BRITISH OFFER U. S. COMPROMISE

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Ambassador George Harvey, it is learned from authoritative quarters, has received a note from the British government regarding the case of the American consulate at Newcastle, England which was closed last summer. The note states that Great Britain is ready to compromise by withdrawing charges against the consulate officials if the United States will reopen the consulate and replace Vice Consul Brooks with another official. The British government charged the American consulate with discriminating against British shipping.

It is understood that the note suggested that Great Britain and the United States reach an agreement regarding the scope permitted American consular officials in "drumming up" trade for the United States. The question thus assumes a much broader aspect than the Newcastle consulate issue.

OKLAHOMA RATE HEARING OPENS

(By Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 1.—The Oklahoma Corporation Commission contends that the interstate freight rates for Oklahoma are higher than for the surrounding states, and asks that a general revision be granted to place Oklahoma on an even footing with adjoining states.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 1.—Railroad attorneys and traffic organization representatives from many parts of the country, and officials from the Southwestern states are here today for the opening of the hearing on Oklahoma's application for a general revision of interstate freight rates to and from points in the Southwest for the purpose of overcoming what the Oklahoma Corporation Commission says is a discrimination against Oklahoma stations.

The case is one which directly involves Texas, and representatives of the Texas interests are here.

Court of Appeals Knocks Out Light Co., Injunction

The local correspondent of the Houston Chronicle received a telegram from that paper Wednesday stating that the decision of the lower court in the injunction brought to restrain the city from spending the light plant bond money had been sustained, which in substance means that the city of Ballinger wins the suit.

This is the case in which the Interstate Electric Corporation petitioned District Judge Woodward for an injunction to restrain the city commission of Ballinger from expending money received from the sale of the light plant bonds. The plaintiffs alleged in their petition that the city officials did not comply with the law in the sale of the bonds and sought to stop the expending of the funds in the construction of the city light plant. Judge Woodward declined to grant the injunction, and the plaintiffs appeealed to the Court of Civil Appeals.

The case had been in the higher court since the summer of 1921, the municipal light plant having been in operation for almost a year. The court's decision at Austin Wednesday is a victory for the city.

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 1.—There is a probability that mandamus action will be brought by the attorneys for Earle B. Mayfield to compel the election officials to print his name on the ballots for the general election. This is understood here to be the latest turn in the litigation involving Mayfield's candidacy for the United States senate.

Attorneys for Mayfield conferred today with Attorney General Keeling and Secretary of State Staples, but nothing definite had been given out at a late hour. It was believed by those in close touch with the situation that mandamus proceedings would be the next step.

The action of the Dallas Court of Civil Appeals yesterday in ordering the temporary injunction granted by Judge Blackmon at Fairfield dismissed in itself does not permit the printing of Mayfield's name on the ballot, it was said by some attorneys here today.

DALLAS, Nov. 1.—The Court of Civil Appeals here late yesterday ordered the temporary injunction granted at Fairfield restraining the printing of Mayfield's name on the ballot, set aside. The order was immediately sent to the district court at Groesbeck where the injunction hearing was scheduled for today, and attorneys in the case did not go to Groesbeck.

It is said that the Mexican congress is planning the possible passage of a dry law patterned after our own Volstead act. Mexican consuls have been instructed to gather data on American prohibition and the success of its enforcement. If other nations are going to pattern after us we should raise the bounty on bootleggers' scalps.

Even a criminal can see the evil in strong drink when he has time to stop and think. The prohibition question was recently submitted to the inmates of the prisons in the United States. More than 133,000 voted dry, while only 909 voted wet. And the figures go to prove that even bootleggers can be reformed.

How Not to Take Cold

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others, seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming over heated and then getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.

A lyceum attraction is booked for this city in the near future, coming under the auspices of one of our most worthy local organizations. Many people in Ballinger no doubt spent their amusement appropriation at the recent carnival, enjoying the water circus, the circus without water, nutty house, and other nuts, etc., and of course these will not be expected to attend the lyceum attractions. But in order to overcome evil with good and at least balance up our amusement rations, season tickets should be in demand.

STOPS GRAFTERS WORKING HERE

A woman posing as a representative of the Volunteers of America, was making good headway towards working the town Wednesday morning, when some one turned her in to the chief of police. Chief Pilcher carried her before the secretary of the Y. M. B. L. where a grilling resulted in her loading out in short order. When told that this city had just been canvassed in the annual Salvation Army drive, and informed that the organization she represented would have to fix a date and confine their operations here to one drive a year, the woman agreed to communicate by wire with headquarters, and a message was framed up for her and she pretended to go to the telegraph office and send it. Later she returned to the Y. M. B. L. and asked if she would have to await an answer from the message before plying her trade. When informed that she would have to wait for further authority, she stated that she did not have time to "fool around here," and in a short time she was seen going West in a Ford sedan traveling with a man and a poodle dog. It was a good looking couple, in a good looking traveling outfit, pretending to represent a good cause, but they struck a snag here.

Hundreds of dollars are given to grafters in this city every year through promiscuous soliciting, and the quicker the proper authorities adopt a rule governing such matters, the quicker will the business men and citizens be enabled to give where giving is needed and deserving.

INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE PLANS

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Nov. 1.—E. D. Shurter, of the University of Texas, director general of the Interscholastic League of America, announces that active plans are being made for carrying on the work of the organization this scholastic year. He is devoting his entire time to the league, having been granted a year's leave of absence from the university, where he supervised public speaking. He has established headquarters of the league here.

Dr. S. P. Brooks, president of Baylor University, Waco, Texas, has been appointed a member of the board of directors, and it is planned to perfect organization in all states in the country, Dr. Shurter reported.

Gov. Pat M. Neff, Dr. R. E. Vinson, president of the University of Texas; Dr. P. P. Claxton, former Commissioner of Education of the United States; and Miss Annie Webb Blanton, State Superintendent of Schools; have given their support to the league, he said.

Interest in public readings, speaking and debate to supplement the physical tests, baseball, football, track meets, and other atheltic events as an agency in education, is aimed at through the league, according to its organizer, Dr. Shurter.

ONLY FEW PRANKS ON HALLOWE'EN

The shifting of a few signs marked the only pranks played by Hallowe'en parties Tuesday night. Young folks made themselves heard, and were out in full force, notwithstanding that the streets were muddy as a result of the all night rain the night before. The mud was utilized in a mud fight between a bunch of joy riders and street walkers, mud balls being tossed freely and fiercely between the two merry making factions. Aside from the noise the ghosts let the old town down light, and no mischief of serious nature was reported.

WACO—R. P. Etter of Lone Oak, Hunt county stock farmer, recently gave a $1 bill to each of the 167 orphans in the Methodist Orphanage here, to be spent by them when they visit the Cotton Palace exhibition. He gave a similar amount to each of the employes of the orphanage and made a $250 donation toward the building fund.

SCHOOL GIRLS SMILE UNDER PRETTY FALL HATS

TWEED, velvet and velours are represented in the group of four hats for school girls, as shown here, but there are others, not pictured, to be borne in mind.

Hats for the school girl are soft, both in texture and colors. There are many tams among them, and girls of all sizes wear them; those of polo cloth and velvet are apparently the most popular. Tams are often made with an elastic band across the back so that they will fit any head snugly. Round shapes with upturned brims that may be rolled either up or down, much like the tweed shown at the top of the group pictured, are developed in polo cloth and other cloths, in felt or velours. Colors are quiet like those chosen for coats, with tan, brown, gray, beige and blue predominating. In velvet tams, black occupies a large part of the displays, and bright red finds many admirers among those who prefer contrasts to the "hat to match" idea. For the older girls, hats with scarfs or sweaters to match and for the smaller ones' hats to match coats, appear to have arrested the attention of many people.

The tweed hat at the top of the group is typical of hats made of coatings. The crowns are cut in sections and the rolling brims stiffened just enough to stay put when they are turned up or down. A pretty black velvet tam, with a light silk tassel, is shown on the small girl at the left, and a smart velours hat in tan appears at the right with a tailored bow of grosgrain ribbon for trimming. The last hat, for an older girl, is more dressy than its companion, but the shape, with a simpler trim, is among those most popular for school wear. As pictured, the brim has cut-outs, revealing a handsome ribbon sash, terminating in loops and frayed ends at the back.

"Bob Hampton of Placer," said to be Marshall Neilan's most ambitious film production, and presenting a spectacular visualization of the Randall Parrish book of the same title, promises to embody various photographic features that will mark a step forward in cinematography, according to all reports.

Various experiments in artificial and natural lighting, amidst such backgrounds as the Glacier Park scenery, in which this picture was staged, had been planned by Mr. Neilan for some time. With the production of the Parrish story, the producer found his opportunity of trying out these new ideas at hand.

PLIGHT OF MENNONITE GIRL MAKES APPEALING DRAMA

The efforts of a sensitive and intelligent girl to escape from the sordid environment of her Pennsylvania Dutch farm home, and her reluctant acceptance of the Mennonite faith to escape an unhappy marriage make fine dramatic material for Mary Miles Minter, who is at the Fo-to-sho Theatre today and Thursday in "Tillie," a Realart production of genuine merit.

WOMAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY

Edward Everett Hale's famous story, "The Man Without a Country," is being played in real life by many "women without a country."

Legislators interested in immigration and naturalization laws are puzzled as to the best method to unravel a snarl produced by a conflict between United States and British naturalization laws.

In Great Britain an English woman who marries an American loses her British nationality.

According to a new United States law, an American woman who marries a foreigner retains her citizenship in this country. The law further provides that foreign women who marry American citizens, do not by that act become citizens of this country.

The result has been confusion; a British woman marrying an American, by the laws of her country, is no longer British, and by the laws of this country is not American. Much embarrassment is being caused by questions of passports, since each office, American and British, sends the British wife of an American citizen to the other's office for papers.

DO YOU WONDER?

Asks This Lady, "That I'm a Believer in Cardui?"—Had Been So Weak She Had to Go to Bed.

Osawatomie, Kans.—Mrs. E. E. Keast, formerly of Illinois, residing here, says: "We moved to this state eleven years ago, and I had good health for a long while; and then some year or so ago I had a bad sick spell. . . .

"I got so weak I couldn't go. I couldn't stand on my feet at all. I had to go to bed. I suffered a great deal. I was so nervous I felt I couldn't live. I tried medicines, and everything; had the best of attention, yet I wasn't able to get up. I lay for three months, not able to do anything.

"My husband is a bill poster and has circulars distributed. One day there chanced to be a Ladies Birthday Almanac among his circulars. I read it, and told some of the family to get me a bottle of Cardui. . . .

"I quit all other medicines and took it (Cardui) faithfully, and two weeks from the time I began to take Cardui I was out of bed—better than for months.

"I kept it up and continued to improve until I was a well woman.

"Do you wonder that I am a believer in Cardui? I certainly am. And I am sure there is no better tonic made for women than Cardui." NC-151

BALLINGER LADY IN COLORED PICTURES

Mrs. Joe Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Gannaway of this city, was pictured in the photogravure section of the Houston Chronicle last Sunday. Mrs. Turner lives at Raymondville, her husband being sheriff of Willacy county. The picture carried in the colored supplement of the Chronicle showed Mrs. Turner in her yard feeding her pet deer, three deer feeding from her hands.

A Timely Suggestion

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the first indication of a cold appears and before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug.

NO BALLOTS PRINTED HERE

The Runnels county ballots for the general election have not been printed. County Judge Trimmier placed the order with the printers this week, with instructions to set the type, and hold the form for further instructions.

The form is made up in such a way that it will require a few minutes to go to press with the tickets with or without the name of Earle Mayfield, and the printing of the ballots is being held up pending the action of the court in the injunction proceedings. The tickets will be printed in ample time to be delivered to all election managers in the county.

According to press reports quite a number of counties in the state have two sets of tickets printed, one with the name of Mayfield and one without the name. In some counties the tickets have been printed without Mayfield's name and in some other counties the tickets have been printed with the name of Mayfield.

Runnels county is playing safe on the cost of printing the ballots, as by waiting only one set of tickets will be printed. The counties having two sets of tickets printed are safe, but followed a plan which will double the cost. The counties with one set of tickets printed, may have to do the job over at the eleventh hour.

CALLS FARMER MASS MEETING

A mass meeting of all farmers of Runnels county has been called for Saturday afternoon, November 4th, at 2:00 o'clock at the court house in Ballinger. J. D. Coghlan, Ellis county farmer, will address the meeting on "The Present and Future of Co-operative Cotton Marketing." The call is issued by directors of the Runnels County Farm Bureau who are very anxious that every cotton grower be present to hear this address.

Mr. Coghlan is a member of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association and almost since its beginning has been a worker for co-operative cotton marketing on the Sapiro Plan. On account of his eloquence and other admirable qualifications he was selected Field Supervisor for all states West of the Mississippi that are members of the American Cotton Growers' Exchange. He has just returned from Louisiana where he assisted in the organization of that state for co-operative cotton marketing. He has also made a personal survey of several of the other states and can give first hand information on conditions in those states.

Co-operative cotton marketing is a vast movement that has swept the entire South within the past two years. Nine states with a total of 150,000 growers signed in their associations were ready for business at the beginning of the present cotton season. The immense credit extended these organizations this season by the War Finance Corporation and many banks is thought to have affected the price of cotton at least six cents a pound. Farmers have enjoyed all season, what is probably the most stable market ever seen in the history of the industry, and well informed men think these associations responsible to a large degree.

Mr. Coghlan has a message for every cotton grower and they are urged to hear this address. Don't forget the time and date.
