City approves lot sub-division; could result in new construction

Snyder's city council approved the re-plat of a lot north of Wal-Mart Monday night that could lead to the construction of a Taco Bell at the location.

David E. Ohre Properties of Abilene requested the re-plat and the subsequent re-subdivision of the lot which will have 130 feet of frontage on College Avenue.

Ohre said this morning that formal approval of the facility by Taco Bell corporate headquarters is still pending, but word is expected in early November on the location.

The lot was purchased from El Rey, Inc. of Dallas.

In other business, the council approved the purchase of four new vehicles for the police department upon the recommendation of Police Chief Lannie Lee.

The council had budgeted the purchase of three new vehicles, but Lee told the council last night that another police unit was experiencing severe motor problems and he had an estimate of $6,500 to replace the engine.

He also noted that the vehicle needed additional repairs of some $1,500.

"It's always been my policy to recommend the purchase of a new vehicle as opposed to spending a lot of money on a high mileage vehicle," said Lee.

The council voted to accept the low bid of Southwestern Ford of Weatherford for one 1998 Ford police vehicle and three 1999 police vehicles for a price of $78,902.80.

Lee said the vehicles will be delivered this week.

Wilson Motors bid $80,596 for four 1999 models, and they would have to be ordered, said Lee.

Since the council had only budgeted three vehicles, the city will have to make a budget amendment at a later date to reflect the expenditure for the additional unit.

The council also approved the budget for the Development Corporation of Snyder for 1998-99.

DCOS executive director John DeLille presented the budget for approval in the amount of $132,150 — up slightly from last year's budget of $131,525.

In another DCOS matter, the council voted to allow DCOS employees to participate in the city's group medical plan.

DeLille said with only two employees, medical costs for the employees would cost some $12,000.

It was noted that each city employee's insurance costs the city just under $2,000 per year.

"It's all taxpayer's money and it would mean saving $8,000 in tax money," said council member Dayton Robertson.

The council also voted to appoint Dalton Walton to the Permian Basin Aiport Board to replace Joe Jackson.

Jackson had asked not to be re-appointed as the board's meeting dates conflicted with meetings at Snyder National Bank.

The council also accepted a bid for chemicals for the water treatment plant.

An executive session was held following the regular meeting for the evaluation of City Manager John Gayle.

The council met for some 45 minutes and following the closed session, Mayor pro-tem Vernest Tippens said the council would have a work session in November to discuss the evaluation and formally act on the evaluation in December.

Tippens presided at the meeting as Mayor David Holt was absent.

All council members were in attendance to include Robertson, Jerry Webb, Terry Martin and I.E. Martin.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The best loan is a sympathic ear."

Emergency response personnel are never sure what they will find when they arrive on the scene.

Such was the case in Seminole recently when a woman driving a van went through a red light at a main intersection, hit another vehicle and careened through the front door of a main street business.

Investigating officers believed that the driver's pet monkey may have distracted her.

When EMS personnel arrived, the injured woman was holding the six-month-old spider money. When they approached to give aid to the injured driver, the monkey screamed like a small child.

EMS finally was able to transport the woman — and her pet money — to the emergency room. The doctor on duty got the word that there was a monkey in the ER cubical that needed help.

The doc cautiously approached and slowly opened the curtain, He did find the monkey, still being held tightly by the driver.

Just as doubtful was the animal control officer who had been called. The dispatcher had advised of a "monkey in the hospital."

The animal control officer had to be convinced that it wasn't a joke.

Eventually, the monkey was put in a small cage and taken to a local veterinarian clinic. Meanwhile, the driver was transported to Lubbock for treatment of her injuries.

It may have been a result of the White House problems that rumors spread around town about "monkey business."

The stories grew, we're told, with each telling. For example, one rumor had the monkey driving and being tested by a breath analyzer.

None of the stories were true, but EMS personnel said it's not unusual to have a dog to contend with after a wreck, but the monkey was a first for them.

This reminds me of a bumper sticker seen in Lubbock:

"Caution, I drive like you do."

Grand jury indicts two

Two cases were presented to the Scurry County grand jury Monday which resulted in the indictment of two people for felony driving while intoxicated.

Indicted were Catarino R. Guerrero, 49, of 213 34th St.

Guerrero was arrested on Sept. 26 for driving while intoxicated and was released on a $5,000 bond.

He has a previous conviction for driving while intoxicated in Scurry County in March, 1994, and a conviction in Mitchell County in June, 1990.

Jose Maria Alvarado, 37, of 2301 Ave. I, remains in Scurry County jail on a $5,000 bond following his arrest on Sept. 27 for driving while intoxicated.

He has previous convictions in Scurry County for driving while intoxicated on November, 1991, and July, 1987.

Tickets available for coliseum show set for Saturday

Time has not yet run out for country music fans to pick up their tickets for Saturday's concert at Scurry County Coliseum featuring Wade Hayes, Rick Trevino and Gary Stewart.

Tickets are on sale at KSNY radio, Video 1 and Dollar Western Wear in Lubbock and Odessa.

ATM productions, headed by Tom Miles of Peck, Kan., along with KSNY radio are presenting the show, which gets underway at 7:30 p.m.

Wade Hayes was the only 1995 Nashville Newcomer whose debut album went Gold that year. "Old Enough to Know Better" and "I'm Still Dancin' With You," both of which he co-wrote, became back-to-back No. 1 hits.

Other Top 10 hits for Hayes include "Don't Stop" and "What I Meant to Say."

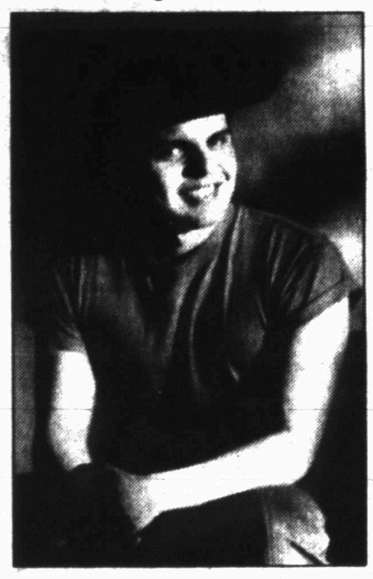

Rick Trevino's self-titled debut album went Gold and Top 10 hits to his credit include "She Can't Say I Didn't Cry," "Bobbie Ann Mason," and "Learning As You Go."

Gary Stewart was a member of the rock band "The Amps" in the mid-1960s and he toured with Charley Pride in the mid-1970's.

Hits to his credit include "Drinkin' Thing," "Out of Hand," "She's Actin' Single (I'm Drinkin' Doubles," "You're Place or Mine," and "Whiskey Trip."

Democrats struggle to craft alternative to open-ended investigation of Clinton

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the House set to begin a historic journey into presidential impeachment, outnumbered Democrats struggled today to craft an alternative to the Republicans' open-ended investigation. The Democrats, facing defections, could not immediately agree on how to limit the time and scope of an inquiry.

CONCERT — Rick Trevino will be one of the featured entertainers at Saturday's concert at Scurry County Coliseum. Also scheduled to be performing are Wade Hayes and Gary Stewart. (Contributed Photo)

The White House, meanwhile, complained the House proceedings were neither fair nor bipartisan.

"I can't speak for the Republican caucus but it does appear after watching this for the last month that the leadership is pursuing a strategy for electoral advantage," said White House spokesman Joe Lockhart.

The Judiciary Committee voted 21-16 Monday night to send the GOP resolution to the full House, which is virtually certain later this week to approve only the third presidential impeachment investigation in the nation's history.

Minority Leader Dick Gephardt, D-Mo., said Democrats will meet again Wednesday to discuss options to the GOP resolution. Several members said that beyond trying to win support for a Democratic alternative, they did not expect party leaders to twist arms to stop lawmakers from voting for an inquiry.

Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., who believes Clinton's conduct does not warrant an impeachment inquiry, wondered "whether you can be half pregnant" with any alternative proposal.

Rep. Rick Boucher, D-Va., playing a key role in writing an alternative, said his proposal, which lost in committee, would require a determination of whether the conduct of which Clinton is accused by investigators is grounds for impeachment.

Democrats clearly have a problem with conservatives in their party. Rep. Charles Stenholm of Texas, who has a tough re-election race, said he supports the Republican resolution.

It has no time or subject limits, but Stenholm said he accepts the goal of the Judiciary Committee chairman, Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., of finishing the House's work by the end of the year.

"My personal belief is no limitations makes good sense," Stenholm said."We have to realize who's in the majority and who's running the show. Republicans are running the show."

Republicans have predicted they'll get significant Democratic backing in the full House, which has dozens of conservative Democrats not found on the committee. A vote is likely Thursday or Friday.

Traywick wins football contest

The Levelland-Ft. Stockton game was the only thing that kept Brady Traywick from picking 20 winners in last weeks SDN Football Contest. Traywick, of PO Box 1270 won the $50 first prize.

Joe Wirshing of 366 CR 146 and Gary Martin of 2316 40th missed two games, so the tie-breaker procedure was used to determine their standings. Wirshing won the $25 second prize and Martin won the $15 third prize.

Winners will be mailed their checks. Another game appears on page 10 of this issue.

DCOS chief is off to LA

Development Corporation of Snyder board members met Monday to discuss a "prospecting" trip to Lorber Industries in Califonia for the possible location of a knitting plant in Snyder.

Executive director John DeLille will meet Thursday with Lorber executives to discuss constructing the facility adjacent to Lorber's existing spinning mill at the industrial park.

Also making the trip will be John Gibson, Western Texas College's director of workforce education.

"I feel confident they will put our best information on the table," said DCOS board president Roy McQueen.

McQueen presided at the meeting and all board members were in attendance to include Gary Landes, David Cotton, Larry Anderson and Jack Gorman. Also in attendance was Roy Baze, Chairman Emeritus of the board.

Man receives death penalty

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — Jurors glowered at Arthur Bomar then sentenced him to death for the murder of a college lacrosse player who was abducted from her car on a highway off-ramp, raped, beaten to death and dumped in a vacant lot.

The panel deliberated about four hours Monday before deciding against life in prison with no parole for the slaying of 22-year-old Aimee Willard.

Bomar, 39, stared straight ahead as the verdict was announced, and Ms. Willard's family and friends let out an audible gasp.

After the jury read the verdict, Bomar asked to address the courtroom. The judge refused. As Bomar was being led out, he made obscene gestures at the jury and swore at Ms. Willard's family.

"This last gesture demonstrates what a vile, filthy, disgusting human being Arthur Bomar is," prosecutor Daniel McDevitt said.

Ms. Willard's mother, Gail, an outspoken death penalty opponent, she was satisfied with the sentence.

"Twelve people deliberated very, very hard and they made a decision none of us had to make," Mrs. Willard said. "There will never be closure. Aimee's gone and we miss her very very much."

Earlier Monday, Bomar's mother accused the jury of convicting Bomar because he is black. Ms. Willard was white and 11 of the 12 jurors are white.

The same jury convicted Bomar on Thursday of first-degree murder, rape, assault, kidnapping and abuse of a corpse.

Former Cogdell CEO to take Brownwood post

BROWNWOOD — Tim Lancaster, former CEO of Cogdell Memorial Hospital, will return home to become chief executive officer of Brownwood Regional Medical Center.

Lancaster left Snyder in March, 1994 to become a senior vice president of the Hendrick Health System in Abilene.

Lancaster will move from Hendrick to take over his new position in Brownwood on Oct 26.

Prior to coming to Snyder, Lancaster was administrator of the Southeastern Methodist Hospital in Dallas. He previously was with West Texas Hospital in Lubbock and with RepublicBank in Lubbock.

Lancaster, graduate of Brownwood High School, and his wife, Regina, have two sons. Chad is 16 and Chris is 13.

BREAST CANCER AWARENESS MONTH — October is National Breast Cancer Awareness month. October is National Breast Cancer Awareness month

October is National Breast Cancer Awareness month. This year's theme is "Early Detection ...the Best Protection."

In recognition of that, Cogdell Memorial Hospital is again offering a screening mammogram and interpretation for a total discounted fee of $45 throughout the month. Participants must be age 35 or older to qualify for the special price.

To make an appointment, call the radiology department at 574-7440 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. A physician referral is not required for a screening mammogram.

The total payment of $45 must be received at the time of service. Due to this low discount fee, Cogdell Hospital will not file insurance; however, a cash receipt will be given to expedite insurance claims.

Breast cancer facts:

—Approximately 180,000 new breast cancer cases are diagnosed each year.

—Breast cancer is the second leading cause of cancer death in women.

—In 1998, breast cancer is expected to kill an estimated 43,500 American women.

—Although these statistics are alarming, breast cancer rates have declined over 5 percent for American women. According to reports from the National Cancer Institute, this continues a downward trend that began in the early 1990s.

—Officials at the Cancer Institute expressed cautious optimism and suggested that the trend is a result of improved detection and early treatment.

Mother of quads charged with child abuse

PHOENIX (AP) — A mother of quadruplets has been jailed on charges she shook and beat the infants, leaving one blind, deaf and in a near vegetative state.

Elizabeth Whittle, 23, was arrested Monday and charged with 14 counts of abusing the children, who are now 10 months old. She has denied the charges.

The infants, who were born Jan. 9, have been in state custody since April. Authorities said one boy, Anthony, is now in a near vegetative state because of his injuries.

The other three have at least partly recovered from injuries that included fractured skulls, bleeding and tearing of the brain, retinal hemorrhaging and broken arms, legs, ribs and collarbones. Doctors said it is too soon to know if they will suffer any permanent damage.

Maricopa County Attorney Rick Romley said Whittle's arrest came after doctors ruled out any possibility that the injuries might be the result of a genetic disorder such as brittle bone disease.

A report by Romley's office describes Whittle as an emotionally unstable, sometimes crude and uneducated woman who wanted to become a police officer so she could "bust people and kick in doors."

She has told police she is a manic-depressive who took herself off medication because she felt she didn't need it anymore.

Another slam-going cue-bid

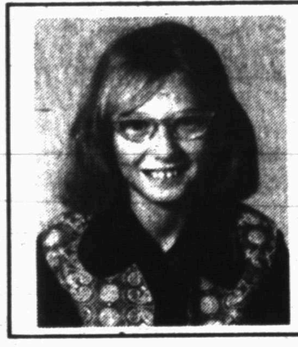

Let's have a second look at the use of a cue-bid to express slam interest and to show a side-suit control. Usually, this cue-bid occurs once a trump suit has been clearly agreed on, and combined game-forcing values have been established. Sometimes, though, a bid will logically be a cue — as in this auction.

South was nervous about opening only one spade, but he was a little weak for a stronger bid. North made a limit raise; showing four-plus trumps and 10-12 support points. Now, if South had a minimum, he would pass. With some extras, he would raise to game. But with this strong a hand, he could envisage a slam. Yet there was a risk the opponents could cash the ace and king of diamonds. So, South cue-bid four clubs, simultaneously telling partner that he had a slam in mind and that he held the club ace (or perhaps a club void). North, having a respectable hand too, cue-bid his diamond ace. As this was exactly what South had wanted to hear, he jumped to six spades.

Declarer won the first trick with dummy's diamond ace, drew two rounds of trumps, unblocked the ace-queen of clubs, crossed to dummy with a spade, and discarded his diamond loser on the club king.

Now South had to avoid two heart losers. One possibility was the textbook safety play: low to the ace, followed by a low heart, intending either to finesse dummy's nine if West played low, or to rise with the king and lead back toward the jack if West discarded. Instead, South ruffed dummy's remaining diamond, then led a heart to the nine. Whatever happened now, the contract was ensured.

5-0 Red Raiders left out of Top 25 poll

LUBBOCK (AP) — The Texas Tech Red Raiders unfolded their newspapers Monday morning to find that making the Top 25 will take more than a 5-0 record accumulated largely at the expense of North Texas and Texas El-Paso.

It appears Tech will have to beat Oklahoma State, which earned respect by threatening to defeat No. 2 Nebraska before falling 24-17. The Raiders face the Cowboys on Saturday.

Tech's star running back Ricky Williams said that some players were disappointed that the team wasn't included in the Top 25.

"I didn't get up in the morning and look (at the rankings) but I know a lot of players were concerned about it," Williams said. "I don't worry about what the rankings are. If we work hard, that will all work out in the end."

Tech received 103 votes, but lost out in the poll to Tulane, which received 114 votes after beating Southern Mississippi 21-7 and posting a 4-0 record.

While Tech may do more to prove its case against sturdier opposition, the Red Raiders have posted impressive numbers on both sides of the ball.

Williams ran for more than 100 yards for the sixth straight game, gaining 159 yards and two touchdowns last Saturday. He is second in the nation in rushing with 929 yards this season.

Tech's defense, which is ranked fourth in the nation for rushing defense, has held opponents to a 29 percent conversion rate on third down this season. Tech has converted 52 percent of the time.

Montae Reagor has led the defensive effort, recording two sacks against Fresno State to become the school's all-time leading pass rusher. He said the Top 25 poll meant little to the team's confidence.

"You always want to be ranked but that didn't happen," Reagor said. "We can't worry about the polls or what other teams think of us. We just have to be prepared for the game we're playing."

Besides a schedule that has yet to put Tech up against a ranked team, the Red Raiders may also be fighting the image that they can't put decent teams away.

After demolishing both North Texas and Texas-El Paso by 30-point margins, Tech had three nail-bitters.

Leading 31-10, Tech let Iowa State creep back into the game with 7:03 left. After Iowa cut the score to 31-24, Tech recovered an onside kick attempt to seal the victory.

Tech also let Fresno State come back from a 24-6 halftime deficit to take a 28-27 lead in the fourth quarter. Tech needed a last-second touchdown off a 1-yard-line Fresno fumble to win the game, 34-28.

The Baylor game was also in question until the very end, with the Bears quarterback being ruled out of bounds on a two-point conversion attempt that would have tied the game with just over a minute left.

Coach Spike Dykes said the games made him aware of improvement and adjustments he needed to make, but was not upset by the final scores.

"The bottom line is either you win or lose," Dykes said. "All the adjectives and expletives ... really don't matter. This game is based on winning and losing and we've won."

Westerners rope, ride into regional standings

ALPINE — After consecutive top-three finishes, the Western Texas College men's rodeo team finds itself only 45 points out of the regional lead.

Coming off a runner-up finish last week in Canyon, the Westerners grabbed the third spot over the weekend in Alpine. The WTC men were just 25 points off the pace of runner-up West Texas A&M, with Odesa JC taking the top spot.

In the regional standings, the Westerners occupy third place with 570 points, while West Texas A&M holds down first place with 615 points. Tarleton is second at 600.

"The men are performing very well," WTC coach Greg Rhodes said. "This is two weeks in a row now that they've turned in real solid performances."

Kyle Bowers led the WTC effort in Alpine, posting the top score in both rounds of the bareback riding. Bowers registered a 79 in the first round, before scoring a 72 in the short round to give him first place in the average.

Wes Stevenson was fourth in the first round after a ride of 72, then notched second place in the short round with a 70 to split second and third in the average.

The WTC women wrapped up second place in Alpine to remain in the runner-up slot in the regional standings.

"We had all six women's team members make it back to the short round in at least one event," Rhodes said. "The women are performing very well also. They'll just keep improving as the season wears on."

Jill Childers paced the Lady Westerner effort, wrapping up second place in the goat tying event, after posting a time of 8.5 seconds in the final round.

Sequin Downey was only one slot back in third place. Downey posted the fastest time of the short round at 8.1.

Talina Bird grabbed fourth place in breakaway roping with a time of 3.7 in the final round.

WTC will be back in the arena beginning Thursday in Vernon.

SHS netters charge on

After disposing of Lake View in handy fashion Saturday, 17-1, Snyder now faces Andrews this weekend in a battle for the top spot in the district standings.

Snyder currently shares first place with the Mustangs, as both squads enter Saturday's play with unblemished 3-0 marks.

Third-string QB pressed into action for Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska starting quarterback Bobby Newcombe is "a little questionable" for Saturday's game at Texas A&M and will see limited action in practice this week, Huskers coach Frank Solich said.

Solich said Newcombe was not at 100 percent in last Saturday's 24-17 squeaker over Oklahoma State. The sophomore missed Nebraska's second and third games of the season after partially tearing a ligament in his knee, then came back Sept. 26 to lead the Huskers to a 55-7 victory over Washington.

Newcombe did not practice Monday and the Huskers planned to limit the number of repetitions he takes during workouts this week, Solich said.

No. 2 quarterback Eric Crouch, who had been bothered by a pulled hamstring, suffered a bruised hip against Oklahoma State and also would be limited somewhat in practice, Solich said.

No. 3 quarterback Monte Christo is set to take most of the snaps with the first-string offense throughout the week while No. 4 quarterback Jay Runty also will get some practice time with the top unit, Solich said.

Also injured is split end Kenny Cheatam, who will be out for an "extended period of time" after separating his left shoulder against Oklahoma State, Solich said.

Cheatam's absence means the Huskers will be without the services of both starting receivers when Nebraska (5-0) faces No. 18 Texas A&M (4-0) in College Station, Texas. Starting wingback Lance Brown remains sidelined with a broken foot. Brown is at least a week away from returning to practice.

NBA season now in jeopardy

NEW YORK (AP) — The NBA preseason has been canceled. Regular season games are likely to go next.

The NBA's perfect record of never missing a regular season game because of a labor dispute is in serious jeopardy after the league canceled the entire preseason Monday.

After previously calling off the first 24 exhibition games, the NBA canceled the final 90 because of stalled labor negotiations with the players.

Wiping out the exhibition games will cost between $35 million and $40 million in ticket sales alone, Granik told The New York Times.

8th grade spikers capture title

SWEETWATER — Carrying momentum from blowout victories in the opening two rounds, Snyder Black cruised to the title of the Sweetwater eighth grade volleyball tournament.

The Lady Tigers posted a 15-2, 15-4 rout of Big Spring, then a 15-11, 15-4 trouncing of Colorado City, before getting 15 service points from Olivia Barrera in a lopsided 15-8, 15-1 championship victory over Bronte.

Seventh grade nabs third slot

SWEETWATER — Snyder Black had a pretty good weekend, considering their only loss of the Sweetwater seventh grade volleyball tournament came at the hands of Big Spring's A team.

The Lady Tigers captured third place, notching victories over Colorado City and Big Spring B.

Katie Chandler served up 10 points in Snyder's 15-8, 15-10, first round win over the Lady Wolves, while Sara Crawford posted 13 points during the Lady Tigers' 13-15, 15-8, 15-10 victory in the third-place match.

Prairie View ends streak, season during same game

PRAIRIE VIEW (AP) — Prairie View A&M has discovered something even worse than losing: Not getting to play at all.

The school whose football team recently vanquished an NCAA-record 80-game losing streak has now had its entire athletic department suspended in a showdown with the Southwestern Athletic Conference over, of all things, its marching band.

SWAC officials handed down the indefinite suspension Monday because the university allowed its band to perform at Saturday's Prairie View-Grambling game in Dallas.

That performance violated an earlier two-game suspension issued after the Prairie View band's halftime brawl with the band from Southern University.

The SWAC's latest sanctions bar any league school from playing Prairie View in any sport until further notice. Sports immediately affected are football, volleyball, track and bowling.

The volleyball team is scheduled to begin play Friday at a tournament hosted by Southern. Five of Prairie View's six remaining football games are against SWAC teams, including Saturday's homecoming game against rival Alcorn State.

Prairie View has appealed the SWAC decision, according to Larry Raab, the school's vice president of operations.

The marching bands of Southern and Prairie View duked it out during a halftime melee Sept. 19 at Beaumont. Several Prairie View band members were injured and both schools incurred damage to uniforms and instruments.

Dr. Gott by Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: One day, after bingeing on sweets, my blood sugar was 100. The next day it was 80, and I had eaten no sweets. What do these values mean? I'm 64, female, and tire easily.

DEAR READER: When a normal person consumes carbohydrates (in the form of sugar or starch), the pancreas is stimulated to secrete insulin, a hormone that enables the products of digestion to enter cells and provide fuel for energy. Your blood sugar of 100 was normal following the ingestion of sweets; the next day's value of 80 was also normal. These figures prove that your body can handle carbohydrates by producing the exact amount of insulin necessary for proper metabolism.

If you were diabetic, your blood sugar would be much higher — 180 milligrams per deciliter or above. Your fatigue is probably not due to an abnormality in sugar metabolism. I suggest that you and your doctor search for other causes.

To give you related information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Diabetes Mellitus." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've had breast-enlargement surgery. Could a tiny cancer be missed by a doctor or mammogram if it is under or near the implant?

DEAR READER: Without a doubt.

Breast prostheses are smooth, therefore, your doctor probably could feel a lump that lies close to them — but not always, especially if a tumor were to appear beneath the implant.

Also, the material in implants has different X-ray characteristics than the surrounding breast tissue, so a mammogram should, in theory, differentiate a lump from the prosthesis. But, again, not always.

Because women with breast implants are at the same risk as other women for breast cancer, they should have periodic mammograms and breast exams, even though such studies are often more difficult to interpret. Follow your doctor's advice about this issue.

DEAR DR. GOTT: In a recent column, you reported that tetanus/diphtheria immunizations in children are given in a series of three injections. This is incorrect.

Most experts recommend a basic series of four shots, followed by a booster at 4 to 6 years.

DEAR DOCTOR: I was wrong, and I am grateful for your letter correcting me. The present DPT (diphtheria/pertussis/tetanus) recommendations are as follows:

One shot at 2 months of age, another at 4 months, a third at 6 months, and the last between 15 and 18 months. Subsequently, the child should have a booster injection at 4 to 6 years, followed by a tetanus/diphtheria shot every 10 years thereafter.

I apologize to my readers for any confusion I may have caused.

Ruling could spur more drug tests of public school students

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public schools that want to require students to take drug tests may find some encouragement in a Supreme Court action Monday that allowed an Indiana district to continue such tests.

Rejecting an appeal by teenagers and their parents on Monday, the court let a rural school district conduct random drug tests for all students in extracurricular activities — from sports teams to the library club — even if they are not individually suspected of using drugs.

The justices, acting without comment, left intact a federal appeals court ruling that said such testing does not violate students' privacy rights.

Starting its 1998-99 term with a flurry of paperwork, the court issued orders in more than 1,600 cases. It granted full review to just six.

Outside the stately courthouse, more than 1,000 members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People noisily demonstrated to protest the court's lack of minority law clerks. NAACP President Kweisi Mfume and 18 other people were arrested for trying to demonstrate on court property rather than on the public sidewalk.

The court's action in the drug-testing case is not a decision and therefore sets no national precedent. But it left in place a ruling that remains binding law in three states — Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin. And it could entice educators in other states to expand drug testing.

The National School Boards Association says it has no hard numbers, but believes very few school districts require testing of students, according to spokesman Jay Butler.

Julie Hunter Wood, the group's general counsel, said she would not expect a wave of new drug-testing programs. "Most schools approach this issue as one of prevention, not detection," she said.

In 1995, the justices voted 6-3 to uphold random drug tests for student athletes, citing both their "role model" status among peers and the importance of "deterring drug use by our nation's schoolchildren."

Monday's action does not preclude the possibility that the highest court will someday spell out more definitively the bounds of permissible drug testing.

Rush County High School in rural Indiana adopted its drug-testing program in 1996 even though there was little evidence of drug use among its students. The program bars students from all extracurricular activities — sports teams, library club, Future Homemakers of America and the like — unless they and their parents or guardians consent to random urinalysis tests.

The testing is conducted by a service in a vehicle parked on school grounds.

If a student tests positive, his or her family can explain the result by, for example, showing that the student is taking certain prescription medicine. Absent such proof, the student is suspended from all extracurricular activities until passing a new test.

The program was challenged by Matthew Todd's parents when he was a freshman working as a volunteer who videotaped the football team. Matthew's parents refused to consent to the drug testing and Matthew, now a junior, was barred from his volunteer work.

Steve and Gina Hammons also refused to let their three children be tested. Two had been members of the library club and Future Farmers of America. Only a daughter, Jennifer, now a senior, remains at the high school.

The Todds and Hammonses sued, but a federal trial judge upheld the drug testing.

A three-judge panel of the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals agreed, stating that "successful extracurricular activities require healthy students."

The appeals court panel ruled that the program was "sufficiently similar" to an Oregon school district's drug-testing of student athletes that the Supreme Court had condoned in 1995.

The parents asked the full 7th Circuit court to consider the case, but were denied. The dissenting judges said the panel's decision "takes us a long way toward condoning drug testing in the general school population."

Policeman Who Won't Call May Be Copping Out of Relationship

by Abigail Van Buren

© 1998 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a 30-year-old professional woman dating a 22-year-old police officer. In recent weeks, our level of communication has dropped. He tells me his schedule has been hectic and he has not been able to return my calls. Sometimes I don't hear from him for days.

When we began dating, we spent a lot more time together, but lately our togetherness has dwindled to almost nothing. He blames his work schedule. I want to believe him, but my friends say he's not being truthful with me and I should dump him. They say if he really wanted to call me, he would find a way.

Abby, I think his profession makes their conclusion invalid, but I'm not sure. What do you think?

UNSURE IN UPLAND

DEAR UNSURE: I suspect your friends are correct. While your boyfriend may not be able to return your calls during duty hours, even police officers have some time off.

Ask him to be honest with you about his feelings so you'll know where you stand. Once you know, you can decide how to proceed.

DEAR ABBY: I'm having trouble getting my mind off this problem. My wife passed away four months ago. She dearly loved flowers, and everyone in the family knew it. I was very disappointed that with 35 relatives attending her funeral, only six sent flower arrangements.

I'd like to know the proper procedure for flowers at a funeral. If you attend the funeral, perhaps you don't need to send flowers. I have been to three funerals since my wife's death and sent flowers to each one. Please answer my letter to ease my mind.

MOURNING IN TEXAS

DEAR MOURNING: Please accept my sympathy for the loss of your beloved wife.

To answer your question, there is no "requirement" that those who attend the funeral must send flowers. It's a matter of personal choice. The trend at funerals in recent years has been away from masses of flowers. Often the family will request that in lieu of flowers, a contribution in memory of the deceased be made to a charity, hoping something positive will result from their loss.

If it's any comfort to you, in my opinion six floral arrangements were appropriate tributes to your wife's fondness for flowers.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to comment on two letters that have appeared in your column: one, from "The Last Nice Guy," whose 18-year-old girlfriend cheated on him while she was on vacation, and the other from "Feels Confined in Pacifica, Calif.," whose 19-year-old girlfriend is jealous when he wants to spend time with his friends.

Abby, they both need to find out that true love is built on trust!

I would like to remind "Nice Guy" that if the woman would cheat on you now, she could also cheat on you in the years to come, after you are married with children. There are nice women out there who want to find a nice man. I found one. And I'm sure that you'll eventually find a nice woman to spend your life with.

To "Confined," I'd like to say, this gives you an excellent opportunity to strengthen your relationship with your girlfriend. Be completely honest and kind, but tell her what you told Abby — that you care for her, but you occasionally need time by yourself. If she's a woman worth keeping, she'll understand.

BEEN THERE IN PUEBLO, COLO.

GOOD NEWS

CLOSE TO GOD?

Well, Friends, how much do you depend on God? How close are you to Him? Are you like the person who said, "I would like to buy three dollars worth of God, please. Not enough to explode my soul or disturb my sleep, but just enough to get by. I don't want enough of Him to make me love a Black man or a convicted Criminal. I want ecstasy, not transformation; I want the warmth of the womb, not a new birth. I want three dollars worth of God, please."

Yes, I know that nobody would ever say something like that. But there are a lot of folks living that way. Does that describe you? Oh, you don't want to dump God, just keep Him at a comfortable distance. That way nothing ever has to change in your life. You can just keep on going to church ... sing Him a little song while you're there ... say a prayer ... and hope the preacher lets you go before the Methodists get all the good seats at the restaurant!

Question: Can you really be happy with that? Another question: Do you really think God is happy with that?

God loves you and wants to join hearts with you. Dear Friend, I'm not trying to meddle in your business but I want you to know that nothing in this world is more important than growing closer to God. Being closer to God would make EVERY other relationship in your life deeper and more satisfying. Think about it ... and discuss it with someone. I'll listen.

Possible military strikes in Kosovo eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton intensified diplomatic consultations today on a possible military strike against Serbs as the White House warned that Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic "is nowhere near compliance" with U.N. Security Council resolutions on Kosovo.

Clinton talked by phone with British Prime Minister Tony Blair, in China on an official visit. A day earlier, Clinton talked with Russian President Boris Yeltsin and derided the steps Milosevic has taken in response to a Sept. 23 Security Council resolution aimed at ending the 7-month-old conflict in Kosovo.

The Yugoslav leader seemed defiant following a meeting with U.S. Ambassador Richard Holbrooke, who was dispatched to Belgrade Monday with an eleventh-hour appeal for compliance with the U.N. resolution.

"President Milosevic pointed to some activity on the ground, some decrease in fighting, some withdrawal," Clinton spokesman Joe Lockhart said. "Ambassador Holbrooke made it clear that the U.S. is not satisfied with anything short of full compliance."

Lockhart added, "We have not seen full compliance. If you look at the U.N. Security Council report ... they are nowhere near compliance with the U.N. resolution."

Milosevic's office issued a statement denouncing NATO threats as a "criminal act" that favored separatist ethnic Albanian guerrillas. It said there had been no fighting in the Serbian province for seven days, and that the crisis represented no threat to other countries in the southern Balkans.

If the impasse continues, Secretary of State Madeleine Albright is expected to meet with her NATO colleagues in Brussels on Thursday to discuss next steps.

State Department spokesman James P. Rubin, with Albright in Jerusalem, said early today that she had received two telephone reports from Holbrooke and that Milosevic had not agreed to "sustainable and irreversible compliance with the demands of the international community."

High court to decide home search protection

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most people who temporarily visit someone else's home should not be protected against police searches without a warrant, the Supreme Court was told today by a prosecutor in a Minnesota drug case.

In particular, such protection doesn't extend to two men arrested after a policeman peeked through a gap in window blinds and saw them packaging a white powdery substance, prosecutor James C. Backstrom told the high court.

"Criminal activity is not the kind of activity normally associated with the privacy of a dwelling," Backstrom said.

Attorney Bradford Carter, representing the two men, said that in many cases short-term guests in a home should have the same protection against unreasonable searches as the Constitution's Fourth Amendment gives to homeowners.

Both lawyers and the justices themselves struggled over which house visitors are entitled to privacy protection.

Justice Stephen G. Breyer said there was no doubt homeowners were entitled to constitutional protection. But he added, "Why do we want to protect the pizza man?"

The Avon lady should not expect her activities to be more private if invited indoors than if she made her sales pitch on the front step, suggested Justice Sandra Day O'Connor.

And Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg asked, "Would it be any different ... if they had gathered to play a game of poker rather than put together coke?"

"ANTICIPATION IN CHRIST"
Paul wrote, "I consider that the sufferings of this present time are not worth comparing with the glory that is to be revealed to us" (Romans 8:18). Birds joyfully sing as they build their nests. Young couples anticipating the coming of a baby show this same joy in their preparations. The apostles were filled with sadness when they realized Jesus would soon depart. But Jesus said, "I go to prepare a place for you" (John 14:2). Out of despair -- a note of joy. As the child who comes into this world unaware of all that preceded his arrival, so we are unable to comprehend what has been done in the preparation of the home beyond. We only know the person who has gone ahead to make preparations.

On the entry blank at the bottom of the page, fill in your selection of the WINNING TEAM only...opposite the name of the business firm on the entry blank. Then clip out the entry blank and send it to FOOTBALL CONTEST EDITOR, Snyder Daily News, Box 949, Snyder, TX 79550, or bring it by the news office at 3600 College Ave. Entries must be in the hands of the editor by 5:00 p.m. Friday. Games ending in a tie must be specified as a tie or else it will be considered a miss.

To avoid splitting the prize money a TIE-BREAKER slot will be provided on each entry blank. Pick the total points of the score for that game and in case of a tie the one who picks the winner and the nearest number of total points will receive the prize money. The same formula will apply to second and third place winners. In the case of a perfect score, the formula would apply for the $250 cash prize. To win the $1,000 cash prize, all twenty games must be picked correctly, plus the exact score must be predicted on the tie-breaker.

There will be fun for the entire family. Only one entry blank will be permitted for any one person. More than one will disqualify all that person's entries. Entries must be on the official entry blank (No Copies Please). Scores listed on the entry blank will have no bearing except in the case of the tie-breaker. Sign your entry blank and list your address and phone number and watch for the winner's story in next Tuesday's SDN. Employees of the SDN and their families are not eligible to enter.
