will exactly follow your advice. —BLUE EYES.

Answer—Well, my child, if you take my advice, you will certainly not run off and marry this boy just to get away from your father. A lot of girls are silly enough to marry the first man who comes along to get away from unpleasant home conditions and they invariably find out that they have made a bad matter worse and jumped out of the frying pan into the fire, as the homely old adage puts it.

Don't think that fathers are the only ones who criticize and feel that they have a right to dictate to a girl about how much paint she shall put on and when she shall come home and what sort of friends she shall have. Why, fathers are perfect amateurs in fault finding compared to husbands. If you think that when you get married Friend Husband is going to give you the glad hand about everything you do, and not make a remark when you are 10 minutes late getting home, and that he is going to think that all the girls you go with are just too sweet for anything, you are due for a rude awakening.

Believe me, my dear, when you get a husband you will have a little critic on the hearth who will always be chirping, so don't run away from papa in the hopes of escaping that affliction. As long as a woman has any sort of man belonging to her, whether he is father, brother, husband or son, he will feel he has a perfect right to dictate to her about what sort of complexion she shall put on, and whether she shall bob her hair or wear it long, and what she shall generally do, or leave undone.

Men are simply built that way and they can't help it. I bet the first thing Adam said to Eve was that she had too much color on and didn't she think her hair would look tidier on the top of her head instead of hanging down.

Another reason why it would be foolish for you to elope with the boy whom you do not really love in order to get away from a home that is discordant is that the present unpleasant state of affairs is merely temporary, while if you make an unsuitable marriage your misery will be permanent.

At most, you will only have to endure your father's fault-finding for a few years. Then some man whom you love and who loves you, and who will be able to take care of you properly, will, in all probability, come along and you will marry him and be happy ever after. But if you marry a lad who isn't ready to marry and for whom you have no great affection, there is every change in the world that you will plunge yourself into utter wretchedness that will end in divorce, and divorces are messy things at best.

Of course, your father is doing a very foolish thing in his ceaseless nagging of you. That is not the way to handle a young girl in these days, but perhaps you will have a little more patient with him and not feel so resentful toward him if you realize that the motive that actuates his fault-finding is jealousy. He adores you so much that he simply cannot endure the thought of your growing up and caring for some other man and marrying and leaving him.

He wants to keep you a little girl always, and that is why he hates to see you putting rouge and lipstick on. He is jealous of your having any outside interests and that is why he rails at your sorority. It stabs him to the heart to think of your getting married and that is why he can't endure any of your boy friends.

I heard a father once say that no lover ever endured such agonies of jealousy as he went through when his oldest daughter had her first date and stepped out to her first party with a boy. And many fathers are like that.

Instead of running away from father, why don't you try handling him with tact? Use the same technique upon him that you do upon the boys you go with. Jolly him a little. Laugh at him and tell him you know he wants you to have a good time and that he would feel awfully miffed if you sat at home while all the other girls were stepping out. After all, fathers are human and amenable to the same tactics to which other men succumb. And especially are they as wax in the hands of their daughters. So it is a real reflection on a girl's intelligence not to be able to handle papa.

Try this out on your piano and see how it works.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—A man who has lost two wives by death wants to marry me. Can a man have the same love for his third wife that he did for his first wife?—C. L. J.

Answer—How often a man can love depends upon the individual man. There are one-woman men who love only once and who give all the affection of which they are capable to one woman, but the great majority of men seem capable of loving as often as the occasion demands. Their hearts are like a hotel in which women are transient guests and as soon as one is gone the place she occupied is furbished up and ready for a newcomer.

Certainly I think a man can love a third wife as well as he did his first. Perhaps he can love her even better, but he loves her in a different way. You cannot carry the misty pink of the dawn into the prosaic light of midday, and so no man can ever bring to his second or third marriage the romance and the illusions that he did to his first. No other woman can ever be to him such a figure of mystery as his first bride. He can never go into any other marriage with such impossible hopes and ideals as he did into his first. His subsequent marriages are soberer, more practical affairs in which the head plays as great a part as the heart, and by that token they are generally happier than the first.

In considering how many times a man may love it must be borne in mind that he can love different women equally well for different reasons. He may have fallen in love with his first wife because she was pretty and sentimental and artless and ignorant. She may have been a cherished child-wife whose strongest appeal was to his gallantry and sense of protection and he may have felt a peculiar tenderness for her just because she was so helpless and incapable of taking care of herself.

But he may love a second wife equally well because she is strong and wise and capable and efficient and is a real helpmate who shoulders her half of the burden. He may find an unending delight in her companionship and like to pal with her because she is his mental equal.

And he may love a third wife as well as either of the other two because she is tender and affectionate and gives a warmth and softness to his life that he has never known.

So you needn't be afraid to be Mrs. Number Three. It is the last love that always counts with a man. —DOROTHY DIX.

Pleated Skirts Have Returned

Pattern 1959

By ANNE ADAMS

Never have pleated skirts been in such demand as now, and justifiably so, as they are graceful, youthful and most becoming. The smart model shown today has pointed yoke and skirt details that are very slenderizing. The adorable capelets are indeed graceful as well as comfy.

Pattern 1959 is particularly charming fashioned of crepe de chine, shantung of silk pique. A print or a solid color may be chosen with equally delightful results. The pastel shades are delicious and cool for summer.

May be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 40-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send 15 cents in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size wanted.

Our book of patterns for adults and children, also transfer patterns, is 15 cents, but only 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Record News Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth Street, New York City.

Pi Beta Phi Gives Sorority Rush For Going Away Girls

One of the prettiest and latest things that has occurred among the young society set was the Pi Beta Phi sorority rush given by the members in town for those contemplating going away to school in the autumn.

The party was given at the handsome home of Miss Catherine Weeks and an informal buffet supper was served on the wide terrace with wine and silver blue, the sorority colors, featuring the decorations.

Croquet was played in the twilight and the delightful evening was enjoyed by about 35 girls.

Volume of Business Shows Big Increase

WASHINGTON, July 11. (US)—Business for the week ended July 5, as measured by the volume of check payments, was 18 per cent greater than for the preceding week, and only slightly below the high 1929 level, according to the weekly review of the commerce department today.

a formal garden. Pleasant, withal, though, the chairs covered with gay chintz, with the same cheery material at the windows.

"Mrs. Talbot sent me down town this morning to buy some things for you. I've put them in the closet. You'll find the dresser drawers well stocked." Ellen paused and pulled open one of the drawers.

"Thanks—" quick tears came to Kay's eyes. The girl had spoken so kindly. Still Ellen lingered. She was looking at Kay with fascinated eyes. She wished she had known how blonde, how lovely she was when she had shopped this morning. Other things she would have bought. Mrs. Talbot's cold, "Anything, as long as it's something for the girl to wear. I haven't time myself—" had discouraged her.

"I hope you'll like it here—"

"I think I will," Kay said quickly. Too quickly. She knew somehow that she wouldn't unless Dane came a good deal. The house was so cold, Mrs. Talbot so unapproachable. And yet when she looked at Dane, something changed in those inscrutible eyes. They softened. Mrs. Talbot must care for Dane very much. As much as she would for an only son.

"Mr. Dane told me to be very good to you." Ellen said lamely. The way the maid said it indicated that she, too, had a high opinion of Dane. Kay's heart warmed to the girl.

"He has been very kind to me."

"He's kind to everybody, miss. Everybody. All the servants are fond of him. He helps us a lot with Mrs. Talbot. For at times, she's hard to understand.

"Her ways are so queer. After you know her she doesn't seem so bad. But at first she sort of frightens you. She did me. Now that I know her I don't pay any attention to her ways. You get used to them. She's kind after her own fashion. Very kind." Ellen, however, didn't speak very convincingly. "But Mr. Dane, now, he's a fine gentleman. We'll all be sorry when he gets married, for perhaps, then, he won't come around to the house as much."

A Blow to Kay

"Married?" Kay was confused.

"Yes, he's going to be married soon. Didn't you know?"

"No—" The word caught in her throat, and sounded like a sob. Dane married?

"Yes, he's going to marry Miss Julie Drew. She comes to the house once in a while with him. A beautiful girl," Ellen chattered on. "Mrs Talbot gave a big engagement party for them some time ago—" Kay didn't hear any more. Her head was throbbing with the words Ellen had spoken. They seemed to beat against her brain like hammers Dane to be married. Dane . . .

Finally the maid left and she was alone in her new room, looking at it with blind eyes, eyes that saw not a room, but Dane standing before her smiling. Dane.

What a child she had been. A silly girl." Thinking Dane might care for her because of what he had done. For she had to admit now that she did like him. Love him. Yes, love him.

And she had taken his sympathy, his kindness for love in return. Ellen had said he was kind to everyone. That meant her, too. Kind, but he did not love her.

Suddenly she wished that Dane Talbot had never come to her room in the hospital, that he had never given her the name he had, that she had never seen him.

Tomorrow—Kay almost finds a home.

Archduke Charged With Sale of Napoleon Necklace Surrenders Bail

NEW YORK, July 11. (AP)—Archduke Leopold of Austria, indicted in April for grand larceny in connection with the sale of the $450,000 Napoleon diamond necklace which had belonged to his aunt, the Archduchess Marie Therese, surrendered his $7,500 bail today and was placed in Tombs prison.

The archduke presented himself to the court, his attorney said, because he desires an immediate trial. He is required to return at once to Austria to look after matters arising from the death of his brother, Archduke Ranir, he said, and is not sure he would be allowed to re-enter the United States, despite his indictment, if he left it.

His attorney assured the court that Leopold regarded himself as innocent and was sure he would win acquittal if given a trial.

He was indicted with Colonel and Mrs. Charles Townsend, the former an Englishman. The Townsends have not been arrested.

The necklace was presented by Napoleon to his empress, the Hapsburg Maria Louisa, on the birth of their son, the duke of Reichstag. It has since remained in the possession of the Hapsburg family. It is now the property of the aged Archduchess Maria Theresa, who lives in Vienna and has been returned to her.

Some time ago the Townsends met the archduchess in Vienna, and Townsend, introduced to her as a former member of the British secret service in India, persuaded her to let him find a purchaser for the necklace, which is valued at more than $500,000.

RECIPES

Calves Brains Supreme

2 tablespoonfuls butter.
4 tablespoonfuls flour.
1¾ cupfuls milk.
1 cupful calves brains, cooked and chopped.
½-cupful mushrooms, shopped.
Rice Krispies, rolled.
1 bay leaf.
Few slices of onion.
Salt and pepper.

Prepare the brains by soaking in cold salt water for 30 minutes. Then cover and simmer with onion and bay leaf for 15 minutes. Remove fiber and membrane and chop. Saute the mushrooms lightly in butter. Make a thick sauce of the butter, flour and milk. Combine the brains, mushrooms and sauce. Season and put in a pan ¾-inch thick. Place in the refrigerator to stiffen. (This part of the preparation might be made on Saturday.) Cut in cubes. Roll in Rice Krispie crumbs and saute in Crisco until light brown on both sides. Serves six.

Bacon and Prune Appetizers

6 strips bacon.
6 canned prunes or cooked dried prunes.
Any kind of left over meat, cooked and chopped.
6 rounds of toast.

Remove stones and fill center with chopped meat. Wrap each prune with a strip of bacon and fasten with a toothpick. Broil until the bacon is crisp and brown. Serve on rounds of buttered toast as appetizers. Serves six.

Chicken Casserole, Dinard Style

1 chicken.
¼-lb. tiny onions.
12 ripe olives.
1 pimento.
½-lb. mushrooms.
2 tablespoonfuls butter.
3 cupfuls cream sauce.
1 tablespoonful parsley.
Triangles of toast.

Cut up and cook chicken until nearly done in a small amount of boiling water. Saute broken mushrooms in butter, cook onions and stone olives. Make a cream sauce of six tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour, two cups milk and two cups chicken or mushroom stock or a combination of the two, ¾-teaspoonful salt, ¼-teaspoon white pepper, ½-teaspoonful paprika.

Arrange chicken in a broad low casserole and put in onions, mushrooms, olives and parsley. Pour the sauce over the chicken. Bake in a moderate oven until chicken is quite tender. Before serving arrange buttered toast on top with strips of pimento between and a bouquet of parsley in the middle.

Chocolate Marshmallow Dainty

5 egg yolks.
½-cupful powdered sugar.
3 tablespoonfuls of cocoa.
¼-teaspoonful salt.
5 egg whites.
Marshmallow whip.

Whip the egg yolks until lemon colored, stir in the powdered sugar well mixed with the cocoa and salt; fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour about half an inch thick into a shallow pan lined with a well-oiled piece of light wrapping paper and bake in a moderate oven—375 degrees F.—for about 20 minutes. Turn immediately onto a piece of waxed paper sprinkled with powdered sugar and remove the paper from the underside. Spread quickly with marshmallow whip or marshmallow filling and roll up like a jelly roll. Cut into ½-inch slices and top with vanilla ice cream.

Frozen Cheese Salad

2 ounces mild cheese.
¼-cup cottage or cream cheese.
¼-cup mayonnaise dressing.
½-cupful cream.
3 maraschino cherries.
3 green cherries or tiny green grapes.
¼-cupful chopped nuts.

Grate mild cheese; add cream cheese and mayonnaise dressing and beat thoroughly. Fold in cherries finely chopped and cream beaten stiff. Pack in brick mold and freeze in ice and salt or place in the drawer of a mechanical refrigerator for about three hours. Remove, sprinkle with chopped nuts, place on lettuce and garnish with mayonnaise to which an equal quantity of whipped cream has been added.

Corn Dips

1½ cupfuls corn, fresh or canned.
½-teaspoonful salt.
1 egg beaten.
2 tablespoonfuls melted butter.
1 teaspoonful sugar.
¼-cupful milk.
1 cupful bread flour.
1 teaspoonful baking powder.

Mix corn, salt, sugar, egg, melted butter and milk together. (If canned corn is used, drain off the liquid and add to it enough fresh milk to make the ¼-cup.) Sift baking powder and flour and beat into mixture. Drop spoonfuls in hot Crisco (360 degrees F. or when cube of bread browns in 60 seconds). Fry slowly until brown and well cooked—8 to 10 minutes. Test with a toothpick. Drain on soft paper. This makes about a dozen dips. These are delicious when served with meat or chicken.

Peach Marmalade

2 cups water.
½-cup vinegar.
½-teaspoonful nutmeg.
½-teaspoonful ground ginger.
1 orange, juice and rind.
1 lemon, juice and rind.
3 pounds peaches.
1 large pineapple.

Pare, stone and mash the peaches; weigh. Trim, core peel and cut the pineapple into thin strips. Chop fine the orange and lemon rinds. Mix together the peaches, pineapple and orange and lemon rinds; also the juices of the orange and lemon. Weigh carefully and add an equal amount of sugar. Put into a preserving kettle and add the remaining ingredients. Put on griddle over fire; after it comes to a boil, cook 40 minutes, stirring constantly. Seal hot.

Science Is Now Applied to the Old Art of Ice Cream Making

It is said that when Dolly Madison served ice cream to her guests in the White House its cool deliciousness quickly made it the popular American dish. Ice cream making is an old art dating back several centuries, but in the earlier days it was a delicacy for royal menus only.

From crude methods of freezing in the home kitchen, ice cream making has grown into a great industry controlled by scientific methods. Bacteriologists and chemists now direct the manufacturing process, while experiments carried on at the bureau of dairy industry of the department of agriculture, and at state experiment stations, are further improving the manufacture and distribution of ice cream. State agriculture colleges offer courses in the science and art of ice cream making for those that are interested in or wish to enter this field of industry.

The ingredients for the ice cream when mixed in a commercial plant, are known as the "mix," which is a carefully computed formula controlled by definite standards in nearly all states. Both the mix and the freezing process are developed and controlled with a view of producing, under highly sanitary conditions, a uniform and flavorsome product of a smooth, velvety texture. Mechanical refrigeration has been applied to the manufacture of ice cream and is also used in the delivery and dispensing of frozen products.

Improved methods in ice cream making in the home have been made possible through the progress made in commercial plants, and though many housekeepers do not wish to take the time for making frozen desserts, others are either not within reach of an ice cream service, or wish to make part or all of their own frozen dishes.

A variety of frozen desserts may be made both in the commercial plant and in the home. There is a type made from flavored, sweetened cream and that consisting of a mixture of cream and a cooked custard. Then we have mixtures with no cream, consisting mainly of diluted and sweetened fruit juices which are known as water ices. These may be turned into smooth creamy sherbets by the addition of beaten egg white, gelatin, cream or other materials, and by the use of milk as the foundation.

There are two well known types of ice cream, Philadelphia and American, and using these as a basis, many variations are possible to the ingenious housekeeper. Philadelphia ice cream is made entirely of cream, used plain or all or part of the cream may be whipped, while so-called American ice cream is made with a custard foundation with some cream added. The proportion of cream to custard may be varied widely. One quart of thin cream to one pint of custard makes a very creamy mixture. The custard is thickened with either two eggs, or one egg and one tablespoonful of flour; the amount of cream may be decreased and custard increased as desired. Using either of these as a basis, caramel, coffee, chocolate or crushed fruit ice cream can be made. For children, the cream may be omitted in the American ice cream, and it can be served either with or without a fruit sauce.

The possibility of making uniformly good ice cream is within the reach of every one, if correct methods are used. The salient points in ice cream making are:

1. Cream fresh from the separator or pasteurizer produces a coarse-grained ice cream. To whip well and to remain whipped, a cream should be cold, should contain from 18 to 22 per cent fat, and should be 24 hours old.

2. A small amount of salt added to ice cream brings out the flavor and improves the finished product.

3. In making ice cream with a custard foundation, always mix the flour or corn starch with the sugar and cook thoroughly with the milk before adding the egg.

4. A non-rich cream mixture can be improved by the addition of a small amount of gelatin or by the use of condensed or evaporated milk.

5. Ice cream mixtures should never be put into the freezer when warm. Pre-cooling cuts down the actual freezing period and gives a better product.

6. Never fill the can more than two-thirds full of the mixture to be frozen. Leave at least one-third the space for the swell.

7. Use only coarse freezing salt for freezing ices and ice cream as good results can not be obtained with table salt.

8. The ice should be fine and evenly crushed.

9. In freezing use the proportion of eight measures of ice to one measure of salt. Measure accurately.

10. Fill the freezer 2-3 full of ice before adding any salt. Then add salt and ice in alternate layers.

11. Use two speeds in freezing ice cream. Turn very slowly until the mixture begins to pull slightly or turn hard, then increase the speed in order to whip the mixture.

12. Ice cream may be frozen until of the consistency to serve immediately, or to the consistency of a very thick sauce, and then packed and ripened. The latter method is recommended.

13. If the ripening time is short, the packing mixture should be in proportion of four parts of ice to one of salt. If longer, use the eight-to-one mixture.

RECIPES

Philadelphia Ice Cream

3 pints thin cream.
1 cup sugar.
2 teaspoonfuls vanilla.
Few grains salt.

Scald the cream in the double boiler; add sugar and salt. Cool and add vanilla or other flavoring and pour into can. Freeze, using eight parts ice to one part salt. This is an excellent foundation for fruit creams.

American Ice Cream

2 cupfuls milk.
1 tablespoonful flour.
1 cupful sugar.
1 quart thin cream.
Few grains of salt.
2 eggs.
2 teaspoonfuls vanilla.
3 pints rich milk, part cream.

Scald milk, reserving ½-cupful. Add flour mixed with sugar and salt. Cook 15 or 20 minutes in the top of a double boiler. Beat eggs, add reserved milk; combine with the hot mixture and cook from three to five minutes longer. Remove, strain and cool. Add vanilla and cream. Freeze using eight parts of ice to one part of coarse salt. If preferred, omit flour and use four eggs or use egg yolks instead of whole eggs, allowing two egg yolks for each egg. Makes two quarts.

Chocolate Ice Cream

Use recipe for American or Philadelphia ice cream, adding from two to four squares of unsweetened chocolate which has been melted over hot water and blended with one-half cup hot water. If the larger quantity of chocolate is used increase the sugar to 1½ cups. Mix well, remove from the fire and cool; add vanilla and cream. Freeze.

Caramel Ice Cream

Use recipe for American or Philadelphia ice cream. Caramelize sugar indicated in American or Philadelphia ice cream, by melting until color of maple syrup in a saucepan, stirring constantly. Add one-fourth cup boiling water and stir until smooth. Then proceed with the recipe. Nuts may be added.

Fruit Ice Cream

When fruit is used in ice cream, it should always be mashed and put through a coarse seive or potato-ricer. The amount of fruit and sugar varies with the fruit used. Crushed fruit ice cream is especially welcome in summer, and mixtures and amounts of fruits or fruit juices may be experimented with. From one to two cupfuls of fruit pulp, which has been sweetened to taste may be added to the recipes given for American or Philadelphia ice cream.

Condensed Milk Ice Cream

Evaporated or condensed milk may be used instead of cream or milk to give body to the mixture. Here is an excellent evaporated milk recipe which may also be made with other fresh fruits instead of strawberries. Wash and hull two boxes of strawberries; sprinkle with sugar and let stand one hour; mash them thoroughly and rub through a coarse seive; add two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and two teaspoonfuls of vanilla. To two cupfuls of evaporated milk add one-third cupful of water and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt; scald in a double-boiler. Cool and combine with the strawberry mixture and freeze.

Lotus Cream

Juice of 3 lemons.
1 lemon sliced.
2 cupfuls sugar.

Slice one lemon very thin; put sugar over this in layers and add lemon juice. Place in the ice box for at least two hours. (Crush sliced lemon slightly to obtain flavor from rind and strain out the pieces of lemon). Put the rich milk in a freezer and thoroughly chill it; add strained lemon syrup and freeze. If the milk is thoroughly chilled all may be put in the freezer at one time. This makes a fluffy, delicious cream with a minimum of trouble.

SAFETY ESSAY AWARDS MADE

Contest Winners Named by S. M. N. Marrs

AUSTIN, July 11. (AP)—Winners in the contest for essays among Texas teachers and pupils in elementary schools in the national safety campaign, sponsored by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, were announced today by S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of schools.

Miss Myrtle McQuerry, Houston teacher, won first place for her lesson plan on highway safety, with Miss Clemence M. Simpson of Dallas and Edna Newsom Caraway of Houston given honorable mention. Miss McQuerry's plan will compete in the national contest before the highway education board in Washington.

The essay of Elizabeth McLeod, student at Palestine, was selected as the best on the subject "What I Am Doing to Set a Good Example for Safety on the Highways." Ruth Karbach of Rosenberg took second place, and 17 third places were awarded as follows:

Loraine Browning, Depison; John Helm, El Paso; Lanette Liese, Georgetown; Selette Jacks, Austin; Johnnie Wingate, Beaumont; Lois Clay, Dallas; Ellen Louise Johnson, Waco; Melba Roland, Texarkana; Anne Bob Stokes, Crockett; Lonez Medcalf, Austin; Charles Foote, Petersburg; Marcelle Hohmes, Sour Lake; Georgia Wright, Pecos; Bernice Davis, Texarkana; Eva Mae Bowen, Booker; Elsie Heiman, Beaumont; Dorothy Everett, Longview.

Boy, 16, Assessed Life for Murder

WICHITA, Kan., July 11. (UP)—Jimmy Lee, 16 years old, Oklahoma City youth who confessed to killing Paul Walker during a holdup here Tuesday, pleaded guilty to murder in the first degree today and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Lee's parents were in the courtroom with him, his mother sobbing. The youth has a long criminal record in Oklahoma City. He probably will start to prison tonight, it was indicated.

Thurlow Wilhite, who aided Lee in the holdup, has expressed desire to plead guilty, too, and go with his "buddy" to prison, but his sentence was delayed pending more information about his age. School records at Oklahoma City show him to be only 15, in which case he would come under jurisdiction of the juvenile court here.

Ball Player Loses Plea for Freedom

MALESTER, Okla., July 11. (UP)—The release of Lester Fisher, Tulsa ball player, from the state penitentiary was denied by Judge Harve L. Melton here today. Fisher was serving a five-year sentence for auto theft when he escaped in 1925.

He was brought back to the penitentiary in 1928 from Arizona where he was playing baseball.

His petition claimed that his good time should have counted toward completion of his term.

Paulino Uzcudun, the Basque fighter, turned over $1,000 of his purse to the New York city milk fund, following his beating at the hands of Max Schmeling.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

(Copyright, 1930, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, July 13:

Sunday

Breakfast—Poached egg on Melba toast, stewed figs.

Lunch—Avocado salad, glass of milk.

Dinner—Baked chicken, stuffed summer squash, salad of head lettuce, pineapple-almond cream.

Monday

Breakfast—Cottage cheese, fresh peaches.

Lunch—Grapefruit, as much as desired, no sugar.

Dinner—Minced chicken in cucumber jelly, string beans, McCoy salad, (lettuce, tomatoes and cucumbers), applesauce.

Tuesday

Breakfast—French omelet, small slice of broiled ham, melba toast, stewed raisins.

Lunch—Melon or other fruit (one kind only).

Dinner—Quick vegetable-cream soup, (recipe given May 9), roast beef, green pea, celery and ripe olives, stewed apricots.

Wednesday

Breakfast—Baked eggs and tomatoes, served on melba toast, cantaloupe.

Lunch—Dish of buttered asparagus, combination salad.

Dinner—Baked white fish, beets, salad of tomatoes and shredded raw spinach, jello or jell-well.

Thursday

Breakfast—Toasted breakfast food with cream (no sugar), fresh figs.

Lunch—Ice cream, with one kind of fresh acid fruit.

Dinner—Stuffed pork chops, steamed carrots, string bean salad, peach whip.

Friday

Breakfast—Crisp waffle with two or three strips of well cooked bacon, stewed or fresh apricots.

Lunch—Turnip and tomato souffle, salad of chopped raw cabbage and celery.

Dinner—Baked sea bass, spinach, salad of tomatoes and cucumbers, baked pears.

Saturday

Breakfast—Cantaloupe, all desired.

Lunch—Dish of string beans, combination salad.

Dinner—Cottage cheese, baked ground beets, salad of stuffed celery, baked peaches with whipped cream.

*Turnip and Tomato Souffle—To a cup and a half each of mashed turnips and tomatoes which have cooked down low untol there is no excess amount of liquid, add a half cup of rich milk and the yolks of two eggs. Mix all together and fold in the beaten egg whites. Turn into a shallow baking dish and sprinkle with melba toast crumps. Bake in a moderate oven for about 30 minutes. Add a generous lump of butter to each portion as served.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Sunbaths

Question—Mrs. O. L. asks: "In taking sunbaths, is the benefit greater in the middle of the day when the sun is hottest, or does it make any difference? Also state whether one continues to be benefited after the skin has become quite brown."

Answer—The air of the morning about 10 to 12 o'clock is fresher and has not become so heated by the sun's rays and still it seems that there is about as much ultra-violet effect at this time as later on in the day when the heat rays seem to accumulate. You will continue to be benefited from these sunbaths even though the skin becomes brown and although it takes an increasingly longer exposure to get the same effect upon the blood.

Bananas

Question—O. J. H. asks: "Will you give me the right method of combining bananas with other foods?"

Answer—Bananas should be used as a starchy food and so combine well with the non-starchy vegetables. The best way to use bananas is baked. Then use two or three as the principal part of a meal, adding any of the cooked and raw greens.

Cannot Smell

Question—S. J. S. writes: "I have lost my sense of smell. Kindly advise if there is any remedy."

Answer—The principal cause of a loss of the sense of smell is from the effect of nasal catarrh. Even with cases of long standing it is often possible to bring about a cure of this trouble through the curing of catarrh, which can be accomplished almost entirely by dietetic measures.

District Safety Meet Conducted at Memphis

Special to The Record News

MEMPHIS, Texas, July 11.—The West Texas Utilities company had its regular district safety meeting here this week. About 40 of the company's employes were present from Shamrock, Clarendon, Wellington, Matador, Quitaque, Paducah, Turkey, Estelline, Childress, and Memphis. Local guests were Dr. J. A. Odom, E. C. Throop and R. D. Stuart. The meeting was held at the city hall.

The program for the day was talks along the line of safety, with Dr. J. A. Odom talking on the care and treatment of wounds of bruises. Other speakers were T. D. Nored of Clarendon, Milo Dotson, Memphis, D. Handley, Wellington, and A. C. Hallmark, Shamrock. A similar meeting will be held within two months.

Memphis C.-C. Committee To Study Park Project

Special to The Record News

MEMPHIS, Texas, July 11.—A committee on the Palo Duro park project from the Memphis Chamber of Commerce is planning a three or four-day tour to begin early next week. Those in the party will be F. N. Foxhall, W. C. Dickey, J. Claude Wells and possibly others and their trip will take them over the entire Tule canyon and all the lower portion of the big gap.

Littlefield Postoffice Extends Facilities

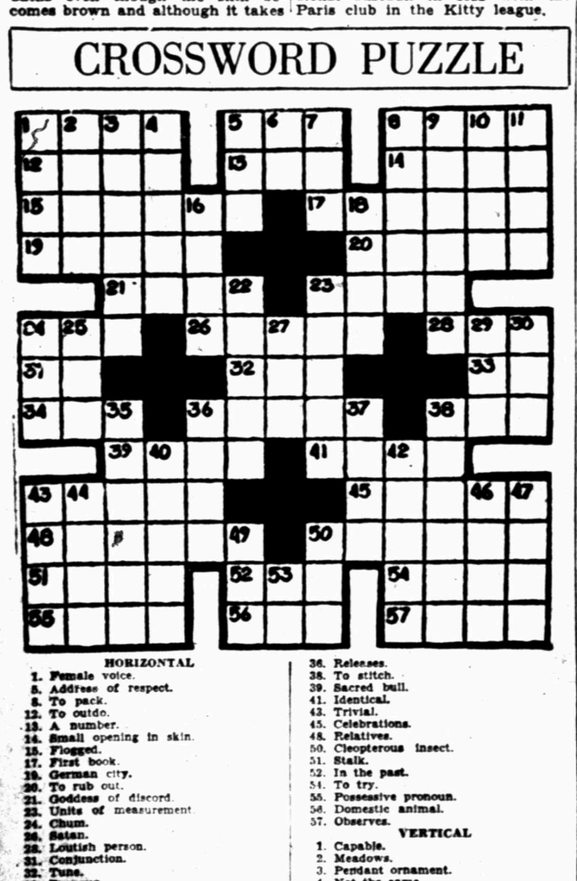

Special to The Record News

LITTLEFIELD, Texas, July 11.—Postmaster J. E. Brannen reports an increase over last year's receipts of $38,840.53. Rural route No. 1 has been extended nine miles; route No. 2 has been extended 17 miles and made a daily route. This gives the Littlefield office two star routes and two rural routes, with a total mileage of 235 miles and the number of families served 750.

Bobby Has Until Sundown Today To Overcome Smith

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

The current Literary Digest contains an article in which the abolition of sliding into bases is suggested, the author claiming players have suffered intense injuries, such as broken ankles, in the practice.

Well, if they keep on crying, the next thing you know we'll be having baseball games in our front parlors, with the players wearing patent leather shoes, and carrying plush cushions with them on the tour of the bases, so they can sit down for a wee bit o' rest when they feel that tired feeling coming on. Accidents do happen, admitted, but the majority of injuries from base sliding, we guess, can be laid to the players inexpertness at sliding. Spider Levey, the Spudder who has done probably more base sliding than anybody on the team, has been injured a dozen times this season, but not a time has he been hurt sliding, as far as we recollect. He's been hit on all parts of the anatomy by baseballs, and he's collided with other players; he's hit the ground in a chase for a hot one and has derned near killed himself, but in all his sliding he hasn't been hurt yet. If you watch that guy closely, you'll see he's made base sliding an art. He knows exactly how to manipulate that wiry body of his. No matter how close the play may be, you will notice he hits the ground almost invariably in the same position. He knows how to handle himself to avoid accidents.

And if they ban base sliding, here's one who'll be ready to start work on the public roads, or something. With all the dainty rules that baseball is loaded with now, it's hard enough to get a real manly kick out of covering a ball game. But abolish base sliding? Oh, Alexander, bring me my finger protectors, please. These typewriter keys are quite annoying to the cuticles!

Here's a little take-off on the names of the Spudder players, and if you ask me, it's clever. It came in the morning mail:

Dear Rambler:

Yesterday afternoon I slipped off and went to a place where there was a lot of other people who I think had slipped off from some place too, for the way they acted, and I hadn't mor'n found a seat until one man out in front started throwing balls at all the other men who walked up in front of another man who was sitting on his heels in a sort of a CROUCH. That man could throw very straight and almost every time he would hit some big sticks the men waved at him and off the balls would go until they looked like about STEEN GRAFE seppelins just going out of sight, one behind the other.

They kept that up a long time and most everybody there was standing, and I was too, and some fellow yelled at me like he was mad, and I CALD WELL, what do you want? and that seemed to make him madder, and he said, "Sit down ORR I'll knock you down!" His face was FLORRID and just to be WHITE about the matter and to let him know I wasn't mad, why I started laughing real hard, and some girl turned to her boy friend and tapped her head knowingly at the same time remarking, "That fellow is having FITZ GERALD." Now, if there is anything that BURNS me up, it's catty remarks like that; it just simply WILTSE me down and I can't figure out why such girls can't LEVEY alone.

Finally, one of the balls hit a man and I said, "HILLIN damnation, are they trying to kill him?" Well, I reckon if they did kill him tho', they'd let BRAD BURY him. About that time, doggone if two Hebrews didn't get to arguing about how far those ball were going, when they hit the sticks, and one of them said, "The VINCENT 'em over the fence," and the other one argued, "The vind isn't blowing so hard yet." Well, I thought that was a pretty good GEYGAN started laughing again, and that crazy girl's boy friend almost snarled at me, "Well, what are you trying to do, STORTI riot?" And to cap it off some AIREY guy hollered out "Throw heem out of da park and KLOZA da gate!" EULLER gree that was a nasty remark and I BETTENCOURT he wouldn't talk that way.

If there's anything that gives me the WILLIAMS it's a bunch of nuts like I saw yesterday, and that's the reason I came on back out here to the state hospital to tell the GARDNER all about it.

Yours truly,

HEBE FERRELL.

Another fan set us to scratching our heads with this:

Dear Rambler:

Please answer these questions:

Who did Florrid win his first double-header off of, and did he start the second game?

Who is now managing the Steers, Jakie Atz or Grover Cleveland Alexander?

Who is your pick of all-star Texas league outfielders?

Where is Moose Woeber that played for the Steers in '27?

MRS. MARGARET WITHROW.

Florrid has won only one double-header and he started neither of the games. On May 25, at Shreveport, Dick relieved Steengrafe in the first game and won it. In the second he relieved Hillin and was also credited with a victory.

Jackie Atz is still manager of all the Steers except Grover Cleveland Alexander, if you know what I mean. If you don't know what I mean, read Friday morning's Rambler's corner.

Our pick of all-star Texas league outfielders follows: Jack Kloza, left field; Howard Fitzgerald, center field; and Larry Bettencourt, right field. With, of course, the hard-hitting Garland Orr standing by to help the boys out in a pinch.

Mr. Woeber did not play with Dallas in 1927, Mrs. Withrow. It was 1926 you were thinking about. That year he starred at the bat, and his home runs did a whole lot towards sending the Steers toward the championship. At the end of the 1926 season he went to the Cleveland Indians. He failed to make the grade there, for after spring training in 1927 the Indians sent him to a Three-eye league farm. I could not find out for you where he is now. I took your question to League President J. Alvin Gardner, and he told me if Woeber is still playing at all, he's probably still in the Three-eye, the New York-Pennsylvania, or some nearby loop.

Waco has a pitcher named Ketchum. We have a catcher named Crouch. Place both men on the same team, and put Crouch on the mound and Ketchum behind the bat and you'd have the ideal battery: Crouch and Ketchum!

OSCAR'S HOMER STARTS RALLY

Shippers Tie Count But Fail to Keep Up

By FRED D. THOMPSON

The Beaumont Exporters Friday were given a taste of the come-from-behind tactics the Spudders used on the Cubs in the last game of the Waco series here, and as the result the Beaumont opener resulted in a 9 to 5 decision for the Williamsmen.

The Shipper lads started off inauspiciously enough, allowing the Spudders to accumulate a four-run lead, but this they overcame with rallies in the fifth and sixth which netted five runs, three of them being made in the fifth when Big Oscar Eckhardt, the league's leading swatter, shelved a home run over the left field wall with two mates aboard.

Hillin Finishes Tilt

The two-inning rally was at the expense of Lester White, who thereafter was relieved by Ash Hillin. The strong-armed relief twirler limited the Shippers to two hits the remainder of the game.

The Exporters likewise were called upon to produce a relief hurler. Martin started, lasting six and two-thirds inning. A four-run bombardment in the seventh finished him and Green twirled the remainder of the game.

An unusual feature of the game was the scoring of the final Spudder tally in the ninth on Catcher Baker's interference, the first tally of the kind the Spudders have made this year.

The Spudders were the only ones in the higher realms to win Friday, both Fort Worth and Houston losing, the Cats to Waco and the Buffs to Dallas. The losses of Fort Worth and Houston placed the Cats two games behind the Spudders and the Buffs two and one-half games behind.

The Spudders scored in the first inning, mainly on Schuble's error. The Shipper shortstopper threw high to first when Levey grounded the ball, and Levey went to second. Storti then singled to center, scoring Levey. Fitzgerald flied out to center. Kloza singled to right and went to second on a passed ball. Burns grounded out, pitcher to first. Bettencourt was purposely walked and Crouch forced Bettencourt at second.

Another Bobble

Eckhardt's error had a lot to do with the two Spudder runs that were scored in the third. Fitzgerald walked. Kloza singled to right, and Eckhardt booted it, Fitzgerald going to third and Kloza to second. Burns grounded out to first unassisted. Bettencourt for the second time was purposely walked, filling the bases. Cruch grounded out, short to first, Fitzgerald scoring, Kloza taking third, and Bettencourt second. Geygan walked purposely, loading the paths again. Martin pitched to White, but the three-two ball was low, and Kloza was forced home. Levey popped out to second to close the inning.

In the fourth Storti socked a home run over the left field fence. Fitzgerald, Kloza and Burns were retired in the orthodox fashion.

Then started the Beaumont rally. Schuble, first up in the fifth, singled to center. Stapleton doubled to left, Schuble taking third. Wade struck out, but Eckhardt hit his home run, clearing the paths. Shiver singled to center. Holley forced Shiver at second, Levey to Storti. Holley stole second and went to third on a wild pitch, but Mullen grounded out, Levey to Burns, to end the threat.

The sixth opened with Baker's double to right. Martin grounded out, Storti to Burns, and Baker went to third. Schuble sacrificed to Bettencourt and Baker scored. Stapleton then doubled to right and was driven in by Wade's single to center. Hillin then relieved White and Eckhardt flied out to left.

Thus were the Exporter runs scored.

The Rush Starts

The fifth and sixth went scoreless for the Williamsmen, but the seventh saw changes taking place in the scoreboard. Fitzgerald started it off harmlessly enough by grounding out, second to first. But Kloza doubled to right and so did Burns, scoring Kloza to tie the score at five all. Bettencourt forced Burns at third, short to third. Then Crouch sent the Spudders definitely into the lead by socking a home run over the left field fence, scoring Bettencourt and himself. Geygan walked. Hillin singled through third and Geygan went to second. Levey singled through short, scoring Geygan and advancing Hillin to third, and went to second on the throw-in from center. Martin was then and there jerked and Green took the mound. Storti grounded to Green and was thrown out at first to close the inning.

The unearned run was then scored. Fitzgerald open the eighth with a single that lopped through Stapleton's legs. Kloza sacrificed, first to second, who covered first, and Fitzgerald went to second. Burns sacrificed to right, Fitzgerald going to third. Bettencourt came to bat. Baker crouched behind the batter in his usual position. Green wound up. But Umpire Ballanfant ruled Baker had touched Bettencourt's bat, and ordered the latter to take first, and Fitzgerald to score. Crouch singled to left, advancing Bettencourt to second. Geygan forced Crouch at second, second unassisted, to close the frame.

The Shippers made a threat in the ninth when Holley walked and Mullen singled, but Hillin mastered the pinch and the game was over.

The second game of the series will be played today.

Italy's Tennis Star Defeats Jap Entry

GENOA, Italy, July 11. (AP)—Italy's ambidextrous tennis star, Georgio Destefani, came through with an unexpected victory against Japan tonight, but his countryman, Baron Humbert Demorpurgo, ill and suffering, met defeat.

As a result, the home forces broke even with the Japanese in the opening matches of the European zone Davis cup tennis final. The winner of which will play the United States for the right to challenge the French.

Yoshiro Ohta managed to snatch one set from Destefani, the latter winning at 6-4, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, but Demorpurgo lost in straight sets 6-4, 6-3, 7-5. Fans and experts alike had regarded Ohta and Demorpurgo as almost certain winners.

State Awards Leases On University Oil Lands

AUSTIN, July 11. (UP) — The state land office late today announced issuance of oil leases on 84 tracts of University of Texas land in Andrews, Ward and Winkler counties under the bids received last January and held up temporarily by an injunction.

The right to make these leases was upheld recently by the state supreme court. The 84 tracts will bring bonuses totaling $1,134,180 to the university. The biggest award was to Gibson and Johnson, of Abilene, who bid $749,656 on 11 tracts.

Girl Defeats Mother To Win Golf Title

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 11. (AP)—Miss Fritzi Stifel, Wheeling, defeated her mother, four and two, today to win the West Virginia women's amateur golf championship.

Mrs. E. W. Stifel, also of Wheeling, put up a brave battle against her golfing daughter, who has been a national figure in tournament play, but Miss Stifel brought her prowess to bear on the incoming nine holes. Mrs. Stifel was only one down at the 12th hole.

MISSOURI PRO LEADS FIELD

Great Atlantan Is Still Tied For Second

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

Bobby has a lot of woe
In getting to the fore,
For everywhere that Bobby goes,
Some pro goes just before.

INTERLACHEN COUNTRY Club, Minneapolis, Minn., July 11. —"If it isn't one of these darn pros, it's another," Bobby Jones might well have sighed this afternoon, as he wiped his brow, handed over his putter to his caddy at the end of his second round in the national open championship, and found himself still in a tie for second place.

A new figure stepped to the fore at Interlachen today and stepped out there with the confident stride of a coming champion. Young Horton Smith, blond, smiling Missouri professional, took the lead over the field with an aggregate of 142 for the first 36 holes.

Bobby Tied With Cooper

Once again Bobby Jones was forced to be content with second place, tied with "Light Horse" Harry Cooper from Glen Ellyn, Ill.

Try as he will, the Atlantan just can't get out ahead of this field of professionals who would seem to be banded together to dethrone him. And if he doesn't turn the trick by sundown tomorrow, it will be just too late.

Bobby played cautiously today, without piling up any great reserve against the time when trouble overtook him. As a result, he ran into difficulties on his second nine and carded a 73, one over par.

Horton Smith, on the other hand, played brilliantly and was four strokes under par at the 12th, so that when he, too, encountered trouble out on the last nine, where a welcome breeze swept the rolling fairways and cost him a stroke or two, the young Missourian had enough in reserve to score a timely 70.

With his par 72 of yesterday, this put Horton out in front with 142, while Jones, who had 71 Thursday totaled 144. Harry Cooper's 144 was compiled of two sound rounds of 72 each, par figures and a very dangerous young man this "Light Horse" gentleman yet may prove to be.

Only Three Errors

"I had good luck, and I only made three mistakes in the entire round," Horton explained. "I was on the fairways and greens all the way going out."

(N. B., he had a 33 for his first nine, finishing with a screaming eagle three at the ninth).

"At the 10th, I went over the green with my second, and at the 14th and 17th I got into the rough and lost strokes. But I had three birdies and that lucky eagle to fall back on."

While a breeze tempered the fiery Minnesota sunshine somewhat today, the scores did not improve materially. The first round leaders, MacDonald Smith and Tommy Armour, took 75 and 76 respectively.

Charles Lacey, Pine Valley, N. J., sandy-haired and bashful, created quite a commotion by burning up the inside nine and having a chance for a time to snatch the lead even from Horton Smith himself.

Out in 36, Lacey still went unnoticed, but when he knocked off three birdies starting home, it became apparent the real "dark horse" of Interlachen had taken off the fed-bag and had gone to work.

Lacey, who was caddying in England three years ago, never before played in a major championship. He and Ed Dudley led the qualifiers in the New Jersey district with aggregates of 142.

While most of the first day's leaders, including Mac Smith, Armour, Whiffy Cox and Walter Hagen lost ground today, Lacey, Horton Smith, Johnny Farrell and Bob Shave of Kent, Ohio, improved their standing.

Atlantan Still Dangerous

Thirteen pros and Bobby Jones will take the field tomorrow with a chance for the championship. But while the Atlantan is the lone amateur, don't overlook him. Bobby hasn't made many mistakes at Interlachen and in the final 36-hole test he is quite likely to come through and win.

All those who had aggregates of 156 or better qualified for the final 36 hole test.

This just let in old Chick Evans, the ever popular ex-champion, young Don Moe, the newly popular Oregon amateur, Emmet French of Youngstown, Ohio, and Al Ayton, Springfield, Ill.

Sixty-nine golfers made the grade, but only a handful are within striking distance of the championship.

SPORTS DEFEAT TRIBE IN NINTH

New Nighthawks Score Five Times in Last Frame

SHREVEPORT, La., July 11. (AP)—In a wild and woolly ball game that was tied up in the ninth inning when Cooper, relief pitcher, hit a home run with a man on base, the Sports beat the Indians 13 to 12 in the first of a three-game series here tonight. The Sports were forced to score five times in the final frame. Both teams made plenty of errors, but some were on wild heaves. Score:

Cardinals Release Peel to Houston

ST. LOUIS, July 11. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals have released Outfielder Homer Peel to the Houston club of the Texas league, a Cardinal "farm," it was announced today.

Peel saw little action with the Cardinals this year after coming from Philadelphia in the deal that sent Grover Cleveland Alexander to the Quaker city club.

Early in the season Peel was unable to play on account of an attack of mumps, and when he recovered Outfielders Watkins and Fisher, new additions to the team, were hitting so well Manager Street could find no place for him.

Dealers Topple Champs Over, 8-5

The Furniture Dealers slammed out an 8 to 5 victory over the champion Texas Electric Service company team Friday afternoon on Harrison field. Larry Robertson kept the Electrics well in hand all the way and was touched for only six hits. Glenn Coolidge, the Kilowatt terror, slammed out an even half of the Electrics six hits and drove home three of their five runs. In the last eight times at the bat in league games, Coolidge has poled out six singles a double and a triple and has drawn one base on balls. Coolidge shoved his batting average up over the .500 mark Friday afternoon.

Big Boy Ridling continued his own sensational batting in the past three games with getting two singles in three times at the bat, Ridling has collected five hits in his last eight times at the bat. None of the other players in the game could break into the hit column for the second time.

The sensational work of Slim Wooten on first base for the Electrics featured the game in a fielding way. Wooten has the range and he made good use of it Friday by saving his fellow infielders from countless errors. Score:

Tilden in Semi-Finals Of Dutch Championship

NOORDWIJK-AAN-ZEE, Holland, July 11. (AP)—Bill Tilden entered the semi-finals of the Dutch tennis championship today to the tune of his third love set victory in as many days. This time his luckless victim was Van Der Feen of Holland, who, like two of his countrymen before him, was unable to take a game from the American champion in three sets.

The other semi-finalists in singles are Daniel Prenn, Germany; Hans Timmer, Holland; and Roderich Menzel, Czecho-Slovakia.

Gallant Fox Races Today for Richest Purse of the Year

ARLINGTON PARK, CHICAGO, July 11. (AP)—Gallant Fox, America's greatest race horse since Man o' War, winner of five of the nation's outstanding stake races this season, will go after the richest purse of the year, the $80,000 Arlington classic at Arlington park tomorrow.

The three-year-old son of the French stallion Sir Galahad III—Marquerite, owned by William Woodward, New York bank president, will go to the post the most solidly backed favorite in years, and his odds at the time the bugle sounds tomorrow may be as low as 20 cents to a dollar in the mutuel wagering.

Opposed to the superhorse of 1930 which has won the Wood Memorial, the Preakness, the Kentucky Derby, the Belmont stakes and the Dwyer stakes, all within the last 60 days, will be a field of 10 other three year olds. Six of them are sure starters, but four are listed as doubtful.

If all 11 horses go to the post the gross value of the race will be $84,800. Gallant Fox, because he is eligible for the $10,000 bonus, will win $78,000, if he triumphs tomorrow in the mile and a quarter event. If "the Fox" should be conquered, the winner will take down $60,800, but the experts believe there is very little danger of anything like that happening.

The stake is worth $70,000 in added money with a bonus of $10,000 to the winner if he was a previous victor in the Kentucky Derby, American Derby, Preakness or Belmont stakes. Gallant Fox has won three of these which qualifies him for the extra $10,000. Reveille Boy, surprise winner of the American Derby is not eligible for tomorrow's race, but will oppose Gallant Fox in the Arlington cup, a weight for age affair, a week later.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 11. (AP)—After holding steady during early trading today on reports of continued dry hot weather in the South, cotton weakened under increased offerings which appeared to be inspired by the weakness of wheat and reports of showers at a few points in Alabama.

After selling off to 12.95 early, new October rallied to 13.00, but broke to 12.65 in late trading and closed at 12.66. The general market closed steady at net declines of 23 to 36 points.

Issuance of notices estimated at about 3,000 bales probably accounted for some of the early selling of July, while weakness in New Orleans selling locally was reported a factor.

Liverpool cables said that continental buying and covering on the weather reports had been supplied by realizing in that market. Exports for the day were 15,745 bales, making 6,733,938 so far this season. Port receipts, 1,404. U. S. port stocks 1,609,983.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 11. (AP)—The cotton market was quiet and fairly steady considering the bearish sentiment prevailing among traders. After opening 1 point up despite poor cables and very unfavorable June textile statistics, the steadiness being due to high temperatures and drought in the belt, prices gradually eased off owing to absence of sustained buying support. By mid-session active new crop months showed losses from opening figures of 13 to 14 points.

The market became more active and eased off in the late trading on reports of good rains in Alabama and easier stocks. Prices dropped off to new lows, 37 to 38 points under the opening and closed at or near new bottom. The general market closed steady at decline with net losses of 30 to 36 points.

Sudden Break in Wheat Values Ends Three-Day Market Rally

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, July 11. (US)—Stock prices today enjoyed a period of strength during the early hours of the market, but yielded when a sudden renewal of weakness in grains forced wheat to a new low. The weakness in wheat disturbed sentiment because of the growing confidence in the maintenance of prices around the recent lowest levels. Statement that the government would permit the grain markets to find their own levels as dictated by supply and demand indicated that the readjustment would take place without artificial delay, hastening the actual establishment of bottom prices. Stock quotations generally had improved above the previous closing until the selling volume increased in the afternoon on the weakness in grains. The net recession in average prices of stocks, however, was only moderate and cancelled less than half of the gains scored on Thursday. The market throughout the day continued to display resistance to renewed eforts to unsettle sentiment. The railroad shares closed almost unchanged on the average. Volume was considerably rdeuced, amounting to little over 1,500,000 shares, compared with 2,167,000 shares the day previous.

Bullish activities had received cheer by the ability of the market to achieve a three-day rally for the first time since May, but there was an evident desire not to attempt too hasty a rally. The bear crowd is well supplied with funds and will undoubtedly contest any attempt to stage a vigorous advance in the general list. They still receive support from occasional outbursts of selling which is chacterized as more than bear raiding. This took place for a while in American Radiator-Standard Sanitary, in which a leading house identified with banking institutions sold a sizeable block of stock. The selling was probably in anticipation of an unfavorable half-yearly report by American Radiator. This company's business, however, will be among the first to reflect betterment on the building industry and its stock has been bought recently by investors attracted by the return of over 6 per cent. The company has excellent management, emphasized by inauguration recently of its "modernization" campaign whereby it is hoped that operations will be greatly stabilized to offset the decline in new-building activities.

Enjoying their first even slightly sustained rally, traders were quick to take even the modest profits available in the early transactions. A few stocks, however, continued to show signs of steady demand. National Biscuit was outstanding in this respect, yielding only a smallest fraction as emphasis was placed on the advantages accruing to the company from the record low wheat prices. It is evident that the highest-grade buying is taking place on a scale downward. Such buying is not being hurried nor is it seeking to obtain the bottom prices. Nevertheless, there is a constant demand for the best-grade stocks. Steel common achieved a price above 160 before yielding to close off 2⅛ points at 157¾. Bethlehem, on the other hand, gained ¼ point. Radio continued active and sold off only with the general list, as buyers anticipated possible strong sponsorship by its specialist, who returns tomorrow from a European vacation.

American Can, which by consensus of Wall street opinion, is the favorite bull stock, achieved a new high on the move before reacting. It closed off 1¾ points. The Motor stocks enjoyed a brief spurt in anticipation of probable stimulation to sales by introduction of the new models. Most of the automobile companies will endeavor to revive buying demand with their new models, which will have various new attractions and offer probably greater value than ever before. Westinghouse Electric was hammered by the bear crowd on estimates that its second quarter earnings may fall short of covering the dividend requirements. This stock, however, yielded only two points on the day. While the bear crowd undoubtedly will continue to raid individual stocks, it is quite evident that they have been meeting more obstinate resistance in many parts of the list. New developments in trade and industry serve only to confirm previously-recognized expectations, so that the element of surprise in the unfavorable news now being disclosed is absent.

Wheat prices closed off over 2 cents a bushel, while cotton was also lower. Money remained unchanged and the bond market enjoyed continued strength, with various of the highest-grade issues achieving the best levels of the year. A strong bond market maintained for a period of time would be a pleasant development for the banking world.

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, July 11. (AP)—Cotton goods were firmer today with sales moderate. Burlaps were unchanged on a low basis and spot sales were light. Further openings of lines of tropical suitings are not expected until later in the month. Silk continued low, and sellers are beginning to show more anxiety. Fall silk trade is developing slowly.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, July 11. (AP)—Wheat on the Fort Worth cash grain market Friday followed the sharp break in contract markets and bids were reduced materially. Demand continued good at the declines but offerings were said to be lighter. Exporters were bidding 89½@99c for ordinary export grain delivered Texas gulf ports. Mill bids were 90@90½c, basis ordinary No. 1 hard milling, delivered in carloads at Texas common points, freight paid. Same grade wheat with 13 per cent protein was worth 90½@91c.

Other grains were in slow demand with the sorghums showing few sales and buyers so far refusing to follow the nominal advance.

Estimated receipts: Wheat, 268 cars; corn, 3, and oats, 5.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed, 95½@96c; No. 2 white, $1.01½@1.02; No. 2 yellow, 98½@99c.

Oats—No. 2 red, 44@45c.

Barley—No. 2 nominally, 57@58c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo, per 100 pounds nominally, $1.75@1.78. One car No. 3 sold at $1.67. No sales and no offerings of kaffir, but some inquiry reported.

Dealers also quoted as follows, basis delivery Texas goup one points: No. 2 mixed corn, 93@94½c; No. 2 white corn, $1.00@1.00½; No. 2 yellow corn, 97@97½c; No. 3 white oats, 45@45½c, to which add 1c for delivery group three.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 11. (AP)—Reversing an upward flight, wheat values today plunged to below the bottom level reached heretofore this season or for 17 years back.

Reports of rains affording some relief from drought both in Canada and in domestic spring wheat territory were to a great degree responsible for a quick switch that many traders made to the selling side as the day drew to an end. Wheat prices were unsettled 1⅝@2⅝c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish and in some cases at exactly the lowest point yet reached. Corn closed at ¼@1c net advance, oats a shade off to ¼c up, and provisions varying from 5c setback to a rise of 20 cents.

Only transient early downturns in wheat prices resulted from the government crop report forecasting an increase of wheat production. Most traders devoted themselves instead to reports of persistent hot dry weather Northwest and to advices telling of severe damage in the Dakotas and Montana.

Provisions averaged higher influenced largely by the course of hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, July 84⅝c, 88¼c; Sept. 87⅛@⅜c, 91⅛c; Dec. 93⅛@⅛c, 96⅛@⅜c. Corn, July 77c, 78⅝c; Sept. 74⅝@½c, 77⅜c; Dec. 68⅛c, 71⅛c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, July 11. (US)—The wheat market continues a weather affair with all of the vicissitudes which such a period holds. With all official and semi-official reports indicating need for a continued supply of moisture in the spring crop areas, the trade looks for prices to continue their highly erratic trend.

Although corn displayed independent strength today, it reacted considerably when wheat turned extremely weak. Commission houses are advising a policy of caution while recommending the constructive side inasmuch as the market is susceptible to changes in prices of other grains owing to the light speculative interest.

A local house says in cautioning against the short side of wheat: "Last year everyone was bullish and any bullish news put out was followed by buying orders, which finally put the market up 60 cents from the lows. This year the trade is decidedly in favor of news along bearish lines and, yet, growing conditions in both Canada and the domestic Northwest are almost identical with last year."

Broomhall issued an estimate of the exportable surplus remaining in Argentina, in which he placed the total at 55,000,000 bushels, which is considerably out of line with previous figures.

Livestock

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, July 11. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Short receipts of cattle were posted for today's trade and 90 per cent consisted of slaughter steers.

Slaughter steers proved extremely dull. Most steers were of value to move under the $7.00 level.

Some good to choice yearlings were reported at $10.00 and others ranged downward from around $9.00. Butcher cows were listed mostly in the $4.00 range.

Slaughter calves were wanted at steady to strong prices. Two loads of good to choice light weight vealers sold on order account at $9.00 and heavy calves ranged downward from around $7.50.

Packer direct hogs formed most of the limited receipts. Best truck hogs brought $9.10 and bulk of the desirable light and medium weights in the truck section moved from $8.75 to $9.00.

Little change was observed in sheep and lambs, the market remaining about steady. Medium to good lambs moved around $7.00 to $8.00 and similar grades of fat wethers, mixed ages, changed hands at $4.00.

—Hogs—Receipts 600; no rail hogs offered; truck hogs 10c higher; top $9.10; bulk better grades $8.75@9.00; packing sows steady $7@7.25.

Cattle—Receipts 1,800, including 500 calves; slaughter steers very dull, tending lower at week's full decline; few steers moving; not enough cattle of other classes to make marekt; some butcher cows $4.50@4.75; choice light vealers on order account $9.00; weighty slaughter calves $7.50 down.

Sheep—Receipts 1,000; around steady, fat lambs $7@8.00; fat wethers, mixed ages, $4.00; mixed feeder and fat yearlings $5.25; feeder lambs $5.50.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, July 11. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Cattle trade around the 11-market circuit consisted largely of the usual Friday cleanup with no price changes of consequence. Trade this week has been marked by advancing prices on a decreased supply of yearlings but there was a liberal run of matured steers with values on averages 1,100 lbs. and up sagging to new low levels for the season. Western grass cattle have been marketed more freely. Packers have encountered only limited competition from feeder buyers on western steers. Aggregate receipts estimated at 12,300 were slightly heavier than a year ago.

Lighter receipts of hogs 240 lbs. and down found a fairly active outlet at strong to 20 higher prices but strong weight butchers at most markets were little better than steady. The day's extreme top of $9.85 was paid at Chicago and St. Louis. Total offerings were 70,700, as compared with 70,495 a year ago.

Further strength was reported on fat lambs, some centers showing gains of 15-25. Mature classes of sheep were on a steady to strong basis. Choice Washington lambs in Chicago scored $11.50 while at St. Joseph and Omaha fat range lambs sold up to $11.00. The supply numbering around 27,900 was 3,000 heavier than a year ago.

CHICAGO, July 11. (INS)—Hogs—Receipts 21,000, market 10c higher; top $9.75; bulk $8.85@9.65; heavyweight $8.70@9.30; medium weight $9.15@9.75; lightweight $9.60@9.75; light lights $9.35@9.75; packing sows $7.40@8.30; pigs $8.50@9.35; holdovers 8,000.

Cattle—Receipts 2,500, market steady. Calves—Receipts 1,000, market steady. Beef steers: Good and choice $10@11.75; common and medium $7@9.50; yearlings $7@12.00. Butcher cattle: Heifers $7@11.25; cows $5@9.00; bulls $6@9.50; calves $9.50@13.00; feeder steers $6.50@10.00; stocker steers $6.50@10.00; stocker cows and heifers $4.50@6.50.

Sheep—Receipts 5,000, market 25c higher; medium and choice lambs $10.50@11.50; culls and common $6.50@9.00; yearlings $6.50@9.50; common and choice ewes $2@3.75; feeder lambs $7@8.00.

KANSAS CITY, July 11. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Hogs—Receipts 4,500; strong to 10c higher; top $9.25; good and choice 140 to 160 pounds $8.60@9.10; packing sows 275 to 500 pounds $7.25@8.00; stock pigs $7.85@8.60.

Cattle—Receipts 1,000. Calves—Receipts 300; generally steady; steers, good and choice 600 to 900 pounds $9.25@11.50; 900 to 1,500 pounds, $8.73@11.25; common and medium 600 pounds up, $5.50@9.25; heifers, good and choice 550 to 850 pounds, $8.75@11.00; good and choice $6@8.25; vealers (milk-fed) medium to choice $5.50@10.00; stocker and feeder steers, good and choice $7.50@9.75.

Sheep—Receipts 2,000; lambs active, 10 to 15c higher; sheep steady; lambs, good and choice, 90 pounds down, $9.75@11.10; ewes, medium to choice, 150 pounds down, $2@3.35.

Two Die in Flames As Blazing Plane Crashes

HONOLULU, T. H., July 11. (UP)—An army amphibian plane, loafing along at an altitude of 900 feet, slipped suddenly in a nose dive today, crashed to earth, caught fire and burned to death its two occupants before help could reach them.

Lieut. Ivan Atterbury, Roseburg, Ore., and Staff Sergeant Ralph O. Mills, Saborus, Ill., were dead when rescuers finally dragged them from the flames.

Witnesses said the plane was going too slowly over Luke field. Its heavy nose suddenly pointed downward and it slipped into the spin. Upon hitting the ground, the gasoline tanks exploded, bathing the plane and its occupants with blazing gasoline.

PRINTER GETS OIL FORTUNE

11-Acre Tract Turned Out To Be Bonanza

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 11. (AP)—A veteran printer of the Oklahoma Publishing company, Grady Milner, today entered the class of the "oil rich" when the Slick & Atkinson No. 1 Milner, in SE SW SW 1-11-3w, came in for 15,000 barrels.

Milner, born in Arkansas, came to McAlester with his father years ago. He learned the printer's trade and 13 years ago landed in Oklahoma City, he and his wife living in a furnished room.

When his wife became ill, he decided to move to the country and bought an 11-acre tract for $25 down. The total cost of $2,300 was paid over a long period of time.

As oil development moved toward his little ranch, Milner sold part of his royalty. He also purchased a 20-acre tract, now in the shadow of derricks.

Milner, who has quit night work on the newspaper, said he plans to continue raising chickens and vegetables.

New Curtailment Plan Adopted

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 11. (AP)—Meeting here today oil operators of the Oklahoma City field voted to shut down oil wells which are even with proration or overproducing at this time, for a sufficent period to permit pipe line companies to clear lease storage and let operators take up proration on wells which are under-produced.

The operators voted approval of the proposed further curtailment of two per cent in flush oil pools of the state. This proposal was made by a state wide proration committee of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association meeting at Tulsa yesterday.

Midland Gas Purchases West Virginia Leases

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 11. (AP)—Purchase of oil and gas leases to more than 23,000 acres of land in Southwestern Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky by the Midland Natural Gas company for in excess of $2,000,000 was announced today by John Eoghan Kelly, vice president of the company.

The same company, which is controlled by interests affiliated with E. R. Diggs and company, New York investment brokers, last May purchased 16,000 acres of oil and gas property in Northern West Virginia and Southwestern Pennsylvania. The consideration in that deal was $2,000,000.

Foreign shipments of silk, rayon, and cotton hosiery from the United States amounted to 5,777,247 dozen pairs during 1929, a decline of 89,494 dozen pairs.

West Texas Pours Wheat Into Market

Special to The Record News

QUANAH, Texas, July 11.—The Fort Worth & Denver railroad is handling a record breaking movement of wheat from the fields of West Texas and has already moved more than 2,000 cars of grain through Quanah to the markets, according to L. V. Omberg, local agent.

Each car carries approximately 1,600 bushels, and about 75 per cent or the total shipments come in over the South Plains line, he said.

While the peak has passed, movement continues, and it will be some time before movement is ended. Shortage of cars has not been experienced this season, and there is still plenty of cars available to handle all shipments, Omberg said.

Murder-Suicide Pact Claims Second Victim

PATERSON, N. J., July 11. (US)—Roderic Meakle, violinist and banker's son, gained his last consciolus desire today. He died in St. Joseph's hospital of a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head and pneumonia.

Meakle shot himself last Saturday after killing his sweetheart, Jenny Brauer, in a suicide pact. They had decided to die because Meakle's wife, Jessie Murphy, a Paterson school teacher, refused to give him his freedom.

What's On The Air Today?

Honey Boy and Sassafras, blackface comedian team which contributed regularly to radio programs of station KGKO for many months, will fill two engagements at the local studios Saturday on a one-day visit to the city, it was announced Friday. Their first program will be given from 12:15 to 12:45 p. m. in the place of the usual "Highnooners" program, and they will be on the air again Saturday night from 9:00 to 9:30 o'clock.

A. H. Britain will speak from station KGKO Saturday night from 7:10 to 7:30 o'clock in the interest of the candidacy of Senator Clint C. Small of Wellington for the Democratic nomination for governor.

The complete program for the day follows:

7:45-8:30 a. m.—Piano request program.
8:30-8:45 a. m.—Miss Harriett Bradley, contralto.
10:00-11:00 a. m.—Church of the air.

Police Use Sticks On Indian Demonstrators

BOMBAY, India, July 11. (UP)—Police, lustily swinging big sticks, beat off wave after wave of dogged Indian congress adherenest who sought to march through the city streets today in defiance of a regulation banning the demonstration.

Estimates placed the casualties at 250 during the clashes.

A huge crowd witnessed the charges, first by the police, then by the demonstrators, as they surged back and forth in a mass.

Anti-Separatist Riots Spreading in Germany

COLOGNE, Germany, July 11. (AP)—Anti-Separatist rioting today spread beyond the boundaries of the liberated third Rhineland zone.

Seven shops were raided in Dueren.

Shots were fired when citizens stormed the home of Separatists at Maring on the Moselle river.

Electra Personals

Mesdames Olen Richardson, Orville Richardson, Aubrey Jacobs, Miss Grace Head and Paul and Dennis Head attended the home coming at Indian Gap last week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Pruitt of the Greyback community had as their guests Sunday Messrs. and Mesdames Loyd Griffitts and daughter, M. A. Smith, R. E. Goode and children, Roy Gibbett and daughter, all of Wichita Falls.

Mrs. J. V. Harrison has returned from Shannon, where she was the guest of her mother, Mrs. E. T. Mathewson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Marriott and daughter, Norma Jean, were Dallas visitors over the week-end.

Ernestine and Frank Grafton of Chillicothe were Electra visitors Wednesday. They were former residents of Electra, their father, Dr. L. D. Grafton, having been pastor of the First Presbyterian church here until recently when he accepted the pastorate at Chillicothe.

Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Stewart of Olney are assisting in the Assembly of God revival here this week.

21 ARRESTED ON JURY BILLS

64 Indictments Set New Court Record

Out of the total of 64 indictments returned by the grand jury for the July term of the 30th district court, perhaps the largest number ever to be contained in a single report by a grand jury here, the sheriff's department Friday evening had arrested 21 persons named in the true bills, according to information given in the office of Sheriff W. G. Bralley.

The grand jury recessed Thursday afternoon until July 28, when the jurors will meet again for their final report to Judge Allan D. Montgomery, completing their work for the court term.

Trials Set July 21

Trials of defendants named in the indictments will begin July 21, according to George W. Anderson assistant district attorney. Prior to taking up the cases brought to the attention of the July grand jury, the district attorney's department will be occupied with a sanity hearing in the 89th district court for Otis Akers, life term prisoner on a conviction for robbery from Wichita county who was named in an insanity complaint filed by prison authorities; a barratry case against E. A. Martin, former Wichita Falls attorney; and one or two other cases left over from other court terms, the attorney said. These cases have been set for call Monday, the sanity hearing before a jury of 12 men to be called first.

J. P. Williams, former constable at Iowa Park, was named in two indictments charging acceptance of bribes, with the specific allegation that he rendered protection to violators of the prohibition laws, according to the jury report. Mrs. Georgia Lynch, also of Iowa Park, was named in two indictments in connection with the case against Williams, one charging conspiracy to commit bribery and the other naming her as principal in accepting a bribe.

Three persons were named in indictments involving statutory offenses. They were Lonnie Rollins, Jack Lane and J. D. Berry.

16 Prohibition Bills

Sixteen indictments involving violations of the prohibition laws were returned, varying from charges of driving while intoxicated to possession and transportation of liquor. Persons named in the bills are Sam Cox, E. M. (Happy) Cox, T. P. (Chambless, Clarence Cox, B. W. Williams, negro; Clara Lane, John Williams, two counts; Bill Hill, Adrian Williams, Ray Fowler, Dan Norwood, C. E. Williams, S. M. Madison, negro; Flavil George, Cecil Davis.

Indictments charging burglary, theft or robbery numbered 20, with several of the persons involved having been named in as many as three bills. Those charged with burglary are Melvin Lewis, negro; H. A. Hight, three indictments; H. L. (Dick) Womack, J. D. McAllister, Dick Fitzgerald and Clifford Barrett, three indictments, placing him under the habitual criminal act. The one person named in robbery indictments is Claud Allen, now serving a term in the penitentiary for robbery from Tarrant county. Theft indictments named Carl Holcomb, J. B. Haynes, H. A. Hight, W. A. Patton, Francis Ramsy, J. D. McAllister, second offense; Arthur Osborn, negro.

Ten persons were named in indictments charging forgery and passing forged checks, swindling or attempting to pass forged instruments. They are S. M. Trent, W. R. Horton, two indictments; Less Etter, Walter Fowler, H. A. Hicks, two indictments; Mayo Lane, Clyde York and H. H. Ward.

In addition the grand jury reported 10 indictments on charges of child desertion. The names of persons named in these bills were not released, since none was under arrest or under bond, Mr. Anderson said.

STRAND: Will Rogers and Irene Rich in "So This Is London." Short talking subjects and Paramount sound news.

STATE: William Collier Sr. in "Harmony at Home." Comedy and sound news.

GEM: "Courting Wildcats" with Hoot Gibson. Chapter one of "Lightning Express" with Jack Perrin and Louise Loraine. Comedy. "Apartment Hunting."

"The Big House" and "With Byrd at the South Pole" were approximately equally successful, so far as the box office was concerned, according to Victor B. Lowrey, Majestic theater manager, trying for first place in the history of the theater with a score of about 120 per cent.

◇ ◇ ◇

The fact that the Byrd picture was shown on July 4 gave it a decided advantage over "The Big House," Mr. Lowrey says, and the latter is therefore the most popular picture ever shown here. Judged by all the standards as to plot, characterization and effectiveness, it would rank around 90 or 95 per cent, which is unusually high.

◇ ◇ ◇

Wallace Beery can step up to the top shelf with Ruth Chatterton, George Arliss, Marie Dressler, George F. Marion and Greta Garbo since his performance in "The Big House." The last three named achieved distinction in "Anna Christie" and Ruth Chatterton has been a permanent fixture up there ever since her first movie. None of them, however, have surpassed Beery in his natural characterization of "Machine-Gun Butch." Any of the other characters in the picture, even Lewis Stone, could have been replaced without any serious consequences, but there is no one who could substitute for Beery.

◇ ◇ ◇

It is a sad day for a theater critic and a delightful one for the fan in Wichita Falls. Pity the poor critic who has nothing to pan—no flaw to magnify—no grievance to deliver to his "public"! It is hard to remember a week when there has been such a program of all-round excellence. Will Rogers, the same old indifferent Will who introduced a Comanche war-whoop in an English castle; Ruth Chatterton, remembered for her superior characterization of a half dozen difficult different roles; William Collier Sr., as a typical American father; and the fresh memory of Richard E. Byrd—there is no complaint to make but that the good ones are coming a little too frequently.

◇ ◇ ◇

Now that we have seen two weeks of good shows, we will probably be surfeited with Clara Bow and boop-oop-a-doop innanities for a month or so—there is just this one ray of sunshine: The last few big pictures brought here (except The Rogue Song) have drawn big houses. That is the best way to insure the best type of entertainment in the city—be as discriminating in attendance as in criticism.

DEATH CLAIMS W. L. GRAVES

Veteran Publisher Dies Here At Age of 71

W. L. Graves, 71, former newspaper man, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. P. A. Martin Friday morning at 9 o'clock. The body will be taken to Graham by the Merkle Undertaking company Saturday morning where funeral services will be held from the grave at 10:30 o'clock.

Mr. Graves had been making his home with Judge and Mrs. Martin for the past two years. While in the newspaper business Mr. Graves published weeklies in Graham, Bridgeport, Estelline, Taos, N. M., and various other places. His last newspaper was the Home News at Springtown, where he worked until his health forced him to retire.

He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. P. A. Martin, Mrs. B. R. Wagner of Abilene and Mrs. R. J. McCloud of Graham; one brother, R. E. Graves of Graham. Mr. Graves was a member of the Christian church of Graham.

BERT ALLEN

Funeral services for Bert Allen, 56, who died at 601 Austin street, from a sudden heart attack Thursday morning about 7 o'clock, were held from the First Christian church Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock with Rev. H. T. Wood, pastor, officiating. Interment was in Riverside under the direction of Albert's Funeral home.

Pallbearers were Frank Ray, Oscar Pierce, M. O. Howell, P. C. Vaugh, E. R. Carey and J. H. Hall.

Survivors include his widow, three brothers, Ed and Reese Allen of this city and Herb Allen of St. Louis; one sister, Mrs. Ina Christian of Wichita Falls.

R. V. Gwinn, justice of the peace, returned a verdict of death from natural causes following a coroner's inquest.

J. S. BAKER

The body of J. S. Baker, 72, of Electra, a pioneer of this section who died in a local hospital about 11 o'clock Thursday night, was taken to Electra for interment early Friday morning. Funeral services were held there Friday afternoon.

Permanent Membership for C.-C. Recommended by Business Council

Completion of Oklahoma Highway to Place Wichita on First Coast-to-Coast Paved Road

Unanimous vote of members of the business council Friday noon provided recommendation to the directors of the chamber of commerce that half-year memberships in that organization be issued for pro-rated fees for the balance of the current fiscal year, and that memberships hereafter be continuous until death, removal from this city, or written resignation effects its termination.

Discussing the membership question, at the request of the chairman, John Boswell, chamber of commerce manager, stated that in his opinion, 95 per cent of all chambers of commerce in this country already have adopted the continuous membership plan. He pointed out that from 40 to 60 days of work on the part of numerous members have been required for the annual membership campaign.

"We shall by no means contemplate a discontinuance of membership effort, if this recommended plan is adopted by the directors and membership of the chamber of commerce," said Mr. Boswell. "We shall have a constantly active membership committee designed to retain for the organization the support and participation of the entire citizenship."

Fees Payable Annually

Membership fees will be payable annually as under the present plan, Mr. Boswell and others said, in case the continuous membership program is adopted.

The motion passed by the council Friday was introduced a month ago by A. E. Kelly, and was tabled on that occasion for action when it could have received more thought. It was returned for consideration Friday upon the motion of Julian Montgomery.

Referring to a national conference of highway commissioners and engineers held at Oklahoma City this week, Mr. Boswell declared that information given in that meeting indicated definitely that Wichita Falls will be on the first all-weather, paved transcontinental highway from Atlantic to Pacific in the United States. Only a small gap between Oklahoma City and Tulsa, nine miles in length, and that between Burkburnett and Oklahoma City remain to be paved to complete the coast-to-coast route, he said. The nine-mile gap east of Oklahoma City will be finished before fall, it was said, while paving of the stretch from Oklahoma City southwards to Lawton is now under way. Importance of providing hard-surface for the highway between the Red river at Burkburnett and Lawton was stressed by Mr. Boswell.

It was said that a group of Oklahoma City highway development leaders together with the state highway commissioners and engineers will visit this city within the next few days in connection with an inspection of the road from Oklahoma City to the Red river near Burkburnett. The Oklahoma City Chamber of commerce is actively engaged in the promotion of plans for paving that section of the highway at the earliest possible date. According to Mr. Boswell, President Ed Overholser of that organization is now making plans for bringing several hundred business and professional men of Oklahoma City to Wichita Falls early in the fall, returning the visit made by a delegation from this city to the Oklahoma capital several months ago. Mr. Overholser was quoted as saying that after driving to Wichita Falls, he would point to the Oklahoma City delegation the importance of completing the pavement on that route by showing how much easier it would be to drive from Wichita Falls to Fort Worth or Dallas than to return to Oklahoma City over the unpaved highway.

B. B. Greever, speaking for the program committee of the business council, announced that establishment of a public market has been selected by that body as a question demanding the attention of the council, and that its early consideration will be recommended.

Referring to the proposed new federal building here, Julian Montgomery expressed the opinion that such a structure should be located near the courthouse, near the business district, but off of main arteries of traffic. Members of the business council, he said, should feel it their privilege to work in the interest of such a location for the public good.

Charles I. Francis was elected temporary chairman for Friday's meeting in the absence of both Paul G. Putty and Don Bowie, chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the council. J. S. Bridwell, president of the chamber of commerce, presided during the election of Mr. Francis. State Senator W. D. McFarlane was introduced by Mr. Francis, and spoke briefly in commendation of community services rendered by chambers of commerce.

About 75 persons attended the luncheon and discussion.

Despite poor economic conditions in Austria, passenger automobiles in Vienna have increased from 6,447 to 7,306.

Wet Candidate for Governor Sees Heavy Repeal Vote in July Primary

HOUSTON, July 11. (AP)—Frank Putnam of Houston, candidate for governor on a platform demanding repeal of both state and federal prohibition today issued the following statement:

"The assumption by other candidates and by some newspapers that the repeal candidacy is not serious and is therefore negligible, is incorrect. A carefully considered campaign is being made to elect the repeal candidate this year; and, failing that, to prepare for a repeal victory in 1932.

Scorns Bond Issue

"The noisy, somewhat silly sham battle the so-called 'leading candidates' are waging over a $350,000,000 state road bond issue, which everyone knows will never be voted by the people of Texas, is not turning public interest away from the real issues which will control in the July primary.

"Those issues are prohibition repeal, tax reform and a law giving Texas-owned municipal utilities an even break with company utilities now all owned by foreign companies. I am the only candidate in the race publicly committed to those policies. I am the only candidate pledged to free homesteads up to $5,000 value from all taxation.

"Every Democratic state convention held this year from the Atlantic to the Pacific, has voted for repeal of the 18th amendment and a return to state control of the liquor business. All of these conventions have recognized the need to curb monopolies, especially the power monopoly. Under President Hoover's leadership the Republican party is forming its lines as the defender of prohibition and of the monopolies, especially the power monopoly. The 1932 national campaign now bids fair to be fought on these issues mainly.

Scores Love

"On these issues, Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas has already made sure of a place in the second primary as the representative of the Republicans' attitude toward them. He gained for Texas voters the privilege of passing freely from one party to another, between primary day and election day, and he will be the beneficiary of this condition on July 26.

"Senator Love's opponent in the August run-off primary logically should be a man representing the new purposes of the national Democracy. If Texas voters take this view of the situation, they will choose Putnam of Houston to oppose Love of Dallas in the second primary. With all due respect for his ability, I am certain I could beat Senator Love on the real issue in August. In any event, I am certain to poll a repeal vote very much larger than my opponents now expect me to."

RURAL SCHOOLS IN GOOD REPAIR

Buildings Ready for Opening of New Terms

With the opening of the school term approaching for one county school and that of others in Wichita county less than two months away, repair work and additional fixtures at several of the schools have placed them in first class condition for receiving students this fall, according to an announcement Friday from the office of Burl Bryant, county school superintendent.

At Allendale school, a new teacherage providing living quarters for the school's three teachers has been constructed and a new coat of paint and a new sanitary water system have been added to give the school more modern appointments. The Allendale school will open before the end of July and will remain open for two months, closing at that time to allow the students to take part in cotton picking season on the farms. It will reopen after a two-months vacation period for the cotton picking.

Other schools in the county will open Sept. 8 for the regular school period. Clara school has had a new room placed on its building to provide water-tight and warm covering during the winter months. Other schools over the county have undergone various repairs to make them ready for the fall term.

City View school this year will offer fully affiliated courses in algebra and ancient history, two units having been secured in the mathematics course at the time the school became affiliated last year. An affiliation in English is to be granted during the coming term. Clara, Valley View and Fairview all offer high school affiliated courses.

Christy Charged With Under-Selling Portraits

NEW YORK, July 11. (US)—Howard Chandler Christy is the defendant in a $100,000 suit by the Portrait Painters' gallery, it was disclosed today. Lawyers for the famous portrait artist filed a motion in supreme court to dismiss the case on the ground that no cause of action exists.

Christy's motion disclosed that the Portrait Painters' gallery claimed that Christy had cheapened the gallery's reputation by quoting lower prices for portraits than the gallery had quoted under a commission agreement with him.

Marine Commandant Buried at Arlington

WASHINGTON, July 11. (US)—Maj. Gen. Wendell C. Neville, late commandant of the marine corps, was laid to rest today in Arlington cemetery with the sound of the music he loved best playing a final salute over his grave.

All day flags in the city were at half mast in honor of "come-on" Neville, as he was affectionately known by his men. Brief funeral services were held at the commandant barracks and the funeral cortege was formed immediately afterward to bring the remains of the general to Arlington.

Bridegroom Given Life Prison Term for Murder

BECKLEY, W. Va., July 11. (AP)—Kent Fleming, 25, who became a bridegroom after he was convicted of slaying Benjamin Moss, today was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary.

Fleming's bride of three days, formerly Miss Jene Louise Brown, Evansville, Ind., stood by his side as the court overruled a motion for a new trial and imposed sentence. A 60-day stay of execution was granted for an appeal. Fleming was taken from jail to the courthouse for his wedding.
