TWO INJURED AS FLAMES DESTROY GIANT DIRIGIBLE

TCI, Highly Charged With Electricity, Explodes In Storm

LARGEST IN COUNTRY

40-Foot Leap to Safety Made By Two Of Ship's Crew

Associated Press Dispatch

DAYTON, Ohio, June 6.—The United States army air service dirigible TC-1 was destroyed by fire shortly after it moored at Wilbur Wright field at 6 o'clock here tonight.

The giant ship, the largest of its kind in this country, was destroyed during a severe electrical storm. It came to Dayton late today from Scott Field, Illinois, on a test flight.

The Injured

Sergt. Harry Barnes, Scott Field, and A. C. Maranville, Akron, Ohio, representatives of the Goodyear Rubber company, who built the ship, were injured when they jumped 40 feet to the ground, when the big bag caught fire.

Barnes ankle was broken and his knee sprained. Maranville suffered a crushed ankle and a sprained arm. Both are in hospitals.

The ship was flown to Dayton by a crew of 10 men, commanded by Lieut. Clyde Kuntz.

Highly Charged

Lieutenant Kunts and other members of the crew left the ship shortly before the accident. The ship had been moored to one of the steel towers when it was caught in the wind and swung around, coming in contact with another steel post. The bag was highly charged with electricity and the connection with the two steel towers caused the explosion and fire, it is believed.

The TC-1 was of the same size as the C-2 which was destroyed by fire at San Antonio, Texas, last year, after a trans-continental flight.

Lightning Strikes

Lightning struck another hangar at Wright Field tonight, but little damage was caused.

The TC-1 finished its trial test flight over Scott Field on April 7, and was accepted by the government. On its trip to Wright Field, it passed over Dayton at 5:30 p. m., flying low, went to the field, circled and moored, only a short time before it was destroyed.

75 RANGERS WILL GO

Drastic Slashes Made In Departmental Measure

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, Texas, June 6.—Reductions totaling over $108,000 were made in appropriations allotted the adjutant general's department by the senate this afternoon while considering the departmental appropriation bill. The reductions included a cut from 75 rangers to 50, and corresponding cuts in appropriations.

Three departments were completed before adjournment tonight—executive, secretary of state and adjutant general's. Small additions were made in the executive department, leaving the total reductions thus far at $108,092. An amendment seeking to strike out three offices in the board of control, which was under consideration at adjournment, was tabled. Numerous other attempts to cut the appropriations in other departments were made. Frequently the vote stood tied and the lieutenant governor cast the deciding ballot.

The departmental bill was reported by the finance committee without reduction, with the agreement that approximately 10 per cent allowed last session would be cut from the bill on the floor. The bill totals $6,670,000 before today's reductions. The measure was before the upper house throughout the afternoon session.

The house resolution inviting Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi to address a joint session was adopted.

Favorable committee reports were returned on the Downs bills for collection of delinquent taxes.

'HOW'RE YOUR WARREN' FRIENDS FROM OLD HOME TOWN ASK

It has been a long while since the white house has seen a more informal gathering. It wasn't "Mr. President," or even the less dignified "Noble" with which Mr. Harding was generally greeted. It was "How are you, Warren?" "I'm sure glad to see you, Warren," and similar salutations.

The president was just as informal as his visitors, shaking hands with all present, slapping friends on the back, calling scores by their first name, posing with his visitors for snapshots, and with Mrs. Harding joining in the singing of songs.

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, June 6.—After cutting $11,900 from the eleemosynary appropriation bill, the house late today finally passed the measure by a vote of 97 to 10. As passed, the bill carries items amounting to $6,470,000, a reduction of $765,90 iro mthe appropriations made by the last session and vetoed by Governor Neff. The miscellaneous claims appropriation bill also was passed.

The eleemosynary bill as passed carries amendments by Representative Pope of Nneces, changing the names of practically all of the insane asylums to "hospitals." These amendments were adopted after extended debate on the question of whether such a change could be made in an appropriation bill.

An amendment by Purl of Dallas, prohibiting paroling of inmates of the girl's training school at Gainesville to any person, group, or society without consent of the county judge committing the girl to the institution, was adopted. Such proceedure was the subject of an extensive investigation during the regular session.

The larger reductions for eleemosynary institutions were made by the appropriations committee before the bill was taken up in the house. The house bill was substituted for the senate bill which carried the same items as passed last session.

The miscellaneous claims bill carries appropriations of $775,000. It was increased $1,600 over the bill passed last session.

The general educational appropriation bill was set as special order tomorrow morning.

Health Good But Spirits Are Low, Report Of Minister Says

WASHINGTON, June 6. — The state department late today announced it had received a cablegram from Jacob Gould Schurman, American minister at Peking, which said there was "no definite indication" of how long it would be before the Americans and other foreigners still held by Chinese bandits are released.

No Suffering

Minister Schurman reported that "harmony appears to have been restored to the bandit camp and the captives are not suffering in health, although they are getting somewhat low in spirit."

The message also said the international commission headed by Brigadier General Connor, left Peking for Lincheng last Friday, accompanied by Representative Wainwright of New York, former assistant secretary of war, who had arrived in Peking the day previous.

Mr. Wainwright, the department was informed, returned to Peking at noon today in advance of the commission and reported as follows:

Attorney Lardner opening the case for Richard Croker Jr., one of the contestants, described the will left by the elder Croker as "totally unnatural." He admitted Croker's pen had signed the testament, adding:

"But it was the mind of Mrs. Beulah Croker that dictated the terms."

Campaign to Free Oil Industry From Excessive Taxes Starts in Chicago

Associated Press Dispatch

CHICAGO, June 6.—A campaign to free the oil industry from what is described as discriminatory and oppressive taxation was outlined today by representatives of various branches of the industry before a special meeting of the directors and officers of the American Oil Men's association here. Refiners, producers, distributors, jobbers and supply interests are represented in the membership of the association. H. K. McKenzie, of the Northwestern Oil company of Superior, Wis., is president of the organization.

The petroleum industry is being "literally drained of its life's blood by the deluge of taxation recently thrust upon it" a spokesman of the association declared. Thirty-one states already have gasoline sales taxes in effect, and several others have the question pending in legislatures, it was pointed out.

Gasoline sales taxes alone will reach a total of approximately $30,000,000 during 1923, a statistical report said.

The recently enacted gasoline tax law of Texas drew pointed fire from the association, which, in a formal statement, defined the measure as the "mostly deliberately vicious bit of legislation that has ever been directed against the oil industry."

The feature of the bill which made the tax unusually burdensome was the provislon requiring a tax of one cent a gallon to be paid for every oil transaction within the state. This means, according to the oil men's interpretation of the statute, that several levies will be made between the producers and consumer, an assessment being made against the purchase by the refiner, distributor, jobber, and tank wagon or filling station owner. In this way, it is said, the state will draw from three to five cents taxes from every gallon of petroleum products consufed in Texas.

Woman Pens Love for 'Daddy' Takes Poison And Hopes She'll Live

"I Love You, God Bless You," She Writes to Local Man Before Attempting Suicide.

Without having shown any particular improvement thus far, Mrs. Jackie Walker of Fort Worth stood an even chance for life Wednesday night, after having taken nearly half a glass full of bichloride of mercury solution earlier in the day. Physicians at the General hospital, where she is being treated, declared that her conditions was critical, but that recovery was not an impossibility.

Man Visits Girl

A romance which she thought shattered was responsible, the girl said last night, for her preparing the poison potion. And then, in the same breath, she declared that everything was not lost and that she wanted to get well.

Ben Young, a Fort Worth & Denver fireman, living at 806 Ninth street, supplied the other side of the story after a visit to the girl at the hospital.

As told to police officials, Young declared that he had known the girl for two years or more. The acquaintance was made in Fort Worth, and was renewed later in Wichita Falls when the girl came to this city.

Intended to Wed Her

"I intended to marry her," he told Night Chief Allen, "after she had obtained a divorce, but yesterday afternoon we had a little row—nothing that I thought serious—and she left. The next thing I heard was that she had taken poison."

The woman's condition was first noticed about 2:30 Wednesday afternoon when City Detective Boone noticed her near the depot. On being questioned she declared she was sick.

The officer took her to the city hall, where she became violently ill. A physician, after a hurried examination, announced that she had taken poison of some kind, and ordered her removal to the hospital. A Merkle-Lunn ambulance was summoned, and she was rushed to the General hospital, where medical aid was given. It was stated that her system had absorbed a quantity of the poison, but that it might not prove fatal.

Letter Addressed to "Daddy"

A search of Mrs. Walker's room at the Coleman hotel later revealed a lengthy note, written with painstaking care, which referred frequently to "Daddy." The missive bristled with endearing terms, and told how, with all hopes gone, she was "going to end it all." The letter also asked that her mother be notified at her home in Dallas. This was done.

A small bottle containing bichloride of mercury tablets and a glass with a small amount of solution in the bottom was also found in the room. It appeared to have been half full at one time.

Efforts to learn if she had any other relatives aside from her mother at Dallas met with no success. Where her husband is could not be learned.

Farewell Letter

The full text of the letter, written on highly decorated stationery, is as follows:

"Daddy, I am going to end my life with saying I love you and I hope you have a good time the rest of your days. Here is my clothes. You can do anything you want to with them. Just write mother at Dallas and tell her what I done. Darling, tell her I love her and the children—and I have a child, but nobody knows it, and I wish that some day you may meet it face to face.

"But, darling, I can't stay here any longer, knowing I haven't a friend on earth. So I am going to a better or worse place, and, darling, let me tell you one thing, the only person I care anything about is Mr. ——, because he has treatd me very nice, and I thank him for it.

"But, darling, I love you. God bless you, and I hope to meet you in a better place. Wish I could see you once more before I leave, but I can't, Daddy, so I will close and go away. Goodbye, Daddy, for the last time; goodbye, all. I don't know my mother's address, but you can find her. She lives in Dallas, somewhere. Her last address was ——

"From JACK."

"Country Town Barber" To Be Tried In Fort Worth

Associated Press Dispatch

DALLAS, Texas, June 6.—The first national prospection in Dallas of promotion cases charging use of the mails to defraud, was disposed of here today, almost coincidentally with termination of prosecution of the first oil case in Fort Worth.

Federal Judge Wiliam H. Atwell sentenced B. S. Peeler and Wade P. Chancellor, former street car conductors here, to one year and one day in federal prison and fined them $100 each.

"Your Pay Day is Here"

Peeler and Chancellor, testimony revealed, operated the "Peeler Royalty company of Dallas."

"Your pay day has come," Judge Atwell said.

"A few years ago it was mighty nice—everything so pleasant, as you sat in your cool office, opened your daily mail and took out the fat checks sent in by people in distant sections who were defrauded by the misleading advertisements you sent out. But your pay day is at hand, and it is a hard one."

Promoters Weep

Peeler and Chancellor wept as the judge pronounced sentence. They were placed in the county jail to await the end of the court term.

Indictments have been returned on charges of using the mails to defraud also against H. Ingle O'Day, Felix Smoots, Hany Levy, Lester Levy and Paul Myers of Dallas, according to Assistant District United States Attorney Rinehart.

JURY TO TRY "HOG CREEK" SELECTED

FORT WORTH, Texas, June 6. The jury to hear the case of J. W. "Hog Creek" Carruth and L. D. Reynolds, indicted for misuse of the mails in connection with promotion of the Carruth oil companies, was selected late today, and tomorrow the government will begin introduction of its testimony. The third defendant in the Carruth case, George M. Lucas, is not on trial at this time.

A motion by defense attorneys to quash the indictment because the defendants claim they were forced to give incriminating evidence to an agent of the federal trade commission, was presented to Presiding Judge Benjamin Bledsoe, who announced it would be presented to the jury along with the evidence in the case.

Plead Not Guilty

After the indictment was read, both Carruth and Reynolds pleaded not guilty.

In the indictment, it is charged they devised a scheme and artifice to use the mails to defraud. It sets out that the literature holds Carruth up as a great geologist, and in fact was not a great geologist, but until he entered the promotion business was a "country town barber." Other statements in the literature sent out by the company are declared by the government to be false.

Associated Press Dispatch

SALLISAW, Okla., June 6.—Pauline Reid, Coffeyville, Kans., who says she is 19 years of age, but who looks like she is but 14, will not go to the penitentiary as a result of an impassioned and dramatic plea made in the district court yesterday by Attorney Charles A. Moon of Muskogee.

Instead she left last night with W. A. Brooks of Oklahoma City, representive of a bond purchasing company, who will attempt to find her a home.

Local officials were preparing to take her companion, Roy Fullman, 24, brother-in-law of the mayor of Silloam Springs; Harold Jones, son of Tom Jones, Muskogee railway employe, and Mrs. Dan Miller, 29, of Tulsa, to the penitentiary.

They confessed, Sheriff John E. Johnston said, to having robbed W. O. Ashbrook, district manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, on a highway east of here Monday night.

Moon with tears streaming down his cheeks, pleaded with the court to give the girl an opportunity by suspending sentence. His plea moved two score of spectators to tears. Judge Parks set the verdict aside when Brooks volunteered to find the girl a home. Spectators made up a purse of $63 for the girl and she was released in custody of Brooks.

BILL HART

Where is Bill Hart? Why don't we see him in a new picture along about now? Well, you see, Bill is in an office on Hollywood boulevard, punching a time-clock every day. No, he isn't slinging ink nor answering the telephone—he's writing a novel, a novel written around the character of Patrick Henry.

It's a story he has long wanted to do on the screen, so he just took a layoff and wrote it to order. A New York firm will publish it, with Mr. Hart holding the film rights. He will produce it himself when he returns to the silver sheet, and there are many fans who are counting the days.

WHEN DOUG SLEEPS

Douglas McLean talks in his sleep, and occasionally it causes a little excitement. There have been several holdups lately not far from his home at Beverly Hills that have caused Mrs. McLean considerable worry.

McLean returned early the other morning from an all-night location, and retired, exhausted, to his room, when his wife heard a threatening voice coming from behind his door: "I'll kill that bird yet . . . Half a million in diamonds . . . Pretty good haul." Terrified, Mrs. McLean ran from the house, collided with the night watchman, grabbed him frantically by the sleeve and rushed him into the house.

Cautiously tiptoeing up to McLean's room, he burst open the door—and found the actor sleeping heavily, mumbling lines from Thomas Ince's new picture, "A Man of Action," in which he was starring.

THE SENSITIVE COL. JAY.

The sun is shining brightly, and the birds are singing merrily in the trees! All nature wears an aspect of peace and harmony. On the porch of a little hotel in a neighboring county a stranger is sitting on a bench waiting for the train, quietly smoking his pipe.

Presently a tall man wearing boots and a slouch hat, steps to the door of the hotel from the inside with a six-shooter in his hand and fires. The man on the bench rolls over with a loud yell as the bullet grazes his ear. He springs to his feet in amazement and wrath and shouts:

"What are you shooting at me for?"

The tall man advances with his slouch hat in his hand, bows and says: "Beg pardon, sah. I am Colonel Jay, sah, and I understood you to insult me, sah, but I see I was mistaken. Am very glad I did not kill you, sah.

"I insult you—how?" inquires the stranger. "I never said a word."

"You tapped on the bench, sah, as much as to say you was a woodpeckah, sah, and I belong to the other faction. I see now that you was only knockin' the ashes from yo' pipe, sah. I ask you' pahron and that you will come in and have a drink with me, sah, to show that you do not harbor any ill-feeling after a gentleman apologizes to you, sah."

Special Dispatch to Record News

WAURIKA, June 6.—The wedding of Miss Violet Roberts to Ernest J. Kiser of this city, took place Thursday morning at 8:30, in the presence of the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. C. R. Phelan, and Mr. Phelan, in East Waurika, with whom the bride has made her home for the past four years.

The house was made beautiful and fragrant with tall baskets of roses and bowls of sweet peas, filling every available space.

Accompanied by Miss Nora Maupin and Tyler Carter, their only attendants, the bridal party entered the room to the orchestral strains of Lobengrin's wedding march on the Edison, and came to pause before an improvised altar of roses in one end of the living room. They were met at the latar by Rev. Max Strang, pastor of the First Methodist church, who read the vows, using the impressive ring ceremony.

The bride wore a lovely gown of Harding blue canton crepe, with bronze medalion trimming and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaid was attired in a pastel shade of green georgette and carried an arm bouquet of roses.

After receiving the congratulations of the guests, the bride slipped away and changed to a traveling suit of beige with hat, gloves and accessories to match.

Tyler Carter had his closed car secluded at the back of the house, and the bride and groom made a laughing retreat, showered with good wishes, rose petals and rice. They drove to Dunean, accompanied by Mr. Carter, where they took the C. R. I. & P. train for Dallas, Colorado Springs, Denver and Salt Lake City, on a two weeks' honeymoon trip. They will return about the fifteenth of June and will live permanently in Waurika.

Mrs. W. E. Roberts, mother of the bride, and little Miss Naomi Sam Roberts, niece of the bridge, of Ranger, Texas, were the only out-of-town guests present.

The bride has been assistant cashier in the First National bank of this city for several years. She is an accomplished young lady and has been very popular in the business world as well as in church and social circles.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kiser of this city, and has many friends. He is a young man of high integrity and splendid business ability and has a good position here with the Rock Island.

Congratulations and best wishes for the future are wished for them by their many Waurika friedns.

Summer Party

One of the most beautiful summer parties given during this season was that of last Wednesday when Mrs. W. H. Lemons and Mrs. Ruby Dunkin entertained 13 tables of "42" at the lovely home of the former.

The house was like a summer garden with its baskets an tall vases of flowesr, while in a rose-decorated bower in one corner of the dining room Misses Debecca Green and Frances Lemons presided at the punch bowl.

In the games of the afternoon Miss Ila Jones won high score and was remembered with a camisole lingerie set, and Mrs. Edward Stewart of Wichita Falls was remembered with a guest prize, a string of sport beads.

After the games, the hostesses, assisted by Misses Rebecca Green and Frances Lemons, served a lovely plate collation with plate favors of Lady Gay roses.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Edward Stewart of Wichita Falls, Mrs. Herman Lyle of White Deer, Texas, and Mrs. W. J. McKenney of Addington.

Mrs. Lemons Enertains

Complimenting her daughter, Miss Farnces Leemons, who has been a student in St. Mary's academy at Wichita Falls for the past year, Mrs. H. W. Lemons entertained seven tables of "42" Wednesday night when the guests belonged to the younger set.

Miss Rebecca Green served punch throughout the evening. After several dancing to while away the time until games of "42" there was music and the "wee sma" hours, after which the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Ruby Dunkin and Mrs. Edward Stewart, served a lovely plate collation to the evenings guests.

Kureans Entertain

Friday night the Kureans and some friends pleasantly surprised Mrs. J. A. Overstreet and her two daughters, who were to leave that night to make their future home in Mexia.

The evening was spent in music and social conversation until a late hour, when lovely refreshments were enjoyed.

Mrs. Josephine Carter, on behalf of the guests, presentew Mrs. Overstreet with a lovely piece of silverware to take to her new home as a constant reminder of Waurika friends. Her two daughters were remembered with silk lingerie clasps, presented by their Sunday school teacher, Mrs. J. S. Cole.

DRESS MISSING; WOMAN SOUGHT

$25 Value Placed On Lost Garment; Police On Trail

Police were searching Wednesday evening for a woman who, it is believed, was responsible for the theft early in the afternoon of a dress from the Richardson Bargain basement counters.

The theft was reported to the police station about 2 o'clock, together with reports that a white woman had been seen around the store room for some time and that the garment was missed shortly after she had left. The dress was reported to have been valued at about $25.

Officers searched the city yesterday afternoon without success.

"WELL BOYS, I'M THE SHERIFF"; 9 PAY

"Well boys, I'm the sheriff."

And then nine sportsmen ranged around a table in a vacant house in the western edge of the city began to wilt. Stacks of chips "a foot high" scattered and a sizeable stack of greenbacks grew in proportion as the arms of the law interfered.

Some paid off on the spot and others accompanied Sheriff Murphy, Deputies Belcher, Hawkins and Bebout and three civilians to the county jail.

Later, the raiding party visited an Ohio avenue rooming house and oddly enough found another poker game with nine participants in full blast. The same procedure was gone through with here.

A drunk and a vag were picked up for good measure during the night, making 20 arrests in all.

WALTON

council of leaders of the reconstruction league, who have perpetuated themselves as the fathers of the state farm and labor movement since the birth of the league in Shawnee in February of 1922.

It was the leader of the reconstruction league that demanded George Wilson, their first state manager, and a former non-partisan league worker in North Dakota, appointed recently to the presidency of Oklahoma A. and M. college.

A storm of protest preceded and followed Wilson's appointment, the state department of the American Legion pronouncing him "unfit for any position of public trust," and certain of Walton's official family bitterly opposing the appointment.

Awarded in Partonage.

Since Governor Walton assumed office early in January the reconstruction league leaders, known as the "Egbert group," have held forth at a local hotel speaking for the farm and labor element of the state. They have been handsomely rewarded by the governor in the way of patronage, many important state offices going to them by appointment.

Dissension, however, crept into the councils of the league, and then there was a break between the league chiefs in control and another group with which the governor surrounded himself, termed by the leaguers, "the lawyer group."

This latter group triumphed today over J. Luther Langston, state league manager, and his coherts, when the governor put aside the league organization.

Declaring that the farmer-labor movement is state wide, nation-wide and world-wide, the governor pronounced in his call for the June 18 conference, "men are incidents of such a movement.

"When they act in accordance with such law of growth they assist; otherwise they are cast aside," he said.

Discusses Issues.

"That is water that has passed under the bridge," said the executive in declining to discuss the progress of the movement of the state up to the present time.

"Many things that have occurred may not have been wisely conceived, or judiciously executed," he added. "I believe that the only thing that will keep us from shoals and pitfalls in the future is direction from the rank and file." President of the following organizations were invited to attend the conference.

State federation of labor; United Mine Workers, Distirct 21; The Four Railroad Brotherhood; Oklahoma Wheat Growers association; Oklahoma Broom Corn Growers association; Oklahoma Cotton Growers association; Oklahoma Grange; Farmer-Labor union and Farmers' Co-operative union.

FARM WOMEN AND CO-OPERATION

Now the farm women of 15 states have declared for na national co-operative egg marketing movement. These feminine co-operatives held a conference in the city of Chicago and among those present were delegates representing the egg producers of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri, Ohio, Wisconsin, Oklahoma Iowa, Texas, Kentucky, Tennessee New York Alabama, New Jersey and Utah. Other states were represented by proxies.

Five Chicago men dominate the egg marke tof the world, according to a statement of Aaron Sapiro council for the American Farm Bureau Federation, at the woman's meeting. He said that the pooling plan now being started by the egg producers would save consumers from 5c to 10c a dozen, and triple profits for the flock owners.

Mrs. W. C. Martin of Marshall Texas, presided over the conference at which several poultry marketing experts gave advice. Mrs. Martin is widely known throughout Texas and was in Austin several times during the regular session of the Texas legislatur.

Aaron Sapiro told th women that under the old system of marketing they were trading the bulk of their egg crop to the crossroads grocery store owners during the four egg-laying months of the year in the spring. He said the eggs passed into the hands of the dealers, and from there to the packers, who store or process them and deliver them to consumers when they need them. The packers' egg department is run at a good profit, the Californian declared, and it would be easy for producers to take over the work of distributing the eggs, by adopting the plan now being successfully operated by Pacific coast flock owners Under the plan, poultry raisers are shipping their eggs across the midwest poultry belt to New York city, where they sell them for 2c to 5c a dozen over the price of locally produced eggs. Grading, packing and extension of markets were the three factors laid down as being fundamental in a successful co-operative egg marketing program. Producers, it was pointed out by the Chicago conference speakers, will have to look after the storing of eggs during the rush season and hold them over for the winter months.

The new organization will emphasize better grading, which will mean a higher quality product delivered on the market. Walton Peteet of the Federal Farm Bureau was one of the speakers. H is a Texan, well known in newspaper and farm bureau circles of the state.

He announced that state egg-selling exchanges will be established in the various states; that the exchanges will be made up of federated local egg associations, and the state federations will be organized into a national body.

Texas is a large producer of eggs and poultry, and the housewives of the state in th efarming sections are largely responsible for rthe magnitude of the industry. In recent years close attention has been given to eliminating the scrubs from the feathered family and to substitute for them the pedigreed varieties.

All the large fairs of Texas feature poultry shows, and the smallest of county fairs without a poultry department would be like the play "Hamlet" with Hamlet omitted from the cast.

The American hen is th egreatest of wealth producers, and the egg industry represents hundreds of millions of dollars every year. When the farm women of 15 states who are producers of eggs and poultry band together for the co-operative marketing system, it is a declaration that they are breaking away from the old systems and old marketing methods and conditions.

Aaron Sapiro appears to be one of the busiest of American evangelists of commerce and finance. He is here, there and everywhere. He talks oranges and lemons and grapes to the Californians; potatoes and cantaloupes to the farmers of Colorado; tobacco to the growers of Kentucky and other states; cotton to the farmers of the South and the Southwest, and now he is telling the farm women of America just what co-operative marketing will do for the egg producers of the republic.

Speaking as a legal adviser of 38 organizations, his activities extend from Portland, Oregon, to Portland Maine, and from the sunny South to the frozen regions of the North.

There was an old civilization shot to pieces on Flanders Fields; there is a new civilization in the making and modern transportation and marketing methods are not being overlooked by the builders or creators of the new civilization.

WORKS LIKE A CHARM

Wisconsin has a new jury law, known as the Ten to Two law, that is said to be working to satisfaction. This law provides that ten of a jury of twelve may return a verdict, and applies only to civil cases. If Texas had a ten to two law in criminal cases it would create a revolution and add largely to the population of the penitentiary. As it is, one or two usually hang a jury. This is all right if the person on trial isn't guilty, beyond the shadow of a doubt, but it is not all right where the evidence is overwhelming.

PUSSYFOOT'S FIGURES

Pussyfoot Johnson is on the road. He has the figures. He says in the 56 larger cities of the United States in the first two years of prohibition the number of arrests for drunkenness was half what it was in the last two years of the license law; that a prohibition congress was elected last November; that every year for the last ten years congress has been getting dryer and dryer; that there were 200 Keeley cure establishments in this country before the coming of prohibition and now there isn't one in existence; that while it was true the prohibition law was violated every day, it was working better in its three years of existence than the license law ever worked. Pussyfoot stands pat on his prophecy that the world will be dry before the coming of the year 1953. Pussyfoot has talked around the world and now he is going to talk around the world again. There are any number of men who have drank around the world but they are not on the lecture platform. They have gone to the place described by Ingersoll as "the windowless palace of sleep."

Henry Ford loaned the city of Detroit $4,000,000 at an interest rate of 4 per cent, and now the city has asked the wizard to loan it $8,000,000 "against appropriations of this year." Henry Ford is some man in his own home town.

CLARA'S STORY

We are strongly inclined to the opinion that the story of Clara Phillips' life which the newspapers are now printing holds no interest for the Americun people. We believe that very few readers of newspapers are following the story, or even went far enough into it to pick up a curiosity which would encourage further reading. Aside from her spectacular escape from prison there is nothing fundamentally worth while in her story, and the only interest in her escape and recapture is a desire to know how it was accomplished. When the prison doors closed behind Clara Phillips the second time the American people put her out of their minds.

Whether she killed the Meadows woman or not has been settled so far as society is concerned. She was fairly tried and a jury found her guilty. If by any chance she is not guilty there are abundant means for her to establish her innocence. She declares in her memoirs that she is innocent, that she knows who killed the Meadows woman and that her conviction came about through the stupidity and mistakes of her attorneys. That may all be true, yet in her life story she adopts the familiar plea of guilty when she undertakes to create the impression that there were justifiable grounds for her to do the murder. Furthermore, her story is a plea for sympathy rather than the pleading of an innocent person for justice. If she suffered from mistakes of her counsel during the trial she will suffer yet more from the stupidity of her press agent who undertakes to try the case before the bar of public opinion.

It is a terrible thing for an innocent person to be convicted of a serious crime. It has happened in several instances and it may have happened in Clara Phillips' case. That is not the point, however, in saying that Clara Phillips is making a mistake to think that public opinion can be aroused. Her escape and flight will always be a bar to her restoration to public confidence. Her resolve "to return and face her accusers" is strikingly coincident with her capture in Honduras and singularly timed to coincide with the passing of the last vestige of chance to escape the California officers. Had she been of the same mind when opportunity to escape from the California prison was opened to her, she would have been in a position to have made her story impressive. And probably no part of her life's story will appear so ridiculous and unbelievable as her allegation that she was kidnaped from the California state prison.

The thing that we are interested in particularly is the probability that all persons convicted of crime may make a spectacular gesture for public notice and then re-open the original case and appeal to public opinion to set aside regular verdicts. If news agencies are looking for stories such as this they may find them by the thousands in every prison in the land. Very likely the many persons of intelligence now doing time for a serious crime would be glad to tell the story of their life and let the public review the jury's verdict. And, like Clara, they would start out to first prove that the murdered person deserved to be murdered.

We are not entirely in sympathy with the cry of those who say the newspapers print too much crime news, but in this instance we are with them to the extent of saying that this story is being carried without excuse or warrant of good journalism.—Beaumont Enterprise.

UNCOMMON SENSE

BY JOHN BLAKE

OWN YOUR OWN THREADMILL

If you must work in a treadmill—own it.

If your work is of the monotonous and uninteresting kind, do it for yourself. Then it won't be so monotonous and uninteresting.

The operator of a treadmill never gets anywhere.

He makes no progress. The treadmill does.

He makes no advance day by day. The man who owns the treadmill does the advancing.

Often men of creative faculty find it is more pleasant and profitable to work for wages than to be the boss of their own institutions.

For that sort of ability salaries are high and hours not particularly long. And the work is pleasant..

But for the toiler without special talent, who must do the same sort of thing day after day, life gets rather wearisome unless he is piling up something for himself as the result of his work.

You will find about you hundreds of men who get a great deal out of life because their work, though it has a deadly sameness in itself, is bringing results to them every day.

It is true that more men who establish their own business fail than succeed.

But one ought to bear in mind the successes, and to forget the failures.

The man in the threadmill has harder work to save than the man who is outside it, but he has at the same time more incentive to save.

For a drab life is not a pleasant one. And the only way to make drudgery romantic is to clothe it with romance of accumulation, and that is real romance.

If you can paint a picture, draw cartoons, write fiction, produce plays or direct the efforts of other men, you have nothing to do with treadmills.

If you can only do fairly well the same sort of things that thousands of other people can do, you will get no where by working for other men.

You will get the hard work, and they will get the profit.

Work in the treadmill as hard as you can, but get out of it as soon as you can.

Make every sacrifice to buy the one you are in, or one of the same sort, on the installment plan if necessary.

When you have bought it, it will work for you, and presently you will have enough money to buy a few more of them — which will mean an approach to affluence.

It may be unjust but the talented have the easy roads through life. Those who are not talented must work the hardest, but their work will benefit them more if they do it for themselves.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE

GEMINI

Today the aspects are unusually good—particularly for all agreements between individuals whether of a business or a personal nature. With calm deliberate action much may be accomplished, if haste and aggressiveness is avoided.

A child born today will be joyous and enthusiastic and a welcome playmate throughout life.

If today is your birthday you are studious, grave, economical, prudent patient and in all your actions sober and somewhat austere.

The men are not much given to the love of women, but they are persons of much depth of feeling, and when they do love they are very constant. They are given to the study of occult matters and are of a melancholic, suspicious and jealous temperament.

You should have a life of vigor and accomplishment for you are fortunately gifted by the stars with an abundance of determination which should see you safely through anything you undertake. Of course this is not denying that the same trait will not make you stubborn also and of course you always do things in the hardest possible way, but on the whole you should have a record of which to be proud.

You have also the mental equipment to achieve success, or rather let us say success eventually, because your is a mind which must learn not only from books, but also from actual experience. This will be no handicap for you, however, as you have a natural curoisity about things and places and people which in turn with your romantic imagination will entangle you in endless interesting events, events which you must live in order to understand.

There is almost no active vocation in which you could not succeed, although something such as journalism management or a military life should be your first choice.

You have an intense love of the romantic and dramatic in life and a marked talented taste for acting and for writing. But whatever you create along these lines will be done more for the amusement than for the edification of the public.

You are affectionate but rather reserved in your expressions of profound emotion.

Well known people born on this date are: John F. Goucher, clergyman and educator; Susan E. Blow, kindergartener, leading authority in the United States; John Satterfield, oil operator.

ADDING HIS WEIGHT TO THE CAUSE

The BLOOD SHIP

By NORMAN SPRINGER

THE ACTION UP TO THIS POINT

Captain John Shreve, a commander of sailing ships, tells the story. It is the tale of a voyage, his first as an able seaman in the clipper ship The Golden Bough. Shreve, just come to sea manhood, becomes a lodger at the "Knitting Swede's" one of the lowest sailors' resorts in San Francisco. He notes one lodger of quite, austere manner with a scar on his face. Young Shreve defeats the Swede's runner and wins his girl, but determines to go back to sea. He and the mysterious man, known as Newman, sign for a voyage in The Golden Bough. In spite of the ship's reputation for cruelty, Shreve encounters a wreck named Beasley and Newman sees him. Beasley confesses to Newman his part in many dirty plots against Newman. He speaks of a Mary and an unprincipled man who is master of a ship. Taken aboard the Golden Bough by the Swede, Shreve and Newman learn that there is a lady aboard.

Captain Swope lives up to his reputation as a brutal master by beating Nils, a young sailor, Swope's wife appears on deck. The men learn that she is the angel of the floating prison.

When the watches are told off Newman appears on deck for the first time during the voyage. Captain Swope, is shocked at the man who calls him Angus. The lady greets Newman as Roy.

The Lady warns Newman, by means of a lote, to be on his guard. By order of Swobe she is restricted to her cabin. "Boston" and Blackie," two tough members of the crew, are rebuffed by Newman and hint that he has been a convict.

"Boston" and "Blackie" fan the hatred among the crews for the officers over the ill treatment of Nils, the boy beaten by Swope, and other cruelties. An apparent attempt by the captain on Newman's life nearly ends Shreve's. "The Lady" acts as nurse to the abused members of the crew. "Boston" hints that Newman is being "double crossed." Shreve goes in search of him.

Newman is put in irons.

Shreve resolves himself to kill Swope, but accidently enters the Lady's cabin. She takes away his revolver, begging him not to kill her husband. They bore a hole in the flooring, and from the lazaret beneath comes a moan from Newman and the voice of Swope.

The Torture Chamber.

I crouched behind a row of flour barrels, which stood on end handy to the hatch, and peered through the chinks. The captain had hung his lantern on a beam overhead, and its rays limned like a stage-setting an open space some six feet square. Aye, a stage-setting, and the scene a torture chamber.

Captain Swope was sitting upon an upturned keg. He had placed the lantern so its light fell full upon Newman (it illumined himself, for my eyes, as well) and he was talking to the prisoner, mocking him.

And Newman! It was the sight of him that made me chbke, that made me finger my knife hilt. Newman—my friend!

He was at the far end of that open space, trussed up to the starboard timbers.

It was sport to Swope's liking, and he was enjoying himself right royally. "Well, why don't you call upon God to help you?" says he. "He has helped you a lot in the past, hasn't he, Roy? And he has helped her a lot, hasn't he? Helped her to stand me.

"But you—you were a damned Puritan, Roy. You wouldn't do this, you wouldn't do that, you would be clean of vice—your very words, Roy!—and you would be honest and just with men. That's the sort of thing that paid, says you.

"Well, well, I thought I would surprise you with my little tale of how I used the Twigg girl to spoil your chance with Mary.

"No, I never wanted Mary. Not for myself. She's not my kind, Roy; a sniveling saint ain't my idea of a woman. But I wanted her money. Old Baintree's money. And I got it.

"But you were always a fool, Roy—a stupid, trusting fool. You trusted me, didn't you? I was your bosom friend, your boyhood chum, whose wild ways grieved you. I hated you! Hate, hate, hate! I hate you now—so much it is almost love. Roy! Eh, but I never love. I hate. And when I hate—I hurt!"

To all this tirade Newman returned no answer. Swope was plainly piqued at this indifference.

He paused a moment and, chuckling and smacking his lops, stood looking at Newman's bowed figure. Then he said slowly and deliberately, actually lingering over the words. "I am going to make a strumpet of the wench for Fitzgibbon's pleasure!"

Newman stirred. "Ah, that wakes you up!" cried Swope. It did, indeed. Newman was not unconscious I could have wished he was, so he might not have heard those words. He lifted his face to the light and I could see the sweat of agony upon it. And then he pursed his lips and spat in Swope's face.

The skipper swabbed his cheek with his sleeve.

I thought he would strike Newman, kick him, practice some detriment on him in payment. Aye, I was crouched for the spring, with my sheath knife ready; if he had laid a finger upon Newman I should have had his life in an instant.

But Captain Swope did not attempt to repay the insult with any physical cruelty. He laughed as he wiped his face.

"That stings—eh, Roy. Think of it, Roy—the sweet Mary Baintree that was lying in Fitzgibbon's arms."

Newman lifted his head. "You degenerate beast!" he said. He said it evenly, without passion.

But the captain was satisfied. He slapped his thigh with delight.

"Oh, what a fine fool you were! How easily I made you play my game! That night you had me to dinner on board your ship, in Bellingham—you never guessed why a fished for that invitation.

"I was skating on pretty thin ice about then, Roy. I needed old Baintree's money. I needed Mary to get the money.

"So I had you invite me off to dinner. That cozy little dinner, in your own cabin, just you and I, and Stord to wait on us. I bet you never guessed until your trial that Stord was my man.

"Do you remember that dinner, Roy? You would be brave, you would be gallant, eh? You would congratulate me upon the coming marriage, toast the man, who had won the race. And then, when I was sick of your platitudes—just a nod to Sbrd, and three little drops of chleral in your glass!

"Do you want to know what happened next? Well, I'll tell you what happened. I sent Stord on the run to Baintree's hotel. He told the dear old captain that you were ill, and wished very much to see him.

"He came. And as he leaned over you, in your own cabin, I—er— separated him from his temporal worries with an iron belaying pin from your own rail. Then I gave you the clout for luck (it has left a fine scar, I note) and placed the pin on the table.

"I took Stord to set with me, as my steward. But, unfortunately, he went over the side one dark night, off the Horn. A loose end tucked in, eh, Roy.

"And I'll tuck in other loose ends between now and dawn—you, for instance, and our brave Mister Lynch. I have already written down for Fita to copy down in the log book. 'During the fighting, James Lynch, second mate, was stabbed by one of the mutineers. That's how the log will read when we bowse into port. And—'During the fighting, the sailor, Newman, attempted to escape from custody, and was shot by the captain.'

"Then there will be jut one loose end left—and you know what I have planned for her! Think about it, Roy—think about our darling little Mary! At the mercy of the wolves, Roy! At the mercy of our dear, gentle Fitzgibbon Ah, that stings, eh, Roy!"

It did, indeed. Newman lifted the face of a madman to his torturer.

"God blast you forever, Angus!" he cried.

But the outburst was sufficient to delight Captain Swope. He threw back his head and laughed that chuckling, demon's laugh of his.

"I told you to call upon God!" was his gleeful answer to Newman. "And you have! Now, we'll see who wins—you and God, or Angus and the devil! Eh, Roy—who wins?

"We'll see, Roy—we'll see if God takes your advice. We'll see if he helps you, or Lynch. Or Mary. And the saintly Mary, the pure, the unapproachable! We'll see if he protects her from Fita's dirty arms, or the greasy kisses of the cockney! Eh, Roy. We'll see if he keeps her from—eliminating herself!"

He sat there watching Newman, waiting I suppose he expected and desired a fresh outburst from the prisoner. But in this he was disappointed. Newman gave no sign.

"Ah, well, I fear I've overstayed my welcome this visit," he said, finally. He got to his feet and stood before Newman with his legs spraddled and arms akimbo; drinking in lustfully the picture of the other man's misery. "Interesting chat we've had—old times, future, and all that—eh, Roy? But a sailor's work, you know—like a woman's—never done. I have duties to attend to, Roy. But I will return—ah, yes, you'll wait here for me, eh, Roy? Anxiously awaiting my return, counting the bells against my coming. Well—remember — eight bells in the middle watch."

He turned and stepped toward the ladder. With his foot raised to the bottom step, he stopped, and stared aloft, mouth agape. I stared too, and listened.

We heard a shot, a single pistol shot.

The captain wheeled upon Newman. His hand flew to his pistol pocket. But he did not draw. He would have died then and there, if he had, for I was tensed for the leap.

But he was uncertain. This was not the hour—and the other shots, the volley we both expected, did not come. Instead came the second mate's voice bellowing orders, "Connolly—the wheel! Hard alee! Weather main brace!" Then clearer, as he shouted through the cabin skylight, "Captain—on deck, quick!"

It was the hail for which I had waited so long and anxiously. But the news that came with it was strange and startling.

"The man at the wheel," shouted Lynch, "has jumped over board with the mate!" Then his cry went forward, "Man overboard!"

Swope leaped for the ladder. I saw consternation in his face as he scurried aloft.

So I knew that this was something he hadn't arranged.

Charges of Perjury Filed Against Two Witnesses In Liquor Trial

State and federal charges were filed Wednesday afternoon against two defense witnesses in the trial of D. B. Boyd, charged with violations of the prohibition laws, after the pair had testified as to their part in the case.

Perjury charges were filed by the state, and a complaint charging transportation of whisky filed before U. S. Commissioner Lantz. The state complaint was filed with James V. Allred, assistant district attorney, and was sworn to by Deputy Sheriff Frank Watkins.

The men charged are S. E. Colburn and W. H. Buis. They were called by Boyd in his trial in an effort to prove that they had purchased whisky at a still near Burkburnett, where Boyd later was found, but that he was not the man from whom they had taken the liquor.

The state and federal charges were made soon after.

More Truth Than Poetry

—By James J. Montague—

A JUST REWARD

Though chauffeurs sometimes rise to wealth
And go to live in Paris,
By marrying, with canny stealth,
Some foolish millionairess,
The plodding chap who teaches school
Regards such things as folly;
He spends his life-time as a rule,
Sad, poor, and melancholy.

Day after day, week after week,
As his ennui increases,
He teaches kids to read and speak
Extremely stupid pieces.
No primrose path this martyr treads
His duty is to hammer
Into a score of concrete heads
Arithmetic and grammar.

But he have read with real delight
A lately cabled story
That one school-master's got in right,
And rolls in wealth and glory.
This man, a simple tutor, who
More pep than most, evinces,
Has had the iron nerve to woo
And wed a Saxon princess.

Good luck to him and all his kind!
May all in the vocation
The lower classes leave behind
And ride to loftier station!
No joys, no hopes, can they afford;
No job was ever tougher,
And each has earned a rich reward
For all he's had to suffer.

QUITE DIFFERENT

A labor shortage does not necessarily mean a shortage of laborers.

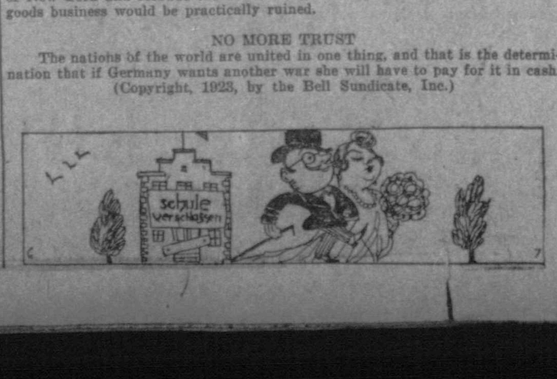

DISTURBING THE INDUSTRY

Legislatures cannot be too careful. If other states followed the example of New York and forbade the klu kluxers to wear their costumes, the cotton goods business would be practically ruined.

NO MORE TRUST

The nations of the world are united in one thing, and that is the determination that if Germany wants another war she will have to pay for it in cash.

Elaborate Gown For Summer Wear

By ELOISE

The three-piece costume is by no means confined to sports ah street wear as can be sene from this elaborate model designed for summer party wear. Although quite informal as to cut and style, the costume is much too elaborate save for rather formal or semi-formal occasions. It is a lace gown with a green satin coat for wear when the occasion demands.

The gown is made of champagne colored lace and net with a simple blouse and paneled skirt. The jacket is of almond green satin trimmed with bands of colored embroidery. An Egyptian-like girdle of the green satin is worn low over the hips and tied in the front after the Egyptian manner and embroidery matching that on the jacket finishes the ends of the sash. This is a very pretty and unusual idea for bridesmaids' dresses of the bride wants to have something different from the usual chiffons, georgettes or organdies.

Girl Fleetest on Foot in Picnic Race After Little Boys Eat Too Many Eggs and Drink too Much 'Pop'

Cakes, lemonade by the tubsfull, 400 sandwiches, salads, boiled eggs, oranges, bananas and ice cream, may be the reason a girl came very near beating all the boys in a foot race which was among the attractions at the annual Salvation Army picnic held under the anspices of Ma and Pa Burdett at Scotland Park Wednesday.

The above lay-out of gastronomic niceties may be the direct reason for a hundred boys having the old fashioned "belly ache" and the same number of little girls the more refined and less painful "stomach ache." At least Ma Burdick said if they didn't have one of the two aches, no set of kids could be bothered with such a complaint these days and times.

The 200 kiddies had the time of their lives and the Burdicks say the Army picnic Wednesday was the most successful they have ever put on in Wichita Falls. Eating was not the only diversion at the picnic. There were all kinds of games. The foot race evinced the most comment. Possibly because Helen Koehler, a girl, stepped up to the line in the free for all race and beat the whole shebang except one boy who managed to nose past the modern fleet-footed Atlantis.

Those who rendered great assistance to the Burdicks by furnishing cars during the day were Mesdames Kemp, Taylor and Brown; Misses Elizabeth Carrigan and Sibil Kell and Mr. Hines.

Household Helps

Don't wring your woolens when you hang them on the line. Then they will not shrink.

Beat your rugs over a set of bed springs if you want to remove all the dust.

If a household plant seems to be dying, often a little castor oil applied at the root will revive and save it.

Use the spring vegetables plentifully at this time of year. They will make the doctor's visit unnecessary.

If you dry your white silk gloves in the dark they will not be as apt to turn yellow as if you submit them to sunlight.

If you buy oranges in large quantities, wrap them in waxed paper, store in a cool place and they will keep indefinitely.

Set the color in your colored linen handkerchiefs by soaking them in salt water before laundering them.

If just a little salt is mixed with mustard it will not dry and become hard in the mustard pot.

A raw potato cut in half and rubbed over the surface of the fingers discolored by vegetable stains will remove all discolorations.

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse, and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., EA 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

Women Tell Each Other How They Have Been Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Perrysburg, O.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my sides all the time. I can't remember just how long I suffered, but it was for some time. One day I was talking with a lady I met on a car, and I told her how I was feeling and she said she had been just like I was with pains and nervous troubles, and she took the Vegetable Compound, and it cured her. So then I went and got some, and I certainly recommend it for it is good. Whenever I see any woman who is sick I try to get her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. ADA FRICK, Route 3, Perrysburg, Ohio.

In nearly every neighborhood in every town and city in this country there are women who have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the treatment of ailments peculiar to their sex, and they take pleasure in passing the good word along to other women. Therefore, if you are troubled in this way, why not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

Spudders Drop First Road Trip Game 6 to 2

STAUFFER FAILS TO STOP HITS OF STEER BATSMEN AND SPUDS DROP FIRST TO DALLAS GANG

Snipe Connolly Hurls Good Ball Holding the Wichitans to Few Scattered Bingles While Teammates Knock Apple For Counters.

DALLAS, June 6.—The Steers got to Stauffer for hits in every inning of the first home game here today, and with Snipe Conley pitching a tight game, took their first win from the Spudders, 6 to 2. Conley was at his best and held the Spudders easily, the Wichita Falls gang at no time threatening seriously to win the battle.

The Dallas club started off with a counter in the second stanza that gave them a lead that was not taken from them during the nine innings, and continued in the fifth and seventh to pile up the scores that gave them a decided victory. The Spudders were able to cross the plate only twice, and scored both runs in the sixth stanza when they got to Conley for the first time. After letting in the two counters, the Steer hurler tightened and seemingly little the worse for the hard pitching, shut the visitors out for the remainder of the game.

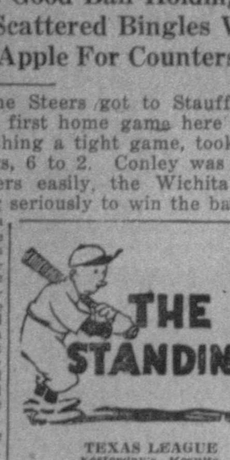

The Spudders started things fine in the first stanza by disposing Connoly and Wano easily, Elliott counting them out at first unassisted. White and Elliott took care of Mathes and the Steers were retired in the first without getting a man on bases. In the second inning White managed to get to the initial sack by walking, but when three went out before he could get farther, the Spudder chances for a score dwindled.

Then Dallas started the scoring that gave them their first win after four straight loses to the Wichita crew. Vache hit the first ball pitched by Stauffer for two bases, with a long fluer to deep center field, getting on with none out. He went to third when Donohue was out on a pop up to Elliot, and Segrist, with a crashing single to center field, scored him. Lingle who had reached first on Stauffers fumble, went to second, but stayed while three men were retired.

Tanner, the first Spudder up in the fourth, got on base and in a position to encourage the visitors to even the one point lead, when he watched four balls go by, but was out stealing, and again the chances for a Spudder win, went glimmering. In the same stanza Connolly hit a single to center, threatening another count by the Steers, but the run failed to materialize when fast fielding saved Stauffer from a bad tight, and the one run lead remained unchanged.

However, it was Connolly who started the scoring in the fifth inning that gave the Steers three more counters. He got to first with a single and went to second when Coombs let the fast ball get away from him. Wano beat out an infield hit to first, Connolly taking second and Mathes forced Wano at second, Connoly being held at third. It was a hard ball to center hit by Vache that went for a couple of bases, and Connolly and Mathes crossed the plate. Vache went to third when Donohue went out at first, and scored on Lingle's single to center. When Lingle collided with Berger who was attempting to field a hit ball he was counted out for interferring and the scoring ended.

The runs in the seventh came after Wano had been retired, Stauffer being unable, even with the help of good fielding to check the hits of the Steers. He walked Vache who went to second when Donohue beat out an infield hit. Lingle was walked, filling the bases and Segrist came through for a single to left field, scoring Vache and Donohue, and ending the counting for the day, with the Steers well in the lead. The remainder of the game went along fast with a few scattered hits, and the Steers took their first from the Spudders.

Local Boy To Captain Kemper Baseball Team

Herschel H. Johnson

BOONVILLE, Mo., June 6.—Herschel H. Johnson, 1111 Alma street, Wichita Falls, Texas, son of H. H. Johnson was elected captain of the baseball squad of Kemper Military school for next year. Johnson's election was the result of his popularity among his fellow cadets and his all-around playing as a member of the baseball team. Johnson played a star game on the infield for Kemper this spring besides leading the team in base hits with a total of 407 percent, leading also in stolen bases and runs scored.

In addition to being a star baseball man Johnson was a member of the track squad, competing in the dashes and pole vault. Johnson will undoubtedly be a valuable asset to the football squad of next year in view of the fact that he was a star for several years on the Electra high school team previous to his enrollment at Kemper.

JOHNNY MOKAN GOING STRONG

Ex-Spudder Player Third In National League Hitting

In speaking of the performances of the Texas men who have gone up to the big show in the past three years one may think of the sensational entrance of Topper Rigney into the big leagues, of the wonderful record that the college boy, Pete Donohue is making while performing on the mound for Cincinnati, of the value of Homer Summa to the Cleveland Indians, of how Shorty Adams and Art Weis are sticking with Chicago, of the record Hollingsworth is making with the Washington Senators, but the majority of the baseball fans have forgotten Johnny Mokan, who played for a season in a Spudder uniform.

Mokan ranks third among the batters in the National league, having an average of .372 for the games he has participated in. He is lead-off man for the Philadelphia Nationals and his record is unusual when one considers that he is playing with a tailend club which has won only 13 games during the entire season.

Pittsburgh took Mokan from the Spudders after he had a good year in the Texas league, although not equalling the average down here that he is holding in the big show, Pittsburgh kept Johnny for a year and then sold him to Philadelphia and everything seemed good as Reb Russell, who came to the Pirates began hitting the ball at a terrific rate of speed. This year Russell has been a great disappointment to the Pirates, only batting a little above .200, while Mokan is strutting his stuff with the Quakers. Possibly if Mokan was with the Pirates he would add the necessary punch to make them pennant contenders, as they are now fighting desperately for second place.

BUFFS BEATEN BY SAND CRABS

GALVESTON, June 6.—Connally held the Buffs helpless after the second inning today and Galveston took the opener 6 to 5. The Sand Crabs bunched hits in the early frames on Jack Knight for enough runs to win. The Buffs scored one in the seventh without a hit, errors by Distel and Brown figuring in the run.

LITTLE LESSONS IN Big Sports

Is there any advantage in taking turf with the iron shots?

Answeerd by
LAURIE AYTON

Always a consistent place winner in the big tournaments—National Open, Metropolitan Open, Western Open, and sectional tournaments. Famed for his accuracy and steadiness under fire.

Advantage? Why, the only right way to play the irons is to take turf on every shot in which they are used. Doing this gives a player more control over the ball and increases the steadiness of his play. It also helps to get a back-spin on the ball when a club of the mashie type is used.

GIANTS BEATEN BY CUBS, 6 TO 1

Heavy Fog Halts Game; Aldridge Gives Champs Three Hits

CHICAGO, June 6.—Chicago hit Nehf star left hander of the Giants hard today, smashing out four doubles, all of which figured in a 6 to 1 victory over New York and evened up the series. A thick fog off Lake Michigan, the first on record at Cub's park during playing time, hung over the field and made it so dark at times that it was impossible to see beyond the infield. Several times it was necessary for the umpire to confer as to whether the balls batted to the outfield had been caught. Score:

Gambling "Ring" In National Friendly With Players, Charge

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, June 6.—If the good Kenesaw Mountain Landis can arrange to have an afternoon to himself, even at the sacrifice of his golf, he might do well to buy a quiet, unostentatious seat in the center-field bleachers at the Philadelphia National League Park. He will see something of interest; in fact, so interesting will be the activities in and around him that it is hardly possible the judge will experience some difficulty in keeping his attention on the ball game.

Nearly every afternoon for upward of five years, a knot of gamblers has operated there during the home games of the Phillies. These men haven't the slightest interest in sport, only in the matter of whether the batter reaches first base or fails to do so. They bet, openly and sometimes loudly, on every play.

This bunch, the writer knows from personal observation. The rest is hear-say, but it comes from a source as reliable as to be worthy of the judge's immediate and painstaking attention. Baseball pools, condensed pastime compared with conditions said to exist in Philadelphia.

The players for example are alleged by our informant to have more than a nodding acquaintance with the bleacher gamblers. They know them sufficiently well to pass the time of day in conversation, a highly reprehensible practice if only for the sake of appearance.

"The betting ring", declares the man who advanced the information, "is second only to 'downstairs' at Pamlico or some other track. I often sit in the bleachers at Philadelphia and can swear to conditions. At a recent game with Pittsburgh, I was only a few feet away from the gang.

"There are usually about 50 men in this ring and they sit in a little knot in center-field. They have big rolls of money in their hands and all through the game bet on every batter's chance of getting to first. From their conversation with some of the players on the field, I have reason to believe that they are personally acquainted with the ball-players.

"Three policemen sitting against the bleacher wall on the playing field occasionally take a glance at the gamblers but that is as far as they go."

Wheezes From The Press Coop

By Don Weldon

The Spuds finally dropped one. You can't expect even the best of ball clubs to win 'em all, and the gang certainly did their part in taking the four straight from the Steers in the home series!

⁂ ⁂ ⁂ ⁂

At that, four out of five isn't so bad, when it is considered that the four won were taken from the team that stood second when the series started. The spudders managed to cop enough to jump from third position to second, and are hanging on to that lead pretty well.

⁂ ⁂ ⁂ ⁂

And they will have another chance to take one today, in the last contest with the Steers. Maybe they can show the Dallas fans a bit of the stuff they strutted on the home lot, although it is to be doubted that the exhibition would be appreciated. Anyway, with Meine in line to handle the twirling for the Wichita club, it looks like there might be another win at the end of today's battle!

⁂ ⁂

Yesterday's loss can't be counted altogether against Stauffer, for he hurled a good game. He just struck it bad, and it was one of those days when the breaks go against the pitcher. Stauffer is one of the best moundsmen in the loop, and he can't be blamed for an occasional loss. That will happen to the best. His exhibition against the Steers in their first appearance here Saturday showed his stuff!

⁂ ⁂ ⁂ ⁂

One-two-three-four,
Somehow I wish it were more,
But it couldn't be did.
For they put on the lid.
And the Spuds took the little end score.

⁂ ⁂ ⁂ ⁂

It wasn't so bad, at that. The Cats lost one, too. They won 14 straights before they went down, but even they couldn't last forever.

⁂ ⁂ ⁂ ⁂

They had better start another winning streak, unless they want the Spudders to be right on their heels. The Spuds are climbing that ladder mighty fast, and if the Cats want to keep on the top rung, they had better keep winning ball games.

⁂ ⁂ ⁂ ⁂

Meine will probably go in this afternoon, for Skipper Salm is using his hurlers in rotation. With four good ones like Stauffer, Meine, Carlson and Wheeler ready to work, there is little room for choice, so they just take turns on the hill. Meine is good enough to handle almost any crew of batters, and proved easily the master of the Steers here, so he can be expected to handle them down there, as well.

⁂ ⁂ ⁂ ⁂

The New York Nationals lost their second Western battle to Chicago yesterday, 6 to 1. Looks like the prophecy that the leaders will find their opposition in the West might materialize, for the Chicagoans outplayed the top-notchers in every detail of the game.

⁂ ⁂ ⁂ ⁂

The American league leaders failed to take yesterday's game, too, and lost to Chicago 4 to 1, being outclassed. It looks like those Chicago clubs are likely to make some one sit up and take notice before they are through winning games. Of course, they aren't in a position to cause any immediate trouble in the league, but they still have a long time to play, and by the end of the season may prove dangerous, if they keep hitting their present pace!

DEMPSEY INITIATES PARTNERS IN ORDER OF BRUISED NOSES

International News Dispatch

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 6.—The royal order of the bloodied snoots knows their new members today. They are Frankie Grandetta, Lee Moore and Terry Brown. Jack Dempsey, official initiator for the fraternity, put the boys through the red ritual and promised that within a week every member of his staff of sparring partners now numbering 10, will be enrolled.

Having broken his resolution not to do any boxing this week by mixing it with three of his diminutive partners yesterday, the heavyweight boss has determined to go right along now and include sparring as a definite feat of his daily work henceforth, which is just as well for all, despite all that Jack Kearns says about the champion being "fit as a fiddle" and ready to knock over a dozen aspirants on a minute's notice.

The champion needs work—plenty of it— to fit him for a Tom Gibbons' tussle.

WEST TO MEET EAST ON FIELD

Eastern Teams Look to West For Final Opposition In League

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Sports Editor

NEW YORK, June 6.—That perfidious question of what the West may be able to do about the threat of another New York pennant monopoly is about to be propounded again. In direct contravention with Mr. Kipling, the East is West and the West is East, in the National and American leagues, respectively, and in both cases the burden of proof rests with the men that are men from the great, open spaces.

At the start of the season, the New York clubs were duly informed that they look to the West for their sternest opposition. The Giants, it seemed, were to expect a running fight all the way from the Pirates, Reds, Cardinals and Cubs, in the order named. According to the latest returns, the Giants are seven and one-half games in front, with the Pirates in an indifferent tie with the Dodgers for second place; the Cardinals fourth at an even .500, and the Reds and Cubs a respective fifth and sixth, many points below that figure.

Although much can happen between now and late September, there is no doubt that the Western clubs of the National league must do better, pronto, if they wish to prevent the Giants from making a joke of the race by mid July.

Tigers Fail

The Yankees, likewise, were led to expect all kinds of grief from the Tigers, White Sox, Browns and Indians, but to date this has failed to develop. In fact, the Yanks owe their 4½-game lead of the moment to the fact that they knocked over the Western teams for 12 out of 18 in the first of the inter-sectional series.

As matters stand, the Indians are a weak third, the Tigers a weaker fourth, the Browns fifth, and the White Sox last.

The Huggins entry, however, is not stepping so strong, Schang's value as a catcher having been discovered after he was laid low by injuries. The champions have sloughed off their last three starts, and although they open the inter-sectional business today against the White Sox, largest and loudest "bust" of recent years, there is no law to prevent them from continuing their advance rearward. The so-called "six star" pitching staff is beginning to waver, probably because of Schang's protracted absence.

It will have to be a case of Yanks being bad enough to beat themselves, however. The White Sox, for some occult reason, cannot carry on under their own power, and after a brief flurry in May, have settled back into their losing rut. The Indians are doing as well as might be expected from a rebuilt team, but the Tigers have pitching and infield weakness that seem irremediable, and the Browns, without Sisler, are like a hoop without a rim.

The Giants, of course, figured to win the National league penant, and therefore the philosophical flop of the Pirates and Reds is not particularly annoying, except that it seems to assure 50 per cent of another all-Manhattan world's series. Such a series three years, hand-running, would be an abomination.

MAKES SEVEN MANAGERS GRIEVE

"Dutch" Henry himself.

One young southpaw, Frank, alias "Dutch" Henry, has been revising the old proverbs. For instance, one change he has made causes a familiar one to read as follows:

"He who laughs last holds the Giants to five hits."

Which may be amusing to some folk but not to Lee Fohl, worried manager of the St. Louis Browns or the seven other managers in the American League.

Here's why.

Fohl struggling with his infield problem, which has been more than a serious one ever since George Sisler became lost to the team, decided that he needed McManus back at second. He had been filling in at first. The Dodgers, about that time, offered him Hank Schliebner, young first baseman. Fohl grabbed at the chance to get him.

Who to give in exchange? Fohl looked around and his eyes lit on Henry. There had been ill feeling between Fohl and the youngster, it is generally known. Fohl decided he could spare Henry although he needed all the pitching he could get out of the staff.

To get Henry out of the league Fohl asked for waivers on the southpaw. Every other manager in the league gave his permission for Dutch to leave.

As dispatches recited several days ago, Henry made his debut in a Dodger uniform by making the world's champion Giants eat out of his left hand. They scored nary a run. Got five hits. Only two of them saw third base.

And his work since then has been right up to the top.

Which once more raises the question. How often do managers pull such boners? Here is a young hurler, recently from the Florida State league who stepped out in the Southern association and won 19 games and lost four for the Mobile club in that fast minor organization. Yet, without receiving a fair trial, he was adjudged N. G. for the big show.

Incidentally the deal shows that Manager Lee Fohl's one weakness as a manager has not been overcome. That the inability to handle pitchers. Lee can take greenhorns and turn them into good pitchers. But once he has them he can't seem to get results from them in the box.

Curing Your Golf Troubles

By Jim Barnes

By JIM BARNES.

Dear Sir:

Will you give me a few pointers on regulating the tightness with which the club is to be gripped? Do you make any appreciably tightening as the clubhead meets the ball? Is there, or rather should there be any change in this respect at the top of the swing?—H. V. B.

ANSWER:

Generally speaking the club should be gripped just tight enough to insure full control over it from start to finish. Certainly this is true so far as any conscious effort is concerned. I never give any thought as to when and where I tighten up my grip. As a matter of fact, it is entirely probable that I grip tightest as the clubhead meets the ball. But this is the same as it would be, if I tried to hit anything with any kind of stick. The action is subconscious and doesn't need to give the player any worry.

Don't loosen your grip at the top of the backswing. There is no need to. If you are gripping properly and pivoting right, it will feel entirely comfortable to grip the club firmly than as at the start. To loosen the grip means that the club is liable to turn so that the face won't come against the ball at the angle you want it to. Also if you start the club down with a loose grip, you will instinctively tighten it on the way down, and in so doing may bind the forearms as to destroy any flexibility in the wrists.

I should say that on the average high-handicap players grip too tightly. Remember the foregoing advice; grip only firmly enough to insure full control of the club.

22 SENATORS ASK GUARANTEE FROM ENTERING LEAGUE

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Prediction that differences among republican senators on the administration world court proposal will be compromised through reservations was made by Senator Watson of Indiana, one of the party leaders, after a conference today with President Harding.

"Approximately 22 senators, according to the best estimates, are disinclined to support the court proposal unless reservation are adopted to make plain that the United States is not entering the league of nations," said Senator Watson. "The president has said that the proposal does not mean going into the league and I have no doubt but that he will accept the reservations to make it certain."

FRENCH KEEP THEIR ARM PLAN SECRET

Associated Press Dispatch

GENEVA, June 6.—The mixed temporary committee on armaments of the league of nations began in earnest today the examination in detail of Lord Robert Cecil's plan for disarmament and a guarantee pact among the powers. It also took up the French counter project. The discussion was private, and the details of the French plan were kept secret. It is known, nevertheless, that the principal difference between the French and British plans is that the former makes disarmament more categorically subordinate to the guarantee's pact.

Tenant Farmer's Horse Winner Of Great Epsom Downs Derby

Associated Press Dispatch

EPSOM Down, England, June 6.—Jockey Steve Donoghue became a heroic figure in British history today when for the third year in succession he rode to victory in the greatest of all horse races—the derby. This time the lithe leader of all British jockeys was mounted on Papyrus, the precious 3-year-old possession of an Irish tenant farmer, whose name, curiously enough, is Barney Irish.

Papyrus, in racing over the horse-shoe-shaped turf of the derby a mile and a half course ahead of 18 other thoroughbreds, lifted his owner, a man of rather small means, to a place of wealth and renown, and gave Donoghuethe supreme position among the jockeys of the world, and a record unsurpassed by any rider since man began the sport of horse racing.

By winning three derbys in a row, Donoghue gains possession of the golden spurs, which the Jockey club long ago offered for this achievement. Papyrus was purchased by Mr. Irish as a yearling for a relatively small sum.

Donoghue did not lead from start to finish; he got his horse ahead only after the quarter-mile post had been passed. This gave Papyrus the inside track around the turn in the huge grassy horseshoe, but the Earl of Derby's Pharaoh raced by his side around the bend and almost to the end. Fifty yards from the finish Papyrus had a half length to the good, and he responded nobly to Donoghue's urging, and stretched this margin to a full length, as he flashed past the finish line. The time was 2:38.

One length behind came Pharaoh, owned by Lord Derby whose ancestors established the great race. M. Goculda's Parth was third, a half length behind Pharaoh, and Doric, owned by Anthony de Rothschild was fourth. The others were stretched out behind for a long distance.

MILL WORKING WOMAN WINS FORTUNE

Associated Press Dispatch

LONDON, June 6.—A little sweepstakes ticket, combined with derby luck, has placed a fortune of 32,000 pounds in the lap of a Yorkshire woman mill worker, Mrs. Nellie Ford by name, who drew Papyrus in the Otley club's 80,000 pounds sweepstakes, in which more than 200,000 players had taken a chance. Mrs. Ford is described as a hard working woman, who has spent most of her life working in a mill in order to help support her large family.

A London man won 12,000 pounds in the meat dealers' sweepstakes, of which, he announces, he will give one-third to a fund being raised to aid the city hospitals.

PURE OIL AND LEATHER DOWN

Rally In General List But Some Shares Fall To Low Records

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 6.—Prices displayed a reactionary tone during the early part of today's stock market, in which there was active liquidation of some of the leather and oil shares, but market rallied and moved above yesdays closing figures later in response to the brisk demand for some of the equipments and low priced rails.

New low records for the year were established during the session by General Asphalt, Central Leather common and preferred, American Hide and Leather preferred, Pure Oil, Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil, International Harvester and American Express, the last named breaking more than 11 points in reflection of the reduced dividend.

Fresh buying power came into the railroad group on the announcement that Pere Marquette had been placed on a $4 basis. St. Louis Southwestern was also strong. American Locomotive soared nearly three points to 145 5-8, the highest price in its history. Reports that May pig iron production broke all record attracted speculative interest into the steel group. Coppers improved on reports of heavy buying of the red metal for foreign account. Proposed reductions of the Pure Oil dividend was reflected in a 2 point drop in the stock. California Petroleum closed nearly a point higher.

Call money opened at 4½ per cent and then eased off to 4½ per cent. Some time loans were arranged at 4¾ per cent.

Foreign exchange trading and on a smaller scale with narrow and irregular changes in rates. Demand sterling eased slightly to $4.62 3-16 and French francs advanced to 6.40 cents. German marks were quoted around .00013½ cents.

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 6.—After selling off on a belief that the crop was making favorable progress, the cotton market rallied on covering by near month shorts and rumors that supplies might be shipped to Europe out of the comparatively small local stocks.

The feature was the strength of June, an inactive month, which sold at 28.50 in the late trading, or 145 points above the closing price of the previous day. There was only one sale in that position, and trading during the greater part of the day was quiet, but October rallied from 23.65 to 24.40 and closed at 24.28. The general market closed steady at a net advance of 120 points on June, and of 54 to 40 points on other positions.

The market opened steady at a decline of 5 to 11 points but quickly rallied. Active months sold about 5 to 10 points net higher but offerings increased during the middle of the morning. July eased off to 26.47 and December to 23.35, making net declines of about 28 points under a renewal of liquidation. Probably promoted by reports that southern mill curtailment might become more general if there was not an early improvement in the demand for cotton goods. The market rallied sharply during the afternoon with an advance to 27.25 for July and 23.99 for October. Port receipts 2,113. U. S. port stocks 362,343. Exports today 8,847, making 4,474,444 so far this season.

LIVESTOCK MARKET

Associated Press Dispatch

FORT WORTH, June 6.—Buyers contended that today's cattle receipts consisted of the trashiest lot of mixed shipments seen on the Fort Worth yards within many months, and salesmen admitted it. Around 100 carloads of jackpots were on offer, and out of the 4,000 head of cattle on the market only two cars of choice steers and one load of top cows were to be found. The few scattering lots of decent cattle sold on an unchanged basis. On everything else the market was extremely sluggish and there was a fresh decline of around 25 cents.

An active market was staged in the hog yards, where receipts were close to 1,000 head. The trend of prices was fully steady. Packers and shippers brought $7.00. Bulk sales ranged from 6.75 to 7.00.

Steady prices were paid for sheep, only 1,000 head arriving. Wethers brought 5.50.

WHEAT PRICES SWING HIGHER

Corn Unchanged At Finish; Oats Gain With Provisions

Associated Press Dispatch

CHICAGO, June 6.—Active buying here against selling at Winnipeg developed in the wheat market today an dprices took an upward swing. The close was firm ¾ to 1½ cents higher, with July 1.10½ to 1.10 5-8 and September 1.09 7-8 to 1.10. Corn finished unchanged to ¾ cents up and oats at 1-4 to 1 1-4 cents gain. In provisions the outcome was 2 to 10 cents advance.

Unfavorable crop advices from Great Britain and France together with reports of damage by excessive rains in Kansas tended further to lift wheat prices as the day drew to an end.

Corn and oats sympathized with the wheat advance, despite heavy profit-taking sales of corn.

In provisions the strength of grain more than offset weakness of the hog market.

A shallow test on the Moore & Richolt tract east of Lake Wichita, will be made at once by Whitehead and Haid. It is thought that oil at less than a 500-foot depth may be found here as the company got a good showing near the present location in the McCoy tract at 360 feet.

Patman Gas Tax Believed To No Longer Be Menace

The restriction Tuesday from the Cowen gasoline tax bill by a majority of the senate affairs committee of the amendment proposed by Representative Wright Patman to tax all Texas refiners one-third of a cent on each gallon of oil refined is considered by local refiners as a virtual defeat of the measure, and no further action locally will be taken, it is believed, until the Patman forces make another move.

The fact that practically every local refinery was making plans to send a representative or representatives to Austin to combat the Patman amendment when it came up for hearing, had caused considerable discussion of the matter the past few days. It is pointed out that the proponents of the amendment have gotten an effective setback, and the only consolation outside of actual defeat of the measure is that a favorable minority report was given the amendment.

If the matter does come up again, Wichita Falls refiners are still ready to go into the fight.

Pipes and M'Adams In Knox-Finley Area

Another location for a well near the one recently brought in by the Knox Finley company just across the Wichita line in Clay county has been made being the Pipes and McAdams No. 1 to be drilled four miles southeast of the new producer.

Emerald To Drill

The Emerald Oil company from Hutchinson county Wednesday filed application at the local district office of the railway commission to drill a well in that county in the H. & T. C. section, block 47.

WATER FAMINE FELT IN FIELD

Oil Activities Decrease As Few Locations Are Being Made

Oil activities in the fields surrounding Wichita Falls has shown a decrease in the number of locations made for wells and of completions, according to Thos. L. Coplin, who is the representative of the state railway commission in the Wichita district of 59 counties.

The fact that drilling on wells has ceased in several instances and that few new wells are being spudded in recently is primarily due to water. He states a number of operators have reported that surface water is hard to get now, and that some would start new wells but for this scarcity.

Particularly is the water situation acute in the Petersen field, in Archer county. Operatives from there report at the district office here that pipe line connections for water are being made a great distance from the wells, in order to continue drilling operations.

Mr. Coplin states another reason for the summer decrease in drilling activities is a money shortage at the present time, which makes it difficult on a great number of small independent operators who are working the fields in this section.

TEXHOMA GETS 65 BARREL WELL

Another well for the Texhoma in the Freeman-Hampton pool was reported Wednesday when the company's Ferguson E No. 10 came in for 65 barrels after reaching the 1,770-foot sand. This makes the eleventh producer for Texhoma in this particular block.

The company's No. 13 well in the same lease is nearing completion and being equipped for the pump and will be brought in any day now.

IRRIGATION

By A. M. M'PHERSON
Kahn Bldg., 8th and Indiana
Consulting Engineer

Are They Going to Irrigate Any More Land Than is Now Included in the Two Irrigation Districts?

THIRD INSTALLMENT.

We have discussed in previous issues the irrigation of additional land in Clay county on both the north and south side of the Wichita river and also the land which lies south of Dean and around Jolly which drains into the Little Wichita.

It was also pointed out how the Lake Creek valley lying around Haff on the Wichita Falls and Southern could be irrigated cheaper than the Clay county lands and that the valley was peculiarly adapted to irrigation both on account of soil and topography.

But—both the Lake Creek valley and most of the land in Clay county drain into the Little Wichita. Now the mere physical fact that land being irrigated from one stream drains into another has nothing to do with the efficiency of the irrigation system or the fertility of the soil, but in a legal sense it is most important.

There is a statute in Texas which says in effect that water diverted from one stream for irrigation must not be allowed to drain into another stream unless permission is secured from the state board of water engineers.

The board of water engineers would probably not object to irrigating the lands of Lake Creek valley with water from the Wichita if no one owning land on the Wichita river drainage made a protest but some one might complain.

This matter of diverting water from one stream to water lands on another may become a very real menace later on when it comes to irrigating some of our most desirable lands.

So far as we know surveys have not been made of the Lake Creek valley lands to see just how much it would cost or where the canals would run but there is no question as to the feasibility of irrigating them if so desired.

Tomorrow we will tell of another tract of land that can be brought under irrigation.

Welty Speaks On Colonization Scheme of C. of C.

P. A. Welty, of the engineering force in charge of the irrigation project, was the principal speaker before the chamber of commerce committee which has been appointed to supervise the colonization and development of the irrigation area, at a meeting held Wednesday noon at the Wichita club.

Mr. Welty, who has had vast experience with irrigation projects, stated it was of great importance that the irrigated area be populated with settlers who would do the most to make the land produce the maximum. He said this could be better accomplished by keeping the land free from speculation, the proper laying off of the tracts, selling the land on reasonable terms and securing expert agricultural advice.

The fact that even the speculator must pay the same cost of taxes and for water as anyone else as soon as the canal was finished would tend to lighten the burden from that source. A. H. Britain, chairman of the committee, presided. A visitor was Col. R. Mackaye, an experienced irrigationist.

MIDNIGHT KNIGHTS OF MYSTERY NEXT SIMMONS SAYS

Associated Press Dispatch

ATLANTA, Ga., June 6.—The Knight Kamelia, the new order which he promulgated last night, is the second or "primary order and two more advanced orders are to be created, Emperor William J. Simmons of the ku klux klan said today.

"Later on we will enter into the third, or intermediate order, which will be known as "The Knights of the Golden Forest" and then, when the time is opportune and three degrees have been taken we will come to the final or superior order to be known as 'Knights of the Midnight Mystery' he declared.

The present knights o fthe ku klux klan, he explained, are in what is known as the "citizens order" adding thousands of them are impatient over what he said is delay in entering the higher orders.

Lanning and Monninger Hit Sand In Burk

A good sand in their No. 3 well on the W. J. Sides farm near Burkburnett has been struck by Lanning and Monninger, who Wednesday reported that casing had been set at 1,240 feet, preparatory to bringing in the well.

This well is in proven territory and the company expects it to be as good or a better producer than their other wells brought in in this territory.

BOYD FREED OF BOOZE CHARGE

Sickly-Looking Fluid and Still Displayed At Trial of Man

A verdict of not guilty was returned Wednesday night by a jury in the Eighty-ninth district court which heard evidence in the case of D. B. Boyd, charged with manufacturing whisky. Argument was closed late in the afternoon.

It was charged that Boyd had been making liquor in the oil fields near Burkburnett and in testifying as to the defendant's arrest, Sheriff Murphy and Assistant County Attorney Wayne Sommerville who was on the raid, declared that Boyd had admitted to them that the still belonged to himself and another man. This feature was stressed heavily by District Attorney Martin in his argument to the jury.

On the stand, the defendant admitted having been at the still at the time of his arrest.

The still was furnished as a part of the evidence in the case. It was stated that when found, it had been cleverly concealed underground and was accessible only through a long and narrow funnel. A sickly looking fluid with a muddy hue was also submitted as evidence. A chemical analysis showed that it had a high percentage of alcohol.

Local Girls Graduate From Texas University

Both young ladies received Bachelor of Arts degrees. Robert Andrew Thompson, also of Wichita Falls, received his Bachelor of Science in civil engineering.

Among the others who received degrees were:

Anna LaVerne Cumins, Haskell; Beatrice Lytle, Tulsa, Okla.; Francis Beaumont Stinnett, Amarillo; Magnus Godfrey Swenson, Stamford; Emma Agnes Townsend, Childress; Noble Armstrong, Haskell; Thomas Franklin Loop, Stamford; Susette May Meyer, Rowie; Henry Harvey Harkins, Chillicothe; Lida Belle May, Snyder.

United Royalties Gets Pay Sand In Swastika and Will Set Casing

Special Dispatch to Record News

OLNEY, June 6.—One of the greatest days for oil developments here since the discovery of the field was Wednesday, the most important development being the United Royalties company well officials preparing to set casing after hitting a good sand, which if a producer results will extend the field one mile northeast.

The activity around the United Royalty well resulted in one important lease deal aggregating a consideration of $14,000 from a Wichita Falls person. This amount was paid for 20 acres between the field and the United Royalty well. Another big deal Wednesday was the sale of a 160-acre tract for $1,000 an acre a quarter of a mile from the field.

The Texas company well offsetting the American Refining well bored into the sand and was setting casing with cement Wednesday night. A fine core was taken of the sand and prospects look fine for another producer.

The Beaver creek well which was drilled into water recently has been plugged and is good for 50 barrels of oils state.

$275 PER LOT PAVING PRICE

City to Stand Balance Of Cost On Indiana and Ohio Improvement

An offer of $275 per 50-foot lot will be made by the city to property owners on Indiana and Ohio avenues for repaving of those thoroughfares Between Sixth and Tenth streets, it was learned Wednesday. This will be the sum charged individual property holders, with the balance of the paving costs to be borne by the city.

Mayor Collier and Street Commissioner Clifford, in announcing the city's proposition, said that they felt this to be a reasonable figure and was absolutely the rock bottom limit to which the city could go. It was also stated that this offer was made with the understanding that when actual paving operations started, the city was to provide common labor on the work. It was only through this, Mr. Clifford said, that the city was able to offer such a low rate.

Estimates for the total cost of the eight blocks are $47,200, or $5,900 per block.

None of the intersecting streets of Indiana and Ohio are to receive attention at the present time. The paving of these thoroughfares is in much better shape than that of the north and south streets and it is believed that with proper attention they will give satisfactory service for years to come. The surfacing is such as to keep water from filtering through and causing bulges, which is the underlying cause of the pavement's deterioration.

The movement has now reached such a point that it seems highly probable Indiana and Ohio will be repaved some time during the summer. The city council is favorably committed to the idea and sentiment seems to have developed among property owners to such an extent that a minimum of opposition will be encountered from this source.

A committee appointed last week by the chamber of commerce business council to handle the matter and promote the repaving project among property holders along the two streets is to have a meeting in the near future possibly Thursday. Pending action by this committee, city officials are now making no further plans.

Baker Charged With Using Mail To Defraud

Charges of using the mails to defraud were filed with United States Commissioner Lants Wednesday morning against T. Baker, alias A. W. Ashford, in connection with the alleged burglary recently of the Chillicothe station of the Orient railroad. Baker is to be given a hearing before Commissioner Lants this morning.

It is alleged that Baker entered the station, secured a ticket from Chillicothe to San Angelo, stamped it properly and later sent it to the passenger agent of the Orient asking a refund. He is said to have represented that he was unable to make the trip from Chillicothe to San Angelo and wished his money returned.

Samples Gets New Trial

A new trial has been granted F. S. Samples, convicted here last spring for receiving and concealing stolen property, according to word received here Wednesday from the court of criminal appeals. Samples is now under sentence of five years in the state penitentiary.

He has been tried twice, the first case resulting in a two-year sentence. A new trial was later granted in local courts, however, and his second trial and conviction followed.

GIRLS REDUCING

A new fad has been started by several of the local girls since the closing of school. This is the act of reducing which the girls go through every day and which consists of dieting, strenuous exercises and other things necessary to reduce a girl who weighs 145 pounds down to a trim little figure which only pulls the scales up to 115 pounds. This custom would be all right for the girls who are carrying too much avoirdupois but several of their slim sisters, not to be outdone, are also taking the reducing exercises to stay in "fashion."

H-H-HAIL IT IS

The following letter was received from one of the readers of "Home Town Stuff:"

"We read in the Sunday Record News 'Town Stuff' a hail story. We also read the request that any other contributions be mail to Home Stuff.

"We wish to say that if any one beats this, our imaginations are still in good working order.

"Not long ago Wichita Falls witnessed the falling of hail stones which attained the size of walnuts. At the same time in a section slightly south of this city, the stones were so large that when a young farmer went out to plant his potatoes the same evening, he found that he didn't even have to dig the holes."

FAIR TO SELL 300 BOX SEATS

Grandstand Will Be Erected With Proceeds From This Fund

The executive committee of the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association will be on the job daily from now until the exhibition begins next October with a number of important matters to be worked out, the most important at this time being the raising of funds for the erection of a grandstand of 6,000 capacity, it was announced at the association headquarters Wednesday.

The plan to be inaugurated at once by the fair officials is the immediate sale of 300 box-seat reservations in the choicest part of the proposed grandstand.

These reservations are to be sold for the 1923 and 1924 seasons and will cost $100 each.

A $100 reservation, besides entitling the holder to two seasons accommodations, allows six persons to make use of the season ticket. Besides these inducements, the reservation will give the owner free access to see the special race track, swimming and other grand stand features to be provided for the fair the next two seasons.

After the sale of the 1,500 reservations included in the 300 grand stand seats, the remaining 6,000 seats will be placed on sale.

The fair committee states that architects and contractors are now drawing blue prints and will soon submit plans for the grand stand to be erected. One of the best exhibition stands in Texas, built so as to take care of the growth of the Texas-Oklahoma fair, will be built, it is stated by officials.

FORDS COLLIDE

A collision, a broken radiator, a blowout and a dented car, were the results of a collision between two Fords, one a touring car and the other a delivery truck, at the corner of Indiana and Seventh streets.

The Ford delivery truck driver seemed to have trouble with his brakes and before he had time to stop had run into the rear end of the touring car. The touring car was driven off on a flat tire and the truck went on its way with water pouring in a two-foot stream in front of the smashed radiator.

TWO VETS HELD AFTER ROBBERY

Traveler Complains To Police After Loss Of $71 On Train

Two ex-service men are in jail at the city hall pending a further investigation of their connection with the robbery yesterday afternoon of a passenger on a Wichita Falls & Southern train out of Graham. Police stated that they believed the two men held were responsible for the theft of $71 from the passenger, but that final proof had not yet been established.

The victim of the robbery, whose name was not divulged, stated that the men now in jail had accosted him on the train shortly after it left Olney and that they talked together all the way into Wichita Falls. Later, he said, he missed his pocket book containing three $20 bills, a $10 bill and a $1 bill.

He said that he hunted up the two men and had them arrested. When searched at the station, three $20 bills were found concealed in various parts of one man's clothing, but no $10 bill could be found.

The pair denied having had anything to do with the loss of the funds.
