Q: I live in the Ira area and have a two-party line. Will this affect my 911 service?

A: No. Your address and phone number will appear to the 911 dispatcher on a computer screen, just like residents without party lines. However, those with four-party lines are the exception. When these residents dial 911, their phone number will appear and the dispatcher must then cross reference the number to get the address.

Snyder public schools...

Drug testing policy mulled

A policy requiring public school employees who transport students or staff to submit to an annual drug test was the primary topic of focus during Monday's Snyder public schools trustees workshop.

Also discussed were a benefits committee, a Texas Association of School Boards policy update, and a date for evaluation of the superintendent. The board took no action during a special executive session to discuss personnel.

Trustees reviewed a local drug policy which, if approved as stated, would go into effect Dec. 1. The five-page policy would require all personnel who operate or repair motor vehicles used for the transportation of students or staff to submit to a drug test, without prior notice, once each school year. An employee who refuses to take the test could be dismissed.

During the summer, the board recommended instituting drug testing for Snyder ISD bus drivers, and eventually allocated some $5,000 for that purpose in the 1991-92 budget. However, it was pointed out during the workshop that the policy reviewed Monday, which takes into account any employee who transports students or staff, would involve 30 percent or more of Snyder ISD personnel and could cost more than $10,000.

Those figures have not deterred board members, however, who may consider making drug testing a requirement for all employees in the future.

"I would like for us to have the money to drug test everybody and then have an option for cause. I don't think we should have anybody working for Snyder schools that is using illegal drugs," said Trustee Terry Martin, who later added, "I just think we are half-way doing it if we're not testing all employees. If anybody ought to do it, it ought to be the school systems."

The drug tests have been roughly estimated at $75 each, meaning that the cost of testing 400 employees would amount to approximately $30,000.

However, the board may decide to act first on the proposal as outlined Monday, and wait to consider expanding it to include all personnel. Trustees will consider the policy during their next monthly board meeting, scheduled for Nov. 17.

Martin did ask that the policy be changed to state "Any employee refusing to submit to a drug and/or alcohol test will be dismissed."

20 indicted by grand jury

Twenty indictments, including six sealed indictments, were handed down by a Scurry County grand jury late Monday afternoon.

A 17-year-old Big Spring man was indicted for aggravated assault of a police officer. Francisco Vega is free after posting a $25,000 bond following an Oct. 26 vehicle chase involving local law enforcement. The charge stems from the chase in which Vega attempted to hit a vehicle occupied by Snyder police officer Carl Plock.

Winners were determined using the tie-breaker procedure, whereby total points scored are predicted.

Mark Thompson, of HC R67, Box 12, won the first place prize of $50, predicting 40 points. The actual score was Snyder 35, French 6, or 44 total points.

Jeff Reed of 3412 44th took the second place prize of $25, guessing 15 points. Tommy Clayton of Rt. 3, Box 165 B won the third place $15, calling for 36 points.

The contest will continue as long as Snyder is in the playoffs.

Winners will be mailed their checks. Another contest appears in this issue.

immediately. The policy as presented stated an employee refusing to submit to such a test "may" be dismissed immediately.

In addition to random or unannounced drug testing, the policy also states that an employee engaged in the operation or repair of motor vehicles transporting students who is "reasonably suspected" of being under the influence of illegal drugs or alcohol at work may be required to submit to testing as a condition of continued employment.

In other discussion, board president Sam Robertson asked that the board consider a benefits committee composed of one elected faculty member and one elected student.

1/2-cent sales tax, zoning on agenda for council tonight

Routine business, including the second reading of several ordinances, and a continuation of a work session are on the agenda for Snyder city council during its November meeting today at 6:30 p.m.

A work session begun last week on the proposed 1/2-cent sales tax election is scheduled to continue during tonight's meeting. Council members are working on bylaws governing the economic development corporation, a to-be-named five-member board which would administer an estimated $300,000 generated from the portion of the tax tagged for economic development if the issue is passed by voters.

In October, the council accepted on first reading an ordinance ordering a Jan. 18 election on the sales tax in which 1/2 of the tax would go for economic development and 1/4 would be used for ad valorem tax relief. The ordinance, along with four other unrelated ordinances, will be given a second reading at tonight's meeting.

Among other issues facing the council are a number of addressing and zoning considerations. Agenda items include the renaming of certain segments of streets for 911 purposes, review of the Guzman subdivision of the Nunn addition in response to a zoning request, consideration of a zoning change in the 2900 block of 25th St. and consideration of traffic signs at the intersections of 29th St. and Aves. T, U, X and Y.

Replacing lime with caustic soda for use at the water treatment plant will be reviewed by the council. The use of the soda is more cost effective and efficient in treating the water, according to city staff.

Also on the agenda are a request from the chamber of commerce for hotel/motel tax funds for its Christmas promotion, consideration of candidates for Scurry County Appraisal Board, review of public safety programs, including the 911 system, and discussion of alternative meeting dates for council meetings.

Under informational items, the council will review the resignation of Joe Coronado, former councilman of District 3. Coronado resigned from the council last month after he moved out of the district

Two elderly female fans finally worked up enough courage to approach Yogi. They said, "Mr. Berra, we admire you so much, and you look so cool."

Yogi smiled, "Well, thank you so much ladies. You don't look so hot yourself."

Judge dismisses case to force lawyers to work for the poor

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Bar of Texas praised the dismissal of a lawsuit that would have forced lawyers to devote 50 hours of free legal work per year for the poor, saying that volunteerism would solve the problem.

But James Harrington, legal director for the Texas Civil Rights Project, said Monday that State District Judge Joseph Hart's decision was a setback for poor people.

The upshot of Hart's ruling is that if you're poor you don't have equal access to the courts, you don't have equal justice," he said.

He said he would appeal the decision to the 3rd Court of Appeals by the end of the year.

According to a State Bar survey, nearly 70 percent of the legal needs of 1.5 million poor people are not being met because they cannot afford an attorney. Harrington said nine out of 10 lawyers fail to live up to their code of professional conduct, which states that they should provide free legal services to the poor.

"Equal justice under the law doesn't mean anything if you can't get into the courthouse. Judge Hart's ruling basically means that the only people who have a guarantee to get into the courthouse right now are people that can afford a lawyer," Harrington said.

But Eric Galton of Austin, an attorney representing the State Bar, said forcing a lawyer to work for nothing was unconstitutional. He said efforts were under way to encourage lawyers to help the poor.

The court's ruling only serves to redouble the commitment to providing voluntary pro bono problem. "We've made some progress, and the Texas Bar's pro bono program is considered a legal services to the poor," he said.

Bob Dunn of Houston, president of the State Bar, said a recently adopted plan to increase pro bono work will help alleviate this leader in the nation.

The lawsuit, filed on behalf of three farmworkers, would have required Texas attorneys to donate 50 hours of pro bono work each year as a condition for keeping their licenses.

Judge Hart said his dismissal of the case had nothing to do with the merits of the challenge, but that he lacked the authority to rule on "constitutional questions in the abstract." He said since the Texas Supreme Court has authority over the conduct of lawyers, it should decide the matter.

Waller Co. attorney's marriage probed

HEMPSTEAD, Texas (AP) — An investigation is under way to determine if Waller County Attorney Valda Combs violated state law in August when she married a man whose divorce was not yet final, a prosecutor says.

Montgomery County District Attorney Peter Speers said Monday that his office is investigating Combs' marriage to Devon Alexander Morgan, 33.

Morgan's divorce from Sandra Denise English is pending in Harris County, court records show.

"Obviously, bigamy in Texas is a felony," Speers said. "It is being committed either by marrying somebody when you are still married to somebody else, as records indicate Mr. Morgan is, or if you marry somebody knowing they're married to someone else."

"That applies to Valda Combs if in fact she was aware he was married and had a still-pending divorce," Speers said.

Combs told the Houston Chronicle that she and Morgan had legal advice and did what they thought was correct under the law.

She said Morgan could not locate his wife, and a final hearing on the divorce, just before his wedding to Combs, never took place.

"We had spent quite a bit of money, and we had people and family coming in from all over the state and from other countries," Combs said. "We were never going to turn in that license. Once the divorce was final, we were going to go to someplace like (Las Vegas and get married there.)"

In my point of view, the legality of a marriage is separate and apart from the ceremonial nature of a marriage," she said. "We are both devout people, and we, in our hearts, did not and do not believe we were making a mockery of the ceremony."

Combs, 35, who became Waller County's first black woman to hold public office in 1989, married Morgan in a ceremony at Mount Corinth Baptist Church in Hempstead on Aug. 31.

The Rev. Lloyd Crosby, who helped perform the ceremony, said he would not have gone through with the wedding if he had known that one of the parties was not yet divorced.

Speers, who has admitted he dislikes Combs, said he probably will ask that a special prosecutor be appointed to handle any case against her.

Dr. Gott Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been taking Medrol for a skin rash on and off for six years. I may take the medication for six days and not take it again for six months or a year. I read in the Physicians' Desk Reference that prolonged use of this drug can cause glaucoma, cataracts or optic nerve damage. Is my usage considered "prolonged?"

DEAR READER: Cortisone, in the form of Medrol or prednisone, is a miraculous drug for many diseases. By shutting down the immune system, it reduces inflammation that, in some conditions such as severe allergies, can be life-threatening. Cortisone is also used to treat autoimmune disorders and to prevent rejection of organ transplants.

Despite its advantages, however, cortisone must be used with caution. Not only does it reduce the body's immune response — a dangerous characteristic in bacterial infections — it also leads to cataracts, diabetes, brittleness of bones, alteration of facial characteristics, and a host of other unwanted side effects. Further, long-term therapy (more than two or three weeks) causes the adrenal glands to stop manufacturing natural cortisone, therefore, a sudden discontinuation of cortisone treatment can cause adrenal shock, which can be fatal. Thus, the dose is usually tapered.

Nonetheless, short courses of cortisone are relatively safe. In fact, it's more dangerous to take one cortisone pill a day for many months than it is to take 10 pills a day for a short period.

Your pattern of intermittent medical therapy is probably safe, provided you take the medicine only under your doctor's supervision. Your dosage would be considered to be "pulsed" therapy, not prolonged use. I emphasize that you should take this drug under close medical supervision, if your doctor prescribes it, you may use it.

Nevertheless, there may be other more appropriate options for you to consider. For instance, cortisone cream is safer than pills (because the side effects on the body as a whole are lessened). Also, were you to see a dermatologist for your recurring rash, such a specialist might prescribe alternative therapy. Again, your doctor can advise you.

Because eczema commonly causes a chronic rash that may wax and wane, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Eczema and Psoriasis." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Cholera remedies

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Here is a home rehydration solution that is recommended by the Texas Department of Health for treatment of cholera:

- 1 cup rice cereal
- 2 cups water (boiled for three minutes then cooled)
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Slowly add water and salt to cereal. Stir until well mixed.

For infants: One teaspoon every two or three minutes for a total of about 1/2 cup every hour. Also, continue normal feeding schedule.

For older children and adults: One teaspoon every minute or two for a total of between 1/2 cup and one cup every hour. The patient should continue to eat regular meals.

Other over-the-counter remedies for the dehydration that accompanies cholera include Rice-Lyte rehydration solution and Rehydralyte rehydration solution. Patients should drink liquids until they are no longer thirsty.

Consult a doctor immediately if uncontrollable, watery diarrhea persists for more than an hour, if the patient experiences unquenchable thirst and cannot match fluid loss with intake, if urine is concentrated, if the patient appears disoriented or if his or her eyes appear dark and sunken.

To avoid cholera:

— If you don't have city water on tap at home, boil water used for drinking, cooking, dish-washing and bathing. Add two drops of bleach to every quart of water. Let the water stand 10 minutes.

— Avoid food and beverages from illegal street vendors.

— Don't drink water in an unsafe area. This includes ice.

— Don't eat raw or partly uncooked food, especially fish and shellfish.

— Avoid unpasteurized dairy products.

— Before you travel to an area that may be infected, check with the Centers for Disease Control. Advisories in English (404) 332-4559.

Advisories in Spanish (404) 330-3132.

Ballerina gets in spotlight

NEW YORK (AP) — My Pretty Ballerina, a doll introduced last year by Tyco Industries, now comes alive in two vignettes from Scholastic Books. Preschoolers and little ones can enjoy the two stories whether or not they own the doll.

"Saturday Is Ballet Day" has My Pretty Ballerina pirouetting through class as her ballet teacher introduces a new girl.

In "In the Spotlight," My Pretty Ballerina readies for a recital when her teacher suddenly gets the flu and My Pretty Ballerina takes on the job of preparing the class for the big day during dress rehearsal.

"Saturday Is Ballet Day" shows kids how they can make a new pupil feel like one of the crowd. "In the Spotlight" teaches children that they can overcome the odds by taking on leadership roles and that "practice makes perfect."

Colorfully illustrated, the books' other characters include four other little ballerinas, all wearing different frilly tutus. Both books were written by Karen Backstein and illustrated by Cathy Beylon (Scholastic Books, $2.50 each, soft-cover).

Roasted Honey Nuts

NEW YORK (AP) — Skippy has introduced Roasted Honey Nut Skippy peanut butter, a combination of honey and freshly ground roasted peanuts.

Roasted Honey Nut Skippy Peanut Butter is milled twice, which makes it creamy and easy to spread. The Super Chunk variety contains pieces of honey-roasted nuts.

The older of the two independently published bridge magazines in England started in 1926 as Bridge Magazine. It is now just called Bridge. This monthly publication, with material for all levels from the club player to the expert, costs $35 a year, including transatlantic airmail (212-886-5860).

Today's hand is taken from an article by my favorite contributor, David Bird, who writes about the monks of St. Titus.

The Abbot was sitting South. He is a cantankerous person who enjoys a pint of beer, and he greatly overrates his bridge ability.

East won the first trick with the spade king, cashed the ace and switched to the club jack. The Abbot won in the dummy, ruffed a club in his hand and led the diamond-five: two, queen, eight.

If West had started with the K-2 doubleton in diamonds, declarer had to cash the ace. But if East had the 10-8 doubleton, declarer had to return to hand to lead the diamond jack, pinning the 10.

The Abbot went for the smoother play, ruffing a club in hand and leading the diamond jack. Now East had to score the diamond 10 to defeat the game.

"No need to chortle about it," said the Abbot. "Playing the world's most obvious false card from 10-8-3 hardly qualifies you for a knighthood."

"I was just a bit upset by the way you insulted me," replied East. "With 10-8 doubleton in diamonds, I would play back a third round of spades to force dummy to ruff and protect partner's king-to-three."

Liver replacement device may help avoid some transplants

HOUSTON (AP) — An artificial replacement device may allow people with failing livers to avoid transplants, two Baylor College of Medicine physicians who developed the device say.

Drs. Norman Sussman and James Kelly, who developed the device, said Monday the "liver assist" device is nearly ready for systematic testing in humans.

They said it has already been used on one extremely ill patient for whom the Houston physicians received special permission from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

The liver assist helped the patient, but she later developed an overwhelming infection and died, they said.

The doctors say they are nearly ready to submit an application to the FDA asking that they be allowed to use the artificial liver with 10 patients and assess its effectiveness.

The device was described at a meeting of the American Association for the Study of Liver Diseases.

Acute liver failure is fatal in 80 percent of cases without a liver transplant. The liver, however, will regenerate and become healthy in many cases if it can be relieved of its normal duties, Sussman said.

When kidneys and hearts fail, machines can take their places for a time, but there has been no such device for the liver.

The doctors said the problem involved in constructing such a device is that the liver, the body's largest organ, weighing as much as 4 pounds, plays a crucial role in three bodily functions: regulation of blood composition, metabolism and detoxification.

Kelly was able to develop a culture of liver cells that mimicked the activities of adult liver cells.

"They act like little livers," observed Sussman, so perhaps they could take over some of that organ's functions.

The liver assist device is a cartridge containing hollow fibers covered with the liver cells and looking much like a kidney dialysis cartridge. The patient's blood flows through the fibers, where the cells perform natural liver functions, and then is returned to the body.

The device has performed well in three animals, but it was in the human patient that the effects were most dramatic, Kelly said.

The woman was in a coma and near death when they received permission to use it under the FDA's special "compassionate use" rules, he said.

The patient had been in intensive care for nearly a month, and her liver functions were failing. "When we were called, she had been in a coma about two weeks," Kelly said. "Within one hour of connecting her to the device, she regained consciousness."

The woman became more and more lucid and could communicate with her family, he said. "It was very dramatic."

Kelly and Sussman believe their device can help people with immediate but reversible liver disease, whose causes can include hepatitis, overdoses of medications and poisonous substances such as some mushrooms.

Your Birthday

Nov. 5, 1991

You could be luckier than usual in achieving your goals in the year ahead, even though victories might not come on the first try. Your second efforts are dynamite.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You might have to deal with some uncertainties early in the day. However, your effectiveness increases with the ticking of the clock and, by afternoon, you should have everything under control. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you do not succeed on the first effort today, at least give yourself credit for what you've done. After patting yourself on the back, regroup and go again.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If your desires are purely materialistic today, gratification could evade you. For proper balance, think of ways to enrich your spirit as well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Friends will do things for you today because they like you, not because they feel obligated to do so. Smiles, not snarls, induce cooperativeness.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you take yourself and developments too seriously today, it will inhibit your progress. A philosophical outlook could put you in the winner's circle.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Instead of leaving an important matter up to a sometimes unreliable friend, take control of the situation yourself today, even though you'd prefer to do otherwise.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't get involved today with individuals who are not in harmony with your interests and objectives. If you do, you might find yourself in the middle of something you don't want to be part of.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you have a testy assignment you must take care of today, analyze its potential problems in advance. Don't run around without a game plan.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try not to be too possessive today of someone for whom you have a strong attraction. The looser the leash, the more responsive this individual will be toward you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In order to protect your position and interests today, you might have to do some sharp negotiating. Focus the thrust around your strong areas.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Whether you succeed or fail today will depend on your attitude. When dealing with difficulties, look for their positive attributes and begin from there.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're not likely to add to your assets with high risk ventures today, but you could profit if you proceed along prudent, practical lines.

Tourism, exports hurt by cholera

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Cholera that's been leaping borders in Latin America threatens the economies of the places it strikes.

With cholera reported in almost half of Mexico's 31 states, the country stands to forfeit a gold mine in tourism and billions in vegetable and seafood exports as well.

"Are we worried? Do you think we shouldn't be worried?" exclaims Jose Manuel Mascareñas, tourism director for Ciudad Juarez, a city that garners $385 million a year from U.S. vacationers.

"These unfounded (cholera) panics and rumors could do us tremendous damage."

Cipriano, Camacho Lopez's nightmare is that cholera will end his restaurant in Juarez.

"My customers are 100 percent tourists," said Cipriano, 56, nodding at his Juarez Market eatery on a recent weekend. "With bad press, all of this could disappear."

Experts say healthy, cautious tourists run a minimal risk of getting cholera. But tens of thousands of leery visitors have steered clear of Peru, where the first outbreak of cholera was reported early this year, costing $70 million in revenue by one estimate.

Cholera paranoia also created panicky and generally useless trade quarantines on foods suspected of carrying the disease.

Mexico still is blocking Peruvian fish and seafood exports, even though cholera has been on Mexican soil for four months. Costa Rica also briefly banned all produce imports from infected Guatemala.

The United States is inspecting, but not banning, imports from cholera-infected countries.

"There's really not much we can do in these (panic) situations," says Juan-Jose Mercado, of the National Association of Importers and Exporters of the Mexican Republic. "With or without bans, the impact on commerce is immediate. It's direct. People just don't buy."

In a worst-case cholera scenario, Mexico may not be able to avert some blows to its $2.5 billion in seafood and agricultural exports to the United States.

But when it comes to protecting its $3.4 billion tourism industry, officials won't just stand back and watch.

Lady Tigers battle Dumas in playoffs

The Snyder Lady Tigers and Dumas' Lady Demons will tangle today at 7 p.m. in bi-district Class 4A volleyball action at the Wayland Baptist University gym in Plainview.

Snyder, which boasts a 16-6 record and a second-place finish in District 2-4A, is in post-season play for the second straight year.

Dumas' 29-2 mark for the season assured the Lady Demons of a chance to defend its third consecutive state title as District 1 champion.

Snyder wound up the season trailing just Lamesa in loop wins with a 6-2 slate.

The Lady Tigers began the season with a mediocre 4-4 record and went on a six game winning streak which ended when they faced eventual district champion Lamesa at the end of the first half of loop play.

Another six-game binge, ended again by Lamesa, assured Snyder of a trip to the playoffs.

Admission to today's bi-district match is $3 for adults and $2 for students.

Also to be in action today are Lamesa's Lady Tors. They will face District 1 runner-up Hereford at Coronado High School in Lubbock.

Snyder team members include returning all-district performer Daisy Brazier, Stephanie Molina, Stephanie Fambro, Karri Blackledge, Melanie Duncan, Melody Sargent, Emma Skold, Joellen King, Lynette Sears, Julie Johnson and Amber Bowlin.

Head coach Patty Grinnett is assisted by Laura Holt.

Dye might resign as university's AD

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Auburn coach Pat Dye said he would consider stepping down as the school's athletic director if it is found that payments beyond those allowed by the NCAA were made to a football player who secretly recorded tapes.

"If the tapes are true, and the allegations are true, then what I'm guilty of is doing a damn poor job of management," Dye told The New York Times. "I knew that there was a danger there and I didn't manage it the way I should have."

Dye, who has been in his two roles since 1981, was referring Sunday to recordings made by Eric Ramsey, who played football at Auburn from 1986-90.

The coach refused on Monday to speak with a reporter from The Montgomery Advertiser about statements he made to reporters from The New York Times and The Chicago Tribune on Sunday. The Advertiser broke the story of the tapes Sept. 27.

Dye's administrative assistant, Jennifer Weete, returned a call for Dye.

"Coach Dye said he'd see you at the press conference tomorrow," she said. Dye holds a weekly news conference on Tuesday mornings during the football season.

On Sunday, The Birmingham News published a story that included transcripts of taped conversations Ramsey said he had with three men identified as assistant football coaches at Auburn. In these conversations, Ramsey is offered cash gifts and is told he will be aided in paying a car note and securing a loan.

Ramsey has identified the coaches as Steve Dennis, the Auburn secondary coach; Larry Blakeney, a former assistant coach who is now head coach at Troy State; and Frank Young, a former Auburn recruiting coordinator.

Monday Night Football...

Philadelphia thumps Giants

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Almost every week since the season started, Philadelphia Eagles coach Rich Kotite promised to give rookie James Joseph substantial playing time.

He finally did Monday night.

It took a back injury to Keith Byars in the third period of Monday's 30-7 win over the New York Giants for Kotite to turn to Joseph, a seventh-round draft pick this year.

Joseph responded with 68 yards and two touchdowns on 12 carries, but seven meetings, but banded as he helped the Eagles snap a four-game losing streak.

The Eagles boosted their record to 4-5 and left the defending champion Super Bowl Giants with the same numbers, both long shots to reach the playoffs.

Joseph said that at halftime he didn't expect to play.

"I was just fortunate to get a chance," said the 6-foot-2 running back out of Auburn.

"I'm sorry it came at Keith's expense," Joseph said, adding that Kotite told him this week he would play more.

The Eagles not only beat the Giants for the sixth time in their last seven meetings, but banded them their worst licking since a 44-7 loss to San Diego in 1980.

"We were mentally prepared but got beat physically. Obviously we didn't play well in many phases of the game," Giants coach Ray Handley said.

Jeff Hostetler was sacked four times and fumbled the ball away once under the rush of Reggie White, Clyde Simmons, Mike Pitts, Jerome Brown and Mike Golic. New York wound up with 46 yards on the ground and 134 passing.

"The Eagles defense played well across the board and I didn't have time to throw," said Hostetler.

Hostetler, who completed 9 of 17 passes for 142 yards, left the game in the final quarter with an injured left ankle. Phil Simms, last year's starter, made his first appearance of the season, completing one of two passes for nine yards.

The Eagles' offensive line, a subject of criticism all season, played one of its best games. It opened holes for Joseph and Byars, who gained 39 yards on 10 carries.

More important, the offensive line gave up just two sacks, protecting Jim McMahon, who played with a brace on his right knee as the result of surgery five weeks ago. McMahon completed 16 of 26 passes for 229 yards, including a 73-yard connection with Keith Jackson. McMahon ran twice for 14 yards.

The Eagles took a 3-0 lead 51 seconds into the second period on Roger Ruzek's 38-yard field goal.

Philadelphia started the drive from its 40 late in the first period, which carried to a first down at the Giants' 26 with the help of 15- and 17-yard pass completions from McMahon to Fred Barnett.

Before the half ended, McMahon and Jackson teamed up on their long TD pass play and Ruzek kicked a 36-yard field goal. Jackson caught McMahon's pass at the Eagles' 45, then outran pursuers to the end zone on his 73-yard score, the longest of his career.

The field goal was set up when Seth Joyner sacked Hostetler who fumbled. Reggie White recovered and returned it 3 yards to the Giants' 22.

The Eagles boosted their lead to 20-0 after a 15-play, 70-yard drive in the third period, capped by Joseph's 11-yard touchdown run, the longest gain in the drive that took 9:05 off the clock.

The Giants returned the ensuing kickoff to their 38 and scored in three plays to make it 20-7. Jeff Hostetler threw 55 yards to Odessa Turner at the Eagles' 6. A pass interference penalty in the end zone against Wes Hopkins placed the ball on the 1, from where Rodney Hampton dove into the end zone.

Philadelphia completed its scoring in the fourth quarter on Ruzek's third field goal of the game, a 25-yarder, and Joseph's 1-yard drive capping a five play, 36-yard drive after the Eagles took over when the Giants fell short on a fourth and 3.

Westerners begin 1991-92 campaign

Coach Kelly Green begins his first season at the helm of the Western Texas College Westerners today when they host McMurry University's junior varsity team at 8 p.m. in the WTC gym.

The Westerners are coming off a good showing in a scrimmage against McMurry's varsity.

"We played a little better (than in a previous scrimmage)," said Green. "We're starting to look a little more like a team. The players seem to have a better feel for what we're trying to accomplish."

Expected starters for the Westerners tonight include sophomore point guard David Owen of Columbus, Ohio; Baton Rouge, La. sophomore Terrance Ross at the off guard; sophomore Michael Crowe of Dallas and Smithfield, N.C. freshman Brent Murphy at the forward spots and Ricardo Hamilton, a 6-6 freshman from Dayton, Ohio at the post.

The Westerners, who usually play their home games at Scurry County Coliseum, will host McMurry on campus due to coliseum scheduling conflicts.

The WTC women's team, the Lady Dusters, begin their season Thursday when they play in the three-day South Plains Classic at Levelland.

Admission to today's game is $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Oilers cut kicker after Sunday miss

HOUSTON (AP) — Ian Howfield captured the hearts of Houston Oilers fans even if he didn't inspire their confidence in his kicking.

Howfield's brief career as the Oilers kicker spiraled downward the past two weeks and came to a painful end Monday when coach Jack Pardee waived the rookie kicker.

Howfield missed a 33-yard field goal with one second left in regulation play Sunday in the Oilers' 16-13 overtime loss to the Redskins. A week earlier, he missed three extra points in a 35-3 victory over Cincinnati.

Howfield had trouble controlling his emotions as he endured the media a final time.

"I'm proud of the way I played and I have to say thanks to the Houston organization for giving me the shot," he said. "I've just got to go back to the beginning again."

"I had a long road to get here and it's going to be a long road to get back, but I'm not going to give up. I've worked too hard."

Howfield's tearful goodbye brought calls of sympathy to two sports talk shows but numerous callers agreed the Oilers had to make a move to correct the kicking problem.

Pardee said he felt a decision needed to be made quickly.

"With the extra-point problems he's had, and after the kick yesterday, the confidence factor that he's going through, plus the rest of the team, I just thought we ought to make an early move. I don't know who we're going to get in," Pardee said.

After Howfield's miss Sunday, Washington won in overtime on Chip Lohmiller's 41-yard field goal.

"I'm so happy that I was a part of this organization," Howfield said. "The players were great to me and I just wish I had a chance to say thanks to them because no one blamed me for that game and they were all supportive."

"That helped a lot."

Howfield won the kicking job from Teddy Garcia during training camp by kicking three field goals in three tries in an exhibition game against the Dallas Cowboys, the Oilers' opponent Sunday in the Astrodome.

Howfield kicked field goals of 24 and 26 yards against the Redskins and finished the season 13 of 18. He was 25 of 29 on extra points.

Howfield said he knew the possibility existed that he would be waived.

"That's part of my business, but I'll tell you what, when I get my next shot, I'm going to remember this day because it hurts," Howfield said.

The Oilers finished last season with Garcia as their kicker. Garcia replaced Tony Zendejas, sidelined with a fractured bone in his leg.

The Oilers put Zendejas on their Plan B list and he signed with the Los Angeles Rams. Zendejas kicked a 31-yard field goal in Sunday's 24-17 loss to New Orleans, giving him 10 without a miss this season.

Howfield is the son of former NFL kicker Bobby Howfield.

Army delayed notifying kin about 'friendly fire' victims

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army waited several months to notify relatives of soldiers killed by friendly fire in the Persian Gulf War, according to a published report.

The Washington Post says in today's editions that the Army broke its own rules by not immediately providing families with full information on how their relatives died. But an Army official said it was necessary to deviate from regulations if prudence demanded it.

The Post said initial Army reports from the Persian Gulf listed "enemy" as the source of fire in all but two of the service's 24-fatal cases of friendly fire. In 11 cases, it said, there was strong, immediate evidence that U.S. forces had inflicted losses on themselves.

The newspaper said it based its findings on military documents obtained through the Freedom of Information Act.

It said that in 33 of the 35 cases of death by friendly fire in the war, Army and Marine commanders knew the cause by the end of March. All but one of the families, however, had to wait until August for official acknowledgment, the newspaper reported.

An Army regulation 600-8-1 requires the service to make immediate and full disclosure of friendly fire to next of kin. The Post asserted the Army disobeyed its own regulation.

It quoted Lt. Gen. William H. Reno, deputy chief of staff for personnel, as saying: "I am obliged to comply with my own regs, but I am also obliged to deviate from them, informally in many cases, where it's prudent to do so."

"Every decision we made with respect to notification of families was made with the motive of care and compassion for the families," he said.

An Army spokesperson, Maj. Barbara Goodno, reached by telephone Monday night, said "the decision was made by someone (Reno) with the authority to make that decision."

"It was within the scope of the decision maker's authority and it was a decision he made after consultation with his superiors."

She said the object of the delays was to avoid creating uncertainty among the families of GIs killed in the Persian Gulf War by not releasing any of the information until it was known for certain precisely which soldiers died of friendly fire and which ones were victims of enemy fire.

Woman Who Fears Doctors Searches for Painless Cure

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1991 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: This refers to your answer to "Out of Ideas," whose wife refused to go to the doctor for checkups.

Your answer was very glib. I, too, refuse to go to the doctor — my reason is fear, pure and simple. I am so frightened of hearing something bad, I just don't go at all. The word "tests" is enough to send my blood pressure soaring. In fact, I can't get an accurate blood pressure reading due to fear of doctors.

I'm not as bad as "Out of Ideas" wife; I've gone to the doctor on occasion when I've had uncomfortable symptoms that drove me there. But the experience was sheer torture. The doctors kept saying, "Calm down, calm down" — but I simply couldn't. I'm in my 50s and I've never had a mammogram, and I never go for regular checkups.

I would be delighted to learn how to overcome this deep-seated terror, but so far, no luck. I think you should consider this in relation to "Out of Ideas" wife. She may need help, and it has nothing to do with her intelligence.

SCARED TO DEATH

DEAR SCARED — and I hope the "to death" is just a figure of speech. I told "Out of Ideas": "Short of hog-tying her, there is nothing you can do. Every intelligent person realizes that routine physical checkups (physical and dental) are essential to maintaining good health; and early detection, should there be a problem, has saved many lives."

The help that both of you need is psychotherapy to overcome your fear of doctors. Literally tens of thousands of women could have added years to their lives had they caught a malignancy sooner.

of lipstick in her purse instead of in her shopping cart. I was behind her in the checkout line and saw that she didn't declare the lipstick. Since then, I've been watching her. The week before last, she slipped a bottle of fingernail polish into her bag. Last week, it was toothpaste.

If I speak to her about her pilfering, I know she will deny it and say all sorts of unpleasant things. Still, I am uncomfortable now that I know she is shoplifting.

Shall I tell the store manager? Or maybe tell the other village residents? Or just mind my own business?

IN A QUANDARY

DEAR IN: It would be a kindness to tell the woman privately that you saw her shoplift the lipstick, nail polish and toothpaste. Tell her you fear that if she does it again, she will be caught and asked never to enter that store again — or worse yet, arrested. This would be not only embarrassing, but a blow to her family — and it would reflect badly on the retirement center.

DEAR ABBY: More about "dinner" and "supper". So you'll know where I'm coming from, I live in Winona, Minn., a small city in the heart of the Mississippi's famed Hiawatha Valley.

Here when we eat our evening meal at home, it is virtually always "supper" and is our principal meal of the day.

However, when we go "out" to eat, we never call it "supper." Nobody here ever goes "out" for "supper," but everybody goes "out" for "dinner" now and then.

ROD HURD

DEAR ABBY: Our retirement center runs a trip to the shopping center once a week. Recently I noticed one of the residents put a tube

Former first lady gets fingerprinted

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Imelda Marcos interrupted her homecoming schedule briefly today and turned herself in to face tax fraud charges. She was released after being fingerprinted and posting $2,700 bond.

The flamboyant former first lady also presented two photographs of herself at the office of Judge Antonio Solano at the Quezon City court. Defendants must submit pictures but need not be photographed by police until convicted.

"If I have to go through all these, then I have to," she said before leaving the office of Judge Antonio Solano in suburban Quezon City.

"It's a sad day," she added, showing reporters her ink-stained fingers.

Earlier, Mrs. Marcos visited the northern stronghold of her late husband, former President Ferdinand Marcos. Crowds mobbed Mrs. Marcos, and northern politicians promised their support.

She is believed to be running for the presidency in May elections, although she claims she has no "political agenda."

She returned Monday from nearly six years in exile, with President Corazon Aquino's government allowing her to return so it could prosecute her.

The Marcoses were forced into exile in 1986 by the "people power" revolution that propelled Mrs. Aquino into the presidency. Mrs. Marcos appeared at the judge's office in a white blouse and skirt, clutching red and pink roses.

She faces at least seven tax fraud charges and other cases in connection with allegations she and her husband looted the Philippine treasury of up to $10 billion during his 20-year administration.

The charges include failure to notify the tax office that Marcos had died in 1989 and failing to pay her taxes while in exile.

Five U.S. presidents open Reagan Library

SIMI VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Ronald Reagan threw open the doors of his presidential library and invited the public to judge his turn in the White House.

"I have no fears of that. We have done our best. And so I say, 'Come, and learn from it,'" Reagan said Monday in dedicating the $70 million library.

A military band played "Hail to the Chief" and the crowd of 4,200 invited guests cheered as President Bush and former Presidents Carter, Nixon and Ford joined Reagan in the first gathering ever of five past or current presidents.

Each president took a turn at the microphone, praising Reagan and reflecting on their own presidential challenges.

Bush hailed Reagan as a prophet who predicted the fall of communism and whose military buildup helped win the Gulf War. "He was the great communicator and also the great liberator," Bush said. "No leader since Churchill used words so effectively to help freedom unchain our world."

Nixon and Ford echoed those sentiments.

Even Carter, a favorite punching bag for Reagan, had kind words for the man who ruined his re-election hopes. Under Reagan, "Our nation stood strong and resolute and made possible the beginning of the end of the Cold War," he said.

The Spanish-style structure is nestled on 100 acres about 50 miles from Los Angeles. At 153,000 square feet, it's the largest presidential library.

The National Archives will operate the library at an estimated $1.5 million annual cost to taxpayers.

It includes 55 million documents from Reagan's presidency, available for public inspection.

Smith's lawyers deny that he raped woman

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — William Kennedy Smith's lawyers asserted for the first time that Smith's accuser willingly had sex with him and then cried rape after the two got into an argument.

The glimpse of Smith's defense was contained in court papers filed Monday after a third day of jury selection for his trial.

The 31-year-old nephew of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., is accused of raping the woman, now 30, on March 30 at the Kennedy family's Palm Beach estate.

As of Monday, no members of the six-person jury had been seated for the trial, which is scheduled to get under way with opening arguments Dec. 2.

"The defense will seek to show that (the woman and Smith) argued after having had consensual sex," his lawyers said in a document hinting they might claim revenge was her motive. No details of the supposed argument were given.

Previously, Smith denied raping the woman but did not say whether the two had sex.

Man arrested in death of co-worker at grocery store

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — A San Angelo man has been arrested on a murder charge in the fatal stabbing of a co-worker at a San Angelo grocery store.

Lubbock officers arrested Manuel Rodriguez, 21, early Monday in connection with the early Sunday slaying of Donald James Huisenga Jr., 38, an "M" System store employee.

Huisenga's bound and gagged body was found at 2:11 a.m. Sunday at the San Angelo chain store where he and Rodriguez worked, according to San Angelo police. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

Preliminary autopsy results by medical examiners in San Antonio show that Huisenga suffered multiple stab wounds and bled to death, police said.

Rodriguez was turned over to San Angelo authorities late Monday.

Lubbock police on Sunday were asked to assist San Angelo police detectives in locating Rodriguez. Lubbock police Sgt. Randy McGuire said investigators had found a note at Rodriguez's residence saying he had left for Lubbock.

White Settlement couple arrested for starving boy

WHITE SETTLEMENT, Texas (AP) — A couple has been arrested on suspicion of child abuse after police found their famished and comatose 13-year-old son chained to a cabinet in their trailer home, suffering full cardiac arrest.

Stephen Jay Hill was listed in "very critical" condition with "very minimal brain activity" at Cook-Fort Worth Children's Medical Center early today.

He weighed 55 pounds, about half the normal weight for a boy his age, police in the Fort Worth suburb said.

The boy's 12-year-old brother, described as being in good condition, was placed in the custody of child welfare authorities.

The boy's mother, Linda Hill,

37, and his father, Jay Hill, 42, an engineer at General Dynamics, were arraigned Monday night on charges of injury to a child. The couple also managed Cherry Lane RV Park, where they lived.

They were being held on $100,000 bail each at the White Settlement Jail.

Police found the starving boy after his mother called 911 about 7:40 a.m. Sunday. The caller hung up, but a new tracing system tracked the caller's whereabouts, said police Lt. David Place.

Police called back and the mother told them her son was having trouble eating.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today that, according to police, she told the dispatcher: "I'm afraid my husband and I are bad parents. We haven't been feeding the child."

"It appears to be ... a case of starvation," said White Settlement police Chief Richard Mills, "a systematic abuse over a period of months. I've just looked at the pictures and I'm sick."

The mother told authorities they had discipline problems with the 13-year-old, and kept him on a plastic chain and padlock out of reach of food.

Police believe the abuse occurred intermittently for at least six months, Place said.

The woman said she took the 13-year-old out of school three years ago.

Neighbors said they didn't even know the couple had children because they never saw them.

FDA continues working on food labeling requirements

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the world of food marketing, the term "low-fat" means one thing for milk, another for yogurt and still a third for mayonnaise. There are no rules.

But on Wednesday, the Food and Drug Administration will propose rules to define low-fat and other food packaging terms as it unveils the bulk of its plans for implementing the new Nutrition Education and Labeling Act.

It's the moment the food industry has awaited for months and it could revolutionize the way Americans eat by giving them, for the first time, uniform information about what's in FDA-regulated food — about 90 percent of the food sold in grocery stores.

No one yet knows exactly what FDA will say about low-fat, but industry sources believe the agency wants the description to apply only to foods with no more than 2 grams to 3 grams of fat per serving.

That means only 1-percent-fat milk would comply, low-fat yogurt would be OK as is, and low-fat mayonnaise will have to cut back from 5 grams of fat per serving.

Currently, the food industry uses about three dozen words and phrases to describe their products on labels: "low-fat," "low-cholesterol," "low-sodium," "high-fiber" and "rich," to name a few.

The FDA is expected to whittle the number to 22, each with a specific definition.

The agency also will say which foods can be labeled as helpful in fighting certain illnesses.

And after years of debate and disparity over what constitutes a serving size, federal regulators are expected to put all food into 130 or so categories, each with a specific weight-based serving size.

For example, a serving of milk would be 8 ounces, juice 6 ounces and soda pop 12 ounces.

The measurement may become tricky when applied to foods like bread for which servings are traditionally defined by slice. It won't be the only problem

SWCD meeting takes focus on environmental concerns

Major issues during the 51st annual meeting of soil and water conservation districts included discussions on reauthorization of the Clean Water Act, Endangered Species Act, federal wetlands programs and coastal zone management.

Members of the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Directors were among those attending the meeting, held Oct. 21-23 in Corpus Christi. Attending the conference were Charlie Henderson, chairman, Brent Murphy, Zone 5, Terry Hefner, district conservationist and James Wesson, district clerk.

Featured speakers on the program included James Owen, president, Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association; Robert Wetherbee, president, National Association of Conservation Districts; John Hall, chairman, Texas Water Commission; Jerry Clark, Director of State Governmental Affairs, Associated Milk Producers, Inc.; and Wes Oneth, SCS State Conservationist, Texas.

Citing Wetherbee's comments on the wetland conservation issue, Henderson said that NACD is working on behalf of conservation districts nationwide to find a practical wetlands conservation strategy that balances aquatic ecosystem protection with growth and development.

"The problem with the wetlands issues is the proposed changes in the Federal Manual for Identifying and Delineating Jurisdictional Wetlands. Hydric soils, hydrophytic vegetation and hydrology are still the key elements in making wetland determinations; however, the big change is the criteria to prove the hydrology is there," said Henderson.

Henderson said that the projected time frame for finalization of the proposed 1991 wetlands

CANNING NUT MEATS

Freezing is easier and produces as satisfactory a product.

Hot Pack (dry) - Shell nuts. Spread a single layer of nut meats on baking pans and place in a 250 degree oven. Stir occasionally heating only until the nut meats are dry but not browned. Watch carefully that they don't scorch. Pack hot nuts into half-pint or pint jars, leaving 1/2-inch head space. Wipe jar rims. Adjust lids and process.

Process in a Boiling Water Bath with the water 1-to 2-inches below the tops of the jars, pints or quarts - 30 minutes.

Process in a Dial Gauge Pressure Canner at 7 pounds pressure OR in a Weighted Gauge Canner at 10 pounds pressure, pints or quarts - 10 minutes.

manual is one year. He added that the old 1987 manual will be used until the document is finalized.

"With respect to the reauthorization of the Endangered Species Act, U.S. Fish and Wildlife specialists discussed the legalities of the Act and how provisions of the Act may affect farmers and ranchers," Henderson said.

"We were told that even if endangered or threatened species are present on our land, we may not have a problem. Normal farming or ranching procedures that have been in place for years may not impact the species. Chances are, present farming conditions would not further endanger the species since it has survived previous years under the same circumstances," he added.

There are exceptions. If a project has federal connections such as permits, federal grants and loans, technical assistance from federal agencies, the Fish and Wildlife Service needs to be consulted to determine if a species is impacted.

"Since soil and water conservation districts have the responsibility to assist farmers and ranchers develop conservation programs to meet specific needs, we were told that if we are going to maintain the credibility that conservation districts can work with people on a voluntary basis, we are going to have to make sure that we meet the Jan. 1, 1995 deadline for implementing conservation compliance plans established under the 1990 Farm Bill," Henderson said.

"I might add that the development of a coastal zone management program for Texas was another issue discussed at the conference. We were told that the General Land Office is pursuing federal approval of a state coastal zone management plan. The program would include enforceable provisions for application of best management practices which would include agriculture," Henderson said.

In hearing the talk by John Hall, chairman, Texas Water Commission, on TWC's five-year plan to protect the state's water resources, Henderson said the TWC chairman indicated that the majority of Texas farmers and ranchers as well as businesses are doing everything possible to comply with the state's environmental laws.

Hall said that there is a small group who ignore the standards and endanger the public. "As a result the TWC is pursuing a set of strategies that will ensure compliance with the law," he said.

Regular elections for directors to represent state areas 1, 3, and 5 of the Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts were held at the meeting.

Representing Area 1 is T. Michael Holt of Spearman. The director for Area 3 is Donald Swann of Taft. Area 5's director is Maurice Shepherd of Burleson.

Charles "Buddy" Clark of Menard was re-elected president. Donald Swann is current vice president of the ATSWCDs.

ASCS Report

By Joe Hefner
County Executive Director

Secretary of Agriculture Edward Madigan has announced that the 1992 acreage reduction program sign-up for feed grains, wheat, rice and upland and ELS cotton will be Feb. 10 through April 17, 1992.

These dates could be delayed depending on when congressional action is completed on pending technical corrections to existing agricultural laws, Madigan said.

The secretary has announced a five percent ARP for the 1992 crops of barley corn, sorghum and wheat, and a 10 percent ARP for upland cotton. No acreage reduction will be required for oats. The 1992 acreage reduction percentage for rice has not been announced.

Details of the 1992 farm programs will be announced later and will be available to producers through county offices of the USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

In each advertisement on this page you will find the contestants in a prominent football game being played around the country this weekend. On the entry blank at the bottom of the page, fill in your selection of the WINNING TEAM only...opposite the name of the business firm on the entry blank. Then clip out the entry blank and send it to FOOTBALL CONTEST EDITOR, Snyder Daily News, Box 949, or bring it by the news office at 3600 College Ave. Entries must be in the hands of the editor by 5:00 p.m. Friday. Games ending in a tie must be specified as a tie or else it will be considered a miss.

To avoid splitting the prize money a TIE-BREAKER slot will be provided on each entry blank. Pick the total points of the score for that game and in case of a tie the one who picks the winner and the nearest number of total points will receive the prize money. The same formula will apply to second and third place winners. In the case of a perfect score, the formula would apply for that cash prize.

There will be fun for the entire family. Only one entry blank will be permitted for any one person. More than one will disqualify all that person's entries. Entries must be on the official entry blank (No Copies Please). Scores listed on the entry blank will have no bearing except in the case of the tie-breaker. Sign your entry blank and list your address and phone number and watch for the winner's story in next Tuesday's SDN. Employees of the SDN and their families are not eligible to enter.
