U.S. Thinks So...

Begin Peace Obstacle?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Embarrassed by Israeli bombing of Palestinian neighborhoods in Lebanon, American officials are becoming increasingly exasperated with Prime Minister Menachem Begin, calling him a major obstacle to peace in the Middle East.

A growing crisis of confidence in U.S.-Israeli relations was marked Wednesday by unusually strident criticism of Begin by Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger and Deputy Secretary of State William P. Clark.

But even though the White House said Weinberger was speaking for the administration, President Reagan indicated sympathy for the Israeli cause.

Israeli officials, meanwhile, defended Begin's actions, declaring that Palestinian forces have been receiving weaponry of "the most sophisticated kind" in recent months.

The harshest criticism of Begin came from Clark, Reagan's longtime friend, who was quoted as telling reporters during a closed breakfast meeting that the U.S. attitude toward the Jewish leader is one of "disappointment and maybe some embarrassment."

"Begin without question is making it difficult for us to help Israel," Clark was quoted as saying. "Our commitment is not to Mr. Begin but to the nation he represents."

The Begin government is pressing the administration to release F-16 jets ordered held back by Reagan, first because the Israelis used American-made warplanes in the June 7 bombing of an Iraqi nuclear reactor and later because of the fighting in Lebanon.

"Israel is simply not our only friend in the area," Clark was quoted as saying Wednesday. "You just don't ship gasoline to a fire. We have something of a crisis on our hands."

Weinberger, speaking on ABC's "Good Morning America," said presidential envoy Philip Habib was on the verge of a

Effort To Cut Oil Industry Taxes Dropped...

Multiyear Tax Cut Is On Schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Senate Republicans dropping efforts to reduce taxes on the oil industry, Congress is back on schedule to complete action on a multiyear tax cut before the August recess.

However, the lawmakers may have to delay the recess by a week to ensure that the first phase of the largest tax cut in the nation's history would be felt in paychecks received after Oct. 1, as President Reagan requested.

A major impediment to finishing the tax bill was removed Wednesday night when Senate Republicans gave in to liberal Democrats and dropped an effort to give an estimated $40 billion in tax relief to the oil industry over the next decade.

In return, the Republicans won agreement to increase to about $6.35 billion the five-year value of oil tax breaks already in the bill, which was approved by the Senate Finance Committee. That relief includes a $2,500-per-year tax credit for owners of oil lands and cutting in half the "windfall profits" tax on domestic oil discovered after 1978.

The agreement also apparently ended a "bidding war" that has been fought for several days by Democratic and Republican leaders to win votes from conservative oil-state lawmakers. The agreement prohibits Senate consideration of any other oil tax reductions in an overall tax-cut bill.

Criticizes Wiretap Costs

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A state grant to buy wiretap equipment, including 28,800 tape casettes to record private conversations, "is a dramatic illustration of how much listening" is proposed, says a Senate opponent of the new wiretap law.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, said Wednesday the wiretap law approved by the 1981 Legislature could cost taxpayers over $1.3 million in the next year, more than three times the amount originally proposed.

Doggett also said, "There is an effort afoot to come back now and weaken what few safeguards were attached to the bill during the regular session."

Illegal Amnesty Kits

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Immigration and Naturalization Service officials say the Reagan Administration's proposal to grant resident status to thousands of illegal aliens could prompt the sale of phony black market "amnesty kits."

INS officials here fear that the bogus documents, selling for as much as $2,000 each, may begin appearing because of recent proposals to grant permanent citizenship to some illegal aliens, Richard E. Norton, deputy director of the San Antonio INS district, said Wednesday.

Chrysler Reports Profit

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp., which reported its first quarterly profit in more than two years, may be "out of intensive care," but industry experts and the automaker's chairman agree the patient could suffer a relapse of red ink in coming months.

Chrysler announced a $11.6 million profit Wednesday for the April-through-June period, amounting to 6 cents a share of common stock. The report was a sharp turnaround from last year's second quarter, when the company lost $536.1 million, or $8.13 a share.

But analysts and Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca said the automaker needs an improved economic climate with lower interest rates to avert a return to losses for the third quarter.

Might Seek Re-election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Ron Paul, R-Lake Jackson confirmed Wednesday that he had been considering a race for the U.S. Senate seat of Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas.

"It was a possibility, yes," the gynecologist said, if the Texas Legislature had drawn a congressional district impossible for him to live with.

But the redistricting plan approved by the Texas Senate is acceptable to Paul now, he said, and if it or a similar bill prevails, he plans to run for reelection to his 22nd district.

We just received word through the mail that the Socialist Party of Texas (did you know there was one?) is raising money for a fund to help unions organize in the state and also to aid workers who engage in any type of strike.

The Socialist Party of Texas, based in Austin, describes itself as "a democratic socialist organization in the tradition of Norman Thomas and Eugene Debs and advocates a program of economic democracy and workers' control, feminism and decentralized, unbureaucratic decision-making."

We pass this information along with the thought that perhaps "forewarned is forearmed."

Blast Key Bridge...

Jets Fly Into Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli warplanes swept into southern Lebanon again today and the PLO and Lebanon's radio said the fighter-bombers blasted a key bridge in the foothills of Mount Hermon.

The Tel Aviv command said the planes scored accurate strikes at a 130mm cannon near Hasbaya, northeast of the Israeli border town of Metulla, and that all the jets returned safely. The Israelis made no mention of attacking a bridge.

The PLO and Lebanese radio broadcasts said the planes struck at the road bridge that links guerrilla bases in southeastern Lebanon with the eastern Bekaa Valley and the Syrian border at 2 p.m.

The bridge spans the Hasbani River near Hasbaya, which is the forwardmost guerrilla position in the foothills of Mount Hermon about seven miles north of the Israeli border.

There was no immediate report of casualties. Since the latest cycle of violence erupted two weeks ago, five people have been killed by guerrilla rockets in northern Israeli settlements and more than 400 have died in Israeli reprisal strikes in Lebanon.

The PLO reported Israeli missile boats shelled the Rashidieh Palestinian refugee camp south of the port of Tyre by night and then pounded the camp with long-range artillery from the border by day.

The guerrillas also claimed they beat back two Israeli attempts to land commandos by helicopter in southern Lebanon. The Israeli military command had no immediate comment, but Israeli military sources denied the report.

Texas House Considers Redistricting Program

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Longview representative has asked the House redistricting committee to change the area's congressman, while a Hispanic leader has objected to splitting Nueces County between two U.S. Representatives.

The committee planned to vote today on a congressional redistricting plan to send to the House floor. Senators approved their version on Tuesday, 19-12.

Rep. Mike Martin, R-Longview, asked the committee to move Gregg County out of the district of U.S. Rep. Ralph Hall of Rockwall and into that of U.S. Rep. Sam Hall of Marshall.

"The people of the county are highly conservative. We sent out a questionnaire, and the wishes of the people were not to reduce welfare but to do away with it," Martin said.

He later explained that Sam Hall has "an extreme past voting record of conservatism." Ralph Hall, while also a conservative, often serves the interests of the Dallas area more than those of East Texas, Martin said.

He said he was merely relaying the views of Gregg County leaders, including city councils and chambers of commerce.

"The general population is generally not concerned with redistricting," Martin said.

Ruben Bonilla of Corpus Christi, past president of the League of United Latin American Citizens, protested the House leadership's plan to divide Nueces County between two districts.

He said the "conservative business community" wants the Anglo portion of the county to go into a coastal district and the Hispanics to be placed in a district running south and west.

"The interests of the Hispanics are not inconsistent with the interests of the business community," Bonilla said, adding that Hispanics in Corpus Christi have little in common with border counties.

If Nueces County is split, its port area might be represented by a congressman who also represents the competing port of Freeport, Bonilla said, and "the congressman would have difficulty determining where his allegiances lie."

Members Sought For Draft Board

Do you want to serve on a draft board?

If so, County Judge Preston Wilson has the forms for volunteers to fill out.

Col. Paul Dean Aikin, the state director of Selective Service, has advised that he plans to send about 1,000 letters to individuals and organizations in Texas asking for help in recruiting local Selective Service boards.

Judge Wilson got one of the letters, along with forms to be completed and sent in by volunteers.

Col. Aikin, a National Guard officer, has been ordered to active duty for approximately 90 days for the pupose of recruiting a minimum of 690 local board members in Texas. Each of the 254 counties in the state must be represented on the 138 boards that will be established.

Under the previous Selective Service organization, Scurry, Fisher and Nolan Counties were served by the same board.

A board member must be a citizen of the United states between the ages of 18 and 60; must not be a member of the armed forces (including reserve and retired status); must not have served more than 15 years on a previous Selective Service Board; must be willing to attend a few hours of training and later to devote an adequate amount of time serving on the board without pay (probably one to two hours per month, or less).

The boards will not be activated immediately, but selected members will be placed on standby status for possible future need.

Lime Contract Awarded By City

Texas Lime's bid of $97.40 per ton was the lower of two bids received.

State's School Budgets At Peak

School trustees in Texas adopted the largest increase in school property taxes in history last year, according to the report "Bench Mark for 1981-82 School District Budgets in Texas," published by the Texas Research League, but there were some exceptions, including schools in Scurry County.

Tax bills mailed last year by the 1,070 school districts in the state totaled almost $2½ billion, a whopping $393 million increase over the previous year. Statewide the increase was 18.8 percent.

However, the figures were somewhat different for schools in Scurry County. Snyder Independent School District showed a decrease of 3.2 percent, Hermleigh a decrease of 2.1 percent and Ira an increase of 2.1 percent.

Last fall, school districts in the state adopted budgets for 1980-81 calling for spending averaging $1,928.95 per student for current operations. The Snyder school budget called for $2,344.15 per student, Hermleigh's budget called for $2,344.82 per student and Ira's budget called for $3,467.88 per student, according to the Texas Research League's figures.

The average salary for classroom teachers paid by Snyder Schools in 1980-81 was $16,652, while Hermleigh's average salary was $13,706 and Ira's average salary was $14,096. The average among all school districts in the state was $14,101 per classroom teacher, or 13.7 percent over the minimum.

For California Counties...

Disaster Designation Denied

By JOHN RICE
Associated Press Writer

LOS GATOS, Calif. (AP) — As officials moved to meet the demands of Southern states by watching for Mediterranean fruit flies throughout California, the federal government refused to declare fly-infested counties a disaster area.

"We pay more taxes than any other state, and controlling the medfly is a matter for the whole country," an unhappy Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. said Wednesday after the Reagan administration rejected his request for a disaster declaration in three California counties.

A declaration would have made farmers eligible for low-interest loans. The federal government already has offered to help pay for aerial pesticide spraying, expected to cost $6 million.

Meanwhile, the second round of airborne attacks on the crop-ravaging pest began today. Three helicopters took off just after midnight to spray sticky bait laced with the pesticide malathion over parts of Palo Alto, Mountain View, Los Altos and Los Altos Hills before dawn.

At least six aerial applications were planned over the 227-square-mile "core" infestation zone, project director Jerry Scribner said. The first round of spraying ended Monday.

Medfly larvae have been found in 158 places in the spray zone, but the flies haven't invaded any of the state's large commercial farms outside the three counties. A sharp drop in the number of flies found in traps was reported after the initial spraying, officials said.

California officials plan to increase monitoring of the pest by setting five fly traps per square mile throughout California by Friday, said Gordon Snow, special assistant to state Food and Agriculture Director Richard Rominger.

The increased monitoring would meet a key demand of five Southern states attempting to impose a quarantine broader than that ordered by the federal government on 200 fruits and vegetables that can act as hosts to the medfly.

The federal government's quarantine forbids shipment of unfumigated host fruits and vegetables from the quarantined area.

The Southern states — Texas, Florida, South Carolina, Mississippi and Alabama — also want California to certify that crops come from areas where the traps were in place for 30 days.

That could doom much of the crop, which is at the height of harvest season, Snow said. Only about 1 percent of potential medfly host crops in the state are in the infestation zone.

The Supreme Court has given the Southern states until Friday to answer California's request for an order prohibiting their quarantines, which have resulted in rejection of several truckloads of produce. A federal judge in Dallas already has halted Texas' blockade pending a hearing Saturday.

State and federal officials reported progress in the fly battle.

"At this point, the situation has stabilized with the eradication measures under way," Bob Blair, federal Emergency Management Agency spokesman, said Wednesday. "There are no signs that the infestation is spreading out of control."

Medfly project officials said it will be at least a month before the success or failure of the spraying will be known. That will be determined by checking traps.

Scribner said the state is starting to crack down on people who try to sneak fruit out of the 2,082-square-mile quarantine zone covering all of Santa Clara, Alameda and San Mateo counties.

By Wednesday, more than 500,000 vehicles had been stopped at highway checkpoints and produce was confiscated from nearly 19,000. More than 200 citations were issued.

Young Woman's Death Leaves Legacy Of Lives

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A rural southeastern Oklahoma man is recovering today from transplant surgery after becoming the second person to receive a kidney from a Dallas rape victim who committed suicide.

William Hanley, 32, of Wholesome Valley in LeFlore County, received a new kidney late Monday after another prospective recipient's tests showed the organ would be rejected.

Sheryl Louise Brown, a 19-year-old woman raped early Saturday in a Dallas park, shot herself in the head about 7:30 that night. She died at Dallas's Parkland Hospital. In a note left behind, Miss Brown wrote that she was sorry and told her mother she loved her.

The physician who performed surgery on Hanley at Oklahoma Memorial Hospital said Wednesday a critical need for kidneys in Oklahoma prompted officials to obtain both of Miss Brown's kidneys for transplant.

A kidney transplant operation was successfully performed on Todd Lawson, 16, of Durant at 4 a.m. Monday, shortly after the kidneys arrived from Dallas.

But a second surgery scheduled for 6 a.m. had to be scrapped when the intended recipient's tissue cross-match turned up positive, indicating the patient's body would reject the kidney.

Doctors hurriedly checked their matching lists and found Hanley's name.

"We got a call at 5 a.m. (Monday) telling us to get to Oklahoma City fast," Troy Faye Hanley said from her husband's intensive care room. "We got here about noon. We'd been waiting for that phone call for a year and a half."

"We were keeping the kidney on a perfusion machine, which keeps the organ cool, keeps it alive and sterile," said the surgeon, who requested anonymity. "By the time we got ready for the operation, the kidney was 40 hours old, although it still looked good."

Despite the machine's efforts, kidneys sustain reversible damage while out of the body, he explained. "It used to be we could only keep it 12 hours on the machine before a transplant. Then it got to be 24 hours, then 30 or 35. But 40 was really pushing it."

The shortage of kidneys for transplant is such that there are as many as 60 people waiting for organs at all times, "just in the central Oklahoma area," the physician said.

Dallas police have arrested a man in connection with the assault on Miss Brown, but charges are not expected to be filed because the dead girl was the only witness.

Spain Plans To Boycott Wedding

MADRID, Spain (AP) — King Juan Carlos and Queen Sofia have decided to boycott the wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Diana to continue a protest dating to 1704.

The Spanish government announced Tuesday the king and queen declined the invitation to next week's wedding because the royal couple plan to go to Gibraltar to board the royal yacht for a honeymoon cruise.

Gibraltar, located on the Spanish mainland, has been a British colony since a joint Dutch-British force seized it from Spain in 1704. Spain has been pressing for years to get it back.

"We have been notified the Spanish king and queen will not be attending the wedding," said a Buckingham Palace spokesman who declined to be identified.

The king is a distant cousin of Prince Charles.

Edison's "The Great Train Robbery," filmed in 1903, was one of the first motion pictures with a story line.

Committee Votes For Bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A couple of minutes after a House committee finally finished its work on the Medical Practices Act, the chairman told the members their work for the special sesssion apparently is not over.

The House Government Organization Committee voted 11-0 on Wednesday for a Medical Practices Act that would allow optometrists — with standing orders from physicians — to use diagnostic drugs.

With the eyedrop issue finally resolved, Chairman Charles Evans, D-Hurst, told the committee he had been informed that Gov. Bill Clements would open the special session call to include continuation of regulation of social psychotherapists.

Rep. Rodney Tow, D-Woodlands, asked jokingly, "May we request new committee assignments?"

Evans said he was told by "persons who should know" that Clements would expand the call. During this year's regular session, his committee killed a bill that would have extended the Board of Social Psychotherapy Examiners past its Aug. 31 expiration date.

The governor has said he would add topics to the agenda if the Legislature makes progress on five items already listed. Jon Ford, Clements' press secretary, said the psychotherapy board is one of many topics under consideration.

Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, sponsored the social psychotherapist bill during the regular session. He said it was approved by the Senate, but was killed in House committee by several representatives who later said they "frankly did not understand what (social psychotherapists) did."

"There is no legitimate, reasonable opposition on the horizon," said Brooks.

Titanic Search Finds Nothing

BOSTON (AP) — A researcher who was aboard the vessel that scanned the ocean floor for the Titanic says the sunken luxury liner's location remains a mystery and the expedition came up empty-handed.

"We didn't discover a whole ship sitting on the botton," Mark Olsson said after the 174-foot research vessel Gyre arrived in Boston this morning. "We found tantalizing clues ... we now know where it's not."

The research vessel Gyre spent about nine days in the North Atlantic searching for the liner that smashed into an iceberg on its maiden voyage April 15, 1912, and plunged to the bottom in 12,000 feet water, killing more than 1,500 people. The liner was reportedly carrying up to $300 million in diamonds and other valuables.

Researchers said today that the next step in the search — which began with an unsuccessful mission a year ago — is a third trip to sea that would last at least a month.

The Gyre searched 60 square miles of ocean floor, including a massive canyon into which the Titanic may have fallen. If the ship's last reported position was in error, another expedition probably would have to cover hundreds of additional miles.

The scientists and adventurers displayed a variety of black and white photographs purporting to show some small man-made objects on the ocean floor, but no one could say whether they were from the Titanic, and earlier reports of a huge metal object proved premature.

"I think the whole ship is in one piece," Olsson said. "If you find a piece, you find the whole thing."

Other experts, however, believe the ship is broken into pieces.

The search was led by Michael Harris, head of the Tampa, Fla.-based International Expeditions, and was financed by Jack Grimm, a Texas oilman.

The Gyre, carrying a 20-member team of scientists and filmmakers, left July 12 from the Woods Hole Oceangraphic Institution dock on Cape Cod.

You have to understand about Doris.

We've never been too crazy about her. She's the type of woman who, if you said you were going to give birth to a Savior next week, would say, "Me, too!"

For the last five years, we've invited Doris to go into town and have lunch with us. We need her. She is the only woman we know who can remember where we parked the car.

The rest of us have tried it with no success. We have tried writing it down. We have tried to memorize it through word association. We have even assigned the level to one to remember, the color to another and the direction to another. But it's no use. We end up wandering around and around until we faint from exhaustion or emissions.

We have come to the conclusion that finding your car is a gift. You either have it or you don't. Doris has it. We first discovered it one day when we were wandering through a garage in absolute panic. Helen said, "Can't any of you remember anything about the level we parked on?"

Grace said, "Of course. We were facing a lot of signs that said, "DO NOT ENTER!"

"But what color was it?" I asked.

"Red. All the signs were in red."

"Not the signs. The level."

"If we could just find the car door I scraped while opening mine, we're parked right next to it," said Helen.

"Frankly," I said, "I think the car has moved. Did you put the emergency brake on, Grace?"

"I thought you put it on," she said.

"Why would I put it on? You're driving."

"Oh," she snapped. "You could have fooled me."

We had just decided to go to a movie and wait until all the cars cleared out and take the one that was left when we ran into Doris.

"Looking for your car?" she chided. "It's in Section A on the Red level, East concourse, Stall CRE-CZI, the third from the end, parked next to a Japanese import with a Japanese dog in the window that bows when the brakes go on."

"How did you know all that?" we asked.

"I saw you when you drove in."

Doris is a bore, she's uncouth, she brags about her kids, she borrows money for lunch, she never pays full price for anything you have just bought, and she's never ready when you drop by for her, but we wouldn't leave home without her.

Says Advisory Board...

Unrelated Influences Dictate Our Hairstyles

CHICAGO (AP) — Such diverse elements as the economy, the fitness craze, today's busy lifestyle and the First Lady's coiffure are among the many unrelated inflences that will affect American women's hairstyle choices for fall.

So says the Helene Curtis Hairstylists Advisory Board made up of a dozen of the industry's professionals. Fashion, they say, doesn't play a major role.

"Fashion is a small part of most women's lives," says Gerald Haynes, owner of three Detroit-area salons. He believes that lifestyle needs are far more influential than changing fashion looks, and cites fitness as an example.

"The popularity of exercise is one reason we give so many perms and body treatments,' he says. "Sometimes a perm is the only thing that can help a woman's hair bounce back after a workout.

Board members find many clients emulating hairstyles of popular "stars," from Mrs. Reagan's conservative coif to Lady Diana Spencer's easycare bobbed cut to soap opera heroines' tousled tresses.

Some stylists call the looks "bland," "conservative" and "inoffensive" but concede their popularity.

The biggest influence on a working woman's hairstyle is her working wardrobe, the board members say. To complement office clothes, these women tend to opt for functional easy-care and versatile hair.

"Working women always ask, 'How can I take care of this style myself?'" says Michael Swiger of Phoenix. "They like to learn the techniques of varying a style — to dress it up for evening, for instance — but they want hair that's easy to care for."

Some board members say the economy is causing women to visit salons less often than a recommended six to eight weeks.

The result can be best seen in hair color techniques: Women want color that looks good after several months, which means it has to "grow out" well, say the board members. For that reason, subtle, close-to-natural hair shades and highlighting are most often used.

Simple boredom may be another important factor in changing fall hairstyles, the experts say. They see less demand for "classics" like the pageboy and the trim, orderly looks of the past few seasons.

"People are tired of total symmetry," says Darleen Hakola, Portland, Ore. "The overall shape and balance of the style are more important today than having every hair exactly the same length.

"The changes will be subtle, though," the stylist adds, "which we can do just by changing the part, giving a partial perm on one side only, or cutting a little spiky fringe at the forehead."

Despite all these other influences, Paris and New York may still have the last word on fall hairstyles. The new fall clothing designs show a silhouette of volume and fullness above and below a nipped-in waist, with a slim leg. The new proportions suggest the need for a "small head" look that's short and close-cropped, or softly waved around the face.

There is a simple, but ineffective way to play this Reese-Dormer hand. South wins the heart lead. He can't afford to hold up and let East shift to a spade.

Now South knocks out the ace of diamonds. East gets in and if East returns a heart, South is in fine shape.

If East returns a spade, South's fine shape becomes lopsided to the extent of at least one trick. He will go one down if he cashes out his eight sure tricks, but may wind up two short if he tries to make his contract with the club finesse.

Now let's look at the effective way to play the hand. South wins the first heart in dummy and leads the queen of clubs for a finesse. If it works he will make 10 tricks, but it loses.

It doesn't hurt the game any. South has used an avoidance play to keep East out of the immediate lead. A spade lead by West can't hurt. South will have two sure stoppers.

So West clears the hearts. South knocks out the ace of diamonds and scores the game.

Suppose West held five hearts, the king of clubs and ace of diamonds. South was doomed to defeat no matter how he played.

To Tax Cut Bill...

Major Tax Relief Provisions Added

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was the efforts of a handful of Texas conservatives, dangling the lure of their votes, that persuaded Democratic leaders to add major tax relief provisions to their tax cut bill.

The result, the Texans said Wednesday, is the best tax bill ever as far as the Lone Star State is concerned — much better than either the administration or Democratic alternative were before.

Rep. Jack Hightower, D-Vernon; Rep. Richard White, D-El Paso; and Rep. Ralph Hall, D-Rockwall, were highly instrumental in getting Ways and Means chairman Dan Rostenkowski to write into the tax bill some hefty exemptions to the windfall profits tax.

Although the administration began trying to go "one up" on the Ways and Means bill with new tax relief for oil producers, Hightower said he'll vote for the committee bill.

"If we had not committed to support the committee bill, we would not have gotten it (windfall profits tax exemptions) in there. And I'm convinced if it hadn't gotten into the committee bill, the administration never would have added it," Hightower said.

"In order to get that accomplished, there were several of us who got the committee chairman to get it in there. By the same token, we agreed to support the bill," he said.

"I'm glad it's working out. It's going to be of benefit to small royalty owners in Texas as well as providing incentive for oil companies to drill more wells."

Hall said the attraction of giving so much relief to his district, which produces 74 million barrels of oil a year, was too good to ignore.

"The windfall profits tax on that is $7 a barrel, and you can imagine the impact any relief has on my district," he said.

The three Texans are members of the Conservative Democratic Forum, an organization created only last November to give the conservatives more clout.

Many CDF members — including all eight Texans in the group — gave President Reagan enough Democratic votes to win House passage of his spending proposals.

Hall said the tax cut victory is directly attributable to the swing vote the CDF now enjoys.

"I'm just a common, everyday guy, and I've never had two girls fighting over me before. I guess you just look over their assets and make a decision," he said.

The conservatives' agreement to vote with the Democratic leadership is not a matter of their buckling under to House Speaker Tip O'Neill, Hall emphasized.

"I think there's been some knuckling under the other way. They're certainly coming to see our way of seeing things. It's a very good feeling to see your own party — the party you're going to stay with — begin moving back toward the middle again," Hall said.

White said if he and the other conservatives hadn't indicated a strong interest in the new exemptions for the windfall profits tax, "we wouldn't have gotten it."

The $6.6 billion, 5-year tax break for the oil industry squeaked by, 18-17, with all committee Republicans voting against it. It would provide oil producers a break averaging between $1 million and $2 million a year each.

"Earlier, they had asked me if a third year of tax cuts, with a trigger, would get me to support their bill, and I said, 'It puts me close.' When we went down there and they agreed to add in the oil, that did it," the El Paso lawmaker said.

There was widespread reluctance to give the oil industry relief from the windfall profits tax, and all three agreed the administration began improving their bill in that regard only because they were forced to by its inclusion in the Ways and Means bill.

They were willing to commit their votes to the Ways and Means plan because of the awareness that this might be the only way to get Texas oil producers and royalty owners any relief from the windfall profits tax, they said.

"We felt this was the only chance we'd have to get it passed in the next three or four years," White said.

Hightower said he's sure the House liberals are frustrated by the Ways and Means action, which would exempt oil producers from taxes on the first 500 barrels per day on so-called new oil discovered after Jan. 1, 1979.

In 1982, the bill would give producers an exemption on 100 barrels per day on wells producing before that date. That amount would increase to 200 barrels a day in 1985 and to 350 barrels per day in 1986.

In addition, oil royalty owners would get an exemption on the first barrel per day of production in 1982 — a tax break of about $4,300. In 1985, the exemption would increase to two barrels per day, and in 1986 to 3.5 barrels per day.

"I'm sure it will be unacceptable to some of the liberals. We were convinced the only way we could ever get it passed would be to get it in a bill the liberals were obligated to support," Hightower added.

Liberals indicated they might offer a substitute on the floor to the committee bill. The Democratic leadership, which has been complaining about defections by the conservatives, might have their biggest problem this time keeping the liberals in tow.

"That's going to be fun," White admitted.

In addition to oil relief, both the administration and committee tax bills include other provisions Texans had sought — doing away with the marriage penalty and the estate tax on such people as farmers, ranchers and small businessmen.

Rep. Kent Hance, D-Lubbock, the co-sponsor of the administration tax bill, remains behind his proposal, of course.

Rep. Charlie Stenholm, D-Stamford, chairman of the CDF, was quoted in Wednesday's New York Times as having committed to the Rostenkowski bill. But Hance said after a noon luncheon meeting of the Texas delegation, "Charlie's with me."

Rep. Phil Gramm, D-College Station, the co-sponsor of the president's budget bill, remains behind the Hance-Conable bill, as does Rep. Sam Hall, D-Marshall.

"I'd like to go with the Ways and Means program, but I have very strong feelings about the third year of tax cuts being permanent, as in the president's bill, rather than triggered," he said.

Of the 47 members of the CDF, "I think you have 15 who are still pretty solid" behind the Hance-Conable bill, Hall said, including himself, Hance, Gramm, Stenholm and Rep. Marvin Leath, D-Marlin, from Texas.

Rep. Charlie Wilson, D-Lufkin, voted for President Reagan's spending package, but has spearheaded an effort to line Texas conservatives up behind the Rostenkowski proposal.

Rostenkowski met with the Texas group at its luncheon Wednesday.

"He just came in and gave a factual account of what was in the bill, because they went so late last night," Rep. Martin Frost, D-Dallas, said, referring to the marathon Ways and Means meeting that didn't break up until after 2 a.m. Wednesday.

"We'll definitely have a majority of the Texas Democrats behind the committee proposal," said Rep. Jim Wright, D-Fort Worth, the House majority leader. "Maybe I should say the ones that call themselves Democrats," he said.

No More Refugees For Big Spring, Los Fresnos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials have ruled out two Texas cities -- Big Spring and Los Fresnos — as future centers for Cuban or Haitian refugees, says Sen. John Tower.

The Texas Republican said that after he registered a strong protest, Justice Department officials assured him that neither Big Spring nor the Port Isabel training center at Los Fresnos fit into future plans for relocating Cuban or Haitian refugees.

Big Spring residents were caught by surprise earlier this month when 266 Haitian refugees were moved to West Texas from the Krome Refugee Center in Florida.

But Tower said Wednesday that no more refugees will be sent to Big Spring and that those already there will be moved elsewhere in the near future, possibly within 30 days.

"The Department of Justice has notified me today of an agreement between the attorney general of the U.S. and the governor of Puerto Rico that will provide for the acceptance of approximately 800 Haitian refugees into facilities in Puerto Rico," Tower said.

As a result, there will be no further transfers to the former Air Force base at Big Spring, he said.

"Those Haitians already transferred to Big Spring will be retained there only temporarily," Tower said.

The senator also said that the government is no longer considering relocating about 1,000 Cuban refugees now being housed at Fort Chaffee, Ark., at the Port Isabel facility.

"I have been assured by the attorney general's office that it is extremely unlikely that any further consideration will be given to the use of Port Isabel as a Cuban refugee center," he said.

Tony Bonilla, national chairman of the League of United Latin American Citizens, had on Tuesday released the contents of a memo from Attorney General William French Smith that discussed the possibility of housing about 1,000 Cuban refugees at Port Isabel.

"While no decision has yet been made regarding the Cuban refugees now being held at Fort Chaffee, Port Isabel is no longer under active review in either the Justice Department or the White House," Tower added.

About two weeks ago, Ellington Air Force Base at Houston was mentioned as a possible relocation site for Cuban refugees. Tower protested then, also, and won Air Force assurance Ellington would not be used to house refugees.

Difference in veins

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have varicose veins and they are big, bulging and ugly. I'm 39 years old and have had them since I was 18. I have had two children. My doctor didn't seem to think there was anything to worry about. But I have a girlfriend who has them and she has had injections twice and an operation on one leg but she still can't stand too long or sit too long so she hasn't been able to work.

My veins don't bother me at all but they are 10 times as bad looking as my friend's. People keep asking me if they bother me. How come I have been so lucky? Is there a chance that an operation on my legs would make them look normal again? Or should I just leave them alone and not bother them?

DEAR READER — Sometimes the old saying, "you can't judge a book by its cover" applies to medical conditions; that can be true with varicose veins.

You have two sets of veins in your legs, an external set you can see and an internal set that you cannot see. The external system of veins drains into the deep venous system. If your external system that you can see is damaged and looks bad, it can certainly affect the appearance of your legs, but if the internal system is working fine you still have good venous drainage from your legs and your leg circulation is pretty good. So that may be why your legs look worse than your friend's but she has had more trouble than you have had.

You can understand this better by looking at the diagram in The Health Letter number 5-8, Varicose Veins, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

The superficial veins can often be treated by injections around the veins that sclerose and scar the area. Or they can be stripped surgically. You cannot use injections for the deep veins. A successful operation often returns a leg to normal appearance. If you want to, consult a surgeon for an examination and see if your type of varicose veins can be treated by either injections or stripping. Meanwhile, you should use some form of external support while standing or sitting.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please comment on the process used in removing the caffeine from coffee to make decaffeinated coffee. I understand that a known cancer-producing element is involved in the process.

DEAR READER — Several years ago there was a flap about the use of trichlorethylene in decaffeinated coffee. Large doses instilled in mice stomachs through a tube caused the mice to develop cancer. However, the amount of the agent given the mice was equivalent to a human drinking 50 million cups of decaffeinated coffee each day. So the experiment had very little to do with ordinary human consumption. Nevertheless, the companies using that method discontinued it.

A more pertinent concern has been raised by the apparent association between coffee and pancreatic cancer. This is from the coffee itself and it is apparently an association with both the decaffeinated and regular coffee. Coffee is a natural product. Natural foods and products are not without their effects on health — and not all such effects are good. It doesn't have to be "chemical" to be harmful.

Demands No More Surveys

PEKING (AP) — China has demanded Japan quit taking fishing surveys near Diaoyu and other islands northwest of Taiwan that are claimed by both countries.

The official Chinese news agency Xinhua said today that Japan sent ships from Okinawa on July 11 and 19 to investigate resources of the fishing grounds near the islands.

Scurry County wheat farmers voted 5-1 in favor of continued acreage controls and price supports for the crop here.

30 YEARS AGO

Notice was received that 27-inch pipe for a water line from Lake J. B. Thomas to Snyder was being manufactured.

Anticipating a big increase in oil shipments here, Santa Fe Railroad stationed a steam locomotive in Snyder full-time to handle switching chores.

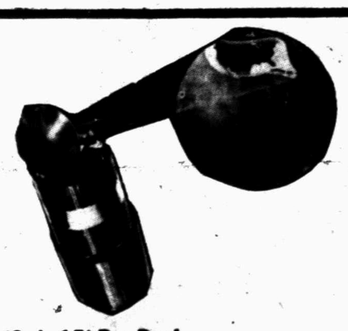

A drouth continued here, with the temperature reaching 109 degrees.

W. C. Hart pulled off a double victory in the annual Scurry County Rodeo, winning the senior ribbon roping and calf roping contests.

The Yukon Territory was established in 1898, two years after the Klondike gold discovery. The area was first explored in 1842 by an agent of the Hudson's Bay Co., and prospectors pushed north along the Liard River in the 1870s. The discovery of gold brought enough people in for that territory to be established and self-government followed a few years later.

Postal Strike Hurts Businesses

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada's month-old postal strike is fraying the nerves of an even-tempered nation.

Small businesses and magazines are dying along with undelivered ladybugs. Tax-refund checks lie uncashed in unmanned sorting centers. Interest mounts on unpaid credit-card bills. The elderly wait nervously for an untried delivery system to get their pension checks to them.

The strike has also demonstrated how enterprise responds to emergency.

"Business is astronomical," said Glenn Minow of Vancouver, who believes his temporary bill-delivery service will make him a millionaire if the strike lasts until fall. Many people fear it will.

Canadians know something about postal strikes. They have had a dozen nationally or regionally since 1968. Unlike the situation in the United States, where a post-office walkout was avoided this week, strikes by most public employees are legal in Canada.

It is not the letter carriers but the 23,000 inside workers — mail handlers, clerks, sorters — who are on strike. And the dispute is over fringe benefits, not pay.

The old contract expired Feb. 1. The Canadian Union of Postal Workers and the government agreed on a pay package raising the inside workers' average salary $2,775 a year, from $22,282 to $25,057. The CUPW walked off the job June 29 because the government rejected a conciliator's report recommending fringe-benefit improvements that include 17 weeks of paid maternity leave.

The union is also demanding more vacation time, better shift premiums and a 12th holiday each year. But the four-month maternity leave is the key problem; the government believes it would set an expensive precedent for other public employees.

Talks did not resume until last Friday, under the direction of a mediator.

Mail addressed to Canada is being held up in the United States and around the world until the end of the strike. Inside the country people are doing their best to get bills, payments, invoices and other messages through.

The strike also means Christmas in July business for post offices in U.S. border communities. For example, Blaine, Wash., just across the border from Vancouver, reports long lines of Canadians bringing mail for U.S. points or for Canadians holding U.S. post-office boxes elsewhere along the border.

The biggest businesses and utilities hire the private contractors to deliver bills by hand; the customers pay through nearby banks. But small businesses cannot absorb the heavy costs.

The Canadian Organization of Small Businesses estimates more than 1,000 small businesses are folding each week of the strike.

The Canadian post office is currently running an annual deficit of almost half a billion dollars. It is to be converted to a public-benefit corporation like the U.S. Postal Service in September, when it is expected to boost rates substantially.

Nuclear Bomb Nearly Done

LONDON (AP) — The British weekly magazine New Scientist reported today that Pakistan will have its first nuclear bomb this summer and could test it in China by the end of the year.

The mazagine said Pakistani President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq is already negotiating with Peking for a possible nuclear test site.

Although Pakistan has consistently denied that it plans to acquire nuclear weapons, "speculation is increasing that it will test a primitive nuclear bomb this summer," the magazine said in an unsigned article.

It said intelligence experts in the United States now believe Pakistan has secretly built a plutonium-reprocessing plant near Rawalpindi that could provide enough nuclear material for a test explosion without waiting for the completion of a much-publicized uranium enrichment plant at Kahuta about 40 miles farther south.

Dear Abby

Pastor Isn't Ministering; He's Too Busy Meddling

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My brother-in-law killed himself four months ago. He put a gun to his head and blew his brains out. When the police found his body, they also found five individual notes written to his wife, daugher, son, mother and mother-in-law.

A very good friend of the wife was on the scene with the police, and she took all the notes and gave them to her minister! He never gave them to anyone. Four months later there is still no mention of these notes. Only a few of us know that notes had been left, but no one wants to say anything about them. I think those notes should be given to the people they were addressed to, regardless of what they contain, don't you?

The children are 18 and 20, and they're having a difficult time adjusting to their father's death. What should be done?

NO NAMES, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAMES: Confront the minister and demand that he deliver the notes to the parties for whom they were intended at once! The friend had no business picking up the notes and giving them to the minister. And he had no right to withhold them from the family. I realize that both the friend and the minister may be trying to spare the survivors pain, but they have no right to act as censors.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old woman with a problem I've been wrestling with for the last three years. I have been seriously involved with a man my age for seven years, which brings me to my question. When is this man going to marry me?

We went together all through college and both have good jobs. There's no reason why we can't get married. He says he loves me, but whenever I bring up marriage he says he's not ready.

I've asked my friends and even my family what to do, and they all say, "If he's not ready now, he never will be."

Abby, how can I get this man "ready" enough to marry me?

TIRED OF WAITING

DEAR TIRED: Stop collecting opinions and ask the only person who has the answer: Him! Give him a deadline — Thanksgiving — and if he's not ready to talk turkey, say goodbye and give thanks for having the maturity and courage to end the relationship.

DEAR ABBY: You've helped waitresses, teachers, policemen and many others who have encountered problems on their jobs. Now please give us cobblers a break.

I have a small shoe-repair shop and take pride in turning out good work, but some people come into the shop and demand that I fix their shoes right away, even though I may be backlogged a week! If I don't drop everything and accommodate them, you wouldn't believe the abuse I get!

A first-class repair job takes time. The faster a craftsman works, the more money he makes, but as soon as he sacrifices quality in order to turn out more jobs, he is no longer a craftsman.

In my state (and many others) the law requires every business that accepts personal possessions from the public to be repaired or cleaned (clothes, jewelry, shoes) to issue that person a claim ticket. And no article can be surrendered without it. You wouldn't believe the fights we get into when people demand shoes without a claim check!

Please print this, Abby. The cobblers will love you.

Aviator Amelia Earhart and her navigator Frederick Noonan disappeared on July 2, 1937, near the end of their round-the-world flight. Hogeboom Looks Good In Rookie Scrimmage

IRVINE, Calif. (AP) - Jerry Hogeboom completed eight of 10 passes for 113 yards to highlight the Dallas Cowboys' efforts Wednesday in a scoreless rookie scrimmage against the San Diego Chargers at the University of California-Irvine.

Hogeboom, a second-year veteran from Central Michigan who saw no action at quarterback last year, directed the Cowboys rookies on their longest drive of the day, 64 yards to the San Diego 6, before the march stalled.

Terry Elston, the former University of Houston quarterback who is making a bid as a free agent tight end, led the Cowboys receivers with three receptions for 50 yards.

Another tight end prospect, free agent Wilbur Montgomery of Stetson, caught two passes for 40 yards.

Topping the Dallas rushing attack were free agents Sam Platt of Florida State with 18 yards on eight carries and free agent Ken Lovely of Fresno State with 18 yards on six carries.

The Chargers' deepest offensive penetration was to the 1-yard line.

Free agent safety Mike Downs of Rice had Dallas' only interception, a diving end zone pickoff of a pass by San Diego's Ed Luther.

First year defensive end Don Smerek of Nevada-Reno and free agent defensive end Ron Spears of San Diego State each had quarterback sacks.

Luther, a second-year man from San Jose State, completed 12 of 21 passes for 132 yards.

The Chargers No. 1 draft pick, James Brooks of Auburn, rushed for 30 yards on four carries.

Blackout May End At Noon

WASHINGTON (AP) - Like the scenes Alice viewed through the looking glass, efforts to end the major league baseball strike have gotten more curious by the day.

But the haze was likely to clear somewhat today, with the players expected to end a 3½-day-old news blackout.

Negotiations were to resume at 9:30 a.m. EDT at the headquarters of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan was to be back for a fourth day at the talks, although his involvement may have been nearing an end.

Kenneth Moffett, acting head of the federal mediation agency, made a surprise announcement Wednesday evening that the players' negotiators and the executive board of the owners' Player Relations Committee had met secretly and face to face for 1½ hours, at Donovan's request.

It marked the first time in the strike that players and owners themselves had met to bargain. Management is usually represented by PRC director Raymond Grebey, National League President Chub Feeney, American League President Lee MacPhail, and lawyers for the leagues and the committee.

The mediator and spokesmen for the PRC and the Major League Players Association refused to comment on what went on at the secret session, observing the blackout imposed Monday at Donovan's urging.

But Wednesday night, Doug DeCinces, the AL player representative, said the players would end the news blackout at noon EDT today.

"I would love to tell you" what has taken place since the talks moved to Washington from New York Monday, DeCinces said in an interview on WBAL-TV in Baltimore.

"I can say, though," the Baltimore Orioles' third baseman continued, "that the blackout will be lifted at noon tomorrow. I'm sure there'll be plenty of information coming out at that time."

NFL Camps Report

Rogers Ready To Go, Despite Injury

by The Associated Press

Running back George Rogers and tight end Hobie Brenner won't be in the New Orleans lineup today when the Saints and Miami Dolphins conduct a controlled scrimmage - but Coach Bum Phillips is delighted to have them around, chomping at the bit.

Rogers, the National Football League's No.1 draft pick, is being held out of the scrimmage and all other contact workouts - to his displeasure - because of a slightly pulled muscle in his left thigh.

Brenner, the No.3 draft pick by the Saints, isn't likely to show up at their camp until after the scrimmage, having finally come to contract terms Wednesday.

That leaves only No.2 selection, defensive back Russell Gary, as the Saints' only unsigned draft pick - "and I'm looking forward to that one, too," said Phillips, as he watched Rogers and the rest of his charges work out.

Rogers was limited to jogging along the sidelines. "Sure wish I could play!" he shouted as he passed the tower from which Phillips watched workouts.

There was no response from above.

"Hey, up there! Sure wish I could play!" Rogers shouted again.

"How do you feel?" Phillips shouted.

"Like I could play," Rogers shouted.

But he won't.

Also signing NFL contracts Wednesday were veteran tackle Joe Devlin of Buffalo, who had been working out with the Bills during negotiations; defensive end Ross Browner of Cincinnati, who is to report to the Bengals' camp today, along with the rest of the veterans; tackle Brian Holloway, the New England Patriots' No.1 draft choice out of Stanford; fullback David Hughes, Seattle's second draft choice, and free-agent defensive backs Gary Woolford and Willie Underwood, by the St. Louis Cardinals. Woolford was a starter part of last year with the New York Giants. Underwood was signed by Dallas out of Clemson last year.

Tight end Pete Holohan, San Diego's No.7 choice, said he has reached a contract agreement with the Chargers - but may decide to return to Notre Dame instead. He gave no reason for his vacillating, saying only he "came to a kind of stumbling block."

Joe Ferguson, quarterback of the Bills, apparently has hit a major roadblock. He says he's tired of waiting for a new contract offer and is ready to test free agency.

The Rams traded running back Eddie Hill to Miami for an undisclosed draft pick, and Green Bay sent safety Steve Luke and a draft choice to Atlanta for safety Frank Reed and linebacker Dewey McClain.

The Philadelphia Eagles announced that guard Woody Peoples and defensive end Len Burnham, both 13-year veterans, were retiring.

Stabler Misses First Workout

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Oiler quarterback Ken Stabler missed the closing of the Oilers' 1980 training camp under Bum Phillips and the opening of the 1981 camp under new coach Ed Biles - but with different results.

Stabler was not fined for skipping the final Oiler practice a year ago, but his tardiness will cost him $500 daily as the Biles era begins.

Stabler, along with disgruntled running back Rob Carpenter and cornerback Greg Stemrick, were no-shows at 6 p.m. Wednesday, the deadline for all Oiler veterans to be in camp on the Angelo State University campus.

Carpenter, who has demanded throughout the off-season to be traded, and Stemrick, who had business in Houston, also will be fined $500 daily.

Starting safety Mike Reinfeldt also failed to report, but is not being fined because he is a free agent.

Biles, with a reputation for stricter discipline than his predecessor, said he was disappointed with the no-shows but tried to downplay the issue.

"I suppose it's part of professional football nowadays," said Biles, beginning his first training camp as head coach.

Biles said he had not anticipated Stabler being a no-show and was surprised when the quarterback's agent, Henry Pitts, phoned Wednesday to say Stabler had last-minute business to attend to.

"It's an irritation, but I wouldn't call it a major disruption," Biles said in a telephone interview. "Obviously, it means we can work that much more with Gifford (number two quarterback Nielsen)."

After missing the Oilers' final workout a year ago, Stabler led the Oilers to an 11-5 record and a wild-card playoff berth. Stabler hit 64 percent of his passes while throwing 13 touchdown passes and 28 interceptions.

Carpenter, who saw little action last year in the Oilers' two tight end offense, was not expected to report on time. Oiler General Manager Ladd Herzeg said he was still hopeful Carpenter would return to honor the final three years of his contract.

"All we can do is tell Rob that he fits into our plans and we want him to play with us this season," Herzeg said.

Biles said he expected Stemrick in camp today in time to join the other veterans in workouts.

Johnnie Johnson of the Los Angeles Rams, in his rookie season of 1980, had a touchdown run of 99 yards with an intercepted pass against the Green Bay Packers.

Loboes Seen As Loop Champs

Like Texas Sports magazine, Dave Campbell's Texas Football has picked Monahans High School to house the 1981 District 2-AAAA football title.

Reads Campbell's Texas Football, "You wouldn't be crazy if you picked Monahans, last year's runner-up to win it here, but Andrews and Sweetwater might ask for a sanity check."

Unlike Texas Sports, which picked Snyder High School seventh in the nine-team district, Texas Football magazine does not attempt to rate past the first place in each district.

"Snyder started with nine sophomores last year and paid the price with a 2-8 campaign, but the Tigers should reap some benefits this season," the magazine adds.

The two magazines disagree on the team to beat in Class 4A. While Texas Sports picks Weatherford to wind up in the championship circle, Texas Football tags the Kangaroos as No. 10 and projects Georgetown as the next title holder.

Texas Sports does not list a top ten, but determines Brownwood, Weatherford, Waco Connally and Donna as quarterfinals contenders. Dave Campbell's magazine has Brownwood fifth and Connally ninth. Ennis is second, followed by Rockwall and Gregory-Portland. Kerrville is sixth, followed by Huntsville and Lubbock Estacado.

Campbell's Texas Football picks the University of Texas as the next SWC champion, with SMU - Texas Sports' favorite - as second in line.

Holmes Contends Fight Is Slated With Cooney

NEW YORK (AP) - After losing out on a shot at one heavyweight title, top contender Gerry Cooney is headed for a chance at the other crown.

At least that's what World Boxing Council heavyweight champion Larry Holmes contends, according to a published report.

New York Daily News columnist Dick Young said in the paper's late Thursday editions that the fight between the two unbeaten boxers is set, although the site and date have not yet been determined.

"Cooney has agreed to fight me," Young quoted Holmes as saying. "Now we can close the book on a lot of nonsense. It will be interesting. It will be one of the biggest fights in history."

Cooney was to meet World Boxing Association champion Mike Weaver in the fall. But Weaver was ordered by the WBA to fight No. 3 contender James (Quick) Tillis before meeting Cooney and will do so on Oct. 3 in Rosemont, Ill.

That left Cooney, who knocked out Ken Norton in his last fight, on the outside. Now, Holmes says, Cooney will be getting his shot.

"I hope it's late October or early November," said Holmes. "I don't think either of us needs a tuneup bout. I don't think we should take a chance on a head butt or cuts or anything like that."

Mike Jones, Cooney's co-manager, reportedly wants his fighter to have a tuneup before going after the title.

Larry Swider of the St. Louis Football Cardinals led the NFL in number of punts in 1980, kicking the ball 99 times, an average of more than six per game.

breakthrough in his marathon shuttle negotiations with several nations in the region when Israel launched air strikes against Palestine Liberation Organization targets in civilian neighborhoods of Beirut.

"I think that his course cannot really be described as moderate at this point," Weinberger said of Begin. "It is essential there be some moderation and some general realization of how volatile the region is and how quickly individual acts of violence or individual acts of aggression or retaliation, or whatever, can lead to something much more violent."

Reagan appeared more tolerant of the Israeli actions.

"Remember...that they are subject to repeated rocket attacks on civilian quarters themselves," the president told reporters as he returned to the White House from horseback riding in nearby Virginia. "We want an end to the violence on both sides."

Reagan refused to comment on Weinberger's statement that the Begin government has become an obstacle to peace, but the comments of Clark, Weinberger and other officials suggested the administration is holding Begin responsible for the latest escalation of fighting.

Girl Survives 1956 Shipwreck

By RICK HAMPSON
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Linda Morgan was sleeping the night of July 25, 1956, when two luxury liners, blind in fog and racing to keep schedules, collided at the edge of the Atlantic Ocean.

The 14-year-old girl, whose family was returning to the United States on the Andrea Doria after four years in Spain, did not see the bow of the Stockholm knife into her cabin at 11:10 p.m.

She did not see her half-sister blown into the ocean.

Today, 39-year-old Linda Morgan Hardberger cannot explain how she was spared in an accident that destroyed her cabin, instantly killed some 40 other passengers and opened a V-shaped hole in the side of the Italian liner.

All she remembers is going to bed on the Doria — and waking up on the same mattress on the Stockholm's twisted nose.

As the Stockholm pulled back, water poured into the Doria. Within minutes the ship was listing so far to the right that none of the lifeboats on its left side could be lowered.

"For a few hours, most of the passengers thought they were going to die," said William Hoffer, who interviewed scores of the 1,660 survivors for his book about the collision, "Saved."

There was no sign of Linda Morgan or her sister in the remains of their cabin, only a black, gaping hole. In the next cabin Linda's mother, Jane Cianfarra, was trapped under wreckage; she had regained consciousness only to hear her husband, Camille, the Madrid correspondent for The New York Times, sob his last words: "It's better to be dead than to live like this."

Hours later, as she was placed in a lifeboat, Mrs. Cianfarra was convinced her daughters were dead. But on the Stockholm, a sailor checking damage on the bow heard a girl crying "Madre! Madre!"

Amid the debris he found a slim, brown-haired girl in yellow pajamas lying on a mattress.

Linda Morgan gave Stockholm officers her name, but it was not on that ship's passenger list.

Finally, when she asked, "Isn't this the Andrea Doria?" the officers realized what had happened. The sleeping girl had been by the bow of the Stockholm. When the Swedish liner pulled back from the Andrea Doria, it took Linda and her mattress with it.

Unfortunately, Linda's name was left off the list of surviving passengers. By July 26, her father, ABC newscaster Edward P. Morgan, thought his daughter was dead. But he went on with his evening radio broadcast.

"Good evening. Here is the shape of the news," he began. "Tonight it is the shape of disaster."

Later, he would hear a radio report listing Linda as a survivor, both her kneecaps broken.

The girl's escape was the most spectacular aspect of the greatest rescue in the history of the sea.

Moments after receiving the SOS, the Coast Guard dispatched cutters from all along the East Coast, but the key to the rescue was the great French liner Ile de France. Despite its being two hours east of the crash on its way to Europe, the captain turned it around, cranked it to top speed and headed west.

As the rescue vessels closed in, they encountered the same fog that hadled to the collision. "Situation critical; visibility nil,'1e Ile de France.

Then, suddenly, the ship burst through the fog, and there was therom the Andrea Doria.

The girl's escape was the most spectacular aspect of the greatest rescue in the history of the sea.

BIRTHS

Larry and Phyllis Lynn are parents of girl born Wednesday at Cogdell Memorial Hospital. The new arrival weighed five pounds.

Darrell and Leatha Stout of Snyder are parents of their first child, a daughter, born July 17 at 12:34 p.m. at Malone and Hogan Hospital in Big Spring. The new arrival, who has been named Mimi Michelle, weighed seven pounds and 11 and one-half ounces and was 19 and one-half inches long at birth.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Herbet Stout, Betty Kincheloe. and R. V. Goldsmith, all of Snyder.

Edward Benes resigned as president off Czechoslovakia in 1938, rather than approve a Communist Constitution. Benes and Thomas A. Masaryk had been heroes of the Czech freedom movement and established the republican state after the fall of Austria in 1918. In 1945, Benes returned to the presidency after the country as freed from Nazi control.

Tax

House and Senate versions of the tax bill have been narrowed considerably over the past several weeks.

Reagan still insists on a three-year, 25 percent, across-the-board cut in personal tax rates, with the same reduction going to taxpayers at all income levels. That is in the Senate bill.

The House version, scheduled for a final vote in the Ways and Means Committee today, is built around an average 15 percent cut in rates over two years, with a greater share of relief targeted on those with annual incomes under $50,000.

But House tax-writers moved a step closer to what Reagan wants when they agreed Tuesday to allow a third-year reduction if the president meets his forecasts for cutting inflation, interest rates and the federal deficit.

Reagan, though, is showing no inclination toward compromise.

"By holding the people's tax reduction hostage to future economic events, we'll be removing the certainty they need to begin saving or investing more of their money," he told out-of-town newspaper editors Wednesday. "The trigger will do far more to preclude a third-year tax cut than promote one."

Whether the final tax-cut is the Senate's version or the House's measure, the oil industry will come out a winner. The House bill, as approved Wednesday by the Ways and Means Committee, includes about $6.4 billion in special breaks for producers and royalty-owners.

The Senate version would be of greater benefit to the giant oil companies while the House bill favors smaller operators.

Felony Charges Are Filed Here

Four people arrested in a narcotics raid Tuesday night at 1610 27th St. were freed on $1,500 bond yesterday.

Felony charges were filed Wednesday afternoon in Justice of the Peace Dan Callaway's office against William Franklin Bouher, 19, and against Keith James Flynn, 24, for possession of marijuana, more than four ounces.

Charges of possession of a controlled substance, methaqualone, were filed against Sherry L. Stewart, 19.

Charges of possession of a controlled substance, lysergic acid diethylamide, were filed against Mark Allen Bouher, 20.

DWI Charge

Felony charges of driving while intoxicated were filed against David Vera Medrano Wednesday. Charges have been filed in Justice of the Peace Dan Callaway's office.

breakthrough in his marathon shuttle negotiations with several nations in the region when Israel launched air strikes against Palestine Liberation Organization targets in civilian neighborhoods of Beirut.

"I think that his course cannot really be described as moderate at this point," Weinberger said of Begin. "It is essential there be some moderation and some general realization of how volatile the region is and how quickly individual acts of violence or individual acts of aggression or retaliation, or whatever, can lead to something much more violent."

Reagan appeared more tolerant of the Israeli actions.

"Remember...that they are subject to repeated rocket attacks on civilian quarters themselves," the president told reporters as he returned to the White House from horseback riding in nearby Virginia. "We want an end to the violence on both sides."

Reagan refused to comment on Weinberger's statement that the Begin government has become an obstacle to peace, but the comments of Clark, Weinberger and other officials suggested the administration is holding Begin responsible for the latest escalation of fighting.

Girl Survives 1956 Shipwreck

By RICK HAMPSON
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Linda Morgan was sleeping the night of July 25, 1956, when two luxury liners, blind in fog and racing to keep schedules, collided at the edge of the Atlantic Ocean.

The 14-year-old girl, whose family was returning to the United States on the Andrea Doria after four years in Spain, did not see the bow of the Stockholm knife into her cabin at 11:10 p.m.

She did not see her half-sister blown into the ocean.

Today, 39-year-old Linda Morgan Hardberger cannot explain how she was spared in an accident that destroyed her cabin, instantly killed some 40 other passengers and opened a V-shaped hole in the side of the Italian liner.

All she remembers is going to bed on the Doria — and waking up on the same mattress on the Stockholm's twisted nose.

As the Stockholm pulled back, water poured into the Doria. Within minutes the ship was listing so far to the right that none of the lifeboats on its left side could be lowered.

"For a few hours, most of the passengers thought they were going to die," said William Hoffer, who interviewed scores of the 1,660 survivors for his book about the collision, "Saved."

There was no sign of Linda Morgan or her sister in the remains of their cabin, only a black, gaping hole. In the next cabin Linda's mother, Jane Cianfarra, was trapped under wreckage; she had regained consciousness only to hear her husband, Camille, the Madrid correspondent for The New York Times, sob his last words: "It's better to be dead than to live like this."

Hours later, as she was placed in a lifeboat, Mrs. Cianfarra was convinced her daughters were dead. But on the Stockholm, a sailor checking damage on the bow heard a girl crying "Madre! Madre!"

Amid the debris he found a slim, brown-haired girl in yellow pajamas lying on a mattress.

Linda Morgan gave Stockholm officers her name, but it was not on that ship's passenger list.

Finally, when she asked, "Isn't this the Andrea Doria?" the officers realized what had happened. The sleeping girl had been by the bow of the Stockholm. When the Swedish liner pulled back from the Andrea Doria, it took Linda and her mattress with it.

"Unfortunately, Linda's name was left off the list of surviving passengers. By July 26, her father, ABC newscaster Edward P. Morgan, thought his daughter was dead. But he went on with his evening radio broadcast.

"Good evening. Here is the shape of the news," he began. "Tonight it is the shape of disaster."

Later, he would hear a radio report listing Linda as a survivor, both her kneecaps broken.

The girl's escape was the most spectacular aspect of the greatest rescue in the history of the sea.

Moments after receiving the SOS, the Coast Guard dispatched cutters from all along the East Coast, but the key to the rescue was the great French liner Ile de France. Despite its being two hours east of the crash on its way to Europe, the captain turned it around, cranked it to top speed and headed west.

As the rescue vessels closed in, they encountered the same fog that hadled to the collision. "Situation critical; visibility nil,"1e Ile de France.

Then, suddenly, the ship burst through the fog, and there was therom the Andrea Doria.

The girl's escape was the most spectacular aspect of the greatest rescue in the history of the sea.

Tax

House and Senate versions of the tax bill have been narrowed considerably over the past several weeks.

Reagan still insists on a three-year, 25 percent, across-the-board cut in personal tax rates, with the same reduction going to taxpayers at all income levels. That is in the Senate bill.

The House version, scheduled for a final vote in the Ways and Means Committee today, is built around an average 15 percent cut in rates over two years, with a greater share of relief targeted on those with annual incomes under $50,000.

But House tax-writers moved a step closer to what Reagan wants when they agreed Tuesday to allow a third-year reduction if the president meets his forecasts for cutting inflation, interest rates and the federal deficit.

Reagan, though, is showing no inclination toward compromise.

"By holding the people's tax reduction hostage to future economic events, we'll be removing the certainty they need to begin saving or investing more of their money," he told out-of-town newspaper editors Wednesday. "The trigger will do far more to preclude a third-year tax cut than promote one."

Whether the final tax-cut is the Senate's version or the House's measure, the oil industry will come out a winner. The House bill, as approved Wednesday by the Ways and Means Committee, includes about $6.4 billion in special breaks for producers and royalty-owners.

The Senate version would be of greater benefit to the giant oil companies while the House bill favors smaller operators.

BIRTHS

Larry and Phyllis Lynn are parents of girl born Wednesday at Cogdell Memorial Hospital. The new arrival weighed five pounds.

Darrell and Leatha Stout of Snyder are parents of their first child, a daughter, born July 17 at 12:34 p.m. at Malone and Hogan Hospital in Big Spring. The new arrival, who has been named Mimi Michelle, weighed seven pounds and 11 and one-half ounces and was 19 and one-half inches long at birth.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Herbet Stout, Betty Kincheloe. and R. V. Goldsmith, all of Snyder.

Edward Benes resigned as president off Czechoslovakia in 1938, rather than approve a Communist Constitution. Benes and Thomas A. Masaryk had been heroes of the Czech freedom movement and established the republican state after the fall of Austria in 1918. In 1945, Benes returned to the presidency after the country as freed from Nazi control.

Biologists Begin Next Phase Of Turtle Project

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Government biologists begin the next phase of an experiment to restore Padre Island as a natural nesting ground for the endangered Ridley sea turtle today, when they introduce 54 of the newborn reptiles to the sand and surf of the nearby national seashore.

A single-engine aircraft ferrying the newborn turtles and 2,284 ping pong-ball sized Ridley eggs from Playa de Rancho Nuevo on Mexico's east coast landed on a park road inside the seashore late Wednesday afternoon.

The four-hour flight was part of a complex experiment begun in 1978 by biologists in the United States and Mexico to test a theory on what compels mature Ridleys to return to the beach of their birth to lay their eggs.

Biologists believe the chemical qualities of the sand and water or other area characteristics are imprinted in the nervous systems of the newborn turtles, said Jim Woods, a biologist at Padre Island National Seashore.

"It's a radical concept," said Woods. "But what controls salmon? What makes them go back up the same river?"

Scientists and volunteers plan today to release the newborn reptiles, about the size of a silver dollar, on the beach and allow them to take a brief plunge in the Gulf of Mexico in an effort to orient the Ridleys to Padre Island.

"It's a no lose situation," said Woods. "Even if imprinting doesn't work at least we're turning more Ridleys into the Gulf to augment the population."

After the newborn turtles take the brief swim in the gulf, biologist will fly the reptiles to the National Marine Fisheries laboratory at Galveston where they will be kept in a controlled environment for up to a year.

"This is strictly an experimental project," Woods said. "The imprinting may occur when we release them on the beach."

The eggs were laid this summer by an estimated 500 Ridleys nesting along a remote stretch of Mexican coastline, one of three natural Ridley nesting areas in the world.

As the females lay the eggs, biologists from both governments catch them in plastic bags so they don't touch the Mexican sand, Woods said.

The eggs flown to Padre Island were placed in a incubator room near the beach where the temperatures can be closely controlled and monitored.

Woods said the next batch of newborns should emerge in about three days and that the hatchings should continue through August.

Ridleys, which take seven to 10 years to reach maturity, are one of the smallest of the sea turtle species. Adult Ridleys can grow to 28 inches in length and weigh 100 pounds.

Woods said about one percent of all Ridley eggs hatched survive. Coyotes and sea gulls prey on the eggs and newborn turtles are threatened by several species of fish.

Woods said that under laboratory conditions, about 97 percent of the Ridley's hatch.

Padre Island was chosen for the experiment because Ridleys are known to have nested in the area, Woods said, adding that two Ridley nests were discovered on the island last year.

"At least we have evidence that ... this area is suitable for Ridley nesting," Woods said.

"Historically, they (biologists) believe there was a nesting area here — but no longer," said William Lukens, national seashore superintendent.

Woods said the eggs shipment was delayed 1½ months because paperwork permitting U.S. scientists to remove the eggs from Mexico was not processed very quickly by Mexican officials.

He said, however, the delay should not endanger the experiment.

Police Arrest Man For Assault, Intoxication

A 26 year-old man was taken into custody at 1104 14th Wednesday for aggravated assault on a peace officer and for public intoxication after police responded to a disturbance call at 1008 14th, shortly after noon.

The officers were called to break up a fight between two men, police reports indicate. When officers arrived, one subject assaulted officer Buddy Kinney. Kinney was later treated for minor injuries.

In other activity Wednesday, a minor accident occurred at Skinney's on East Hwy. at 4:10 p.m. Involved was a 1979 Ford driven by Theodore M. Olsen Jr., of Hermleigh, and a 1972 Chevrolet driven by Stanley F. Olivas of Snyder. Officer Don Cheek took the report.

Officer Cheek took a 33 year-old man into custody at 3400 Ave. E on a warrant for assaulting his wife the day before.

Forty-five dollars in cash was taken from 801 28th after a back screen was taken off a window, Robert Vasquez told police. Officer Don Whittenburg took the report.

At 8:21 p.m., officer Whittenburg took a 22 year-old man into custody at 507 35th on an assault warrant. The man is alleged to have assaulted Alex Pruitt.

A 23 year-old man was taken into custody at 8:47 p.m. on a warrant for reckless conduct.

Phillip Fischer, 2807 Ave. I, reported the theft of an undetermined amount of cash. He said the money was taken sometime between Monday and Wednesday evening. The theft was reported at 10:07 p.m.

Reports of suspected prowlers Wednesday night were made at 202 38th and at 4009 Houston.

Police were investigating the theft of approximately $1000 in tools this morning. The tools were taken from a pickup owned by Dean Kitchens and parked in the 800 block of 27th St. The theft was reported at 7 a.m.

Inflation Slowed, But Is Still No. 1 Enemy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation, slowed but not subdued, must remain economic enemy No. 1 despite signs of a coming recession, federal officials say.

The scorecard on the latest round with inflation was due today with release of the Labor Department's consumer price index for June.

One day earlier, speaking separately but with almost one voice, Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige and Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker said the danger of renewed inflation is so great that the nation cannot risk easing credit restraints that have severely stifled growth of the economy.

Those restraints have badly hurt builders, home buyers, automakers and numerous small-business operators. But the Fed and the Reagan administration strongly contend tight money is necessary to curb inflation.

Inflation increases as measured by the consumer price index have ranged between 0.4 percent and 0.7 percent a month since March — well below double-digit rates of the past two years. Private economists were forecasting a June figure within the same range.

In addition, the Commerce Department reported Wednesday that the gross national product implicit price deflator — a separate inflation index — dropped from 9.8 percent in the first quarter of this year to 6 percent in the April-June quarter.

Baldrige said it's too soon to ease up on credit restrictions, even in light of Wednesday's new Commerce figures showing that inflation-adjusted GNP fell at an annual rate of 1.9 percent in the April-June quarter, raising the possibility of a mid-year recession.

Three Fires Are Reported

Snyder firefighters were called to three fires within 45 minutes of each other Wednesday night, each quite a distance from the other.

The first call came at 6:43 p.m. and was a small grass fire at Dermott.

At 7:15, firefighters rushed to a brush fire north of Ira on Hwy. 350 and battled the blaze for three hours. The fire was reported to have extended three-fourths of a mile long and a half mile wide.

While firefighters were at the blaze near Ira, another grass fire was called in at Smith Ave. and North Ave. N. Fortunately, it was a small fire and was quickly extinguished. That call was received at 7:25 p.m.
