Orediggers Threaten Counter In Final Quarter But Sollis Is On His Toes And A Clear Field Looms Up

LEFTY SOLLIS, sophomore halfback from Sherman, intercepted a short pass from Quarterback Brierly on the Tech 5-yard line and scrammed down the sideline, 95 yards, for the final touchdown and the crowning achievement of Texas Tech's mighty offense last night as the Matadors defeated the Colorado College of Mines, 46 to 0, at Matador Field.

It was the first intersectional game ever played in Lubbock; a crowd of approximately 4,500 was on hand to see it. Played under perfect weather conditions and with both teams showing a fine fighting spirit, the contest caught the fancy of the fans as has no game played here this season.

Coach Cawthon of Tech started his second team, or "shock troops" against the Orediggers, making a wholesale substitution early in the second period with his regulars after the shockers had scored a touchdown. The regulars, led by Shorty France, Murray Nichols and Slick Close in the backfield, registered five more before the shockers went back in the closing moments of the final chapter. Both of the shock troop touchdowns were made as a result of passes, Jim O'Leary snagging one from Crites for the first one and Sollis making the long run after intercepting another.

A desperate Orediger line smashed through the second team wall in the fourth quarter to block a punt and recover on the Tech 10-yard line. On the first play, Brierly tried a pass, which, had it been completed, would have meant a score for the visitors, but Sollis was on his toes and a clear field was ahead of him.

Whatever humiliation the Matadors must have suffered when they lost an 8 to 0 decision to the Has-

Charles M. Schwab Sounds Keynote With Belief Of Revival In Business

(By The Associated Press)

Charles M. Schwab

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Belief in slow but sure revival of business throughout the United States was the keynote sounded today at the annual fall meeting of the American Iron and Steel institute.

While leaders of the industry, headed by Charles M. Schwab, president of the institute, did not attempt to gloss over or evade the fact that the country has been in the throes of a "real depression," they were generally of the opinion that the worst had been seen and that there were now indications of a betterment all along the line.

Although Mr. Schwab was somewhat more restrained than usual in his characteristic optimism, he recalled that during his career he had seen a number of serious depressions weathered with the result that the country always emerged more prosperous than before.

"And," he added, "history will repeat itself."

"Fear has been lessened," he said, in expressing his belief that better times were ahead. "There will be no collapse. The sources of credit have been mobilized and we shall pull through.

"I believe in the continued growth of our country, the essential strength of the steel industry and the ability of our nation to master the problems of a complicated age."

Other speakers believed President Hoover's credit corporation had generally strengthened the hand of business and, although the steel industry was admittedly "in the dumps" just at present, the outlook was not viewed as discouraging.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 23. — William Dawson is one apartment dweller who needs a road map or something.

Last night he opened his kitchen door, crept in, closed the door, tip-toed toward the ice box, opened it, ate pickles and ham, then walked on in, laid down on the living room sofa, and prepared to slumber.

In a minute someone else began wandering around.

"Help! burglars!" cried Dawson.

Police locked Mr. Dawson up for burglary.

He was eating the wrong pickles and ham. He lived upstairs.

Tulsa Girl Writes "21 Plus" For Age In Bar Examination

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 23. (AP) The Tulsa girl who wrote "twenty-one-plus" in the "age" blank on her application for admission to the Oklahoma bar must be a good deal more specific if she wants to be a lawyer, the state board of examiners ruled today.

Laval And Hoover Pull Up Chairs For A Conference

In the few hours side by side, they sought to explore a variety of subjects, affecting every phase of international relations.

Uppermost in the minds of each was the thought of closer cooperation between France and America to ease the increasing strain on world finance, with its entwinements of related political questions.

Government To Accept Cotton As Collateral

Local Bankers In Statements Friday Night Praise Action Taken By Department; Eight Cents Is Average

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—To encourage cotton storage for price improvement, the agriculture department will accept cotton as collateral for government seed loans at an average of 8 cents a pound.

This announcement was made today by acting Secretary Dunlap. He said that planters who have received loans and who store their cotton will be required to deliver warehouse receipts on sufficient cotton to provide collateral at 8 cents per pound middling 7-8 inch rather than on quantity required at current prices.

Besides encouraging the holding of cotton, the department made this offer to release part of the crop mortgaged to the government for the purchase of necessities, payment of taxes and interest charges, and other debts. Cotton shorter than 7-8 inch in length will have a valuation of 7 1-2 cents a pound on middling 13-16 inch.

Local Bankers Are Showing Optimism

The Department of Agriculture was commended last night by Lubbock bankers for its move in increasing the price allowed on cotton placed as collateral on production loans to farmers.

F. R. Friend, vice president of the First National bank, said: "It will have a stimulating effect on the cotton holding movement in this section. Farmers, who did not borrow from the government, as well as those who did, will be benefitted. With the government setting the

Lubbock Cutting Down Fire Losses; No Alarms Sounded Here In The Last 17 Days

Fire Chief W. E. Twitty is beginning to believe that people are becoming more careful where fire is concerned.

Not a single fire alarm had been turned in during the last 17 days, he reported Friday. That is some kind of a record for Lubbock—the city which lost its good fire rating and was assessed a penalty last year because of excessive fire losses, he said.

"If we continue along this line, we will have no trouble in regaining our good fire rating in a minimum period of time," the chief said.

Cowboy Slain By Patrolman

Owen Crosby, Carlsbad, Killed In Scuffle; Witnesses Say That Dead Man Was Only An Innocent Bystander

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Cowboys contesting in the Madison Square Garden rodeo alleged today that Patrolman John Quigley killed an innocent and crippled man when he shot Owen Crosby of Carlsbad, N. M., during an argument over a 15 cent taxi fare.

Bill Wright, San Angelo, Tex., and Everett Colburn, Blackfoot, Ida., witnesses, said Crosby was a bystander.

Joe Rock and Bob Walden, both of Fort Worth, Tex., are the cowboys alleged to have refused to pay the bill. Rock, 20, was arraigned on a charge of felonious assault and held under $2,000 bail.

Crosby was in a lunch room with Wright and Colburn early today, the latter said, when they heard the Texans arguing with the taxi driver. The driver called Patrolman Quigley.

Walden and the policeman exchanged blows. Colburn charged that in the confusion a plainclothes man began beating Crosby.

"The policeman in uniform had drawn his pistol and had it levelled," Colburn said. "Some citizen who was not a cowboy stepped behind the officer and pinioned his arms, saying, 'don't shoot.' Crosby staggered into the path of the gun, he said, as a shot was fired.

Magistrate Gotlieb, in holding Rock, said, "I won't tolerate cowboys tossing policemen around this way."

Texas To Take Strip Of Land From Arkansas

Attorney General Of Arkansas Says That His State Is Big Enough Though Texas Likely May Need Land

Suggests That Dispute Be Put To A Vote Of The League Of Nations; Texas Rangers Are Still On Job

(By The Associated Press)

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 23. — Texas may need more territiry, but Arkansas is big enough, Attorney General Hal L. Norwood said today as he smiled indifferently at the entrance of Texas rangers and game wardens into land involved in a border dispute near Texarkana.

"The prize,"—a 4,600-acre strip along the Red river that is good for nothing but hunting and fishing—isn't worth a lawsuit, Norwood said.

May Go To League

"We might submit the question to the League of Nations as to whether those who hunt ducks on the lake should pay the license to Arkansas or Texas as this is about all that is involved that amounts to anything," he added.

R. G. Waters, assistant attorney general of Texas, replied that his state was perfectly willing to accept the suggestion and he was "certain Texas can prove its claim to that previous piece of Lone Star soil, even to the satisfaction of league members."

Meanwhile the two Texas rangers and five game wardens, who moved into the contested territory yesterday, continued their work of erecting "no trespassing" signs to warn Arkansas game wadrens to stay out.

Reiterates Opinion

Attorney General Norwood reiterated his opinion the land was not moved from Arkansas to Texas when the Red river went on a "spree" 15 years ago and changed its channel, as Texas claims.

"But if Texas wants to assume jurisdiction, it is not my intention to take any steps to prevent it," he

Second Charge Is Facing Local Man

A second complaint charging Dr. A. F. Woods, local optometrist, with violating section No. 12 of the city building code by maintaining a swinging sign over the sidewalk at his place of business, at the corner of Texas Avenue and Thirteenth street, was filed before J. T. Inmon, city recorder, by D. J. Schlag, city building inspector, Friday.

Woods was found guilty Thursday of violating the "swinging sign", section of the city ordinance by a jury in corporation court. He was assessed a fine of $100, one of the heaviest penalties exacted in city court this year. In making the second complaint Schlag stated the optometrist violated the code by not removing the sign. Each day a sign is allowed to remain over the side walk constitutes a separate offense, he said. Woods appealed the $100 penalty to county court. He was released under $50 bond in the second case, pending trial next Thursday.

Kidnapers Get 60-Year Terms

Four Men Are Convicted After Trial For Kidnaping Young New York Broker; Terms Are Given As Warning

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Sentences of 60 years each in Sing Sing prison were imposed today on four men convicted of kidnaping Charles M. Rosenthal, youthful broker, and holding him captive for $50,000 ransom.

Judge Joseph E. Corrigan, said he saw "not the slightest reason for leniency" and made it clear the heavy terms were given as a warning to any who might be tempted to ply the kidnaping "trade."

Girl Is Acquitted

A mulatto girl known as Betty Green, who admitted she had lured young Rosenthal into the hands of the kidnapers, but denied she had any knowledge of why the men wanted him, was acquitted.

Those sentenced were Marcus Blumenthal, alias Jack Markham; Albert Sileo, alias John Rocco; Theodore Adnolft, alias Harry King, the latter two from Newark, N. J., and Nicholas Rutigliano, manager of a hotel where the ransom money was delivered.

Had Hidden In Hospital During Hunt; Declares She Killed Women In Phoenix When She Herself Was Attacked

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23. — After evading hundreds of officers for five days, Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, 26, surrendered to police and sheriff's officers here tonight and told her husband she killed Hedvig Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes Le Roi, trunk murder victims, during a quarrel in Phoenix, Ariz.

Mrs. Judd, a Phoenix hospital employe, was quoted as saying she shot her two former roommates Oct. 16, after they attacked her when she went to their apartment "to remonstrate with Miss Samuelson for some nasty things she had said about Mrs. Le Roi."

Found In Trunks

The bodies of the two women were found in two trunks and a suit case which had been sent to Los Angeles from Phoenix. Mrs. Judd, who called for the baggage with her brother, Burton K. McKinnell, university law student, fled after station employes noticed blood seeping through the trunks and asked her to open them.

After her surrender, brought about through publication of a request of her husband, Dr. William C. Judd, that she do so, she was bundled into a police automobile and rushed to Georgia street receiving hospital. One of her hands was wounded, apparently by a bullet. She was given into custody of officers at the Alvarez and Moore undertaking establishment.

Was In Sanitarium

Mrs. Judd was said to have been in a sanitarium near Los Angeles during the five days that hundreds of officers of California and Arizona sought her.

Her hand first was dressed at the sanitarium, location of which

Six men are under arrest, according to reposts to agents, two in Colorado, two in Wichita, Kans., and two in El Paso. The agents said complaints to secure, import and distribute counterfeit currency would be filed against them tomorrow.

The men were arrested after 14 days investigation, in which a night airplane ride, an automobile dash across three states and a wild chase through crowds of theatergoers in El Paso figured.

Aged Parents Of Murder Suspect Stand By Their Daughter, Declaring That "She Was A Good Girl"

BY JACK CEJNAR
Central Press Correspondent

DARLINGTON, Ind., Oct. 23. —"Trouble has come, but I have faith in God. He has never failed me."

With these simple words of faith, Rev. Harvey J. McKinnell, 72-year-old retired minister, laid down his axe at the woodpile in the back yard of his cosy little home here and went to call "Mother."

He had just been informed for the first time that his only daughter, Winnie Ruth Judd, 26, was wanted in connection with a horrible double trunk murder in Los Angeles, Cal.

"I am sure there is some mistake about this," he said.

A moment later he led out his wife, Carrie, 69, a pale trembling woman, shrinking from some terrible news which she intinctively felt was coming. The wife, and mother, also leaned on her faith in God when the blow struck.

"My little girl is innocent," she whispered. "She'd have to tell me herself that she was guilty before I'd believe it and I wouldn't believe it then."

They stood there in the yard of their home, where their yellow cottage, trimmed in green, peeped forth from the spirea bushes, and clinging to each other, demanded:

"Tell us all you know."

It was a short account that was given them—of the discovery of two trunks in a railroad station in Los Angeles, of the mutilated remains of two women found in the trunk, of the identification of the victims as Miss Hedvig Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes Leroi, of how a young woman answering the description of their daughter had tried to get the trunks.

"We hear regularly from our daughter," the aged pastor said. "Her last letter came only ten days ago. She has never mentioned any people by these names. I am positive there is some mistake. We can wait only until we hear from her and

UNDER-ROASTING AND OVER-ROASTING PREVENTED

Controlled Roasting, Hills Bros.' Patented Process, Roasts Coffee to Uniform Goodness

Just as the flavor of foods can be spoiled by under-cooking or over-cooking, so the flavor of coffee can be spoiled by under-roasting or over-roasting. Realizing this, Hills Bros. invented and patented a marvelous process. It insures perfect roasting—all the time! It is called Controlled Roasting.

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . . a little at a time . . . so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting—the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . a little at a time. Automatic control of heat insures an even, perfect roast for every berry. Naturally, the resulting flavor is uniformly delicious.

Ordinary coffees are roasted in bulk—several hundred pounds at a time. Therein lies the cause of a faulty roast. For it is impossible to always roast each big batch to the same degree.

Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee is always fresh! Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

ncle Sam Is Testing A New Device Used By Harold Gatty In His Record-Breaking Hop With Wiley Post

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP) — Fruits of the Post-Gatty eight-day dash around the world are being plucked by Uncle Sam.

From the work of the record breaking team, lessons are being pieced together to be taught to military aviators. They will be available to aviation in general.

A major development of the flight under government consideration is the novel drift and ground-speed indicator which Navigator Harold Gatty devised and tested to his satisfaction on uncharted airways of the world.

He has been in Washington several days and tentative arrangements have been made with the war and navy departments to seek patent papers and obtain government license for use of the instrument.

Details are being withheld by the navigator until patent rights are settled. It is, however, an instrument allowing a flier to calculate his drift and groundspeed without using a watch and sighting on some prominent surface object.

Mounted by Gatty in a navy plane, it has undergone several flight tests under observation of representatives of the bureau of aeronautics and the hydrographic office and found to be accurate to within a few tenths of one per cent.

The instrument is the original one used in the Winnie Mae on the world flight. It weighs two and one-half pounds but can be cut down, Gatty said, to one and one-half pounds.

Gatty also is submitting all data gathered on the flight to be reworked by the hydrographic office to learn the different methods of navigation used, when and how they were employed, and with what effect.

BILIOUSNESS CLEARED UP

BILIOUSNESS may show itself by a coated tongue, bad breath, headache, spots before the eyes, dizziness, poor appetite, "dopiness," but prompt relief may be expected from taking Thedford's Black-Draught.

"When I got bilious, I had a bad taste in my mouth, and then severe headaches that put me to bed," writes Mrs. Anna Copeland, Anderson, S. C. "I found Black-Draught relieved this. I felt better after taking it. Black-Draught is a good medicine."

It would not have been used so long, or by so many, if it wasn't really good. Get a 25-cent package at the drug store, and try it.

Bicycle Riding Solon Keeps On

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Arizona's bicycle riding congressman—Lewis William Douglas — is again taking his daily exercise on the capital streets.

A miner, business man, soldier, college instructor, and member of his state legislature since he was born in Bisbee during the harsh territorial nineties, Douglas is a believer in daily exercise. His bicycle supplies it.

Daily, since his return, he can be seen pedaling from home to office and back. In addition to the exercise, he describes it as a daily adventure to venture into capital traffic.

Last winter on a slick and wet street he was struck by an automobile and had a narrow escape.

Little English Village Prepares To Become Center Of A Society Wedding

BALCOMB, Eng., Oct. 23. (AP) This little southern English town was ironing out its best bib and pinafore today in preparation for becoming the center of the stage of British society tomorrow when Lady May Cambridge, 25-year-old niece of Queen Mary, will be married in the old church here to a commoner, Captain Abel Smith, of the royal horse guards.

The wedding will be one of the most important of England's 1931 season. It will be quiet, but royalty will lend it atmosphere.

The romance of the blue-eyed blonde daughter of the Earl of Athlone, only brother of Queen Mary, and the tall, 32-year-old captain, who is a member of a wealthy English banking family, began in South Africa four years ago.

False reports that Lady May was to be engaged were circulated several years ago. One of them said she would marry the Prince of Wales, but it was quickly discredited.

Egyptian Proposal Rejected By U. S.; Have No Authority

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP) — America has written a large "No" across the face of an Egyptian proposal that the world wide ills of the cotton planter be considered by an international conference.

The state department rejected the proposition, saying this government had no authority to discuss with other nations such vital questions as compulsory acreage restriction or export limitations.

Assistant Manager Of WTCC To Be Moved To Sweetwater

(By Staff Correspondent)

PLAINVIEW, Oct. 23. — Maury Hopkins, assistant general manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will probably be transfered to Sweetwater next spring, about six weeks before the annual convention of that organization, to handle details of the entertainment.

"I presume we will use the same plan at Sweetwater that we did at Lubbock last May," Mr. Hopkins said. "It is too early to discuss plans for the Sweetwater convention but early in 1932 the preliminary work will start.

"As far as I know now, I will go to Sweetwater ahead of the convention, the same as I did in Lubbock."

Mr. Hopkins is in charge of activities in West Texas north of the Texas and Pacific railroad, including districts 1, 2 and 6.

Tech Works On Overhead Game For Advantage

France, Nichols And Close In Charge Of Regulars For Long Gain As Colorado Miners Bow Under 46-0 Defeat

kell Indians last week in Dallas was erased last night by a brilliant offensive that carried away all the general and specific honors of the conflict. The Technicians had a chance to "go", and they "went", not once but a number of times.

Changes Work Well

Changes in the Tech lineups, shifts from second team to regular lineup, all perfected in a week of recuperative practice showed results last night that were most pleasing. The playing of Yancy Price, former Lubbock High end who has been running at fullback on the regular lineup until an injury to Bill Teal made Price's shift back to end a necessity, was one of the highlights of the game. Price personally accounted for three of the seven touchdowns, and his blocking, running down on punts and snappy playing all over the field made him a co-hero.

Captain Jack Durham, playing again at guard last night, was one of Tech's luminaries of the line. He broke up play after play, breaking through the lighter Colorado line to hold the opposition to a minimum of yardage gained. Ross Ayers at tackle, Tribble at center and Hitchcock at the other end were powerful. Baker, playing at tackle instead of guard for the first time, showed good stuff. The entire Tech line, while a bit ragged in places on the offense, functioned more properly than at any time heretofore this season.

Wetzel Shines In Line

The great Schnars, Colorado's hefty fullback, failed to get going last night and was on the bench more than in the line. Eddie Bond, Art Austin, Flournoy and Daggett took backfield honors, with Rump, substitute quarterback, doing a neat job in the starting lineup. Volk at tackle, McClave at center and Burke at end played neat games in the line, though Wetzel, a substitute center, came near to stealing the forward wall honors.

Shortly after the game opened, O'Leary passed from the Tech 32-yard line to Crites, who raced to the Colorado 24. The pass combination was reversed a few plays later, O'Leary catching Crites' pass for a touchdown.

After a long exchange of punts in the second quarter, Tech started a drive on the Colorado 42-yard line, completing a pass and bucking the line until Price finally circled the right end for a touchdown from the 1-yard line. After the following kickoff, the Blasters tried a kick from their 13-yard line. Nichols broke through to block it and Johnson was tackled behind his goal line for a touchdown, Baker covering the kicker and getting credit for the score. Franc kicked goal.

Price Recovers Fumble

Most of the third quarter was played on Colorado territory. The Miners drove from their 25 to near midfield and Johnson's punt was again blocked, Price scooping up the ball behind the line of scrimmage to race 45 yards for a touchdown. France again kicked goal.

Except for Colorado's recovery of the fumble on Tech's 10-yard line, the Orediggers never seriously threatened to score. They were scrapping all the way, tackling hard and blocking with venom, but their plays didn't click against the stubborn Matador wall.

Bears And Aggies Resume Grid Relations To Feature SW Card

Rice Favored At Tucson With Southern Methodist Meeting Centenary; Arkansas Plays Louisiana State

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Oct. 23. — Southwest Conference football followers are optimistic over tomorrow's program. Southwest Conference coaches are pessimistic over their respective chances of winning.

Conference gridiron aggregations are in for a busy time tomorrow with the University of Texas at Harvard; Rice Institute at Tucson plays Arizona; Arkansas at Shreveport to play Louisiana State; Centenary invading Dallas to play Southern Methodist, and Texas A. and M. battling Baylor at College Station.

Having played Simmons Friday night, Texas Christian will be idle tomorrow.

Bears Plan Passes

Texas A. and M. and Baylor will furnish the only conference game. A. and M. lost a 6 to 0 conference game to Texas Christian last week. Baylor made her conference bow by beating Arkansas. Baylor's passing attack spelled defeat for Arkansas. Anxious to retain their unmarred conference record, the Bears plan to flood the air with an assortment of passes. Baylor is in good condition. A. and M. revealed a stubborn defense against Texas Christian that held for over three periods, and will offer the same grim determination against Baylor. Like Baylor, A. and M. is in good condition.

With Bob Gilbert, quarterback, and Alfred Neeley, regular guard out of the lineup, Southern Methodist faces serious trouble against Centenary college which, two weeks ago, beat Baylor. This will be the first meeting between Southern Methodist and Centenary since 1927 when Centenary won. Southern Methodist is the only conference team with an undefeated record for the season. In meeting Centenary, Southern Methodist meets an undefeated team that takes pride in knocking off conference teams. Southern Methodist, with Hearon and Davidson throwing, and Koontz, Mills and Webster catching, plans to use its aerial attack for the first time this season.

Louisiana Favored

The University of Arkansas Razorbacks are in Shreveport for their twenty-fifth annual battle against Louisiana State. Arkansas has lost two conference games. Last year, Louisiana State whipped the Razorbacks 27 to 12, and is favored tomorrow. Edmondson will replace Darr and Karr will take the injured Holmes' place in Arkansas' starting lineup.

Rice is not expected to experience much trouble against the University of Arizona. Rice beat Arizona 21 to 0 last year.

The most important intersectional game for the conference will be at Cambridge where the University of Texas, 1930 conference champion, plays Harvard. Coach Littlefield and his Texans arrived at Cambridge today and held a workout in preparation for tomorrow's contest. It is Texas' first football invasion of the east. While Harvard is favored, the game promises to develop into a close scoring affair with Texas holding an outside chance to win.

Football Dish For Today Has Interest High

Ancient Rivals Will Take To Gridiron In Clashes Marked With Blood Of Many Years; Texas-Harvard Fresh

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. — Ancient football rivalries, cloaked in traditions which raise them to epic proportions in the eyes of partisans, share interest tomorrow along a nation wide front with newer relationships of more promising playing possibilities.

Up at Cambridge, a group of charging Texas Longhorns will help Harvard make history, not merely add to it, in a game that is as fresh as today's newspaper.

But it will lose little interest because it is new or because it is played on the same Saturday with such traditional games as Yale-Army, Navy-Princeton, Nebraska-Kansas, Michigan-Illinois, California-Southern California, Stanford-Washington, Baylor-Texas A. and M., and half a hundred others which probably were started before Boston ever heard of the University of Texas.

Enthused by its victory over Army and led by the quick thinking Barry Wood, Harvard is considered something of an edge over the invaders from the Lone Star state, but the Longhorns are a hard hitting bunch of range riders, born to the leather, and with the nationwide spotlight turned on them may give Wood and his mates considerably more than they can handle.

Promising little less in the way of action is the meeting at South Bend between Pittsburgh and Notre Dame. The Ramblers finally got their offense working against Drake last Saturday. Pittsburgh is said to have an airtight line and the game may help solve the scientific riddle of what happens when an irresistible force meets an immovable object.

In the east much interest will center in the Yale-Army conflict at New Haven, the 31st of a series which began in 1893. Both teams have been defeated this year, but that detracts little from a meeting of Bulldog and Army mule, especially with Albie Booth, Yale's little boy blue, attempting to make it two out of three for his meetings with the West Pointers.

In the midwest, the Northwestern-Ohio State and Michigan-Illinois games hold places close to the Notre Dame-Pittsburgh clash in general interest. Northwestern's Wildcats, with victories over two strong teams and a scoreless tie with Notre Dame open their "Big Ten" campaign with the team which looms as an outstanding rival through last week's victory over Michigan.

The outstanding game in the south brings Georgia's unbeaten team against Vanderbilt, smarting under a 19-0 defeat by Tulane last week.

Confident Herd Of Texas Longhorns Await Opening Whistle To Face Harvard

(By The Associated Press)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 23. — A confident band of Texas Longhorns, disregarding their 2,100 mile journey to the Harvard stadium and the resulting climatic changes, had high hopes of stopping the greatest team Harvard has devoloped in a decade today when they ended their brief workout in the stadium.

TO BE BROADCOST

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 23. (AP)—Texas-Harvard football game at Cambridge, Mass., tomorrow afternoon will be broadcast by WFAA, Dallas, and KTSA, San Antonio.

The Texan footballers arrived here late in the afternoon and their session in the stadium was confined to a short signal drill.

Before the Longhorns took possession, Head Coach Eddie Casey drove his starting crimson eleven through its last preparatory session. The Harvard players put on several new plays, which have been reserved for tomorrow's game, and appeared in prime shape for their second consecutive major conflict.

Casey and his players, encouraged by their last week's showing against the Army, regarded as one of the greatest teams in the country, were confident of their ability to turn back the invaders in the first intersectional clash.

After quitting the stadium, Coach Clyde Littlefield and his squad headed for the University club in Boston to join a host of Lone Star state celebrities at a pre-game dinner, after which the football players adjourned to the Belmont Spring country club, where they will remain until an hour or so before the game time.

Lineups Given

Casey's team in the final signal drill comprised Nazro and Hageman, ends; Hardy and Kopans, tackles; Bancroft and Talbot, guards; Cunningham, center; Captain Wood, quarterback; Crickard and Schereschewesky, halfbacks, and White, fullback.

Texas went through its final drill with Bibby and Dubose, ends; Blanton and Moody, tackles; Cook and Captain Baumgarten, guards; Howle, center; Elkins, quarterback; Stafford and Burr, halfbacks, and Koy, fullback.

Football A B C's

Is It Touchdown Or Safety? Answer Is Easy If You Know Who Gave Ball Its Impetus

If Notre Dame is still meeting Army in football 500 years from now, in all probability there will be plenty of people at the game who will not recognize the difference between a touchback and a safety. But it's so very simple.

One word, "impetus," governs the whole thing. Technically, impetus is momentum, but applied to football it refers to the origin of the momentum.

A touchback is made when a free ball or a ball legally in position of a player guarding his own goal becomes dead on, above, or behind the goal, provided the impetus which sent it across the line was given by an opponent. It does not result in a score and the team making the touchback immediately puts the ball in play from scrimmage on its own 20-yard line.

A safety is made when a free ball or a ball legally in possession and control of a player guarding his own goal becomes dead on, above, or behind the goal, provided the impetus which sent it across the line was given by a player of his own team. It counts two points for the opponents and the team making the safety immediately puts the ball in play by a free kick anywhere on its own 20-yard line or any point back of it.

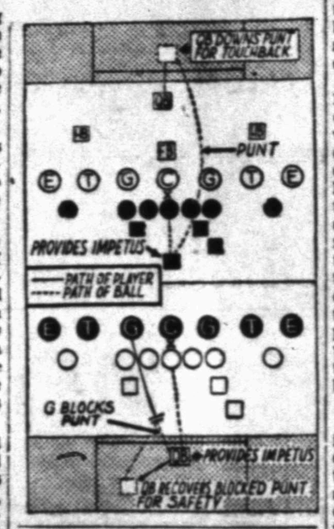

Touchbacks occur frequently in every game. Usually they are the result of grounded punts and forward passes behind the goal. They also may be the result of penalties.

Safeties are rare. As the name implies, a safety is a measure by which a team downs the ball behind its own goal to prevent the opponents from securing it and making a touchdown. This deliberate action is taken to forestall the possible blocking of a punt that may be recovered by the opponents for a touchdown.

The most common safeties are the result of blocked punts; and of ball-carriers being tackled behind their own goals. They also may result from fouls.

TOMORROW: Fair catch — free kick.

The two diagrams above show how a touchback (upper) and a safety (lower) may be made as the result of punts.

Stubborn Ranger Defense Yields To Abilene Eagles

ABILENE, Oct. 23. (AP)—A stubborn Ranger defense yielded in the second and fourth quarters here this afternoon for the scores which won the Abilene Eagles' second oil belt victory of the year, 14 to 0.

Twice the Mayhew herd took the ball and hammered the Bulldogs back more than 40 yards for the touchdown, by widely different methods. Fifteen plays were required to manufacture the first counter for "Sad Sam" Jones, fullback, while Wyatt, fleet quarter of the Eagles, made the second in a single gallop of 47 yards, off Ranger's right tackle. A safety for Abilene just before Wyatt's dash accounted for the other two points.

Sweetwater Mustangs Take 28-6 Win From Coloradoans

COLORADO, Oct. 23. (AP)—Sweetwater's high school Mustangs defeated the Colorado high school Wolves here today, 28 to 6.

Viles opened the scoring for the Mustangs when he intercepted a pass and raced 75 yards for a touchdown.

Colorado scored its touchdown in the last period.

Teams Battle At 3 O'Clock On Tech Grid

Game May Be More Than Mere Practice Tilt For Westerners Today; Locals Prime Selves For Pampa Eleven

The Lubbock High school Westerners experienced another hard workout yesterday and the mental strain was about as great as the physical efforts. Already burdened with the thoughts of meeting the strong Pampa Harvesters next Saturday in a championship game, the Westerners faced the probability of another hard game in their workout yesterday. Today they meet the Odessa High school eleven in a "practice" game at Matador Field.

The game today starts at 3 o'clock. While it does not loom as a highly fascinating drawing card, there is reason to believe that the teams will stage a more than fair exhibition of football. The Odessa team, reinforced by players naturally ineligible to compete in their own district of Class B team, will be unusually strong today. And the club would like nothing better than to bounce a leading contender for Class A honors on the eve of an important game.

Good Game Suggested

Coach Chapman, while pointing his men toward the Pampa game this week, has suggested to his warriors that Odessa will not present a set up; that it is likely to be somewhat more than a mere practice game and that it very likely will take some football playing to win. They are wise suggestions and are to be heeded. The Westerners are by far the favorites, but that fact should not detract from the interest of the game.

Goaded on by the memory of the 13 to 6 victory of the Harvesters over Amarillo's strong team last week and by their own efforts and desires to make a showing in the district race, the Westerners have launched a campaign of practice that is due to see them enter the oil city as worthy foes for the pennane-hungry Reapers. A Pampa victory will cinch the district rag for them, while a Lubbock win will increase the status of the Westerners to championship heights. Amarillo, pulling for a Lubbock victory next week, can throw the race into a three-cornered tie by downing Lubbock on Thanksgiving Day.

Schedule Handicaps

The Westerners are handicapped in that they have little knowledge of their own strength as a result of the schedule laid out for them this season. To date they have faced no club powerful enough to bring out their actual potency, and they enter the Pampa game as under dogs partly for this reason.

A special train will carry several hundred Lubbock fans to Pampa next week, the Santa Fe company having arranged special low rates to and from the site of the game.

St. Edwards And Trinity Battle For A 6 To 6 Tie

WAXAHACHIE, Oct. 23. (AP) — St. Edwards and Trinity universities battled to a 6 and 6 tie here today in Waxahachie's first Texas conference game of the 1931 season.

In the second period Saint blockers cut Dillon loose with the ball and he continued 55 yards for a touchdown.

In the third period Trinity took to the air with Shick sailing a forward to Kroulik for 25 yards and a second to Autrey for 13 yards, placing the ball on the Saints' three-yard line. On the fourth attempt Autrey drove over for a touchdown. Kroulik failed to kick for the extra point.

TYLER WINS, 21-0

TYLER, Oct. 23. (AP)—In its first conference football game of the season Tyler high school, Texas 1930 champions, defeated Lufkin high school here this afternoon 21-0.

Suit For Income Tax Refund Won By Former Rail Worker

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 23. (AP)—A. L. Hawley, retired railroad accountant, won his suit in federal district court here for income tax refund on the ground that $16,500 item paid on was a gift, and that he should not be required to pay tax of a gift. He won an instructed verdict by Judge Duval West to the jury.

The item sued for was $1,113.87 with interest since 1926 and court costs. Hawley was head of the accounting department of the El Paso and Southwestern railroad, merged with the Southern Pacific in 1924. The $32,500 was given Hawley by the El Paso and Southwestern company in November 1925, and he paid the tax on it the following year, that is, half of it, his wife rendering the other half.

Use Of Liners On Whoopee Cruises Being Protested

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (AP)—Hitting at the use of British ocean liners for "nowhere" or "whoopee" cruises from American ports, Captain John P. Milliken, secreary of the Neptune association, has written to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon protesting the continuance of the trips.

He said the vessels violated the coastwise laws because they did not call or stop at any foreign port before returning to New York. He also believes it is a violation of the prohibition amendment as the vessels bring liquor into the port for beverage purposes.

The Red Star liner Belgenland and Homeric made such cruises Columbus Day, and the White Star liner Majestic went out yesterday on such a trip.

Governor Murray Breaks A Rule For Dallas Luncheon

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 23. (AP) Governor Murray has accepted an invitation of E. O. Senter, a former Texas state senator, to take lunch with Governor Sterling at Dallas tomorrow, he announced today. He will speak at Dallas tomorrow night.

"It's violating one of my rules to eat lunch at a private home, but if Governor Sterling's there I'll do it," Murray said.

He declined to speak from a Dallas radio station tomorrow because he would have to prepare a speech in advance.

"BULK," VITAMIN B, IRON All in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

IF YOU suffer from ordinary constipation, you will be benefited by Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Millions have found it brings relief.

Scientific tests show ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk," Vitamin B, and iron. "Bulk" promotes elimination. Vitamin B tones the intestinal tract. Iron helps build blood.

In the package, ALL-BRAN has a shredded appearance. But within the body, it changes to a soft mass, which gently cleanses the intestines. It is much like the "bulk" in lettuce or spinach.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Try two tablespoonfuls daily for a week. ALL-BRAN is natural—far better than pills or drugs, which may cause too strenuous action.

ALL-BRAN is already cooked, flavored and krumbled — bran in its finest form. Serve as a cereal or try the delicious recipes on the package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Norris Is Loathe To Abandon Home

McCOOK, Neb., Oct. 23. (AP) — Senator George W. Norris is loathe to lay down his paint brush Oct. 30, and start to Washington for the opening of congress.

His main street home has just been remodeled and he and Mrs. Norris have moved in. It is a comfortable house and the senator likes to stay there. Besides, there are a lot of odd jobs to be done.

A reporter found him, dressed in striped overalls and white shirt with the collar turned under, daubing a fence at the rear of the house. As he talked he dipped and brushed the wood carefully, going over the surface time and again.

Before his reelection last year, Senator Norris intimated he was weary and wanted to retire. Now he foresees more conflict in congress and prefers the repose of his home.

Sixteen Boys Taken Into Custody For Disturbance

LAWRENCE, Mass., Oct. 23. (AP)—Sixteen boys, whose ages ranged from eight to 17 years, alleged members of the "young pioneer," were taken into custody early today by police who have patrolled the mill districts of this city during a strike of 22,000 textile operatives. The "young pioneers," police said, is a juvenile communist organization.

The boys were creating a disturbance with dishpans, horns and other noise-making devices, police said, ostensibly for the purpose of arousing strikers for picket duty at the mills.

After taking the youths to police headquarters, the officers notified their parents who later took them home. They were warned against further demonstrations.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23. (AP)—Pong Sai Gook, arrested by immigration authorities, explained thusly to United States Commissioner Ernest Williams how he entered the country:

"I came on a big ocean liner which sank outside the Golden Gate. Three white men and myself were the only ones who did not drown. I swam ashore clinging to a bit of wood and carrying my trunk."

Williams was interested, but entered an order to deport Pong to China.

Pope Pius To Inaugurate Telephoto Service Today

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 23. (AP) — Pope Pius XI will inaugurate a radio telephoto service from the Vatican broadcasting station at 1 p. m. tomorrow when a picture of himself and a group of church officials will be transmitted to Paris.

Telephoto tests have been conducted at the station for some time, but on this occasion the picture will be taken and developed while the pontiff waits to see it transmitted and to receive an acknowledgement of its receipt from Cardinal Verdier at Paris.

Bright Red Airplane Will Bother Woman No More; Pilot Is Jailed

HAMMOND, Ind., Oct. 23. (AP)—A bright red airplane has been bothering Mrs. Robert Quigley but it looks now as though it will not annoy her any more.

In it was her husband, who, she said, went across the state line into Illinois ahead of a warrant charging non-support. Then he bought an airplane, she complained, "just to taunt me with" and from the safety of the sky would glide down over his wife's house and then scoot back over the boundary line.

"But wait," Mrs. Quigley would say.

Yesterday the waiting ended. The bright red plane came down as usual, but it dipped too far and nose-dived into a tree.

Mr. Quigley, unhurt, was captured and taken to jail.

Aerial Festival Is Planned To Honor Major Doolittle

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 23. (AP)—An aerial festival, including numerous racing events, stunting and parachute jumping will be staged Sunday at the military aviation field here in honor of Major James Doolittle, who is visiting Mexico City after his speedy 12 1-2 hour trip from Ottawa, Canada, Tuesday.

Receipts from the event, which will be staged by the aero club of Mexico, will be given to the National university.

Doolittle is awaiting a new cylinder for his plane to replace the one burned out on his fast trip. He hopes to leave for St. Louis early next week.

Entire Morrow Estate Left To Widow; Probate Is Filed

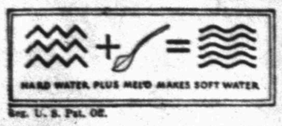

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Oct. 23. (AP) —Aside from several comparatively minor specific bequests, Senator Dwight W. Morrow left his entire estate to his widow.

The will of the New Jersey senator dated in January of 1927, left everything to Mrs. Morrow with the statement that Senator Morrow had complete confidence in her and knew she would provide for herself and their children to the best interests of all concerned.

The will, filed for probate today, did not estimate the amount of the Morrow estate which was generally believed to amount to several million dollars.

Such greasy hands!

Hard water won't clean them

HARD water can't do much with greasy hands. Of course, you use lots of soap. You try to get a thick lather. But the water is too hard; it combines with the soap and forms a scum. How can you expect to clean greasy hands in that water?

There is a way. Use Mel'o. Sprinkle a little in the basin. Water softened with Mel'o makes a wonderful cleaner, with or without soap. Soft water and soap and lots of lather; grease won't stay long on your hands. Get a can of Mel'o at your grocer's today.

Two Men Kidnap And Rob In Wild Abandon Early Friday

ALVIN, Tex., Oct. 23. (AP) — Two men kidnaped three men at varying times today and broke into the Alvin Hardware company building.

Night Watchman M. T. Hooper was waylaid, disarmed, bound and robbed. E. W. McDaniel, baggageman, encountered by the robbers, likewise was kidnaped. Both men were taken in an automobile several miles out on the Angelton road where they were freed.

C. C. Sheaffer, who was delivering bread, also was taken into the country and left to walk back.

A check revealed nothing of value missing from the town, except some of Sheaffer's bread and cakes, and a bundle of laundry stolen from the hardware store.

Hooper lost his money, watch, hat and gun.

Jewelry valued at $10,000 was in a handbag which a thief snatched from Mrs. Ella S. Hinman at a subway station in London.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: PAUL IN CORINTH

Scripture Lesson: Acts 18:1-11

Acts 18:1. After these things he departed from Athens, and came to Corinth.

2. And he found a certain Jew named Aquila, a man of Pontus by race, late come from Italy, with his wife Priscilla, because Claudius had commanded all the Jews to depart from Rome; and he came unto them;

3. And because he was of the same trade, he abode with them, and they wrought: for by their trade they were tentmakers.

4. And he reasoned in the synagogue every sabbath, and persuaded Jews and Greeks.

5. But when Silas and Timothy came down from Macedonia, Paul was constrained by the word, testifying to the Jews that Jesus was the Christ.

6. And when they opposed themselves and blasphemed, he shook out his raiment and said unto them, Your blood be upon your own heads; I am clean: from henceforth I will go unto the Gentiles.

7. And he departed thence, and went into the house of a certain man named Titus Justus, one that worshipped God, whose house joined hard to the synagogue.

8. And Crispus, the ruler of the synagogue, believed in the Lord with all his house; and many of the Corinthians hearing believed, and were baptized.

9. And the Lord said unto Paul in the night by a vision, Be not afraid, but speak and hold not thy peace:

10. For I am with thee, and no man shall set on thee to harm thee: for I have much people in this city.

11. And he dwelt there a year and six months, teaching the word of God among them.

Golden Text:—Now abideth faith, hope, love, these three: and the greatest of these there is love.—1 Cor. 13:13.

Time:—A. D. 51, 52.

Place:—Anthens, Corinth.

Paul In Athens. Acts 17:14, 15

"When he reached Athens, Paul came to a city which has never been equalled as an original intellectual force. It is renowned as the city of Socrates, Plato, and Aristotle among philosophers, of Solon and Pericles among statesmen, of Demosthenes among orators, of Aeschylus and Sophocles among dramatists, of Herodotus and Thucydides among historians, of Pindar among lyric poets, and of Phidias among sculptors. Though Athens in Paul's day had fallen from its ancient glory, it was still resplendent with incomparable works of art, and especially its great rocky hill, the Acropolis, glittering with marble temples, above all the Parthenon, the temple of Minerva." Every gateway and porch carried its protecting god. Every street, every square, nay, every purlieu had its sanctuaries: and a Roman poet bitterly remarked that it was easier in Athens to find gods than men."

Paul's Preaching In Athens

Roused by Paul's strange teachings, especially those relating to Jesus and the resurrection, the Athenians took him, seemingly, before the ancient Court of the Areopagus for Mars' Hill, a court which had jurisdiction over public teaching in Athens, and which had condemned Socrates and put him to death.

The brief account of Paul's address which Luke gives us is enough to show how powerful and wise it must have been. The apostle took his text from an altar which he had seen inscribed—the Athenians' anxiety not to omit any diety from their pantheon, for fear of offending him —"To an Unknown God." "That unknown God," said Paul, "I can tell you about. He is the one God, who made the world and all things therein, who does not dwell in men-made temples, who made of one all nations, in whom we all live, after whom all men are instinctively groping though he is not far away."

The City of Corinth. v. 1.

"After these things he departed from Athens, and came to Corinth." 'Corinth was situated on the narrow passage of land which connected the northern portion of Greece with the Morea. The connecting piece of land was called the Isthmus, and so great was its fame that its name has since been bestowed upon every similarly situated neck of land. The town itself gave its name to the fruit which is so popular under the name of currants. Corinth of the two seas, as the city was styled by poets, was magnificently situated for purposes of trade. All travellers, whether for business or pleasure, between the northern and southern parts of Greece, had to pass by the gates of Corinth. In addition to this, its two harbors, Lechaeum on the west and Cenchreae on the east, were full of ships which came from every country which was known at that day, crowded with travellers eager to drink deeply of the pleasures of this famous city of delight. Corinth was the Paris of the Empire. A mercantile town, its chief business was to attract wealthy foreigners whose purse-strings would not be kept too tightly drawn. The shameless licentiousness of the place was notorious even under the Empire.

AQUILA AND PRISCILLA, v. 2

"And he found a certain Jew named Aquila." A Latin name, meaning "eagle." "With his wife Priscilla." Also called Prisca, of which Priscilla is a diminutive form. It is not said that she was a Jew, and she may have been a Roman of a higher social rank than Aquila, being commonly named first. "But no other married couple in the Bible appear in such complete all-round association." Both were earnest Christians, both teachers of the Word, and they worked together at the same trade.

"And because he was of the same trade, he abode with them." If, as is most probable, they were already Christians as well as Jews, that would furnish the strongest bond uniting the apostle to them. "For by their trade they were tentmakers." Thus the three formed both a business and a spiritual partnership—one of the finest in history.

"And he reasoned in the synagogue every Sabbath." Here also, as at Athens and everywhere else, Paul began with the Jews and in the synagogue, finding there his easiest start and most fruitful field.

PAUL TURNS TO THE GENTILES v. 6

"And when they opposed themselves and blasphemed, he shook out his raiment." A vigorous gesture of entire separation from them, as if he would get rid of even the dust that might have settled on him from them. "And said unto them, Your blood be upon your own heads: I am clean." I am henceforth free from responsibility with regard to you; I have done all that can be done for you; if you die the death of the spirit, it is your own fault entirely. "From henceforth I will go unto the Gentiles." He had said this before, as in the Pisidian Antioch (Acts 13-46), and in other cities, as in Corinth, had begun his ministry with the Jews, which he was to continue doing when he came to new cities (see Acts 18:6), which shows that such expressions relate only to the local ministry.

PAUL'S VISION IN THE NIGHT, vs. 9, 10

"And the Lord said unto Paul in the night by a vision." We are not told why this vision of Christ was needed, but Paul was evidently desponding on account of the opposition to his work and he was in personal danger. "Be not afraid." These words were often on the lips of the Lord when he was in the flesh. "But speak, and hold not thy peace." Do not allow this opposition to quell your ardor, to daunt your spirit. The more difficult the hostility, the more need of brave Christian perseverance.

"For I am with thee, and no man shall set on thee to harm thee." This shows that fear of bodily harm, such as he had suffered so terribly at Lystra and at Philippi, had something to do with Paul's despondency. "For I have much people in this city." "It was in purpose and prescience as yet that Christ had them as his people, and not in accomplished fact. But this prescience, instead of suppressing effort, is given as the encouragement to exertion. And Paul understood his Lord. The intimation that a multitude of the Corinthians would certainly be saved spurred him on to instant and persevering labor in the gospel, that thereby he might save some."

PAUL BEFORE GALLIO, Acts 18:12-17

"The opposition of the Jews, which, at the beginning of St. Paul's stay in Corinth, had driven him from the synagogue and forced him to seek a new center for his work, and which had continued to impede him during his whole residence in the city. (2 Thess. 1:3), at last broke into open hostility."—E. Basil Redlich.

The proconsul of the Roman senatorial province of Achaia at this time was a remarkable man named Gallio. He was the brother of the Stoic philosopher, Seneca and the uncle of the poet Lucan. He was called "the fascinating Gallio," so charming were his manners.

Before this accomplished and popular ruler the apostle was brought by the Jews who were furious at the success of Christianity in Corinth. The charge was that Christianity was not a religion formally allowed by the Roman law to be taught. Gallio did not wait for Paul to make his defense, but at once decided that no question of wrongdoing was before him, only a question "about words and names and your own law," which they should attend to themselves; and he drove them contemptuously from his court.

THE LOVE CHAPTER, I Cor. 13

Paul was making his long stay in Ephesus during his third missionary journey when a committee reached him from Corinth, telling him of dissensions in the church and of evil practices which had arisen, and he wrote his first Corinthian Epistle to urge unity and purity on the Christians of Corinth. In the thirteenth chapter of the letter "we enter into the purest atmosphere and breathe the most fragrant odors. "With the exception of the end of Rom. 8, this is the most beautiful and moving passage in St. Paul's letters."—Principal John A. Mazley, "Nowhere does Paul show more clearly how entirely his thought is ruled by the Spirit of the Lord Jesus. This hymn is a lyrical interpretation of the Sermon on the Mount—the Beatitudes set to music."—Prof. W. F. Howard. "For moral elevation, for richness and comprehensiveness, for beauty and felicity of expression, this chapter has been the admiration of the church in all ages." — Prof. Charles Hodge.

A Commendatory Action

DECISION of Lubbock county banks to aid in the Federal Farm board's holding movement adds one more cog to the wheel that may pull King Cotton back onto his throne. The general plan, as we view it, is a meritorious one.

Already the holding plan as backed by banks of the South has resulted in the 1931 cotton crop being worth $50,000,000 more than it was when the movement began. We would call it a success if it added the crop's value only one-tenth of that amount.

Local bankers figure that there are still 40,000 bales of cotton in Lubbock county that are yet to be ginned and sold. If 10,000 bales, or one-fourth of the total left, is held until the price picks up to 12½ cents per pound, Lubbock county farmers cannot help but be benefitted.

And when Lubbock county farmers are benefitted, it goes without saying that the benefit spreads until it permeates every business in the city.

We unhesitatingly call it a good move.

CONCERNING IDLE GOSSIP

Not long ago The Morning Avalanche published an editorial in what later proved to be a highly successful effort to put a stop to the repetition of the endless gossip raised against some commercial and financial institutions of this city.

Refraining no words and pressing into service the whole two columns on the front page to carry the message, this newspaper decried all gossip and "hard times talk," whether wilfully malicious or ignorant. Lubbock business men credit the frank editorial with having a great deal of such aimless and hurtful chatter.

In a recent edition, The Dallas News published a similar editorial—applicable to conditions in Lubbock as well as to those of Dallas and everywhere else. It is a good editorial, worth repeating at this time when we have found that idle gossip is not essential and that without it the path to normalcy is smoother. Declares The News:

"Many business men of the United States in this current economic depression naturally have fears and the most timid among them are shedding gloom in their directions by gossiping darkly of coming panics and bankruptcies. Such rumors hinder the return of prosperity, which now apparently is in sight.

"The United States has been awaiting signs of stability and unity of purpose in Europe and these have now clearly in evidence. Europe, on the other hand, looks for indication of change in the United States, the recognized leading state in finance and business. It finds these in the constructive measures already formulated throughout the Nation, in part their way, which are making themselves felt as the beginnings of a returning wave of prosperity. Credit is expanding, fall business is gaining volume, unemployment in the next few months should lessen, not increase, and a more cheerful attitude is expressing itself in business circles.

"Texas is so rich in its products and its foods that it might well be a leader in the movement that is restoring the Nation's confidence. Low prices for products hurt at first, but mental readjustments have been made, the worst is over, and prosperity will be a long return to Texas. There is some real suffering from poverty and lack of employment, but Texans are putting their shoulders to the wheel and will help one another out of trouble. The present need is to substitute hope for fears and cheerful expectations for dismal forebodings.

"Dallas is especially to be congratulated because the upward turn in business is on the way and definite signs of business revival are in evidence. It is remarkable how splendidly business institutions have thus far weathered the storm of financial depression. Prophets of evil have sometimes foretold the downfall or insolvency of even the city's most substantial institutions, but their prophesies are made idle gossip, usually malicious, but for the most part thoughtless repetitions of unfounded suspicions. Such gossipers are the worst enemies of returning prosperity and every rumor of that sort should be met with a demand for proof and stern reproof for baseless fabrication."

Lubbock's going right on down the line behind such a movement as this Dallas editorial stresses!

In view of the American craze for speed in everything, however inconsequential, it is strange no one has thought to try golf on roller skates.

Practical Health Problems

EQUIPMENT CAUSES SHOP SICKNESS

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

In a survey of the subject recently made, Dr. E. L. Collis points out that most dusts in such concentrations as occur in industry do not exert an injurious influence on the lungs. Workers in leather, in the shoe industry and in milling are in contact constantly with the dusts associated with these working conditions, but are not often sick as a result.

There was a time when flour dust was held to be harmful. Later it was found that the illnesses were due to breathing off of quartzite from the millstones and the quartzite dust was the harmful factor rather than the flour dust. Today when flour is milled by steam rollers millers do not experience the same type of lung trouble.

Workers in limestone, marble, gypsum, and in cement do not suffer much from the dust they inhale, because these dusts are mostly calcium dusts and calcium is easily taken up and handled by the human system. There are, however, other dusts which are not easily taken up, such as those from silicic slag and emery.

These dusts contain oxide of aluminum, which is not easily dissolved in the tissues and which therefore must be coughed up. Constant exposure to such dust causes repeated inflammations of the tissues of the lungs and a type of bronchitis which becomes chronic and serious. It is, of course, difficult to tell the difference between bronchitis caused by dusts and that which results from exposure at hot furnaces or that due to the fumes that arise in various industries, or indeed that due to severe climatic conditions.

Apparently the most harmful of all dusts is that developed in the industries using silica, particularly those associated with basalt and asbestos. The dust of asbestos acts in connection with the tissue of the lung to cause a thickening or fibrous condition of the lungs which goes on rapidly to a serious if not fatal condition.

Coal dust does not apparently produce any unusual mortality from respiratory disease. The lungs of miners are found to be simply black with coal dust and yet no serious disease of the lung has developed. If, however, the coal dust is combined with silica dust of the type that has been mentioned, the condition that develops may be extremely serious.

Tariff Specialist Talks

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

Library of Congress

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—When I asked Congressman David J. Lewis of Maryland what caused the world depression, I expected him to answer, "Tariff barriers."

The Marylander is an all-around economist of first rank, but tariffs are his specialty. He was a member of the original federal tariff commission of 1917, for which President Wilson scoured the country to find the ablest experts. Among them Congressman Lewis, conscripted from the house of representatives to serve on the board, generally was recognized as the foremost. President Coolidge did not reappoint him in 1925, but that was because of the scant favor with which he regarded the protective system. The system not only continued; tariffs have been revised stiffly upward. Protection appeared to be working so well in this country that other countries have been imitating us; building import-proof walls around themselves, too; obstructing trade in every direction.

Then came hard times. The world now is in its third year of stagnation and unemployment.

IT SEEMED to me that Representative Lewis, back again in congress, was virtually certain to say, "I told you so."

Instead, he said, as so many folk do:

"The mechanization of industry is the really basic cause of the trouble.

"Tariffs add to it.

"Between them they are responsible for about 50 per cent of the total.

"Psychology is responsible for the other 50 per cent."

THE CONGRESSMAN dismissed World war destruction as inconsequential, in so far as the United States is concerned.

"Governments like England's and Germany's," he observed, "which, having taxed their populations to the uttermost, still are unable to make ends meet, may be correct in attributing their straits to war losses.

"Considering our national wealth, America's recent deficit is unimportant. We could wipe it out with hardly an effort.

"If, with everyone working overtime, we scarcely could support ourselves, we might complain that the war had left us poverty stricken, but it is notorious that lack of a sufficiency, were our products properly distributed, is not our problem."

"THE ONE-SIDEDNESS of invention," said the Marylander, "is at the bottom of our difficulties.

"There are two kinds of invention.

"One kind creates new wants, like the radio. The other kind displaces labor, like the steam shovel.

"Labor-displacing inventions have predominated for a generation.

"On a large scale, we have not had one of the other type since the auto, which displaced only the horse, while creating many fields of human employment; even the radio largely has displaced the piano."

"MUCH MONEY has been saved," continued Congressman Lewis, "by the release of no-longer-needed workers, but unfortunately virtually all of it has gone into the pockets of folk who already were fully clothed, well fed and comfortably sheltered, and who consequently did not spend it, having nothing more that they required.

"They would have been glad to put it into new industries, but there has been no demand for them.

"Thus their savings have piled up in banks and stayed there."

"THE NUMBER of dis-employed," said the representative, "already had reached some 2,000,000 before the depression set in, but their voices barely were heard while the remainder of the country considered itself prosperous.

"Finally, however, multiplying tariff interferences with trade began to make their effects felt.

"International trade is misleading in its aspects, due to the high visibility of imports, the low visibility of exports and the absolute invisibility of interchanges which have yet to develop.

"That is to say, a cargo of foreign goods landed at an American port is very obvious to Americans; a cargo of American goods landed at a foreign port is a mere abstraction to them; increased commerce a few years hence is beyond the scope of even their imaginations.

"The effects of tariff restrictions also ramify surprisingly.

"If a new impost reduces Russia's consumption of tea, India and Ceylon, which have been supplying it, must curtail their purchases of fabrics from English spinners, who need correspondingly less raw cotton from Georgia and Alabama and presently Chicago manufacturers notice a falling off in Dixie's demand for agricultural implements.

"Moreover, higher tariffs means higher prices, which mean dwindling sales unless wages rise also, a thing not to have been expected in the face of decreasing employment due to expanding mechanization of industry."

"COMING just at the critical moment," quoth the Maryland congressman, "the last tariff advance slowed the business machinery sufficiently for everyone to notice it.

"A scare started.

"The scare, from which America and the rest of the world have not yet recovered, constitutes the psychological 50 per cent of the depression.

"Psychology is susceptible to intangibilities.

"By that 50 per cent, President Hoover's program of a bankers' pool, with accessories, is calculated to improve conditions."

THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN:
The Island of Lundy, three miles long and one mile wide, lying in the Bristol Channel, twelve miles off the Devon coast, England, is privately owned, and owes no allegiance to any country, although it is usually represented as part of Devonshire. It first appeared in authentic history about the eleventh century. The island is now referred to as the Kingdom of Lundy, but for 83 years in the 18th and 19th centuries, it was owned by a family named Heaven, the last member of which was Rev. Hudson G. Heaven. During these 83 years the island was called facetiously "The Kingdom of Heaven."

LITTLE BETTY JANE LINDLEY:
Betty Jane, who lives at 940 Lafayette Park, Chicago, received a Red Cross swimmer's pin and became a registered life saver in a competitive examination held at Delavan Lake, Wisconsin, 1925, when she was but 6 years old. In 1926 she took part in the Chicago Herald-Examiner marathon and swam the entire distance of two miles, being the youngest and smallest of the 285 entrants—many of whom couldn't even finish.

THE BIRD HOUSE GRAVE:
The construction of a Bird House Tomb is not begun until after the death of the Stapan chieftain who is to occupy it. The body is temporarily placed underground and then removed to the Bird House Tomb, after the artists of the tribe have worked feverishly on its completion for about a year. The Stapans are a little known tribe in a remote part of Borneo.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Pretty NORMA KENT, 20-year-old secretary, married MARK TRAVERS, millionaire's son in spite of the opposition of the father, F. M. TRAVERS.

The story opens in Marlboro, middle western metropolis. Mark sells his roadster to get money for an extravagant honeymoon at fashionable Blue Springs. Soon their money is gone. Mark borrows $500 and they return to Marlboro. When almost everything they have is gone he finds a job only to lose it. Finally he becomes a floorwalker in Blossomdale's department store.

In spite of poverty the young couple are happy until Mark's father sends for him. He offers to take Mark back into his own business organization if Mark will prove he can make good. His first task involves a business trip to France. Norma is to remain at home. In spite of her protests Mark goes.

When Norma is rudely treated at her father-in-law's home she slips away leaving no trace of her whereabouts. CHRIS SAUNDERS, her former roommate, helps Norma find a job.

Travers employs detectives to trace her. They discover Norma's name in police files and the record that three years before she was convicted on a vice charge. In spite of evidence that the charge was framed and Norma innocent Travers sends his lawyer to Paris with documents which will enable Mark to secure a divorce. Norma knows nothing of this until late in January she receives a letter telling her Mark has secured a divorce. Half-sick she goes to work the next morning and faints in the office.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVI

Chris followed Dr. Willoughby to the outer office. Stuart arose as they entered.

"She'll be all right," the doctor assured them. "Better send her home for the day, though. Seems to be a little run-down." He turned toward Chris. "You're a friend of hers?" he asked.

"Yes, doctor. We used to live in the same apartment. It—it isn't anything serious?"

"No, I shouldn't say that. Perhaps you can arrange to go with her."

"I'm sure I can."

Stuart said, "I'll call a cab for you," and picked up the telephone.

The doctor nodded curtly, put on his hat and said, "Good day." As he stepped into the corridor Chris followed. "Doctor," she said earnestly, "your're sure she's going to be all right? Norma's all alone in the world. If there's anything at all to be done—!"

Dr. Willoughby eyed the girl narrowly. "You say you're a friend of hers?" he repeated.

"Oh, yes. I'm the closest friend she has in the world I guess. You see she's been worried lately. That's what made me so anxious!"

"And you don't know what's the matter with her?"

"Why—no—!"

"After you get her home," the doctor said slowly, "call in her regular physician. He can tell you."

"But—you don't mean—?"

Willoughby nodded. "Perfectly normal condition," he said. "She's evidently been under a strain—worried as you say—and something brought on this fainting spell. Quite unimportant in itself. She ought to have a thorough examination. Take her to an obstetrician if you can. There are clinics, of course—"

"But doctor!" the girl exclaimed. "Oh, but doctor—it can't be!"

"Sorry, but I assure you that it is. Has she a husband?"

Chris' hands had gone to her throat. "She did have," she said slowly. "There's been a divorce. Norma didn't know a thing about it until last night. You see—he's in Paris. Oh, this is dreadful!"

"Paris?" the doctor said with a show of interest.

"Yes," Chris hurried on brokenly. "Oh, I might as well tell you! She's been working here as Miss Travers but she's really married. Mark Travers is her husband—I mean he was. You know, F. M. Travers' son. The family didn't approve of the marriage. Mark went abroad two months ago and she hasn't heard from him since. Last night she got a letter telling her about the divorce. Oh what can she do?"

"She can go home and rest for a few days and take care of herself. That's the sensible course. Unfortunate of course. Very! I'll tell you what you do, Miss—er—?"

"Saunders," Chris supplied.

"Yes, Miss Saunders. My office is on the fifth floor. Bring Mrs. Travers in to see me in a few days. Say on Monday. I'll give her the examination. Does she have anything besides her salary here?"

Chris shook her head. "No," she said. "It's not much but we'll manage some way."

Dr. Willoughby shrugged. "Don't worry. I'll take care of that. Sorry for the girl. Call my secretary about an appointment, will you?"

Chris said that she would. She went back to the private office where Norma had been lying on an improvised couch. Chris found her sitting up, pale but otherwise looking natural.

"The doctor says you're to take the day off," Chris announced. "I'm going to take you home and Mr. Stuart's already called a cab for us."

"But I can't—" Norma began, only to hear her protests routed.

"You can certainly do as your boss tells you! These are Mr. Stuart's orders. Shall I get your wraps and bring them in here?"

Stuart put his head in the door to say that the taxi was waiting.

Chris hurried to the advertising office to explain her absence and came back wearing hat and coat. The two girls descended to the ground floor and went out on the street. The cab was drawn up a little to the left. As they stepped in Chris gave the driver the number of Norma's rooming house.

It was a silent ride. Norma leaned back against Chris' arm and most of the way her eyes were closed. The older girl was struggling with her own thoughts. Battling a terrifying new problem. When she did speak it was only to say something reassuring to Norma.

The cool air was refreshing. There was the faintest tinge of color in Norma's cheeks as she stepped down to the walk before the rooming house. Chris paid the driver and dismissed him.

"I'm coming in with you," she told the other girl. "They don't expect me back at the office for a while.

Mrs. Bixby, the landlady, met them in the hallway. "Why, Miss Travers!" she exclaimed. "What are you doing here at this time?"

"Miss Travers isn't feeling well," Chris told her. "She's going to spend the day at home. Do you think you could send up a hot cup of tea? I'm sure it would be good for her."

"Why, for ever more!" It was Mrs. Bixby's favorite exclamation. "For ever more! Of course I'll fix the tea. I'll bring it right up myself—" Mrs. Bixby swished out of view.

"Anyhow it got rid of her," Chris said, smiling faintly. "You don't have to drink the tea, you know."

Norma did not answer. They went up the stairs and into the tiny rear bedroom. Everything was exactly as Norma had left it the night before.

Chris bustled about, raising a window, drawing down the covers of the bed, making Norma get out of her clothes and into a kimono. The younger girl was submissive. The tempestuous display of emotion the night before seemed to have exhausted itself. She slipped beneath the covers and let Chris draw them up around her.

When Mrs. Bixby arrived with the steaming cup of tea Norma managed to smile gratefully. The landlady would have lingered but Chris efficiently shooed her out.

"Now then," the older girl said, sitting on the side of the bed, "do you think you can get some sleep, honey? You didn't have much last night you know."

The muscles about Norma's lips tightened. "Chris," she said in a voice barely above a whisper, "did the doctor tell you—?"

No use to try to evade those blue eyes. The older girl hesitated. She reached forward, took Norma's hand in hers.

"It's going to be all right, dear!" she said. "Everything's going to be all right!"

Norma turned convulsively, burying her face in the pillow. Her shoulders shook with her sobs. "Don't you see," she managed to say at last, "don't you see why I've got to have Mark now? I've—I've just got to have him? Oh, Chris, I don't want to live without him!"

"But you don't know yet—"

"I do! Oh, I do! It was in that newspaper. I—I read it just before everything went black before my eyes! It's true, Chris. It's true about the divorce."

Chris leaned forward. "Does Mark know," she asked cautiously, "about the baby—?"

The yellow head shook negatively, emphatically. "I've—only known—myself since Christmas I—oh, I tell you I don't want to live! I—I can't!"

Presently she was quite again and Chris was able to say what she had been trying to get out earlier

"Brad said I could talk to Jib Daniels about the case. He's Brad's lawyer. There may be something you can do yet, Norma. If there is he'll know. You mustn't give up until I've talked to him."

"But, Chris!" The voice from the covers was fainter now, more tremulous. "Don't you see—it means—it means Mark doesn't love me any more! He couldn't do a thing like this if he loved me!"

"It's his lying, underhanded father who's to blame!" Chris almost snorted the words. "Oh, I don't say I admire Mark for what's happened, but it's his father who's responsible!"

Norma said between sobs. "I—don't want to live—if Mark doesn't love me—"

A little later her mood changed to self-condemnation. She berated herself for a dozen reasons. "I ought to have told Mark," she moaned over and over. "I ought to have told him about everything even if it killed me! It was wrong to run away from his father's house. If I'd stayed this wouldn't have happened! It's all my fault—!"

Chris had all she could do to silence this new outburst. She made promises she knew were impossible, stalling for time. At length her efforts were successful. Norma lay perfectly still, seemed to relax.

"If you'll only shut your eyes now and try to sleep!" Chris urged.

"I'll try," Norma said obediently. She closed her eyes. The older girl watched from her post at the side of the bed and noted that Norma's breathing was regular and deep. Minutes passed and then Norma opened her eyes again.

"I'm all right now," she said. "You ought to go back to the office, Chris."

"You're sure there's nothing more you want?"

"Nothing."

"And you'll stay right here and try to rest? I'm going to tell Mrs. Bixby to send up your lunch."

"I couldn't eat anything. Honestly. Not now."

"Well—a little later then. If you're sure everything's all right I'll go now but I'll be back this evening. Just as soon as I can get here from work.

Norma's eyes were closed and she did not answer. Chris put on her wraps, watched the other girl anxiously for several moments, finally turned without speaking and left the room. She stopped for a consultation with Mrs. Bixby before she boarded a street car bound downtown.

Norma heard the outer door close. The house was unusually quiet. She lay still, listening for what must have been 20 minutes. Then as silently as possible she arose and slipped into her clothing. She put on her coat and hat and opened the hall door stealthily.

No one appeared to stop her when she reached the ground floor. Five minutes later Norma was at the street intersection. A cab driver swerved in answer to her signal and drew up at the curb.

Norma stepped into the cab and gave an address. Her face, as she sank back against the leather seat, was like parchment. A moment later she leaned forward and tapped the glass partition separating her from the driver.

"Hurry, will you?" Norma begged.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 23. (AP)—While the cotton market was rather quieter than it has been of late most of the session, it became very active and strong in the late afternoon and advanced sharply to a strong close at gains of more than a dollar and a half a bale. Hedge selling was not very much in evidence today and although there was some liquidation by recent buyers, offerings were readily absorbed. The market as supported by steadier stocks, unfavorable weather in the belt and bullish week-end statistics, particularly favorable mill takings.

Liverpool is due tomorrow 12 to 13 points up on New Orleans.

Liverpool came in 5 to 7 points better than due and Sterling exchange was lower. Private cables stated that there was some hedge selling offset by trade buying and calling. Sterling was easier. Manchester cabled that there was a good cloth business with China.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (AP)—Cotton was generally higher today on trade buying and covering.

Prices made new high ground for the movement with December selling up to 8.93 and closing at 8.91. The general market closed strong at advances of 29 to 34 points.

The opening was steady unchanged prices to four points higher on a renewal of trade buying and covering. The south was a moderate seller, but offerings were generally light and the market worked gradually upward on a continuation of the early demand.

Local Markets

These prices are furnished by the following Lubbock firms: Poultry — Lubbock Poultry and Egg company, delivered Lubbock; Dairy Products—Bell Ice Cream company; Grain—S. E. Carl Williams Should Leave Farm Board, McDonald Opines

GALVESTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Carl Williams, member of the federal farm board for cotton, either should resign his post or should be removed, J. E. McDonald, Texas commission of agriculture, declared here today.

Mr. McDonald, in the city to inspect port and terminal facilities, declared he thought Mr. Williams, vested with great authority, has "shown a deplorable lack of vision and ability; every time hetalks he makes things just so much worse."

Stocks Rally With Spirit In Late Trading Friday; Others Go Upward

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (AP) — Stocks rallied with spirit in today's late trading, and were closely followed by the speculative commodities. Railroad liens tended to hold back the bond market, although United States government and foreign issues did well.

The steel executive's willingness to be conservatively optimistic and the more cheerful tone of commercial reviews, which felt that sentiment had moved up another notch, had little effect on stock exchange prices during the greater part of the session. In the last hour, however, the lethargic market suddenly came to life and all groups advanced, bringing net gains to nearly 4 points in pivotal stocks. Sales totaled 1,235,600 shares. Rails assumed a prominent place in the upturn, although in the averages the industrials showed to best advantage.

Frogs Defeat Cowboys, 6 - 0

ABILENE, Oct. 23. (AP) — Power and simple passes gained the T. C. U. Horned Frogs nothing but first downs for fifty nine minutes here tonight, but an intricate aerial maneuver won their annual game with the Simmons Cowboys 6to 9 in the last minute of play.

From scrimmage on the Simmons 24 yard line, Woolwine passed into the "flat" to Ad Dietzel, elongated end, who relayed the ball backward to Blanard Spearman. Spearman swept around the Cowboy left terminal for the touchdown. T. C. U. was penalized fifteen yards on the first try for point, which was good, and Green's kick fell short on the second trial.

Once in each of the first three quarters, the Horned Frogs entered the Simmons ten yard zone to be turned back, twice going to the two yard stripe. Just as often the Cowboy forwards swarmed over the T. C. U. ball carriers, and Captain Marshall's punts carried his team out of danger.

The Cowboys offered to score only once, when Pee dashed off tackle 25 yards to the Christian 25 yard line. They got no further, however, and that was the single first down registered by the home club. The Frogs made their yardage a dozen times.

JEFFERSON WINS

DALLAS, Oct. 23. (AP)—Jefferson University of Dallas defeated the Simmons University freshmen of Abilene 7 to 6 here today.

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 23. (AP) — Moderate activity developed in the hog trade around the eleven market circuit at steady to 15 higher prices. The day's top of 4.50 was paid at Chicago for medium and strong weight butchers. Total offerings were around 66,000, compared with 83,833 a week ago.

Fat lambs found a fairly active outlet at values eminently steady to 25 higher while steady rates were maintained on the limited offerings of mature sheep and feeding lambs. The supply approximating 84,000 was 41,000 short of last Friday.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Oct. 23. (AP) — Hogs 400; market mostly 10c higher; rail and truck top 5.85, load choice medium weight butchers 5.80; 146-165 lb. weights, 5.75; good truck hogs scarce; packing sows 4.25@4.50 or steady.

Cattle 2,300, including 600 calves; trade poorly tested, quotably steady on all classes cattle and calves; plain grass slaughter steers 3.75@4.25; better grades fat yearlings lacking, few fat cows 3.25; low cutters 1.75@2.00; good spayed heifers 4.75; bulls 3.50; stock calves 4.50@5.50; straight steer calves up to latter price; heavy fat calves 4.50 down.

Aged Parents

trust in God."

"Our girl isn't capable of committing such a crime," the mother cried. "She always has been a good girl and always has been good and dear to me."

"Nothing can shake my belief that she is innocent of this awful crime", Rev. Mr. Kennell said. "We will do everything we can to help our girl.

Questioning of the parents disclosed that their only income consisted of a $250 annual pension paid by the church. They own their little home valued at $1,000, but there is a mortgage of $600 on it.

"If Ruth needs the money, I'll gladly put another mortgage on the home to help her," the old clergyman said. "They are our children and we'll stand by them."

The Rev. Mr. Kinnell was retired nine years ago. He had been in the ministry 40 years.

Mrs. McKinnell, whose health has not been good since a nervous breakdown three years ago, sat down on the edge of the porch and hid her face in her hands. Her husband trying to console her, helped her into the house, where she took to her bed. They were praying for their daughter, Ruth, far away, when the correspondent left.

Mrs. Judd was married to Dr. William E. Judd at Lafayette, Ind., in 1924. She is a former student of the Free Methodist college at Greenville, Ill., and when her father was active in church work she taught his Sunday school classes.

Young Mrs. Judd, then Miss McKinnell, became a student nurse at the Southern Indiana State Hospital for the Insane in Evansville, Ind., in 1923. She worked there in the officials' kitchen.

Dr. Judd was on the staff there for a year. He left prior to the resignation of Miss McKinnell.

Dr. Judd went to Lafayette, Ind. Miss McKinnell also went there, and worked as a telephone operator.

The two were wed in Lafayette seven months after Miss McKinnell moved there — on April 18,1924.

Dr. Judd gave his birthplace as Gibson, Neb., March 31, 1883. Miss McKinnell said she was born at Oxford, Ind., not far from Lafayette, on Jan. 29, 1905.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 23. (AP) — Big export sales of United States government sponsored wheat, together with curtailed estimates of domestic winter wheat seeding, gave a hoist to all grains today. Broad general buying took wheat prices to about 10 1-2 cents a bushel over recent bottom figures. As much as 2,000,000 bushels of federal farm board wheat was estimated to have been disposed of to exporters, and the farm board was also credited with having sold wheat to Liverpool direct.

Wheat closed strong at virtually the day's top level, 1 3-4 to 2 3-8 cents above yesterday's finish, corn 1-2 to 1 1-8 cents up, oats 1-4 to 5-8 advanced and provisions unchanged to 5 cents off.

HEARING IS SET

DALLAS, Oct. 23. (AP)—Preliminary hearing for Mrs. Virginia Thrift, charged with murder in the slaying of Mrs. Fay Cash, was set today for Monday.

She Holds A Long Hand

Long, slender hands are truly an aristocratic feature so far as this Austrian beauty is concerned. For she is Baroness Silvo von Abendroth, daughter of one of the oldest families of her country, and her hands are considered—by one group of investigators, at least—as the longest and most beautiful in the world. This recent photo shows her in a striking pose.

As Apostles Of India And Mirth Met

An epochal meeting between two widely-known men with aspirations as far apart as the proverbial Poles occurred when Charlie Chaplin and the Mahatma Gandhi were introduced to each other in the home of Dr. Kitial, a friend of the latter, in London. Chaplin, dressed in his usual correct attire, and Gandhi, swathed in the carelessly draped cheap white garments which he affects, afforded a picture of keen contrast when they sat together upon a sofa with an Indian woman of Dr. Kitial's household. After a short discussion of the pros and cons of the machine age, the two outstanding men separated—Gandhi to pray on the floor and Chaplin to remain on the sofa, an interested spectator.

Al Capone Probably To Hear His Fate In Court Saturday

FEDERAL BUILDING, CHICAGO, Oct. 23. (AP)—Al Capone went to court again today, listened glumly while his attorneys gave reasons why they believed his income tax conviction should be set aside, and was ordered by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to come back tomorrow.

"I will dispose of this case at 10 a. m. tomorrow," the court said. That was taken to indicate he would sentence Capone immediately if the defense motion for an arrest in judgment presented today, were denied.

pace in holding cotton for higher prices, the farmers naturally will be encouraged to do so."

Sam C. Arnett, president of the Citizens National bank, commented:

Moral Effect

"Although most of the farmers in this section who obtained seed loans from the government have liquidated their indebtedness, the attitude of the Department of Agriculture will have a decided moral effect on the cotton farmers. If the government believes the price will advance to eight cents, the farmers also will believe better times are ahead."

L. C. Ellis, active vice president of the Lubbock National bank, said:

"The government's new plan will aid a large number of farmers in Lubbock county who borrowed funds last winter. The new acceptance price, combined with the plan of southern banks to hold 7,000,000 bales of cotton off the market should result in a material increase in the cotton price."

County Banks Are To Withhold Crop

Five Lubbock county banks will cooperate to aid farmers in holding 10,000 bales of the current cotton crop off the market until there is an appreciable increase in the prices or until July 31, 1932, officials of the Lubbock Clearing House association announced Friday.

The banks, working under the direction of the local clearing house association, through this plan will cooperate with the Federal Farm board in its movement to hold 7,000,000 bales of the current crop off the market.

Announcement of the Lubbock county banks' part in the Southwide program was made Friday morning by Walter S. Posey, vice president of the First National bank and president of the clearing house association, and by John D. Mitchell, cashier of the Lubbock National bank and appointed "key banker" for Lubbock county by the Texas Bankers association. Mr. Mitchell represented Lubbock at the meeting of 300 bank officials at Dallas Tuesday.

Plan Explained

Under the local holding plan, each of the Lubbock banks, the First National, the Citizens National and the Lubbock National, will advance holding funds covering 3,000 bales of cotton—or a total of 9,000 bales. The First State bank of Idalou and the First State bank of Slaton will each advance funds for holding 500 bales, making the county's total 10,000 bales. That figure was reached upon predicate of the farm board urging at one-fourth of the unpicked and unsold cotton be held over the South.

Cotton held will be continuously held until July 31, 1932, or until the price goes to 12 1-2 cents per pound, it was announced today. The Dallas meeting, Mr. Mitchell stated, was enthusiastic over the proposition and was the "most optimistic meeting Texas bankers have held in two years", he stated.

Holding already financed over the South has resulted in the crop's value being increased by fifty millions of dollars, Messrs. Posey and Mitchell said. Farmers and bankers believe the movement will result in even more profit to the cotton farmer.

Long Search For Alleged Slayer Is Ended In Surrender And Confession

was not disclosed. While the member was being dressed she said she came near capture by two Los Angeles policemen. They walked into the place and questioned her, but she managed to escape.

In his newspaper request, Dr. Judd gave the fugitive instructions to surrender to Attorney Louis Russill.

Attorney Russill said she had been in communication with him since 2 a. m. yesterday. He said she wanted to surrender but feared to come to his office in the subway terminal building.

Entered Automobile

The attorney in one of the telephone conversations with the woman asked her if she would meet him at the home of a friend. She agreed. A meeting was arranged and David Malloy, an employe at the Alvarez and Moore undertaking establishment, drove to Fifth and Olive streets where she entered his automobile.

Quickly she was driven to the undertaking concern's office.

She was met there by her husband, Dr. Judd, her brother Burton J. McKinnell and Attorney Russill.

She was said to have been exhausted and in an extremely nervous condition when she arrived at the retreat.

They hastily put her to bed, dressed her wound again, gave her egg-nogg and other stimulants, and advised her that surrender was advisable.

Police Burst In

Bursting into the room where the woman was held, police officers had a scuffle with Dr. Judd and McKinnell when they tried to serve the murder warrant. Malloy was declared to have been hiding the suspected woman. He was struck on the nose by one of the officers and retreated. The warrant was served.

Later the woman came down the stairway in the undertaking parlors leaning on the arms of her husband and Attorney Russill.

A battery of news photographers faced her at the foot of the stairs.

Mrs. Judd threw her coat above

"Oh, I can't—I can't."

"Oh, I can't—I can't.

"Now dear," Dr. Judd spoke soothingly to her, "the best thing to do is to stand steady and have this over with."

Story Is Bared

Attorney Russill, quoting his client, gave the first story of what happened in the Phoenix home where the two women died.

"I had gone to the girls' home to remonstrate with Miss Samuelson for some nasty things she had said about Mrs. Le Roi.

"Miss Samuelson got hold of a gun and shot me in the left hand.

"I struggled with her and the gun fell. Mrs. Le Roi grabbed an ironing board and started to strike me over the head with it.

"In the struggle I got hold of the gun and Sammie (Miss Samuelson) got shot.

"Mrs. Le Roi was still coming at me with the ironing board and I had to shoot her.

"Then I ran from the place . . ."

Russill says that is as far as the woman got with her story due to her critical condition. Further questioning will be made as soon as Mrs. Judd is able.

Mrs. Judd was attired in a green dress, a dark ragged coat with a well worn fur at the collar, no stockings, black shoes and bandaged on both hands. She seemed at the point of collapse.

Insurance Agents Here In Session

Plans and work of the Texas Association of Insurance Agents were outlined here Friday by officials of the state organization at a district No. 12 meeting of insurance agents. About 25 underwriters from Lubbock and neighboring towns attended the conference, which was held at Hotel Lubbock.

A. D. Langham, state association president, of Hopston; D. F. Forman, association secretary, of Fort Worth, and D. A. Clark, district No. 12 vice president, explained the activity of the Texas group. Langham presided.

The president and secretary explained in detail the new state law requiring the licensing of insurance agents. The statute, sponsored by the state association, is designed to place the insurance business on a higher level by eliminating persons who are not qualified to sell insurance and those who write policies as a side line, in competition to bona fide dealers, it was explained. Under the new law, every solicitor must be licensed, the officials said.

The afternoon session was devoted largely to roundtable discussions of the insurance agent's problems.

Tariff Debate To Be Sounded

Senators Harrison And Dickinson Will Meet In Torrid World Battle At Sioux City Over Week-End

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP) — Echoes of the gruelling tariff contest of 1929-1930 will sound this week-end in an old fashioned debate in Iowa which may serve also as a prelude to a new tariff battle this winter.

Senator Harrison of Mississippi is on his way to Sioux City to carry the Democratic attack on the Smoot-Hawley act in public debate with Senator Dickinson, Republican of Iowa.

The meeting results from a series of exchanges carried on by the tariff disputants in public letters during the summer and a subsequent series of challenges and counter challenges.

Carefully guarding his plans lest they get to his Republican opponent, Harrison left the capital without a prepared speech nor any intimation to his associates of his intentions. Out in Iowa, the veteran Dickinson is just as zealously protecting his method of attack.

The Sioux City debate and a meeting between Dickinson and Harrison at Omaha, Nebraska, Monday night will be broadcast to the nation by radio.

Reduction In Telephone Rate At Abilene Will Not Be Made

ABILENE, Oct. 23. (AP)—Reduction in telephone rates in Abilene cannot be considered at this time, Mayor Lee I. York and the City commission were informed today by M. P. Caldwell, division commercial superintendent of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company. Caldwell headed a group of phone company officials holding a forenoon conference with the city authorities.

Net return on the Abilene plant was only 4.81 per cent in six months ending June 30, Caldwell said. This was based on plant investment placed at $1,039,920. The company in 1927 built a new plant here and changed from manual to dial system.

ittle Daughter Of French Premier Makes Talkies And Holds Conference

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Movie microphones and a long string of questions stretched today between Mlle. Josette Laval of France and the White House.

As zestfully as she attended public greetings and charmed a gay group of the most select society, the little daughter of the French premier agreed to make some talkies and hold a formal press conference like any official.

The visit to the nation's best-known home with her father, to be the overnight guest of the President and Mrs. Hoover, was the big occasion, though. There a suite sometimes called the "pink" one, awaited her coming. It is near her father's apartment and looks out over the lawn to Pennsylvania avenue.

She awaited until the last minute to decide whether to go with her papa to honor the unknown soldier in Arlington cemetery. Last before going to the White House was a luncheon in the French embassy where last night she dined and danced among scores of Americans and some diplomats.

As the dancers moved under the glistening chandelier of the second-story ballroom of the embassy, heads turned continually toward the graceful Josette. She smiled back as directly and as graciously as she had to pedestrains who stopped to greet her from the streets. Her manner in the ballroom was more demure but no less vivacious. In a girlish white and navy-blue gown, she was the subject, evening long, of complimentary comments.

The ambassador and Madame Claudel gave the party in her honor, first entertaining about 30 young guests at dinner and later greeting many others. Mlle Reine Claudel, who came from Paris with Mlle. Josette, presented many to the guest of honor, and remained among the dancers long after the premier's daughter returned to her temporary "home", the residence of Ambassador Edge.
