MEXICO FINANCES NICARAGUA REVOLT

MEMPHIS GIN BURNS; TOTAL LOSS $35,000

High Wind Fans Flames Out of Control Early Wednesday

COTTON ALSO BURNS

Loss Partly Recoverable By Insurance; Owners to Rebuild Plant

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Feb. 16.—Fire destroyed the Thrasher gin about 4 o'clock this morning, the estimated loss being $35,000 with insurance to the amount of $19,000.

The gin had caught fire late Tuesday afternoon but was extinguished by the house fire hose and the fire department was not summoned.

It is thought that probably a spark was left covered up and ignited the cotton when fanned by a strong wind early this morning.

The plant was a total loss, together with about 10 bales of ginned and seed cotton. The seed house on the south containing about 50 tons of seed was saved.

This plant was owned by M. E. and Claud Threasher and the Memphis Cotton Oil company and was one of the oldest, largest and best equipped plants in Hall county. Twenty-two hundred bales of this season's cotton had been ginned up to the time of the fire.

It is the intention of the owners at this time to rebuild the plant. They will install the latest and most modern machinery being ready for the run next fall.

CONTRACT LET FOR $250,000 BAKERY HERE

Nafziger Company to Build New Plant to Serve Wichita Area

ONE OF FINEST IN U. S.

Directors Build For City of 100,000 In New Construction

Construction of a $125,000 building by the Nafziger Baking company, and the installation of equipment valued at $125,000, when the structure is completed, was announced Wednesday by W. L. Mulligan, general manager.

The contract for the construction of the building was awarded Tuesday to the Robert H. Brown Construction company, of Wichita Falls.

The new building will be located at Magnolia and Smarsh streets. The structure, according to the contract, will be completed Sept. 1. Construction will start within the next two weeks, Mulligan said.

When ready for operation the new plant will be the most up-to-date equipped bakery in the southwest, according to Mulligan.

Directors See Growth.

"Although it will not be the largest, the equipment will by far eclipse that of any other similar institution in this part of the United States," declared Mulligan.

"It was only after the directors were satisfied that Wichita Falls within the course of a short time would be a city of 100,000 inhabitants that they decided to erect the new building."

The Nafziger Baking company opened five years ago in its present location, 1007 Travis street. It adopted its trade mark "Butter Cream" bread at that time. There were only a few employes when the plant opened for business, however, at the present time the personnel numbers 35 and when the new plant is completed the number of employes will be increased to 50, according to Mulligan.

The Nafziger company distributes its bread by automobile truck within a radius of 75 miles from Wichita Falls. Railroad shipments are made within a radius of 125 miles.

HAMBONE MEDITATION

JIM WALLOPS ANTI-AMNESTY BILL BACKERS

Ferguson Gives Signal That He'll Be In Race For U. S. Senator

REVIVES KLAN CHARGE

Ousted Governor Also Raps Prohibition As Force For Fanaticism

By Universal Service.

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 16.—The hiss of an adder and the snarl of a tiger are mild warnings compared to the broadside hurled today by "Jim" Ferguson at his political enemies in the senate who, Tuesday, voted to engross an act proposing to repeal the amnesty bill which restored to him his political citizenship.

"With burning prohibitionists and ku klux fanatics" was one of the characterizations applied to certain senators in the statement issued by the impeached former governor.

"I did not start this row but as it has been started I am not going to run away from it, and I here and now declare war upon this unholy trio composed of the big oil companies, the ku klux klan and the prohibition politicians," the statement declared. "I want them to know the battle has just begun."

He'll Seek Senatorship.

Ferguson's statement was generally accepted as an assurance that he will remain in politics and that he will more than likely be a candidate for the United States senate in the next elections. He named most of the senators who voted against him and bitterly denounced them. He flayed what he called the Love-McAdoo crowd and said he "accepts the gage of battle against them."

"Farmer Jim" did not confine his denouncement to individuals. In one paragraph he walked all over the prohibition issue.

"I here and now denounce national and state prohibition as the biggest farce and fizzle of the age and I boldly declare that it has produced more fanaticism and more crime and more little men in office than any law that was ever put on the statute book," he said.

Most members of the senate took Ferguson's statement seriously. Not that they were worrying about his attack on them as individuals, but because they realize he will be a facter to contend with in the next election.

Both Houses Function.

Both the senate and the house functioned well today. The senate this morning passed several important resolutions calling for constitutional amendments besides listening to two messages from the governor. One of the messages advocated sweeping changes in the judiciary system and the other asked the legislature to appropriate $1,700,000 and some odd dollars to pay off the indebtedness of the penitentiary system and put the penal institution on a budget basis. The governor approved the bill establishing a new court of civil appeals for Wichita Falls but vetoed the appropriation, suggesting a different method of securing funds to run the court. His message was received with applause in both the senate and the house.

In the afternoon the senate passed to engrossment the bill abolishing manslaughter and took action on a number of other more or less important measures.

The house passed the Fly resolution providing for the election of the secretary of state, and killed the Pope bill which would take the pardon power away from the governor and place it in the hands of a board consisting of the governor, the chief justice of the supreme court and the attorney general.

Tax University Land.

All dope was upset in the house when the vote came on Boggs' university land tax bill. This bill is designed to make about 2,000,000 acres of university land in some 17 counties subject to taxation. It was freely predicted that the bill would be killed, but on final vote it passed the house 107 to 18.

The trip of the legislature to Laredo to help the border city celebrate George Washington's birthday in an appropriate way, is growing more and more the topic of conversation as the time approaches. A wild rumor that members of the legislature would not be allowed to cross the international line into Mexico created a near-panic today, until it was run down and found to be without foundation.

Wichita's Appellate Court May Never Convene If Judiciary Is Reorganized

Moody Submits Bill to Reorganize System of Higher Tribunals As He Signs Bill For Local Court

A court which may never operate, a judicial district which may never exist except in the records of the Texas legislature, a law which may be repealed before it becomes effective, by an anomaly crowned with success Wednesday efforts of Wichita Falls and Northwest Texas bar associations to relieve court congestion of this district.

While Gov. Dan Moody approved the bill creating the twelfth court of civil appeals at Wichita Falls, he simultaneously placed in motion legislative machinery which will bring about the introduction of his bill providing for the reorganization of the appeals district of all the state, a measure which if adopted will automatically repeal the bill creating the court here.

Bill Due Thursday

The bill for the reorganization of the state system is expected to be introduced Thursday or Friday, according to a telegram by Sen. W. D. McFarlane to Ben G. Oneal, Wichita Falls attorney. The Wichita Bar association is expected to give its support to the new measure, following a pledge to Governor Moody that his approval of the court here would not lead to opposition to the reorganization of the state system.

Whether or not the reorganization bill becomes a law, relief from congestion of court dockets in this district has been assured, Mr. Oneal pointed out Wednesday night. Should the reorganization measure be approved, it will automatically repeal the bill creating the twelfth court of appeals here. Provision for the more rapid handling of Wichita cases will be made, however, in the new and smaller district in which this county will be placed. Should the measure fail to pass, then the Wichita Falls court will operate as originally planned.

Relief Assured

"By approving the measure for the twelfth court of appeals, Governor Moody has assured this district of relief from the congestion of cases, whether or not the reorganization of all districts is finally effected," Mr. Oneal said.

The bill creating the local court will not become effective until 90 days after the adjournment of the present session of the legislature.

GOV. MOODY PROPOSES MANY JUDICIAL REFORMS

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Feb. 16.—Governor Moody today approved the Wichita civil appeals court bill, but vetoed the appropriation which was carried in the bill. He said in his message on judicial reform which announced the action the appropriation should be carried in the general or deficiency bills. Moody had not appointed the judges of the new court. His veto of the appropriation apparently indicated the court will not function until after the special session in May and if the judicial reorganization is effected may never be organized.

U. S. TO SEND MORE MARINES TO NICARAGUA

Six War Planes Ordered to Be Delivered to U. S. Force At Corinto

DR. SACASA DEFIANT

Rebel Leader Warns Admiral Latimer That He'll Fire On Marines

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Six scouting airplanes equipped with machine guns and 200 additional marines were ordered to Nicaragua from San Diego today as the revolution there assumed a critical phase.

All peace negotiations have been abandoned, reports from Rear Admiral Julian T. Latimer, in command of U. S. naval forces in Nicaraguan waters declared.

The Sacasa forces are preparing for a final drive to wrest control from President Diaz. There is danger that American forces as well as American citizens at interior points may be cut off from communication with costal bases, it was reported.

To Enforce Neutral Zone.

The planes will be used to maintain communication as well as supplement the marines in maintaining neutral zones and protecting American lives and property.

They will be sent to Corinto, with the additional forces of marines on board the submarine tender Melville, now at San Deigo. The Melville was ordered to get under way at once and report to Admiral Latimer at Corinto.

It was pointed out that the airplanes, of the De Haviland type, will be able to maintain speedy communication between the east and west coasts of Nicaragua. Besides their machine guns they are adapted for carrying bombs.

In the event that American lives and property are placed in danger as the Sacasa army drives toward Managua, the capital, the planes can be quickly dispatched to danger zones.

Disquieting reports reached Washington today, following dispatches telling of the rebel victories at Matagalpu, that Sacasa is ready to begin his final advance upon Managua.

Mexico Aids Sacasa.

As exclusively reported in Universal Service dispatches, Mexico has sent Sacasa a half million in gold, and another million and a half of Mexican dollars has been loaned Guatemala, favorable to the liberal faction in Nicaragua.

At the same time dispatches from Mexico City from Sacasa's foreign minister there bluntly stated that the liberals were henceforth to resist American interference by declaring "neutral zones" and that any attempt to stop the liberals victorious advance might lead to bloodshed.

MEXICO SENDS GOLD TO AID NICARAGUA REBELS.

GUATEMALA CITY, Feb. 16.—Two million pesos in Mexican gold—a million and a half as a loan to Guatamala and a half a million as a loan to Juan Sacasa, liberal claimant to the presidency of Nicaragua—has been received by Alfonso Gravioto, Mexican ambassador here, according to the most authoritative information.

The money, in Mexican gold pieces is understood to have crossed the border at Ayutla in a single shipment consigned by the National Bank of Mexico to the ambassador and delivered through the bank's branch on Feb. 10.

Guatamala plainly is planning to participate in the developments to the south.

The Honduras revolutionary general Ferrara is understood to be in Mexico and it is believed that he will leave shortly for the east coast of Honduras with an insurrectionary force.

Ferrara is said to be expecting a ship from New Orleans which will pick up rifles and ammunition at an obscure port on the gulf coast and take them to Honduras. The rifles are said to include 1000 and from the United states such as were used in the World war and the ammunition amounts to one million rounds.

Continuation of the Diaz-Sacasa fight in Nicaragua is accentuating other Central American differences.

The present Honduras government followed the example of the United States in recognising Diaz whereas Guatamala withheld recognition. In all Guatamala towns are posters recruiting troops and this intensifies the interest generally felt relative to coming developments.

Aimee Collects Coin in Big Tin Pans As Crowds Jam Hall To Hear Lecture

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Aimee Semple McPherson went into the hand-shaking business today, a new trick she pulled out of her bag, but she was not able to stand up to it and had to call a halt.

Invited to shake hands almost everybody in the house made for the stage. They were orderly but insistent. They streamed up the two narrow staircases and knocked the rail off one.

"Sister" Aimee stood in the middle and used both hands, first one and then the other. But her hands couldn't hold out.

Ushers directing the streams to prevent chaos stopped the lines at the platform. They were polite but adamant. Nobody got by. Aimee stepped to the footlights.

"My dear friends, I would like to shake hands with you all, but I just can't today. I didn't know I had so many friends. I'll shake hands this way."

And she squeezed her own hand, as actors often do when taking a curtain call.

The money collected today was by no means an insignificant sum.

At the night meeting Mrs. McPherson passed around tin dish-pans. While the expenses of the party, which includes eight persons, and the rental of the big hall are heavy, the representative thinks there will be a "small amount left over."

Houston Lobbyist Swears He Used No Improper Means To Defeat Bill

AUSTIN, Feb. 16. (AP)—Denial that he ever was guilty of any irregularity in lobbying today was made by W. W. Chamberlain, Houston optometrist and lobbyist for the Texas Optometry association, in an affidavit signed before a house investigating sub-committee.

Chamberlain's testimony recently resulted in the expulsion from the house of former Reps. F. A. Dale of Bonham and H. H. Moore of Cooper on bribery charges.

The sub-committee which received Chamberlain's affidavit questioned him briefly and will recommend the acceptance of the affidavit by the state affairs committee which now has before it a resolution asking an investigation of Chamberlain's lobbying activities.

Chamberlain also swore that the statement credited to him following expulsion of Dale and Moore, "I have the numbers of several others," referred not to any legislator but rather to certain lobbyists.

A letter he wrote to the president of the optometry association asking $100 a day for lobbying purposes was explained by him. The money, he said, is used in paying legitimate expenses such as hotel bills, telegraph and telephone charges, railway tickets and other incidentals.

The state affairs committee will likely accept the affidavit and it is thought probable the proposed investigation will not be continued further.

BANKERS FACE LOBBY CHARGE

$100,000 Spent to Fight Bill Solon Claims

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16. (AP) The last of the many legislative steps that have been necessary for the highly controverted McFadden branch banking bill to reach President Coolidge was taken today by the senate.

Scarcely had the conference report, as amended by the house, been approved, 71 to 17, before Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, a co-author of the revised measure, proposed a senate investigation of reports that a group of bankers favoring the discarded Hull amendment had spent more than $100,000 maintaining a lobby in Washington.

The resolution of the Virginia senator, who formerly was secretary of the treasury, was referred to a committee, but its author will press for action soon with a view to having the senate banking committee conduct the inquiry and report by next January 1.

Senator Glass said rumors were that the lobby had conducted activities of "an illicit and culpable nature" and had spent "a sum considerably in excess of $100,000," in behalf of the Hull amendment, which would have prohibited national banks from maintaining any sort of branches in states which did not sanction branch banking.

"These rumors have gone so far as to suggest," he continued, "that paid lobbyists of this group of bankers, which to my certain knowledge have haunted the corridors of this capitol for months, had employed members of congress identified with this legislation to go out and make speeches in behalf of certain provisions of this bill.

"In view of these persistent reports, some of which I have good reason to believe, the senate owes it to itself to have an inquiry made. I may add that it is reported that this group of bankers paid the way of a number of delegates to the recent meeting of the American Bankers' association at Los Angeles."

Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, who opposed the McFadden bill vigorously and favored the Hull amendments, demanded that the senate "investigate the American Bankers' association from top to bottom," declaring little bankers had their expenses paid to various conventions "whenever the association wanted to put over any resolutions."

Senator Glass replied that the resolution would give the investigating committee wide latitude, and the Montanan declared he heartily endorsed an investigation.

The conference report on the banking bill was put through the senate under the first application to purely domestic legislation of the drastic cloture rule limiting debate to one hour for each senator. The rule was invoked to prevent a long filibuster by a small group on each side of the chamber.

After the roll call Senator Glass submitted to the senate a telegram from Thomas B. Paton, general counsel of the American Bankers' association, denying that there was anything improper in correspondence concerning the banking legislation sent out over his name.

Paton asserted that the letter sent to Representative M. D. Hull, republican, Illinois, author of the Hull amendments, over the signature of his son, Thomas B. Paton Jr., and offering to recommend Hull to handle legal business was a form communication sent to 30,000 attorneys over the country and had no connection with banking legislation.

PLANES CRASH IN FULL FLIGHT

Three Soldiers Die As Ships Collide In Air

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 16.(AP)—Lieut. Benedict A. Coyle, Cadet John W. Green, and Private Rudolph C. Bartel were killed in a mid-air plane crash at an altitude of about 150 feet at Camp Stanley Wednesday afternoon.

Lieutenant Coyle and Private Bartel were taking off in a Douglas O-2 when they drifted into contact with Cadet Green, who was flying alone in a D-H training ship. Cadet Green was firing on the target range when the accident occurred, and apparently both pilots crashed into each other before they realized what was happening. Both ships came to the ground in a heap and the flyers were killed instantly. Lieutenant Coyle was taking off to return to Kelly Field when the accident occurred.

Lieutenant Coyle is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mabel Coyle of Kelly Field. He was born in Canada in 1891 and enlisted in the infantry in 1917 from Massachusetts. He was transferred to the air service in 1920 and has been stationed at Kelly Field for several years.

Cadet Green was transferred in the last class from the primary training school in Brooks Field. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Agatha Green, 6515 North Maplewood avenue, Chicago.

AIRPLANE FALLS AT SCOTT RANCH, 2 DIE

FORT WORTH, Feb. 16.(AP)—An airplane crash on the Scott ranch a few miles southwest of Fort Worth resulted in the death of Quincy Burnet, former Fort Worth motorcycle police captain, and probably fatal injuries to John C. Googins, late Wednesday.

Googins, aviator, and scion of a wealthy family, is a son of a former Fort Worth manager of Swift and company.

Burnet had been motorcycle officer at Denton for some time and had on his uniform at the time of his death.

DYNAMITE TO FIGHT FLOODS

Jam In California River Feared By Engineers

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 16.(Via radio KFSD at San Diego, to radio KNX, Hollywood) (AP)—Government engineers today proposed dynamiting of the Santa Fe railroad bridge across the San Diego river as an extraordinary measure to prevent the river, swollen by torrential rains, from sweeping through a residential section of the city.

Fears were expressed that the river might break through the government levee at Old Town and re-enter the bay after rushing through a section crowded by hundreds of homes and threatening destruction of the Marine base.

FLOOD WATERS ISOLATE CALIFORNIA COMMUNITY

BRAWLEY, Calif., Feb. 16.(AP) Floods due to heavy rains today nearly completely isolated Brawley from surrounding sections. Train service is cut off by washouts above Indio. The Southern Sierra Power company's lines went down at Yucaipa and between here and San Diego.

Automobile traffic north of Brawley has been stopped by washouts and telephone and telegraph lines are down, the only means of keeping in touch with the outside being by a telegraph line to El Paso, Texas.

The state highway department bought all the sacks in Brawley, about 5000, for use in the work of protecting highways north of here for 25 miles. Heavy streams of water from the west watershed and the desert have been cutting into highways and the sacks filled with earth are used to divert the course of the water.

up she goes!

RIGHT now you can probably think of a hill that's been making your motor knock every time you've climbed it. And that's easily explained.

Your motor is designed to deliver a certain number of revolutions per minute to give maximum power and response under all conditions. But after a while carbon forms, that knock develops, the motor revolutions drop and you lose power on the hills and a quick response in traffic.

That's when you need Conoco Ethyl Gasoline—because this new fuel works at maximum efficiency in a carbon-choked motor. It absolutely eliminates knocks—and the carbon formations which increase the pressure in the cylinders are actually a benefit because Conoco Ethyl Gasoline performs perfectly under this high pressure—which means that it delivers more power to the pistons.

Conoco Ethyl Gasoline has no substitute. Don't confuse it with other "anti-knock" fuels. It is the result of years of research. A tankful will deliver extra knockless miles under practically all operating conditions. Get it at the sign of the Continental Soldier.

Civic Clubs

Hello, Hawaii—
Waikiki Here—
For the Lions—
Nothing Else—

By BLONDY CROSS

Waikiki was transposed to Wichita Falls for a few minutes Wednesday and the transportation route was not taken over the radio, either.

Hawaii and Aloha, the latter in the form of petite little Miss Ora Watkins Arnold, queen of terpsichore, visited with the Lions club. An all-Hawaiian musical and dance skit led by J. S. Pitman was produced for edification of the civic clubbers. They demanded more.

The "Royal Hawaiians," composed of Forrest (Skinny) Williams, I. B. Thompson, Miss Eleanor Pitman, J. S. Pitman, Miss Isabella San Toy and Miss Arnold, wowwed the congregation with a bit of team play and a number of solo offerings topped by a brace of dance forays that caused staid business and professional men to forget momentarily they were attending merely the weekly session of a luncheon club and had but a few minutes remaining before they were to return to their chores.

Skinny uncorked a bit of triple action on a uke, then Thompson, who, by the way, is an instructor in string instruments, put 'em at their chair edges with selections on a couple of different types of Hawiian guitars. Miss Pitman lilted "Aloha Oe," all the while plunking away on a ukelele in accompaniment. The crew teamed on a pair of pieces after which the headliner was whisked into view a la alfalfa skirt and bare tootsies. Miss San Toy tagged the tom tom and Pitman slammed the ivories while Miss Arnold entranced, intrigued, hypnotized and whatnot the entire gathering from the venerable President Bob Graham on down to Joe Dickey, the boy member of the club, with sprightly rendition of Ruth St. Denis' Maori dance. She climaxed with a soulful shot of the noble hula hula.

There were more customers present than had been prepared for, but nobody went away hungry, nor did any miss the show. Program was ribbed up by A. B. Ross.

Tom Blanton Continues Belligerent Course As House Pokes Fun At Him For His Fisticuff With Colleague

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Confusion and disorder reigned in the house today, when Representative Tom Blanton, Democrat, of Texas, and Representative Sam Dickstein, Democrat, of New York, fired challenges at each other for a fist fight in the house. The lid blew off when Representative Carewe, Democrat, of New York, filed resolutions for a joint congressional committee to regulate "challenges, bouts, fights and duels" between members of congress.

After Carewe had made an appeal for the rules committee to act promptly upon his resolution, Blanton declared: "I am heartily in favor of the resolution introduced by our generalissimo from Tammany. Such suitable and appropriate preliminaries shall consist of a specific, particular, detailed and profane reflection on the intelligence, veracity, ancestry or religion of one member by another.

"Language used in the Pickwickian sense shall not be sufficient provocation for a fight.

"No challenge, bout, fight or duel when once made or started shall be interrupted or balked until finished. If suspended temporarily, it shall be continued to a finish at the earliest opportunity.

"No lady member of the house or senate shall take advantage of the rules to join in a fight without the previous consent and approval and personal co-operation of the respective presiding officers of the senate or the speaker of the house."

Resolution by Representative Sullivan of Massachusetts called for a congressional boxing board. It read, "Said board shall arrange to hold the bouts in statuary hall, under the paternal eyes of the fathers of the republic. Contestants to abstain from hair pulling, profanity and tobacco chewing and the use of wrist watches or flasks; and be it further resolved, that the Hon. William D. Upshaw of Georgia is appointed permanent referee of all bouts held under jurisdiction of said board, his salary and expenses to be paid out of the contingent fund of the house."

BLANTON SCORES PARDONS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16. (AP)—The wide use of the pardoning power of "Ma" Ferguson has convinced the people of Texas that the "job of governor is a man's job," Representative Blanton of Texas, declared in the house today.

"Not only in Texas," he said, "but in other states men are being pardoned who have no right to be elsewhere than in prison."

Grant Overton, Noted Critic and Novelist, To Lecture Here Tonight

Ticket sales for the Grant Overton lecture Thursday night at the Junior college are reported unusually heavy and a crowd that will pack the auditorium is expected to hear the distinguished editor, literary critic, novelist and lecturer.

The speaker who will appear under the auspices of the writers and literary departments of the Woman's Forum, will talk on "The Tendencies of Current Fiction."

Mrs. J. C. Berney, chairman of the literary department, gives an interesting brief resume of Mr. Overton's life and work as follows:

Former Newspaperman.

"Overton was born on Long Island, New York, in 1887. After graduating from Princeton university he started his literary career as a "cub" reporter on the New York Sun. He resigned from that publication in 1919 after reaching the position of editorial writer and fiction editor.

"During his journalistic career he held reportorial positions on Denver and San Francisco newspapers. He also spent five months as a sailor on a square rigged ship sailing from the Pacific coast around Cape Horn to Lieth, Scotland.

"In 1919 Overton published his first book, "The Women Who Make Our Novels." During the following three years he completed three novels.

"He is now fiction editor of Collier's Weekly and is at present making a lecture tour of the United States. His next lecture after the one in Wichita Falls will be in Los Angeles."

Teachers Are Guests.

The school teachers in the city will be the guests of the Forum at the lecture. They will be admitted free upon presentation of a teacher's membership card.

Entertainment for Overton during his stay in Wichita Falls will be in charge of Mrs. Newton Maer. Arrangements at Junior college will be supervised by Mrs. J. D. Bright. The reception committee in the college lobby will be headed by Mrs. Ora Hamlin and Mrs. A. R. Bleakly, vice-president of the Forum, and Miss Clara Schulz, secretary, will have charge of the ticket booth in the lobby.

Trap Door Fails To Hide Liquor Plant From Sheriff and Deputies

Trap doors could not conceal a quantity of liquor from the eyes of Sheriff W. G. Bralley and five raiding deputies when they invaded a residence Wednesday night situated on Amber street.

Armed with a search warrant, Bralley and the deputy sheriffs, Dick Morris, Cliff Kiersey, Sid Johnson, W. P. Timmons and W. W. Belcher, entered the house. One man was the lone occupant.

The search for the liquor was fruitless until Bralley glanced into a closet in the house and discovered two trap doors leading to the cellar.

When the officers reached the cellar they found everything for the manufacturing of whiskey, with the exception of the boiler to the still. The officers took into custody the still burner, coils, 60 gallons of mash, six one-half gallon jars filled with liquor, a one-gallon keg containing whiskey and a one-pint bottle of coloring.

The man occupying the huose was arrested and lodged in the county jail pending the filing of charges Thursday morning.

Wedding Bells Ring Early For This Wichitan, Victim of Mock Ceremony

Wedding bells rang out again Wednesday for Grover Bullington, Kiwanis club prexy and, one George N. Dwyer was given a lesson in just how it is done—this getting married business.

His bachelor days, they say of George, are numbered, for this particular portion of the Williams-Dwyer insurance firm intends embarkation on matrimonial waters before many more days are checked from the calendar.

So a bunch of the boys "framed" George yesterday just for the fun of it and pulled a wedding all unheralded right in the office with him during the afternoon.

E. O. Filgo garbed as a jane and acted like a bride. Grover groomed up as a groom. Eli Morgan was the ring bearer and George Hodgins was the best man. He admitted it. Mike Ellis played the wedding march on an accordion.

Some objection or other was run in so Papa Jimmy Williams ran out with a shot gun and forced Preacher Walter Caldwell to marry off his darling dottar.

Writers' Department of Forum Holds Monthly Luncheon at Kemp

With Mrs. H. P. Weldon presiding, members of the writers department of the Woman's Forum held their monthly luncheon at the Kemp hotel Wednesday at noon. Interesting features of the program were a talk on "The Technique of the Short Story," by Mrs. H. P. Sanford, and a book review of 'A Thousand and First Night," by Grant Overton, given by Mrs. J. C. Berney.

Mrs. Sanford explained in detail "trick" endings of short stories, and discussed at length the possibilities of writing both in the first and third person in the same story. As an example of the newer style of writing, she gave "Wheels."

In giving the review of "A Thousand and First Night," Mrs. Berney brought out the unusual construction of the book which she explained begun as a mystery story and turned into one of psychology.

Too Long Engagements Fatal To Love If It's the Common Garden Type

Why Long Engagement Kills Love —Advice to a Middle-Aged Widower Who Cannot Endure Loneliness—Could a Grammar School Mechanic Be Happily Married to a College Graduate?

Dear Miss Dix—You are opposed to long engagements. If love can't stand a long engagement, how can it endure after marriage? I say that a real, true love will stand the acid test of separation; one year or six years are nothing to it.
G. L. W.

Answer:
You are right in this, G. L. W., that the grand passion is ageless.

I know an old woman past 90 whose husband has been dead for more than 50 years, and yet she is romantically in love with him now as she was when he led her as a bride to the altar. Nor have the years dulled her grief for his loss. She mourns him now just as disconsolately now as she did when she buried in his grave all that made life worth living for her.

But, my dear sir, when I say that I think long engagements are disastrous for both the man and the woman who commit themselves to that particular form of speculating in futures, I am speaking of the common, or garden variety of loves, which is the only kind of love that most of us are capable of experiencing. The great majority of us have no more the ability to love greatly than we have the ability to sing in grand opera or make a million dollars.

We are pikers in sentiment, so to speak, and we need to have our love fed on daily association and mutual interests and common habits of thinking and living.

Therefore, when there is a long separation between two people it is almost inevitable that they should grow apart and lose interest in each other, and that when they come together they are disappointed and disillusioned. For in their separation each has unconsciously developed an ideal that they call Mary or John, but which is in reality a little, manufactured tin god, totally unlike the one it is supposed to represent.

And, on the other hand, if a man and woman are engaged for several years and see each other continually, they are sure to wear off the bloom of romance, simply because romance is an airy, fairy thing made of cobwebs that will not endure being hacked about. Even angels' food grows stale if you keep it too long.

Also, an engaged couple stand to each other in an anomalous position which is very sure to get on the nerves of both. They are neither bound nor free. They cannot even define to themselves what are their duties and obligations to each other, and so they are in a situation that is peculiarly full of jealousies and misunderstandings and bickerings.

And, furthermore, we just naturally get tired of waiting for a thing too long. So love and romance peter out, and when the long engaged couple finally do get married it is only too often just because they have become a habit to each other and because everybody expects it of them, rather than because they desire it themselves.

You ask how love can stand a long engagement. Easily enough. Because the husband and wife go into marriage with their full capital of love unwasted through long, weary years of waiting. Because everything in marriage tends to draw a couple together. The very fact of the finality of marriage is an important factor. They have made their choice and they exclude other men and women from their scheme of things, so that there is less cause for jealousy than in an engagement when either party is free to make new ties. Marriage settles things. It's the end, so the average couple tries to make the best of it.

Again, the interests of married couples are identical and this is a powerful bond of union. No husband and wife can work together shoulder to shoulder without coming to feel a nearness that they have for no other human being. Even animals learn to love their yoakmates. And, finally, there are the children that keep love alive by feeding the flame on the altar with their little hands.

Contrary to most theories, matrimony promotes love just as surely as a long engagement kills it.
DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix.—I am a widower just past middle life. Have a good home, but I am completely alone and have come to the point that I really cannot endure living by myself any longer.

My brother, who married, advises me to sell my house and come and live with him. What shall I do? A LONELY MAN.

Answer:
I should think the best thing for you to do would be to hunt around and find a nice wife. But marry in your own age class. Don't marry a flapper young enough to be your daughter. Marry some middle-aged woman who is good-natured and intelligent and who has not too many fads and ways.

People of middle age do not fall romantically in love, but it is possible for them to feel a very warm friendship for one of the opposite sex, and on that basis to make very satisfactory marriages.

But in selecting friend wife be sure to let your choice fall on a woman who interests you, and whose society you feel that you will enjoy. Don't look at her face nor her figure so much as you do the line of conversation she carries and whether she is a good housekeeper. To a middle-aged man, and one who is looking forward to a long road stretching down hill, it means everything to have his own home, his own belongings and to be able to be master in his own home.

I do not believe that you will be happy living in your brother's house, because when we go to live with our relatives we suffer under a double disability. We are neither a member of the family nor are we boarders.

We are expected to pay our way as if we were strangers, and yet have none of the attentions that would be paid strangers. Also, our in-laws feel free to quarrel with us and criticize us and boss us, and the minute we resent that that is trouble.

If you do not wish to marry, my earnest advice to you is to go to some hotel to live. There you will be free to do as you please and yet have companionship. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have fallen in love with a girl who is a college graduate, while I am only a grammar school graduate and a mechanic. She has refused to marry because she claims that the gap in education is too big to bridge. However, she continues to see me two nights a week. I make a fine salary and could take good care of her. Please help me. JACK S.

Answer:
If the only bar between you and the girl is lack of education, why don't you break that down by studying and reading? There are night schools and the libraries are full of books. There is no reason for any man to be ignorant in these days unless he is too lazy to improve himself. Some of the most brilliant men I know are self-educated. DOROTHY DIX.

MODISH MITZI — Mitzi Feels Experimental — By JAY V. JAY

It's all very well to sketch designs on drawing paper, but Mitzi feels that her talent will really only be apparent when she has yards and yards of materials to play with. That's why you see her trying to choose between invisible checks and very visible flowers.

A Roman stripe on sheer crepe has tremendous posibilities. A new taffeta with little flower buds suggests frocks demure or quaint. "Do get an inspiration soon," begs Polly, "my arm is awfully tired, holding these things." As is proper for an artist, Mitzi pays no attention.

Eventually, though, even Polly admits that the materials have been put into frocks much to their advantage. "Do something now for this plaid," she demands. "I've always wanted to wear a plaid and now you can do me something that will be becoming even though I'm short."

"That's an advanced course," Mitzi answers diplomatically, "I haven't studied that yet." In the meantime she has found a reversible material that will make a striking topcoat. Something very straight and plain, Mitzi thinks, because after all the cloth speaks for itself.

SOPHIE IRENE LOEB Says—

FOOLISH PRIDE THAT WRECKS LIVES

A young woman engaged to a man whom she has known for three years, quarreled with him and immediately returned all his engagement gifts. She says:

"Although it is now nearly nine months that I have not been going with him, still I miss him and think of him so much that it is hard to attend to my work. When I go out with other young men, I sometimes enjoy myself with them, until I get home and think of my old sweetheart. I am a young girl of refinement and independence, and have too much pride to write to him that I still love him and want him to return.

"How could we come together without him knowing that I want to go with him again? He visits a friend of mine once in a while, at whose home I met him once, but treated him coldly, as I did not want any one to know that I still love him. My pride will not let me tell anyone that I still love him.

"If you can help me out in this matter I will appreciate it very much."

Many letters like this one reach me. The hearts that are broken and the lives that are wrecked by false and foolish pride are many. When will we realize that you can't pretend one thing and feel another and "get away with it."

When will young women understand that turning a cold shoulder on one they love only begets coldness and misunderstanding.

Does this young woman think that the man in the case does not know that her coldness is only feigned, especially since, for so long a period before, they meant so much to each other?

The very attitude of acting one thing and feeling another is enough to make a man stop and consider if it be not possible that she would do the same thing when the knot was tied, and make him unhappy as a consequence.

It is all folly. Love is too big a thing to throw away in order to satisfy pretended pride. There is only one way. It is the broad one.

When two people have arrived at the point of being engaged, it seems that there is nothing in the nature of a quarrel that they cannot discuss freely and settle to their satisfaction or "agree to disagree."

The most delightful companionships in the world have been severed because of an assumed feeling of disinterest. On the other hand, the young man in this case may have changed his mind.

If so, it is well. The girl has been saved much future misery. Yet, it may be that her very manner may have made him hesitate to seek reconciliation in the belief that he is unwelcome.

Whoever makes the initial move—it should be made—the young woman can let him know that she desires to see him. She can surely ascertain whether love has died or not. Certainly between friends or acquaintances the wise woman will always wait and let the man be the pursuer.

But where happiness of the two persons is involved and a man and woman have gone so far as to pledge their troth, it is certainly a great risk to take the chance of future inestimable sorrow.

It is better to know the truth, and get it over, than to suffer in silence.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance.

Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," for only 75 cents. This is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.—Adv.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Drink Water Freely And Often If Back Hurts Or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad salts from any pharmacy here; take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.

Distressing Pains

"I HAVE taken Cardui and have found it a very helpful medicine," says Mrs. Minnie Rocher, of Lynn Haven, Fla., whose picture appears above. "After a course of Cardui," declares Mrs. Rocher, "I felt like I had been made over into a new woman.

"For a while I suffered with bad pains in my back and sides. At times, these would distress me so I would be almost past going.

"We had known of Cardui in our family for a long time, so I thought I would try taking it. I soon began to improve. I grew strong and well, and was able to resume my household duties without the least inconvenience. Good health is a thing to be prized and cared for.

"Since my first experience with Cardui, I have occasionally taken a bottle of Cardui as a tonic, and in a short while recovered my usual good health. Cardui is a good medicine, and I do not hesitate to recommend it.

Cardui is a medicine of real merit.

Rheumatism Can't Be Rubbed Away

Are you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S. S. S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered from rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried most everything. Went to Hot Springs and finally I decided to try S. S. S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I also had a breaking out on my hands for years that nothing would heal, but now this has disappeared, and I am sure that it was S. S. S. which removed the cause. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S. S. S. is the best." Carl C. Campbell, 115 West Main Street, Johnson City, Texas.

S. S. S. Is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

CO-OPERTIVES ARE INCREASING

A WASHINGTON bulletin says Texas, Florida, California, New York, Arkansas, Michigan and Washington are the leading states for fruit and vegetable co-operative associations. There are fruit and vegetable co-operatives in all but three of the 48 states in the union.

Although not the largest group of co-operatives, the association handling fruits and vegetables are unusually interesting. In 1925 California had 225 associations; Florida 98 associations; New York 84 associations. From 1915 to 1925 the number of associations and memberships increased by more than 60 per cent, and the volume of business handled as measured in dollars nearly 40 per cent.

There are cotton co-operative associations. There are two million cotton growers. Some day the cotton growers, like the orange growers of California, may fix their own prices, do their own selling and absolutely control their own industry. Those who produce the staple crops of America should have something to say in the fixing of prices of these staples. They should control the acreage as well.

Agriculture is the backbone or main-stay industry of the world. If it is in the ditch there is no reason why it should not be assisted out of the ditch.

WHERE DID THEY GO

A DISPATCH from Jerusalem says a temple has been found in the remote fastnesses of Abyssinia and search will be made for trace of the secluded Jewish tribe, the Falashes, who refused to risk the Red sea passage with Moses.

Moses made the passage all right. A very wise man was the ancient law giver.

As for the Falashes, they are said to have buried themselves in the wilds of Abyssinia, and their descendants since that remote period have been ruled by the descendants of Solomon and Queen Sheba.

This is a merry old world and hunters of antiques in ants ancient lands of antiquity are forever contributing to the gaiety of nations.

Why not let Moses sleep in peace. Why not let the Falashes sleep in peace. Perhaps they have a Jerusalem of their own in that land beyond the invisible river which is many million miles distance from the border of the Red sea.

PLEAS OF AN EMBEZZLER

BANK clerks who embezzled and blew their ill-gotten gains in gambling ventures or in buying diamonds for women, have appeared in print many times, but a Dallas man who appeared before a federal judge announced a new departure.

He was charged with embezzlement of $34,000 while an officer of a Texas bank. He told the judge, speaking of his downfall, that he used most of the money in church work. He is the only man on record in Texas who has had the nerve to admit or rather the gall to admit that he became an embezzler to help the cause of the Lord along in his particular vineyard.

Now the Lord does not need tainted money or stolen money to help his cause along. Insanity should have been the plea of the embezzler. It would have been a much more catchy plea without sensational features.

A NEW ORDER LAUNCHED

INDIANA republicans have launched an organization to be known as the National Order of Elephants. Now the elephant is the emblem of the republican party. Foxy Jim Watson of Indiana should be the trainer of the national elephant. He has been the official guide of the Indiana elephant for many years.

He had a close call the last time when his majority was less than 10,000 and it was rolled up in the town of Gary, the wettest of Indiana towns and the voting borrough of the house of steel. A large majority of the voters of Gary are foreign born.

They are wet. They are hostile to Dr. Hiram Evans' organization, and yet they were induced to cast their ballots for the candidate of Dr. Evans. Politics is a very mysterious game in the land of the Hoosiers.

COAL LEGISLATION THROTTLED

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE recommended to the national lawmakers the enactment of legislation providing for government control of mines when strikes were on and a coal famine appeared inevitable. By a vote of 12 to 7 the house committee tabled all coal control legislation for the session.

In other words this committee chloroformed the Coolidge recommendation in order to make the situation as pleasant as possible for the man of destiny who was born in Vermont and escaped at an early age to the state of Massachusetts. Coal control is dead for the time being.

MAGIC VALLEY ON MAP

SHIPMENTS of vegetables from the Magic Valley this season numbered 3553 carloads on Feb. 8. This was 1999 cars more than had been shipped by Feb. 8, 1926. Fruit shipments on Feb. 8 totaled 676 carloads or 401 more than had been shipped at the same time last year. One railroad town in the valley shipped 724 carloads of vegetables. California and Florida will be given second place in the near future by the valley in the shipments of citrus and vegetables. Texas is marching onward.

READ THIS FIRST:

BOBBIE RANSOM, a pretty little blond school teacher, is "movie struck" and wildly eager to break into pictures. Neither her father, a widower, nor ANDY JERROLD, who wants to marry her, will lend her the money to take her to Hollywood. Finally she borrows $500 from the widow who is to be her father's second wife, and goes.

At MRS. MANGAN'S boarding house she meets STELLA DELROY, an extra girl in films. Through Stella she gets a few days' work at the Magnifica studio where ROY SCHULTZ, a famous director, shows a brief interest in her. She becomes great pals with his wife, LOTTIE, who once was a school teacher like herself. GUS MacCLOUD, Schultz' assistant-director, falls in love with her.

When she becomes discouraged, he lends her money on a brooch left her by her AUNT GERTRUDE, who dies suddenly, and on a diamond bracelet that was Andy's Xmas gift to her; and he promises her a part in a picture.

Lottie tells her that Gus is taking Roy out with him to wild parties at the home of MONICA MONT, a wild little gold-digging movie "vamp." Then Bobbie hears that Gus has a wife who's divorcing him, and decided not to see him any more until he's free. Stella drinks poison, leaving behind her a letter hinting at an unhappy love affair with Gus.

Gus's wife gets her divorce, but he doesn't say a word about it to Bobbie, who hears about it from Lottie Schultz.

Gus gets a picture of his own to direct and offers Bobbie a part in it. Then they quarrel because she won't let him make love to her unles she intends to marry her; and she tells him she doesn't want the part in the picture. He gives it to Monica, who is having such a violent love affair with Roy Schultz that Lottie threatens to take their little daughter and leave him.

Andy writes to tell Bobbie that he has bought her old home, put up for sale after her father's marriage; and he adds that it will make a nice home for himself and Bobbie when they get married. Later he telephones long distance and pleads with Bobbie to come home, but she refuses. She's given herself six months to make good in Hollywood, and she's going to stick it out.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER LIII.

Spring comes early to California. And with the first of March Hollywood boulevard blossoms out like a country lane a-flutter with flowers.

The women—and especially the women of the films—put on dresses and hats of white and pink and heavenly blue and pale green, and go swaying down the famous street like flowers on foot.

The sight of them was fairly maddening to Bobbie Ransom, who loved pretty clothes just as any pretty young thing of twenty-three loves them and longs for them.

All of her clothes were becoming shabby. Her one string of imitation pearls seemed very short and small and dull compared with the lustrous new things that began to appear in the shop windows. Her kid gloves were tattooed with cleaner's marks, and her silk stockings were old and mended.

"And yet I don't dare buy anything new," she told Mrs. Mangan one afternoon as they sat over a pot of green tea at the kitchen table. "I have just enough money in the bank to keep me going for a while—and that doesn't include any clothes, let me tell you."

She went upstairs and looked over the things that hung in her clothes-closet. Perhaps that hat would do if she put a new silk band on it. A white gardenia would freshen up her old blue serge suit.

She dressed and went out onto the boulevard to buy some ribbon and a white cotton flower, and that was how she happened to meet Monica again.

Monica was almost pretty in a fawn-colored suit and hat. A fluffy fox scarf was around her shoulders and there was a bunch of violets on her breast. When she moved their fresh odor mingled with the strong scent of the perfume she was doused with.

"Hello, Bob," she said. She smiled, but her eyes were troubled as if she wondered how much Bobbie knew about the Roy Schultz affair. "I'm going across the street to buy some writing paper. Come along, and tell me all the news."

"News?" Bobbie laughed. "You're the one who knows all the news. I never hear anything, or see anybody, since Lottie Schultz went away."

Monica quickly changed the subject.

"I think I'll have my paper monogrammed," she said nervously as they went into the little book shop near Highland avenue. "Don't you think a purple monogram on violet notepaper would be nice? And I could use purple ink, and have it perfumed with violets."

"Holy cats! Wouldn't that be terrible!" thought Bobbie. "Purple ink and perfume!"

"Don't you think plain white paper is more—lady-like?" she asked aloud, but Monica shook her head.

"Lady-like? I don't want my writing paper to be lady-like!" she said with snap. "I want it to be startling. I want people to know that a letter is from me the minute they look at it! Being lady-like and refined never got anybody anywhere! It's being startling that counts." She sat down and began to look over a book of monograms.

Left to herself, Bobbie opened some of the new books on the table beside her. One by Edna Ferber, one by Kathleen Norris, one by Hugh Walpole. She wished she could afford to buy all three of them. She loved books, and her small soft hands smoothed them as she laid them down.

The girl who managed the little shop came up and stood beside her. She was small and gray-eyed, and her linen smock matched her eyes. Bobbie found out afterward that her name was Gray, too—Patricia Gray.

"You like books, don't you?" she asked. "I can tell by the way you handle them."

They began to talk. First about books, and then about moving pictures. And then Bobbie found herself telling the gray-eyed girl all about her failure in pictures and her lack of money. There was something about the gray-eyed girl that made her open her heart to her and tell her everything. She was like Lottie Schultz, full of sympathy and understanding.

"I need someone in this shop right now. Someone who knows about books and authors," she said, when she saw Monica getting up from her chair. "If you think you'd like to work here, come around tomorrow morning and I'll talk to you about it."

"I just had a job offered to me," Bobbie said when she and Monica were outside once more. "I don't know whether to take it or not."

"Selling books?"

"Selling books."

Monica sneered. "Pretty tame sort of work for a film actress, isn't it?" she asked.

"Yes, but I need some new clothes," Bobbie replied. Her own shabby serge seemed shabbier than ever beside Monica's wonderful new fawn-colored clothes.

She looked at her own flat worn little purse, and then at Monica's fat handbag, crammed with bills, no doubt.

They were passing an open market and Monica drew her into it.

"Let's get some food and take it home for supper," she said. "You go over on the other side and buy a steak while I get the rest of the stuff. We'll have a steak sandwich, eh, wot?"

She gave Bobbie a little shove in the direction of the glass-covered counter where the meats were sold. But Bobbie shook her head. For once she got ahead of Monica.

"No thinks, I've got to hurry home," she said. She knew that she couldn't afford to pay a dollar or two for steak, whilst Monica spent about 30 cents on bread and a head of lettuce.

"What do you hear from your friend, Lottie Schultz?" she asked, trying to seem careless.

"I haven't heard from her since she left town, poor thing!"

"Poor thing Peanut oil," snapped Monica with a flash of her blue eyes. "Why is she a poor thing? I haven't any pity for a woman who doesn't have brains enough to hold her own husband!

She Joined the Vast Army of Girls Who Have Failed in the Movies

She thought she could go around looking like something out of a ten-cent store, and still have her husband crazy about her And then she blames me because he fell for my silk stockings and choker beads and lipstick."

Bobbie left her, wondering how much of what she had said was the truth. Did a man really fall for the pretty clothes and the paint and perfume that a woman wore?

Couldn't a man see a woman's beauty unless it was set off by the right kind of clothes? Was it true that fine feathers made fine birds?

As she wondered about it, a girl came along the boulevard toward her. She was tall and slender, and not particularly pretty. But she wore a black satin hat that came down low over her eyes, showing a white triangle of powdered face with a scarlet mouth blazing in it. Her coat was black satin, and around her neck were rows and rows of pearls. Her skirts reached her knees, and below them her slender legs flashed back and forth in the thinnest of black gauze stockings. On her slippers were big square silver buckles.

"And every man in sight is breaking his neck to look at her," said Bobbie to herself. "And they don't even see me in my shabby old rags."

The next morning she went first to the bookstore and took the job that had been offered to her. It paid $21 a week.

"That'll be enough for me," thought Bobbie grimly, and went straight down the boulevard to the bank. She took out every penny she had in it.

Across the stret from the bank is a shop owned by Fifi of Hollywood. Fifi imports dresses from sunny France, and charges for them accordingly.

That morning she sold one to Bobbie Ransom, who paid more than a hundred dollars for it.

It was lettuce green, and it set off her yellow hair and deep brown eyes. So did the black satin hat that she bought.

When she walked out of Fifi's she had exactly $27 left in her purse, and she spent more than half of it on stockings and gloves and a raw handbag og velvty black suede.

She took all of the things she bought home with her and showed them to Mrs. Mangan.

Now, Mrs. Mangan happened to know that Bobbie had been living on crackers and coffee and peanut butter for a long time, and so she simply pursed up her dry lips and said that a "fool and her money were soon parted."

"Ah, but I have a job! I'll be earning money right along now," said Bobbie cheerfully. "And who knows but what I'll get a part in a picture one of these days!"

On Monday morning—the first Monday in March—she joined the vast army of girls who have failed in the movies. She didn't think of it in that way. She simply thought of herself as earning a little money while she waited for something better to turn up. And so she dusted books with a right good will, and sold them, too.

March passed. April came and went, leaving a million flowers behind it on the hills of Hollywood. May came in, warm and golden.

But for Bobbie Ransom, selling books in the cool dimness of the book store, one day was pretty much like all the rest. Life had lost its "pep" and its "pop" for her.

She put on her blue linen smock every morning, worked all day, took off the smock at six o'clock and went home to sleep.

In her clothes-closet, the lettuce green dress waited for the day when she should go a "call" from some studio or other. That call never came.

She read in the columns of the Film Mercury that Gus had finished the picture called "Hilda From Holland," and that he was shortly to begin another.

"I wonder if he'll have Monica in the new one, too," she was thinking one day, as she put some new books away on the shelves.

She looked up as the door of the shop opeped, and saw him.

It seemed like a dream to her, as he came down the aisle toward her in the tan-colored clothes she remembered so well.

She went dead white and dropped the book she had been holding. Her heart seemed to jump right down into her shoes, and then bound into her throat.

Then, with a tremendous effort, she forced herself to speak to him as naturally as she could.

"Can I sell you anything today, Mr. MacCloud?" she asked, and he answered her instantly.

"Yes," he said. "Yourself."

(To Be Continued.)

Success comes to Bobbie at last. Read the next instalment of this story of the films.

BO BROADWAY ..... By Joseph Van Raalte

NEW YORK, Feb. 16. (EFS) New York's adjective slingers, making happy marriages with their day and generations, no longer peddle their wares to magazine and newspaper editors. The glossiest of them pick off jobs with the advertising department of dry goods or banking concerns and thereafter live the life of Reilly.

* * *

"Write me a paragraph on our unequalled coffee," commands the head of the advertising department, and Inky Ike, rolling the cuffs of his silk shirt above the wrist watch line, light's a camel's-hair cigarette and bats out the following:

"You will hear it said by old coffee-stained connoisseurs that there is no such thing as genuine Mocha and Java in America. Perhaps * * * * EXCEPT HERE! It is so authentic you can almost certify the signatures of Messrs. Mocha and Java on the individual bean."

* * *

Or mayhap ham is the theme. If so, thus: ....

"Do you know the French boiled ham? That comes to you in the oh-so-protective tin from the so-la-belle France? It is of the delicacy inexpressible * * * * a veritable Junius Brutis Booth among hams. So far as we know * * * * and we may be wrong * * * only we carry it."

* * *

The Boss may say to Inky Ike the one word: "Sardines!"

The lone word is sufficient.

"A sardine," writes Ike, "may be either a sardine or an occasion. Our sardines by the name under which they swim through the cumbersen channels of ordinary distribution, would cost more, They are put up by a famous French house at much lower prices * * * even their alignment in the tin seems somehow more appropriate to that precious moment of the hors d'oeuvre!

* * *

Canned peaches lure all the subtle intricacies of a sweet-scented vocabulary,

"A California peach, big as a baseball and pretty as a native daughter, was recently detected trying to slink into a tin of our fruit * * * and was rejected for a single tiny blemish. Of course the peach felt as unnecessary as a juggler before a microphone; but Our Shop is Our Shop, and fancy groceries mean Fancy; The luckier peaches are only 41 cents a tin and not more than seven to nine fortunate peaches can get into a tin, which will give you some idea!"

* * *

Can anything more be said about tea than has already been said? CAN it? Listen:

"At the top of the Himalayas grows rare Derjeeling, the primest tea of all. It is so concentrated in the fragrance of its flavour that one pound makes 356 cups of afternoon embrosia. You can hardly deny yourself the finest tea in the world at a cent a cup. And think of what you could do with a nickel's worth!"

Over the phone from the Inner Office, late in the day, comes to Inky Ike the order: "Write us a blurb about biscuits * * *"

Without a moment's hesitation the Worthy Brother hemstitches the following:

"Biscuits English and French * * * and the best of each and all. De have an unusually imaginative and searching Biscuiteer * * * *"

* * *

Up goes the copy and down comes the order: "Add a line or two about cheese!"

And Inky writes:

"Did we say biscuiteer? Well, you should see our Cheeser! It is no boast that we have an imposing collection of cheeses. Cheeses from the frail and innocuous dairy cream to the most outspoken Sulton; death at forty paces. Cheeses, pink and pompous from Holland, cheeses for wealthy clubmen and querulous invalids, cheeses from the chamois-zone and the contended coy. In short, CHEESES."

* * *

I said to Inky the other day over a cup of coffee in the club: "Why don't you go in for stage writing."

"I'd starve to death, old chap," he told me. "I haven't the requisite imagination. Hand me a bare fact and I'll trim it; but my trouble is, I can't evolve the fact. I can write a word poem on a sardine, but I can't think of sardine until some one suggests it."

ELECTRA SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Feb. 16.—Mrs. Byron T. Johnson was hostess to the South Circle of the Baptist church Monday afternoon, when a very interesting meeting was held. The meeting opened with the song, "What A Friend We Have In Jesus," followed by a prayer by Mrs. W. L. Cason, with the devotional from Revelations: 5-8. In the business the circle was divided into groups, and this is to raise money for the circle. There were eleven present and Mrs. W. L. Cason will be hostess next week.

East Circle Meets

Mrs. L. Gatewood was hostess to the East Circle of the Baptist W. M. U. Monday afternoon at her home on East Glisson avenue. This was a typical Valentine party with decorations and refreshments appropriate for the occasion. The opening song was "Wonderful Words of Life," with a prayer by Mrs. Wood Overall. Mrs. J. W. Brown read the scripture with the business meeting being taken up, in which plans to raise more money was discussed and a pie supper to be given later. Mrs. L. Gatewood was elected as publicity reporter in the place of Mrs. J. O. Bird. Mrs. A. F. McCormick dismissed with a prayer, after which a very delightful social hour was enjoyed by the ten members present.

Mrs. Douglas Honored

A group of ladies of the First Christian church and close friends of Mrs. L. P. Douglas, pioneer Electran, honored her on the occasion of her birthday, Monday afternoon, when the group motored to her home in the east part of the city immediately after the Missionary society. Upon arriving at the beautiful Douglas home, games and contests were enjoyed in the music room, with the living room being converted into a flower garden with lovely potted plants. Each guest bore some gift for the honoree, who has figured so greatly in the activities of Electra during the past quarter of a century.

Miss Jaunita Douglas, a daughter of the honoree, served delightful refreshments consisting of Valentine chocolates, hot chocolate and cake to Rev. and Mrs. C. C. Klingman, Mesdames Grace Jennings, O. M. Waters, George Le-Bus, L. E. Sheldon, J. T. McDannald, J. T. Gibson, George Ratcliffe, J. D. Roberson and E. E. Frear.

Christian Church Ladies

The ladies of the Christian church met in regular session Monday afternoon with Mrs. Grace Jennings, the president, in charge, who led the prayer and read the scripture. Plans were made for a basket banquet, Feb. 25, and Rev. C. C. Klingman made a talk on the general conditions of the Mission fields. The Man Nobody Knows

INSTALMENT XII

Self-Control

All his days were spent in the open air—this is the third outstanding testimony to his strength. On the Sabbath day he was in the synagogue because that was where the people were gathered; but by far the greater part of his teaching was done on the shores of his lake, or in the cool recesses of the hills. He walked constantly from village to village; his face was tanned by the sun and wind. Even at night he slept outdoors, when he could—turning his back on the hot walls of the city and slipping away into the healthful freshness of the Mount of Olives. He was the type of outdoor man whom our modern thought more admires; and the vigorous activities of his days gave his nerves the strength of steel.

He stepped into a sailboat with his disciples late one afternoon, and, being very tired, lay down in the stern and was almost immediately asleep. The clouds grew thicker and the surface of the lake which had been quiet a few minutes before, was broken into sudden waves. The little boat dived and tossed, and still he slept. His disciples had grown up on the shores of that lake; they were fishermen, accustomed to its moods and not easily frightened. But they had never been out in such a storm as this.

It grew fiercer, water began to come in over the side, every moment seemed to threaten destruction. At last they could stand the strain no longer; they went to the stern and woke him.

He rose without the slightest suggestion of hurry or alarm. A quick glance was enough to give him a full understanding of the situation. He issued a few quite orders and presently the menaced boat swung around into the smoother waters of safety. Call it a miracle or not—the fact remains that it is one of the finest examples of self-control in all human history. Napoleon said that he had met few men with courage of the "2 o'clock in the morning variety."

Many men can be brave in the warmth of the sun amid the heartening plaudits of the crowd, but to be wakened suddenly out of sound sleep, and then to exhibit instant mastery—that is a type of courage which is rare indeed.

Jesus had that courage, and no man ever needed it more. In the last year of his public work the forces of opposition took on a form of coherency whose significance was perfectly clear. If he refused to retreat or compromise, there could be but one end to his career. He knew they would kill him, and he knew how they would kill him. More than once in his journeys he had passed the victims of the justice of that day, writhing, tortured beings nailed to crosses and waiting piteously for release. Sometimes they wilted for days before the end. The memory of such sights must have been constantly with him; at every sunset he was conscious that he had walked just one day nearer to his own ordeal.

Yet he never faltered. Calmly, cheerfully he went forward, cheering the spirits of his disciples, and striking those fiery blows against hypocrisy and oppression which were to be echoed by the hammer blows upon his cross. And when the soldiers came to arrest him, they found him ready and still calm.

The week of his trial and crucifixion takes up a large portion of the gospels. For that week alone we can follow him almost hour by hour; we know where he ate and slept, what he said and to whom; we can trace the gathering storm of fury which finally bore him down. And this is the magnificient thing to remember—that through all that long torture of imprisonment, court trials, midnight hearings, loss of food and loss of sleep, he never once ceased to be the master. His accusers were determined. They thronged the courtyard before the palace, clamoring for his blood, yet they felt a momentary awe when he appeared before them on the balcony.

Even Pilate felt it. The two men offered a strange contrast standing there—the Roman governor, whose lips were so soon to speak the sentence of death, and the silent, self-possessed ex-carpenter, accused and doomed—yet bearing himself with so much majesty, as though he were somehow beyond the reach of man-made law, and safe from the hurt of its penalties. In the face of the Roman were deep unpleasant lines; his cheeks were fatty with self-indulgence; he had the colorless look of indoor living. The straight young man stood inches above him bronzed and hard, and clean as the air of his loved mountain and lake. Pilate raised his hand; the shouting and the tummult died; a deathly stillness descended upon the crowd. He turned and faced the figure at his side, and from his coarse lips there burst a sentence which is a truer portrait than any painter has ever given us. The involuntarily testimony of the flabby cynical Roman in the presence of perfect strength, perfect assurance, perfect calm:

"Behold," he cried, "The man!"

PUPS HAVE STRANGE MAW

KINGSTON, N. C.—On the farm of Mrs. A. T. Edwards, near here, a white Wyandotte hen is mothering seven rat territer pups and making a good job of it. "The mother dog, a gentle beast, made them a home close by the hen's nest," says the owner. "The hen fought her and finally chased her away. Then she started mothering the doggies. She leaves them only long enough to eat and drink. When she clucks to the brood the puppies run to her."

SAVED BY STOP LIGHT

CHICAGO.—Two bandits jumped to the running board of William Brown's automobile as he stopped at a crossing signal. "Drive on," one robber commanded, menacing Brown with a revolver. "I can't," said Brown. "The stop light's against me." Sure enough it was. But the bandit insisted and Brown became so angry that he twisted the bandit's wrist, forcing the bandit to drop his pistol. Both robbers escaped.

The annex will be built in the form of an L and will front on two streets. The back portion or the top of the L will be 60 feet wide and 155 feet long. The bottom of the L will be 65 feet wide and 80 feet long. The annex will be connected with the main church building by a stair tower.

Plans for the building have been drawn by local architects and are now in the hands of the church officials for final approval.

The annex will be equipped to care for all departments of the Sunday school work of the organization. It will have included a swimming pool, gymnasium, auditorium to seat 1200 people and a roof garden.

The plans have been carefully checked by specialists in church construction and will be arranged for providing all accommodations demanded of a modern church. It will be absolutely fireproof and so arranged as to permit of an addition, another wing at the top of the L later.

Dr. Millard A. Jenkins is pastor of the church; Walter Jackson, educational director, and Nichol and Campbell are architects.

NEW YORKERS CAN ALSO TAKE ON A FEW LAUGHS

New York is a city of something like 6,000,000 souls. Chicago claims a population in excess of 3,000,000. The fun, derision and sarcasm which is aimed at these two cities from the small towns such as Paducah and Wellington on account of the number of crimes committed there, is about as baseless as that which is aimed at these cities for other reasons.—Emmett Dobby, Collingsworth Standard.

GOOD PAVING FOR MONTAGUE

Findley Type Surfacing To Be Installed

Special to The Record News.

BOWIE, Feb. 16.(Sp)—A statement describing in detail the type of paving to be installed on the highway across Montague county has been issued by the Bowie Chamber of Commerce.

The surfacing to be applied is what is known as the Findley type, consisting of a header on each side with a rock base eight inches in thickness, the statement explains. A binding application of asphalt is applied to this base before the surfacing proper is applied. A coating of plant mixed asphalt will then be placed on the base and rolled down as a finished surface.

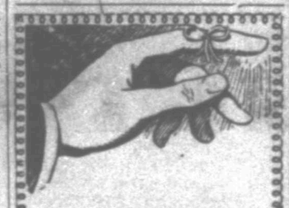

Some anxiety has been felt that the Montague paving would be similar to that between Alvord and Decatur in Wise county, but quite to the contrary, it will be more similar to the new Dallas-Fort Worth pike which costs approximately five times as much as the Wise county paving.

Although the original appropriation for the surfacing of this project was for only $75,000, the chamber of commerce took steps which resulted in raising the allotment to $200,000. The state has appropriated $103,000 for laying the base and an additional $205,000 for the surfacing.

Today { At the Theaters

By Ruth Morrison

Majestic: Five acts Interstate vaudeville. Also "The Boy Friend," Topics of the Day and Pathe News.

Olympic: Rod La Rocque in "The Cruise of the Jasper B."

Strand: "The Masked Woman," with Anna Q. Nilsson and comedy.

Mission: "Winning Wallop," with William Fairbanks. Also comedy.

Gem: Hoot Gibson in "The Calgary Stampede," and Mack Sennett comedy.

Garden: Pawnee Bill in "Across the Plains," and comedy.

If you're looking for a mixed vaudeville bill, the Majestic will offer ample opportuntiy Thursday and Friday with a variety of entertaining acts.

Jugglery, glimpses of China, the Country Club Girls who are a most likable quartette, a comedy trio, the inevitable nimble-footed comedian and a bunch of athletic trained dogs combine for an evening of enjoyment.

"On the Links of Melody," is a suggestion of what the Country Club Girls offer. They are a quartet the likes of which may be found only few and far between. Their fun is an added spice to their singing. It sounds good.

A skit that explodes a volume of laughs is given by Joe Marks' comedy trio, "Then the Fun Began."

"Maybe Who Knows," is something different in the way of comedians with their usual patter of out-put and come-back and clever steps.

The last is a four-footed canine review of athletic aspirations.

On the screen, Marceline Day and Johnny Harron are presented in "The Boy Friend."

Do you feel tired, worn out, weary of life and discouraged? Does your food fail to charge your blood with the strength you need to perform your daily work. If so, you need a stimulant, and the best stimulant for worn-out, discouraged feeling is a good old fashion laugh!

Laughter is the best known aid to a good digestion and general health, according to famous physicians. There's not a better tonic for a grief-stricken, brooding person than a good hearty laugh, and that is why Cecil B. DeMille is producing comedies and dramas, with comedy relief.

As the latest vehicle for Red LaRocque, the famous producer selected Don Marquis' humorous novel, "The Cruise of the Jasper B," an unusual tale which deals with love and laughter. Is is now showing at the Olympic theater.

He was told to go out and earn $100,000 and he got it with one punch—that briefly is the story of "The Winning Wallop," the new camera production featuring William Fairbanks, which comes to the Mission theater Thursday.

Of course there is a lot in between—a lot of action—a lot of laughs and several genuine thrills. "Big Bill" Fairbanks as a knight of the padded mitts has a role that suits him to perfection and one that serves to emphasize his remarkable development.

BAR BANQUET MONDAY NIGHT

Election of Officers "Only Serious Business"

Not one serious thought will mar the annual banquet of the Wichita County Bar association Monday night, except the election of officers for 1927, according to the program outlined Wednesday by a special committee.

Music will be the first consideration for the entertainment of Wichita county's legal talent. Numbers already arranged include a costume dance by Miss Arcy Watkins Arnold, the Highland fling by Miss San Toy, and selections by a string band, directed by J. S. Pittman.

Bruce Greenwood's satirical address on prominent Wichita Falls lawyers will be feature of the program.

The committee is composed of Walter Nelson Jr., J. S. Dickey and M. E. Nutt.

Present officers of the association are A. H. Carrigan, president; A. H. Britain, vice president and O. E. Nelson, secretary

Wichita Schools Win State Aid

Stating that she was pleased with the work of the rural schools in Wichita county that she thought them to be in excellent condition, Miss Georgie Walker, state supervisor of rural schools, left Wednesday for Vernon after conducting a two-day inspection in this county with Burl Bryant, county school superintendent.

In her grading of rural schools seeking standardization, Miss Walker gave the Cashion district the highest mark, and declared that it was in almost perfect condition.

Four rural schools will be recommended for state aid in Miss Walker's report to the rural division of the state board of education. They are: County Line, to receive $1000; Allendale, $310; Pleasant Valley, $200, and Cooper, $210.

Miss Walker said that these schools could be assured of aid from the state fund set aside for the support of school districts in need of financial assistance.

In her scoring for standardization, Miss Walker mentioned Allendale, Pleasant Valley, Weeth, Fowlkes and Cashion schools.

By GENE FOWLER.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—James J. Johnston, dealer in used pugilists, has an option on the services of Jerome Bardsley. Bardsley claims he is a survivor of the war of 1812.

"I can take Bardsley," Johnston was saying yesterday, "give him road work in Mike McTigue's wheel chair, and try him out against Maloney or Delaney. I don't want to bring him along too fast. There's no use taking a Boy Scout like that and spoiling a great future for him."

Johnston, who developed Jim Figg, is having some difficulty with Bardsley. Jerome, it seems, won't shave his beard. It was his greatest defense in fighting the British, he said, and if he sheds it where will his pet rabbits sleep? Questions precisely like this one have caused no less a strategist than Tex Rickard to slip on the ice while carrying gate receipts at the hockey games.

* * *

Johnston is dickering with George Bernard Shaw for the stage rights for "Back to Methusaleh." He plans to star McTigue in it.

"The trouble with the play," Johnston wrote in a letter to Anatole, France's great-grandfather, "is that it never has had a good juvenile like McTigue in the title role.

"Of course, Mike never did much worth while in the title role when he was light heavy champion, but he is knocking everything over now and is a cinch to whip Tunney if they fight."

If they fight? Even McTigue cannot hope for such a long life as all that.

Managers of the pugs are scattered all over the theatrical region these days. A year and a half ago, the squatty Putnam building was the capital of Cauliflower. When the sky-kissing Paramount building was planned, the crazy-quilt offices of the Putnam began to disgorge the Puge brokers in regiments. Joe Woodman and George Lawrence, the Happiness boys, took to a life boat. Dan Morgan, dean of the building, come ashore in the breeches buoy.

There is nothing like that Punch Market now extant. The password and countersign at the Putnam was "Dese" and "Dose." At a nearby Childe restaurant, the decision grabbers broke bread together before and after breaking jaws at various fight clubs. The etiquette there was intended as a slam at Park avenue.

When moving out became compulsory, some of the Muscle magnates didn't have the price for an expressman. Certain of them found difficulty in landing leases in office buildings because some landlords have prejudices against any sort of fighting outside of the courts.

No little squawking, discreetly done, of course, is being raised by certain managers over Rickard's elimination tourney. It is held that Rickard, by matching light heavyweights against heavies, is apt to polish off a lot of the big boys prematurely.

"Why," said one bruise broker, "some of those fast light heavies make the large lunks look like truck horses. The late Harry Greb used to muss up the hefty lads and make them look bad. Where do you think this thing will end if they put Delaney against some of the legitimate heavyweights and he runs them ragged?"

* * *

Stories about old Sam Langford crop up now and again. This one is given as a new and authentic one.

Langford was boxing A. Colin Bell, then heavyweight champion of Australia, at Rockhampton. The minister of railroads, a high and mighty man who mingled with rib rappers as a diversion—there's no accounting for artistic eccentricities—was referee.

At the close of 15 rounds, the referee said to them:

"Langford, you're a stranger in this country and a black man. I'm going to give you the benefit of the doubt, and by doing it, I know I am hurting the other fighter, but we will call this bout a draw."

"Well, sir," replied Langford, "we have boxed a draw, I guess, but I would sooner have a decision. Now Mr. Bell is a champion runner, so I suggest that we race each other 75 yards and the winner of the race will get the decision for the fight, too."

Ted Holland, theatrical man, acted as starter. Bell, who had won many races, allowed Sam to lead all the way until they were about to breast the tape. Then with a leap, like that developed by Paddock in modern times, Bell jumped even with Langford and the race was a dead heat. When asked about this, Bell said:

"Langford isn't up on social etiquette. When the minister called the fight a draw, it was up to me to see that his lordship was not contradicted."

ALL SET FOR CAGE TOURNEY

Play Begins On Tribe Court Friday Morning

Drawings for games in the district 4 basketball tournament carded at the Junior college this week-end will be made at 10 o'clock Friday morning, according to announcement by tournament officials. Play in the opening round is to begin immediately after. Nine teams are in the race, all county champions with exception of Wichita Falls high school. The teams are Archer City, Archer; Seymour, Baylor; Petrolia, Clay; Germyn, Jack; Nocona, Montague; Throckmorton, Throckmorton; Olney, Young; Iowa Park, Wichita; and Wichita Falls.

In the drawings two teams will be selected for the first game with the winner to be combined with the other seven teams in a field of eight drawing over again for maches.

Coaches Wilson's Wildcats, victors in the Archer county meet Tuesday, loom as one of the tournament's dark horses. The Archer City team has been drilling along hard and often, preparing for the big opportunity and is rated by many followers as the greatest quintet ever turned out at Archer City. In the Iowa Park Hawks, Coach Wilson's men may run into a tartar, however, that is, providing these teams meet, for the Hawks are ranked by many as the class of the field. The Parkers have displayed a clean set of heels to nearly everything put against them so far in practice skirmishes.

Coach Bud McCallum's Wichita Falls Coyotes stand as a question mark. This team on occasion has shown flashes of championship form and then on other occasions has looked very poorly. The Pack is more or less an in-and-out machine. If it is at its stride in the tournament this team will make it tough on all comers but if it isn't then it is not expected to go very far in the race.

How That Game May Be Played

Rogers Hornsby is still second baseman of the New York Giants, as a result of the recent trade, and is also still an important stockholder in the St. Louis Cardinals and a member of the board of directors of that club. If this situation should continue into the baseball season an account of one of the clashes between the New York and St. Louis clubs might run something like this:

*

FIRST INNING

Giants—With two on and two out Hornsby hit one of Flint Rhem's shoots with two shares of Cardinal stock and socked it for a home run. Kelly fanned. Three runs, two hits and a hurried call for a director's meeting.

Cardinals—O'Farrell and Bell walked and both scored when Frisch's hit went between Hornsby's legs while he figured out his May dividends. Frisch scored a minute later when the return throw got away from Hornsby while he was trying to put his fountain pen away. Three runs, one hit and a bull movement in Cardinal stock.

* * *

SECOND INNING

Giants — Lindstrom interrupted Mr. Hornsby's explanation of Mr. Moore's suit to collect a betting debt, long enough to fan. Tyson and DeVormer singled, cutting Hornsby's stock down to $4.98 a share. Scott hit into a double play, Bell to Bottomley, Sam Breadon getting an assist. No runs, two hits and a slump in the market.

Cardinals—Beginning to rain. Game is halted while stock ticker at second base is covered. Shorts on the stock market also rush to cover. Giant bench warmers get into argument over pronunciation of the word "sloughed." Game is forfeited to Cardinals. Final score —Branch Rickey 9, Ban Johnson 0.

"STEP LIVELY" IS RIGHT!

RICHMOND, Va.—Norfolk and Western railway police trod softly on the boards of the depot at Tazewell, after robbers paid a call. For the station safe held an unexploded charge of nitroglycerin, left there when the robbers were apparently scared away. The safe contained $500, and railroad officials were at a loss as to how the money was to be retriever for a while. Then an expert recovered it.

Women's Athletics

By Mary Isabel Caldwell

To one ten-minute time, standing erect, hands on hips, add a dash of bending forward from waist, as far as you can, two pinches of straight knees, and a cup of turning body to left while still bent from waist. Add another cup of turning, until you feel the pull on your leg muscles. Now swing body to right, until you can feel the pull again of opposite leg muscles. Return to front bent position and straighten to erect with a snap. Mix well with open window, and finish with cool sponge off.

Large Money In Pro Tennis Gone

Suzanne, C. C. and Company Took it All

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Suzanne Lenglen, queen of tennis, will sail shortly for her homeland, France, with approximately $100,000 in American "celery" to her credit as a result of her extensive tour of the U. S. under the guidance of C. C. Pyle. The latter is said to have "cleaned up" over $50,000 on the venture. Vincent Richards received a $35,000 guarantee and Miss Browne $30,000 and a split in the net gate receipts.

* * *

This means that the tour, considered from every angle, was a huge success —just what the shrewd Mr. Pyle figured it would be.

But it doesn't mean that there is a gold mine in professional tennis or that it is a fruitful field for a large number of professional stars. The remarkable continental tour of this assemblage of stars was made possible by several unusual conditions—which may never exist again.

* * *

Nation Longed to See Her.

First of all there was a real desire lurking in the hearts of millions of Americans to see Suzanne, the "Incomparable," in action. Her feat in going through European tennis fields undefeated over a span of six or seven years—winning every important tournament in that time—had stamped her as the greatest player across the Atlantic. Her play against the Americans there, including Helen Wills, had more definitely established her prowess. Her failure to go through with her match in this country on a previous visit had further whetted the desire of others.

* * *

Professional tennis itself was a new venture—something to attract the crowd in itself. The prominence of Richards and the popularity and skill of Miss Browne, further increased interest in such an affair.

Then there was Mr. Pyle himself—the most talked of figure in the sporting world, because of his adroit handling of Red Grange of football fame.

* * *

But Novelty Has Worn Off.

Now America—or a large part of it—has seen Suzanne.

It has glimpsed Richards playing tennis as he did in the Davis cup matches and other big events; has watched the valiant efforts of Miss Browne to defeat the French maid.

Fans have seen Mr. Pyle—and have watched him "get away with it."

The novelty has worn off.

Another tour would net Miss Lenglen and party a fair return. But the big money has been cleaned up.

Foreign boxers kill themselves traditionally. They thrive on temperament and it is this condition of mind which defeats them before they are very far along with a sport likened to boxing.

Also, there is the other side of the fence. Temperament is a fine thing under control. It is a sub-conscious restoring quality which carries the prize fighter to victory.

A man in one line of sports may be a complete failure, temperamentally, in another.

Paolino Uzcundun, Spain's gift to the contending group for the world's heavyweight title, is of this super-traditional temperament. Paolino has inherited a fine bundle of high strung nerves, that is to say, he can become excited, or enthused, as you may like it, over most any subject and particularly the ones he loves best.

Numbered among his "loves" is boxing and woodchopping. In boxing he can take a look at a photo of a fighter and immediately go into fits of dislike. Should he like a battler's mug he becomes just as excited in favoring him.

Next to his boxing he can talk by the hour on the art of woodchopping. To Paolino, cutting down trees is an art, and he will convince you of this fact by describing the terrible woodchoppers of America.

A reversal of this temperament can be exploited and compared in the boxer who plays golf.

We will take Tommy Freeman as an example. In the ring he is one of the coolest and possesses the most controlled temperament of the professionals. On the golf links he's lucky to get through a round with a complete set of clubs.

* * *

This incoordination in sports is layed practically to the inactivity of the temperament to run parallel with the trained muscles.

A tennis player makes for a good golfer, or vice versa. What is the answer, when on the other hand, a ball player, using the same side motion, makes a poor golfer? Also a good golfer cannot play baseball.

In regard to tennis and golf they coordinate, one improving the other in baseball and in golf one injures the other, although all three games have arguments that lean toward benefiting each other.

Golf and tennis posses about the equal amount of sport temperament.

Hawk Five To Play Burk High

Contest Scheduled to Come Off Thursday

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Feb. 16.—Cagers representing the Night Hawk Athletic club of Burkburnett, will meet basketeers selected from the faculty of the Burkburnett high school in a basketball contest to be held Thursday night on the high school court.

It will be the second game between the two teams. In the first game the club team outshot the teachers to the tune of 33 to 30.

A challenge to all quintets in this section of North Texas has been issued by the club team, which is considered one of the best in Wichita county.

Railroad officials believe it will be impossible to open the line before Thursday. Chama was reported to have nine feet of snow and the storm was still raging.

George May Go In For Baseball

CHICAGO, Feb. 16. (AP)—If he cares to, George Young, the Catalina channel swimmer, may try out for the Chicago National league baseball team this spring. The team trains at Catalina island, from which Young started his successful swim to the California mainland and the William Wrigley Jr., purse of $25,000.

William Veeck, president of the Chicago Cubs, met Young Tuesday while the Toronto swimmer was looking over Chicago from the Wrigley building tower.

"Can't you use George as a substitute this year?" Veeck was asked by William Wrigley.

Veeck turned to Young.

"Do you play ball?"

"I played ball in high school," George answered.

"We will try you out, sure," Veeck said. "Were you a hitter?"

"I hit pretty well," the swimmer replied.

Congressional Militants Would Don Padded Mittens

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16. (AP) The era of flying congressional fists found humoristic outlet today in a movement to apply the orderly processes of the prize ring to future bouts among senators and representatives, but the proposal as presented on the house floor threatened to take a serious turn.

In the midst of a joking discussion of the need for a capitol boxing commission Representative Blanton of Texas, who yesterday wrestled with a colleague in a committee meeting, challenged two or three of those who were tantalizing him. The challenge was laughed off and later an attempt to erase it from the record failed.

Now, If Chub's Whippets Only Could Sink 'Em Like This Guy

KOKOMO, Ind., Feb. 12.—Old timers in Indiana are throwing away their horseshoes to enjoy Hoosierdom's favorite sport of basketball.

James Andrew Shuck, 45, farmer living near here, during a murder trial testified he had given up horseshoes to become a claimant of the state championship title for free throws. Shuck's record of having made 215 free throws out of 216, was verified by many friends assembled in the court room. His next best record is 296 out of possible 300.

Shortly after coming from Tampa, Fla., two years ago, where the won the city horseshoe championship, Shuck was initiated into basketball playing by a group of high school students.

Approaching the high school coach, he said, "Let me try and make some free throws."

The coach smiled and handed the farmer the ball, but when the farmer made 10 out of 10 free throws, the coach was dumfounded. The aged farmer keeps his basket shooting eye alert by practicing in a high school gymnasium and shooting baskets at an improvised goal rigged up in an abandoned school near his home. In exhibition or practice he wears his farm working clothes.

A native of "'ol Kaintuck," the Hoosier basketball enthusiast declares that slinging free throws has horseshoes beat "all holler."

TOP O' MORN STUFF
By Blondy Cross.

BIG BOUT OFF

The wrestling commission uttered an edict Wednesday suspending Charley Grip and Swede Jensen temporarily, at least, thereby causing postponement of the little tete-a-tete, if any, slated in the basement Wednesday night sans chaperones. The well-known grappling gentlemen had agreed to a private bout without a referee and with but a select few spectators. The match was to go to a finish, no time out, no three-second pinfalls and no judge's verdict—the only decision being that of a knockout or when one or the other of the grunt and grab gentlemen yurbled "calf rope."

* * *

LAW TAKES A HAND

Commissioner Frank Quelsser caught wind of the proposed doings and immediately clamped on a heavy hand. He warned there would be no basement brawls or anything approximating such in the city of Wichita Falls just so long as he as police and wrestling commissioner has knowledge of same. Mons. Grip and Jensen were threatened with jail bars, disturbance of the peace, assault and battery fines and whatnot. So fiercely did the noble cop commish reprimand the crumpled-ear youths that the great Grip turned an ashes gray with fright and cuaveringly promised to do just anything in the world the lord high admiral of the city constabulary would have him do in order to avoid further displeasure of the law and order brigade—anything but wrestle Jensen in public for less than 95 per cent of the gross gate receipts and the privilege of calling time out whenever he wants to rest. Another political victory scored.

* * *

Give Charley a club and the privilege of wrestling under Marquis of Packinghouse rules, curtail the Swede to Police Gazette rules and rolling falls—then and probably then only could you herd the bullet-dome back onto the canvas with the blonde-topped Jensen.

* * *

POPULARITY PLUS

Old Billiard-Top has become quite popular. Everybody wants to wrestle him. Basanta Singh, the Hindu, seeks a match. And we have at hand missives from Swedish Johnny Carlin and the inexorable Dutchman wise-cracking after return tilts. Carlin writes in from Las Vegas, N. M., where he has been training. Says the knee injured here several weeks ago is healed up and he's sure he can trim Grip. Johnny also declared he wants a whack at Jack Reynolds, saying Jack has taken a run-out powder every time the name Carlin has been mentioned to him. Dutch, as would be expected, yawped something about gimme all them tough eggs, gurgled a few razzes for both Grip and Reynolds and wound up his epistle by offering to place in competition some kind of a trophy to go to the basketball player in the women's league who proves to be the best fighter.

* * *

CAN'T BLAME HIM

Reynolds, as he checked out yesterday, said, "I'll never wrestle that Grip guy again. He's too darn lucky." And so he was Tuesday night in winning a match when he did not deserve a fall.

ELECTRICS COP LEADERSHIP IN GOALING DRIVE

Conocos Lose, 21-8; P. B. M. Sextet Runs Over Whippets

STANDINGS

	P.	W.	L.	Pct.
Electrics	4	3	0	1000
Conocos	4	3	1	.667
P. B. M.	4	2	2	.500
Whippets	4	0	4	.000

Charley Spragins' Texas Electric Service company sextet forged into undisputed league leadership Wednesday night on the Junior college court, trimming the Conoco girls, 21-8, in a spirited contest.

The Kilowatt basketeers got the jump on the plucky little Conoco crew with Captain Jessie Doke sinking three goals in succession. Francis Garner, teaming at forward with Cap'n Jessie, got warmed up mid-way in the affray and sank goals at a reckless gait, accounting for nine of her team's 21 tallies. Jessie tagged six points. Defensive play by Ruby Doke and Grace Ash featured the Electric performance. Ferrys Brown at jumping center fitted into the Kilowatt scheme of attack and defense very well, working under the enemy basket when the ball was in foreign territory. Mrs. Bill Abbott tabulated seven of the Conocos' eight points. Abbott and Thelma Holt, who came very near taking the 10-count at one stage of the melee from a plunk in the midriff, waged by far the best game played by the Oilers. Had the rest of the Conoco sextet been able to keep apace of this pair of stars the outcome may have been quite different.

If the P. B. M. club had uncorked the fast floor attack in earlier games that it waged against the Whippets last night, John Barnard's crew may have been leading the league today instead of the Electrics. The department store flaps ran wild, out-passing the Whippets at all stages to cop a 28-5 victory. The Whippets opened with a rush, Ruby Holcomb sinking a pretty goal from the side court and seemed on the verge of upsetting their speedy opponents. But the Whippet forwards slowed down and failed to "break" on passes up court whereas the P. B. M. machine rallied and began functioning with well-oiled precision.

Erin Hallman at center with P. B. M. topped the scorers, coming through for 13 points. Lotus Parker tallied eight. The entire P. B. M. club covered itself with glory, more or less. Haggard and Ollinger teamed in adroitly with the rest of the squad and the defense work of Nance and Phillips was almost marvelous.

Virginia Walker, Shorty Smith and Ruby Holcomb carried the bulk of the Whippet attack. Lora Arbuckle at guard flashed occasionally and waged a sturdy defense game. The Whippets looked again like a sure-fire winner if Coaches Clary and Neal can but strengthen the club at one or two points.

PERFECTION

While now I hold a golf club in my hand
You might as well know how my shots are planned,
The faults that trouble other players most,
Don't bother me at all, that's my boast.
The hazards lying snug behind each knoll,
Do not conspire to keep me from my goal,
The niblick never causes me to fret,
The mashie shots don't bother me, as yet,
No trouble on a hole of eighteen.
It's queer what I've accomplished in a day,
I'll prove it by the ones who saw me play;
No champ has ever left the course in less,
And now to tell my secret of success—
Although I swung two hundred times, or three,
The little ball has never left the tee.

Maloney Looks Like Tough Guy

By Universal Service.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Feb. 16. If you have ever seen a hungry tiger, caged, angry and growling, you have a fairly good idea of how Jimmy Maloney of Boston looked this day, the final day of his long campaign of training for the Jack Delaney bout in Madison Square garden Friday evening.

Restless, growling, finely trained, drawn like a wild thing ready for a spring, that was how Maloney appeared to the observer on the eve of his all important battle with the flashy Canadian, Jack Delaney, the light heavyweight champion of the world.

He went through the motions of boxing again today but with little zest. H eboxed Leonard, Neblitt and Harry Fay for three rounds.

Maloney knocked off for good and all today. Tomorrow he is taking a train into New York. He will have quarters at a hotel somewhere in the greater Metropolitan district, the whereabouts of which will remain a mystery to the general public.

FUNNY GOLFER STILL ON FREAK JAUNT TO LOS

Zundelowitz Five Captures Opener

Zundelowitz junior high school took the long end of a 25 to 15 game from Reagan junior high on the Zundy court Wednesday night before about 150 junior high school students and fans. The two teams will hook again Friday night at the same court for the second game of the series for the city junior championship.

Blackie Barrett was the outstanding performer of the game. The little Zundelowitz forward scored almost half of his teams' 25 points when he looped in five field goals and a pair of free pitches for 12 total points.

Shoestring Dulaney played a great game on the defense with the victors and played a large part in the holding at bay the fast stepping little Reagan crew.

Curly Blanchard and Bill Wilson played a good game with Reagan, but they were unable to make up for the Golden crew's work. Bell played a great defensive game with Reagan. The scoring of the Reagan team was well divided and no one showed any signs of getting off for a great number of points.

FROM TEE TO GREEN

Why do the feet play such an important part in golf?

How does the right foot back cure a slice? Is this action the proper professional method of straightening out the drive?

How does the left foot back, further than the correct stance, affect the shot? H. MILLER.

By JACK SMITH
Professional Highland Country Club

The position and steadiness of the feet in golf determine the line of the ball, also whether you are to get a high carrying shot or a grounded ball.

The feet control the pivoting, so valuable in the distribution of weight controlling rhythm.

If the feet are flat on the ground, for instance, your motion will be under control at the top of your swing. If you are unbalanced, you will rise on your toes to equalize that balance, which is only natural, and consequently, throw your swing out of time.

The reason for bringing the right foot back, as a cure for the slice, is only a quick method, but not a sure cure. In taking the right foot back the object is to bring the club head in ahead of the hands. In slicing, the hands get ahead of the ball, bringing the club in late which cuts the ball to a right-hand motion.

Bringing the left foot far back tends to put the weight of the body forward into the shot. This must necessarily be a well-timed shot and a forward motion, and very difficult. However, I would ask the player to adopt this method rather than try to play the right foot back for a hook. It is dangerous.

In placing the feet, be sure they are far enough apart for a comfortable stance at the top of your swing. The left foot back should keep the club from wrapping around your shoulder. The right foot back must be taken only at a half swing.

Always stay flat on your feet. If necessary, to get accustomed to the play, put all your weight on your heels and keep it there until you have followed the club through the ball.

Use a half swing until you learn the motion.

Put all your weight on your left leg on the upward swing and hold the leg rigid, as if you were winding up a spring, and then unwind the spring with the same motion.

PECOS COUNTY WILL BE SCENE OF DEVELOPMENT FOR YEARS

ACREAGE HELD IN BIG BLOCKS

Area Believed to Hold Unlimited Oil Potentiality

Pecos county appears to be in a position that will keep a steady oil development in progress for many years since the remarkable Transcontinental and Mid-Kansas well came in Saturday. The performance of the first gusher indicates that the area holds potentialities which would play havoc with the Mid-Continent crude market should a reckless campaign of competitive drilling be commenced.

It is considered fortunate, however, that almost the entire territory is held in large blocks by major companies and no rapid development looms.

The sand record of the new well tends to create a bit of skepticism in some quarters where it is pointed on tthat many flowing wells from such a shallow depth are "freaks"; only one such producer being found on a structure.

Extreme West Texas now has a daily production of approximately 80,000 barrels exclusive of the Big Lake field. What this yield could be made to equal is a matter of much speculation since many producing wells are pinched in and drilling is being held at a minimum owing to the near dearth of pipeline facilities.

Thousands of acres of proven and semi-proven land lay idle while the lease holders await the competition of several pipeline projects now under construction.

The area holds unlimited prospects for development with deep oil formations, which geologists think exist, untouched. The discovery well in Pecos county was found in a test originally intended to go to a much deeper horizon. Following the complete development of the shallow district several more years of work is offered in testing out the deeper levels.

New Sand At Noodle Creek

Marland's No. 2 Mason Produces From 3035 Feet

ABILENE, Feb. 16. — Noodle Creek operators are intently watching Marland No. 2 Mason, section 18 block 19, T. & P. R.R. survey, which was reported swabbing 70 barrels in three hours, Monday from 3,035 feet after tapping a second sand. No authentic story seems available as to just what this well is really doing, but there can be no doubt that a very encouraging showing has been made at this second pay zone. This well failed to find pay at the Joe Winter's horizon around 2500 feet and was classed "dry" several weeks ago.

Mid-West No. 2 Thornton, offset to Marland No. 2 Mason, the largest well in the field, was thought to have possibilities of another big one, but is still an uncertain quantity, doing about 250 barrels, although rumor credits it with considerably better performance.

Owing to various surprises and disappointments occurring Noodle Creek structure provides considerable deep study and speculation for geologists who crave to solve intricate problems. The field has been termed spotted, but that appellation is perhaps not entirely justified, since the one hole passing up pay at the expected zone found what may prove to be the real producing horizon deeper down.

The really outstanding performer in the group of producers is the No. 1 Joe Winter, discovery well brought in by the Phillips Petroleum corporation September 7 last at about 900 barrels, though credited with anything up to 1500 barrels by enthusiasts. It soon settled into a good 800 barreler, holding that mark for some months and is now getting out better than 500 barrels per day. All of the other wells have been more or less temperamental actors, giving great promise only to slow down or even take on spells of ceasing altogether to yield, only to come back and behave like regular workers.

The latest authenticated reports, issued by Mid-West Exploration company shows a total for February 13 of 2617 barrels accounted for as follows: Phillips No. 1, and No. 2 Joe Winter, 516 barrels; same company's No. 1 Tessle, 154 barrels; Marland No. 1 Mason, 145 barrels; No. 2 Mason, 132 barrels in eight hours; No. 3 Mason, 1022 barrels; Mid-West Exploration No. 1 Thorton, 277 1-2 barrels; No. 1 Atlantic-Howell, 110 barrels; Mid-West No. 2 Thornton, shut down for 24 hours. This well is good for about 300 barrels daily.

LEASE SALE

Indian Territory Leases Go on Sale In March.

PAWHUSKA, Feb. 16.—The next Osage lease sale will be held the latter part of March, according to J. George Wright, Indian superintendent. The sale has already been approved by the Osage council and will now get the approval of the secretary of the interior. The proposed sale is of interest because a number of tracts to be sold are offering producers. Perhaps the most important tract is the southwest quarter of 27-27-6, offsetting the famous Kewanee lease which has been developed since the sale of last September. The Kewanee has 11,400 barrels production on its property. It is located a mile east of Shidler.

GASOLINE TAX

Lubbock Restrained In Levying Filling Station Tax.

AMARILLO, Feb. 16.(AP)—The seventh court of civil appeals today affirmed the decision of trial Judge Clark M. Mullican restraining the city of Lubbock from levying a gross receipts tax against the Magnolia Petroleum company and others operating filling stations in that city.

The suit was an outgrowth of an ordinance passed last year by Lubbock which levied a tax of one-half of one per cent on all gasoline sold in the city. The city commission claimed the measure was legal because of the incorporation of Lubbock under the home rule amendment of the constitution.

PREVENT WASTE

NEW YORK, Feb. 16. (AP)—Operators in the Seminole pool, Oklahoma, are taking measures to present waste of oil as production is exceeding pipeline and other transportation facilities by 50,000 barrels daily. A committee has been appointed to survey the situation. It is expected an umpire will be named to establish a basis for pro-rating runs as was done in the early days of the Seminole development.

GAS WELL

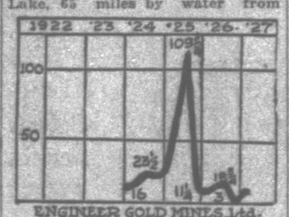

KINGSVILLE, Feb. 16. (AP)—Two important developments took place in the Kleburg county oil field Sunday. The Francis well came in with a dry, commercial gas flow of between 6,000,000 and 8,000,000 feet, according to the drillers. This well blew in two years or more ago with an estimated flom of 10,000,000 feet, but sanded up after running wild for several days. The Kipley Oil company began drilling in the old well several weeks ago.

MARKET GOSSIP

J. H. Baldwin and Co., brokers, basement Bob Waggoner building, today received the following from New York, New Orleans and Chicago connections:

Wheat: Market was very much unsettled today with a larger volume of trade. Lower prices prevailed early, market being influenced by the action of Liverpool which closed ¼d lower. Some stop loss selling was in evidence which caused the market to about one cent below last night's close, but support developed in the way of resting orders in the hands of commission houses, to additional to which holders of bids were also good buyers. Winnipeg market held relatively strong throughout the entire day, and while only a small export business for export is reported it is intimated that a good business had been put through abroad in Manitobas. Locally there was very little change in the market with medium and low grade in very slow demand. Indications were for unsettled weather in parts of the southwest which had the effect of widening the spread between July and September. We still feel that the situation is one where a broader and more urgent demand for cash wheat must prevail if advances are to be maintained.

Corn: Was weak due to liquidation by scattered holders, some of whom have been the best recent buyers. The late strength in wheat and rye was responsible for a moderate upturn in corn prices late in the day. Despite the unfavorable weather country movement continues liberal. Advices indicate that eastern points continues to undersell the Chicago market. Until there is a better consumptive demand and some evidence of large stocks being reduced we feel that lower prices will result.

Oats: Market weakened in sympathy with corn and due to a generally slow shipping demand while receipts are fairly liberal. Medium and low grades are in good demand as a drag on the white choice qualities are in good demand.

Rye: Was independently strong and advanced in the face of early decline in wheat prices. We believe higher prices will prevail.

Stocks: Were again very strong as a whole. Baldwin featured by another rise to a new record high and there was consistent strength in the entire list. While we see no reason to be other than bullish, at the same time in view of the recent advance throughout the list, we would be cautious about buying on bulges.

Cotton: Liverpool maintains a steady tone and spot business in that market, remains good. Contract markets sold off a few points early but regained the loss later. A fair volume of business is being transacted within a narrow price range. A trading position seems best under the circumstances.

WOOL MARKET.

BOSTON, Feb. 16.(AP)—Wool selling continues moderate and spotty. Inquiry is well distributed over all grades of domestine wool. Strong asking prices and greater confidence of dealers holding the remainder of stocks of choice domestic wools offer difficulties to buyers who try to fill requirements within their limits. This results in mills keeping their purchases closer to actual current requirements.

RAISE PRODUCTION

TULSA, Feb. 16.—In spite of the congested conditions of pipe lines, operators in the Seminole pool are shooting their wells and applying the air pressure to get as much production as possible. A number of new wells are in the process of being completed.

Cotton--Stocks--Latest Market Quotations--Grain--Cattle

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.(AP)—Curious cross currents of prices ran through today's stock market, but generally the rails did better while the industrials lost ground. There were exceptions in each group, Baldwin Locomotive standing out in the industrial with another sensational ten point gain to a new record high at 187½. Trading showed a further expansion in volume, but it continued to derive most of its impetus from the operations of professional traders.

Merger issues again came to the fore in the railroad group as a new crop of rumors was set in circulation. Wabash was again the most active feature, moving up 3 points to a new peak at 67½ on total transactions in excess of 150,000 shares. Other rails to break through their previous maximum quotations were Missouri Pacific common and preferred, Baltimore and Ohio common and preferred, St. Louis and San Francisco, New Haven, Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred, St. Paul common and preferred certificates, and Denver and Rio Grande and Western preferred.

Buying of Wabash was associated with all sorts of rumors, none of which was confirmed. They included the statement that Lackawanna was a heavy purchaser in connection with a plan to lease the road and guaranties a 6 per cent dividend on the common, a report that the Van Sweringens were accumulating the stock, and another that a powerful pool had been organized in the issue.

Business and financial news of the day was generally favorable. Call money held steady at 4 per cent, after yesterday's temporary flurry to 4½. The weekly steel trade reviews reported that operations had showed a slight gain for the fifth consecutive week but also emphasized the fact that prices had eased off in some lines. Output which, last week was the lowest since 1922. Steel shares were generally heavy although United States Steel common yielded only a fraction to 158½.

Motor shares were hard hit by the unexpected announcement of the $25,000,000 offering of General Motors preferred stock, which was promptly sold by the Dillon, Studebaker and Hupp, the report of a curtailment in Dodge Brothers operations. General Motors closed two points lower at 156 after having broken below 155, and Hudson, Pierce Arrow preferred, and a few others yielded a point or more.

Oils were well supported despite the further increases in the daily average of gross crude oil per well last week. Barnsdall A, Colorado Fuel and Phillips Petroleum all touched new high levels. International Harvester, Pressed Steel Car and Timken Roller Bearing also reached new peaks.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges held fairly steady, with demand sterling slightly firmer at $4.84 11-16 and French francs around 3.92 cents.

RAILS SURGE AHEAD AGAIN

Wabash Leads Stocks Rush To Higher Levels

BY BROADAN WALL.
Universal Service Financial Expert.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Railroads surged ahead on the stock exchange while industrials became somewhat more irregular in an active trading session today. The street was flooded with the rumors of buying of the rails by the big systems and as a result Wabash, New Haven and others moved into higher ground.

Baldwin was rallied against the cornered short interest while other industrials were in supply due to uncertainties aroused by the General Motors financing, poor reports from a few industries and profit taking induced by the approach of the holiday.

The mid-month influences removed, the call rate dropped to 4 per cent. But as no one had any difficulty getting accommodation even on the rise of Tuesday, this development attracted little attention.

General Motors was sold down on the theory that the new preferred stock offering indicated need of working capital but good support was evidenced at the low point from interests which are confident that an extra dividend will be declared at the meeting in May. Hudson showed the effect of the Studebaker price cut more than any other motor stock, dropping over a point while others gave only fractionally under the offerings that resulted. Yellow Truck dipped a little more as belief grow stronger that directors may decide to omit a dividend declaration at tomorrow's meeting.

Wabash will not receive any guaranteed dividend, according to the latest terms circulated as the stock added to its gains today. The bankers for the Lackawanna, who incidentally act for the Delaware and Hudson also, are said to have control of Wabash. They have no intention of offering any merger or leasing plan in the immediate future, it is declared, although they may announce that controlling stock.

New Haven was taken in big blocks and moved to a new high record price following a report from Philadelphia that the Pennsylvania system would announce an addition to its holdings of the stock in the near future. The Canadian Pacific soared on a comparatively light turnover while other high grade rail issues held recent gains in somewhat smaller trading.

New York canners added to its recent loss because of belief that unfavorable news will result for stockholders from the meeting of directors scheduled for tomorrow. Canada and Cuba manufacturers have been operating under unusually adverse conditions, as shown in recent reports of American Can and Continental Can. Their position was aggravated by high hauling rates and policy that prevailed throughout the business world as they were obliged to take fruit and vegetables grown under contract. While the latest report says that the food canners will be liquidated eventually, it is pointed out, it will take some time to bring about needed corrections.

The new group formed to work in Consolidated Cigar is ready to make an aggressive position in the market. The company is one of the largest makers and distributors of high grade cigars in the world, but profits have declined, estimated at over $00,000,000 cigars annually. This means net income of more than twice the present $7 dividend which yields more than 3 per cent at current market.

Pure oil was again taken in big blocks at rising prices coincident with rumor of a possible big combine. Rumors persist that important interests in several leading oil companies have held meetings recently and that merger news of importance may be issued soon.

In this connection it is pointed out that friendly relations of officials of the companies have had much to do with bringing stabilization in the industry. Standard of Indiana, for instance, while it has no interests in the Sinclair consolidated oil corporation, is associated with Sinclair in ownership and management of the Sinclair Pipe Line and the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company.

Deafness Due to Catarrh of Air Passages

Authorities Blame Nasal Catarrh for 90 Per Cent of Deafness Throughout the World

Free Trial Offer to All Sufferers

DAVENPORT, Ia., Feb. 17.—According to authorities who base their assertions on years of research and actual medical observation and practice, 90 per cent of the deafness in the world today is due to catarrh—catarrh of the air passages.

Not only is catarrh of the air passages generally termed nasal catarrh, blamed for deafness, but at its door is laid many other diseases, such as stomach catarrh, poisoned conditions of the body, and a generally diseased condition.

This May Be Relieved

This condition may be relieved. Now that Dr. W. O. Coffee, a physician of this city, has developed a home treatment for deafness, head noises from nasal catarrh, and catarrh itself, it is possible to remedy the catarrhal condition in many cases and make hearing practically normal once more. It has been proved that in many cases this is true.

Great Success

Phenomenal success has attended Dr. Coffee in his work since he first developed this home treatment. It is stated that more than 500,000 cases of deafness, head noises due to nasal catarrh and catarrh have been treated by this physician in all sections of the country and out of this number a huge amount have reported complete satisfaction.

Most of his patients have been people whose hearing was bad in one ear and was rapidly getting bad in the other. With every cold, the hearing grew worse. This condition was relieved for many; relieved not only for the time but the catarrhal condition was bettered and in many cases all traces of the disease were gone.

Deafness strikes at all ages—and this home treatment of the Davenport doctor has been used by people of all ages. By this method many who were apparently destined to go through life with the handicap of impaired hearing were made normal once more.

Improvement General

Physicians state, authoritatively, too, that in these cases doubtless other diseased conditions were combated and relieved by the defeat of catarrh; for it no longer poured its daily portion of poison into the human system and the body was no longer required to use a great portion of its strength in throwing off this poison. As a result it was better able to combat new disease and the general physical condition was bettered in addition to the relief given for deafness.

Sidelights on This Treatment for Deafness and Head Noises from Nasal Catarrh

Literally thousands of people from different sections of the United States have used this special, original home treatment. Not only have many found relief from distressing head noises but restoration of good or normal hearing as well.

A huge file, containing hundreds of letters from sufferers in all sections of the country has been placed in Dr. Coffee's offices. Here is kept the record of each case treated and in this way, a careful check can be kept on the patient's progress and results of the treatments.

Contrary to the general belief, deafness and head noises due to nasal catarrh often lend themselves to treatment and relief very readily. The peculiar construction of the ear in its relation to the nasal passages both creates a condition which results in deafness and makes possible a ready relief when that is corrected. This was the basic of the home treatment as perfected by Dr. W. O. Coffee which has resulted in relief to thousands of sufferers from deafness and head noises from nasal catarrh, and from catarrh itself.

Dr. W. O. Coffee appeals especially to those who are just beginning to notice that they are losing their hearing in one ear and with the coming of a cold find the other ear affected. Many who are now stone deaf could have been made to hear again if their cases had been properly cared for at the first showing of dullness of hearing.

Many cases of deafness are caused by dry catarrh—a type which gives no noticeable discharge or symptom.

Insurance authorities place deafness in the list of those defects which add to the risk of the insured life. Many railway accidents, accidents in the street with automobiles and in practically every walk of life are due to deafness or dullness of hearing. This condition in many cases can be corrected—if the condition is due to nasal catarrh. Nasal catarrh is responsible for practically 90 per cent of the deafness today, authorities state.

There is no obligation attached to Dr. Coffee's plan in any way. It is simply a means, the doctor explains, of spreading the news of his treatment and proving to the world that such a thing as relief for deafness, dullness of hearing and head noises from nasal catarrh and catarrh itself, is possible. He is sure of what his treatment will do; the sufferer is not sure and unless it is proven, the fact that it is effective and has given relief in thousands of cases will never be known by victims of this terrible affliction.

Restored Hearing in One Month

Mr. George Bishop of Sask., Canada, says, "I had been growing deaf for 12 years and had been to some of the best hospitals in all Canada and even submitted to operations without success. I spent hundreds of dollars but gradually grew worse. I became so bad that people had to talk directly into my ear, if I was to hear. By using Dr. Coffee's treatment, my hearing was greatly benefited in one month's time. I wish that every sufferer everywhere who is afflicted as I was would give this wonderful treatment a test."

Deaf Since Childhood; Hearing Greatly Benefited This Way

Mona McBride

Chronic and Acute Deafness Ends

Mrs. Mona McBride of Illinois says, "This is to certify that since having scarlet fever when a little girl, I have been hard of hearing, and for the past four or five years I have been almost entirely deaf. A few months ago my left ear began to discharge. I found it to be abscessed and discharging a foul fluid. Nothing seemed to stop it and finally I tried Dr. Coffee's treatment. To my surprise and delight the hearing in the ear which was partially deaf for nearly 20 years has returned and the abscess has healed. Now I can hear a conversation six feet away. I didn't believe it possible and I certainly advise anyone suffering with deafness to try this treatment. I obtained relief in a short time."

Noted Specialist

This is Dr. W. O. Coffee, as he looks today after 45 years of active practice—he wants sufferers to try his home treatment free.

Davenport, Ia., Feb. 17.—(Special.)—A proved treatment for deafness and dullness of hearing from nasal catarrh and for catarrh itself has been developed by Dr. W. O. Coffee, an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist of this city, which has resulted in the restoration of hearing to hundreds.

Basing his treatment on the fact that in practically 90 per cent of the cases, loss of hearing is due to a catarrhal condition, Dr. Coffee by concentrating his efforts in that field has proved that restoration of hearing is not a myth. Literally thousands of people from all sections of the United States have taken this original home treatment and have been benefited. Letters from hundreds of these people thanking the doctor for his treatment and attesting to the effectiveness of his work are on file in his Davenport offices.

Dr. Coffee does not claim that his original treatment will restore hearing to all cases of deafness, but he says if the deafness or head noises are caused from a catarrhal condition and the tissues of the middle ear are not damaged, the hearing should be restored to real good or normal. Basing his experiments in his office on this practical relief of these conditions, he has positively demonstrated and proved that the restoration of hearing to many severe cases is an easy, practical fact for the sufferer to accomplish for himself at home.

Literally thousands of people from different sections of the United States have used this original home treatment and many found relief from distressing head noises and restoration of good or normal hearing.

Tells of Development

In telling of the development of this effective treatment for deafness, Dr. Coffee says: "More than 25 years ago, I began to suffer with head noises, dullness of hearing and with catarrh. I was rapidly losing my hearing. I was bad in one ear and with every cold I would get bad in the other. Slowly but surely my hearing was leaving me. I naturally tried every treatment that I knew of, as deafness in my profession would have been fatal to my success. After a great loss of time and when two operations had failed to give me permanent relief I calmed my fears and began to analyze the cause and effect of my trouble.

"Basing my treatment on the results of this study I evolved a system which I believed would remove the handicap of deafness if anything would. There was nothing magical about it. It was a logical, scientific treatment, and within a short time I began to improve. After some time, I was normal again.

"I did nothing spectacular; all I did was to slowly but surely remove the causes of the deafness, and when the causes were removed, I was able to hear again.

Relief to Thousands

"Acquaintances and friends of mine inquired as to the treatment, and soon I was overwhelmed with requests for the method. To treat this number of people in time allotted to office hours would have been impossible and I started to develop a home treatment. After careful consideration I effected a course which I believed to be effective. I allowed a number to try it at home, without the assistance of a physician, and found that they could do the work with almost the efficiency and the good results that a doctor could.

Tells of Home Treatment

"Changing the treatment and developing it—adding here and taking away there, after several years, the 'home treatment' was perfected. Now it is possible for anyone, anywhere, with just ordinary household surroundings, to treat themselves for relief of deafness, dullness of hearing or head noises from nasal catarrh."

Hundreds Tell of Relief

Because of the horror of deafness and because of the great number of people who are yearly afflicted with this terrible condition, it was hard at first for sufferers to believe that they could be bettered by a simple home treatment. But the many people who have been bettered by the treatment—have at last established Dr. Coffee as a leader in his field. His name is known to thousands of people throughout the United States.

500,000 Treated for Catarrhal Deafness and Catarrh, is Doctor's Record

A remarkable record has been established by Dr. W. O. Coffee, the Davenport, Iowa, eye, ear and nose specialist, who has developed the treatment for deafness, head noises from nasal catarrh, and catarrh.

During his 45 years as practicing physician, he has probably established a record which no other physician in the country can match. His records show that more than 500,000 people suffering from deafness, head noises from nasal catarrh, and catarrh, and eye diseases have used his treatment. These people live in all sections of the country and have been treated, in the majority of cases, at home, using the home treatment for this distressing condition, as developed by Dr. Coffee.

The results of these different cases have been gone over and compiled and the beneficial effects of this home system of treatment have been proved. When the average physician has treated fifty cases with one definite system of treatment, it is sufficient to demonstrate what it will do. Dr. Coffee has thousands of such cases. Letters from people who have used this home treatment are on file in his office that show the wonderful results.

Amazing Letters from Many Who Thought Their Cases Beyond Relief

Davenport, Ia. Feb. 17.—Included in the thousands of letters received by Dr. Coffee, the deafness and catarrh specialist, from people who tell of their relief from deafness, head noises from nasal catarrh, and from catarrh, he has given a number which are reproduced below.

All of the letters shown in this article are on file in this office. Following are the records of a few typical cases as told by Dr. Coffee or the patients themselves:

After 17 Years

"Mrs. M. S., aged 64, of St. Louis, came to me personally with a history of losing her hearing about 48 years ago, caused from a catarrhal condition that started when she was a girl. She had been treated by the best doctors in St. Louis, and finally went to Berlin, Germany, and France, trying to find relief from the deafness.

"She was practically totally deaf in her right ear when she came to me and almost in the left. She hadn't heard a telephone in 17 years, and people usually had to write to her. She complained of the most intense head noises. She started my treatment and used it regularly. At the end of two months' time she could not see that she was hearing any better; in two months and a half, she sat down and cried, she was so discouraged; at three months she thought she could hear a little better. She kept up the treatment for about a year, and at the end of that time could hear a telephone plainly with either ear, the first time in 17 years.

"This was one of the worst of the long standing severe cases of deafness that I ever treated, and it shows the possibility of what may be done if the structures of the middle ear are not damaged by the disease. She had a long standing catarrh, but the ear drums were not seriously damaged."

Relief at 86 Years

"Mr. J. C. P. of Elmer, Mo., wrote that he suffered with catarrh of the nose and head. Made him deaf quite rapidly. He suffered with severe head noises. He used my home treatment five months, and wrote me that he was completely relieved and says, 'I will surprise you by telling you that I am 86 years old'."

Dr. Coffee says that most people past 80 years of age do not obtain complete relief from long standing deafness and catarrh. Usually they are not strong enough and vigorous to throw off long standing weaknesses.

P. A. N. of Galesburg, Illinois, writes: "Just a few lines to let you know that your medicine has done me lots of good. The noise in my head is all gone now, and I feel fine. I am an old lady, 82 years old, and I thank you very much for your trouble." She used only one month's treatment.

Mrs. Fanny B. W. of McKenney, Va., writes she was afflicted with head noises and with itching of the ears, periodical deafness, sometimes almost totally deaf. "I have not been deaf since using your treatment. Your medicines are wonderful." She used three months' treatment.

A. W. B. of East Chicago, Ind., writes, "I have used the one month's treatment received from you just as directed. It has relieved me of all my trouble of ear noises and throat trouble. I can truthfully say with thanks to you that it is a wonderful treatment for catarrh of the nose, head and ears." He used one month's treatment.
