KIDNAPERS THREATEN TO HARM BABY IF $50,000 IS NOT PAID

BY ROBERT J. CACAGNARO.
(Copyrighted, 1932 By The Associated Press)

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 2—Ransom has been demanded for the Lindbergh baby, kidnaped from its nursery last night, and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is willing to pay if he can get the infant safely back to its mother's arms.

BABE IS REPORTED SAFE

NEWARK, N. J., March 2 (AP)—A post card was mailed to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh from here today reading: "Babe safe. Instructions later. Act accordingly."

It was learned shortly before noon today that a note found pinned to the sill of the window through which the baby was taken from its sickbed by the kidnapers made a definite ransom demand.

It also threatened harm to the child if the money was not paid, if the contents of the note was divulged, or if the method of payment suggested in the note was revealed.

So threatening was the note that for hours its very existence was denied by police investigating the crime.

It was finally determined with absolute definiteness, however, that the ransom demand had been made and that Col. Lindbergh had decided to meet any demand if by so doing he would get his baby back.

No one would say how large the demand was but a report that it was $50,000 went undenied by sources close to the Lindbergh family and to the widespread search.

It was impossible to gain any information as to what instructions may have been contained in the ransome note or to find out just what steps Col. Lindbergh was taking to follow those instructions.

Mrs. Lindbergh, who is reported to be expecting another baby in the spring, was inconsolable today and aside from the grief at having the baby kidnaped she was made additionally anxious because of its illness.

The baby had been suffering from a severe cold and had been on a strict diet. It was feared that exposure to the cold and damp night air in scanty clothing and lack of its carefully prepared and selected food might have serious effect on the child's health even though it was unharmed by the kidnapers themselves.

Puzzled police re-enacted the crime as part of their frantic efforts to solve the mystery.

Using the same makeshift ladder with which the kidnap band, believed to include a woman, stole through the isolated Lindbergh estate last night to snatch the sleeping child, detectives sought to determine exactly how the kidnaping was accomplished.

Though they made no statement of their purpose it was believed the investigators by reconstructing the actual crime as nearly as they could, hoped they might come on some clue.

Last night, while Col. Lindbergh tramped field and wood in search for his boy and Mrs. Lindbergh sobbed in the house, police made a thorough search of house and grounds.

They raised a ladder to the second floor nursery window and studied minutely the sill, muddied by boots, and the warped shutter which would not close when the baby was put to bed and so left an avenue of easy entrance to the kidnapers.

This morning, however, detectives changed their methods of examining the scene and began following the course of the criminals as exactly as possible.

Taking the rough, improvised ladder found this morning about 100 yards from the house, they raised it to the nursery window and cautiously climbed its uneven steps. Standing on a rickety upper crosspiece, just as the lurking criminal must have stood last night before he entered the dark room to lay hands on the helpless infant, Inspector Francis Kelly made a microscopic examination of sill and shutter. He is fingerprint expert attached to the Morristown police force.

After descending he declined to tell reporters if he had found anything of value but a shake of his head to a superior officer was interpreted as indicating his hunt had been fruitless.

The ladder was left leaning against the window. Occasionally a detective, moving slowly as though in concentrated thought, would climb laboriously to the top, pause for a momentary scrutiny, and then climb carefully into the nursery.

The search for the flier's son was extended into the air today. Authorities asked the Ludington Air lines for a plane and a big tri-motored ship was immediately dispatched from Newark airport with Fred Davis, a veteran pilot, at the controls.

Colonel Lindbergh's comrades of the air also found it impossible to stand idle while tragedy hung over him. The Quiet Birdmen, a secret flying organization of which Colonel Lindbergh is a member, organized a search party, with headquarters at Newark, the New York City municipal airport, and the Aviation Country club at Hicksville, Long Island. Plans were made to send a score of planes, some of them under control of world famous airmen, over the dense woodland of Sourland mountain in an effort to ferret out the hideaway of the kidnapers.

The forces of the law in three states mobilized by hundreds at dawn today to track down the kidnapers. There were clues, but the trail was vague. One of the men—there was one man and perhaps more—was in his stocking feet, or wore moccasins. There was mud on the sill of the nursery window. There were tracks leading a considerable distance and then being lost as the kidnapers apparently got into a waiting automobile.

All available state police in the north New Jersey district were ordered to report for duty at the Lindbergh home at dawn. This concentrated a force of fifty men at the estate where the noted airman and his wife, the former Anne Morrow, spent a night of torment.

The lean colonel, who dared death along the uncharted New York-Paris airway with silent calm, appeared numbed by the catastrophe that reached into the lonely hills to strike at him. Dressed in a leather jacket, an old cap and a worn pair of trousers, his shoes caked with the sour mud which gives name to the region, he tramped most of the night, seeking some clue to his lost namesake.

Mrs. Dwight Morrow, the baby's grandmother, remained at her home in Englewood, after first news of the kidnaping came to her over the telephone in the sobbing voice of the child's mother. (Continued On Page 7)

Chinese Forced Into Retreat By Japanese Drive

DEFENDERS CLOSELY PRESSED BY POWERFUL JAP WAR MACHINE AFTER FIVE WEEKS OF FIERCE FIGHTING AT SHANGHAI; PLAN NEW LINES

SHANGHAI, Thursday, March 3.—The Japanese advanced all along the Chapei-Woosung battle line today and had almost pushed the Chinese back to the 12½ mile limit set by the recent Japanese ultimatum. Woosung alone held out against the relentless march of the big war machine.

The attackers had reached their objectives at various points early today. With Chenju, former headquarters of General Tsai Ting-Kai, head of the 19th Route army defenders, already in the Japanese hands, the advancing left wing moved forward toward Naniang, three miles west of Chenju along the railroad.

The Route army retreated westward last night after five weeks of stubborn fighting at Shanghai, closely pressed by a powerful Japanese war machine.

The Japanese claimed the Chinese soldiers, unable to stand any longer the force of their artillery, aerial and naval attacks, broke their lines and beat the retreat.

Chinese military officials, however, said it was a "tactical retreat" and that they planned to establish new defense lines at Nantiang, ten miles west and renew the battle there.

Protect Communications

They were falling back, they said, to protect their communications which were endangered by the landing of a large force of Japanese troops at Liuho, 20 miles up the Yangtze river. These troops immediately began a drive southward.

Although it was impossible to determine the number of Chinese troops participating in the retreat, observers here estimated there were 50,000 of them. There were additional Chinese troops two miles west but those were not falling back, the Chinese said.

The Japanese, freshened by the addition of thousands of reinforcements the last few days, followed up their advantage closely. From Liuho the Japanese line formed a giant arc bulging westward and ending in the vicinity of Chapei, adjacent to the Shanghai International settlement.

Mass Of Wreckage

Chapei, which had been reduced to a mass of wreckage since the hostilities began, was deserted by

QUICK JUSTICE IN HONOLULU

MAN BEGINS PRISON SENTENCE 9 HOURS AFTER ASSAULT

(By The Associated Press)

HONOLULU, March 2.—Quick retribution followed the latest and boldest of the assaults on women of Oahu island which have brought men to talk of violence and women to live in fear.

Nine hours after he assaulted the Japanese mother of four children, John Fernandez, 21-year-old Portuguese, was taken late yesterday to Oahu prison to serve a life sentence. He pleaded guilty.

Hope that death would be the penalty was expressed by the victim, Mrs. Miwa Witanabe, stocky 33-year-old woman who came to court carrying her four months old babe.

Circuit Judge Albert M. Cristy explained he interpreted the law as making life imprisonment the maximum, that the death penalty had not been asked and that such speedy punishment should be a deterrent to that type of crime.

The attack was the second in four days. Police described it as the boldest of the series which began with the assault on the wife of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., last September.

RETIRED RANCHER TRIES TO INHALE CHLOROFORM HERE

A retired rancher, Emory M. Butler, attempted to inhale chloroform from a handkerchief about 10:30 o'clock this morning at his home, about two miles south of Lubbock on state highway No. 9, and was found before he had lost consciousness, neighbors said.

The aged man was reported to have told his wife of what he intended to do. She ran across the highway to a neighbor, R. E. Swain, who returned to the Butler home with her. There they were reported to have found the woman's husband with a cloth smelling of chloroform. His condition was not believed serious and he remained at the home.

A woman at the Butler residence denied knowledge of a man there being hurt or hurting himself.

REVENUE BILL IS FINISHED

MEASURE WILL RAISE MORE THAN BILLION FOR GOVERNMENT

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 2. (AP)—The big new revenue bill which is to raise more than a billion dollars a year for the federal government in addition to its present income, has been completely drawn at last and is to be ready for the house by Saturday.

Acting Chairman Crisp brought the draft today before the full ways and means committee after a subordinate group had whipped it together, including a two per cent manufacturers sales tax to yield about $525,000,000; special excise levies on selected industries to produce $300,000,000, and increases in income, estate and gift taxes to bring in an additional $200,000,000.

Crisp hoped to get all committee action done by Saturday, to start the house debate Monday and speed it to the senate. The bill will carry several changes in administration to stop leaks by which the government is now estimated to lose $100,000,000 annually. It will not balance quite the budget submitted to congress by the president, but the house Democrats Crisp said, are calculating a saving of $135,000,000 in government expense. If it materializes and the revenue bill gives the expected yield, the government will find itself on an even keel again at the end of the fiscal year 1933.

AMHERST OFFERS HOTEL BUILDING AS COURTHOUSE IN COUNTY SEAT BATTLE

(Special To The Journal)

AMHERST, March 2—Deed to the Amherst hotel building, owned by the Halsell estate whose broad acres surround this Lamb county city, will be placed in the hands of County Judge Simon D. Hay tomorrow as this city's trump card in the three-cornered race for the county seat.

Olton, present county seat and possessor of the courthouse; Littlefield, which has offered lease of its city hall for use as a courthouse if voters decide to move the capital there in the election on March 19, and Amherst are the three communities seeking the capital. Included in the deed to the Amherst hotel will be the promise that should it be used for a courthouse it will be remodeled throughout to suit the county, at no cost to the taxpayers.

Editor Explains Plan

Announcement of the plan was made by E. F. Huntsucker, editor of the Amherst Argus, who further declared that the remodeled hotel building, if used by Lamb county as a courthouse, will go to the county in tip-top shape and ready for use without cost to the citizenship.

The building, he said, could be erected now for a cost of $35,000 but in 1923, when it was built, cost the Halsell estate $50,000. Remodeling costs of approximately $15,000 will fit the building for county use and will furnish a large jail and will include a vault for the county clerk's office, he estimated.

Has Gas Heat

The building is 75 by 80 feet, has a rear addition 10 by 16 feet; a floor space of 11,650 square feet and a 25 by 40 foot basement with 1,000 square feet. It has a modern heating plant, using gas.

The deed to the building will remain in the hands of county officials indefinitely, Mr. Huntsucker said, although the hotel business will be continued if the building is not used as a courthouse.

Berwick Sentence Upheld On Appeal

AUSTIN, March 2 (AP)—The court of criminal appeals today affirmed a 20 year conviction against Luther Berwick, tried in Harris county for the slaying of Belle Crowe; his sweetheart, in Port Arthur.

Miss Crowe and William Byrd were shot to death as they sat in an automobile in front of the Crowe home Oct. 30, 1929. Berwick was tried also for the Byrd slaying and given three years imprisonment. Both cases were sent to Harris county from Jefferson county on a change of venue.

Senate Would Quiet Wall Street Fears

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP)—Assurance was given today by Senator Walcott (R., Conn.) that the prospective stock exchange inquiry was intended in no way to interfere with the regular operations of the gigantic securities market.

As head of a senate banking subcommittee drafting the resolution to authorize the investigation, Walcott is regarded as the probable chairman of the investigating body.

It is going to turn its first attention on short sellers. However, bulls as well as bears are going to come into range of the senate's spotlight.

Large Oil Merger Is Given Approval

Final steps in the creation of the half-billion-dollar company, which will be known as the Consolidated Oil corporation, were taken yesterday when stockholders of the three units ratified the merger.

SECOND TRIAL UNDER WAY

STATE RESTS TODAY; DETAILS OF FATAL SHOOTING TOLD

Alvis Graves, defendant in a charge of murder, took the stand this afternoon to testify in his own behalf in his second trial before Judge Homer L. Pharr. Graves appearance on the stand came after an apparently quiet morning in the trial in which the state put on five witnesses, two of which were officers, and read the statement of another officer of the first trial before closing their case.

Graves was given a life sentence at his first trial. The sentence was reversed and remanded on appeal.

Again the courtroom was crowded in spite of the fact that this is the second hearing of the case. Graves is charged with the murder of Horace L. Smith on January 10, 1931. Robert L. Averett, 22, was also a victim of Graves' gun and three others were wounded in the shooting which took place at the home of E. D. Chadwick, 2107 Eighth street.

Five On Stand

The state rested at 10:20 and immediately the defense started its parade of witnesses. Five witnesses including the wife of the defendant, who appeared as a surprise witness, testified before noon.

Sheriff Wade Hardy and Deputy Joe Rieger testified again to receiving telephone calls from Graves at Post an hour or so after the shooting and related details of the conversation in which the defendant told of having shot someone at the dance. Sheriff Hardy recalled that Graves had said he "hoped he had

TEXANS OBSERVING INDEPENDENCE OF 1836 TODAY; SOME COGNIZANCE HERE

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Mar. 2.—Ninety-six years ago today Texas declared her independence from Mexico.

In commemoration of that event, the Lone Star state looks to celebration in 1936 of a fitting centennial observance and a committee created by the State legislature met here today to continue formulation of plans for it.

A few days after a band of Texans met at Washington-on-the-Brazos, declared their independence, adopted a constitution and made David G. Burnet provisional president and again placed Sam Houston as commander-in-chief of the army, Santa Anna and his 3,000 men stormed the Alamo at San Antonio. The Alamo fell March 6. Travis, Bowie, Crockett, Bonham and all its defenders perished to the last man. General Sam Houston was later (April 21) to defeat the Mexican General, take him prisoner and capture his army at the battle of San Jacinto.

Texans everywhere observe their Independence day. Governor R. S. Sterling was spending the day at Washington-on-the-Brazos, where independence was born, as a guest at a big celebration. He was on the program for the principal address.

Hunt Unequalled In Crime Annals Now Under Way

GOVERNMENT JOINS IN SEARCH FOR KIDNAPERS OF LINDBERGH CHILD; VARIOUS THEORIES ARE ADVANCED IN SENSATIONAL ABDUCTION

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The federal government today entered the hunt for the son of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his kidnapers amid a clamor in congress for legislation to check such crimes.

The cooperation of the department of justice was pledged after President Hoover had conferred with Attorney General Mitchell. Customs and immigration authorities likewise watched for the culprits at the borders.

In the house there was quick committee approval of a bill making it a federal offense to send kidnaping threats through the mail and imposing heavy penalties for violation. A special committee meeting was sought to consider another measure to lay a federal ban against abductions that transcend state boundaries.

The kidnaping of the Lindbergh child was called to the attention of both house and senate as their sessions opened. Senators Norris, (R., Neb.) and Barbour (R., N. J.) called for quick action on the kidnaping legislation pending.

Barbour succeeded the late Senator Morrow, the grandfather of the baby, in the senate.

AVIATORS PUT BLAME ON AMATEUR BAND

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP)—"This is no job by professional kidnapers; none of them would be so foolish," said a member of the "Quiet Birdmen," secret fraternal organization of noted fliers, in commenting on the seizure of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr.

"They would know," he said, asking that his name be omitted, "that a hunt unprecedented in the crime annals of the country would follow such a deed and that with practically every one in the country watching out for the baby and his captors, their chances of getting away with it would be slim.

"My theory is the amateur kidnapers, who never did a big 'job' before, are responsible. I think the idea that madmen did it must be ruled out because madmen don't run in pairs or trios."

This member of the "Quiet Birdmen," an organization to which Colonel Lindbergh also belongs, declared the belief if the child is not quickly found, airmen all over the country will take up the hunt, and that probably Pan-American Airways and T. A. T. concerns for which Lindbergh is technical advisor, would send out planes to scour the Jersey hills and any other spots to which clues may lead.

PROFESSIONALS ARE THOUGHT TO BLAME

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP)—An opinion that the kidnaping of Charles A. Lindbergh, jr., was "obviously the work of professionals" and possibly was done by an organized kidnaping ring from the midwest, was expressed today by Frank J. Loesch, who was a member of Wickersham commission.

Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime commission, declared emphatically the crime bore the stamp of kidnapings engineered by a gang he believes is centered in or near Chicago.

Long a student and prosecutor of criminality, Loesch said he believed the only effective weapon against organized kidnaping was the creation of a "national secret organization, privately financed."

"SECRET SIX" HEAD BLAMES MADMAN

CHICAGO, March 2. —(AP)—Col. Robert Isham Randolph, head of Chicago's famous "Secret Six," said today he was convinced the kidnaping of Charles August Lindbergh, jr., was an act of an insane person.

Two years of running down kidnapers from coast to coast have convinced him, Col. Randolph said, that "no organized gang of kidnapers ever would attempt such a crime." There is nothing for authorities to do in the case, he added, until ransom demands are made or other clues uncovered.

None So Brainless

"There are lots of kidnaping gangs with enough facilities to carry out the job," Col. Randolph said, "but none of them is brainless enough to try it. They know that the whole country would be looking for them—and that the man who flew the Atlantic alone wouldn't be an easy victim.

"Organized kidnapers are looking for easy victims—not for children whose fathers are world heroes. They prey largely on gamblers, bootleggers, and other criminals whose personal affairs prevent them from calling the law to their aid."

The fact no extortion demands were made before the kidnaping also indicate the Lindbergh baby abduction is the work of a demented person, Col. Randolph said. He expressed a belief that "even the most amateurish gang never would select

Mid-Week Social Activities Lag; Four Large Week-End Dances Are Scheduled

De Ques To Present Members; Fish To Crown Queen; Two Clubs Are To Dance

Mid-week social activities are lagging in Lubbock but gayeties for every age are promised during the week-end. Dancing, particularly, is booked for every evening offering that diversion for collegians and townspeople.

Following the pattern of other winter weeks, there are numerous small bridge parties. Some are meetings of two—and three-table clubs. Others are gatherings of congenial friends for an afternoon of contract or auction.

Organization meetings continue, although this is not "club week" in Lubbock. Shakespeare and Daleth Delphian clubs met Tuesday afternoon, the Eastern Star met Tuesday evening and there was a monthly meeting of the City Parent-Teacher council during the afternoon.

Members of De Que club at Texas Technological college will have an annual dance Friday evening at the Uptown Dance palace. New members will be presented at this time. On Saturday evening the annual Fish dance is scheduled for the same hall. A queen will be crowned at this time and upperclassmen will be represented in the royal court.

The Lubbock Dancing club dances Thursday evening at 9 o'clock in the ball room of Hilton hotel and the Trailers club dances at the same hour and hall the following evening.

An event for this evening that is expected to draw a large crowd is the banquet for ex-student of Texas University in the Hilton hall room. The meal is to start at 7 o'clock.

Other gatherings for the day include a party this evening at 8 o'clock for members of the Wednesday Night Bridge club, a First Baptist T. E. L. class party at 3 o'clock at the church and a luncheon party for members of the First Baptist Alathean class. This latter event started at 1:30 o'clock at the church. Mrs. H. T. Wilkins is entertaining L'Alquillee club in her home at 3 o'clock this afternoon and a picnic is to be given at 6 o'clock for members of Las Chaparritas club and several additional guests. Misses Frances Ford, Voncile Gilkerson and Maxine Clark are entertaining for the club at Buffalo Springs.

Barney Barnes Can Now Eat Anything He Chooses

"I got so I couldn't eat anything without having trouble afterwards," says Mr. Barney Barnes, popular oil rig builder, of 221½ West Grand Avenue, Oklahoma City, Okla. "I would have heartburn, and indigestion pains after meals.

"Nothing seemed to help me. I tried everything I could hear of but my indigestion hung on four years.

"Then a friend got me to take some Pape's Diapepsin. I had almost immediate relief with the first two tablets. Now that I have been taking them for some time, I find I can eat meats or most anything and have no trouble. I want to tell others about Diapepsin because it sure helped me."

Thousands like Mr. Barnes are finding quick, certain relief for sour stomach, or acidity, by using Pape's Diapepsin. Chew a tablet and that feeling of weight and discomfort after eating just disappears.

Doctor Myers' Daily Column On Child Welfare

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

FREQUENTLY I receive a letter from a parent asking me what I would charge if he or she were to ask me advise them by mail concernig a problem. Such a question seem like a very commercial type of person. I am at the service of my readers. Any question I am able to answer personally or by mail I am glad to answer without pay. I welcome questions and problems by readers. When they suggest a personal reply I send a personal answer as soon as I am able. Sometimes I seem to be slow but, in the first place, the letter must be relayed to me through this paper; then I am away from home a great deal lecturing; furthermore, my mail is pretty heavy.

I am glag always to meet my readers face-to face, and that has often been my privilege in many parts of the United States. An occasiona l reader passing through my home city calls me up for a conference. Though I occasionaly do consulting work for pay I do not accept fees from my readers nor from my students, knowing them to be such.

It greatly pleases me to receive a word, from someone to whom I have written personal advice, telling me of their success. Sometimes the letter continues: "Since your advice on the other problem worked so well I am writing you about another problem." Of course one cannot expect to hear fro mthose who were not able to profit from the advice.

Those who ask for a personal answer would dome a great kindness if they were to enclose a self-addresse.d stamped envelope. One stamp does not cost much, but hundreds of them t-o gether are expensive.

If my readers will follow my column daily they will find most of their questions answered there, though, of course, I could never hope to cover nearly all types of human problems. Neverless, I often receive a description of a parent problem which had been discussed in the column within the last two weeks. What I try to do is to select those problems for discussion which hear most often face to face or find most often in letters from my readers, or which Mrs. Myers and I have seen most frequently right at home with our own children.

Anyone, however, who feels himself confronted by a problem, need have no hesitancy about sending it to me in care of this paper, whether he has carefully read the column regularly or not. In writing about a child give his age and sex of other children of the family.

Indicate the school progress of those in school. State the number of adults in the family, who they are, and their attitude toward one another and the children. Also state brief facts about sleeping habits, eating habits and toilet habits of each child. If you have administered punishment state its nature and frequency. Briefly describe the child's playthings and the kind of playmates he has. Add all other facts which you think would be useful in aiding me to offer you useful advice.

Write with typewriter, pen or pencil, but please write legibly

Don't waste words to apologize for "asking such a question." Any problem which trobles you is of enough importance for you to write about and for me to read about it. Send it in in care of this paper, and let me do my best for you.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The pamphlets by Dr. Myers may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Garry C. CLEANING PLANTS TO BE INSPECTED

City Building Inspector D. J. Schlag and City Fire Marshall Wiley Metcalfe intended to begin an inspection of Lubbock cleaning and dyeing plants this morning to show shop operators how to comply with a recently established ordinance and to collect annual inspection fees of $15 each, fixed in the building code.

Nineteen tailors operating shops doing dry cleaning assembled last week and agreed to comply with the code, the fire marshal said this morning. Fire walls are required in such buildings and only some of the shops have such protection now, he added. A copy of that part of the code pertaining to dry cleaning establishments was mailed to tailors after the meeting.

The $15 inspection fee provides for a monthly inspection by the building inspector.

Council Talks Two Projects For City

The summer round-up for Lubbock and a mother-daughter banquet were discussed Tuesday afternoon at a monthly meeting of the City Parent-Teacher council. This gathering, which was presided over by Mrs. H. F. Godeke, president, was in the music room of the Senior High school.

Although March 11 had been selected as the banquet date, it was changed to March 15 at this council meeting, because of conflicts. Mrs. C. E. Maedgen, general chairman, announced that a place is to be selected shortly. This banquet is open to any mother and daughter of the city.

Mrs. N. L. Peters is general chairman of the round-up and her committee is to be named later. This project is an annual feature of parent-teacher work. Children of pre-school age are given physical examinations at clinics fostered by the P.-T. A. in an effort to have every child enter school with a minimum physical handicaps.

Preceding the business discussion, orchestral selections were played by pupils of Mrs. S. J. Rider.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartell Howell, jr., of Los Angeles, Calif., are to visit during the week-end with Mrs. Howell's sister, Mrs. Edgar Lewis, and Mr. Lewis. Mrs. Howell is the former Miss Bonie Baker who was a teacher in the Lubbock schools.

COMFORT for COLICKY BABIES . . . THROUGH CASTORIA'S GENTLE REGULATION

The best way to prevent colic, doctors say, is to avoid gas in stomach and bowels by keeping the entire intestinal tract open, free from waste. But remember this: A tiny baby's tender little organs cannot stand harsh treatment. They must be gently urged. This is just the time Castoria can help most. Castoria, you know, is made specially for babies and children. It is pure vegetable preparation, perfectly harmless. It contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. For years it has helped mothers through trying times with colicky babies and children suffering with digestive upsets, colds and fever. Keep genuine Castoria on hand, with the name

Glorified Buddy

Though he has starred in many film romances, Charles (Buddy) Rogers only recently made his debut in a major stage production. He is shown taking time out from "Hotcha," latest musical comedy staged by Florenz Ziegfeld, to strum a little tune for Revva Reyes, one of the principals in the show, which has just opened at Washington, D. C.

Diet Didn't Do This!

HAPPY little girl, just bursting with pep, and she has never tasted a "tonic!"

Every child's stomach, liver, and bowels need stimulating at times, but give children something you know all about.

Follow the advice of that famous family physician who gave the world Syrup Pepsin. Stimulate the body's vital organs. Dr. Caldwell's prescription of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs is a mild stimulant that keeps the system from getting sluggish.

If your youngsters don't do well at school, don't play as hard or eat as well as other children do, begin this evening with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This gentle stimulant will soon right things! The bowels will move with better regularity and thoroughness. There won't be so many sick spells or colds. You'll find it just as wonderful for adults, too, in larger spoonfuls!

Get some Syrup Pepsin; protect your household from those bilious days, frequent headaches, and that sluggish state of half-health that means the bowels need stimulating. Keep this preparation in the home to use instead of harsh cathartics that cause chronic constipation if taken too often. You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store; they have it all ready in big bottles.

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY COLLIER PARRIS

The University of Kansas won the Big Six Conference basketball championship last week. It marked the tenth championship in the fifteen years Dr. F. C. "Phog" Allen has coached the Jayhawkers. His all-time record in conference and exhibition games is 215 victories and eleven defeats, for a percentage of .751.

Which is a pretty fair record, and which is one of the principal reasons why Dr. Allen has been induced to come to Lubbock this summer and teach a course in basketball coaching at the Texas Tech coaching school. Allen holds a wide margin over other Big Six coaches. George Edwards' Missouri teams won a single title in five years and Hugh McDermott of Oklahoma won two in a decade. The others have never coached a champion team. Many players who learned basketball from Allen are coaching successfully. Among them is Charley Black, the University of Nebraska mentor.

The Ropesville (Pride of Hockley county) basketball team left today for Austin where it will accustom itself to the shadow of the capitol and to the increased humidity of Central Texas before shaking another leg in the direction of a state basketball crown Friday. Coach Gordon Mills is to be commended for his year's work with the Ropes cagers. This department wishes him luck and hopes his cagers play the brand of basketball that won a district and bi-district title, if they do they may win the state championship. They meet Corsicana High Friday afternoon in their first game.

How many times have you said or heard it said that "there ought to be a law agin' stallin' in a basketball game?" At the same time you have decried the superfluity of whistle-blowing and the resultant free throws, out of bounds plays and jump plays because of an already congested set of regulations. You may witness 1933 basketball games under slightly different rulings, for the powers that be have solemnly declared that stalling is a "menace to the game," and they have decided to do something about it.

Since a basketball team first learned that the safest way to control its lead in a basketball game was to keep possession of the ball there has been stalling, and they learned that long, long ago. It has become more pronounced as time advanced, in the face of popular criticism against the practice of holding the ball. Players have been known to toy idly with the sphere without trying for a goal for as long as 12 or fifteen minutes at a time. It is one of the most tiresome, most depressing things in the world to watch. If there was a law forbidding stalling interest in the game would instantly increase a hundred fold.

So when the national basketball rules committee meets at New York in mid-April one of the most important topics of discussion will be stalling, or "delayed offense," though the two terms are not to be confused. Some coaches teach delayed offense, which is a sort of attack designed to fool the defense even after the latter has become fixed. "Stalling," Phog Allen says, "is the refusal of the team which is behind in the score to play aggressive basketball," which may bring up the question, "who does the stalling—the team in possession of the ball or the defensive side?"

The Universities of Kansas and Missouri played a game recently in which Missouri controlled the ball 12 minutes without attempting to score. In the far west, two teams defied each other longer than that and neither would "knock off the chip" to precipitate action. The Missouri mentor held that since his team led Kansas by two points the burden of aggressiveness fell upon the Jayhawker quintet, which presented a 5-man phalanx about the Tiger basket and refused to go after the ball in the Kansas offensive territory. During the 12 minutes preceding the halftime intermission Kansas players reclined on the floor and Missourians idly toyed with the ball or passed it among themselves. Coach George Edwards of Missouri contended the odds were too great against his team so long as Kansas played only defensively. Coach Allen says his players sat down, adding travesty to the spectacle, in order to test the rule and show what a ludicrous performance was possible.

So let up hope that "strategical passivity" will be barred under pressure of penalties other than the boos of the crowd when the committee meets. The boldest bit of stalling which has come under our observation this season occurred in the Lubbock High school invitation basketball tournament. Coach Bill Stevens' Friona club was playing Morton. Friona was entered as one of the favorites and before the game was very old the Frionans had taken a 9 to 6 lead. Six minutes remained in the second quarter, two minutes having elapsed. The Stevens coached lads gathered at one end of the court and the Morton defenders under the goal. Nobody moved for six minutes and the half ended that way. Morton snapped out of it in the second half to win the ball game, 20 to 6. Who gained the advantage in the stall?

PLAYERS LIKE PLAN BEGUN BY CAREY

CALISTHENICS TAKING PLACE OF THE OLD PHILOSOPHY PLAN

BY ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 20 (AP)—Strange sounds and even stranger stories have been emanating from this little town on the gulf coast since the Brooklyn ball club arrived to substitute Carey calisthenics for Robinsonian philosophy.

Not in the memory of the oldest inhabitant had Dazzy Vance been known to hoist himself on his broad shoulders and cast dignity to the winds by pumping his legs bicycle-fashion. No citizen could recall previously having seen the ancient Jack Quinn grasp desperately for his shins, in lieu of ability to reach the ankles and away to the military cadence of mass exercise.

Curious Collection

The rollicking Robins have flown the old nest. Many faces are still familiar. But in place of the one time joviality of the happiness boys has been substituted an ordered, well-regulated regimen calculated to develop a pennant contender from as curious a collection of talent as any major league club ever assembled.

"Say, I'm beginning to like this bicycle act of mine," remarked the red-headed, florid-faced Mr. Vance, speaking of the exercises that each day precede the workouts at the ball park. "I'm getting so good that I can teach my stuff to some of these young fellas, like Joe Shaute and Jack Quinn."

Vance's reaction to Carey's methods, revolutionizing the Brooklyn system, is typical of the way the ball players have taken to the new program. Carey's ideas may be radical by comparison with time-honored big league methods but they are fundamental from an athletic viewpoint.

The talk of the camp just now, however, is Waite Hoyt, the one-time "boy wonder" of the Yankees. Hoyt trimmed at least 25 pounds of excess weight off his frame, promised Carey he will stay in condition and pitch as often as desired. He thinks he can win 20 games.

Damages Sought In Suit Filed Tuesday

Suit for $260 damage has been filed in county court against the Panhandle & Santa Fe railway by W. R. Wilson, a former railroad pumper at Littlefield who alleges he was discharged by the railway respite a seniority agreement.

Wilson alleges he was replaced July 15 by a man of less seniority. He sues for two months wages and for expenses of renting a house and moving into it.

Local Rabbits Are Shown At Amarillo

Lubbock members of the South Plains Rabbit Breeders association are represented by about 30 rabbits in the Amarillo Rabbit Breeders association's fourth annual spring show. The exhibition at Amarillo, in connection with the livestock show, began Tuesday and will continue through Thursday, in the automobile building on the Tri-State fairgrounds.

AROUND THE TRAINING CAMP CIRCUIT

BUNTING FEATURED

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 2 (AP)—Bunting and base stealing are to be features of the Phillies' practice hereafter.

"This new style of play started last year and has come along very gradually," Manager Burt Shotton said.

The new tough covering on the ball is responsible, he explained. He said that last year many hits fell short that two years ago would have gone for homers.

Some of the veterans are pretty good at bunting, but the rookies give a lot of grief.

GROVE ENTERS CAMP

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 2 (AP)—Lefty Grove puts on his working clothes today for the first time this season and goes to work with the rest of the Athletics, leaving to Rube Walberg the distinction of being the A's only holdout.

Pitcher "Sugar" Cain was hit in the head by Jimmy Foxx' liner during batting practice but came back on the field later.

USE JAP PHRASES

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 2 (AP)—Rabbit Maranville and Bruce Cunningham are creating quite a sensation at the Boston Braves' training camp—they've even got the great Shires speechless.

Both picked up a lot of Japanese phrases during their "invasion" of Nippon last fall and they're exhibiting their wares to the consternation of their teammates.

PLENTY OF SPEED

BILOXI, Miss., March 2 (AP)—When opponents of the Washington Senators come up to bat this season they are going to have a lot of fast-ball pitching with which to contend.

With the exception of Lloyd Brown and his southpaw hooks and Monte Weaver with his fast-breaking curve, the mound corps is made up, it seems, of fast-ball specialists. Even Alvin Crowder, who ventures to deal out knuckle balls and other slow varieties on occasion, usually falls back on his fast one.

FIRST CASUALTY

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 2 (AP)—Hod Lisenbee holds the doubtful distinction of being the first casualty at the Red Sox training camp. The workout had finished yesterday when Hod stepped on a piece of glass in the showers and cut a toe. "Doc" Sullivan extracted the glass and proclaimed the injury not serious.

NEW MEN PREDOMINATE

BRADENTON, Fla., March 2 (AP)—New men predominate so far in the infield lineup for spring practice at the Cardinals' training camp.

Sparky Adams, at third base, and Jim Collins, at first, were the only familiar faces in yesterday's infield workout, but Frankie Frisch, captain and second baseman last year, is expected to appear soon, as it was announced yesterday that he finally had accepted terms.

THIRTEEN ABSENT

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 2 (AP)—Thirteen players of the St. Louis Browns were absent today as the club's second-day of spring training was scheduled.

After only eight players had reported yesterday, James Levey, Louis Americo Polli, Russell Young and Jack Burns showed up later in the day, bringing to twelve the number available for practice.

SOX MOVE ON

MINERAL WELLS, March 2 (AP)—With most of the excess weight melted off in the baths and on hiking tours, the Chicago White sox squad wound up its stay here today and moved on to San Antonio.

Strict attention to baseball is scheduled for tomorrow, with the first intercamp game down for Saturday.

CUBS LOOK GOOD

SANTA CATALINA ISLAND, Calif., March 2 (AP)—Rogers Hornsby has wasted no time in organizing his regulars into the team he expects to start in the 1932 season and in their first test they gave a good account of themselves.

The first intercamp game of the season ended in an 8 to 1 victory for the so-called regulars in seven innings. Stanley Hack, recruit third baseman, was the only green hand in the varsity lineup which also includes Charlie Grimm at first, Bill Herman at second, Woody English, shortstop, as the other members of the infield; Kiki Cuyler, Lance Richbourg and Riggs Stephenson in the outfield, Gabby Hartnett and Zach Taylor, catchers, and Ed Baecht and Johnny Welch doing the pitching.

TWO SEEK PLACE

LOS ANGELES, March 2 (AP)—Where it looked as if they might have no first class second baseman, the New York Giants now appear to have two good men for the keystone sack.

Hugh Critz finally has tested his weak arm with some hard throwing and has discovered signs that it may be as good as ever, and Freddy Lindstrom, who came from third base by way of right field, is doing about as well and wants to get back into the infield.

TO BE IN INFIELD

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 2 (AP)—Lyn Lary, the recent bridegroom, may not be at shortstop for the New York Yankees but he certainly will be in the infield somewhere.

Frank Crosetti, the coast league sensation, is being groomed to take over the short field with Lary moving over to third. But Lyn was at shortstop yesterday for a good part of the time and covered acres of ground, indicating Crosetti may have a tough time ousting him.

LINES BEING DRAWN

PALO ALTO, Cal., March 2 (AP)—Battle lines are being drawn for the war of survival in the Detroit Tigers' spring training camp. Ray Fritz, recruit, fired his first shot in the fight for first base yesterday with a lusty wallop over the right field fence.

Harold (Muddy) Ruel and Ray Hayworth, veterans, are favored for two of the three catching berths, Gene Dee Autels, Huge Wise and George Susce are fighting for the third place.

QUARTERBACKS OF TECH WIN CLASH OVER THE GUARDS

The Quarterbacks defeated the Guards, 26 to 23, yesterday in the second game of the "football-basketball" tournament under way at Texas Tech this week.

Led by Demp Cannon, the Slaton flash, Speed Moffett and Crittenden took high point honors with 11 and Speed Moffett was second with 9. Other members of the Quarterback team who saw action yesterday were Beauchamp, Pool, Clark, Goode and Langford.

The Guards' lineup consisted of Ayers, Priddy, Durham, McGehee, Turner, Greer, Harris and Morris.

At 5 o'clock this afternoon the Ends and Halfbacks are slated to meet in the third game of the tournament between football players. The tourney was instituted to provide conditioning for football players before spring training starts next term. Seven teams, corresponding to the seven departments of football, are engaged in the play. Yesterday saw the Centers defeat the Tackles, 39 to 8, in the first game of the tournament, which continues throughout this week.

BEARS DEFEAT MUSTANGS IN LAST GAME

FROGS WILL END YEAR IN TIE WITH BRUINS IF THEY DOWN SMU

WACO, March 2 (AP)—Victorious in their final game with S. M. U., last night, 40 to 28, Baylor was assured of at least a tie for first place in the Southwest conference basketball standings at the close of the regular season.

The Bruins won ten games and lost two. The T. C. U. Horned Frogs will finish with the same record if they beat the Methodist at Dallas tomorrow night. Judging from past performances they should have little trouble doing that. After the Frog-Mustang scrap, a three-game play-off between the Christians and Bears may be arranged.

Arkansas will wind up a moderately successful season at College Station tonight. The rejuvinated Aggies, struggling to pass Rice and draw up even with Texas in the standings, likely will give the Porkers plenty of opposition. They toppled the Razorbacks last week.

Georgia Wins Cage Title; Upsets Dope

ATLANTA, March 2 (AP)—Georgia captured the Southern conference basketball championship last night by defeating North Carolina university, 26 to 24.

This year's tournament was one of the upsets and despite their gallant battles in the previous rounds, Georgia was still an outsider in the final go.

Barrett Asks That Lazy Money Be Released Here

ANTI-HOARDING WORK DISCUSSED HERE AT MEETING

Challenging his fellow citizens to join in the war President Hoover has declared on the prevailing economic depression by putting their dollars to work, A. P. Barrett, state chairman of a citizens reconstruction organization, addressed an anti-hoarding mass meeting Tuesday afternoon at Texas Technological college gymnasium. The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce arranged for the assembly.

Loose the eagle's wings, bring unemployed money back into circulation, was Barrett's plea. The Texas chairman of President Hoover's reconstruction program arrived at Lubbock municipal airport in a Bellanca plane at 2:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and left for Big Spring 90 minutes later. His sister, Mrs. T. L. Shepard, 2518 Twentieth street, and her husband were members of the welcoming committee at the field.

Emotional Appeal

A widely assorted and attentive audience heard Barrett's address, tinged with an emotional appeal reminiscent of liberty loan speeches in world war days. A crowd of about 200 persons attended, in addition to the Technological college orchestra, the Lubbock High school band, and about 16 men on the platform. The Westerner band paraded through the downtown district a few moments before Barrett's ship arrived at the local flying field.

An airline executive, Barrett is recognized as the father of commercial aviation in Texas. His home is at Fort Worth. His more than six-foot frame keeps his powerful form from appearing portly, he is full of face and almost white of hair, and horn-rimmed spectacles bridge his somewhat sharp nose. He wore a dark gray-blue business suit, a white shirt, and a tie with enough brightness to set off the ensemble. His oxfords were black.

Lubbock Is Lauded

C. E. Maedgen, a banker and a past president of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, introduced Barrett. Maedgen is treasurer of the chamber board of directors. Barrett spoke for 26 minutes, the first three in tribute to Lubbock and West Texas.

The reconstruction program "is not a campaign "to try to sell something to somebody," the Texas chieftain explained.

"It wouldn't be right for people as big fools, as the American people have been in the last few years, to get well too quick," he asserted later.

The air commerce pioneer recalled that Texans had invested millions in worthless bonds, sold by northern and eastern factions, who invested the moneys in Europe, "because they thought they could get bigger interest."

To Develop Texas

When Texas is at the financial and commercial hilltop again, Barrett prophesied, her citizens will use their money to develop Texas resources, build Texas institutions, and to carry raw materials to the ports and ships of this state. He suggested that the debtor temporarily "let the creditor worry a little."

Referring to the reconstruction scheme, which he did not explain, Barrett declared that "for the first time in history the United States has offered its bond to pay back 100 cents on the dollar on short notice of 60 days and to pay 2 per cent interest while it has the money."

"Hoarders, pessimists, obstructionists, slackers, have but for a short time dominated the people of America," Barrett opined. He decried their efforts, described the depression as something to "use as stepping stones to still greater achievement," and reviewed in blanket fashion Texas' past history, her present day resources, industries, schools and other divisions.

Need Pioneer Spirit

"We have everything on earth except the spirit of the pioneer," Barrett said of Texans.

The speaker referred to the dangers of war, seemingly alluding to the situation in the far east, and expressed a belief in a material defense, although he counted himself as "opposed to militarism, imperialism."

The Fort Worthian's even voice intermittently rose in tone, as he appealed for the uncovering of lazy dollars, or flayed persons fearing to "dig up their money." Working money will accomplish more now than it will later, he indicated. Occasionally he stamped his right foot on the hollow-sounding platform. Rarely did he gesture.

He asked: "What's the use of building highways all over these cowpastures?" He straightened arm and finger at the high school band and concluded:

Tariff Is Advocated

"In a few years these boys won't need them; they'll be taking to the air."

Barrett advocated a tariff on oil, forecast establishment of such a duty, and millions of money in Texas hands as a result.

Members of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development directorate and a Loyalty council committee of 12 sat on the platform, accompanied by several out-of-town visitors, and representatives of Lubbock public schools and Technological college.

Members of the welcoming committee at the airport, beside Mr. and Mrs. Shepard, were A. B. Davis, manager of the chamber of commerce; J. H. Brock, of the chamber's staff; A. H. Leidigh, dean of the Technological college school of agriculture; Tom Gaston, business manager of the college; Mr. and Mrs. Maedgen, and Charles A. Guy, editor and publisher of the Avalanche-Journal.

Motorcycle Escort

As soon as Barrett arrived, he and the committee of welcome were whisked into town in automobiles with a motorcycle escort, sirens screaming for right-of-way. C. E. Luce, city police rider, and E. C. Dorris, state highway patrolman, were the motorcycle escort.

David Ruse, local flier, circled over the field to greet the Barrett plane as it came in. Ruse was flying a Nicholas-Beazley parasol-type ship.

On arriving at the gymnasium, Barrett and Maedgen posed for photographs, standing before an antihoarding banner, held at each end by a uniformed Boy Scout. The musical organizations were massed in the background.

Cameraman There

Courtney Browne, moving picture cameraman of Fort Worth, accompanied Barrett here. Browne said shots would be taken at each stop on the Texas tour and would be assembled as a production for propaganda purposes. It may be shown here.

Barrett stopped at Wichita Falls Tuesday morning, and at Amarillo at noon. He is scheduled to go to San Angelo, Abilene, Waco and Dallas, today and to Austin, San Antonio, Corpus Christi and Houston, Thursday.

Men and women, young and middle aged, were at the mass meeting. College students, young women in bright garments and coatless young men, attended.

BILLS FAVORED

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—The senate public lands committee yesterday reported favorably on the Bratton bill to give 76,867 acres of public land to the eastern New Mexico normal schpol at Portales and on the Bratton-Cutting Sheppard-Connally bill giving title to New Mexico lands adjudged inside the state by the supreme court in settling the Texas-New Mexico boundary dispute.

MURRAY TURNS TO NORTH DAKOTA IN DRIVE FOR VOTES

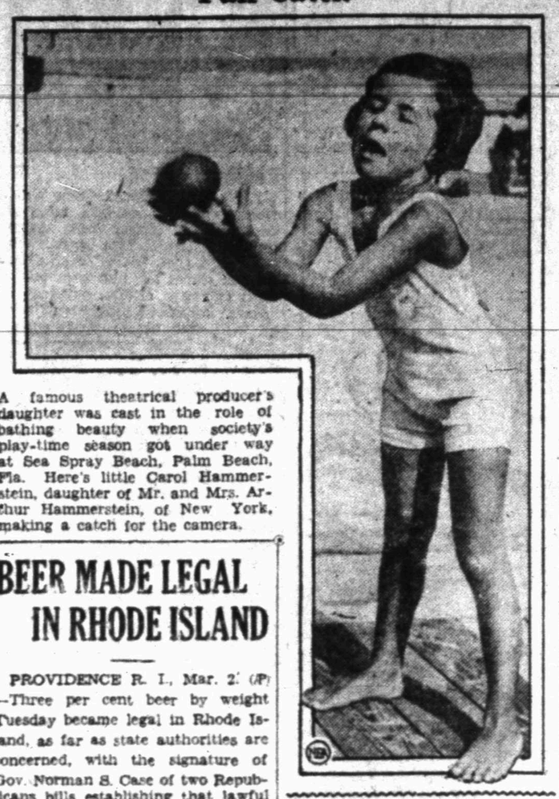

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 2. (AP)—Governor William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray pointed his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination toward North Dakota today, announcing seven speaking dates in that state for this week.

At the same time he indicated he would abandon vote-getting efforts in Georgia, where his preferential primary filing was rejected because it failed to arrive in time.

Murray and Governor Roosevelt of New York are filed in the North Dakota primary, to be held March 15.

Concerning the Georgia situation, the Oklahoma executive said he had "just about decided" not to campaign there because he didn't believe an effort to have voters write his name on the ballots "would get anywhere."

BEER MADE LEGAL IN RHODE ISLAND

PROVIDENCE R. I., Mar. 2. (AP)—Three per cent beer by weight Tuesday became legal in Rhode Island, as far as state authorities are concerned, with the signature of Gov. Norman S. Case of two Republicans bills establishing that lawful alcoholic content of beverages, repealing the state enforcement law and revising the nuisance law to permit police control of the liquor traffic.

Providence and other police authorities are awaiting advice from their legal advisors on their future activities against liquor.

The new bills stress the sale factor as the illegal feature of liquor ownership, no matter what the content of the beverage.

Possession, manufacture or transportation for personal use is apparently to be permitted under the new statutes.

Bank Withdrawals Echo Fascist War

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 2. (AP)—Withdrawals from banks and considerable difficulty in obtaining foreign currency were among the most notable results of the Fascist revolt which led to an encounter with government troops 25 miles from Helsingfors.

The Fascist bands, congregating threateningly in the vicinity of the capital, served a demand on President Pehr Edwin Svinhufvud to oust communists and socialist members from the cabinet or suffer the consequences of civil war. The president replied by decreeing a new safety law giving himself extreme military powers to meet the rebellion.

Rental Case Nears Jury Here Today

The case of Mrs. C. R. Brownlee and others against Mrs. S. M. Albrecht and others was expected to go to the jury in 99th district court this afternoon. Additional testimony of the plaintiff's witnesses and rebutal testimony by the defense was heard this morning.

Judge Clark M. Mullican, Tuesday afternoon, denied a motion by the defense for an instructed verdict. The jury will decide whether Mrs. Brownlee shall receive a permanent injunction restraining Mrs. Albrecht from entering property she allegedly rented to the Brownlees. Mrs. Brownlee's husband collapsed on the witness stand, and died soon afterward, in hearing of an ouster suit brought by Mrs. Albrecht in justice court.

LOSS OF MEMORY FOR TWO AND HALF DAYS CLAIMED BY EL PASO STUDENT

DALLAS, March 2 (AP)—Loss of memory for two and a half days was claimed by a 17-year-old El Paso High school student who told police he remembered nothing from the time he left his El Paso home Saturday to the time he awoke in downtown Dallas Monday.

Sobbing from fright, Charles V. Pairis, jr., related his strange story. El Paso police were notified. His parents left for Dallas to return him home.

Young Pairis, a junior at Austin High school in El Paso, said he left his home early Saturday to go with a group of fellow students who intended to paint the letter "A" on a sign atop a hill near the school. He said he remembered when his mother closed the door as he left. The next thing he said he remembered was awaking at Commerce and Akard streets here.

The boy went to a policeman and asked where the police station was located. He was taken to police headquarters.

A nickel and a button the boy said he had in his pocket when he left home were found in the pocket. His clothes were dusty. He was bareheaded. The boy was hungry and ate a hearty meal bought by detectives.

Body Of Man Found Hanging In A Mine

SOCORRO, N. M., March 2 (AP)—The body of Cerilio Baca was found hanging from a timber in an abandoned mine three miles west of here Tuesday and authorities expressed belief he had been murdered. Baco had been suspended by a 15-foot length of barbed wire.

Socorro authorities had been searching for Baca since they received a report he had been taken from his home by two men who took him away in an automobile. Officers said they had been told Baca had threatened to expose "certain persons" before a grand jury scheduled to meet soon.

Baca had been a resident of Socorro many years. Police said he had a good reputation, had no family and lived alone.

Dr. John Dupre of Wichita Falls arrived yesterday to be at his nephew's bedside. Miss Margaret Dupre is expected in today from Buffalo, N. Y., where she is professor in a teacher's college. She and Mrs. Johnson are sisters.

Restraining Order Granted By Court

TYLER, March 2. (AP)—The Peoples' Petroleum Producers, Inc., today had obtained a federal court order restraining Gov. R. S. Sterling and his military subordinates from interfering with the "lawful production of crude petroleum" from five East Texas wells owned by the corporation.

Judge Randolph Bryant, who granted the injunction, did not act on a supplemental petition by the company asking that the railroad commission be restrained from enforcing its regulations against the plaintiff.

CINCINNATI, March 2 (AP)—Coal operators of Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia and Virginia have completed organization of a projected giant coal sales agency so that the United States department of justice might test its legality in the courts.

The aged woman, shot and seriously wounded last Saturday on the veranda of an old building, formerly a hotel, here, remained in serious condition. Law had lived in one part of the building and Mrs. Spinks, a county ward, in another.

The motive for the shooting had not been determined.

Injunction Granted By Mullican Today

Here's Something Not One Wife in 50 Knows About Coffee.. Say Domestic Science Experts

You May Try 20 Different Brands And Get the Self-Same Coffee In All . . .

Almost 70 Per Cent of All Coffee Sold Comes From One Country . . . It's Just Put Up In Different Packages . . . That's All.

DO you know WHY changing your brand of coffee hasn't made the coffee you serve any better?

It's because almost 70 per cent of all coffee sold in stores today (according to U. S. Imports) comes from one country. It's all the same taste. In fact, it's all practically the same coffee—except for the names on the package.

Not one person in 50 knows this, domestic science experts say. And scarcely 1 in 20 ever has a chance to taste any of the finer coffees, that come from other regions.

Here are 20 Different Brands but the Coffee Inside is the Same in all. Grown in the same producing country and having just the same taste. That's why you notice so little difference when you change brands.

Would you like to try some of these choice coffees? Then ask your grocer for Folger's. It's not just a different brand, but coffee from a different producing country.

From Central America

From tiny mountain districts along the West Coast of Central America we procure coffees that are different in flavor and quality from any you've ever tasted before.

They have a rare winey tang, and a rich full body, that experts concede are not duplicated by any other region in the world. These are the rare coffees that you taste in Folger's. And packed in the latest type vacuum tin they come to you always exactly as fresh as they left the roaster.

We don't want to tell you how good this coffee is. We want you to try it yourself and see.

A 3-Day Test

To compare Folger's flavor, order a pound of this coffee today. Drink it tomorrow morning. Next morning drink the coffee you have been using. The third morning serve Folger's again. And remember, if you do not choose Folger's, your grocer will gladly refund the full purchase price. We pay him. That's fair, isn't it? 131

Thought For Today

Ye shall not therefore oppress one another; but thou shalt fear thy God; for I am the Lord your God.—Leviticus 25:17.

Oppression is but another name for irresponsible power, if history is to be trusted—William Pinkney.

Hindenburg's Fight

Paul Von Hindenburg, running for re-election as president of Germany at an age when most men have long been in retirement, is undoubtedly the sentimental favorite in the race—on this side of the Atlantic, at any rate.

But in order to understand the kind of race the grand old warrior has entered, it is necessary to realize that this German election is utterly unlike the ordinary American presidential election. Dark clouds hang over all horizons, and the thunder rumbles ominously. The road ahead has three forks, and two of the three lead to revolution and turmoil unspeakable.

The Communists—fourth strongest party in Germany in the last election and strongest of all in Berlin—hope to lead the nation down their road. The Nazis—German name for the Fascisti—headed by the flighty Hitler, have another road in mind. Von Hindenburg is all for the third one.

Until recently, the Reds and the Nazis had things very much their own way. The Nazis have cloaked, beneath a platform of irresponsible nationalism, the aims of a reactionary big-business clique, which hopes to use the party to crush the labor unions and the Social Democratic party and to give Germany a dictatorship of wealth.

Caught between two extreme forces, the ordinary citizen has at last begun to organize into a group known as "The Iron Front." This group draws its recruits from the leading republican organization, the Reichsbanner, from the labor unions and the Catholic Center party; and like its opponents it has organized into a semi-military outfit which already owns a fleet of autos, motorcycles and airplanes and which is prepared to match blow for blow with either Reds or Nazis if it comes to fighting.

The peculiar character of the approaching German election thus becomes apparent. A victory for either Reds or Nazis would probably mean civil war—which, in its turn, might mean any kind of catastrophe you care to imagine for the rest of Europe. Only if the "Iron Front" group behind Von Hindenburg triumphs can the rest of the world breathe freely.

It is probably the old soldier's last fight. But it is one in which the rest of the world will wish him well.

A Welcome Loss

A little over a year ago a young Philadelphia stock broker bet some friends $2000 that within 12 months he could dine with President Hoover, play golf with John D Rockefeller, either golf or motor with the Prince of Wales and play golf with Bobby Jones.

His year has expired, and according to current newspaper dispatches he succeeded in only the first of these four jobs—and that only by dint of scraping up an invitation to a banquet at which President Hoover was a guest. Unless he has concealed his triumph, then, he is out $2000.

One hesitates to rejoice at another man's loss, of course; but it is hard to keep from being glad that the young man lost out. The unmitigated gall which would be necessary to induce a man even to try to win that kind of a bet is a dismal thing to think about. Making a public pest out of one's self is hardly the best way to win public approval.

Leon Trotsky has lost his citizenship in the Soviet Republic. That's what comes of having his picture taken wearing a necktie!

Gene Tunney is campaigning for prohibition. Well, that's a four-syllable word.

An admiral say the United States and England ought to tell Japan where to get off. Maybe it would have been easier if we hadn't let them on.

NINETY-SIX years ago this very day there was a big meeting going on down at Washington-on-the-Brazos. In case you've forgotten what you learned in school, the gentlemen gathered at the meeting were engaged in writing and signing the Texas Declaration of Independence, in electing David G. Burnett as provisional president and Sam Houston as commander-in-chief of the army.

Today is observed as Texas Independence Day and upon this anniversary is comparison particularly interesting.

Back there at Old Washington, the early day Texans were facing deep problems and serious difficulties on March 2, 1836.

Today, throughout Texas, a lot of us present-day Texans think we're facing just about the worst harships and the deepest problems that were ever faced under the Lone Star.

Who had the hardest row to hoe, the oldtime heroes of Texas, or us?

JUDGING from what The Plainsman has been able to learn concerning those stirring days of Texas' battle for independence, Sam Houston, David Burnett and the rest of those brave men were having a considerably harder time than present day Texans are having now. It is The Plainsman's guess that any of the men of early day Texas, were they able to return to life today, would consider our present existence next to Heaven.

Those fellows were used to going through hardships that were hardships.

Hard times were hard times then, and there wasn't any doubt about it.

Somehow or another, it is easy to form a mind's picture of Houston and his comrades, looking down now upon the Texas for which they laid a strong foundation.

That picture, to The Plainsman at least, always portrays our early day heroes grinning at their posterity—or showing a slight trace of disdain at the way a lot of us have been crying over a slight or imagined hurt.

IT IS hard to feature the men who bled and died at the Alamo and at Goliad becoming fretful over our present economic condition. It's difficult—practically impossible—to picture men of that type crying over their hurts.

But it is an easy matter to picture them driving forward, overcoming all obstacles and preferring to die rather than to admit defeat.

It won't do us a bit of harm today to close our eyes in thought and picture the hardships of 1836—or for a long time after 1836 for that matter.

To do so should serve as a mental stimulant at a time when we sorely need one.

BELIEVE it or not, electrical hotbeds are now being used by florists, nurserymen and large truck gardeners, according to the current issue of The Country Gentleman.

And so successful is this new wrinkle of man-made aid to nature that the magazine predicts a wide-spread use of electrical hotbeds in the future.

A late spring or a late cold snap after an early appearance of warm weather has no threat to the fellow who uses the new hotbed, which is simple to install and costs little to operate.

Users on a big scale may connect a thermostat to their hotbeds and by setting the thermostat can assure an even heat regardless of the weather.

INSTALLATION of electrical hotbeds is simple, the magazine points out and, after they are set up are cheaper than the cheapest fertilizer from a warming standpoint.

A flexible cable, with about the same diameter of a leadpencil, is laid—wound back and forth the lenth of the hotbed, each strand about six inches apart from its neighbor.

After that, the topsoil is placed over it and the hootus is ready to work whenever the juice is turned on.

If that isn't going Ma Nature one better, what is?

Just in case there is somebody on the South Plains who will have to pay an income tax between now and March 16, here's a few "Income Tax Don'ts" as issued by Uncle Andy Mellon before he was sent away to London, where he can't do so much harm:

"Don't prepare your return without first studying the instructions on the form.

"Don't procrastinate. Early assembling of data permits a careful consideration of all tax problems.

"Don't destroy the memoranda from which your return was prepared.

"Don't omit explanations when such information is essential to an intelligent audit. Attach memoranda to your return."

Although Uncle Andy didn't say so, we presume that he also meant to add "Don't forget to pay on everything. We Republicans need the dough!"

Here's Why The Farmers Complain These Days; Survey By Bureau Of Agricultural Economics Tells Story Of 1931

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, March 3—Why doesn't the farmer stop complaining?

The following quotations, taken from the exhaustive monthly surveys of the agricultural situation made by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the Department of Agriculture, may throw some light on the question:

Dutcher

JANUARY, 1931—"Even among bad years, 1930 stands unique. The five per cent smaller crops of 1930 had a December value of 28 per cent less than the previous year."

FEBRUARY, 1931—"The annual inventory of livestock . . . reveals that the total number of animal units in the country is about the same as a year ago, but the total value of the livestock dropped from $5,887,964,000 to $4,366,447,000."

MARCH, 1931—"Prices of farm products, in general, are below the 1910-1914 level, and some products which represent the very backbone of our agriculture almost go begging for buyers."

Wheat Surplus Jumps

APRIL, 1931—"Farm stocks of wheat (for March) were estimated at 160,000,000 bushels, compared with 130,000,000 a year ago and an average of 125,000,000."

MAY, 1931—"Not the least significant part of the picture is the evidence of further decline in land values last year. This seems to have been quite general. . . . Most of the sales are by corporations and others who acquired ownership as a result of distressed conditions."

JUNE 1931—"Farmers sell at less than pre-war prices, but still pay about one-third more than the pre-war level for what they buy. Farm prices are at 86 compared with pre-war while the prices of things farmers buy are 131 compared with pre-war."

JULY, 1931—The abundant crop of winter wheat, selling now at the lowest prices in a generation, presents a striking example of the situation faced by agricultural producers in these times. . . . Wholesale beef prices were from 30 to 50 cents lower than a year ago, eggs a third lower and poultry down about a fourth."

AUGUST, 1931—"Milk production per cow has declined as a result of the poor dairy pastures which have been reported poorer than in any year for 20 years."

SEPTEMBER, 1931—"The general prospect for farm markets and prices is anything but reassuring. . . . Gross income (for the 1930-31 season) shrank 22 per cent under the previous year, being $9,300,000,000 as compared with $11,900,000,000."

Drought—and Low Prices

OCTOBER, 1931—"The central fact in the season now drawing to a close is that prices of farm products have suffered a further serious slump. . . . The far west and northwest have suffered severely from lack of rainfall and during the past month much of the south has had too much hot, dry weather."

NOVEMBER, 1931—"A turn in the markets has provided a small but helpful development . . . but has not yet changed essentially what is an extremely hard situation for farmers. Prices of many leading farm products are still below cost of production. Farmers everywhere are hard pressed this fall."

DECEMBER, 1931—"At the close of last year, with its drought and low prices, farmers had the feeling that depression had about done its worst to them. But this year has been worse. The general picture . . . is reflected in these indexes. Wholesale price level of all commodities, pre-war—or about 100, industrial wage level 200, farm taxes over 250, farm wages 120, prices of things bought by farmers 135, prices received by farmers for products 70."

More Price Drops

JANUARY, 1932—"The average prices of farm products dropped one-half from their already low point reached two years ago. On top of the drought and low incomes of 1930, the past year came like a capsheaf crowning a decade of agricultural depression."

FEBRUARY, 1932—"The total value of livestock (despite increase in numbers) dropped from $4,450,000,000 a year ago to $3,196,000,000."

EYESTRAIN CAUSES HEADACHE

NEARLY the first thing any physician thinks of when a patient complains of chronic headaches is eyestrain.

The typical eyestrain headache is likely to be an evening headache. In the morning, after a night of resting the eyes, the patient feels fresh and the head clear. Then, as the day goes on, with attention to close detail, the eyes, making a thousand movements and adjustments, the bombardment of the sensorium results in a protest of pain, and by evening the head is throbbing, the eyes dull and bleary.

Dr. Clendening

Several years ago Dr. Gould, a prominent oculist of his day, published a series of books called "Biographical Clinics." These took up the ill health of prominent people such as Carlyle and Huxley, and sought to show that in all cases their complaints were caused by eyestrain. But the theory is not entirely convincing. It is more probable, for instance, that Carlyle's dyspepsia was due to an ulcer of the stomach.

I never have seen a true case of migraine cured by glasses.

There are a great many people with unstable nervous systems who ascribe their headaches to eyestrain. In these people the headache is due to the neurosis and not to the use of the eyes. I was glad to see a recent article in a medical journal, called "Ocular Neuroses, An Important Cause of So-Called Eyestrain."

For instance, a teacher working for a Ph. D. degree said that he had strained his eyes reading a difficult text and had not been able to use them for some time. Had constant headaches. He became much depressed and tried to save his eyes as much as possible. He had seen many oculists and had many prescriptions for glasses. Examination showed a moderate astigmatism for which the patient was wearing the correct glasses. There was no muscular anomaly. There was no true disease of the eye.

The patient was told that he was suffering from a neurosis. That he was not going blind, and that his work was not damaging his eyes. That he should go on with his work and he would gradually get better. He said, "Why has no one ever explained this to me before? If I know that I am not damaging my eyes I can stand any amount of pain and discomfort."

Under this encouragement his headaches and eyestrain left him.

No eye is perfect. As the author of this article says, "We can always find something wrong in every case, but the question is, does the particular abnormality in this case account for the patient's trouble?"

The movies used to be blamed for these eyestrain headaches. But careful studies have shown that "the flicker of the silver sheet seems to cause less effort than reading, and only when some other factor is present does it cause headache.

The wedding ring should be worn above the diamond engagement ring say the fashion arbiters. That's so it can be taken off without disturbing the diamond.

Any man who can solve the depression can be president, says an economist. But why would a man like that want to be just president?

PASTE IN VOGUE

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—New York's recent epidemic of gem robberies cost various society folk several million dollars in rare jewels. With the result that "paste" replicas of famous stones are now seen at the most exclusive affairs. Creators of "paste" imitations have been flooded with rush orders and strong boxes are hiding invaluable collections.

RARITY BREEDS SAFETY

However, there are four or five rare jewels which owners and police have always considered relatively safe because they are so unusual and startling in arrangement as to be almost worthless to a thief. In other words, they could be identified immediately almost anywhere in the world, and tampering would not hide this identity.

There are, for instance, the diamond tiara of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and those much-publicized sapphires of Peggy Hopkins Joyce and the emerald collection of Mrs. George Baker, of the multi-millionaire banking family.

Mrs. Napoleon Bonaparte possesses the Bonaparte family emeralds, but rarely does she wear them. A paste substitute gives the society-going public an idea of what the real thing must be. The originals are rarely seen, and then behind the barred doors of a vault.

PROFITS ARE SMALL

Detectives attached to the gem expert division are inclined to believe that the various Raffles-like operators will realize but little from the millions in baubles they have stolen from the homes of the rich.

The legitimate gem trade has been nothing to write home about for some time. And the "fences" are said to be taking few chances on getting rid of costly loot. Even when recut, remounted and otherwise the matter of sale at good prices is extremely conjectural. "Fences," though conducting the shadiest sort of business, have not any too much money to tie up in unsalable gems.

The chief market of the "fence," one hears, is the racketeer, gangster and rum-runner. These underworld gentlemen have been adorning their "sweeties" and "molls" with expensive jewels and clothing. The "girl friends" of the "mob" are, naturally, being watched for any undue display of glittering evidence.

But even before thrift came generally upon the land, values of stolen gems—however valuable—had dropped off. One police report revealed that stones valued at some $15,000 had been stolen. Checking their disposal, following the arrest of two men, it was found that the thief had received a mere $1000 from a "fence." This was a good day's work for the "fence" since two of the stolen pieces had brought him $2000. But the entire lot brought less than half the actual value.

EX-ROYAL JEWELS

Among New York's most cherished baubles are, beside the Bonaparte emeralds, the historic black diamond earrings in the possession of Mrs. Fred Whitney, formerly owned by Queen Amelie of Portugal. Next to the Hope diamond, these gems are credited with grimmest of powers. Ill came to many a queen who possessed them, and the queen rid herself of them at a time when King Manuel was reported playing about with the glamorous Gaby de Lys.

Detectives will tell you that gem thieves leave pearls severely alone. "Bad luck" is said to attach to them and, also, they're not so easy to get rid of.

The TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN PICTURES by JOE KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

It wasn't very long until wee Duncy said, "That ends the thrill of Frozen Isle. The place is gone. It's disappeared from sight. I'm sorry for the snowman. Gee, he certainly seemed nice to me. We all met him as strangers, yet he treated us all right."

"Oh, well, it does no good to weep," said Scouty. "I suggest we keep our minds on what we're doing. Wonder where we're going now? This umbrella sails real slick, but I would like to land there quick. Wherever we wind up, I feel we'll get along somehow."

So, on they sailed beneath a sky that was a real treat to the eye. Said Coppy, "I can't see one cloud. It's clear as it can be." "Oh, see the big birds overhead," another Tiny shortly said. "I'd hate to have one of them dive and swoop right down on me."

Just then they heard a wailing sound and when the Tinies looked around a cheery voice yelled out to them, "You're traveling rather slow. I'll send a rather stiff breeze past and that will set you traveling fast." "Well, goodness me," cried Windy. "It's our good friend, Old Man Blow."

For quite a time they liked the ride at rapid pace. Then Coppy cried, "How can we get down to the ground. We've had enough of this." "I'll fix that," Old Man Blow replied. Down through the air you'll slowly slide. I hope that when you reach some place 'twill be a land of bliss."

Right down they went. Said Scouty, "Oh, there is a winding stream below. When Coppy asked that we go down, I think that he was rash. But, anyhow, we're all safe, yet, though we all may get soaking wet." And then they landed in the stream and made a funny splash.

(The Tinies get a real scare in the next story.)

Nervous, Functional Disturbances

San Antonio, Texas — "For a long time I suffered with headache and was tired all the time, had functional disturbances, was thin, and had no appetite. I was nervous all the time," said Miss Audrey Longoria of 2934 W. Commerce. "A friend advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. LINDBERGH KIDNAPING RECALLS OTHER PLOTS; NEW LAW PUSHED

ABDUCTION IS A CLIMAX TO LONG WAVE

TWO THOUSAND TAKEN IN RANSOM PLOTS IN TWO YEARS

CHICAGO, Mar. 2. (AP)—The kidnaping of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., came as a climax to what anti-crime crusaders here said was a two-year wave of kidnaping in which 2000 or more persons were abducted for ransom in the United States.

During those years, authorities said, kidnaping joined robbery, liquor, vice and drug traffic as a "big money crime." Kidnaping syndicates tortured or terrorized victims into paying millions of dollars ransom, they said.

"There probably were 400 kidnapings in Illinois during 1930 and '31," said Alexander Jamie, chief investigator of the "Secret Six" here. "Forty-nine victims reported officially paid ransom, many others were released without ransom and several hundred made no official reports."

In a desperate fight to stem the wave, midwest crime fighters have banded together to obtain federal legislation which would deter abductions by making transportation of a kidnaped person from one state to another a capital crime.

Although organized kidnapings for ransom are a comparatively recent outgrowth, the authorities recalled that the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby tops a long list of abductions of the last few decades.

ROSS CASE IS NOW SECOND IN INTEREST

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 2. (AP)—The second most celebrated American kidnaping is the most that can be said today for the Charley Ross case, which occupied the headlines of 60 years ago.

Charley was a flaxen-haired four-year-old playing in front of his home in Germantown July 1, 1874, when he climbed into a wagon of two men who drove by and never was heard from again.

Walter Ross, jr., his brother, who was six, was playing with Charley at the time. The two strangers offered them candy and firecrackers and both lads went along.

A few blocks away the men put Walter down gave him a quarter and told him to go into a candy store and spend it. When Walter came out the wagon and his brother were gone.

No authentic news ever was obtained of the missing boy. Twenty letters demanding ransom were received subsequently from different parts of the country. The family was willing to pay but the writers never appeared.

Finally a man named William Mosher was shot and killed during an attempted burglary on Long Island. Walter Ross identified the body as that of one of the kidnapers. Joseph Douglass, shot at the same time admitted he helped Mosher in the kidnaping but died a few hours later without disclosing what had happened to Charley Ross.

RECALL PLOT AGAINST MORROW'S DAUGHTER

NEW YORK, Mar. 2. (AP)—The kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby called a plot in 1926 to seize Miss Constance Morrow, youngest daughter of the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow and sister of Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Letters demanding a huge ransom under threats of kidnaping and murder were sent to her, her father and other relatives. Special guards were put to watch over her at Milton Academy Dedham, Mass., thwarted the plot. She was 15 years old at the time. The author of the letters was traced to Boston and postal inspectors worked several months on the case but it was never solved.

TEXAS HOLIDAY

celebration, headed by Cullen F. Thomas of Dallas, sponsored a general Independence day gathering in Austin to create favor for a constitutional amendment to be submitted to the voters next November, which, if adopted, would empower the Texas legislature to appropriate funds for use in holding a suitable exposition in 1936.

The committee will report its plans and make recommendations to the 43rd Texas legislature which meets next January. The question of a site for the exposition, which is hoped to make of international scope, threatened to be a trouble some one. Dallas, Houston, San Antonio, Austin and other localities with a historical claim to recognition were seeking to be the seat of the big commemoration festivities.

BANKS AND SCHOOLS OBSERVE OCCASION

Bankers and public school students today were apparently the only local observers of Texas Independence Day which marks the signing of the declaration of Texas independence 96 years ago at Washington-On-The-Brazos.

Throughout this week public school students are writing themes on making a special study of Texas independence and tomorrow afternoon high school students will meet in convocation to mark the event, Superintendent M. H. Duncan declared. The Thursday assembly at the high will be in charge of the school's history department, he said.

Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Texas Tech, said his charges were not observing today's anniversary but would have a general convocation on April 21, San Jacinto Day, which is the biggest day of Texas history.

The three Lubbock banks were closed throughout today in observance of the occasion.

HORN LAUDS FATHERS OF TEXAS IN SPEECH

Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Texas Technological college, delivered an address on early day Texas and Texas independence at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Lubbock Rotary club at noon today.

Doctor Horn eulogized the forefathers of Texas for the orderly manner in which they went about their declaration and moved his listeners to a greater appreciation of their state's history.

The meeting was held at Hotel Lubbock with Vice-President Homer D. Grant presiding in the absence of President N. L. Peters. Appointment of R. C. Smith as club treasurer was announced. J. A. Raley, Jr., was in charge of the program.

RANSOM DEMANDED FOR YOUNG LINDY; HARM THREATENED UNLESS IT IS PAID

It was believed she would come here during the day.

In the early hours of this morning a truck driver, arriving at Philadelphia, reported he had seen a blanket-wrapped bundle "that looked like a baby doll" lying in a ditch beside the roadway a mile and a half from the Lindbergh place. State police, who immediately searched the entire area, reported they were unable to find any such bundle.

Police had not intended to reveal their discovery that one of the kidnapers was a woman, but after the information had been inadvertently revealed, they elaborated somewhat. They said the clear mark of a woman's shoe had been distinguished among the formless prints of the man, or men's, stockinged feet.

Major Charles Schoeffel of the state police said the tracks of the kidnapers started from the west side of the Lindbergh home and were traced a distance of two miles.

There were several crossroads, he said, where a car might have picked them up but he would not say if tracks of a car that might have been used had been found. All roads were so cut up by the visiting automobiles after the alarm was spread that it was impossible to distinguish tire marks.

The police flashed the alarm of the kidnaping over their statewide automatic printer. Princeton police reported that a few hours before the kidnaping took place, two men in a dark sedan stopped a highway worker and inquired directions to the Lindbergh home.

The kidnaping was discovered at 10 p. m. The baby's nurse, Betty Gow, had put him to bed at 7:30. When she returned to the nursery there was only a heap of disordered blankets in the crib. She rushed screaming down stairs to the dining room and told the colonel and his wife, eating a late dinner, what had happened.

Col. Lindbergh immediately telephoned the state police and the news of the kidnaping was broadcast to police in New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania.

The first newspaper man to reach the Lindbergh residence was an Associated Press reporter.

such a victim."

He expressed belief the child soon will be returned, pointing out that the resources of the entire nation can readily be devoted to the case.

ENORMOUS FORTUNE AVAILABLE TO GANG

NEW YORK, March 2. (AP)—The fortune on which the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby apparently seek to lay hands constitutes one of the largest fortunes in New Jersey.

Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh are believed in aviation circles here to be worth between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 while the fortune which the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow, a former Morgan partner, left to Mrs. Lindbergh's mother had been popularly estimated at nearly $19,000,000.

Fortune Smiled

Col. Lindbergh was a poor boy when he hopped off in a borrowed plane for Paris in a flight that made him the world's foremost birdman. Fortune smiled.

He got the $25,000 Orteig prize for the flight and the St. Louis group which backed his venture gave him the "Spirit of St. Louis" plane in recognition of his success. He received an undisclosed sum from Daniel Guggenheim for making a tour of the United States after his return, later becoming technical adviser to Pan-American Airways and T. A. T. as well as serving in an advisory capacity for the airways division of the department of commerce. His salaries from the two aviation concerns are reported to total $50,000 yearly.

Large sums came to him from newspaper syndication and from a book he wrote. The first check he received for the book was $100,000, aviation circles said, and royalties are still coming in.

SCENE OF CRIME IS EERIE AND ISOLATED

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 2. (AP)—No Criminal would ask a more eery and isolated spot for a crime and getaway than the Sourland hill section in which the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped last night.

Lindbergh estate—a $50,000 home—is almost completely cut off from the outside world. A narrow road, steep, rocky and muddy, winds up from the farm country below and it was along this that the kidnapers fled.

Has Sour Smell

Sourland mountain, the eminence is called. When the house was being built last year, a visitor asked a watchman why it was named that. The watchman reached down, grabbed a handful of soil and placed it under the visitor's nose. It had a sour smell.

In the front yard of the Lindberghs' 550-acre tract is a private landing field while behind the house are dense woods. The house is 70 feet long and its entire length is fronted by a terrace, from which Mrs. Lindbergh can see the flying colonel as he swoops from the sky after a trip.

The nursery from which the golden-curled child was snatched is on the second floor, with its windows looking out on the road. The back door of the mansion, which suggests the entrance to such colonial taverns as adorn Christmas cards, opens into a paved parking space.

Col. Lindbergh and his wife chose their home site from the sky soon after the marriage. It is too high for fogs and faces the busiest air line in the world, between Newark and Camden. In the distance beacons of two airlines flash at night.

DAILY MARKETS

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP)—Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 1 to 4 points on trade buying and covering. Offerings were comparatively light. May sold at 6.99.

Selling of yesterday and Monday seemed to have improved the market's technical position. Prices held steady after the call with May advancing to 7.03 and October to 7.40, or about 5 to 7 points above yesterday's closing quotations.

Liverpool cables reported an inactive market there with trade calling taking scattered liquidation, but said there was a better business in cotton cloths with freer buying for the British home trade in Manchester.

The market worked up to 7.05 for May and 7.42 for October or 7 to 9 points net higher later in the morning but met a little more cotton on the bulge and prices at midday showed reactions of 3 or 4 points.

General business was comparatively quiet with sufficient trade buying or covering to give the market a fairly steady undertone. According to the New York cotton exchange service sales of fertilizer tags in seven cotton growing states from Dec. 1 to Feb. 29 represented only 295,000 tons compared with 519,000 last year.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, March 2 (AP)—The cotton market today opened quiet but steady. Liverpool cables were about as due but the market here opened 2 to 5 points up. Prices improved a little further after the start, owing to some price fixing by the mills and a moderate trade demand. May advanced to 7.02, July to 7.18 and Oct. to 7.36, 4 to 5 points above yesterday's close. Near the end of the first hour the market was very steady and at the highs.

PLANS TO OFFER REWARD ABANDONED

TRENTON, N. J., March 2 (AP)—Governor A. Harry Moore and Republican legislative leaders, after conferring by telephone with Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, today abandoned plans to offer a reward for apprehension of the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby.

Colonel Lindbergh asked officials that such action be deferred for the time being while initial efforts to capture the abductors were being made.

All plans for issuance of a proclamation and legislative action to increase the proposed reward from $10,000 to $25,000 were held in abeyance.

NILES, O., March 2 (AP)—James DeJute, jr., 11, son of a prominent contractor here, was kidnaped early today while on his way to school, police reported.

The boy was driven off by two men in a small brown coupe. Anna May Mellina, 12, of Ashtabula, cousin of the boy, told police.

James fought off the kidnapers once when they grabbed him, Anna May told police. They clutched him again after he broke away and drove off but did not attempt to molest her, she said.

CRIME LIKELY TO EXPEDITE LAW ACTION

FEDERAL MEASURE TO CURB NATION-WIDE RACKED TALKED

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP)—The kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby likely will prove the final element needed to drive the might of federal law against terrorist extortioners now apparently organized in a nation-wide kidnap "racket."

A handful of veteran congressmen only last week were stirred to a pitch of determined indignation after hearing a terrible tale of kidnaping and torture for ransom, operated wholesale in the midwest by an alleged ring working in many cities, spiriting victims from city to city to place the barrier of state lines between the criminals and the law.

FAVORABLE REPORT

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2. (AP)—Fired by the news of the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby, the house post office committee today voted a favorable report of the bill for federal prosecution of those sending kidnaping threats and taunts through the mail.

Promise Electric Chair

Hardened to moving pleas, slow to encroach on jurisdiction of the states, these men—members of the house judiciary committee—are out for a federal law with "teeth" enough to promise the electric chair to the kidnaper it catches. Such a bill is now before them, introduced by Representative Cochran of Missouri.

"It is war!" pronounced Chairman Sumners after Robert I. Randolph, head of Chicago's famous "Secret Six" anti-gangster unit, and a group including both Chicago and St. Louis professional and volunteer crime fighters, had told their story.

It was a stolid recital, delivered in clipped, unemotional sentences, of instance upon instance of skillful, nerve-breaking torture of children, mothers, businessmen, by criminal hands clever enough to baffle and stall the most determined efforts of authorities to apprehend them.

Objection Raised

There have been two barriers to enactment of a federal anti-kidnaping law: Economy and states' rights. Attorney General Mitchell raised the first objection, holding adequate enforcement of it impossible on the present pinched budget. The second so far has been a cause of hesitation in congress.

Even Chairman Sumners and others favorable to the law do not want the states to "leave it to Uncle Sam." But a bill providing the death penalty for abduction across the state lines is virtually certain to be recommended by them.

SUMNERS IS NOT TO BE "PANICKED"

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP)—While saying "nothing can be done now to bring the Lindbergh kidnaping case under federal jurisdiction," Chairman Sumners of the house judiciary committee planned today to ask permission for the committee to sit during the afternoon session of the house to consider the Cochran bill for a federal curb on "kidnap racketeers."

Sumners said he was not going to be "panicked" because of the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby.

Favors Death Penalty

He already had expressed himself in strong terms as favoring the death penalty for the crime of kidnaping and had scheduled for early action the measure which would place abductors under interstate commerce control, similar to that of the "white slave" traffic.

Strongly impressed by the testimony presented by Chicago's Secret Six and the Vigilantes of St. Louis, Sumners, a Texas Democrat favoring a state's rights, had conceded a basis in equity for federal assistance to local authorities in catching kidnapers crossing state lines.

While expressing his willingness to further repeal aid to kidnaping control, Sumners laid crimes such as the Lindbergh kidnaping directly at the door of the local communities.

GRAVES TRIAL

hurt one pretty bad."

The testimony of Sheriff W. F. Cato of Post, who told of the arrest of Graves and the guns found in his car, was then read into the record.

G. A. Gamble testified concerning shell found at the scene of the shooting.

Mrs. Gamble followed her husband and told of Smith's statement in the sanitarium room in which he told Tom Simpson that Graves had said "Now I've got you and when I get Tom Simpson, I'll be through with you two".

Mrs. J. M. Harris testified to having heard the same statement.

At this juncture the state rested.

O L. Bates, one of the guests at the dance who was wounded by one of Graves' bullets testified first for the defense. He said Graves was being rushed by Smith and Averett when he opened fire but admitted on cross-examination that Smith didn't appear to be "hard" and that he saw neither man attempt to strike Graves before he opened fire.

Mrs. Graves Testifies

Mrs. Graves testified that she and the defendant had been married eight years and had three children. The majority of her testimony centered around a hunt on which Graves, his brother and Smith went several days prior to the shooting. She said she noticed nothing unusual between the two men at that time and that they appeared to be friendly. She told of one occasion when Mrs. Smith came to their home and called for Alvis, saying that Horace wanted to see him at a dance. She said Alvis was gone only about ten minutes. She said that the Smiths visited in their home a few minutes on the night of the shooting and that Horace appeared to be "mad".

The testimony of Jack Strickland, farmer near Smyer who was with Graves and Smith on the hunt, regarding attitude of the two men on the hunt was read into the record.

Terrell St. Clair testified to having employed Graves in his tailor shop several months prior to the shooting and of having seen Mrs. Smith visit him there on numerous occasions.

Threat Claimed

J. A. Hood, father of Mrs. Graves, recalled having heard Smith make a threat against Graves several weeks before the killing when Mrs. Smith had gotten into a car with the defendant at a filling station on Nineteenth street. Mr. Hood said he had warned Graves of likely trouble. He said Mrs. Smith had "bothered" Alvis quite a bit and recalled that when he was working in a cotton patch near the city that "she wouldn't hardly let him stay in the patch until quittin' time".

Ben Maxey, testifying to visits and telephone calls Mrs. Smith made to his shine parlor and the tailor shop belonging to St. Clair, was the last witness of the morning. He said Mrs. Smith either phoned or called to see Graves several times a day.

CHINESE RETREAT

the Chinese by six o'clock night. Huge fires roared in the battered city, demolishing whatever was left. The Chinese rear guard kept up a running fire with the Japanese as the army withdrew.

Soldiers and civilians alike jammed the borders of the International Settlement along Soochow creek in the first crush of the retreat but the mass of humanity soon dwindled and disappeared westward.

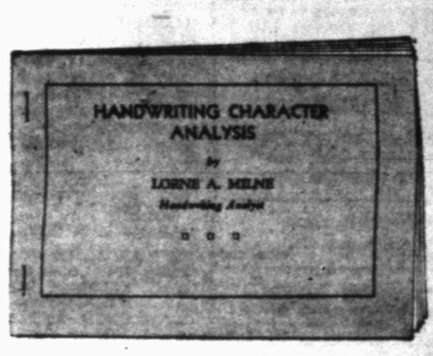

Reports that Chinese troops were looting and burning as they retreated were regarded here as without foundation.

Wesley Hymns Are To Be Eliminated

NEW YORK, March 2. (AP)—Many of the feeling hymns written by the Wesley brothers, John and Charles, will be deleted from the hymnal and psalter of the Methodist Episcopal churches North and South because of opposition by the younger generation of church-goers, the Rev. Dr. John W. Langdale, secretary of the commission on revision, said Monday.

Forty-four of 100 songs from the pen of Rev. Charles Wesley tentatively are slated for omission, he told a meeting of New York ministers, and six of 19 composed by John Wesley, father of Methodism, are listed to go. The committee will meet March 8 in Cincinnati to make a final decision.

Dr. Langdale said "imagery of blood" and promise of "everlasting bliss" in many of the hymns had become offensive to the youth of the church.

Two New Hosiery Numbers Under Our Own Label

On our last trip to New York we uncovered the source of supply that famous Fifth Avenue stores use for many of their finest hosiery numbers. These stores offer this hosiery under their own brands. We, too, will do the same, and now for the first time present our own new label—

"CLATIM HOSIERY"

This season we feature two unusual values in this new make hose—one a semi-sheer fine all-silk number—the other a correct mesh style—

SALARY REDUCTIONS RECEIVED LAST YEAR BY ELECTIVE OFFICIALS UNDER THE REDUCED FEES AND COMMISSIONS

Salary reductions averaging 23.2 per cent were received in 1931 by the seven major elective officials of Lubbock county, as a result of reduced fees and commissions, compulsory reports completed Tuesday showed. The average salary slash for all elective officers, however, was 45.52 per cent.

Sheriff Wade Hardy was the only official to receive the maximum of $5,500 allowed under the fee system. Excess fees totaling $3,180.67 were returned to the county.

Each elective officer who receives fees, beginning with last year, is required to make a sworn statement by March 1 of all fees and salary received the previous year and of all expenses. Figures for 1930 are not available, the reports now on file being the first made here, but in comparison with the maximum salary allowed by legislation the percentage reduction listed above are secured.

The office of County Collector A. J. Clark returned the most money to the county in excess fees, $1,835.33, although he received nearly $900 less than the maximum allowed. Except for expenses amounting to $3,171.52, exclusive of deputy's salaries, the sheriff's department would have returned the most in excess fees. These additional expenditures listed on Sheriff Hardy's report include telegraph, traveling, automobile, detective work in liquor cases, gas and oil, cook for the jail and miscellaneous approved expenses. The sheriff's office repaid $43.66 to the county.

A. B. Ellis, tax assessor, repaid $608.90 to the county and County Clerk Amos Howard repaid $692.78. For an official to receive the maximum salary under the fee system, he must return about $4,500 to the county, less office expenditures, County Auditor J. Y. Boyd said.

Justices of the peace and constables are permitted maximum salaries of $4,750, but the reports showed they ranged as low as $89.30 in one instance. Justice H. K. Porter of place 1, precinct 1, received the largest salary in 1931 of the precinct officials. His report showed he received $1,330.40 in fees.

County Commissioners Claude A. Burrus, J. T. Pinkston, W. L. Brashear and L. C. (Claude) Denton each received salaries of $2,000, but they were not required to make reports as they received no fees.

Total fees in the county in 1931 amounted to $54,164.54. Elective officials received $40,867.47 including salaries to commissioners. Deputies and assistants were paid $22,352.39, the reports showed.

Reports of major county office holders, each entitled to $5,500 annually if the office returns warrant it, included this information:

District Clerk Charles B. Metcalfe: Total fees, $3,781.30; ex-officio salary, $1,200; deputy hire and premium on surety bonds, $1,887; total retained, $3,094.30.

Tax Collector A. J. Clark: Total commissions, $12,325.53; deputy hire and premiums on surety bonds, $5,877.76; retained, $4,611.94; paid back, $1,835.33.

Sheriff Wade Hardy: Total fees, $12,785.18; ex officio salary, $1,000; deputy hire and surety bonds premiums, $5,070; other expenses, $3,171.52; total retained, $5,500; paid to county $43.66.

Tax Assessor A. B. Ellis: Total commissions, $6,734.36; deputy hire and surety bonds premiums, $1,922.50; retained, $4,202.97; paid to county, $608.90.

County Clerk Amos Howard: Total fees, $10,679.40; ex officio salary, $1,000; deputy hire and surety premiums, $5,755.70; retained, $5,230.92; paid back to county, $692.78.

County Attorney Vaughn E. Wilson: Total fees, $2,193.89; ex officio salary, $900; surety bond, $10, total retained, $3,083.89.

County Judge E. L. Pitts: Total fees, $1,419.62; ex officio salary, $3,255; deputy hire and surety bond, $859.94; retained, $3,814.68.

Reports of other officials, each entitled to maximum salaries of $4,750, included this information:

Constable T. W. Covington of Precinct No. 2: Total fees, $89.30.

Justice E. H. Ward of No. 2: Total fees, $180.50.

Justice W. R. Buchanan of No. 3: Total fees $170.46.

Justice W. S. Clark of No. 1, place 2: Total fees, $579.10.

Justice H. K. Porter of No. 1 place 1: Total fees, $1,330.40.

TEXAS EXES TO ATTEND DINNER

Nearly a quarter-thousand former students of the University of Texas are expected at a dinner meeting of Texas Exes of the South Plains at 7 o'clock this Texas Independence day evening at the Hilton hotel.

A faked radio broadcast, in which "The Truth about the Texas Declaration of Independence" will be told, is one of the outstanding features of the program, said Edgar Shelton, program chairman. J. I. Kilpatrick is president.

"March 2 and Texas" will be the subject treated by Dr. W. C. Holden of Tech; Mrs. William Dingus will discuss "What the Ex-Student Association Should Mean to Us," and James H. Goodman will speak on "University Athletics." The university building program will be discussed by Charles Reynolds. Members of the attendance committee are A. B. Davis, chairman, Mrs. C. F. Elkins and Miss Doris Maurine Baugh.

Wires Today As Brought Over Associated Press

(By The Associated Press)

No Prize Babies

FORT OGLETHORPE, Ga.—There were no prize "army" babies born in 1931; they were all good. That's the way the bachelor judges decided the baby show here yesterday. Each contesting baby scored 89.6 per cent. The bachelors found most of the infants had some "vice" or other—meaning crib-biting, thumb sucking and such.

Begins At Home

NEW YORK.—Charity begins at home and the fashionable St. Bartholomew's church therefore has reduced by ten per cent the salaries of its entire personnel of about 150, including that of the Rev. Dr. Robert Norwood, rector.

Picket Customers

DETROIT.—In Detroit a petroiman stands in front of every one of the 981 known speakeasies. The idea is to question every one who would enter. This form of "picketing" has reduced the number of known speakeasies from 1,561 listed last August. Half a dozen cabarets already have closed from declining business, customers declining to run the gauntlet of police questioning.

War Or No War

SHANGHAI: Their countrymen, enrolled in battle, scroll death with booming guns that lend erratic tempo to blaring dance hall strains, but that doesn't mean a thing to pretty Japanese and Chinese girls engaged as dancing partners at St. George's cabaret. The girls amiably rub elbows as they circle the floor. To eat, they must work. War mustn't interfere.

Air-Minded Horse

MIAMI BEACH—Pegasus had nothing on Phantom, the air-minded horse owned by Miss Betty Rand, of Houston. Phantom traveled from Paris to London by plane a couple of years ago and since then has taken numerous air trips. Now they're fixing up a ship to take him from New York to Havana for the races there.

No Longer Funny

TENINO, Wash.—That old one about "don't take any wooden money" isn't funny here where wooden money is welcome indeed.

When the bank closed, some medium of exchange was needed, so the chamber of commerce issued "money" printed on veneer slips in denominations of 25 and 50 cents and $1. Everyone is glad to get it.

Waits For Spring

CARROLL, Ia.—When the frost is out of the ground in about six weeks there will be more money in circulation.

A farmer, seeking a bank loan, said he could repay it when the ground softens enough for him to dig up his money jar.

Midnight, Big Black Unconquered Bronc, To Be Ridden At Stock Show

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

Midnight, the champion of buckers who will head the string of outlaw horses at the world championship Rodeo of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show at Fort Worth, opening Friday night, March 4. This picture shows the big black demon "spilling" a cowboy.

FORT WORTH, Mar. 4.—Unconquered by all who have tried to ride him under Rodeo contests rules, Midnight, the big black bronc that is as black as his name sounds, and 114 other outlaw buckers will come from the chutes during the world championship Rodeo, one of the main entertainment events of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show which will be held March 5 to 13. The first Rodeo, consisting of nine events and three horse show events, will be staged on Friday night, March 4.

Midnight's name will be drawn along with the other buckers. He has never failed to disqualify a bronc riding champion and he has come from the chutes at several big rodeos in recent years. His owners believe that as long as he stays in his present condition he cannot be ridden. They admit, however, that there is a chance for him to meet his match should he show the least signs of letting up in his pitching.

New Horses On String

Several new horses, never seen in the south, also will be in this year's string.

In the Southwestern Exposition corrals are 75 Brahma steers for steer riding contests, 60 bulldogging steers and 60 calves that will be used for calf roping events.

Nineteen rodeos and horse shows will be given during the Fat Stock Show. Reservations for seats are now being taken by mail, telephone and telegraph for any of these performances.

Indications are that 150 or more cowboys and cowgirls will compete in the rodeo representing champions of other rodeos who will be here to compete for the much desired titles of world champions.

All A Mistake

PORTAGE, Wis.—Just because Fred Turner, 74, took Mrs. Hattie Thomas, 71, as far as the court house is no sign he intended to get married. That was his plea in response to her breach of promise action, and the court agreed with him. Mrs. Thomas wanted $8,000 damages.

Stunt Didn't Work

MILWAUKEE—Peter Schaller's stunt for keeping out of court didn't work. Held as a disorderly person, he ripped up all his clothes in his cell and suggested to officers that he was in no fit shape to go to court. The police put an officer's uniform on him and later the court decided to hold him for observation.

ENGINEERS HEAR DALLAS SPEAKER

A consulting engineer, A. P. Rollins of Dallas, told members of the Texas Technological college engineering society and their guests last night that "engineering is in its infancy." Rollins was the principal speaker at the sixth annual dinner of the society at the Hilton hotel. He dealt chiefly in advice to young engineers.

Prof. H. F. Godeke, mechanical engineering department head, was toastmaster. Other speakers included: Dr. P. W. Horn, W. S. Ruffner, Carl McAdams, Bernard Dean, Roy C. Davis, J. M. Dyer, Lou Edwards, and Basil Hill. Class representatives were John Crawford, Margaret Robertson, James Loughridge, and Hill Garrison. Frank Maddox, president of the society, and Dean O. V. Adams also were speakers.

Musical numbers were a violin duet by Evelyn Jackson and her sister, Mrs. N. W. Beaureaux of Big Spring, accompanied by Sue Brown; and an instrumental duet by Phillip Sterrett and Lucille Heggen. Jack Casteel's orchestra played during the dinner. Approximately 175 people, including 26 guests, attended the banquet.

How to Relieve Headaches In Three Minutes

When you have one of those violent, nerve-racking headaches, from inorganic causes, you can get soothing relief in three minutes with "B. C." a reliable, pleasant-to-take remedy. "B. C." is prepared by a registered pharmacist, compounded on a different principle from most relief-giving agencies in that it contains several ingredients, so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do in so short a time. "B. C." should also be used for the relief of muscular aches and pains, common colds and neuralgia; for reducing fever and quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit forming drugs. Get "B. C." in 10c and 25c packages, wherever drugs are sold. (adv.)

ENGLISHMEN TOSS GOLD MASTERPIECES INTO MELTING POT AS SACRIFICES ON THE ALTAR OF PATRIOTISM, PROFIT

LONDON, Mar. 2. (AP)—Thousands of Englishmen today were tossing Goldsmith's masterpieces of centuries past into the melting pot as sacrifices on the altar of patriotism and profit.

There was no estimate as to the amount of gold that has come out of ancestral jewel boxes, but one authority estimated that Englishmen owned a grand total of 1,000,000,000 Lbs. of gold in all forms including gold sovereings.

To Increase Supply

Sellers of the yellow metal have been led to convert it to ordinary currency because of the opportunity to increase their country's gold supply, and thus protect the pound sterling abroad and because of the profit involved.

The price of the gold sovereign, that is an English pound at par of $4.83, is 27 shillings. A pound sterling with England off the gold standard is worth about $3.44. There are twenty shillings in a pound. Therefore the seller of gold realizes a profit of 7 shillings on enough gold to make a sovereign.

The whole situation, much like that in France six years ago when the franc was stabilized, was created when England went off the gold standard and the price of gold mounted.

Many owners of ancient pieces, wrought by goldsmiths years ago and in many lands, including India, have turned them over to gold dealers. Many priceless works of art have gone to the melting pot in spite of all conscientious dealers could do to stop it.

The whole country appears to have been seized with the selling "fever."
