Neither Charges Nor Credits for Talco Insurance

Talco has neither credits nor debits on fire insurance premiums for this year, according to Felix Jones, and the rates will remain the same as last year. These charges and credits are set each year by the State Fire Insurance Commission and are based upon average losses paid out by the companies over a five year period, as compared to the amount of premiums received.

Key rate for the city is 57 cents, and there is a credit of 3 cents for the teaching of fire prevention in Talco school and another 2 cents for a standing reward for the arrest and conviction for arson. Talco could get other credits by sending volunteer firemen to the Fireman's School at A. & M. for a few days each year and for a nightwatchman and daily reports showing he was punching the clock in various parts of town at regular intervals throughout the night.

Jas. Cornelius Jr. Candidate for District Attorney

James R. Cornelius Jr. of Jefferson, recently appointed district attorney of the 76th Judicial District by Gov. Jester, has sent The Times his official announcement as a candidate for the office. We regret it came too late to appear this week, but will be printed next week.

Thieves Enter Two Johntown Stores

Thieves burglarized the W. A. Cotten and Tom Pirtle stores at Johntown Saturday night. Entrance in the Pirtle store was gained by forcing the back door open, and in the Cotten store through a window. The glass was broken and bars were forced part. Cigarettes, candy, gum and a small amount of cash in pennies were taken.

On Monday, March 15, the Talco High School Band will again go to Paris Junior College to hear the Texas Tech band as they render a concert.

Debt Against Fire Truck Liquidated

There is now no indebtedness against Talco's fire engine, the last dollar owing, along with interest, has been paid, according to Mayor Dick Rodgers. In 1937 the City Commission issued warrants in the amount of $2,300, at 6% interest. Some principal had been paid, but accumulated interest soon ate it up, until about $2,500 was owing. All this has been paid.

There is still an outstanding indebtedness of $1,100 on fire hose and Mayor Rodgers thinks this is the next debt to get paid.

The City has a carload of asphalt covered rock coming with which to patch the holes in concrete streets, which are getting bad, and "Another car will be ordered if this is not sufficient," said Mayor Rodgers. Native dirt streets which were thoroughly worked last summer are in very good condition, considering the freezes and thaws we had in January and February.

Sportsmen Raise Fund to Protect Fish and Game

At a recent meeting of sportsmen of Talco a fund of $23 was raised to be used as a reward for the arrest and conviction on charges of violation of the fishing and hunting laws of the state.

Violations must occur in a territory bounded by the Bogata-Mt. Vernon highway on the west; Mt. Pleasant and Sugar Hill highway on the east, Sulphur river north and White Oak or their tributaries.

LESPEDEZA DEAD LINE IS MARCH 31, 1948

All Titus county producers desiring Korean or Kobe Lespedeza should come by the AAA office as soon as possible and secure their purchase orders and prior approvals.

The county committee, in their meeting Friday, set March 31, 1948, as the deadline for issuing purchase orders for these seeds, according to Harris A. Green, Adm. Officer for Titus County ACA.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Brooks of Clarksville, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Lumm.

Deeds Are In for New Talco-Sugar Hill Highway

All deeds for right of way for the farm to market road from Sugar Hill to the Franklin county line in Northern Titus County were sent to the office of the District Highway Engineer at Atlanta the first of the week, Banker Felix Jones of Talco was told while in Mt. Pleasant on Monday. Distance of the new highway will be about eleven miles and will connect with that portion of the road running across northern Franklin and a portion of Hopkins counties to Sulphur Bluff.

The State Highway Department now has crews at work building the Franklin county portion of the road and a considerable amount of gravel is now on the P. & Mt. P. right-of-way at Talco for that purpose.

It is expected that the work order or advertising for bids by contract on the road from Sugar Hill to the Franklin county line will be ordered soon by the Highway Department, now that all deeds for the right-of-way are in the hands of the Department.

Citizens of Talco and others have worked long and faithfully for this road, and particularly since oil was discovered at Talco in 1936.

WEEK CHOSEN FOR CLEAN-UP

Austin. — Comes spring. Comes also spring cleaning.

This year, Gov. Beauford H. Jester believes it Texas' patriotic duty to bend an elbow to mop, pail and broom.

In an official proclamation, the Governor designated April 4 to 10 as spring cleanup week "in an organized movement to lessen the disastrous consequences of ill health, accidents and fire."

Final arrangements are being made for the first library demonstration sponsored by the State Department and Miss Hattie Ruth Moore, State School Library Director. This demonstration will be held in Talco School on March 20. Dr. A. M. Sample, Librarian, NTSC, and well known poet and speaker in the southwest, will be the luncheon speaker.

Schools in 25 counties in this section of the state have been invited to attend the meeting.

This is a new department of the school, having been established last September, and this reception will be an eye-opener to many visitors.

FRED FOEH JR. RECEIVES SCHOOL HONORS

Of the 350 freshmen students taking a course in Military Science and Tactics, Fred Foeh Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Foeh Sr., of Gladewater, was one of 15 students to be promoted to sergeant and receive a good conduct ribbon. Fred is attending NTAC at Arlington, and is majoring in music. He is also a bugler at the college. The Foehs formerly lived at Talco.

EX-SERVICE FAMILIES HAVE COVERED DISH SUPPER

Auxiliary of the Burks-Cloar Post of the American Legion held a covered dish supper on Thursday night for the benefit of ex-service men and their families. The Times went to press too early to learn particulars.

Urges Observance Spring Clean-Up to Prevent Fires

AUSTIN. — "Fire is slowing down the peace efforts in this country," said Marvin Hall, State Fire Insurance Commissioner, in commenting on Governor Jester's proclamation of Spring Clean-Up Week in Texas for April 4-10.

In urging citizens of this state to participate in this program by removing fire hazards from their homes, institutions and places of business, Hall said that fire was destroying valuable property, raw materials, foodstuffs and other materials vital to the recovery of this nation from a devastating war.

"Almost 550 persons were killed by fire last year," he said, "and nearly 21 million dollars in property was destroyed. The 1947 property loss was the highest in the history of this state."

Commissioner Hall hopes that every Texan will consider it his individual responsibility to cooperate in helping Spring Clean-Up Week to be a success and in preventing fires, to build an even greater and richer state.

Big Load Wildcat Liquor Seized

Q. T. Hardegree, inspector for the Texas Liquor Control Board, seized a truck load of unstamped illicit liquor near Atlanta Thursday in what officers described as one of the biggest "hauls" in recent years in this area. The load contained 201 cases of illicit liquor.

Hardegree placed O. L. Chambliss, Oklahoma City, under arrest as driver of the truck. Cass County Attorney Tom Cope filed charges of possessing and transporting unstamped illicit liquor on Chambliss, who was later released on bond from the jail at Linden. He was arrested in December on similar charges.

FARM INCOME UP 26 PER CENT

January farm income was 26 per cent above January, 1947, Marketing Department of State University reports. All products except grain sorghum, cattle, eggs, peanuts and fresh vegetables registered substantial gains over a year earlier.

New Dis. Attorney Succeeds Neugent Who Has Resigned

James R. Cornelius Jr., of Jefferson was named district attorney of the 76th Judicial District Saturday.

He was appointed by Gov. Beauford H. Jester to fill the unexpired term of Dean Neugent of Mt. Pleasant, who resigned.

Cornelius is a native of Texas. He was graduated from the College of Marshall (now East Texas Baptist College) and Baylor University. He is a former special agent of the FBI and has been county attorney of Jefferson county.

Mr. Neugent stated that he was resigning to enter private practice of law in Texas City. Associated with Mr. Neugent in Texas City will be another leading young lawyer from Mt. Pleasant, Holman Lillienstern, who recently resigned as City Attorney of Mt. Pleasant.

Morris Ralston of Mt. Pleasant announced as a candidate for the office of District Attorney several weeks ago.

Work Resumed on Enlarging Plant at Refinery

Work has been resumed at the Talco Refinery at Mt. Pleasant on construction of their new polymerization plant, which will produce propane and butane gas and a high octane blending gasoline.

All concrete foundations have been poured for this new unit and the Boothe Construction Co., which has the construction contract, has begun setting the compressors and nine large pieces of processing equipment.

Work has also started on putting up a new 80,000-barrel storage tank on the property recently purchased from J. S. Redfearn west of the plant, and it will be completed within two weeks. This is the first of a series of tanks to be constructed.

At present, the refinery is using 13,000 barrels of crude oil daily for its various products. The plant was originally built for 5,200 barrels a day, and has been gradually expanding to its present capacity.

Coldest Weather For March Hit Here Thursday

Coldest weather on record for as late as March 11 and within one degree of the coldest of the winter resulted from the blizzard that drove in from the Panhandle Wednesday night and dropped temperatures to 16 degrees on Thursday morning.

There was a light fall of sleet and snow and the cold northwest wind cut like a knife. Pampa was the coldest spot in Texas with 3 below zero.

This spell is hard on cattle and new calves, but will set the fruit crop back and may save it from a freeze later on. Tomato growers had to work hard to keep fires going under their hot beds.

Paper is scarce, but you can't make the trash hauler believe it.

Sign in front of a church in Richmond, Va.: "Need Exercise? Try Kneeling."

This may be a coincidence, but there has been a shortage of homes ever since automobiles were invented.

It is hard for a man to get up in the world who falls for every get-rich-quick scheme.

No man with a wife and three daughters ever worries over how he is going to spend his first million.

In carrying out the policies of his predecessor, President Truman is an adept at handling the rubber stamp.

A California woman lost a purse containing $15,000. Some people are too careless with their small change.

A few more slaps in the face and state rights will be on the way out unless there is enough resentment to return the slaps.

If Jackson and Jefferson were to appear on the political scene today they might have some difficulty recognizing their political child.

There still seems to be a shortage of everything except soap contests and people who believe they are going to win the capital prize.

Keeping the peace is so important that Uncle Sam not only wants to keep his part of it, but is trying to spread it all over the world with sound dollars.

The government continues to drop money in ratholes. The latest is 570 millions for China. When a nation begins to yell "Communism" Uncle Sam makes a dash for the U. S. treasury.

Evidently those few Southern Democrats who attended the $100-plate Jackson Day dinner in Washington left very few crumbs of comfort for the Truman followers.

The rich no longer worry over what to do with their money. They know most of it will go to Washington where some of it will be used in paying people to do nothing.

If the government's campaign for twenty million gardens gets into full swing, it is going to provide more standing room on the banks of creeks and lakes during the fishing season.

Our reader up the street says he remembers when the grocer sold him a gallon of coal oil for a nickel and stuck a potato on the spout. Now, he says, the potato is worth more than the oil used to be worth.

The labor party in Britain is sponsoring a bill providing free medical service to every Briton. The Laborites evidently feel that free medical care will cure all their ills, but it leaves the doctors with a terrible headache.

The $64 question: If we can't stop Communism in the United States and we are so careless as to hire Communists to handle our affairs in Washington, how do we expect ever to stop Communism in the birthplace of Communism?

The shortage of oil is attributed to John L. Lewis. His strikes cut down the production of coal which forced home owners to substitute oil heating equipment for coal. Seven hundred thousand such plants were installed, and now we are short on oil.

SECOND GREATEST FORCE IN THE WORLD

"Next to Christianity, advertising is the greatest force in the world," and I say that without sacrifice or disrespect. Advertising makes people discontented. It makes them want things they don't have. Without discontent there is no progress, no achievement."—Locke of Tracy-Locke Advertising Agency in a statement celebrating that firm's birthday anniversary.

GETTING WIDER

The 81-year-old man, who was as unconscious of his age as a 21-year-old, came in the house one day wet and muddy from the knees down. "I wanted to cross the creek to see about the cow," he explained. "I used to jump it clear and easy, but now every dang time I try I land in the middle. Guess I just ain't noticed it getting wider."

EASY WAYS YOU CAN HELP Control Field Fires!

1. Notify any forest patrolman or member of the Texas Forest Service as to when and where you intend to burn your field. Also, tell your neighbors.

2. Plow, hoe or rake a 6-foot lane around the field to be burned to prevent your fire from escaping to adjoining property. The chances are 9 out of 10 that you will plow the field later anyway, so this won't be any extra work.

3. Have help and tools when you get ready to burn. Be on the safe side, able to protect your homes, barns, fences and woodlands should the fire happen to escape.

4. Make safe before leaving. Stay with your field fires until they are safe or out.

5. Burn against the wind. Set the fire from the edges of your fire lanes or other barriers, such as roads or creeks.

6. Avoid burning on windy days. The safest time to burn is late in the evening or at night. Dry, windy days are the worst time to burn.

1. Notify any forest patrolman or member of the Texas Forest Service as to when and where you intend to burn your field. Also, tell your neighbors.

2. Plow, hoe or rake a 6-foot lane around the field to be burned to prevent your fire from escaping to adjoining property. The chances are 9 out of 10 that you will plow the field later anyway, so this won't be any extra work.

3. Rubbish and trash to be burned should be placed in a pile and space cleared around it of grass, leaves or trash. Then burn when there is no wind. It is wise to have a few pails of water handy. Make sure the fire is out before leaving it. Douse it with water or cover it with a few shovels of dirt.

Rayburn Slaps Truman Plans

Rep. Sam Rayburn of Bonham came out Friday against President Truman's civil rights program.

He authorized publication by the Denison Herald of a letter in which he said he was opposed to measures to abolish poll taxes, to make lynching a federal offense and to set up a permanent fair employment practice commission.

Monday State Sen. G. C. Morris of Greenville said he intended to oppose Rayburn for the Democratic nomination. He asserted Rayburn had failed to speak out against certain parts of the civil rights program.

Rayburn's letter said he is "against any bill that has any tendency toward crippling our segregation laws."

As Democratic leader, Rayburn is expected to push administration measures through the House. President Truman has asked congress to pass the civil rights legislation.

LOOKING AHEAD

by GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College
Scary, Arkansas

Planner's Dream

"With more miners at work and more machinery, Britain is producing 15,000,000 tons less coal per year than in 1941." This statement by Mr. Churchill aptly describes the results of nationalization. It is striking that whereas England used to export large quantities of coal, she is now importing as much as 600,000 tons from the United States in the present quarter. This is the picture 18 months after nationalization of Britain's coal industry was begun.

Last summer in England I had a conference with Mr. Michael Young, head of the research department of the Labor Party, and their chief economist. Thirty or so years of age, tall and slender, Mr. Young expressed great confidence in England's program of nationalization of industry. He hoped the program would proceed rapidly to include all industries, and he was confident it would bring full employment, high productivity, and greater prosperity. Mr. Young's hopes remain in the dream stage.

What Results?

High British officials came to Washington last month. They wanted to discuss new terms on the American loan. A London report of their interview with Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder tells of Mr. Snyder asking the British officials "Why nationalization had not produced more coal and if it has hampered output." Mr. Snyder was also firm in inquiring whether Britain, under the scheme of nationalization, was "still going to be a solvent concern."

With England sitting on vast coal reserves, yet importing coal, one can understand that Secretary Snyder is a bit dubious about the results of nationalization. In coal mining under nationalization there was at first an upward surge of output. But soon the gain wore off, and turned into a dramatic loss. This experiment in government management of industry simply did not come through. Other industries are learning in the same manner.

The Labor government, which has urged more construction of houses, now finds it necessary to reduce its quota of new houses by 80,000. The use of petrol is to be cut down by one-third; foreign travel is to be reduced by one-half. An individual can now buy only 20 cents worth of beef a week. The fact that the food situation is extremely critical plus the failure of nationalized industries to get production led to the passing of Britain's Crisis Bill.

Dictator Law

The British Press described the Bill as giving the government power to:

1. Direct labor within an industry or from one industry to another.
 2. Replace inefficient managements in any industry by government nominees, which will mean, in effect, taking over the business.
 3. Divert investments into certain channels, and prevent them going into others.
 4. Control hours and conditions of work, and even rates of pay.
 5. Send supplies and raw materials to certain industries, and keep them from others.
 6. Order goods to be exported to given markets, and prevent them going to others less profitable to the nation.
- These dictatorial powers are the true offspring of a government managed economy.

Asks weary Uncle Sam: "Where is the end in lend?"

Poisons Mate to Prove Her Love

Confesses Putting Ant Paste in His Coffee.

LOS ANGELES. — Mrs. Virginia McElhiney, 28, who confessed to feeding her late husband ant paste in his coffee, told police she wanted to prove that she loved him.

"I wanted to make him sick so I could nurse him and convince him that I loved him and no one else," she sobbed in her cell as she awaited arraignment on a murder charge.

Everett McElhiney, 28, who died December 30 in Veterans' hospital, was suspicious that she was not true to him while he was overseas, she said.

Police said she admitted to them there was some ground for his suspicion.

McElhiney came home last December 21. That day, police said his wife told them, she poured three drops of poison into the cup of coffee she brought to his bed.

He didn't get sick, so three days later she did it again.

When her husband protested his poison-spiked coffee tasted bitter, she told him it would help his nerves, officers said.

Police said he was suffering from the poisoning when his bed caught fire December 29 and he suffered the burns that sent him to the hospital.

A coroners' autopsy later revealed arsenic in the blood.

"No soldier who came home has ever had a lovelier funeral than the one I bought for him," Mrs. McElhiney said.

Now Cows Must Jump to Pluto, Veterans Advised

WORLAND, WYO. — Two Wyoming veterans bent on capitalizing on future interplanetary relations were revamping their plans.

It would be far more convenient to graze their cattle on Pluto than on Mars.

The veterans, H. E. ("Smoky") Rauchfuss and Henry Schmidt, claim they are not a couple of nuts. They merely have "ambitions and foresight."

The pair applied to the department of the interior for grazing rights on the planet Mars. But James S. Andrews, federal district grazier here, took the matter under consideration and offered the boys some advice.

Andrews said grazing rights on five sections of Pluto would cost $180.

"Mars is overcrowded already," Andrews said. He recalled hearing something about an invasion of the earth by Martians in 1938 which was evidence that the peoples of that planet were looking for more room.

Besides the grazing venture, the young men have expressed interest in obtaining the street-car franchise on the moon.

Miss Mary Ann Snyder of Brookston, accompanied Miss Viola Hazlewood home for the week end.

DIDN'T KNOW SHEEP

The new school marm asked a little boy at Ozona:

"If there were twelve sheep in a field and one jumped over the fence, how many would be left?"

The pupil said "None."

The teacher said, "You don't know arithmetic."

"No, ma'am, but I know sheep," he replied.

Assembly of God Church Calls New Pastor

The Assembly of God Church wishes to announce the calling of a new pastor, Rev. and Mrs. Harper and daughter from Oklahoma. Bro. Harper is well recommended to us from the Oklahoma district, having been in the ministry thirteen years, most of this pastoral work. We feel this is the man God has chosen for us. Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Caldwell have accepted the work in Wharton. We regretted to see them go, but the Lord knows best and we pray for them in their new field of work.—Reported.

Father, Worried By Debts, Kills Family, Himself

Clubs and Shoots Wife And Two Children, Then Ends Own Life.

CHICAGO. — The annihilation of an entire family of four by a father worried by his debts was revealed with the discovery of the bodies in an apartment. Police said that James A. Roach, 42, shot and killed his wife, Raechel, 40, his son, James Jr., 17, and his daughter, Patricia, 16, then shot himself. In the mail at the time, police learned, was a check for $250 from Roach's father, James Roach of La Salle, La Salle county, which would have tided him over the immediate financial troubles which he blamed for his act.

Believe Wife Slain First. Reconstructing the slayings, detectives said Roach fired a bullet from a .22 caliber rifle in his wife's forehead as she lay sleeping in their bedroom in the six room apartment. Then he apparently went to his daughter's room, beat her on the head with the rifle butt as she slept, then shot her. He repeated the process in the rear bedroom where his son slept.

Then he wrote a note to his landlady, Mrs. Camelia Hammore, who lives in the basement apartment, walked into a bedroom and shot himself in the head. The note read in part:

"Believe me, Rae and the children did not realize this was happening because the children were unconscious at the time. Rae was asleep and it happened to all but me while they were sleeping."

'Just Plain Broke.' "The reason is, of course, financial. We're just plain broke and I can't face it; and if I just took my self, Rae would try to carry on with the children and it would be a mess. "As it was, we all lived to the hilt, while we lived—a short one maybe, but a happy one."

Police believed the shooting occurred about 1:30 a. m. when another resident of the building heard loud noises in the Roach apartment. Neighbors said that Mrs. Roach, the former Raechel James, was a former student at the University of Illinois, where she was a beauty contest winner for two successive years. Both children were pupils in the South Shore high school.

Roach had been a salesman, but had been unemployed for several weeks, police said.

Blossom to Vote on $45,000 Sewer System April 10th

Citizens of Blossom will vote on a $45,000 sewerage bond issue April 10, according to Mayor A. C. Arnold.

The program has been planned for several years, the Mayor said, and the newly formed Blossom Lions Club has been active on the project.

In 1947 the government allocated $1,500 for survey of the town in preparation for a sewerage system. This survey was made and the blueprints are available.

The Mayor said the plans call for the sewerage disposal plant to be located east of town.

FIRE DESTROYS 201 CHICKS AND BROODER HOUSE

Miss Bertha Thomas of the Hoovortown community, was in Deport Friday and reports fire destroyed her brooder house and 201 two weeks old baby chickens about three weeks ago. The fire was thought to have originated from a kerosene brooder. Some chicken feed, placed in the house the day before, also burned.

Miss Thomas had received 208 chickens in the order and had only lost seven of the number prior to the fire.

Latest Atomic Research Results Alcorn Finds Bug Under the Chip of

Editor's note: Achin Alcorn, philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sulphur probably is up to his usual standard, which is misinterpreting what he reads, his letter this week reveals.

Dear Editor: The birds was singing so and the water was boiling so in my wife's wash pot out here Monday mornin I couldn't help wanderin out in the woods out of sight on the banks of Sulphur and was surprised to find a copy of a magazine floatin down the river, as ordinarily magazines don't get this far down, just mostly copies of the Lamar County Echo, brush heaps, dead animals, fence posts, and odds and ends, but since it drifted over to a gravel bar where I was standin and appeared to be in pretty good condition I picked it up and sat down with it, which I am now sorry I did.

On the first page I opened it to was an article on how atomic scientists are workin on a by-product of the atomic bomb which will unlock new knowledge of plant growth, makin things grow twice as fast and twice as much as they do now.

"This is one of the glorious promises of atomic science," the article said, pointing out it would enable a farmer to increase his production tremendously and keep food production up with the increases in population.

Personally, I ain't taken in. In fact, I'm disturbed, if not outraged. Most people can't see but one side of a thing.

For example, if that atomic by-product them scientists is gonna feed into the soil to make cotton and corn shoot up, works, what in thunder do they figure is gonna happen at the same time to cockleburrs and Johnson grass? Who wants twice as much cotton if he's got to hoe twice as much Johnson grass? Scientists is smart up to a certain point, then they peter out.

All I can see to it is that they're gonna double the work of us farmers. It ain't no bait to me to lead me on by the promise of doublin my production if it's gonna double my labor to do it. Thunder, I already know I can produce more if I work harder, don't take no atomic scientist writin in a high-powered magazine to tell me that. What I'm lookin for, if the atomic age is gonna be a success as far as I'm concerned, is a method of producin more by workin less, or I'd even settle for producin just as much as I am by workin less. I ain't hard to please.

See if you can't get Senator Connally to workin on this. Ain't no use spendin tax money on atomic research if it's gonna result in taller Johnson grass and thicker cockleburrs. More food ain't worth that price.

Yours faithfully, A. A.

London Explosion Prompts Warning By Commissioner

A high school chemistry book lay in the debris of the Consolidated School at New London, after an explosion had crumbled its walls the afternoon of March 13, 1937. Its pages were soiled and bloodstained.

Opened to a section titled "Explosions and Explosive Mixtures," the book discussed various chemical reactions in which gases were formed that may shove out and destroy the walls which confine them. It was a perfect illustration of the tragic explosion which had just killed 294 students and teachers on that site.

"That was eleven years ago, but the haunting memory of the most horrifying school disaster in Texas history has not been forgotten," says Marvin Hall, Fire Insurance Commissioner.

"We must be constantly on guard to assure protection of our children not only in school, but in other public buildings and in the home. We are yet a long way from being able to adequately protect our school children from a recurrence of such a tragedy. The fact that the New London disaster happened eleven years ago does not lessen our need for a strong, state-wide regulatory building code for public buildings, schools and other buildings where large gatherings are held.

"In the absence of such regulatory measures that should require skilled and licensed technicians to install or repair all heating, gas, plumbing and wiring systems in public buildings, school boards should do no less than adopt such standards themselves," he added.

You can't take it with you because you can't get it while you're here.

THE DIFFERENCE

A man was giving some advice to his son. At the end of a rather stern lecture, he said: "Now, my boy, you understand perfectly what I mean?"

"Yes," replied the boy, "what it boils down to is this: If I do well, it's because of heredity, and if I fail, it's my own fault."

Mobile Medical Unit for Humble Employees

HOUSTON.—A mobile medical unit, newly completed by Humble Oil & Refining Company in Houston, rolled onto the highways this week on the first leg of a continuing journey to make free, voluntary physical examinations available to all Humble field employees.

Latest addition to Humble's program of preventive medicine, the mobile unit will visit over 300 field camps to serve about 7,500 Humble employees in Texas, Louisiana, New Mexico, and Mississippi.

It will require about a year and a half to make the first tour of Humble camps, after which the unit will begin making return visits.

The new mobile medical unit is housed in a trailer van 34 feet long. Pulled by a truck-tractor, the unit will have an overall length of 44 feet and six inches. Total cost was about $20,000.

Divided into three main compartments — laboratory, X-ray room, and doctor's examining room—the Humble clinic - on-wheels is equipped with electric air conditioning and gasoline heating facilities. Transformers will enable it to tie into electric power wherever it stops.

Built into the trailer are a compact laboratory for performing blood and urine tests, complete equipment for making and developing X-ray pictures, an eye-testing machine, fluoroscope, electro-cardiograph, sterilizers, and all instruments and supplies necessary for diagnostic medicine.

Dr. Edward H. Martin, M. D., and Thomas Beckham, X-ray technician, who staff the unit, will be able to examine about 20 Humble employees per day with the facilities installed.

The Humble mobile medical unit will perform diagnosis only, and any ailments found will be referred to local physicians for treatment. However, the unit carries all supplies and equipment necessary for emergency treatment.

First region on the big trailer unit's itinerary is East Texas. Early stops include Waco, Fort Worth, Dallas, and Longview.

Maydelle and Mt. Vernon Champs in A-B Competition

Two East Texas teams came through in championship games at Austin last Saturday. Mt. Vernon won the Class A crown title by defeating defending champion East Mountain (Gilmer), 44-33, and Maydelle knocked off defending titlist Johnson City, 35-32, in Class B.

It will be remembered that it was Maydelle which finally eliminated Cunningham's Warriors from regional honors by a close score.

Maydelle jumped into an early lead in its titular clash with Johnson City, but lost the advantage in the second quarter and was trailing 12 to 15, at half time. The Lions pulled up in the third quarter to knot the count twice before going in front to stay midway of that period.

The East Texans led, 25 to 22, at the end of the third period, but were threatened constantly in the final period. Johnson City rallied to within one point on one occasion, and Marion Scott put the title defenders back in the fight with long shots in the

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Ben's Bride Gets Chickenhearted

Ben Ryder was mighty proud of his young bride when she offered to care for his new flock of baby chicks. "Just like a mother with her brood," he boasts.

Then came market time for fryers—and the crisis! Sue simply wouldn't let Ben near her chickens with an axe. She'd raised them as babes... she'd named them... they were her very own!

Ben secured himself a glass of beer and took things over sensibly. He figured the price on fryers... he figured Sue had put up with his peculiarities, he guessed he could put up with her fondness for the chickens.

So now Ben has the nicest brood of laying hens in town, and from where I sit, one of the most successful marriages, too. All because he "lived-and-let-live"—literally. And whenever he wants fried chicken, he takes his bride over to Andy's Garden Tavern for a crisp wing and a glass of beer.

Work has again been started on the road between Needmore and Talco.

SCOTCH HOLIDAY

Sandy McDonald asked a lady friend to accompany him to the fair. Next morning the girl's father asked her how she enjoyed the fair.

"Didn't see it," the girl replied. "What?" the father asked sharply. "I thought you said you were going to the fair."

"We were," the girl explained, "but after walking eight miles, I was so tired I couldn't climb over the fence."

NO WARNING

Mrs. Peck: "The young couple under this balcony are making love and I think he wants to propose. We oughtn't to listen. Whistle to him."
