In UIL Contest...

SHS Band Has 26th Triumph

Neither rain nor the mud it produced could deny the Snyder High School Black and Gold Band its annual accolades Wednesday in University Interscholastic League marching contests.

The SHS musicians ignored the uncooperative elements in Abilene and brought home their 26th Division I (superior) rating.

The bands competing in Region II contests were forced to perform under trying conditions as a steady rain fell on Shotwell stadium throughout the morning hours and by the time the Snyder band took the field there were areas on the field that resembled quagmires. It was especially tough on the SHS rifle team and the girls flag group, but they went full speed ahead and came out with the only Division I rating in the Class AAA ranks.

Also taking a Division I rating were the SHS twirlers, who got the superior tag as an ensemble. Individually, the Snyder twirlers each came out with Division II (excellent) ratings.

The Snyder twirlers are Lana Bruns, Ginger Guynes, Donna Joplin, Kim James and Marla Jones.

The string of Division I ratings for the SHS bands began back in the early 50s and has continued for more than a quarter of a century.

The only other Division I ratings for bands went to Abilene High and Cooper High in Class AAAA, to Breckenridge in Class AA and to Madison Junior High of Abilene in Class CCC. Colorado City's band rated Division II in Class AA, while Jayton had a Division II and Roby a Division III in Class A and Roscoe had a Division II in Class A.

The Snyder High Band is directed by Sam Robertson and Clifford Franklin.

City Building Has New Surge

An unexpected surge in residential contracts gave Snyder's 1979 building figures a boost in October, enhancing prospects for a $3 million year in local construction.

The building industry had been in the doldrums, especially in the residential field, for the past three months, as mortgage money supplies dwindled and interest rates soared.

However, permits for four new single-family dwellings and for three mobile homes helped push the October building figures up to $323,780.

The total for the calendar year now has reached $2,791,966 which puts the year 1979 within striking distance of the $3 million mark, even if November and December turn out to be mediocre months.

In all, the city issued 19 permits in October, but most of the value recorded for the month was included in the new residential projects. The remainder went for additions, repairs, accessory buildings, etc.

October was the first month of the city's new fiscal year.

No Special Session In January

AUSTIN (AP)-Gov. Bill Clements answered one of his most asked questions Wednesday.

"There will not be a special legislative session in January," he told several reporters in an informal interview.

Now, he said, he must decide between next March and September for the promised 30-day special session of the Texas Legislature.

Presidential politics prompted his decision, Clements said.

"Now I am trying to evaluate if one in March or September would have the most impact. The primaries are terribly important," he said.

Two Die In Bus Wreck

MONCKS CORNER, S.C. (AP)-A tractor-trailer hit a school bus carrying youngsters to class today, killing two children and injuring 38, officials said.

Deputy Berkeley County Coroner James Preacher indentified the dead as Edsel Nossinger and Terry Martin, both 12, of Moncks Corner.

According to reports, the truck, carrying gravel and driven by J.P. Orvin, sheared off the left side of the bus, jumped an embankment, struck a tree and overturned. The driver was trapped in the wreckage for a short time.

Crisis In Iran...

Clark To Negotiate With Aid Of PLO

By The Associated Press

U.S. Envoy Ramsey Clark, barred from Iran, met with a Palestine Liberation Organization representative in Turkey today to spur mediation efforts to win the release of some 60 American hostages held at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, it was reported.

Official sources in Algiers reported that Algeria, a leader of the anti-Israel Arab front, had joined the PLO in trying to secure the hostages' freedom.

In Tehran, meanwhile, one of the Moslem students occupying the embassy said the hostages had not been injured because "in Islam we don't believe to hurt someone, they are very well and we know their rights."

The unidentified student, in a telephone interview with a Canadian radio station, stressed that "we are not enemies with people, but with governments."

Iranian demonstrators today blindfolded one of the American hostages, bound his hands behind his back and paraded him around the embassy garden while mobs shouted "Death to Carter!" and "Send Back the Shah!" a witness reported in a call to The Associated Press in Athens. The witness asked not to be identified.

The demonstrators also accused L. Bruce Laingen, the U.S. charge d'affaires, of being a "plotting spy" and said they would hold him captive at the Foreign Ministry, where he has been since the embassy was taken over Sunday.

The spectacle at the American Embassy was reported by a witness who telephoned The Associated Press in Athens. The witness asked anonymity. NBC television said the American who was paraded around the garden was about 40 years old, but did not further identify him.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has rejected a special peace mission from President Carter, leaving the Palestine Liberation Organization the only apparent hope for the release soon of the American hostages, who already have been reported pushed around, abused, intimidated and mishandled.

Q-Why does the police department give tickets for doing 30 mph in a 20 mph school zone on days when school is not in session?

A-Police Chief Bill Stone says it is the policy of the department not to issue tickets in such zones when school is not in session. However, he says a check of records indicates that two tickets were issued in the school zone on 25th St. on Nov. 5. "It was our mistake," says Stone. "The officer who wrote the tickets was not aware that school was not in session that day." The police chief says those who received the tickets should take them to corporation court at the police building and the police department will recommend that they be dismissed.

SHS Drama To Open Tomorrow

"Finian's Rainbow," musical drama presented by students at Snyder High School as part of the "Fall into the Arts" series of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, will open tomorrow night on the SHS stage. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

A limited number of reserved seats remain available for both Friday and Saturday performances. Director Jerry Worsham, and box office manager, Janet Wesson, announced that some theatre patrons have expressed some confusion regarding ticket policies. To clarify the situation, they explained that the reserved seats are being offered to the public at higher prices as a convenience to those who wish to have them. The higher price guarantees theatre goers a good seat in the best part of the auditorium. These seats will be held right up until curtain time for reserved seat ticket holders.

General admission seating will be available throughout the remainder of the auditorium and with these tickets the audience may sit wherever they choose (excluding the reserved seating sections).

Ticket prices are $4 for reserved seats and $2 for general admission. Reservations may be made by calling Snyder High School. General admission tickets are available at the high school from SHS students, and will be available at the door at each evening's performance.

A cast of 60 and a company of nearly 100 students make up the show which is full of fantasy, music and comedy.

LEPRECHAUN AND DANCER-Craig Dean, who has the role of "Og, the Leprechaun," and Sarah Youngkin, a member of the dance tronpe, pause during rehearsals of "Finian's Rainbow," which opens a two-night run Friday on the Snyder High School Stage. Both are seniors at SHS and are making their high school stage debut in the musical drama.

Braced For More Oil

GALVESTON (AP)-A heavy concentration of oil from a burning tanker lay a mile from Texas beaches today, driven shoreward by south southeasterly winds.

Iran Reducing Oil To Japan

NEW YORK (AP)-Iran has announced it is cutting its supply of oil to some major customers in Japan by 5 percent for the fourth quarter, Japanese trading companies announced today.

Japan imports 99.7 percent of its oil, and the Iranian news pushed the Japanese yen to a 21-month low against the dollar on the foreign exchange market in Tokyo.

The Iranian announcement came as a U.S. Department of Energy spokesman said Iran's oil exports apparently fell by about 6.3 percent last week for undetermined reasons.

Davis Jury Still Out

FORT WORTH (AP)-Jurors trying to reach a verdict in the murder solicitation trial of millionaire Cullen Davis were unable to come to a decision after their first day of deliberations Wednesday.

Defense attorneys said the fact that there was no verdict on the first day was a sign there would be another hung jury, but prosecutors said it's too early to tell.

Snyder doesn't have a varsity football game this weekend, but there's going to be plenty of activity in town, especially in and around the Scurry County Coliseum.

Another rally of recreational vehicles will be held on the coliseum grounds Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The annual square dance festival is scheduled in the coliseum and the Snyder Jaycees will hold their big auction Saturday in the agriculture-livestock exhibit building.

The Iranian students holding a group of Americans hostage in our own embassy, with the Iranian government literally turning its head, makes us wonder how far a nation can go toward being a "good guy."

At first glance, it would appear that perhaps we should send a bunch of Texas Rangers on a tour of college campuses to gather up Iranian students in this country. They could be herded into a compound and a message could be sent to Iran that we are going to operate on an "eye for an eye" basis. The problem with this, of course is the fact that we wouldn't be dealing with responsible people over there. They obviously are not playing with a full deck.

It leaves us in the same position as "The Mouse That Roared" story.

Somehow, we believe that old Harry Truman would have a solution if he were still in the White House. We would like to see someone of his stature around to give it a try, anyway.

the smoke problem

Not even the cigarette industry will lay claims that smoking is good for your health. Instead, those public relations people assigned to promote the use of tobacco promote the idea that there's something sexy about being seen with a cigarette in one's hand and the habit, if adopted, is a time bomb that is a lot slower in detonating than a lot of other vices man (and woman) take up.

The medical profession has, for a long time, been warning us that smoking constitutes a grave health hazard. The government forced tobacco companies not to advertise their products on television years ago, then ordered the industry to place certain labels cautioning smokers on their cigarette packs.

In spite of all that, or perhaps because of it, Americans still smoke millions on millions of cigarettes every year. The practice is abating somewhat, though not as fast as it should.

A new study of life insurance customers has confirmed what physicians have been telling us all along - that the mortality rate of cigarette smokers is significantly higher than that of non-smokers.

The State Mutual Life Assurance Co. of America, a firm that pioneered discount insurance rates for non-smokers, says the differences are too large to be ignored."

The company followed up the U.S. Surgeon General's original report on smoking of 15 years ago by studying some 100,000 of its policy holders. It discovered that the death rate among smokers of all ages was more than twice as great as that of non-smokers and for certain causes such as respiratory cancer ran as much as 15 times higher.

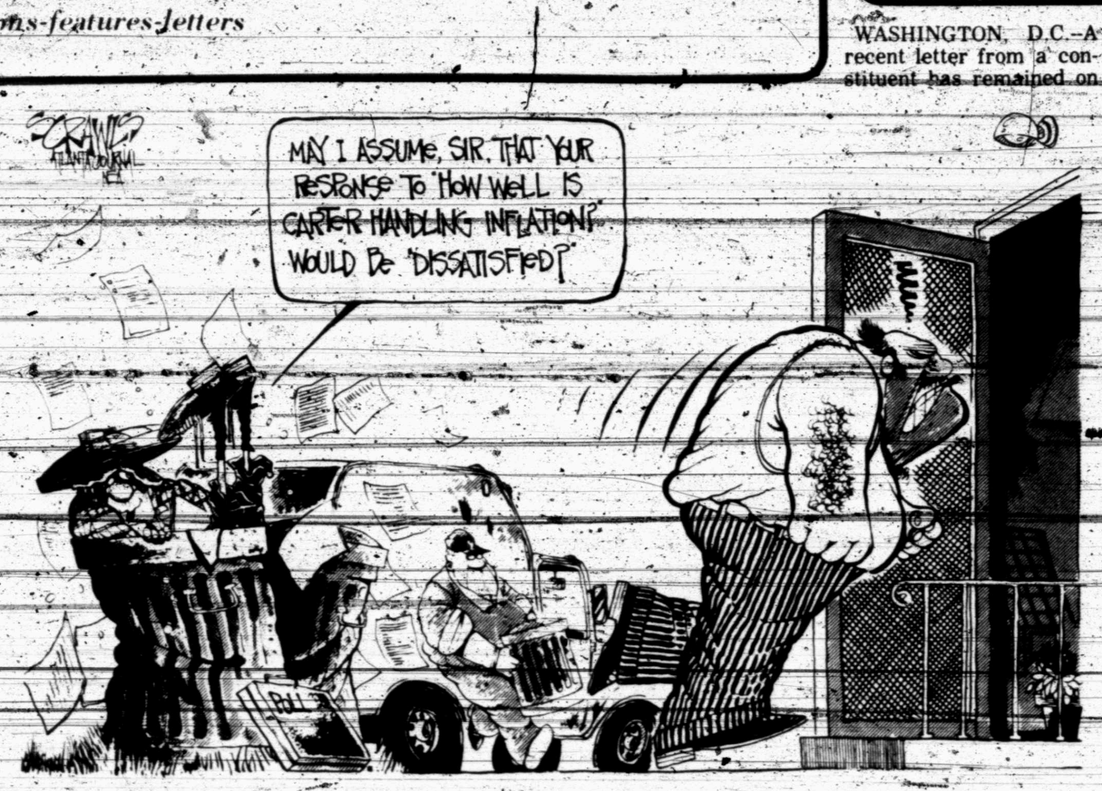

The insurance company's revelation comes on the heels of a preliminary report by the U.S. Department of Agriculture that per-capita consumption of tobacco in 1979 will be the lowest since 1900. Last year's consumption was the lowest since 1933 (when Americans had great reasons for smoking, considering that they were struggling in the Great Depression).

The USDA'S DATA covers all forms of tobacco use. As to cigarettes alone, consumption this year is expected to be the lowest since 1957.

This is highly encouraging, but the struggle to get Americans to quit smoking for their health's sake is far from over. Millions still prefer to continue the habit and take their chances on lung cancer, heart disease, emphysema and various other diseases linked to smoking.

Young people especially seem vulnerable to the urge for smoking. If it brings on disease and death with them, so be it. Anything beyond a year to them is a long way down the road and they can't be concerned with a problem that comes at the end of their lives.

It's going to take some selling job to convince them that smoking is not the thing to do with "hep" people.

graham's house

The Billy Graham house is a rambling, rustic, building which incorporates old timbers which Ruth salvaged from tumbledown cabins in the mountains thereabouts.

Its interior is informal -- with a comfortable collection of family furniture and "extras" -- rooms connected by halls with brick floors.

When that house was built, $12 an acre bought the land and I'd guess $40,000 would have built the house. It is not pretentious. It is an ideal setting for Ruth and a perfect retreat for a man who necessarily has spent much of his life in hotels.

The Graham house is filled with memories. One is a tall, spindle rocker Billy enjoyed once on the porch of the L.B.J. ranch in Texas. Within a week it was delivered to his house in North Carolina.

Seated in that chair on the wide veranda I sought to capture for the microphones some of the private Billy Graham.

This portrait of the man and his family will be seen on TV sometime in the spring.

What you will NOT see are some of the precious scenes behind the scenes; Ruth with a screwdriver repairing a faulty light socket; Billy, his lap spontaneously overloaded with adoring grandchildren.

Just before my interview with Ruth you will not see Billy mischievously holding up a microphone cord between the jaws of a pair of scissors and playfully admonishing her not to say "one bad thing" about him.

I doubt she ever could; I know she never would.

An unpremeditated something I hope you do see when the documentary is finally edited: After lunch, still seated at the dining table alone with Ruth, I asked her views on issues -- on women generally and some individually, including several First Ladies she has known.

I asked about her girlhood in China and her children and her parents and about herself as a parent.

And about her husband.

Her response to most all questions reflected her abundant good humor. The only lines on this grandmother's face are crow's-feet at her eyes from the smile that never leaves for long.

It left once. When I asked this question:

"Ruth, at the risk of intruding on your bedroom -- at night or morning when -- for whatever reason -- you are awake and he is not. All is still. Nothing to intrude on your most private thoughts.

"There in the quiet -- who is that man lying beside you? Is he a little boy? Is he the inevitably aging father of your children? Your lover? Is he still the college boy you married? An ecclesiastical giant: A David with a slingshot. Who is he?"

Ruth of the laughing eyes was thoughtful for a long moment. Then with a misty look, both grandmotherly and bride-like, she replied: "Yes. Yes. Paul, he is -- each and all those things."

What secrets did the ancients possess?

What knowledge did they have that enabled them to survive long, hard winters without central heating? What power did they have that gave them the ability to endure snowflake and icicle without electric blankets? Before heaters in cars, how did they manage in open-air buggies and wagons?

The answer, I am convinced, is long-handled underwear.

This week, for the first time in my life, I went out and purchased two pair.

Pay special attention to the fact that I am not referring to these articles of clothing as long-johns. The similarity between that loathesome term and my own name is more than I can endure. Never do I want to be compared to pair of underwear.

But, call them what you will, those underclothes were fuel efficient, cheap, and practical. They are probably the answer to how to save energy for us moderns today.

When a man is warmly bundled in long-handeled underwear, what needs does he have of such twentieth century comforts as gas stoves, electric heaters, and central heating. Such delicacies are probably responsible for turning modern men into sissies.

I am a child of the twentieth century, and the second half of the twientieth century at that. Until very, very recently, I would have cringed at the idea of wearing something that sounded like my name. But no more.

I now believe the old idea has merit. My grandfather wasn't such a fool after all. Many a time as a boy I sat and listened to one of my grandfathers talk to me about the days of his youth when he wore long-johns. (That particular grandfather was of a different name than mine and that is what he called them. I have never forgiven him.)

But, I decided to give them a try. No longer will I shiver when covering car wrecks in the freezing cold, shake when taking pictures at football games, or get goosebumps when taking my morning run.

When I bought them, the sales clerk noted that many other people in town have bought long-handeled underwear. So apparently I am not the only person around here persuaded by the idea of cutting down on his heating bill.

congressional comment

by charles stenholm, mc

WASHINGTON, D.C.--A recent letter from a constituent has remained on my mind, long after the reply was made. The writer raised a question that continues to trouble me. All of the news coming out of Washington is so negative. Isn't there anything positive about our country anymore?

There are many positives. All of the news is not bad news. The good news, however, tends to pale compared to the serious problems which the United States is facing. No reassuring words can erase those problems, but I have to agree with the letter's writer that it is time for Americans to place more emphasis on the positives of our society.

We are going to have to forego the luxury of talking about what is wrong with our country, what is wrong with ourselves, what is wrong with other countries and other people, what is wrong with the church, what is wrong with other segments of society and begin to devote all the talent we can possibly bring to bear on what is right with America.

A lot of us have engaged in the passive, expedient and apathetical pattern of pointing fingers at other segments of society. We complain that we have permissive parents, rebellious children, lousy teachers and crooked politicians. Well, we also have good parents, fine children, excellent teachers and honest politicians.

We hear all of the time that the family as a unit is in trouble. Certainly I realize that there are far too many families with deep, perhaps irresolvable problems, but there are also strong families. Good parents are raising good children who will make good citizens in the future.

The reported decline of our educational system in this country troubles every concerned parent. And there are unqualified teachers out there who are contributing to that decline. There is, however, a far larger number of dedicated, highly qualified, caring teachers who are doing their best in sometimes impossible situations. They are, generally, underpaid, overworked and, even though we entrust them with our most precious resources--our youth--during childhood's most critical years of development, are often looked upon as no more than paid babysitters by the remainder of society.

And there are honest politicians. But, honest politicians, like good parents, don't make headlines too often.

We cannot realistically ignore the negative aspects of our society. Dealing with those problems and trying to find answers to those problems is an unpleasant responsibility that must be faced. But through it all, we must retain a sense of balance. Our system is not perfect, but we must not lose sight of the many positive aspects of that system. If the presence of negative factors cries out for the need for change, the positive factors are even more important to add stability and balance. We must never abandon nor neglect our commitment to those positive principles that serve as the foundation for our way of life.

funds still available

NEW YORK (AP)—Money is tight? You've heard about tight money policy of the Federal Reserve Board, and then you read that installment credit surged $4.45 billion in September, a record for any month.

And you receive this unsolicited letter from one of the world's largest financial institutions:

"I have enclosed a Request Certificate made out to you in the amount of $2,500. Simply fill out the back of the Certificate and mail it to me...

"Feel free to use the $2,500 as you see fit...perhaps now you can take that special vacation trip you've been thinking about for so long."

You might even reinvest the money and make an after-tax return on your money sufficient to repay the loan and leave you a profit, says the letter writer, and he offers suggestions on how to do it.

"The fact of the matter is that we have done our utmost to make it extremely attractive for you to get cash from Chase right now, even though you are not a customer of ours at present," the letter states.

Most banks, says the writer, Thomas Harmon, vice president, Chase Manhattan Bank, "would say they want to do business with a person like you. In this instance we are 'putting our money where our mouth is.'

"Personally, I think it's one of the best moves we've ever made."

Tight money? Hardly, at least for consumer loans in some areas. Not when lenders can earn relatively high interest on small, short-term loans. Not when banks are seeking more of the retail business.

Besides, retail customers, or consumers, often bring with them other business, such as savings and checking accounts, and they're candidates also for the bank's credit card and various other services.

Letters such as Chase's aren't uncommon. A Chase spokesman explains that the recipient's name comes from a mailing list company that offers a "specific list of preapproved customers."

He explained: "Things are tight right now, but the way we look at it the situation is fairly short term." Rates and other factors will ease soon, he said, "and we want these folks as our customers."

And how can Chase or any other commercial bank be so casual with loans when the Federal Reserve is cutting back on the availability of funds?

"It's difficult to explain to someone not a line banker," said the spokesman.

The retail banker, he observed, deals with individuals, the wholesale banker with industry. Retail loans are really quite small; they involve thousands of dollars, but business loans usually involve many millions.

Postpone Sale Of Offshore Drilling Rights

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—The sale of offshore oil drilling rights in the vast Georges Bank fishing grounds off New England have been postponed for at least 40 days, government officials say, but oil-company executives predict an even longer delay.

Environmentalists successfully blocked the scheduled sale here Tuesday night when U.S. Chief Justice Warren Burger upheld Justice William J. Brennan's decision to put off the sale until the full Supreme Court can review the case. The court is scheduled to take up the issue Friday.

Donald Truesdell, a spokesman for the Interior Department, which was conducting the sale through its Bureau of Land Management, said that even if the Supreme Court decided on Friday to allow the sale, a new date for it would have to be set with at least 30 days' notice required for the submission of bids from oil companies.

"We're probably looking at at least a 40-day delay," Truesdell said. "The highest court wants to look at it a little bit."

And oil-industry executives at the sale said privately that the delay could be several months if the Supreme Court asks for a re-evaluation of the project's environmental effects.

For the oil industry, the cancellation Tuesday was just the most recent in a long series of setbacks which have delayed exploration of the Georges Bank area.

Group Views Humanism

Snyder Eagle Forum met Nov. 5 at Snyder Junior High School with president Wanda Justice presiding. Invocation by Clarence Minton was followed by the pledge to the United States Flag.

President Justice informed the group that hearings are being held in various cities on a proposal by the Social Security Administration to reduce housewives social security benefits by $100 monthly or the husband must pay an additional $1,000 annually in social security taxes. Hearings in Texas will be in Austin Nov. 27, she said.

Following a brief business session Barbara McCormick, program chairman, introduced guest speaker Homer Duncan, of Lubbock, who spoke on "Secular Humanism, The Most Dangerous Religion in America." He defined humanism as "a religion which defies man and seeks to dethrone God" or "any religion or philosophy which leaves out the supernatural."

"Many organizations and some churches support humanism, four doctrines of which were listed in the Texas Tech Law Review are, he explained. "Belief in the centrality and sufficiency of man, belief that God is dead, irrelevant or never existed; denial of the Bible and dependence on man's own reasoning and wisdom; and belief in evolution instead of creation."

According to Duncan, the main thrust by the humanists is educational, through government-financed lower educations, in almost all colleges and universities.

Duncan urged all to be alert, informed and involved, to prevent traditional ideals from further eroding.

Eagle Forum's next meeting will be in Jan. 1980 with date and speaker to be announced.

"A lucky player would make all the tricks. Only a man walking under his own personal rain cloud would lose three finesses out of three and go down. I ought to give up bridge and take up backgammon," complained South.

"What makes you think that you play bridge?" asked North sarcastically. "A bridge player would have made the hand."

South had won the spade lead in dummy and promptly lost the trump finesse. West had led back a diamond. East took two diamond tricks and waited to set the hand with his king of clubs.

South had thrown away game and rubber when he started by taking the trump finesse. Instead, South should have won the spade in his own hand and cashed the ace of hearts. He would then be almost sure of his contract unless West held all three trumps and clubs and diamonds were both misplaced.

After cashing the trump ace South would take and lose the club finesse.

East could not take two diamond tricks and South would get to discard two of his diamonds on good clubs.

As the late Ely Culbertson remarked, "You don't have to take every finesse."

Snyder Garden Club met for its regular monthly meeting at the Martha Ann Woman's Club Nov. 1. Mrs. Joe League, president, presided.

Mrs. Fred Davis and Mrs. Charles Jones were program leaders. They led the club in making new arrangements and reworking used ones to decorate the building for Christmas. A luncheon followed.

Fourteen members and two guests attending also heard a program given by Mrs. Lester Moore and Mrs. Davis on the art of silk flowers.

Mrs. League announced the club's Christmas luncheon will be held Dec. 6. Mrs. Tommy Davis and Mrs. Frank Wilson were hostesses.

Dents left in the carpeting by heavy pieces of furniture can be fixed by filling the dents with water. After a while, depending on how badly mashed down the fibers are, they will begin to loosen and separate.

Winterizing Time Here

An inexpensive plastic cover can help many homeowners reduce their heating costs this winter.

Taking a few minutes to place a plastic cover on each roof turbine stops the turbines from sucking warm air from the attic, according to Al Hendee of Hendee Enterprises in Houston.

"The money saved on fuel costs by stopping turbines from removing warm air depends on temperatures and wind speeds," says Hendee. "The faster the wind blows, the more air the turbine removes. The colder the weather, the faster heat will flow through ceilings into the attic, and the more money the homeowner will lose as the turbine pulls this warm air out of the attic."

"Covering turbines during winter months," Hendee adds, "also saves money for homeowners by reducing turbine wear and thus making their turbines last longer."

Hendee began supplying his Enduro brand turbine vent covers several years ago, and now they are sold by major hardware and home center chains, including Wards, True Value, Ace Hardware, and Handy Dan.

REDUCE HEATING COST—In winterizing your home, a cover on each roof turbine helps stop the draining of precious heat from the attic, and also increases the life of the turbine.

Therapy Helps Sex Offenders

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column from a 15-year-old clean-cut, religious Utah boy who confessed to having molested young children when he baby-sat sure hit home with me — I am locked up for five years here at the State Hospital in Atascadero, Calif., for just that reason.

I noticed you told that kid to go to his local mental health clinic for help. That advice was the best, Abby, and I hope he took it.

I am getting counseling here, and now I understand that I have had this sickness that turned me on to little kids ever since I was a little kid myself. But I never knew it was a sickness. I thought I was just a rotten pervert.

Too bad nobody told me to go to a mental health clinic when I was 15. I could have saved a lot of kids some bad experiences and straightened myself out without having to be locked up in a hospital.

FIVE YEARS FOR BAD WAYS

DEAR FIVE YEARS: I heard from a surprising number of readers who share your problem. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for printing that letter from DESPERATE IN UTAH, the boy who confessed to being a child molester. I know his feelings well. I sexually abused my own daughters until they became teenagers and had to tell someone.

Thank God I was stopped and made to get help through a program sponsored by the Family Service and Mental Health Clinic in our community. (It's called "Special Offenders.")

I am now going for weekly counseling sessions with my wife. Our daughters are also getting help they need to help them understand what has happened to them and why.

When I started this program I was very much ashamed and didn't realize that there were others suffering from the same sickness.

Most folks don't know that child molesters are victims of a mental illness. We need more than punishment — we need treatment. Thank you for letting me say this.

GETTING HELP IN ORE.

DEAR GETTING HELP: And thank you for saying it.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do when you are serving a large number of people and your guests take two servings of meat the first time around, never considering whether there will be enough for those at the end of the line?

Many times that second piece of meat will be left on their plates — to be thrown away. Kids aren't the only ones who do this; and you can't blame them; they've had some wonderful teachers in their own fathers.

Shall we tell our guests how much meat to take the first time around? Or should we just serve pasta?

FEEDING PIGS IN NORMAL, ILL.

DEAR FEEDING: When feeding pigs, don't allow them to help themselves — SERVE THEM.

DEAR ABBY: I live in a very high class apartment building. The manager of this building is not doing his job and I think his actions should be reported to the owner of this building.

When I asked the manager for the owner's name, he refused to give it to me. He said, "The owner doesn't want to be bothered by any of the tenants; that's why he hired ME."

How can I find out who the owner is?

NO NAME IN SOUTH BOSTON

DEAR NO NAME: Look in your telephone book under COUNTY TAX COLLECTOR (OR ASSESSOR) and call that office. They have a record of who pays taxes on what. The person who pays the property tax of your building is undoubtedly the owner.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Hidden Costs Upset Home Buyers

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas home buyers are more upset about the hidden costs of purchasing a home than they are about rising mortgage rates, according to a Texas Consumers Association official.

Katy Davis told the Senate Committee on Financial Institutions Wednesday that home buyers are tired of "gimmick fees" that allow saving and loan associations to skirt interest ceilings. She said the "hocus-pocus" should be taken out of the mortgage business.

"This means eliminating both buyers' and sellers' points, origination fees, prepayment penalties and other gimmick fees. Why can't we simplify the transaction down to the down-payment, the real estate agent's commission, the interest rate and the term of the loan?" she said.

"I assure you this single area causes more resentment among buyers who feel helpless than even the higher interest rates the savings and loans are asking for," she said.

The Senate committee is looking into the shrinking supply of mortgage money in the state. A Texas Savings and Loan League executive said the first eight months of 1979 saw a sharp decline in the dollar volume of mortgages written by Texas savings and loan associations.

The statewide drop was 24 percent as compared to the same period in 1978. The Texas figure was four times the nationwide decline, said Pat Malone, a league executive.

Every area of the state reported drops. Only Waco and Wichita Falls showed increases, according to the report.

The biggest drop — 80 percent — was in Corpus Christi.

"The pace of mortgage lending activity in Texas had dropped markedly even before the sharp increase in interest rates in October," said Malone.

He said mortgage money will remain scarce in coming months as interest rates rise. The Legislature has removed the 10 percent cap on mortgage rates and allowed them to rise as high as 12 percent.

Ms. Davis, who said her association represents 1,000 members, also called for detailed reports from savings and loan associations. She said the quarterly reports should include data on how much money is available and where it is going.

She said increasing profits at savings and loan associations make it "only natural and human to be suspicious."

Nuke Licenses Halted By NRC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission have told Congress that no new nuclear plants will be licensed until safety issues are resolved and that they may even consider closing some existing plants.

Dry October Brings On Increased Water Demand

A dry autumn contributed to a surge in municipal demands during October, and for the first time this year there was a total monthly gain over 1977 delivery figures of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

The total for October was 1,365,995,512 gallons pumped to all customers, a gain of 215,000,000 gallons, or 18.76 per cent. The impetus came from delivery of 1,196,260,000 gallons to the cities, up 299,000,000 gallons, or 33.27 per cent. Every municipal customer showed a substantial gain. September deliveries of 1,439,774,000 gallons to the cities had been up 36.98 per cent, the back-to-back months being the only two of the year to show increases. If the September-October ratio should hold firm for the final two months, the municipal consumption for the year could be even with 1977.

Total deliveries through October amounted to 15,308,620,058 gallons, down 1.333 billion gallons from the first 10 months of 1977. This was due mostly to curtailed industrial and oil company deliveries. For the first 10 months, these amounted to 2,342,315,858 gallons, down 1.081 billion gallons, or 31.59 per cent for the period. For October, these deliveries were 169,735,512 gallons, down 83,000,000 gallons, or 32.81 per cent. Of this, however, 77,500,000 gallons were lost because Texas Electric Service Company's generating plant near Monahans had been dropped to protect reserves for Odessa.

Deliveries to the cities in October included: Odessa, 539,044,000, up 38.45 per cent; Big Spring 241,179,000, up 24.09 per cent; Snyder 84,044,000, up 29.28 per cent; Stanton 8,669,000, up 26.89 per cent; Midland 322,492,000, up 33.56 per cent.

22-Year-Old Questioned In DoubleMurder

HOUSTON (AP) — Police are questioning a 22-year-old man in the murder of two women at a nude modeling studio.

The bodies of Sharon Lee Rosser, 38, and Rhonda Elaine Kyle, 23, were found Monday. Police said both had been shot in the head and their purses were missing.

Investigators said the man being questioned was arrested while giving a witness statement because he had glitter in his hair that appeared to match glitter found on one of the bodies. Police said there were similarities between the Monday murders and a nude modeling studio robbery in which one woman was shot to death and another wounded last week.

Clements Sees Agreement On Alien Problem

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Gov. Bill Clements says he feels an agreement will be reached in the next year with Mexico to permit aliens to work in the United States on temporary visas.

Clements told the Dallas Citizens Council he and Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo agree that the so-called "undocumented workers" should be documented.

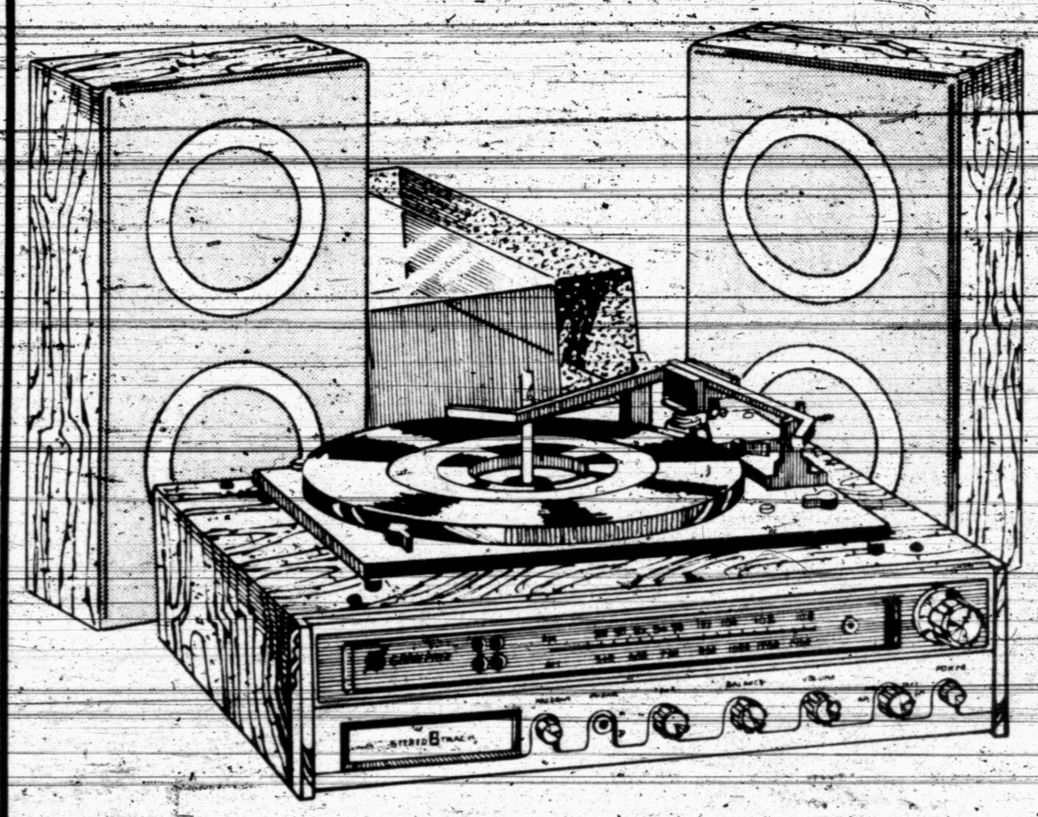

Clements envisioned a plan that would allow Mexicans to obtain work visas for three, six, nine or 12 months.

"They would be given a Social Security number and would pay taxes," Clements said. He said the aliens would be "protected under the law, enjoy municipal benefits and be paid a fair wage."

HARLEY BYMUM
adds Festus to portfolio

Photographer Has 'Hit' With Festus

Opportunity is where you find it, and a local photographer hit paydirt recently.

His once-in-a-lifetime opportunity was a combination of luck and of quick ingenuity. Harley Bynum, Snyder photographer, turned a weekend leisure trip into a plus for his fledgling business.

Bynum and family attended the annual OS Ranch benefit roping near Post. Like most camera buffs, Harley took a camera and a good supply of film.

There would be plenty of action, some art work and of course the popular guest appearance by TV's Festus, Ken Curtis.

Bynum asked to photograph Festus, and in return, the Snyder photographer would supply him a copy of all the shots. Bynum would have a famous person in his portfolio, and the star would have some new publicity shots in return.

The sitting was not rushed, requiring some 45 minutes. Bynum then sent him an album containing the 20 8x10 color portraits.

Upon receipt, Festus penned the following acknowledgement:

"Despite the fact that you had such an old, raunchy, tired and bedraggled subject to work with, your portraits turned out excellent in every respect – by far the best I've ever had taken in my entire career – thank you very much for sending me the prints."

Festus went on to point out that it was not typical for Festus to show his teeth when smiling. Some of the prints showed the famous squint smile while others showed him with a wide grin.

Bynum's interest in photography started just three years ago as a 35mm vacation camera buff. About a year later, Bynum turned professional and began investing in more expensive photographic equipment.

Bynum works full-time for an oilfield chemical company, and has turned his garage into a studio for his part-time vocation. All his processing is done by a custom lab.

Although he is a relative newcomer to the photography business, Bynum just last month was elected vice president of the South Plains Professional Photographers Association.

Curtis appears nationwide, and there are brochures that precede his appearance. Some future brochures will likely contain some photographs from a Snyder, Texas, native.

The favorite in a horse race is called the "Chalk Horse."

Take in fewer calories

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have the same problem that a lot of other people have. I've got large buttocks and an inner tube around my waist and on my hip bones. These are the only places I'm fat and it makes me feel uncomfortable. Could you please send me something — exercises or whatever to help me get rid of these things? I'm a young man and wouldn't look so bad if it weren't for these bulges of fat the wrong places.

DEAR READER — Fat is fat regardless of where it's stored. I suspect that where and how it's stored has a lot to do with inherited characteristics in some people. Nevertheless, the solution is the same. You have to consume fewer calories than your body uses. There's no way you can change the fundamental law of nature. Energy is neither created nor destroyed. That means that calories are neither created nor destroyed.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, because you'll probably need to cut down on your calories if you're successful at all. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

As The Health Letter I'm sending you suggests, it would also be useful for you to exercise. There really isn't such a thing as spot reducing but if you do sit-ups and leg lifts, it will help to tighten your abdominal muscles while you're losing fat.

A regular walking program will help to use calories and prepare you for more strenuous exercise. Once you're able to walk an hour a day without difficulty, then you might want to increase your exercise to include jogging and other forms of physical activity.

If you have a spare tire around your middle, as you described, the probabilities are that you also have fat inside the abdomen. There's no way that you can tighten up the abdomen enough to have a good figure if you have a lot of fat inside the abdominal cavity. That, too, will disappear with a proper diet and sensible exercise program.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read about the woman who felt her sex life had become nonexistent because she had had a hysterectomy. This woman is misinformed. She didn't have her sex organ removed but her reproductive organs removed. Her sex organ, the vagina, is still intact and the main point of sexual arousal and enjoyment, her clitoris, is still there. Sex is freer and more enjoyable without the problems of a menstrual period or pregnancy. It gets better than ever. I know, I've been there and four years after a complete hysterectomy and at age 60, it's better than ever.

DEAR READER — Hear! Hear! Your letter suggests to me the old truism that an individual's sexual response is strongly related to his or her mental state. As some have been known to say, the most important sex organ is the brain.

Of course, you're right. We know anatomically that the nerve fibers leading directly to the vagina and the clitoral area are the ones that are stimulated during sex and provide the pleasurable feeling. The uterus really has no role in sex other than the emotional aspect that it holds for some women. The uterus, after all, is a baby carriage.

ACLD Workshop Slated Saturday

Helping parents understand what public schools can and are doing for children with learning disabilities will be the aim of a workshop planned Saturday at Western Texas College.

The program is sponsored by the Snyder chapter of the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (ACLD) and WTC. Dr. John R. Moss, professor in the Department of Special Education at East Texas State University, will be the featured speaker.

Sessions will meet in room 101 of the Learning Resource Center at WTC from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., with a short break for lunch. There is no charge for the program, and everyone interested is invited to attend. Persons wishing further information may contact Mrs. Herman Hanzalik, president of the Snyder ACLD.

Persons planning to attend are asked to preenroll by contacting the Office of Continuing Education at WTC, 573-8511, extension 240.

The training session will focus on background information of the federal law (P.L. 94-142) which created new procedures for education of children with special needs, step-by-step analysis for how these procedures work in Texas, and modeling of selected procedures, such as document gathering, ARD-IEP meetings, and impartial hearings.

Miner Dies In Cave-In

SOMERSET, Colo. (AP) —One miner was killed and another trapped for 10 hours in a cave-in at the U.S. Steel coal mine here, officials said.

Bruce A. Lewis, 21, of Paonia, died in the cave-in, Art Wolverton, deputy coroner of Delta County, said Wednesday.

Jesse Erickson, 26, also of Paonia, was operating a continuous mining machine when the cave-in occurred Tuesday and was protected by a steel cage, officials said. Erickson was rescued early Wednesday. Three other miners on the crew escaped unhurt, U.S. Steel officials in Salt Lake City said.

de Gaulle's Widow Dies Today

PARIS (AP)—Yvonne de Gaulle, widow of the French leader, died early today, the eve of the ninth anniversary of her husband's death, the Institute Charles de Gaulle said. She was 79.

The Institute said she died at 1:30 a.m. in the Val de Grace military hospital in Paris where she had undergone two operations this year for an unspecified illness.

The de Gaulle Family home is at Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises, where funeral services will be held and she will be buried in the village church cemetery alongside her husband in the family tomb.

During their lives as the President and first lady, he ran the show and she stayed in the background, and twice, they escaped assassination attempts.

Throughout the decade of President Charles de Gaulle's rule, his wife was popularly known as "Tante Yvonne" (Aunt Yvonne). It was not so much a term of endearment as an irreverent label attached to a first lady regarded by many Frenchmen as profoundly out of step with her times.

de Gaulle's dominant personality left no room for anyone — not even his wife — to influence him. The widespread belief that she could make or break a minister or presidential aide appalled the first lady, who deliberately kept behind the scenes throughout her husband's public career.

Yvonne de Gaulle was always a woman of simple, even frugal tastes, well suited to her austere and haughty husband. She much preferred her cosy country home in Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises to the ornate and drafty Elysee Palace, official residence of French presidents.

When de Gaulle swept to power in 1958, she agreed to move to Paris, only after de Gaulle promised they would spend a weekend a month in Colombey.

He kept his promise, and she could be seen on those weekends shopping at the village grocery, discreetly trailed by security men.

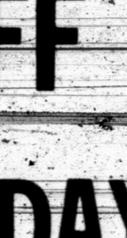

The trips became so regular that in 1961 rightists opposed to independence in the French holding of Algeria planted a remote-controlled bomb beside the road to Colombey and detonated it as the de Gaulles passed. But it exploded fractions of a second late, and the couple escaped injury. A year later, de Gaulle and Yvonne had another narrow escape in a spectacular machinegun assassination attempt on the outskirts of Paris.

Brown Formally Enters Race For White House

By DOUG WILLIS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination today, saying that the nation's current leaders are "simply inadequate to steer the ship of state."

Brown says he stands for protection of the Earth, service to the people and exploration and industrialization of space.

That was the theme of a brief statement with which Brown said, "I offer myself as a candidate for the White House because the nation's current leadership is not adequate.

"Presidential leadership often seems the exception rather than the rule," he said. "It's time to wake up America, to build for the future, not steal from it."

He vowed: "I'm going to offer an alternative."

With that, Brown formally launched his challenge to President Carter and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the latter already on the road campaigning for the nomination. Carter is to announce his candidacy on Dec. 4.

Brown said he is the candidate of the future, and that is what the nation needs.

"Today is the first day of my campaign ... for the tea leaves of the polls, I leave those to others," he said.

He called for a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget. And he proposed a national energy corporation to develop and manage the country's oil supply and said he would impose government control over petroleum imports.

He also urged that public representatives, named by the president, be appointed to the boards of directors of all multi-national corporations.

Brown, the son of a former governor of California, announced his candidacy at the National Press Club.

"This is basically David against Goliath," Brown said at a series of pre-announcement news conferences. "I have neither the great power of incumbency nor all the tremendous opportunities of the senator from Massachusetts."

"I have the resources to carry my message through the early primaries," he said. "I may not do it in a first-class jet plane, but I have the physical and financial wherewithal to do it, and I'm telling you I will do it."

"This thing is a marathon, and I will be in it as long as I think it makes sense to continue running. If I have to hitchhike, if I have to take buses, if I have to do whatever, I will get there."

Brown, whose late start-ing campaign in 1976 beat Carter in all three states where they both were on primary ballots, said before his announcement he knew he was starting the 1980 race a distant third — both in the polls and in raising money.

Even in California, Brown trails Kennedy and Carter in a local poll. He has raised only $260,000 since July, far short of the $1.5 million his finance chairman says is needed to make it through the New Hampshire primary Feb. 26 and Massachusetts the following week.

But, in the pre-announcement news conferences, Brown sharply disputed suggestions that his campaign may run out of money and fold before the New Hampshire voting.

Breakfast At Legion Slated For Saturday

Layne-Kite Post 181 of the American Legion will have its annual Veterans Day Pancake Breakfast Saturday at the post home at 1802 Ave. R. Serving will continue from 6-9 a.m. Pancakes, bacon and coffee will be served.

The breakfast is for all veterans and their families.

An American Legion spokesman extended a special invitation to all veterans to come and visit old friends and to make new friends at the event that has become a tradition in Snyder. He said anyone wishing to pay their 1980 dues may do so at that time.

Veterans Day began as Armistice Day, celebrating the end of World War I, Nov. 11, 1918. In order to honor all veterans it was changed to Veterans Day after World War II.

In order to give a three day weekend the holiday was changed to the last Monday in October in the early seventies. However there was so much pressure from Veterans groups that the original date was adopted again this year.

Dallas Girl Still Missing

DALLAS (AP)—The parents of a 7-year-old girl missing since Oct. 23 have renewed their plea for public aid in the search for their daughter.

Elizabeth Barclay was abducted while walking to a neighborhood store with friends, witnesses said.

A reward fund for information leading to Elizabeth's safe return or the arrest and conviction of her kidnapper has reached $10,000.

Cattle found to have the disease brucellosis must be branded on the left jaw with a large "B" and sent directly to slaughter.

Says National Chairman, White...

Kennedy-Carter Clash Could Split Democrats

By GREG THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Kennedy-Carter clash puts Democrats in the "extremely dangerous" position of becoming hopelessly split and handing the 1980 presidential election to the Republicans, warns Democratic National Chairman John White.

"The only chance the Republicans have is for us to run a bitter, tough campaign and split the party. If we don't have enough sense to keep the party together, we deserve to get beaten," White said here Wednesday night following Sen. Edward Kennedy's announcement in Massachusetts that he is challenging President Carter.

"It could happen. I hope it doesn't. I think we're in an extremely dangerous position," added White, a staunch Carter supporter. "I just want all of the candidates to remember that November is election day."

White fears Carter, Kennedy and California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., who formally announced today, will get into a bitter campaign based on personalities, not issues.

"They are going to have to be restrained," said White. "Kennedy's a pro. I'm not saying anything he doesn't know.

"I had the unpleasant task in 1978 of reminding Senate and House candidates that it's not good politics to run against an incumbent administration, the president and other Democrats," he added.

White said Carter ran "A healing campaign" in 1976 that has unified the Democratic Party. He said the party at present faces no seriously divisive issue, such as the Vietnam War.

White compared the Kennedy-Carter confrontation to spectacular train wrecks once staged in the Old West to attract buyers to land sales.

"It's going to be exciting and create a lot of interest. But when it's over, I hope we don't have two wrecked trains," he said.

"I'm just trying to warn some people. It may be fun to criticize, raise hell and make fun of people you disagree with. They just have to remember that the alternative might be (Republican contenders) John Connally or Ronald Reagan. It's not easy to unify a party once it becomes split."

White was in San Antonio for the Democratic National Committee's 1979 meeting, which he said had been transformed from a tranquil, routine gathering into a "political event" with Kennedy's announcement.

White said he feels about 60 percent of the 363 DNC members support Carter.

"I have no compunction about supporting the president," said White. "I think he has done a real good job. He has a good record that deserves renomination and re-election," said White.

Your Birthday

November 9, 1979

Friends will play key roles in your affairs this coming year. This could be especially true of pals who now live a distance from you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't let your sound judgment desert you in financial matters today. Should your discipline weaken, you could make some foolish expenditures. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Unfortunately, you may not fully capitalize on your opportunities today, owing to a tendency to take them for granted. Don't miss the boat.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It isn't that you're afraid to make tough decisions today. The danger is that you may suddenly change what you decided to do for the sake of expediency.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You are able to manage situations competently for others today, provided there is not too much outside interference. If kibitzers get into the act, it's another story.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Someone could make you some rather lavish promises today, but it's best you take them with a grain of salt. They may not be able to deliver when the chips are down.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The spirit may be willing today, but the flesh could be weak. There is a possibility you might start projects in which you will lose interest before finishing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Overindulgence is something you may have to guard against today, or you'll regret it tomorrow. Eat, drink and be merry — but do so sensibly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be generous and giving towards others today, but be careful you don't go to extremes. The gesture is more important than its size.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your friends like you for what you are, so the use of affectations today is completely unnecessary. "To thine own self be true."

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Financially, conditions look rather interesting for you today, with the exception of where gambles are concerned. Don't expect something for nothing.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Normally, your practical outlook enables you to see things for what they are. Today, however, you could kid yourself into believing the situation is better than it really is.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your immense appeal to those of the opposite sex could turn your head today, involving you in a situation fraught with complications.

Ira Hosts Trent Gorillas...

Area Squads On Rebound

AREA — With hopes of district championships gone down the tube until next year, area gridders will be looking to save pride Friday night.

Hermleigh travels to McCaulley, Hobbs trys Highland, Ira hosts Trent and Borden County entertains Roby.

Hermleigh's Cardinals will be looking to avenge back-to-back losses Friday at 7 when they travel to McCaulley to meet the roller-coaster Eagles.

McCaulley — which has made spirited progress with its athletic programs since a tragic bus wreck a year ago — is as good as its top player, James Jeffery. Frankly, when Jeffery is in good health, the Eagles fly high. When not, the competancy of the team diminishes somewhat.

Hobbs will be attempting to rebound from the wake left when Trent marched through 46-6 last week. Highland, which follows Trent almost game for game this year, took advantage of the fact against Hermleigh last week, and would like to do the same Friday when hosting Hobbs.

The loss was Hobbs' second in a row after going 6-0 early in the season.

Ira gets the Gorillas this week, spelled B-E-A-V-E-R-S. The Beavers are a couple of brothers and a cousin that have been ravaging Panthers, Cardinals, Lions and other opponents all season long. The Bulldogs don't wish to become Trent's latest victim. A victory at 7 Friday could give the Ira program a real lift.

Finally, Borden County, 4-5 on the season, would like to conclude its year with a 500 mark and it can do so with a win over Roby Friday. It will be Gail's final 11-man contest for some time, as the Coyotes are slated to drop to 6-man ball in 1980. Game time is 7:30.

In the District 3-AAA circle, Snyder is idle this week while Brownfield hosts Lamesa and Sweetwater travels to Lake View.

7:30 Tonight...

Tigers Try Cubs Here

Coach Joyce Elrod and company are aware that next Tuesday's match in Lamesa is a crucial one, but she warns the Tigers can't overlook a good Brownfield squad here tonight.

Snyder's Tigers, looking for a fourth straight District 3-3A volleyball championship, host the Cubs at SHS Gym, 7:30. A junior varsity game will open the evening's fare at 6:30.

"The last time we played Brownfield they were without their best player," said Elrod. "They don't have the real good hitters, but Brownfield has the defense to pick up anything and everything you hit to them. We'll have to work on keeping them moving defensively," she noted earlier in the week.

"We're not going to underestimate them. We have to win every game. We can't let up on any of them."

Snyder won the first round of district play last week, thereby gaining entry to any district playoffs, if necessary. A clean sweep of Brownfield and Lamesa would give the Tigers an outright loop title.

Tickets for tonight's double-header featuring the Tigers and the undefeated junior varsity team — are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Holmes, Tate Fight Is In The Works

NEW YORK (AP) — The noise you hear in the background is the beating of the publicity drums for the one-and-only heavyweight champion of the world between Larry Holmes and John Tate.

Sure, Holmes, who rules the World Boxing Council's share of the planet, has signed to fight Lorenzo Zanon of Italy, possibly in Tokyo in February on March. Yes, John Tate, the World Boxing Association champ, is scheduled to fight Earnie Shavers, Ron Lyle or the winner of the Scott LeDoux-Mike Weaver fight in February and Gerry Cooney in May, if Cooney beats Dino Dennis at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

But those fights could be wiped out if promoters Don King, tied to Holmes, and Bob Arum, connected with Tate, can agree on terms for a Holmes-Tate fight. But it's much more likely these fights will take place before a Tate-Holmes agreement is reached.

Yanks Putting Bricks In Place Quickly

NEW YORK (AP) — The reconstruction of the New York Yankees was expected to continue today when free agents Bob Watson and Rudy May officially sign contracts with George Steinbrenner's club.

That means over the last dozen days, the Yankees have hired a new manager and a new general manager, completed two six-player trades, signed two free agents and prevented two others from going into the re-entry draft.

How's that for reconstruction?

Following Billy Martin's adventure with the marshmallow man in Minnesota, Steinbrenner hired Dick Howser as his new manager and Gene Michael as the new GM.

Then the owner blocked the moves toward free agency of first baseman Jim Spencer and shortstop Bucky Dent by signing them to new, lucrative, long-term contracts.

Then came the trades with Seattle and Toronto delivering center fielder Ruppert Jones and catcher Rick Cerone among others.

Now, it's Watson to provide right-handed punch to a lefty-laden lineup, and May as an added arm for either the bullpen or starting rotation.

Watson, the Yankees' No. 1 selection in last Friday's re-entry draft, did not come cheaply. The 33-year-old first baseman who split last year in Houston and Boston, reportedly agreed to a four-year deal worth close to $2 million. Compared to that, the $1 million, three-year pact that May received puts the 35-year-old pitcher who was drafted fourth by New York in the bargain basement category.

The Yankees had hoped that pitcher Bruce Kison, their second re-entry pick, could be part of today's signing spectacular. He also is a client of attorney Tom Reich, who negotiated Watson's contract with New York. But Kison is not close to signing with anybody yet.

Lloyd Leads Prix Pack

STUTTGART, West Germany (AP) — Chris Evert Lloyd, Tracy Austin and Billie Jean King advanced to the second round of a $100,000 Grand Prix tournament.

Lloyd defeated Marita Redondo 6-1, 6-2; Austin downed Leslie Allen 6-3, 6-3 and King beat defeated Helena Anliot of Sweden 6-3, 6-3.

In other matches, Sweden's Nina Bohm defeated Ann Kiyomura 6-2, 5-7, 6-1; Australia's Wendy Turnbull defeated Barbara Potter 6-4, 6-4; South Africa's Iliana Kloss defeated Iva Budarova of Czechoslovakia 6-0, 2-6, 7-6 and Stacy Margolin upset Betty Stove of the Neatherlands 6-3, 6-1.

Akers Promises Longhorn Effort

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas sophomore halfback Brad Beck and junior linebacker Mark Martignoni, have been promoted ahead of two seniors for the Houston game on Saturday night.

Texas Coach Fred Akers also told the Longhorn Club on Wednesday non-letterman John Tobolka may start in place of tackle Terry Tausch, who hurt his knee in Texas' 14-6 victory over Texas Tech last Saturday.

Akers said Beck and Martignoni earned their promotions "as a result of the Texas Tech game." Beck will replace senior LeRoy King and Martignoni moved ahead of Chuck Holloway, another senior.

Akers said defensive tackle Steve Massey sustained a deep thigh bruise, but the coaches' "main concern" was the injury to Tausch, a 260-pound, sophomore. He said it would be Friday before doctors would know whether Tausch might play.

Offensive guard Joe Shearin and halfback A.J. "Jam" Jones also were hurt in the Tech game, but Akers said they should be ready to play.

The Tech victory, said Akers, "was a costly one, but we're training new faces to take up the slack ...I promise you this. Whoever makes the trip and goes on the football field will give it everything he's got."

Houston is 8-0 and ranked No. 5 in college football. Texas, 6-1, is ranked No. 8.

Officials Ponder New 2-4A Agenda, Policies

The first of what may be a series of meetings has taken place between officials of the newly formed District 2-4A.

The district, set up by the University Interscholastic League Athletic Office, will go into effect in 1980 and will continue through 1981. The UIL may then decide to re-district the nine teams or not, school enrollments obviously being a large factor in the decision.

The schools which make up the new district are Snyder, San Angelo Lake View, Sweetwater and Lamesa of the present 3-3A, and Odessa Ector, Andrews, Fort Stockton, Pecos and Monahans of 2-3A.

Officials from the schools met in Midland on Tuesday to begin working out the many agreements necessary to operate in the larger district. Neal Chastain, superintendent of schools at Lamesa, was named chairman of the district's executive committee and will hold that position for a year.

Several of the items accomplished at the meeting included:

1. Decided upon a district varsity football schedule.
2. Determined the number of referees (5) to call district football games.
3. Decided to let respective coaches work out the business of deciding referees at a meeting which was to be held 9:30 this morning in Odessa.
4. Appointed a committee of Chastain, ECISD athletic director Jack Brewer, AISD superintendent Brody Hutchinson, and SAISD athletic director Dick Rittman to revise district policies. The policy-making committee is to report back to the executive committee in 30 days.
5. Set football ticket prices at $2.50 (per home game) for season tickets holders, $3 all other adult tickets, $2 students at the gate, and $1 student tickets bought at school.
5. Voted to meet again at 9:30 a.m. Dec. 4 at Odessa College.
6. Have each school draw up a motion regarding basketball and volleyball play to be considered by the executive committee. A deadline of Nov. 20 was set for the proposals.

Volleyball and basketball scheduling seemed to be the largest problems encountered at the meeting. Due to the extreme amount of travel involved, a proposal to zone the district was offered. Lamesa representatives however, said they would be against such a move.

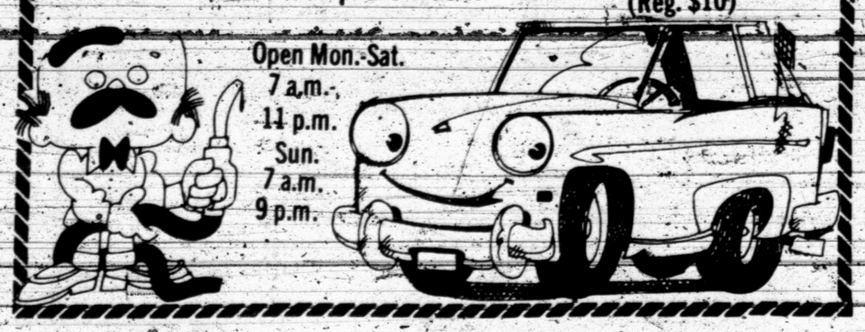

Officials also discussed a round-robin tournament, and an eight-game district schedule followed by a (single) round-robin tournament, but neither idea was agreed upon. Officials hope that by having the schools submit proposals a plan can be worked out at the Dec. 4 meeting.

Holtz's Hogs Get Better

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—University of Arkansas football coach Lou Holtz said Wednesday the Razorbacks are getting "better and better." He was pleased with the team's intensity.

"Our team's attitude has been good all year, but this week has been the best we've had," Holtz said. The Razorbacks are preparing for Saturday's Southwest Conference clash with Baylor in Fayetteville.

"The only thing I did not like about the practice was that the ball was on the ground too much," Holtz said. "It was not just one guy all the time, but instead a guy here and a guy there. You cannot put the ball on the ground and expect to win."

Offensive tackle Greg Kolenda and offensive guard George Stewart tightened their lock on starting positions after their third straight day of practice. Both had been sidelined with injuries and returned to practice Monday.

Defensive tackle Danny Phillips, who had been bothered by a groin injury, returned to practice, but Holtz said freshmen Billy Ray Smith will start in Phillips's place.

Holtz said the key to the Baylor game will be the amount of pressure the defense can put on the passer and how well the Razorbacks defend against the pass.

Friday At WTC Gym...

Dusters Host Temple

Coach Joe Cushing believes his Dusters are ready for Temple Junior College here Friday night, and that means they are ready for a real shootout.

"Temple has got a lot of tradition. They've been to nationals several times in the history of their girl's basketball program and perennially they are one of the toughest teams in their region. It usually winds up between them and Tyler Junior College," said Cushing this morning.

Temple offers loads of talent in 6-2 post Rae White, 5-11 Debbie Polk and 5-5 Cynthia Barefield.

"They are known for their physical style of play, their fast break and good defense," he added of tomorrow's 7 p.m. opponent. "They have one of the outstanding point guards in the country in Cynthia Barefield. She's a very talented one on one player and an excellent outside shooter."

The Dusters defeated Texas Tech University 74-68 here Tuesday night to establish a 2-0 record for the young season. Cushing added, "We're looking at a very good ball club much like we played against Tuesday night. And we're going to have to play just as hard against Temple as we did Tech in order to win."

But Cushing, in his second season at Western Texas College, commented, "We had a real good workout yesterday and I'm looking forward to having another one today. I was real pleased that we came off the Tech game and got our heads into the workouts quickly. The girls are aware of the type ballclub we'll be facing Friday and I think they'll be ready for them. We're looking forward to a good ballgame."

Tonya Ivie is still questionable. To add to knee problems, the 5-7 freshman from Frenship came down with the flu and has missed some workouts. Jennifer Gregg, who sacked up 14 points against Tech, injured an Achillies tendon in the game, but appears she will be in good shape by Friday.

The game will be held at the college gym. Tickets are $2 and $1. High school and college coaches presenting identification will be admitted free.

Glancing At SHS Basketball...

All For One, Lots For All

By BILL McCLELLAN

HOW EQUALITY minded are you?

Equal rights, all that. Sometimes these things go almost too far, but don't worry, everybody's getting their fair share.

A RECENT example is in the basketball scheduling for this year. First, congratulations to the Tigers and District 3-3A for scheduling boys and girls varsity games together this year.

It was done some last year in an effort to draw larger crowds and make travel easier. Apparently it worked, because Snyder has several nights of basketball scheduled this year where the girls and boys varsities play back-to-back.

But equality hasn't ended there. In an effort to be super fair, officials have decided that it's wrong for the girls to always play at 6:15 in these double-headers. Why should the boys play the late game every time?

SOOOOOOO, THEY changed it. This year, the squads will alternate, more or less. For instance at Lubbock on Jan. 18, Snyder's girls varsity plays at 6:30, followed by the boys at 8. Then, at the coliseum on the 22nd, the boys play at 6:15 and the girls play at 8.

ALL THIS equality bit is fine, unless you're the one making out the schedules. Thank goodness, we have AD John Gary and his cohorts to do that. But as a sportswriter, supposedly keeping up with all of this, I fine myself getting lost when looking through the four-page composite basketball schedule.

Last year you could count on the boys playing at a certain time and the girls playing at an equally certain time. Because they didn't play at the same site, it was easy. And when they did play at the same site, it was always girls 6:15, boys 8.

MAYBE I'm nitpicking, but with the new system it's not that way. Sometimes the boys play first, sometimes the girls.

I know, I know, you're saying "Look at the schedule, Dummy."

Well, I plan to do that. But let me give you an idea of what we're up against. Ready? Here goes.

Snyder schools, that is to say boys and girls varsity, JV, sophomore, freshman and eighth graders will play 160 non-tournament games this season. I said 160. Eighty-two are at home.

That does not include 19 tournaments, three of which are local. I figure at least two games per tournament, which is 38 more contests, making a total of at least 198 games. It could easily be more, depending on how well Snyder teams do in the tournaments.

NOW, BETWEEN Nov. 15 and Feb. 19 (inclusive) there are 96 days. Take away Sundays and Wednesdays and you've got 69 days. Take away three extra days during the Christmas break, and you've got 66 days to play 198 or more basketball games.

Friends that averages to three games each and every day. A lot of basketball.

But wait, WTC plays at least 53 games between the 15th and Feb. 28. Now, if we add those in...

Forget that. You understand what's going on now, right? I really pity guys like Gary who have to draw these things up. But at least he can close himself up in his office and giggle after he's distributed the schedules.

I'll bet he's laughing right now.

Mama Steamed At Southern Methodist

HOUSTON (AP)—The mother of Craig James, the Southern Methodist freshman and 1978 all-state schoolboy football star, says she is mad and has told Coach Ron Meyer so.

"I'm mad," Mrs. Charlie Vickers said.

"I talked to Coach Meyer and I told him if he didn't have plans to utilize Craig to his fullest ability, we would make other arrangements. Alabama was Craig's second choice last year."

Mrs. Vickers was reacting to Dallas reports James is unhappy because he will not be in the starting lineup Saturday when SMU meets Wichita State.

"Transferring is the last thing I want to do but there is a chance," James was quoted as saying.

"What Craig said was true," Mrs. Vickers said. But the Houston Chronicle quoted James as saying in a telephone interview he had seen a report he had mentioned the possibility of transferring to Alabama and had told Meyer during Wednesday's practice session "there was nothing to it, that I was here to play football."

"I'm gonna stay here," the Chronicle quoted James as saying. "Good days are ahead, there's no doubt about it. I'm gonna compete, that's what it's all about."

Mrs. Vickers said she and her son are upset because they feel he has been arbitrarily removed from the starting lineup for another all-state player, Eric Dickerson.

"Coach Meyer assured me they would use Craig to his fullest ability, so we'll see," she said. "We'll sit down at the end of the season and examine everything."

Boston Riding High...

Celtics Sear Spurs

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Celtics are running like sprinters with five consecutive victories and a 9-2 record in the National Basketball Association. But Coach Bill Fitch is far from satisfied.

"It may sound funny, but we need to run more in practice—at least five miles more a day," Fitch said Wednesday night after the Celtics raced to a 117-105 victory over the San Antonio Spurs.

"Even though we won, I'm not really happy with the way we played," Fitch said. "After the first period, I didn't like our shooting, passing or running.

"We made some dumb defensive plays when we were in the penalty situation and we had some guys out there who tired. However, the big play or big pass was there when we had our backs to the wall."

Controlling the boards and running and passing in whirlwind fashion, Boston charged to a 38-21 first period lead.

However, the attack slowed, and San Antonio closed to within 57-47 at half time.

The Celtics came to life again in the third period, hiking the lead to 20 points, 78-58, but the Spurs refused to quit. San Antonio cut its deficit to three, 87-84, early in the final quarter before Boston broke open the game on two field goals by M.L. Carr and a basket and free throw by Cedric Maxwell.

"The first period was awesome, but then we went to an individual style and we lost our running game," said Carr, who finished with 25 points. "We lacked a killer instinct.

"We wanted to run with them—and we proved we can run with anyone if we play as a team," said Nate Archibald, who had 15 points and 17 assists.

"Every other team has tried to slow the ball down on us, but they were shooting at us." San Antonio marksman George Gervin said after leading all scorers with 29 points.

"We just had to try to apply the break to the tempo.

"It was a good effort by both teams," San Antonio Coach Doug Moe said. "We put out a good effort, and I can't complain. The Celtics were excellent."

Rockets Begin To Ignite Now

HOUSTON (AP)—Houston Rockets center Moses Malone is putting the rest of the National Basketball Association on notice that his team's once-vaunted, but recently sputtering offense is coming around.

With their shooting touch back and a newly developed defense, he says, the Rockets will be as tough to beat as they were Wednesday, when they dropped the New Jersey Nets 106-101.

This win was the second in a row for the Rockets, improving a miserable 2-7 season start to 4-7 and lifting Houston out of the NBA Central Division cellar.

"The big difference between us winning these two games and the games we have lost is that the ball is starting to go in the hole for us, and we're playing good defense," said Malone, who finished the game with 27 points and 19 rebounds.

It came around for Houston offensively and defensively in the first half of Wednesday night's game as the Rockets jumped to a 51-43 halftime lead after holding New Jersey to a 36 percent shooting average, just 20 of 55 from the floor.

The Rockets maintained the eight-point lead through the third quarter and were ahead 90-82 with 7:33 left to play when New Jersey assistant Coach Bo MacKinnon, who took over for head Coach Kevin Loughery after he was ejected from the game in the first half, sent in four substitutes.

It began to look like another fold for Houston as New Jersey outscored the Rockets 11-4 during the next three minutes and closed to within one point, 94-93, on two free throws by ex-Rocket Mike Newlin.

But Houston mounted a rally of its own behind the shooting of Malone and Robert Reid, who combined for 17 fourth quarter points to stave off the New Jersey rally.

Reid finished the game with 18 points for the Rockets, while Rudy Tomjanovich added 17.

Rich Kelly led the Nets offensive charge with 18 points, and John Williamson hit 17.

McEnroe Tops Open List

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—John McEnroe outlasted Fritz Buehning 4-6, 6-2, 6-2 in the second round of the $210,000 Stockholm Open.

In other action, Marty Reissen overcame Swede Birger Andersson 6-2, 4-6, 6-0; Sherwood Stewart got by Frew McMillan of South Africa 4-6, 6-3, 6-2; Brian Gottfried whipped Thomas Hogstedt of Sweden 6-1, 6-3 and Hank Pfister beat Steve Krulevitz 6-3, 6-4.
